

Jennifer Erickson

Senior Fellow for Organ Donation Policy, Federation of American Scientists

Background

Jennifer Erickson is a Senior Fellow for Organ Donation Policy at the Federation of American Scientists. Her work focuses on applying innovation and data-driven solutions to the organ donation shortage. Ms. Erickson has supported the Committee's investigation of OPOs from the outset. Ms. Erickson has provided documents and data to the Committee as well as connected Committee staff to several whistleblowers within the industry. She previously served in the Obama White House as the Assistant Director of Innovation for Growth in the Office of Science and Technology Policy. Prior to her work in the Office of Science and Technology Policy, she served as the Director for Competitiveness and Economic Growth at the Center for American Progress.

Education

Ms. Erickson received her bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia and a master's degree in public policy from University of Edinburgh.