Biography

Born of Mexican and French immigrant parents, Isabel is a policy wonk and native Houstonian. A dedicated progressive public servant, she is proud to have held positions with AARP, The Office of State Senator Sylvia R. Garcia and the Office of State Representative Jessica Farrar. Her previous work experience includes political campaigns and working for elected officials in the Houston area, with a focus on Latino and LGBTQIA+ community organizing, urban planning, and civic engagement.

Isabel is proud to have served on the City of Houston's Planning Commission, the Mayor's LGBTQ Advisory Board, the New Leaders' Council Board, and the Board of the League of Women Voters. She holds a Bachelor's Degree of Sociology from Trinity University (San Antonio) and a Master's Degree in Public Affairs from the University of Texas LBJ School of Public Affairs (Austin).

In November 2020 she was appointed as Harris County's first ever Elections Administrator, and served under Interim County Clerk Chris Hollings during the November 2020 Presidential election.

Isabel's goal is to build access for Harris County's 2.5 million registered and future voters. Under her tenure, elections are administered with a focus on equity, access, fairness, and security – an approach that has led to the adoption of new voting machines, more data transparency, and higher rates of voter turnout in the country's third largest county.
