

Jocelyn Ziemian is Senior Legislative Specialist at the Humane Society Legislative Fund. She has more than ten years of experience in wildlife conservation policy. Previously, she advocated on bat conservation policy for the Animal Welfare Institute and Bat Conservation International, and conducted government relations for the Association of Zoos and Aquariums. Jocelyn also has programmatic experience in wildlife conservation, including with the Wildlife Conservation Society in its Republic of Congo program and its New York-based Africa program. She has a master's degree in natural resource policy from the University of Michigan.