

Dr. Howard Henderson

Dr. Howard Henderson is a Senior Fellow in Governance Studies at the Brookings Institution and founding director of the Center for Justice Research at Texas Southern University. He is an expert on culturally responsive criminal justice research and has provided approaches to reducing disparities in the criminal justice system. Recently, Dr. Henderson served as the chair of the data subcommittee for Houston's Racial/Ethnic Disparities Committee Data Workgroup supported by the MacArthur Foundation. Dr. Henderson received his B.S. in criminal justice administration from Middle Tennessee State University, his masters of criminal justice from Tennessee State University, and his PhD in Criminal Justice from Sam Houston State University in 2006.