

Josh Nassar has served as the Legislative Director for the United Auto Workers since December 2011. The legislative department is responsible for implementing the union's policy agenda and designing legislative and regulatory strategies on labor, trade, environment, health care, defense, energy, tax policies and other issues. He works closely with members of Congress, the executive branch, and wide variety of stakeholders.

Mr. Nassar previously worked as the assistant legislative director for the Service Employees International Union. He also worked as the vice president for federal affairs at the Center for Responsible Lending and served as legislative assistant for Congresswoman Jan Schakowsky. He has testified before Congress numerous times.

Mr. Nassar earned a bachelor's degree from Skidmore College and holds a master's degree from CUNY Graduate Center. Mr. Nassar and his wife, Amy, live in the District of Columbia with their daughters, Naomi, Justice, and Janis.