Curtis LeGeyt joined the National Association of Broadcasters in 2011 and is Executive Vice President, Government Relations. In this role, he leads NAB's advocacy before the U.S. Congress and White House to promote and preserve free, local broadcasting. He previously served as Senior Vice President, Government Relations and later Senior Vice President, Public Policy, before being named to his current role in 2015.

Prior to joining NAB in 2011, Curtis served as Senior Counsel to Sen. Patrick Leahy's (VT) Judiciary Committee staff. In that role, Curtis advised the chairman and committee on intellectual property, antitrust and first amendment issues. Previously, Curtis worked as an Associate with the Howrey LLP law firm in Washington, D.C.

Curtis received his J.D. from Cornell University Law School and his B.A. from Providence College in quantitative economics.
