

Charles Fain Lehman

Charles Fain Lehman is a fellow at the Manhattan Institute for Policy Research, working primarily on the Policing and Public Safety Initiative, and a contributing editor of City Journal. He has testified before the House of Representatives, lectured on public safety at universities including Cornell and Carnegie Mellon, and been published in the Wall Street Journal, National Review, New York Post, and other notable outlets. He was previously a staff writer with the Washington Free Beacon, where he covered domestic policy from a data-driven perspective.