Allison D. Wood

Allison Wood is a partner in the Washington, D.C. office of Hunton & Williams LLP. She has been practicing environmental law for over 16 years, and her practice focuses on the Clean Air Act with an emphasis on global climate change issues.

Ms. Wood has represented members of the electric utility industry before the Supreme Court in all three landmark cases involving climate change: Massachusetts v. EPA, American Electric Power Company v. Connecticut, and Utility Air Regulatory Group v. EPA.

Ms. Wood has represented clients in every major rulemaking before the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regarding regulation of greenhouse gas emissions under the Clean Air Act, including preparation of comments on EPA's rulemakings to establish new source performance standards for new power plants under section 111(b) of the Clean Air Act and standards of performance for existing power plants under section 111(d). She has also represented clients in litigation in the D.C. Circuit and Supreme Court to EPA's Clean Air Act greenhouse gas regulatory program.

Ms. Wood has defended companies before the Supreme Court, Courts of Appeal, and U.S. District Courts from tort suits alleging that carbon dioxide emissions from the companies' normal business operations contribute to the "nuisance" of global climate change.

Ms. Wood is also involved in climate change regulation at the state level. For example, she represented an electric generation client in rulemaking proceedings involving New Mexico's greenhouse gas regulatory programs and in challenges to those programs in the New Mexico Court of Appeals and New Mexico Supreme Court.

Education

Ms. Wood earned her J.D., with honors, from The George Washington University, where she served as Editor-in-Chief of the school's environmental law journal. She earned her B.S. from California State University, Northridge.

Bar Admissions

Ms. Wood is admitted to practice in the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Virginia. She is also admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court; the U.S. Courts of Appeals for the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth, Tenth, and D.C. Circuits; the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, and the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia.

Awards and Recognition

Ms. Wood has been named a Washington, D.C. "Super Lawyer" in the area of environmental litigation since 2013, and has been recently named as a leader in the field of climate change (nationwide) by Chambers U.S.A.
