

Melinda Haschak, LPN

Melinda Haschak has been a Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN) for almost 20 years before which she was a Certified Nursing Assistance for seven years. She has spent most of her career working in long term care. Currently she works at a nursing home in Southport, Connecticut. Melinda believes that she contracted COVID-19 at work when working with a resident who was infected. Melinda continues to have concerns about the safety of nursing home workers and residents due to ever-changing protocols, lack of clear communication about COVID-19 policies, and continued problems with access to Personal Protective Equipment (PPE). She is a single mom with two teenage daughters and is now working to get her license as a Registered Nurse.
