

Elizabeth Price Foley is a Professor of Law at Florida International University (FIU) College of Law, a public law school located in Miami, Florida, where she teaches constitutional law, separation of powers, and civil procedure. She also serves Of Counsel in the Washington, D.C. office of Baker Hostetler, LLP, where she practices constitutional and appellate law.

Professor Foley is the author of three books on constitutional law published by Yale, Harvard and Cambridge University Presses. Her op-eds appear regularly in newspapers such as the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Los Angeles Times, and The Hill. She has testified before Congress on topics including legislative standing, congressional subpoena power, the President's duty to faithfully execute the law, and the ratification and rescission of constitutional amendments.

Prior to joining FIU Law, Professor Foley was a tenured Professor of Law at Michigan State University College of Law, a law clerk to the Honorable Carolyn Dineen King of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, and a legislative aide to two Members of the U.S. House of Representatives. She graduated as valedictorian of the University of Tennessee College of Law, received an LL.M. from Harvard Law School, and is admitted to the bars of Florida, Texas, Washington, D.C. and the U.S. Supreme Court.