

Kathryn Anne Edwards
Ph.D. Economist

Kathryn Anne Edwards is an economist, independent economic policy consultant, and Bloomberg columnist. Her research focuses on the intersection of labor markets and public policy, including unemployment and unemployment insurance (UI); recessions and recoveries; women's labor supply; poverty alleviation; retirement security; Social Security; and taxes. She previously worked for the RAND Corporation and received her PhD from the University of Wisconsin.