

Tewodrose Tirfe

Tewodrose Tirfe is a Senior Network Engineer for Wells Fargo and one of the founding members of Amhara Association of America, a civic organization dedicated to organizing the Amhara People in the Americas so that they may be a strong and vibrant community capable of contributing to the Amhara-American community and Amharas in Ethiopia. He is a refugee that came to America in 1982. He has worked with international human rights organizations such as Human Rights Watch and Amnesty International to bring attention to the oppression of Amharas and have worked diligently to engage members of Congress and policy makers to make them aware about the humanitarian crisis in Ethiopia and advocate for a policy that ensures American security interests and move Ethiopia on a path to democracy.