

The Honorable Frank J. Bisignano

Commissioner, Social Security Administration

Frank Bisignano currently serves as the 18th Senate-confirmed Commissioner of the Social Security Administration (SSA). After being confirmed in May 2025, he has taken swift action to transform the SSA into a premier service organization that leverages state-of-the-art technology solutions, operates at peak efficiency, and delivers best-in-class service to the American people.

In addition to his duties as Commissioner of Social Security, Mr. Bisignano also serves as the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the Internal Revenue Service.

Prior to his work in government service, Mr. Bisignano was CEO of Fiserv, the world's largest financial services and payment technology company. Before Fiserv, Mr. Bisignano was the Chairman and CEO of First Data and the co-Chief Operating Officer for J.P. Morgan Chase and the CEO of its mortgage banking unit.

Mr. Bisignano was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. He received a bachelor's degree in finance from Baker University of Kansas. He and his wife have three children and reside in New Jersey.
