

Testimony of Sheila Krumholz, Executive Director of the Center for Responsive Politics to the House Committee on Appropriations Legislative Branch Subcommittee re: Improving Lobbyist Tracking Data

April 6, 2018

Mr. Chairman, and members of the committee, my name is Sheila Krumholz. I am executive director of the Center for Responsive Politics, a nonpartisan, nonprofit research organization based here in Washington that monitors and analyzes campaign contributions in federal elections, lobbying, and other forms of money and elite influence in U.S. politics and policy.

The Clerk of the House and Secretary of the Senate serve as the repositories for over twenty years of data detailing the lobbying activities of thousands of organizations that are required to file under rules set forth by the Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995 (LDA) and Honest Leadership & Open Government Act of 2007 (HLOGA). These reports serve as the basis for important public resources that allow investigations by academics, journalists and Congress itself that contribute to the integrity of policy making processes.

Annually, these reports list more than 11,000 individual lobbyists as having undertaken significant "lobbying activities."<sup>1</sup> The Center for Responsive Politics (CRP) and others rely on this data both to populate the OpenSecrets.org website, which is free and open to the public, as well as to provide additional research assistance for journalists, nonprofits, academic institutions and interested citizens.

This work includes normalizing individual lobbyist names to facilitate tracking their employment history and political campaign contributions. There is currently no publicly available identifier that makes clear that names reported as "Jane Davis," "Jane A. Davis," and "Jane Ann Davis" all refer to the same individual lobbyist. In fact, our research finds that over the last twenty years, an average of 12 percent of names reported annually are extraneous variations due to typographical errors, nicknames, and name changes. Recent years have been consistently in the eight percent range. Despite this recent improvement, considerable labor is expended reconciling the different versions as well as verifying that individuals with similar or common names are in fact, different people. Changes to a lobbyist's legal name based on changed marital status are common and present further challenges as there is often not an easily accessible way to confirm that “Jane Doe” and “Jane Buck” are, in fact, the same person.

---

<sup>1</sup> Lobbying Disclosure Act Guidance, Revised January 31, 2017;
https://lobbyingdisclosure.house.gov/amended\_lda\_guide.html#section4

Considerable effort goes toward creating and maintaining a version of lobbyist IDs through algorithmic matching as well as human review. Following a quarterly filing deadline, a full day is spent reconciling variations caused by typos, nicknames, name changes due to marriage and changes in associated registrants, delaying the release of an improved data set.

Based on official filing manuals,<sup>2</sup> the Clerk of the House and Secretary of the Senate assign a unique identifier to each lobbyist during the filing process that is used to track each person across reports (e.g., between LD-1 to LD-2; across various registrants; and in the LD-203 contribution reports). However, publicly released downloadable data does not include unique IDs.

The Honest Leadership & Open Government Act’s revolving door provisions make it clear that Congress believes that tracking registered lobbyists’ employment across government and the private sector is essential to monitor for conflicts of interest and to protect the integrity of the federal government. The Government Accountability Office (GAO) undertakes an annual review of LDA compliance and recently found that 15 percent of filed reports fail to fully comply with requirements to disclose previous government employment as required.<sup>3</sup> The ability to easily and accurately identify individuals through their lobbying careers is integral to research and oversight by civil society actors that fill that gap.

We respectfully request the addition of unique identifiers for individual lobbyists that are currently available only internally to the offices of the Clerk of the House and Secretary of the Senate to the publicly available data files that are updated daily. If the addition of such identifiers is not possible at this time, we request that a study is undertaken to determine the feasibility of doing so in the future.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide our testimony.

---

<sup>2</sup> “Employed lobbyists are assigned a unique ID when they are registered with the House and Senate to lobby and added to the Contribution Reporting System by the person in your organization who manages the registration and reporting filings.” – From the LD-203 “Help” manual for filers:
<https://lda.congress.gov/LC/help/default.htm?url=WordDocuments%2Faccessingthesystem.htm>

<sup>3</sup> “GAO 2017 Lobbying Disclosure: Observations on Lobbyists’ Compliance with Disclosure Requirements,” March 2018:
<https://www.gao.gov/assets/700/690988.pdf>

Sheila Krumholz

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, CENTER FOR RESPONSIVE POLITICS

Sheila Krumholz is the executive director of the Center for Responsive Politics, a nonpartisan watchdog group that tracks money in politics. Ms. Krumholz became Executive Director in 2006, prior to which she was CRP's research director for eight years. As research director, she supervised data and analysis published on CRP's website, OpenSecrets.org, and research for investigative journalists and CRP's partners and clients in the media, academia and elsewhere.

Ms. Krumholz has testified before Congress and the Federal Election Commission on issues related to government transparency and accountability, and is cited frequently in prominent national news outlets. She regularly makes presentations to citizen's groups, scholars, government officials, NGOs that conduct research and advocacy, and at meetings of professional news organizations. She has a degree in international relations and political science from the University of Minnesota.

Witness Disclosure Form

Clause 2(g) of rule XI of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires non-governmental witnesses to disclose to the Committee the following information. A non-governmental witness is any witness appearing on behalf of himself/herself or on behalf of an organization other than a federal agency, or a state, local or tribal government.

Your Name, Business Address, and Telephone Number: Sheila Krumholz 1300 L Street NW, Suite 200 Washington, DC 20005 202-354-0114
1. Are you appearing on behalf of yourself or a non-governmental organization? Please list organization(s) you are representing. The Center for Responsive Politics
2. Have you or any organization you are representing received any Federal grants or contracts (including any subgrants or subcontracts) since October 1, 2012 related to the agencies or programs funded by the Subcommittee?  Yes      <input checked="" type="radio"/> No
3. Have you or any organization you are representing received any contracts or payments originating with a foreign government since October 1, 2012 related to the agencies or programs funded by the Subcommittee?  Yes      <input checked="" type="radio"/> No
4. If your response to question #2 and/or #3 is "Yes", please list the amount and source (by agency and program) of each Federal grant (or subgrant thereof) or contract (or subcontract thereof), and/or the amount and country of origin of any payment or contract originating with a foreign government. Please also indicate whether the recipient was you or the organization(s) you are representing.

Signature:  Date: 4/6/18