

BRAD WIEGMANN
Deputy Assistant Attorney General for National Security
United States Department of Justice

Brad Wiegmann has served as a Deputy Assistant Attorney General for National Security since March 2009. He has been a career government attorney for the past 25 years, having previously served in legal positions at the Departments of Defense and State and at the National Security Council. Most of his career has been focused on national security and international law issues, including counter-terrorism, intelligence activities, counter-proliferation, cyber policy, economic sanctions, law of armed conflict, and related litigation and legal policy matters. Before joining the government, Mr. Wiegmann worked at Shea & Gardner in Washington, DC, where he focused on civil litigation, and he served as a law clerk for Judge Patrick E. Higginbotham on the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. He is a summa cum laude graduate of Duke University and a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School.