

Jessica Tollestrup
Specialist in Social Policy, Congressional Research Service (CRS) Domestic Social Policy Division
Washington, D.C.

Jessica Tollestrup is a Specialist in Social Policy with the Congressional Research Service (CRS) Domestic Social Policy Division. Her policy portfolio comprises the federal Child Support Enforcement, Healthy Marriage and Responsible Fatherhood Program, and Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention programs. She also coordinates CRS analysis of the annual Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies appropriations bill and contributes to work on related federal funding mechanisms. She holds a BA in Political Economy from the College of Idaho and a MS in Political Science from Portland State University. She was a 2010 Presidential Management Fellow.