

Gil H. Harden

Assistant Inspector General for Audit

Gil H. Harden is the Assistant Inspector General for Audit, Office of Inspector General (OIG), U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). In this capacity, Mr. Harden is responsible for all audits of the Department of Agriculture and its worldwide operations and programs, and for the management of staff of approximately 200 auditors, information technology specialists, and administrative support personnel.

Mr. Harden formerly served as Deputy Assistant Inspector General for Audit in USDA. His responsibilities included audit work in the areas of food safety, nutrition assistance, animal and plant health, and marketing. He was also responsible for program audits for Forest Service and Rural Development, which includes business, housing, and utility loans and grants.

Prior to his positions in OIG Headquarters, Mr. Harden served as the Regional Inspector General for Audit for the Northeast Region, where he oversaw a variety of performance and financial audits. He began his career as an auditor in OIG's Western Regional office in San Francisco, California. He has held a variety of auditing positions with increasing levels of responsibility in the Western and Northeast Regional Offices and in OIG Headquarters.

Mr. Harden is a graduate of Millsaps College in Jackson, Mississippi, with a Bachelor of Business Administration. In 1994, he completed the requirements necessary to be licensed as a Certified Public Accountant. He is a native of the Mississippi Delta and currently resides in Alexandria, Virginia.