

Matt Schruers - Bio

(pronounced “shears”)

Matt Schruers is Vice President for Law & Policy at the Computer & Communications Industry Association (CCIA), where he advises Internet and technology companies on matters including Internet law, intellectual property, competition, and trade. He is also an adjunct professor, teaching courses on intellectual property and Internet law at Georgetown University Law Center, the Georgetown Graduate School, and American University Washington College of Law.