

Vicki Turetsky [TUR-ET-skee]

Former Commissioner of Child Support Services, Department of Health and Human Services

Biography

Vicki Turetsky, a consultant, served from 2009 to 2016 as commissioner of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office of Child Support Enforcement. Previously, she served as the director of family policy at the Center for Law and Social Policy and was a visiting professor at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University. Turetsky also has held positions at the U.S. Corporation for National and Community Service, the Minnesota Department of Human Services and the Minnesota Attorney General's Office. She received her B.A. from the University of Minnesota and a law degree from the University of Chicago.

As a former Director at HHS Ms. Turetsky can provide a 30,000-foot view of what the child support enforcement program is and how it impacts states, tribes and families. She also can provide historical context regarding how this policy evolved over time and the interaction between HHS and IRS that brought us to this point.
