

U.S. PACIFIC FLEET SURGEON
CAPTAIN MICHAEL B. MCGINNIS
MEDICAL CORPS, UNITED STATES NAVY

Captain Michael McGinnis graduated from the Johns Hopkins University with a Bachelor of Science in Electrical and Computer Engineering and received his medical degree from the University of Virginia. He completed his Internal Medicine residency at Naval Medical Center San Diego. He completed a second residency in Aerospace Medicine and received a Master of Public Health degree in Health Policy and Administration from the University of North Carolina.

Captain McGinnis reported as staff internist in 1996 to U.S. Naval Hospital Yokosuka, Japan, serving as Department Head of Internal Medicine. He returned to Naval Medical Center San Diego in 1998, serving as Internal Medicine faculty, Independent Duty Corpsman program director and the command's preventive medicine champion.

Captain McGinnis transferred in 2000 to U.S. Naval Hospital Naples, Italy, and served as the Department Head of Internal Medicine. He chaired the Pharmacy and Therapeutics, Cardiac Arrest, and the Preferred Provider Network Committees.

After completing his aerospace medicine residency at the Naval Aerospace Medical Institute, he reported to the USS NIMITZ (CVN 68) as the Senior Medical Officer in 2007. He deployed twice with Carrier Strike Group Eleven, integrated medical and dental assets into the inaugural Health Services Department and led the highest medical readiness recorded by Naval Air Forces.

Captain McGinnis reported to Naval Hospital Jacksonville in 2009 as Department Head of Internal Medicine and was selected as Director for Branch Health Clinics. The Surgeon General appointed him as the Navy's Internal Medicine Specialty Leader in 2011. Captain McGinnis reported to U.S. Naval Hospital Guam as Executive Officer in 2013, overseeing the transition into the $162M replacement hospital and guiding the command through two successful Joint Commission surveys.

He reported as Commanding Officer for Naval Health Clinic Annapolis in 2015 and led the command through a successful transition supporting the Brigade of Midshipmen from the grounds of the U.S. Naval Academy into the new $43M flagship clinic on the North Severn.

CAPT McGinnis returned to the Fleet in 2017 as COMNAVEUR-COMNAVAF-COMSIXTHFLEET Force Surgeon, serving as senior medical advisor for both Echelon 2 and 3 commands, and as Medical Advisor for Naval Striking and Support Forces NATO. His leadership resulted in the repositioning of an expeditionary medical facility in Norway. He reported as U.S. Pacific Fleet Surgeon in January 2020, delivering mission assurance via novel medical capability development and deployment with rapid cycle force health protection guidance through the COVID-19 pandemic.

Captain McGinnis has multiple individual and unit awards, including the Battle "E". He is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians and is board certified in Internal Medicine.
