

Neil E. Caskey
Chief Executive Officer
National Corn Growers Association

Neil was selected as the Chief Executive Officer of the National Corn Growers Association in February 2023. In this role, Neil provides strategic oversight for the organization and works to align the Corn Board's objectives with the broader industry. He started with NCGA in 2018, serving as its Vice President of Communications and Industry Relations.

Prior to joining NCGA, Neil led client service at OBP Agency, a marketing agency that specializes in agriculture. In this role, he helped fortune 500 companies, government agencies and farm organizations connect with their target audiences.

Before that, he worked for the American Soybean Association (ASA) as their Special Assistant to the CEO. While there, Neil directed ASA's grassroots and public relations activities. Neil began his career on Capitol Hill, where he worked for a U.S. congressman handling key issues like agriculture, energy and the environment.

Neil holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Missouri – Columbia and a Master of Business Administration (MBA) from Webster University in St. Louis. He serves on the Missouri Ag Leader of Tomorrow (ALOT) board of directors. He's also a past officer of the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC) and the St. Louis AgriBusiness Club.
