

Scott Fitz

Vice President of Technical and Production
Gerber Products Company

Scott Fitz serves as Vice President of Technical and Production for Gerber Products Company based in Arlington, Virginia, a position he has held since July, 2018. He is responsible for all manufacturing operations and corporate technical functions for Gerber in the U.S.

Scott joined Nestlé in 2012 through the acquisition of Wyeth Nutrition. Prior to his current role, he served as Category Technical Manager for Nestlé Infant Formula a Nutrition Globally Managed Business, in Vevey, Switzerland, a position he assumed in 2016.

Scott began his career with Glaxo SmithKline, serving in technical and management roles in the pharmaceutical manufacturing division. He joined Wyeth Pharmaceuticals in 1999 and held various senior positions in Strategy and International Technical Operations, including overall responsibility for Pharmaceutical and Consumer Healthcare Operations for the Asia Pacific region.

In 2007, Scott transferred to Wyeth Nutrition, where he led the project to design, build and start up an infant formula factory in Suzhou, China. In 2011, he was appointed Operations Head for the three Wyeth factories in Asia and was based in Singapore.

Scott has a BS in Engineering from Lehigh University and MS in Engineering from the University of Pennsylvania, with over 30 years of industry experience. He is father to sons Avery and Owen.