

James Walsh is a business owner at The Homeboys Seamless Gutters with 2 years' experience helping homeowners with water management issues. Specializing in sales, James uses that experience to explain the importance of proper water management solutions.

By focusing on a great customer experience, James has been able to put the sales experience he's garnered over 3 decades to good use. Over the years, James' strengths as a sales professional elevated him to Vice President of Sales while working for The Comfort Company and growing the company with an amazing team of people from 3 million to 30+ million over a 13-year career. James may spend his days at The Homeboys Seamless Gutters, but it's the engagement with customers and ensuring they have a great experience that gets him up in the morning.

When James is not at work, he is an avid bowler and golfer. He donates his time as president of a youth football and cheerleading club, and president of Citizens Advisory of PA, and loves spending time with his family.
