Mr. Niggel sets and leads the overall strategic direction for ACT I by implementing long and short-term goals and ensuring responsible corporate values and governance. He actively develops program solutions for many DoD, DHS, Space/IC and International clients.

His Total Acquisition Management experience spans over 35 years of providing program and acquisition management, business case analysis, cost estimating, source selection and contract negotiation support on large, complex ACAT I programs and Foreign Military Sales Cases.

Before founding ACT I, Mr. Niggel served as a Vice President and Operations Manager of the Technical and Business Solutions Operations at Science Applications International Corporation (SAIC) providing support to the Office of the Secretary of Defense on the National Defense Panel as well as overseeing three Divisions supporting the Armed Services.

He has supported the U.S. Government in analyzing technical, cost, schedule and risk requirements for major DoD acquisition programs such as missile defense, space control and surveillance, C4ISR, and TACAIR. Mr. Niggel's acquisition management experience includes program, acquisition and contract management, modeling and simulation, cost performance effectiveness analysis, DoD acquisition reform, and business/financial management.

Mr. Niggel has authored and co-authored numerous studies and papers on cost estimating, analysis, modeling, and systems acquisition reform. He earned an MPA in Financial and Policy Analysis from Indiana University and holds a BA with Distinction in Political Science and History from Hendrix College. He is a graduate of the Defense Systems Management College Program Manager's Course (DAU PM Level III).

He serves on the DSCA/NDIA non-standard, non-program of record working group and NDIA's international committee and U.S./Japan subcommittee. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Professional Service Council (PSC) and a member of the Small and Emerging Contractor Advisory Forum (SECAF).

Mr. Niggel resides in Northern Virginia with his wife, Toni Ann Arnold, Colonel USAF (retired).
