

Tyson Slocum
Director
Public Citizen's Energy Program

Tyson Slocum is director of Public Citizen's Energy & Climate Program, covering the regulation of petroleum, natural gas, and power markets. Tyson promotes an equitable energy transition that provides renewable energy and sustainable transportation solutions for working families. Tyson serves on the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission's Energy & Environmental Markets Advisory Committee, and the CFTC's Market Risk Advisory Committee, and frequently intervenes before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission representing the interests of households. Tyson presents his research in congressional testimony and appears regularly in the media, including appearances on CNN, MSNBC and The Colbert Report. Tyson is a member of the faculty at the University of Maryland Honors College, where he teaches energy and climate policy, and was named Teacher Of The Year in 2017. Follow him on Twitter @TysonSlocum.