

BIO OF MICHAEL ASIMOW

Michael Asimow is Dean's Executive Professor of Law at Santa Clara Law School and is a professor of law emeritus at UCLA. He was previously a long-term visiting professor at Stanford Law School. Asimow teaches contracts, administrative law, income tax, and law and popular culture. His email address is [REDACTED]. In the area of administrative law, he is a co-author of the California Practice Guide--Administrative Law, published by the Rutter Group. He co-authored a law school course book with Ron Levin, State and Federal Administrative Law (5th ed., 2020). Asimow has written numerous articles on state and federal administrative law as well as comparative administrative law. He has served as a consultant to the Administrative Conference of the United States on several occasions and is currently studying enforcement discretion for ACUS.