

Roger Harris Biography

Roger Harris is the President of Padgett Business Services, a role he has held since 1992. Padgett is a national accounting, advisory, and tax preparation company with approximately 200 offices across the U.S. that has served tens of thousands of small business clients. Roger has worked with Padgett for 50 years where he has helped small businesses navigate difficult tax situations.

Throughout his career, Roger has been engaged in advocating for common-sense policies for small businesses. He served as Internal Revenue Service Advisory Council (IRSAC) chair for 2002 and 2003. The Small Business Administration recognized Roger as the Small Business Advocate of the Year for Georgia in 1997 and he has frequently appeared in Accounting Today's annual list of 100 Most Influential People in accounting.

Roger has testified multiple times before Congress on small business issues and been quoted in the Wall Street Journal, USA Today, Bloomberg, and Accounting Today.

Roger earned his degree in accounting from the University of Georgia. He is active with the National Association of Enrolled Agents and the National Society of Accountants and is enrolled to practice before the IRS and is an accredited tax advisor and tax return preparer.
