

Tomas Lopez, Executive Director, Democracy North Carolina

Bio: Tomas Lopez became Democracy North Carolina's Executive Director in January 2018. Previously, he was Counsel with the Democracy Program at the Brennan Center. As a voting rights attorney at the Brennan Center, he litigated against restrictive voting laws in federal court and partnered with advocates to advance and defend election reforms at the state level. He also worked with the Southern Poverty Law Center's immigrant justice project, where he was part of efforts that successfully challenged anti-immigrant legislation in Alabama. He is a graduate of Duke University and Yale Law School.