

Donald Schneider
Deputy Head of U.S. Policy, Piper Sandler

Donald Schneider previously served as Chief Economist for the Ways and Means Committee under former Chairman Paul Ryan. While at Ways and Means he advised the Committee on economic issues, tax policy, and budgetary matters, including changes to the debt limit. Prior to that he served as an economist at the House Budget Committee. Schneider received a master's degree in applied economics from Johns Hopkins University and a bachelor's degree in economics from the College of Charleston.