“Modernizing our transportation infrastructure is key to ensuring that people and freight can get where they need to go safely and efficiently,” said American Trucking Associations Senior Vice President of Legislative Affairs Henry Hanscom. “Far too often, however, urgently needed upgrades to aging roads and bridges are bogged down for years by seemingly endless red tape. Meanwhile, taxpayers pay the price in the form of higher construction costs and more time wasted in traffic. It’s time to get America moving again. The trucking industry thanks Reps. Westerman and Golden for working to reform our broken permitting process so that we can reduce the duration and cost of highway projects, improve safety, and alleviate congestion.”
