Princeton Lyman

Ambassador Princeton Lyman is a Senior Advisor to the President of the United States Institute of Peace.

The U.S. Institute of Peace is a nonpartisan institute created by Congress that promotes national security by helping to reduce, mitigate or resolve violent international conflict.

He served as U.S. special envoy for Sudan and South Sudan from March 2011 to March 2013. As special envoy, he led U.S. policy in helping in the implementation of the 2005 Comprehensive Peace Agreement.

Ambassador Lyman's career in government included assignments as deputy assistant secretary of state for African affairs (1981-1986), U.S. ambassador to Nigeria (1986-1989), director of refugee programs (1989-1992), U.S. ambassador to South Africa (1992-1995), and assistant secretary of state for international organization affairs (1996-1998). From 2008-2010, he was a member of the African Advisory Committee to the United States Trade Representative. He began his government career with the U.S. Agency for International Development and served as USAID director in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, from 1976 to 1978.
