

Scott N. Paul

Professional

Alliance for American Manufacturing
President

Washington, DC
2007-present

AFL-CIO
Legislative Representative
Legislative Director, Industrial Union Council

Washington, DC
2001-2005
2003-2005

U.S. House of Representatives Democratic Whip David E. Bonior (D-MI)
Legislative Aide/Foreign Policy Advisor

Washington, DC
1995-2001

U.S. Representative Peter Barca (D-WI)
Legislative Director/Communications Director

Washington, DC
1993-1994

Citizens Trade Campaign
Deputy Director

Washington, DC
1993

U.S. Representative Jim Jontz (D-IN)
District Representative/Legislative Aide

Washington, DC and Valparaiso, Indiana
1989-1992

Education

Masters of Arts (with honors) in Security Studies, Georgetown University, 2004

Bachelor of Arts in Foreign Service and International Politics, Pennsylvania State University, 1989

Relevant Appointments/Awards

Chair, National Skills Coalition Board of Directors (2017-present; past Treasurer/Member)

Member, ReWork America Task Force, Markle Foundation (2017)

Member, White House Manufacturing Jobs Initiative (2017; resigned August 15, 2017)

Leadership Council, Alliance for Manufacturing Foresight (2016-2019)

Service to Penn State Award, College of Liberal Arts, Pennsylvania State University (2015)

Member, Political Science Department Board of Visitors, Pennsylvania State University (2013-present)

Public Affairs Campaign of the Year, American Association of Political Consultants (2012)

Selected Writings

*“Why Can’t America Make Enough Masks or Ventilators?” (New York Times, April 14, 2020)*

“Hamilton’s Hard-Hat Economics: How Alexander Hamilton Spurred A Time-Tested Economic Revolution”
(www.americanmanufacturing.org/hamilton, 2016)

*“The Blueprint for ReMaking America” (ReMaking America, Alliance for American Manufacturing, 2013)*

Personal Information

Raised in the small town of Rensselaer, Indiana. Resides in Bethesda, Maryland, with spouse Ilisa Halpern Paul and twin 13-year old young men. Mentor for College of Liberal Arts students at Penn State.