2 that you give to people that have to take that 3 kind of medication because they end up in places 4 like a psychiatric ward.

5 She didn't know that, but she had overheard 6 the doctor tell the deputies, I won't have to 7 cover you guys up on this thing, what you guys
8 did. So they gave her those pills, and she felt 9 like she was losing her mind and -- because 10 she's not a violent person. I don't know if 11 they were trying to make her be a violent person 12 by giving her that medicine.

13 And they kept her in there for a few days.
14 We didn't find out for about four days what her 15 bond was. The deputy sheriff had charged her 16 with two felonies and five other misdemeanor, 17 high misdemeanor charges. And her bond was 18 $26,000, and they knew that we can't afford that 19 kind of a bond.

20 So after she had been in there, I was 21 thankful that the people that are helping in our 22 case supported me again, and they helped me get 23 my daughter out of the jail. And then when she 24 came home, she told me that when my wife and my 25 two other daughters went to visit her -- she

1 wanted to see her kids and we talked about it.
2 And we said okay, we'll go ahead and bring your 3 kids, because she loves her kids a lot.

4 Your kids miss you, they don't know -- they 5 know what she went through when she got sick, 6 but they got to see her in the hospital. But 7 when they got over there, her youngest is the 8 only boy. She's got three daughters and a son.
9 The youngest son really loves her most.

10 He's only four years old. When he seen his 11 mom behind this glass, he got so angry, he 12 started banging on that glass. He said, I'm 13 going to break this. I want you home. I want 14 you to come home. And that just made my wife 15 and my daughters just cry to see that.

16 You talk about intimidation when you go into 17 the store and they -- they tail you in Forsyth 18 saying, Gotta make sure you guys don't take 19 nothing, don't pick anything up, don't steal. I 20 mean, people actually hear that.

21 But I also know Rosebud County is a very 22 dangerous place. A woman, when they used to 23 have Rosebud County Fair back in the '50s, they 24 used to camp in the city park, the Cheyennes.
25 And this lady got up, she went to use the 1 restroom. The deputy sheriff was deliberately 2 driving around there, kind of intimidating,

3 harassing the campers.

4 She seen this person come out of the 5 restroom and he -- he shot and killed that lady.
6 Now when they found out, he said, I thought it 7 was some kind of animal coming to there.
8 Nothing was never done about that. Nothing.
9 They didn't do any kind of investigation, no 10 autopsy, nothing. They just said it was just an 11 error. It was just a mistake, you know. That 12 was it.

13 The second one, a young boy was going to 14 St. Labre school, and the nun was forcing 15 spinach that he didn't want down his throat. He 16 jumped up and hit the nun. He ended up in the 17 Pine Hills State Boys School in Miles City, and 18 he just walked off of there. He ended up in the 19 town of Ashland at 5:00 in the morning. He was 20 shot in the back by a deputy and that also was 21 never even investigated.

22 MS. BOHNEE: When was that?

23 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: This was in, I
24 would say, mid '60s. And we all know there's 25 such strong possibility that these people in

1 Rosebud County will not hesitate to shoot
2 Indians and kill them because they know they can 3 get away with it.

4 And then when I became the lead plaintiff, I 5 thought that nothing would ever happen. But 6 when my daughter got arrested for no reason at 7 all, normally they have Indians being arrested
8 because it's alcohol related. There was no 9 alcohol-related charges at all against my 10 daughter.

11 When the deputy arrested her friend, my 12 daughter said, Jaw, you're getting arrested.
13 And she laughed. The deputy came back in there 14 and said, You're coming with me, too. Come on.

15 Didn't even say, You're under arrest for 16 this, or nothing. Took her out there, put the 17 handcuffs on her. By the time she got down 18 there, got beat up and everything else, the 19 deputy sheriff said, I'm charging you for 20 attacking me and injuring me.

21 She said, I didn't even do nothing. And her 22 friend told the deputy sheriff, when the deputy 23 sheriff jerked her out of the police car onto 24 the concrete floor in the garage of the jail, 25 her friend said, I don't think you're supposed

1 to do that. That deputy sheriff turned on her 2 and kneed her in the thigh for saying that and 3 gave her a big bruise.

4 All this, you know, occurred after they 5 found -- after they know that I'm the lead
6 plaintiff in the case over there. So you know, 7 you talk about intimidation, this is beyond
8 intimidation. This is out to deliberately hurt
9 my family member so I can back off.

10 And to make things worse, the lady that's 11 representing Rosebud County, her last name is 12 Frankenstein. She wants to do these 13 interrogatories at Rosebud County courthouse.

14 And I told her, I said, you know, It was 15 difficult for me to come over here. I said,
16 Just 100 yards from here my daughter got beat 17 up. Now I'm sitting here and my daughter is 18 going to appear here because she's got two 19 felonies, and you want me to answer questions in 20 this setting? I said, I'll try to do the best I 21 can, but it's really impossible.

22 And then after that, I just walked out after 23 I answered some questions because I couldn't 24 handle that. Right after that, she had her 25 arrangement with the JP, her court-appointed

1 attorney didn't even show up. She was the only 2 one there. The judge was there, and a county 3 attorney that's representing -- that was 4 representing Rosebud County is also the 5 prosecuting attorney, he didn't come in there.
6 There was just the JP and my daughter.

7 And then after that, she had to go to 8 district court and enter pleas on the felonies, 9 and she entered her pleas and they got a 10 different attorney from the attorney general's 11 office in Helena to take over the case.

12 I don't know what that was all about. He 13 appeared on a screen like this in the court when 14 she was there to make her plea. And he said
15 that those charges were ridiculous. I mean, 16 that's what he said.

17 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Her attorney was on the 18 screen?

19 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: The prosecuting
20 attorney. The judge said that my daughter was a 21 nice-looking lady. I mean, was kind of hard to 22 take that she would be that kind of a person. I 23 mean, that came from the judge.

24 But still that same judge said to have her 25 preliminary hearing on May 5th, when they all

1 knew that's my daughter's birthday. I mean,
2 putting battery acid in the wound, I would call 3 that.

4 I mean, this is -- this is what they've 5 done. You know, to try to make me back off.
6 And I just wanted to, you know, relate some of 7 the things that happened. I mean, it's 8 something that you hear about happening to the 9 African Americans back in the day, but this 10 actually happened in 2014 to my daughter.

11 But I realized one thing. My people have a 12 problem, you know, just voting. They are poor 13 and we raised those issues that it's a long 14 ways. Like myself, I live in the smallest 15 community on the reservation, the most isolated 16 community. And it takes two hours for me to get 17 from my place to Forsyth. I mean, that's just 18 one way. That's how far it is.

19 MS. BOHNEE: Is Forsyth the county seat?

20 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yeah. And you
21 know, if we could have this satellite
22 opportunity to do late voting and registrations 23 and stuff like that, it would definitely 24 encourage my people to really actively 25 participate and exercise their voting rights.

1 So I just wanted to bring that out at this 2 time since, you know, I've been given this 3 opportunity. And my daughter is still trying to 4 recover from that real traumatic experience. I
5 mean, it's -- it really devastated her and her 6 kids, seeing her there. My little grandson is 7 four years old, he was willing to break the 8 glass, get his mother out of there. I mean, 9 that's how far he wanted to go. So I just 10 wanted to touch on that intimidation.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Well, thank you for your 12 testimony. I know that it's not easy to --

13 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yes.

14 MS. BOHNEE: -- go through this sort of 15 situation. But we thank you for sharing this 16 with us.

17 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: I just wanted to 18 say that much. And I was telling O.J. and Bret 19 that I made it over here just to give a little 20 testimony on intimidation that, you know, that's 21 there.

22 And I have to get back on the road now.
23 I've got some things in the morning over there 24 and I've got to go back to Montana, so. My 25 wife, she has rheumatoid arthritis, 95 percent

1 of her body is affected by this thing. I take 2 care of her, I cook for her in the morning, I 3 clean for her. A lot of times, you know, she's 4 all right and she does whatever she can. And 5 she goes where I go, because I have to take care 6 of her 24/7.

7 So she's out there in the car, in the truck
8 resting. So I'm -- you know, I don't want to 9 seem like I just made a hit and run here in this 10 thing, so.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Well, before you leave I just 12 want to see if any of the Commissioners have a 13 question for you. Anybody have any questions?

14 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I just have perhaps a point 15 of clarification. So the litigation you were a 16 plaintiff in, what was the nature of that case?
17 When was it started?

18 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: I think Bret is or 19 O.J.

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: So, just what year was it?

21 MR. HEALY: The complaint was filed
22 October 10, 2012, went for a preliminary 23 injunction hearing in front of a racist judge, 24 Richard Cebull, on October 29 and 30 of 2012.
25 Was appealed to the Ninth Circuit. Ninth

1 Circuit agreed in February 2013 to hear it.

2 The case was argued October 10, 2013 in 3 front of the Ninth Circuit. They ruled 30 of 4 October, kicked it back down to the district
5 court, and Judge Molloy scheduled -- on the 6 scheduling order was in late November 2013, with 7 a June 30, 2014 bench trial. Discovery just 8 ended on April 11th. And actually the motions
9 and briefing deadline just concluded April 28th.

10 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: 2014?

11 MR. HEALY: Yes.

12 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: When exactly was this 13 incident with your daughter? It was in 2014 but 14 what month was it?

15 MR. HEALY: March, last half of March.

16 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I just want to make it 17 clear for the record that this occurred during 18 the ongoing litigation. I know you mentioned 19 that, but I want to make it very clear.

20 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yeah.

21 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I thank you so much for 22 your time and driving down, and thank your wife, 23 too, for coming along and making the trip.

24 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yeah.

25 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: It's almost unbelievable to

1 me. I just wanted to be clear for the record
2 that this occurred in the process of litigation
3 you were a plaintiff in. I find it --

4 MR. HEALY: Richard, he -- this incident
5 happened prior to his deposition. They forced 6 his deposition in that same community of 7 Forsyth.

8 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Yes, I caught that. I
9 mean, I don't want to repeat your entire 10 testimony here, but the entire thing is almost 11 unimaginable to me. I apologize for your 12 experience.

13 MR. SEMANS: The county attorney that 14 charged his daughter sat in the deposition
15 because she represents the county. The county
16 commissioners and the clerk reporter.

17 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yeah, I don't want 18 to make it sound like I'm ditching my thing on 19 these two, but --

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: No. We appreciate it.

21 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: I'm still trying to 22 recover as best I could of what happened to my 23 daughter. And otherwise, you know, I'm always 24 open to freely answer anybody myself.

25 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Is she out on bond now?

1 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Yes. Yes. And 2 they have already proposed to drop those 3 felonies. The state proposed that, not the 4 defense counsel. The state proposed that. And 5 they are only going to charge her, I think, with 6 one high misdemeanor, which is attempt to injure 7 the deputy, which means that they want to save 8 face for that action.

9 But it's up to her legal counsel on how they 10 are going to handle this thing. And to me, I 11 think they should drop all the charges because 12 she never done nothing.

13 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Maybe you should initiate a 14 few charges of your own, sir. But I'm not the 15 man to advise you on that.

16 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: I think there's 17 some things that are in the process of being 18 considered at this point. But my daughter still 19 is going to the IHS clinic from that effect with 20 the Mace. It really -- she also has eczema ever 21 since she was little. That Mace really 22 activated her, and Forsyth knows that.

23 And she went and asked that doctor in 24 Forsyth if she could have a copy of what 25 happened with her, the examination. They

1 dragged their response, and just the other day,
2 we finally got those records. So I don't know
3 what's in there, I don't know, but she retained 4 all those pills that she got over there,
5 including that one that is highly questionable.

6 You know, they -- them doctors from IHS said
7 it was illegal, what they did over there.
8 That's how far they went, you know. My daughter 9 is not a -- is the most friendliest. If she 10 came in here, you wouldn't -- you would be 11 totally surprised. She is really nice, she's a 12 good mother.

13 All the people on the reservation, they 14 always tell her how cute her kids look. She 15 really has a lot of interest in her kids.
16 That's her main life, that's the only thing she 17 knows. She doesn't have a biased feeling in her 18 heart at all to anybody or anything. She don't 19 even go that far.

20 When she was little, we went to Arizona and 21 there was this little white boy that got 22 something wrong with his pigment. Looked like 23 he was an albino. All them other little kids at 24 the swimming pool didn't want to play with him.
25 My daughter didn't know the difference. All she

1 knew, there was a little boy.

2 She went over and played with that little 3 boy, and she had a real fun day. And it
4 actually made the little boy's father cry
5 because he said, All the kids don't want to ever 6 play with my little son. Your daughter played 7 with him like there was nothing wrong.

8 That's the kind of person my daughter is.
9 Because you know, I just want to say that, so.
10 I wish I could stay here, you know. I'm kind 11 of -- I'm 66 years old. I'm a
12 great-grandfather, I'm a grandfather, I'm a 13 ceremonial man, I'm a Vietnam Veteran, and 14 everything else.

15 And being a grandfather, I probably could 16 stay here and talk for the next five hours or 17 when you get done. Oh, you want to talk, talk, 18 talk, you know. I've got some things going back 19 home.

20 One of my cousins just passed away. They 21 had her funeral when I was leaving and, you 22 know, it's just, my people depend on me, on the 23 performance of certain funeral rights and stuff 24 like that.

25 But still, I'm not going to give up until my

1 people can really exercise their right to vote.
2 That's what I'm here for, you know. And I'm 3 taking quite a hit on this thing. I understand 4 that even my family is, you know. But that's 5 not going to stop me. This is for my people.

6 So, I just wanted to say that. And like I
7 said, I want to thank the panel and stuff like 8 that, so. I want to get back on the road and I 9 know -- I know my wife is tired and stuff like 10 that, but we're going to make this trip. We'll 11 make a trip anywhere.

12 Just to make things better for my people, 13 we'll do that. Just like my ancestors, the 14 federal government forced them to go to 15 Oklahoma. They went against the federal 16 government, they came back to Montana. You 17 know, they went against great odds. Part of my 18 people got helped, just like I'm getting help 19 from Rosebud Sioux.

20 Over here when they were incarcerated in 21 Fort Robinson, the Sioux helped them out. They 22 gave them food, they gave them blankets, dead of 23 winter. So we're still working together,
24 Cheyenne and their allies, the Sioux. We're 25 still together.

1 And just wanted to, you know, say thank you
2 to O.J. and Bret for all their support and, you
3 know, their -- they are good people. And so I 4 just wanted to say that.

5 MS. BOHNEE: Yes. Well, thank you and thank 6 you for your dedication to fighting for voting
7 rights. And we hope that you have very safe
8 travels back to Montana.

9 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: Okay. All right.

10 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. I'd like to ask our 11 next panelist to present her testimony. Julie 12 Garreau.

13 MS. GARREAU: Garreau.

14 MS. BOHNEE: Garreau. Sorry about that.

15 MS. GARREAU: That's okay. Happens all the 16 time, so.

17 Good evening. My name is Julie Garreau, an 18 enrolled member of the Cheyenne River Sioux 19 Tribe. I'm from Eagle Butte, South Dakota. In 20 2010 I ran for a seat in the South Dakota State 21 Senate, and I lost that race.

22 But as it turns out, it was one of the most 23 rewarding and winning experiences I could have 24 imagined. After that race, I was shocked to 25 find out that of the 2,000 eligible Native

1 voters on the Cheyenne River reservation, only 2 876 are registered to vote. And of those 3 registered voters, only 30 percent turned out to 4 vote.

5 Apathy was often a term I had heard during 6 my campaign. But when the dust settled and the 7 campaign was over, I realized it wasn't about 8 that. It was more about relevance.

9 I realized in speaking with the Native
10 constituents of District 28, that many felt that 11 state and federal elector -- federal -- the 12 state and federal electoral process wasn't 13 theirs.

14 The feeling is that tribal government
15 impacts our daily lives, therefore voter turnout 16 for tribal elections is much higher. But I also 17 learned that it isn't necessarily encouraged for 18 Native people to participate as well.

19 As a result of the election and those 20 statistics, I realized that the work that needed 21 to be done wasn't Julie Garreau running for an 22 office, but rather working towards changing
23 those dire statistics and engaging more Native
24 members in the electoral process, voting, 25 running for office, and organizing.

1 Engagement meant more than just registering 2 voters, but included educating people about how 3 federal and state legislative decisions impact 4 our lives as well as policy change.

5 Throughout my campaign, we noted that one 6 obstacle was voter access in state and federal 7 elections, highlighting location and access 8 issues. But our optimism helped us believe we 9 can overcome that hurdle if we used a 10 collaborative approach.

11 And so I began working with my colleague,
12 Michelle Dubray, to push for change. And I am 13 pleased to be here today to share the story of 14 how we were able to acquire early voting
15 stations on Cheyenne River.

16 Prior to this year, our inquiries to 17 establish early voting stations were met with 18 such feedback as: I don't have to; I don't have 19 a boss; We don't have the manpower; It can't be 20 done; It's too expensive.

21 And when we suggested the insane idea of 22 shared voting stations, we were told that it 23 would be too confusing. There is still much to 24 do at home on the home front. But success was 25 achieved in 2012 when the Cheyenne River Sioux

1 Tribe and Dewey County Commissioners agreed to 2 establish an early voting station in Eagle
3 Butte.

4 It was encouraging to our cause when we 5 approached both entities and found that neither 6 party required convincing as they both 7 understood the obstacles the citizens of our 8 county faced.

9 Each entity played a critical role. The 10 Dewey County Commission voted to allow the 11 county auditor to work with the Cheyenne River 12 Sioux Tribe to identify a person to serve as the 13 deputy county auditor.

14 The county auditor provided the training, 15 ballots, and collected the ballots during the 16 early voting process. The Cheyenne River Sioux 17 Tribe appointed a tribal employee to serve as 18 the deputy auditor, absorbing all the expense, 19 provided office space and security to hold the 20 ballots.

21 The Dewey County auditor and the deputy 22 auditor developed a close and cooperative 23 relationship which allowed for them to run an 24 efficient early voting program. Dewey County is 25 over 2,400 square miles, and over 60 percent of 1 its population lives in Eagle Butte, which is 2 more than 40 miles from the county seat in 3 Timber Lake.

4 Additionally, more than 30 percent of its 5 population is below the poverty line. Many 6 voters reside a long distance from the county
7 seat in Timber Lake, and do not own reliable
8 vehicles, or do not have the financial resources 9 to make a trip to early vote.

10 Although tribal elections are synced with 11 state and federal elections, polling locations
12 are typically located in different communities.
13 So for many tribal members, voting in both 14 tribal elections and state and federal elections 15 means traveling to two different communities to 16 vote.

17 More justification for having an early 18 voting station in Eagle Butte, our reservation's 19 governmental headquarters, where many travel to 20 do business.

21 Of course, there's absentee voting
22 available, but it's not as convenient as you
23 might believe. In rural communities, mailboxes 24 are often not located next to the homes, and 25 mail service is not delivered every day of the 1 week.

2 With regard to absentee voting, in 3 South Dakota it requires not only several trips
4 to the post office, but also access to a notary
5 public and a photocopier, which is not easily 6 accessible to many tribal members, particularly 7 those living in smaller communities.

8 Although some people we spoke with liked 9 voting via the postal system, most enjoyed the 10 privilege of voting in person. With the 11 satellite voting site open several weeks prior 12 to the election, voting was made more 13 convenient.

14 It allowed the voter the privilege of 15 casting their ballot on any day of the week, 16 which is why I believe we saw an increase in 17 voter turnout in Dewey County. Voter turnout
18 increased from 54.5 percent in 2008 to 62.1 19 percent in 2012, an increase of 7.6 percent.

20 Thank you. And that's it. Thank you for 21 your time.

22 MS. BOHNEE: I just have one follow-up
23 question for the record. Because we have four 24 different states here and just to clarify, 25 Cheyenne River is in Dewey County, South Dakota.

1 MS. GARREAU: Yes, that's correct.

2 MS. BOHNEE: Okay. I wanted to verify that 3 for the record. Thank you very much for your 4 testimony. We're going to hold questions until 5 the end of the panel. Next we have Mr. O.J.
6 Semans.

7 MR. SEMANS: (Statement given in Lakota.)
8 First of all, I'd like to wish everybody here -- 9 Sure. Sure.

10 We sit on the HAVA board together, so I knew 11 he was going to do that.

12 It's great to see people, you know, from 13 many tribes, many states here today. What I 14 want to first of all do is thank Patty. We 15 talked about this last night. I've known her 16 since probably 2008, 2009 when she filed amicus
17 for me in the Northwest Austin Municipality 18 Utility District case that went to the Supreme 19 Court.

20 And then she turned around and filed an 21 amicus for me back on the Shelby versus Holder 22 case, which was really strange because the 23 Supreme Court came out with a decision on 24 June 25th, and it was exactly 137 years from 25 Custer's demise.

1 So I don't think the Supreme Court really 2 thought of it that way, but basically I always 3 said, Well, they will never get over Custer, and 4 137 years later, he showed it. And for that, I 5 thank Patty. We were able to participate in 6 that.

7 If you want to talk about, you know, Native
8 vote, one of the things that you have to look 9 at, even in the Shelby case, National Congress 10 American Indians filed, tribes from all over the 11 United States filed in the Shelby case. Not one 12 mention was made of Native Americans in the 13 Shelby case.

14 You know, South Dakota has preclearance in 15 Shannon County and Todd County. And it was just 16 amazing to me that they decided that they 17 wouldn't even mention tribes.

18 But I'm here basically to talk about 19 discrimination, or the history of discrimination 20 of Native Americans trying to participate in the 21 electoral process. We've been involved, my wife 22 who is the co-sponsor, Barbara, for -- 23 co-director of Four Directions, and been 24 involved in Getting Out The Vote now since 2002.

25 She actually worked for Tim Johnson, the

1 Indian senator, that was fraudulently elected
2 back in 2002. And we helped that fraud.

3 You know, after Senator Johnson was elected 4 back in 2002, the first thing they didn't say is 5 well -- well, they did say, Wow, the Indians
6 turned out. Or, Where did they come from? It 7 was all signs of different things.

8 But what happened was, sitting that quietly
9 was the first thing that happens when Indians
10 actually take and participate in, Ah, they stole 11 that election. They fraudulently did this or 12 fraudulently did that.

13 And as I was talking to Mr. White Head this 14 morning is, you know, every election, federal 15 election, we Indians, we get together, we go, 16 You know what we need to do is, we need to stuff 17 that ballot box. We need to break the law for 18 that white guy. I mean, that's what we need to 19 do as Indians. I mean, that's how much sense it 20 makes for us to be able to try to steal an 21 election or a -- you know, for somebody that 22 basically isn't Indian to begin with.

23 But anyway, after that happened, what they 24 did, I live in Todd County on Rosebud Sioux
25 Indian reservation. They changed our time zone.

1 We went in certain parts of the area, it was -- 2 they are supposed to open at 7:00 to 7:00.
3 Well, some of them decided that, you know, they 4 didn't open like -- they didn't open at 7:00, 5 they opened at 8:00 and they thought they -- you 6 know, didn't -- didn't follow the exact hours.
7 So instead of getting 12 hours, they were 8 getting 11.

9 The pole watchers who were there, saw that 10 the polling places weren't open early enough and 11 so they filed a complaint and then went to the 12 courts and the courts ruled they had to give us 13 an extra hour during that election in 2002.

14 And my wife, like I said, worked for Senator 15 Johnson, and it was confirmed by all of the 16 Republican and Democratic constituents that were 17 watching the polls, there was over 530 votes 18 turned in in the Rosebud reservation within that 19 last hour.

20 And so after that, what they decided they'd 21 do is teach us a lesson and just change our time 22 zone. And then they decided, because there were 23 so many people that turned out during that time, 24 that it required us -- because a person would 25 come in and say I'm, you know, I'm O.J. Semans,

1 and they'd look and they'd go, But we have you
2 down as O.J. Wright.

3 I said, Well, that's because, you know, we 4 got the Bureau of Indian Affairs, we got the 5 tribe, and we have all of these other 6 individuals that keep track of our names. And 7 so sometimes there's a mixup.

8 Well, the person that's the judge knows who 9 I am. I know who I am. And so they said, okay, 10 here you go, they cross it out give me my 11 ballot. Well, all of the people sitting out 12 there are going, Did you see those Indians just 13 let him vote for somebody else?

14 And so what they decided to do was create a 15 system where we would now have to have IDs.

16 Now we fought that but one of the things -- 17 and we even contacted the Department of Justice, 18 but they still passed it. But one of the things 19 we were able to do was at least to make sure 20 there was tribal IDs included, and we were able 21 to make sure that we were -- had an affidavit
22 that people could sign that say, I am who I am.

23 I'm done. It's 00.

24 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I am who I am, if you don't 25 have any identification?

1 MR. SEMANS: Right. If you don't have 2 identification, you have an affidavit that says, 3 I am who I am. Bret is going to take up more
4 time so, I've got one more thing.

5 2005, after the 2004 Daschle election, it 6 used to be that you could hire individuals for 7 performance and pay them to go out and work and 8 come in -- if they performed good, you could pay 9 them for the performance.

10 Because, again, the Native American vote 11 increased, they changed pay for performance by 12 paying by the hour. That was the law. And then 13 finally --

14 MS. BOHNEE: Can you just clarify what that 15 means? Is that voter registration?

16 MR. SEMANS: Well, voter --

17 MR. HEALY: And Get Out The Vote.

18 MR. SEMANS: Get Out The Vote. If you want 19 to, you know, have a voter registration drive 20 where you tell this individual, You know what, 21 here's five registrations, go out and do them
22 correctly, bring them back, and we'll pay you $5
23 for each one. Okay?

24 What they said is, No, you can't do that no 25 more. You give them five registration cards and

1 you have to pay them, you know, by the minimum 2 wage per hour in order to do that.

3 So what they basically said is you can hire
4 them for eight hours and if they don't do
5 anything, you still get to pay them. And that 6 was basically because during the Daschle races, 7 we were paying individuals to haul voters in 8 and, you know, voter registration card by 9 performance, not by hours.

10 And so, honest to say, since 2003, Four 11 Directions has had the state legislature active 12 every year in changing voter law. Finally in 13 2013 -- real quick, I will get done -- we 14 established satellite offices back in 2004. The 15 only reason they were established is because we 16 approached them and we said you know -- and they 17 said, We don't have the money. We'll give you 18 the money. We don't have a space. We will rent 19 the space. Every excuse they had, we said we 20 would take care of it financially.

21 And so that started the deal of setting up
22 the satellite offices. Well we actually started 23 getting real successful. Where counties said, 24 You know what, we don't have a problem with 25 Indians voting and having access if we -- you

1 know, if we have the funding to do it. So we 2 turned around and started, you know, giving 3 funding to different counties for these 4 satellite offices.

5 And what happened was, the secretary of 6 state said, You know, we haven't did a log in of 7 Four Directions in a few years, so we're going 8 to pass a law that basically asks -- or that 9 says that counties -- county election officials 10 can no longer take donations from private 11 organizations.

12 And their reasoning was, is Bill Gates or 13 some rich person from New York will come to 14 Rapid City and put up, you know, satellite 15 offices all over Rapid City and, you know, elect 16 a different sheriff.

17 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: That would be George 18 Sorenson.

19 MR. SEMANS: Yeah. Yeah. Well, they said
20 an elephant in the room. It was really a 21 donkey, so, I mean.

22 And so we have -- I know we have been 23 effective in our advocacy for establishing 24 equality. Because when you can get a state 25 legislature to every year get together to change

1 a law because you took advantage of it and you
2 used it, used -- created it so that more Natives
3 could vote, then you know you're doing your job.

4 And as far as Julie, I call what they did in 5 Dewey County the gold standard of South Dakota.
6 Thank you.

7 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

8 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Can I ask a clarification
9 question?

10 MS. BOHNEE: Yes.

11 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: You mentioned a law where 12 in the state of South Dakota, county election 13 officials couldn't accept resources to 14 administer elections from private interests.

15 MR. SEMANS: Yes.

16 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Is that on the books right
17 now?

18 MR. SEMANS: It's SB 33. We defeated it.

19 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Yes. It was defeated.

20 MR. SEMANS: Yes.

21 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: But your point in making 22 that was that for every bit of progress, there's 23 a little bit of opposition hurled at the effort.
24 Even though this individual one wasn't 25 successful, won't stop future efforts. Kind of 1 like keeping your finger in the dike a little 2 bit.

3 MR. SEMANS: Exactly. Every step you --
4 that song, Every step you take, every thing you 5 make, there's somebody else making it harder for 6 you to take that step.

7 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Thank you.

8 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. All right.
9 Mr. Healy.

10 MR. HEALY: Thank you. My name is Bret
11 Healy. I'm a consultant for Four Directions, 12 for Barb and O.J. Semans. We've been working on 13 these kinds of issues for now over ten years.

14 I want to speak a bit about intimidation and 15 retaliation of plaintiffs in these voting rights 16 cases. And Mr. Wandering Medicine talked at 17 length about his daughter, and I'm going to add 18 to that in a minute or so.

19 Folks, there are some morally bankrupt
20 players on the voting rights playing field on 21 the other side, and they are using tactics that 22 are beyond the pale.

23 In South Dakota, for example, in the Brooks
24 versus Gant case, even after the Defendants, 25 Shannon County, Fall River County, and the State

1 of South Dakota, provided the relief asked for 2 by the plaintiffs, that is a satellite office in 3 Pine Ridge on the Pine Ridge Indian reservation, 4 they declared themselves the victor because the 5 federal judge said the harm is far enough out in 6 the future, she dismissed the case, they said,
7 We won, and we're going to go after the Oglala 8 plaintiffs for $6,000 in court costs.

9 No matter how objectionable that tactic was, 10 it was designed to go after the next set of 11 plaintiffs. If you Native plaintiffs, if you 12 decide to get in a case, be careful because they 13 might come after you for money.

14 And the way this works is that, if that 15 happens and the judge let's that motion go on, 16 those plaintiffs have to go to court and prove 17 they are too poor to pay those costs, which 18 means they have to reveal their financial lives
19 to the court. It's an intimidation tactic.

20 That morally bankrupt firm here is one in 21 South Dakota. Other folks have been reluctant 22 to name names. I won't be. It's Gunderson, 23 Palmer law firm right here in Rapid City,
24 South Dakota that has made millions of dollars
25 fighting anti-Indian side of these voting rights

1 cases.

2 Yes?

3 MS. BOHNEE: I just wanted to clarify for 4 the record when that took place.

5 MR. HEALY: Brooks v. Gant case was filed
6 going into the 2012 election year. It was filed
7 in January of 2012. Preliminary injunction
8 hearing was in early March 2012. And rather 9 than have a federal injunction, the defendant 10 said, We give up. We're going to give the 11 plaintiffs everything they asked for for 2012.

12 And then they fought on the longer terrain
13 for the elections after that. And they said, 14 We'll give you what you want for '14, '16, and 15 '18, and then we don't know what can be done
16 then. Then they used HAVA funds -- Help America 17 Vote -- funds to pay for those next three 18 elections.

19 Declared themselves victors, went after the 20 plaintiffs. Thank goodness the federal judge 21 said, That's ridiculous. They -- she knocked 22 them upside the head and did that. But the 23 tactic still stood.

24 Then going over into the Wandering Medicine
25 case. Again that was, in South Dakota,

1 intimidation, sanctioned by the state. Pure and 2 simple.

3 In the Montana case, the thing got filed in 4 early October 2012, and we won't go into all the 5 back and forth of what Four Directions did, what 6 O.J. Semans did to advance that cause. The 7 counties said, No. The secretary of state said, 8 No. October 12th, the plaintiffs filed a case.

9 Shortly after that, one of the first motions 10 from the defendants was asking the court to 11 force the plaintiffs to come up with $90,000, in 12 case the defendants lost the preliminary 13 injunction. Again, an intimidation tactic.

14 The lawyer filed an opposition to that, and 15 then they came back and said O.J. and Barb had 16 to pay, that Four Directions should pay because 17 they were involved in helping bring the case.

18 MR. SEMANS: I asked if they'd take a check.

19 MR. HEALY: They run in to a racist judge,
20 Judge Richard, Cebull, who, when one Googles, 21 you'll find he's been forced to resign in 22 disgrace. And the reason he was, hundreds of 23 anti-African American, anti-Hispanic,
24 anti-Native American, anti-Gay, Lesbian,
25 Transgender community, and misogynistic e-mails

1 from a federal judge from his official account.

2 No surprise, Mark Wandering Medicine and his 3 fellow plaintiffs were defeated in that 4 preliminary injunction in front of Judge Cebull.
5 Immediately after that defeat, the plaintiffs
6 filed to take it to the Ninth Circuit.

7 The defendants filed for costs for bothering
8 the defendants with the preliminary injunction.
9 So they asked for attorneys' fees and expenses 10 associated with plaintiffs' motion for 11 preliminary injunction.

12 The same day they filed their motion for 13 mootness in the Ninth Circuit, appeal, this 14 court should dismiss plaintiffs' appeal as moot 15 and award just damages and double costs to the 16 defendants from the Indian plaintiffs.

17 Again, intimidation, retaliation: You
18 Indians better be careful, you're going to have 19 to pay money if you're willing to stand up for 20 equal rights.

21 Then we get to the interrogatories of the 22 discovery phase of the Wandering Medicine trial.
23 They wanted to know how Mark Wandering Medicine 24 and his fellow plaintiffs were able to get to 25 high school activities. In Indian Country, that

1 means basketball. How were you able to go to 2 basketball games if you can't afford to go to 3 Forsyth, you can't afford to go to Chinook, you 4 can't afford to go to Hardin. And they also 5 asked, How did you spend your Cobell money?
6 Again, not much of a nexus to voting rights.

7 Then moving on, if intimidation on dollars,
8 and trying to intimidate you in interrogatories 9 isn't enough, let's soften you up by going after 10 your family. Dusty Wandering Medicine, folks, 11 spent 16 days in a Forsyth jail, ripped away 12 from her young family; four kids, eight, seven, 13 six, and four.

14 And you talked -- heard about the 15 four-year-old son trying to bust his mom out of 16 the jail, not knowing what was going on; $26,000 17 bond. Mark is a very wise and very traditional 18 man and leader.

19 Folks, this should shock the conscience of a 20 nation. His daughter was targeted because he 21 was a lead plaintiff willing to stand up and 22 fight for rights. She was tortured, folks. He 23 didn't talk about it. They injured her wrist.
24 They had her wrists behind her back that whole 25 ride from Ashland to Forsyth, too tight, and she

1 complained and continued to complain about how 2 tight they were.

3 My friend O.J. talks about how that kind of 4 pain is almost intolerable. Then they 5 pepper-spray her. And then they drugged her 6 while she was in custody. Left the bond at 7 $26,000, well beyond the range of economic 8 circumstances for any Indian family to be able 9 to bond their child out of jail. We were able 10 to help and pay the bondsman. The bondsman told 11 me that stuff happens all the time. But they 12 targeted, they knew who that girl was.

13 And then they demanded, and the plaintiffs'
14 attorneys resisted, and said we should not do 15 that deposition in Forsyth. They insisted upon 16 it. And just for the record, that community of 17 Forsyth was named for Commander James Forsyth, 18 the 7th Calvary, was a commanding officer at the 19 Wounded Knee Massacre. There are echoes of 20 history here that have not changed.

21 It's time for the conscience of a nation to 22 not forget about Indian Country. And to that 23 end, we're helping, and we're going to demand 24 and ask that the Department of Justice, Civil 25 Rights shop investigate Rosebud County Montana

1 law enforcement.

2 We're working, O.J. is working with a
3 councilwoman at Northern Cheyenne. This is an 4 outrage, folks. All that's necessary for evil
5 to rule in this world, as they say, is for good 6 men and women to stand silent. We're not going 7 to do that, we hope you won't either. And I've 8 gone over my time, so I will conclude with that.

9 MS. BOHNEE: Well, I'd just like to thank 10 the panel for their powerful testimony. I think 11 it's very important to highlight current issues
12 with voting. At this time I'm going to turn it 13 over to the Commissioners for questions.

14 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I'm up? Well, I wanted to 15 make some comments at the time the first panel 16 gave its testimony and it's related here. My 17 question for everyone who has come forward today 18 is basically the same.

19 In all this talk about litigation,
20 litigation that takes money away from Head Start 21 programs in Montana to advanced defense and 22 advocacy of Native voting rights, is there any 23 room for mediation? Is there any room to get a 24 group of right-minded individuals together to 25 work out agreements in advance?

1 Or is it the case, as I've heard from a
2 number of panelists today, that the opposition
3 is too pernicious, the roots of animosity too
4 deep, to even find a group of right-minded
5 individuals capable of facilitating an agreement
6 about how to work together, move forward
7 together, to support American rights?

8 Not American Indian rights or nonAmerican
9 Indian rights, everyone's rights. It's a simple 10 formula, you know. What else can be done
11 besides the record of litigation?

12 Just one more comment about this. Pat Duffy 13 said that it may be the end of history for the 14 Voting Rights Act and for affirmative action
15 through the law. And he offered organize, 16 organize, organize. Is this part of the 17 potential organization effort, or is it going to 18 be only adversarial, meaning we have to do it 19 internally to fight the external?

20 Is there anyway to kind of cross these lines 21 a little bit and plan and agree for the future
22 in the area of Native voting rights?

23 MS. GARREAU: Well, I mean, I think that at 24 home it was -- you know, what I presented today 25 was, you know, just a really positive outcome.

1 And it was -- it was a good thing, what happened
2 at home.

3 I have to add that it wasn't exactly easy 4 for us to participate in the process. We were 5 greeted with a lot of different attitudes and 6 ideas and surprises that I didn't expect.

7 But you know, I think when O.J. approached
8 our Dewey County Commissioners, he had already 9 gone through -- where had you been working, down 10 in Rosebud and Shannon County?

11 MR. SEMANS: Shannon County and Rosebud.

12 MS. GARREAU: Shannon County and Rosebud.
13 So he had already gone through that and kind of 14 had his war wounds. So we knew when we 15 approached the Dewey County Commissioners, the 16 letter had to kind of be with a little bit of a 17 threat blended in there.

18 So when we went to meet with the Dewey 19 County Commissioners, they said, We noticed that 20 and we're going to work with you. And I think 21 that was -- it was -- I think it's what had to 22 happen because everything we had been doing, 23 when I was running for office and all the work 24 that followed, you know, we really were greeted 25 with, No, we can't do any of it.

1 Nothing we suggested could be done. It was 2 impossible, it was ridiculous, it's too
3 expensive. There were so many reasons. So you 4 know, we kind of felt like that was the -- what 5 we had to do and what had to happen.

6 Fortunately, they didn't require much
7 convincing at home, and so it worked out really 8 well for us. Unfortunately, I don't think 9 that's happening everywhere else.

10 But I think that with time, and I think with 11 organizing, and with people like myself and O.J.
12 and Bret and everybody who is doing this work, I 13 think we can get to that place. I really do.
14 Because I think what we see in Cheyenne River is 15 that it can happen.

16 But again, it had it's -- it had its 17 challenges and its obstacles that we had to kind 18 of go through in order to participate and to get 19 to, you know, to bring early voting to Eagle 20 Butte. And where to me, it just doesn't make 21 sense, it just seems so easy.

22 And in the end, it really was kind of easy
23 compared to what other counties had to do, go 24 through. But it just doesn't have to be like 25 that. But I think it's going to take some time,

1 and it can be done.

2 And I think that once those counties who 3 resist, once they realize that there are people 4 who are concerned and they are standing up, and 5 they are not going to just sit back and be 6 passive about it, I think that will change. It 7 will. I do believe that.

8 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: All right. I want to just 9 give a couple follow-up comments and maybe hear 10 from the other two gentlemen. First off, I 11 agree that it's going to be difficult. The fact 12 you had a success story in Dewey County does not 13 obviate the concerns you have for how difficult 14 that was.

15 And I agree it's likely going to have to 16 come along -- the motivation for participating 17 in a dialogue, even formal mediation with a 18 hired third-party facilitator, will have to 19 have -- you used the word "threat." I'd like to 20 think of it as the discussion of WATNA, right, 21 from Fisher and Ury, who wrote about negotiation
22 principles and getting to "yes." Every party 23 needs to consider their worst alternative to 24 negotiated agreements.

25 That would be a lawsuit that would take

1 money out of the county, disable some programs
2 that Indian and nonIndian folks rely on in the 3 county and so on. So I agree that that thing
4 kind of has to happen. But also I'd like to see 5 it maybe paired up with an agreement where I'm 6 asking whether it's possible to facilitate it 7 with an agreement to work together to avoid 8 those WATNAs on all sides. All right?

9 So I do think you have to present those 10 WATNAs, those harsh realities which could 11 include the devastating effects on a community
12 of more adversarial contact, more lost
13 resources, you know, more bad court decisions
14 for both sides. So it's a realistic thing.

15 But I'm thinking formal efforts, not just a 16 cultural shift that will occur over a
17 generation. I'm talking about 2016,
18 facilitating mediation efforts or working group 19 efforts throughout at least a portion of Indian 20 Country still struggling with this, that could 21 then maybe be shared as positive stories for the 22 rest. So, O.J. and Bret, could we hear from you 23 guys on this?

24 MR. SEMANS: Well, you know, when we first 25 started, we actually started looking at 1 satellite offices in 2003. And our goal was to 2 negotiate, you know. We didn't want six weeks, 3 we wanted one day, we wanted two days, three 4 days. We just wanted to be able to set the -- 5 set the ground work.

6 And when we started working with -- we 7 understood that, first of all, they didn't -- 8 they didn't want to not be -- well, just put it 9 this way, they gave us every excuse that you 10 could think of: money, buildings, time, people.

11 When we took care of all of those excuses, 12 then it came down to, Now I need to know those 13 people. And when you're an Indian and somebody 14 says that, that means that, We can't trust the 15 Indians, so we need to find a white person out 16 there.

17 And so I understand what you're talking 18 about, you know, mediation and stuff. But to 19 kind of give you another history of what 20 happened, it is a fact that -- thank God for 21 Google, because as we started getting better at 22 this, and as we started meeting with different 23 county commissioners, and what we would do
24 first, we would send them a letter saying O.J.
25 or Bret, we're going to come to visit the

1 commissioners.

2 And 2004 wasn't no big deal. But 2006, when 3 they started seeing our names come up, that was 4 our threat because they knew that after we got 5 done with what we did in Shannon County and what 6 we did in Todd County and over in Buffalo County 7 and even a little bit over in Dewey County is 8 that we were persistent.

9 But I can tell you from my experience that 10 the individuals that we have encountered 11 throughout this whole process, you cannot 12 mediate if they are going to say we'll give you 13 a satellite station one day and -- you know, 14 instead of 30 days.

15 How can you mediate a situation where all 16 you're asking for is equality but they won't do 17 it? You know, it was talked about earlier, you 18 know, about, you know, Section 4 and Section 5.
19 And like I said, I was part of that because of 20 Patty.

21 But Section 2 is literally breaking us.
22 Because of the fact -- and this is one thing
23 about Wandering Medicine case. I mean, you
24 heard the cases up here before about voter
25 dilution. Wandering Medicine is about voter

1 denial.

2 And what we're saying is, it's not a fact
3 that, you know, you're taking all of the Indians
4 and you're splitting the -- you know, splitting 5 the lines. What Wandering Medicine is about is 6 saying that you as an individual, a protected 7 class living, you know, off 80 miles from the 8 county seat, you shouldn't have -- if everybody 9 has six ways to vote, it's not equal that they 10 are giving you five. And that's, you know, 11 that's the key to this.

12 So what I'm saying is, I don't think 13 mediation is going to work when it comes to 14 equality. You just -- the county officials -- 15 and I always look at the -- the way the 16 constitution in, you know, the United States has 17 written up and the state is written up. The 18 county officials are the first line of defense
19 for Native American Indians. We have to fight 20 through them before we can get to the state. We 21 have to fight through them before we can get to 22 the federal government.

23 And when you have that many tiers, you have 24 the county, then you have the state, then you 25 have the federal, you're not going to find

1 enough mediators, you know -- and again, this is 2 my opinion -- that are going to be able to sit 3 down and come out with a plan.

4 The only time I seen it come close is when 5 you, sir, was on the HAVA force where we were 6 able to get that formula going for four 7 satellite offices. That I can see but I, you 8 know that was the conscience of a lot of good 9 people in one room. If that can happen, fine.
10 But I just don't see mediation, even paid 11 mediation working.

12 MR. HEALY: As with most things,
13 Mr. Braunstein, it depends. And unfortunately, 14 it depends on how dug in that particular local 15 border town, community is in their views of 16 Native people.

17 For example, Todd County, South Dakota, they 18 were smart. They saw that Shannon County was 19 being litigated against, and they by resolution, 20 when O.J. made the request said, Yep, we're 21 going to do it for every election moving 22 forward. They did the smart thing.

23 Dewey County who used to be some -- that 24 used to be some of the toughest territory in 25 South Dakota on voting rights in the '90s and in

1 the early 2000s. Now may be the most 2 cooperative place anywhere in Indian Country.

3 Shannon and Fall River County, unfortunately 4 still dug in. And even with the likely use of 5 HAVA funds, we've made a couple of visits to 6 Jackson County, South Dakota, the old Washabaugh 7 County of course, and the other part of the 8 Pine Ridge Indian reservation.

9 And when I went to them in early April with 10 the recommendation that they pass a resolution, 11 a county resolution, contingent on HAVA funding 12 to have a satellite office this fall, they said, 13 No, we're going to wait and see if that money is 14 actually there.

15 But the discussion that day, folks, was a 16 whole lot of what O.J. and I have heard time and 17 again about, well, it was unpaid -- all those 18 acres that aren't taxed and that still, the 19 county has to pay for the roads, and we'd have 20 to have somebody from the office go down to 21 Wanblee.

22 And which I brought up the Dewey County
23 Cheyenne River case and said, Look, hire
24 somebody from there. Well, they'd have to know 25 them, of course.

1 And it's an unfortunate hard lack of trust
2 by some nonIndian officials that they simply 3 aren't going to cooperate in the way that Dewey
4 County and Cheyenne River have of that trust
5 that that Native person will run a fair election 6 under the supervision of the county.

7 It is unfortunate that, the counties that 8 that kind of mediation might work, Commissioner 9 Braunstein, are the ones that probably don't 10 need mediation. And the ones that it probably 11 won't work at, it's going to be nothing but the 12 threat of a two-by-four upside the head 13 litigation-wise.

14 And too often they are willing to defund 15 those other programs, blame the Indians, and 16 fight as much and as long as they can. And 17 particularly in South Dakota, the great weakness
18 has been they've got the wealthy jurisdictions 19 of Sioux Falls and Minnehaha County and 20 Rapid City and other jurisdictions funding the 21 municipal insurance pool, the South Dakota
22 Public Assurance Alliance.

23 And so they've got big checkbooks to fight 24 these ideological wars in these smaller 25 jurisdictions that those taxpayers could never

1 front and pay for the long, drawn-out 2 litigation.

3 But they are able to pool those resources
4 from other communities that aren't invested
5 enough and going, Hey, that's silly and that's 6 an unwise use of our taxpayer resources.
7 They've got the access to those big checkbooks.

8 So again, things are changing, somewhat.
9 But it has to be with that -- the worst 10 analysis. It has to almost be with that kind of 11 a threat. But the problem is, the only credible 12 threat depends on somebody putting real money
13 in, and that is the great weakness of Section 2 14 as opposed to Section 5, in which the burden is 15 on the other side.

16 MR. SEMANS: May I add just one more thing.
17 You know, we were talking about negotiations -- 18 and Commissioner Kingman also knows this -- is 19 that when we first started back in 2010 trying 20 to negotiate with Shannon County to establish a 21 satellite office, the election officials quit 22 three months before the election. They turned 23 in their resignation and said, We are no longer
24 going to handle the election on the Pine Ridge
25 reservation in Shannon County.

1 Have you ever heard of that in the history
2 of the United States, where the election
3 officials quit? Then the secretary of state
4 goes, Eh, we can't do nothing about it.

5 You know, it was -- that was a deal where,
6 we met with the state's attorney. He says, If 7 you ask me for satellite offices, we're going to 8 resign. And you know, I believed him but I
9 really didn't believe him.

10 So we asked, and right at the meeting
11 they -- I was at the meeting and so was my wife.
12 The state's attorney goes, Mr. Semans, before 13 you go any further, he says, I need to hand this 14 out to the commissioners. And it was a 15 resignation of the county auditor that held the 16 election and all the election officials 17 resigning their position as contracting with 18 Shannon County. They literally shut down the 19 federal election.

20 And so when we talk about, you know,
21 mediation, the only mediation that worked there 22 was, like I said, we got a big two-by-four and 23 we hit them alongside the head as many times as 24 it took for them to understand it.

25 They were still able to succeed in shutting

1 down the amount of days we had. But they still 2 had to provide, when we got done with them,
3 early voting and actually voting on election
4 day. So you know, I wish mediation was there.
5 I just don't see it.

6 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Is the risk of litigation
7 right now so great on the part of the defendants 8 that the threat and the uncertainty is great 9 enough to engage in dialogue, especially when we 10 have the success stories of Dewey County and 11 elsewhere through the HAVA task force that 12 materialized in Shannon and other counties? Is 13 it to that point or do you need more
14 two-by-fours? Have we broken enough
15 two-by-fours is my question.

16 MR. HEALY: We might have in South Dakota,
17 at least as long as that HAVA funding is there,
18 and will be for a few cycles. O.J., of course, 19 had filed a civil rights complaint on behalf of 20 the Oglala, Cheyenne River, and Crow Creek Sioux 21 Tribes in early August based on the rejection by 22 the state board of elections to provide HAVA
23 funding for those other satellite offices. Then 24 we went through that HAVA task force process.
25 So there is some upside there.

1 Frankly, these Montana counties, it is 2 literally going to have to be a federal judge 3 putting things in play and putting on the 4 precedent that for this vote out kind of a case,
5 sketching out the Wandering Medicine case
6 probably as a precedent-setting case, that 7 provides the tools, frankly, at least in the 8 rest of the Ninth Circuit to go after that.

9 We think there's a good reason in the Brooks
10 v. Gant case, the county and state defendants 11 just kind of put that off for a few years. They 12 didn't want to lose on voting rights grounds, so 13 they decided to use a little bit of money and 14 just put off the issue for a few more cycles, 15 rather than litigate it on VRA and 16 constitutional grounds in the Eighth Circuit.

17 MS. BOHNEE: So I think we're running out of 18 time. Do you have any questions?

19 MS. KINGMAN: I just have a comment.

20 MS. BOHNEE: Quick question.

21 MS. KINGMAN: You mentioned the Shannon 22 County, and I don't want to go into it now, but 23 for the record could you furnish something into 24 the record on that? Because that involved a 25 good strategy, and it also brought in the

1 Department of Justice, and that's a player here
2 that we need to, I think, keep involved, because 3 they were very supportive.

4 And so between now and, I don't know when 5 her deadline is, but if you could just write 6 something for the record --

7 MR. HEALY: Sure. Of course.

8 MS. KINGMAN: -- on that Shannon County?

9 MR. SEMANS: Of course. Bret will.

10 MS. BOHNEE: One other thing just to clarify 11 for the record, the satellite voting office or 12 satellite offices are for voter registration and 13 for in-person early voting?

14 MR. SEMANS: It's really important in this 15 aspect, is that it's -- the in-person absentee 16 satellite, early voting, late registration 17 voting is what it comes to, is because in 18 South Dakota, for instance, you got that 19 six-week period, or I say 30 days, in which 20 you -- 30 days prior to the actual election, 21 registration is shut off. You can't register
22 anymore.

23 But they've made it so that if you have a 24 county building during that 30 days, you can go 25 in there, register, and vote prior to the

1 election. And so what it is is that the late 2 registration has to be a part of it, because 3 you're going to be able to increase the Native
4 vote, or any vote really, because that's why 5 they've developed it for the counties is to 6 increase the nonIndian vote within that. So 7 it's late registration and early voting.

8 MS. BOHNEE: Okay.

9 MS. KINGMAN: And distance. Distance.

10 MR. HEALY: That would be in Montana in 11 terms of late registration. In South Dakota, 12 there's a 46-day absentee balloting period, of 13 which the first four and a half weeks are voter 14 registration and an in-person absentee ballot.
15 Not technically early voting because it's still 16 an absentee ballot that's cast.

17 But the importance of organizing and actual, 18 on-the-ground Get Out The Vote operations, it is 19 a one-trip of that voter to that office in which 20 they can register to vote if they are 21 unregistered and cast -- request and cast an 22 absentee ballot all in one trip, rather than 23 having multiple trips to the post office, rather 24 than having multiple contacts with that voter.

25 MR. SEMANS: One more thing in regards to 1 that, and I'll make this quick. When we met 2 with HAVA task force, what we did is we 3 recommended a part of the formula for 4 establishing satellite offices. And it was a 5 race-friendly formula. What they would look at 6 is a 50 percent poverty rate and 50 percent

7 distance. And that neutralized, you know,
8 whether you're black, Hispanic, Native American, 9 that that would include basically every United 10 States citizen to be able to try to establish a 11 satellite office within their community if it 12 was too far.

13 That's, I guess that's one of the things I 14 would like the committee to really consider as 15 far as submitting something, is to utilize the 16 formula. And I think we sent it to you, that we 17 submitted to the State of South Dakota, and the 18 communities. Commissioner Braunstein could 19 actually, you know, touch on it a little bit.

20 But I think if we were able to establish 21 this in federal law, we would take away a lot, a 22 lot of litigation.

23 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Absolutely.

24 MS. BOHNEE: Well, if we don't have that 25 yet, if you all could submit that for the 1 record, that would be helpful.

2 MR. HEALY: Actually to that end, the 3 South Dakota Board of Elections is to meet on 4 the 5th or 6th of May and take formal action on 5 that HAVA task force plat, pass a state HAVA 6 plan, and then submit it to the Federal 7 Register.

8 So once that happens next week, we can 9 certainly provide that HAVA plan -- assuming 10 they don't do something weird and not pass it -- 11 but to the committee for their record.

12 MS. BOHNEE: Wonderful. Well, thank you
13 very much. We're going to change panels right 14 now.

15 (Brief recess was taken.)

16 MS. BOHNEE: We're going to go ahead and get 17 started with our last, our third panel. And I
18 just want to thank everyone for their patience.
19 These are very important issues, and I think 20 it's important that everyone have a voice in 21 this process. I just appreciate you taking the 22 time, and I apologize for us running a little 23 bit late, or a lot late, so.

24 And I apologize, Mr. Siyo, I didn't see you 25 walk in to add you to the last panel. But we're

1 going to start with Mr. Siyo first. So you can 2 go ahead.

3 MR. SIYO: Okay. My name is Mel Siyo, and 4 I'm's an enrolled member of the Oglala Sioux
5 Tribe. And I used to have the name Prairie 6 Chicken but I shortened it down to Siyo because 7 in Lakota, that's what it means.

8 Anyway, I'm also part of the Rapid City 9 Human Relations Commission. I'm chairman of 10 that commission. And the Mayor asked that I be 11 here and also to welcome you. I don't know if 12 he has but, welcome and glad you're here. I'm 13 glad this is being sought out and talked about.

14 What it says on here, it says, example of 15 how it's done right, Rapid City's advances in 16 voting rights. Well, I think we're struggling, 17 too. That isn't all true, and everything isn't 18 right.

19 We also have our issues and problems, maybe 20 intimidation sometimes locally here. I was just 21 listening to one person at our last election, 22 they -- the worker there had taken -- when 23 you're done voting, it's in that little thing, 24 anyway whatever you call it, and then you put it 25 in to the box.

1 Well, anyway this worker came and took the 2 sheet out and was looking at it up and down and 3 she said, You're a Democrat.

4 Anyway that goes on here, too. What I want
5 to talk about is the Human Relations Commission, 6 and back in the early -- well, yeah, early '70s,
7 that was the time of social unrest. The Vietnam
8 War was going on, the hippy movement was here, 9 also the American Indian Movement was here.

10 And they were, of course, were fighting 11 injustices and problems with the federal 12 government at the time, because the tribes were 13 suffering quite a bit.

14 And anyway, Wounded Knee happened over here, 15 just right around there, '72, '71, somewheres in 16 there. And then they came over here to 17 Rapid City, and they were wanting to talk to the 18 police because of police brutality. And that is 19 how the Human Relations Commission had its first 20 being.

21 And that was established back in the, I 22 believe probably it was in the 1970s, and it was 23 to do with some of the brutality and stuff. And 24 I think it was under Mayor Barnett's time at the 25 time.

1 And it was on the books, it was legal and it
2 was going for a while there, and all of a 3 sudden, it just went and gone. I mean, it was 4 dead and gone. We didn't hear about it. So 5 back in two -- I think it was like 2006, under 6 Mayor Hanks' administration, he revived this 7 thing, the human relations. It was laying there 8 dormant.

9 So what he did was, he took it and with his 10 city attorney staff, they practically gutted the 11 whole thing and they took out the subpoena and 12 the enforcement part of the ordinance. So when 13 we got on there, that's -- we were trying to get 14 that back, and they were -- we were talking 15 about it, and we were preparing to revise the 16 ordinance. Anyways, it was a long struggle and 17 a lot of stops along the way with our city 18 council.

19 And some from the business community didn't 20 want us there because they had the idea that if 21 we had that subpoena power, all of a sudden 22 everything would be rampant, there would be a 23 lot of complaints. And they just didn't want 24 nothing to do with it.

25 Anyway, what has happened now, I'll go

1 shortly to it, is that the ordinance passed its 2 first reading at the November 4, 2013 city 3 council meeting and was continued to the 4 February 12, 2014 legal and finance committee
5 meeting agenda for a second reading.

6 The ordinance was continued at the
7 February 12, 2014 legal and finance committee
8 meeting, again to the February 28, 2014 meeting.
9 It was approved and sent to city council without 10 recommendation.

11 The second reading of the ordinance was 12 continued for two weeks at the March 3 meeting
13 and was on the agenda again for the March 17, 14 2014 meeting. The city council approved the 15 second and final reading of the ordinance on 16 March 17, 2014 city council meeting. The 17 ordinance would go into effect on Friday,
18 February 11th. So it's already in effect.

19 But in review, there's a lot of space in 20 between those dates. What had been happening, 21 of course, was there was hearings on it, and the 22 public got ahold of it, and they were telling 23 the city council how bad it was and don't vote 24 for it. Anyway, we had ten council members and 25 the final reading was seven were for it and

1 three were against it.

2 So that's kind of what the ordinance is 3 about. And of course the ordinance is all about 4 discrimination, too. And out of the -- since we 5 got going some 2006 to the present, there were 6 55 complaints that were registered. And then 7 out of that, two were probable cause and let's 8 see, that would be 53 -- 53 were dismissed, only 9 two there was probable cause.

10 But because we did not have the enforcement
11 or the subpoena power, we couldn't do nothing 12 with those two that were probable cause. And so 13 that made us more -- to be on our best and try 14 to go forward and get that back. And of course 15 that all -- the result was that we did get it 16 back.

17 The last census, Rapid City said we had 18 68,000. And I read in the paper the other day 19 where it was like, now it's 70,000. So out of 20 that population, Rapid City has Native American 21 people at 12.4 percent. So you figure that out, 22 it's about 8,600 people that, Native Americans 23 that are here, and I don't know how many are 24 voting. And that's just kind of an interesting 25 statistic there for you.

1 The other thing is that the Mayor does make 2 the appointments. And so on this present
3 commission, there's seven of us and we had two 4 Native Americans, myself and Tim Standing
5 Soldier. Then we had three attorneys at one
6 point in time, one resigned. Well, two now 7 resigned. We have only one. And we just -- the 8 major just made another appointment to the 9 seventh seat, so that was good.

10 Then the good thing of all of this is that 11 under Mayor Kooiker's term, he did establish a 12 polling place out in North Rapid there, out at 13 Lakota Homes. So that's been like about two, 14 three years now. So that's where the majority 15 of our people live and go, and that's where 16 they -- they vote, because they never had that 17 before. And some of them, of course, don't have 18 transportation. So that kind of worked out good 19 for them.

20 And in Rapid City's history, of course, we 21 had Native American mayor, and that was Art 22 LaCroix. And then of course that would have 23 been his nephew, I believe, he was on the city 24 council for a while there.

25 And also the Mayor did establish some town

1 hall meetings at Lakota Homes, and he invited 2 the state and federal people to be there, and 3 that was something that they really appreciated.

4 I accompanied the Mayor to, let's see, three 5 different reservations. We visited Cheyenne 6 River, Oglala Sioux Tribe, and Rosebud Sioux 7 Tribe, and that was because the Mayor wanted to 8 go there.

9 And he has a great interest in the Native
10 American people, because he knew that they were 11 having problems of discrimination and prejudice.
12 And he knew -- he understood that because 13 himself, he's a handicapped person in that he 14 had polio. So it's very hard for him, and he 15 experienced the prejudices and discrimination
16 also. So he worked very well for the Native
17 American people.

18 So presently, as of April 11th, we have -- 19 we have a full staff, we have -- the big change 20 that's going on, we were doing all of the 21 investigation, we were doing all the paperwork
22 and the letters and so forth.

23 But under this present system now, the city 24 attorney's staff are going to handle all of that 25 and we're still going to be there as a

1 commission to hear whatever may need to be heard
2 and then make some decisions on them, too. So 3 all that kind of relieved us a little bit of the 4 work that had to be done.

5 I think I'm going to stop there because I
6 don't know how many minutes I've gone.

7 MS. BOHNEE: Well, thank you very much for 8 your testimony, and you have --

9 MR. SIYO: One more thing, I do have -- 10 we're proud of this. It's coming, too, but the 11 sculpture garden that went through a little 12 process of where they had an uphill battle, too, 13 to establish a sculpture garden down at Haley 14 Museum there, in that place there. And of 15 course I forget her name now...

16 MS. KINGMAN: Elizabeth Cook.

17 MR. SIYO: Yeah. Yeah, Elizabeth Cook
18 was -- spearheading that one, and I -- some of 19 the poor people that, they are going to put the 20 statues up for is Charles Eastman and he was a 21 Santee medicine man and a doctor. Well, 22 medicine man. And then Vine Deloria, and he was 23 an Umpapa and he's known for his law.

24 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: What's the technical term
25 there? What is that?

1 MR. SIYO: Umpapa.

2 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: What does that mean?

3 MR. SIYO: That's the tribe, the name of the 4 tribe. Like Oglala or Rosebud.

5 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Thank you. I didn't know
6 that.

7 MR. SIYO: Then Oscar Howe, he's from 8 Yankton, he is noted for his artwork. And of 9 course Nicholas Black Elk, he was an Oglala.
10 And of course there's a lot of books out on him, 11 and he's known for his philosophy. So that is 12 it.

13 MS. BOHNEE: Well, thank you very much. We 14 appreciate your testimony. Thank you. Now I'm 15 going to turn it over to Libby Skarin.

16 MS. SKARIN: Yes. Perfect. Actually, I
17 think have ten minutes today. I'm going to be 18 talking about voting rights and language access 19 in both South and North Dakota. I'll try very 20 hard to keep myself under the time limit.

21 My name is Libby Skarin, and I'm the policy
22 director for the American Civil Liberties Union
23 of South Dakota. The ACLU of South Dakota is a 24 nonprofit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to 25 working in the courts, legislatures, and in the 1 communities to defend the rights guaranteed

2 under the constitution.

3 Like I said, the majority of my testimony
4 today is going to be about language minorities, 5 and I'm going to talk a little bit about recent 6 changes in voting rights law on the federal 7 level that have really sort of changed the game 8 for language minorities in North and 9 South Dakota.

10 Generally the legal protections I'll talk
11 about today all arise out of the Voting Rights 12 Act originally passed in 1965. The act has 13 several provisions that apply directly to 14 language minorities. One of the major ones that 15 we've talked about earlier today, Section 2, 16 which prohibits the use of any voting practice 17 or procedure that results in a denial of the 18 right to vote on account of race or membership 19 in a language minority.

20 American Indians and those of Spanish 21 heritage are both defined as members of the 22 language minorities under the act. The three 23 major sections of the act that I'll talk about 24 today are Section 2, Section 5, and Section 203.

25 Section 5 is the one I'll start out with.

1 And Section 5 requires jurisdictions that have 2 shown a history of discrimination in voting 3 practices to submit any proposed changes in 4 election laws to the United States Department of 5 Justice for approval.

6 That kind of provision was known as 7 preclearance, and in 1975 the government added 8 preclearance to apply to two counties in 9 South Dakota that have been mentioned quite a 10 few times today, Shannon and Todd Counties.

11 The preclearance requirement essentially
12 directed attention to the discriminatory 13 election history in both of those counties and 14 singled them out as some of the worst offenders 15 of voting discrimination in the state.

16 The presence of preclearance puts counties
17 on notice that the federal government was aware 18 of the issues happening in the area. I know 19 someone mentioned earlier that there were a lot 20 of issues with the state basically saying, We're 21 not going to preclear things. And obviously 22 that was a huge issue. But Section 5's 23 existence at least brought attention to the 24 issues that were happening in those counties.

25 Then fast forward to June 2013 when the

1 Supreme Court heard a case challenging
2 preclearance. In that case, Shelby County
3 versus Holder, the Supreme Court struck down the 4 coverage formula used to determine which 5 jurisdictions would be subject to preclearance.

6 The practical effects of that is that in 7 South Dakota, Shannon and Todd Counties are no
8 longer required to preclear any of the voting 9 changes they make in the law.

10 The elimination of that preclearance
11 requirement has had the practical effect of 12 removing a safeguard against discrimination in 13 those counties, counties that we know have a 14 long history of discrimination of trying to 15 prevent people from voting.

16 On a going-forward basis, if those counties 17 pass regulations that have the effect of 18 limiting voter participation of language
19 minorities or others, those regulations won't 20 need to be reviewed, cleared, or accepted by the 21 Department of Justice.

22 I'll turn now to a provision of the Voting 23 Rights Act that was created specifically to 24 protect members of language minorities, and 25 that's Section 203. That provision requires

1 that voting notices, forms, ballots, and any 2 other materials or assistance in voting be 3 translated in to the language of the applicable 4 minority group.

5 The purpose there is that all election
6 information should be available to voters so
7 that all citizens will have the effective 8 opportunity to cast a ballot.

9 Section 203 only applies in certain counties 10 and jurisdictions, and the coverage for any 11 given jurisdiction is determined based upon a 12 formula.

13 It's a little complex but basically the 14 formula states that in a given population of 15 voters, language minorities have to have at 16 least 10,000 members or be 5 percent of the 17 group who speak primarily the minority language.

18 There's a special provision that applies to 19 reservations, and if we're talking about 20 citizens living on a reservation, 5 percent of 21 all reservation residents must speak a minority
22 language for Section 203 to apply.

23 After the census in the year 2000, two 24 counties in North Dakota were covered by Section 25 203, and also at that time there were 18

1 South Dakota counties that were covered.

2 Fast forward to the census in 2010, at that 3 time the Census Bureau determined no counties in 4 either South Dakota or North Dakota met the 5 requirements of Section 203. So essentially we 6 went from having 20 counties covered in the 7 region to 0.

8 And actually, when I was researching this, I
9 had to confirm that several times, like, Is this 10 right? Because it just seemed shocking that 11 over that ten years so much would change that 12 you'd drop 20 counties from language protection.

13 So obviously this was a huge change in the 14 legal landscape. And this change, coupled with 15 the elimination of preclearance by the Supreme 16 Court in 2003, has really resulted in the 17 disappearance of crucial protections under the 18 law that had previously been given to language
19 minorities.

20 So through the loss of both Section 203
21 coverage and preclearance, the loss of language 22 coverage under Section 203 in all of North and 23 South Dakota, arguably has more of a direct 24 impact on language minorities in the region and 25 is therefore potentially more troubling.

1 The reality is that today, federal law does
2 not require the translation of voting
3 instructions, notices, or ballots in either
4 state. So I think it's worthwhile to talk a
5 little bit about what caused this complete loss 6 of language coverage in the Dakotas.

7 Really, it's a product of several things.
8 First is that some of the counties that were 9 covered after the 2007 census just barely met 10 the population percentage requirements.

11 And because a lot of counties at that time
12 were essentially just at that 5 percent
13 threshold, the loss of even a few language, 14 Native language speakers, could have resulted in 15 the loss of coverage in the jurisdiction.

16 Obviously, it's difficult to pinpoint the 17 exact reason of this decline because it could be 18 attributable to several things. But most likely 19 it's a result of the death of older tribal 20 members who primarily spoke a language other 21 than English.

22 One of the second major reasons of the loss 23 of language coverage that some experts have 24 attributed to is, the use of the American 25 Community Survey estimates used by the Census

1 Bureau. The American Community Survey, or ACS, 2 is an ongoing survey that provides data every 3 year. And Section 203 determinations are made
4 by the Census Bureau based on that rolling ACS 5 data.

6 These estimates are fairly accurate in 7 capturing demographic changes in populated or 8 more urban areas. However, they tend to fall 9 short in sparsely populated and rural areas.

10 This happens partially just because of the 11 way it's administered. Fewer people receive the 12 ACS survey as opposed to the number who used to 13 receive the census long form.

14 And the result is that there's a smaller 15 sample size, which prevents the Census Bureau 16 from providing reliable estimates in rural 17 areas. Of course, these rural and sparsely 18 populated areas are present in both North and 19 South Dakota and they tend to exist on or around 20 reservations.

21 Unfortunately, there's currently no real fix 22 for the shortfalls in the ACS data because the 23 current form of Section 203 explicitly requires 24 the use of that data to determine where the 25 section applies.

1 I should note that just because federal law
2 no longer requires jurisdictions in the Dakotas
3 to provide language assistance in elections, 4 states or individual counties could opt to 5 provide translations on their own.

6 It's really difficult to get a reliable 7 overall picture of which counties may and which 8 ones may not provide that sort of help in an 9 election.

10 The reality is that the resources provided
11 at the county level will need to be investigated 12 on a piece-meal basis. Voters are probably 13 going to have to contact their county auditor in 14 the county where they live to find out if any 15 language resources are available, and if they 16 are, what those resources are.

17 There's obviously a large potential that 18 this uncertainty may in and of itself discourage 19 people who were limited-english-proficient from 20 voting.

21 So with preclearance gone and with Section 22 203 gone in the Dakotas, citizens of these 23 states are without any significant preemptive 24 tool to fight discrimination in voting.

25 And our remaining major section of the

1 Voting Rights Act is found in Section 2, which 2 several people have talked about today.
3 Generally, Section 2 prohibits any voting 4 practice that results in discrimination against 5 minorities.

6 However, this section historically has been 7 used in vote dilution cases, which argue the way 8 that election districts are drawn are unfair and 9 that results in discrimination.

10 It can be used as a basis to bring cases as 11 a result of a practice that actually does 12 prevent minority voters from casting a ballot, 13 but those cases are far more rare. And to 14 succeed in a claim under Section 2, a plaintiff 15 really does have to meet a pretty high burden.

16 In somewhat hopeful news, there was a
17 federal court in Wisconsin that struck down a 18 voter ID law under Section 2 just this Tuesday.
19 And this is actually pretty significant, because 20 the type of claim brought would historically 21 have been done under Section 5.

22 This could be a signal that Section 2 can be 23 effective in fighting discrimination. We're 24 just kind of going to have to see how the law 25 develops.

1 So with all these changes that have 2 happened, kind of where are we and what happens
3 next? The loss of Section 203 and preclearance 4 have resulted in a precarious legal landscape in 5 both North and South Dakota.

6 The major tools that we had to fight
7 discrimination in voting have disappeared, 8 leaving us only with Section 2 as a way to 9 remedy voter discrimination.

10 I think it's really important to note 11 Section 2 can only really be used after the 12 discrimination happens, as opposed to the 13 preventative measures the law once contained.

14 The reality here is that the situation is 15 new and it's largely untested. You know, we're 16 not exactly sure what voting rights for language
17 minorities is going to look like on the ground 18 in the next few years. What we do know is the 19 situation is very prone to abuse and to 20 discrimination.

21 And because of that, we need to undertake
22 stringent monitoring of local elections. You 23 know, it's crucial that when barriers to voting 24 either become known or are created, that they 25 are communicated to community leaders, elected

1 officials, people on, you know, the local state, 2 and the national level.

3 Identifying where these problems exist or 4 where they are being created I think is going to 5 be our first step of probably many in remedying 6 voter discrimination and vote suppression.

7 In conclusion, you know, the right to vote
8 is one of the most fundamental in our society.
9 The ACLU strongly believes that voting should be 10 free and it should be accessible for all 11 eligible Americans. It's not something that 12 should just be a privilege for some.

13 We really think that with careful monitoring
14 in local elections in North and South Dakota
15 that we hope that we can identify and then work 16 to eliminate barriers to voting for language
17 minorities and for everyone. That's it. Thank 18 you.

19 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you so much. You were 20 right on time.

21 MS. SKARIN: I practiced.

22 MS. BOHNEE: I appreciate that.

23 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Real quickly, you said that 24 the problems with ACS related to their absence
25 of accuracy in rural areas, are there citations

1 for that, are there studies that have been done?
2 Are there citations in what you submitted for 3 the record?

4 MS. SKARIN: I believe so, yes. I'll 5 double-check.

6 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: If not, will you share
7 them?

8 MS. SKARIN: Yes.

9 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. Now we're going to 10 turn over to Mr. Garth Massey for his testimony.

11 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: You have 20 seconds.

12 MR. MASSEY: I have to tell you, I'm pretty 13 humbled by the other people who have been on 14 these panels. They have a lot for you to hear, 15 and I'm not sure what I have to say has that 16 much value. But I'll give it a shot. Eileen 17 has actually told me I only have five minutes, 18 so I'll try to go fairly rapidly.

19 My specialty is sociology. I'm a 20 comparative sociologist, but I've done a lot of 21 work on ethnic conflict around the world, and 22 was asked to submit an expert witness report for 23 the Wandering Medicine case.

24 Earlier I had worked with Gary Collins on a 25 large case in Wyoming, and I'm working on a case

1 for the Navajo Nation. So I'm kind of new to 2 this.

3 And my -- basically what I'm asked to do is 4 to explain how the socioeconomic conditions
5 impact voter participation. And that's what I'm 6 going to just talk about for just a minute or 7 two.

8 The socioeconomic conditions in the three 9 reservations in the Wandering Medicine case, 10 including economic resources, employment status,
11 health, availability of transportation 12 contribute significantly to the isolation of the 13 reservation communities. The poverty, web of 14 obligations and dependencies, the history of 15 discrimination Indians have endured, and the 16 perceptions and behaviors of nonIndians with 17 whom they must engage in exercising their 18 political rights have to be recognized to gain 19 an appreciation of the unique difficulties
20 Indians encounter in being politically engaged.

21 These limiting factors unequivocally 22 recommend that satellite offices, as allowed by 23 the State of Montana, on each of the three 24 reservations be set up in order to provide 25 equity in access to voting.

1 I think everybody recognizes that Indian 2 reservations nationally are among the most 3 isolated and chronically poor areas in the 4 United States. Only one indicator is needed to 5 show this, although I usually give several, in 6 the case of Blaine, Rosebud, and Big Horn
7 Counties of Montana.

8 Montana, like the nation as a whole, saw a 9 sharp increase in children qualifying for the 10 free and reduced school lunch, the FRSL, 11 participation, from 33 percent in Montana in 12 2002 to 41 percent in 2009.

13 Figures for the state as a whole pale in 14 comparison to those for the three Indian 15 reservations cited earlier. On the Northern 16 Cheyenne reservation and on Crow Indian 17 Community, 90.5 percent of the children qualify
18 for FRSL participation. And at Fort Belknap
19 reservation, the figure is 80 percent.

20 Poverty is linked to a dearth of economic 21 opportunities and contributes to lower 22 educational attainment, poorer health and life
23 expectancy, violence, alcohol, and drug abuse, 24 and so forth.

25 I think everybody recognizes the unique

1 difficulties Indians have had historically and 2 continue to encounter in their relations with 3 nonIndians in border towns, and often beyond at 4 the county and the state level, involving 5 stereotyping, prejudice, animosity, and both 6 institutional -- or, intentional and structural 7 discrimination.

8 Then last, in the few minutes I have, I want 9 to talk about how these factors contribute to 10 suppressed political participation despite the 11 fact that Indians are anything but apathetic or 12 disinterested about their rights and the need to 13 be fairly represented in the political process.

14 As a comparative sociologist, I divide the 15 factors impinging on political participation 16 into three categories, what social scientists
17 call units of analysis. And I want to give a 18 couple of examples to show how they are 19 interrelated or linked.

20 And this is in an effort to try to meet my 21 obligations to clarify a whole lot of data 22 sometimes in ways that people can understand.
23 So this is sort of how I approach it.

24 The first level of a unit of analysis is 25 structural, which includes geographic isolation,

1 low economic -- or, low income, and lack of 2 jobs, distant or inferior schools, disabilities 3 and other health-related issues, poor or 4 nonexistent public transportation, and 5 difficulties with reliable private 6 transportation, high-priority relations of 7 interdependence, including caring for the 8 elderly, the disabled, and children. That's 9 what I call structural level.

10 The second unit of analysis is the 11 institutional, including the educational, 12 health, social service, administration of 13 justice, and other organizations that link the 14 county and state agencies and offices.

15 These often operate in ways that disfavor
16 people living on the Indian reservations.
17 Included, of course, are the elected offices and 18 agencies which reflect voter participation and 19 political power, including county commissioners, 20 school boards, sheriff offices, and so forth.

21 The third unit of analysis is what I'll just 22 roughly call the social-psychological. This 23 unit includes perceptions, motivations,
24 attitudes, values, emotions, memories, and so 25 forth. And I also include here cultural and

1 subcultural practices that provide identity,
2 preferred patterns of behavior,
3 self-presentation, ways of addressing personal 4 and interpersonal problems.

5 In deciding cases in which Indians and 6 especially Indians living on reservations 7 contend they are unable to fairly exercise their 8 political will, these remedies sought are at the 9 institutional level, the second level of 10 analysis of political -- political practice and 11 governmental affairs.

12 Let me give you a couple examples of why 13 it's important to distinguish between these 14 levels, and how I hopefully am clarifying how 15 analysis works.

16 In most cases such as the Wandering Medicine 17 lawsuit, the institutional practices are 18 obstructive because they conflict with the 19 structural conditions reservation Indians face.
20 Being required to drive or get a ride to the 21 county seat, often scores of miles away, in 22 order to register to vote, or, cast an absentee 23 ballot recognizes none of the realities of being 24 poor, without reliable transportation, enmeshed 25 in a web of dependent relations, in uncertain

1 health, and so forth.

2 Changes at the institutional level can 3 mitigate structural liabilities. For example, 4 living in an isolated area is one structural 5 liability. Institutional changes can also 6 positively affect the structural conditions
7 faced by reservation Indians by electing 8 officeholders who more readily and effectively 9 seek to use the power of the county and state to 10 improve the conditions of life on the Indian 11 reservation.

12 For example, coordination between law
13 enforcement on the reservation. This is a 14 little bit like what O.J. was talking about 15 earlier. Between law enforcement on the 16 reservation and that of the counties can replace 17 distrust and conflict if the sheriff's office is 18 represented by and feels responsible to everyone
19 in the county and not just the nonIndian people.

20 On what I've called the social-psychological 21 level, positive institutional changes can have a 22 ripple effect, changing the way Indians see 23 themselves as less marginalized, stigmatized, 24 and without power.

25 The case in Wyoming that Gary Collins was

1 involved in, Large versus Freemont County, it
2 was evident to me from many of my conversations 3 that having one of the three county commissioner 4 districts represented by -- or one of the county
5 districts represented by someone from the Wind
6 River Indian reservation was a strong motivation 7 for people to become more engaged in who would 8 be elected and what they would try to do on the 9 county commission.

10 This really gave them a sense of 11 empowerment. So I'm going to stop there, but 12 essentially what I'm trying to say is that it's 13 important to try to distinguish between what I 14 consider the structural, the institutional, the 15 social-psychological, and then try to show
16 people by -- through -- who are trying to work 17 through the data and the empirical work, and 18 most of mine is qualitative, though I do a lot 19 of quantitative work, that these -- how these 20 work together so that you can either improve 21 people's opportunities or to show how people's 22 political opportunities are being thwarted and 23 obstructed.

24 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much for your 25 testimony, and we have a written copy of your

1 testimony and two of your expert reports, one
2 from Wandering Medicine and one from Large 3 versus Freemont County that we're putting in the 4 record. So thank you very much.

5 Our next and final panelist is Ms. Jean 6 Schroedel.

7 MS. SCHROEDEL: Thank you. I want to thank 8 the committee for inviting me here today. I 9 have to say --

10 (Brief interruption.)

11 MS. SCHROEDEL: I really want to say how 12 much I appreciate and thank the panel and people
13 of the committee for inviting me here today. I 14 am quite frankly in awe of some of the things 15 that I've heard today and that I've heard over 16 the last couple of days.

17 I really strongly believe that it is 18 extraordinarily important for the rest of 19 America to know what is going on in Indian 20 Country today.

21 I'm one of the expert witnesses in the 22 Wandering Medicine case. But I believe a lot of 23 other people have spoken very eloquently about 24 that today, so I'm going to talk about some of 25 the other research that I've done.

1 More broadly, looking at the question of 2 voting rights litigation and its impact on the 3 ability of Native Americans to be elected to 4 political office. The underlying assumption in 5 the Shelby decision, the 2003 -- 2013 Supreme 6 Court decision, is it racially motivated abuses 7 of voting rights is no longer a significant 8 problem. And the court pointed to substantial 9 increases in the African American elected 10 officials as evidence of this change.

11 This, of course, ignores the importance of 12 Section 5 preclearance in making those very 13 increases possible, a point that's been made 14 repeatedly by academics who study voting rights.

15 What the court as well as academics have 16 failed to examine, however, is the relationship 17 between voting rights litigation and the 18 representation of Native Americans in elected 19 political office. In fact, no one has even 20 compiled a comprehensive listing of such 21 officials in the United States. So it's a first 22 step towards this.

23 I've done a case study of South Dakota which 24 is arguably, and I'm sorry to those of you from 25 South Dakota, but it is an extreme case. And I

1 say that because there has been more voting
2 rights litigation involving Native Americans in 3 the State of South Dakota than any other state 4 by a considerable length.

5 My research assistant -- that's what you
6 have graduate students for, I'll talk about him 7 in a minute -- we've examined the impact -- the 8 impact on the numbers of Native Americans
9 elected to the state legislature and county
10 council seats in South Dakota.

11 What I'm going to describe, I call it the 12 good, the bad, and the ugly. So let's start 13 with the good. The good is that voting rights 14 litigation has indeed had a positive impact on 15 the ability of indigenous peoples in this state 16 to be represented in political office.

17 According to data provided, and I have to 18 thank them, the archivists in the state library, 19 we discovered that there had not been a single 20 Native American elected to the 105-member state 21 legislature prior to voting rights litigation in 22 the 1980s.

23 Now, accurate historical data to a racial 24 make-up of members of county councils was 25 impossible to obtain. What we did -- and I have

1 to say, I've got to give credit to my research 2 assistant who, on the material you have, is my 3 coauthor. He contacted every single county
4 council, there's 66 of them, in South Dakota.

5 And what he found was we were -- he was not 6 able to find any evidence that anyone who he 7 contacted showing that Native Americans had been 8 elected to any of these county council seats
9 prior to voting rights litigation.

10 A little side note, one of the more amusing
11 points. When he asked about minorities serving 12 county council seats, quite a few times he was 13 told things such as, Well, at some point in the 14 past we had a woman.

15 I don't understand how woman and minority
16 are the same, given women were 51 or 52 percent 17 of the population. But that was just my little 18 side note there. So that was the good. There 19 has been some increase.

20 Let me tell you about the bad. The bad is 21 numbers are still horribly low both in state
22 legislature and in county council seats. Native
23 Americans continue to be massively 24 underrepresented.

25 In the entire history of the state, at least

1 according to the archivists in the state
2 library, there have been a grand total of 12
3 Native Americans elected to the state
4 legislature. Right now, out of that 105
5 members, 3 are Native Americans.

6 Now, a commonly accepted way of measuring 7 the representation -- representativeness of a 8 political body is to divide the percentage of 9 the group in that political body by their 10 percentage in the population.

11 Perfect representation would be 1.0;
12 overrepresentation is a number greater than 1;
13 under, a fraction below 1. This is called a 14 racial parity ratio. It's fancy title for 15 something that's not that fancy.

16 But right now the racial parity ratio for 17 Native Americans in the state legislature in 18 South Dakota is 0.32. And I might note it has 19 never been greater than 0.57.

20 If we turn now to the county councils,
21 remember there are 66 counties, there are 322
22 members serving on these county councils.
23 Perfect representation would be 29 Native
24 Americans serving in these bodies. Instead, we 25 found there are 12, which is again, a racial

1 parity ratio well below 1; in this case, 0.42.

2 So that was the bad.

3 Now, turning to the ugly, as I work my way 4 down. The ugly is that Native Americans in the 5 state, as best we can tell, cannot seem to be 6 elected in any political jurisdiction, at least 7 of the ones we looked at, where they comprise 8 less than a majority in the electoral district.

9 Now please note, I want to make it clear, 10 that doesn't mean in the county, because some of 11 the counties have single member districts. But 12 if you're not a majority Native American, at 13 least as far as we've been able to see, you 14 aren't going to get elected.

15 For example, right now all of the 12 Native
16 American council members are from majority
17 Indian counties. Moreover, 4 out of the 9 18 majority Native American counties do not even 19 have a single Native American person serving on 20 their county councils. And all of these 21 counties have racial parity ratios well below 22 the percentage needed to be representative.

23 But let me get even uglier. The fact is,
24 that almost every time political jurisdictions
25 are forced by litigation to adopt changes, and I

1 think this is some of the things several people 2 talked about earlier today, including Bret, is, 3 every time they are forced through litigation to 4 make changes that make it easier for Native
5 Americans to be elected, those jurisdictions 6 then look for opportunities to reverse those 7 gains.

8 To conclude, rather than finding that 9 conditions have changed so dramatically as the 10 court suggested in Shelby, that the Voting
11 Rights Act is no longer essential, the opposite, 12 at least in South Dakota, appears to be the 13 case.

14 If anything, I would encourage the Justice
15 Department to heighten its scrutiny of electoral 16 procedures in South Dakota. Thank you.

17 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much. We 18 appreciate your testimony and your statistics.
19 I'm going to turn it over to the Commissioners 20 for questions.

21 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I had the last one. I'm 22 the statistician on the board so I'll ask this.
23 With the sociologist and the good research from 24 California here, would we expect this racial 25 parity ratio to actually be meaningful in the 1 context of, well, our expectations, given all

2 the things that we learned about suppressed
3 participation in the political process, is there
4 a more sophisticated measure that would allow us
5 to really nail down what we should reasonably 6 expect as opposed to parody?

7 MS. SCHROEDEL: Okay. I mean, this is one
8 of the ironies. I'm a social scientist, right?
9 I mean, when we started collecting this data, I 10 thought I was going to do a nice statistical 11 model, something sophisticated that brought in 12 poverty ratios and all kinds of things.

13 No. I mean, the numbers are so small you 14 can't do any of those things. I mean,
15 initially -- and I mean, this is my own naivety.
16 Excuse me, I'm -- well, I'm originally from the 17 Seattle area but I've lived in California, so 18 this is different territory for me. Okay.

19 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Yes. Rare events.

20 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah. I mean, initially 21 when we were looking at the counties, I thought, 22 you know what, Native Americans in South Dakota
23 comprise 8.9 percent of the population, 24 according to the 2010 census.

25 So let me say, let's start by looking at

1 counties that have at least 7 percent Native.
2 Okay. Because we -- you know, where I come 3 from, people do get elected in places where they 4 are a relatively small minority. So we thought
5 7 percent.

6 No. I mean, I thought it would be some 7 combination, a certain percent, 7 percent, 10 8 percent, 15 percent, coupled with some other 9 variables, and we can do this nice, cool
10 statistical model. You don't -- you can't do a 11 model. I mean, we got 105 people in the state 12 legislature, and you've got 3, we can't do a 13 model with that.

14 I mean, Garth, you want to take a whack at a 15 model with that?

16 MR. MASSEY: Well, it's because we always 17 work on probability, and probability doesn't 18 work when you have such small numbers. You have 19 too big of a margin of error.

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I guess I'm not -- I don't 21 want to drag this out, and perhaps we can talk 22 after. I guess, I wasn't thinking about using 23 the cases of elected Indians as a way to kind of 24 forge more detail.

25 I'm suggesting that the parity value, all

1 things being equal, right, it's a giant 2 assumption, that we would see a minority group, 3 particularly one that struggles against so many 4 barriers, as we've heard today and we all know 5 before today, wouldn't necessarily expect to see 6 parity. We would have some slightly marginal
7 value that would be, I don't know, the barest 8 minimum expectation, and then to use that number 9 as a way to -- I mean, I think what you are 10 saying is compelling but I think what I'm saying 11 is, it's worse than that.

12 MS. SCHROEDEL: Can I say one more thing, 13 Garth, because there's a group called -- there's 14 the Gender and Multicultural Leadership Project.
15 I don't know, are you familiar with this?

16 Okay. This is a group of academics who 17 spent a number of years compiling what they 18 believe to be the most comprehensive listing of 19 every racial and ethnic minority in the United 20 States serving in elected office. Okay.

21 And they have this marvelous interactive
22 website and you can -- you can push on a state 23 and find exactly how many Asian Americans are 24 serving, where they are serving, and their 25 names, every single -- there are no Native

1 Americans on it. They didn't even try.

2 And what I got here with the racial parity
3 ratios just for South Dakota are well below any 4 of those parity ratios that were showing up on 5 the Gender and Multicultural Leadership Project
6 website.

7 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: I understand.

8 MR. MASSEY: I would only say, Richard, that 9 in all things being equal, one tries to have 10 structural solutions -- or, institutional 11 solutions to structural problems. So that if 12 you have an elderly population, then you create 13 ways in which they can get access to buildings
14 and so forth. Right?

15 You try to bring them up to equity. And 16 equity is really the key. Not everybody stands 17 on the same platform. Platform is different 18 sizes. So you try to bring people up to that.

19 And what we're seeing, of course, is just 20 the opposite. And if you -- in the perfect 21 world, if all of the kinds of things that impede 22 people's ability to politically participate, you 23 could bring that up to -- you could bring that 24 up to equity. What we're seeing is just the 25 opposite. So I think that's as good as it gets.

1 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Thank you.

2 MS. BOHNEE: I have a question for 3 Ms. Skarin. And mine is, one, do you know 4 whether language translations will continue even 5 though there is no Section 203 coverage? That's 6 my first question.

7 And my second comment is, a lot of Native
8 organizations have complained that the census
9 undercounts Indians. And the ACS, as you
10 indicated in your paper, is even a smaller 11 portion of that, and it's not part of the census 12 door-to-door where they even pay people. It's 13 like you get in your mailbox. And how many 14 limited English proficient people, so Native 15 language speakers, are actually going to be 16 filling out that ACS survey?

17 And have the -- has the language population
18 dropped, like, to an extent where a request 19 could be made for some -- for the census to do 20 something else, or is that even possible?

21 MS. SKARIN: I'M not -- well, okay. So the 22 first question is, we don't know and that's part 23 of the problem. You know, it seems like it's 24 going to depend on what county you're in. And 25 if the county was previously required to provide

1 coverage and now isn't, like, my guess without 2 really knowing, is that in a lot of cases they 3 are not going to.

4 I think kind of what we've seen is sort of 5 excuses that could be accurate, but also could 6 be kind of a guise for something else. You 7 know, the idea that, Well, we provide 8 translators when we can, but we haven't been 9 able to find any that can translate into Lakota.

10 And it's one of those things where you're,
11 like, can you really not find them or are you 12 just not really trying? So I suspect that, 13 without being required to provide translation, 14 that it's not going to happen, at least not 15 widespread.

16 There is also something I mentioned in my 17 written testimony that I didn't bring up today 18 just because of the time limits, is that 19 South Dakota actually does have a common
20 language law that requires all public documents
21 and all public meeting minutes be in English.

22 It's unclear how that's going to apply, 23 especially when you've got elections where 24 there's a federal component, but when we're 25 talking about completely local elections, I

1 suspect that could be used to justify not 2 translating or not providing language
3 assistance.

4 What was your second question? I'm sorry.
5 Oh, the ACS stuff. It seems like to me that the 6 change would really have to come in Section 2.
7 That when the Voting Rights Act was 8 reauthorized, that there be something requiring 9 more data collection, better data collection.
10 Because right now the requirement is that the 11 ACS data is used.

12 So I think -- whether it be, like,
13 rulemaking through the Census Bureau when they 14 propose rules. Other than that, I think it's 15 going to have to come through the 16 reauthorization of the Voting Rights Act.

17 MS. BOHNEE: That reauthorization is in 18 2025.

19 MS. SKARIN: Yeah, so.

20 MS. BOHNEE: Okay. Let's see if they have 21 anymore.

22 MS. KINGMAN: I would like to follow up with 23 her and you, Libby. You laid out some really 24 good things in your paper. Could you go one 25 step further for us and put those down in a

1 recommendation? I mean, like you just stated 2 here.

3 MS. SKARIN: Yeah. Yeah.

4 MS. KINGMAN: That would be have to be laid 5 out in the Voting Rights Act. Because every 6 time we have a problem with the Supreme Court
7 and their bad action, we go to Congress to fix
8 it. So what would be that fix?

9 And if we're doing a report and a 10 recommendation, what could we bring out on how 11 to fix that?

12 MS. SKARIN: Uh-huh.

13 MS. KINGMAN: And the same thing I would 14 also say for you, Jean, how would we get this 15 inequity, you know, fixed? And I don't have an 16 answer. I don't know if you do.

17 But if we could kind of come up with some 18 sort of -- some recommendations or whatever, I 19 don't know. Because in this, these reports, you 20 know, we want to push for something. We don't 21 want them to have take out what they want, you 22 know. We want actual solutions here.

23 MS. SCHROEDEL: Okay. A couple thoughts, 24 and some of this is in the longer report or 25 paper that I gave you.

1 MS. BOHNEE: I just -- I have two from you.
2 The, Native American Vote Suppression; and, An 3 Evaluation of Factors Affecting Indian Voting in 4 Three Montana Counties.

5 MS. SCHROEDEL: Okay. In the second one,
6 and I can pull it out if you want me to quote
7 it.

8 MS. BOHNEE: That's okay. You have --

9 MS. SCHROEDEL: One of the things that I 10 found -- and I'm sure people in this state who 11 do this know much better than me. But the way 12 that reservations have been sliced and diced, 13 yeah, you go, you slice and you dice and you 14 throw them in different not just counties or 15 different legislative districts, all of which 16 means that you end up not having enough people 17 to actually be able to be successful.

18 MS. KINGMAN: Because we don't have the 19 people in those positions to control that --

20 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah. Right.

21 MS. KINGMAN: -- district, whatever is 22 happening. Then we're victims of what they want 23 to do.

24 MS. SCHROEDEL: And the other piece I would 25 add, and this is to build off of, oh, the early

1 gentleman who had been the lawyer. Come on,
2 help me.

3 MS. KINGMAN: Steve? Steve Emery?

4 MR. MASSEY: Pat Duffy.

5 MS. SCHROEDEL: Pat. Which was organize,
6 organize, organize. Nationwide registration
7 among Native peoples, and that's both Alaska
8 Native and American Indian, is less than 40
9 percent.

10 If you have the population but people aren't 11 registering and they are not voting, hence the 12 data that we found in terms of those counties 13 that have majority Native populations and still 14 don't have a single person on the county
15 councils.

16 MS. KINGMAN: For the reasons Garth brought 17 out because like when we -- we fought that 18 battle in Shannon County, we have people that 19 live 100 miles from the polls.

20 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah. Yeah.

21 MS. KINGMAN: And they can't go to 22 Hot Springs to vote.

23 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah. Yeah.

24 MS. KINGMAN: Let alone serve on a county
25 commission. We do have -- we did have one

1 Indian person on the county commission. But if 2 the Department of Justice hadn't come in, you 3 know, we wouldn't have even one what we did.

4 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah. Yeah.

5 MR. MASSEY: May I just interject. Doesn't 6 California now have an independent commission --

7 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yes. Yes.

8 MR. MASSEY: -- that does redistricting and 9 readjust. And that seems to obviate what the 10 problem you just mentioned, they are not 11 represented so they can't control the process.

12 MS. KINGMAN: Right.

13 MR. MASSEY: So one would be certainly to 14 recommend --

15 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Was that California board
16 created before or after the state legislature 17 removed competition from the majority of 18 California districts for a period of about 40 19 years? Is that done in response to that?
20 Because as I understand it, California has had a 21 tremendous difficulty with political 22 gerrymandering for safe districts. The 23 commission is a response to that, or was the 24 commission existing all along?

25 MS. SCHROEDEL: No. It's new. It's new.

1 MR. MASSEY: It's brand new.

2 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: That is great news. I
3 appreciate hearing that because I understand
4 California had a problem, and it's good to hear 5 that they are getting after it.

6 MR. MASSEY: And it's now under an 7 independent commission. So that would be one 8 recommendation, particularly in Indian Country.

9 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: What's the name of that 10 commission?

11 MS. BOHNEE: It's a redistricting
12 commission. Arizona has one, too.

13 MS. SCHROEDEL: There's a man named Angelo
14 Archete who has worked with some of the people, 15 the lawyers -- the Lawyers Committee for Civil 16 Rights Under the Law. This group. So they 17 should -- Angelo is someone, if people are 18 interested, would be a good person to contact.

19 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: What's Angelo's last name,
20 please.

21 MS. SCHROEDEL: Archete. A-R-C-H-E-T-E.
22 He's a lawyer. He's also a student of mine.

23 MS. BOHNEE: We have one other question.

24 MS. HAWK: This question is for Libby. You 25 were talking about the census. Were they

1 running into problems in 2010 or -- your -- your 2 research, where did you do it, just for 3 South Dakota and North Dakota?

4 MS. SKARIN: Well, the census -- the loss of 5 the Section 203 coverage came after the census 6 in 2010. So, I mean, yeah, the census data and 7 ACS data that was used to make those Section 203
8 determinations basically, it seems like, wasn't 9 complete or wasn't representative enough and 10 that in part led to the dropping of Section 203.

11 MS. HAWK: Because that's what happened in 12 Montana. I mean, even though they tried hiring, 13 you know, Natives to go into the reservation
14 boundaries, they were not doing their jobs.

15 Because of the fact there were certain 16 housings in these reservations, because we have 17 like six districts on our reservation, and 18 they'd be calling me and saying, Hey, they never 19 came to our house.

20 MS. SKARIN: Interesting.

21 MS. HAWK: So it was actually -- you know, 22 because there's a lot of people on my 23 reservation that still speak our language. I 24 still speak my language.

25 MS. SKARIN: Uh-huh.

1 MS. HAWK: And you know, as far as Montana
2 goes and the census goes, you know, there is a
3 problem.

4 MS. SKARIN: Yeah.

5 MS. HAWK: So that needs to be fixed in 6 order for, you know, some of this stuff to come 7 out on a positive note for the Indian 8 communities.

9 MS. BOHNEE: One last question and then we 10 will go.

11 MS. KINGMAN: Jean, I wanted to get the name 12 again of that national committee that you 13 mentioned.

14 MS. SCHROEDEL: Well, it's the group, this 15 group. It's this group.

16 MS. KINGMAN: Oh, it is. Oh the Gender and 17 Multicultural --

18 MS. SCHROEDEL: Yeah, the Gender and 19 Multicultural Leadership. That's in the paper, 20 too. The Gender and Multicultural Leadership
21 Project, GMLC.

22 Bill White Head asked me something that I
23 think you want me to say, just -- so, I'm 24 speaking for Bill. Okay?

25 MS. BOHNEE: Okay.

1 MS. SCHROEDEL: He pointed out that the 2 Montana state legislature, that he was the -- he 3 was elected in '97, '98 as the first Native
4 American since the early 1960s from Fort Peck, 5 and there's a 100-member house, 50-member
6 senate, so 150 and there's four Natives.

7 MR. WHITE HEAD: At that time, four of them.
8 There were four of them. Because she mentioned 9 racial in South Dakota of 107. There was four 10 out of those 150 and one was Republican.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Do you know what it is now?

12 MR. WHITE HEAD: Huh?

13 MS. BOHNEE: Do you know what it is now?

14 MR. WHITE HEAD: Yeah. We have nine -- 15 well, eight.

16 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Because you have seven 17 seats.

18 MR. WHITE HEAD: Should have nine. We 19 should have nine.

20 MS. BOHNEE: Now you have eight. Eight out
21 of 150.

22 MR. WHITE HEAD: Every reservation is 23 represented.

24 MS. BOHNEE: But no senator?

25 MR. WHITE HEAD: Three senators.

1 MS. BOHNEE: Three senators.

2 MR. WHITEHEAD: I'm not including eight -- 3 three senators and five in the house are Indian.
4 So there should be six to be properly
5 represented.

6 MS. BOHNEE: I see. Okay.

7 MR. WHITE HEAD: Out of 150.

8 MS. BOHNEE: Okay. I think one other person
9 from the public. When you stand up, can you say 10 your name for the court reporter.

11 MR. COLLINS: My name is Gary Collins from 12 Wind River reservation. A comment I wanted to 13 make, and it was brought up a couple times here.
14 That the Census Bureau, we have found out very 15 much undercounts our people. In fact, I know a 16 gentleman who today is still waiting for his 17 1990 census enumerator to come back.

18 So what we did, when we would explain to the 19 people our numbers -- because Indian Health
20 Service counts us, Bureau of Indian Affairs
21 counts us, the United States government counts 22 us, and our tribe, we count ourselves. So we 23 are counted all the way across. So, we know the 24 numbers are way out of line. There's something 25 wrong there.

1 So at the time I was a chairman of the 2 tribe, and to exemplify and strengthen my 3 dialogue about 70 percent unemployment and 50
4 percent poverty level income, we developed
5 what's called the WINDS, Wyoming Indian Needs 6 Determination Survey. And Garth was part of 7 that.

8 So we authenticated our numbers by doing our 9 own survey on our reservation to compare that 10 with the U.S. Census. We've done three of them 11 now, 1990, 2000, and 2010. The last one is 200
12 pages in length.

13 But it goes in to the specific demographics
14 of our community: Like how many dogs do you 15 think are too many? Where would you need a bike 16 path? How many cell phones in your house?

17 But the thing is, with two tribes, we have 18 percentages for each tribe and then collective.
19 But what we found that we use this data for the 20 kinds of planning that we need to do in the area
21 of voting, in the area of infrastructure 22 development.

23 But it was spurred on by the fact that the 24 Census Bureau did not have the right numbers.
25 Now I will say, since that time until now,

1 they've gotten better, but they still have not 2 quite got it.

3 And when we first started, the thought was,
4 well, how much will it cost. The thought was,
5 well, $60,000, or $70,000 or $80,000. Let's 6 take half the households and extrapolate the 7 rest.

8 My thoughts as chairman, I said, No, we'll 9 do 100 percent of the houses. We'll find the 10 money somewhere. I didn't want anybody to shoot 11 holes in the data we developed, saying, Well, 12 you were at least 50 percent right because 13 that's how many houses you went to.

14 No. We want to do 100 percent of the 15 houses. We had, like, 94 percent respondents.
16 Of those houses on the reservation that didn't 17 respond were nonIndian.

18 So it was -- and we use it a lot in 19 substantiating our position about population and 20 roads and those kinds of things. So we can 21 guarantee the data we put into an application is 22 valid. We did that in 1990, post that, and then 23 from then until now. But the real key is that 24 the Census Bureau does not do the right kind of 25 counting.

1 And another thing that I thought might be of 2 a reflection of some of the voting issues. In 3 Wyoming we have large counties. There's only 22
4 in the whole state. In Texas there's 250. I
5 don't know how many there are in North Dakota, 6 South Dakota, 66 or something.

7 So it's easy to take -- it's just like the 8 Alottment Act. It's really hard to get a slam 9 dunk opinion or a position with a large land
10 base. But if you cut it down to 40- or 60-acre 11 tracts like the Dawes Act did with the 12 alottments, then you can start picking this 13 apart.

14 So it's easy, I think -- well, it is easy, 15 because we get gerrymandered all the time. We 16 might base our district boundaries for a voting 17 district or for a school district by the 18 numbers, but we might skew and have most of our 19 affluent people or more educated or more 20 opportunistic people in one segment and then 21 none in the other.

22 So you really don't get a true
23 representation because you just count the 24 numbers, you don't count the level of 25 understanding of the system.

1 And I don't want to go into the world of 2 intelligence and ignorance and all of that. But 3 I'm just saying, we have young people who can't 4 necessarily pass an SAT test in a very good way
5 but they can survive out on a mountain for a 6 month and don't see nobody. So who's got the 7 intelligence here? Just a different way of 8 screening and talking about who your people are.

9 But the census is a tool, but it has to be 10 recognized that it's not always valid. And our 11 most recent survey, the one I mentioned of 200
12 pages, we haven't distributed that for public 13 information because one or two pages taken out 14 of context will skew that thinking of that 15 discussion or that direction.

16 But if we take it as a whole as tribal 17 governments are doing, then it makes sense to us 18 to decide how we're going to do some of those 19 things. So it's a journey in progress.

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Can you tell us again what 21 the acronym WINS stands for.

22 MR. COLLINS: WINDS. W-I-N-D-S.

23 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Oh, D-S.

24 MR. COLLINS: Wyoming Indian --

25 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Sorry. Start again.

1 MR. COLLINS: Wyoming Indian Needs
2 Determination Survey. And that's that Wind
3 River reservation.

4 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much. At this 5 time we are going to ask -- or, we're going to 6 thank our final panel. Thank you. And thank 7 the audience and the public for being here, and 8 if any of the commissioners have some very short 9 closing remarks, if you have anything to say.

10 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Nothing short.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Nothing short. Well, I will 12 saying something. I just want to say thank you 13 very much to our reporter right here, who I know 14 is probably very tired, and we'll allow you to 15 go soon.

16 And I want to thank the Lawyers Committee
17 for putting this together, Eileen and the 18 planning group. I think it's very important to 19 have the Native voice heard.

20 And I think there was testimony today, and 21 it's true in many circumstances that, you know,
22 the situation of Native peoples aren't 23 considered. We're so statistically
24 insignificant that we're not included.

25 And I think it's very important that the

1 Lawyers Committee dedicated a whole hearing just 2 to Native voting issues, and I think that speaks
3 volumes. Hopefully everyone's testimony here 4 will be able to paint the real picture of what's 5 going on in Indian Country, coupled with some of 6 the testimony that was received from Arizona.

7 I think that those two locations -- well,
8 this location was solely on Native voting 9 rights, and then with Arizona, I think will be 10 very important to letting people have an 11 understanding of what's going on in Indian 12 Country.

13 I just want to say, Mr. Massey, thank you so 14 much for your written testimony. I was at an 15 election law town hall on Saturday, and I was 16 trying to, you know, explain to people who live
17 in urban areas. They don't understand, you 18 know, that there could be people who don't have 19 access to a vehicle or Internet. You know, and 20 they think, Well, why can't you just vote?
21 Like, why -- just vote by mail. They don't 22 understand that, you know, people -- you may not 23 be receiving mail at your homes.

24 So to have written reports from you all, I
25 think, is very helpful, everyone who submitted

1 written comments. Because people living in the 2 city don't understand what's happening with 3 regards to the inequities on the reservations 4 and how that impacts the voter turnout, and the 5 voter participation, and the participation of 6 Native voters, and how do we empower Native
7 people. There are so many forces against us.

8 So we have made strides with the Voting 9 Rights Act, but of course we also have had some 10 challenges. I want to thank all the people who 11 worked on those challenges and haven't given up, 12 all the people in this room.

13 I think it's very important that we work
14 together, and I'm glad that I met everyone here
15 because I think that's a very strong community 16 and we have to continue to work together to 17 overcome and to move forward, even in the face 18 of adversity. So just, thank you.

19 MR. COLLINS: Can I make a comment? It's 20 not necessarily personal but it's specific to 21 our reservation in terms of the initial 22 onslaught. Recently the Wind River tribes 23 received a treatment as states authority from 24 the EPA for air quality conditions.

25 So we are wanting to move forward in

1 collecting data on our air quality, because 2 we're surrounded by huge oil and gas operations.
3 In fact, our air quality sometimes in the dead
4 of winter with ozone levels the same as you
5 would see in Los Angeles on a hot day.

6 So we have moved forward over the last five 7 years to receive tribes as states authority to 8 measure the air quality, and the state has sued 9 us, the county has sued us, the city has sued 10 us, and there's a state organization that has 11 sued us.

12 And we're in that situation right now.
13 There's a stay until everybody can sort what's 14 going on. But in the meantime our two senators, 15 Senator Barrasso and Senator Enzi, are drafting 16 some legislation to go to congress to change the 17 boundary of the reservation.

18 And when you do that, that affects some of 19 the things we have here on voting rights. So my 20 plea to all of you is, somehow, if you can get 21 your tribes to understand more about what the 22 threat is about changing boundaries of 23 reservations, whether it's a 35-acre rancheria 24 in Northern California, whether it's the Navajo
25 Nation with the Hopis in the middle, or Standing

1 Rock or Cheyenne River, whether you change those 2 boundaries. I mean, those -- we don't want to 3 let this be the deciding factor of what's coming 4 down the road.

5 So I'm making that plea that we really pay 6 attention to our national legislation and have 7 all the tribes, if we can -- I'm trying to -- I
8 shouldn't say trying, why don't I just do it.

9 I'm doing some things to let people know in 10 the tribes where they can get behind this 11 effort. Now, we haven't formally done so yet 12 because we're still trying to see what the 13 language looks like. But it's important to all 14 of us.

15 And the same thing that I see in suppression 16 of voting, is it creates opportunities for 17 everybody else, and then we lose opportunities.
18 So this is 2014. So, thank you.

19 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

20 MS. O'CONNOR: I think that's it unless the 21 guest Commissioners have anything else. So 22 thanks so much to everyone. Thank you to our 23 court reporter for sharing her time and 24 expertise, and have a good night.

25 (The hearing was concluded at 7:48 p.m.)

C E R T I F I C A T E

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

STATE OF SOUTH DAKOTA }
 } ss:
COUNTY OF PENNINGTON }

I, Jacqueline K. Perli, Court Reporter, do hereby certify that the said proceedings were taken by me stenographically and thereafter reduced to typewriting under my supervision; that the foregoing transcript is a true and accurate record of the testimony given to the best of my understanding and ability.

I further certify that I am neither counsel for, related to, nor employed by any of the parties to this case and have no interest, financial or otherwise, in its outcome.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my notarial seal this 8th day of May, 2014.

JACQUELINE K. PERLI
Shorthand Reporter
Notary Public
My commission expires:
May 9, 2019

1 STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA)
)
2 COUNTY OF RICHLAND)
3

4 - - -

5 THE NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS
6 TRANSCRIPT OF PUBLIC HEARING
7

8 - - -

8 BEFORE: GUEST COMMISSIONERS:
 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL, (SECOND SESSION)
9 NANCY BLOODGOOD, ESQ.
 JUSTICE ERNEST A. FINNEY, JR., RETIRED
10 (FIRST SESSION)
 JAMES T. MCLAWHORN, JR.
11 DR. LONNIE RANDOLPH, JR.
12 ALSO: REBECCA ARNOLD, ASSOCIATE COUNSEL
 Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law
13 1401 New York Avenue, N.W.
 Washington, D.C. 20005
14
15

16 DATE: February 6, 2014
17 TIME: 3:06 P.M.
 LOCATION: Richland County Council Chambers
18 2020 Hampton Street
 Columbia, SC

19 REPORTED BY: LORI S. MORTGE,
 Certified Court Reporter
20

21 JOB NO: 70467
22
23
24
25

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 MS. ARNOLD: Good afternoon to everyone.
3 Can you all hear me? Okay. Thank you so much for 4 coming out to this South Carolina Voting Rights
5 hearing as part of the National Commission on Voting 6 Rights. It is really fantastic to see so many 7 people here who are dedicated to fairness in the 8 voting process.

9 My name is Rebecca Kelly Arnold and I'm 10 an attorney with the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 11 Rights Under Law. The Lawyers' Committee is a 12 nonprofit nonpartisan civil rights organization
13 founded at the request of President John F. Kennedy 14 50 years ago to engage the private bar in the fight 15 for racial justice and equality. We continue our 16 work today in a range of areas that impact racial 17 and ethnic minorities. Notably, our organization 18 has been at the forefront of a legal struggle to 19 protect advances in voting rights. On behalf of the 20 Lawyers' Committee, we thank you for your 21 participation in and support for this hearing.

22 So today's hearing in South Carolina is 23 the fifth in a series of nationwide fact finding 24 hearings convened by our National Commission on 25 Voting Rights. As many of you know, this summer the

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 U.S. Supreme Court nullified a vital provision of 3 the Voting Rights Act that required federal review
4 of voting changes in states with a history of voting 5 discrimination. I know most of you are quite 6 familiar with that.

7 Now, this ruling compelled the Lawyers'
8 Committee to reconvene the National Commission to 9 host hearings across the country and to review
10 discrimination in voting as well as the impact of 11 recent changes in election administration law. So, 12 again, it is encouraging to see so many people here
13 because your voices need to be heard, your stories 14 are vital for the ongoing advocacy and report 15 efforts at the local state and national level.

16 Using the testimonies from the hearings
17 we're going to be compiling two reports. One on 18 voting discrimination and one on election
19 administration. It's our hope that these reports 20 will inform the public debate on voting
21 discrimination, the impact of recent election 22 administration laws and efforts to reform across the 23 country.

24 So now I'd like to introduce our guest 25 commissioners for this evening. Presiding over our

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 event today are five South Carolina Commissioners, 3 each with a deep commitment to protecting access to 4 the ballot on equal terms. So their extended bio is 5 in your program but, first, we have Nancy Bloodgood, 6 partner in the Foster Law Firm in the Charleston 7 office.

8 Then we have the Honorable Ernest A.
9 Finney, Jr. who, among other accomplishments, is the 10 first African-American Supreme Court Justice
11 appointed to the South Carolina Supreme Court since 12 reconstruction.

13 Dr. Lonnie Randolph, Jr., President of 14 the South Carolina State Conference of the NAACP.

15 And James T. McLawhorn, Jr., President
16 and Chief Executive Officer of the Columbia Urban 17 League.

18 And for our second panel we'll be joined 19 by our fifth guest commissioner, Professor Duncan
20 Buell, Chair of the Department of Computer Science
21 and Engineering at the University of South Carolina.

22 So our commissioners will preside over 23 today's events and receive testimonies from two 24 panels of witnesses and ask follow-up questions just 25 to ensure for a robust conversation about the state

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 of voting rights in South Carolina.

3 So just a little bit of process before
4 we get things going. If you've been confirmed on a 5 panel in advance and you haven't already checked in, 6 please just be sure to do that at the sign-in table.
7 I think most of you have. For those of you who want 8 to share your voting experiences but you didn't sign 9 up ahead of time to do that it would be really, 10 really fantastic to hear from you. We'd love to 11 hear your stories. So, also, if you're interested, 12 just go over there and let her know that you'd like 13 to testify. You know, you'll write your name on the 14 card, the general topic that you'd like, and then 15 the commissioners will call you when we're ready.

16 So a few other things. Our hearing is 17 being transcribed, so please be clearly (sic) and 18 state your name before you begin your testimony so 19 that we make sure that we have that. And please be 20 mindful of our timekeeper and her signs here. She's 21 going to keep you committed to five minutes of your 22 testimony.

23 If you're on Twitter, we've set up a 24 hash tag for our hearing and that's hash tag NCVR.
25 And my organization, the Lawyers' Committee for

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 Civil Rights, is at lawyerscomm with two M's, so
3 L-A-W-Y-E-R-S-C-O-M-M.

4 Finally, the thank you's. In addition
5 to thanking our host here, the Richland County 6 Council Chambers, I really want to thank our 7 amazing, amazing planning committee organizations
8 because this could absolutely not have happened
9 without them. That's the American Civil Liberties
10 Union of South Carolina, the Columbia Urban League, 11 the Family Unit, League of Women Voters of South
12 Carolina, NAACP Legal Defense Fund, National Action
13 Network, Protection and Advo -- Advocacy for People
14 with Disabilities, the South Carolina Progressive 15 Network and South Carolina State Conference of the 16 NAACP.

17 (Applause.)

18 MS. ARNOLD: Also, a thank you to our 19 witnesses, Peggy Denver for preparing and presenting 20 testimony today, and a really big thank you to our 21 commissioners for coming and presiding over this 22 evening's/afternoon event.

23 So I will now turn it over to our 24 commissioners for their opening remarks should they 25 choose to make any and to call up the first panel of

1 CHIEF JUSTICE ERNEST FINNEY

2 witnesses.

3 CHIEF JUSTICE FINNEY: Ladies and 4 gentlemen, it is my pleasure to share this occasion 5 with you on this what we hope will be a historic 6 event and which will lay the foundation for South
7 Carolina to reassert itself as the area where voting 8 rights will be given their appropriate consideration 9 by the people of this state and by the legislative 10 leaders or the leaders of this state, those who set 11 the barometers.

12 Because it is important that we not only 13 occupy our place in the historical perspective of 14 voting rights in the United States of America and 15 that we accommodate ourself and our citizens to the 16 needs and accommodate their needs and practice to 17 provide the kind of atmosphere which will reinstate 18 South Carolina to its prerogative and to its 19 rightful place in the history of the voting rights
20 of its citizens. It is important that we not forget 21 from whence we have come and the contributions we 22 have made to give full voting rights to the 23 prerogatives of our citizens.

24 It is important that we understand and 25 appreciate how important voting rights are to make

1 CHIEF JUSTICE ERNEST FINNEY

2 the American dream of full citizenship to everybody.
3 It is going to take the full and best efforts of 4 this community and this, the citizens of this state, 5 to where we stand and what we need to know and what 6 we need to do to make sure that voting rights are 7 fully protected and that we are in the vanguard of 8 making full citizenship a reality and not a dream 9 and not a hope. It is going to take everybody in 10 this state working together, arm in arm, to make 11 this a reality.

12 We must recognize that what the United 13 States Supreme Court did to the Voting Rights Acts 14 and what it must be done -- what we must do to make 15 sure that this is not the setback that everybody 16 thinks it is. We can change it. It will be up to 17 you and I and to all the citizens of this state, 18 including the legislative and judicial and whatever 19 authority there is, we need to make this -- give it 20 its original meaning and interpretation.

21 I'm delighted to share this moment with 22 you. I feel totally inadequate to share it because 23 I am no longer a justice on the Supreme Court. I am 24 now a retired justice. But, together, we can do 25 what we want to do and, hopefully, this will be the

1 NANCY BLOODGOOD, ESQUIRE

2 beginning of a long struggle to reinstate this 3 meaning of the Voting Rights Act.

4 With that, I thank you for allowing me
5 to share this moment with you and I hope you will 6 pray for me that I will make it through this new 7 venture which is a new venture for me. I do want 8 you to know that I have a couple of guardians 9 outside in the audience who are designed and 10 designated to be my guardians and to keep me on the 11 headlines and keep me on the -- what we're about. I 12 thank you for the right to let me share this moment 13 with you and I look forward to being beneficial to 14 the meaning of this meeting. Thank you very much.

15 (Applause.)

16 CHIEF JUSTICE FINNEY: All right. Now,
17 I don't know who's in charge.

18 DR. RANDOLPH: Do you want me to --

19 MS. BLOODGOOD: All right. Thank you.
20 I am not an important person like the rest of my 21 commissioners on this panel, but for about 40 years 22 I have been involved in elections mostly on the 23 street level. And so I want to just take a few 24 minutes to thank you, first of all, for your passion
25 and your time being here. It's an important piece

1 NANCY BLOODGOOD, ESQUIRE

2 of our democracy.

3 I used to teach civics before I went to 4 law school. I feel very strongly that voting should 5 be made easier and simpler and there should not be 6 obstacles put in people's way. Voting is a fragile 7 system. It requires constant vigilance. If you let 8 down your guard, bad things happen even when the law
9 is clear. It is my personal experience that people 10 with bad motives or questionable motives can take 11 advantage and twist the system.

12 For instance, and I just wanted to tell 13 you a few little stories. I once was challenging 14 the qualifications of Citadel cadets who were paying 15 out-of-state tuition, had out-of-state driver's 16 licenses, lived in dorms, went home on vacation and 17 summer because they weren't residents. And the law 18 is pretty clear that you have to be a resident to 19 vote in a local election. They should have been 20 voting in Connecticut. I certainly didn't want to 21 disenfranchise them, but they should not have been 22 voting in Charleston.

23 That was an extremely unpopular position
24 at the time. In fact, it's probably -- I think it 25 is the only time not only was I called names but I

1 NANCY BLOODGOOD, ESQUIRE

2 was pushed by a gentleman a little bit larger than 3 me. And I had to demand and I got a retraction in 4 the newspaper for -- for standing up for what was 5 clearly the law.

6 I've also arrived at polling -- a
7 polling place once where there were cheerleaders out 8 on a busy highway campaigning for the school board, 9 but the problem was they were half a mile from the 10 polling place. The polling place was inside the 11 State park, and when I told the girls to get off the 12 road they said no, we were told by the poll manager 13 we have to be 200 feet from the entrance of the 14 property. So I drove in and, of course, we didn't 15 get anywhere. The police came, we made a phone call 16 to the Attorney General who at -- sometimes lawyers
17 have to do this, they read the law and the law says 18 200 feet from the entrance to the polling place, not 19 200 feet from the entrance to the property.

20 These are -- this is clear law and these 21 are the kinds of problems that we have when the law 22 is clear at elections. So when we complicate the 23 law with new definitions and new requirements, we 24 are putting an impediment in the process.

25 We -- I have observed, as a poll

1 J.T. MCLAWHORN

2 manager, problems with split precinct votings that 3 have overturned elections. I've also served on an 4 election commission as a commissioner and have 5 overturned elections because of irregularities, and 6 actually had to run a paper election once because 7 the county election commission perceived the city as 8 a different political persuasion and would not let 9 us use the voting machines. So running a paper 10 election is a very difficult process, but we did it.

11 And I just tell you all of these things 12 and there are, of course, all of you who have worked 13 the polls and have participated in elections know
14 how quickly the process can turn south. And so I 15 just would like you -- to thank you for coming and 16 appreciate the fact that our process is fragile and 17 it needs protection. Thank you.

18 MR. MCLAWHORN: Good afternoon. I'm 19 J.T. McLawhorn. I'm with the Columbia Urban League.
20 I recall -- I think it was in the early '80s when we 21 had this march, and many of you all participated in 22 this march, to protect the extension of the Voting
23 Rights Act. Reverend Jesse Jackson led the effort
24 and we marched around the Strom Thurmond Building
25 and went to Fairfield County -- went to Edgefield

1 J.T. MCLAWHORN

2 County to march at the courthouse because we wanted
3 to convince Senator Thurmond that we needed to 4 extend the Voting Rights Act

5 And we think about the Voting Rights
6 Act -- voting rights. Why is it that people put so 7 many impediments to try to keep people from voting?
8 When you think about it, it has something to do with 9 economics. A lot of times people look at voting in 10 isolation, but voting is going to enhance our 11 economic welfare. It's very obvious. It's going to 12 help us to -- to ensure a fair system for us.

13 Judge Finney is a -- is a testimony to 14 the significant impact of the Voting Rights Act.
15 And when we have more judges, those judges in the 16 General Assembly, because of -- voting for members 17 of the General Assembly and those members have been 18 advocates for judges. And when we think about at 19 the local levels, in school boards and city council, 20 it makes a difference when you've got people there 21 who understand our needs and the needs of the 22 broader community and are able to enact legislation 23 and to direct resource -- we talk about allocation 24 of resources, because I think sometimes we look at 25 voting in isolation. It's -- it's a civic duty but

1 J.T. MCLAWHORN

2 it's also an economic development transformation.

3 Why do people spend so much money
4 getting elected? You've asked the question, why do 5 you spend so much money getting elected? Because 6 when you get elected through the voting process you 7 have the ability to transfer resources, in essence.
8 And so we must continue to vote to empower 9 ourselves.

10 I think one of the greatest challenges 11 we have with voting is this electronic technology.
12 I haven't heard anyone talk about this, but if 13 people are able to go into companies like Target, if 14 they're able to go into financial institutions and 15 manipulate money, I think we've got to be very 16 concerned about protecting the right of our votes 17 through technology. And, certainly, I would like to 18 do a little more investigation and research to see 19 how can we put in safeguards so that our votes would 20 be accurately counted. And I think we have to be 21 conscious and cognizant of this fact that with the 22 tent of technology we still may have erosion of the 23 impact of our votes.

24 I want to really express my appreciation 25 to the Commission for providing this opportunity for

1 DR. RONNIE RANDOLPH, JR.

2 us to engage in South Carolina. You know, I
3 consider South Carolina as a -- as a significant 4 community, significant state for the Voting Rights
5 Act, because I think South Carolina -- what happened
6 to South Carolina is going to have an overarching 7 impact around the country because we have weathered
8 a lot of disenfranchisement over the years. And I
9 think when we're able to ensure the right to vote
10 for all citizens of South Carolina that it's going 11 to have a positive impact around the country.

12 DR. RANDOLPH: Good afternoon. I am
13 Lonnie Randolph, Jr., President of the South
14 Carolina Conference of the Branch of the NAACP and I 15 want to wel -- welcome and thank each and every one 16 of you for your attendance here today for this 17 utmost important event. Many of you I know, I'm 18 happy to be on the panel with such distinguished 19 individuals.

20 In my brief remarks that I want to make,
21 I first want to shout out a black history fact 22 regarding an organization that I proudly represent.
23 The NAACP, the nation's oldest and most respective 24 civil rights organization. Next week this 25 organization will turn 105 years old. 105 years

1 DR. RONNIE RANDOLPH, JR.

2 old. I've lived 64 of those years, and it is my 3 hope and my dream and my just desire that I will 4 live long enough to see that the things that this 5 organization has fought, the persons who were 6 members, like Mr. Harry T. Moore, Medgar Evers and 7 others who died for, will actually become a reality.

8 I like the comments that I heard the 9 previous speakers address. Judge Finney, I asked 10 the question earlier because I could not remember 11 the exact year that Judge Finney was elected to the 12 Supreme Court here in South Carolina. But another 13 black history fact, on February 1st, 1870 Jonathan
14 Jasper Wright became a member of the South Carolina
15 Supreme Court. Now, I wonder what in the world -- 16 we didn't stop producing lawyers, but wonder why we 17 couldn't find any lawyers of color between 1870 and 18 199-what, Judge?

19 CHIEF JUSTICE FINNEY: About 1965,
20 somewhere along in there.

21 DR. RANDOLPH: And I say that because at 22 some point South Carolina and America is going to 23 have to look in the mirror and have a true 24 conversation about race in this country and race in 25 this state. With all of these new laws that have

1 DR. RONNIE RANDOLPH, JR.

2 been nothing more than lies regarding things that 3 have not happened, just like the 953 dead people
4 that are still dead that we claim voted in South 5 Carolina. The best way to be a great bigot is to 6 throw out things in the community to frighten 7 people, make people fearful.

8 This is a simple process. Another black 9 history fact, February 3rd, just three days ago, the 10 15th Amendment to the United States Constitution was 11 ratified. February 3rd. Why in the world are we 12 still going through this mess of identifying 13 citizens?

14 So at some point, y'all, you're going to 15 have to ask your elected officials -- you're going 16 to have to ask yourself, America -- out of the 172
17 countries with democracies of governments like ours, 18 America votes 149 out of 172. You don't hear that 19 stat. They brag about all the other things that 20 they're doing right, but when you mistreat the 21 citizens of your own country and then go out and 22 talk about what other people are doing wrong in 23 their countries, America needs to take a look at 24 itself and so does South Carolina. And posing all 25 of these restrictions on the right for citizens to

1 DR. RONNIE RANDOLPH, JR.

2 vote, why is it we have this obsession with the 3 bottom? Why is it South Carolina likes to be a 4 cellar dweller, the catfish, the carp of the ocean?
5 47th in voting already, y'all. 47th. This will not 6 take place by people who serve in public office.
7 This is an issue that must be addressed by the 4.7
8 million people who are not in elected office.

9 It is my hope that each and every one of 10 you will take the responsibility of a citizen very 11 seriously. I'll end with a short quote from Thomas 12 Payne, the great revolutionary philosopher who in 13 1795 fought for the right of women, black and white, 14 the right of Native Americans to vote, the right of 15 people to vote in this country. Thomas Payne. And 16 he said that the right to vote for representatives 17 is the primary right by which all other rights are 18 protected.

19 That's why Mr. McLawhorn talked about it 20 being an economic issue, it's bigger than economics.
21 It's a human rights issue. You deny people the 22 opportunity to be a human being and you deny them 23 every other opportunity there is.

24 So those of you who are here today to 25 testify, those of you who are here today just to

1 DR. BRENDA WILLIAMS

2 find out what's going on, those of you who are here
3 to report what's going on, let's spread the word 4 about this wrong that's taking place in this 5 country. We get counseling for everybody else that 6 has a problem, let's counsel South Carolina and 7 America by doing right for all people. Thank you.

8 MR. MCLAWHORN: Amen.

9 (Applause.)

10 MR. MCLAWHORN: Okay. Ms. Brenda 11 Williams from the Family Unit.

12 DR. WILLIAMS: Good afternoon. Do I sit 13 in this chair?

14 MS. BLOODGOOD: That's fine.

15 DR. WILLIAMS: Okay. Good afternoon,
16 everyone. I'll make my presentation brief and to 17 the point. We appreciate having the opportunity to 18 travel from Sumter, South Carolina. The Family Unit 19 is a 501(c)(3) organization designed to improve the 20 living conditions of people living in poverty and 21 despair. I brought -- I'm a physician, as a matter 22 of fact. My husband and I own and operate the 23 Excelsior Medical Clinic in Sumter, South Carolina.

24 (Applause.)

25 DR. WILLIAMS: Thank you very kindly.

1 DR. BRENDA WILLIAMS

2 And we're so honored to have one of our patients
3 sitting here, Judge Finney, and another patient, 4 Mrs. Finney, and another patient, Nikky Finney, are 5 patients of many years. I brought several wonderful 6 patients with me today.

7 If I can veer away from your schedule,
8 how you all are going to talk to me, I want to 9 introduce very quickly some patients who have been 10 adversely affected and disenfranchised by the South
11 Carolina Voter ID law. And I want to point out 12 something very, very important that just came into 13 fruition a week ago.

14 I have Mr. George Gathers, who is a 15 23-year veteran of the Marines. If you could raise 16 your hand, Mr. Gathers, who's with us today, Family 17 Unit member. Ms. Debbie Saunders who is my 18 executive assistant. Mrs. Bernice Kennedy -- Bernie 19 Smith, I'm sorry. Her son, James Kennedy.
20 Mrs. Donna DuBose -- you might recognize her face.
21 January 2012 she was on the front page of the AARP 22 magazine, talking about voter disenfranchisement in 23 South Carolina. And her wonderful husband, 24 Mr. James DuBose, who's sitting on the end.

25 Just a week ago we realized that the

1 DR. BRENDA WILLIAMS

2 South Carolina Election Commission now has a dress 3 code for people wanting and needing photo IDs in the 4 State of South Carolina. According to Mr. Chris 5 Whitmire, the Director of Education for the South 6 Carolina State Election Commission, this law that 7 tells folks how to dress when they come to get photo
8 IDs was supposed to have been in implementation -- 9 where it was supposed to have been implemented 10 January 1st, 2013 when the voter ID law came into 11 being. However, that's not true basically because 12 the Family Unit has spent at least $3,000 out of our 13 pockets, we have no government loans, but we spent 14 in just making fliers trying to educate people about 15 what they need to do in order to get a photo ID come 16 January 1st, 2013.

17 The three things, according to the 18 Election Commission, you had to give your date of 19 birth, your name and the last four digits of your 20 Social. That was all. That wasn't true. Now you 21 have to wear if you -- if you folks can stand with 22 the -- y'all come here a minute, please. You have 23 to wear a certain kind of attire. No hats are 24 allowed, no scarves. African-American women 25 oftentimes adorn ourselves in scarves and turbans.

1 DR. BRENDA WILLIAMS

2 It's a part of our culture. White people sure 3 enough use scarves and hats, but we particularly 4 like adornments -- if you could turn around, please, 5 to the audience.

6 These three wonderful people here are 7 patients of ours, Excelsior Medical Clinic. And not 8 only can you not wear a hat, you can't wear stage
9 makeup, whatever stage makeup is. You cannot adorn 10 yourself with too much makeup or the poll -- excuse 11 me, the voter registration office people have the 12 authority to stop and not take your picture if you 13 don't fit their attire guidelines.

14 I took these three wonderful people,
15 Mr. James Kennedy, his mother Mrs. Bernice Smith,
16 and Mrs. Donna DuBose to the voter registration 17 office of Sumter County a week ago with these head 18 garments that I bought from Dollar General on the 19 way to the voter registration office. And each of 20 them were asked to take off their head attire to 21 take the picture and they refused to remove the head 22 attire. As you see, you can very clearly see their 23 faces. Can y'all turn around to the commissioners?
24 The faces are not disguised and they were turned 25 away. They were denied voter ID because of their

1 DR. BRENDA WILLIAMS

2 refusal to remove their head garments. Thank you 3 all, you can have a seat.

4 MS. DUBOSE: Can I take this off now?

5 DR. WILLIAMS: Yeah, you can take that 6 hat off. Thank you. I love my patients, they do
7 all kinds of things like wear those hats from Dollar 8 General. Okay. Check this out. And I'm going to 9 be seated and I didn't plan to mention this, but 10 this just came into being -- my time is up. Okay.

11 And so if you were to Google Council on 12 American Islamic Relations, CAIR, you'll see cases 13 wherein Sikhs that wear the turbans have gone to 14 court fighting for their right to keep their turban 15 on at the DMV. Matter of fact, y'all, and I'm going 16 to say this and I'm going to hush. One of my 17 patients, she doesn't mind me mentioning her name, 18 Mrs. Wiwino Medyson, (phonetic), she lives here in 19 Columbia, took a picture from the South Carolina DMV
20 with an African Kente cloth wrap in the year 2006
21 and it expires in 2016. So when the Election
22 Commission says that they're following the dictates
23 and the rules of the DMV, they're wrong. The DMV 24 does not even follow those rules. Thank you very 25 kindly.

1 DR. JOHN RUOFF

2 (Applause.)

3 MR. MCLAWHORN: Dr. John Ruoff.

4 DR. RUOFF: Thank you, Commissioners.

5 And, thank you, Dr. Williams, for establishing a 6 precedent that we don't need to sit down and be 7 right formal.

8 My name is John Ruoff, I'm the principal
9 of The Ruoff Group which is a research and policy 10 analysis firm. And for the last 25 years I've 11 engaged in research on voting and voting rights, 12 appearing as an expert witness and -- in a number of 13 voting rights cases as well as traveling this state 14 assisting NAACP branches and local African-American 15 elected officials on redistricting. And I also am 16 the author of a report with Attorney Herb Buhl on 17 voting rights in South Carolina in the period from 18 1982 to 2006, which the Commission has -- has copies 19 of.

20 Now, the reality is that we have had 21 numerous objections over the last 30 years under 22 Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act. Those 23 objections have -- have covered every part of the 24 state and every aspect of the participation of 25 minority citizens in this state in the electoral

1 DR. JOHN RUOFF

2 process, particularly redistricting.

3 Now, it's important to recognize we have 4 come a long way since the Voting Rights Act was 5 passed. But it's also important to recognize that 6 that progress has been forged by South Carolina's 7 African-American and other citizens of color on the 8 anvil of Section 2 and Section 5 of the Voting 9 Rights Act.

10 Now, we have only had two objections by 11 the Department of Justice since the 2006, 2008 --
12 whatever year it was -- renewal of the Voting Rights 13 Act. One was the voter ID bill which then the -- 14 you know, the Court and the District of Columbia 15 pre-cleared. But if you read that order what the 16 Court says, among other things, was, well, this 17 isn't the bill that they actually passed that we're 18 pre-clearing, there have been evolving 19 interpretations. First through the -- through the 20 Section 5 process at DOJ and then in the Court as a 21 scramble to get pre-clearance.

22 A big problem, though, is that even that 23 expansive interpretation, the way the Court says how 24 are you going to enforce this? Because we recognize 25 at local -- at Sumter County Board of Elections, at

1 DR. JOHN RUOFF

2 polling places where, you know, we have some 3 managers who are kind of tin-pot dictators and think 4 that their rules are more important than the actual 5 written rules, we -- you do a Section 5 process on 6 them. Well, if there's no Section 5 how, then, do 7 you enforce those evolving interpretations?

8 Now, even where there have not been 9 objections, there is almost no change in voting in 10 South Carolina in the last many years that has not 11 been framed in the context of Section 5 of the 12 Voting Rights Act. If you read the testimony of 13 legislative leaders, we did what we did because we 14 were afraid of Section 5 pre-clearance refusal.

15 In town councils, school boards, city
16 councils, county councils, time after time
17 African-American citizens have had to say to bodies 18 that were determining voting practices or 19 redistricting, you know, y'all don't do the right
20 thing we're going to the Department of Justice. I 21 don't know an NAACP chapter president who does not 22 have DOJ on speed dial. And so a lot of the 23 progress has been as a result of having that tool 24 there to protect the rights of citizens.

25 I had a couple of cases in this last

1 DR. JOHN RUOFF

2 go-around in Florence School District 1 where they 3 had only had single member districts because of a 4 Section 2 suit in the '90s where you've got a white 5 incumbent in a district that is almost 6 African-American majority, so what do they want to 7 do? Let's whiten that up a bit. Drop it from 46
8 percent to 36 percent. In Lee County, where 9 African-Americans have not proven capable of winning 10 elections with less than 70 percent African-American 11 districts and, you know, that's another issue, 12 district that was 66 percent black -- oh, let's drop 13 it down to 56 percent black.

14 It says stop, and the commissioners are 15 telling me to keep going. I'm getting conflicting 16 signals. I'll be brief.

17 MR. MCLAWHORN: She's overruled.

18 CHIEF JUSTICE FINNEY: 41.

19 MR. RUOFF: The reality is without the 20 tool of Section 5, so much of the progress that has 21 been made in this state is very much at risk in the 22 whole area of the photo -- photo voter ID bill and I 23 think Susan is going to talk about some of the 24 realities of the photo voter ID bill. In 25 redistricting at the state level and the local level

1 BARBARA ZIA

2 without that protection things are very, very likely 3 to get worse. And while some of this stuff can be 4 remedied with Section 2 suits, go ask the folks in 5 Charleston County about the $2 million they spent to 6 defend what sure looked to me like a slam dunk case 7 from -- from day one. Go talk to the folks in -- in 8 Batesburg-Leesville -- and they won, but they still 9 spent over a million dollars in a piss ant little 10 school district to avoid single member districts.

11 You know, this is something our nation
12 cannot afford. It's something our state can't 13 afford. Thank you.

14 (Applause.)

15 MR. MCLAWHORN: Ms. Barbara Zia.

16 MS. ZIA: Thank you. I think I'll use 17 the microphone, I don't have as strong a voice as 18 my -- the witnesses who preceded me. Is this on?
19 Rebecca, is this on?

20 MS. ARNOLD: Yeah.

21 MS. ZIA: Okay. Thank you. I'm Barbara
22 Zia and I am speaking for the League of Women Voters 23 of South Carolina.

24 The League of Women Voters of South
25 Carolina is committed to ensuring fair and

1 BARBARA ZIA

2 accessible elections for all qualified voters and to 3 informing and engaging citizens in our state's 4 democracy with particular emphasis on low income and 5 minority communities. The League monitors 6 implementation of current election laws and 7 practices as well as proposed changes at both local 8 and state levels.

9 However, the largely rural nature of 10 much of our state makes it a great challenge for 11 voting advocates to comprehensibly observe county 12 councils or election commissions for changes, like 13 in closing and consolidating polling places. At the 14 state legislative and election administration
15 levels, we oppose discriminatory voting practices
16 and support those that would expand voting access 17 while protecting election integrity.

18 From our firsthand knowledge of the 19 electoral process in our state, we can say
20 confidently that South Carolina voters would benefit 21 from legislation to -- to permit early voting. We 22 encourage an early voting period of at least ten 23 days. We also support provision of more than one 24 early voting location in counties where distances
25 are great. The record number of mail-in absentee

1 BARBARA ZIA

2 ballots and unprecedented numbers of in-person
3 absentee voters are the electorate's way of telling 4 us that the current system is woefully inadequate.

5 For the November 2012 election, South
6 Carolina had the fourth longest wait time to vote in 7 the nation. By not providing enough time and more
8 convenient locations, our system disenfranchises 9 untold numbers of voters.

10 The League opposes bills currently filed
11 in the legislature that would have a negative impact 12 on the rights of voters, especially those who are 13 low income, minority, student or disabled. House 14 Bill 3176 would dramatically reduce excuses from 15 mail-in absentee voting. Workers out of town or 16 voters away to care for an ill family member for 17 several weeks could find themselves unable to vote.

18 The requirement of a physician
19 certificate for the disabled to vote absentee is 20 another burden. And given that many physicians 21 charge a fee to fill out medical forms, this 22 requirement could amount to a poll tax.

23 The omission of provisions for 24 caretakers for persons who are elderly or disabled 25 present another problem, since these caretakers may

1 BARBARA ZIA

2 find themselves unable to be absent from their 3 duties in order to vote.

4 Senate Bill 227 would impose a barrier
5 to voter registration by requiring documentary proof
6 of citizenship when registering. We believe this 7 bill is an unnecessary obstacle for citizens who 8 want to participate in our democracy and is not 9 needed to maintain the integrity of our elections.
10 It would discriminate against minority and low 11 income citizens who are less likely than other 12 voters to have access to such forms of 13 identification. And we're concerned that such a 14 requirement would discriminate against women. Many 15 lack proof of citizenship and their current names, 16 since nearly 90 percent of women change their names 17 when they marry or divorce.

18 For those who can obtain the required
19 documents, birth certificates or other listed 20 documents represent a cost to voters and, thus, are 21 a poll tax.

22 Finally, but very importantly, this bill
23 violates the National Voter Registration Act. The 24 League vigorously opposed Act R54, South Carolina's 25 photo ID law for voters, through the long arduous

1 BARBARA ZIA

2 processes of legislation and litigation. Since its 3 implementation, the League and our voting rights 4 partners have acted as watch dogs to ensure that the 5 voter ID law is carried out according to the Court 6 ruling. Our observation show that the law is 7 misunderstood by some voters and local election
8 officials.

9 Those who argue the Voting Rights Act is 10 no longer necessary need look no further than South 11 Carolina. Using Section 5, the League and our 12 partners battled back and overturned discriminatory
13 provisions of the voter ID law. This successful 14 application of Section 5 demonstrated the law's 15 potency in protecting minority voters. The League
16 urges Congress to modernize and repair the Voting 17 Rights Act by acting quickly on the bipartisan 18 Voting Rights Amendment Act of 2014. This 19 legislation responds directly and responsively to 20 the Supreme Court's decision in Shelby v. Holder by 21 upholding the coverage formula for pre-clearance to 22 ensure it's based on recent acts of discrimination 23 and by providing a narrow mechanism to prevent 24 discrimination in voting nationwide.

25 Thank you very much for this opportunity

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 to present our testimony.

3 (Appause.)

4 MR. MCLAWHORN: Mr. Brett Bursey.

5 MR. BURSEY: I'm Executive Director of 6 the South Carolina Progressive Network. It's an 18
7 year old coalition of organizations that was formed.
8 Grass roots groups, advocacy groups, women's groups,
9 gay groups, environmental groups. It was in 1994 10 when we realized that what we had in common was 11 we're all losing. And we have been good voting 12 rights advocates since then and prior to that and 13 we're tending to some of the specifics about the 14 mechanics of voting, but I want to talk about the 15 bigger picture in a minute.

16 But the mechanics of voting in terms of 17 access to the ballot and equal access to the ballot
18 is something that if you worked in the legislature 19 as we do, we've had probably ten bills introduced in 20 the last decade. I saw Representative Neal stick 21 his head in here a minute ago, he's been one of our 22 sponsors of bills to make it easier to vote in South 23 Carolina, bills to make voting more transparent and 24 the voting process more accountable.

25 They've all died. All of our bills have

BRETT BURSEY

1
2 died. And it's because the majority controls what 3 happens in the House and the Senate and the 4 legislature. And while we're trying to make it
5 easier to vote, the majority is trying to make it
6 harder to vote. Seeming -- seemingly to be intent 7 on a permanent majority, apparently not happy to be 8 the majority.

9 A for instance of our efforts of making
10 it easier to vote would be to have a felon
11 re-enfranchisement statute. We have a felon 12 disenfranchisement statute that when someone is 13 arrested for a felony or certain misdemeanors the 14 Clerk of Court notifies the county voting 15 registration office to remove that person from the 16 list. So when someone finishes their sentence, no
17 one lets them know they can vote again. And in 2006
18 with the ACLU we did a statewide survey, called all 19 46 county offices and asked them, well, we're 20 just -- you know, we're an ex-felon, what do we do 21 to vote? Out of 46 counties, six counties got it 22 right. Richland County was one of them. Most of 23 the counties said, you've got to bring something in 24 to prove that you've finished your sentence. A few 25 of the counties said, well, you can't vote. I think

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 it was Williamsburg.

3 But that disparity of enforcement of the 4 laws that are on the records is one of South
5 Carolina's big problems, and those disparities go
6 back to our Constitution of 1896 that was authored 7 in part -- large by pitchfork Ben Tillman, one of 8 South Carolina's most outstanding racists. To 9 prevent black people from having any power in South 10 Carolina, they evolved the power to the senators to 11 appoint independent voter registration election
12 boards. So we have 46 independent bodies
13 determining what the rules are and the State 14 Election Commission can only advise them. That's 15 something that's got to be fixed and I'm pleased to 16 say that our main nemesis in voting rights in the 17 House of Representatives Representative Alan 18 Clemmons, Republican from Myrtle Beach, is actually 19 supporting -- giving the Election Commission
20 authority over the 46 counties this year. So we're 21 hopeful that we can actually have a bipartisan bill 22 in that.

23 But the thing that -- the thing that the 24 Progressive Network does is work in the education
25 level at grass roots. I don't think we can change

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 the minds of some of these legislators, we've got to 3 change the hearts and will of the people to be able 4 to make an effect. We have a missing voter project
5 that we started in 2006 that goes into high schools 6 and talks to kids about voting in democracy. The 7 missing voters, by the way, in South Carolina are a 8 majority of people of voting age that don't vote in 9 the four-year cycle. A majority of our citizens 10 don't vote in the four-year cycle.

11 In the voting record in terms of 12 turnout, it's directly tied to income level. If you 13 make $25,000 or less, you're about 25 percent likely 14 to vote. If you make over 75 grand, about 75
15 percent of those people vote. We ask the kids, you 16 know, what kind of system we have and they say 17 democracy. Well, where do you think we stand in 18 practicing democracy? And they say, we're Number 1.
19 And that's really -- it's really a heartbreaker to 20 tell them, we're not Number 1, we didn't make the 21 top ten, we didn't break the top 100. The United 22 States is about 138th in the world in terms of 23 citizen participation.

24 And the reason for that, and this is 25 where -- this is our takeaway here. The reason that

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 people aren't voting is they have a very realistic
3 and practical sense that it doesn't do any good. It 4 really doesn't make any difference who wins. If 5 you're the average South Carolinian and works an 6 average job, you're going -- you're going to get 7 screwed no matter who wins because money is what the 8 issue is here. Money is what the problem is with 9 voting. Money is what's corrupted our democracy.
10 The way we practice elections and democracy in the 11 United States of America, you would go to jail in 12 most countries for taking money for doing the things 13 that our state legislators do.

14 The Citizens United case that says that 15 there's no limits on contributions you can make, 16 there's more corruption and pollution to the system.
17 Our policies -- our policies on everything, from 18 education to incarceration, are determined not by 19 the need we have but by the best lobbyist, by the 20 people that have the most money.

21 If you're in the legislature -- we have 22 170 seats in the legislature. We have the least 23 competitive elections in the nation. Most of our 24 legislators, pushing 70 percent of them, didn't have 25 any opposition in the general. And this is a

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 problem that goes back to the old Section 5/Section 3 2 issues that I've had trouble with Justice. And 4 the Civil Rights Act and the Voting Rights Act of 5 1965 allowed partisan decisions to be part of 6 redistricting discussions or part of consideration 7 on whether something is a Section 5 violation or 8 not. So you can be partisan as long as it doesn't 9 have a retro aggressive effect on people of color.

10 So what -- what's happened is that we 11 have band two (phonetic) stands now where black 12 people are over here and everybody gets to vote, but 13 you can only vote for one person and that's the guy 14 that won the primary. So the system is eroding, our 15 democracy is corroding, and part of it is money.
16 The other part is letting partisanship determine the 17 way the game is played. We need an independent 18 redistricting commission of some sort rather than 19 letting the majority party decide where the lines 20 are to protect their electability.

21 When we had the last go-around with the 22 election for the redistricting in 2010, the plans
23 that came out -- everybody had a plan. NAACP had a 24 plan and ACLU had a plan and the Republicans had 25 plans and the Democrats had plans. And -- but there

1 BRETT BURSEY

2 was only one plan that did not have a majority black 3 district and that was the plan that we worked with 4 and it was a plan that Gilda Cobb-Hunter wrote. All 5 the other plans had -- basically ended up, well, 6 pack everybody into Jim Clyburn's district, let them 7 vote for a black guy. And so the 7th district is 8 only 20-something percent black and Clyburn's
9 district is over 60 percent black. Gilda's
10 suggestion was let's even it out and give people a 11 chance. And so that's the type of thing that we've 12 got to do, but I do believe it's got to be up to us 13 to make the leaders do it.

14 And so I would encourage you to get 15 involved on an ongoing basis, a regular basis -- the 16 NAACP, the Progressive Network, the South Carolina 17 Voter Education Project, and let's work on a regular 18 basis to educate our neighbors to the fact that our 19 democracy isn't working, it's an absolute hoax.
20 Ninety-eight percent of the people that spend the 21 most money win.

22 We don't have elections, we've got 23 auctions. We've got really serious, profound,
24 systemic problems that's going to take all of us
25 working for a long time to address. Thank you.

1 REP. GILDA COBB-HUNTER

2 (Applause.)

3 MR. MCLAWHORN: Representative Gilda
4 Cobb-Hunter.

5 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Honorable Justice.
6 I'm not sure -- I'm Gilda Cobb-Hunter and I am a 7 member of the South Carolina House and I am here
8 representing myself and my views only. I'm not here
9 speaking for the South Carolina Democratic Party,
10 House Democratic Caucus, the South Carolina
11 Legislative Black Caucus and anybody else. And I 12 appreciate the opportunity and I want to say to the 13 timekeeper I'm going to try real hard to be 14 compliant with you so you don't have to do what 15 you've been doing.

16 Let me just say that I think Mr. Brett
17 Bursey just gave an excellent segue to the comments 18 that I'd like to share with this panel and that is 19 this notion of redistricting and the impact it has 20 on public policy, particularly justice, the 21 judiciary. And I guess it is so appropriate to have 22 that conversation now, this week, today, after 23 yesterday's elections here in South Carolina and 24 members of the General Assembly.

25 And, quite frankly, what I want to

1 REP. GILDA COBB-HUNTER

2 leave with the panel is this notion of power or 3 influence -- numbers or influence. And I am 4 talking, quite frankly, about redistricting and how 5 one weighs the notion of communities of color having 6 representation, by having the ability to elect 7 someone who they believe shares their views and 8 their interests, and whether or not that in the long 9 run is the best goal to achieve what we are looking 10 at as good for people.

11 Bottom line is, making it real plain, I 12 have been in the General Assembly long enough to 13 know that the push for single member districts for 14 increasing the number of people of color has 15 resulted in a lack of influence by members of the 16 Legislative Black Caucus. It has resulted in a lack 17 of influence by members who represent communities of 18 color.

19 As Brett pointed out what we have done,
20 through gerrymandering and bleaching of districts,
21 is winding up with a lot of people who look like me, 22 but a lot of people who look like me who are not 23 having a lot of impact on the process. And I want 24 to focus on the judiciary because I think it's 25 important for this panel to know that last year, in

1 REP. GILDA COBB-HUNTER

2 the South Carolina General Assembly, we created nine 3 new judgeships. Of those nine new judgeships not 4 one -- not one went to a person of color.

5 The last thing -- oh, I'm doing better.
6 The last thing, what I also want to say on that 7 point and why I want to focus on the judiciary is 8 because when you consider the role that the 9 judiciary plays in our communities, when you think 10 about who appears before the bench, we ought not 11 have to go through what we go through in South 12 Carolina to simply get adequate representation so 13 that those who appear before the bench can even 14 expect to have someone who understands,
15 empathizes -- whatever word you want to use -- about 16 their sense of and their environment or whatever.

17 I just kind of want to close my comments 18 by suggesting to you that the notion for me -- and 19 let me emphasize I'm speaking for Gilda Cobb-Hunter.
20 In South Carolina, for conditions to improve in 21 communities of color, I strongly support the 22 redistricting process being handled by an 23 independent commission that's outside of the 24 legislature because we will never, in my view, get 25 any kind of adequate representation when we don't.

1 REP. GILDA COBB-HUNTER

2 And I know there are a lot of people who don't share 3 that view and that is the beauty of living in the 4 this country, we can all agree to disagree.

5 We have got to understand -- and I was a
6 part of a group that testified before the U.S.
7 Senate on the whole Voting Rights Extension Act, 8 testified before the three-judge panel as well on 9 the case and as has been described here, that 10 decision had absolutely no -- no relation to the 11 legislation that passed.

12 Bottom line, we could talk here and 13 y'all can go all around this country. But I'm 14 telling you here in South Carolina you can hold as 15 many hearings as you want, nothing will change until 16 you change the faces of the men and women who serve 17 in the South Carolina legislature and those faces 18 will not change until you change how they run.
19 Bleaching districts and having black folk just to 20 say you've got a member of a legislature is not 21 going to do it. Thank you so very much.

22 (Applause.)

23 MR. MCLAWHORN: Ms. Susan Dunn.

24 MS. ARNOLD: She's going to go at the 25 end. If you all have any questions for anyone who

COLLOQUY

1
2 has already testified. If not, we can move on to 3 public testimony. So at this time if you have any 4 questions for the current witnesses who just spoke, 5 you can feel free to ask those and, if not, we'll 6 move on to the public testimony before taking a 7 short break for the second panel.

8 DR. RUDOLPH: Representative Gilda
9 Cobb-Hunter?

10 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Yes, sir.

11 DR. RANDOLPH: I appreciate your -- your 12 comments. What -- and I'm not familiar with one 13 that is present and successful that has an 14 independent -- in fact, I agree with all of your 15 comments and everything you touched on as part of 16 that backwards move that this state continues to 17 want to be in. Confederate mindset.

18 What state can you identify that has 19 chosen the route of an independent body? I don't 20 know of one in the South.

21 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Mr. President, you
22 may be right on that and I, quite frankly, didn't do 23 the research so I'm not prepared to say to you a 24 particular state in the South that has done it. And 25 I would agree with you, I doubt very seriously if

COLLOQUY

1
2 there is one. There are states out West that have 3 adopted that concept. There's legislation pending 4 in the South Carolina General Assembly introduced in 5 the House by Laurie Funderburk from Kershaw County
6 and Walt McLeod from Newberry County, I'm joining 7 onto that legislation, which will create a merit
8 panel which will -- an independent panel to draw 9 lines.

10 And I really feel very strongly it
11 probably will not pass because politicians don't 12 want to give up power and what we wind up doing is 13 getting people who don't really understand the 14 process to agitate, agitate, agitate for single 15 member districts. And while that has its purpose
16 and is well at some point, I just know the reality
17 of what happens when you pack people into a district 18 as Brett pointed out during the Congressional 19 redistricting.

20 South Carolina, because of our increase 21 in population, we are one of the fifth largest 22 growing -- fifth fastest growing states in terms of 23 population which gave us an additional congressional 24 seat. I felt very strongly that we needed to look 25 at making that 7th district one that would be

1 influenced by working families, struggling
2 families -- people who work every day for a living 3 have an opportunity to elect somebody who would 4 think about working people and working people's 5 issues.

6 I'm here to tell you that in my own
7 caucus, legislative black caucus, House Democratic 8 Caucus, there was no support for an amendment that I
9 drew that created a 7th district -- 7th 10 congressional district with a population that was 11 about 44 percent Democratic influence. And I'm just 12 amazed that people who have been in office for 13 20-plus years are threatened by running in a 14 district that is not at least 50 percent. I may be 15 naive, but I just believe that if you've been in 16 office or you're doing a great job that people will 17 return you. And I don't believe in 2014, and I 18 would yield to Justice Finney and I know he's 19 probably saying, yeah, you naive, but I just believe 20 that it is possible, Dr. Randolph, for somebody who 21 looks like me to be elected in a district that 22 doesn't have to be 60, 70 and 80 percent black. It 23 is such a waste of communities of color in this 24 state for us to have allowed that to occur and let 25 me just close by saying allowing it to occur is too

COLLOQUY

1
2 strong a word because, quite frankly, it's a simple
3 matter of arithmetic. And you can't allow what you
4 can't control and there's not enough of us to do
5 that. Does that answer your question?

6 DR. RUDOLPH: You know what? It was 7 such a good answer I don't know what I asked.
8 Again, I agree with everything you said --

9 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Thank you.

10 DR. RANDOLPH: -- and not some of what 11 you said.

12 REP. COBB-HUNTER: And just remember,
13 I'm speaking for me, not for anybody else.

14 DR. RUDOLPH: And I said I agree.

15 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Okay.

16 DR. RANDOLPH: And this is a Lonnie 17 answer.

18 REP. COBB-HUNTER: Yes, sir. I
19 understand. Okay.

20 MS. ARNOLD: Are there any further 21 questions for the witnesses?

22 (No response.)

23 MS. ARNOLD: No? We'll move on to 24 public testimony.

25 MS. BLOODGOOD: Representative Joe Neal.

1 REP. JOE NEAL

2 REP. NEAL: Good afternoon. I wanted to 3 take a moment to add another dimension to what 4 you've heard. The dimension I am referring to is 5 simply this. In looking back over the last 20 years 6 or so of reapportionment in South Carolina, one of 7 the things that became very clear to me over the 8 years is that not only has this been an effort to 9 pack black voters into black districts and purge 10 white districts of black voters, but there is 11 apparently a larger effort even than that afoot.

12 In the last four years I and a group of 13 other activists in the state, including Gilda 14 Cobb-Hunter, have been involved in the effort to 15 blunt a move by the Greenville Republican party who 16 went to federal court to force voters to register by 17 party. That effort, if successful, would complete 18 the segregation of voting in the state because, as 19 you've heard, what we have now is equivalent of band 20 two (phonetic) stands in our precincts and in our 21 districts. And this piece that is being pushed 22 right now, a bill introduced by Senator Shealy from 23 Lexington County, that would, in effect, force this 24 to happen. The Greenville Republican party has also 25 appealed to the 4th District in Richmond to try and

1 REP. JOE NEAL

2 overturn the two failures on their part to pass this 3 in federal court.

4 When you look at the reality of what 5 that means, when black voters are packed into black 6 districts and white districts have been purged of 7 black voters, and then on top of that to have 8 registration by party which would deny black voters 9 the ability to intervene or vote for anyone other 10 than those people in their own districts, I think 11 that's a shame and it's an affront to the concept of 12 democracy and freedom itself. It is insidious, it 13 is unnecessary, and it is designed to disempower 14 people of color in this state.

15 So I'm not going to hold you long, I 16 wanted to point that out that this battle is not 17 over. It's really just beginning. And what we need 18 is not just an independent group to redraw
19 districts, but we need a challenge to everything 20 that's been done in the way of reapportionment in 21 South Carolina. Those of us who have been there for 22 a while actually wanted to see additional 23 representation for minority districts. But it was 24 never our intent to see the extent to which this 25 state has gone to pack rat voters into black

COLLOQUY

1
2 districts, purge black voters from white districts.
3 It is an insult, it is an affront, and it needs to 4 stop. Thank you.

5 (Applause.)

6 DR. RUDOLPH: Representative Neal,
7 before you take your seat and, again, I can tell you
8 hang around with Representative Gilda Cobb-Hunter, 9 are you at liberty to give an example of what 10 caused -- or caused this registering of being 11 affiliated with a particular party is nothing new.
12 South Carolina didn't do anything bad one time, they 13 just keep doing it. But would you give the most 14 recent event that took place in the Greenville area 15 that caused this response to this particular piece 16 of legislation that you spoke of?

17 REP. NEAL: I believe the Greenville
18 Republican Party has led this effort to force 19 registration by party. And I believe that is in 20 response to something that happened in Greenville a 21 few years ago.

22 As you might remember, Greenville was 23 the only county in South Carolina who did not have a 24 Martin Luther King holiday and Republican members of 25 that council had repeatedly refused to create such a

COLLOQUY

1
2 holiday in that county. Well, black voters in 3 Greenville County crossed over and voted in the 4 Republican primary and removed two sitting 5 Republican members of County Council and, as a 6 result, Greenville now has a Martin Luther King 7 holiday.

8 I think that sent a warning message to 9 the Republican party in Greenville that black voters 10 may well be intelligent enough to know how to 11 manipulate that process and vote their own interest.
12 And their response has been, let's close that 13 opportunity. Let's remove that opportunity so that 14 we lock them in and they can never vote outside of 15 their party again. That has been their response, 16 that has been their response to date. They've lost 17 twice in federal court. They will go back to appeal 18 in the Richmond circuit and we'll see where that 19 goes

20 But I think we all need to be aware that 21 this is a strategy that is still unfolding and it is 22 still designed to disempower people of color.

23 DR. RANDOLPH: Thank you very much
24 for -- for that answer because in your response you 25 did single Greenville County out. Forty-six

COLLOQUY

1
2 counties in South Carolina, it was the last -- the 3 most industrious part of the state, by the way, but 4 you failed to mention of the 50 states your home
5 state was the last state to recognize Dr. Martin
6 Luther King, Jr. with a clean holiday.

7 REP. NEAL: Yes.

8 MR. MCLAWHORN: A clean holiday.

9 DR. RANDOLPH: A clean holiday.

10 MR. MCLAWHORN: Explain that.

11 DR. RANDOLPH: Yes. We don't have a 12 clean Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday. We had 13 to -- well, in order for this body that we're 14 speaking of today to make decisions on the rights of 15 people to vote and to be citizens in this state, in 16 order for this state to get a Dr. Martin Luther 17 King, Jr. holiday -- and I have looked high and low
18 and I cannot find another state that has such a bill
19 as ours -- that there had to be a Confederate Day 20 associated with Dr. Martin Luther King Day.

21 REP. NEAL: That's true.

22 DR. RUDOLPH: How oxymoronic can you be?
23 Peace and love versus hate and discrimination, but 24 that's what we ended up with. Somebody compromised.

25 REP. NEAL: Thank you, and you're

1 DORI TEMPPIO

2 absolutely right. Wasn't much of a compromise, but 3 it is what we passed. It is what we passed.

4 DR. RANDOLPH: It wasn't a compromise.
5 It was a disaster.

6 REP. NEAL: I could add a lot back to 7 you, but I won't. Thank you very much.

8 MS. BLOODGOOD: Dori Tempio.

9 MS. ARNOLD: Before we continue on, I
10 don't want to quash the passion and fire that 11 everybody has here by any means, but I just want to 12 remind everybody that this is nonpartisan so please 13 just try to keep that in mind when giving all of 14 your comments and try not to cast dispersions on any 15 particular individual or party in authority. Thank 16 you, everyone.

17 MS. TEMPPIO: Good afternoon.

18 COMMISSIONERS: Good afternoon.

19 MS. TEMPPIO: How are you today?

20 DR. RANDOLPH: And you?

21 MS. TEMPPIO: I'm Dori Tempio and I'm 22 actually a citizen of Richland County. You know,
23 Ralph Waldo Emerson once said you get out of life 24 exactly what you put into it. And, to me, voting is 25 not just a right, it is a privilege. I've been

1 DORI TEMPIO

2 doing it since the age of 18 when I first could vote
3 and, to me, that is such a thing I treasure and 4 cherish.

5 But, unfortunately, voting is not 6 accessible for everyone in this community nor is it 7 private as it should be. On two occasions, one in 8 the most recent election, I went to vote in Richland
9 County. I requested accommodations, I requested 10 accommodations to be able to vote privately, have 11 the machine put on a table where it would be 12 accessible and that is not what happened.

13 What occurred, the election poll worker
14 put the machine -- which, let me tell you, is about 15 40 pounds on my lap. He stood next to me and said, 16 I'll just close my eyes, and that is what he 17 proceeded to do. I wanted to vote. Voting is 18 important. I want to have a say in what occurs in 19 our community because I believe in that. I believe 20 in the power of voice and all of us should have that 21 voice. And, to me, that should not occur, period.
22 If someone requests accommodation and requests 23 privacy to vote, they should be given that right.

24 How many people in this room would want
25 everyone knowing what you were voting? Not only am

1 DORI TEMPIO

2 I sitting in the middle like I am here where 3 everybody was around me and could see me voting, but 4 I had this person who's a poll worker member of the 5 commission looking over me.

6 To me, what I'm trying to say is if 7 we're going to provide equality, it needs to be 8 equal for everyone. And everyone who wants to vote 9 should have that right and privilege. Everyone who 10 wants to have privacy and requests it should have 11 that right.

12 In addition, trying to get into my 13 location to vote. There were people parked 14 inappropriately on -- hash marked (phonetic). Let 15 me tell you, I went -- walked three blocks in my 16 wheelchair to get to vote. Once I got inside that 17 location, the signage isn't accessible. And no 18 matter who you are, no one wants to feel as though 19 you can't. I also told -- saw them tell somebody 20 else to go home because they didn't need to vote.

21 So what I'm imploring you to do today is 22 to please provide accommodations, give people those 23 rights to privacy and access because, to me, I find 24 it a privilege to live in Richland County and I just 25 want to have the equal opportunity to vote like

1 ROBERT KOPP

2 everyone else does.

3 (Applause.)

4 THE COURT REPORTER: Would you please
5 spell your name?

6 MS. TEMPPIO: Sure. My name is Dori,
7 D-O-R-I, Tempio, T-E-M-P, like in Peter, I-O.

8 THE COURT REPORTER: Thank you.

9 MS. TEMPPIO: Did you have any questions?

10 DR. RUDOLPH: Would you please -- I
11 didn't hear.

12 MS. TEMPPIO: Okay. My name is Dori. D,
13 like in David, O-R-I. And my last name is Tempio.
14 That's T as in Tom, E as in elephant, M like in 15 Mary, P like in Peter, I-O.

16 DR. RANDOLPH: Thank you.

17 MS. BLOODGOOD: Mr. Robert Kopp.

18 MR. KOPP: That's me, sorry. I'm going
19 to be reading testimony from Matthew Phillips, a 20 private citizen who couldn't be here today.

21 The right to vote is a constitutional
22 right, important to everyone in every community.
23 Those who have disabilities should not be denied 24 this opportunity to express their opinion on who 25 would -- who they would like to have serve in a

1 ROBERT KOPP

2 leadership role.

3 An item that should be considered is not 4 just the right to vote but the accessibility to 5 vote. This is an issue I have contended with every 6 election year. Changes must be made in the voting 7 process for those who are blind or may not have 8 access to reading the printed word. As someone who 9 is blind, I have encountered the problem of 10 inaccessibility at the polls. The voting machines 11 are not accessible for those who are blind. I have 12 to have someone read the names of each candidate to 13 me but, to me, it's impersonal when I have to tell 14 them who I'm voting for. This is a private issue.
15 Even though my assistant is someone I can trust it 16 would be -- it would make me feel better about 17 voting if I could vote using an accessible machine 18 while keeping my votes personal.

19 The other issue, which is also an issue,
20 accessibility is having the freedom to maneuver 21 around in the building. I would not know what 22 machines were open or where they -- or where they 23 were located in the facility. Therefore, I cannot 24 be dropped off in the polling place, vote and picked 25 up later. Those who work the polls need to be

1 ROBERT KOPP

2 informed of all accessibility issues, not just for 3 those who are blind but anyone who may have an issue 4 with voting independently. Anyone with any 5 disability doesn't need their constitutional right 6 to vote denied. There must be change -- there must 7 be changes made so they can keep that right and have 8 their say on the best man or woman for serving on a 9 local or national level.

10 Accessibility is the key for helping 11 those who are blind or have physical disabilities
12 maintain their independence in voting. Knowledge -- 13 knowing what is available and how it works is 14 important to those who vote and for those who 15 oversee the voting process. Voting for people who 16 have disabilities is not just a right but a free 17 right. Doing this freely may increase an 18 individual's self-esteem and they may feel proud 19 that they have hopefully voted for the right 20 candidate or at least the candidate of their choice.

21 THE COURT REPORTER: Can I have your 22 last name, please?

23 MR. KOPP: Kopp, K-O-P-P.

24 THE COURT REPORTER: Thank you.

25 MR. KOPP: Reading for Matthew Phillips.

1 NIKKY FINNEY

2 MS. BLOODGOOD: Nikky Finney.

3 MS. FINNEY: Good afternoon, everyone.

4 I did not plan to stand up before you today. I was 5 only bringing my father and my mom to this session.
6 I was going to be quiet and maybe write a poem later
7 about something I heard, but I am compelled to stand 8 and say something in this moment.

9 I have been home 129 days now. Yes, I
10 have been counting. I fled South Carolina when I 11 was 18 years old because I did not think I could 12 become the woman that I wanted to become in this 13 state. And what is happening now, still in South
14 Carolina, makes me understand why I left. And I
15 have -- I'm standing here not as the daughter of him
16 or the daughter of her. I am standing here, my own 17 woman, to say this to you today.

18 And the Commissioner on the end here I
19 have to say something about. As she began she said, 20 I'm not important. I'm not an important person.
21 And I want to say part of why I left was because 22 there were so many important people here doing
23 things when I left in 1975 who didn't see themselves
24 as important. And they were critical, crucial.
25 Without Gilda Cobb-Hunter, who's one of my heroes,

1 NIKKY FINNEY

2 half the things that -- that circulate in the air
3 right now as it addresses people of color and black 4 people wouldn't be in the air. She's a critical 5 component to what's happening now.

6 I am an artist, I am a poet, I am now
7 a -- I hold a chair at the University of South
8 Carolina. Something I never thought would happen.
9 I never thought I would be back here. But now that 10 I am back, let me say this.

11 My job, after being the daughter of him
12 and her, is to say aloud to this community, please 13 tell your stories. Please stand up and come to 14 meetings like this, because this will never change 15 in this state until we understand that every voice, 16 whether it's a commissioner or a judge or anybody -- 17 you know, they always let -- and this is one of the 18 things in South Carolina. They'll let one black 19 person come through.

20 MR. MCLAWHORN: Yes, ma'am.

21 MS. FINNEY: And that's my father I'm 22 talking about. They'll let one come through. But 23 they will stop the gates after him for another 24 hundred years. And we don't have that -- we can't 25 tolerate that anymore. We have to stand up. We

1 NIKKY FINNEY

2 have to write the newspaper if they don't cover a 3 story and say, why didn't you cover this story? We 4 have to call the television station when they cut 5 off the person that we want to be on that nightly
6 news segment to say, why didn't you show
7 Commissioner so and so saying that very important 8 thing? They're human beings behind everything that 9 happened to us at the voting poll, in the newspaper, 10 at the TV station, even here today. We all have a 11 critical voice to add.

12 I am an artist. I wrote -- I won the 13 National Book Award in 2011, and you know what I
14 talked about? South Carolina. I stood up and I
15 said in 1739 -- 1739 my ancestors, African people
16 who were enslaved in South Carolina, there was a 17 law, the Black 'Hos of South Carolina, that read if 18 that person over there with black skin tries to 19 vote, tries to read -- I'm sorry, I'm going to make 20 the connection -- tries to read or tries to write, 21 kill them. Cut their feet off, cut their hands off, 22 gouge their eyes. But whatever you do, don't let 23 them read or write.

24 Arc to today. The same thing is 25 happening on another level. Do whatever you have to

1 NIKKY FINNEY

2 do -- lie, cheat and steal, but don't let the black 3 community en masse come into the voting booth to 4 vote. Why? Because it will change everything.

5 That law of 1739, in my mind, connects 6 with the laws of 2014 and connects with why -- what 7 is happening to voting rights in America is 8 happening right now. And I ask you, please get 9 involved. Don't be silent. People of all walks of 10 life, of all color and all culture, we need to have 11 a progressive movement so that people in the 12 legislature, so that people who make the laws who 13 won't -- who at this point won't change the 14 districts will have another thing to think about in 15 the future of South Carolina.

16 I didn't come home to sit idly by. I
17 came home to teach and I came home to be involved, 18 and that's why I had to stand up today. So I ask 19 you to join me and join the rest of the people who 20 really cannot sit by. Don't just come to the 21 meeting today. Find some organization and some way 22 to get involved so that what they predict will 23 happen won't happen. Thank you.

24 (Applause.)

25 MS. BLOODGOOD: Kevin Myles.

1 KEVIN MYLES

2 MR. MYLES: Good afternoon -- or I
3 should say good evening, Commissioners. I would 4 like to just take a brief second and add another 5 dimension to a piece of testimony that we've already 6 heard from our partners over at the League of Women
7 Voters.

8 There's a bill that was spoken to, and 9 that is Senate Bill 227 that would require proof of 10 citizenship at the time of registration here in 11 South Carolina. This is a bill -- this is not the 12 first time that it's been introduced. This is one 13 of those bills that's kind of made its circuits. It 14 was introduced in the State of Kansas, it was 15 introduced in the State of Arizona, and there's 16 another piece to the impact of that bill that I 17 think is important to get on the record.

18 While our partner from the League of 19 Women Voters talked about the people who would be 20 disenfranchised by such a bill, perhaps one of the 21 more insidious aspects of requiring proof of 22 citizenship at the time of registration is what it 23 does to organizations like the NAACP and like the 24 League of Women Voters who typically would go out 25 and have voter registration drives and try to help

1 KEVIN MYLES

2 people register to vote -- particularly people who 3 may be of low income and may be more likely not to 4 have a driver's license or a state issued ID.

5 But South Carolina statute does allow a 6 person to include their driver's license number on 7 their voter registration form if they are 8 registering to vote; however, if they don't have a 9 driver's license or a state issued ID they would 10 have to prove their citizenship by producing either 11 a birth certificate, a passport or some 12 naturalization certificate that no third party
13 registrar could certify. If they did not have a 14 driver's license, that person could not be 15 registered by any voter registration drive by any 16 organization. They would then have to go all the 17 way to the Board of Elections to register themselves 18 which would be all the more difficult because they 19 don't have a driver's license.

20 So the impact, the practical impact of a 21 bill that requires proof of citizenship at the time
22 of registration, is not just that it disenfranchises 23 certain people who would like to register to vote, 24 but it also makes it harder for organizations who 25 are out there trying to mitigate that difficulty.

1 KEVIN MYLES

2 And I wanted to just take a brief moment and make 3 sure that we got that on the record, because this is 4 one of those bills that has dual impacts and we want 5 to make sure that we're highlighting that. Thank 6 you.

7 MS. BRIDGETT TRIPP: What's the Bill
8 number?

9 MR. MYLES: Senate Bill 227.

10 (Applause.)

11 MS. ARNOLD: If there are no further
12 questions for any of our witnesses we can take a 13 brief break before the next panel.

14 (No response.)

15 MS. ARNOLD: So we can just take a brief 16 break and since we're ahead of schedule why don't we 17 reconvene at 4:45?

18 (A recess transpired.)

19 MS. ARNOLD: I just want to remind you 20 about Twitter. We set up a hash tag and that's 21 NCVR. So, again, that's hash tag NCVR, National 22 Commission on Voting Rights, and that's 23 @lawyerscomm, L-A-W-Y-E-R-S-C-O-M-M.

24 Again, I said this earlier but I want 25 just to remind this again, this is a nonpartisan.

1 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL

2 fact-finding hearing. So now just to begin, before 3 we get into the meat of this second panel, I want to 4 welcome our guest Commissioner who's just come,
5 Professor Duncan Buell. He's going to offer a few 6 opening remarks and then we will begin again with 7 the second set of witnesses. Thank you.

8 PROFESSOR BUELL: Thank you. I couldn't 9 make it for the earlier part because I had to teach
10 a class, but I'm here. I'm a computer science 11 professor at the University of South Carolina and, 12 in a nutshell, I am the person who has run the 13 programs to analyze the election data outcomes for 14 South Carolina since 2010 when we started with a 15 group of people and working with the League of Women 16 Voters to collect the data and then analyze the 17 data. That was when we discovered that not all the 18 votes were counted in Richland County in 2010,
19 neither Colleton County nor the State of South 20 Carolina could get the Colleton County right in 21 2010.

22 We were able to get it right, we were 23 able to put all the different pieces of data
24 together and account for all of the votes. In 2012
25 I analyzed the data and I was the one who spent a

1 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL

2 lot of time working with Steve Hamm analyzing the 3 Richland County results to figure out what actually 4 went wrong and why we had lines and why we had 29
5 votes in Keels precinct after midnight in 2012.

6 At that time I was getting pinged by a
7 lot of different people with a lot of different 8 agendas and I tried to say that I was not interested 9 in dealing specifically with the policy issues. I 10 wanted to deal with the numbers issues to be able to 11 make sure that if we're going to make policy 12 decisions we make policy decisions based on the 13 accurate data that we have and not based on 14 conspiracy theory.

15 And I will say that -- I will have to 16 say Cliff LeBlanc from The State Newspaper
17 understood what he and I spent about six hours 18 together as he was writing this story, I think he 19 got it right. I was interviewed by another 20 journalist and spent three or four hours with him
21 and then he published the same old conspiracy 22 theories about people being shorted machines in 23 Richland County in November 2012.

24 My experience and my data did not show
25 that there was anything but a major screw-up. There

1 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL

2 was nondiscriminatory shortage of voting machines
3 all across the county and there were lines all 4 across the county. It should have been caught, it
5 wasn't caught. There are ways to make things right
6 and I have been trying with the Election Commission
7 in Richland County especially to at least help them
8 explain why they're not getting it right.

9 The other thing I will say is that in 10 November 2010, when I looked at the data, there was 11 a lot of messy data all over the state. There were 12 a number of counties that had major flaws in the 13 process of collecting the data from the machines.
14 Richland County was a problem, Colleton County was a 15 problem, Oconee County only came up with a third of 16 the vote data, Charleston County never did get all 17 of its votes counted.

18 In November 2012, after the League of 19 Women Voters published their press release after the 20 State Election Commission started working on things, 21 the data was a lot cleaner. Having someone look 22 over the shoulder of the counties seems to have a 23 very beneficial effect on at least having data that 24 we know we can trust. We cannot guarantee that the 25 machines are actually storing the votes as they are

1 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL

2 cast, but given the data we can at least make sure
3 that all of the votes that we know about get counted
4 the way they should, and that's part of the process
5 that I would like to make sure we continue with in 6 the future.

7 And I spent four days in Washington,
8 D.C. last week with the Overseas Vote Foundation at 9 a workshop on next generation voting systems. There 10 are better ways to do voting than the machines we're 11 using now. And there are a lot of very smart people 12 working on it, I'd like to think I was one of the 13 smart people, but I was certainly with some of the 14 smart people. And we had election commissioners, we 15 had the election commissioner from Los Angeles
16 County, from Travis County, Texas which is Austin, 17 from Albuquerque, New Mexico and Tallahassee, 18 Florida. So we had a lot of input from local 19 election officials on what absolutely has to be done 20 to make the elections run properly.

21 But then, also, we had technical people,
22 we had lawyers on how to make sure that we get it 23 done according to law but with a system that will 24 allow people to vote and record the votes. What is 25 it? The votes need to be cast as intended and

1 MAGGIE KNOWLES

2 counted as cast. And that's what I have been trying 3 to see that we do.

4 (Applause.)

5 MR. MCLAWHORN: We're going to call you
6 to come up and I've been told that we need to try to 7 stay on schedule. We have about five minutes and 8 there is a timekeeper. Let's try to make her job
9 easier this time. Let's hear from Ms. Maggie 10 Knowles -- Knowles?

11 MS. KNOWLES: Knowles.

12 MR. MCLAWHORN: Knowles.

13 MS. KNOWLES: Good evening. My name is 14 Maggie Knowles and I am the Protection and Advocacy
15 for Voting Access Coordinator at the statewide 16 nonprofit Protection and Advocacy for People with 17 Disabilities. I have submitted to you all and will 18 speak briefly about our polling place survey, 19 polling place accessibility, ensuring access for 20 voters with disabilities.

21 This report is a compilation of three 22 surveys that P&A has conducted. The first was a 23 statewide survey conducted during the November 2012
24 election. The second was done in Charleston County 25 during a special election in August 2013. And the

1 MAGGIE KNOWLES

2 third was in Richland County during the November
3 2013 election.

4 Currently, one in nine voting age
5 Americans has a disability; yet, these voters face a 6 number of obstacles in participating in the 7 democratic process. We at P&A believe that to 8 guarantee that these voters have the right to vote, 9 we need to improve three main areas.

10 The first is that poll workers need to 11 have the training on how to work effectively with 12 all voters, especially those with disabilities. The 13 second is that we need to ensure polling places are 14 accessible to all voters. This includes parking 15 lots, entrances and ballots. The third is that 16 curbside voting must be implemented consistently at 17 all precincts. Only when we improve these three 18 areas can people with disabilities exercise their 19 right to vote privately and independently.

20 We believe poll worker training should 21 be provided for poll workers that includes the 22 knowledge of the needs and abilities for people with 23 disabilities. This needs to include things like 24 respectful, first person language, how and when to 25 offer assistance to people, and how to communicate

1 MAGGIE KNOWLES

2 effectively. At one polling location a server -- 3 surveyor was told by a poll worker, honestly, 4 someone with a disability cannot drive here. At 5 another location an individual was told that was 6 trying to vote, your problem must be mental. You 7 don't look handicapped to me.

8 These types of misconceptions and 9 degrading remarks can be resolved with education.
10 Voters with disability encounter barriers in all the 11 areas that we surveyed. This included accessible 12 parking spaces, difficulty accessing single -- 13 difficulty accessing the voting area and difficulty 14 accessing voting machines. Twenty-five percent of 15 the locations we surveyed did not have a single van 16 accessible parking space.

17 We found entrances were not simply wide 18 enough for wheelchairs. We found ramps that were 19 too steep or unstable, and that the path of travel 20 was not often even clear for people to pass through.
21 Accessible ballots often were not available, and too 22 frequently when the accessible ballots were 23 available the poll workers did not know how to 24 utilize them.

25 At one polling location we found a sign

MAGGIE KNOWLES

1
2 going to the accessible entrance; except when you 3 looked to where the arrow pointed, it went to the 4 street -- the house across the street. At another 5 location we found that there was no ramp from the 6 parking lot to the sidewalk and there was no 7 accessible entrance from the sidewalk to the 8 building. Instead, there was a flight of five 9 stairs.

10 Often these areas of accessibility are 11 basic and easy to fix with the foresight and 12 training of poll workers so that they can learn how 13 to look for barriers when they arrive.

14 The purpose of curbside voting is to 15 allow people with disabilities to vote on Election 16 Day. Yet, we found that a third of all locations we 17 surveyed did not have a sign up indicating that 18 curbside voting was available to them. At nearly 19 half of the locations curbside voting was not 20 checked every 15 minutes as it was supposed to be.
21 At one location a man told us he was leaving after 22 one hour waiting in his car. He had sent a passerby 23 inside and asked them to help but, still, no one 24 came out. At another location a 72-year-old man 25 with Parkinson's disease was denied curbside voting

1 KAREN RUTHERFORD

2 because he did not have a parking placard on his 3 car. One of his children had driven him that day.
4 He then went inside to vote, he was determined to 5 vote, but was denied a chair to sit in because he 6 had the long wait. He ended up sitting on the floor 7 for hours.

8 In the 2012 national election 15.6
9 million people with disabilities voted; yet, there 10 are currently 35 million people with disabilities of 11 voting age in this country. We must improve 12 training accessibility and curbside voting so that 13 people with disabilities can exercise their right to 14 vote. Thank you.

15 (Applause.)

16 MR. MCLAWHORN: Ms. Karen Rutherford.

17 MS. RUTHERFORD: Good afternoon. I 18 represent approximately 3,000 students in a very 19 close proximity to this agency. And we have had an 20 insurmountable amount of problems trying to register
21 our students this year with the new voter ID bill.
22 It has become so complex that the students were 23 frustrated and felt that it perhaps did not mean for 24 them to vote in the first place.

25 We have had a lot of representation and

1 KAREN RUTHERFORD

2 help from Richland County. They did bring cameras
3 up to the campus at least four times, but the first 4 two times were not successful because the kids 5 didn't have a PO Box and they must have a PO Box in 6 order to register to vote. So we were inundated 7 with just many, many barriers to try to get these 8 students who probably were not excited about going 9 to vote anyway because they always were told that 10 that was not something that they were supposed to do 11 or something that they should want to do or 12 something that was their right.

13 And now it's become more and more
14 difficult with this new process that we get it so 15 that the kids can do it, so that I can go in and 16 somehow get them at least down here or get the 17 cameras up there to photograph them and take their 18 pictures and get them registered to vote. And that 19 is my issue and that is my plight because it's very, 20 very difficult.

21 MR. MCLAWHORN: Thank you very much.

22 (Applause.)

23 MR. MCLAWHORN: Mr. James Felder.

24 MR. FELDER: Commissioners, ladies and 25 gentlemen, good afternoon. I'm Jim Felder and I

1 JAMES FELDER

2 represent the South Carolina Voter Education
3 Project, an organization that came into being in 4 1966 to implement the '65 Voting Rights Act. I was 5 one of its first paid employees, today I'm a 6 volunteer. They pay me $1 a year to head the 7 organization, but I have a passion about what we do.

8 In 1967 South Carolina had only eight
9 black elected officials in the entire state and less 10 than 50,000 registered voters. That has changed.
11 With the help of NAACP, its branches throughout the 12 state, we're now at the 901,000 registered voters, 13 African-Americans, and over 900 black elected
14 officials.

15 I want to say ditto to everything that's 16 been said so far about accessibility and preparation 17 for voting. Those are real issues but I want to 18 focus for a minute on the poll workers, the poll 19 managers, the poll workers, the people who see that 20 this is done. In the Army we said there's the right 21 way and the wrong way and the Army way. All right.
22 Well, some of these poll managers think the same
23 thing. It's their way, the government way and maybe 24 somebody else's way.

25 As a result of that, poll managers --

1 JAMES FELDER

2 there's disparities all over the place about how 3 they run a voting precinct and that needs to be 4 addressed. My thinking is that they should be more 5 assertive in advising voters what they need to do at 6 the polls. Nobody should leave the election 7 precinct or voting place without voting. They 8 should tell people that so that nobody leaves, but 9 they don't. You know, a few instances you have some 10 who do it but, uniformly, it is not done. So you 11 have a lot of people discouraged and they leave the 12 voting place, don't know they could have voted a 13 provisional ballot or what have you. That needs to 14 be changed or that needs to be a part of the 15 training of poll workers.

16 Security, that is a problem. Benedict
17 is a good example. You may need to alert the local 18 police department, sheriff's departments to have 19 somebody on duty at precincts where you know there 20 have been problems or where there may be problems so 21 that that poll manager doesn't have to argue with 22 elected officials or have to argue with the 23 surrogates of these people and take time away from 24 what they need to do.

25 So my point is we need to focus more

1 CARRIE FAIR

2 training. That's a job you only do every two years 3 and it changes so rapidly and newcomers come all the 4 time, so we need to invest more dollars in the 5 training aspect of it. Instead of once a year 6 training maybe there needs to be a six-month
7 training because there are elections all year
8 long -- special elections, school elections, city
9 council and so forth.

10 So that's the area I'd like to see us 11 focus on. More training, more poll managers and, 12 consequently, more training for poll workers. And 13 if we do that the elections can run smoothly, we 14 won't have all the long lines we've had in the past, 15 the people know what they're doing or what's 16 expected of them. They can produce, they can 17 execute.

18 So that is my recommendation to the 19 panel, that's how I feel about it, that's how the 20 Education Project feels about it, and I'll take any 21 questions that the panel may have at the appropriate 22 time. Thank you.

23 (Applause.)

24 MR. MCLAWHORN: Ms. Carrie Fair.

25 MS. FAIR: Good afternoon. My name is

1 CARRIE FAIR

2 Carrie Fair, I'm here representing the Jasper County
3 Northern Neighborhood Association which is a 4 nonprofit organization in Jasper County. We took on 5 a project at the beginning of the year to go out and 6 register voters. Our purpose is to educate and to 7 empower voters, letting them know of their rights 8 and their privilege to vote.

9 Our concern would be barriers and 10 impediments that will prevent people from voting.
11 Some of my concerns are the same as your concern 12 here today, though, the people who have come up and 13 spoke so far. We're concerned that our voters will 14 be turned away from the poll if they do not have an 15 ID. We are concerned that those people who are 16 unable to fill out affidavits, who cannot read or 17 write will have the privilege to cast a vote on the 18 day of voting.

19 And so we are very concerned that we 20 have people at the poll that will not let them know 21 that they can vote if they don't have an ID, that 22 they would have -- they have the privilege of 23 voting. And there's some mechanism put into place
24 if they do not have their ID on that particular day, 25 they can go to the Board of Election and show that

CARRIE FAIR

1
2 they do have proof. Of those who do not have ID at 3 all, we don't want any votes to be turned back on 4 that day. We want everyone to be able to vote on 5 that day and no one at the polls should be turned 6 around on that day, so we have these issues that 7 concerns us deeply.

8 We have the issue of felons in the State
9 of South Carolina. A felon who has -- who's not 10 incarcerated, who has served their term on 11 probation, who not -- who are not on parole, they 12 have the right to vote. That is the law in the 13 State of South Carolina. It says so. And so we 14 want to make sure that these -- these people have 15 the opportunity to vote. We're even registering 16 felons -- quite a few felons that come and want to 17 register. We have been in the school system, we 18 hope to bring out another 200 votes in the school 19 system. In the month of March we'll be in the 20 colleges. We hope to bring out a number of new 21 registered voters from the colleges in the month of 22 March. So we've been working and after that we plan
23 to go into -- into our areas, do some grass root 24 pulling out people, asking them to come out and 25 vote.

1 SUSAN SMITH

2 But when they get to the poll, we need
3 people there that would help them. My 4 recommendation is that since you have appointed poll 5 managers and you have high poll watchers, they're 6 not doing their job, there should be an independent 7 representative at the poll to help these people, 8 guide them and -- so they can cast their vote on 9 that day. Thank you.

10 (Applause.)

11 MR. MCLAWHORN: Ms. Susan Smith.

12 MS. SMITH: Hi. Thanks for having me.
13 Thanks for letting me speak. Actually I have lost 14 what I wanted to say because I agree with so many of 15 the speakers today.

16 I do want to address something that was 17 said a little bit earlier about the poll clerks and 18 assertiveness. It just so happens -- I'm trying to 19 keep this nonpartisan. It just so happens that half 20 the people in this room already know this but I am a 21 Democrat. I happen to live in a very, very 22 Republican precinct. And so many times, though, I 23 have lived in this precinct for 14 years, these poll 24 clerks want to guide me and -- guide me towards 25 voting for folks in the party that they prefer

1 SUSAN SMITH

2 instead of the party that I prefer. And so this 3 intimidation or voter intimidation can go both ways 4 and so I just wanted to address that as part of the 5 bigger problem.

6 I think -- I was talking to this young
7 lady up here about the use of provisional ballots 8 and fail-safe ballots and I know this is supposed to 9 be implemented in every county and, yet, it isn't in 10 my county, in Georgetown County. That is not 11 something that's emphasized very much at all. And I 12 have been a poll watcher for my particular political 13 party for many years and I know what occurs.

14 So, I mean, there are problems with the 15 ballots, there are problems I -- the electronic 16 ballots, which my favorite issue in the world is 17 electronic voting. And I've collected anecdotal 18 evidence since 2000 and I've had snaffews and 19 problems that have happened to me personally on 20 these electronic voting machines that we use in 21 South Carolina. Some of this is sloppiness on -- 22 from a poll clerk or a poll manager and some of 23 it -- well, the problem is we just can't explain 24 what some of these problems are.

25 We can't explain what they are in these

1 DR. WANDA EUGENE

2 voting machines, we can't tell what happens to our 3 vote when it -- when it -- when we press that 4 button. We just can't tell. We don't have a paper
5 trail, we don't have -- we don't have a paper trail, 6 we don't have an open source code which is something 7 that I think we need in South Carolina if we 8 continue using this old dead dying system of 9 electronic voting machines.

10 So I guess I'm here to say what I would 11 like to see is a return to paper ballots because I 12 think we have less problems with paper ballots than 13 we do with these rickety old voting machines that 14 have no paper trail and no accountability. So, 15 there, I've said my peace. Thank you.

16 (Applause.)

17 MR. MCLAWHORN: Dr. Wanda Eugene.

18 DR. EUGENE: Good afternoon. My name is 19 Dr. Wanda Eugene from Clemson University. I'm part 20 of the Human-Centered Computing Lab, I'm here
21 representing Dr. Martin Gilbert. On his behalf, 22 though, I'll be reading from his written testimony.
23 I'm able to answer questions.

24 In 2002 Congress issued the Help
25 American Act -- Vote Act to better equip our nation

1 DR. WANDA EUGENE

2 for voting in this century to respond to the 2000
3 presidential election. You may recall the many 4 issues that were -- that our nation experienced in 5 2000 with respect to voting, especially in Florida 6 with the hanging chads. The final report of the 7 Presidential Commission on Election Administration
8 released last month stated by the end of the decade 9 a large share of the nation's voting machines bought 10 ten years ago with the HAVA funds will reach the end 11 of their natural life, and I think that was just 12 mentioned previously, and require a replacement. To 13 address this impeding challenge and to usher us into 14 the next generation of voting machines, the 15 standards and certification process for new voting 16 technology must be reformed so as to encourage 17 innovation and to facilitate the adoption of widely 18 available off the shelf technologies software only 19 solutions, end of quote.

20 With these issues in mind, I am 21 providing testimony on a decade's worth of 22 technol -- voting technology research and 23 development. In 2003 my research team developed the 24 first version of Prime 3. When we developed Prime 3 25 it was conventional thought that voting technology

1 DR. WANDA EUGENE

2 was the way -- was the way to conduct election for 3 people with disabilities, there would be a separate 4 accessible voting machine.

5 Prime 3 is a software based research
6 development platform for voting. As election
7 officials and presidential -- President's Commission
8 consider software only solution, Prime 3 has been a 9 software only solution for over ten years. We set 10 the standards of software only voting solutions.

11 Prime 3 runs on commercially off the 12 shelf components. It's a universal designed voting 13 system. This means one machine for everyone, 14 independent of your ability or disability. Prime 3 15 allows people to vote via by touch screen, touching 16 a two button switch using their voice via headset 17 with a microphone. Therefore, if you can't see, if 18 you can't hear, if you can't read, or even if you 19 don't have arms, you can privately independently 20 vote on the same machine as everyone else. As such, 21 Prime 3 is the world's most accessible voting 22 technology.

23 Our work in Prime 3 has been funded by 24 the National Science Foundation and recently a $4.5
25 million grant from the U.S. Election Assistance

1 DR. WANDA EUGENE

2 Commission. Also, we received funding from the 3 Election Systems & Software and everyone counts.

4 We are not vendors. Prime 3 is free and 5 available to the public. With respect to security, 6 it is not possible with Prime 3 to change the 7 outcome of an election undetectable. We have vetted 8 Prime 3 with multiple security experts across the 9 country. None of them have been able to change the 10 results undetected. One reason we have such -- such 11 a high security is that Prime 3 produces a paper
12 ballot. It doesn't store any votes. So,
13 essentially, Prime 3 is a sophisticated ink pen,
14 it's an accessible ballot creation tool.

15 Although Prime 3 is essential to our 16 research, we have other projects relevant to today's 17 testimony. In the last presidential election, 18 voters experienced significant wait times,
19 especially in areas such as here in Richland County.
20 As a result of these wait times, we created a 21 technology called Voter Pass. Voter Pass allows 22 voters to use their telephone, mobile devices,
23 laptops or other computing devices to schedule a 24 time to vote on Election Day. Essentially, Voter 25 Pass is an election day line management tool.

1 DR. WANDA EUGENE

2 It works as following. Prior to Election
3 Day voters will call the Voter Pass system and 4 reserve a time to vote. On Election Day they will 5 arrive at the precinct where they will be -- where 6 there will be at least two lines, with one line
7 dictated for -- dedicated for Voter Pass. When a 8 voter arrives, she will enter the Voter Pass line 9 and at the end of the line an election worker will 10 be there with a tablet or a laptop device.

11 Another system that we've also 12 created -- well, another technique called Balloting
13 will help reduce voting time lines. More voters -- 14 excuse me -- reduce voting times and engage more 15 voters in the election.

16 Prime 3, Voter Pass and Balloting are 17 three of the many projects in our labs. Clemson 18 University has many different, making a difference 19 in elections. Our research has been tested by every 20 demographic in the population -- in the voting 21 population for over the past ten years. We 22 demonstrated that these innovations are feasible, 23 securable, usable and accessible.

24 I would like to thank you for the 25 opportunity for inviting me here to provide this

COLLOQUY

1
2 testimony today. And although Dr. Gilbert -- he 3 sends his apologies for not able -- not being able 4 to be here to provide his testimony in person.

5 Thank you.

6 (Applause.)

7 MS. ARNOLD: So at this time we'll allow 8 the guest commissioners to ask questions to any of 9 the witnesses who presented testimony for us.

10 MS. BLOODGOOD: I have a question for 11 Susan Smith.

12 MS. SMITH: Yes.

13 MS. BLOODGOOD: I -- I have encountered
14 lots of problems counting paper ballots. You put 15 the paper ballots in four times and four times you 16 get different results. Do you -- going back to 17 paper ballots is a pretty significant change. Is 18 there anyone who's doing that and is there any 19 reason that some of the new products like -- that 20 were just mentioned here or better security wouldn't 21 solve the same?

22 MS. SMITH: Well, that I don't -- don't 23 have an answer to that but I -- as far as an 24 implementation of a new system, we know that the 25 ES&S iVotronic machines are on their last gasp. We

COLLOQUY

1
2 know that some of the counties are probably using 3 very old batteries for the mother boards and 4 internal documents from the Election Commission
5 shows that they think that the shelf life is four 6 years -- four to five years instead of the ten years 7 that they told everybody.

8 I'm just thinking is if there is no
9 money in the legislature, I know that the House of 10 Representatives -- the State House of 11 Representatives set aside a million dollars last 12 year to study a new system and to -- you know, the 13 process of a new system and then the South Carolina 14 Senate took it away. So I would actually like to 15 know what kind of money is being put aside to 16 implement a new system. There's going to be a lot 17 of cost no matter what -- no matter what you try. I 18 just -- that's a question I have and that could be 19 for anyone to answer, but I just don't know the 20 answer to that one.

21 MS. BLOODGOOD: Thank you. That's a
22 good question.

23 DR. RUDOLPH: I have -- and I guess we 24 can make comments, also, as opposed to a question of 25 a speaker. And, again, all of our speakers have

COLLOQUY

1
2 made excellent comments. I just wish that the 170
3 people downtown at Main and Gervais could hear the 4 comments because those are the ones, in addition to 5 the people here, and I hope the persons in the 6 audience will go back to your communities and talk 7 with those 4.7 million people in South Carolina.
8 All of them are not voters, but above the age of 18.
9 I'm sure we have enough people that can cause some 10 positive changes to take place in this state to help 11 the people of the state, not the elected officials, 12 in trying to help wherever they can.

13 But Mr. Felder made a comment earlier 14 and I do want to ask him if he would -- both he and 15 Ms. Fair. The training you mentioned, have more 16 enforcement there. If you would, please, I would 17 only add to your training for employees of the 18 voter. Ms. Rutherford, we are quite aware of the 19 incident at Benedict College several years ago where 20 students were just harassed. Law enforcement was 21 there, but law enforcement doesn't know the laws of 22 voting. So I'm asking you would you include in 23 your -- your packet, because I don't know whether or 24 not you're going to -- these documentations are -- 25 this is recorded, that you would include training

COLLOQUY

1
2 for law enforcement personnel on the law so that 3 because at Benedict -- and we were there all day, 4 that problem could have been -- could have been 5 resolved as soon as it happened if law enforcement 6 did the training.

7 MR. FELDER: I will amend my remarks to 8 include that.

9 DR. RUDOLPH: Thank you, sir.

10 MR. FELDER: That law enforcement would 11 train also on the law -- and we're not talking about 12 all of them. Each law enforcement jurisdiction can 13 assign certain people to do that and have them be 14 prepped on the law and how to deal with it on 15 Election Day, so I amend my remarks in that. Thank 16 you.

17 DR. RANDOLPH: As well as Ms. Fair, I 18 thank you for your comments particularly regarding 19 felons. Seventy-two percent of the people who are 20 incarcerated in South Carolina are pigmented people.
21 We know why. History and that also disenfranchises
22 voters, but I think -- and I hope you would include 23 in your comments an amendment also to save that -- 24 those persons who have been charged are not felons.
25 And we should let folks vote when they go to the

COLLOQUY

1
2 drive -- get their driver's license, social 3 services, disabilities, wouldn't it be nice for us 4 to require the -- in each county those correctional 5 facilities, those young men and women that come 6 there, give them the opportunity to vote. They 7 haven't been charged and only after convicted do 8 they lose their right to vote. So I'm asking would 9 you mind --

10 MS. FAIR: Yes, sir. I will -- I agree
11 to amend as well.

12 DR. RANDOLPH: Thank you, ma'am.

13 MR. MCLAWHORN: Dr. Eugene, I was very 14 interested in your comments about the security 15 protection because I, personally, always felt that 16 voting in these electronic machines could be 17 compromised -- a vote could be compromised in that 18 instance. And I was interesting -- interested in 19 your observations that y'all have a vetted security 20 system and a back-up where you use the paper ballot.
21 Can you elaborate a little more and, also, have you
22 all had any discussion with the Election Commission 23 or whoever the most appropriate person is since the 24 machines that we currently have are about to expire?

25 DR. EUGENE: Yes. Yes. The paper

COLLOQUY

1
2 ballot isn't a back-up. Prime 3 does not store the 3 data. It's just -- like I said, it's a fancy pen.
4 All it is is a ballot marking device. The paper
5 ballot is the official ballot that is counted.

6 And so with that, that's what makes the 7 system secure because you can't hack the system to 8 change the outcome of the election because in order 9 to do that it's the paper ballot that the voter 10 takes and casts is what's counted.

11 As far as your -- what was your -- I'm 12 sorry. Can you please restate your follow-up
13 question?

14 MR. MCLAWHORN: I guess other questions,
15 have you all presented this to the appropriate
16 officials over voting in South Carolina?

17 DR. EUGENE: Yes.

18 MR. MCLAWHORN: What kind of response
19 did you get from them?

20 DR. EUGENE: (Indicating.)

21 MR. MCLAWHORN: That was a good answer, 22 too, by the way. Very good answer.

23 DR. EUGENE: It's a mixed response I
24 guess is the best way to explain it. With different 25 aspects -- we have been in several conversations.

COLLOQUY

1
2 We have some support, we have -- we've been working 3 with League of Women Voters and other entities as 4 far as ways to kind of adopt it in different areas 5 throughout the state but, overall, it's just been 6 kind of a mixed response where you have some support 7 from elected officials, et cetera, but the response 8 is a mixture.

9 MR. MCLAWHORN: Has it been used in 10 other states?

11 DR. EUGENE: It has been used in the 12 State of Oregon for their primaries and will be 13 using it in Wisconsin this April.

14 MR. MCLAWHORN: Are they satisfied with 15 it?

16 DR. EUGENE: Oregon is, yes. Wisconsin,
17 we'll know after April 1st.

18 MR. MCLAWHORN: Thank you.

19 MS. ARNOLD: So now we'll open things up 20 for public testimony. And just as a reminder to 21 everybody, if you have not signed up to testify and 22 you would like to please just come over here and 23 write your name down on a card and we'll pass it up 24 to the commissioners and they'll call your name.

25 MS. BLOODGOOD: Sandra Carr.

1 SAUNDRA CARR

2 THE COURT REPORTER: Can you spell your
3 name, please?

4 MS. CARR: S-A-U-N-D-R-A C-A-R-R.

5 THE COURT REPORTER: Thank you.

6 MS. CARR: Good afternoon, gentlemen and 7 lady. I just want to speak to you briefly about my 8 view -- I want to speak to you briefly about my view 9 of the situation here in South Carolina for voter
10 suppression.

11 To me, it appears that voters are 12 demonstrating some apparent ambivalence over the 13 fact that last year the Supreme Court gutted the 14 landmark Voting Rights of 1965. By eliminating the 15 protections that millions of people of color, 16 elderly and young voters and the poor -- and the 17 poor have depended on in the state who historically 18 have had major voting rights abuses.

19 Last month a new bipartisan bill, Voting 20 Rights Amendment Act of 2014, was introduced in 21 Congress to shore up the Voting Rights Act. The 22 bill will fix the provision the Supreme Court struck 23 down last Spring. This may not be the best written 24 bill; however, this is the best we have to modernize 25 and strengthen voter protection nationwide.

1 SAUNDRA CARR

2 Fighting suppression is going to require actions
3 such as this hearing.

4 South Carolina is a state known for its 5 traditionally conservative, deeply Southern and 6 heavily Christian population. While South Carolina 7 is solidly conservative as a whole, the state is 8 largely divided along geographical lines.

9 Northwestern regions, like Spartanburg and 10 Greenville, are the Upstate as it is known. They 11 are socially conservative with large evangelical and 12 Tea Party population, while economic conservatives
13 dominate the Coastal areas.

14 The flaws in the American election
15 system are deep and widespread, extending beyond 16 isolated voting issues in a few locations and 17 flaring up in states rich and poor according to a 18 new study from the Pew Charitable Trust Fund. The 19 Pew study focused on the 2008 and 2010 elections, 20 the most recent ones for which comprehensive data -- 21 data was available. The study also found wide 22 variation in how easy registering to vote can be, 23 and the study stated that North Dakota does not even 24 require it. And Alabama and Kansas reported 25 rejecting less than 0.05 percent of registration

1 SAUNDRA CARR

2 applicants in 2008. But Pennsylvania and Indiana
3 each rejected more than half of the registration 4 applications they received in 2010.

5 On Election Day, the voting experience
6 also can vary. The ten states with the shortest 7 waiting times at the polls in 2008 averaged six 8 minutes. The study found in South Carolina the wait 9 was more than an hour. And I worked the polls that 10 day and I didn't get home until ten o'clock that 11 night.

12 But it has also produced new problems by 13 shifting the voting by mail, which now accounts for 14 more -- for some 20 percent of all ballots cast.
15 And this is supposed to eliminate the lines, but 16 it's making more problems. In South Carolina we 17 pushed for voting by mail or absentee voting. I'm 18 not sure what the breakdown would be for South 19 Carolina. It might be worthwhile to find out, since 20 voting by mail is common place. And some states had 21 the highest rates of problems with voter
22 registration and absentee ballots. In 2010
23 California rejected absentee ballots seven percent 24 of the time, a higher rate than any other state.

25 According to researchers, states in the

1 SUSAN DUNN

2 deep South with high obesity problems seem to be 3 having a problem getting people to the voting place.
4 We may need to campaign for fasting on the day of 5 election. What will the world be like if we only 6 gave intense attention to education, correction,
7 transportation and public health problems for a 8 one-week period every four years?

9 Respectfully submitted, Sandra Carr.

10 (Applause.)

11 MS. BLOODGOOD: Susan is next.

12 MS. DUNN: My name is Susan Dunn. I'm 13 the legal director for the ACLU of South Carolina.
14 I think, as everyone knows, the United States
15 District Court of D.C. finally pre-cleared the photo
16 ID law of South Carolina, but only after South 17 Carolina represented to the Court that the 18 reasonable impediment exemption was really going to 19 make it so everybody would get to vote. This is how 20 it was presented. And the Court went on to say that 21 if that's not how reasonable impediment is actually 22 applied, then somebody ought to come back to the 23 Court and ask for the pre-clearance to be pulled.
24 Because -- it was only because they had that that 25 this was pre-cleared. So, of course, there was no

1 SUSAN DUNN

2 mechanism really in place for anyone to be 3 monitoring whether or not the pre-clearance
4 exemption is being applied.

5 So the ACLU, along with allies in the 6 state, have actually attempted, as best we can with 7 the resources that we have, to monitor how this is 8 happening. What we have done is we had a trained 9 person go to every certification hearing that we can 10 get to that has taken place since January of 2013
11 when the photo ID went into place and we've observed 12 what's happened. We were also able at one election 13 to have monitors at every single one of the 14 precincts for a particular election to see what 15 things looked like actually at the precinct. That 16 was the initial primary for the District 42 seat in 17 Charleston. We were able to get student resources 18 so that we could have someone actually physically 19 see every precinct -- not there for the whole time 20 it was open but actually be there for some of the 21 time to gather information.

22 Having done that, what we're able to see
23 and report are several things. One of the things 24 that the -- that was represented to the Court when 25 this law was pre-cleared was that even though the

1 SUSAN DUNN

2 statute says that the pre -- the reasonable 3 impediment has to be notarized, that that's not 4 really what it means. And that it can just be a 5 sworn statement, it doesn't have to be an affidavit
6 and it doesn't have to be a notary.

7 So how is that landing in the ground?
8 Well, it appears that there's no -- there's been no 9 real attempt to have notaries at the precinct, so 10 the need to be notarized has just been thrown out 11 the window completely. The statements are being 12 sworn by poll workers, but they're not really 13 affidavits. They're simply sworn statements.

14 There has been -- there has not been -- 15 at any of the certification hearings no one has 16 challenged any of the ballots for that reason, but 17 one has to be concerned about what would happen if 18 they were challenged. You know, this is not an 19 affidavit, you can't count that vote. You don't 20 know how that's going to happen because, actually, 21 if a person raised that challenge it would be a 22 valid and legitimate challenge.

23 Our concern is that unless the statute
24 is actually fixed to say that only a sworn statement 25 is required, there's always going to be a

1 SUSAN DUNN

2 possibility that votes will be thrown out on that 3 technicality -- which is not just a technicality but 4 good law.

5 The other question is do the officials
6 who are deciding whether to account the reasonable 7 impediment, do they know what they're doing? Are 8 they counting on them in the same way that the 9 officials of the state said that they would? The 10 officials said that they would count unless there 11 was a reason to believe that the person was not who 12 they said they were and that the -- there was not to 13 be an independent evaluation of what was reasonable 14 or what was an impediment, you know, but there had 15 to be some sense that this person was not who they 16 were.

17 It does seem -- at all of the 18 certification hearings that we went to, all of the 19 reasonable impediment affidavits that were -- that 20 were put in by people who did not have ID at all 21 were counted. So that's a good thing. However, 22 much of the conversation up to it leads us to 23 believe that many of the officials think these 24 affidavits should only be temporary, you know, like 25 how long somebody is not going to have

1 KAREN IRICK

2 transportation. They ask questions, they say they 3 don't have transportation but they got to the polls.
4 They did count them this time around, but how long 5 it's going to last is hard to know.

6 There -- there's -- there's a great deal 7 of confusion for people who show up at the polls and 8 who have an ID but don't have it with them. And 9 those people actually have to take action after they 10 vote in order to have the vote counted. That 11 information is not being passed on clearly. It's 12 really our suggestion that those people be given a 13 separate notification, not just this is the time and 14 place of the hearing, but you must do this in order 15 for your vote to be counted.

16 Some of those people were allowed to 17 fill in reasonable impediment affidavits which was 18 not appropriate for them, and some of those 19 people -- those folks were not counted even though 20 they filled out the affidavit. So that's it.

21 MR. MCLAWHORN: Thank you.

22 (Applause.)

23 MS. BLOODGOOD: Karen Irick.

24 MS. IRICK: Good afternoon.

25 THE COURT REPORTER: Will you spell your

1 KAREN IRICK

2 name, please?

3 MS. IRICK: I-R-I-C-K, Irick. Well, I
4 appreciate you guys having this discussion this 5 evening. I had not planned to speak, just to be an 6 observer, but Mr. Felder encouraged me through his 7 presentation as well as other comments that I've 8 heard to talk about my experience that would give 9 weight to what has been said so far in terms of 10 training of poll managers and poll workers.

11 First and foremost, I am a parent of an 12 adult daughter with disabilities. And her first 13 time voting was not a pleasant experience for either
14 of us. Now, let me qualify here. Since I was 16
15 years old -- I'm an old bird now. Since I was 16 16 I've been involved in this process. I've been 17 knocking on doors to get out the vote. It wasn't 18 until I was 18 and a registered voter that I was 19 able to register folks to vote.

20 So fast forward, my daughter is 21 registered to vote but at the polls they would not 22 allow her to vote in private, no matter how much I 23 tried to explain that to them, nor would they allow 24 me to assist her. So from that moment on I began to 25 walk with the Federal law as well as the State law.

1 KAREN IRICK

2 On our next go-around, because I had the law in my 3 hand and was able to point it out, then she was able 4 to vote with my assistance and in private.

5 Now, don't get me wrong, my assistance
6 did not influence whom she voted for. She did not 7 vote on my horse in that race, okay, so she cast her 8 own vote.

9 Fast forward to the 2010 elections. My 10 youngest child was now of age and he wanted to come 11 and vote, you know, early. And I encouraged him no, 12 I think you need to experience this process. I 13 don't feel like waiting in the long lines. I 14 promise you, in our precinct the lines aren't long.
15 You're going to get in and you're going to get out.
16 Well, on that day for four hours that kid rolled his 17 eyes at me. He voted, and he appreciated the 18 experience, so I don't think we're going to have 19 that I'm going to vote early anymore. He's going to 20 appreciate that.

21 However, in that four-hour period of 22 time, again I had the State law and the Federal law 23 with me and had to address some of the disability
24 issues in the law that tamed some of the attitudes
25 that I got from poll managers and poll workers. I

1 KAREN IRICK

2 left there and went to another precinct and as I was 3 getting out of the car I heard one of the persons 4 outside passing out literature asking a person, you 5 voted that fast? And that person said, no, they 6 told me I couldn't vote in this precinct although 7 I'm registered here. What do you mean you can't 8 vote? Well, I moved down from another county and,
9 of course, I got in it. Let me see your ID -- no, 10 you can vote here. Marched him back in there, asked 11 about a provisional ballot -- asked him did they 12 offer him a provisional ballot. He was, like, I 13 don't know what you mean. I took him back inside, 14 asked for the manager, the manager was not hearing 15 it -- it was later on in the day, not hearing it, 16 pulled out the law. They called downtown and I 17 could actually see him whispering in the phone, had 18 to have been saying, she's got the law. Needless to 19 say, they allowed him to vote a provisional ballot.
20 Another person was leaving, had the same issue, 21 turned him around, allowed him to vote.

22 Now, what I don't know is how many 23 people across this state were turned around because 24 either the poll managers did not know or did not 25 offer. The voter did not understand their right.

1 JENNIFER JENKINS

2 had I not been walking with both those laws, State
3 and Federal laws, had I not been there just in time 4 two votes would have -- it didn't matter to me who 5 they were voting for. The mere fact that they were 6 there to exercise their right and the poll manager 7 or workers did not understand their rights or did 8 not care about their rights, whatever it was, I was 9 just there at the right moment at the right time.

10 So, again, I'm here to commend
11 Mr. Felder on his recommendation for training and I 12 would like to see that happen. Thank you.

13 (Applause.)

14 MS. BLOODGOOD: Jennifer Jenkins.

15 MS. JENKINS: Good afternoon, and thank 16 you for the opportunity to bring forth some 17 complaints that we have in reference to voter 18 registration procedures, the managers, the poll 19 watchers and the machines that are located in 20 Fairfield County. I am Jennifer Jenkins, I'm the 21 president of Fairfield County Branch -- Fairfield
22 County Branch of NAACP where we served as poll
23 watchers in Fairfield County.

24 There were several incidents that 25 occurred in Fairfield County that was quite

JENNIFER JENKINS

1
2 disturbing to all of us. One of the incidents 3 occurred with a young man who came in and wanted to 4 vote. He was told that he had already voted. Now,
5 how on earth can that happen? With the complaints 6 that we will be turning in and have already turned 7 in, we're not getting any answers. But how can 8 someone walk in with an ID, voter registration card, 9 and be told that you've already voted?

10 The second incident. There was a person
11 who came in, didn't have a card, didn't have an ID, 12 but was ushered over to the machine to vote.

13 Another incident. We had people running
14 for -- I think it was county council at that point.
15 When the people went in to cast their votes, the 16 votes were going to the opposite person, to the 17 opponent. How can that happen? If these machines 18 are outdated, we need to correct them. We need to 19 change the system. I think Dr. -- the doctor from 20 Clemson at least informing me of the fact that there 21 happens to be something else out there. And to 22 Dr. Felder who's saying, listen, the managers, the 23 poll watchers need to be trained. Not only that, we 24 are sick and tired of seeing the same families run 25 all of the polls, the same families. Every poll has

1 a sister, a brother, an aunt or uncle or somebody
2 that is connected. That's not going to be agreed 3 on.

4 So, also, we have a situation where 5 instead of being given a voting provision, a 6 provisional ballot, our people were sent back to the 7 voter registration office. Now, do you think they 8 turned around and came back? I don't think they 9 even went to get that information or get things 10 corrected but they're not -- we have to have better 11 things in place to make sure that we, as someone 12 said, do not allow anyone to leave those polls
13 without voting. Without voting.

14 So we're concerned and I hope you are.
15 Thank you.

16 (Applause.)

17 PROFESSOR BUELL: I would like to make a 18 couple of comments. For many of you, if you have 19 not gotten a copy of the report from the 20 Presidential Commission on Election Administration,
21 you should get a copy because -- and if you e-mail 22 me or call me I will help you get a copy. One of 23 the things which is definitely addressed in there is 24 the poll worker training which is inconsistent 25 across the country, inconsistent across counties,

1 PROFESSOR DUNCAN BUELL

2 and which leads to problems. And they also talk
3 about the logistics of the polling place. Poll 4 managers need to be taught how to manage a line.

5 I was a poll watcher in one precinct in 6 Richland County in November 2012 for five and a half 7 hours and the poll manager had no clue how to manage 8 a line and this caused problems and it caused people 9 not to feel good.

10 This is -- a lot of this is addressed.
11 There's a great deal in the -- in the report about 12 the standardization of what people understand about 13 the law, especially with regard to provisional 14 ballots, and I believe the data we have shows that 15 South Carolina is relatively low in the casting of 16 provisional ballots compared to national numbers.
17 And I think that is a question of poll worker 18 training. My experience was that the precinct I was 19 a poll watcher at, any problem the voter was told to 20 go downtown and that was not the right answer.

21 So all -- but a lot of these things 22 about the process are really covered as well as 23 documentation. This was a national commission -- I 24 have a copy signed by Tammy Patrick who was on the 25 commission who was in this workshop. I didn't get

COLLOQUY

1
2 Bob Howard's signature, but he was there at the 3 conference I was there. So there is a lot there 4 about the standardization and about poll worker
5 training and the logistics of polling place -- 6 places and the accessibility of polling places.

7 Now is the time to push because this has 8 been just written up as these are things which need 9 to be addressed all the way across the country
10 because the standards are not being applied the same 11 all across the country. And I wish I had questions 12 (sic) for you, but you can ask questions. There are 13 ways to do this. This is a very good time for 14 pushing on the process.

15 You're Ms. Fair?

16 MS. FAIR: Yes. Would those ballots be 17 at the poll, provisional ballots?

18 PROFESSOR BUELL: They're supposed to be 19 at the polls, yes. Yes. I certainly did not see 20 them in action when I was a poll watcher.

21 MS. FAIR: As a follow-up, who's 22 responsible for getting them to the poll?

23 MR. FELDER: Poll manager.

24 PROFESSOR BUELL: Well, the Election
25 Commission -- the local Election Commission should

COLLOQUY

1
2 be responsible for making sure that there are enough
3 materials at the polling place consistent with state
4 law as well as HAVA for the federal elections.

5 AUDIENCE MEMBER: What type of 6 accountability do we have to know that the 7 provisional ballots are processed properly and 8 counted?

9 MS. BLOODGOOD: In my experience, 10 it's -- a lot of that is at the discretion of the 11 Election Commission. They make their own rules 12 on -- election by election as to what they will 13 accept and what they will not accept. There's a lot 14 of discretion in that.

15 PROFESSOR BUELL: And this is also an 16 issue. I will say in the November 2010 data in 17 Richland County I looked at -- I mean, we 18 separate -- in South Carolina we separate all of 19 those as a separate precinct and there was a one 20 vote difference between the cast vote record and the 21 certified count. And I happened to call Liz Crum on 22 this and I said there's one vote missing, and she 23 said, yes, there was one provisional ballot that 24 they threw out. But --

25 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Did they notify the

COLLOQUY

1
2 voter?

3 PROFESSOR BUELL: There is -- in some 4 jurisdictions across the country it is permissible
5 for the voter to question. I don't think there's 6 automatic notification, but voters I believe are 7 permitted to find out if their provisional ballot
8 was counted or not. But, again, this -- and I 9 forget who it was, raised the issue of the 10 provisional status. There's also the Federal -- the 11 FVAP, and I forget what it's called. Overseas 12 voters who vote who register -- can register from 13 overseas, military voters can register from 14 overseas. There is nonstandard interpretation of 15 how long that registration is good for across the 16 country. This is another issue, but it's also a 17 good time to push that issue.

18 DR. RUDOLPH: That brings up an 19 interesting point, though. Provisional ballots 20 don't mean that it will be counted.

21 PROFESSOR BUELL: No.

22 DR. RUDOLPH: And that -- for voters,
23 that's the right to discretion as well as the law.

24 PROFESSOR BUELL: Well, again, there 25 are -- I have seen them and I can't remember the

COLLOQUY

1
2 exact numbers because I'm not a political scientist 3 and it's the political scientist that look at those 4 kinds of statistics. The Pew -- I think it's Pew
5 did a study of the fraction of provisional ballots
6 counted across the country, so you can find out 7 who's throwing out more provisional ballots than 8 whom. And if -- now it's retroactive, but if 9 there's a problem you can go back and say, look, are 10 we being -- you know, is somebody being too 11 stringent on this? Because there is supposed to be 12 a record.

13 DR. RUDOLPH: Well, there are records --

14 PROFESSOR BUELL: Of why votes were not 15 counted.

16 DR. RANDOLPH: Jim -- and the reason I
17 call -- ask Jim, Mr. Felder. In many instances a 18 provisional ballot -- provisional ballots are not 19 counted until the Commission determines whether or 20 not that ballot is authentic. That leaves too much 21 leeway.

22 MS. FAIR: Yeah, yeah.

23 DR. RANDOLPH: To persons, employees -- 24 part-time employees often, to determine whether a 25 vote is -- I've seen too many provisional ballots

COLLOQUY

1
2 that were never counted.

3 MS. BLOODGOOD: Actually, it's the 4 Election Commission that meets after the election
5 and decides --

6 DR. RANDOLPH: Within what --

7 MS. BLOODGOOD: -- whether to count
8 provisionals.

9 DR. RANDOLPH: -- 48 hours?

10 MS. BLOODGOOD: But the problem is 11 they're not being given out and there's a lot of 12 discretion being -- as to whether they're --

13 DR. RANDOLPH: And that person also that 14 cast the provisional ballot, if there is a question, 15 has to be there also in order for that ballot -- if 16 there are questions to defend their vote.

17 PROFESSOR BUELL: Yes. In some 18 instances --

19 DR. RANDOLPH: Yes.

20 PROFESSOR BUELL: -- in order -- there 21 is a right to claim that it should be counted if 22 there's a question, which is why the voter has the 23 right to know whether the vote -- the ballot is 24 going to be counted.

25 AUDIENCE MEMBER: May I say something?

1 COLLOQUY

2 That process of counting the provisional ballots is 3 done after the election is over. So what good is it 4 going to do?

5 MS. BLOODGOOD: It's before the election
6 is certified.

7 AUDIENCE MEMBER: That still is not
8 right. I don't think it's right.

9 MR. FELDER: Forty-eight hours.
10 Election is on Tuesday, they certify on Thursday, so 11 that gives you 48 hours to do something.

12 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Even if you have -- 13 even if you want to challenge the provisional ballot 14 after the 48 hours?

15 MS. FAIR: No, within the 48 hours.

16 AUDIENCE MEMBER: How do you know your 17 vote is not counted?

18 MR. FELDER: That is an issue.

19 DR. RUDOLPH: You can always take off
20 from your job and go in 48 hours later and miss a 21 day's work to have your vote -- make sure that your 22 vote was counted. That's, in essence, what happens.

23 MS. RUTHERFORD: The purpose for the 24 provisional ballot is that the last time you voted 25 you voted in one precinct and then between that time

COLLOQUY

1
2 you moved to another precinct and you just have to 3 show proof that you were in that precinct and maybe 4 you haven't registered in that precinct yet. But 5 that 48-hour time is to show proof that you now live 6 in this precinct, so I'm not sure what would 7 invalidate the provisional ballot itself.

8 MS. BLOODGOOD: There are actually a lot
9 of reasons why a provisional ballot could be cast.
10 That's one important and probably predominant 11 reason, but there's a lot of other reasons 12 including --

13 DR. RUDOLPH: Questions of 14 identification.

15 MS. RUTHERFORD: I'd just like to say 16 Benedict, with the 3,000 students that we had and 17 how many voters we had, we had a multitude of 18 provisional ballots -- a multitude. Whenever there 19 was a question as to what should happen,
20 provisional. And, I mean, we had people from all 21 over the world who come and help us with our voting.
22 And there were so many questions we could not get an 23 answer from Richland County because there was no
24 phone line directly to somebody that could give us a 25 legitimate answer that we just then provisional

COLLOQUY

1
2 voted. Now, nobody knows what happened to it,
3 nobody was told they had to come back and do
4 anything with it afterward. There was just no
5 follow-up to any of the kids that needed follow-up 6 with.

7 MS. DUNN: What I would say is what this 8 points out is how critical it is to have somebody at 9 every certification. It's more important than 10 having poll watchers roaming around the precincts.
11 You can really make a difference at the 12 certification hearing, and I think there ought to be 13 a concerted network of trained people at any 14 certification hearing.

15 MS. BLOODGOOD: If I could add, there 16 need to be people when the absentee ballots are 17 opened, because there are now thousands and 18 thousands of absentee ballots. And it's a separate 19 precinct. You have to challenge it when it's 20 opened, and that is not happening.

21 MS. DUNN: No.

22 AUDIENCE MEMBER: And for the people
23 that -- for the provisional ballot, I believe when 24 they are given that ballot, on the back of that is a 25 date and time for them to appear before the Election

1 JULIE SELLERS

2 Commission and present that evidence. They have to 3 go there, which means your students didn't show up.
4 So, therefore, those votes were not counted.

5 MS. RUTHERFORD: Yeah. They had been 6 standing in line for five hours, they weren't going 7 to go back.

8 AUDIENCE MEMBER: But the poll people
9 were supposed to explain that to them.

10 MR. FELDER: They don't do it.

11 MS. BLOODGOOD: Julie Sellers.

12 MS. SELLERS: I'm going to speak as an 13 individual although I'm a member of several 14 organizations that are represented here. I want to 15 say something about the logistics again and very 16 much on what we're talking about now.

17 I'm not sure exactly how this could be 18 done, but with the technology that we have today I'm 19 sure it could be done. Someplace, where the end of 20 the line is, there needs to be an ability to 21 check -- maybe just run through a data list to see 22 if that is the right precinct for that person to be 23 in. I understand that we're supposed to have in 24 Richland County, what, 23 new precincts at the next 25 one or something like that. And they always seem to

1 JULIE SELLERS

2 be changing boundaries of precincts and splitting
3 them and that sort of thing.

4 I saw a couple in the last election
5 where we all waited in line so long -- and this was 6 real dedication to the voting process. They went to 7 one precinct, where they really thought they were 8 supposed to be and had voted there the last time, 9 stood in line for two hours, only to be told they 10 were in the wrong precinct and then came to the 11 precinct where I was standing in line and stood 12 there for three hours, and I think that was 13 tremendous dedication. But if there had been a way 14 to check if they were in the right precinct to begin 15 with, I think it would have been a lot easier.

16 I realize that we're going to have 17 hopefully fewer problems and actually fewer people 18 when they do create more precincts and then more 19 machines working should make it go faster, but there 20 still needs to be a way for people to just check to 21 see if they are listed in that precinct.

22 DR. RANDOLPH: Before Election Day.

23 MS. SELLERS: I didn't hear what you
24 said, sir.

25 DR. RUDOLPH: Before Election Day.

1 JULIE SELLERS

2 MS. SELLERS: Well, I was thinking at 3 least on the day of election. If somebody is just 4 sitting there with a data program spreadsheet or 5 something that you can just have on a little 6 computer and just run down the list and see if your 7 name is there, not to check off anything special, 8 but just see if your name is there before you stand 9 in line for two or three hours. Because a lot of 10 people -- you hear all of these things, I know where 11 I'm supposed to vote. But there are a lot of people 12 who really end up not knowing where they're supposed 13 to vote. And even though it's listed in the 14 newspaper, I don't take the newspaper any longer so 15 I don't see that list. There are ways to find out, 16 but not everybody has those ways to find out. I can 17 get on the Internet and really find out if I really 18 needed to, but a lot of people don't have that 19 access.

20 So at least if they're making the effort 21 to get there and are willing to stand in line, they 22 ought to at least be able to find out if they're 23 standing in the right line.

24 DR. RUDOLPH: When the comment -- I
25 don't think you were here earlier when the comment

COLLOQUY

1
2 was made and I made it. There's a reason that South
3 Carolina is 47th in voting.

4 MS. FAIR: Based on the comment that was 5 just made, sometimes I have experienced where the 6 Board of Election had the wrong address for me and 7 was sending me to a different precinct all together.
8 It was a mistake -- like my address is Calf Pen Bay
9 Road, there is an address that's called Cap Pen Road
10 as well. So they sent you to a different precinct 11 all together. But when I did go to the poll and was 12 very assertable about me not leaving, I did call and 13 I did vote.

14 MS. BLOODGOOD: Thank you. Those are 15 all of the speakers that we -- that we have. Do you 16 have a question?

17 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Yeah, for Dr. Buell.
18 I have a question. With the 25 new precincts that 19 have been done in Richland County, taking them up to 20 149, I think -- well, whatever it is, anyway, with 21 the -- how are the lines drawn for these new 22 precincts in order -- with the number of voters?
23 Some had too many people voting in their precinct
24 and they are redrawing the line. Are they doing it 25 by -- by street number, by race, by whatever? Do

COLLOQUY

1
2 you know how are they doing it with each precinct -- 3 would the number of voters in each precinct be equal 4 or almost equal as well as possible?

5 PROFESSOR BUELL: The answer is -- the 6 short answer is I don't know exactly how they're 7 doing that. In November 2012 I compared Richland
8 County against Greenville County, because we had 12
9 percent of our vote after closing. Greenville 10 County actually put more votes per machine than we 11 did. We had 192 votes per machine, Greenville 12 County had 200 votes per machine, and they had less 13 than one-half of one percent votes cast after 14 closing. And half of those late votes were in three 15 specific precincts where they happened to have 16 significant machine failures.

17 So one of my bits of advice was go talk 18 to Conway Belangia because, obviously, he knows how 19 to run an election. Somehow they got it right.
20 Now, their ballot was shorter than ours and that may 21 have been part of it. But it wasn't just the number 22 of machines, although they were -- one of the 23 problems with long lines is that when the cueing 24 theory says that when things start to go bad, they 25 can go very bad very quickly. So you only have to

COLLOQUY

1
2 be a little bit below the amount of resources that 3 you need for things to really get bad. That's what 4 happened. Greenville County was just barely over 5 the edge of how many resources they needed and they 6 managed to stay okay, although their lines averaged 7 I think about an hour.

8 And one of the problems we also have is 9 that we do have a very wide disparity in the size of 10 our precincts. Greenville County's precincts are 11 much more equal in numbers of voters per precinct.
12 We have people with 300 voters in it and we have 13 some other precinct that was 5,000 voters. And, 14 again, if you allocate machines so that you have 15 enough machines and you have lots of small 16 precincts, you're allocating a lot of half of a 17 machine to the small precincts that you don't need 18 to do that and that eats into your total number of 19 machines that you can allocate elsewhere.

20 So if we did have -- I believe if we had 21 more equally sized precincts we would be able to do 22 a little better on allocating machines just because 23 of the way the mathematics works. You round up to 24 make sure you have enough. I don't know whether 25 that's being done. The guy from the Brennan Center

COLLOQUY

1
2 at New York University did the statistics and he 3 says that, yes, there is a slight correlation of 4 long lines in November 2012 with the larger 5 precincts. Not a strong correlation, but a slight 6 correlation.

7 If you allocate enough machines, then 8 it's not the machines. It's the logistics of the 9 polling place. Do you have a school that is 10 configured so that you can push 5,000 voters through 11 or not? Maybe yes, maybe no. That gets back to 12 poll worker training, it gets back to figuring out 13 where you're doing the elections and how much 14 training you can give the poll manager in knowing 15 how to manage that space.

16 So the answer is it should improve some.
17 The biggest improvement would be just to make sure 18 that we don't go to war with a third of our troops 19 not going into battle, which is what we did in 20 November 2012. We had a third of our voting 21 machines in the warehouse. Somebody should have 22 noticed that.

23 AUDIENCE MEMBER: When the Election
24 Commission decided to rezone or re -- what you call 25 it, re -- what's that word?

COLLOQUY

1
2 MR. FELDER: Changed the precinct.

3 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Change precinct lines, 4 it's got to be somewhere -- some way to notify the 5 voters that they're being shifted from another 6 precinct from the precinct that they used to live
7 in. Because, see, I live close to the line,
8 precinct, and they threw a line one night but I 9 didn't see it. And the next morning the people that 10 was campaigning in my precinct were in another 11 precinct and nobody knew it until almost Election 12 Day. And I think that's a little bit shaky there, 13 you know.

14 MS. BLOODGOOD: I want to thank you all 15 for the comments and ask if any of the commissioners 16 have any closing comments to make and then let 17 Rebecca speak.

18 DR. RUDOLPH: Well, to your statement,
19 the Election Commission does not rezone. That's not 20 a responsibility of the Election Commission.

21 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Who would do it?

22 MS. FAIR: County Council.

23 AUDIENCE MEMBER: Well, somebody needs
24 to let somebody know they change it.

25 MS. FAIR: Or contact your

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 representative.

3 MR. MCLAWHORN: I want to just thank 4 everyone for coming out this evening because it 5 really takes a sign of commitment to come out and 6 protect our rights. We don't have enough people 7 participating. We're very grateful for you because 8 each one of us have to leave here as an army of one 9 and spread the good news to others and mobilize the 10 community. It really takes a lot of people to do us 11 right, so thank you all for coming.

12 MS. ARNOLD: So I just want to echo that 13 sentiment. Thank you, everybody, for coming out and 14 sharing your testimony. It was really, really 15 compelling and thought provoking through really, I 16 think, demonstrating what is going on in South 17 Carolina, what progress is being made and what the 18 barriers are here. So I really thank you all for 19 that. I want to just give a round of applause to 20 our amazing guest commissioners for their time.

21 (Applause.)

22 MS. ARNOLD: And, again, I want to again
23 make sure I thank the Richland County Council 24 Chambers and the organizations that planned this and 25 I will say that one more time. The American Civil

1 REBECCA ARNOLD

2 Liberties Union of South Carolina, Columbia Urban 3 League, and the Family Unit, League of Women Voters,
4 NAACP Legal Defense Fund, National Action Network, 5 Protection and Advocacy for People with 6 Disabilities, South Carolina Progressive Network and 7 the State Conference of NAACP.

8 So thank you so much, and this 9 conversation can absolutely continue. If you all 10 have more that you want to say, please -- I mean, 11 say it locally, I know you will because you all are 12 extremely passionate and I appreciate that, but also 13 you can submit written testimony to us as part of 14 this hearing process at sclawyerscommittee.org --
15 and, actually, let me repeat that because I said 16 that wrong -- it's schearing.lawyerscommittee.org.
17 schearing.lawyerscommittee.org. You can submit 18 written testimony, it can be a comment, anything at 19 all. So thank you again so much for coming out.

20 (The preceding was concluded at 6:17 21 p.m.)

22

23

24

25

CERTIFICATE OF REPORTER

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA

SS:

COUNTY OF LEXINGTON

I, Lori S. Mortge, Certified Court Reporter and Notary Public in and for the State of South Carolina at large, do hereby certify that the above-entitled cause was heard as hereinafter set out; that I was authorized to and did report in shorthand the proceedings and evidence adduced and offered in the said proceedings, and that the foregoing and annexed pages, numbered 3 through 127, inclusive, comprise a true and correct transcription of my stenographic report of the said cause taken during the said hearing.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto affixed my signature this 19th day of February, 2014.

Lori S. Mortge, CCR and Notary Public

My Commission Expires: 12/13/16

1 Proceedings

2
3
4 NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS

5
6 HOUSTON, TEXAS

7
8
9 Saturday, April 5, 2014

10 10:20 a.m. to 1:52 p.m.

11
12 Thurgood Marshall School of Law Courtroom

13 Texas Southern University

14
15 Hosted by:

16
17 LAWYERS' COMMITTEE

18 FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

19 20
21
22
23 JOB NO. 71940

24 Reported by: Rene Moarefi

25 Texas Certified Shorthand Reporter

1 Proceedings

2 MR. REYES: Good morning,
3 everyone. My name is Alejandro T. Reyes. I'm an 4 attorney with the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 5 Rights.

6 And this is actually the second
7 time we've convened the National Commission on 8 Voting Rights. When we first convened it in 9 2005-06, it was when the Voting Rights Act was up 10 for reauthorization. What brings us back to 11 communities all over the country the second 12 go-around has to do with recent changes in the 13 law, the Shelby v Holder decision, changes 14 throughout the country regarding voter ID as an 15 example, also election administration issues, 16 which we think are terribly important. So we're 17 really here to document what's happening here in 18 Harris County, but also in the great state of 19 Texas.

20 And until our law student arrives,
21 I just want to take a moment to thank the 22 Thurgood Marshall of Law for allowing us to hold 23 these events on their campus. It's a beautiful 24 campus.

25 I went to the Howard University

1 Proceedings

2 School of Law, and it's amazing to have one of 3 our law guys, Thurgood Marshall, have a law
4 school named after himself. So it's a privilege 5 to be here.

6 We have many sponsors, so it makes 7 it impossible -- there are too many to list, but 8 you'll find them on the screens and the monitors 9 around you.

10 And I would like to next just 11 welcome our guest commissioners who will then 12 essentially be proceeding this event -- will be 13 leading this event.

14 On your left, or your far left, my 15 far right is Deborah Chen. She's a national 16 treasurer and board member with OCA, the Asian 17 Pacific American Advocates.

18 Sitting directly next to Deborah 19 Chen is Professor Craig Jackson of the Thurgood 20 Marshall School of Law.

21 On your right, we have -- to my 22 immediate left, we have Mr. Goodwille Pierre, 23 vice president of the National Bar Association.

24 And seated next to him is 25 Mr. Howard Jefferson with the National Bar

1 Proceedings

2 Association as well as national board member --
3 and also NAACP. We're using the official NAACP
4 Texas State Conference.

5 And with that, each guest
6 commissioner has five minutes for their opening 7 remarks before we begin with our first witness;
8 my understanding it will be Congresswoman Jackson 9 Lee.

10 I will hand it over to the chair,
11 Mr. Goodwille Pierre.

12 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, Alejandro.

13 I want to thank the Lawyers'
14 Committee for Civil Rights Under the Law for 15 coming back here to Texas to provide us with the 16 guidance to actually conduct these hearings.

17 I'll be remiss if I did not say
18 that the last NAACP Texas State Conference 19 meeting, we had a similar hearing in Dallas or 20 Fort Worth to actually do this, so it's great 21 that we're continuing to have these hearings in 22 order to preserve some type of record relating to 23 voting issues or problems with voting.

24 I want to first say that as 25 Alejandro stated, the Lawyers' Committee for

1 Proceedings

2 Civil Rights Under the Law on behalf of the civil 3 rights community has convened the National Voting
4 Rights hearings around the country. It's a 5 collaboration with many organizations.

6 Here in Texas, we've had many 7 organizations to collaborate to help bring us 8 together with regard to bringing resources and 9 individuals to testify as well as the media
10 communicating around the state, the Texas State
11 Conference of the NAACP chapters. Of course, 12 we're here at Thurgood Marshall School of Law, 13 and they've been very instrumental at helping 14 here at Texas Southern University. The National 15 Bar Association, where I am vice president of, on 16 the national board; OCA Greater Houston chapter;
17 the NAACP Legal Defense Fund and Education Fund.
18 Of course, the Houston Area Urban League, the 19 Austin Black Lawyers Association, Earl Carl 20 Institute for Legal and Social Policy, 100 Black 21 Men of America, the Houston Metropolitan Chapter, 22 as well as the Houston Branch of the NAACP and 23 the NAACP Region 4 -- Region 6. They have all 24 come together as a coalition to assist in 25 bringing us together.

1 Proceedings

2 I would like to first bring you
3 some greetings. We have student ambassadors 4 here. And I would like for them to raise their 5 hand. One of them will bring greetings on behalf 6 of the law school. Would it be you, Mr. Calhoun?
7 Yeah. Just bring greetings on behalf of the law
8 school. One L student here jumped into the fire, 9 and his name is Mr. Calhoun. He's going to bring 10 greetings on behalf of the Thurgood Marshall 11 School of Law.

12 MR. CALHOUN: Good morning. I
13 will be real brief. On behalf of the students 14 and the student leadership here at Thurgood 15 Marshall School of Law, we want to thank you for 16 your participation in this event, and we believe 17 strongly, from the inception of our institution, 18 the impact of voter registration and civil 19 rights. And once again, we thank you for being 20 here, and we hope you enjoy it.

21 MR. PIERRE: Thank you very, very 22 much, Mr. Calhoun.

23 And now what I would like to do is 24 allow our commissioners to give a five-minute 25 introduction of themselves and organizations and

1 Proceedings

2 share any comments they have prior to us
3 starting. I want to first say that we -- all
4 testimony is being recorded. We have a court
5 reporter, Ms. Rene Moarefi, with TSG Reporting; 6 and also official photographer is being done by 7 Samuel Walker --

8 MR. WASHINGTON: Washington.

9 MR. PIERRE: Washington. Sorry.

10 -- Samuel Washington, and he's 11 taking actual photography, the official 12 photographer here.

13 And before the commission starts,
14 our first person that's going to speak -- I'm 15 going to let her know that she's here -- we've 16 been joined by the United States House of 17 Representatives for the 18th Congressional 18 District, whose district we're sitting in, Texas
19 Southern University, the Congresswoman Sheila 20 Jackson Lee. And she will be the first person to 21 actually give comments prior to starting our 22 testimony.

23 So without further ado, I would 24 like starting with Attorney Deborah Chen and then 25 going to Professor Craig Jackson and allow Howard

1 Proceedings

2 Jefferson, national board member of NAACP, to 3 give them a five-minute presentation.

4 Deborah.

5 MS. CHEN: Good morning.

6 In the interest of time, I will 7 not be taking up the entire five minutes. I just 8 wanted to thank everyone for coming here today as 9 well as thanking the commission for inviting me
10 to be here today as a guest commissioner. It's a 11 great honor for me to be a part of this 12 proceeding, and I'm looking forward to hearing 13 what everyone has to say about the important 14 issue of voting rights.

15 I have worked in OCA for a number 16 of years since when I first started as a student 17 volunteer to where I've -- now I'm at -- a local 18 level board member as well as a national board 19 member, where each election cycle we've worked to 20 protect the rights of Asian-Americans to vote.
21 And I think that the Asian-American community
22 strongly believes in this important issue as well 23 as affording our other colleagues and friends in 24 the community, which has historically been an 25 issue that impacts all of our communities.

1 Proceedings

2 So, again, thank you for having me
3 here today, and I look forward to hearing this 4 testimony.

5 PROF. JACKSON: My name is Craig
6 Jackson. I teach constitutional law here at 7 Thurgood Marshall School of Law. And -- and I'm 8 honored to be on the commission as a guest -- 9 among the guest commissioners because I'm -- I'm 10 not a voting rights expert like the others on 11 this panel, but I teach constitutional law, and 12 I've been teaching it for a little more than a 13 decade. And I write on the issues having a lot 14 to do with the relationship between Congress and 15 the federal government and the states, federalism
16 in particular.

17 And the current Supreme Court has 18 an obsession with federalism, and their approach 19 to federalism has resulted in some pretty 20 interesting decisions, not the least of which was 21 the Shelby County decision, which was a decision 22 based upon reasoning that was not inevitable 23 because only five members of the court saw 24 federalism in the way that the majority did.

25 And as a result of the decision

1 Proceedings

2 and its reasoning, we essentially have a
3 situation that we have to kind of be very careful
4 and be very observant as to the effects of Shelby
5 on local voting. So that's one of the reasons 6 why we're having this commission.

7 And I wanted to thank the Lawyers'
8 Committee for Civil Rights Under the Law for 9 being diligent in seeing that this commission 10 does go forward, this national commission, and 11 the national fact-finding project does go 12 forward, and hopefully we'll be able to put in 13 place some safeguards from the disastrous results
14 of the Shelby County decision.

15 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, Professor 16 Jackson.

17 And now last will be the dean,
18 godfather of all things in Houston in protecting 19 voting rights, the past president, president
20 emeritus of the local branch of the Houston
21 NAACP, now serving as a board member -- a 22 national board member, as well as the national 23 political action committee coordinator, 24 Mr. Howard Jefferson.

25 MR. JEFFERSON: Thank you. You

Proceedings

1
2 know they shot the godfather.

3 I want to thank the National 4 Commission for having these kind of seminars. I 5 serve on the political action legislative 6 committee at the national NAACP special
7 committee, and we're working on that. We have a 8 staff that's up at the capitol working on this.
9 We've got a problem, you know. That's -- that's 10 not a secret. We've got a problem with this 11 voter suppression thing. I mean, Ray Charles can 12 see that. He's dead and blind. We got a
13 problem.

14 Now, since 2013, there have been 15 nine states that have enacted voter suppression 16 laws, voter suppression laws. So we have to let 17 our people know what these laws are and how to 18 deal with these laws. We've got to get the word 19 out like having seminars like this, but there 20 must be several other things that we can convene, 21 we can have these seminars and things, but we've 22 got to spread our wings a little bit. For 23 example, we need to go to the churches. That's 24 the foundation of civil rights. The black 25 churches are the foundation for civil rights.

1 Proceedings

2 That's -- long before there was the NAACP, Urban 3 League and all of those, there was the church who 4 was doing that bit.

5 So Conyers in Congress is on the 6 committee where they're trying to strengthen the 7 Voting Right Act amendment. I won't deal with 8 that because I may mess it up. Congresswoman Lee 9 will probably talk about that.

10 But I want to let you know that 11 throughout this nation, people are not just 12 sitting down, they're ready to stand up and fight 13 for this.

14 So thank you all for inviting me
15 here, and I'm ready to communicate with you on 16 this.

17 MR. PIERRE: Thank you very much.

18 Now, without further ado, I want 19 to introduce to you for opening statements and 20 also testimony the congresswoman of the 18th 21 Congressional District, Sheila Jackson Lee.

22 REP. JACKSON LEE: Good morning.

23 This is an enormously appropriate
24 place to hold this historic and important
25 National Commission on Voting Rights hearing. I

1 Proceedings

2 would also like to thank the Lawyers' Committee 3 as well for the importance of these national 4 hearings across the country.

5 And I do want to acknowledge the 6 president of the university, John Rudley, and 7 Dannye Holley, the dean of the law school, for 8 making Texas Southern University true to its 9 origins of rising up out of the ashes of 10 segregation to create and open the doors of 11 opportunity for Anglos, African-Americans, 12 Asians, Latinos, and many others. This is the 13 university of opportunity.

14 And that is what we speak of when 15 we speak of voting rights. It is not the denial 16 of the rights of anyone. It is the opening of 17 the doors of opportunity for all.

18 I want to pay special privilege or 19 attention and respect to Deborah Chen, national 20 treasurer and board member of the Asian Pacific 21 American Advocates. They are very active in 22 Washington with members of the United States
23 Congress, a very vital role that they play going 24 forward in the new redesign of the Voting Rights
25 Act.

1 Proceedings

2 Professor Craig Jackson, who I've 3 known for a number of years for his astute 4 intellect and his recognition that things have 5 changed for the wrong after the Shelby case.

6 What can you say about Mr. J.
7 Goodwille Pierre who is ascending up the ladder 8 of the National Bar Association who I met with in 9 Washington, and they have always been -- their 10 members have always been the lawyers that have 11 stood by the side of the civil rights activists 12 and have stood in the gap. Martin King called 13 Thurgood and others as he proceeded to cross the 14 South and violate nonviolently the unjust laws of 15 that time.

16 Howard Jefferson is more than a
17 godfather to me. He stands as a steadfast 18 reminder that there is no shame in pushing 19 forward with respect to this time.

20 Now, I see a sign there, but I'm 21 going to ask for a little bit of special
22 privilege because I do have a presentation that I 23 will try to bring together in a concise manner.
24 But you're looking at a 20-year member of the 25 House Judiciary Committee and follow the

1 Proceedings

2 footsteps of the Honorable Barbara Jordan and 3 Craig Washington.

4 I've stayed the longest on the 5 Judiciary Committee and the most senior member
6 from the state of Texas on the Judiciary
7 Committee. And I helped to rewrite the voting 8 rights back in 2006 and 2007, and I have helped 9 to write the response to Shelby.

10 So if you would allow me, since 11 there is a court reporter here, just to mention 12 with my remarks. Let me also say that the 13 Thurgood Marshall School of Law and Texas
14 Southern University is appropriate -- and,
15 Ms. Chen, it is my predecessor, the Honorable 16 Barbara Jordan, that amended the Voting Rights
17 Act in 1978, I believe, to add language 18 minorities. That was the only way that Texas was 19 able to get in the voting rights. We were not in 20 it in 1965. It was only what we call the states
21 of the Deep South, the Georgia, Alabama,
22 Mississippi.

23 And now in 2014, Texas is one of 24 only four -- one of only four states that are 25 actually listed and covered by the rewritten

Proceedings

1
2 Voting Rights Act. And I will explain that to 3 you. We are still covered. North Carolina and 4 Alabama are not covered. And that is the 5 wrongness -- wrongness of the Shelby case. That 6 is the complete upside-downness of the Shelby
7 case is that Georgia, North Carolina -- let me
8 leave out Georgia -- North Carolina and Alabama, 9 all of you will remember, is not now covered by 10 the Voting Rights Act.

11 Let me also say that in our effort 12 to recognize the importance, I think this is 13 something -- I keep moving this, but I hope I 14 will not move it -- I hope you can hear me.

15 The Voting Rights Act that went 16 before the Supreme Court after 2006 and 2007 that 17 kept the preclearance Section 5 language rightly 18 so, when we reauthorized it, we added 15,000 19 pages of testimony. I sat in the hearing room in 20 Washington for many, many, many days to document 21 that the Voting Rights Act needed to be 22 reauthorized.

23 The bill is now named after Fannie
24 Lou Hammer, Rosa Parks, Coretta Scott King, Cesar 25 Chavez, and I added Barbara C. Jordan, William C.

1 Proceedings

2 Velasquez -- these are names that we added from 3 Texas -- Dr. Hector P. Garcia, the Voting Rights
4 Act Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 2006.

5 So let me quickly say the Voting
6 Rights Act safeguarded the rights of Americans to 7 vote and stood as an obstacle to many of the more 8 egregious attempts by certain states and local 9 jurisdictions, including Texas, to game the 10 system by passing discriminatory changes in their 11 election laws and administrative policies. That 12 has not stopped. The new idea of hindrances to 13 voting, the voter ID laws in Arizona, it's the 14 very opposing and undermining immigration -- 15 destruction laws dealing with Hispanics and other 16 immigrants, laws that were written in Arizona and 17 written in Alabama and other places throughout 18 the South and throughout the nation.

19 The -- but in June 2013, the 20 Supreme Court decided Shelby versus Holder, 570 21 US 193, which invalidated Section 4(b) of the 22 Voting Rights Act and paralyzed the application
23 of the Voting Rights Section 5 preclearance.

24 Officials in some states, notably 25 Texas and North Carolina, seemed to regard the

Proceedings

1
2 Shelby decision as a green light and rushed to 3 implement election laws such as a voter ID law in 4 the state of Texas, rushed to be implemented by 5 attorney general, Greg Abbott, now running for 6 governor, policies and practices that could never 7 pass muster under Section 5 of the Voting Rights
8 Act.

9 It's at this moment that I want to 10 ask to add into the record a letter to General 11 Holder dated May 16, 2013. The date of the 12 Shelby case was, I believe, that Monday the 13 decision came out. We were fighting the 14 elimination of an Hispanic and African-American 15 school district by the name of North Forest 16 Independent School District. We were in the 17 courthouse on Section 5. We were winning because 18 by elimination of that school district, you'd be 19 eliminating minority elected officials.

20 And on the day after the Shelby
21 case as we went into court to continue, the judge 22 put our case on hold and ultimately dismissed it
23 under the Shelby case. We lost the whole school 24 district, a neighborhood of 60,000 people,
25 elected officials, because of the Shelby

Proceedings

1
2 decision.

3 I'd ask unanimous consent to put 4 this into the record.

5 So there is an impact to the 6 Shelby case. To take just one example, this past 7 Tuesday, Councilwoman Pat Van Houte, who serves 8 on the Pasadena, Texas, city council, was 9 forcibly ejected by armed officers at the 10 direction of the Pasadena mayor at a city council 11 meeting to consider a controversial redistricting 12 plan.

13 The redistricting plan is one of 14 the first to be implemented in the aftermath of 15 the Shelby case. In actuality, the mayor said
16 that after the Shelby case, he felt comfortable 17 in pushing a redistricting plan that eliminated
18 two district seats which would eliminate Hispanic 19 representation, and he had no fear. And he threw 20 this lady out, this council member, because she 21 did not -- she wanted time to oppose it. In the 22 Chronicle. Pasadena Mayor Ejects Councilwoman.
23 This is a result of the present status of the 24 Shelby case, which is why we're attempting to do 25 the reauthorization.

1 Proceedings

2 For example, the shameful episode
3 is a reminder that the Voting Rights Act 4 protected not only one's right to vote in federal 5 elections, but also applied to state and local 6 jurisdictions as well.

7 Mr. Jefferson's point is very well
8 taken. Now, the fight is not only in state -- in 9 federal government, Mr. Jefferson, it's that we 10 must wage war against state legislators that feel 11 empowered to pass laws that impact their state 12 voters. And so this is a two-pronged call.

13 For example, Section 5 subjected 14 to preclearance and could block the Texas
15 Education Administration from closing the North
16 Forest Independent School District, as I said.

17 Once freed by the Shelby County
18 decision from having to pass muster, this school 19 district went down. The redistricting plan for 20 Pasadena, it's now changed. And voted on, by the 21 way, by the city council which eliminates two 22 district seats.

23 Section 5 is a vital asset in such 24 circumstances because it would require TEA to 25 acquire a preclearance as it would for any other

1 Proceedings

2 election body that would be impacted.

3 In signing the Voting Rights Act
4 on August 6th, 1965, President Lyndon Johnson
5 said, "The vote is the most powerful instrument 6 ever devised by man for breaking down injustice
7 and destroying the terrible walls which imprison 8 men because they are different from other men."

9 In 1940, there were less than 10 30,000 African-Americans registered to vote in 11 Texas, and only about 3 percent of 12 African-Americans living in the South were 13 registered to vote. Poll taxes, literacy tests, 14 and other threats.

15 After passage of the Voting Rights
16 Act in 1965, which prohibited these 17 discriminatory practices, registration and 18 electoral participation steadily went up. By 19 2012, more than 1.2 African-Americans living in 20 Texas were registered, but all throughout the 21 South it actually made a difference.

22 Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act 23 of 1965 requires that states and localities to 24 seek preclearance. Since 1982, Section 5 has 25 stopped more than 1,000 discriminatory voting

Proceedings

1
2 changes in their tracks, including 107
3 discriminatory changes right here in Texas, and 4 those would have a major impact.

5 We all remember the voter ID law
6 passed in Texas in 2011, and we all know the 7 impact of that.

8 Let me move to the present status
9 of the Voting Rights Act and HR 3889. The Shelby
10 case in 2006. The city of Calera, which lies 11 within Shelby County, Alabama, enacted a 12 discriminatory redistricting plan without 13 complying with Section 5, leading to the loss of 14 the city's sole African-American councilman, 15 Ernest Montgomery.

16 In compliance with Section 5,
17 however, Calera was required to draw a 18 nondiscriminatory redistricting plan and conduct
19 another election in which Mr. Montgomery regained 20 his seat.

21 According to the Supreme Court, in 22 the Alabama County -- Shelby County took the case 23 up and to the Supreme Court, the reason for 24 striking down Section 4(b), which was the formula
25 for Section 5 preclearance. Times change.

1 Proceedings

2 A wrong-headed decision to suggest 3 because there are a large number of 4 African-Americans voting, relatively speaking, a 5 large number of African-American elected persons, 6 relatively speaking, that times have changed.

7 To the United States Supreme 8 Court, you are absolutely wrong. That should not 9 be the criteria for whether or not we have the 10 right to vote. The criteria should be is whether 11 there are those who are blocked from being 12 represented or blocked from representation or 13 blocked from voting.

14 The question is the Voting Rights
15 Act is needed as much today to prevent another 16 epidemic of voting disenfranchisement. It would 17 almost be like taking the polio vaccine 18 discovered by Jonas Salk in 1953, eradicated the 19 crippling effects of polio, and because polio now 20 has diminished, to be able to say that you need 21 no polio shots. It is baffling and much, if I 22 might say, un-American.

23 As Justice Ginsburg says, "The 24 Court majority confuses the symptoms with the 25 cause." Congress' focus was not on voter

1 Proceedings

2 registration or turnout votes. Congress instead 3 was focused on eliminating the causes or at least 4 eradicating the effects of racial discrimination 5 in voting in states that had a unique history of 6 problems with racial discrimination in voting.

7 That is why it is imperative that 8 there is a coming together under this National 9 Voting Rights Commission to understand where we 10 are in the reauthorization of this legislation.

11 Let me, as I conclude, give you a 12 brief summary of HR 3899. I am an original 13 co-sponsor and -- and, if you will, part of the 14 working team that designed the response. My 15 intent was to redo the formula of 4(b), because I 16 knew that the Court and our friends on the other 17 side of the aisle, our Republican friends that 18 did not fully appreciate and understand this, 19 would not allow us to do a broad reformation of 20 the bill.

21 So the original co-sponsors
22 includes reverend -- excuse me -- Representative
23 James Sensenbrenner, who many of you know was a 24 powerful force in the reauthorization early, and 25 John Conyers, a formula that was constructed that

1 Proceedings

2 every Democratic member had to have a partner to 3 get on this legislation as well as to be part of 4 constructing the legislation.

5 John Lewis and Steny Hoyer and 6 Steve Chabot and Spencer Bacchus and Sheila 7 Jackson Lee and Bobby Scott, these are the 8 original members of this particular legislation.
9 We were led by James Clyburn. And the bill is a 10 bill that focuses on trying to be as pointed as 11 possible, but obviously there are some reasons 12 for us to be able to move in a different -- move 13 forward in its markup.

14 After months of hard work,
15 consideration, negotiation, collaboration, HR 16 3899, the Voting Rights amendment, achieved many 17 of these goals. HR 3899 specifies a new coverage 18 formula that is based on current problems in 19 voting and therefore directly responds to the 20 Court's concern.

21 The importance of this feature is 22 hard to overestimate. Legislators and litigators
23 understand that the likelihood of a Court 24 upholding an amended statute that fails to 25 correct the provision previously found to be

Proceedings

1
2 defective is very low indeed.

3 It replaces the static coverage
4 formula with a new dynamic coverage formula, or a 5 rolling trigger.

6 And I will give you these as -- 7 again, as I -- lawyers have three closings, but 8 as I try to roll to a close.

9 For states, it requires least -- 10 at least one finding of discrimination at the 11 state level and at least four adverse findings by 12 its jurisdictions within the previous 15 13 years.

14 For political subdivisions, it
15 requires at least three adverse findings within 16 the previous 15 years.

17 Political subdivisions with 18 persistent and extremely low minority voter 19 turnout can also be covered if they have a single 20 adverse finding of discrimination.

21 The rolling trigger mechanism
22 effectively gives the legislation nationwide 23 reach because any state and any jurisdiction in 24 any state potentially is subject to being covered 25 if the requisite number of violations are found

1 Proceedings

2 to have been committed.

3 A rolling trigger contained in HR
4 3899, however, does not cover all of these 5 states. To compensate for the fact that fewer 6 jurisdictions are covered, the bill also includes 7 several key provisions that are consistent with 8 the needs created by the narrower Section 5 9 trigger.

10 For example: Expands judicial 11 bail-in authority under Section 3 so that it 12 applies to voting changes that result in 13 discrimination so that you can discriminate and 14 then get covered, meaning that you bailed 15 yourself in, you haven't bailed yourself out.

16 Requires nationwide transparency 17 of late-breaking voting changes, allocation of 18 poll place resources, and changes within 19 boundaries, i.e., Houston, Texas, massive voting 20 booth changes that will allow Houston to bail-in.

21 Clarifies and expands the ability
22 of plaintiffs to seek a preliminary injunction 23 against voting discrimination in Section 2, and 24 clarifies and expands the attorney general's 25 authority to send election observers to protect

1 Proceedings

2 against voting discrimination.

3 So I would like to urge the 4 commission to do the following: To be 5 particularly sensitive to the interests of 6 language minorities in emerging communities
7 because they have distinct and particular 8 interests that ought to be considered. Right 9 here in Houston we have issues and needs of 10 language minorities.

11 Emerging communities are those 12 located in states such as Alabama, Arkansas, 13 Tennessee, and South Carolina that historically 14 were not home to large numbers of Hispanics or 15 Asian-Pacifics, but that is changing. Americans 16 must have a -- a recent -- in recent years 17 experienced tremendous population growth, which 18 is expected to accelerate.

19 The concern is that as these 20 Hispanics and Asian-American voters in these 21 areas become more numerous in these states and 22 capable of having a tangible influence on 23 electoral outcomes, some communities may respond 24 by adopting measures that violate principles of 25 fair and equal treatment. As it relates to the

1 Proceedings

2 African-American community, that still continues.

3 Such measures are -- may include:
4 Changes from single-member to at-large districts,
5 changes to jurisdictional boundaries through 6 annexation, or changes to multilingual voting 7 material requirements.

8 All of these -- we will agree that 9 language minorities and those residing in 10 emerging communities deserve protection from any 11 such retaliatory election.

12 In closing, let me offer into the 13 record the article dealing with the action of the 14 Pasadena mayor as unanimous consent for that to 15 be entered into the record.

16 And in addition -- in addition, I
17 want to put into the record a letter from me -- 18 the previous letter was from me as well --
19 regarding North Forest Independent School 20 District, October 27th, 2010, right before the 21 midterm elections when here in Houston, Texas, we 22 were finding violations, if you will, of 23 preventing people from voting.

24 I was writing in this letter that 25 we have seen at least 15 reports of abuse of

1 Proceedings

2 voter rights throughout the city of Houston with 3 a number of activist groups who are going to 4 minority polls and intimidating the voters. I'd 5 like to ask -- submit that into the record.

6 Let me say again that the right to 7 vote free from discrimination is the capstone of 8 full citizenship referred to by the Civil Rights
9 Amendment and the Voting Rights Act of 1964.

10 This year, 2014, is the 50th year of the 11 commemoration of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Just 12 because it is 50 years ago does not mean that our 13 work is done and that our work is in essence time 14 for a victory.

15 Yesterday many of us commemorated
16 the fallen -- or the loss of Dr. Martin Luther 17 King in an assassination, but we did not dwell on 18 his death as much as we focused on his life.

19 Today I think that we walk in the memory and the 20 steps of so many who sacrificed and argued and 21 advocated for those that they represented to have 22 the right to be a full and voting American, a 23 full citizen, the right to be able to make one's 24 choice at the ballot box to select one's elected
25 officials.

1 Proceedings

2 For millions of Americans, the 3 Voting Rights Act of 1965 was a sacred treasure 4 earned by the sweat, toil and tears and blood of 5 so many ordinary people.

6 Today, as I stand here, the state
7 of North Carolina led by Reverend Barber of the 8 NAACP, the great organization that I'm a member 9 of and so is my dear board member and many 10 others, Mr. Howard Jefferson, fighting across the 11 country for the violations -- along with LULAC -- 12 fighting across the country with all 13 Asian-Pacific organizations in places around the 14 nation.

15 So the challenge is that we must 16 be ever vigilant. If we pass this present
17 reauthorization, the good news is that the whole 18 nation will be covered. That you can covered by 19 jurisdiction. You do not have to be covered by 20 state. And so we hope that you will encourage, 21 as we just did -- 165 members of the United 22 States Congress have sent a letter to Speaker
23 Boehner demanding a vote now on the voting rights 24 authorization or reauthorization.

25 We hope that this commission will

1 Proceedings

2 have that as one of its challenges and one of its 3 causes to ensure that we have a vote on the floor
4 of the House to reauthorize the Voting Rights Act
5 before the 2014 elections to give our citizens 6 the right to vote.

7 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, thank you,
8 Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee. Thank you
9 very, very much.

10 Okay. In an effort to move on,
11 we're going to do action shots and we're not 12 going to do pose for the pictures.

13 Now, we're going to have testimony
14 from panel members, and then we're also going to 15 have public testimony. So although we have 16 individuals who have called and reserved and sent 17 in written testimony, there will be opportunity 18 for the public to speak at any point in time.

19 If you do want to speak, you can 20 sign up; let us know over here. And we will let 21 you know after the panel when you can come and 22 speak.

23 I want to take care of some 24 housekeeping rules, just brief housekeeping
25 rules. Of course, we have bathrooms outside on

1 Proceedings

2 the right and left as well as if there's anybody
3 who has any limited mobility or limited English
4 proficiency, (speaking in Spanish) Espanol, 5 language, anything, please let any one of the 6 students -- raise your hand -- anyone know. You 7 want to ask a question in the room?

8 MR. REYES: (Speaking in Spanish.)

9 MR. PIERRE: Please let everyone
10 know, and then we will make any accommodations 11 that is needed for you.

12 Finally, the last admonishment
13 would be that this is a nonpartisan hearing.
14 We're -- we're soliciting testimony from anybody
15 regardless of if you have a political preference
16 or any other preference. This is without regard 17 to any ideal or anything that you may have or any 18 predisposition you may have. So we would like to 19 limit our comments to actual encounters or even 20 experiences or what you've heard that has been 21 going on around the state of Texas that relates 22 to preventing voting rights or even if you feel 23 that there's some action done that helped in some 24 voting rights. We're open -- and securing voting 25 rights. We're open to all testimony, but it must

1 Proceedings

2 be nonpartisan.

3 You will have three minutes to 4 speak. If I should see or anyone in the 5 commission see that it's moving into a direction 6 of a partisanship or anything else ship, we will 7 definitely turn off your mike and ask for the 8 next person to come up.

9 So, first, we will be joined by 10 our first panel member, Robin Chandler.

11 Like I said, if you need any 12 assistance, please raise your hand, and one of 13 our student ambassadors from Thurgood Marshall
14 School of Law will assist you.

15 MS. CHANDLER: Good morning. My 16 name is Robin Chandler, and I'm a policy
17 specialist for Disability Rights Texas.
18 Disability Rights Texas is a federally mandated 19 protection and advocacy agency for people with 20 disabilities in Texas. As the state P and A, it 21 is our duty to ensure that the rights of Texans
22 with disabilities are upheld and protected.

23 It's an honor to be here today and 24 to follow Congresswoman Jackson Lee. We have a 25 lot of areas where we think the voting rights of

Proceedings

1
2 people with disabilities are violated or 3 potentially violated. The -- probably the worst
4 for us is the issue of polling site
5 accessibility. You know, this is a really big 6 state. We have 7 of the 50 most populated cities
7 in the country. We can't get a number of polling 8 sites in the state, but we think it's fair to say 9 there's thousands at any given state or federal 10 election.

11 Obviously, we can't visit every 12 site, and we base -- we do surveys of polling 13 sites and -- and then we try to help -- help get 14 them up to federal -- federal regulation. But we 15 go when we're asked, where we're asked, or when 16 we have reports of violations. We have done 121 17 surveys in the last, like, year, year and a half.
18 Of those, up to 90 to 95 percent had some type of 19 accessibility problem. You know, some aren't 20 that serious, some are more serious.

21 And since we're not inside polling
22 places on election days, the accessibility issues 23 that could be occurring during the actual 24 polling -- voting process are unknown other than, 25 again, if they're reported to us. But they can

1 Proceedings

2 be things like aisles that are too -- that are 3 too narrow for wheelchair or that have 4 obstructions and especially accessibility
5 machinery that's not working or polling persons 6 that don't know how to work it.

7 We think mostly it's a matter of 8 lack of education, but it's also a lack of 9 funding, you know. However, money was used to 10 fund a lot of things that did make things better, 11 but now we need another infusion.

12 We feel like there's a need for 13 another infusion of HAVA money, and we hope that 14 Congress sees to do that.

15 I was going to talk about voter 16 ID, but I did see that someone at the end of the 17 day is talking about how it affects people with 18 disabilities.

19 Very simply, I will say that 20 people with disabilities are -- even though it's 21 probably unintentional, they wind up being 22 affected by the same thing that -- things that 23 people of other disenfranchised racial or ethnic 24 minorities may be affected by and not -- 25 obviously not all people with disabilities, but a

1 Proceedings

2 lot of people with disabilities are low income, a 3 lot of people with disabilities are people of 4 color.

5 I'm going to skip ahead to what 6 you have in your folders, and I'm going to talk 7 about persistent legislative --

8 MR. PIERRE: Can I ask you a
9 question? And any of the commissioners can ask a 10 question during or you can wait. But before you 11 went on, you mentioned some things that we 12 haven't spoke about in Texas in a while. You 13 mentioned HAVA. Would you be so kind as to 14 explain what that acronym means. What does it 15 have to do with the statement with regard to 16 money being used to aid in providing 17 accessibility for people with disabilities?
18 Please.

19 MS. CHANDLER: Definitely. HAVA,
20 the Help America Vote Act. And when -- when the 21 funding came in, Texas got a lot of funding 22 because Texas is big. And it helped to provide 23 money for accessible voting machines. It helped 24 to -- I believe the money -- some of the money 25 was used to -- to help get -- get polling sites

1 Proceedings

2 accessible, but I'm not actually positive of -- 3 of that.

4 By the time I started doing this 5 work, the HAVA money in Texas was gone. And so 6 now when we go somewhere and they need -- they 7 need to -- to update or to, you know, maybe build 8 a ramp or whatever, there isn't money. The HAVA 9 money was given to the secretary of state's 10 office, the elections division, and then they 11 doled it out. There was a formula as to how they 12 doled it out to counties.

13 So that's -- that's why we're 14 hoping for more HAVA money, because we still have 15 a lot of problems there. Okay?

16 MR. PIERRE: One more question.
17 I'd like to -- and I already gave you two more 18 minutes. I extended it because I'm asking
19 questions. But I need to find out if you know -- 20 because we don't talk about this and often we 21 take for granted because we're -- we're stuck on 22 particular issues that deal with -- with us, per 23 se. We don't look at the other affected voters 24 who are affected by certain things.

25 So in your best estimation, unless

Proceedings

1
2 you said it already and I apologize, how many 3 Texas voters who are -- who are limited -- 4 limited mobility or ADA or -- or anything that 5 affects them, how -- how many people we're 6 talking about? I mean, literally, do you have a
7 number.

8 MS. CHANDLER: We don't have a
9 number. And part of the reason we don't have a 10 number is because there's a requirement that 11 people with disabilities -- first of all, not -- 12 if they say that they need an accommodation, 13 they're not -- they're not to be asked "What is 14 your disability?"

15 And really there's no way of 16 tracking how many people with disabilities are 17 being affected negatively. You know, we also 18 have people with disabilities -- and a lot of 19 things that affect people with disabilities also 20 affect -- affect the elderly. And, you know, 21 we've -- I've asked if there's a way to try to 22 get to these numbers, but there's a lot of people 23 with disabilities in Texas. So, you know, the -- 24 the potential is there. And we hear about it.

25 So -- and then another quick thing

1 Proceedings

2 on voter ID that I do want to say is that we have 3 a lot of people in institutions in this state, 4 way too many, and -- but he said I was going 5 to --

6 MR. PIERRE: You have another
7 minute.

8 MS. CHANDLER: Okay. Thank you.

9 And the difficulties that they --
10 the challenges they face just to be able to vote 11 is our -- many. And so -- and a lot of times if 12 they need something like if they needed to be 13 able to get a picture ID or the documents that 14 they would need to get a picture ID, there's no
15 one in these facilities to help them. The staff 16 is so overloaded that they wind up a lot of times 17 just not being a member of the voting community, 18 another violation of their rights.

19 I'm just going to say in as few 20 words as possible because now I have no idea how 21 much time I have left. Okay. 30 seconds.

22 I have a section here I call 23 persistent legislative efforts to restrict 24 assistance. So we have an election code that is 25 just -- has piles of laws that are -- you know,

1 Proceedings

2 you can't help this person for this reason or you 3 can only help these many people with this 4 particular task or -- there's so many laws that 5 it makes a lot of people from -- what we hear, it 6 makes people, including these staff people in -- 7 in facilities, very nervous about lending a hand 8 or assisting people with disabilities.

9 And this would occur also for 10 people who are not literate or, you know, again, 11 the elderly, that need assistance with everything 12 from filling out their -- their forms, filling -- 13 filling out a mail-in ballot or an application 14 for a mail-in ballot to walking into the mailbox
15 to help that they might need at the polling 16 place.

17 So this is something that we've 18 fought -- well, that it was fought last session.
19 All session, one bill for one little piece of 20 that because of that, the message needs to be 21 sent that it's enough.

22 And that's it.

23 MR. PIERRE: Thank you.

24 MS. CHANDLER: Thank you.

25 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, thank you

Proceedings

1
2 very, very much, Ms. Chandler. Thank you.

3 That was, for me, I don't know
4 about any anyone else, very educational. I've 5 been taking a lot of notes, doing a lot of 6 Facebooking, letting people know what's going on.

7 Our -- next we'll have Ms. Cynthia
8 Spooner.

9 MS. SPOONER: Good morning,
10 Congresswoman Lee, guest commissioners, and those 11 assembled.

12 My name is Cynthia Spooner. I'm 13 speaking as a private citizen, but with 14 particular expertise, I will say. I have lived 15 in the state of Texas for the last ten years. I 16 have voted in the following voting jurisdictional
17 states: Louisiana, Minnesota, Oklahoma,
18 Missouri, Arkansas, and now Texas, and for four 19 years I voted in the District of Columbia.

20 It was not until I came to the 21 state of Texas that it took three concerted 22 efforts to get a voter registration card. I will 23 let you know by virtue of my ten years of 24 residency in the state of Texas, I have acted in 25 a numerous number of capacities on a volunteer

Proceedings

1
2 basis.

3 I have been a sworn deputy voter
4 registrar. I've been a sworn election precinct
5 judge. I've been a ballot board oversight
6 member. I have served as a call room coordinator
7 and trainer for 1-866-Our-Vote, which is a voter 8 protection arm on election periods that is 9 partially underwritten by the Lawyers' Committee 10 for Civil Rights Under the Law, who's one of the 11 co-sponsors of today. I've been a legal team 12 trainer. I've done data collection for 13 candidates who felt that their races were in 14 jeopardy. I've been a party representative in 15 the ballot board process.

16 And I asked to speak today because 17 I have a wide variety of experiences that most 18 people don't even see, because most people don't 19 even know how the ballot board process works 20 because they're never in the room. Because it's 21 normally less than 50 people who certify the 22 election here in Harris County.

23 I wanted to speak also as an 24 individual because I have lived my life as an 25 individual who believed that a lawyer is either a

1 Proceedings

2 social engineer or a parasite on society. And 3 that quote comes from Charles Hamilton Houston
4 who was the dean of the Howard University Law 5 School during the tenure of Thurgood Marshall who 6 this law school was named after.

7 And I was lucky enough as a child
8 to be under him the same day that Congresswoman 9 Barbara Jordan addressed the Nixon hearings when 10 she made her "We the People Speech." And I share 11 that with Congresswoman Lee when they did the 12 commemoration lunch here on the campus roughly a 13 year ago.

14 So I really believe in this 15 constitutional process and what it means to be a 16 United States citizen. And I have lived my life 17 believing that I'm not here on a hall pass; that 18 I want every right that my parents fought for, my 19 grandparents fought for, and their parents fought 20 for, and that everyone deserves.

21 It's not just about my rights,
22 it's about the rights of the whole community, 23 because when one person loses, we lose as a whole 24 in our society.

25 Let me just say this -- and I'm

Proceedings

1
2 going to hit some particular points that were not 3 touched on by my predecessor. There is an 4 absolute lack of educational and authentic 5 expertise by the people who administer our 6 elections, because in the state of Texas, and 7 particularly in Harris County, when you control
8 the election process, you collect -- you control 9 the tax process, which is a what, financial and 10 economic process. So that's why elections and 11 politics of voting are always local, local, 12 local, no matter what you may believe.

13 There is a disparate impact on 14 language, racial and ethnic minorities, I've seen 15 it at every level, from the way that people are 16 getting information and access to information 17 about when classes and trainings are held that 18 are required to participate in any of the 19 administrative roles. There is a discriminatory 20 implementation at the polling places when 21 individuals show up to vote.

22 I have probably been challenged on 23 my ability to vote in Harris County no less than 24 eight times. I have been a registered voter. I 25 have a valid state ID. I speak reasonably well.

1 Proceedings

2 I present myself reasonably well, and I got 3 challenged for early voting. I -- my address was 4 correct. It matched my ID. And the woman said
5 to me, "Well, are you sure this is all correct?"
6 Imagine.

7 The Section 5 of the Voting Rights
8 Act and the Help Americans Voting Act, there's a 9 complete dearth of information or knowledge of 10 information that is used at the local and 11 precinct level here in the state of Texas.

12 I have participated in both the 13 2008, 2010, and 2012 elections, and I can tell 14 you that many of the assurances that the law 15 provides, even with the latest challenges from 16 Shelby and other cases, make it really 17 distressing to many individuals just seeking to 18 vote. And it's very challenging, especially for 19 people who are mail-in voters, our service people 20 abroad, people who travel for business, elderly 21 people, people who are not able to transport 22 themselves at the last minute. Because one of 23 the things that happens a lot in Harris County is 24 the night before the election, they consolidate 25 or move a precinct.

1 Proceedings

2 As a person who is disabled and 3 uses METROLift, which is the local paratransit, 4 we are required to make all reservations for 5 transportation 24 hours in advance prior to 6 5:00 o'clock the previous business day. So if 7 election day is Saturday and they change the 8 polling place at 6:00 a.m. on election day, those 9 people, unless they have private funds to get to 10 a polling place, they've then been 11 disenfranchised, because they won't know until 12 they've already gone to the wrong place where 13 they'll be dropped off. They've got to find a 14 ride from that wrong polling place and then 15 locate the new polling place.

16 So those are just some of the 17 things as a private citizen and as a person who's 18 in the -- in the ballot board process.

19 And may I just ask for a moment --
20 a personal privilege just to finish -- to just go 21 into it about the ballot board process?

22 MR. PIERRE: 30 seconds?

23 MS. SPOONER: Yeah, I can do it in 24 30 seconds.

25 The ballot board process is where

1 Proceedings

2 the elections are certified. That is where the 3 review of all those provisional ballots happens.
4 The ballot board process at this point in time is 5 now basically an electronic process. They have 6 now gone to rely strictly on microfiche scans, 7 but the sad thing is if the scan is unclear,
8 the -- the ballot is lost.

9 And the provisional is contingent
10 upon the expertise of the precinct judge, meaning 11 the -- the voter could have been willing to do 12 whatever was asked of them, but if the precinct 13 judge was not astute enough to say make sure you 14 put the date here or put the last address 15 correctly in this box, then that ballot is lost.
16 And that's not the voter's fault, that is that 17 paid precinct judge and assistant judge's behalf.

18 But because a lot of times those 19 individuals that they are having to do a 20 provisional ballot, it's not someone who they 21 necessarily want to deal with, they are not given 22 the same respect and the time and the 23 administrative care that they should be.

24 But thank you for your time.

25 MR. PIERRE: Thank you,

1 Proceedings

2 Ms. Spooner.

3 Our next -- the next and last 4 person on this panel that will speak before we 5 take public testimony is Kyle Longhofer.

6 And please restate your name for 7 the record. I know I'm mispronouncing it.

8 MR. LONGHOFER: You actually got 9 it right.

10 MR. PIERRE: Oh, great. I just 11 want to say the first -- the first -- the first 12 speaker, because I interrupted her, I gave her 13 about two more minutes. But we're three minutes 14 for testimony. And the -- the 15 sergeant-at-arms -- while I'm the coordinator, 16 the sergeant-at-arms is going to be the dean, 17 Howard Jefferson. So we're going to let him be 18 sergeant-at-arms.

19 MR. JEFFERSON: Thank you. Let 20 me -- let me say this. There's several people 21 who are to testify, and we want to make sure that 22 we honor them. So would the speakers look to 23 your left -- look to your left and follow the 24 time limit that they are posting. They will tell 25 you when it's a few minutes, and they will tell

1 Proceedings

2 you when to stop. Let's follow that so that 3 everybody can hear what the rest of the panelists 4 are going to say.

5 MR. PIERRE: That's why he's 6 sergeant-at-arms.

7 Okay. You may -- you may begin.

8 MR. LONGHOFER: Thank you. My 9 name is Kyle Longhofer. I've been working in the 10 voter protections for, oh, ten plus years. I 11 went to Florida to be an election observer in the 12 2004 elections, and I've been working in voter 13 protection actions ever since then.

14 I just want to talk quickly about 15 a couple of things because three minutes is not a 16 long time. First, in terms of the overview of 17 how we got here today, the Shelby County case is 18 really, really bad law and -- in my opinion. And 19 as Professor Jackson mentioned, it is based on 20 some decisions that are really bad. I was -- I 21 read through it. He didn't see it. But if you 22 read carefully, in the Shelby County case, the 23 law -- that decision's based on a concept called 24 equality of state sovereignty.

25 Now, that is the same legal

1 Proceedings

2 principle that was used to justify Dred Scott.
3 And, you know, Justice Roberts never cites Dred
4 Scott, but he is using the same legal principle
5 as the Dred Scott case to justify the elimination 6 of Section 4(b) of the Voting Rights Act.

7 The other thing I want to note --
8 deal with is how we're dealing with Section 5, 9 voter ID, in my county, in Fort Bend County.
10 There's a couple of things I want to run by to 11 people quickly.

12 First of all, the Texas voter ID
13 law is extremely restrictive with -- the D.C.
14 circuit court, when it rejected this law in the 15 first round under Section 5 of the Voting Rights 16 Act, held as the most strict law in the -- in the 17 nation as to voter ID. Since then, if you look 18 at the statute carefully, you will see that it is 19 extremely restrictive because there's only a few 20 forms of ID that can be used. If you want to 21 know exactly how restrictive it is, you can 22 compare it to the Alabama law that just got 23 adopted.

24 Now, Alabama does not really come 25 across as a liberal jurisdiction, but in

Proceedings

1
2 comparison to Texas is -- is -- is horrible -- I
3 mean, the Texas law was horrible. But let me
4 just tell you how we're dealing with voter IDs 5 right now.

6 I'm trying to organize voter ID
7 clinics. It is extremely difficult to get 8 election identification certificates in Texas.
9 You have to have a voter -- a birth certificate 10 certified, and there's no good way of doing that 11 without paying a poll tax. The best you can do 12 right now is going to the county clerk's office
13 and paying $3 poll tax as opposed to the normal 14 $22 poll tax to get a a free birth certificate.

15 The other thing you can do right 16 now that is being done is vote by mail. The 17 voter ID law does not apply to vote by mail.
18 People -- we are -- every -- we are -- my 19 organization is putting a great deal of emphasis 20 on vote by mail, and right now we are doing a lot 21 more vote by mail. Dis -- disabled voters can 22 vote by mail, and this is not the same way as in 23 the voting -- in Section -- SB14. But the vote 24 by mail process can be used by people who are 25 disabled. And that's self-certification. In

1 Proceedings

2 other words, if you think you're disabled, then 3 you can apply to use vote by mail, and that's 4 what's being done for some of our disabled voters
5 in my county. Thank you very much.

6 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. Thank
7 you. Next?

8 PROF. JACKSON: I have a question.

9 MR. PIERRE: Yes.

10 PROF. JACKSON: You said that the 11 Texas voter ID law does not cover vote by mail.

12 MR. LONGHOFER: Yes, sir.

13 PROF. JACKSON: Is that for all 14 persons or just the disabled?

15 MR. LONGHOFER: It's for all 16 persons. And so in my county we went from having 17 92 people of my party registered to vote by mail
18 in 2010 and 2012 to 2,000 people. And the club
19 that I'm a member of mailed out 14,800
20 vote-by-mail applications to everyone over 65.

21 But in terms of disability, the 22 disabled provisions of vote -- I mean, vote by 23 mail only -- does not define who is disabled. So 24 you in effect self-certify. The -- the county 25 registrar in Travis County has told one of my

Proceedings

1
2 friends that if you think getting the correct ID
3 is too big a pain than you-know-where, then you 4 can certify that you're disabled. And we are 5 having more and more people use the vote by mail
6 process to get around voter ID.

7 MR. PIERRE: Thank you.

8 PROF. JACKSON: Thank you.

9 MR. PIERRE: Thank you.

10 REP. JACKSON LEE: Chair, can I
11 ask if there are any questions of me that I may 12 come and answer. I can come down.

13 MR. PIERRE: Yes. We have one
14 more speaker, and then we have public testimony.
15 But prior to that, Congresswoman, I assume -- any 16 questions -- any particular questions you might 17 want to ask of the congresswoman, Sheila Jackson
18 Lee? Does anybody have any questions?

19 The next speaker has a plane to 20 catch, and so I want to make sure that she has an 21 opportunity to speak, Ms. Christina Sanders. And 22 then -- and anyone has any questions -- you can 23 actually ask the question during public testimony
24 if you want to just to keep our efficiency.
25 Thank you very much.

1 Proceedings

2 MS. SANDERS: Thank you, and thank 3 you to the organizations that are putting this on 4 and having this really important conversation.

5 My name is Christina Sanders, and 6 I'm the state director of an organization called 7 the Texas League of Young Voters. The Texas
8 League is the largest ground-based engagement
9 group in the state of Texas for young people.
10 And in many elections we've seen an increase in 11 discrimination and disenfranchisement towards 12 young people.

13 The Circle Report said that in 14 2012, 46 million young people between the ages of 15 18 and 29 were eligible to vote. And by 2015 we 16 estimate that young people in that same
17 demographic will make up a third of the American 18 electorate.

19 Here in Texas we have a large 20 population of young people, and a couple of 21 things we worked on is in 2012 we worked as 22 plaintiffs in the voter ID case, and a large 23 group of those -- those -- those folks in that 24 population were young people, young blacks and 25 Latinos, and I think someone later is talking

Proceedings

1
2 about that.

3 But I will note for the record
4 that the voter ID has a major impact on the youth 5 vote and young people being able to have access 6 to the ballot.

7 In 2012 we experienced personally
8 many -- much disenfranchisement. There are -- 9 there are a couple of key things that I just want 10 to point out for the record is that students were 11 turned away. More than students, young people 12 were turned away because their names weren't on 13 the rolls, not that they were not registered to 14 vote.

15 The printed rolls that were 16 available at the locations -- the voting
17 locations in the early voter around the county 18 did not have their name on it. In fact, we 19 actually took the young person to the computer 20 and printed off their voter registration
21 certificate.

22 So on election day during early 23 vote, many young people were turned away and many 24 people were turned away because the county had 25 not put their names on the official rolls, and

Proceedings

1
2 this is in 2012. Many people were turned away.

3 For the same election, we had 4 young people turned away because on the voter 5 registration cards, there was a printed date.
6 And my -- I'm at three minutes? Sorry.

7 MR. PIERRE: You have three 8 minutes left.

9 MS. SANDERS: Oh, I have three 10 minutes left. Okay. Thank you. Keeping me 11 honest.

12 The -- the printed date for 13 effective on the voter registration -- on the 14 voter registration cards said -- some of them
15 said the day after the election, some of them 16 said election day. But as we know, everybody who 17 has registered to vote is eligible to vote during 18 early voting. Many young people -- many people 19 were turned away as a result of the effective 20 date on the registration card not being the day 21 before early voting or it starting in the middle 22 of early voting.

23 Another thing that was difficult 24 with this last election was in 2011 during the 25 legislative session there were some changes made

1 Proceedings

2 to how folks can register people to vote. So the 3 changes in terms of how people can get deputized, 4 when people can get deputized, that was a 5 complication, because as, you know, young people 6 have a different schedule.

7 If you're going to Prairie View
8 A&M University, you're not in school all year
9 round. Young people on that campus generally 10 register young people on that campus. If you're 11 at Texas Southern, it's difficult to engage and 12 register young people under this new law because 13 the rules are not clear.

14 So there are three recommendations
15 that I offer. The first thing is that there 16 needs to be clear and written administrative 17 rules at the local level. One of the things that 18 the state said was that we leave this to the 19 local jurisdiction because of funding issues.
20 But as we know from -- from history itself back 21 to the 40s, 30s, that's not effective when it 22 comes to populations that have a history of being 23 disenfranchised. And it is -- it is not clear up 24 to election day with the county attorney was 25 determining what the rules are and if the

1 Proceedings

2 students were able to vote or not on election 3 day. We need clear and written rules for every 4 single voter and available to them.

5 And the other thing is that there 6 needs to be more respect given to the "in the 7 area" -- "in the area" conversation when it comes 8 to students. Prairie View -- Prairie View in 9 1979 became ground zero for disenfranchisement 10 because of this history of trying not to let the 11 students -- or letting the students vote. In the 12 area means that you can't hold elections when 13 students are not in school.

14 The way the rules have changed, it 15 makes it almost difficult, almost impossible, for 16 students to get registered with the 30-day 17 requirement plus the additional materials that 18 are needed. It's the same principle as "in the 19 area," and I think that that should really be 20 looked at. And also we need to make more 21 progress and be more efficient when it comes to 22 online registration, election day registration.

23 And, you know, if you can check 24 your bank account from your phone, you should be 25 able to have a system in Texas that's more

1 Proceedings

2 efficient with -- with allowing people to 3 register to vote and have access to the ballot.

4 Thank you.

5 MR. PIERRE: Thank you,
6 Ms. Sanders. Appreciate your testimony. Any 7 questions?

8 PROF. JACKSON: Just a quick one.
9 Do you find any -- any correlation between 10 student disenfranchisement and race or ethnicity
11 or is it simply student or age -- not student 12 disenfranchisement, age disenfranchisement.

13 MS. SANDERS: In 2014 it still is 14 race. Why? Because when you look at the -- the 15 poll tax or you look at the cost, it's going to 16 disproportionately have a negative impact on 17 young people of color. And so it's -- it's still 18 in 2014 significant in terms of race.

19 I will say and I will offer that 20 there is a -- over time, and it probably will be 21 several years, I don't have any facts, it 22 probably will evolve to a pace of people who are 23 more likely in general to vote a certain way.
24 But, yes, because of the economic, the access, it 25 still is disproportionately young people of

Proceedings

1
2 color.

3 MR. PIERRE: Any other questions?
4 Thank you.

5 MR. TYSON: Can I -- sir, is the 6 questions only from the panel? Is that the way
7 the meeting is being conducted?

8 MR. PIERRE: For the witnesses
9 here, the questions are from the panels.

10 Now, and you're going to give 11 testimony. We normally would not do any 12 questions. But if you had questions for 13 Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee on how she 14 opened, we were going to take a party person 15 privilege and allow that. But questions from the 16 audience to the panel members were not going to 17 be allowed.

18 MR. TYSON: I'm -- the question
19 was to the -- you asked questions. In our county 20 we're told we have to have a physical signature
21 on a online voter registration. I don't know 22 what the law is.

23 Ms. Lee, you mentioned legislation
24 that you're supporting, and obviously it's quite 25 comprehensive and would work to the benefit of

1 Proceedings

2 all of us. But what are the chances of -- of the 3 Senate and the House -- is it possible to get it 4 enacted or are we just trying to get it to the 5 floor for a vote?

6 REP. JACKSON LEE: Thank you, sir.
7 Can I call your name. I know you.

8 MR. TYSON: James Tyson. I live
9 in Alvin. I've known you.

10 REP. JACKSON LEE: I've seen you.
11 That's what I'm saying. I want to call you 12 Mr. Tyson. Thank you for the question.

13 This legislation is in direct
14 response to the United States Supreme Court 15 knocking down Section 5 and 4(b) -- 4(b) under 16 the Voting Rights Act which in essence made the 17 Voting Rights Act impotent. We have no Voting 18 Rights Act at this point except what we call the 19 Section 2 action which is a lawsuit action which 20 comes after the offense.

21 So if you are disabled and you are 22 blocked or -- or you are disabled and we 23 determine before the election that there's 24 several polls that are inaccessible, under the 25 old law we could go right to the Department of

1 Proceedings

2 Justice who would immediately stop, hold up, or 3 require the state, the jurisdiction to fix it or 4 to stop the election or to turn the election
5 around. In this instance stop it.

6 We don't have that anymore. And 7 the Supreme Court said, Because you don't need it 8 anymore, not thinking of language minorities, 9 disabled, senior citizens, for example.

10 So the law that we have written 11 that has equal number of Republicans and 12 Democrats, and I'm on the Judiciary and helped 13 construct the formula here, again, I've always 14 said not perfect, is to fill the gap left by the 15 Supreme Court decision which literally made 16 impotent and cut any rights to get a preclearance 17 so you can go ahead with the vote.

18 I keep using Pasadena, Texas.
19 That mayor, that council, four people voted,
20 redrew the lines. There was great opposition, 21 but there was no way to stop it. And so two 22 people have lost their seat or they're forced 23 into an election against each other.

24 So I just want to quickly say that 25 again this can be done by states, political

Proceedings

1
2 subdivisions. And two points of issue, I'll just 3 leave it at that. That means that Utah can now 4 be covered. If there are a certain number of 5 discriminatory factors, that means they're now
6 covered by the Voting Rights Act.

7 On the other side of the coin,
8 North Carolina is not covered. And why? Because 9 the test was you have a lot of minorities 10 registered to vote. That was the test the 11 Supreme Court used to eliminate you from being 12 part of the Voting Rights Act. Texas got 13 included. Why? Because there's a large number 14 of Hispanics that are not registered to vote. So 15 we're actually covered by the law of the -- by 16 the Supreme Court. We're still covered, and 17 we're in essence covered by this bill. Our names 18 are there.

19 But now the bill has the ability
20 to provide other states coverage as well. So it 21 has to pass on the House and the Senate. Where 22 are we in this? We have bipartisan support on 23 the House side in terms of the members of the 24 Judiciary Committee. We're now asking the 25 Speaker of the House. That's why we would hope

1 Proceedings

2 the commission would ask that we get a vote on 3 this legislation.

4 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. We'll 5 have our next public speaker.

6 PROF. JACKSON: I just wanted to 7 ask, you indicated that you thought the new bill 8 might be vulnerable before the Supreme Court or 9 that some -- some -- some of the experts were 10 saying so.

11 REP. JACKSON LEE: No. We think 12 we've fixed the Supreme Court's decision or -- or 13 blanket statement that all is well. What the 14 Supreme Court said, All is well, you don't need 15 preclearance.

16 What we have done is we've redone
17 the formula because the formula before was you 18 could -- you had a preclearance with states that 19 had a history of discrimination. So all the 20 southern states were covered including Texas,
21 parts of California, some parts of New York, 22 wherever there were language minorities, pockets
23 across the state were covered.

24 The Supreme Court eliminated this 25 past history of discrimination, and we had to

Proceedings

1
2 start anew to find out, well, how can you get 3 this done. So now we have a formula that says, 4 If you can pluck out discrimination, about five 5 in the last 15 years, you can -- you're covered.
6 You can be covered as a state or a political 7 subdivision, county, or city. So you could be in 8 South Dakota and a city in South Dakota could be 9 covered but not the whole state. And maybe it 10 will be Native Americans or maybe it will be 11 disabled persons or maybe it will be 12 Asian-Pacific that are, in fact, the ones that 13 are being discriminated against.

14 So they're doing it by you proving 15 or -- your -- your present acts -- remember, 16 that's -- 15 years is not -- not 40 years ago, 17 which is when the Deep South states -- we were 18 continuing to use the Deep South states because 19 they had past histories of discrimination.

20 Frankly, I think that was not an 21 unacceptable formula, but that has been knocked 22 out. And now we have this new formula that goes 23 back 15 years. And if you've given five 24 discriminatory acts in 15 years, then you are in.
25 You -- you -- you're now covered by the law.

1 Proceedings

2 It's going to be a difficult
3 formula which is why I'm glad you asked the 4 question. It has not passed yet. But it's going 5 to be difficult because we really need a 6 partnership with the state because some of the 7 things that you mentioned, polling places, 8 online, that's state issues except when we can 9 pass a federal law.

10 But the State is going to be in 11 session in 2015, and it's going to be imperative 12 that activists and people interested in everyone 13 having the right to vote are on top, Carolyn, of 14 these voting changes that the State can make.

15 The State made the provisional
16 ballots, and, therefore, we only have real 17 dominance over federal elections. But you have 18 all kinds of elections. People miss all kinds of 19 elections. People are turned away with all kinds 20 of elections, city elections, school board
21 elections. The lines are redrawn, they're not 22 federal seats. And so you have to be very 23 concerned. But, remember, before you could go in 24 to block someone redrawing the lines on a school 25 board if it eliminated or diminished the rights

1 Proceedings

2 of minorities or language minorities to vote.
3 This means that all of us have to come together.
4 So I hope -- and I think that case shows where we 5 are today post-Shelby.

6 PROF. JACKSON: Thank you.

7 REP. JACKSON LEE: And the one
8 last thing the -- Ms. Sanders said, one of the 9 most striking cases was the case of Prairie View 10 A&M which went to the Supreme Court which in 11 Prairie View in that county, Waller County, they 12 were preventing college students from voting 13 saying that the address of the school could not 14 be considered their residence. All over the 15 nation now, the Prairie View case has made it 16 where college students can claim their college 17 address as their residence and now they can vote.

18 That is an enormous decision and 19 tribute to the Prairie View students and many of 20 us who converged on that area. 7,000 people 21 marched in the rally. But it went to the Supreme 22 Court. And now that's one of the things that we 23 should encourage our college students -- why 24 campaigning and all of the social media should 25 drive our college students to vote because they

1 Proceedings

2 can vote in the jurisdiction that they're in. It 3 is a big, big deal, and we need to do more about 4 letting them know about it.

5 MR. PIERRE: Thank you,
6 Congresswoman. Any other questions?

7 Congresswoman, thank you so much 8 for your information, and it is always good when 9 you have these hearings to serve as a backdrop 10 the actual in the field of battle type of 11 testimony that you presented to us in Congress as 12 well as what you have done to help and assist us 13 in maintaining the onslaughts that have tried to 14 chase away the voting rights that we fought for 15 over these years, so I really appreciate you, and 16 thank you so much for your assistance.

17 REP. JACKSON LEE: Outstanding
18 commission. Thank you very much.

19 MR. JEFFERSON: And we get good 20 information because Sheila is in the huddle when 21 the plays are called.

22 MR. PIERRE: Okay. We have some 23 public testimony. If there's anybody else that 24 has any testimony that -- in other words, you 25 know if you're on a panel because you were told

1 Proceedings

2 that you're on a panel. But there are people
3 who've not registered who may be from the public 4 who may have heard it on the radio and wanted to 5 step in.

6 Please, you can sign up on the 7 corner. There's some note cards that you can 8 give your name. I have two individuals right 9 now, Ricky Forrest and James Tyson. You'll have 10 three minutes to give your public testimony, and 11 then we'll go on to the second panel.

12 So Ricky Forrest is here? Ricky
13 Forrest, you can come up and you may speak. You 14 have three minutes. And then after Mr. Forrest 15 we'll have James Tyson. You can stand in -- in 16 the dugout.

17 If there's anybody else that wants
18 to serve on this section of public testimony, 19 please sign up and then we'll get you -- if you
20 can sign up -- Maria, is there some note cards
21 there so I can have a name so she can sign up?

22 Okay. Are you ready, timekeeper?

23 MR. FORREST: My name is Ricky
24 Forrest, and I'm from Alvin, Texas. I'm a United 25 States veteran. I served in the Army Corps of

1 Proceedings

2 Engineers. I served in -- well, that's in Fort 3 Belvoir, Virginia, right outside Washington, D.C.
4 I went to Germany for two years and served in the 5 United States Army Signal Corps. I was the unit
6 armory sergeant-at-arms, and I also facilitated 7 combat readiness audits.

8 My unit was decommissioned because 9 I recognized a system of failure. You know, when 10 you're being set up to fail, it's really obvious
11 because nobody would take the job. But our job 12 was -- my job, specific job, was to inventory our 13 entire unit, prepare the equipment for movement 14 upon any combat situation. Nobody would do their 15 job. They all want the title, but they don't do 16 the job.

17 You know, I filed a voting
18 complaint with the secretary of state. The 19 secretary of state elections division is 20 responsible for protecting your voting rights.
21 They dismissed my complaint with a -- a trumped 22 up -- they actually fabricate evidence to give 23 the illusion that they did their job.

24 When you file a complaint with the 25 Department of Justice voting rights section, they

1 Proceedings

2 don't do their job either. They do so to protect 3 police officers in the state of Texas who commit 4 felonies by depriving you of your right to vote.
5 Conspiracy against rights under color of law that 6 results in a deprivation of rights under color of 7 law is punishable as a felony under federal 8 standards.

9 I served as an elected official.
10 My rights to give testimony as a public official, 11 my rights to vote as an elected official, my 12 rights to be protected by the laws of the United 13 States or the laws of the state of Texas have 14 been wholesale deprived of me.

15 The right wing engages in this 16 type of behavior as part of an entrapment 17 process. It is illegal. That is my testimony to 18 this commission.

19 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. Thank
20 you, Mr. Forrest. We appreciate your testimony.

21 Is Mr. Tyson still here?

22 Mr. Tyson and then next, Crystal Sowemimo. You 23 can come up to the witness section -- I mean, 24 excuse me, the jury box to prepare.

25 Mr. Tyson, you have three minutes.

1 Proceedings

2 You may begin.

3 MR. TYSON: Thank you. My name is 4 James Richard Tyson, and I live in Alvin. My 5 parents married there and attended schools,
6 various places in the South. Graduated high 7 school and military school in Atlanta, had the 8 good fortune to visit several places, one of them
9 being the church Dr. King presided over. Another 10 was a restaurant down the street that the 11 opposition to civil rights and later governor of 12 Georgia had a restaurant.

13 I grew up in -- from a political 14 family, and with that I wanted to speak about the 15 election in '48, the election since -- history of 16 1900, and where we're at today with voter
17 registration ID bill.

18 There's one thing I'd like to 19 submit for the record which is a redistricting
20 map of Alvin, Texas. At this time I'm a 21 candidate for mayor. If I vote in the mayor's 22 election on election day in the city of Alvin, I 23 will have to go to another city to vote.

24 Now, I think you need to think 25 about that. That was fundamental that you

1 Proceedings

2 usually -- used to get to vote in the city you're 3 running for. But when you have redistricting in 4 Alvin, Texas today in Brazoria County, that's not 5 the case. If the panel really wants to 6 investigate election laws in Texas, they will 7 look at Brazoria County which is very proud of 8 the fact that that's where Texas began. You 9 don't need to look all over the state or go in 10 the big cities, because you have minority 11 representation in Brazoria County. And you have 12 it in Alvin.

13 So with that hopefully the panel
14 that's -- really wants to investigate election
15 laws in Texas will do that and -- and inquire 16 about the history of Texas.

17 I had an uncle that was a
18 congressman, the biggest county in his district
19 that said he didn't sign up to -- to be a 20 candidate, and so under Woodrow Wilson he was 21 defeated. Those are the things that have 22 happened in Texas history, so with that I -- any 23 questions I'll be happy to answer. I
24 remember . . .

25 MR. PIERRE: No questions.

Proceedings

1
2 MR. TYSON: And I appreciate Judge
3 Jefferson. I remember when he was elected 4 district judge and he served many years and he's 5 still serving as a parliamentarian, and I'll 6 certainly respect the rules. Thank you.

7 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, Mr. Tyson.
8 And next -- Crystal, would you be so kind for the 9 court reporter to spell your last name, and then 10 you have three minutes.

11 MS. SOWEMIMO: My name is Crystal
12 Sowemimo, S-o-w-e-m-i-m-o, and I'm speaking as a 13 student of the University of Houston and also as 14 an intern for the Texas Public Interest Research
15 Group.

16 So according to a study done by 17 the Center for Information and Research on Civic 18 Learning and Engagement, voter turnout among 19 those between the ages of 18 and 29 across the 20 country was at least 10 percentage points lower 21 than the turnout rate among 30-year-olds in 22 Texas, and it's no -- and Texas is no exception.

23 And right now in 2012 the average
24 of -- is -- less than one-third of the eligible
25 youth went out to the polls in Texas. And 36

1 Proceedings

2 public institutions of higher education learning 3 and dozens of quality private universities are 4 available here in Texas, yet the voices of young 5 people are still not being heard. Texas
6 education institutions represent a large spectrum 7 of diverse populations, yet Latino and 8 African-American students are even less likely 9 to -- on average to vote.

10 As voter registration and voter ID
11 laws in Texas become more complex and often 12 more -- more confusing, it is now even more 13 critical that young people get the information 14 they need to cast their ballot.

15 As a student of the University of 16 Houston, I've been dedicated to educating and 17 registering students to turn out to vote. And 18 I've -- and because I have learned that young 19 adults like myself tend to be dissatisfied by our 20 current -- our current political climate. And 21 young people likely myself tend to complain a lot 22 about the issues created by policies that don't 23 support their best interest.

24 However, as I mentioned earlier,
25 it is evident that young people like myself don't

1 Proceedings

2 show up to the polls to cast their ballot. I 3 have learned that dissatisfaction with the 4 politics issues is directly correlated with not 5 showing up to the polls and casting their ballots 6 and being educated and politically engaged in 7 those who are interested in solving some of 8 the -- some of our societal issues.

9 I got involved with youth voter
10 registration in 2012 when I started becoming a 11 leader with TexPIRG's New Voters Project two 12 years ago. To be fair, overall youth turnout has 13 improved since 2008 when elected officials and 14 voter mobilization efforts focused on the needs
15 and challenges of young people. Then young 16 voters showed up to the polls.

17 So now I'm going to present two 18 policy proposals from TexPIRG. First is for a 19 federal and state policy -- first, federal and 20 state policy must catch up to the modern 21 realities of voting. A policy of affirmative 22 registration would allow for state universities 23 to automatically forward student information to 24 registrars to be -- to the polls, unless a 25 student opted out of this process. This type of

1 Proceedings

2 process can be adopted for any interaction with 3 government services from social -- from social 4 services to library cards. Several jurisdictions
5 have begun experimenting with demonstration
6 projects around modernizing registration.

7 And the second policy proposal is 8 Texas should adopt online voter registration.
9 According to the National Conference of State
10 Legislatures, as of April 2014, 16 states offer 11 online registration and another four states have 12 passed legislation, but have not been 13 implemented.

14 States that have this legislation
15 and have been implemented have seen significant 16 reduction in per-registration costs, but most 17 importantly this would bring voter registration 18 into an increasingly wireless world, encouraging 19 young people like myself to register at -- at 20 much higher rates.

21 These two relatively simple policy
22 changes would drastically increase voter
23 participation in Texas leading to a more 24 representative and more engaged youth population.
25 Thank you so much.

1 Proceedings

2 MR. PIERRE: Your time is up, but 3 I have a question, though, and I think maybe the 4 other commissioners have a question.

5 In -- in -- from your testimony,
6 and I don't know if you heard Ms. Sanders'
7 testimony.

8 MS. SOWEMIMO: Yes.

9 MR. PIERRE: I want to know,
10 because I guess I'm not young anymore, Howard. I
11 used to brag; I'm now 48. So I want to know --
12 I'm one of the old people still on Facebook -- I 13 want to know do you -- do you see -- as a college 14 student, do you see much emphasis on the 15 challenges? Not so much the excitement -- I see 16 things about the excitement of the youth vote and 17 that it appears that if anyone is going to a poll 18 outside those who are dissatisfied is the young 19 youth vote.

20 However, what I'm hearing, just 21 like the education I got with people with 22 disabilities, what I'm hearing is that there are 23 challenges to voting that young people experience 24 that were not really reported. Would that be an 25 accurate assessment?

Proceedings

1
2 MS. SOWEMIMO: Yes, it would.

3 MR. PIERRE: And what is -- why is 4 that? Do you know why there's not emphasis or 5 communication or -- or marketing that -- that 6 shares that issue with the youth vote? Because 7 there's -- there's more of you and it seems like 8 that you guys, through social media, seem to be 9 able to communicate much, much wider than -- than 10 anyone else can. Why do you think that there's 11 not a lot of attention on that?

12 MS. SOWEMIMO: It's a very complex
13 issue, and it's still currently very tough for me 14 to register students to vote on campus because 15 students have such busy schedules and it's really 16 hard to engage them in the issues and show them
17 the importance and educate them on the importance 18 of casting their ballot because they just see the 19 issue of -- that's affecting them, like a certain 20 policy issue. Like, I don't know, student loan 21 debt. But they don't see the connection between 22 the policy and then casting their ballot. And 23 that's really hard to get out there in the higher 24 education institution. And I feel that higher 25 education institutions and education

1 Proceedings

2 institutions, in general, should be helping youth 3 better engage into going out into the polls.

4 MR. PIERRE: Then -- are there any 5 other -- other questions? Thank you very much.

6 MS. SOWEMIMO: Thank you so much.

7 MR. PIERRE: Do we have any 8 more -- any more for the public, any other public 9 speakers? Panel 2.

10 MR. REYES: We're going to take a 11 break.

12 MR. PIERRE: How long of a break?

13 MR. REYES: 15 minutes.

14 MR. PIERRE: Okay. We're going to 15 take a ten-minute break. We're going to take a 16 ten-minute break, and that means we're going to 17 be -- we're going to start up again at 12:05.
18 Will Panel 2 -- the first person on that panel be 19 Maureen Haver. Is Maureen Haver here?

20 MS. HAVER: Yes.

21 MR. PIERRE: So at 11:05 -- I
22 mean, 12:05, we'll start with Maureen Haver.

23 (Short recess.)

24 MR. PIERRE: Thank you everyone
25 for coming back, and I want to blame me for the

Proceedings

1
2 lateness. I said ten minutes. But then when I
3 got out, the commissioners beat me up and stated
4 they needed more time and I wanted to make sure 5 that they were taken care of and everything.

6 We're going to have a slight
7 change, but first a couple of things. I'll wait
8 until -- I want to make sure that I recognize 9 some of our coalition members, but I'll wait 10 to -- until he comes back. I don't see him in 11 the room. And I want to thank once again Samuel 12 Washington. He is a world renowned photographer.
13 Samuel Washington donated his services pro bono 14 for this event, and definitely -- he has cards 15 and everything. So thank you so much, Sam, for 16 coming out on a Saturday. I saw you worked last 17 night, too. Double duties are appreciated.

18 And I also want to thank our court
19 reporter who has flown down here -- is it New 20 York or D.C.?

21 THE REPORTER: I'm actually local.

22 MR. PIERRE: You're actually
23 Houston. Okay, great. Great. Rene Moarefi,
24 great, with TSG Reporting. Thank you, Lawyers' 25 Committee. Thank you to the commissioners just

1 Proceedings

2 once again. We have still here with us from your 3 left, to my right, thank you, we have Attorney 4 Deborah Chen from OCA, the national treasurer and 5 past president of the local OCA chapter. We have 6 professor Craig Jackson, a constitutional law 7 professor here at the Thurgood Marshall School of 8 Law.

9 My name is James Goodwille Pierre,
10 I am the national vice president and section 11 division of the National Bar Association. And 12 I'm a coordinator or facilitator, whatever name 13 you want to prescribe to me, Alejandro, of this 14 Texas voting rights hearing for the National 15 Commission on Voting Rights.

16 And to my left, last but not 17 least, is Howard Jefferson. He is president 18 emeritus of the Houston branch of the NAACP. He 19 is a former or current national board member as 20 well as a board -- a national political action 21 committee member for the national NAACP, among 22 other things, past HISD superintendent, currently 23 on the Harris County Board of Education. So he 24 serves a lot of capacities. And I want to thank 25 you and everyone else for your service, all the

Proceedings

1
2 commissioners.

3 We're going to do a slight
4 deviation. Some of our commissioners wanted to 5 bring back up a -- a witness, a expert witness,
6 and so what I would like -- Ms. Chandler, if you 7 can come back up. We're going to have 8 Ms. Chandler come back up for a quick hot second 9 to answer questions from the commissioner. And 10 then after that we'll have board member Common 11 Cause, Maureen Haver. Did I pronounce your last 12 name right?

13 MS. HAVER: Yes.

14 MR. PIERRE: So I believe
15 Commissioner Chen has a question for you.

16 MS. CHEN: Yes, thank you.

17 MS. CHANDLER: My name is Robin
18 Chandler. I'm with Disability Rights Texas.

19 MS. CHEN: Thank you.

20 Ms. Chandler, earlier you had submitted some 21 paperwork in addition to your testimony, and you 22 briefly mentioned it towards the end of your 23 testimony regarding the different changes in the 24 laws that have made it more difficult for people 25 to even want to help seniors or the disabled who

1 Proceedings

2 reside in retirement homes, for instance, to be 3 able to seek assistance. If you wouldn't mind, 4 please expand a little bit on that.

5 MS. CHANDLER: Absolutely. So I
6 showed you -- or I included in my packet a chart 7 and it talks about the different helpers. They 8 have helpers called witnesses, helpers called 9 assistants, helpers called agents, they're all 10 allowed to do different things. And, you know, 11 basically the way I explain it is they speak very 12 specifically to who can help, how many people 13 they can help, what they need to do in order to 14 legally provide assistance to every kind of -- of 15 voting related activity, filling out forms. And 16 I did say that in my prior test -- testimony.
17 And so what we found even with registration is 18 that we go into institutions -- my co-worker does 19 training, she's in institutions a lot, and the 20 staff doesn't know -- they're even afraid to help 21 with voter registration. And -- you know, and 22 then we -- when we were talking about this bill 23 this last session, they wanted to limit the 24 amount of ballots you can carry to the mail. And 25 so if you were a Meals on Wheels person and you

Proceedings

1
2 were asked to -- to pick some -- you know, you go 3 there on the day they have to send them off and 4 you're asked to take it to the mailbox for them 5 or whatever, I mean, you can technically be 6 breaking the law just by doing things like -- 7 well, that one didn't pass, but, I mean, those 8 kinds of things are -- are -- mostly it's 9 confusing because, you know -- and that -- 10 because for the most part, if you do them, I 11 don't know if you're necessarily going to, you 12 know, be caught or the police are going to come 13 after you but it's -- it's intimidating. I guess 14 those are the two things that it creates, fear 15 and -- and our election law is littered with 16 them.

17 MS. CHEN: And so just to 18 summarize, what you're stating now, as well as 19 what you submitted, is that you -- in your work 20 you have found evidence or instances where people 21 are actually afraid of helping seniors or the 22 disabled who reside in nursing homes or other 23 residential programs from even helping them to 24 get registered or to help them to vote because of 25 fear of any confusion?

Proceedings

1
2 MS. CHANDLER: Right. It's kind
3 of like, I don't know what I'm allowed to do. I 4 mean, they were we -- we know this one that they 5 said we -- we only will send the voter 6 registration home with our clients so that their 7 family member -- it might have been -- it must 8 have been not in an institution, but it was a 9 program for people with disabilities that -- it's 10 like a day-hab program or something. And 11 certainly staff could have helped them, you know, 12 but they -- they told my co-worker, as she was 13 doing the training -- and this happened -- has 14 happened many times. But this is just an 15 example, you know, we don't know what we're 16 allowed to do and we're -- so we're afraid to do 17 it, so we're not doing it. It happens a lot, and 18 in a lot of these cases in the institutions, 19 those staff people are the only people you have 20 regular contact with. So they're not going to do 21 it. It's not going to happen.

22 MS. CHEN: Thank you.

23 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. Do any of 24 the other commissioners have any more questions?
25 I appreciate you coming back up and sticking

1 Proceedings

2 around. Thank you so much.

3 MS. CHANDLER: No problem at all.
4 Thank you.

5 MR. PIERRE: I would say that 6 while we're -- thank you -- that while we were 7 waiting, you know, the commissioners, we talked 8 amongst ourselves and we were very educated with 9 a lot of things that are apparent -- or not as 10 apparent to us but that exist related to people 11 with disabilities and an English deficiency, as 12 well as young people and students. And so I'm 13 really glad this testimony is serving as an 14 educational vehicle for everyone here, including 15 the commissioners.

16 And so now I would like to ask -- 17 we're going into Panel 2, and our first expert 18 witness is Maureen Haver. Maureen Haver, she is 19 a board member with Common Cause. Thank you,
20 Ms. Haver.

21 And you have five minutes of 22 expert witnesses. And then if any public member 23 or anyone there who is not on the panel list to 24 give expert testimony, we allow three minutes for 25 public testimony. Anyone from the public can

1 Proceedings

2 come up and -- and speak. So please -- please 3 see Alejandro of the Lawyers' Committee of Civil 4 Rights Under the Law. If you have any testimony, 5 you can speak. You don't have to have 6 preregistered to be allowed to speak. Anyone can 7 speak. Thank you.

8 Ms. Haver.

9 MS. HAVER: Good afternoon. I'd 10 like to thank the Lawyers' Committee on Civil 11 Rights, our guest commission and everybody here
12 today who has come on a glorious Saturday to bear 13 witness to what may be one of the most 14 challenging issues of our time, namely, to fight 15 back against regressive laws in Shelby v. Holder, 16 which strikes at the very heart of the Voting
17 Rights Act, which was landmark legislation 18 that -- for what began to take a step toward the 19 process of fulfilling the promise that this 20 country was based on.

21 And now today, in 2014, I am here
22 to tell you about my own experiences in Harris 23 County since 2008 in which I have documented and 24 researched voter suppression activity, both 25 coordinated county level through our -- our

1 Proceedings

2 elected county administrators and also through 3 voter suppression activist groups, namely True 4 the Vote, which some of you may be familiar with.

5 As a brief bit of background, in 6 2008 I led a voter registration drive that was 7 primarily comprised of volunteer deputy 8 registrars. And we had about 150 and we were 9 registering voters at storefronts, at events and 10 what we found were that a lot of voters were not 11 making it onto the rolls. We would follow up 12 with those voters. We would find that sometimes 13 they were rejected because they had a hyphen in 14 their name on their application but they didn't 15 have a hyphen on their driver's license and they 16 would be noticed with an incomplete or that we'd 17 have people that as many as 45 days later would 18 be noticed with an incomplete when they should 19 have been noticed within seven days. And so we 20 brought this to the attention of a local 21 investigative journalist.

22 From that it was found that there 23 were thousands of voters who were not being 24 properly registered under the leadership of Paul 25 Bettencourt, who was then voter registrar and tax

Proceedings

1
2 assessor. Paul Bettencourt is also one of the 3 pioneers of developing what is called a purge 4 model for removing voters from the rolls using 5 records like DPS. He's testified before
6 Congress. And so with that he played a 7 significant role in exposing what happened.

8 Fast-forward to 2010 and you have 9 a group emerge called True the Vote. True the 10 Vote is a voter suppression activist group that 11 targets minority precincts to try to prevent them
12 to vote. Their stated purpose is that they want 13 to bring integrity to the rolls. However, if you 14 actually look at some of their activities in 15 2010, including a video that I will submit to the 16 permanent record, on October 11th, 2010, at a 17 True the Vote meeting they were discussing the 18 placement of poll watchers. The now executive 19 director Mark Anhill stated, "Don't worry. We're 20 just doing to them what they've been doing to us
21 all along." Somebody else in the audience yells 22 "Payback." You hear cheering in the audience. A 23 week later across the county, at minority polling 24 locations there are reports of voter
25 intimidation, specifically at minority precincts.

Proceedings

1
2 And while they stated, True the Vote leadership, 3 that they were not engaged in targeting minority
4 precincts, Dave Fehling, the KHOU reporter,
5 actually went to at least two different polling 6 locations during early vote that are considered
7 white, upper middle class. And the election
8 judges there documented and confirmed that there 9 had been no placement of poll watchers, which is 10 a direct contradiction made by the True The Vote.

11 Now True The Vote has a close
12 working relationship with the current election
13 administration, both the county assessor and tax 14 assessor, voter registrar, Mike Sullivan, who in 15 2012 vowed to work hand-in-hand with Catherine 16 Engelbrecht in True The Vote leadership and also 17 Stan Stanart, the current county clerk, who 18 writes letters of recommendation for True the 19 Vote discussing their efforts and how -- and how 20 much he is in favor of them. And now what 21 they're doing now is training workers to work as 22 election workers, to where you won't necessarily 23 be able to identify whether or not they're 24 associated with the True the Vote. Furthermore, 25 they're also challenging voters based on criteria

1 Proceedings

2 that they established, for example, if you have 3 six or more people living in your home, then 4 they're going to challenge you. That necessarily 5 impacts minority voters.

6 Pew Research Center found that 7 50 percent -- that Hispanic and Asian families 8 are 50 percent more likely to live in 9 multi-generational housing. They're also 10 challenging voters if their driver's license
11 address differs from their voter registration.
12 And what that does is for people who can't afford 13 the $25 fee to go update their driver's license 14 but update their registration, they get 15 challenged. And Mark Anhill has stated that the 16 goal is to get these people on the suspense list.
17 That can have a direct impact on elderly voters 18 who, if they're placed on the suspense list, are 19 not allowed to vote by mail.

20 Further Houston has the -- has the 21 second highest rate of minority renters in the 22 entire country, which means that minority voters 23 are necessarily impacted by these strategies that 24 are being carried out in concert with local 25 elected officials.

1 Proceedings

2 And I have, obviously, a lot more
3 to say. It's hard to condense it all into five 4 minutes. I'm open to speaking with anybody
5 afterward if they have questions, and I'm also 6 available to answer any questions that our guest 7 commissioners may have.

8 MR. PIERRE: Can I ask you a
9 question? Are you located -- you personally 10 located local? Where are you located?

11 MS. HAVER: Oh, yes, I'm a Houston
12 native.

13 MR. PIERRE: As far as office of 14 Common Cause?

15 MS. HAVER: I'm a board member of 16 Common Cause, which means I'm a volunteer. In 17 various capacities since 2008, I've -- was the 18 director of Texas Together Education Fund. So 19 I'm now here, I don't have an office. I do this 20 research primarily as a volunteer.

21 MR. PIERRE: And where is -- 22 what -- what is Common Cause?

23 MS. HAVER: Common Cause is a
24 national organization. They don't have a paid 25 staff member currently in Texas, and -- but they

1 Proceedings

2 have a well-developed election protection plan, 3 which in 2012 I coordinated their election
4 protection efforts, and in concert with Lawyers'
5 Committee, I helped win the election command -- 6 the election protection hotline command center 7 and other things. But they don't have,
8 unfortunately, right now paid staff. So this is 9 all as a volunteer board member.

10 MR. PIERRE: Is there an e-mail or 11 anything for people to contact you?

12 MS. HAVER: Yes. Should I just 13 give that now?

14 MR. PIERRE: If you want to.

15 MS. HAVER: Maureen dot Haver,
16 M-a-u-r-e-e-n dot H-a-v-e-r at gmail.com.

17 MR. PIERRE: Do any commissioners
18 have any questions?

19 PROF. JACKSON: Just a quick one.
20 Do you have a document or a document paper or 21 something you'd like to submit to the commission 22 or --

23 MS. HAVER: I don't have a copy of 24 it unfortunately, but I do have a summary of the 25 history of True the Vote since 2010. And I think

1 Proceedings

2 that it's really important to understand that 3 their efforts act as a proxy for groups that have 4 aims that they want to contain the vote, mainly 5 that among minorities.

6 MR. PIERRE: Is True the Vote --
7 do you have another question?

8 PROF. JACKSON: I assume you can 9 submit that.

10 MR. PIERRE: Yes. I want to know,
11 is True -- I saw a paper -- newspaper articles on 12 the True the Vote, but you said something else.
13 And I notice you didn't say King Street Patriots.
14 What is the relationship between True The Vote 15 and King Street Patriots? What -- what -- in 16 your research, what are those -- what is that 17 group?

18 MS. HAVER: The exact same people
19 who founded King Street Patriots, Catherine 20 Engelbrecht, her husband, Brian Engelbrecht and 21 Diane Josephs, were the original officers
22 incorporating both the 501(c)(4), King Street 23 Patriots, and what is now a 501(c)(3), True the 24 Vote. They now make an effort to distinguish the 25 two as being separate entities. But from their

1 Proceedings

2 genesis in 2010, they were completely intertwined 3 both from a leadership perspective, they also 4 shared office space. And so I usually use it 5 interchangeably, because they have essentially 6 the same membership. But King Street Patriots 7 can be considered the parent organization or the 8 organization that spawned the True the Vote 9 movement.

10 MR. PIERRE: So what you're 11 saying, then, and it is my last question, True
12 the Vote, a 501(c)(3) IRS tax exempt 13 organization, there is documentation that their 14 members of this nonprofit 501(c) -- IRS exempt 15 organization is in Houston challenging people and 16 their right to vote through the mechanisms and 17 means that you just described today?

18 MS. HAVER: Yes. They take 19 advantage of the citizen's challenge law, which 20 basically says that any citizen can challenge a 21 voter's -- voter's registration. The idea, 22 though, is that they're supposed to have a 23 personal knowledge of whether or not that voter's 24 registration should be challenged.

25 What True the Vote has done is

Proceedings

1
2 cobbled together several different databases
3 which rely on faulty matching to then get citizen
4 volunteers who go through and say, I want to look 5 at voters in this precinct. And then they 6 automate the challenge process. So they can sit 7 there and look up and they can say, I want to see 8 every household where there are five or more
9 voters registered. I don't think five voters 10 should be living in one house, I'm going to 11 challenge that.

12 And so then that goes to the 13 county and the county then issues a letter 14 saying, Do you -- are you actually qualified to 15 vote? If people don't respond, they get put on 16 the suspense list, they get isolated from 17 candidate outreach. And it also means that if 18 they don't vote, then they're going to be removed 19 from the rolls, even though there's nothing 20 prohibiting a household from having five or six 21 or more voters. In fact, AARP reported in 2009
22 that during the two-year period from 2009 to 2011 23 is when you have the fastest rate of 24 multi-generational housing taking place because 25 of the economic collapse and recession.

1 Proceedings

2 MR. PIERRE: Thank you very much,
3 Ms. Haver. Are there any other questions from 4 the commissioners?

5 Thank you again, Ms. Haver, for 6 your testimony.

7 One other question.

8 MS. CHEN: I'm sorry, not a
9 question. Just a reminder. Please do e-mail or 10 send -- submit to us your additional 11 documentation.

12 MS. HAVER: Yes, and I also have 13 hours of video, some of which has been taken 14 undercover, that will also be made part of the 15 record.

16 MS. CHEN: Thank you.

17 MR. PIERRE: Thank you very much.
18 Our next expert witness, Mario Salinas, Texas
19 State Deputy Director, Mi Familia Vota.

20 MR. SALINAS: Good afternoon.
21 Before I begin, as a point of personal privilege, 22 I just want to explain that I am a person that 23 stutters, so I'll be keeping it as concise as I
24 can, but will be pacing myself accordingly.

25 MR. PIERRE: Take all the time you

Proceedings

1
2 need.

3 MR. SALINAS: Thank you. On the 4 behalf of Mi Familia Vota Education Fund, I would 5 like to thank the Lawyers' Committee and everyone 6 else involved for the opportunity to testify here
7 today.

8 Mi Familia Vota Education Fund is 9 a nonprofit organization dedicated to empower the 10 Latino community in order to increase civic 11 participation. We do this through partnering 12 with allies in order to naturalize citizens
13 through voter registration and voter education.
14 One of our community partners is the 15 Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund who 16 represented Mi Familia Vota Education Fund and 17 the Southwest Voter Registration Project and 18 Latino voters throughout Texas in opposing the 19 voter ID law, which has been put into place since 20 the Shelby County Supreme Court decision last 21 year invalidating a key provision of the Voting
22 Rights Act, as we all know here.

23 Of course, the striking down of 24 Section 5 is dire in a state which has a long and 25 recent history of voting discrimination, to which

Proceedings

1
2 my fellow panelists have and will continue to 3 speak to. Concerning the voting ID laws
4 specifically, it is apparent that such a measure
5 that we are supposed to believe was conjured up 6 to fix the nonexistent problem of voter fraud in 7 Texas comes from a short-sighted partisan point 8 of view and unwillingness to acknowledge 9 realities, both in terms of demographics and 10 civic engagement.

11 But before I move on, I just want 12 to state specifically that the voter ID law, if 13 it results in just one disenfranchisement of one 14 voter, that is one voter too many. And as you 15 heard Christina Sanders say earlier, a large 16 number of Texas Latinos are young people, and 17 this voter ID law affects young people. Many of 18 you have maybe heard reports that more and more 19 young people are putting off getting their 20 driver's license and buying a car. So again, 21 it's just one more hurdle that they have to face.

22 And we need to establish a culture 23 of civic engagement as early as we can among our 24 young people in Texas. Although I'm here to 25 speak specifically about the challenges that

1 Proceedings

2 Texas Latino voters face, I feel that it is -- 3 that it is prudent to first set a context for the 4 state of civic engagement in general in Texas.
5 According to the Census Bureau's self-reported 6 statistics, Texas ranked 42 in the nation in 7 voter registration. The younger you are, the 8 less likely you are to be registered. 43.1
9 percent of Texans between the ages of 18 and 29 10 were registered in 2010 compared to 67.4 of those 11 30 and under.

12 Documentation shows that the level
13 of registration drops off between Anglos and 14 other ethnic groups. Within a state that is 15 becoming more and more diverse every day, this 16 eradication of engagement poses a major problem
17 within a representative democracy. Voter turnout
18 in Texas is equally dire with Texas ranking 51st, 19 51st behind the other states and the District of 20 Columbia, during the 2010 midterm election 21 compared with 42.7 percent. Of those 30 and 22 under, only 16.1 percent of those ages 18 to 29
23 reported voting in 2010.

24 In short, if you are not Anglo and 25 you are young, your rate of voting participation

Proceedings

1
2 is significantly lower than other social groups.
3 What we see is a Texas population to define 4 between two peaks when represented on a line
5 graph, with one peak being an older Anglo 6 population that's mostly engaged and the other 7 peak being a younger non-Anglo population which 8 is not engaged to any degree comparable to the 9 other.

10 When you consider that 50 percent
11 of the Texas -- of Texans under the age of 18 are 12 Latino, we can see that if trends persist, the 13 future looks dim for healthy civic participation
14 in Texas. The Texas Civic Health Index released
15 out of the University of Texas at Austin last 16 year found that Latinos ranked last behind their 17 fellow Anglo and African-American Texans, an 18 indicator of political participation such as 19 voter registration, voter turnout, engaging with 20 public officials and even discussing politics in 21 person or online. Socioeconomic status had a 22 positive correlation with civic engagement, and 23 Texas Latinos tend to come in last in the 24 socioeconomic rankings and, thus, have the lowest 25 levels of engagement.

Proceedings

1
2 Although all this seems grim,
3 organizations like Mi Familia Vota Education Fund
4 and our partners are willing to meet this 5 challenge head on to foster a culture of civic 6 engagement within the youngest and fastest 7 growing Texas population. Yes, we do focus on 8 engaging the Latino community, but in doing so,
9 we work to ensure the future population of Texas 10 as a whole will be more engaged. In terms of 11 healthy participation in our democracy, it is 12 what is good for Latinos is good for Texas as a 13 whole.

14 Today we hear a very vocal
15 minority that uses Latinos as a scapegoat for 16 their political goals. But we work to empower 17 the day-to-day majority of Texans to claim their 18 seat at the table and have a voice in the issues 19 that affect them right outside of their front 20 doors.

21 MR. JEFFERSON: Bring it to a
22 close.

23 MR. SALINAS: We must get away
24 from short-term partisan schemes that focus on 25 breaking down and dividing populations by

1 Proceedings

2 ethnicity. Rather, we should focus on long-term
3 goals of ensuring that all Texan citizens, no 4 matter their background, get to participate in 5 voting without unnecessary hurdles or hindrances
6 as is -- as is their right as Americans. Only 7 then can the Lone Star State truly shine
8 brightly. Thank you.

9 MR. PIERRE: Thank you very much.

10 Do any of the commissioners have 11 any questions for Mr. Salinas? Okay.

12 Next, past NAACP -- past NAACP
13 president, local president, chapter president, 14 Ms. Carolyn Scantlebury.

15 While Ms. Scantlebury is coming 16 up, I want to recognize our Region 6 director of 17 the National Association for the Advancement of 18 Colored People, Ms. Carmen Watkins. Thank you 19 for being in the house. And we also had 20 Mr. Danny Norris of -- who was not listed on the 21 list, but one of our coalition partners. He is 22 the president-elect of the Houston Lawyers
23 Association affiliated with the National Bar.
24 And I see here -- would be remiss without 25 recognizing the executive director of the Houston

1 Proceedings

2 branch of the NAACP, Ms. Yolanda Smith. So thank 3 you for coming. Ms. Scantlebury.

4 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Good afternoon.
5 You took my introductions away. I was so excited
6 to see -- he said that's his job. I was excited 7 to see all of the NAACPers in the room. Would 8 you wave your hands so everyone can see? We even 9 have Yannis Banks from Austin, Texas here. But I
10 am so excited to be here today. Thank you so 11 much to this national group of the national 12 voter -- voting rights commission here in 13 Houston.

14 And we have so much to say. We've 15 done so much work. You know, the NAACP is 16 nonpartisan, No. 1. I want to say that. We have 17 worked and coalesced with every group in the city
18 of Houston to ensure that voters get everything
19 that they need. Personally I am a native
20 Houstonian. My mother walked me to the polls 21 when I was 18, and I did the same thing for my 22 son. When I went to college, I was an activist 23 on every level, and I worked in political 24 campaigns all the way throughout. So I'm excited 25 for the young people that are here today, too,

1 Proceedings

2 that's working in this process.

3 Now, relative to voter
4 administration, when I was president of the NAACP 5 in 2010, we received national funding to ensure 6 that we had voter protection and vote -- voter 7 information distributed all over the city and to 8 ensure that people had all of the information 9 that they need -- needed. What we did was to 10 organize approximately 100 volunteers. We had 11 T-shirts, we trained them on every protocol of 12 voting -- of the voting process. They knew that 13 we worked with the National Bar Association. And 14 if there were any problems, for them to call and 15 we would have a lawyer or someone to come and 16 assist them. Our voter -- our volunteers went by 17 twos or threes. We made sure that they 18 understood the 100-foot rule relative to the 19 election process so that they would not do 20 anything that was incorrect. I'm trying to do it 21 chronologically.

22 We received so many calls. During 23 the day Yolanda Smith, executive director, 24 received calls and then we would route them and 25 send people to the voting locations where there

Proceedings

1
2 were problems. On -- in Acres Home, there were 3 two people who were with the King Street
4 Patriots, True the Vote, as they said the new 5 name was, and they were intimidating our 6 volunteers who were ensuring that the elderly and 7 the people who were ill were able to vote, to 8 make sure that they were -- the machines were 9 taken out to the cars or to the curb so that a 10 person would not have to stay in the heat. We 11 would give them water to ensure that they had 12 everything that they needed. In that process, 13 the -- some of the True The Vote people would 14 come out and intimidate them and say that the 15 people were not allowed to vote, but we knew that 16 we were in every right to do what we were doing.

17 We even had to call the sheriff's 18 department at one point. I'm not going to call 19 any of the names. But also during the process, 20 Ann Bennett, who was running for an office, 21 called us about some of the elderly people in 22 Sunnyside who were being intimidated. There were 23 so many calls that I had to literally leave the 24 office and go over to St. Mary's. There was a 25 lady there which would not allow the people to

1 Proceedings

2 vote. She was intimidating them relative to IDs
3 and the -- the voting judge called me and asked 4 me to come and assist. So when I got there, she 5 was irate and they had to call the sheriff's 6 department to have her removed and she was 7 removed.

8 So I just want you to know that 9 we, as the NAACP, a 102-year-old organization, 10 has worked tirelessly to ensure that everyone has 11 the right to vote, to make sure that voter 12 intimidation, voter nullification, none of the 13 things that we know are the obstacles that have 14 been presented for us will be there. We are 15 hoping that this particular situation be stopped 16 and whatever we can do to assist in this process.
17 Thank you so much.

18 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. Thank 19 you. Thank you very much. Are there any 20 questions for Ms. Scantlebury?

21 PROF. JACKSON: Yes. When you say
22 voter intimidation, there is, of course,
23 suppression by officials and then there is True
24 the Vote and King Street Patriots. What did 25 voter intimidation consist of?

1 Proceedings

2 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Oh, there is --

3 PROF. JACKSON: Especially the 4 time the sheriff was called.5 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Okay. When the 6 sheriff was called, when I was over at St. Mary's 7 Catholic Church, there was a person there who 8 said she was a poll watcher. And to be -- the 9 definition of a poll watcher is someone who is 10 assigned through a candidate's office to do poll 11 watching. So she was there to do that, and she 12 would intimidate -- there are a lot of seniors
13 that live over in that area.14 And when they would come she'd 15 say -- you know, first let me explain at 16 St. Mary's is one of those old precincts where 17 the people had been there for years, you know 18 your neighbors, you know, you come in. If you 19 have your driver's license, that's fine. You 20 know, you may not have your voter registration 21 card. So that was a situation with this 22 particular judge, and he knew had a lady who had 23 just her driver's license, and this person was 24 saying, no, she couldn't vote. And it just was a 25 big uproar, because the community people knew who

1 Proceedings

2 she was. She was a senior citizen who had been 3 there for a while, and so we had to call and get 4 her removed and we did that. We -- we had the 5 poll watcher removed.

6 PROF. JACKSON: Any other examples
7 of intimidation? Are we talking any kind of 8 violence or any kind of "in your face" stuff or I 9 mean, what -- what's --

10 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Oh, yeah, yeah,
11 yeah. Good, I'm glad you asked. Okay. Okay.
12 Let me read this. The NAACP volunteers, two or 13 three persons arrived at a polling location with 14 T-shirts that had NAACP printed on them. We made 15 sure everyone had T-shirts, we were so excited.
16 And we're nonpartisan and no candidates' name was 17 on it and State Representative Sylvester Turner 18 was over in Acres Home, okay. And they 19 removed -- they removed him from the polling 20 station and I want -- don't want to call the 21 names. They had asked -- well, they asked him 22 to, you know, get away. And so he told them that 23 I am 100 feet away, you know, I'm not doing any 24 electioneering right there. And they said that 25 he was telling people who to vote for, for which

Proceedings

1
2 he was not. There were witnesses there who 3 refuted the allegation, but -- however, one of 4 the poll watchers was actively telling 5 individuals to vote for the presidential 6 candidate of their choice along with voting a 7 straight ticket. And this was clearly improper 8 and misleading and witnesses indicate that the 9 poll watchers were traversing the polling
10 location in an intimidating manner and staring 11 down voters. And I've witnessed this myself, 12 where they would just walk around and stand over 13 you or stand around you and make you feel very 14 uncomfortable.

15 Some were telling people to vote a 16 straight ticket -- okay, let me get this 17 straight. They told the voters to vote a 18 straight ticket and then vote for president. If 19 you vote a straight ticket and then try to vote 20 for president, you deselect your vote for 21 president. So there were a lot of lies and 22 things that were going on, and they were telling 23 voters actions that would impact their vote and, 24 you know, so that it wouldn't be counted.

25 We had sheriff -- we called

1 Proceedings

2 sheriff Sergeant Castleberry, a career law 3 enforcement official to report this incident to,
4 and he came out. So we've had some very serious 5 incidents to occur, and we've had to do a lot.

6 MR. PIERRE: Ms. Scantlebury, I'm 7 curious, now that you announced your name,
8 Mr. Norris, Danny Norris, president Houston
9 Lawyers Association, what -- what -- who was 10 leading the effort with the National Bar
11 Association? The National Bar Association, I 12 believe, Lawyers' Committee? You mentioned that 13 you got some money to -- to do election 14 protection.

15 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Yes, yes. We 16 received funds through the national funding 17 through the national office.

18 MR. PIERRE: And so after that 19 day, was there any more funds that Texas received 20 through the NAACP? Did they continue to get 21 funds years after for election protection?

22 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Well, every year
23 we would do election protection, whether we 24 received national funds or not.

25 MR. PIERRE: Right.

Proceedings

1
2 MS. SCANTLEBURY: We did -- we had
3 volunteers that would come in, and Yolanda Smith
4 could speak to that. Did we receive any funds
5 nationally, but just we, locally, would do it.
6 Right?

7 MR. PIERRE: I'm trying to find
8 out -- let me try my point. I'm trying -- you 9 made a point you received funds, but that was my 10 sly way of trying to figure out -- or knowing 11 that funds have been increased because of what 12 Texas has been -- you know, with regard to the 13 ability to -- to -- to change certain things 14 compared to other states that were more important 15 or low hanging fruit. And what I was trying to 16 find out is the decrease of funding for Texas, 17 has it affected the ability of groups to conduct 18 a proper election protection? That was my point, 19 but you were taking too long, I had to get to it 20 quick.

21 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Absolutely. It
22 has affected because during that particular year, 23 we received a large amount of money. And after 24 then we have not received that type of funding 25 which is almost necessary to cover an area as

1 Proceedings

2 large as Houston is. Yes, it has decreased 3 considerably given all of the problems that we 4 have encountered.

5 MR. PIERRE: And -- and with Texas
6 being on the national spotlight for so many 7 things related to election -- election issues and 8 voting issues, why do you think that funding to 9 Texas has decreased over the years, President 10 Scantlebury?

11 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Wow, that's a
12 deep question. We all know that there are a lot 13 of reasons. Given the voter ID situation that 14 has come forth, I think is a huge problem. Our 15 unwillingness to cooperate with federal 16 officials, i.e., Congresswoman Sheila Jackson Lee 17 stated, I think, very well this morning, just not 18 compliance -- not complying with edicts that are 19 sent down through the federal government, I would 20 say, and the -- the funders look at that. We 21 have funders who give funds to the national that 22 comes down to the branches from all over and 23 because of Texas's reputation, that money has 24 almost dried up so far.

25 MR. PIERRE: Thank you -- thank

1 Proceedings

2 you, Ms. Scantlebury. Are there any questions
3 from the commissioners? Thank you,
4 Ms. Scantlebury.

5 MS. SCANTLEBURY: Thank you.

6 MR. PIERRE: Is Ann Bennett here?
7 Is Ann Bennett here? Okay. Are there any other 8 public testimony -- any other public testimony?
9 Okay. We're going to take from our next panel --
10 I want to recognize -- I did some recognition 11 before but Yannis Banks, who I remember when he 12 was youth and college coordinator, he is here
13 from Austin, Texas NAACP and he brought another 14 youth -- youth and college -- youth and college
15 director. I don't see him here. NAACP. There 16 you go. There -- yeah, he's here in the back.
17 Youth and college director for NAACP is also 18 here. And we're glad to make sure you get with 19 this young lady from the University of Houston so 20 that she can understand what's going on in NAACP 21 and y'all can kind of collate messages and 22 motions.

23 Is there any other public
24 testimony? Any other public testimony? Okay.
25 I'm going to go ahead to the next panel. We're

1 Proceedings

2 doing well with regard to time. But please know 3 if anybody in the public wants to speak, and 4 because we're doing so efficiently with time, if 5 anybody that might have spoke earlier that might 6 want to speak -- I see some individuals in the 7 audience, so I'm going to ask for Ms. Rogene
8 Calvert, Rogene Calvert who just came in, and I
9 recognize her to immediately, come to the podium 10 and give testimony right here up front and 11 center. So glad you can be here. And after 12 Rogene, we are going to have George Korbell. Are 13 you still in the house, George? Great.
14 Ms. Chandler, are you going to speak? Okay.
15 Okay. So George will speak, and so we have 16 Rogene and you have five minutes.

17 MS. CALVERT: Okay, thank you.

18 Good afternoon, I'm sorry for my tardiness. So I
19 hope I can make up for that. Good afternoon, 20 Commissioners. I am Rogene Gee Calvert, director
21 of the Texas Asian American Redistricting
22 Initiative. It's a project of Asian-Americans
23 advancing justice which is based in D.C., a 24 nonprofit legal and advocacy organization. I 25 have been working since the last several years --

Proceedings

1
2 MR. PIERRE: Slow down a little
3 bit.

4 MS. CALVERT: I only have five 5 minutes.

6 MR. PIERRE: I know, and we'll get 7 into a discussion about that. But we have a 8 court reporter and I don't want her hands to get 9 cramped up. I know she's a professional, but you 10 can get moving, so I just --

11 MS. CALVERT: And I can give you a 12 written.

13 MR. PIERRE: Right. I apologize.
14 You'll get those 30 seconds back.

15 MS. CALVERT: Thank you, sir.
16 I've been working in the past few years on behalf 17 of the Asian-American community on issues of 18 redistricting, Section 203 and of the Voting
19 Rights Act. Due to the large and growing 20 Asian-American population in Texas and the 21 greater Houston area, this is an important group
22 to which AAJC has dedicated resources.

23 Between 2000 and 2010 census, the 24 Asian-American population has grown over 25 70 percent, making it the fastest growing

Proceedings

1
2 demographic group in the state. Texas has the 3 third largest Asian-American population of all 4 states in the country. In the suburban counties
5 of Collin and Fort Bend, the population has more 6 than doubled; while in the large urban-based 7 counties of Harris and Dallas, the population has 8 reached a critical mass, where the electoral 9 strength of the Asian communities has been felt.
10 Nearly three-fourths of Texas Asians reside in 11 the six counties of Harris, Fort Bend, Dallas, 12 Collin, Tarrant, and Travis. The remaining top 13 counties are Denton, Bexar, Williamson, and 14 Brazoria.

15 Asian-Americans in the greater 16 Houston area are not a protected group under the 17 Voting Rights Act because we do not constitute a 18 majority in any political district. However, we 19 do comprise several minority coalition districts 20 in which no one ethnic group is the majority.
21 Demographic changes in population and housing 22 patterns are creating fewer minority majority 23 districts. I would like to recommend that the 24 committee look at the protection of minority
25 coalition districts under the Voting Rights Act.

1 Proceedings

2 In October of 2011, due to Harris
3 County reaching a threshold of limited English 4 proficient, or LEP, persons, the county was 5 mandated to put all voting materials in the 6 Chinese language and provide bilingual poll
7 workers. We were prepared in Harris County, 8 largely because the community had worked with the 9 secretary of -- the clerk's office, rather,
10 county clerk's office two years earlier to begin 11 translating key documents into Chinese. However,
12 things are still not completely worked out. Poll 13 workers must be willing and able to work with the 14 additional language needs. It may take 15 additional time and effort to acquaint and 16 integrate new voters into the process. Cultural 17 competency training should be made available for 18 all poll workers, including how to provide 19 language assistance, what's appropriate in 20 helping LEP voters cast ballots, and properly 21 displaying translated materials.

22 With two Asian languages mandated 23 in Harris County now, labeling of Vietnamese and 24 Chinese language materials and identifying -- 25 identification of bilingual poll workers will be

Proceedings

1
2 necessary. It's not always apparent to those who 3 are unfamiliar with these languages which is 4 which. The primary system of voting is even more 5 confusing to new voters who may not understand 6 the party system. They might be looking for a 7 specific candidate to whom they want to vote 8 and -- and do not realize that -- the need to 9 vote in a particular party primary that he or she 10 represents.

11 Although data are not officially 12 available, I believe we will find an increase in 13 the number of Chinese participating in the 14 election process. Data are probably available
15 showing this to be true for the Vietnamese 16 community, after the Vietnamese language was 17 mandated by Section 203 in 2002. I conducted a 18 monitoring program for the November 2012 19 elections to identify any issues that may have 20 arisen from the Section 203 implementation for 21 the Chinese language. Section 208 of the Voting
22 Rights Act allows voters who need assistance 23 because of blindness, disability, or inability to 24 read or write, and so it's been applied to 25 language minorities. Oftentimes people who need

1 Proceedings

2 help from a family member or friend don't know 3 they can bring them into the polls, and sometimes 4 poll workers do not tell them that that's allowed 5 or even prohibit them from taking someone in 6 because they don't know that.

7 The -- voter ID has been a problem
8 for Asian voters because many of them are seniors 9 and they may not have the proper documents to get 10 a photo ID. And we all know what it's like to 11 get, you know, your ID at the Department of 12 Public Safety here. It takes hours and -- 13 sometimes -- and to get there is very hard. Many 14 Asians have names that are not familiar or easy 15 to spell or pronounce, so they customarily put 16 their last name first and this has led to 17 misunderstanding and mistaken identity causing 18 confusion at the polls.

19 There have been few reports of 20 voter fraud to warrant the disenfranchisement of 21 thousands of voters and potential voters whom we 22 should be encouraging to participate.

23 Finally, my personal -- I'd like 24 to take personal privilege by asking why we can't 25 vote by mail, all of us. It has grown all --

1 Proceedings

2 each election and has proven to be a -- a good 3 system, a good method and very few, evidently,
4 voter fraud because it hasn't been as contentious
5 to, you know, show your ID. And also why can't 6 we vote anywhere, like we do on early voting
7 period? If we have the technology to support
8 that, I don't understand why we can't do that 9 anyway any time.

10 So thank you, Commissioners for 11 listening to my remarks today. I hope I've 12 enlightened you on voting issues that affect the 13 Asian-American community and their ability to 14 participate fully in the electoral process. I 15 appreciate your time and attention today.

16 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. We have 17 questions. I want to start with a question -- 18 anyone else with questions? Rogene, I appreciate 19 you coming in. You know, we've worked together
20 for a while and -- but I -- I want to ask a 21 question. I went to law school with another of 22 our fellow commissioners, Deborah Chen, and we 23 often talk. And I want to ask a similar question 24 that I asked in early testimony with regard to 25 the young vote, young person's vote and college

1 Proceedings

2 students as well as those peoples with
3 disabilities.

4 Do you find -- do you find the 5 level of attention that is given to the issue 6 concerning Asian-American or -- or voters from 7 Asian descent and the frustrations they may have 8 voting to be diminished or diluted because of the 9 emphasis on other things? And this was brought 10 out by, you know, very little people paid 11 attention to people with disabilities or the 12 young vote. Is that the level of frustration
13 that is felt by the Asian community?

14 MS. CALVERT: Yes. First of all,
15 many of them don't speak up for themselves, so 16 people like Debbie, myself, you know, who are 17 more familiar, it's helpful for us to, but we 18 can't be everywhere. So just the inability to be 19 at the table and to speak for yourself. Yes, 20 they are. They receive very little attention.

21 MR. PIERRE: And you mentioned in 22 your opening that as an Asian voter, you're not a 23 protected class because of the -- that the 24 population is not to the level that -- that 25 allows you to be in that class. What about the

1 Proceedings

2 -- the limited English proficiency aspect in 3 Title VI of the Civil Rights Act, does that -- 4 has anyone ever looked at that as being -- we 5 ultimately look at the Voting Rights Act and 6 issues, but what about limited English
7 proficiency being a part of the 1964 Civil Rights 8 Act as something that -- that you could look to 9 to get that protected class?

10 MS. CALVERT: Let's do it. I
11 haven't tried it yet.

12 MR. PIERRE: Are there any other 13 questions for the commissioners? Thank you very, 14 very much.

15 MS. CALVERT: Thank you.

16 MR. PIERRE: Is David Wald here?
17 Are there any other public testimony? Okay. We 18 have George Korbell, and as he speaks up, he's 19 going to be our last panel witness, expert 20 witness. And so I want to ask again if there's 21 any other public testimony, please sign up with 22 Alejandro.

23 I also want to let everyone know
24 that a former national president of the National 25 Bar Association, a position that I'm aspiring to

1 Proceedings

2 be this year, running for president-elect,
3 Ms. Algenita Scott Davis Segars, please stand up.
4 She's a past president of the local affiliate,
5 she's also past president of the National Bar 6 Association. It's very significant because 7 during her year, the Houston Lawyers Association
8 along with LULAC and other agencies and coalition 9 partners filed a lawsuit to try to get the 10 judicial -- the judges to be elected via a single 11 member district, similar to what the fight was 12 for city council and they lost in the Fifth
13 Circuit -- in the Supreme Court, excuse me, lost 14 in the Supreme Court. They refused to hear.
15 They actually lost in the Fifth Circuit, the 16 Supreme Court refused to hear it. And so I 17 appreciate you being here. Thank you so much, 18 Algenita.

19 You have five minutes.

20 MR. KORBELL: My name is George
21 Korbell, I'm an attorney, I've been an attorney
22 almost 50 years. I've been involved in voting 23 litigation for virtually all that time. Let me 24 tell you, first of all, you're wrong about the 25 thing about the judges. The Supreme Court said

1 Proceedings

2 the judges were covered in the Fifth and remanded 3 it to the District Court, which had found for the 4 plaintiffs, remanded it to the District Court and 5 the Fifth Circuit grabbed that thing on the way 6 by, and they unbunked it and reversed the Supreme 7 Court. That's what happened. It's much worse.

8 I've got a paper that I put together, it's a 9 graph and I will provide you with a final copy of 10 it.

11 There are a couple of points I 12 wanted to make here today. First of all, the 13 paper -- what I tried to do is I tried to look at 14 this vast arc of -- of exclusion running from the 15 constitutional provision setting up the poll tax 16 and the statute saying blacks couldn't vote, the 17 constitutional provision saying blacks couldn't 18 vote. And if you look at the movement from Nixon 19 versus Herndon through Nixon versus Condon and 20 into the -- all the way down to the voter ID law, 21 you'll see that the defense, every defense is 22 exactly the same way. It's to purify the ballot.
23 Every time, that's the reason that they're 24 one-trick ponies. I also wanted to point out a 25 couple of things about the redistricting. Let me

Proceedings

1
2 get this out. I brought some of our exhibits.

3 This, you probably know, is the 4 gerrymandering, the Eldridge Gary's district from 5 the cartoon, from the Nast cartoon, that's the -- 6 this is a district in Dallas County, House 7 district in Dallas County. Looks like they're 8 exactly the same, exactly the same. And --

9 MR. PIERRE: I want the record to 10 show that he is holding up two pictures
11 representing -- I guess, describe -- describe -- 12 we don't have a video, describe what you're 13 holding up.

14 MR. KORBELL: The first one is 15 the -- there's a famous Nast cartoon of a 16 gerrymander, and this is what that cartoon looks 17 like.

18 MR. PIERRE: What is a
19 gerrymander?

20 MR. KORBELL: A gerrymander is 21 districts that are drawn to accomplish a certain 22 end, and this was the one that Eldridge Gary, 23 which was one of the heros of the Revolutionary 24 War, but when he got into politics, he tried to 25 gerrymander his enemies.

Proceedings

1
2 MR. PIERRE: Is it purposely
3 shaped like a human or --

4 MR. KORBELL: It's shaped like -- 5 the Nast cartoon changes it a little bit.

6 MR. PIERRE: I just wanted to know
7 the purpose of the shape.

8 MR. KORBELL: But this is a famous 9 cartoon. And the other one I was holding up is a 10 Dallas House district that looks very similar, if 11 you look at it, to that gerrymander. And that 12 Dallas House district fits inside another Dallas 13 House district, as you can see. There's -- 14 there's this one, which curves all the way around 15 and this one that fits in and the reason that 16 that's done is it makes it impossible to draw a 17 minority district in that area, because you're 18 dividing -- this is minority and this is minority 19 and so you divide that. And that's -- that's -- 20 that's how the gerrymander works in Texas and 21 it's the same thing as the -- as the one in the 22 Nast cartoon.

23 The -- I'll show you one more
24 district. I just brought a couple of these over 25 so you can see it. As you can see, this is also

Proceedings

1
2 a strange shaped district. And if you can 3 imagine Tarrant County, down here is the 4 Mid-Cities area, which is now heavily Hispanic so
5 that this is all minority, all right. There's a 6 small minority -- there's a fairly large minority 7 population in this little hook here, as it goes 8 by and picks it up. Everything else is heavily, 9 heavily Anglo.

10 So what they did was they tied the 11 minority community here to the minority community 12 here and -- and diluted them by putting them in 13 with all the Anglo voters. And this is -- if you 14 think about it, as I say, this runs from the 15 Mid-Cities area in -- in Tarrant County all the 16 way to the north -- excuse me -- the northwestern 17 corner of the county. It runs all the way across 18 the county.

19 There's one other point I wanted
20 to make as far as voter ID is concerned, and 21 that's that we've looked at how you would get to 22 a place to get your voter ID, how you would get 23 there if you didn't have a driver's license, if 24 you needed to get a ID card. And what we did was 25 we picked out all of the offices of the minority

Proceedings

1
2 elected officials statewide, minority state
3 legislature and Senate and Congressional 4 districts, we picked out their offices and we 5 looked at how long it would take by bus to get to 6 the -- to the closest place that you could get 7 one of those voter ID cards. And you -- almost 8 every situation, you're looking at two hours by 9 bus, two hours by bus. And if you look at the 10 rural areas in Texas, there are 100 counties that 11 have no place to get a voter ID. And, again, in 12 each one of those, you're looking at sometimes as 13 much as 100 miles. But in every case more than 14 two hours to -- to get a -- a voter ID.

15 The -- I also -- I also want to 16 point out in that chart, that draft that I gave 17 you, what I did was I looked at all of the voting 18 cases since 2010, all the voting cases since 19 2010, and what I can tell you is that we have 20 findings of racially polarized voting in counties 21 that make up almost three-fourths of the state, 22 just since 2010. And then in addition to that, 23 there is this troika of cases in the district
24 court. In the District of Columbia, the Senate, 25 the House and Congress. And the district court

1 Proceedings

2 for the District of Columbia found racially
3 polarized voting in every one of those, every one 4 of those cases and they have very strong
5 findings. And then we have, of course, the House 6 case here.

7 So that's -- that's what I've got 8 to say about -- about voting.

9 MR. PIERRE: I have -- I have a
10 question. Professor, do you have a question? I 11 didn't want to --

12 I have a question. And it's 13 funny, Mr. Korbell, all these years, it wasn't 14 until you held up those -- those, I guess,
15 geographic models did it just strike me. And I 16 know that we've been fighting redistricting and 17 dilution of votes for a very, very long time. Is 18 there something that can be argued just plain and 19 simple about carving people out? I mean, it 20 seems to me people just want to make a voting 21 district, you would just count adjacent, cut, 22 count adjacent, cut. That's the common sense 23 approach -- and I'm a lawyer. I'm trying to 24 rationalize and reconcile the carving out, like 25 it's a fruit cup in a -- in a pattern. That's

1 Proceedings

2 just obvious that you're -- you're purposely
3 drawing something, and I know that there are 4 smarter people who have fought this in the 5 Supreme Court, Texas Supreme Court and have lost.
6 But I'm confused on why they can't just count, 7 cut, count, cut, count, cut. Why does it have to 8 be so zigzaggy?

9 MR. KORBELL: Well, I'll tell you 10 why it doesn't work. It doesn't work because the 11 minority communities in urban areas don't grow in 12 a square, and you know, you grow out these areas 13 and you grow out those areas and those -- and 14 those are neighborhoods. And so if you cut into 15 squares, we wouldn't have a single minority 16 congressman elected in Texas, I suspect, except 17 for South Texas, of course, where it's only 18 minorities. But -- and a lot of people criticize 19 the process of redistricting because they say, 20 oh, my God, there's all this stuff going on.

21 You're right, there's lots of 22 stuff going on. Every line is drawn on purpose
23 to accomplish something. It's the worst possible 24 system except there isn't -- there are none that 25 are better. And some of them say we should have

Proceedings

1
2 a -- a commission of commissioners who would 3 redistrict the state and you know -- you've 4 probably been on some of those commissions, I 5 have, and you know what happens, the staff does 6 it all. The staff does it all. And if I was the 7 staff, I would trust it. If I'm not the staff, 8 it would be the people who would be exactly the 9 same that did it in Austin. Except that when 10 I -- when I took their depositions, I won't get 11 their depositions, I'm going to get depositions
12 of Supreme Court justices who are on that panel.
13 And they're going to say, well, of course, we 14 told them what to do and they did exactly what we 15 told them to do. And the judges would not have 16 spent a minute on the redistricting and -- but 17 they would create -- there would be a way to 18 avoid getting to the truth of what the 19 redistricting is. At least now there can be 20 gerrymandering, but with depositions you can 21 establish what happened. And that was done.

22 If you want to read something 23 that's really interesting, look at that troika of 24 cases in the District of Columbia. They go into 25 great detail as to how each one of those

1 Proceedings

2 districts was created. And they use this concept
3 that they called nudging. And nudging to them
4 was to create a district that looked like a 5 minority district but wouldn't be a minority
6 district. And all over -- all over the state --
7 I can go into the districts all over the state 8 and explain how this nudging worked. But every 9 one of them -- every one of the districts that 10 looked like a minority wouldn't elect. So 11 anyway . . .

12 MR. PIERRE: One last question.

13 And so in 2003 -- and this is -- excuse the 14 recent court decisions to kind of challenge them, 15 in 2003 led by Tom Delay, when we had the big 16 redistricting in Texas, going back to the 17 question I asked you, what you're saying is, if 18 we were to just break apart the district based on 19 the population, numerical population,
20 regardless -- not encounter any -- because you 21 look at the redistricting, they took the Medical 22 Center out of the 18th Congressional District,
23 they took the Port of Houston, they created 24 District 9, but they took out every -- all the 25 money making areas. But if you were to just base

1 Proceedings

2 it on population solely, you're saying that it
3 would be worse than what we have now.

4 MR. KORBELL: Yes, it would be 5 like going back to at-large elections. When we 6 litigated against the City of Houston, no
7 Hispanic had ever been elected and only one black 8 had been elected, only one black had been 9 elected. And that was -- that was a deal. So -- 10 and it's the same thing in Dallas, the same thing 11 in San Antonio, you'd go back to those 12 situations.

13 If -- it is no accident that we 14 have to get a district up to about 40 percent 15 black voting age population before we can elect a 16 black. And if you went into squares, you'd never 17 have a district like that. Certainly would never 18 have a district in Harris County elect any 19 Hispanics that way. So anyway . . .

20 MR. PIERRE: Are there any other
21 questions?

22 MR. KORBELL: Can I say one
23 more -- just one more thing.

24 MR. PIERRE: Yes, of course.

25 MR. KORBELL: You brought it up.

Proceedings

1
2 If you look at that voter ID statute and how -- 3 how you would vote, if I had a 50-passenger
4 school bus and I filled it up with 50 vagrants
5 and I had -- and I had -- would take them to a 6 polling place to vote, we checked it, and it 7 takes about an hour for 50 people to get through 8 a polling place. There are seven hours -- seven 9 hours of actual voting, then, you could get in -- 10 when you figure out how long it takes to transfer 11 the people by the bus. And if you figure that 12 out, if you could only -- if you could only vote
13 ten times, those 50 people, you'd only get 500 14 votes. No election in Texas has ever been 15 determined by 500 votes, and you would have the 16 driver and 50 co-conspirators. No conspiracy has 17 ever been successful with 50 co-conspirators.
18 And so what they say is, well, what about the 19 small counties. I grew up in a small county, and 20 I can tell you that if somebody showed up with a 21 50-passenger school bus with 50 vagrants that I'd 22 never seen before, that would -- that would come 23 to an end.

24 But also think about it in these 25 terms. In order for these people to vote,

1 Proceedings

2 they're going to have to have an identification, 3 okay, they're going to have to have a voter
4 registration and the person whose identification
5 and voter registration you're giving them to vote 6 could not have voted in the early election, and 7 we -- and they would have to hope that they 8 wouldn't vote on election day because the 9 conspiracy would be found out. So it's 10 impossible for this -- this voter ID statute to 11 -- to do -- deal with anything other than one or 12 two votes statewide. It's -- it is the most -- 13 the most incredible thing I've ever seen.

14 Thank you very much.

15 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, Attorney
16 Korbell. Thank you.

17 Any other questions?

18 PROF. JACKSON: This is a 19 question. You mentioned the gerrymandering in 20 redistricting. The states can -- can use 21 political parties as a basis for redistricting; 22 is that correct?

23 MR. KORBELL: Sure. They can -- 24 it is not illegal to -- to discriminate on the 25 basis of party. But if you look at parties in

Proceedings

1
2 Texas, if you discriminate on the basis of party, 3 you're discriminating on the basis of race, 4 there's no way around it. And, in fact, the 5 testimony in Washington about this was that the 6 map drawers were using minority concentration as 7 an ape for the -- for the Democratic party. The 8 way they figured out the Democratic party was by 9 using minority concentration.

10 PROF. JACKSON: How do you
11 overcome that?

12 MR. KORBELL: Well, first of all,
13 under section -- under Section 2 of the Voting 14 Rights Act, theoretically, you shouldn't have 15 to -- you shouldn't have to show intent. You 16 only show effect. But then you're faced with who 17 the judges are. And you were talking about these 18 polling place problems here discouraging people 19 to vote.

20 If you recall back in, I think it
21 was, '82 or -- in any event, the year that Mark 22 White was elected governor, the Republicans had 23 just elected judges in Dallas County. The judges 24 in Dallas County got together -- the Republican 25 judges in Dallas County got together and prepared

Proceedings

1
2 a sign, it was this large (indicating), and they 3 took it to every black polling place and the sign
4 said, By the order of the sheriff of Dallas
5 County, you may not vote -- in the small 6 letters -- if you are a felon. And if you are a 7 felon, it is another felony to vote. And they 8 put those up. And you know what, one of those 9 judges -- one of those judges is now a federal 10 judge and two others became appellate judges in 11 Texas. And I think there's another -- was 12 another federal judge, also. And -- but those 13 are the people you're dealing with.

14 MR. PIERRE: Thank you. Thank
15 you.

16 I want to -- in closing, I want
17 to -- I want to thank -- I want to first thank 18 President Rudley and Dean Holley and the Thurgood
19 Marshall School of Law for allowing us to use 20 your courtroom. The student ambassadors, please 21 stand up. Stand up for being here and 22 volunteering. Thank you so much for your time 23 all day long. They were up all night long, One 24 Ls. Dee Allen, Debbie Allen, she's a secretary
25 of the Houston Area Environmental Justice

1 Proceedings

2 Coalition. Thank you for coming and bringing 3 your volunteers.

4 We have also the Texas Southern 5 University, I stated that. The National Bar 6 Association, the NAACP Region 6, the NAACP Legal 7 Defense and Education Funds, the Houston branch
8 of the NAACP. Of course, we'll be remiss, 9 Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under the 10 Law, please stand. Maria, Alejandro, thank you 11 so much for your hard work in leading the effort.
12 You need a coordinator, you need a spearheader, 13 someone to come out and take the risk and the 14 epithets and the abuse and, Why are you coming to 15 my place, and coming out very successful. Thank 16 you, guys. This has been very successful. We 17 couldn't have done it without you.

18 JL Turner Legal Association,
19 they're a Dallas affiliate of the National Bar 20 Association. The Houston Area Urban League, the 21 Earl Carl Institute for Legal and Social Policy, 22 Inc., the nonprofit organization started from 23 Texas Thurgood Marshall School of Law located 24 here on the campus of Texas Southern University.
25 The Austin Black Lawyers Association and the 100

1 Proceedings

2 Black Men of America, as well as the Houston
3 Lawyers Association. Hopefully I did not forget 4 anyone.

5 I want to thank everyone for being 6 here, all of the witnesses and the testimony, 7 give yourself a hand, thank you so much. And 8 that's it for me. I said all I'm going to say, 9 and I'm going to allow in closing all the 10 commissioners to just give a three-minute
11 closing, ending with the dean, Howard Jefferson, 12 and I'm not going to speak again unless someone 13 needs to hear my mouth. So you want to go first 14 or last?

15 MR. JEFFERSON: Yes, I'll go
16 first. Well, I don't have anything to say except 17 that this has been a very good session, we've 18 learned a whole lot. The thing that I've learned 19 the most is that I didn't know that students 20 could declare their residence at college and 21 vote, because I've been out speaking and I've 22 been telling folks, if you're from Florida,
23 you've got to go back to Florida. I actually 24 have done that there. So I'm glad to know that.

25 I'd like to take a personal point

1 Proceedings

2 of privilege to have Ms. Dee Allen, Dee, hold up
3 your hand there. Now, y'all may not have heard, 4 look, it's hard for African-Americans and 5 minorities to get the news out, the news media 6 for African-Americans is shrinking. I mean, and 7 Latinos too, you just can't get no news. Dee 8 Allen got -- do you call it a blog, Dee? She got 9 a blog where she tell everything. And so you all 10 need to look at that there and support her and 11 what she's done. I just wanted to take a 12 personal privilege.

13 MR. PIERRE: And since Dean Howard
14 Jefferson stated that, I want to also add a 15 little tidbit on voting. If you know -- if you 16 happen to be or know someone who's been formerly 17 incarcerated, Texas is one of the few places that 18 you regain your right to vote once you served all 19 your parole or probation. Another way of saying 20 it is when you're off paper. And so if you 21 have -- every one of us has some relative or 22 somebody that has worked for the State of Texas, 23 okay? And she's laughing, a One L. Wait until 24 you become a criminal lawyer. Okay? And so if 25 you know anyone, next-door neighbor --

1 Proceedings

2 MR. JEFFERSON: When can you vote
3 now?

4 MR. PIERRE: When you are off
5 paper, when you serve your -- your -- you serve 6 your time and you're off probation and parole and 7 some places, in Denton, Texas, the women's prison 8 there and other places, when you get out, you're 9 automatically off paper. People assume that if 10 you've been in jail, you're going to be on parole or 11 probation. That's not always the case. So the 12 point is that when you're off parole or 13 probation, immediately you can register to vote
14 in Texas. That's something they don't -- don't 15 let anyone know and something we've been trying 16 to educate people for a number of years.

17 Who's next?

18 MR. TYSON: You said that once you 19 get out of prison that you -- and you served your 20 parole that you can register to vote. Is that 21 what you said?

22 MR. PIERRE: When your parole and 23 probation -- and on probation, some people have 24 both, you can -- they're registered to vote -- 25 you are allowed to register to vote if you have

1 Proceedings

2 been incarcerated and you're off paper in Texas, 3 in Texas.

4 MR. TYSON: We -- we've had a
5 constitutional change on the felony statute of 6 Texas, is that what I'm hearing you say? I don't 7 know. I was always under the impression that if 8 you had a felony, under Texas law, you couldn't 9 vote.

10 MR. PIERRE: Okay. We're going to 11 go ahead and close. Go ahead, Deborah.

12 PROF. JACKSON: Well, just a point
13 of order, this was very -- this is a great -- a 14 great commission and a great morning and 15 afternoon. I just want -- the big thing is we're 16 trying to build a record here for potential 17 litigation or potential legislation. And it's 18 crucial that if you have spoken and you have some 19 prepared materials, prepared statements and you
20 did not submit them for the record, you should do 21 so. And if you need information how to do so,
22 I'm sure that the chairman of our guest 23 commission here, Goodwille Pierre, will be able 24 to tell you how to go about doing that. But it's 25 crucial that we build a record of the information

1 Proceedings

2 that has been presented, as well as any 3 documentation you did not get to present because 4 of the time limitations.

5 MR. JEFFERSON: Well, you are --
6 you are so right about that. So let's make it
7 positive now. Is there anyone who has a document
8 that you would like to give the committee? Okay.
9 Would you see Mr. Pierre after this is over and 10 give him that paper information? Thank you.

11 Next. Ms. Scantlebury?

12 MS. SCANTLEBURY: I just had a 13 question to see if we would be able to get a 14 transcript of today.

15 MR. PIERRE: Well, the 16 transcript -- the actual written testimony will 17 most likely be on the Lawyers' Committee Web site 18 . Now, if you google Lawyers' Committee, it's 19 actual lawyer -- Lawyers' Committee for Civil 20 Rights Under Law. I don't think the article is 21 there, I'd like to add it there, but it's Under 22 Law, and at some point the public testimony, 23 written public testimony will be online that you 24 could actually -- once it's compiled, they still 25 have other states to go to, and so we plan for

1 Proceedings

2 this to be compiled in the summer, probably 3 around July, June or July.

4 Now, the -- the -- there's no --
5 there's not been any audio or anything of that 6 nature, so that's when we hope to have it on 7 there. But if you go to the site and you'll see 8 where else they're having these hearings, certain 9 information on this, and you're going to find a 10 lot of information on the National Commission On 11 Voters Rights, that is Lawyers' Committee, google
12 that. I don't have the Web Site. Is it 13 lawyerscommittee.org? I just found the Web site.
14 Lawyerscommittee.org with a S, 15 lawyerscommittee.org.

16 Okay. I'm sorry. Attorney
17 Deborah Chen.

18 MS. CHEN: Thank you. I want to 19 thank everyone for taking the time to be here 20 today and staying with us through the entire day 21 to hear all of this testimony. I would encourage 22 that everyone here to be involved in the upcoming 23 elections in the fall and especially to take note 24 of any type of activities that you may hear or 25 personally witness to document that at the time,

1 Proceedings

2 as I'm sure there will be other opportunities in 3 the future where that information would be very 4 important to be gathered as future evidence.

5 Lastly, I just want to end the 6 note on encouraging people that you may know or 7 even yourself to be involved in the election 8 process this fall and in the future whether by 9 volunteering as a exit poll person, volunteering 10 as a poll clerk site -- at a site here in a 11 precinct or during early voting or considering 12 being a part of the ballot board here in Houston.
13 I think those are all very important things that 14 we need to make sure that the younger generation 15 is also involved in this process going forward in 16 the future, so that all the work that has come 17 before us is continued in the future. Thank you.

18 MR. PIERRE: Thank you, Attorney
19 Chen.

20 Alejandro, would you like to make 21 any last statements?

22 MR. REYES: Just thank you to the 23 Thurgood Marshall School of Law again and to our 24 guest commissioners. Thank you for making this 25 possible.

1 Proceedings

2 Personally, I first met Mr. Pierre 3 back in 2010 when we ran election protection for 4 Harris County, so it's a privilege to work with 5 you again and I hope to do so again in the 6 future. Thank you, again, to everyone.

7 MR. PIERRE: Okay. What we did
8 not tell you, we did not say the hashtag for you
9 Twitterers out there, you know, #NCVR,
10 #votingrights is another, #Texasvotingrights. So 11 if you are putting out information of what you 12 experienced today and you wanted to be tracked, 13 definitely put these hashtags that you see up
14 there. It's the #NCVR, #votingrights,
15 #Texasvotingrights. If you hashtag voting rights 16 or NCVR, you'll get the history of all the 17 different communications or about the different 18 voting rights hearings around the country.

19 And so I want to thank you again,
20 thank you everyone for coming. That concludes 21 our hearing. Thank you, Mr. Washington, for your 22 photography skills. Thank you so much to our 23 court reporter. I look forward to speaking to 24 you again. If you have any questions to the 25 commissioners or anyone who spoke, definitely

Proceedings

come up. Once again, have a great day.

(Hearing concluded)

Proceedings

CERTIFICATE OF COURT REPORTER

STATE OF TEXAS)

COUNTY OF HARRIS)

I, RENE WHITE MOAREFI, a Certified
Shorthand Reporter in and for the state of Texas, do hereby certify that I was authorized to and did stenographically report the foregoing proceedings and that the transcript constitutes a true record of my stenographic notes.

Witness my hand dated this 16th day of April, 2014.

RENE WHITE MOAREFI, CSR, CRR

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 2014
3:00 - 7:00 P.M.

VIRGINIA COMMONWEALTH UNIVERSITY STUDENT COMMONS BUILDING
VIRGINIA ROOM A
907 Floyd Ave
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

Reported by: Lori Krenik
Job No. 73301

1 COMMISSIONERS:

2 Jean Jensen, former Deputy, Sect'y, State Board of Elections

3 Claire Guthrie Gastanaga, Exec. Director, ACLU of Virginia

4 Thursa Crittenden, Urban League of Hampton Roads

5 Carmen Taylor, President, Virginia NAACP

6

7 PANEL #1:

8 Don Palmer, Secretary, State Board of Elections

9 Mercedes Harris, Hollaback and Restore Project

10 Rebecca Green, William & Mary Law School

11 Robert Barnette, Hanover President NAACP/Hanover Elec. Board

12 Michelle Kantor Cohen, Project Vote

13 Hope Amezquita, ACLU of Virginia

14

15 PANEL #2:

16 Tram Ngyuen, Virginia New Majority

17 Anna Scholl, Progress VA

18 Courtney Mills, Fair Elections Legal Network

19 Mike Burns, Fair Elections Legal Network

20 Greg Lucyk, One Virginia 2021

21 Dong Yoon Kim, Nat'l Korean-American Service & Education Cons.

22 Cathy Woodson, Virginia Organizing

23

24

25

1 REBECCA ARNOLD: Good afternoon, everyone.
2 Thank you so much for joining us here in Richmond,
3 Virginia, as part of the National Commission on Voting
4 Rights. I'm Rebecca Kelly Arnold, associate counsel
5 with the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law 6 in DC, and I am joined by my colleague, national 7 coordinator, Rose Clouston, back there.

8 On behalf of the Lawyers' Committee, we 9 thank you all for your participation and your support 10 of this hearing. Today's hearing in Virginia is one 11 in a series of nationwide fact-finding hearings
12 convened by our National Commission On Voting Rights.
13 As many of you know, this summer the US Supreme Court
14 nullified a vital provision of the Voting Rights Act 15 that required federal review of voting changes in 16 states of history of voting discrimination. This 17 ruling compelled the Lawyers' Committee to reconvene
18 the National Commission to host hearings through 19 discrimination in voting as well as the impact of 20 recent changes in election administration law. It is 21 your input on these issues that is vital for ongoing 22 advocacy and reformed efforts at a local, state and 23 national levels. Thank you so much for attending.

24 Following these hearings, two reports will 25 be issued, one on voting discrimination and the other

1 on election administration issues. It's our hope that 2 these reports will serve as a tool for your continued
3 advocacy and to inform the public to date on the state 4 of voting discrimination and the impact of recent 5 election administration laws and efforts to reform 6 across the country.

7 So now I'd like to introduce our guest
8 commissioner panel for today's hearing. Presiding
9 over our events today are four Virginia commissioners, 10 each with a deep commitment to protecting access to 11 the ballot on equal terms for all. Jean Jensen, 12 former Deputy and Secretary of the State Board of 13 Elections from 2001 to 2007. Claire Guthrie 14 Gastanaga, Executive Director of the American Civil 15 Liberties Union of Virginia. Thursa Crittenden, 16 representing the Urban League of Hampton Roads. And 17 Carmen Taylor, President of the Virginia State
18 Conference of NAACP. Our commissioners will preside 19 over today's events and receive two panels of 20 witnesses and ask follow-up questions to ensure for a 21 robust record about the state of voting in Virginia
22 today.

23 Just a little bit of process before we get 24 going. If you've confirmed on a panel in advance and 25 you haven't already checked in, please do so in the 1 back with Rose. For those of you who would like to 2 share your voting experiences and haven't been 3 assigned to a panel, we'd like to hear from you, too, 4 so you can also go to the back there and Rose will 5 give you a card to participate in the public testimony

6 portion and guest commissioner will call your name
7 during that open mic session and you can move forward 8 and speak at this podium. The preset witnesses will 9 also testify from this podium once the guest 10 commissioners call you up.

11 Our hearing is being transcribed so please 12 speak clearly and state your name before you begin 13 your testimony. Also be mindful of the time clock.
14 I'm going to be holding it sitting right here so 15 you'll see me. If you're on Twitter, we set up a hash 16 tag for our hearing, #NCVR and #VotingRights and 17 @LawyersComm.

18 So in addition to our host, Virginia
19 Commonwealth University, I want to thank our fantastic 20 panel of witnesses who are presenting testimony and a 21 big thank-you to Tram from Virginia New Majority in 22 the back for all of her support in preparing this 23 event. And also a really good thank you to our guest 24 commissioner panel here. So now I will turn it over 25 to them for opening remarks.

1 JEAN JENSEN: It's an honor to be included
2 in this timely and important hearing. During my 3 five-year tenure as Secretary of the Virginia State 4 Board of Elections -- I spent one year as Deputy and 5 then four as Secretary -- I observed the challenges 6 faced by potential voters and registered voters and 7 the need for election officials and legislators to 8 provide fair and an easily accessible election system 9 of registering and voting. In my opinion, reform must 10 address a number of issues, including we must have 11 appropriate and enforceable laws to protect voter 12 rights and to penalize persons or groups who attempt 13 to subvert those rights.

14 I do have some anecdotes about personal 15 experiences I had when I was both Deputy and Secretary
16 of the State Board of Elections. I'm going to start 17 out with a humorous one -- some may not perceive it as 18 humorous -- just to make sure I've gotten your 19 attention. One call on the day of election from an 20 observer outside a polling place indicated that a 21 candidate for office was passing out miniature bottles
22 of liquor to voters waiting in line, and the person 23 who called me wasn't quite sure how to handle it. And 24 I said, You need to call the sheriff. Now, of course, 25 he could have gone inside and gotten the chief judge

1 to come out and help. But I was very concerned about 2 if there was a long line and people were waiting 3 didn't want to pull a judge, so the local sheriff 4 showed up and quickly confiscated the liquor and 5 escorted the gentleman to another place. There have 6 been some instances -- and I want to tell you that 7 I've found during my five years that the instances of 8 abuse of the system were far and few between.
9 Dedicated officers of election all over the state 10 would make certain that on the day of the election 11 things are conducted in a fair manner. These are just 12 a few incidents that I do think it's important to 13 realize that we do have to be ever watchful. Local 14 elected officials had been in office for a very long 15 time and three of them got together and decided that 16 they were going to be challenged for the first time in 17 many years so they decided that they needed to brew up 18 some excitement about their involvement in the race.
19 And they went into areas where the majority of people 20 they knocked on their doors to talk with were not 21 currently registered to vote. They not only provided 22 them with a voter registration application but with an 23 absentee ballot form and told them when their absentee 24 ballot came to please give them a call and they would 25 come and assist them. Now, they assisted them by

1 helping them vote those ballots and providing them 2 with a reward, which usually consisted of a carton of 3 cigarettes or food or a bottle of alcohol. One woman 4 was very concerned that she did not receive as fair an 5 award for her efforts as she should have so she 6 reported them, and fortunately they all three not only 7 were convicted of a Class 5 felony, they were never 8 reelected to office again. We have dealt with issues 9 in the past and I'm just suggesting that we have to be 10 ever watchful because I'm convinced that fraud is not 11 rampant in the state of Virginia, but we need to be on 12 our toes to make sure that voters aren't 13 disenfranchised because somebody is up to monkey
14 business. Calls during an election, on Election Day 15 or the day before saying that the polling places 16 changed and, therefore, the voters are disenfranchised 17 because they go to the wrong polling place and can't 18 vote.

19 State and local governments must 20 financially support local election officials and 21 prioritize their function and their importance. In my 22 personal experience, local general registrars who in a 23 majority of situations carry the load are overworked
24 and understaffed. They and the electoral board 25 members are facing challenges recruiting and training

1 officers of election, locating accessible polling
2 places, processing registration applications in a
3 timely manner, all of which impact packet voters.
4 It's a misnomer to list a variety of locations as 5 places where citizens can register to vote, DMV, state 6 agencies, et cetera, when, in fact, you may only apply
7 to register to vote at those places. Only a general
8 registrar can process your voter registration 9 applications. As an example of how well a local 10 government prioritizes the voter registrar and 11 electoral board office, I challenge each of you to go 12 home today and go to the state board of -- go to as 13 many different localities in your area that you have 14 the patience to do and time how quickly you can find 15 either the office of the registrar or the office of 16 the electoral board. I discovered in one locality you 17 need to know -- in order to find them you need to know 18 that they are listed under appointed officials 19 alphabetically in that locality. That makes it very 20 difficult and challenging to find the voter 21 registrar's office. It should not be easier to find 22 information about Sheryl Crow's concert in town as it
23 is to answer the question how do I register to vote, 24 what is the date of the next election, where is my 25 polling place. Bottom line: The voters need and 1 deserve quick access to information.

2 We also need to continue to ensure polling
3 places are accessible to all voters. When HAVA was 4 implemented in 2002, states were provided with funds
5 to help improve elections, and one of the priorities 6 we made was to make sure that all polling places were 7 accessible to all Virginia voters. Prior to HAVA, the 8 State Board of Elections had surveyed all the 9 localities to determine how many polling places were 10 totally accessible and about 95 percent were 11 self-reporting. We discovered that it wasn't a 12 deliberate misrepresentation. It was just not knowing 13 the right information to make a polling place -- what 14 needed to be accessible, what accessibility actually 15 meant. So we worked with the disability community and 16 hired them to go out and personally inspect all of 17 Virginia's 134 polling places and then we used some of 18 the HAVA funds to remediate them so that they were 19 more accessible.

20 I look forward to the testimony of today's 21 witnesses and know that all of us will learn a lot.
22 Thank you.

23 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Good afternoon. Thank 24 you so much for being here, and I appreciate very much 25 the opportunity to serve as a guest commissioner. I

1 think one of the things that I always try to remember 2 is that while no one wants to be completely cast in 3 concrete when it comes to thinking about change, the 4 present and the future in relation to the past, it's 5 also true that the old saga that those who forget 6 history are doomed to repeat it is something that 7 Virginians particularly need to be conscious of. All 8 we have to do is go back and rehearse the history of 9 the 1902 constitution where in order to reduce the 10 growing number of African-American voters we were well 11 over 100,000, probably 130,000 by then, in order to 12 reduce that number, those who rewrote our constitution 13 did so that would include the poll tax, the literacy 14 test and disenfranchise people convicted of felonies 15 at a time when, unfortunately, the same thing is true 16 today, there was a concerted effort or at least if it 17 wasn't intentional an inadvertence that was effective 18 that only certain people were more likely to be 19 convicted of felonies back then. Our institutional 20 racism also had effects beyond the African-American 21 community. Many people don't remember that the 22 women's right to vote was not affirmed by our Virginia
23 legislature until the '50s, and the 1940s commission 24 that looked at trying to repeal the poll tax and the 25 literacy test identified the resistance to women

1 getting the right to vote in the '20s as being in part 2 a reflection of the fact that folks understood that 3 significant numbers of African-American women would 4 register to vote if women were given the right to 5 vote. So our legislature didn't affirm something that 6 went into effect without their consent or affirmation 7 until the '50s, women's right to vote and then, of 8 course, the poll tax and the literacy test got set 9 aside only because Congress passed the Voting Rights
10 Act of '65 and then those two things were written out 11 of our constitution in the '70s but the Jim Crow era 12 disenfranchisement provisions remained intact and 13 remained a blemish on Virginia's presence that 14 harkened back to its past. One of the things that I'm 15 very much concerned about is that the Voting Rights 16 Act has become something that's used by some to 17 obscure a purposeful effort to diminish minority
18 influence. And we saw it to some extent in the 2000
19 redistricting and we certainly saw it in the 2010
20 redistricting where, for example, the 4th 21 Congressional District, which had the potential to 22 become a very strong minority influence district, was 23 recrafted to pack a significant number of 24 African-Americans in that district into the 3rd 25 Congressional District, thereby, diminishing the

1 influence rather than enhancing the influence of 2 minority voters in Virginia. And the excuse for that 3 was that those hyper-super majority African-American 4 districts were required by the Voting Rights Act, even 5 though to his credit Bobby Scott has said resolutely 6 for many, many years he doesn't need a 70, 80 percent 7 district to get elected; he only needs a 51 percent to 8 get elected. So that's something that we need to be 9 conscious of in Virginia. At the same time, we need
10 to be conscious of the reality that places like Prince 11 William County, which is a majority minority county, 12 which recently and before the Shelby County case got 13 out from under preclearance is a county in which no 14 person of color had ever served on the county board 15 and yet they were no longer subject to preclearance 16 for mysterious reasons. And in a circumstance in 17 which when the districts were drawn in 2010, two of 18 the most virulent anti-immigrant people in the 19 Virginia General Assembly got 12 or 13 percent whiter 20 districts because of the people of color in the county 21 were packed into either Bob Marshall's district or 22 Luke Torian, the only African-American person 23 representing that part of the state. Again, these are 24 things that suggest the history isn't so much in the 25 past. And I think this issue coupled with

1 hyper-partisan redistricting in which people of color 2 are perceived as being monolithic and not diverse in 3 their interests or their party has meant that the 4 influence of people of color in a state that's now
5 20 percent African-American, you know, double digit 6 percentages of Latinos and almost 10 percent Asian, 7 that's not what our legislature looks like and it's 8 not what our legislature is going to look like as long 9 as hyper-partisan redistricting continues, and I'm 10 glad that somebody is going to be talking about that 11 today.

12 And finally I want to say in our current 13 reality -- I hope this is something that the secretary 14 will take notice of -- there's some question in my 15 mind whether there is equal access to the ballot box
16 across our Commonwealth. As former Secretary Jensen 17 pointed out, different localities have different 18 capacity to fund their local registrars and their 19 activities, and in my experience, this has led to 20 certain regions having more distributed access to 21 early voting and to registration by registrars and not 22 at the DMV than other localities and that even within 23 localities like Fairfax it's not always clear to me
24 that the satellite offices are distributed evenly 25 across the population of the county. The people in

1 certain parts of the county have greater access to 2 that distributed level of service, and we have a state 3 constitution that says that our voting system is 4 supposed to be uniform, and one can ask whether that 5 goal is currently being achieved and if you define it 6 as access to registration and access to the ballot box 7 for early absentee voting, in-person absentee voting?
8 And absentee voting is another issue and there are 9 lots of things we can talk about today, so I'm looking 10 forward to you hearing you all talk about many of them
11 and learning from you some of the ideas about problems 12 that need to be addressed and solutions which might be 13 offered.

14 THURSA CRITTENDEN: Good afternoon. I'm 15 Thursa Crittenden, and I am here representing the 16 Urban League of Hampton Roads. I am a board member of 17 the Urban League of Hampton Roads and I also serve as 18 President of the Urban League Guild, and our interests 19 are in housing, health, education, and employment.
20 Those are the four core issues of the Urban League.
21 However, without our citizens participating in voting 22 and in the legislative process, we are not able to 23 achieve as much as we need to. About four or five 24 years ago we decided to create a campaign that dealt 25 with citizen engagement, and it was around voting.

1 And the whole purpose was to inform people about the 2 significance and the importance of the vote. And it's 3 interesting because -- Claire here has done my job.
4 She has given you a very good history of the vote as 5 it pertains to the state of Virginia. One of the 6 things that we do in our work in educating the public 7 is to start from the beginning, 1786 when the only 8 person that could vote in Virginia were white males
9 that owned property that were 21 years of age. And it 10 took from 1786 until 1972 for us to get where we are 11 now. So our interest in making sure that people have 12 access to vote without being impaired is very high.
13 We have worked over time to educate people not only 14 about the history of the vote and the significance but 15 to try to engage them and get them involved in 16 learning what to do when they felt that they were not 17 being served well or if they had problems and so we 18 stand to help anyone go to the ballot without any kind 19 of impairment, without any kind of frustration, making 20 sure they know exactly what they're supposed to do and 21 how to do it, what they need to carry with them. So 22 that's what we do. And we look at our engagement and 23 our involvement in making sure that our citizens vote 24 is just part of the continuum. Took a long time to 25 get to where we are and we need to stay vigilant and

1 we need to make sure that people have the tools to do
2 the things that they need to do when they go and cast 3 that very, very significant and important vote.

4 So I'm thrilled to be here and I look 5 forward to hearing from everyone and, again, like the 6 rest of the panel just learning a lot. Thank you.

7 CARMEN TAYLOR: Good afternoon. My name
8 is Carmen Taylor, and I'm the president of the 9 Virginia State Conference of the NAACP. I'm here this 10 evening as a commissioner to share with you that much 11 of the work that the NAACP has done throughout the 12 years is to fight for making sure that everyone has 13 been educated on what is your right to vote. We've 14 been fighting against voter suppression and we will 15 continue to fight in that direction. Over the past 16 couple of years, we have seen an unprecedented attack 17 on the voting rights of all individuals, especially 18 young individuals, elderly, and African-Americans and 19 people of color, taking us back to what we call the 20 Jim Crow era. In the state of Virginia in particular, 21 these attacks have been particularly aggressive and 22 followed along a dark history in our state. The NAACP 23 takes these attacks very seriously, and we've been 24 advocating on behalf of Virginians tirelessly for a 25 long time. We have had some victories, including with

1 Governor McAuliffe and former Governor McDonnell,
2 executive orders to help people with felony 3 convictions have their rights restored, but there's 4 still a lot of work to do, and we are well aware of 5 that. The NAACP and members of the Virginia State
6 Conference are working hard to continue making 7 democracy accessible to all. Voting rights, your 8 right to vote should be automatic and convenient for 9 you. It should not be suppressed.

10 I can personally share with you I live in 11 the City of Hampton, Virginia. I vote in the City of 12 Hampton, Virginia, and during the last election I came 13 across going into my voting poll I realized that as I 14 came across the individuals who were sitting there -- 15 I always challenge the system, so I walked in without 16 my ID. I've been voting at this particular poll for 17 well over 15 years and most of the people that have 18 worked the polls know me. This particular day I went 19 in blue jeans, ragged hairdo, took off my glasses,
20 tried to go incognito, but I'm still who I am, Carmen 21 Taylor. I said, I do not have a voter ID. They said, 22 You cannot vote. I said, What do you mean? They 23 said, You cannot vote. They said, This is something 24 that started now. These individuals at the time had 25 been educated but for some odd reason had forgotten

1 what was important to remember during this particular 2 voting election period. I say that, too, because in 3 the City of Newport News we have subtle suppression.
4 We have areas where there's voting polls and I'm sure 5 former Delegate Crittenden can tell you this that we 6 had an area where individuals they could be considered 7 a high crime area and you have police officers who 8 come with the intention of telling people we're coming 9 to protect you when in reality we know what's 10 happening is it's a subtle way of exploiting voter
11 suppression.

12 The NAACP has stood strong for many years.
13 We will continue to stay strong because we believe, 14 again, that you should have the right to vote. We're 15 here today to hear your testimonies, to take those 16 testimonies forward, and I look forward and appreciate 17 those of you who have taken the opportunity to come 18 forward and stand and be courageous in sharing your 19 information with us. Thank you.

20 JEAN JENSEN: Now we will begin our 21 testimony, and I encourage the names that I read, if 22 you don't mind, move closer to the podium and it will 23 be a little easier to facilitate. You can probably 24 speak up here at the podium? I think that would be 25 convenient. We're going to have a substitute. Our

1 first speaker will be Secretary Palmer of the Virginia
2 State Board of Elections. And then Mercedes Harris,
3 Hollaback and Restore Project. Is she here? Did I 4 mispronounce your name?

5 MERECEDES HARRIS: No, you did not.

6 JEAN JENSEN: Just gave you the wrong
7 gender. And Rebecca Green from William & Mary.
8 Robert Barnette, Michelle Kantor Cohen, and Hope 9 Amezquita.

10 DONALD PALMER: Thank you. My name is 11 Donald Palmer. Thank you for inviting me for the 12 commission to discuss election administration and 13 voting rights. I want to focus my comments today on 14 the use of technology in the Commonwealth to 15 streamline our election administration process. And 16 as former Secretary Jean Jensen talked about, our 17 general registrars and the State Board of Elections 18 and much of the Commonwealth is under financial 19 strain. We've had reductions of budgets for years 20 going on almost a decade now, every year more cuts.
21 And so what do we do in an environment where we want 22 to increase access and the integrity of our system 23 while we're having reductions of resources. Very 24 difficult. But what we do is we try to use technology 25 to make it easier for voters, to make our systems more

1 accurate. So I want to talk about some of the things
2 that I think we should be focusing on that will bring 3 savings to our process and also efficiencies and help
4 voters.

5 The first thing is one of the things we've 6 done is online registration and we hope that that 7 will -- it does increase the access to the voter, it 8 increases integrity of the system, and it will have 9 savings. One of the things we want to do following up 10 with on that is a modernization of the registration 11 process inside the DMV. It's one of those agencies 12 that most Virginians will go to if not initially at 13 some point while they're a resident of the 14 Commonwealth, they will go to the DMV, and the process 15 that we have there is very antiquated. It's based on 16 paper. It's based on the mailing system, postal 17 system, which is problematic, and I won't go through 18 all those details. We think there's a better way, and 19 there is a better way. One of the recommendations of 20 the Presidential Commission on Election Administration
21 and something we can do in Virginia, and I would like 22 you to keep that in your minds to talk to folks at the 23 executive branch and legislative branch to bring that 24 to fruition, and that is modernizing the process to 25 make it an electronic process, to make it quick, to 1 make it efficient and more accurate. That is one of 2 the things that we're looking at implementing over the 3 next couple of years hopefully.

4 Polling place and line management, again, 5 these are some fundamentals that we need to focus on.
6 Before you can throw the long pass, you have to learn
7 how to block and to tackle and to run. The polling 8 place and basically management within the polling 9 place is very important, and that means that 10 electronic pollbooks, using technology versus paper, 11 training our poll workers or officers of elections to 12 be fully involved with electronic pollbooks to make 13 that process with the voter, that interaction 14 streamlined and as quick as possible, reduce those 15 lines. It seems like a fundamental thing that's very 16 important to make that a positive experience for the 17 voter when they come into the polling place, and 18 sometimes the old habits that we have just don't work 19 anywhere. People expect better. We expect better in 20 the use of technology. So use of pollbooks and new 21 technology that allows scanning of IDs or looking up 22 an individual to see what their status is to make sure 23 they're in the right line, the right polling place.
24 This will ensure that that line moves quickly, that 25 the individual stands in one line and one line only

1 for the process.

2 Voting equipment. This is the fundamental 3 thing where the voter actually puts the ballot in the 4 piece of voting equipment. How much more important 5 can that be? Well, we have very antiquated pieces of 6 equipment. Some people really question the integrity 7 of those machines. I certainly don't. Believe me, we 8 test them before every election, but we in the State 9 Board of Elections and the general electoral 10 community, we care what the individuals think about 11 the integrity of our process and do they have 12 confidence in the voting process. We in Virginia need 13 to replace our voting system with new technology, more 14 accurate technology, something where the voter isn't 15 waiting in line to process their ballot. One of the 16 issues that came out of the commission is how do we 17 reduce lines. Well, in my estimation, we need new 18 voting equipment in the Commonwealth of Virginia. It 19 takes resources. It takes commitment to the 20 fundamentals of the voting process. It also includes 21 new accessible equipment. A great thing with the Help 22 America Vote Act, it brought accessible equipment for 23 voters with disabilities so they can have that 24 independent experience in the polling place. But it's 25 been almost a decade before there's been actually new

1 equipment in the polling places from that initial 2 supply of equipment. New technology is out there.
3 It's coming to Virginia. We'll be testing it, but the 4 localities don't have the resources to buy the newest 5 accessible equipment. Don't we want to have the 6 newest accessible equipment in Virginia? Yes. It 7 takes a commitment though.

8 The absentee ballot process. One of the 9 ways that a large number of Virginians were not able 10 to participate in the process, some of it's due to 11 their own procrastination, they waited the last minute 12 to request an absentee ballot. It takes time for that 13 to go through the mail system, get to the registrar, 14 get processed, then have the absentee ballot sent to 15 the voter and returned. Well, there's a way that we 16 can streamline that process where you can 17 electronically request that ballot, capturing the 18 signature from DMV, making it almost an instantaneous
19 process. Takes time and resources, but we can do 20 that. We can streamline that process. So if somebody 21 doesn't have, you know, they're not thinking about the 22 process at the last minute, they can make that request 23 and instantaneously request an absentee ballot
24 request. You can cut that time in half or more.

25 Statewide database. Again, Help America

1 Voting Act brought a database to the Commonwealth 2 which increased some of the federal functions that 3 we're relying on. We need to improve functionality 4 and make it more accurate, and it's possible with the 5 new technology today to do that. One of the 6 commission's recommendations that the president had 7 was that when you have a voter registration list that 8 have errors in it, there's a delay in the polling 9 place. Either an active voter or an error in the 10 registration so the mistake from the very beginning of 11 the process slows down the process, so we need to 12 upgrade the voter registration system.

13 Ballot design. One of the issues that the 14 Presidential Commission found was inherent in Florida 15 and Virginia had a little bit of this we had too many 16 races on the ballot. We're all for democracy, but 17 when you have a presidential race and all the local 18 races plus constitutional amendments it gets out of 19 hand, and you have to realize that the more races you 20 put on there the more time the voter will be spending.
21 That means everybody in line will be waiting for that 22 process to occur. And in Florida we saw what 23 happened. It went from two to ten, they had like 14
24 constitutional amendments on their ballot. I don't 25 care what state you are. If you have 14 amendments on

1 the ballot, there's going to be a line. So those are 2 some things that I think would streamline the process, 3 the use of technology in these budgetary times to try 4 to make the process easier for the voter.

5 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you, Mr. Secretary.
6 Our next speaker is Mr. Harris.

7 MERECEDIES HARRIS: Good afternoon,
8 everyone. My name is Mercedesies Harris, and I'm the 9 Executive Director of a non-profit organization called 10 Hollaback and Restore Project, HARP, based in the City
11 of Waynesboro in Central Virginia. I am a community 12 leader and a felon convicted as well as a counselor, 13 entrepreneur, father, and I've had my civil rights 14 restored October of 2012, right on October 15, just in 15 time. After I advocated for myself and others at an 16 invitation-only meeting with former Secretary of the 17 Commonwealth, Janet Kelly, I have gone on to found 18 HARP to help dozens to restore their civil rights
19 across my region. I served on the statewide Automatic 20 Restoration Task Force and lectured at the National 21 Reentry Leaders about the issue. It is my pleasure to 22 share my experience and expertise as a directly 23 affected person with the National Commission on 24 Voting. Unfortunately, there is little data about 25 this disenfranchised population in Virginia. The 1 sentencing project has estimated that about over 2 350,000 non-incarcerated people are disenfranchised,

3 including a shocking 1 in 5 African-Americans. There 4 is no reliable data on who has completed their 5 sentence. The breakdown of people with so-called 6 non-violent or violent convictions or even where 7 people with convictions live throughout the 8 Commonwealth, the automatic restoration implementation
9 process has shown how poor Virginia agencies and court 10 records keeping is and always in which must be 11 modernized so that we have good data. Therefore, my 12 testimony will mainly focus on what's known to me and 13 other community members who have worked very hard to 14 change the failure of the new automatic restoration, 15 the need for actual automatic restoration and a 16 positive impact of restoration on integrity.

17 Background: In May of 2013, myself and 18 other community members with felony convictions 19 successfully advocated for the historic change to 20 Virginia's old clemency rights restoration system.
21 Former Governor Bob McDonnell approved an executive 22 policy that allowed people with so-called non-violent 23 convictions to receive automatic civil rights
24 restoration, which includes the right to vote, hold 25 public office, and serve on a jury and as a notary.

1 While many people with felony convictions who fought
2 for changes commended the changes, the truth is there
3 remains hundreds of thousands disenfranchised 4 Virginians, many of whom are African-Americans, and 5 the new process will never re-enfranchise Virginians 6 at an acceptable rate.

7 My first point is the problem with 8 automatic restoration process for voting is even as it 9 is automatic, the process takes even longer than 10 before. First, identifying you as the person that you 11 say you are. The second, the need to have your 12 sentence order, proof of fines, court costs, and 13 restitution have been satisfied. Third, these above
14 things are checked by Virginia State Police and each 15 Circuit Court via the Secretary of the Commonwealth
16 which takes time. For example, at one time the state 17 police was only processing about 70 background checks 18 per week. Fourth, getting your restoration record to 19 the State Board of Elections so it is placed in voter 20 files and placed in the databank where it can be 21 retrieved by registrars before you vote. If you don't 22 have your certificate of proof, you can't vote.
23 Second, there's a need of an effective automatic 24 restoration process for everyone, so-called 25 non-violent and so-called violent offenders. Recently

1 we, the stakeholders, community leaders and grassroots 2 organizers and state officials have accomplished and 3 agreed that we all felt was a step in the right 4 direction, which classified all drug convictions as 5 non-violent. We fought for this change because most 6 drug convictions involve no violence. No other legal 7 standard considers drug crimes as violent and such a 8 classification overwhelmingly impacts
9 African-Americans, disproportionately putting black 10 Virginians into a longer, more difficult process. You 11 see advancement projects, July 2013 memo to the 12 Secretary of Commonwealth. I also believe through 13 more stakeholder meetings and community input we will 14 arrive at a point in which Virginia will change its 15 outdated laws and policies that disenfranchise at all.
16 With over 350,000 disenfranchised Virginians, the 17 disenfranchised could be a voting population all on 18 its own. We are tax-paying citizens. Who should not 19 have to restore their franchise in the first place.
20 At the very least, there should be immediate automatic 21 rights restoration. There should be a package that 22 takes care of the whole problem those felons who have 23 served their time, paid their fines, court costs, and 24 restitution. Important, No. 3, are the voting rights 25 restoration for civic engagement. If we have over

1 350,000 felons who can't vote for the elected
2 officials in our cities, counties, and states, then 3 how can we say that we like or dislike anyone who 4 holds public office, even though they dictate what 5 happens in our lives or the lives of our family. When 6 we don't know how to vote at a state or city or county 7 level, then how can we make informed choices about our 8 higher offices? When these things take place, 9 everyone is dissatisfied with who's in the office
10 running our country because of our lack of knowledge, 11 and that's why the Bible says this, you can't serve 12 two masters, ignorance or experiential knowledge in 13 this case.

14 In concluding thoughts, why an automatic 15 restoration system is critical to our community, and 16 I'd just like to finish by saying in New York, you 17 have the right even if you have a criminal record.
18 Can I register and vote in New York if I am a felon?
19 Yes. If you are on probation or were not sentenced to 20 prison or had your prison sentence suspended or served 21 your maximum sentence or were discharged from parole 22 or were pardoned or were convicted of a misdemeanor,
23 and there are many other questions to go with that. I 24 just brought this for the board to look at and the 25 election laws that New York have, and why can't we

1 adapt the same thing. They don't hold it against them
2 and it's a lot more people there. Thank you.

3 JEAN JENSEN: All of you who are going to 4 present testimony today, in order to accommodate 5 everybody who has signed up to speak, we need to be a 6 little bit respectful of the time limit. I hate to 7 interfere and cut anybody off, but each speaker, we 8 have a lot of speakers and to keep us from having to 9 say, I'm sorry, but your time is up, just sort of be 10 cautious of your time and we've got Rebecca in the 11 very first row who's keeping time. Hopefully we'll 12 have a chance during questioning period to elaborate 13 on some of these things you wanted to say.

14 Rebecca Green, William & Mary Law School.

15 REBECCA GREEN: Hello. My name is Rebecca
16 Green. I am from William & Mary Law School where I 17 co-direct the election law program and I teach 18 election law. I've been involved over the course of 19 the past six months or so in founding a program that 20 helps Virginians with prior felony convictions restore 21 their right to vote. This is a student effort, 22 students and supervising attorneys helping Virginians
23 with regaining voting rights.

24 The rights restoration process for persons
25 with prior felony convictions, non-violent convictions

1 should be straightforward, it should be simple.
2 Applicants need only to submit an online form that 3 includes basic information like their name and 4 conviction history. One wonders, therefore, whether 5 there's a need for a project like my project which is 6 called Revive My Vote. In our experience, despite the 7 fact that this should be a simple process, it, in 8 fact, can be very complicated and it can raise a lot 9 of complicated questions that are much more sort of 10 difficult to navigate than an online form would 11 suggest, so in our experience, it's anything but 12 automatic. And I want to talk a little bit about our 13 experience so far. We've only been operating since 14 April 7. We have a hotline where people can call in.
15 We also have an email address, ReviveMyVote@wm.edu.
16 People can send us emails as well. While we've only 17 operated a short time, during that time we've learned 18 a few things about the process and some of the 19 challenges that I thought I'd share with you.

20 Though we are early in our launch, there
21 are several things that I think we've learned so far.
22 First, many people have contacted us expressing 23 frustration that the rights restoration process for 24 non-violent offenders takes so long. We're hearing 25 from individuals who applied as long ago as last

1 summer who have not received a response. Many of them
2 have repeated calls to the Secretary of the 3 Commonwealth. Seems like there's a lot of 4 frustration. Second, we're finding that the rights
5 restoration process can be confusing for applicants 6 with out-of-state convictions. Virginia will 7 recognize voting rights restoration policies of other 8 states, but providing adequate documentation can often 9 be a challenge. It's not always clear which states' 10 policies apply. For example, we had one caller who 11 had been convicted of a felony out of state but he had 12 his probation transferred to Virginia. He asked us 13 whether Virginia would follow North Carolina's 14 automatic rights restoration process or whether the 15 transferred probation would somehow trigger Virginia's 16 policies. Once Virginia rights' restoration 17 eligibility can be established, for example, whether a 18 state automatically reinstates voting rights upon 19 completion of sentence, our understanding is that the 20 individuals need not apply for rights restoration to 21 the Secretary of the Commonwealth but, instead, may 22 simply register to vote indicating on their voter 23 registration form that they've been convicted of a 24 felony and that their rights were restored on a 25 particular date. This process, as I hope you can tell

1 at this point, is far from clear and it's certainly 2 not always clear to individuals who are trying to 3 restore their rights.

4 Third, many callers to Revive My Vote
5 hotline are elderly. Several callers have expressed 6 that they're reaching the end of their lives and would 7 like to restore their rights as a matter of principle 8 before it's too late. Felony convictions for some 9 callers are often in a distant past and can be very 10 difficult to recall where their conviction or 11 convictions took place and whether their fees and 12 fines have been paid. Many have lost payment receipts
13 years ago. Some callers to the Revive My Vote 14 hotline, particularly older callers, are not 15 technological savvy or lack access to the Internet.
16 One elderly caller convicted of a crime over 30 years 17 ago reported that he did not believe in computers and 18 did not have one or know how to use one. For some 19 callers we've determined that online document 20 retrieval may be difficult, if not impossible, for 21 other reasons, such as distance or mobility. That's 22 where we believe that our students and attorney 23 volunteers can help in terms of helping people sort of 24 track down documentation that they need.

25 Fourth and relatedly, while we're just

1 beginning this work ourselves, according to the 2 several individuals that we've connected with in the 3 community who assist with the re-entry, the process of 4 determining what is owed in fees and fines can be very 5 complicated. We've also encountered a perception that 6 the rights restoration process is costly when, in 7 fact, the Secretary of the Commonwealth does not 8 charge a fee for the process. This misperception
9 might arise from costs that attorneys may quote. One 10 Virginia gentleman in Virginia Beach consulted a 11 lawyer who quoted a fee of $900 to do the work.
12 Depending on how complicated the case is, seeking a 13 lawyer's assistance may indeed be costly particularly 14 for felons who fall in the more serious category and 15 require a more involved process. The requirements of 16 payment of all fines, fees, and restitution adds to 17 the public perception that rights restoration is 18 costly.

19 Fifth, we have found that convictions of 20 hotline callers can be less than straightforward. On 21 more than one occasion, the state public record 22 database listed inaccurate birth dates, in one 23 instance listing the individual as being eight years
24 old. In addition, some counties in Virginia don't 25 participate in the online Virginia court case

1 information page. The circuit courts of Alexandria,
2 Fairfax, and Virginia Beach do not use the statewide
3 system. This can hinder the ability to verify
4 convictions remotely. Additionally, the case 5 information page requires knowledge of the county from 6 which a conviction is issued, which especially for 7 applicants as I mentioned whose convictions are in the 8 distant past and are not always known.

9 Finally, while Governor McAuliffe added
10 needed clarity what constitutes a non-violent felony, 11 for many individuals, questions still persist. If an 12 individual has filed an application under the violent 13 offender process but the underlying felony is now 14 classified as non-violent, does that applicant submit 15 a new application on the non-violent offender form?
16 If an applicant has already submitted an online 17 application in the non-violent category, will it speed 18 up the process if the applicant gathers documentary 19 proof that all sentences have been completed and fines 20 and fees paid and mails a physical copy in? In 21 addition, we've encountered much confusion regarding 22 the term "automatic" that requires application and 23 potentially a long wait time.

24 So far, undertaking this work has been 25 very rewarding. We're excited to be a part of an

1 effort endorsed by two governors, one Republican, one
2 Democrat, who recognize the importance of restoring so
3 many Virginians in the democratic process. We hear
4 again and again from the callers to Revive My Vote 5 that they are anxious to regain their status as full 6 participating members of society. Those who have 7 reached out to Revive My Vote have been polite, 8 respectful, and, above all, thankful for assistance in 9 regaining this most fundamental right. Thank you.

10 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you. The next speaker
11 is Robert Barnette, president of the NAACP, Hanover 12 County and member of the Hanover County Electoral 13 Board. I want to alert the speakers to the fact that 14 the timekeeper is here and just so that everybody can 15 have a chance to make their remarks.

16 ROBERT BARNETTE: I won't be that long.
17 My name is Robert Barnette. I serve as the vice 18 chairman of the Hanover Electoral Board and the 19 President of the Hanover NAACP. The right to vote is 20 fundamental to our democracy. Hanover County has 36
21 polling precincts and a central absentee precinct.
22 With the support of the electoral board and governed
23 by the Virginia Code, the county registrar recommended 24 relocating a majority of the county precincts and 25 adding a polling station. The precinct evaluation

1 criteria included number of voters, parking spaces,
2 proximity to the precinct, and facility functionality.
3 Primary concerns included both the Clay and Shady
4 Grove precincts are located at the Washington Henry 5 School with a total of 4506 registered voters. This 6 location has only 6 handicapped spaces for parking.
7 Voters are confused whether to -- whether their 8 precinct is located in the cafeteria or the library.
9 Wait times have exceeded sometimes as much as 70 10 minutes during the presidential elections. Most of 11 the Hanover County precincts are located at fire
12 stations and schools, which inhibits or disrupts
13 response times if emergencies occur during the voting 14 period and sometimes planning school activities such 15 as the PTA meetings. Most people vote before work and 16 after work creating parking issues during those times.
17 All in all, there is a major shift from public to 18 private locations. Currently only 4 precincts are 19 located in private locations. Some citizens have 20 expressed concerns if their polling precinct location 21 is moved to a church, synagogue, or a mosque. Some 22 citizens in Hanover, it doesn't matter. Several 23 citizens have not been informed of these suggested 24 changes and are concerned that they may not have 25 enough time to voice their opinion on the possibility

1 of changes to their polling place. How much time is 2 needed? No one knows what that means. The current 3 proposed communication methods are the Hanover Review, 4 a quarterly publication in Hanover County to all 5 voters, a new voter registration card, printed media, 6 the Herald Progress, Mechanicsville Local, and 7 Richmond Times-Dispatch. The board of supervisors 8 will hold a work session May 14 to decide which 9 recommendations to take to a public hearing. The 10 public hearing will be June 11. On July 27, it is 100
11 days before the November election. After September 5, 12 no changes can be made. These will allow voters 13 easier access to the polling precincts by increasing 14 parking, increased size of polling room and to vote 15 with reduced confusion. But will everyone get the 16 word? How can we assure that everyone gets the word?

17 Finally, voter turnout has increased from 18 49,611 in the 2004 presidential election to 59,058
19 voters in the 2012 presidential election. Hanover 20 County has approximately 72,000 registered voters, and 21 during presidential elections we may turn out over 22 80 percent in each of those elections. So in Hanover,
23 we vote. We want to make sure that the polling 24 precincts are accessible and that everyone, if they're 25 changed, everyone gets the word. Some people don't

1 read the newspapers. Some people don't listen to the 2 radio, but however you get the news I think it is 3 incumbent on us as electoral board members to make 4 sure everyone has equal access to exercising their 5 fundamental right to vote. And, again, our senior 6 citizens may not be informed of this on time to make 7 sure that they are included as well. So that's my 8 story and I'm sticking to it.

9 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you. Our next speaker
10 is Michelle Kantor Cohen, Project Vote.

11 MICHELLE COHEN: Good afternoon. My name
12 is Michelle Kantor Cohen. I'm here from Project Vote.
13 I'm election counsel for Project Vote. Project Vote 14 is a national, nonpartisan, non-profit 501(c)(3) that 15 works to empower, educate, and mobilize low-income, 16 minority, youth, and other marginalized and other 17 underrepresented voters. One important aspect of our 18 mission focuses on voter registration. Like in all 19 states, in Virginia, registration is the first step of 20 voting. It is a prerequisite to casting a valid 21 ballot. In order to cast a valid ballot, however, 22 their name must be added to the voter rolls. Groups 23 and advocates must be able to help voters register, 24 make sure that eligible citizens are able to be added
25 to the voter rolls, and that eligible citizens remain

1 on the rolls. Relatedly, although it is important for 2 election officials to conduct list maintenance, which 3 can often make the election process smoother, it is 4 also important that efforts to maintain the voter 5 rolls are consistent with federal and state law to 6 protect legitimate voters from wrongful under roll.
7 One recent development in Virginia relates to 8 enforcement of federal law regarding transparency of 9 voter registration records. Transparency is an 10 important aspect of the ability to ensure that voters 11 are able to register, remain on the rolls, and cast 12 ballots that count. Transparent processes are 13 important for three reasons. First, it is important 14 that all eligible voters understand the process by 15 which they can be added to the rolls and remain on 16 them. Second, the ability to obtain information 17 regarding the voter registration process allows 18 advocates to rely on better information to understand 19 election officials' processes and help them meet 20 voters' needs. Third, transparency promotes 21 accountability in the process, allowing organizations
22 and individuals to provide a check on the system
23 making sure that election officials are properly
24 executing their responsibilities in a way that is fair 25 to all voter registration applicants and accurate.

1 In recent years, transparency has been a
2 challenge in Virginia. Following the 2008 election, 3 Project Vote and our partner, Advancement Project,
4 obtained information from local community partners
5 that the registrar had directed large numbers of voter 6 registration applications, particularly from students
7 at the historically African-American Norfolk State
8 University. The organizations then sought to review 9 Norfolk's conducted registration applications to 10 ascertain if qualified persons were unlawfully being 11 kept off the voter rolls. However, access to those 12 applications was denied. This was true even though 13 federal law requires public disclosure of voter 14 registration activities requiring that each state
15 subject to the NVRA, the National Voter Registration 16 Act, make available for public inspection and 17 available for photocopying at reasonable costs all 18 records concerning the implementation of programs and 19 activities conducted for the purpose of ensuring the 20 accuracy and currency of official lists of eligible 21 voters. This language requiring all records to be 22 maintained and made available is broad. However, the 23 local registrars with the agreement of the State Board 24 of Elections took the position that productive voter 25 registration applications were not covered by the

1 National Voter Registration Act and could not be 2 disclosed under Virginia law. Following two years of 3 litigation in both the district court and on appeals
4 to the US Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit Court 5 in the case of Public Vote v. Long, Project Vote was 6 able to obtain a precedent-setting ruling that voter
7 registration applications are records that the NVRA 8 requires election officials to disclose with social 9 security numbers redacted. However, the ruling was 10 prospective so those Norfolk applications could not 11 ultimately be inspected.

12 During the course of this case, a pro bono 13 law firm spent time and resources working to obtain 14 Virginia's compliance with what the court found was 15 plainly required by the NVRA. The unanimous appeals 16 court opinion stated, "State officials labor under a 17 duty of accountability to the public in ensuring that 18 voter lists include eligible voters and exclude 19 ineligible ones in the most accurate manner possible."
20 The court continued, "Without such transparency, 21 public confidence in the essential workings of 22 democracy will suffer."

23 Disclosure of voter registration records
24 is vital to ensuring that states are not conducting 25 voter purges in secret or using arbitrary or political

1 motivated criteria for removing eligible Americans
2 from the voter rolls. Through transparency, advocates 3 can help identify and stop controversial and 4 inaccurate voter purges, educate voters on how to 5 complete applications that remain on the rolls, and 6 support fact-based policy improvements. Thank you.

7 JEAN JENSEN: Hope Amezquita.

8 HOPE AMEZQUITA: Hi. Good afternoon. My 9 name is Hope Amezquita, and I serve as staff attorney 10 and legislative counsel for the ACLU of Virginia. The 11 American Civil Liberty Union of Virginia is a private, 12 non-profit organization that promotes civil liberties
13 and civil rights for everyone in the Commonwealth 14 through public education, litigation, and public 15 advocacy with the goal of securing freedom and 16 equality of all. Thank you for the opportunity to let 17 me speak about voting rights in Virginia today.

18 Across the United States, there's a 19 dramatic shift in voting rights that is occurring. In 20 the aftermath of the 2008 presidential election and 21 leading up to the 2012 election, nearly every state 22 introduced hundreds of bills to limit access to the 23 ballot box. In 2013, we saw the Supreme Court gut the 24 Voting Rights Act. But the tide seems to be turning 25 this year, in 2014, because of the increasing public

1 and bipartisan support for making our elections more
2 free, fair, and accessible to all citizens. Recently, 3 the bipartisan Presidential Commission On Election
4 Administration has agreed on common sense
5 recommendations to improve elections, including ideas
6 to expand early voting and modernizing our election
7 systems. Importantly, Attorney General Eric Holder
8 and Republican Senator Rand Paul of Kentucky, who 9 disagree on most policy issues, have come out and 10 supported restoration of rights. According to a 11 report by the Brennan Center for Public Policy, this 12 year over 31 states introduced 190 pro-voter measures
13 in January of 2014 alone in stark contrast to years
14 prior. Politically diverse states such as Nebraska 15 and Massachusetts are moving towards early voting and 16 modernizing their election systems to make voter 17 registration and voting easier. Bipartisan, common 18 sense measures that expand access and opportunity to 19 this right to vote are gaining in popularity.
20 Undoubtedly, there are states that are still trying to 21 restrict voting rights, including repealing already 22 enacted laws that hinder the right to vote. In 23 Virginia's case, it affects voters in two different 24 ways. First, the Commonwealth has already enacted 25 laws to hinder the right to vote. Second, year after

1 year the General Assembly fails to consider 2 legislation that expands access to the ballot box and 3 bills that would increase the efficiency of election 4 administration. So why is Virginia so different from 5 other states that seem to be moving forward? First, 6 there is a true lack of political balance and 7 bipartisan spirit in the House of Delegates that would 8 allow legislators to consider proposals to expand
9 voting rights in contrast to other states. There is a 10 lack of contested election for seats in the General 11 Assembly and, therefore, there's been no incentive to 12 change the way that Virginia does business when it 13 comes to voting rights. Finally, there are many 14 misguided beliefs about the current system and how it 15 works. Whether it is pure ignorance about the need to 16 improve voting rights or deliberate denial, it is 17 apparent that Virginia is out of step with most of the 18 nation. In the past few years, the General Assembly 19 has passed several laws eroding voting rights. In 20 2012, 2013, different versions of the voter ID law
21 passed. Virginia has subsequently passed other 22 measures that would remove voters from the rolls by 23 running their information against databases that have 24 been known to be flawed or incomplete. Bills that 25 expand access and opportunity to the right to vote are

1 routinely introduced in the General Assembly, but they 2 meet a miserable end. Measures that would permit 3 voters to vote by absentee ballot without providing an 4 excuse have failed. Virginia's current system
5 requires voters to provide a legislatively approved 6 reason and in some cases that voter must provide 7 confidential information despite raising privacy and 8 security concerns. Bills that would alleviate long 9 lines on election date by allowing early voting and 10 longer precinct hours do not receive serious 11 consideration. In recent years, measures that would 12 reform a gerrymandered system through a non-partisan 13 redistricting committee have failed. Finally, all 14 measures to amend the Virginia constitution to repeal 15 the permanent felony restoration of rights have been 16 killed despite overwhelming support from the public 17 and the past three governors.

18 I see my time is running short. I still 19 have a small bit to go, but I'll get to the point 20 where the common arguments that are being used to 21 defeat this process or to expand voting rights. We're 22 seeing often that these arguments to revoke common 23 sense measures are because legislators believe that 24 Election Day is special and a tradition and no reason 25 to deviate from what we've always done despite the

1 reality of a modern day Virginia. There is a belief 2 that the current system works well and it is 3 sufficient despite the fact that people wait hours in 4 line to vote and that disproportionately minorities, 5 low-income, the elderly and people with disabilities
6 do not have photo IDs or ability to maintain one.
7 Second, there's often the response of voter fraud is 8 running rampant and it is necessary to prove one self 9 despite any evidence of any sort of voter fraud.

10 Another common response is that 11 modernizing our election system is too expensive and 12 that it requires state and localites to spend more 13 money to do more work. Currently, there are several 14 registrars in Virginia that are only open part-time.

15 Finally, the failure of the legislature to 16 remedy the Jim Crow era that a felony conviction is 17 often discussed without consideration of a
18 disproportionate racial impact on Virginia's 19 African-American population. Frequently, legislators 20 have stated that the governor's authority under the 21 state constitution is the intended remedy and that the 22 process is working. Sadly, it has been said in 23 legislative hearings that the process to get your 24 rights restored is hard for a reason and that's the 25 way it should be. While there are no easy remedies,

1 increased transparency in the legislature, namely the 2 procedures in the House of Delegates should improve 3 the process if enacted. There should be a timely 4 notice to the public on committee hearings on voting
5 rights bills. It's not sufficient to alert the public
6 on a Friday of a Monday morning meeting at 7:30.
7 There should always be the opportunity for a full 8 public comment at committee meetings instead of people 9 who want to speak have to go to subcommittee meetings.
10 It defeats the intent and interferes with the 11 democratic process. Other remedies should include 12 where appropriate action by the State Board of 13 Elections and the governor to act to protect the 14 fundamental right to vote. Thank you.

15 JEAN JENSEN: Now it's time for those of 16 us up here who are learning I assume -- I hope you're 17 learning as much as I am -- to ask a few questions and 18 perhaps if we'll be brief, that will give more time 19 later on for the speaking section. Ms. Taylor, would 20 you like to start?

21 CARMEN TAYLOR: I will start with Ms. Hope
22 and I apologize for not being able to say your last 23 name, but if you would share very quickly if there was 24 anything else important you felt we needed to hear.

25 HOPE AMEZQUITA: I was just going to go

1 over I believe, you know, some more of the arguments
2 that don't hold water and because Virginia lacks a 3 full legislative record, meaning you can obtain 4 filmed -- when the General Assembly is on the floor,
5 you can obtain through Freedom of Information requests
6 what legislators say but there's no legislative record
7 of what is said in subcommittee or full committee 8 meetings. So often these things I'm saying are 9 anecdotal because we have no record. And those are 10 the important things that if one were to bring 11 litigation, a lawsuit under Section 2 of the Voting
12 Rights Act, we would like to point to that there's a 13 lot of misguided beliefs and ignorance and a common 14 belief that racism or our past in Virginia doesn't 15 play a part in the laws we pass today.

16 JEAN JENSEN: Anything additional?

17 THURSA CRITTENDEN: I think I would like 18 to direct a question to Secretary Palmer who talked a 19 lot about the need for modernization, upgrading 20 commuters, and I understand there are cost restraints 21 in all of that, but what can you share with us in 22 terms of something hopeful? What possible progress 23 can we make considering all of the constraints, the 24 costs that counties and cities sometimes don't have 25 the money to get the new equipment, what can we do to 1 programs start the process to become modernized?

2 DONALD PALMER: I think there's two ways
3 of looking at it. The first way is when you go back
4 to your locality is to voice your same concerns, you 5 and your family and friends, to the local board of 6 supervisors, City Council. You know, we could replace 7 voting equipment in the Commonwealth basically for all 8 of the jurisdictions for about $30 million. We talked 9 about big numbers for big issues in the Commonwealth, 10 and there are other -- there are lots of issues. Not 11 a lot of money. I mean, it takes a will, but it's not 12 that much money. And it's -- and when we're talking 13 about technology, a lot of it is for bring sanity back 14 to the Commonwealth in the way we do business.
15 Because the way we do business is antiquated. The 16 general registrars and local boards really need our 17 support on just a fundamental level of resources, 18 human resources and monetary resources because the 19 more resources they have, a better job they can do for 20 the citizens. And I think it's just saying that this 21 is a priority, this really should be a priority, we 22 shouldn't starve the electoral community of funds, we 23 shouldn't wait until a problem occurs until we decide 24 to increase funding for voting.

25 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I have a follow-up

1 question for you on costs. Would you not agree that 2 it would reduce the costs on local registrars if they 3 weren't required to keep records for excuse absentee 4 ballot voting? Currently there's a whole process that 5 they have to go through and records they have to keep.
6 If we had no-excuse absentee ballot voting, wouldn't 7 that reduce the costs on local registrars?

8 DONALD PALMER: I think you have a point,
9 but I think the problem -- and I can't speak for all 10 the legislators, but we've gotten ourselves into a 11 pickle with the way we do absentee voting in the 12 Commonwealth. We have all of these excuses, but those 13 who have an excuse, there's been estimates if we had 14 early voting or absentee voting, there will be costs
15 at the local level, and so we just cannot say tomorrow 16 let's have no-excuse absentee. The registrars will be 17 overwhelmed, so there has to be resources from the 18 state or local level so we can actually implement 19 something like that. It's going to be a cost-benefit 20 analysis by the legislature.

21 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Given the amount of 22 private information that is being acquired by 23 registrars about when people are out of town, when 24 they're traveling, which information under 25 transparency should be readily available to anyone who

1 wants to look at it, isn't the state or locality only 2 one very expensive lawsuit away from proving that the 3 cost of getting rid of the system will be less than 4 the cost of keeping it?

5 DONALD PALMER: Well, I don't have the 6 numbers in front of me. I think that most states
7 still have excuse absentee. Very few states have no
8 excuse. In Florida there is no excuse and it's a 9 wonderful thing and I used it all the time, but I 10 wouldn't say it's the rule.

11 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: And can I ask you one 12 question about the Norfolk case as well? I mean, I 13 understand that the ruling in the case was 14 prospective, but why wouldn't the State Board of 15 Elections be working with the Norfolk registrar to 16 make those records that they wanted available so that 17 the public could have confidence that there wasn't 18 discrimination or that the system wasn't unfairly
19 applied? In other words, I mean, I understand there 20 was all this litigation and two years and the ruling 21 was prospective and I understand that that meant the 22 ruling didn't require that those be made available, 23 but they could certainly be permitted to be made 24 available. Why wouldn't you support that?

25 DONALD PALMER: In the case of the Norfolk

1 case, this case sort of spanned a couple of 2 administrations. They were actually able to get the 3 applications because in the discovery process, they 4 were able to get those students in the Norfolk case in 5 the discovery process. I think that the Project Vote, 6 they're speaking about generally what the actual order 7 from the court directed all, so in that particular 8 case, they were able to get their hands on it. When 9 the court came up with its ruling it protected certain 10 identifying information like social security number 11 and from her perspective, I think she did that because 12 the impact on the Commonwealth would have been 13 dramatic if they would have said, you know, go back to 14 1960.

15 JEAN JENSEN: I'm going to preface my 16 question by saying that I wish the members of the 17 House Privileges and Election Committee were sitting 18 in this room today and that we could ask them a few of 19 these questions because we have put -- and I've been 20 in that seat. We're putting the pressure on 21 Mr. Palmer to answer these questions when, in fact, 22 it's the legislature and the members of the majority 23 on the Privileges and Elections Committee are creating 24 bills and acts that he has to execute. And there's a 25 huge difference. We need to start showing up at these

1 house P & E Committee meetings and start trying to 2 make some differences. Okay. Now I'm off my soapbox.

3 I have a question for you, sir. How long
4 did it take you, how long was the process to restore 5 your rights? Your rights were not restored until -- 6 how long after you were eligible did it take?

7 MERECEDIES HARRIS: Because I've had 8 everything that I was supposed to have for them to do 9 their job, it only took from about September 9, and 10 October 15 I had my paperwork.

11 JEAN JENSEN: That's stunning, but how 12 long did it take you to gather all of your 13 information?

14 MERECEDIES HARRIS: Because of the way
15 that I am, it didn't take a long time at all.

16 JEAN JENSEN: Good for you.

17 MERECEDIES HARRIS: Because I'm active in 18 what I'm doing, and I've been going through that 19 process 28 years. It took me 28 years to get my 20 rights back.

21 JEAN JENSEN: Can you get a microphone to 22 Delegate Crittenden?

23 FLORA CRITTENDEN: The law has been 24 changed recently. I was working with a young man who 25 had been trying to get his rights restored for 20

1 years but as soon as the law was changed, he got his 2 rights restored in a few weeks. So we are beyond that 3 now. And I'm sorry that happened to you, but I'm very 4 happy that the law has been changed.

5 JEAN JENSEN: I'm glad to know even though 6 you retired from the legislature you're still working.

7 FLORA CRITTENDEN: I'm still working.

8 JEAN JENSEN: I wanted to ask Hope a
9 question. You didn't really have a chance to talk 10 about voter ID, but you mentioned something about 11 part-time registrars, and I wonder if you can talk a 12 little bit about some of the issues that the ACLU has 13 identified in terms of how the voter ID process and 14 the free ID is going to be implemented.

15 HOPE AMEZQUITA: Sure. I can answer I
16 think part of that question. I think final 17 implementation will go into place but it's not 18 completely done yet. But we're concerned about people 19 and we suspect people of low income and the elderly 20 and members of the minority community who may not have 21 access to the free ID. The 2013 voter ID law that 22 passed requires a mandatory photo ID but the state is 23 also offering a free ID if you don't have an approved 24 ID, which is great, but I think that for the 25 organizations like ACLU and others in the community

1 there's a concern that individuals with disabilities
2 or individuals that live in communities where, one, 3 there is no public transportation or, two, like the 4 example that we frequently cite Fairfax County where 5 if you live in one portion of the county it may take 6 you hours via public bus to get to the government 7 registration center where you can obtain a free ID and 8 that's a full-time general registrar. Now, I heard 9 the number is 17 general registrars are only open 10 part-time so if you're only open 8 a.m. to 12 or 1, 11 how are you going to get there if you lack means? And 12 then also even if you have a full-time registrar and 13 you need to go get a photo ID they're only open 8 a.m.
14 to 5 p.m. and as we know, there are several 15 individuals who work 9 to 5, who do not have a luxury 16 of what my boss allows me to do, take an hour out of 17 the day to go see a doctor and go vote. We know 18 Virginia law doesn't protect an employee who wants to 19 go and vote and miss that time from work. So we're 20 really concerned about the mobile portion of the voter 21 ID, you know, wanting registrars to get out in the 22 community and to sign people up, whether at hospitals, 23 nursing homes, homes where people with intellectual 24 disabilities live, people who don't have public
25 transportation, rural communities, all of Southwest

1 Virginia I think that's a big concern.

2 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you.

3 THURSA CRITTENDEN: I just have a quick
4 follow-up with Mr. Harris. Even though the law has 5 changed, I think what you were telling us is that even 6 though restoration of rights is now automatic that it 7 still is a long process and could you sort of 8 reinforce what you said about that.

9 MERECEDIES HARRIS: Well, since I've been 10 advocating this and I started Hollaback and Restore, 11 which as I already stated, I worked on a task force at 12 the governor's office so I have my hands in it and on 13 it. What I do is I go around to people because it's 14 hard for you to obtain your sentencing orders, proof 15 of fines, court costs, and payments, and at times, you 16 can't even get the letter that was required for 17 violent crime from the probation office because like 18 in Fairfax County if it's over ten years, it's gone.
19 So they just tell you, I don't know what to tell you.
20 And so you're stuck right there trying to figure out 21 what you've got to do. And I was thankful for the 22 Advancement Project and attorneys there because they 23 were the ones that were able to find that, but 24 everybody else doesn't know that. I only knew it 25 because I do this work and I've been trained. So why

1 I said that we need to make it automatic is automatic
2 is supposed to be automatic. If you have to still go 3 through the hoops of you have to find all the 4 paperwork and you still have to do all of these 5 things, then it's not automatic and it can still take 6 a longer process because the governor said 60 -- 30 to 7 60 days. That worked for a violent crime. But when 8 it's automatic, it takes longer. Some people as they 9 already said has not received since last summer.

10 THURSA CRITTENDEN: Thank you.

11 JEAN JENSEN: Any other questions from the 12 panel?

13 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I have one other one.
14 Mr. Harris, are you aware of anybody who has done 15 everything but can't afford to pay the court costs 16 that are owed from when they were sentenced?

17 MERECEDIES HARRIS: 85 percent of them.
18 And why we suggested that there be a price cap on them
19 to go back to the principal or even then if there's a 20 certain amount of money, why can't we make it a 21 certain price or even add community service to help 22 reduce the cost because some people can't even pay the 23 court clerk to get the paper because they charge you 24 money if they have to go in the archives. And I'm 25 familiar with Hampton Roads because I deal with Vicki

1 Williams and other people from there so it's not 2 something that's just happening in one area. And I
3 live in Waynesboro, which is a rural area where we 4 have big problems at election and everything else.

5 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: So I guess I'm curious, 6 Hope, can you see an argument that if somebody has 7 done everything, including restitution, so let's just 8 say the court costs which are the state imposed fees 9 for the process of going through the court procedure, 10 if all that's left, is that a poll tax?

11 HOPE AMEZQUITA: I would believe so.

12 JEAN JENSEN: We need to move on to let 13 other people in the audience ask some questions.

14 MICHELLE COHEN: A quick clarification.
15 One quick clarification. It is correct when I was 16 thinking about the applications that that was 17 basically a summary of the prospective danger of vote
18 order and so I guess I don't have the information 19 today to speak to exactly what was exchanged in 20 discovery, but I just wanted to clarify that the key 21 point is that it was prospective from that ruling to 22 the general public.

23 JEAN JENSEN: According to the information
24 I have, we are going to have an open mic session and 25 everybody is going to have an opportunity if they want

1 to say something. Please respect the 3 minute time 2 period just because we want to hear from as many 3 people as we possibly can. I'm not sure I understand 4 the note. I'm sorry. Open mic, and that means that,
5 Rose, you're going to get a microphone to people?
6 Glen Besa, director of the Sierra Club, Virginia
7 Chapter.

8 GLEN BESA: Thank you for hosting this 9 event today. My name is Glen Besa. I'm the director 10 of the Sierra Club of the Virginia chapter. I'm also 11 former member of the county electoral board, served 12 through the term of 2012. The Sierra Club has offered 13 testimony before the General Assembly in the past in 14 opposition to a number of bills that would have 15 limited access to the right to vote, including more 16 stringent identification requirements. Sierra Club
17 supports a strong Voting Rights Act nationally, not 18 just in Virginia, not just the Virginia chapter, that 19 maximizes citizen participation in elections. A more 20 active electoral the more vibrant democracy and a 21 greater stewardship and protections that we enjoy.
22 One only look at countries like China with its extreme 23 pollution problems or Russia and its oligarchy where 24 activism lands you up in jail. We know that a more 25 vibrant democracy leads to a greater and cleaner

1 environment. People want a healthy environment, they 2 want clean air, they want safe food, and those 3 countries, those states with the greatest public 4 engagement in the electoral process people expect and 5 enjoy a clean and healthy environment.

6 In a related topic, the Sierra Club also 7 supports nonpartisan redistricting. Current partisan
8 redistricting degrades voter rights, citizens' rights
9 to vote and eliminates healthy competition, which is a 10 hallmark of a healthy democracy. Why should elected 11 officials get the right to choose their voters rather 12 than having voters choose their elected officials.
13 That's the way it's supposed to be.

14 As a Sierra Club staffer, I've interacted 15 with constitutes very often and I've had experience of 16 seeing them denied the right to vote by local 17 registrars who objected to their ability to register 18 because their parents lived somewhere else and they 19 were dependents or they had their driver's license
20 somewhere else, and in that situation I had to call 21 the ACLU and had to set them straight. As a former 22 member of the Chesterfield County Board of Elections, 23 I never experienced any issues with regard to fraud 24 that necessitated more stringent identification 25 requirements as was stated earlier here in a couple of 1 instances. It occurred to me that Chesterfield County

2 is a relatively affluent county but in those counties 3 that aren't as affluent, it really seems to be 4 inappropriate that that would influence the technology 5 they have available and the integrity of their 6 elections because you happen to live in a jurisdiction
7 that may not be as wealthy as Chesterfield County 8 where I served. In my experience on the electoral 9 board, I never seen any real issues of fraud on the 10 part of voters. Rather, it appears to me that through 11 confusion, through resources, lack of resources, and 12 some cases through an intent, it's a much more likely 13 problem that there's systemic hurdles for eligible 14 voters the right to vote. Thank you so much.

15 JEAN JENSEN: The next person who has 16 requested an opportunity is Marie Stella. She has 17 experience as a polling place observer in Chesterfield 18 County.

19 MARIE STELLA: Actually Chesterfield and 20 Richmond, and it's the Richmond experience that I'd 21 like to talk to you about. I worked as an observer.
22 I'm not even going to mention the precinct. You can 23 figure it out. I got there, I could barely find it 24 because the picture that showed this community center
25 on the Internet had a swimming pool, was modern and it

1 was nothing like where I went. There were no signs
2 out there. There was no signs for people to access
3 handicapped parking. When I got into the precinct
4 itself, no one checked my documentation. I was asked 5 to go outside and put signage up. The signage was 6 broken. I had to tape it to a lamp pole with duct 7 tape. 6 o'clock when the voting opened, there still 8 was not a working sample ballot machine. Prior to 9 that, the chief had asked me to paste a ballot behind 10 the voting machine so anyone who wanted to look at a 11 sample ballot had to go behind the machines and read 12 it, which was probably not a good idea since people 13 were voting and they could see how people were voting.

14 When the precinct opened, the voting
15 machines went down. There were insufficient paper 16 ballots and insufficient staff. Once the machines 17 came up, the polling books went down. As the day went 18 on, things got worse. It was almost like a comedy, 19 something that Three Stooges would put on. The purge 20 obviously didn't work I'm sorry to say because many, 21 many people I would estimate close to 50 were not able 22 to vote, some of them the pollbooks were changed, they 23 were allowed to come back, a lot of them were filling 24 out absentee ballots, but at the end of the evening, 25 not one absentee ballot was filed. People left. I

1 followed them outside. They said they were going to 2 go to City Hall to file complaints. People said they 3 registered and were told they weren't allowed to 4 register. There were such insufficient staff that I
5 was asked to give out the "I Voted" stickers. Nowhere
6 was I close to people going in to vote or anything 7 else because the room was so filled, it was so cold
8 outside. At about 5:30, some someone from the Board
9 of Election came in and started yelling at me in front 10 of everyone though I had seen her twice before during 11 the day and told her I was an observer and she knew I
12 had to give out the "I Voted" stickers because people 13 wouldn't leave and they refused to leave because they 14 had no -- their churches or their schools wanted the 15 "I Voted" signs, to see that people had voted.

16 At the end of the evening, the numbers
17 didn't add up. The people were told to sign the cards 18 and left. I was told I was being written up and that 19 I left at 10:30, called the people that I was 20 representing and told them there's a good chance I 21 might be going to jail. I messaged my sister to make 22 sure she got me bail if she heard from me. And, of 23 course, nothing happened because the next day, when 24 the canvas -- I was canvassing, I was observing a 25 canvas in Chesterfield County, but the precinct was

1 never counted until something was done about it later 2 on and a thousand votes suddenly turned up. This is 3 not acceptable. It was a very poor -- I know I have 4 to end -- this is unacceptable. It was a very poor
5 community. I knew nothing about the community when I
6 went there. The people were wonderful. They wanted 7 to vote and the fact that there were people who were 8 turned away from the gift that we give to Americans to 9 US citizens is the gift of voting, the fact that 10 people were turned away, absentee ballots weren't put 11 in. I understand from Call 12 that the voters that 12 filed paper votes, the votes were put in a plastic 13 bag. It was a disgrace and we need to change that.
14 Thank you.

15 JEAN JENSEN: Ms. Stella, thank you so
16 much. I do have one quick question. Have you 17 presented this information to any organization, any 18 election officials other than this group today?

19 MARIE STELLA: Yes, I have. I don't know 20 what's happened to it. I did give an initial copy for 21 you to read, but the official copy that I sent out to 22 different people, I don't think anything was done
23 about it. Thank you.

24 JEAN JENSEN: We have a couple more 25 minutes. Does anyone have a question that you have

1 not yet signed up? We can take one more. Would you
2 stand, please, or come up to the mic?

3 MABEL G. WELLS: Mr. Harris talked about 4 it, and I have always wondered about the distinction
5 between violent and non-violent. I wondered why, what 6 the rationale is after somebody has served their time?

7 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Basically the 8 distinction has been drawn on political lines in my 9 view. This is my personal view. We just got the 10 definition changed to include non-violent drug 11 offenses so that what is considered non-violent for 12 voting restoration is now everything that's considered 13 non-violent for sentencing, but the distinction being 14 made between the violent and non-violent offenders is 15 a fundamentally political distinction. It's not a 16 legal one and it's not based on policy.

17 MABEL G. WELLS: It makes no sense then.
18 Not to me.

19 CARMEN TAYLOR: Go to your legislators.

20 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: The governor has worked 21 very hard to enhance the restoration process. I wrote 22 down the number that Mr. Harris gave in his testimony 23 that the state police were doing 70 background checks 24 a week, and that's 3640 background checks a year,
25 which means we only have 96 years to get the 350,000

1 people who are currently on the disenfranchised list
2 off at the rate we're going, which obviously is longer 3 than anyone should tolerate.

4 CARMEN TAYLOR: I also agree with 5 Mr. Harris in saying that we need to have this 6 automatic process a little bit more finalized in that 7 instead of paying -- instead of going through the 8 process of worrying how to pay to get your rights
9 back, it should be automatic. Like he said, if you 10 paid your time, everything, the finances and all that 11 should go right along with it because what you're 12 looking at is just incurring a debt. If you keep 13 putting some sort of percentage on top of this debt 14 that I owe you, I'm never going to pay you back. So, 15 in essence, politically, you're not really giving me 16 my rights back.

17 JEAN JENSEN: One more question here.

18 VIRGINIA COWLES: I wanted to follow up on 19 what Dr. Wells asked and the response that she 20 received. I thought about this. I think the general 21 public thinks, oh, a violent offender, we can't let 22 murderers and rapists vote, but the thing is they 23 usually never complete their sentences because they 24 get life. So it's only people that are allowed to 25 complete their sentences that are involved in this

1 issue about restoration of felons' rights. That's not 2 a question; is it? I think there's a -- I'll put it
3 as a question. Isn't there a false public perception 4 about the difference between violent and non-violent 5 offenders?

6 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: Yes, and the ACLU has 7 suggested to both Governor McDonnell and Governor 8 McAuliffe, we've given a legal opinion that we believe 9 they can do automatic restoration by executive order 10 and just essentially issue an executive order that 11 says everybody who meets the following criteria 12 automatically gets their rights back. They have 13 chosen to follow other legal advice they've gotten 14 that says they have to do it case by case. We're 15 going to continue to advocate until we can change the 16 constitution that the governor has more authority than 17 the current governors have been willing to exercise.

18 JEAN JENSEN: Is there anyone else who 19 would like to make a comment? We have about four 20 minutes left. We need to take a break. Thank you so 21 much for your time. And we're going to take a brief 22 break and then we'll be back in this room.

23 (A break was taken.)

24 JEAN JENSEN: Good afternoon. Well, good 25 late afternoon. I think to maximize the time that the 1 speakers will have that we need to just assume that 2 those who have come in late we'll say our two cents, 3 we'll let you get to know us as we go along so we can 4 proceed with the remarks that our guests want to make.

5 We have a little bit of a switch with Secretary
6 Palmer, and Tram Ngyuen will be the first speaker.
7 Thank you very much for switching times. That was 8 very gracious of you.

9 TRAM NGYUEN: Thank you. My name is Tram
10 Ngyuen. I'm co-executive director of Virginia
11 Majority. We are a statewide civic engagement 12 organization that works primarily in communities of 13 color, encouraging folks to actively participate in 14 the vote. There are a number of issues being 15 addressed today, but I want to focus my remarks on 16 list maintenance issues. In 2013, Virginia joined the 17 Interstate Voter Registration Crosscheck Program, 18 which is maintained by the state of Kansas, and there 19 are currently 28 states that participate in this 20 crosscheck program. What it does is it collects 21 registration data from all participating states,
22 including voter's full name, date of birth, address 23 and it provides the last four digits of the social 24 security number. Then the program attempts to match 25 the records to identify any duplicates and make

1 results known to each of the states. Arguably, this 2 crosscheck has the potential to be a very useful tool
3 for providing accurate registration lists since it 4 provides a means of identifying individuals that may 5 be registered in multiple states. And we can all 6 agree that it's important to maintain accurate lists.
7 It helps in a number of areas, including reducing the 8 time of check-in on Election Day. However, when 9 states use crosscheck to determine whether a 10 particular voter should be purged, appropriate 11 safeguards must be included in the purge process since 12 data matching by its nature is notoriously unreliable.
13 For example, data entry errors, similar sounding 14 names, and changing information can all produce false 15 positives. Last year after Virginia conducted its 16 first list match under the crosscheck program, it 17 identified nearly 57,000 voters with duplicate
18 registrations and flagged them for removal. General 19 registrars were not given clear guidance when the 20 lists were initially sent to them. The State Board of 21 Elections distributed the crosscheck list to local 22 registrars with instructions that encouraged that a 23 voter's appearance on the list should be created as a 24 request by the voter to be deleted from Virginia's 25 registration rolls and a sufficient basis for removal.

1 A few weeks after the initial lists were sent, the SBE
2 sent clarifying information in an email that explained 3 that it was the county registrar's responsibility to 4 determine whether the flagged voters could be 5 legitimately purged from the voter roll and laid out
6 some instances why the fact might be inaccurate. So 7 these instructions should have been provided 8 beforehand when the lists were initially sent out, not 9 weeks after the fact. So upon implementation of this 10 list, it was reported that several registered voters
11 were improperly removed from the voter registration 12 list. For example, in Accomack County, a voter 13 reported that he had his Virginia registration 14 canceled because the local official believed he was 15 registered in South Carolina. Well, what happened was 16 he lived in Virginia, he moved to South Carolina, 17 registered to vote there, and then subsequently moved 18 back to Virginia and registered to vote here in 19 Virginia, and South Carolina didn't remove them from 20 his rolls where he was registered. Some registrars, 21 including the registrar here in Chesterfield County,
22 discovered nearly a 20 percent error rate in the list
23 that was given to him. So all of this is a lesson 24 learned here as Virginia continues to participate in 25 the crosscheck program and other list maintenance

1 programs such as using the Systematic Alien
2 Verification for Entitlements, the SAVE database,
3 which is administered by the Department of Homeland
4 Security. It's an immigrant database. Virginia 5 hasn't use the SAVE database yet, they are about to,
6 and was assigned with the Department of Homeland
7 Security a several weeks ago. So as Virginia
8 continues to use this data match program for list 9 maintenance, it is imperative that safeguards are in 10 place to prevent the removal of qualified voters who 11 are eligible to vote in Virginia. At the very least, 12 the State Board of Elections should adopt a uniform
13 process by which they handle the data from these list 14 maker programs and the protocol should be clear and 15 easily understood by election administrators 16 responsible for actually doing anything with the 17 lists. So at the end of the day, list maintenance is 18 a good thing. We want clean, accurate voter rolls but 19 we need to make sure that safeguards are in place and, 20 frankly, need to follow the timeline of the national 21 Voting Rights Act and not purge votes as close to the 22 election as what happened last year as well. Thanks.

23 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you very much. Anna
24 Scholl, Progress Virginia.

25 ANNA SCHOLL: Good afternoon. My name is

1 Anna Scholl. I'm the Executive Director of Progress
2 Virginia. We are a statewide multi-issue progressive 3 advocacy organization that promotes progressive values
4 across the Commonwealth.

5 I'm going to speak for a moment about the 6 implementation process for Virginia's new photo voter 7 ID law that will go into effect July 1 of this year
8 and specifically implementation around the application 9 that the State Board of Elections is developing for 10 how voters will get a photo voter ID if they don't 11 have a currently acceptable photo ID for voting 12 purposes. Leaving aside a moment the wisdom of the 13 photo voter ID law, the application to obtain an ID 14 actually represents a great collaboration between 15 advocates across the state and the State Board of 16 Elections. The State Board of Elections has been very 17 responsive and open to input from advocates to make 18 sure that the application reflects concerns.

19 Specifically the State Board of Elections addressed 20 concerns about requiring voters to sign a statement 21 under felony perjury to attest whether they currently 22 have an acceptable voter ID. There were concerns that 23 that would perhaps scare off voters as well as 24 catching folks who inadvertently lost a driver's 25 license or another acceptable ID only to find it later

1 after they signed this form. Additionally, the State
2 Board has drafted and is currently available for 3 public comment have decided not to force voters to go 4 through an expensive and laborious process of 5 obtaining a birth certificate or nationalization 6 papers in order to testify to their identity other 7 processes that could dissuade voters who already are 8 somewhat disengaged from the system potentially when 9 they don't have a valid voter photo ID. The 10 application is really the best case scenario under the 11 law mitigating impact on voters and with photo ID laws 12 advancing across the country, the application and the 13 process that the State Board has engaged in a dialogue 14 we hope will be a model for other states who are 15 looking to implement similar procedures.

16 Unfortunately what the State Board hasn't 17 addressed and what will be a major hurdle going 18 forward is the accessibility of that application and 19 the ID process to voters once the law goes into 20 effect. As Hope from the ACLU mentioned earlier, 21 there are a number of locales across the state that 22 only have part-time registrars. We have a number of 23 geographically large jurisdictions where it can take 24 up to an hour to get from one end of the county to the 25 other end where the registrar is and have no access to 1 public transportation.

2 Secretary Palmer spoke earlier about the 3 financial constraints both on the State Board and on 4 the local registrars, and what the State Board and the 5 General Assembly need to address is how to fund local 6 registrars and electoral boards to ensure that they 7 are able to offer the application and the photo ID 8 process in locations that are accessible to voters and 9 especially to voters who are less likely to have a 10 voter photo ID whether they are seniors, students, or 11 other historically disenfranchised populations. Thank 12 you.

13 JEAN JENSEN: Our next speaker -- and 14 there are two; and we will let you all decide how you 15 split this up -- Mike Burns and Courtney Mills, Fair 16 Elections Legal Network.

17 COURTNEY MILLS: First I just want to 18 thank the Lawyers' Committee for inviting us to speak 19 today and also the commissioners for listening to 20 these very important topics.

21 My name is Courtney Mills, and I speak to 22 you on behalf of the Fair Elections Legal Network.
23 I'm also a Virginian and an election officer in 24 Fairfax County. I feel that as a non-partisan 25 organization based in Washington, DC, with a focus on

1 election administration policy and practice, I'm going 2 to be splitting my time today with Mike Burns, who 3 works on our student campaign called the Campus Vote
4 Project. The comments from FELN today will continue
5 on with what Anna was saying and what we've been sort 6 of addressing today are concerns about the 7 implementation of the upcoming voter photo ID law.
8 There are numerous concerns, but I'm going to focus on 9 three today.

10 First is the lack of funding for voter 11 education. The biggest two major elections in 12 Virginia in 2010 and 2012 have occurred under 13 different voter ID standards than what we will have in 14 2014. Elections in 2014 will, of course, mark the 15 third major election with the third change in ID law, 16 and voter confusion is a serious concern unless the 17 State Board of Elections has sufficient funds and 18 dedication to ensure that all voters know about these 19 changing rules. The fiscal impact statement for SB 20 1256 allocated $166,250 for the initial implementation 21 of this bill, which covered machines that were needed 22 to make these IDs. The following years have 23 approximately $212,000 allocated for educational 24 outreach. In 2012 when implementing a non-photo voter 25 ID standard, the State Board of Elections spent

1 approximately $2 million to implement that ID law.
2 1.8 million was spent on sending out new voter 3 registration cards to everyone in Virginia with 4 $800,000 left over for other implementation costs. To 5 allocate only $200,000 per year for implementation of 6 a stricter photo ID standard seems to cast aside the 7 experience that the State Board of Elections had in 8 2012 and greatly limit the amount of outreach that can 9 be done. Of course, this year we do not have a budget 10 yet in Virginia so there are actually no funds which 11 is even worse than 200,000. In order for this ID law 12 to be properly implemented in 2014, if it must be, 13 then the SBE and the General Assembly should work 14 together to allocate a tremendous amount of funds to 15 make sure that all the voters have the requisite
16 amount of education to know that they need this ID.
17 Touching on what Anna said, the limitation on free ID
18 having only one machine per locality greatly limits
19 the accessibility of these free IDs. By definition, 20 these are voters that do not have a driver's license 21 and they will need to use public transportation to get 22 them. It is also very unlikely that registrars will 23 travel during the workweek with their one machine to 24 all the locations to ensure greater outreach. Also 25 minority population outreach, we should make sure that

1 the State Board is working with local registrars that 2 outreach and education is being done in all of the 3 languages or at least as many languages as possible to 4 ensure that we don't have many of our large language
5 populations unaware that our ID laws have changed.
6 And I pass off to Mike.

7 JEAN JENSEN: This is Mike Burns.

8 MIKE BURNS: Good evening. My name is 9 Mike Burns. I'm the director of the Campus Vote 10 Project. It's a project of the Fair Elections Legal 11 Network. We work with administrators and election 12 officials to institute reforms on college campuses to 13 empower students to participate in the electoral 14 process. Last year I worked specifically just in 15 Virginia since we were one of the few states to have 16 such an active election. Traveled all over the state 17 to a bunch of different campuses, made 27 in-campus
18 visits last year, spent a week over in Norfolk, 19 Hampton Roads working with student fellows there, had 20 a chance to hear from students about their experiences 21 with these sorts of processes. One of the things I'd 22 like to hit on is photo ID and how it actually affects 23 students. We're very excited that they are leaving 24 the student IDs that have photos in them as a valid
25 form of photo ID but, likewise, we're very concerned

1 about the fact that there's no money being allocated 2 to do educational outreach to inform people about 3 these new changes. Students as our newest voters 4 frequently start at an information deficit when 5 voting, so to have these substantial changes to rules, 6 if they're poorly explained to the public, that has a 7 drastic impact on them.

8 The other thing I'd like to talk about 9 just very briefly is campus polling places. One of 10 the things we've noticed here in Virginia we're less 11 to have this tremendous wealth of FOIA public 12 institutions, a lot of communities colleges are 13 initial review, only found two public FOIA schools 14 that have point places directly on campus. So one of 15 the things we'd just like to really encourage is the 16 local board of elections to consider on-campus 17 students to be a community that should be preserved by 18 precinct boundary lines which would make it much 19 easier to locate a polling place to serve that 20 community directly on those campuses. We see hundreds 21 of polling places across the Commonwealth being 22 located at K through 12 institutions, yet we don't see 23 that same consideration and advantage being taken of 24 our public higher institutions. Thanks for your time.

25 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you very much. Our

1 next speaker is Greg Lucyk. He's with One Virginia
2 2021.

3 GREG LUCYK: Good afternoon. My name is 4 Gregory Lucyk and I thank you all, the panel, for 5 allowing me to speak today. I am a member of the bar 6 of the Commonwealth of Virginia, recently retired as 7 chief staff attorney of the Supreme Court of Virginia.
8 I spent 18 years in the office of the Attorney General
9 as Assistant Attorney General, then Senior Assistant.
10 I handled all of the redistricting litigation that 11 came before the Commonwealth between 1985 and 2002.
12 And I am going to talk to you about a different 13 subject, gerrymandering. Gerrymandering is the 14 deliberate manipulation of legislative district
15 boundaries to advantage or benefit a particular party 16 or group or to cause disadvantage or harm to an 17 opposing party or group. It distorts the electoral 18 process, undermines democracy, and renders legislative 19 elections a meaningless exercise. Gerrymandering 20 reduces and eliminates competition in elections.
21 Unchallenged incumbents have less incentive to 22 ascertain and represent the interests of their 23 constituents. Gerrymandering promotes partisanship 24 and polarization. There's no need to compromise if 25 you know you don't face opposition, and gridlock in

1 government has increased. Gerrymandering has 2 increased voter apathy and confusion and reduces voter 3 participation. Why bother to vote when the outcome is 4 preordained? Or why make the effort to vote when you 5 can't find your polling place because your precinct or 6 your political subdivision is split into multiple 7 legislative districts? Virginia is considered in 8 several major indices to be one of the most 9 gerrymandered states in the country. Virginia's House 10 of Delegates is currently drawn so that 59 localities, 11 cities and counties are divided between multiple 12 districts. Virginia's Senate has 46 localities 13 divided in 40 districts. Hundreds and hundreds of 14 precincts were split in order to create the House and 15 the Senate mapped in 2011. Moreover, the 2013
16 election results show that legislative gerrymandering 17 has thwarted the will of Virginia voters. Democratic 18 statewide candidates swept the 2013 election with more 19 than 47 percent of Virginia voters backing all three 20 statewide Democrats. Assuming those voters also would 21 have preferred a Democratic legislator, a proportion 22 of the legislative map would give Democrats a minimum 23 of 47 seats. Today, Democrats hold only 32 seats in 24 the House of Delegates. In 24 Democratic controlled 25 districts and 33 Republican controlled districts, no

1 other party even bothered to field a candidate. In 2 several other districts, there was nominal opposition 3 from relatively unknown third-party candidates.
4 Still, out of over 2 million votes cast in 2013,
5 Democrats got 43 percent of the votes for major party
6 candidates while Republicans received 51 percent. A 7 proportional map based on this result again is going 8 to give you better than 40 seats to the Democrats.
9 Virginia is a purple state with roughly equal 10 populations of Republicans and Democrats. But the 11 power of gerrymandering has made for a lopsided House.
12 Democrats have virtually no say in that chamber. In 13 sum, gerrymandering is distorting Virginia's electoral 14 maps. Increasingly sophisticated tools and techniques
15 game the process with voters ultimately losing. Map 16 makers are given mountains of information on voters 17 and the voting behavior and are told to leverage the 18 districts as much as possible. Abuses include packing 19 party line voters into a single district in order to 20 create an overwhelming majority of favor of one party.
21 Cracking involves dividing cohesive groups of voters 22 among several districts in order to dilute their 23 influence. Opposing party incumbents are often paired 24 in a single district in order to force a primary 25 battle or more likely to force the incumbent to drop

1 out. In 1991, the House plan paired 14 minority party 2 incumbent legislators in 7 districts in order to 3 diminish their numbers. And they were successful.
4 Minority party incumbents may be paired with opposing 5 party legislators in districts drawn to favor 6 overwhelmingly the majority party, forcing a minority 7 party incumbents to move, lose, or drop out. The 8 current redistricting process is nothing more than 9 pure self-interested political manipulation. It is 10 time to change, to restore integrity to our government 11 and this process, and One Virginia 2021 hopes to 12 achieve that objective.

13 Very briefly, who are we? One Virginia 14 2021 is a group of Virginians who believe that 15 Virginia state and congressional districts belong to 16 its citizens and not to any legislators, interest 17 groups, or political party. Our goal very clearly is 18 that Virginia's legislative and congressional 19 districts will be drawn in accordance with districting
20 plans created by a non-partisan, independent 21 redistricting commission, and our mission is to 22 advocate for the adoption of an amendment to the 23 Constitution of Virginia establishing a redistricting 24 process that is fair, transparent, and accountable to 25 the citizens of the Commonwealth.

1 One more sentence and I'll wrap it up.
2 One Virginia 2021, Virginians for Fair Redistricting, 3 is working together with concerned citizens from all 4 over the Commonwealth to demand fair, non-partisan
5 redistricting. We must involve citizens, voters, 6 business interests, local governments, not just 7 legislators in order to achieve real, lasting change 8 to restore our faith and bring fairness back to 9 government. One Virginia 2021 appeals to all 10 Virginians to become part of this important effort, 11 and you can go to our website at 12 www.OneVirginia2021.org. It's an extensive website.
13 There's a great deal of information, and you can 14 register to show your support. Thank you all so very 15 much.

16 JEAN JENSEN: Our next speaker is Mr. Kim 17 from the National Korean American Service and 18 Education Consortium.

19 DONG YOON KIM: Good afternoon. My name
20 is Dong Yoon Kim, and I work with the National Korean 21 American Service and Education Consortium. I'd like 22 to thank the Lawyers' Committee for inviting me, and 23 I'd also like to thank the many wonderful folks in the 24 room who have -- who are very actively engaged on very 25 critical issues in the state of Virginia.

1 The National Korean American Service and 2 Education Consortium was founded in 1994. It's a
3 group of progressive national voice for Korean
4 Americans. We were founded by our local centers in LA
5 and Chicago, and recently we came to Virginia to do
6 more advocacy work as the Korean American community 7 continues to grow and continues to have a strong 8 influence in Virginia.

9 A couple of brief things. One will be the 10 2012 incident in Fairfax County. The other issue is 11 how we've been working with Fairfax County office of 12 election, our upcoming work on what we hope to 13 accomplish in Fairfax, Loudoun, and hopefully Prince 14 William Counties and a brief statement on the new 15 voter implementation law.

16 As many folks have known, in 2012 there
17 was an incident in Fairfax County regarding Korean 18 American seniors at the Annandale firehouse precinct.
19 Korean American seniors along with other voters were 20 separated into a separate line, and when poll monitors 21 pointed it out, one of the reasons given was, well, 22 that's a separate line for them to receive language 23 assistance. When they asked where is the person to 24 help with language assistance, they were still 25 scrambling at that time. So there was some confusion

1 there on many sides. One of the things that we were 2 trying to do at that time was to continue advocating 3 more for in language of voter materials at the county 4 level and we'll continue to work on that for the state 5 level.

6 One of the things that we were able to 7 accomplish in 2013 with Fairfax County office of 8 elections was for the absentee ballots translation 9 into Korean. We provided assistance on proofing the 10 documents as well. Not only that was a basic palm 11 card on basic voter information, polling locations for 12 early absentee voting were created as well. This year 13 we're looking forward to continue doing those efforts
14 not only in Fairfax but also Loudoun County, 15 considering that there are many Korean Americans and 16 API voters there.

17 So going back to Korean American seniors,
18 Korean American seniors are probably the highest voter 19 turnouts in Virginia and not only in Virginia but 20 probably nationwide. Many of the complaints that we 21 receive or issues that come up stem from Korean 22 American seniors. Many of the Korean American seniors 23 are low English proficient, and we are advocating for 24 more resources towards Korean Americans and Korean 25 American seniors who are low English proficient, not

1 only those who are Korean American but other API 2 languages as well.

3 Regarding the voter ID implementation law, 4 we will continue advocating with our advocates to 5 ensure that every Korean American voter who doesn't 6 have a photo ID has information they need to vote. I 7 believe that's all I have. Thank you so much.

8 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you very much. You 9 have a few more minutes. Do you have any additional 10 comments?

11 DONG YOON KIM: It's been kind of busy.
12 My apologies for not preparing well.

13 JEAN JENSEN: No, no, that's absolutely 14 fine. I just wanted to make sure you knew you had 15 more time. If you can stay, then perhaps some 16 questions will come up and that will help.

17 DONG YOON KIM: Thank you.

18 JEAN JENSEN: Cathy Woodson, Virginia
19 Organizing.

20 CATHY WOODSON: Good evening, everyone.
21 Thank you again for holding this hearing. My name is 22 Cathy Woodson. I'm with Virginia Organizing. We are 23 a statewide, nonpartisan grassroots organization and a 24 lot of our work engages in civic duties within the 25 state of Virginia, and we encourage people through

1 voter education, voter participation, registration,
2 and restoration of rights. So today I'm hear to talk 3 about the training program that's implemented through 4 the State Board of Elections with registrars but more
5 focused on election workers. So I'm going to give you 6 some examples to start off with, some of the reasons, 7 and I'm going to follow up with some recommendations
8 that we think will be helpful.

9 So talking to voters around the state, 10 here are a couple of things that happened over the 11 last three to four years during major elections, and 12 just reminder, Virginia has an election every year so 13 every election is important to us. So you have an 14 example of workers having the lack of knowledge about 15 voter ID. Lots of confusion around what is needed and 16 what is considered a valid voter ID. And now we're 17 about, of course, to implement the new law of photo
18 ID. One particular example from the South Hampton
19 Roads area was one person, a worker, election workers 20 had been working the precinct for years and years and 21 years and she never accepted anything except a photo 22 ID. Never, ever. Would ask people to leave, go back 23 and get a photo ID. Another example of confusing 24 voters and not being helpful is the I'm not sure what 25 to do if a voting machine goes down. Voters have

1 said, Well, I went to vote, I was on my lunch hour, 2 machines were down and nobody seems to know what to 3 do. The inconsistency of what to do with voters who 4 have disabilities, can they take the machine out, do 5 they have to help the person in, how are they going to 6 manage this. It's inconsistent across the state. And 7 then one particular issue that's very important to me
8 personally because it happened at my precinct and I 9 won't name it but election workers run out of the 10 precinct and say, Excuse me, excuse me, you didn't 11 cast your ballot. They're outside of the voting 12 precinct. So it's sort of like, Well, what happened?
13 So one of the things that we believe is uniform
14 training standards for all election workers. We know 15 the registrars are trained. We know the registrars 16 train the chief officers, but what we've observed is 17 if the workers, the Election Day workers are trained 18 and use a unified training program that everyone is 19 trained with the same information it would help so 20 that you don't have different standards for different 21 localities. And that's our big concern. So you have 22 voters who might be directed with the same procedures 23 but they're just given different information.
24 Regardless of localities, we believe that this would 25 eliminate a lot of voter confusion. It also would

1 provide a way for the registrar to evaluate their 2 election workers so you would be able to pair people
3 with their abilities and their challenges. So I know 4 it's a job that a lot of people have been doing for 5 years and years and you don't want to discredit their 6 work, you want to value their work, but we also have 7 to be concerned with voters. We also think that the 8 workers having a standardized program would allow 9 registrars to do a really good evaluation of what 10 happened on Election Day so it would decrease 11 inconsistent information given to voters, it would 12 cause less confusion with voters, and we would have, 13 regardless of where you live and where you vote, you 14 would be getting the same information. So that's why 15 we think a standardized uniform training program for 16 all workers, all election workers, not just 17 registrars, not just chief officers, but for every 18 person that's working in a precinct on Election Day to 19 be trained. Thank you.

20 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you very much. Do we 21 have any questions from the audience? Can I just ask 22 the audience if we have questions? That's where we go 23 next? Oh, the commissioners first.

24 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Cathy, do you think it 25 would be possible to do the kind of training you're

1 talking about through webinars? You could gather 2 people together and use new technologies to deliver 3 the training all at the same time, all across the 4 state in webinars or other technologically delivered 5 learning?

6 CATHY WOODSON: I think that would be 7 great. SBE implemented the voter registration webinar 8 or you can go on line and take a training or they 9 would come out. I think you could use all sorts of 10 technology to gather people together, and that might 11 be helpful to registrars to have all of their workers 12 at one location so that --

13 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: A standard curriculum
14 that was developed by SBE?

15 CATHY WOODSON: Yes.

16 CARMEN TAYLOR: Cathy, in addition to 17 that, do you think it would help if the workers 18 actually had some sort of like standardized template 19 in front of them that highlighted let's say the 20 specific concerns such as -- you weren't here earlier 21 when I mentioned what I went through some of the very 22 same things even as a voter in which my poll workers 23 were unsure of whether or not I needed an ID or not 24 and denied me the right to vote, but I knew what to 25 do. But do you think if they had some sort of 1 template because the outcome of that was the poll

2 workers actually made a phone call to someone to find 3 out whether or not I was telling them the truth or 4 not.

5 CATHY WOODSON: Yeah, I would hope that 6 there are provisions there and, again, that's part of 7 it. If you standardize or uniform the materials, the 8 training, you can ensure that everything is there that 9 the worker will need that day. You know, I listened 10 to so many people didn't understand provisional 11 ballots. So many pieces that people don't -- you 12 can't hold all of it in your head all the time, but at 13 least if you had a template there or something, you 14 can use it.

15 CARMEN TAYLOR: Because the training
16 sometimes becomes overwhelming especially for people 17 who have been doing it for years and all these changes 18 to the laws.

19 CATHY WOODSON: And I do respect that, but 20 speaking as a voter and I think we want to ensure that 21 voters feel that they have the right to vote and that 22 there are no barriers.

23 CARMEN TAYLOR: Absolutely. Thank you.

24 JEAN JENSEN: I am so glad that you said 25 what you did. I am 75 years old and I'll be 76 in 1 November. I am too old to be an officer of election.

2 If I start at 5:15 in the morning and I go and am 3 trying to make important decisions at 8:30 at night, 4 I'm not going to be able to make them. We have an 5 extremely aging workforce. They don't want to give up 6 that job. For many of them in their 70s and 80s, it's 7 the most important thing they still do in their 8 community. We've got to find a way to get them, you 9 know, the one instance that you talked about was the 10 woman who she did it one way 20 years ago and I don't 11 care how much training you're going to put her 12 through, she's going to still do it the way she did it 13 20 years ago. And I wouldn't be speaking so boldly if 14 I did not incur so many problems as a former election 15 official going to the polls. We've got to be 16 realistic. We've got to get the business community to 17 give people time off from work to work the polls.
18 We've got to get high school and college kids to work
19 the polls. They understand the machinery. I watched 20 an 82-year-old officer of election who treated an 21 electronic voting machine like it was a bomb. We've 22 got to be realistic about it and we've got to change
23 the dynamics because I agree with you on training.
24 That's just my personal soapbox that I have very 25 strong feelings about. We've got to do something

1 about the aging workforce as the officers of election.

2 CLAIRe GASTANAGA: I have a question for 3 Mr. Lucyk. Mr. Lucyk, do you think there's a point at 4 which gerrymandering becomes so extreme that there's a 5 legal argument it interferes with one person one vote?

6 GREG LUCYK: The courts, especially the US
7 Supreme Court, have given a great deal of latitude to 8 the legislatures in drawing districts. In fact, we 9 had a political gerrymandering claim that was 10 litigated before a three-judge federal court in 1991, 11 the Republican Party of Virginia v. Wilder, and that 12 case was thrown out and the districts were upheld 13 because the burden of proof of political 14 gerrymandering is so high. This is not to say that at 15 some point it can't be met, but in '91 that's when 14 16 Republican incumbents were paired in 7 districts and 17 it was very clear that political data drove the 18 creation of those legislative districts and yet that 19 wasn't sufficient to overcome the burden of proof.

20 CLAIRe GASTANAGA: I think the computer 21 technology has gotten to be such an important part of 22 all of this there might be a more accessible record of 23 the manipulation today than in 1991?

24 GREG LUCYK: You know, it was pretty 25 accessible in 1991 as well, and you should know that

1 the districting plans in 2001 and 2011 weren't even 2 drawn in Virginia. They were drawn at the Republican 3 National Committee and Democratic National Committee
4 headquarters in Washington and brought down and loaded 5 to the state's computers.

6 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: Right.

7 GREG LUCYK: What we need to do is to get 8 political and partisan data completely out of the 9 process and rely solely on objective redistricting 10 criteria, including equal representation, racial 11 fairness, compactness, contiguity.

12 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: Communities of 13 interest.

14 GREG LUCYK: Well, even communities of 15 interest in my view is a little subjective. I think 16 preserving political subdivisions and especially 17 precinct boundaries would take precedence over 18 communities of interest. That is something that can 19 play into it. But strict, rigid adherence to that 20 objective, neutral districting criteria and spell it 21 out in the constitutional amendment that incumbency
22 and partisanship and politics have no role in drawing 23 of these plans. And that's one of the principles that 24 One Virginia 2021 I think would adhere to.

25 THURSA CRITTENDEN: I have a question for

1 Mr. Lucyk as well. During your presentation you 2 mentioned the fact that we could go on line and get 3 information about your organization. And perhaps most 4 of us can here, but there are many people within 5 communities that maybe don't have access or they're 6 aged and don't have interest so I was just wondering 7 what kind of education program do you have for people, 8 say, at a grassroots level?

9 GREG LUCYK: We have already created
10 several committees including an outreach committee.
11 We've divided the state into seven regions, and our 12 goal is to go out into the community, to chambers of 13 commerce, to the senior centers, and to reach as many 14 voters, as many business people and as many local 15 governments as we can. We are scheduled to have an 16 article appearing in the Virginia Municipal Leagues 17 quarterly magazine very soon, which will hopefully not 18 only spell out what we're doing but also spell out the 19 process by which we need to bring as many citizens 20 into the process as we can. So it's a very large 21 organization. The steering committee consists of a 22 wide range of people from all over the Commonwealth, 23 and they're already working very hard to get the word 24 out to the people.

25 THURSA CRITTENDEN: So basically there is

1 a lot of diversity within your organization so that we 2 reach many of the populations within the state; 3 correct?

4 GREG LUCYK: Correct. Absolutely correct.

5 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I have a question for 6 Mr. Kim. I have a question for you. You were talking 7 about the limited English proficiency with some of the 8 voters you are working with, and I was wondering based 9 on some of the anecdotal information you gave us 10 whether you've been in touch with the Department of 11 Justice's Civil Rights Division that oversees the 12 limited English proficiency requirements of Title VI 13 or the executive order which both followed federal 14 funding and the Help America Vote if a federal funding 15 mechanism that has funded many electoral offices
16 across the Commonwealth, I just wondered whether you 17 had raised those issues with the powers that be in 18 Washington and talked to them about the LAP 19 discrimination that you're seeing.

20 DONG YOON KIM: As of now, we haven't 21 reached out to them. We are still new working in 22 Virginia. Most of our campaign work is kind of 23 focused on the federal and national level and not 24 specifically in Virginia. Having said that, we have 25 done work with DOJ in LA, Chicago, New York and other

1 places where we've worked extensively with Korean
2 Americans.

3 CLAIRe GASTANAGA: Let me just say that 4 the ACLU would be happy to work with you if you would 5 like to address those.

6 JEAN JENSEN: Let me ask a follow-up
7 question to that. You've obviously worked with the 8 Fairfax County Board of Elections --

9 DONG YOON KIM: Yes.

10 JEAN JENSEN: -- to try to enhance the way
11 Korean Americans are able to vote. Has that been -- 12 I'm trying to be diplomatic. Has that been a 13 cooperative relationship?

14 DONG YOON KIM: As of now, it has been 15 cooperative. Even before the 2012 voter lines of 16 separation, even before, they reached out to us and we 17 reached out to them regarding separate matters. And 18 one of the things that we talked about was how we can 19 increase or how we can make voting access more 20 accessible to Korean American seniors, Korean American 21 voters. But in terms of an advocacy, we're not 22 working directly with them, obviously there's a 23 certain line that we've drawn. Having said that, we 24 home to continue working with them and other folks not 25 only for Korean Americans but also API. I think one

1 of the focuses this year will be Vietnamese outreach 2 as well.

3 JEAN JENSEN: I think what -- I'm retired,
4 I'm a little more outspoken because I can get away
5 with it. I think what Claire is suggesting that if 6 you reach a point where you're batting your head up 7 against the wall, I would not hesitate to take 8 advantage of help to get those doors open. It may be 9 a funding issue in that, you know, Fairfax County has 10 a more diverse language base than any county in the 11 entire state. But whether, I mean, I'm sure you can 12 find volunteers that would be willing to staff the 13 polling places to help, but, you know, you now can 14 leave this meeting with a plan B.

15 DONG YOON KIM: Yes. Thank you.

16 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I think it's 17 extraordinarily important to point out that when the 18 Joint Legislative Audit Review Committee looked at 19 what they called the acclimation of the foreign born 20 in Virginia in 2004, they identified lack of state
21 compliance with Title VI on limited English 22 proficiency issues across the board, whether it was 23 education, healthcare, social services, whatever it 24 was as a major problem for the Commonwealth of 25 Virginia, and nothing's really happened since then.

1 So that continues to be a huge issue and not just in 2 Fairfax County but across the Commonwealth in ways 3 that, you know, if you go to a hospital and the 4 hospital can't interact with you because of language 5 issues, your health is in jeopardy, so it's a really 6 serious problem outside of even the electoral context.

7 JEAN JENSEN: Any of the other
8 commissioners have a question?

9 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Do we want to take 10 additional questions from the audience?

11 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you for keeping me on 12 track. Rose has a microphone. Dr. Crittenden.

13 FLORA CRITTENDEN: Yes, I have a question.
14 I would like to know if items that have been discussed 15 today, if this panel, if there are items that can be 16 handled through the legislative process, if this panel 17 will refer those items to the appropriate committees.

18 JEAN JENSEN: Rebecca, I think it would be 19 appropriate to --

20 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Talk about what happens 21 with the report.

22 REBECCA ARNOLD: As you all see here, this 23 hearing is being transcribed so at the close of the 24 hearing, as we complete all of our hearings 25 nationwide, this is a series of hearings that we're

1 having across the country, we're going to complete a 2 report of the array of issues that have been 3 highlighted at these hearings, so that will be made
4 public. Anything you've heard here will be included 5 in that report and you will be able to use that in 6 your advocacy at the state level.

7 CARMEN TAYLOR: What's the timeline?

8 FLORA CRITTENDEN: I want to know if you
9 send your report directly to the legislatures.

10 REBECCA ARNOLD: No, we'll be making it
11 available to the public for you all to use.

12 ROSE CLOUSTON: There will two reports,
13 one on election administration and one on voter 14 discrimination, and those will be we planned to be 15 wrapped up during the summer. We have had a couple of 16 hearings that have gotten pushed into May just by our 17 efforts to complete them in April, but those reports 18 should be available by mid-summer I would anticipate 19 and we also have a colleague who was unable to be here 20 today for other obligations unfortunately, but she 21 will be working with a lot of the advocates in 22 Virginia who have spoken here today to try to help 23 push these issues forward and be a resource to you all 24 from the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under The 25 Law and she will, of course, have access to that

1 report and be trying to use it for those advocacy
2 efforts and be a resource in that way, so hopefully it 3 will find its way to the legislature through ACLU or 4 other means.

5 FLORA CRITTENDEN: Let me see if I
6 understand what you are saying. Are you saying that 7 we as participants who have presented items that might 8 need legislative action will have to refer them 9 ourselves or does that go from the panel or how can 10 that be done?

11 THURSA CRITTENDEN: Basically, basically 12 the idea is that people from all across the state will 13 share their experiences, their issues and all of that 14 and then that information will be collected and then 15 it will be made available to those advocacy groups 16 that can go out and work towards solving some of these 17 problems. So that's how it's going to work. It's 18 more that organizations will continue the fight to try 19 to make sure that some of the ideas or issues that 20 have been brought forth here will then be worked on.

21 FLORA CRITTENDEN: I just ask the question 22 because I heard some things I thought perhaps would 23 need legislative action. I just want to know how 24 they're going to get it.

25 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Dr. Crittenden, I think

1 there are two things going on here. One, Congress is 2 looking at what are they going to do about the Voting
3 Rights Act now that Shelby County has been decided.
4 One of my deep concerns is that the current draft of 5 the bill doesn't include Virginia among the states 6 that are going to have required preclearance going 7 forward, which means that those of us who care about 8 these things are going to be ready to use Section 2, 9 which is the direct litigation route if we're going to 10 raise questions of election fairness, and that's going 11 to change the whole ballgame for us. I'm not sure why 12 Virginia's not on the list, but whatever formula 13 they're developing right now includes only four 14 southern states, Georgia, Texas, Alabama and either 15 Louisiana or Mississippi. Louisiana, Mississippi, 16 Georgia, and Texas. Those are the four. Not Alabama.
17 So we don't really -- and everybody is sort of talking 18 about it it's the best bill we can get, and I will say 19 to you today that one of the major concerns we have 20 right now is that Congressman Goodlatte, who chairs
21 Judiciary, will not bring the bill forward for a 22 hearing. If it doesn't get a hearing before June, it 23 will not be considered by this Congress and it will 24 have to be carried over by this Congress. So 25 hopefully part of this process as a record that will

1 help generate that but anybody who's in a position to 2 push Congressman Goodlatte on the issue, Please have a 3 hearing, should do so immediately and loudly.

4 And then the second thing is that we would 5 take this information and look at Virginia
6 particularly since we're not going to have Section 5 7 preclearance going forward it looks like and ask 8 ourselves what should we be advocating before the 9 legislature in terms of voting reform, and one of the 10 key things that the ACLU is concerned about is 11 changing the constitution to get rid of the lifetime 12 ban on voting because there are 350,000 people that 13 would affect, and as you know, that's a long process
14 and one that even if we got a voter restoration 15 resolution passed next year would be years off before 16 we could get it on the ballot.

17 CARMEN TAYLOR: It's not really a
18 question, but it's actually sharing with you,
19 Ms. Crittenden, the fact that the Virginia State 20 Conference NAACP and all of its members have been 21 focused in on advocating Congressman Goodlatte to make 22 sure that he does bring this to a hearing. That's 23 been our focus for some time now. We've actually 24 called many of our members in that area, the western 25 part of the state, and we're galvanizing them to set

1 up meetings with him at his home base rather than 2 going up to Washington or whatever to make sure that 3 we put the pressure on him. We've also collaborated 4 with other groups. We currently have I think it's 5 Goodlatte we're trying to work with now to galvanize a 6 meeting to meet with him. We're putting the pressure 7 on him. In addition to that what you're saying about 8 some of the things whether or not we're going to lobby 9 our legislators, I know you know for years that we 10 lobbied you, that we definitely, the NAACP, will be 11 lobbying our legislators for some of the things we 12 heard here.

13 I just have a question though in reference 14 to the information. I know you said it's not going to 15 be available to us until May; is that correct? The 16 summer. As commissioners, will we be able to review 17 documents ahead of time?

18 ROSE CLOUSTON: Why don't we correspond 19 about that via email because I'm not quite sure how 20 exactly that's going to work.

21 ELIZABETH SMITH: I'm Elizabeth Smith,
22 Richmond, Virginia. What concerns me very much and 23 I'm not -- I don't know what you can do about it, but 24 the dropping of Virginia from the section of the 25 voting rights law that avoids us having to do

1 preclearance concerns me very much because of what I
2 have heard here in this room is evidence of racial 3 discrimination. It has been spoken of in terms of 4 redistricting, it has been spoken of in terms of 5 preparation of election officers, it has been spoken 6 of in terms of treating voters. It seems to me that 7 this is a serious problem which is in the Virginia way
8 kept hidden and only talked about in polite ways so it
9 doesn't appear that it's a problem. So I'm distressed 10 that there seems to be nothing we can do about the 11 preclearance provisions?

12 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: Who's your Congressman?
13 Because like one person who needs to hear from all of 14 you is --

15 ELIZABETH SMITH: Bobby Scott.

16 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: He should be a vocal
17 advocate for continuing preclearance. But Congressman 18 Forbes who voted for the Voting Rights Act in 2006 is 19 not clear he's going to vote for it this time. So 20 there's a lot of work that needs -- even the way it's 21 currently structured with Virginia not covered.

22 ELIZABETH SMITH: I also expect that in 23 your report in writing this report that like it's 24 mentioned in this report is the evidence that racial 25 discrimination continues in the state of Virginia.

1 CARMEN TAYLOR: Hear, hear.

2 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I'm with you.

3 ELIZABETH SMITH: The more people we have 4 saying this maybe helps, but I don't know.

5 COURTNEY MILLS: I just wanted to touch on 6 the poll worker issue as someone who has served as an 7 election officer. I think it ties together a lot of 8 issues that we've heard discussed today, and that's 9 the lack of funding. There is not enough money. It 10 was one of the main points that the Presidential 11 Commission on Election Administration made that there 12 is a tremendous lack of resources nationally. There 13 are a lot of costs that go into putting on an election
14 and, as mentioned, Virginia has elections every year, 15 so it's a constant cost. It's constant recruiting for 16 poll workers, and if any of you have ever gone through 17 election training, it's very short. It's usually 18 about four hours and that's all you get. So they have 19 to fit in everything for anyone who is coming to be an 20 election officer for the very first time. You know 21 exactly nothing except your experience when you've 22 voted before and they need to teach you from A to Z.
23 So I think we have a lot of work to do with registrars 24 and with boards of election to make sure that they are 25 teaching the right information to our election

1 officers, but I think that we also need to as 2 advocates make sure we're doing work to make sure that 3 they have the resources that they need as well. They 4 need up-to-date equipment, they need to fix their 5 equipment so it isn't breaking down, they need to have 6 resources to recruit young people. And a lot of the 7 registrars that we've spoken to are trying to recruit 8 young people specifically because they tend to be 9 bilingual at a higher rate than some of the older 10 population, so it's a way in our counties that don't 11 have a bilingual requirement, which Fairfax County is 12 the only county that is required to have materials in 13 a second language and they are only covered for 14 Spanish, it's a way for the registrars to make sure 15 that there is someone there who can assist these 16 voters who have limited English proficiency. So I 17 think it's something that ties together a lot of the 18 problems that we see, and it is something that we 19 really need to bump our funding for elections if we 20 ever want to have early voting in Virginia. That's 21 one of the main things that we hear whenever we talk 22 about early voting and the fact that our lines are 23 getting longer and that is obviously going to have an 24 impact on low income voters who can't afford to stand 25 in line for three hours or six or seven hours like we

1 see in Florida. They have to go to work. And so we 2 need early voting in Virginia, but as long as our 3 local election offices don't have the money necessary 4 to put on Election Day, they're going to resist having 5 early voting as well, so I think that's sort of the 6 root of a lot of these problems that we need to 7 address.

8 JEAN JENSEN: Agreed. Agreed. Thank you
9 so much.

10 VIRGINIA COWLES: Virginia Cowles. My 11 first point is just a rhetorical question. Why is it 12 that the wealthiest democracy in the world doesn't 13 have enough money to conduct fair elections? And then 14 I'll go on to another thing and that is 15 gerrymandering. Isn't it in our constitution that 16 districts should be compact?

17 GREG LUCYK: It is.

18 VIRGINIA COWLES: Why isn't this enforced?

19 GREG LUCYK: Because the Virginia Supreme 20 Court has ruled that the legislature has great 21 latitude in determining what compactness means.

22 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Or contiguity.

23 GREG LUCYK: So that even highly irregular
24 districts can pass constitutional muster.

25 VIRGINIA COWLES: Can we refer them to 1 Webster's Dictionary?

2 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: We did that in 2001.

3 GREG LUCYK: Our role is to take politics 4 out of it because it's the politics that creates the 5 irregular districts. If we can use the objective 6 districting criteria and some of the compactness
7 measures that are available, we can have compact 8 districts.

9 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: And contiguous, other 10 than just by water. The only districts that should be 11 contiguous by water are the Eastern Shore with the 12 rest of Virginia. You should not have a district in 13 Richmond that connects Hopewell by going down a 14 waterway without any other people. Or Bobby Scott's 15 district in which the only link between Ghent in 16 Norfolk and the Fan in Richmond is 64, and Route 64
17 links the two parts of the barbell but there are no
18 people in significant parts of Congressman Scott's 19 district. But that was approved as contiguous.

20 JEAN JENSEN: I think unfortunately the 21 problem is that I would assume that everyone at this 22 front table and everyone in this audience would 23 support fair redistricting. We're not the ones that 24 do it. So we've got to get the message to the people 25 who do do it. It's going to be the hardest group for

1 One Virginia 2021. We have got to get such a ground 2 swell going that the legislators don't have any 3 choice. And I will tell you in my experience -- and I 4 worked in the legislature for years -- the very best, 5 most honest, hard working legislators turn into 6 different people when you start talking about taking 7 something out of their district or giving them a 8 district that doesn't have a lot of their people.
9 They are different animals, and that's the battle 10 we're going to all have to face. So go out and 11 recruit lots and lots of people because that's what 12 we're going to -- that's what Virginia 2021 right now 13 is trying to do, get as many people on board as 14 possible.

15 MERECEDES HARRIS: My question is 350,000
16 disenfranchised felons, how are we going to train 17 them, which we should be doing it while they're 18 incarcerated so they come home. How are we going to 19 do it because now there's some probation thing you 20 can't live where you want to in Virginia; you have to 21 go back to where you came from. So what I'm saying is 22 how is the education going to get to the Department of 23 Corrections where it should be? And now that we got 24 automatic restoration, that's going to cover about 25 250,000 felons that have probably been locked up for 1 10, 15, 20 years ago. I know I hadn't seen a booth in 2 28 years. When I walked in there, nobody showed me

3 how to do anything. They just put me in a booth and I 4 was confused at the buttons or the arrows or whatever 5 else. And I'm visually impaired. No one asked me
6 could I see well enough to do what I needed to do.
7 I'm just asking how are we going to deal with all of 8 those I call them clients, not inmates, that are about 9 to come out and embark in the world very shortly, how 10 many are going to train them? Shouldn't we be 11 training them in there, while they're in there so 12 they'll know what to do when they come out? Because 13 they're going to have their names turned in at the 14 Department of Corrections all the way to the 15 Governor's Office to have their paperwork done before 16 they even get out. That's what they're talking about 17 doing.

18 JEAN JENSEN: Where do you live?

19 MERECEDIES HARRIS: I live in Waynesboro.
20 Waynesboro, Staunton, and Augusta County, Rockbridge 21 in that area, Page County, there's no information but 22 me. I'm like the great white hope there.

23 JEAN JENSEN: Any other questions?

24 ROSE CLOUSTON: I think we do have someone 25 from public testimony. Lynetta Thompson.

1 LYNETTA THOMPSON: My question is about 2 accountability. I'm really in favor of the 3 standardized -- standard training for training 4 everyone because even though people know better, it's 5 a lot of bias in the process. So the accountability.
6 One lady spoke about I think she's gone, when she went 7 to the poll and they were not doing things the correct 8 way, who is it that turned that in and is there any 9 accountability? Is there any type of -- because most 10 of the volunteers, some of them get paid, but for the 11 most part it's a volunteer system.

12 JEAN JENSEN: They're all paid.

13 LYNETTA THOMPSON: But where is the 14 accountability?

15 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: It's with the general
16 registrar. The general registrar in the situation 17 where they should be enforcing the requirements and if 18 an officer of election doesn't comply with the 19 requirements, they shouldn't be an officer of election 20 next time.

21 JEAN JENSEN: And it's a combination of 22 general registrar and the local electoral board.

23 LYNETTA THOMPSON: If there's a standard
24 that everyone is trained the same way, we the voters 25 know what's to be done, we are the one that's turning

1 them in.

2 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: The complication is the 3 State Board of Elections doesn't hire and fire the 4 registrars. They're hired and fired by local boards
5 of election and so there's some quasi state, quasi 6 local thing going on and so part of the impediment to 7 standardized training that applies statewide and can 8 be enforced statewide is this bifurcated
9 responsibility for who's doing what. And so there's a 10 statute over here that says that the registrars have 11 to deliver a certain training in accordance with the 12 State Board standards, but the State Board doesn't 13 have any ability to enforce that directly because they 14 don't hire and fire the registrars. So to get uniform 15 standardized training statewide and to get it mandated 16 would require probably some legislative changes, which 17 is why I'm taking notes and making sure that 18 Dr. Crittenden's point is understood and well taken, 19 which is some of the stuff that people have talked 20 about won't happen without some kind of change in the 21 law.

22 JEAN JENSEN: Kendra Glover.

23 KENDRA GLOVER: Good evening. My name is 24 Kendra Glover, and I'm a paralegal in the office of 25 the general counsel of the NAACP, the headquarters in

1 Baltimore. Before I get started so don't start timing
2 me, I just want you to know that we do have a vote
3 monitor project and the email address, if you see 4 anything that's wrong, some of the things that you
5 mentioned here today, you can email Vote 6 Monitor@NAACPnet.org, VoteMonitor@NAACPnet.org. The 7 telephone number is 410-580-5114. And if you forget
8 all of that, call the national headquarters. My name 9 is Kendra Glover. I'll give it back to you again.

10 Actually, the reason I'm here, even though
11 I work in Baltimore, I am from the Chuckatuck Borough, 12 one of the seven boroughs in the City of Suffolk, and 13 I was the assistant project manager for the NAACP's 14 national redistricting project. And I am here to 15 speak on redistricting that we did in Suffolk. The 16 City of Suffolk went through its usual redistricting
17 process. However, when the City Council adopted a 18 redistricting plan, it excluded an African-American 19 council person, an African-American SCHOOL BOARD
20 member, there was a white council person and a white 21 school board member as well. But when they adopted 22 the plan, they drew the two African-Americans out of 23 their districts and pitted them against other 24 African-Americans in another large African-American 25 district. The two white incumbents were actually

1 drawn out of their districts as well but their 2 constituents followed them. So they still had the 3 opportunity to be elected. Now, the local branch of 4 the NAACP, of course, objected to this plan. The two 5 African-American incumbents were placed in the same
6 district and, like I said before, the two white 7 incumbents were not pitted against each other. In 8 addition, to add insult to injury, the name of one of 9 the longstanding black districts was changed in the 10 City Council's plan in exchange or traded with the 11 name of a majority white district and the plan adopted 12 2 percent to the Department of Justice. How's that 13 for transparency, an important objective in 14 redistricting, a process traditionally and too often 15 even today in many jurisdictions shrouded in secrecy.
16 Moreover, the districts had been named in what would 17 be considered the correct position in an earlier 18 proposal of the new district scheme. The final 19 approved plan swapped the names of the majority black 20 Nansenmond district and the white Sleeping Hole 21 districts. The name change caused some confusion with 22 voters who were used to voting in the Nansenmond 23 District. I will note parenthetically that the city's 24 somewhat odd actions of pitting the two black 25 incumbents against each other in the same district but

1 not doing the same for any white incumbents, switching
2 districts and changing their names, taken together
3 certainly raised important questions about equal 4 protection. In Arlington Heights v. Metropolitan 5 Housing Corporation, the Supreme Court outlined 6 factors to consider in determining whether there was a 7 14th Amendment equal protection violation determining 8 whether an invidious, discriminatory purpose was a 9 motivating factor demands a sensitive inquiry into 10 such circumstantial and direct evidence of intent as 11 may be available the historical background of the 12 decision in one evidentiary source particularly if it 13 reveals a series of official actions taken for 14 invidious purposes. The specific sequence of events
15 leading up to the challenged decision also may shed 16 some light on the decision-maker's purposes.
17 Departures from the normal procedure sequence also 18 might afford evidence that improper purposes are 19 playing a roll. Substantive departures too may be 20 relevant particularly if the factors usually 21 considered important by the decision-maker strongly 22 favor a decision contrary to the one reached.
23 Finally, the legislative or administrative history may 24 be highly relevant, especially when there are 25 contemporary statements of members of the 1 decision-making body. Minutes of meetings or reports, 2 the foregoing summary identifies, without purporting 3 to be exhaustive, subject of proper inquiring into 4 determining whether racially discriminatory intent

5 existed. Though the election is now over, sometimes 6 the past has a way of catching up with us. The city
7 may not have heard the last of such concerns. Thank 8 you.

9 JEAN JENSEN: Any comments?

10 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: I think one of the 11 problems with not having preclearance is that you have 12 to wait -- I was going to say this in a less delicate 13 way. You have to wait to get screwed before you can 14 sue. The bottom line is that if you're bringing a 15 Section 2 case, you have to wait until the election's 16 over to get the information that is needed to make the 17 14th Amendment claims. With preclearance you've got 18 to raise the issues before the bad stuff happens and 19 have it addressed so that you actually make sure that 20 people have the right to elect the person of their 21 choice before the election takes place. That's the 22 major difference between Section 2 of the Voting 23 Rights Act and Section 5. Section 5 is about keeping 24 bad things from happening. Section 2 is about 25 visiting bad things after they've happened and making

1 a case that illegal discrimination took place, and 2 that's why it's really sad if the Voting Rights Act is 3 passed without Virginia being subject to preclearance 4 in the future, although I have to say that I've been 5 perplexed by what the proper standard is ever since 6 Prince William got out, Justice Department said they 7 no longer needed to get preclearance even before the 8 Shelby case, so the standards have not been what you 9 call as exacting or narrow as they might have been in 10 my view in the past.

11 JEAN JENSEN: Are there any other comments
12 from anyone on the panel or anybody in the audience?
13 Would you like to give us an idea of how you'd like to 14 wrap this up?

15 REBECCA ARNOLD: Feel free to make any 16 closing remarks.

17 CARMEN TAYLOR: I'm going to be very 18 brief. Just to remind everyone I think it's very 19 important, even though we're coming here when we're 20 sharing our ideas and sharing the concerns that we 21 have and the experiences that we've gone through, that 22 it's very important to understand that going 23 towards -- leaning towards the future I believe that 24 many of us need to collaborate together for the common 25 theme and a common focus to get done what we need to 1 get done, which is for -- which is to do what's right

2 for everyone, not just for some. Thank you.

3 THURSA CRITTENDEN: Thank you very much.
4 First of all, I'd like to say thank you to all of 5 those that have participated in today's program. Your 6 information has been invaluable. It gives us a path 7 towards solving some of the serious issues that we 8 have here in the state regarding voting rights.

9 I had a few takeaways from today's meeting 10 and these are all issues that we found important and 11 whatever organization you're with, you know, you can 12 take one or all but whatever you do, don't let things 13 stop here. And basically I heard today we desperately 14 need civic engagement. And so we all represent 15 organizations, so let's roll up our sleeves and do the 16 work.

17 No. 2 is education. Because we have so 18 many issues swirling around and so many people that 19 don't have a clue and we really need to talk to 20 people, to get to them and to educate them and to 21 educate them in a way that they do become those foot 22 soldiers and those people within our communities to 23 help with our civic engagement. We talked a lot about 24 working with or the need to work with those people 25 that represent us and so we need to put them on our

1 calendars and we need to know who they are and we need
2 to go directly to them. There's so many people 3 intimidated by that, and the way I look at it the 4 citizens are the boss and we need to express ourselves
5 and let them know what we think about issues. Not 6 once, not twice, but as often as possible.

7 The other thing that I have is as a
8 takeaway we really in the state of Virginia need to 9 modernize and so whatever it takes in terms of getting 10 ideas to people, finding the money to do it or 11 whatever, I mean, I don't know the law, I'm not an 12 attorney. However, you know, people can raise money 13 for anything on line. If you are making a movie, 14 there are several sites where you can go, you can make 15 your -- you can put up your proposal and you can say, 16 you know, I need funding for this and there are movie 17 producers that are bypassing Hollywood. They go on 18 line, they're making their movies. Surely there's 19 something that perhaps the state of Virginia could do 20 to modernize that incorporates modern technology and 21 social media or whatever it takes, but we desperately 22 need to move it to the future.

23 And so with that, I say, again, it's been 24 my pleasure to be here today, it's been my pleasure to 25 represent the Urban League of Hampton Roads, and I

1 look forward to working with many of you, if not all 2 of you, as we pursue our goals to make sure that 3 citizens in the state of Virginia, all citizens in the 4 state of Virginia receive the right to vote without 5 being impeded or impaired in utilizing their given 6 right.

7 CLAIRE GASTANAGA: Well, I add my thanks
8 to all of you on behalf of the ACLU of Virginia. I 9 think this has been a wonderful thing that the 10 Lawyers' Committee put together and I was pleased to 11 make some new friends and to think about new potential 12 collaborators on the work that we're doing. And I 13 think my colleagues from the Urban League and the 14 NAACP are exactly right. This is a project that all 15 of us need to take on. I feel some urgency about one 16 thing in the short term, which is making sure the 17 Voting Rights Act gets a hearing and reaching out to 18 Congressman Goodlatte and Congressman Cantor, who is 19 of course in the leadership of the House, and 20 Congressman Forbes particularly about moving that bill 21 out of committee and on to the floor of the House so 22 we can get something done in this Congress. And I 23 feel a long-term sense of urgency and concern about 24 the project that Mr. Lucyk is working on because, 25 unfortunately, when you talk about redistricting the 1 most voters they see it as sort of an eyes glazing,

2 what does that have to do with me kind of thing, and I 3 think the challenge for all of us is to try to 4 translate that issue in a way that the average person 5 can understand that it is critically important that 6 voters choose their legislators and that legislators 7 don't choose their voters, and right now we have a 8 system in Virginia where the legislators are choosing 9 their voters and making sure that people aren't as 10 free to vote as they could be and don't have the same 11 power to influence the outcome of an election because 12 of the way our districts are drawn. And for me 13 personally, accomplishing a change in the way we 14 district before the next census, which is 2020, is 15 fundamental whether we have a real participatory, 16 democratic process in Virginia on any issue, and if we 17 don't change that, the rest of it won't matter.
18 Because we can't effect the voting laws, you can't 19 change the constitution to restore felons' rights
20 because the way that we're currently districted stands 21 in the way of our ability to accomplish any of that.
22 So I'm saying short-term urgency, Voting Rights Act in 23 Congress; longer term urgency, redistricting is the 24 key to everything.

25 MABEL WELLS: I just wanted to say that

1 there are five of us here from the League of Women
2 Voters. And we are a non-partisan group. We're 3 always reminding ourselves that we are, and I think 4 that some of us are trying to think about what -- how 5 we can get in on something and keep our non-partisan 6 situation.

7 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: We're not partisan at 8 the ACLU as well.

9 MABEL WELLS: But it always comes up when 10 there is some sort of issue so I'm sure that we'll be 11 struggling with this. Okay. Thanks.

12 CLAIRES GASTANAGA: I think voting rights
13 and redistricting I would argue should be bipartisan.
14 I'm afraid that's not necessarily the case right now, 15 but it should be.

16 JEAN JENSEN: Thank you all for coming.
17 This was so productive, but I think on a larger scale 18 it's what you're going to do when you walk out of this 19 room and go home. Because we can't reinvent the 20 wheel, the few of us that are here, but I know you're 21 all on a mission and that you have access to other 22 people, and I like the idea of those of you who are 23 here putting your efforts together just sort of 24 raising awareness. I'm very concerned about a few 25 basic issues because we don't all have access to

1 computers. As the state tries to modernize what we're 2 doing, we can't forget the people who don't have a 3 driver's license, how are they going to get the voter 4 photo ID, how are they going to get it. We don't all 5 live in suburban areas where we have access to 6 computers and much less one in our home or easy access 7 to one in a library. So we've just got to be very 8 careful that we don't modernize more people out of 9 what needs to be done. Thank you for all your work.
10 It's really appreciated, and it's been a pleasure to 11 listening to the things you will offer.

12 REBECCA ARNOLD: Real quickly, on behalf
13 of the Lawyers' Committee of the National Commission
14 On Voting Rights, thank you all for coming out, 15 sharing your testimony and your comments and to our 16 guest commissioner panel for facilitating a wonderful 17 afternoon on voting rights.

18 Just going back to what we were talking 19 about earlier, we are going to be creating a report 20 from what we've heard today so we really do hope that 21 we can take this information and you all can put that 22 into action. But in advance of those reports, also I 23 just want to draw your attention in the back when you 24 walked in, we have some fliers on strategies on how to 25 engage in post-Shelby County monitoring because there

1 is a bit of a gap now on the information on voting
2 changes and if you need help implementing that or sort
3 of perhaps to engage in post-Shelby monitoring, so 4 please do get in touch with us. Thank you.

5
6 (Ending at 6:38 p.m.)
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

REPORTER'S CERTIFICATE

I do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct transcript of my shorthand notes taken in this matter.

May 2nd, 2014

Lori Jo Krenik - Notary Public
Commonwealth of Virginia at Large Notary Registration No. 149365

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS
U N D E R L A W

STATEMENT OF KRISTEN CLARKE
PRESIDENT AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

U.S. HOUSE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY
SUBCOMMITTEE ON THE CONSTITUTION, CIVIL RIGHTS AND CIVIL LIBERTIES HEARING ON "CONTINUING CHALLENGES TO THE VOTING RIGHTS ACT SINCE SHELBY COUNTY V. HOLDER"

JUNE 25, 2019

Chairman Cohen, Ranking Member Johnson, and Members of the Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties of the U.S House of Representatives Committee on the Judiciary, my name is Kristen Clarke and I serve as the President and Executive Director of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law ("Lawyers' Committee"). Thank you for the opportunity to testify today on challenges to voting rights: an issue of paramount importance to minorities and our democracy.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 transformed American Democracy. Ninety-five years after its ratification, it fulfilled the promise of the Fifteenth Amendment that the right to vote should not be denied because of race, color or previous condition of servitude. Today, our nation is at a crucial juncture in the decades-long struggle to create, maintain, preserve, and ensure true equality of voting rights for African Americans, Latinos and other minority communities. The United States Supreme Court's evisceration of a core provision of the Voting Rights Act, coupled with the Department of Justice's abdication of responsibility for enforcing the remaining provisions of the Act, place the voting rights of those populations most in need of protection at peril.

The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, the organization that I lead, has been a leader in the forefront of the battle for equal rights since it was created in 1963 at the request of President Kennedy to enlist the private bar's leadership and resources in combating racial discrimination. Simply put, our mission is to secure equal justice under the rule of law. For more than 50 years, the Lawyers' Committee has been at the forefront of many of the most important cases brought under the Voting Rights Act. We spearheaded the National Commission on the Voting Rights Act, which made the largest contribution to the record supporting the 2006 reauthorization of the Act and participated in the legal defense of the two cases challenging the constitutionality of the reauthorization. In 2014, we organized the National Commission on Voting Rights which issued a report documenting ongoing voting discrimination.¹ To this day, the Lawyers' Committee's docket of significant voting rights litigation is among the most comprehensive and far-reaching – both geographically and in terms of the issues raised – as any in the nation.

It is unacceptable that in 2019, the right to vote is at risk. A little over 12 years ago, a unanimous Senate and a nearly unanimous House of Representatives reauthorized the temporary provisions of the Voting Rights Act including Section 5.² This vote reflected the historical bipartisan support for the Voting Rights Act. That bipartisanship consensus ended six years ago, with the Supreme Court's decision in Shelby County v. Holder,³ which despite Chief Justice Roberts conceding that "voting discrimination still exists; no one doubts that," held that the formula determining which jurisdictions were subject to the pre-clearance requirements of Section 5 was not based on current conditions, and was therefore unconstitutional. Further, the Department of Justice, a governmental agency with not only the primary enforcement authority for enforcing the Voting Rights Act but greater capacity and resources than organizations like the Lawyers' Committee has largely been absent. Indeed, the current Administration has not filed a single case under the Voting Rights Act.

The Shelby County decision has led to heightened challenges to voting rights for minorities including: 1) the resurgence of discriminatory voting practices, many motivated by intentional discrimination; 2) increasing levels of recalcitrance among officials who institute and re-institute discriminatory voting changes with impunity; 3) the loss of public notice regarding changes in voting practices that could have a discriminatory effect; 4) the elimination of the public's ability to participate in the process of reviewing those practices; 5) the loss of the deterrent effect of Section 5; and 6) the increasing costs and burdens imposed on civil rights organizations and community leaders who must fill the gap left by the suspension of Section 5 and the absence of the Department of Justice in the fight to protect the most basic of freedoms. In addition, in two appendices, I provide examples of how Section 5 worked and of post-Shelby County instances of voting discrimination. Additionally, at present, the Lawyers' Committee is in the process of conducting a nationwide review of voting discrimination which will be included in a report later this year.

¹ National Commission on Voting Rights, Protecting Minority Voters: Our Work Is Not Done (2014).

² The Senate passed the reauthorization bill 98-0 and the House 390-33. Congress.Gov, H.R.9 - Fannie Lou Hamer, Rosa Parks, and Coretta Scott King Voting Rights Act Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 2006 (2006), <https://www.congress.gov/bill/109th-congress/house-bill/9/all-actions?overview=closed&q=%7B%22roll-call-vote%22%3A%22all%22%7D>.

³ 570 U.S. 529 (2013).

Below is a discussion of the consequences of the Shelby County decision, examples of the Lawyers' Committee's efforts to challenge discriminatory voting changes and the lack of enforcement of the Voting Rights Act by the Department of Justice.

A. The consequences of Shelby County

The ramifications of the decision in Shelby County are numerous and grave. At the most basic level, without the protections of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, changes that negatively impact the rights of minority voters in jurisdictions with documented histories of discrimination are now implemented without review by the federal government. As we discuss below, and as shown in Appendix 2, this permits government-authorized voter discrimination to remain in effect while challenges to it are litigated for years. The loss of the right to vote, or restrictions imposed on ballot access, even if ultimately vindicated, can never be fully remedied.

1. Loss of Notice of Proposed Discriminatory Voting Practices

One of the less recognized and more nuanced problems resulting from the lack of Section 5 preclearance is loss of notice that a discriminatory voting change has been enacted in the first place. There are a myriad of ways that the voting rights of minority citizens can be jeopardized. Many of them occur at the local level. Many of them are subtle. They range from the consolidation of polling places so as to make it less convenient for minority voters to vote, to ID requirements, to the curtailing of early voting hours that makes it more difficult for hourly-wage workers to vote, to the disproportionate purging of minority voters from voting lists under the pretext of "list maintenance." Many of these suppressive actions occur in small towns sprinkled across the country, where constant oversight is difficult, if not impossible. By requiring changes in voting practices and procedures to be reported to the federal government by jurisdictions covered by Section 5, the Voting Rights Act provided indispensable notice of such actions before they could be implemented.

2. Loss of Transparency of the Process

With notice came substantial transparency. Under Section 5, on a weekly basis, the Department of Justice posted on its website Section 5 submissions it received, pursuant to the Attorney General's Procedures for the Administration of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act (Part 51 of Title 28 of the Code of Federal Regulations). Indeed, during 2000-2010, the Attorney General received between 4,500 and 5,500 Section 5 submissions, and reviewed between 14,000 and 20,000 voting changes per year.⁴ The pre-clearance process itself encouraged further transparency, often involving telephone interviews with persons representing or associated with the submitting authority, local organizations, and private citizens, particularly members of the affected racial or language minority groups.

3. Loss of Participation in the Process

The administrative preclearance process encouraged public participation and allowed voters themselves to assess proposed voting changes, consult with racial justice organizations to determine the impact of any proposed changes, and have a real say in the process. For example, in Section 5 reviews of redistricting plans, organizations often presented redistricting plans with demographic and statistical detail, and individual voters submitted their views on the proposed plans to the Department of Justice. This avenue of participation, particularly for minority voters and the organizations representing their interests, is lost without the Section 5 process. Notably, without Congressional action, the upcoming redistricting cycle will be the first without the full protections of the Voting Rights Act.

⁴United States Department of Justice, About Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act (2017), <https://www.justice.gov/crt/about-section-5-voting-rights-act>.

4. Loss of Deterrence

Section 5 had its intended effect. As Justice Ginsburg memorably analogized in her Shelby County dissent, it was the umbrella in a rainstorm⁵. Its specific deterrent effect was self-evident any time the Attorney General or the United States District Court for the District of Columbia refused to preclear a proposed change in voting practices or procedures. Although the Attorney General objected to only approximately one percent of voting changes submitted under Section 5,⁶ these objections represented over 500 redistricting plans, and nearly 800 election method changes.⁷ Examples of discriminatory practices stopped in their tracks under Section 5 are attached to this Testimony as Appendix I.

However, Section 5 also had a powerful general deterrent effect: jurisdictions were clearly more prudent in their approach to changes in voting policy or procedure because of the preclearance requirements. The impact of Shelby County on general deterrence was felt immediately, when Texas announced the implementation of its discriminatory photo ID law before the ink was dry on the Shelby County opinion⁸, and the North Carolina legislature, with similar haste, enacted an omnibus voting rights law, subsequently found to have been drafted with “surgical precision” to discriminate against minority voters.⁹

The Texas and North Carolina examples represent the headline-grabbing events – cases that would be in the public eye even without Section 5. But the general deterrent effect of Section 5 is equally visible in those relatively smaller, but equally pernicious acts, of suppression, such as poll closings. Changes in polling places accounted for the largest number of submissions under Section 5.¹⁰ Since Shelby, in Georgia – a state that had been subject to 151 objections by the Attorney General under Sections 5 – jurisdictions have moved swiftly with attempted efforts to close, consolidate, or relocate polling places and voting precincts since 2013, including:

- Proposal to move 16 of 37 polling sites in Henry County, GA;¹¹
- Proposal to close all but two polling places in Randolph County, GA;¹²

⁵ “Throwing out preclearance when it has worked and is continuing to work to stop discriminatory changes is like throwing away your umbrella in a rainstorm because you are not getting wet.” Shelby Cty., Ala. v. Holder, 570 U.S. 529, 590 (2013) (Ginsburg, J., dissenting).

⁶ United States Department of Justice, About Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act (2017), <https://www.justice.gov/crt/about-section-5-voting-rights-act>.

⁷ Mark A. Posner, The Real Story Behind the Justice Department’s Implementation of Section 5 of the VRA: Vigorous Enforcement, as Intended by Congress, 1 Duke J. Const. L. & Pub. Pol’y 79, 102, 104–05 (2006).

⁸ See Ryan J. Reilly, Harsh Texas Voter ID Law ‘Immediately’ Takes Effect After Voting Rights Act Ruling, Huffington Post (June 25, 2013 2:04 PM), https://www.huffpost.com/entry/texas-voter-id-law_n_3497724.

⁹ N. Carolina State Conference of NAACP v. McCrory, 831 F.3d 204, 214 (4th Cir. 2016).

¹⁰ United States Department of Justice, Section 5 Changes by Type and Year (2015), <https://www.justice.gov/crt/section-5-changes-type-and-year-2>.

¹¹ Henry County Board of Commissioners, Notice of Change of Polling Places (January 23, 2019), <http://www.co.henry.ga.us/Departments/D-L/Elections-Registration>.

¹² Vanessa Williams, Ill-Fated Plan to Close Polling Places in Georgia County Recalled Lingering Prejudice, Washington Post (August 24, 2018), available at: https://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/ill-fated-plan-to-close-polling-places-in-georgia-county-recalled-lingering-prejudice/2018/08/24/6cad0ee6-a78c-11e8-97ce-cc9042272f07_story.html?utm_term=.f21a24b830ee

- Proposal to eliminate all but one of the City of Fairburn, GA polling places;¹³
- Proposal to eliminate all but one of Elbert County, GA precincts and polling locations;¹⁴
- Numerous polling place and precinct changes in Fulton County, GA;¹⁵
- Proposal to close 2 of 7 precincts and polling places in Morgan County, GA after previously reducing the number from 11 to 7 in 2012;
- Proposal to reduce the number of precincts and polling locations from 36 to 19 in Fayette County, GA;¹⁶
- Proposal to consolidate polling locations in majority-Black Hancock County, GA;¹⁷
- Proposal to eliminate 20 of 40 precincts and polling locations in Macon-Bibb County, GA;¹⁸

Post- Shelby County attempts at suppression are not limited to poll closings. Over the past 17 years, the Lawyers’ Committee has led Election Protection, the nation’s largest nonpartisan voter protection coalition. Election Protection—through a suite of hotlines and poll monitoring programs across the country—has provided assistance and support to hundreds of thousands of voters to ensure that they can cast a ballot that counts. Through Election Protection we have also amassed extensive data evidencing systemic barriers faced by voters. Leading up to and during the 2018 midterm election, we received widespread reports of voting practices in states with long histories of voting discrimination like Georgia, Texas, Florida and North Dakota that suppressed the vote. Here are a few examples:

- In Georgia under the state’s “exact match” law, more than 53,000 voter registration applicants, a disproportionate number of whom were African Americans, were placed into “pending” status if the information on their voter registration forms did not exactly match the information in the state’s other error-laden government databases. The law also led to Georgians who are citizens being flagged as potential non-citizens due to the process of comparing the information in the applicant’s voter registration form against outdated citizenship data in the state’s driver’s license records. The Lawyers’ Committee and its partners challenged the law, and a federal court enjoined Georgia’s practice of mandating proof of citizenship documents be produced only to

¹³Daily Report, Notice of Polling Place Location Changes (March 7, 2018), <https://www.law.com/dailyreportonline/public-notices/?atex-class=&keyword=permanent+polling+place+location+change+fairburn+march+15%2C+2018&from=01%2F01%2F2018&to=03%2F31%2F2019>.

¹⁴Elbert County Board of Commissioners, Notice Of Proposal To Consolidate Elbert County Voting Precincts (2018), <https://nearme.elberton.com/local-business/Elbert-County-Board-of-Commissioners/Public-Notice/Notice-Of-Proposal-To-Consolidate-Elbert-County-Voting-Precincts-By-Elbert-County-Board-Of-Commissioners-In-Elberton-Georgia>.

¹⁵Kristina Torres, Fulton OKs Polling Site Changes in Mostly African-American Precincts, Atlanta Journal Constitution (July 13, 2017), <https://www.ajc.com/news/state--regional-govt--politics/fulton-oks-polling-site-changes-mostly-african-american-precincts/BOR4EHJnhNkXa9E32JQU8L/>.

¹⁶ <http://www.fayettecountygga.gov/elections/pdf/Quick-Facts-with-Maps.pdf>

¹⁷ Kristina Torres, Cost-cutting Moves Spur Fears about Reducing Access to Georgia voters, Atlanta Journal-Constitution (October 11, 2016), available at: <https://www.ajc.com/news/state--regional-govt--politics/cost-cutting-moves-spur-fears-about-reducing-access-georgia-voters/qu9lInbKd6dSl6yblbB68M/>

¹⁸ Jeremy Timmermann, Board of Elections Settles on 33 Precincts, The Telegraph (June 10, 2015), available at: <https://www.macon.com/news/politics-government/election/article30238326.html>.

deputy registrars, who are frequently not stationed at polling places, and ordered that the documents be produced to poll managers, who are required to be on-site at polling stations.¹⁹

- In Georgia ahead of the 2018 midterm election, a federal court ordered emergency relief to block the practices of allowing election officials with no prior training in signature verification to reject absentee ballots if they believed the signature on the ballot did not match the voter's signature on file and to reject absentee ballots based upon immaterial omissions or mistakes on the absentee ballot envelopes without allowing the voters a reasonable opportunity to cure the issue so the ballots could be counted.²⁰
- In November 2018, a federal court in Florida held that the state's law, which allowed county election officials to reject vote by mail ballots based upon the officials' untrained determination that the signature on the vote by mail ballot did not match the voter's signature on file with the county election office, constituted an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote.²¹
- In North Dakota, where Native Americans comprise a larger share of the state's population than nationwide, voters were required to provide a state ID showing a residential address. Many Native Americans who live on reservations lack street addresses on their state ID.²²
- In Texas, minority voters and voters who are not native English speakers reported incidents where they were asked about their race, citizenship status, and length of stay in the country by poll workers and poll watchers.²³

5. Increased Burden and Cost of Litigation

Additionally, there is the cost of challenging of discriminatory voting changes – costs which now must be borne primarily by civil rights organizations, whose resources are already stretched thin. Under Section 5, the two methods for a covered jurisdiction to comply with the preclearance requirement were a declaratory judgment action filed by the covered jurisdiction in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, or administrative review requiring the Attorney General to determine within 60 days of submission whether to block a voting change because the submitting jurisdiction failed to show the change was non-discriminatory.²⁴ The latter avoided expensive and lengthy litigation by submitting proposed changes to the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Justice. The optional declaratory judgment route required a convening by a three-judge panel in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, with the United States or the Attorney General as the defendant. Over 99 percent of ¹⁹ Laura Grace & Morgan Conley, Election Protection 2018 Midterm Elections Preliminary Report, (2018) <https://866ourvote.org/wp-content/uploads/2019/01/Election-Protection-Preliminary-Report-on-the-2018-Midterm-Elections.pdf>; Georgia Coalition for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F.Supp.3d 1251 (N.D.Ga. 2018).

²⁰ Id.; Martin v. Kemp, 341 F.Supp.3d 1326 (N.D.Ga. 2018)(blocking practice of rejecting absentee ballots based upon signature match and allowing voters the opportunity to cure the issue); Martin v. Crittenden, 347 F.Supp.3d 1302 (N.D.Ga. 2018)(blocking practice of rejecting absentee ballots based upon immaterial or minor errors on the absentee ballot envelope).

²¹ Democratic Executive Committee of Fla. v. Detzner, 347 F.Supp.3d 1017 (N.D.Fla. 2018).

²² Laura Grace & Morgan Conley, "Election Protection 2018 Midterm Elections Preliminary Report," (2018) <https://866ourvote.org/wp-content/uploads/2019/01/Election-Protection-Preliminary-Report-on-the-2018-Midterm-Elections.pdf>; Cheyenne Haslett & Roer Hadar, North Dakota Native Americans fight to protect their right to vote after court ruling (Oct. 21, 2018), <https://abcnews.go.com/Politics/native-americans-north-dakota-fight-protect-voting-rights/story?id=58585206>

²³ Id.

²⁴ United States Department of Justice, About Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act (2017), <https://www.justice.gov/crt/about-section-5-voting-rights-act>.

changes were reviewed administratively.²⁵ It is important to note that Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act is not an adequate substitute for the prophylactic remedy provided by Section 5.

Without Section 5, enormous resources are needed to both bring, and defend Section 2 claims. While jurisdictions may extend the financial burden to taxpayers, citizens often rely on nonprofit organizations to challenge discriminatory voting practices. Section 2 cases cost millions of dollars to litigate,²⁶ not only in terms of thousands of hours of attorney time, but out-of-pocket expenses for filing fees, transcripts, expert witnesses, and travel.

Section 2 litigation often lasts years and, in some cases, plaintiffs are forced to bring multiple lawsuits over the course of many years to address the same problems because state officials refuse to comply with the federal law even after they have been sued previously for the same issues. The Section 2 Texas photo ID case was a 5-year legal battle, before it ended with a judgment of discrimination and the Texas Legislature's enacting a new law found by the Court of Appeals to cure the discriminatory effect of the old law.²⁷

In Georgia, voters and advocates have been forced to bring multiple lawsuits challenging various iterations of the state's "exact match" voter registration process over the years that has been demonstrated to prevent Georgia's eligible people of color to complete the voter registration process in order to participate in Georgia's elections. In 2008, voters challenged an iteration of the "exact match" process that was instituted by former Secretary of State, Karen Handel, because the state failed to obtain preclearance of the process by the DOJ before implementing it.²⁸ Subsequently, once Handel's successor, Brian Kemp, finally obtained preclearance of a different iteration of the "exact match" process in 2010, voting advocates discovered that the process was disproportionately preventing eligible people of color from successfully completing the voter registration process and filed a second lawsuit challenging the process in 2016.²⁹ Even after Secretary Kemp agreed to settle the 2016 "exact match" litigation, his staff was working behind the scenes with lawmakers in the Georgia General Assembly to draft House Bill 268 in 2017, which codified the exact match process - a process which had already been shown to have a disproportionate, negative effect on the ability of people of color to complete the voter registration process.³⁰ As a result, voting advocates were forced to file the third lawsuit within 10 years to challenge the iteration of the "exact match" process enacted as a result of the passage of House Bill 268 in 2018.³¹

As noted above, costs are also borne by governmental entities defending against discrimination claims. North Carolina lawmakers spent more than $10.5 million defending their discriminatory omnibus voting bill; and Texas spent more than $3.5 million defending its discriminatory photo ID law.³² It is unfortunate that taxpayers -- who include those discriminated against -- must foot the bill for their government's discriminatory conduct. But those are among the additional protections lost by the elimination of the much less-costly and time-consuming administrative process under Section 5 that often nipped discriminatory practices in the bud.

²⁵ Id.

²⁶ See Understanding the Benefits and Costs of Section 5 Pre-clearance: Hearing Before the S. Comm. on the Judiciary, 109th Cong. 20 (2006) (statement of Armand Derfner, Voting Rights Att'y, Derfner, Altman and Wilborn).

²⁷ Veasey v. Abbott, 830 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016); Veasey v. Abbott, 888 F.3d 792 (5th Cir. 2018).

²⁸ See Morales v. Handel, Civil Action No. 1:08-CV-3172, 2008 WL 9401054 (N.D.Ga. 2008).

²⁹ See Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Kemp, Civil Action No. 2:16-cv-00219-WCO (N.D.Ga. 2016).

³⁰ See Georgia House Bill 268 as enacted in the 2017 Georgia Legislative Session, <http://www.legis.ga.gov/Legislation/20172018/170669.pdf>.

³¹ See Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda v. Kemp, 1:18-CV-04727-ELR (N.D..Ga. 2018).

³² Jim Malewitz & Lindsay Carbonell, Texas' Voter ID Defense Has Cost $3.5 Million, THE TEXAS TRIBUNE (June 17, 2016, 6:00 AM), <https://www.texastribune.org/2016/06/17/texas-tab-voter-id-lawsuits-more-35-million/>.

B. Examples of Lawyers' Committee's Efforts to Challenge Discriminatory Voting Changes

In the years since Shelby, we have seen many discriminatory voting practices put in place, both in jurisdictions previously covered by Section 5 and those that were not. But, I emphasize, we have not seen all such attempts. We can only fight the threats we know about, and we have been fortunate to have strong local partners on the ground who use their own strained resources to maintain a wary eye on local election changes. Georgia, a state previously covered by Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, provides examples of the obstacles facing minority voters that Section 5 would have blocked.

In 2015, the Board of Elections and Registration, in Hancock County, Georgia, changed its process so as to initiate a series of “challenge proceedings” to voters, all but two of whom were African American, which resulted in the removal of 53 voters from the register. Later that year, the Lawyers' Committee, representing the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and the Georgia Coalition for the Peoples' Agenda and individual voters, challenged this conduct as violating the Voting Rights Act and the National Voter Registration Act, and obtained a preliminary injunction, which resulted in the unlawfully-removed voters placed back on the register. Ultimately plaintiffs and the Hancock County Board agreed to the terms of a Consent Decree that will remedy the violations, and requires the county's policies to be monitored for five years.³³ But after the purge and prior to the court order, Sparta, a predominantly black city in Hancock County, elected its first white mayor in four decades. And before the case was settled, and the wrongly-purged voters placed back on the rolls, at least one of them had died.

Also, in 2015, the Georgia state enacted a mid-decade redistricting plan that reduced the minority population in State House districts in 105 and 111, where increases in the minority voting population had enabled candidates preferred by minority voters to almost defeat the white incumbents. They provided the incumbents with a greater safety margin by re-drawing the districts that made the districts more white in composition and those incumbents narrowly prevailed in 2016. The Lawyers' Committee filed suit in 2017 alleging intentional racial discrimination and a racial gerrymander.³⁴ Fortunately, there, the plan did not work, and African American candidates were able to prevail in 2018, despite the efforts to prevent such a result. Ultimately the site was relocated to a majority black church.

Efforts to move polling sites to hostile locations was also another discriminatory practice that had been blocked by the Section 5 review process. Without Section 5, we've seen officials attempt to move sites to intimidating locations. In 2016, the Macon-Bibb County, Georgia, Board of Elections voted to temporarily relocate a voting precinct location to the Macon-Bibb Sheriff's Office. Because of valid fears that this decision would reduce turnout among African American voters, the Lawyers' Committee worked with its local partners, the Georgia State Conference of NAACP Branches, the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda, and New Georgia Project, to organize a successful petition drive that required the Board of Elections to reverse the relocation decision under Georgia law³⁵

In certain instances, we were fortunate to have partners on the ground that alerted us to potentially discriminatory voting barriers. An effective Section 5 process would have placed the burden on these jurisdictions to have provided notice of these changes in their voting practices and policies before they took effect.

³³ See Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Hancock Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration, No. 5:15-CV-00414 (CAR), 2018 WL 1583160, at *1 (M.D. Ga. Mar. 30, 2018).

³⁴ See Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. State of Georgia, 269 F. Supp. 3d 1266 (N.D. Ga. 2017).

³⁵ Stanley Dunlap, Macon-Bibb Polling Location OK'd After Sheriff's Precinct Nixed, The Telegraph May 16, 2016, 7:27 PM, <http://www.macon.com/news/local/article77920442.html>.

Texas presents another jurisdiction which demonstrates the substantial problems caused by Shelby County in previously covered jurisdictions. In 2011, the Texas legislature passed a law, SB 14, which limited the number of identifying documents for purposes of voting to seven, all photo IDs.³⁶ Because Section 5 was in effect at the time of SB 14's passage, Texas sought pre-clearance, first from the Justice Department, which blocked the change. Then, Texas sought preclearance from the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. On August 30, 2012, a unanimous three-judge panel of that court denied Texas pre-clearance, ruling that because Black and Latinx voters would be disproportionately burdened in obtaining the required IDs compared to white voters, that SB 14 would have a retrogressive effect on these minority voters.³⁷ However, on June 27, 2013, this judgment was vacated by the Supreme Court in accordance with the ruling in Shelby two days earlier.³⁸

Texas had not even waited for the Supreme Court to act on the case. The afternoon that Shelby was decided, then Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott announced that the State would immediately implement SB 14.³⁹ Without the protections of Section 5, several civil rights groups including the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, filed suit in Texas federal court, challenging SB 14 under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The Department of Justice filed its own suit under Section 2, which was consolidated with those of the civil rights groups.⁴⁰ The parties then embarked on months of discovery, leading to a two-week trial in September 2014, where dozens of witnesses, including 16 experts – half of whom were paid for by the civil rights groups – testified.

In late 2014, the District Court ruled that SB 14 violated the “results” prong of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, because it had a discriminatory result in that Black and Hispanic voters were two to three times less likely to possess the SB 14 IDs and that it would be two to three times more burdensome for them to get the IDs than for white voters.⁴¹ The District Court's injunction against SB 14, however, was stayed pending appeal by the Fifth Circuit, so the law – now deemed to be discriminatory remained in effect. Subsequently, a three-judge panel and later an en banc panel of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, affirmed the District Court's finding. As a result, elections that took place from June 25, 2013 until the Fifth Circuit en banc opinion on July 20, 2016 took place under the discriminatory voter ID law.⁴²

Had Section 5 been enforceable, the enormous expense and effort that the civil rights groups bore would not have been necessary. More important, had Section 5 been enforceable, a law found to have been discriminatory by 14 different federal judges would never have taken effect.

³⁶ These were Texas drivers' licenses, Texas personal identification cards, United States passports, United States naturalization papers, United States military identification, Texas licenses to carry a concealed handgun, and Texas Election Identification Certificates. Tex. Elec. Code Ann. § 63.0101.

³⁷ Texas v. Holder, 888 F. Supp. 2d 113 (D.D.C. 2012).

³⁸ Texas v. Holder, 570 U.S. 928 (2013).

³⁹ See Ryan J. Reilly, Harsh Texas Voter ID Law ‘Immediately’ Takes Effect After Voting Rights Act Ruling, Huffington Post (June 25, 2013 2:04 PM), https://www.huffpost.com/entry/texas-voter-id-law_n_3497724.

⁴⁰ The suits were consolidated under Marc Veasey v. Greg Abbott, 265 F. Supp. 3d 684 (S.D. Tex. 2017).

⁴¹ Veasey v. Perry, 71 F. Supp. 3d 627, 659-77 (S.D. Tex. 2014), aff'd in part, vacated in part, remanded sub nom. Veasey v. Abbott, 796 F.3d 487 (5th Cir. 2015), on reh'g en banc, 830 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016), and aff'd in part, vacated in part, rev'd in part sub nom. Veasey v. Abbott, 830 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016).

⁴² Veasey v. Abbott, 830 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016). The district court had also found that SB 14 was enacted, at least in part, with discriminatory intent, a prerequisite of a constitutional violation, but the issue was remanded for further fact-finding. On remand, the district court reaffirmed its finding of discriminatory intent. On appeal from that ruling, the Fifth Circuit reversed, not on the merits, but because by then the Texas Legislature had enacted a new law that substantially remediated the discriminatory effects of SB 14, according to that court.

A. Enforcement of the Voting Rights Act

Since Shelby, the Department of Justice has filed only four suits alleging violations of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and only one after 2013.⁴³ By way of comparison, the Lawyers' Committee has filed thirteen such suits during that same time period.⁴⁴ Of even greater concern is that since January 20, 2017, the Department has not filed a single suit under the Voting Rights Act.⁴⁵ Again, by way of comparison, the Lawyers' Committee has filed five lawsuits under Section 2 during that same period.⁴⁶ Two of the Section 2 cases filed by the Lawyers' Committee settled relatively quickly with the establishment of majority-minority election districts in Emanuel County, Georgia and Jones County, North Carolina. The increase in work being carried out by civil rights organizations has helped provide relief for minority voters, but is no substitute for the protections provided by Section 5.⁴⁷

As shown in Appendix 2, enforcement of voting rights in the states has fallen primarily upon the shoulders of individual voters, non-profit voting rights and racial justice organizations or other non-governmental advocates. Although not all of the cases in Appendix 2 would have been avoided through the preclearance process, it is clear that states, particularly those with a well-documented history of voting discrimination, wasted no time in enacting discriminatory voting changes and implementing a whole host of barriers to the ballot box that negatively and disproportionately impacted African Americans, Latinxs, and other people of color in the wake of Shelby. Many of these cases stand as stark examples of the onerous and burdensome nature and uncertain outcome of private enforcement of our voting rights laws

⁴³ Perez v. Perry, No. SA-11-CV-360, 2014 WL 2533801, at *1 (W.D. Tex. June 5, 2014) (Texas Photo ID); United States v. Texas, No. 5:11-cv-00360(W.D. Tex.) (legislative redistricting); United States v. North Carolina, No. 13-cv-861 (M.D.N.C. Feb. 6, 2014) (state omnibus voting law); United States v. City of Eastpointe, No. 4:17-CV-10079, 2019 WL 1379974, at *1 (E.D. Mich. Mar. 27, 2019) (vote dilution).

⁴⁴ Texas State Conference of NAACP Branches v. Steen No. 2:13-cv-291 (S.D. Tex.2013) , consolidated under Veasey v. Abbott, No. 2:13-cv-00193 (NGR) (S.D. Tex. 2013)Texas Photo ID law); Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Hancock Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration, No. 5:15-CV-00414 (CAR), 2018 WL 1583160, at *1 (M.D. Ga. 2018) (voter purge); Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Registrations & Elections, No. 1:16-cv-2852-AT, 2017 BL 344388 (N.D. Ga. 2017) (vote dilution); Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Emanuel County Board of Commissioners, No. 6:16-cv-00021 (S.D. Ga. Feb 23, 2016) (creation of two majority-minority single-member districts for seven member Board of Education); Navajo Nation Human Rights Comm'n v. San Juan Cty., No. 2:16-CV-00154 JNP, 2016 WL 3079740, at *1 (D. Utah May 31, 2016), vacated (June 16, 2016) access to in-person absentee voting and language assistance); Lopez v. Abbott, 339 F. Supp. 3d 589 (S.D. Tex. 2018) (vote dilution); Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Kemp for Georgia, No. 1:17-CV-1397-TCB, 2018 WL 2271244, at *1 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (challenge to exact match process for voter registration); Alabama State Conference of NAACP v. State, 264 F. Supp. 3d 1280 (M.D. Ala. 2017) (vote dilution); Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. State, 269 F. Supp. 3d 1266 (N.D. Ga. 2017) (racial gerrymander); Hall v. Jones County Board of Commissioners, No. 4:17-cv-00018 (E.D.N.C. Feb. 13, 2017) (vote dilution); Georgia Coal. for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (challenge to new statute reinstating exact match for voters registration); Thomas v. Bryant, 366 F. Supp. 3d 786, 2019 BL 52194 (S.D. Miss. 2019) (vote dilution); MOVE Texas Civic Fund v. Whitley, No. 3:19-cv-00041 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 4, 2019) (voter purge).

⁴⁵ The last Voting Rights Act complaint filed by the United States was a vote dilution claim filed on January 10, 2017. United States v. City of Eastpointe, No. 4:17-CV-10079, 2019 WL 1379974, at *1 (E.D. Mich. 2019).

⁴⁶ Hall v. Jones County Board of Commissioners, No. 4:17-cv-00018 (E.D.N.C. Feb. 13, 2017) (vote dilution); Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. State, 269 F. Supp. 3d 1266 (N.D. Ga. 2017) (racial gerrymander); Georgia Coal. for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (challenge to new statute reinstating exact match for voter registration); Thomas v. Bryant, 366 F. Supp. 3d 786, 2019 BL 52194 (S.D. Miss. 2019)(Racial gerrymander); MOVE Texas Civic Fund v. Whitley, No. 3:19-cv-00041 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 4, 2019).

⁴⁷ Hall v. Jones County Board of Commissioners, No. 4:17-cv-00018 (E.D.N.C. Feb. 13, 2017) (creation of two single-member, majority-minority districts for seven member Board of County Commissioners); GA State Conference of the NAACP v. Emanuel County Board of Commissioners, No. 6:16-cv-00021 (S.D. Ga. Feb 23, 2016) (creation of two majority-minority single-member districts for seven member Board of Education).

that the Section 5 preclearance process and strong federal enforcement of voting rights could largely prevent or mitigate against.

Conclusion

The combination of the effective elimination of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act and lack of enforcement activity of the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department presents a perfect storm not seen since the days preceding the enactment of the momentous civil rights legislation in the 1960s. Vigilance is required to monitor and xxx the resurgence of voting rights discrimination in formerly covered jurisdictions and we urge Congress to act swiftly to restore the Voting Rights Act to help this Nation protect that most fundamental of all civil rights: the right to vote.

APPENDIX I

Examples of discriminatory voting changes that Section 5 prevented from taking effect.

Prior to the Supreme Court's decision in Shelby County v. Holder,⁴⁸ Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act prevented numerous discriminatory voting changes from taking effect. The Shelby County decision has hit African American voters particularly hard as nearly 90% of the proposed voting changes stopped by Section 5 between 1995 and 2013 involved a discriminatory purpose or effect on African American voters.⁴⁹ During that 18-year period, there were 113 denials for Section 5 preclearance, examples of which are highlighted below:⁵⁰

Redistricting Changes: Over half of the Section 5 preclearance denials were for redistricting changes, including denials of statewide redistricting plans in Arizona, Florida, Louisiana, South Carolina and Texas.

- In 1996, the Justice Department objected to Louisiana's congressional redistricting plan, concluding that with the racially polarized voting pattern in Louisiana, the proposed plan would "provide no realistic opportunity for black voters to elect a candidate of their choice outside the New Orleans area."⁵¹
- In 1997, the Justice Department objected to South Carolina's State Senate redistricting plan based on clear findings of racially polarized voting patterns.⁵²
- In 2002, the Justice Department objected to Arizona's 2001 legislative redistricting plan on the grounds that the state failed to provide sufficient evidence to show that voting was not racially polarized and failed to prove that the proposed decreased number of majority-minority districts would not be retrogressive.⁵³
- In 2011, Texas created redistricting plans for the Texas House of Representatives, the Texas Senate and the United States Congress and sought to bypass the Justice Department's preclearance process by filing suit for judicial preclearance. The three-judge panel of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia denied preclearance for all three plans, finding signs of purposeful discrimination in the State House of Representatives plan, intentional discrimination against minority voters in the Texas Senate and congressional redistricting plans. Additionally, the court concluded that the State House of Representatives and congressional redistricting plans were retrogressive.⁵⁴

Polling Place Closures and Changes

- In 2003, Bexar County in Texas announced it was planning to reduce the number of early voting polling places from 20 to 11 while awaiting the Justice Department's decision on the County's preclearance request. Among the polling place closures were five that served the predominantly-

⁴⁸ 570 U.S. 529 (2013).

⁴⁹ National Commission on Voting Rights, Protecting Minority Voters: Our Work Is Not Done 13 (2014).

⁵⁰ Id. at 57.

⁵¹ Determination Letter from Deval L. Patrick, Acting Assistant Att'y Gen., U.S. Dep't of Justice, to state of La. (Aug. 12, 1996), available at <https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2014/05/30/LA-2310.pdf>.

⁵² Determination Letter from Isabelle Katz Pinzler, Acting Assistant Att'y Gen., U.S. Dep't of Justice, to state of S.C. (Apr. 1, 1997), available at <https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2014/05/30/SC-2090.pdf>.

⁵³ Determination Letter from Ralph F. Boyd, Jr., Assistant Att'y Gen., U.S. Dep't of Justice, to state of Ariz. (May, 20 2002), available at https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2014/05/30/A_020520.pdf.

⁵⁴ Texas v. United States, 887 F. Supp. 2d 133, 138, 152, 161-162, 177 (D.D.C. 2012).

Hispanic west side of San Antonio. A civil rights organization filed a Section 5 enforcement action seeking an injunction, which was granted by a federal court to enjoin the polling place closures.⁵⁵

Voter Registration Laws:

- In response to the NVRA, in 1995 Mississippi implemented a dual registration system where voters who registered under NVRA-mandated options would only be eligible to vote in federal elections. In order to vote in state elections, eligible voters were required to re-register using state forms. Following concerns raised by the Justice Department, Mississippi refused to submit the dual registration system for Section 5 preclearance. Private plaintiffs commenced a Section 5 enforcement action that made its way to the Supreme Court, which held that Mississippi was required to obtain preclearance. The Justice Department objected to the dual registration system and Mississippi abandoned it.⁵⁶

Voter Purges:

- In 2007, Georgia implemented a computerized citizenship matching procedure that cross-checked the statewide voter registration list with citizenship information in the state's driver's license database to identify and remove noncitizens from the voter rolls. Local election officials in the state were provided with a computerized printout of potential noncitizens with instructions that they use it to review voter eligibility. This led to local election officials mailing letters to thousands of voters informing them that they would be removed from the voter registration lists unless they appeared in-person and presented proof of citizenship. In some instances, voters were given as little as a few days to do so. A private citizen, who obtained their license in April 2006, became a United States citizen in November 2007 and registered to vote in September 2008 then subsequently received letters from Cherokee County election officials, brought a Section 5 enforcement action because Georgia had not submitted the new procedure for preclearance. A federal court in Georgia enjoined the State from using the procedure until preclearance was obtained and ordered the State to take steps to remedy its prior unauthorized use of the procedure. In May 2009, the Justice Department interposed a Section 5 objection to Georgia's procedure noting that it subjects minority voters to additional and erroneous burdens on the right to vote.⁵⁷

⁵⁵ Order Granting Plaintiff's Application for a Temporary Restraining Order at 1-3, 6 Miguel Hernandez Chapter of the Am. GI Forum v. Bexar Cty., No. 5:03-cv-00816 (W.D. Tex. 2003), available at http://www.clearinghouse.net/chDocs/not_public/VR-TX-0420-0002.pdf; Testimony of Nina Perales, Reg'l Counsel, Mexican Am. Legal Def. & Educ. Fund, Southwest Regional Hearing 51 (Apr. 7, 2005) (on file with the Lawyers' Committee).

⁵⁶ Young v. Fordice, 520 U.S. 273, 291 (1997);

Determination Letter from Isabelle Katz Pinzler, Acting Assistant Att'y Gen., U.S. Dep't of Justice, to State of Mississippi (Sept. 22, 1997), available at <https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2014/05/30/MS-2650.pdf>.

⁵⁷ See Determination Letter from Loretta King, Acting Assistant Att'y Gen., U.S. Dep't of Justice, to State of Georgia (May 29, 2009), available at <https://www.justice.gov/crt/voting-determination-letter-58>; Complaint at ¶¶ 33-40, Morales v. Handel, No. 1:08-cv-3172 (N.D. Ga. October 9, 2008); See also Morales v. Handel, No. 1:08-CV-3172, 2008 WL 9401054 (N.D. Ga. Oct. 27, 2008).

APPENDIX 2

Alabama

Challenge to At-Large Elections for Judicial Candidates that Dilute the Voting Strength of Black Voters

Alabama State Conference of NAACP v. Alabama*, 264 F. Supp. 3d 1280 (M.D. Ala. 2017): On September 7, 2016, Plaintiffs filed a vote dilution lawsuit under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act (VRA) in the Middle District of Alabama challenging the state's at-large method of electing justices and judges of the Alabama Supreme Court, the Court of Criminal Appeals, and the Court of Civil Appeals. Defendants filed a motion to dismiss; the District Court denied the motion. The case was tried in November 2018 and the parties are awaiting a decision.

Lawsuit Challenging Alabama's Discriminatory Photo ID Law

Greater Birmingham Ministries v. Merrill*, Case No. 2:15-cv-02193-LSC (N.D. Ala 2015): On December 2, 2015, advocates filed a lawsuit in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama challenging Alabama's photo ID law under Section 2 of the VRA and the United States Constitution. Plaintiffs contend the photo ID law violates 1) Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act because it abridges or denies the right to vote on account of race, color, or language minority status, 2) violates the prohibition on tests or devices for voting under the VRA, and 3) violates the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments because it was purposefully enacted to deny or abridge the right to vote on account of race or color. On January 10, 2018, the Court granted summary judgment in favor of the Alabama Secretary of State and dismissed the lawsuit.⁵⁸ The Plaintiffs' appeal is pending.

Voters Challenge Alabama's Congressional Map that Dilutes the Voting Strength of Black Voters

Chestnut v. Merrill*, No. 2:18-CV-00907 (N.D. Ala. Mar. 27, 2019): In June of 2018, eight Alabama voters filed a federal lawsuit alleging that Alabama's 2011 congressional map violates Section 2 of the VRA. Plaintiffs allege the map packs African-American voters into Alabama's Seventh Congressional District and significantly cracks African-American voters between three other congressional districts, with the effect of diluting African-American voting strength. The suit alleges that the African-American population in the three "cracked" congressional districts is sufficient to form a second majority-minority district. On March 27, 2019, the court partially granted the Defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings, concluding that Plaintiffs' demand for affirmative relief is barred by the doctrine of laches, but denied the motion as to Plaintiffs' demand for declaratory relief (i.e., a declaration determining the maps violate Section 2). The case is currently scheduled for trial later this year.

⁵⁸ Greater Birmingham Ministries v. Merrill, 284 F.Supp.3d 1253 (N.D. Ala. 2018).

Voters Challenge Alabama's Felony Disenfranchisement Law

Thompson v. Merrill, Civil Action No. 2:16-cv-783-WKW-CSC (M.D.Ala. 2016): In 2016, Alabama voters filed suit challenging Alabama's felony disenfranchisement law which they allege is intentionally racially discriminatory and leads to arbitrary and unconstitutional disenfranchisement of citizens in violation of the United States Constitution and Section 2 of the VRA. Plaintiffs also argue that broad felon disenfranchisement is not sanctioned by the Fourteenth Amendment's "rebellion or other crime" language and that the Constitution supports, at most, very limited disenfranchisement of voting-related offenses. The case is pending.

Alaska

Lawsuit Successfully Challenged Alaska's Failure to Provide Language Assistance to Yup'ik and Gwich'in Speaking, Limited English Proficient Voters

Toyukak v. Treadwell, No. 3:13-cv-00137-SLG (D. Alaska June 24, 2014): Voters and tribal councils filed suit challenging the failure of state and local officials to provide language assistance to Yup'ik and Gwich'in speaking, limited English proficient voters under Section 203 of the VRA and the United States Constitution. After prevailing on their Section 203 claim at trial, the Court ordered comprehensive remedies for the 2014 election cycle and, in 2015, the parties entered into a settlement that included additional language assistance reforms in the state.

Arizona

Maricopa County, Arizona Sued Post-Shelby Due to Election Administration Problems caused by Polling Place Consolidations

Huerena v. Reagan, Superior Court of Arizona, Maricopa County, CV2016-07890: This lawsuit challenged the reduction of polling places in Maricopa County after severe cut-backs disenfranchised voters in the 2016 presidential preference primary because of extremely long lines, hours-long wait-times and a host of election administration problems. Maricopa County is Arizona's most populous county and was a covered jurisdiction under Section 5 of the VRA with approximately 60 percent of the state's minority voters residing in the county. As a result of the Shelby decision, Maricopa County was no longer required to preclear polling place changes. As a result, in February 2016 the county slashed the total number of polls from 211 in 2012 to only 60 in 2016. With this reduction, there was approximately one polling place for every 21,000 voters in Maricopa County as compared to one polling place for every 1,500 voters in the rest of the state. The parties settled the case with an agreement that required Maricopa County to create a comprehensive wait-time reduction plan and a mechanism to address wait times at the polls that exceed 30 minutes.

Arizona Secretary of State Sued to Enjoin the State's Two-Tier Voter Registration Process

League of United Latin Am. Citizens Arizona v. Reagan*, No. CV17-4102 PHX DGC, 2018 WL 5983009 (D. Ariz. Nov. 14, 2018): Arizona created a two-tier voter registration process in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision in ITCA v. Arizona, which held that Arizona's documentary proof of citizenship requirement was preempted by the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA) as applied to federal elections. Confusion ensued when the state limited voters using the federal form to voting in federal elections, even if the state had information in its possession confirming the applicant was a United States citizen. Plaintiffs argued that the state's two-tier registration process constituted an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote. The parties settled the matter with an agreement that allows the state to continue to require proof of citizenship to register to vote in state elections, but requires the state to treat federal and state registration forms the same and to check motor vehicle databases for citizenship documentation before limiting users of the federal registration form to voting in federal elections.

State Court Challenge to the Redistricting of the Maricopa County Community College District Which Added Two At-Large Seats to the Board

Gallardo v. State*, 236 Ariz. 84 (Ariz. 2014): Elected officials and voters filed suit in December 2013 in Arizona state court challenging the method used for electing the Governing Board of the Maricopa County Community College District. In 2010, the Arizona Legislature enacted H.B. 2261 requiring that two at-large seats be added to the Governing Board, increasing the size of the Board from five to seven. The pre-existing five members of the Board were elected from single-member districts. As a result, H.B. 2261 established a new method of election consisting of five members elected from single-member districts and two elected at large. The lawsuit alleged that H.B. 2261 violated the Arizona State Constitution because the statute effectively only applies to the Maricopa County District, and does not apply to any of the other community college districts in the state. The suit alleged that H.B. 2261 violates the state Constitution's prohibition against local or special laws and the Constitution's privileges and immunities clause.

When H.B. 2261 was enacted, Arizona was required by Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act to obtain preclearance for its voting changes. The State submitted this legislation to the U.S. Department of Justice for review, and the DOJ responded by sending a written request for additional information noting concerns as to whether the addition of two at-large seats would discriminate against the District's minority residents. Instead of providing the requested information, the State set the legislation aside and did not seek to implement it. However, as a result of the Supreme Court's decision in June 2013 in Shelby County v. Holder, Arizona was no longer covered by Section 5 and thus was not required to obtain preclearance to implement H.B. 2261. As a result, after Shelby County was decided, local election officials began preparations to fill the two new at-large seats in the November 2014 election.

Shortly after suit was filed, the constitutionality of H.B. 2261 was presented to the Arizona superior court for decision and, on March 27, 2014, the court ruled in favor of the defendants. Plaintiffs appealed and on April 23, 2014, one day after oral argument, the Arizona Court of Appeals held that H.B. 2261 is a special law that violates the Arizona Constitution. Defendants then appealed and, on August 26, 2014, the Arizona Supreme Court issued a minute order vacating the ruling by the Arizona Court of Appeals. In the November 2014 election, the two new at-large seats were filled. A Latino candidate ran but finished third, and thus was defeated.

Voters, Political Party and Candidate Filed Suits Challenging Arizona’s Criminalization of the Collection of Absentee Ballots by Persons other than the Voter and Restrictions on Out of Precinct Voting

Democratic National Committee v. Reagan CV-16-01065 (D.Az. 2016): The Plaintiffs allege that Arizona’s criminalization of the collection of valid absentee ballots by persons other than the voter and the state’s restrictions on out of precinct voting violate Section 2 of the VRA and Constitution. Plaintiffs did not prevail at trial or before a panel of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. However, in January 2019, the Ninth Circuit granted a rehearing en banc and the case remains pending at this time.

California

Successful Section 2 Vote Dilution Lawsuit on Behalf of Latino Voters Challenging the Districting Plan for the Five Member Kern County Board of Supervisors

Luna v. County of Kern, 291 F.Supp. 3d 1088 (E.D. Cal. 2018): This was an action brought pursuant to Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act on behalf of Latino voters in Kern County, California, in which Plaintiffs alleged that the districting plan under which the five members of the Kern County Board of Supervisors were elected deprived Latino voters an equal opportunity to elect candidates of their choice. After the District Court found in favor of the Plaintiffs at trial, the parties agreed to a settlement which provided for a new districting plan with ability to elect majority-Latino districts and an award of $3 million dollars in attorneys’ fees and costs to plaintiffs’ counsel.

Connecticut

NAACP Challenged “Prison Gerrymandering” of Connecticut Legislative Districts

NAACP v. Merrill, No: 3:18-cv-01094 (D. Conn. 2018): In June 2018, the NAACP, the NAACP Connecticut State Conference and five Connecticut NAACP members, filed suit contending that Connecticut’s 2011 state legislative maps violate the “one person, one vote” principle of the Fourteenth Amendment because of unlawful prison gerrymandering, i.e., counting incarcerated individuals as residents of the district in which they are imprisoned rather than at their home addresses for the purpose of drawing state legislative districts. Plaintiffs argue that this practice dilutes the voting power of the predominantly African American and Latino prisoners’ home communities. Defendants’ motion to dismiss was denied in February 2019 and the state has appealed that decision.

Florida

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Challenge Florida's Arbitrary Standards for Restoring the Voting Rights of Returning Citizens

Hand v. Scott*, 315 F. Supp. 3d 1244 (N.D. Fla. 2018): Advocates filed a class action lawsuit that sought to automatically restore the voting rights of returning citizens and eliminate Florida's arbitrary petition process for re-enfranchisement. The case cited the lack of any rules governing the Executive Clemency Board, which grants or denies former felons' petitions for re-enfranchisement, as arbitrary treatment in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments. The case was filed in March 2017, and the Plaintiffs obtained a preliminary injunction in March 2018 that required the Executive Clemency Board to establish a new re-enfranchisement process by April 26, 2018. Defendants appealed to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals, and on April 25, 2018, the court granted then Governor Scott's request to stay the order requiring him to establish a new re-enfranchisement process.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenge Florida's Congressional District Maps in State Court

League of Women Voters of Fla. v. Detzner*, 179 So. 3d 258 (Fla. 2015): State-court litigation was filed by good-government groups over concerns that Florida's congressional maps were unconstitutional under state law. The Circuit Court agreed and found that congressional districts five and ten were unconstitutional and had to be redrawn. The legislature enacted new maps, and the Court did not object to the new maps. Plaintiffs appealed the decision after the Florida Legislature enacted the new maps and requested certification to the Florida Supreme Court. The district court of appeals granted certification to the Florida Supreme Court, and it accepted jurisdiction. The NAACP intervened to defend African American opportunity districts that were threatened. Other civil rights advocates filed an amicus brief to inform the Court about concerns over the reduction of District Nine's Latino population. Both the NAACP and amici have focused on protections offered by the Fair Districts Amendment under Florida's Constitution. The Florida Supreme Court ruled that the maps are unconstitutional and ordered the legislature to redraw several congressional districts.

Voters Filed Suit against the Florida Secretary of State and 32 Counties Due to Their Failure to Provide Adequate Language Assistance to Puerto Rican Voters under the Voting Rights Act

Madera v. Detzner*, No. 1:18-CV-152-MW/GRJ (N.D. Fla. 2018): After Hurricane Maria devastated Puerto Rico, an estimated 160,000 people fled to Florida, joining over half a million people who left Puerto Rico in the past decade because of the island's economic crisis. As a result, Florida's Puerto Rican population now totals over one million. Section 4(e) of the VRA requires the provision of bilingual voting materials and assistance for Puerto Rican-educated, limited English proficiency voters. After advocates were unable to informally obtain compliance by sending letters about these requirements to election officials, they filed a lawsuit against the Florida Secretary of State and 32 Florida counties to compel compliance with Section 4(e). On September 7, 2018, the district court ordered the Secretary of State to issue instructions to the 32 counties, requiring them to provide Spanish-language sample ballots at polling places, on county websites, and by mail to guide voters in marking their ballots, and to publicize the availability of these sample ballots and instructions on how to use them. On May 10, 2019, the District Court issued an order requiring Florida's Secretary of State and the Supervisors of Elections in the 32

Florida counties take further action to comply with Section 4(e) of the VRA. Specifically, the order requires the Secretary of State to ensure that those 32 counties provide 1) official ballots in both Spanish and English, 2) Spanish language election assistance, and, 3) Spanish translations of other voting materials for elections beginning with the 2020 presidential primary election. The case remains pending.

Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Organized Campaign to Pass Amendment Automatically Restoring Rights to Returning Citizens, but the Florida Legislature Made Efforts to Undermine its Implementation

Advocates invested significant resources to support a ballot initiative (Amendment 4) that restored voting rights to individuals with felony records upon completion of their sentences. Despite the fact that Amendment 4 was designed to be self-implementing, the Florida enacted laws in 2019 that will require returning citizens to satisfy fines and fees before becoming eligible to register to vote. In addition, in the wake of this successful ballot initiative, Florida also enacted legislation making it more difficult for proponents of ballot initiatives to be successful in the future.

Georgia

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Challenge Georgia’s “Exact Match” Law Which Disproportionately Disenfranchises African American, Latino and Asian American Voters

Georgia Coal. for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018): On October 11, 2018, a coalition of civil rights organizations filed suit in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia, against then Georgia Secretary of State, Brian Kemp, alleging that Georgia’s “exact match” voter registration process, which requires information on voter registration forms to exactly match information about the applicant on Social Security Administration (SSA) or the state’s Department of Driver’s Services (DDS) databases, violates Section 2 of the VRA, the NVRA, and imposes an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments. Under the “exact match” process, more than 53,000 applicants were in “pending” status in 2018 because the information on their voter registration applications did not exactly match the DDS or SSA database information or because the process inaccurately flagged United States citizens as potential non-citizens. On November 2, 2018, the Court partially granted Plaintiffs’ motion for preliminary relief, ordering that Georgians inaccurately flagged as non-citizens could vote a regular ballot if they provided proof of citizenship to a poll manager, rather than a deputy registrar, when voting at the polls for the first time. The Georgia legislature subsequently amended the “exact match” law in 2019 to permit applicants who fail the “exact match” process for reasons of identity to become active voters, but the Legislature chose not to enact any remedial legislation to reform the “exact match” process that continues to inaccurately flags United States citizens as non-citizens. The litigation is still pending.

Voters and Advocates Successfully Challenged Georgia’s Rejection of Absentee Ballots Based upon Alleged Signature Matching and Immaterial Errors or Omissions

Martin v. Kemp, No. 18-14503-GG (N.D. Ga. 2018): On October 23, 2018, civil rights organizations joined lawsuits challenging the state’s practices of 1) rejecting of absentee ballots based upon election officials’ untrained conclusion that the voter’s signature on the absentee ballot envelope did not match the voter’s signature on file with the registrar’s office, and 2) rejecting absentee ballots for immaterial errors or omissions on the ballot envelope. Georgia had an extraordinarily high rate of absentee ballot rejections generally, but the rejection rate in Gwinnett County was almost 3 times that of the state and absentee ballots cast by voters of color were rejected by Gwinnett County at a rate between 2 and 4 times the rejection rate of absentee ballots cast by white voters. Plaintiffs were granted preliminary relief before the November 2018 mid-term election. Subsequently, Georgia enacted remedial legislation and the lawsuits were voluntarily dismissed in 2019.

Successful Legal Challenge to Georgia's Runoff Election Scheme in Federal Elections

Georgia State Conference NAACP v. Georgia*, No. 1:17-CV-1397-TCB (N.D. Ga. May 4, 2017): This case challenged Georgia's runoff election voter registration scheme as a violation of the National Voter Registration Act ("NVRA"). Under Georgia law, eligible Georgians were required to register to vote on the fifth Monday before a general or primary election in order to be eligible to vote in a runoff election if no candidate received a majority of the vote. The runoff election would generally be held about two months after the general or primary election. As a result, Georgians would be required to register to vote approximately three months before a runoff election in order to participate in that election. Under Section 8 of the NVRA (52 U.S.C. § 20507(a)(1)), states are prohibited from setting voter registration deadlines in excess of thirty days before a federal election. Thus, Georgia's runoff election voter registration scheme violated this provision of the NVRA and the District Court granted a preliminary injunction enjoining the state from using the longer deadline ahead of the Georgia Sixth Congressional Runoff Election in June 2017. Subsequently, the parties settled the matter with the Secretary of State agreeing not to enforce a voter registration deadline that violated Section 8 of the NVRA.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Challenged Georgia's Mid-Decade Redistricting of Two Legislative Districts Targeting African-American Communities

Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Georgia*, No. 1:17-CV-1427 (N.D. Ga. 2017) and Thompson v. Kemp, 1:17-cv-03856-TCB (N.D. Ga. 2017): Voters and advocates filed two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia, challenging the State legislature's post-Shelby 2015 redistricting of two legislative districts as racial and partisan gerrymanders. The Plaintiffs alleged the legislature targeted African American population in drawing the districting plans to increase the electoral advantage of white Republicans as the districts were becoming more competitive for Black Democrats. The Thompson Plaintiffs' suit also alleged a claim under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. After African American candidates were elected to seats in both of the challenged districts in November 2018, the parties agreed to voluntary dismissals of the actions.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged Hancock County's Illegal Purge of 53 Voters, Mostly Black, from the Voter Rolls

Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Hancock Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration*, No. 5:15-CV-00414 (CAR) (M.D. Ga. 2015): Plaintiffs filed this action on November 3, 2015 in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Georgia, challenging the removal of 53 voters, who were almost all African Americans, from the voter rolls of a small, predominately Black county prior to a hotly contested election in Sparta in which white candidates successfully ran for seats on the City Council for the first time in decades. The case was brought under Section 2 of the VRA and Section 8 of the NVRA. The district court directed Defendants to restore qualified purged voters to the registration rolls or show cause why they would not do so. As a result, 17 voters were restored to the rolls; two others would have been restored, but had died in the interim; and eight voters were placed into inactive status, but remained eligible to vote by producing proof of their residency when requesting a ballot. The parties subsequently mediated the case, which resulted in a settlement in which the Defendants agreed to comply with the NVRA before removing anyone from the voter rolls and to be subject to monitoring by a court appointed examiner. On March 30, 2018, the Court granted the parties' Joint Motion for Entry of Consent Decree and awarded Plaintiffs' fees and expenses. Compliance with the Consent Decree is being actively monitored by the Court appointed examiner.

Vote Dilution Lawsuit Challenged the Districting Plans for the Gwinnett County Board of County Commissioners and School Board

Ga. State Conference of the NAACP v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Registrations & Elections, No: 1:16-cv-02852 (N.D. Ga. 2016): Plaintiffs filed a vote dilution suit under Section 2 of the VRA challenging the districting plans for the County Board of Commissioners and Board of Education. At the time the lawsuit was filed, no African American, Latino or Asian American candidates had ever won election to these boards, despite the fact that Gwinnett County is considered to be one of the most racially diverse counties in the Southeastern United States. After two long-term incumbents chose not to run for re-election to the School Board in the 2018 mid-term election, and with the minority population of the county continuing to grow, African American and Asian American candidates were finally elected to the County Commission and an African American candidate was elected to the School Board for the first time in the county's history. Following these electoral successes, the parties agreed to a voluntary dismissal of the litigation.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged Sumter County’s Reduction of Board of Education and Creation of At-Large Seats Diluting Strength of Black Voters

Wright v. Sumter Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration*, 301 F. Supp. 3d 1297 (M.D. Ga. 2018): Sumter County adopted a districting plan for the Board of Education that switched from 9 single-member districts to a total of seven districts, five of which are single-member and two are at-large. This case presents the precise factual scenario that advocates worried about after Shelby County: that local jurisdictions would move from district-based elections where minority voters have an opportunity to elect their preferred candidates, to an arrangement where some or all seats are chosen by the jurisdiction as a whole, which is majority white. Black residents comprise about 48 percent of the voting age population in Sumter County, but are packed into two of the five single-member districts. As a result, they can elect representatives of their choice for only two of the seven seats. In March 2018, the District Court ruled that the current at-large method of voting for the county’s public education school board members disproportionately favored the white majority candidates over the black minority preferred candidates. The court ordered Sumter County to re-draw the district lines to give African Americans the ability to elect candidates of their choice to the Board of Education.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Challenged Crisp County’s At-Large Voting System that Diluted the Voting Strength of Black Voters

Whitest v. Crisp Cty. Bd. of Education, No. 1:17-cv-00109* (M.D. Ga. filed June 14, 2017): In July 2017, advocates brought a Section 2 challenge in the Middle District of Georgia to the at-large method of electing members to the Board of Education in Crisp County, Georgia. No Black candidate has ever won a contested seat on the board, and a data analysis on election history has shown voting to be statistically racially polarized. The case is still pending.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged a Georgia Law Restricting Rights of Limited English Proficient Voters to Obtain Assistance at the Polls

Kwon v. Crittenden, 1:18-cv-05405-TCB* (N.D.Ga. 2018): In 2018, advocates successfully challenged Section 21-2-409 of the Georgia Code under Section 208 of the Voting Rights Act. The Georgia law restricted the rights of limited English proficient (LEP) voters to obtain the assistance of interpreters or assisters of their choice. The statute limited an LEP voter, in non-federal elections, to the assistance of only either (1) a voter in the same precinct, or (2) one of certain statutorily-prescribed family members. The statute also provided that no person was allowed to assist more than 10 voters and that no candidate or family member of a candidate in any particular election could offer assistance to a voter in that election who is not a family member. After obtaining a preliminary injunction enjoining enforcement of the law, the Georgia General Assembly amended the law in 2019 to conform to the federal law.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates File Suit Challenging Systemic Voter Suppression in Georgia

Ebenezer Baptist Church of Atlanta, Georgia, Inc. v. Raffensperger, 1:18-cv-05391-SCJ: Fair Fight Georgia, Inc., Care in Action and several Black Churches filed suit challenging systemic voter suppression in Georgia under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and the Constitution. In May 2019 the District Court granted in part and denied in part Defendants' motion to dismiss. The case remains pending.

Voters Challenge the Failure of the Georgia General Assembly to Draw a Congressional District in Central and Southeast Georgia to Provide African Americans an Equal Opportunity to Elect Candidates of their Choice

Dwight v. Kemp, 1:18-cv-02869-JPB (N.D. Ga. 2018): This is a vote dilution lawsuit that was filed on June 13, 2018 by six African American Georgia voters under Section 2 of the VRA. The lawsuit challenges the Georgia General Assembly's failure to draw a congressional district in central and southeast Georgia, where the 12th Congressional District (CD 12) is currently located, that would provide African Americans in that region an equal opportunity elect their preferred candidates. On May 1, 2019, the Plaintiffs filed a motion for summary judgment and that motion is currently pending in the District Court.

Voting Rights Advocates Fight Precinct Closures and Efforts to Reduce Voting Hours in the Wake of Shelby County

Pre-litigation advocacy has been ongoing in a number of Georgia jurisdictions which have proposed the closure and relocation of polling places and have made efforts to reduce or curtail early voting and poll hours, which in many instances adversely impact voters of color. These include:

- 1) Macon-Bibb County, where in January 2015, the majority white Macon-Bibb Board of Elections and Registration proposed a plan to close or consolidate 14 of the county's 40 voting precincts as an alleged cost-savings device. Many of the proposed closures were in majority-Black precincts. In the wake of strong opposition to the plan by voters and voting rights advocates, the Board scaled back the plan by consolidating 7 of the 40 voting precincts and including a majority-White precinct as among the consolidated precincts.

- 2) Hancock County, where in May 2014, the Hancock County Board of Elections and Registration announced that it was planning to close all precincts except a single precinct located in downtown Sparta. The plan presented a travel burden for voters living in the majority African American precincts in a mostly poor and rural County, particularly since the County does not have a robust public transportation system. The Board abandoned the plan following public outcry and threats of potential litigation by advocates.

- 3) In September 2018, advocates, working with local groups, were able to reverse a decision by the Randolph County Board of Elections to close 7 out of 9 polling places, several of which were in predominantly African American precincts. However, it appears that the Board of Elections may be planning to again consider polling place closures and consolidations in 2019, notwithstanding overwhelming objection by the county's voters, local and national advocates.

4) In 2018, the City of Fairburn, Georgia proposed closing 2 of its 3 polling locations, despite the fact this proposal would have increased the number of minority voters in the single remaining polling location to almost 8,000 and after the city had previously increased the number of polling locations from 1 to 3 because of complaints by voters about long lines and delays at the polls. Advocates submitted written objections and in the face of strong opposition by voters, the proposal did not pass.

5) During 2017-2018, Fulton County, Georgia proposed numerous precinct consolidations and polling location changes. Advocates and voters objected to many of these changes. The County has often claimed that it needs to close or consolidate poll locations to save money because of alleged low turn-out since 2008 and 2012 - which were high watermarks for voter turn-out in many of Georgia's minority communities because Barak Obama was on the ticket. In some cases, the alleged low turnout in the majority-minority precincts was on par with or above turnout at other polling locations that were not being proposed for closure or consolidation. Rapid response advocacy efforts were successful in convincing the Fulton County Board of Elections to back down from some, but not all, of the closures, consolidations and relocations.

6) During 2017-2018, the Morgan County elections board proposed closing 2 of the 7 voting precincts/polling places after having previously reduced the number from 11 to 7 in 2012. The county Board of Elections initially took the position that it was not required to allow public comment on the proposal or conduct this change via an open meeting. Ultimately, the proposal failed to pass after objections were interposed by advocates and voters.

7) In 2017, the Fayette County Board of Elections proposed reducing its 36 voting precincts to 19. The proposal would have negatively impacted many minority voters and would have increased the number of voters in the remaining precincts by 45%. After advocates submitted written objections and voters turned out at the Election Board meeting to voice their objections, the Board tabled the proposal. This is the same county which was the subject of a successful vote dilution lawsuit brought under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund involving the County Commission and School Board.

8) In 2013, advocates persuaded election officials in Baker County, Georgia to keep open all five of its polling places (rather than close four of them) in that impoverished, rural community.

9) In 2018, voting rights advocates fought against efforts to reduce Sunday voting in Fulton County and the hours to vote in Atlanta.

Kansas

Kansas' Documentary Proof-of-Citizenship Requirement for Voter Registration Struck Down as Violative of the Constitution and the National Voter Registration Act

Fish v. Kobach*, 309 F.Supp. 3d 1048 (D.Kan. 2018): After Kansas' then Secretary of State, Kris Kobach, refused to fully process thousands of voter registration applications without documentary proof-of-citizenship, voter registration applicants impacted by the policy sued Kobach, contending that the state's documentary proof of citizenship requirement violated Section 5 of the NVRA and violated the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. In June 2018 the District Court struck down

Kansas' proof-of-citizenship law, finding that it violated the NVRA and the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.⁵⁹

Voters Were Forced to File Suit Challenging the Relocation of Dodge City, Kansas' Sole Polling Place out of the City to Disadvantage Minority Voters

Rangel-Lopez v. Cox*, 344 F. Supp. 3d 1285, 1287 (D. Kan. 2018): Voters filed suit alleging claims under Section 2 of the VRA and the Constitution challenging the decision to move the sole polling place in Dodge City, Kansas, one of the few majority-minority cities in the state, from a centrally located facility to a location outside of the city. While the court declined to grant plaintiffs' motion for emergency relief to reopen the polling place within the city for the 2018 general election, the county clerk later agreed to open two new voting sites within the city for future elections and the plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the lawsuit.

Louisiana

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged Louisiana's At-Large Method of Electing Judges That Diluted Voting Rights of Black Voters

Terrebonne Par. Branch NAACP v. Jindal*, 274 F. Supp. 3d 395 (M.D. La. 2017), appeal dismissed sub nom. Fusilier v. Edwards, No. 17-30756, 2017 WL 8236034 (5th Cir. Nov. 14, 2017), and reconsideration denied, No. CV 14-69-SDD-EWD, 2018 WL 5786215 (M.D. La. Nov. 5, 2018): Voters and advocates filed suit under Section 2 of the VRA and the U.S. Constitution challenging Louisiana's at-large method of electing judges. Plaintiffs contended the system maintained a racially segregated state court ("32nd JDC") which had jurisdiction over Terrebonne Parish. A Black candidate had never won election to this court in a contested election. Meanwhile, a judge on the court was suspended for wearing blackface, an orange prison jumpsuit, handcuffs, and an afro wig to a Halloween party as part of his offensive parody of a Black prison inmate. In August 2017, following a trial on the merits, the court ruled that the at-large electoral scheme deprived Black voters an equal opportunity to elect candidates of their choice in violation of Section 2 of the VRA and that the scheme had been maintained for that purpose in violation of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution. The Defendant's appeal to the Fifth Circuit was dismissed. On June 3, 2019, the assigned Magistrate Judge issued a report making recommendations for remedial relief. The case remains pending.

⁵⁹ Kansas voters also filed a state court challenge to a two-tier voter registration system adopted by Kobach which purported to limit persons using the federal voter registration form to voting in federal elections, but not in state or local elections. See Belenky v. Kobach, Case No. 2013CV1331 (District Court of Shawnee County, KS 2013).

Voting Rights Advocates Commence Litigation to Challenge the Constitutionality of Louisiana’s Disenfranchisement of Probationers and Parolees

VOTE v. Louisiana*, No: 2017-CA-1141 (1st Cir. La. App. Ct. Apr. 13, 2018): Voting advocates filed suit in state court challenging the constitutionality of a Louisiana law that disenfranchises more than 71,000 probationers and parolees who are not incarcerated, but are nevertheless prohibited from voting. Plaintiffs contend that the law violates Louisiana’s Constitutional Right to Vote provision, which denies the franchise to those under an “order of imprisonment for a felony conviction.” In March 2017, the trial court granted summary judgment to the State and this decision was upheld by the Court of Appeals. On October 30, 2018, the Louisiana Supreme Court, over a powerful dissent by Louisiana Supreme Court Chief Justice Bernette Johnson, denied review.

African American Voters in Baton Rouge Challenged the Method of Electing Judges to the Baton Rouge City Court under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act

Hall v. State of Louisiana*, 3:12-cv-00657-BAJ-RLB (M.D.La. 2012): This action was brought by African-American voters in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, to challenge the method of election for judges to the Baton Rouge City Court. Plaintiffs claimed that the election system violates Section 2 of the VRA because it dilutes African-American voting strength in the city. Since 1993, the City Court’s five judges had been elected from two separate districts, called Election Sections. Section 1 was majority black in population and elects two judges, while Section 2 is majority white and elects three judges. Baton Rouge has experienced a change in the racial composition of its population since 1993, with African Americans now constituting a majority. Nonetheless, white voters continued to control the election of 60 percent of the judges in the context of racially polarized voting in judgeship elections and other local electoral factors. Efforts in the state legislature to modify the election system to reflect African Americans’ current voting strength have failed.

Trial began in August 2014 and, after a recess of several months, concluded on November 19, 2014. Plaintiffs presented extensive evidence regarding the difficulties African-American voters face in winning judicial elections in the majority-white election section, including the ongoing pattern of polarized voting, Louisiana’s long history of discrimination in voting and other spheres, and the substantial socioeconomic disparities between the city’s African-American and white residents. Plaintiffs also presented evidence that an additional majority-Black district could be drawn to allow African Americans a fair opportunity to elect an additional candidate of their choice. On June 9, 2015, the District Court ruled in favor of Defendants. Before Plaintiffs had an opportunity to appeal, however, the Louisiana legislature passed a new judicial districting plan which met most of Plaintiffs’ concerns, and Plaintiffs moved for an order that the Section 2 claims had been rendered moot and that the judgment in favor of defendants be vacated. The trial court agreed that the Section 2 claims were moot, but declined to vacate its judgment. On March 13, 2018, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the District Court’s decision not to vacate the judgment even though Plaintiffs’ claims were rendered moot by the remedial legislation.

African American Louisiana Voters Challenge the State's Congressional Districting Plan under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act

Johnson v. Ardoin, Civil Action No. 18-625-SDD-EWD (M.D.La. 2018): This is a vote dilution action brought under Section 2 of the VRA by African American voters who allege that the Louisiana Legislature intentionally “packed” African-American voters into the Second Congressional District and diluted, or “cracked,” African-American voters among the other districts in the 2011 Congressional Plan when they could have created an additional majority-minority Congressional District. On May 31, 2019, the District Court denied Defendant’s motion to dismiss. The case remains pending.

Massachusetts

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged the Lowell, Massachusetts At-Large Voting System that Dilutes the Strength of Latino and Asian American Voters

Huot v. City of Lowell, No: 1:17-cv-10895 (D. Mass. 2017): Plaintiffs filed suit on May 18, 2017 alleging the City of Lowell’s at-large municipal election system illegally diluted the vote of Latino and Asian American communities in violation of the VRA and Constitution. Although communities of color make up about half of Lowell’s population, its city council and school board have virtually never had minority representatives. The case was ultimately settled in 2019, with Defendants agreeing to change the election system to either a purely district-based system or a hybrid system with districts and at-large ranked choice voting. The city is currently planning a public process to receive community input and planning a comprehensive public education and outreach campaign.

Michigan

Department of Justice Challenges the At-Large Method of Electing Members to the Eastpoint, Michigan City Council

United States v. City of Eastpointe, 4:17-cv-10079 (E.D.Mich. 2017): In one of the very few voting rights enforcement actions taken by the Department of Justice in recent years, the DOJ filed suit against the City of Eastpoint, Michigan, challenging its at-large method of electing members of the city council. DOJ contended that the at-large method of election diluted the voting strength of African American voters in the city. On March 27, 2019, the District Court denied the Defendant’s motion for summary judgment. On June 4 2019, the parties reached a settlement in which the city will be one of the first cities in Michigan to implement ranked choice voting in city council elections.

Mississippi

State Senate Candidate and Voters Commenced Litigation Challenging the Boundary Lines of Majority-Black Mississippi Senate District 22

Thomas v. Bryant, 919 F.3d 298 (5th Cir. 2019): On July 9, 2018, Black Mississippi voters filed a Section 2 of the VRA vote dilution lawsuit challenging the districting plan for Mississippi State Senate District 22. Plaintiffs contend that the plan dilutes the voting strength of Black voters and, combined with racially polarized voting, prevents them from electing candidates of their choice to the Senate District 22 seat. Plaintiffs prevailed at trial and Defendant has filed an appeal to the Fifth Circuit. Oral argument before the Fifth Circuit was held on June 11, 2019. The case remains pending.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Challenge Mississippi’s Requirement that Absentee Ballots and Applications Must Be Notarized

O’Neil v. Hosemann*, No: 3:18-cv-00815 (S.D. Miss. Nov. 27, 2018): On November 21, 2018, Plaintiffs filed a complaint challenging, on federal constitutional right to vote grounds, Mississippi’s unique combination of requiring notarization of both the absentee ballot application and the ballot itself, together with a deadline of receipt of the ballot the day before election day. Plaintiffs also sought emergency relief to compel the counting of ballots post-marked by election day (November 27) in the senatorial run-off, where voters had only 9 days – including Thanksgiving weekend – to apply for, obtain, and cast their absentee ballots. The court denied relief on November 27, 2019 on grounds that it was too close to the election to order relief. The case is still pending.

Mississippi’s Felony Disenfranchisement Law is Challenged in Two Federal Lawsuits

Harness v. Hosemann*, Civil Action No. 3:17-cv-791-DPJ-FKB (S.D.Miss. 2017) and Hopkins, et al. v. Hosemann, Civil Action No. 3:18-cv-188-CWR-LRA (S.D.Miss. 2018): Plaintiffs who are disenfranchised by the Mississippi Constitution’s felony disenfranchisement provisions filed suit to strike down the provisions. In Hopkins, the Plaintiffs are also challenging the process by which voting rights are restored for formerly convicted individuals. Plaintiffs contend that the disenfranchisement scheme was born from racism embedded in the 1890 Mississippi Constitution, which was created in the wake of Reconstruction, and continues to disproportionately deny the franchise to Black Mississippians. On June 28, 2018, the District Court consolidated the two cases. On February 13, 2019, the District Court granted the Hopkins Plaintiffs’ motion to certify the case as a class action. The cases remain pending.

Voters Challenge Mississippi’s Majority Vote Scheme for the Election of the State’s Governor and other State-wide Offices

McLemore v. Hosemann*, 3:19-cv-00383-DPJ-FKB (S.D.Miss. May 30, 2019): Four Mississippi Black voters filed suit challenging the state’s majority vote requirement for electing the Governor and for other statewide offices. Plaintiffs contend the scheme has its basis in the racism that was at the heart of the post-Reconstruction adoption of the 1890 Mississippi Constitution and that it was intended to prevent African Americans from holding statewide elected offices. Since the enactment of the majority vote requirement in 1890, no African Americans have been elected to statewide offices, despite the fact that Mississippi has the highest percentage of African Americans of any state in the country. Plaintiffs have alleged claims under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and the Constitution. The case is currently pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi.

Missouri

Successful Section 2 Challenge to the At-Large Method of Electing Board Members to the Ferguson-Florissant, Missouri School Board

Missouri State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People v. Ferguson–Florissant School District, 894 F.3d 924 (8th Cir. 2018). This is a vote dilution lawsuit filed under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act to challenge the at-large method of election for members to the School Board for the Ferguson-Florissant School District. African Americans are 47 percent of the district’s population, but had only been able to elect two candidates of their choice to the board because of the at-large scheme. Plaintiffs prevailed at trial; the Eighth Circuit denied the Defendant’s appeal and the Supreme Court denied the Defendant’s petition for certiorari.

New York

Lawsuit Filed to Restore Voting Rights to New Yorkers Who Were Removed from Poll Books in Violation of Federal Law

Common Cause/New York v. Brehm, Case No. 1:17-cv-06770 (S.D.N.Y. 2017): Advocates filed suit to restore the voting rights of millions of New Yorkers ahead of the 2018 election. Plaintiffs alleged that certain eligible but “inactive” voters are improperly removed from poll books throughout New York State in violation of the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA). Plaintiffs contend that the removal of inactive voters from the poll books disproportionately impacts voters of color. The litigation is continuing.

Vote Dilution Lawsuit Filed under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act to Challenge the At-Large Method of Electing Members of the East Ramapo Central School District

National Association for the Advancement Of Colored People, Spring Valley Branch v. East Ramapo Central School District, Case No. 7:17-cv-08943 (S.D.N.Y. 2017): This is a Section 2 vote dilution lawsuit filed in November 2017 by the Spring Valley Branch of the NAACP and seven Black and Latino voters. Plaintiffs challenge the at-large method of electing members to the Board of Education of the East Ramapo Central School District and contend that it dilutes the voting strength of Black and Latino voters in the District. As a by-product of the dilutive election scheme, Plaintiffs contend that White Board Members are not responsive to the needs of minority students and their parents in the district and have undertaken funding cuts and other actions which deprive minority students of an adequate education. The case is still pending.

North Carolina
Challenge to Voter Suppression Legislation on the Heels of Shelby that Targeted Black Voters with almost Surgical Precision

North Carolina State Conference of NAACP v. McCrory, 831 F.3d 204 (4th Cir. 2016): In the immediate aftermath of the Shelby decision, North Carolina enacted omnibus voter suppression legislation which included a strict voter ID requirement that excluded the use of out-of-state and college IDs; eliminated same-day voter registration and pre-registration for 16 and 17 year olds; increased opportunities for voters' eligibility to be challenged at the polls; reduced early voting by an entire week; and required the rejection of out-of-precinct ballots. After Plaintiffs' challenge was rejected by the District Court following a trial on the merits, Plaintiffs appealed. The Fourth Circuit then struck down the law's voter ID requirement; cutbacks to early voting; elimination of same-day registration and pre-registration; and the provisions relating to out-of-precinct ballots. In its decision, the Fourth Circuit noted:

“After years of preclearance and expansion of voting access, by 2013 African American registration and turnout rates had finally reached near-parity with white registration and turnout rates. African Americans were poised to act as a major electoral force. But, on the day after the Supreme Court issued Shelby County v. Holder, — U.S. —, 133 S.Ct. 2612, 186 L.Ed.2d 651 (2013), eliminating preclearance obligations, a leader of the party that newly dominated the legislature (and the party that rarely enjoyed African American support) announced an intention to enact what he characterized as an “omnibus” election law. Before enacting that law, the legislature requested data on the use, by race, of a number of voting practices. Upon receipt of the race data, the General Assembly enacted legislation that restricted voting and registration in five different ways, all of which disproportionately affected African Americans.

“In response to claims that intentional racial discrimination animated its action, the State offered only meager justifications. Although the new provisions target African Americans with almost surgical precision, they constitute inapt remedies for the problems assertedly justifying them and, in fact, impose cures for problems that did not exist. Thus, the asserted justifications cannot and do not conceal the State's true motivation. “In essence,” as in League of United Latin American Citizens v. Perry (LULAC), 548 U.S. 399, 440, 126 S.Ct. 2594, 165 L.Ed.2d 609 (2006), “the State took away [minority voters'] opportunity because [they] were about to exercise it.” As in LULAC, “[t]his bears the mark of intentional discrimination.” Id.

“Faced with this record, we can only conclude that the North Carolina General Assembly enacted the challenged provisions of the law with discriminatory intent. Accordingly, we reverse the judgment of the district court to the contrary and remand with instructions to enjoin the challenged provisions of the law.”

Id., at 214–15 (emphasis added).

Despite the Fourth Circuit's strongly worded decision and conclusion that the law was enacted with discriminatory intent, North Carolina asked the Supreme Court to stay the Fourth Circuit's decision, claiming that the state did not have sufficient time to make changes before the November 2016 general election. The Supreme Court granted the State's request for a stay. As a result, the law remained in effect for the November 2016 general election until the Supreme Court eventually denied North Carolina's petition for certiorari on the merits in May 2017.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Forced to Commence Litigation to Restore Illegally Purged North Carolina Minority Voters to the Registration Rolls ahead of the November 2016 General Election

North Carolina State Conference of the NAACP v. North Carolina State Board of Elections*, Case No. 1:16CV1274, 2016 WL 6581284 (M.D.N.C., 2016)(order granting preliminary relief); and North Carolina State Conference of NAACP v. Bipartisan Board of Elections and Ethics Enforcement, Case No. 1:16CV12742018, WL 3748172 (M.D.N.C. 2018)(order granting Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment and permanent relief): Plaintiffs alleged that in the months and weeks immediately preceding the November 2016 general election, boards of elections in three North Carolina counties - Beaufort, Moore, and Cumberland -improperly canceled thousands of voter registrations of predominantly African American voters for changes of residency on the basis of single mailings returned as undeliverable. Specifically, Plaintiffs alleged that a handful of private individuals brought coordinated and targeted en masse challenges to voter registrations on change-of-residency grounds pursuant to North Carolina's voter challenge statute, N.C. Gen. Stat. § 163-85, et seq. and that this process violated Section 2 of the VRA, Section 8 of the NVRA and the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The Court granted a preliminary injunction in favor of the Plaintiffs to restore impacted voters to the registration rolls ahead of the November 2016 general election and subsequently granted Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment to permanently enjoin the practice.

Voters and Advocates File a Successful Post-Shelby Racial Gerrymander Challenge to Redistricting Plans in Two North Carolina Congressional Districts

Cooper v. Harris*, 137 S.Ct. 1455 (2017): Filed in October 2013, this case challenged the redistricting of two North Carolina congressional districts as racial gerrymanders in violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. After a bench trial, a three-judge panel of the United States District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina ruled in favor of the voters. In 2017, the Supreme Court held that deference to the District Court's findings, under a clearly erroneous standard of review, was warranted; finding that race was the predominant factor in drawing one district as majority-minority district was not clearly erroneous; the State lacked a strong basis in evidence for believing that it needed a majority-minority district in order to avoid liability under § 2 of the Voting Rights Act (VRA) for vote dilution; and finding that racial gerrymandering rather than political gerrymandering was predominant factor in drawing the other district as majority-minority district was not clearly erroneous.

Section 2 Litigation Filed to Remedy Dilution of Voting Strength of Black Voters in Jones County, North Carolina Due to At-Large Method of Electing County Commissioners

Hall v. Jones Cty. Bd. of Commissioners*, No. 4:17-cv-00018 (E.D.N.C. Aug. 23, 2017): Plaintiffs challenged the at-large scheme of electing members to the Jones County, NC Board of Commissioners under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Due to the at-large method of electing members to the Jones County Board of Commissioners, which diluted the voting strength of African American voters, no African American candidates had been elected to the Jones County Board of Commissioners since 1998. The parties eventually settled the matter with an agreement that the Board of Commissioners would implement a seven single-member district electoral plan, including two single-member districts in which African-American voters constitute a majority of the voting-age population.

Voting Rights Advocates Forced to Commence Litigation Challenging a North Carolina Law Restructuring the Greensboro City Council which also Prohibited Voters from Changing the Restructuring Via Referendum

City of Greensboro v. Guilford County Board of Elections, 251 F.Supp.3d 935 (M.D.N.C. 2017). In 2015, after the Shelby decision, North Carolina enacted a bill which restructured the Greensboro City Council and eliminated the ability of voters to change the restructuring via a referendum. Plaintiffs alleged the legislature's plan diluted the voting strength of African American voters and violated other traditional redistricting principles, including one person, one vote and not pairing incumbents against each other, and that the prohibition against restoring the previous plan via a referendum was unconstitutional. The Plaintiffs eventually prevailed on their claims that the prohibition against a referendum and the violation of one person, one vote violated the Constitution. Because the court found in favor of the Plaintiffs on these claims, the court did not reach the issue of whether the plan was a racial gerrymander.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Bring Litigation Successfully Challenging North Carolina's Racially Gerrymandered State Legislative and Congressional Redistricting Plans

Dickson v Rucho, No. 11 CVS 16896 (N.C.Super. July 08, 2013): This is a state court action challenging North Carolina's racially gerrymandered state legislative and congressional redistricting plans. The state courts upheld the plans. Plaintiffs sought review by the United States Supreme Court. In April 2015, the Supreme Court granted certiorari and remanded the case to the state Supreme Court in light of the Court's ruling in Alabama Legislative Black Caucus v. Alabama. On remand, in a 4-3 decision, the state Supreme Court affirmed its earlier opinion. On May 30, 2017, the United States Supreme Court again granted certiorari and reversed and remanded the case for further consideration in light of Cooper v. Harris and North Carolina v. Covington. On February 7, 2018, the day after the United States Supreme Court's ruling in Covington precluded the special master's new House districts in Wake and Mecklenburg counties from going into effect, Plaintiffs filed an emergency motion in this state court proceeding, seeking relief from the state constitutional violations in the Wake and Mecklenburg County state house districts. On February 12, 2018, the state court three-judge panel denied that motion but entered judgment in Plaintiffs' favor.

Federal Court Determined that 28 North Carolina Legislative Districts were Unconstitutional Racial Gerrymanders in Violation of the Constitution

Covington v. North Carolina, 316 F.R.D. 117 (M.D.N.C. 2016), aff'd, 137 S. Ct. 2211 (2017): Federal court litigation filed in 2015 challenged the racial gerrymandering of the state's legislative districts in 2011. On August 11, 2016, a three-judge panel unanimously found that 28 of the State's districts were racially gerrymandered and ordered all of those districts to be redrawn after the 2016 election. In another unanimous ruling on November 29, 2016, the three-judge panel ordered the General Assembly to redraw the racially gerrymandered house and senate districts, which was upheld by the Supreme Court. On October 26, 2017, the Court issued an order appointing a special master to assist in evaluating the districts and in developing an appropriate remedial plan. The special master submitted his proposed remedial plan on December 1, 2017, and the Court issued a unanimous Order incorporating his recommendations on January 19, 2018.

North Dakota

Spirit Lake Tribe and Native American Voters Challenge North Dakota's Strict Voter ID Law

Brakebill v. Jaeger, Civil Action No. 18-1725 (D.N.D. 2018): Plaintiffs secured a preliminary injunction prohibiting enforcement of a strict voter ID law which negatively impacted Native American voters. However, after the District Court granted preliminary relief, the state appealed to the Eighth Circuit for an emergency stay of the court's order and the Supreme Court, in a split decision, declined to overturn the stay while the litigation of the case on the merits continues.

Ohio

Sixth Circuit Reverses Trial Court Decision Finding that Modifications to the State's Early Voting Rules Violated the Fourteenth Amendment by Burdening the Right to Vote of African Americans

Ohio Democratic Party v. Husted, Case No. 16-3561 (6th Cir. 2015): In May of 2015, state and county political parties and three individual voters filed suit challenging modifications to state's early voting rules, contending that the changes violated the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. After the District Court found in favor of the Plaintiffs, enjoined enforcement of the statute and found it placed impermissible disparate burden on African-American voters, the Sixth Circuit reversed, concluding that the state's justifications for the changes outweighed the burden on African American voters and that the changes did not have a disparate impact.

Tennessee

Advocates Filed Suit to Challenge a Tennessee Law Imposing Severe Restrictions on Voter Registration Activity with Criminal and Civil Penalties that was Enacted in the Wake of Successful Registration Drives in 2018 Targeting Minority and Underserved Communities

Tennessee State Conference of the N.A.A.C.P. v. Hargett, Case No. 3:19-cv-00365 (M.D.Tenn. 2019) and League of Women Voters of Tennessee v. Hargett, 3:19-cv-00385 (M.D.Tenn. 2019): Voting advocates filed two lawsuits in 2019 challenging the enactment of a Tennessee law which imposes severe restrictions on voter registration activity by community groups and third parties and includes criminal and civil penalties for failures to comply with the law. The law was enacted in the wake of successful large-scale voter registration initiatives in the state in 2018 which targeted minority and underserved communities. Defendants filed motions to dismiss in both cases which are currently pending.

Texas

Voters, Voting Rights Advocates, and Congressional Representative Forced to Commence Litigation to Invalidate Racially Discriminatory Strict Texas Voter ID Law

Veasey v. Abbott*, 888 F.3d 792 (5th Cir. 2018): This is a Federal court action challenging the Texas voter ID law under Section 2 of the VRA and the U.S. Constitution. In October 2014, the district judge ruled in Plaintiffs' favor on all claims and blocked the law, holding that it violates Section 2 of the VRA, constitutes an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote, amounts to a poll tax, and was motivated in part by a racially discriminatory purpose. In August 2015, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the district court's ruling that the State's restrictive photo ID requirement violated Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The appeals court upheld the finding of discriminatory effect under Section 2, but remanded on the issue of discriminatory intent, asking the lower court to re-examine the evidence. In July 2016, the en banc court affirmed the district court's finding of discriminatory effect under Section 2, and remanded the case to the district court for further fact-finding on the discriminatory intent claim. On April 10, 2017, the Court issued a decision re-affirming its prior determination that SB 14 was passed, at least in part, with a discriminatory intent. On June 1, 2017, Texas passed SB5, which it claimed remedied the effects of SB 14. While SB 5 shares provisions in common with the court-ordered interim remedy, there are aspects of concern, including a harsh felony penalty (up to two years of imprisonment) for voters who inappropriately use the affidavit process for voting in-person without an acceptable photo ID. On August 23, 2017, the court granted declaratory relief, holding that SB 14 violates Section 2 of the VRA and the 14th and 15th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. The court enjoined SB 14 and SB 5, finding that the new law "perpetuates SB 14's discriminatory features." On April 27, 2018, the Fifth Circuit issued its opinion "reversing and rendering" the district court's order for permanent injunction and further relief, finding that the district court had abused its discretion, and further finding that SB 5 constituted an effective remedy "for the only deficiencies in SB 14," and that there was no equitable basis for subjecting Texas to ongoing federal election scrutiny under Section 3(c) of the Voting Rights Act.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates File Suit to Remedy Dilution of Voting Strength of Latino Voters in Texas Due to At-Large Method of Electing Statewide Judges

Lopez v. Abbott*, 339 F. Supp. 3d 589 (S.D. Tex. 2018): In 2016, Plaintiffs challenged Texas' method of using at-large elections to elect judges to the two courts of last resort in the state, the Supreme Court of Texas and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. The lawsuit alleged that the statewide method of electing judges to these courts is discriminatory and denies Latinos an equal opportunity to elect candidates of their choice. In Texas, whites vote as a bloc resulting in the defeat of candidates supported by the Latino community. If the election process was changed from statewide to single districts, two districts could be created with a majority of CVAP of Latino voters, increasing the likelihood that Latino voters could overcome the bloc voting of White voters and have the chance to elect candidates of their choice to these courts. However, the court ultimately ruled for the Defendants, holding Plaintiffs could not show under the totality of the circumstances that the lack of electoral success by Latino-preferred candidates for high judicial office is on account of race rather than other factors, including partisanship.

Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged Texas' Illegal Flagging of Naturalized Citizens for Removal from Voter Rolls

Texas League of United Latino American Citizens v. Whitley, No. 5:19-cv-00074 (W.D. Tex. February 27, 2019): In late January 2019, David Whitley, Texas' Secretary of State, sent Texas counties a list containing 95,000 registered voters and directing the counties to investigate their voting eligibility. The list was based on DMV data the state knew was flawed and would necessarily sweep in thousands of citizens who completed the naturalization process after lawfully applying for a Texas drivers' license. Naturalized citizens are entitled to full voting rights under Constitution. Voting rights advocates filed lawsuits challenging the purging of voters based upon this flawed process. The case was eventually settled after the U.S. District Court in Texas granted a motion for preliminary injunction, enjoining the removal of voters from the rolls based upon this flawed process.

Voter and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenge Law Restricting Language Assistance for Voters with Limited English Proficiency

OCA-Greater Houston v. Texas, 867 F.3d 604 (5th Cir. 2017): Litigation was commenced on August 6, 2015, under Section 208 of the VRA challenging a provision of the Texas Election Code that requires interpreters to be registered to vote in the same county as the voter who needs assistance. This state requirement unduly restricts the range of individuals who are permitted to provide language assistance. The Court found, "In short, the State Defendants get the VRA wrong...the Texas Code Interpretation Provisions, restrict voter choice in a manner inconsistent with the Federal Voting Rights Act." The county defendants agreed to settle in light of the decision. In the settlement, the county agreed to revise the poll worker manual and to change the training procedure for interpreter requirements to be consistent with Section 208 of the VRA. The County will also maintain data of Section 208 violations that are reported to them. On August 16, 2017, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the district court ruling that the Texas law, which requires interpreters to be registered voters, violates the VRA. The Fifth Circuit decision also affirmed the district court's finding that the plaintiff organization, OCA-Greater Houston, had satisfied its standing requirement.

Voters, State and Federal Legislators, and Voting Rights Advocates Successfully Challenged Texas' Redistricting Plan That Diluted Strength of Latino Voters

Abbott v. Perez, 138 S. Ct. 2305, 201 L. Ed. 2d 714 (2018): During the initial challenge to Texas' redistricting plan, Texas was denied Section 5 preclearance. Following the decision in Shelby, Plaintiffs again challenged Texas' maps that did not provide for a new Latino-majority congressional seat. The Court concluded that the congressional districting plans diluted Latino voting strength and were intentionally discriminatory against Latinos and African Americans. The case was tried a third time, focusing on Texas State House Districts, and the Plaintiffs prevailed again. Defendant appealed the District Court's rulings to the United States Supreme Court. On June 25, 2018, the Supreme Court reversed the District Court's rulings in Plaintiffs' favor with the exception of House District 90 in Fort Worth.

Voters and Voting Rights Advocates Commence Litigation to Challenge a Waller County, Texas Early Voting Scheme That Did Not Provide a Polling Place for HBCU Prairie View A&M University Voters

Allen v. Waller Cty., Tex., No: 4:18-cv-03985 (S.D. Tex. filed Oct. 22, 2018): On October 22, 2018, advocates filed a federal lawsuit against election officials in Waller County, Texas, who refused to provide any early voting location on the campus of Prairie View A&M University (PVAMU), an historically Black university, during early voting for the 2018 general election. Plaintiffs contend the County has provided fewer early voting opportunities to PVAMU students who are one of the highest users of this opportunity as compared to other voters in Waller County. Waller County has moved to dismiss Plaintiffs' First Amended Complaint and that motion is currently pending.

District Court in Texas Determines that Redistricting Plan for the City of Pasadena, Texas City Council that was Adopted in the Wake of the Shelby Decision Diluted the Voting Strength of Latino Voters and was Enacted with Discriminatory Intent

Patino v. City of Pasadena, Texas, 230 F.Supp.3d 667 (S.D.Tex. 2017): Latino voters filed suit against the City of Pasadena, Texas alleging that city's change from an eight single-member district plan for electing city council members to a plan with six single-member districts and two at-large districts, in 2014 – after the Shelby decision, diluted Latino voting strength in violation of Section 2 of the VRA and Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution. Following a bench trial, the Court ruled in favor of the Plaintiffs on both their Section 2 and discriminatory intent claims and ordered the restoration of the eight single member district plan for the 2017 city council election. The District Court noted that this was one of the first lawsuits brought to remedy a discriminatory redistricting plan enacted in the wake of the Shelby decision. Defendant's request for a stay of the District Court's remedial order was denied by the District Court and Fifth Circuit.

Utah

Lawsuit Filed Against San Juan County, Utah for the Failure to Provide Effective Language Assistance and In-Person Early Voting Sites for Navajo Nation Voters

Nation Human Rights Comm'n v. San Juan County, 216CV00154JNPBCW, 2017 WL 3976564, at *1 (D. Utah Sept. 7, 2017). San Juan County, Utah is home to a substantial Native American population. The County moved to all-mail balloting in 2014. Coupled with a lack of sufficient in-person early voting sites serving the Navajo Nation's voters, Plaintiffs argued that the county failed to provide effective language assistance to its Native American population. Following a period of intense and sometimes contentious litigation, the parties reached a settlement in which the county agreed to 1) provide in-person language assistance on the Navajo reservation for the 28 days prior to each election through the 2020 general election; 2) maintain three polling sites on the Navajo reservation for election day voting, including language assistance; and 3) to take additional action to ensure quality interpretation of election information and materials in the Navajo language.

Washington, D.C.

Voting Advocates File Suit Challenging the Decision by the Election Assistance Commission's Executive Director, Brian Newby, to Include Proof of Citizenship Requirement on Federal Registration Form Instructions

League of Women Voters of United States v. Newby, 838 F.3d 1 (D.C. Cir. 2016): In January 2016, EAC Executive Director Brian Newby, acting without input from the EAC Commissioners, issued notice to Alabama, Georgia, and Kansas that the federal registration form instructions would be amended to allow these states to require citizenship documents from applicants who use the federal registration form. Plaintiffs filed suit to enjoin Newby's action and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit preliminarily enjoined the EAC from changing the federal voter registration form after the District Court for the District of Columbia denied Plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction. The parties have fully briefed cross-motions for summary judgment and the action remains pending.

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS
U N D E R L A W

STATEMENT OF JON GREENBAUM
CHIEF COUNSEL
LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

U.S. HOUSE COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY
SUBCOMMITTEE ON THE CONSTITUTION, CIVIL RIGHTS AND CIVIL LIBERTIES HEARING ON "DISCRIMINATORY BARRIERS TO VOTING"

SEPTEMBER 5, 2019

Introduction

Chairman Cohen, Ranking Member Johnson, and Members of the Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties of the U.S House of Representatives Committee on the Judiciary, my name is Jon Greenbaum and I serve as the Chief Counsel for the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law ("Lawyers' Committee"). Thank you for the opportunity to testify today on the following topics:

- the Supreme Court's decision in Shelby County v. Holder,¹ which effectively immobilized the preclearance provisions of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act by finding its underlying coverage formula unconstitutional;
- the efficiency of the Section 5 process prior to the Shelby County decision; the negative effect of the Shelby County decision on minority voting rights and the limitations and costs of employing Section 2 of the Act as a substitute;
- the high level of voting discrimination since the Shelby County decision, especially in the jurisdictions formerly covered by Section 5;
- how the replacement coverage formula in HR4, the Voting Rights Advancement Act,² sufficiently responds the constitutional issues raised by the Supreme Court in Shelby County.

I come to my conclusions based on twenty-two years of working on voting rights issues nationally. From 1997 to 2003, I served as a Senior Trial Attorney in the Voting Section at the United States Department of Justice, where I enforced various provisions of the Voting Rights Act, including Section 5, on behalf of the United States. In the sixteen years since, I have continued to work on voting rights issues at the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law as Chief Counsel, where I oversee our Voting Rights Project, and prior to that, I served as Director of the Voting Rights Project.

The Lawyers' Committee is a national civil rights organization created by President Kennedy in 1963 to mobilize the private bar to confront issues of racial discrimination. Voting rights has been an organizational core area since the inception of the organization. During my time at the Lawyers' Committee, among other things, I was intimately involved in the constitutional defense of Section 5 and its coverage formula in Shelby County, its predecessor case Northwest Austin Municipal Utility District No. 1 v. Holder, and two extensive reports that have examined the extent of minority voting discrimination based on DOJ and court enforcement records and numerous field hearings: National Commission on Voting Rights, Protecting Minority Voters: Our Work Is Not Done (2014) ("2014 National Commission Report") and The National Commission on the Voting Rights Act, Protecting Minority Voters: The Voting

¹ 570 U.S. 529 (2013).

² Voting Rights Advancement Act, H.R. 4, 116th Cong. 2019.

Rights Act at Work 1982-2005 (2006). The report and record of the latter National Commission, which was submitted to the House Judiciary Committee at the Committee's request, was the largest single piece of the record supporting the Fannie Lou Hamer, Rosa Parks, and Coretta Scott King Voting Rights Act Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 2006 ("2006 VRA Reauthorization"). The Lawyers' Committee is currently compiling a report that will detail the federal enforcement record of voting discrimination on a state-by-state basis for the last twenty-five years. We hope to release this report to the public in early October.

The Shelby County decision

Prior to the Shelby County decision, the combination of Section 2 and Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act provided a relatively effective means of preventing and remedying minority voting discrimination. Section 2, which is discussed more fully below, remains as the general provision enabling the Department of Justice and private plaintiffs to challenge voting practices or procedures that have a discriminatory purpose or result. Section 2 is in effect nationwide.³ Section 5 required jurisdictions with a history of discrimination, based on a formula set forth in Section 4(b), to obtain preclearance of any voting changes from the Department of Justice or the District Court in the District of Columbia before implementing the voting change.⁴ From its inception, there was a sunset provision for the formula, and subset provision for the 2006 Reauthorization was 25 years.⁵

In the Shelby County case, the Supreme Court decided in a 5-4 vote that the Section 4(b) coverage formula was unconstitutional. The majority held that because the Voting Rights Act "impose[d] current burdens," it "must be justified by current needs."⁶ The majority went on to rule that because the formula was comprised of data from the 1960s and 1970s, it could not be rationally related to determining what jurisdictions, if any, should be covered under Section 5 decades later.⁷ The four dissenting justices found that Congress had demonstrated that regardless of what data was used to determine the formula, voting discrimination had persisted in the covered jurisdictions.⁸ The majority made clear that "[w]e issue no holding on §5 itself, only on the coverage formula. Congress may draft another formula based on current conditions."⁹

The effect of the Shelby County decision is that Section 5 is effectively

³ 52 U.S.C. § 10301.

⁴ 52 U.S.C. §§ 10303(b), 10304.

⁵ 52 U.S.C. § 10303(b).

⁶ Shelby County, 570 U.S. at 536 (quoting Northwest Austin Municipal Util. Dist. No. One v. Holder, 557 U.S. 193 at 203) 2009.

⁷ Shelby County, 557 U.S. at 545-54.

⁸ Id. at 560 (Ginsberg, J. dissenting).

⁹ Id. at 556.

immobilized as, for now, preclearance is limited only to those jurisdictions where it is imposed by a court after a court previously made a finding of intentional voting discrimination. This special preclearance coverage is authorized by Section 3(c) of the Act. Courts have rarely ordered Section 3(c) coverage, and when they do, it is typically quite limited. Indeed, the only jurisdictions I am aware of that are currently subject to Section 3(c) coverage are Pasadena, Texas and Evergreen, Alabama.¹⁰ In the case of Pasadena, the only changes subject to preclearance relate to the method of election and redistricting.¹¹

As a result, Section 5 is essentially dead until Congress takes up the Supreme Court's invitation to craft another coverage formula. There are compelling reasons for Congress to do so because, as discussed below, voting discrimination has increased in the absence of Section 5, and Section 2 cannot adequately substitute for Section 5.

How Section 5 worked prior to the Shelby County decision

Before looking at the post-Shelby County record, it is important to first understand how Section 5 worked prior to the Shelby County decision. Covered jurisdictions had to show federal authorities that the voting change did not have a discriminatory purpose or effect. Discriminatory purpose under Section 5 was the same as the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendment prohibitions against intentional discrimination against minority voters.¹² Effect was defined as a change which would have the effect of diminishing the ability of minority voters to vote or to elect their preferred candidates of choice.¹³ This was also known as retrogression, and in most instances was easy to measure and administer. For example, if a proposed redistricting plan maintained a majority black district that elected a black preferred candidate at the same black population percentage as the plan in effect, it would be highly unlikely to be found retrogressive. If, however, the proposed plan significantly diminished the black population percentage in the same district, it would invite serious questions that it was retrogressive.

Except in rare circumstances, covered jurisdictions would first submit their voting changes to the Department of Justice. DOJ had sixty days to make a determination on a change, and if DOJ precleared the change or did not act in 60 days, the covered jurisdiction could implement the change.¹⁴ The submission of additional information by the jurisdiction, which often happened because DOJ requested such information orally, would extend the 60 day period if the submitted information materially supplemented the submission.¹⁵ DOJ could extend the 60 period once by

¹⁰ See Patino v. City of Pasadena, 230 F. Supp. 667, 729 (S.D. Tex. 2017).

¹¹ Id.

¹² 52 U.S.C. § 10304(c).

¹³ 52 U.S.C. § 10304(b), (d).

¹⁴ 52 U.S.C. § 10304(a).

¹⁵ Id. Procedures for the Administration of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act ("Section 5 Procedures"), 28 C.F.R. §

sending a written request for information to the jurisdiction.¹⁶ This often signaled to the jurisdiction that DOJ had serious concerns that the change violated Section 5. If DOJ objected to a change, it was blocked, but jurisdictions had various options, including requesting reconsideration from DOJ, Section 5 Procedures,¹⁷ seeking preclearance from the federal court,¹⁸ and modifying the change and resubmitting it.

In the nearly seven years I worked at DOJ, I witnessed first-hand how effective Section 5 was at preventing voting discrimination and how efficiently DOJ administered the process to minimize the burdens to its own staff of attorneys and analysts, and to the covered jurisdictions. The Section 5 Procedures cited above provided transparency as to DOJ's procedures and gave covered jurisdictions guidance on how to proceed through the Section 5 process. Internal procedures enabled DOJ staff to preclear unobjectionable voting changes with minimal effort and to devote the bulk of their time to those changes that required close scrutiny.

The benefits of Section 5 were numerous and tangible. The 2014 National Commission Report provided the following statistics and information regarding DOJ objections:

By any measure, Section 5 was responsible for preventing a very large amount of voting discrimination. From 1965 to 2013, DOJ issued approximately 1,000 determination letters denying preclearance for over 3,000 voting changes. This included objections to over 500 redistricting plans and nearly 800 election method changes (such as the adoption of at-large election systems and the addition of majority-vote and numbered-post requirements to existing at-large systems). Much of this activity occurred between 1982 (when Congress enacted the penultimate reauthorization of Section 5) and 2006 (when the last reauthorization occurred); in that time period approximately 700 separate objections were interposed involving over 2,000 voting changes, including objections to approximately 400 redistricting plans and another 400 election method changes.

Each objection, by itself, typically benefited thousands of minority voters, and many objections affected tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands, or even (for objections to statewide changes) millions of minority voters. It would have required an immense investment of public and private resources to have accomplished this through the filing of individual lawsuits.¹⁹

51.37.

¹⁶ Section 5 Procedures, 28 C.F.R. § 51.37.

¹⁷ 28 C.F.R. § 51.45

¹⁸ 52 U.S.C. § 10304(a)

¹⁹ National Commission on Voting Rights, Protecting Minority Voters: Our Work Is Not Done 56 (2014) (internal citations omitted).

In addition to the changes that were formally blocked, Section 5's effect on deterring discrimination cannot be understated. Covered jurisdictions knew that their voting changes would be reviewed by an independent body and they had the burden of demonstrating that they were non-discriminatory. By the time I began working at DOJ, Section 5 had been in effect for several decades and most jurisdictions knew better than to enact changes which would raise obvious concerns that they were discriminatory – like moving a polling place in a majority black precinct to a sheriff's office. In the post-Shelby world, a jurisdiction is likely to get away with implementing a discriminatory change for one election (or more) before a plaintiff receives relief from a court, as the Hancock County, Georgia voter purge and Texas voter identification cases detailed later illustrate.

The Section 5 process also brought notice and transparency to voting changes. Most voting changes are made without public awareness. DOJ would produce a weekly list of voting changes that had been submitted, which individuals and groups could subscribe to in order to receive this weekly list from DOJ.²⁰ For submissions of particular interest, DOJ would provide public notice of the change if it believed the jurisdiction had not provided adequate notice of the change.²¹ But even more importantly, the Section 5 process incentivized jurisdictions to involve the minority community in voting changes. DOJ's Section 5 Procedures requested that jurisdictions with a significant minority population provide the names of minority community members who could speak to the change,²² and DOJ's routine practice was to call at least one local minority contact and to ask the individual whether she or he was aware of the voting change and had an opinion on it. Moreover, involved members of the community could affirmatively contact DOJ and provide relevant information and data.²³

Why Section 2 is an inadequate substitute for Section 5

Prior to the Shelby County decision, critics of Section 5 frequently minimized the negative impact its absence would have by pointing out that DOJ and private parties could still stop discriminatory voting changes by bringing affirmative cases under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Indeed, in the same paragraph of Shelby County where the Supreme Court majority states that Congress could adopt a new formula for Section 5, it also notes that its “decision in no way affects the permanent, nation-wide ban on racial discrimination in voting found in §2.”²⁴

²⁰ Section 5 Procedures, 28 C.F.R. § 51.32-51.33.

²¹ Id. at 28 C.F.R. § 51.38(b).

²² Id. at 28 C.F.R. § 51.28(h).

²³ Id. at 28 C.F.R. § 51.29.

²⁴ Shelby County, 570 U.S. at 556.

During the Shelby County litigation and the reauthorization process preceding it, defenders of Section 5 repeatedly pointed out why Section 2 was an inadequate substitute. Six years of experience demonstrate this.

This is hardly a surprise given that Section 5 and Section 2 were designed by Congress to complement one another as part of comprehensive set of tools to combat voting discrimination. Section 5 was designed to prevent a specific problem – to prevent jurisdictions with a history of discrimination from enacting new measures that would undermine the gains minority voters were able to secure through other voting protections, including Section 2. The Section 5 preclearance process was extremely potent, but also efficient and surgical in its limited geographic focus and sunset provisions. It was also relatively easy to evaluate because the retrogressive effect standard – whether minority voters are made worse off by the proposed change – is simple to determine in all but the closest cases. Section 5 is designed to protect against discriminatory changes to the status quo.

Section 2 is quite different. It evaluates whether the status quo is discriminatory and thus must be changed. The test for liability should be, and is, rigorous because it is a court-ordered change. Although Section 2 (results) and Section 5 (retrogression) both have discriminatory impact tests, they are distinct. As discussed above, the Section 5 retrogression test is quite straightforward in determining whether a jurisdictional-generated change should be blocked — will minority voters be worse off because of the change?

In contrast, the Section 2 results inquiry is complex and resource intensive to litigate. The “totality of circumstances” test set forth in the statute is fact-intensive by its own definition. The Senate Report supporting the 1982 amendment to Section 2 lists factors that courts have used as a starting point in applying the totality of circumstances test to include seven such factors (along with two factors plaintiffs have the option to raise).²⁵ On top of the Senate factors, courts have introduced additional requirements. For example, in vote dilution cases, which typically involve challenges to redistricting plans or to a method of election, the plaintiff must first satisfy the three preconditions set forth by the Supreme Court in Thornburg v. Gingles,²⁶ before even getting to the Senate factors. These Gingles preconditions require plaintiffs to show that that a minority group is compact and numerous enough to constitute a majority of eligible voters in an illustrative redistricting plan and whether there is racially polarized voting (minority voters are cohered in large number to support certain candidates and those candidates are usually defeated because of white bloc voting) and are necessarily proven by expert testimony. In vote denial cases, which involve challenges to practices such as voter identification laws, courts have also added an additional test, with the developing majority view requiring that plaintiffs demonstrate ²⁵ See e.g., Thornburg v. Gingles, 478 U.S. 30, 44-45 (1986).

²⁶ Id. at 50-51.

that the challenged law imposes a discriminatory burden on members of a protected class and that this “burden must be in part caused by or linked to social conditions that have or currently produce discrimination against members of the protected class.”²⁷

The result is that Section 2 cases are extremely time-consuming and resource-intensive, particularly when defendants mount a vigorous defense. For example, United States v. Charleston County,²⁸ which I litigated at the Department of Justice, was a successful challenge to the at-large method of electing the Charleston (South Carolina) County Council. The litigation took four years, and it involved more than seventy witness depositions and a four-week trial, even though we had prevailed on the Gingles preconditions on summary judgment,²⁹ and needed to litigate only the totality of circumstances in the district court.

Below is an analysis of the voting cases the Lawyers’ Committee has participated in since 2013 that is detailed in Appendix A and B. Thirteen of the cases involve voting changes, ten in covered jurisdictions, two in non-covered jurisdictions, and the thirteenth of the Federal Government. In my view, the changes in all ten of the cases in covered jurisdictions would have been blocked by Section 5 because they were retrogressive. In the ten cases we filed, we included Section 2 claims only five times. In the other five cases although we believed the changes had a discriminatory impact we were concerned about meeting the demanding standard of proof under Section 2 or the time and resources it would take to do so. In the five cases that contained a Section 2 claim, we included other claims. Of all of the cases in which we filed for a temporary restraining order or a motion for preliminary injunction, we used Section 2 as a basis only once.

Three specific examples from the Lawyers’ Committee’s litigation record illustrate why Section 2 is an inadequate substitute for Section 5. The most prominent example is the Texas voter identification law, which illustrates the time and expense of litigating a voting change under Section 2 that both DOJ and the federal district court found violated Section 5 prior to the Shelby County decision.³⁰ The afternoon that Shelby was decided, then-Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott announced that the State would immediately implement the ID law.³¹ Several civil rights groups, including the Lawyers’ Committee, filed suit in Texas federal court, challenging SB 14 under several theories, including Section 2 and DOJ filed its own suit under Section 2 and all of the cases were consolidated. The parties then embarked on months of discovery, leading to a two-week trial in September 2014, where dozens of witnesses, including 16 experts — half of whom were paid for by the civil rights groups — testified.

²⁷ Veasey v. Abbott, 830 F.3d 216, 244 (5th Cir. 2016) (en banc) (quoting League of Women Voters of N.C. v. North Carolina, 769 F.3d 224, 240 (4th Cir. 2014), cert. denied, 135 S. Ct. 1735 (2015)); see also, Ohio State Conference for the NAACP v. Husted, 786 F.3d 524, 554 (6th Cir. 2014).

²⁸ 316 F. Supp. 2d 268 (D.S.C. 2003), aff’d, 365 F.3d 341 (4th Cir.), cert denied, 543 U.S. 999 (2004).

²⁹ United States v. Charleston County, 318 F. Supp. 2d 302 (D.S.C. 2002).

³⁰ Veasey, 830 F.3d at 227 n.7.

³¹ Id. at 227.

Prior to the November 2014 election, the District Court ruled that SB 14 violated the “results” prong of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, because it had a discriminatory result in that Black and Hispanic voters were two to three times less likely to possess the SB 14 IDs and that it would be two to three times more burdensome for them to get the IDs than for white voters. The District Court’s injunction against SB 14, however, was stayed pending appeal by the Fifth Circuit, so the law — now deemed to be discriminatory — remained in effect.³² Subsequently, a three-judge panel and later an en banc panel of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, affirmed the District Court’s finding.³³ As a result, elections that took place from June 25, 2013 until the Fifth Circuit en banc opinion on July 20, 2016 took place under the discriminatory voter ID law. Had Section 5 been enforceable, enormous expense and effort would have been spared. The civil groups are seeking $6,767,508.37 in attorneys’ fees and $946,844.87 in expenses, for a total of $7,714,353.24. As of June 2016, Texas had spent $3.5 million in defending the case.³⁴ Even with no published information from DOJ, more than $10 million in time and expenses were expended in that one case.

In Gallardo v. State,³⁵ the Arizona legislature passed a law that applied only to the Maricopa County Community College District and added two at-large members to what was previously a five-single district board. The legislature had submitted the change for Section 5 preclearance. The Department of Justice issued a more information letter based on concerns that the addition of two at-large members, in light of racially polarized voting in Maricopa County, would weaken the electoral power of minority voters on the board. After receiving the more information letter, Arizona officials did not seek to implement the change. Only after the Shelby County decision did they move forward, precipitating the lawsuit brought by the Lawyers’ Committee and its partners. We could not challenge the change under Section 2, especially because we would not have been able to meet the first Gingles precondition. Instead we made a claim in state court alleging that the new law violated Arizona’s constitutional prohibition against special laws because the board composition of less populous counties was not changed. Reversing the intermediate court of appeal, the Arizona Supreme Court rejected our argument, holding that the special laws provision of the state constitution was not violated. Unsurprisingly, the Latino candidate who ran for the at-large seat in the first election lost and the two at-large members are white.

In 2015, the Board of Elections and Registration, in Hancock County, Georgia, changed its process so as to initiate a series of “challenge proceedings” to voters, all but two of whom were African American. This resulted in the removal of 53 voters from the register. Later that year, the Lawyers’ Committee, representing the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and the Georgia Coalition for the Peoples’ Agenda and individual voters, challenged this conduct as violating the Voting Rights Act and the ³² Id. at 227-29, 250.

³³ Id. at 224-25.

³⁴ Jim Malewitz & Lindsay Carbonell, Texas’ Voter ID Defense Has Cost $3.5 Million, The Texas Tribune (June 17, 2016), <https://www.texastribune.org/2016/06/17/texas-tab-voter-id-lawsuits-more-35-million/>.

³⁵ 236 Ariz. 84, 336 P.3d 717 (2014).

National Voter Registration Act, and obtained relief which resulted in the placement of unlawfully-removed voters back on the register.³⁶ Ultimately, plaintiffs and the Hancock County Board agreed to the terms of a Consent Decree that will remedy the violations, and require the county's policies to be monitored for five years. But after the purge and prior to the court order, Sparta, a predominantly black city in Hancock County, elected its first white mayor in four decades. And before the case was settled, and the wrongly-purged voters placed back on the rolls, at least one of them had died.

Section 2 was not designed to stop retrogressive voting changes from taking effect and so it is an ill-suited replacement for Section 5. In the nearly forty years since Section 2 was expanded in 1982 to include discriminatory results claims, there are few cases in which Section 2 plaintiffs have obtained preliminary relief among the several hundred cases in which Section 2 plaintiffs ultimately succeeded through a court judgment or a settlement.

The Lawyers' Committee's voting litigation record post-Shelby County shows the high degree of voting discrimination, particularly in the areas formerly covered by Section 5

The Lawyers' Committee's litigation record since the Shelby County decision bears out both the high degree of contemporaneous voting discrimination and the inadequacy of Section 2 as a substitute for Section 5. Through our Voting Rights Project, we have been involved in 41 voting cases since the Shelby County decision. This record ranks either first or second of any entity nationally. A narrative summary of each case can be found at Appendix A and a summary table of the cases can be found at Appendix B. It is important to note that as, a racial justice organization, the Lawyers' Committee does not participate in litigation where we do not believe the issue at hand involves a question of discriminatory purpose and/or impact.

This record is notable in a number of respects. First, our litigation docket has become more active in the post-Shelby County years. Though I do not have exact numbers for the pre-Shelby County period, I can confidently say that we have had more cases in my six post-Shelby County years at the Lawyers' Committee than in my ten pre-Shelby County years.

Second, although we have participated in cases all over the country, most of our voting litigation has involved jurisdictions covered by Section 5 prior to Shelby County. Not including the four cases where we sued the federal government, in twenty-nine of the thirty-seven (78.3%) cases we have been opposed by state or local jurisdictions that were covered by Section 5, even though far less than half the country was covered by Section 5. Moreover, we have sued seven of the nine states that were covered by Section

³⁶ Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Hancock County, Case No. 15-cv-414 (M.D. Ga. 2015).

5 (Alabama, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Virginia), as well as the two states that had were not covered but had a substantial percentage of the population covered locally (North Carolina and New York). To be clear, I am not talking about cases brought against local jurisdictions in a state, but cases brought against state officials.

Third, we have achieved substantial success. Of the thirty-three cases where there has been some result, we have achieved a positive result in 26 of 33 (78.8%). In most of the seven cases where we were not successful, we had filed emergent litigation – either on Election Day or shortly before – where achieving success is most difficult.

This data tells us that voting discrimination remains substantial, especially considering that the Lawyers’ Committee is but one organization, and particularly in the areas previously covered by Section 5.

Notwithstanding the successes of the Lawyers’ Committee and others, the hole left by the absence of Section 5 is immense. We are simply unaware of many potentially discriminatory voting changes that are enacted. Even when we are aware of the changes, without Section 5, it is extremely difficult to stop changes from going into effect through litigation, as demonstrated above. Such litigation is extremely resource-intensive, both in time and expense, and the relatively small voting rights bar has significant limits on how cases it can litigate simultaneously. The case-by-case method is inefficient and inadequate as compared to Section 5.

These issues will be exacerbated enormously during the post-2020 Census redistricting, as several thousand formerly covered jurisdictions will be redistricted within about a two-year window and Section 5 will not be available to protect minority voters for the first time since the 1960s. Critics of Section 5 cited the costs to state sovereignty and the resource costs of Section 5 as reasons why it should be abandoned. These costs pale in comparison to the costs to minority voting rights in the absence of Section 5 as well as the resource costs involved in evaluating the redistricting plans in several thousand jurisdictions and litigating individual plans on grounds they are discriminatory. Moreover, Section 2 will serve to protect minority voters only where they can constitute a majority of voters in a district,³⁷ whereas Section 5 is not so limited. In certain areas of the country, minority voters in some districts have been able to elect candidates of choice with slightly less than a majority. These districts will not be protected under Section 2 as they were under Section 5.

Using the standards set forth in Shelby County, the current need for Section 5 outweighs the current burden in those areas with persistent and current discrimination.

³⁷ Bartlett v. Strickland, 559 U.S. 1 (2009)

The Voting Rights Advancement Act's (VRAA) Coverage Formula is Constitutional

The Supreme Court majority in Shelby County found that Congress's readopting of a coverage formula in 2006 based on voter registration and turnout data from the 1964, 1968, and 1972 election was irrational, irrespective of whether voting discrimination was still concentrated in the covered areas. According to the Court, the formula itself must be based on current data and must be constructed based on the current problems in order to be rational:

Congress did not use the record it compiled to shape a coverage formula grounded in current conditions. It instead reenacted a formula based on 40-year-old facts having no logical relation to the present day. The dissent relies on "second-generation barriers," which are not impediments to the casting of ballots, but rather electoral arrangements that affect the weight of minority votes. That does not cure the problem. Viewing the preclearance requirements as targeting such efforts simply highlights the irrationality of continued reliance on the § 4 coverage formula, which is based on voting tests and access to the ballot, not vote dilution. We cannot pretend that we are reviewing an updated statute, or try our hand at updating the statute ourselves, based on the new record compiled by Congress.³⁸

In my view, the geographical coverage formula contained in the VRAA's amendment to Section 4(b) satisfies the constitutional concerns articulated by the Court because it is based on current data and is designed to address current problems.

The threshold for coverage is a relatively high one — statewide coverage applies only if, during the last 25 calendar years, there have been 15 or more voting rights violations in the State or 10 or more violations with at least one committed by the State.³⁹ For political subdivisions, coverage applies only if there are three voting rights violations within the political subdivision in the past twenty-five years.⁴⁰ Violations are based on DOJ objections, court findings of voting discrimination, or a settlement of a Voting Rights Act and/or constitutional challenge to a voting law or practice that results in a change to that voting law or practice.

This formula is tailored to ensure that only those jurisdictions that have ³⁸ Shelby County, 570 U.S. at 554.

³⁹ Voting Rights Advancement Act, H.R. 4, 116th Cong. 2019.

⁴⁰ Id.

engaged in persistent voting discrimination over a sustained period of time are covered. No jurisdiction will be covered because of a one-time episode. Coverage is rolling: jurisdictions whose records improve can get out under the formula, those whose worsen can be added. The twenty-five period is logical because it ensures that two redistricting cycles are within the window of review, which is important because redistricting and changes related to redistricting (such as precinct boundaries and polling place changes) represent the most frequent occurrences of voting discrimination.

Conclusion

The Supreme Court decision in Shelby County v. Holder left minority voters the most vulnerable to voting discrimination they have been in decades. The record since the Shelby County decision demonstrates what voting rights advocates feared – that without Section 5, voting discrimination would increase substantially. It will only get worse with the 2020 election and the post-2020 redistricting on the horizon. For these reasons, it is imperative for Congress to act quickly.

APPENDIX A

CASES THE LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS' VOTING RIGHT PROJECT HAS PARTICIPATED IN SINCE THE SHELBY COUNTY V. HOLDER DECISION¹

Alabama

Section 2 Vote Dilution Challenge to At-Large Election to State High Courts:

On September 7, 2016, the Lawyers' Committee, on behalf of the Alabama NAACP, filed a vote dilution lawsuit under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act (VRA) in the Middle District of Alabama challenging the state's at-large method of electing justices and judges of the Alabama Supreme Court, the Court of Criminal Appeals, and the Court of Civil Appeals. The case was tried in November 2018 and the parties are awaiting a decision. Despite African Americans comprising more than one-quarter of Alabamians, none sit on any of these 3 courts, and none have been elected to any of these courts in a quarter of a century. The matter has been tried and is awaiting decision. Alabama State Conference of NAACP v. Alabama, 264 F. Supp. 3d 1280 (M.D. Ala. 2017)

Defense of Suit Challenging Congressional Apportionment and Distribution of Electoral College Votes:

The State of Alabama and Congressman Morris J. Brooks, Jr. of Alabama sued the Department of Commerce and others, alleging that the inclusion of undocumented immigrants in the total population count for congressional apportionment and Electoral College votes violates the Fourteenth Amendment, the Census Clause, and the Enumeration Clause of the U.S. Constitution, and the Administrative Procedures Act. The Lawyers' Committee successfully moved to intervene as defendants on behalf of affected local jurisdictions. The matter is pending. State of Alabama, et al. v. U.S. Dept. of Commerce, et al., No. 2:18-cv-0772-RDP (N.D. Ala., May 21, 2018).

Arizona

Challenge to At-Large Election System: Prior to the Shelby County decision, the Arizona legislature passed a law that applied only to the Maricopa County Community College District and added two at-large members to what was previously a five-single district board. The legislature had submitted the change for Section 5 preclearance. The Department of Justice issued a more information letter based on concerns that in light of racially polarized voting in Maricopa County, the addition of two at-large members , would weaken the electoral power of minority voters on the board. After receiving the more information letter, Arizona officials did not seek to implement the change. Only after the Shelby County decision did they move forward. Because it would not be possible to meet the first Gingles precondition, a Section 2 suit could not be brought, so the Lawyers' Committee and its partners sued in state court alleging that the new law violated Arizona's constitutional prohibition against special laws because the board composition of less populous counties was not changed. Reversing the intermediate court of appeal, the Arizona Supreme Court rejected the plaintiffs' argument, holding that the special laws provision of the state constitution was not violated. Gallardo v. State*, 236 Ariz. 84, 336 P.3d 717 (2014).

¹ Lawyers' Committee staff served as counsel in all of these cases except for certain cases filed on Election Day where staff worked with local counsel, who filed the case.

Challenge to Long Waiting Lines Caused by Polling Place Consolidation: The Lawyers' Committee's lawsuit challenged the reduction of polling places in Maricopa County after severe cut-backs disenfranchised voters in the 2016 presidential preference primary because of extremely long lines, hours-long wait-times and a host of election administration problems. Maricopa County is Arizona's most populous county and was a covered jurisdiction under Section 5 of the VRA with approximately 60 percent of the state's minority voters residing in the county. In February 2016, the county slashed the total number of polls from 211 in 2012 to only 60. With this reduction, there was approximately one polling place for every 21,000 voters in Maricopa County as compared to one polling place for every 1,500 voters in the rest of the state. The parties settled the case with an agreement that required Maricopa County to create a comprehensive wait-time reduction plan and a mechanism to address wait times at the polls that exceed 30 minutes. Huerena v. Reagan*, Superior Court of Arizona, Maricopa County, CV2016-07890 (D. Ariz. July 7, 2016).

Suit to Enjoin State's Two-Tier Voter Registration Process: Arizona created a two-tier voter registration process in the wake of the Supreme Court's decision in ITCA v. Arizona, which held that Arizona's documentary proof of citizenship requirement was preempted by the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA) as applied to federal elections. Confusion ensued when the state limited voters using the federal form to voting in federal elections, even if the state had information in its possession confirming the applicant was a United States citizen. The Lawyers' Committee and other civil rights organizations sued, alleging that the state's two-tier registration process constituted an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote. The parties settled the matter with an agreement that allows the state to continue to require proof of citizenship to register to vote in state elections, but requires the state to treat federal and state registration forms the same and to check motor vehicle databases for citizenship documentation before limiting users of the federal registration form to voting in federal elections. League of United Latin Am. Citizens Arizona v. Reagan, No. CV17-4102 PHX DGC, 2018 WL 5983009 (D. Ariz. Nov. 14, 2018).

Election Day Suit Seeking Extensions of Polling Hours in Maricopa County:

On Election Day, November 6, 2018, Plaintiffs, in coordination with the Lawyers' Committee's Election Protection program, filed an emergent action, seeking an extension of the voting hours at all of Maricopa County's mega voting centers, which had suffered technology problems leading to the sites being closed for significant periods of time. The state court denied the request for emergency relief. Arizona Advocacy Network v. Maricopa Co. Bd. of Supervisors, et al., No. cv-20-8-013943 (Superior Court of Ariz., County of Maricopa, Nov. 6, 2018).

California

Successful Challenge to Decision by Secretary of Commerce to Add Citizenship Question to 2020 Census:

On April 17, 2018, the City of San Jose and the Black Alliance for Just Immigration, represented by the Lawyers' Committee and other counsel, filed a Complaint in the Northern District of California under the Enumeration Clause of the Constitution and the Administrative Procedure Act seeking an injunction against the March 26, 2018 decision by Secretary of Commerce Wilbur Ross to add a citizenship question to the 2020 Census questionnaire. The decision was made, ostensibly, in response to a request by the Department of Justice, which professed a need for the question in order to allow it to prosecute actions under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The Complaint alleged that the addition of the question would diminish the quality and accuracy of the Census count, further decrease the undercount of minority and immigrant populations, and was arbitrary and capricious and contrary to law. After trial, on March 6, 2019, the District Court ruled that the Secretary's decision was arbitrary and capricious under the APA and violated the Enumeration Clause. On June 27, 2019, in a companion case, U.S. Dept. of Commerce v. Ross, the Supreme Court issued a decision affirming the finding that the Secretary had violated the APA because he had contrived false reasons for his decision, leading to entry of final judgment in the California case, permanently enjoining Ross from adding the question to the Census. City of San Jose, et al. v. Wilbur Ross, et al. (N.D. Ca., No. 3:18-cv-2279-RS).

Florida

Suit Seeking Extension of Registration Deadline for Counties Affected by Hurricane Michael: In the wake of the devastation wreaked by Hurricane Michael, plaintiffs sought an emergency extension of the voter registration deadline in counties that had been particularly affected; the application was denied. New Florida Majority Educ. Fund, et al. v. Detzner, No. 4:18-cv-00466-RH-CAS (N.D. Fla., October –, 2018).

Georgia

Challenge to Georgia’s Electronic Ballot System as Insecure and Not Allowing Voters To Check Their Vote: The Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel represented the Coalition for Good Governance and individual plaintiffs in a suit challenging Georgia’s use of electronic ballot machines system, alleging that the vulnerability of the machines to tampering and their failure to have a paper back-up so voters can verify their votes violate the constitutional right to vote. On August 9, 2019, the district court preliminarily enjoined the state’s use of their direct-recording electronic voting machines for all elections after December 31, 2019. The court further directed that, if the state is unable to implement completely a new system beginning January 2020, it must be ready to use paper ballots. The court also ordered that the state ensure that all polling places have paper back-ups for their electronic polling books. Donna Curling, et al. v. Brian Kemp, et al. No. 1:17-cv-02989-AT (N.D. Ga., August 8, 2017).

First State Challenge to Georgia’s “Exact Match” Law Which Disproportionately Disenfranchises African American, Latino and Asian American Voters: The Lawyers’ Committee brought this action in state court, seeking a writ of mandate compelling county registrars to process voter registration applications submitted by its client the New Georgia Project. The state had been cancelling voter registration applications which failed to exactly match Social Security or Georgia Driver’s Service Records, unless the applicants contacted their county registrars to resolve the non-match within 40 days. Compounding the problem, county registrars would stop processing all voter registration applications for 90 days from the close of voter registration for state primary elections at the end of April until runoffs were over in August, the height of voter registration drives. As a result, the controverted applications were not appearing on any active or pending voter registration lists. After the county registrars starting processing the applications again in August, registrants began seeing their applications cancelled right before the close of voter registration for the general election on Election Day. The court denied the petition for a writ of mandate, ruling that state law did not require counties to process voter registration forms on any particular deadline other than by Election Day. Third Sector Development, et al. v. Kemp, et al., Fulton County Superior Court, Case No. 2014CV252546, 2014 WL 5113630 (October 10, 2014)

First Federal Challenge to Georgia’s “Exact Match” Law Which Disproportionately Disenfranchises African American, Latino and Asian American Voters: This suit, brought by the Lawyers’ Committee and a coalition of civil rights organizations, alleged that Georgia’s “exact match” voter registration process, which required information on voter registration forms to exactly match information about the applicant on Social Security Administration (SSA) or the state’s Department of Driver’s Services (DDS) databases, violated Section 2 of the VRA, the NVRA, and imposed an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments. Under the “exact match” process, more than 40,000 applicants were in “pending” status in 2016 because the information on their voter registration applications did not exactly match the DDS or SSA database information. The suit was settled when the State agreed to allow all such persons to vote, upon showing acceptable voter ID at polling places. Georgia State Conference of NAACP, et al., v. Brian Kemp, et al. (N.D. Ga. No. 2:16-cv-00219-WCO, September 14, 2016).

Second Challenge to Georgia’s “Exact Match” Law Which Disproportionately Disenfranchises African American, Latino and Asian American Voters and Naturalized Citizens: This is the second challenge to Georgia’s “exact match” practice. After the Georgia legislature passed a statute again establishing an “exact match” system, the Lawyers’ Committee and a coalition of civil rights organizations filed suit in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Georgia against then Georgia Secretary of State, Brian Kemp, alleging that Georgia’s “exact match” voter registration process, violated Section 2 of the VRA, the NVRA, and imposed an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote in violation of the First and Fourteenth Amendments. Under the “exact match” process, more than 53,000 applicants were in “pending” status in 2018 because the information on their voter registration applications did not exactly match the DDS or SSA database information or because the process inaccurately flagged United States citizens as potential non-citizens. On November 2, 2018, the Court partially granted Plaintiffs’ motion for preliminary relief, ordering that Georgians inaccurately flagged as non-citizens could vote using a regular ballot if they provided proof of citizenship to a poll manager rather than a deputy registrar (who might not be at the polling station), when voting at the polls for the first time. The Georgia legislature subsequently amended the “exact match” law in 2019 to permit applicants who fail the “exact match” process for reasons of identity to become active voters, but the Legislature chose not to enact any remedial legislation to reform the “exact match” process that continues to inaccurately flag United States citizens as non-citizens. The litigation is pending. Georgia Coal. for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018).

Challenge to Georgia’s Rejection of Absentee Ballots Based upon Alleged Signature Matching and Immaterial Errors or Omissions: On October 23, 2018, the Lawyers’ Committee joined lawsuits challenging the state’s practices of 1) rejecting absentee ballots based upon election officials’ untrained conclusion that the voter’s signature on the absentee ballot envelope did not match the voter’s signature on file with the registrar’s office, and 2) rejecting absentee ballots for immaterial errors or omissions on the ballot envelope. Georgia had an extraordinarily high rate of absentee ballot rejections generally, but the rejection rate in Gwinnett County was almost 3 times that of the state and absentee ballots cast by voters of color were rejected by Gwinnett County at a rate between 2 and 4 times the rejection rate of absentee ballots cast by white voters. Plaintiffs were granted preliminary relief before the November 2018 mid-term election. Subsequently, Georgia enacted remedial legislation and the lawsuits were voluntarily dismissed in 2019. Martin v. Kemp, No. 18-14503-GG (N.D. Ga. 2018).

Challenge to Georgia’s Unlawful Registration Scheme Relating to Federal Runoff Elections: In this case, the Lawyers’ Committee challenged Georgia’s runoff election voter registration scheme as a violation of NVRA. Under Georgia law, eligible Georgians were required to register to vote on the fifth Monday before a general or primary election in order to be eligible to vote in a runoff election if no candidate received a majority of the vote. The runoff election would generally be held about two months after the general or primary election. As a result, Georgians would be required to register to vote approximately three months before a runoff election in order to participate in that election. Under Section 8 of the NVRA (52 U.S.C. § 20507(a)(1)), states are prohibited from setting voter registration deadlines in excess of thirty days before a federal election. Thus, Georgia’s runoff election voter registration scheme violated this provision of the NVRA and the District Court granted a preliminary injunction enjoining the state from using the longer deadline ahead of the Georgia Sixth Congressional Runoff Election in June 2017. Subsequently, the parties settled the matter with the Secretary of State agreeing not to enforce a voter registration deadline that violated Section 8 of the NVRA. Georgia State Conference NAACP v. Georgia, No. 1:17-CV-1397-TCB (N.D. Ga. May 4, 2017).

Suit Challenging State Legislative Redistricting: Civil rights organizations and voters, represented by the Lawyers' Committee, filed suit in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia, challenging the State legislature's post-Shelby 2015 redistricting of two legislative districts as racial and partisan gerrymanders. The Plaintiffs alleged the legislature targeted African American population in drawing the districting plans to increase the electoral advantage of white Republicans as the districts were becoming more competitive for Black Democrats. After African American candidates were elected to seats in both of the challenged districts in November 2018, the parties agreed to voluntary dismissals of the actions. Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Georgia, No. 1:17-CV-1427 (N.D. Ga. 2017).

Challenge to Purge of Mostly Black Voters in Hancock County: Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers' Committee, filed this action on November 3, 2015 in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Georgia. This case challenged the removal of 53 voters, 51 of whom were African Americans, from the voter rolls of a small, predominately Black county. The purge occurred just prior to a hotly contested election in Sparta, the largest city in Hancock County, and white candidate was elected mayor for the first time in decades. The case was brought under Section 2 of the VRA and Section 8 of the NVRA. Immediately, the District Court directed Defendants to restore qualified purged voters to the registration rolls or show cause why they would not do so. As a result, 17 voters were restored to the rolls; two others would have been restored, but had died in the interim; and eight voters were placed into inactive status, but remained eligible to vote by producing proof of their residency when requesting a ballot. The parties subsequently mediated the case, which resulted in a settlement in which the Defendants agreed to comply with the NVRA before removing anyone from the voter rolls and to be subject to monitoring by a court appointed examiner. On March 30, 2018, the Court granted the parties' Joint Motion for Entry of Consent Decree. Compliance with the Consent Decree is being actively monitored by the Court appointed examiner. Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Hancock Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration, No. 5:15-CV-00414 (CAR) (M.D. Ga. 2015).

Vote Dilution Lawsuit Challenging District Plans for Gwinnett County: Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers' Committee and other civil rights organizations, filed a vote dilution suit under Section 2 of the VRA challenging the districting plans for the County Board of Commissioners and Board of Education. At the time the lawsuit was filed, no African American, Latino or Asian American candidates had ever won election to these boards, despite the fact that Gwinnett

County is considered to be one of the most racially diverse counties in the Southeastern United States. After two long-term incumbents chose not to run for re-election to the School Board in the 2018 mid-term election, and with the minority population of the county continuing to grow, African American and Asian American candidates were finally elected to the County Commission and an African American candidate was elected to the School Board for the first time in the county's history. Following these electoral successes, the parties agreed to a voluntary dismissal of the litigation. Ga. State Conference of the NAACP v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Registrations & Elections, No: 1:16-cv-02852 (N.D. Ga. 2016).

Suit to Extend Registration Period for Communities Hard-Hit by Hurricane

Matthew: The Lawyers' Committee sought emergency relief to extend the voter registration for Chatham County, Georgia residents in the wake of Hurricane Matthew. The storm had resulted in the closing of County government offices for what would have been the last six days of the voter registration period. Despite requests to extend the deadline, both Governor Nathan Deal and Secretary of State Brian Kemp, refused to extend the deadline for Chatham County residents. Chatham County, which includes the city of Savannah, has over 200,000 voting age citizens, of whom more than 40 percent are African American or Latino. It was hit particularly hard by the devastating storm. Almost half of its residents lost power, and it was one of six counties subject to a mandatory evacuation order. Following a hearing on the plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction on October 14, 2016, the Court ordered that the voter registration deadline for Chatham County residents be extended from October 11, 2016 to October 18, 2016. As a result of this extension, approximately 1,418 additional Chatham County residents registered in time to be eligible to vote in the November 2016 general election. Approximately 41 percent of these new registrants are African American, 4.5 percent are Latino and 38.6 percent are white. Georgia Coalition for the Peoples' Agenda, et al., v. John Nathan Deal, et al. (S.D. Ga., No. 4:16-cv-0269-WTM-GRS, October 12, 2016).

Challenge to District Lines of Emanuel County School Board as Dilutive of Black Votes: Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers' Committee, alleged that the district boundaries for the Emanuel County School Board violated Section 2 of the VRA. The complaint alleged that the then current map of seven School Board districts impermissibly diluted the voting strength of African American voters by "packing" them into one district. African Americans comprises 81 percent of the voting-age population in one of the districts and a minority in all of the other six. Although African Americans made up one-third of the county's voting-age population and close to half of the students in Emanuel County, and although African American candidates had run in other districts, there had never been more than one African American member on the School Board at one time. After suit was filed, the parties negotiated a settlement, resulting in the creation of two majority-minority single-member districts. Georgia State Conference of NAACP, et al., v. Emanuel County Board of Commissioners, et al., (S.D. Ga., No. 6:16-cv-021, February 23, 2016).

Election Day Suits to Extend Voting Hours: Plaintiffs, working with the Lawyers' Committee's Election Protection program, filed two suits on Election Day 2018 to extend voting hours in precincts with large African-American populations, that had suffered technology failures, resulting in extraordinarily long lines. The court granted hours' long extensions at the Booker T. Washington and Morehouse College Archer Auditorium Precincts, and Pittman Park Recreation Center precincts. Georgia State Conference of NAACP, et al. v. Fulton County Bd. of Reg. & Elections (Superior Ct. of Fulton County, State of Georgia, Nov. 6, 2018).

Indiana

Election Day Suit to Extend Voting Hours: Plaintiffs, in a suit coordinated by the Lawyers' Committee's Election Protection program, unsuccessfully sought emergent relief to extend the voting hours in Johnson County, Indiana, because polling places had run out of paper ballots. Dan Newland v. Johnson Co., et al., (Johnson County Superior Court, State of Indiana, November 6, 2018).

Kansas

Defense against Attempt to Change Federal Registration Form re Proof of Citizenship: The Lawyers' Committee intervened on behalf of the Inter Tribal Council of Arizona, Inc. to successfully defeat an attempt by the states of Arizona and Kansas to modify the state-specific instructions of the federal mail voter registration form to require applicants residing in Kansas and Arizona to submit proof-of-citizenship documents in accordance with state law. Kobach v. U.S. Election Assistance Commission, 772 F. 3d 1183 (10th Cir. 2015).

Louisiana

Challenge to State's Districting Plan for Electing Justices to Supreme Court: The Lawyers' Committee's Complaint alleges that the method of electing members of the Louisiana Supreme Court violates the Voting Rights Act. The suit maintains that Louisiana’s electoral map for electing justices denies black voters an equal opportunity to elect justices of their choice. Louisiana’s population is 32% African American but just one of state’s seven Supreme Court districts is majority-black in population. As a result, six of the seven justices on the most powerful court in the state are white. The suit, which highlights that the state’s Supreme Court districts have not been redrawn since 1999, alleges that a second majority-black district must be drawn to address the harm to black voters. Louisiana State Conference of the NAACP, et al., v. State of Louisiana, et al. (M.D. La., No. 3:19-cv-00479-JWD-EWD, July 23, 2019).

Mississippi

Challenge to Redistricting of State Senate District: On July 9, 2018, Black Mississippi voters filed a challenging the districting plan for Mississippi State Senate District 22 under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers’ Committee and Mississippi Center for Justice contended that the plan diluted the voting strength of Black voters and, combined with racially polarized voting, prevented them from electing candidates of their choice to the Senate District 22 seat. Plaintiffs prevailed at trial and the trial court gave the Legislature an opportunity to re-draw the district to comply with the court’s decision. After failing to obtain a stay of the court’s order, the Legislature redrew the district to create a district with a sufficiently large Black voting population to give Black voters an equal opportunity to elect candidates of their preference. The Fifth Circuit affirmed the district court’s decision. Thomas v. Bryant*, 919 F.3d 298 (5th Cir. 2019).

Suit Challenging State’s Restrictive Absentee Ballot Procedures: On November 21, 2018, Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers’ Committee, filed a complaint challenging, on federal constitutional right to vote grounds, Mississippi’s unique combination of requiring notarization of both the absentee ballot application and the ballot itself, in addition to a deadline of receipt of the ballot the day before election day. Plaintiffs also sought emergency relief to compel the counting of ballots post-marked by election day (November 27) in the senatorial run-off, where voters had only 9 days – including Thanksgiving weekend – to apply for, obtain, and cast their absentee ballots. The court denied relief on November 27, 2019 on grounds that it was too close to the election to order relief. The case is still pending. O’Neil v. Hosemann*, No: 3:18-cv-00815 (S.D. Miss. Nov. 27, 2018).

New York

Suit to Restore Voting Rights to New Yorkers Who Were Removed from Poll Books in Violation of Federal Law: The Lawyers' Committee and another civil rights organization filed suit to restore the voting rights of millions of New Yorkers ahead of the 2018 election. Plaintiffs alleged that certain eligible but "inactive" voters are improperly removed from poll books throughout New York State in violation of the NVRA. Plaintiffs contend that the removal of inactive voters from the poll books disproportionately impacts voters of color. The litigation is continuing. Common Cause/New York v. Brehm, Case No. 1:17-cv-06770 (S.D.N.Y 2017).

Suit Challenging Purge of New York City Voters: On November 3, 2016, the Lawyers' Committee and another civil rights organization filed suit alleging that the New York City Board of Elections (NYCBOE) had purged voters from the rolls in violation of the NVRA. Plaintiffs sought the restoration of all purged voters to the registration list, and also that the NYCBOE count all affidavit ballots cast by these individuals in the November 2016 election. Earlier in 2016, the NYCBOE had confirmed that more than 126,000 Brooklyn voters were removed from the rolls between the summer of 2015 and the April 2016 primary election. Shortly before the November 2016 election, the parties reached an agreement under which the NYCBOE agreed to provide various forms of notice to poll workers and voters concerning the requirement that all voters who believed they were registered were to be offered an affidavit ballot on Election Day. The NYCBOE also agreed to send absentee ballots to two individual plaintiffs who had previously been purged from the registration list. After further negotiations and the entry of the State of New York and the U.S. Department of Justice in the case, the NYCBOE agreed to place persons who were on inactive status or removed from the rolls back on the rolls if they lived at the address listed in their voter registration file and/or if they had voted in at least one election in New York City since November 1, 2012 and still lived in the city. Subsequently, the parties negotiated a Consent Decree, under which the NYCBOE agreed to comply with the NVRA before removing anyone from the rolls, and to subject itself to a four-year auditing and monitoring regimen. The Consent Decree was approved by the Court in December 2017 and is being monitored by the plaintiffs. Common Cause/New York v. Board of Elections in City of New York (E.D.N.Y., No. 1:16-cv-06122-NGG-VMS).

North Carolina

Challenge to At-Large Method of Electing Jones County Commissioners as Dilutive of Black Voters' Rights: Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers' Committee, challenged the at-large scheme of electing members to the Jones County,

NC Board of Commissioners under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Due to the at-large method of electing members to the Jones County Board of Commissioners, which diluted the voting strength of African American voters, no African American candidate had been elected to the Jones County Board of Commissioners since 1998. The parties eventually settled the matter with an agreement that the Board of Commissioners would implement a seven single-member district electoral plan, including two single-member districts in which African-American voters constitute a majority of the voting-age population. Hall v. Jones Cty. Bd. of Commissioners, No. 4:17-cv-00018 (E.D.N.C. Aug. 23, 2017).

Suit Alleging Violation of Sections 5 and 7 of NVRA: Since 2013, North Carolina has seen a precipitous drop in the number of voter registration applications offered and collected at public assistance agencies and DMV offices across the state. In particular, the drop in public assistance registration significantly and detrimentally affects low income voters of color. Suit was filed in December 2015, by the Lawyers' Committee and other civil rights organizations, alleging that North Carolina was violating Sections 5 and 7 of the NVRA, in not adequately making assistance to register to vote available to people who visit motor vehicle and public assistance agencies. The case settled in 2018, with substantial improvements made at both DMV and NC social service agencies in how voter registration applications are offered and processed. Action NC, et al. v. Kim Westbrook Strach, et al. (M.D.N.C., No. 1:15-cv-01063).

Pennsylvania

Election Day Challenge to Acceptance of Absentee Ballots: On Election Day, 2018, Plaintiff, coordinating with the Lawyers' Committee's Election Protection program, obtained a court order from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania allowing her to vote her absentee ballot which had been rejected because of Pennsylvania's overly-restrictive time requirements, due to no fault of Plaintiff.

Challenge to Absentee Ballot Deadline: On November 13, 2018, Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers' Committee and other civil rights organizations, filed a challenge under Pennsylvania's and the federal constitutions, alleging that Pennsylvania's requirement that absentee ballots must be received by the Friday before election day violates the right to vote. The suit is pending. Cassandra Adams Jones, et al. v. Robert Torres, et al. (Commonwealth Court of Pennsylvania, No. 717 MD 2018, Nov. 13, 2018).

South Dakota

Challenge to Lack of Access for Native Americans to Polling Place Locations: This suit, brought by the Lawyers' Committee in 2014, challenged the failure of Jackson County to maintain a voting and registration location sufficiently convenient to the Pine Ridge Reservation of the Oglala Sioux Tribe. After suit was filed, the County passed a resolution to open a location in proximity to the Reservation for federal elections over the next four years. The suit was subsequently dismissed as moot. Thomas Poor Bear, et al. v. The County of Jackson, et al., (D. S.D.No. 5:14-cv-05059-KES).

Tennessee

Suit Challenging New Law Restricting Voter Registration Activity: The Lawyers' Committee, representing several civil rights organizations, filed suit the day the Governor signed into law a statute that imposes severe restrictions on voter registration activity by community groups and third parties and includes criminal and civil penalties for failures to comply with the law. The law was enacted in the wake of successful large-scale voter registration initiatives in the state in 2018 which targeted minority and underserved communities. The case is pending. Tennessee State Conference of the N.A.A.C.P. v. Hargett, Case No. 3:19-cv-00365 (M.D. Tenn. 2019).

Texas

Challenge to Restrictive Voter ID Law: This Was a Federal court action, brought by several civil rights organizations, including the Lawyers' Committee, and the Department of Justice, challenging the Texas voter ID law under Section 2 of the VRA and the U.S. Constitution. In October 2014, the district judge ruled in Plaintiffs' favor on all claims and blocked the law, holding that it violated Section 2 of the VRA, constituted an unconstitutional burden on the right to vote, amounted to a poll tax, and was motivated in part by a racially discriminatory purpose. In July 2016, the Fifth Circuit, sitting en banc, affirmed the district court's finding of discriminatory effect under Section 2, and remanded the case to the district court for further fact-finding on the discriminatory intent claim. The district court entered an interim remedial order that allowed anyone to vote without the required ID. On April 10, 2017, the district court issued a decision re-affirming its prior determination that SB 14 was passed, at least in part, with a discriminatory intent. On June 1, 2017, Texas passed a new law, SB 5, which it claimed remedied the effects of SB 14. While SB 5 shares provisions in common with the court-ordered interim remedy, there are aspects of concern, including a harsh felony penalty (up to two years of imprisonment) for voters who inappropriately use the affidavit process for voting in-person without an acceptable photo ID. On August 23, 2017, the court granted declaratory relief, holding that SB 14 violated Section 2 of the VRA and the 14th and 15th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. The court enjoined SB 14 and SB 5, finding that the new law “perpetuates SB 14’s discriminatory features.” On April 27, 2018, the Fifth Circuit issued an opinion “reversing and rendering” the district court’s order for permanent injunction and further relief, finding that the district court had abused its discretion, and further finding that SB 5 constituted an effective remedy “for the only deficiencies in SB 14,” and that there was no equitable basis for subjecting Texas to ongoing federal election scrutiny under Section 3(c) of the Voting Rights Act. Veasey v. Abbott*, 888 F.3d 792 (5th Cir. 2018).

Challenge to Attempted Purge of Naturalized Citizens: In late January 2019, David Whitley, Texas’ Secretary of State, sent Texas counties a list containing 95,000 registered voters and directing the counties to investigate their voting eligibility. The list was based on DMV data the state knew was flawed and would necessarily sweep in thousands of citizens who completed the naturalization process after lawfully applying for a Texas drivers’ license. Naturalized citizens are entitled to full voting rights under Constitution. Voting rights advocates, including the Lawyers’ Committee, filed lawsuits challenging the purging of voters based upon this flawed process. The case was eventually settled after the U.S. District Court in Texas granted a motion for preliminary injunction, enjoining the removal of voters from the rolls based upon this flawed process. Texas League of United Latino American Citizens v. Whitley*, No. 5:19-cv-00074 (W.D. Tex. February 27, 2019).

Challenge to At-Large Election of Texas High Courts as Diluting Votes of the Latinx Population: The Lawyers’ Committee brought this suit challenging the at-large voting districts for the Texas Supreme Court and the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, as unlawfully diluting the votes of Latinx voters, who, despite comprising a sizeable percentage of Texans, had not elected a candidate of their choice to either of these courts for decades. Although the court found, after trial, that plaintiffs had met the basic standards for a violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, it denied relief on the primary basis that partisanship, rather than race, explained the election results. Lopez, et al. v. Abbott*, (S.D. Tex., 2:16-cv-00303, July 20, 2016).

Utah

Suit Challenging County’s Failure to Provide Effective Language Assistance and In-Person Early Voting Sites for Navajo Nation Voters: San Juan County, Utah is home to a substantial Native American population. The County moved to all-mail balloting in 2014. Coupled with a lack of sufficient in-person early voting sites serving the Navajo Nation’s voters, Plaintiffs, represented by the Lawyers’ Committee and other civil rights organizations, argued that the county failed to provide effective language assistance to its Native American population. Following a period of intense and sometimes contentious litigation, the parties reached a settlement in which the county agreed to 1) provide in-person language assistance on the Navajo reservation for the 28 days prior to each election through the 2020 general election; 2) maintain three polling sites on the Navajo reservation for election day voting, including language assistance; and 3) to take additional action to ensure quality interpretation of election information and materials in the Navajo language. The settlement is being monitored by the plaintiffs. Navajo Nation Human Rights Comm’n v. San Juan County, 216CV00154JNPBCW, 2017 WL 3976564, at *1 (D. Utah Sept. 7, 2017).

Virginia

Suit to Extend Registration Deadline: In 2016, Virginia’s state online voter registration platform crashed during the last days of voter registration, leading up to the October 17th voter registration deadline. The Lawyers’ Committee, working with local civil rights groups, filed suit in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Virginia, after the Commonwealth had refused a request to extend the time for registration. After a hearing, the court ordered Virginia to extend the deadline until midnight October 21. As a result, approximately 28,000 Virginians registered to vote, who otherwise would not have been able to. New Virginia Majority Education Fund, et al. v. Virginia Department of Elections, et al., No. 1:16-cv-013190CMH-MSN, N.D.VA, Alexandria Division.

Washington, D.C.

Challenge to Decision by the Election Assistance Commission’s Executive Director to Include Proof of Citizenship Requirement on Federal Registration Form Instructions: In January 2016, EAC Executive Director Brian Newby, acting without input from the EAC Commissioners, issued notice to Alabama, Georgia, and Kansas that the federal registration form instructions would be amended to allow these states to require citizenship documents from applicants who use the federal registration form. Plaintiffs, represented by a number of civil rights organizations including the Lawyers’ Committee, filed suit to enjoin Newby’s action and the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit preliminarily enjoined the EAC from changing the federal voter registration form after the District Court for the District of Columbia denied Plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction. The parties have fully briefed cross-motions for summary judgment and the action remains pending. League of Women Voters of United States v. Newby, 838 F.3d 1 (D.C. Cir. 2016).

Challenge to Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity: On May 11, 2017, President Trump established the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity, to study the registration and voting processes used in Federal elections, including those that “could lead to improper voter registrations and improper voting, including fraudulent voter registrations and fraudulent voting.” Exec. Order 13799. The Commission was chaired by Vice President Pence, but its Vice-Chair is Kansas Secretary of State Kris Kobach, a known advocate of laws and regulations that have the effect of suppressing votes, particularly those of minority voters. Other members of the Commission included Hans Von Spakovsky, Christian Adams, and Ken Blackwell, all advocates of similar laws and regulations. On June 28, 2017, the Commission held a meeting after which Kobach sent a letter to every state requesting the production of information relating to every voter in the nation, including political affiliation and the last four digits of their social security numbers. This meeting was not open to the public. The Commission also announced that its next meeting would be held on July 19, 2017, but would be open to the public only via video streaming. On July 10, 2017, the Lawyers' Committee filed an action on its own behalf, seeking production of all Commission records under Section 10 of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, simultaneously seeking a temporary restraining order that would require the Commission to produce its records prior to the July 19 meeting, and would open that meeting to in-person public participation. On July 18, 2017, Judge Kollar-Kotelly issued an opinion denying the TRO application on the bases that (1) the Commission had submitted an affidavit promising to make all documents public; (2) there was no requirement that the documents be produced prior to the July 19 meeting; and (3) there was no requirement for in-person public participation. The Commission proceeded with its meeting on July 19. On July 21, Plaintiff filed motions on the basis that the Commission had not fulfilled its commitment to produce all records and documents. After reviewing the briefing, the Court set a hearing date of August 30, at which time DOJ apologized on behalf of its client, the Commission, for not disclosing all the documents it had promised to disclose. The Court ordered that the Commission prepare a Vaughn Index, listing all documents it is withholding from production and that the parties meet and confer to discuss the specifics and timing of the Vaughn Index. On September 29, the federal government provided Plaintiff with its Vaughn Index, which indicated, among other things, that there were communications between some of the members of the Commission on substantive matters that had not been disclosed to the public. The Lawyers' Committee then filed a motion to compel compliance with the court's prior order, which is fully briefed and pending decision. On January 3, 2018, President Trump announced that he was dissolving the Commission. The suit was subsequently dismissed. Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law v. Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity, et al., D.D.C. No. 1:17-cv-01354-CKK, July 10, 2017.

Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity – FOIA: On January 26, 2018, the Lawyers' Committee filed a complaint on its own behalf in the District Court for the District of Columbia, seeking compliance by the Department of Justice and the Department of Homeland Security with FOIA requests for documents relating to the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity. The matter is pending. Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law v. U.S. Dept. of Justice, D.D.C. No. 1:18-cv-00167-EGS, January 26, 2018.

Appendix B – Summary Table of Cases which the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law's Voting Rights Project has participated in since Shelby County v. Holder
Case Name	Year Filed	State	Result	Opposing Covered Jurisdiction	Challenging Voting Change	Section 2 Claim
Alabama State Conference of the NAACP v. State of Alabama	2017	Alabama	Pending	Y	N	Y
State of Alabama v. US Dept. of Commerce	2018	Alabama	Pending	Y	N	N
Gallardo v. State of Arizona	2014	Arizona	Negative	Y	Y	N
Huerena v. Reagan, Superior Court of Arizona	2016	Arizona	Positive	Y	Y	N
League of United Latin American Citizens of Arizona v. Reagan	2018	Arizona	Positive	Y	Y	N
Arizona Advocacy Network v. Maricopa County Board of Supervisors	2018	Arizona	Negative	Y	N	N
City of San Jose v. Wilbur Ross	2018	California	Positive	N, Federal Gov't	N	N
New Florida Majority Education Fund v. Detzner	2018	Florida	Negative	No	N	N
Donna Curling v. Brian Kemp	2017	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	N
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Brian Kemp	2016	Georgia	Positive	Y	Y	Y (+)
Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda v. Brian Kemp	2018	Georgia	Positive	Y	Y	Y (+)
Martin v. Kemp	2018	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	N
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Georgia (Runoff Elections)	2017	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	N
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Georgia (Redistricting)	2017	Georgia	Positive	Y	Y	N
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Hancock County Board of Elections and Registration	2015	Georgia	Positive	Y	Y	Y (+)
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Gwinnett County Board of Registration and Elections	2016	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	Y

Case Name	Year Filed	State	Result	Opposing Covered Jurisdiction	Challenging Voting Change	Section 2 Claim
Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda v. John Nathan Deal	2016	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	Y
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Emanuel County Board of Commissioners	2016	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	Y
Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Fulton County Board of Registrations and Elections	2018	Georgia	Positive	Y	N	N
Third Sector Development, et al. v. Kemp, et al.	2014	Georgia	Negative	Y	N	N
Dan Newland v. Johnson County	2018	Indiana	Negative	N	N	N
Kobach v. U.S. Election Assistance Commission	2013	Kansas	Positive	Y	N	N
Louisiana State Conference of the NAACP v. State of Louisiana	2019	Louisiana	Pending	Y	N	Y
Thomas v. Bryant	2018	Mississippi	Positive	Y	N	Y
O'Neil v. Hosemann	2018	Mississippi	Pending	Y	N	N
Common Cause New York v. Brehm	2017	New York	Pending	Y	N	N
Common Cause New York v. Board of Elections in the City of New York	2016	New York	Positive	Y	Y	N
Hall v. Jones County Board of Commissioners	2017	North Carolina	Positive	N	N	Y
Action North Carolina v. Kim Westbrook Strach	2015	North Carolina	Positive	Y	N	N
Election Day Challenged to Acceptance of Absentee Ballots	2018	Pennsylvania	Positive	N	N	N
Cassandra Adams Jones v. Robert Torres	2018	Pennsylvania	Pending	N	N	N
Thomas Poor Bear v. The County of Jackson	2014	South Dakota	Positive	N	N	Y
Tennessee State Conference of the NAACP v. Hargett	2019	Tennessee	Pending	N	Y	N
Veasey v. Abbott	2018	Texas	Positive	Y	Y	Y (+)
Texas League of United Latin American Citizens v. Whitley	2019	Texas	Positive	Y	Y	Y (+)

Case Name	Year Filed	State	Result	Opposing Covered Jurisdiction	Challenging Voting Change	Section 2 Claim
Lopez v. Abbott	2016	Texas	Negative	Y	N	Y
Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission v. San Juan	2017	Utah	Positive	N	Y	Y (+)
New Virginia Majority Education Fund v. Virginia Department of Elections	2016	Virginia	Positive	Y	N	N
League of Women Voters of United States v. Newby	2016	Washington, DC	Positive	N, Federal Gov't	Y	N
Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law v. Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity	2017	Washington, DC	Positive	N, Federal Gov't	N	N
Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law v. US Dept. of Justice	2018	Washington, DC	Pending	N, Federal Gov't	N	N

Legend
Case Name = name of the case
Year Filed = year in which case was filed
State = State of the court the case was filed in, including the federal court
Result
Positive = positive change resulting from case if representing plaintiff, no change if representing defendant
Negative = no change resulting from case if representing plaintiff, change if representing defendant
Pending = case still pending with no positive or negative results yet
Opposing Covered Jurisdiction
Y= an opposing party was covered under Section 5,
N = no opposing party was covered under Section 5,
N, Fed Gov't = the federal government is the opposing party
Challenging Voting Change
Y = Yes, challenged voting change
N = No, did not challenge voting change
Section 2 Claim
Y = Only a Section 2 claim
Y (+) = Section 2 is one of multiple claims
N = no Section 2 claim

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS
U N D E R L A W

PRELIMINARY REPORT ON

Voting
Discrimination Against Racial and Ethnic Minorities
1994–2019

ABOUT THE LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law (Lawyers' Committee), a nonpartisan, nonprofit organization, was formed in 1963 at the request of President John F. Kennedy to involve the private bar in providing legal services to address racial discrimination. The principal mission of the Lawyers' Committee is to secure, through the rule of law, equal justice under the law, particularly in the areas of criminal justice, fair housing and fair lending, voting, education, and economic justice. For more information about the Lawyers' Committee, visit www.lawyerscommittee.org.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A tremendous thank you to the Voting Rights Project team of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law: Pooja Chaudhuri, Jacob Conrack, Brendan Downes, Jon Greenbaum, Julie Houk, Paul Joffe, Marcia Johnson-Blanco, Luis Patino, John Powers, Ezra Rosenberg, and Ryan Snow. We also thank the following firms in our pro bono network for their significant contributions: Ballard Spahr LLP; Bryan Cave Leighton Paisner LLP; Carlton Fields, P.A.; Crowell & Moring LLP; Duane Morris LLP; Holland & Knight LLP; King & Spalding LLP; Kirkland & Ellis LLP; Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, P.L.C.; Nelson Mullins Riley & Scarborough LLP; Preti, Flaherty, Beliveau & Pachios, Chartered, LLP; Proskauer Rose LLP; Ropes & Gray LLP; Seeger Weiss LLP; WilmerHale LLP.

1500 K St., N.W., 9th Floor | Washington, D.C. 2005 | Phone: 202-662-8600

A publication of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law. CC-BY2019. This publication is covered by the Creative Commons Attribution (CC BY) license (see creativecommons.org). It may be reproduced in its entirety or modified as long as the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law is credited, a link to the license is included, and if changes were made to the original document, notification that changes were made is noted.

This is the Preliminary Report of Racial and Ethnic Discrimination in Voting, 1994-2019 prepared by the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law. When completed, this Report will present in a unified package all administrative actions and court proceedings between 1994 and the present, based on claims of voting discrimination by state or local jurisdictions, that resulted in critical protections for protected racial or ethnic groups.

The Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law has a unique vantage point from which to analyze this information. Since 1963, when President John F. Kennedy enlisted the private bar's leadership and resources in combating racial discrimination, the Lawyers' Committee has been at the forefront of the battle for equal rights. The Lawyers' Committee created and staffed the National Commission on the Voting Rights Act, which made the largest contribution to the record supporting the 2006 reauthorization of the Voting Rights Act,¹ and participated in the legal defense of the two cases challenging the constitutionality of the reauthorization, *Northwest Austin Municipal Utility District No. 1 v. Holder*² and Shelby Coun- ty v. Holder.³ In 2014, the Lawyers' Committee organized the National Commission on Voting Rights which issued a report documenting ongoing voting discrimination.⁴ For almost two decades, the Lawyers' Committee has led Election Protection, the largest and longest-running non-partisan voter protection program in the country. And, to this day, the Lawyers' Committee's docket of significant voting rights litigation is among the most comprehensive and far-reaching—both geographically and in terms of the issues raised—as any in the nation.

This preliminary report identifies approximately 340 instances between 1994 and the present where actions by state or local governments gave rise to either a finding of racial discrimination in voting by the Attorney General or a court, or a change in the jurisdiction's actions as a result of litigation brought claiming racial discrimination in voting. The vast majority involved court cases from all over the country, but with a disproportionate number arising from jurisdictions once covered by Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act. The remainder are objections interposed by the Attorney General pursuant to the then authority under Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act to block or deny proposed changes in voting practices or procedures by jurisdictions formerly covered by Section 5.

The enormous number of findings of discrimination in a relatively small number of years serve as a sobering reminder that our fight for equality in the polling place is yet to be won.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS REPORT

In some ways, this Report is a response — albeit at this stage, preliminarily and partial — to the majority opinion in Shelby County, where the Supreme Court gutted Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, one of the most important and most protective pieces of civil rights legislation in our history. Section 5 required jurisdictions with a history of discrimination, based on a formula set forth in Section 4(b), to obtain preclearance of any voting changes from the Department of Justice or the District Court in the District of Columbia before implementing the voting change. In the Shelby County case, the Supreme Court decided in a 5-4 vote that the Section 4(b) coverage formula was unconstitutional.

1 NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS, PROTECTING MINORITY VOTERS: THE VOTING RIGHTS ACT AT WORK 1982-2005 (Feb. 2006).

2 557 U.S. 193 (2009).

3 570 U.S. 529 (2013).

4 NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS, PROTECTING MINORITY VOTERS: OUR WORK IS NOT DONE (2014), <http://votingrightstoday.org/ncvr/resources/discriminationreport>.

The majority in Shelby County held that, because the Voting Rights Act “impose[d] current burdens,” it “must be justified by current needs.”⁵ The majority went on to rule that because the formula was comprised of data from the 1960s and 1970s, it could not be rationally related to determining which jurisdictions, if any, should be covered under Section 5 decades later. That Congress had reauthorized Section 5 after holding several hearings, reviewing tens of thousands of pages of records of discrimination, and with a 98-0 vote in the Senate did not appear to faze the majority. Indeed, Chief Justice Roberts, writing for the Court, said that “things have changed dramatically” in the South since passage of the Voting Rights Act in 1965,⁶ and that “[b]latantly discriminatory evasions of federal decrees are rare.”⁷ Unfortunately, as seen by even the partial record compiled in this Report, that is an overly optimistic view of the state of voting rights in this country.

Of course, some “things” have changed—we no longer have literacy tests or direct poll taxes, and perhaps more people today understand that discrimination is illegal and actionable.

But, the “[b]latantly discriminatory evasions” of decades past have been replaced by subtler, but equally pernicious discrimination. At a time when the country is progressing towards becoming majority people of color,⁸ access to the franchise is under threat by both overt and covert voter suppression laws and tactics, (1) including making voter registration more difficult and restricting organizations from helping people register, (2) voter purges of eligible voters, (3) unduly restrictive photo ID laws, (4) polling place closures and polling place relocations to sites deemed hostile by voters of color, (5) ineffective language assistance for voters with limited English proficiency, (6) long lines at polling places due to insufficient staffing and poll locations, (7) improper handling of absentee ballots, (8) faulty technology, particularly in minority communities, that risks votes not being properly counted and exposes the machines to the risk of tampering, and (9) vote dilution that undermines the ability of people of color to elect candidates of their choice. It is these sorts of cases that this preliminary report summarizes, and which our subsequent final report will discuss in detail.

In this Report, we take a preliminary look back a quarter of a century to the two decades before Shelby County and the six years since. We have tried to identify instances of state or local racial discrimination in voting — anywhere in the country — that rose to a such a level of concern as to lead to a change in the conduct because of action by the Attorney General or in the courts. The Attorney General actions have been easy to identify: objection letters by the Attorney General in response to submissions by jurisdictions then covered by Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act notifying the Attorney General of proposed changes in voting practices or procedures. Those objection letters necessarily stopped the proposed changes from taking effect, and thus resulted in benefit to protected populations in those jurisdictions.

Court action is a little more difficult to categorize. First, it is necessary to discern whether the claim being litigated is a claim of racial discrimination relating to voting rights. Most of the cases listed were brought either under Section 2 or Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act and were therefore, necessarily, race-based discrimination claims. We note that, although

5 570 U.S. at 536, quoting Northwest Austin, 557 U.S. at 203.

6 570 U.S. at 547.

7 570 U.S. at 547, quoting Northwest Austin, 557 U.S. at 202.

8 William H. Frey, The US will become ‘minority white’ in 2045, Census projects, The Brookings Institution (Oct. 15, 2019, 1:22 PM), <https://www.brookings.edu/blog/the-avenue/2018/03/14/the-us-will-become-minority-white-in-2045-census-projects/>.

Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act remains a viable weapon in the fight against racial discrimination in voting, it is nowhere near as potent a weapon as was Section 5. Where Section 5 protected against discriminatory changes in voting, against an easily applied standard of whether minority voters would be worse off as a result of the change, Section 2 requires plaintiffs to bear the burden of complex and costly protracted litigation to show that an existing or newly instituted policy or practice is discriminatory. Where, under Section 5, the Department of Justice would necessarily bear the costs of defending against the jurisdiction's claim that the change in voting practices was not retrogressive, Section 2 places those costs on resource-strapped private litigants.

For Section 2 cases, we included both vote denial and vote dilution claims. For Section 5, we included actions seeking to enforce Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, if filed before submission by the covered jurisdiction of its proposed voting practice change to the Attorney General, if the action succeeded in subjecting the proposed change to Section 5 review, even if the proposed change was ultimately precleared. On the other hand, we did not include Section 5 enforcement actions, if the covered jurisdiction had submitted the proposed change for Section 5 review prior to the filing of the enforcement action, unless the proposed change was ultimately not precleared. Claims for violation of Section 203 of the Voting Rights Act, alleging failure to provide effective language assistance, were categorized as race-based claims.

We also included constitutional claims, typically brought under the Equal Protection Clause, if it was clear that the claim was of racial discrimination in voting. In this context, at least for purposes of this preliminary report, we included cases claiming racial discrimination brought by any racial group. These included, so-called “Shaw claims,” brought by white plaintiffs, claiming that district lines were the result of racial gerrymandering.⁹

There were many cases brought under other constitutional and statutory doctrines, like First and Fourteenth Amendment “right-to-vote” claims and claims under the National Voter Registration Act, which we did not include, even though the allegations may have included some race-based themes, such as allegations that the challenged state or local conduct affected minority populations, unless the claims specifically included allegations of discrimination and the benefit achieved was connected to the discrimination claim.

Determining whether a benefit had been achieved by the racial group also entailed analysis. We included cases where there was a result, preliminarily or final, that benefited the racial or ethnic group in a way sought by the lawsuit. These included final judgments in favor of plaintiffs on racial discrimination grounds, the issuance of preliminary injunctions in favor of such plaintiffs that provided them with concrete relief, and the resolution of the case by way of Consent Decree or settlement — with or without the acknowledgement of liability — so long as plaintiffs received at least some of the relief the plaintiff had sought. In a few other instances, where it appeared clear that the jurisdiction had changed its conduct — by regulation, legislation or otherwise — in response to the litigation, we included such cases.

It should also be noted that we did not include the many cases that are pending around the country, where neither preliminary nor final relief has been issued yet. Nor did we include voting discrimination cases brought in state court. These cases may be discussed in our Final Report.

We consider these criteria to be conservative in assessing voting discrimination. By not including instances where plaintiffs received relief that inured to the benefit of racial minorities but not based on a theory of racial discrimination, we have excluded many cases, including numerous cases brought by the Lawyers' Committee, where we do not file litigation unless it furthers our racial justice mission. In addition, by including only cases and DOJ objections, we have excluded other instances of racial discrimination.

9 Shaw v. Reno, 509 U.S. 630 (1993).

Finally, we emphasize the preliminary nature of this report. When we announced that the Lawyers' Committee would publish a report of this nature, we set an October 2019 deadline, knowing that the information in this report would be of great interest to the public, as Congress is considering legislation to reestablish the protections removed by the decision in Shelby County. Because we intended to undertake a survey of cases in all 50 states and the District of Columbia, we enlisted the help of our large pro bono network of private firms, who, as they have done since President Kennedy's clarion call in 1963, responded enthusiastically to the task. Undoubtedly, some may quibble with some of the choices made to include or not include certain matters, and we welcome feedback as we proceed with preparation of our final report, which will include not only an updated version of the list identifying each instance of racial discrimination in voting based on data from Section 5 objections and

Voting Rights Violations by State

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
ALABAMA
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote denial	Section 5 objection letter, James P. Turner to Lynda K. Oswald (Jan. 31, 1994) (Alabama)
Statewide	case/litigation	2006	Preliminary Injunction	vote denial	United States v. State of Alabama, 2:2006cv00225 (2006)
Statewide	case/litigation	2015	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Alabama Legislative Black Caucus v. State of Alabama, 2:2012cv00691 (2017); Alabama Legislative Black Caucus v. Alabama, 231 F. Supp. 3d 1026 (M.D. Ala. 2017)
Etowah County	case/litigation	1994	Final Order	vote dilution	Presley v. Etowah Cty. Comm'n, 869 F. Supp. 1555 (M.D. Ala. 1994)
City of Greensboro in Hale County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, James P. Turner to Nicholas H. Cobbs, Jr. (Jan. 3, 1994) (Alabama)
City of Foley	case/litigation	1995	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Dillard v. City of Foley, 926 F. Supp. 1053, 1059 (M.D. Ala. 1995)
Tallapoosa County	Section 5 objection letter	1998	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to E. Paul Jones (Feb. 6, 1998) (Alabama)
Dallas County Commission	case/litigation	2000	Final Order	vote dilution	Wilson v. Minor, 220 F.3d 1297 (11th Cir. 2000)
City of Alabaster	Section 5 objection letter	2000	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to J. Frank Head (Aug. 16, 2000) (Alabama)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Calera	Section 5 objection letter	2008	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Grace Chung Becker to Dan Head (Aug. 25, 2008) (Alabama)
Montgomery City	case/litigation	2008	Consent Decree	vote denial	May et al v. City of Montgomery, 2:2007cv00738 (2010)
City of Evergreen	case/litigation	2013	Final Order	vote dilution	Allen v. City of Evergreen, Ala., No. CIV.A. 13-107-CG-M, Document 32, filed 2/2/2013
ALASKA
Bethel	case/litigation	2009	Preliminary Injunction/ Settlement Agreement	language assistance	Nick v. Bethel, No. 3:07-CV-0098 (TMB) (D. Ak. July 9, 2009).
Dillingham, Yukon-Koyukuk, and Wade Hampton Census Areas	case/litigation	2015	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	Toyukak v. Mallott, No. 3:13-cv-00137 (D. Ak. Sept. 30, 2015).
ARIZONA
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	vote dilution	Navajo Nation v. Arizona Indep. Redistricting Comm'n, 230 F. Supp. 2d 998, 1016 (D. Ariz. 2002)
Statewide	case/litigation	2018	Consent Decree	other barriers to voter registration	League of United Latin American Citizens Arizona v. Reagan, No. CV17-4102 PHX DGC, 2018 WL 5983009 (D. Ariz. Nov. 14, 2018)
Statewide	case/litigation	2019	Settlement Agreement	early or absentee voting, language assistance.	Navajo Nation v. Hobbs, No. CV-18-08329-PCT-DWL (D. Ariz. 2019)
Coconino County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Terence C. Hance (April 8, 1994) (Arizona)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
Navajo County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to D. Rand Henderson (May 16, 1994) (Arizona)
Coconino Association for Vocations, Industry, and Technology	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Jean E. Wilcox (February 4, 2003) (Arizona)
Cochise County	case/litigation	2006	Consent Decree	language assistance	US v. Cochise County, case no. cv 06-304 TUC-FRZ (D. Ariz. 2006)
ARKANSAS
City of Texarkana	case/litigation	1994	Final Order	vote dilution	Williams v. City of Texarkana, Ark., 32 F.3d 1265 (1994) and Williams v. City of Texarkana, Arkansas, 861 F. Supp. 756, 758 (W.D. Ark. 1992)
Blytheville	case/litigation	1995	Final Order	vote dilution	Harvell v. Blytheville Sch. Dist. No. 5, 71 F.3d 1382(8th Cir. 1995) (en banc)
Crittenden County	case/litigation	2000	Final Order	problems at the polls	Taylor, et. al. v. Howe, et. al., No. 99-2282EA (8th Cir.)
Chicot County	case/litigation	2003	Final Order		Cox, et al v. Donaldson, et al., Case no. 5:02-cv-00319-GH (E.D. Ar.)
Phillips County	case/litigation	2007	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	problems at the polls	Nichols v. Phillips Cty Election Commission, Case No. 2:06-cv-00158-SWW (E.D. Ar.)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
CALIFORNIA
Statewide	case/litigation	2001	Consent Decree	vote denial	Common Cause v. Jones, 2002 WL 1766436 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 19, 2002)
Alameda County	case/litigation	1996	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	United States v. Alameda County, No. 95-1266 (N.D. Cal. 1996)
Los Angeles	case/litigation	1997	Final Order	vote dilution	Garcia v. Los Angeles, 96-cv-7661 (C.D.Cal. 1997)
Monterey County	case/litigation	1999	Final Order	vote dilution	Lopez v. Monterey County, 871 F. Supp. 1254 (N.D. Cal. 1994), rev'd and remanded, 519 U.S. 9 (1996), appeal after remand, 525 U.S. 266 (1999)
Upper San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District	case/litigation	2001	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	United States v. Upper San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District, cv-07903-AHM-BQR (C.D. Cal. 2001)
City of Santa Paula	case/litigation	2001	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	United States v. City of Santa Paula, 00-cv-03691 GHK (SHx) (C.D.Cal. 2001)
Monterey County	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Willim D. Barr (March 29, 2002) (California)
San Diego County	case/litigation	2004	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	U.S. v. San Diego, 04-cv-1273 IEG (JMA) (S.D. Cal. 2004)
Ventura County	case/litigation	2004	Consent Decree	language assistance	U.S. v. Ventura County, 04-cv-6443 CAS (VBKx) (C.D.Cal. 2004)
San Benito County	case/litigation	2004	Consent Decree	language assistance, problems at the polls	U.S. v. San Benito County, 04-cv-02056 JW (N.D. Cal. 2004)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Paramount	case/litigation	2005	Consent Decree	language assistance	U.S. v. City of Paramount, 05-cv-05132 AHM (JTLx) (C.D.Cal. 2005)
City of Azusa	case/litigation	2005	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States v. City of Azusa, 05-cv-5147 GAF (SSx) (C.D.Cal. 2005)
City of Rosemead	case/litigation	2005	Consent Decree	language assistance	U.S. v. City of Rosemead, 05-cv-5131 GAF (MANx) (C.D.Cal. 2005)
City of Walnut, Los Angeles	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States v. City of Walnut, 07-cv-2437 PA-SJO-MMS (VBKx) (C.D.Cal. 2007)
Riverside County	case/litigation	2010	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	U.S. v. City of Riverside, 10-cv-01059 SJD (OPx) (C.D.Cal. 2010)
Alameda County	case/litigation	2011	Consent Decree	language assistance	U.S. v. Alameda County, 11-cv-3262 EMC-MMS-RS NDCA (. 2011)
Napa County	Attorney General Letter	2016	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	Napa County Memorandum of Agreement
Kern County	case/litigation	2018	Final Order	vote dilution	Luna v. County of Kern, 291 F.Supp.3d 1088 (E.D. Ca. 2018)
COLORADO
Statewide	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	vote dilution	Sanchez v. State of Colo., 97 F.3d 1303 (10th Cir.).
Montezuma-Cortez School District No. RE-1	case/litigation	1998	Final Order	vote dilution	Cuthair v. Montezuma-Cortez, Colorado School Dist. No. RE-1, 7 F.Supp.2d 1152 (D. Colo. 1998).

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
CONNECTICUT
City of Bridgeport	case/litigation	1995	Final Order	vote dilution	Bridgeport Coalition for Fair Representation v. City of Bridgeport, Civ. No. 93-1476 (D. Conn.).
FLORIDA
Statewide	case/litigation	1994	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Johnson v. Smith, Case No. 94-40025-WS, 1994 U.S. Dist. Lexis 20765, (N.D. Fl. Sept. 2, 1994)(denying PI motion); later proceedings, sub-nom, Johnson v. Mortham, 926 F.Supp. 1460 (N.D.Fla.,1996)(order granting plaintiffs' MSJ).
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Settlement Agreement	barriers to registration; problems at the polls	NAACP v. Secretary of State, No. 01-120 (S.D. Fla. 2002)
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	barriers to registration	Major v. Sawyer, No. 01-10088 (S.D. Fla. 2002)
Statewide	case/litigation	2012	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	barriers to registration	League of Women Voters of Fla., Inc. v. Detzner, Case No. 11-cv-00628 (Aug. 30, 2012, N.D. Fla. 2012)
Statewide	case/litigation	2012	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	barriers to registration	Mi Familia Vota Education Fund, et al v. Detzner, 8:12-cv-01294-JDW-MAP (M.D.Fla. 201
Statewide	case/litigation	2012	Final Order	early voting	Florida v. United States, 885 F. Supp. 2d 299 (D.D.C. 2012)
Statewide	case/litigation	2011	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	early voting	The League of Women Voters of Florida, et al v. Rick Scott, et al, No. 11-cv-10006 (S.D. Fla. 2011)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Statewide	case/litigation	2019	Preliminary Injunction	language assistance	Marta Valentine Rivera Madera, et al., v. Laurel Lee, Florida Secretary of State, et al., Case No. 18-00152, (May 10, 2019, N.D. Fla.)
City of Miami	case/litigation	1997	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	PULSE v. City of Miami, No. 96-cv-3327 (S.D. Fla. 1997)
Ashcroft	case/litigation	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution; barriers to registration	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd Jr. to John M. McKay (July 1, 2002) (Florida)
Dade County	case/litigation	2002	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Packingham v. Dade County, No. 96-cv-1749 (S.D.Fla. 2002)
Orange County	case/litigation	2002	Consent Decree	language assistance; problems at the polls	United States v. Orange County Florida; 6:02-cv-00737-ACC (M.D.Fla.)
Osceola County	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	language assistance, problems at the polls	United States v. Osceola County Florida; 6:02-cv-00738-ACC (M.D.Fla.)
Miami-Dade County	case/litigation	2002	Consent Decree	Language assistance; problems at the polls	United States v. Miami-Dade County Florida; 1:02-cv-21698 (S.D. Fla 2002)
Volusia County	case/litigation	2004	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	Polling place locations, Early voting	NAACP et al v. Lowe; 6:04-cv-01469-GKS-KRS (M.D.Fla.)
Osceola County	case/litigation	2006	Final Order	vote dilution	United States v. Osceola County Florida; 6:05-cv-01053-GAP-DAB (M.D.Fla. 2006)
Osceola County	case/litigation	2008	Consent Decree	vote dilution	United States v. School Board of Osceola County Florida; 6:08-cv-00582-GAP-DAB (M.D.Fla. 2008)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
Town of Lake Park	case/litigation	2009	Consent Decree	vote dilution	United States v. Town of Lake Park, Florida, No. 09-cv-80507 (S.D. Fla. Oct. 26, 2009)
Volusia County	case/litigation	2010	Settlement Agreement	language assistance, problems at the polls	Perez-Santiago v. Volusia County Department of Elections, 6:08-cv-1868-JA-KRS (M.D.Fla 2008)
GEORGIA
Statewide	case/litigation	2008	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	identification requirements; other barriers to voter registration	Morales v. Handel, United States District Court for the Northern District Court of Georgia Case No.: 1:08-cv-03172
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2009	Attorney General Objection	identification requirements; other barriers to voter registration	Section 5 objection letter, Loretta King to Thurbert E. Baker (May 29, 2009) (Georgia)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 Objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Dennis R. Dunn (December 21, 2012) (Georgia)
Statewide	case/litigation	2017	Settlement Agreement	other barriers to voter registration	Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Kemp; No. 2:16-cv-219 (N.D. Ga.)
Statewide	case/litigation	2018	Preliminary Injunction	identification requirements; other barriers to voter registration	Georgia Coalition for the Peoples' Agenda, Inc. v. Brian Kemp, Case 1:18-cv-04727-ELR
Randolph County	case/litigation; Section 5 objection letter	2006	Final Order; Attorney General Objection	barriers to voter registration	Jenkins v. Ray, No. 4:06-CV-43, 2006 WL 1582426 (M.D. Ga. June 5, 2006); Section 5 objection letter, Wan J. Kim to Tommy Coleman (September 12, 2006) (Georgia)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Lowndes County	Section 5 objection letter	2009	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Walter G. Elliott (November 30, 2009) (Georgia)
Greene County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Michael S. Greene & Cory O. Kirby (April 13, 2012) (Georgia)
Long County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Andrew S. Johnson & B. Jay Swindell (August 27, 2012) (Georgia)
Fayette County	case/litigation	2015	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Fayette Cnty. Bd. of Comm'rs, 118 F.Supp 3d 1338 (N.D. Ga. 2015)
Emanuel County	case/litigation	2016	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Emmanuel Cnty. Bd. Of Comm'rs; No. 6:16-CV-21 (S.D. Ga.)
Hancock County	case/litigation	2016	Consent Decree	other barriers to voter registration	Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Hancock Cnty. Bd. of Elections & Registration; No. 5:15-cv-414 (M.D. Ga.)
HAWAII
Statewide	case/litigation	2000	Final Order	identification requirements	Rice v. Cayetano, 941 F.Supp. 1529 (1999) ; Rice v. Cayetano, 528 U.S. 495 (2000)
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	Identification requirement	Arakaki v. State of Hawaii, 314 F. 3d 1091 (9th Cir 2002)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
ILLINOIS
City of Chicago Heights	case/litigation	1993	Final Order	vote dilution	Harper v. City of Chicago Heights, 223 F.3d 593 (7th Cir. 2000)
City of Chicago	case/litigation	1998	Final Order	vote dilution	Barnett v. City of Chicago, 17 F. Supp. 2d 753, 759 (N.D. Ill. 1998)
Lake County	case/litigation	2001	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Vazquez v. Lake County, Case No. 1:01-cv-06541 (N.D. Ill. Aug. 22, 2001)
Chicago Board of Elections	case/litigation	2003	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution; problems at the polls	Black et al. v. McGuffage et al., Case No. 1:01-cv-00208 (N.D. Ill. Jan. 11, 2001)
Kane County	case/litigation	2007	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	USA v. County of Kane, et al, 07-cv-5451 (ND Ill. Sept. 26, 2007)
St. Clair County	case/litigation	2009	Settlement Agreement	barriers to registration	Chatman et al v. Delaney et al, Case No. 3:09-cv-00259-CJP (S.D. Ill. April 3, 2009)
KANSAS
Ford County	case/litigation	2018	Dismissed after violation addressed	polling place locations	League of United Latin America Citizens, Kansas, Rangel-Lopez v. Cox, No. 2:18-cv-02572 (D. Kan. Oct. 26, 2018)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
KENTUCKY
Statewide	case/litigation	2013	Final Order	vote dilution	Brown v. Kentucky Legislative Research Comm'n, 966 F. Supp. 2d 709, 718 (E.D. Ky. 2013), judgment entered, No. CV13CV25DJBGFTWOB, 2013 WL 12320875 (E.D. Ky. Oct. 31, 2013). Herbert v. Kentucky State Board of Elections, Case No. 3:13-cv-00025 (E.D. Ky. 2013) (consolidated with Brown)
LOUISIANA
Statewide	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	vote dilution	Hays v. Louisiana, 936 F. Supp. 360, 365 (W.D. La. 1996)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1996	Attorney General Objection	dismissed after violation addressed	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick, to E. Kay Kirkpatrick, (Aug. 12, 1996) (Louisiana)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1998	Attorney General Objection	other barriers to voter registration	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to Angie Rogers LaPlace (Jan. 13 1998) (Louisiana)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	House of Representatives v. Ashcroft, No. 1:02-CV-00062 (D.D.C. May 20, 2003)
Statewide	case/litigation	2005	Settlement Agreement	early or absentee voting	Wallace v. Chertoff, No. 2:05-CV-05519 (E.D. La. 2005)
Statewide	case/litigation	2016	Dismissed after Violation Addressed	identification requirements; other barriers to voter registration	VAYLA New Orleans v Schedler, No. 3:16-CV-00305 (M.D. La. 2016)
Veron Parish School Board	case/litigation	1994	Final Order	vote dilution	Dye v. McKeithen, 856 F. Supp. 303 (W.D. La. 1994)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Shreveport	case/litigation	1997	Final Order	vote dilution	United States v. Louisiana, 952 F. Supp. 1151 (W.D. La. 1997)
City of Morgan City	case/litigation	2001	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	United States of America v. Morgan City, No. 6:00-CV-01541 (W.D. La. 2001)
St. Bernard Parish	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	vote dilution	St. Bernard Citizens for Better Government v. St. Bernard Parish Sch. Bd., No. 02-2209, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16540 (E.D. La. Aug. 28, 2002)
Ouachita Parish	case/litigation	2002	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution	Young & Golsby v. Ouachita Parish School Board, No. 3:02-CV-1644 (W.D. 2002)
Pointe Coupee Parish	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter from Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Gregory B. Grimes (Oct. 4, 2002) (Louisiana)
DeSoto Parish	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution; other barriers to voter registration	Section 5 objection letter, Andrew E. Lelling to Walter Lee, (Dec. 31, 2002) (Louisiana)
Richmond Parish	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution; other barriers to voter registration	Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to John R. Sartin (May 13, 2003) (Louisiana)
Jefferson Parish	case/litigation	2003	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Jefferson Citizens for Better Government v. Parish of Jefferson, No. 2:03-CV-00345, 2003 WL 1595167 (E.D. 2003)
St. John the Baptist Parish City Council and School Board	case/litigation	2003	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Sorapur v. Mitchell, No. 2:02-CV-02524 (E.D. La. 2003)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Baton Rouge	case/litigation	2004	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Gasper v. Baton Rouge, No. 3:93-CV-00537 (M.D. La. 2004)
Tangipahoa Parish	case/litigation, Section 5 objection letter	2004	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Tangipahoa Citizens v. Tangipahoa Parish, No. 2:03-CV-02710, 2004 WL 1638106 (E.D. La. 2004) Section 5 objection letter, R. Alexander Acosta to Carlos Natarino (October 16, 2003) (Louisiana)
St. Landry Parish	case/litigation	2005	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	NAACP v. St. Landry Parish, No. 6:03-CV-00610 (W.D. La. 2005)
Avoyelles Parish School Board	case/litigation	2006	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Guillory v. Avoyelles Parish School Board, No. 1:03-CV-00285, 2011 WL 499196 (W.D. La. 2006)
Jefferson Parish	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Williams v McKeithen, No. 2:05-CV-01180, 2007 WL 9676892 (E.D. La. 2007)
City of St. Martinville	case/litigation	2011	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution; vote denial	Greig v. St. Martinville & United States of America, No.6:00-CV-00603 (W.D. La. 2000)
Terrebonne Parish	case/litigation	2017	Final Order	vote dilution	Terrebonne Parish Branch NAACP v. Jindal, 274 F. Supp. 3d 395 (M.D. La. 2017)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
MARYLAND
Statewide	case / litigation	1994	Final Order	vote dilution	Marylanders for Fair Representation, Inc. v. Schaefer, 849 F. Supp. 1022 (D. Md. 1994)
Worcester County	case / litigation	1994	Final Order	vote dilution	Cane v. Worcester Cty., Md., 840 F. Supp. 1081 (D. Md. 1994).
MASSACHUSETTS
Statewide	case/litigation	2004	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution	Black Political Task Force v. Galvin, 300 F. Supp. 2d 291, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2681
City of Lawrence	case/litigation	2001	Preliminary Injunction	identification requirements	Morris, et al v. City of Lawrence, et al
City of Lawrence	case/litigation	2002	Consent Decree	vote dilution	USA v. City of Lawrence, MA, et al
City of Boston	case/litigation	2005	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	language assistance; problems at the polls	United States of America v. City of Boston, Massachusetts et al
City of Lawrence	case/litigation	2006	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	language assistance; problems at the polls	OISTE Inc. et al v. City of Lawrence, Massachusetts et al 1:05-cv-12218
City of Springfield	case/litigation	2007	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Arise for Social Justice, et al. v. City of Springfield, et al.
City of Springfield	case/litigation	2008	Settlement Agreement	language assistance; problems at the polls	United States of America v. City of Springfield et al
City of Lowell	case/litigation	2019	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Huot v. City of Lowell, No. 1:17-cv-10895-DLC

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
MICHIGAN
City of Hamtramck	case	1999	Consent Decree	language assistance, identification requirements, problems at polls	United States v. City of Hamtramck, no. 00-73541 (E.D. Mich. Aug. 7, 2000; Sep. 3, 2003; Jan 29, 2004)
City of Eastpointe	case/litigation	2019	Consent Decree	vote dilution	United States v. City of Eastpointe, No. 417CV10079TGDRG, 2019 WL 2647355, at *2 (E.D. Mich. June 26, 2019)
MINNESOTA
Statewide	case/litigation	2005	Preliminary Injunction; Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	identification requirements and other barriers to voter registration	American Civil Liberties Union of Minnesota et al v. Kiffmeyer, Case No. 00:2004cv04653
MISSISSIPPI
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	other - denial of office	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Sandra Murphy Shelson (February 6, 1995) (Mississippi)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter; case/litigation	1997	Attorney General Objection; Final Order	dual registration	Section 5 objection letter, Isabelle Katz Pinzler to Sandra M. Shelson (September 22, 1997) (Mississippi); Young v. Fordice, 520 U.S. 273 (1997)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2010	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Margarette L. Meeks (March 24, 2010) (Mississippi)
Statewide	case/litigation	2019	Final Order	vote dilution	Thomas v. Bryant, 939 F. 3d 134 (5th Cir. 2019) reh'g granted, 939 F. 3d. 629 (5th Cir. 2019)
Clarke County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, James P. Turner to Gilford F. Dabbs, III (January 10, 1994) (Mississippi)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Carroll County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Kenneth E. Downs (April 18, 1994) (Mississippi)
Quitman (Clarke County)	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Hubbart T. Saunders, IV (December 19, 1994) (Mississippi)
Adams County	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Marion Smith (January 30, 1995) (Mississippi)
Monroe County	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Claude A. Chamberlin (March 20, 1995) (Mississippi)
Chickasaw County	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Isabelle Katz Pinzler to James S. Gore (April 11, 1995) (Mississippi)
Union County	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Lester F. Sumner (June 20, 1995) (Mississippi)
Aberdeen (Monroe County)	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Jeffrey M. Navarro (December 4, 1995) (Mississippi)
Calhoun County	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	vote dilution	Clark v. Calhoun Cty., Miss., 88 F.3d 1393 (5th Cir. 1996)
Attala County	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	vote dilution	Teague v. Attala Cty., Miss., 92 F.3d 283 (5th Cir. 1996)
Grenada County	Section 5 objection letter	1997	Attorney General Objection	problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Isabelle Katz Pinzler to James McRae Criss (March 3, 1997) (Mississippi)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Grenada County	Section 5 objection letter	1997	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to T.H. Freeland, IV (August 17, 1998) (Mississippi)
Chickasaw County	case/litigation	1997	Final Order	vote dilution	Gunn v. Chickasaw County, Mississippi, No. CIV.A. 1:92CV142-JAD, 1997 WL 33426761 (N.D. Miss. Oct. 28, 1997)
Lafayette County	case/litigation	1998	Final Order	vote dilution	Houston v. Lafayette Cty., 20 F. Supp. 2d 996 (N.D. Miss. 1998)
Pike County	Section 5 objection letter	1999	Attorney General Objection	polling place locations	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to John H. White, Jr. (June 28, 1999) (Mississippi)
Montgomery County	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	denial of voting opportunity	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Lane Green Lee (December 11, 2001) (Mississippi)
Tupelo	case/litigation	2007	Final Order	vote dilution	Jamison v. Tupelo, Mississippi, 471 F. Supp. 2d 706 (N.D. Miss. 2007)
Noxubee County	case/litigation	2007	Final	vote dilution	United States v. Brown, 494 F. Supp. 2d 440 (S.D. Miss. 2007) aff'd by United States v. Brown, 561 F.3d. 420 (5th Cir. 2009)
Amite County	Section 5 objection letter	2011	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Tommie S. Cardin (October 4, 2001) (Mississippi)
Adams County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Everett T. Sanders (April 30, 2012) (Mississippi)
Hinds County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Kenneth Dreber and David Wade (December 3, 2012) (Mississippi)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
MISSOURI
Ferguson-Florissant School District; St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners	case/litigation	2016	Final Order	vote dilution	Mo. State Conference of NAACP v. Ferguson-Florissant Sch. Dist., 201 F. Supp. 3d 1006 (E.D. Mo. 2016), affirmed, 894 F.3d 924 (8th Cir. 2018), cert. denied sub nom. Ferguson Florissant Sch. Dist. v. Missouri State Conference of N.A.A.C.P., 139 S. Ct. 826, 202 L. Ed. 2d 579 (2019).
MONTANA
Statewide	case/litigation	2014	Settlement Agreement	polling place locations; early or absentee voting	Wandering Medicine v. Montana Secretary of State, Case No. 1:12-cv-00135-DWM
Blaine County	case/litigation	2001	Final Order	vote dilution	United States v. Blaine Cty., Mont., 157 F. Supp. 2d 1145 (D. Mont. 2001); United States v. Blaine Cty., Mont., 363 F.3d 897 (9th Cir. 2004), Case No. 4:99-00-00122
Wolf Point School District	case/litigation	2014	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Jackson v. Bd. of Trustees of Wolf Point Sch. Dist., et al., Case No. 4:13-cv-00065-BMM
NEBRASKA
County of Thurston	case/litigation	1995	Final Order	vote dilution	Stabler v. County of Thurston, No. 8:CV93-00394(D.Neb.Aug.29, 1995), aff'd,129 F.3d 1015 (8th Cir. 1997), cert.denied,523 U.S. 1118 (1998)
Colfax County	case/litigation	2012	Consent Decree	language assistance	US v. Colfax County, 8:12-cv-84 (D.Neb.) Consent Order

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
NEVADA
Washoe and Mineral Counties	case/litigation	2016	Preliminary Injunction	polling place locations; early voting	Sanchez v. Cegavske, 214 F. Supp. 3d 961 (D. Nev. 2016).
NEW MEXICO
Sandoval County	case/litigation	2011	Consent Decree	language assistance	U.S. v. Sandoval County, NM, 797 F.Supp.2d 1249 (D. New Mexico 2011)
NEW YORK
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution; barriers to registration	Section 5 objection letter, Loretta King to G. Oliver Koppell (Dec. 5, 1994) (New York)
City of Hinesville	Section 5 objection letter	1991	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, John R. Dunne to Judith Reed (Jul 19, 1991) (New York)
Kings and New York Counties in New York City, New York	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	language assistance	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Kathy King (May 13, 1994) (New York)
Bronx County, New York	Section 5 objection letter	1996	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Judith Kay (Nov. 15, 1996) (New York)
City of New York	case/litigation	1998	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	Chinatown Voter Education Alliance v. Ravitz, Case 1: 06-Civ-00 913-NRB, S.D.N.Y. 2006 (Reice Buchwald, J.).
Town of Hempstead	case/litigation	1999	Final Order	vote dilution	Goosby v. Town Board of the Town of Hempstead, 180 F.3d 476 (2d Cir. 1999)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Rochelle and city council	case/litigation	2003	Final Order	vote dilution	New Rochelle Voter Defense Fund v. city of New Rochelle, 308 F. Supp. 2d 152 (S.D.N.Y. 2003)
Albany County	case/litigation	2004	Final Order	vote dilution	Arbor Hill Concerned Citizens Ass'n v. County of Albany, 357 F.2d 260 (2d Cir. 2004)
Suffolk County; Suffolk County Board of Elections	case/litigation	2004	Consent Decree	language assistance	Consent Decree, U.S. v. Suffolk County, Case 2:04-cv-02689-TCP-MLO, June 29, 2004.
Westchester County, New York	case/litigation	2005	Consent Decree	language assistance	US v. Westchester County, et al. 05 Civ 0650 (S.D.N.Y. 2005);
Albany County Board of Elections	case/litigation	2011	Final Order	vote dilution	Anne Pope, et al. v. County of Albany, et al. Case No.: 11-cv-00736 (N.D.N.Y.)
County of Orange	case/litigation	2013	Final Order	vote dilution	Order Adopting Special Master's Legislative Redistricting Plan, Molina v. County of Orange, 13-cv-3018-ER (S.D.N.Y. June 14, 2013)
Orange County Board of Elections	case/litigation	2015	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution; language assistance; other barriers to voter registration; problems at polling places	USA v. Orange County Board of Elections et al.; Case No. 7:12-cv-03071 (S.D.N.Y. 2012)
Village of Port Chester	case/litigation	2018	Final Order	vote dilution	United States of America v. Village of Port Chester, 704 F.Supp.2d 411 (S.D.N.Y. 2010)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
NORTH CAROLINA
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1996	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Loretta King to Charles M. Hensley (Feb. 13, 1996) (North Carolina)
Statewide	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	vote dilution	Shaw v. Hunt, 517 U.S. 899, 900 (1996)
Statewide	case/litigation	2016	Final Order	identification requirements; barriers to registration; problems at the polls; early voting	North Carolina State Conference of NAACP v. McCrory, 831 F.3d 204 (4th Cir. 2016) cert. denied 137 S. Ct. 1399, 198 L. Ed. 2d 220 (2017)
Statewide	case/litigation	2018	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Covington v. North Carolina (Covington I), 316 F.R.D. 117 (M.D.N.C. 2016) summarily aff'd North Carolina v. Covington, 137 S.Ct. 2211 (2017) Covington v. North Carolina (Covington II), 283 F. Supp. 3d 410 (M.D. N.C. 2018), summarily aff'd in part, rev'd in part, North Carolina v. Covington, 138 S.Ct. 2548 (2018).
Anson County Board of Education	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	United States v. Anson Board of Education, No. 3:93-cv-00210 (W.D.N.C. 1994)
Cleveland County Board of Commissioners	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Campbell v. Cleveland Co. Board of Commissioners, 4:49-cv-00011 (W.D.N.C. 1994)
Laurinburg City Council	case/litigation	1994	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Speller v. Laurinburg, No. 3:93-cv-00365 (M.D.N.C. 1994)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Rowan County Board of Education	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	N.A.A.C.P. v. Rowan Board of Education, No. 4:91-cv-00293-FWB-RAE (M.D.N.C. 1994)
Tyrrell County	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Rowsom v Tyrrell County Commissioners, No. 2:93-cv-00033 (E.D.N.C. 1994)
Washington County	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Wilkins v. Washington County Commissioners, No. 2:93-cv-0012 (E.D.N.C. 1996)
Town of Mt. Olive	case/litigation	1995	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Fussell v. Town of Mount Olive, No. 5:93-cv-00303 (E.D.N.C. 1995)
Person County	case/litigation	1995	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Webster v. Board of Education of Person County, No. 1:91-cv-00554 (M.D.N.C. 1995)
Granville County	Section 5 objection letter	1997	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Isabelle Katz Pinzler to Susan K. Nichols (Feb. 3, 1997) (North Carolina)
Harnett County	case/litigation	2003	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Porter v. Stewart, No. 5:88-cv-00950 (E.D.N.C. 2003)
Franklin County	case/litigation	2004	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	White v. Franklin County, No. 5:03-cv-00481 (E.D.N.C. 2004)
City of Fayetteville	Section 5 objection letter	2007	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Wan J. Kim to Michael Crowell (Jun. 25, 2007) (North Carolina)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
City of Kingston	Section 5 objection letter	2009	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Loretta King to James P. Cauley III (Aug. 17, 2009) (North Carolina)
Pitt County School District	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Tom Perez to Robert T. Sonnenberg (April 30, 2012) (North Carolina)
Jones	case/litigation	2017	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Hall, et al. v. Jones County Board of Commissioners, Case No. 4-17-cv-18 (ED NC 2017)
NORTH DAKOTA
Benson County	case/litigation	2000	Consent Decree	vote dilution	United States v. Benson Cty., No. 2:00-cv-00030-RSW-KKK (D.N.D. Mar. 10, 2000).
Benson County	case/litigation	2011	Preliminary Injunction	polling place locations	Spirit Lake Tribe v. Benson Cty., No. 2:10-cv-00095-RRE-KKK, 2010 WL 4226614 (D.N.D. Oct. 21, 2010)
OHIO
City of Euclid	case/litigation	2008	Final Order	vote dilution	U.S. v. City of Euclid, WL 4790789, Case No. 1:06CV1652, (N.D. Ohio Aug. 1, 2007).
Cuyahoga County	case/litigation	2010	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	United States of America v. Cuyahoga Board of Elections, et al., No. 1:10-cv-01949
Lorain County	case/litigation	2011	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	United States of America v. Lorain County, et al., No. 1:11-cv-02122

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
PENNSYLVANIA
Statewide	case/litigation	2009	Final Order	problems at the polls	Pa. NAACP v. Cortes, No. 2:08-cv-05048 (E.D. Pa. Jan. 29, 2009), https://ecf.paed.uscourts.gov/doc1/15315000562
Berks County	case/litigation	2003	Final Order	problems at the polls; language assistance	United States v. Berks County, Pa., 277 F. Supp.2d 570 (E.D. Pa. 2003)
City of Philadelphia, et. al.	case/litigation	2007	Settlement Agreement	language assistance	United States v. City of Philadelphia, PA (E.D. Pa. 2006) https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2010/12/15/phila_settlement.pdf https://www.justice.gov/sites/default/files/crt/legacy/2010/12/15/phila_amend.pdf
Bethlehem Area School District	case/litigation	2008	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Negron v. Bethlehem Area School District, No. 2:06-cv-0666 (E.D. Pa. Aug. 12, 2008), https://ecf.paed.uscourts.gov/doc1/15314381817
Bucks County, et. al.	case/litigation	2009	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	polling place locations	Prescod v. Bucks County, Pa., No. 2:08-cv-03778 (E.D. Pa. Oct. 10, 2008), https://ecf.paed.uscourts.gov/doc1/15314630796
Chester County, et. al.	case/litigation	2010	Settlement Agreement	problems at the polls polling place locations	English, et al v. Chester County, Case No. 2:2010cv0044 (E.D. Pa. 2010)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
SOUTH CAROLINA
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Robert J. Sheheen (May 2, 1994) (South Carolina)
Statewide	case/litigation	1996	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Smith v. Beasley, 946 F.Supp. 1174 (D.S.C. 1996)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1997	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Isabelle Katz Pinzler to John W. Drummond (Apr. 1, 1997) (South Carolina)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter; case/litigation	2011	Attorney General Objection; Final Court Order	identification requirements; case/litigation	Thomas E. Perez objection letter (5/18/2011); South Carolina v. United States, Civil Action No. 898 F. Supp. 30 (D.D.C. 2012);
Lee County and Lee County School District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Jacob H. Jennings (June 6, 1994) (South Carolina)
Florence and Williamsburg Counties	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter Deval L. Patrick objection letter
Town of Hemingway	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Gregory B. Askins and Jeffrey N. Thorndahl (July 2, 1994) (South Carolina)
Georgetown County School District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Kerry Alan Scanlon to C. Havird Jones, Jr. (Oct. 3, 1994) (South Carolina)
North Charleston	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to James E. Gonzales (Oct. 17, 1994) (South Carolina)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Spartanburg County School District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to C. Havird Jones (Nov. 20, 1995) (South Carolina)
Spartanburg County School District	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to C. Havird Jones (No. 20, 1995) (South Carolina)
Gaffney Board of Public Works	Section 5 objection letter	1996	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to James R. Thompson (March 5, 1996) (South Carolina)
Horry County	Section 5 objection letter	1998	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to John C. Henry (May 20, 1998) (South Carolina)
Charleston	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Alex Acosta to Francis I. Cantwell (Oct. 12, 2001) (South Carolina)
Greer	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to John B. Duggan (Nov. 2, 2001) (South Carolina)
Sumter County	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Charles T. Edens (Jun. 27, 2002) (South Carolina)
Union County School District	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to C. Havird Jones (Sep. 3, 2002) (South Carolina)
Clinton	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to C. Samuel Bennett II (Dec. 9, 2002) (South Carolina)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Charleston County	case/litigation	2003	Final Order	vote dilution	United States v. Charleston Cty., 316 F. Supp. 2d 268 (D.S.C. 2003), aff'd sub nom. United States v. Charleston Cty., S.C., 365 F.3d 341 (4th Cir. 2004)
Cherokee County School District No. 1	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to C. Havird Jones (Jun. 16, 2003) (South Carolina)
North	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Alex Acosta to H. Bruce Buckheister (Sep. 16, 2003) (South Carolina)
Charleston County School District	Section 5 objection letter	2004	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Alex Acosta to C. Havird Jones (Feb. 26, 2004) (South Carolina)
Richland-Lexington School District No. 5	Section 5 objection letter	2004	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Alex Acosta to C. Havird Jones (Jun. 25, 2004) (South Carolina)
City of Columbia	case/litigation	2010	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution (this is a Section 5 case involving a city's failure to preclear a change regarding an election)	Butler v. City of Columbia, No. 3:10-CV-794-CMC-CHH-JFA, 2010 WL 1372299 (D.S.C. 2010)
Fairfield County School District	Section 5 objection letter	2010	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to C. Havird Jones (Aug. 16, 2010) (South Carolina)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
SOUTH DAKOTA
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	other barriers to voter registration	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Hon. Joyce Hazeltine (Jun. 19, 1995) (South Dakota)
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	violation of Section 5 of the VRA	Bone Shirt v. Hazeltine, 200 F. Supp. 2d 1150 (D.S.D. 2002).
Statewide	case/litigation	2002	Consent Decree	violation of Section 5 of the VRA	Quick Bear Quiver v. Hazeltine, No. 02-5069 (D.S.D. 2002).
Statewide	case/litigation	2004	Final Order	vote dilution	Reference: Bone Shirt v. Hazeltine, 336 F.Supp.2d 976 (D.S.D. 2004)
Statewide	case/litigation	2009	Settlement Agreement	other barriers to voter registration	Janis v. Nelson, CIV. 06-5019 (D.S.D. 2009).
Enemy Swim Sanitary District	case/litigation	2000	Settlement Agreement	other barriers to voter registration (maintaining boundaries with the purpose and effect of excluding Native American voters)	United States v. Day County, S.D., CIV. 99-1024 (D.S.D. 2000).
Wagner Community School District	case/litigation	2003	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Weddell v. Wagner Cmty. Sch. Dist., CIV. 02-4056 (D.S.D. 2003).
Buffalo County	case/litigation	2004	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Kirkie v. Buffalo County, S.D., CIV. 03-3011 (D.S.D. 2004).
Charles Mix County	case/litigation	2005	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution, violation of Section 5 of the VRA	Blackmoon v. Charles Mix County, CIV. 05-4017 (2007); Quick Bear Quiver v. Nelson, 387 F. Supp. 2d 1027 (D.S.D. 2005).

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				((1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other)
Charles Mix County	Section 5 objection letter	2008	Attorney General Objecton	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Grace Chung Becker to Sara Frankenstein (Feb. 11, 2008) (South Dakota)
Shannon County	case/litigation	2013	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	early or absentee voting	Brooks v. Gant, CIV. 12-5003 (D.S.D. 2013).
TENNESSEE
Crockett County and the Crockett County Board of County Commissioners	case/litigation	2001	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	United States v. Crockett County, Civil Action 1-01-1129 (W.D. Tenn. 2001); Complaint and Consent Decree.
City of Bolivar	case/litigation	2003	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Hardeman Cty NAACP v. Frost, et al., 03-1041 (W.D. Tenn. Dec. 9, 2003)
TEXAS
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	language assistance	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Ronald Kirk (Feb. 17, 1995) (Texas)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	1996	Attorney General Objection	barriers to registration	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Antonio Garza (Jan. 16, 1996) (Texas)
Statewide	case/litigation	1998	Preliminary Injunction	other - change of election structure	LULAC of Texas v. State of Texas, Case no. 96-cv-00930-HFG-SS (W.D. Tex 1996)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	redistricting	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph R. Boyd to Geoffrey Connor (Nov. 16, 2001) (Texas)
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2008	Attorney General Objection	other - change in election qualification requirement	Section 5 objection letter, Grace Chung Becker to Phil Wilson (Aug. 21, 2008) (Texas)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Statewide	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Keith Ingram (March 12, 2012)(Texas)
Statewide	case/litigation	2013	remedial plan adopted	vote dilution	Perez v. Perry, 891 F. Supp. 2d 808 (W.D. Tex. 2012)
Statewide	case/litigation	2014	Final Order	vote dilution	Texas v. Holder, 888 F.Supp.2d. 113 (D.D.C. 2012), vacated and remanded, 570 U.S. 928 (2013), dismissed, cv. 12-128 (RMC)(2014)
Statewide	case/litigation	2016	Final Order	vote denial	Veasey v. Abbott, 830 F.3d 216 (2016)
Statewide	case/litigation	2018	Final Order	vote dilution	Perez et al v. Perry et al, Case No. 11-CV-360 (W.D. Tex. 2011). Later Abbott v. Perez, 138 S.Ct. 2305 (2018).
Statewide	case/litigation	2019	Final Order	problems at the polls	OCA-Greater Houston et al v. State of Texas et al, 1:2015cv00679, (W. D. Tex. 2015).
Statewide	case/litigation	2019	Preliminary Injunction; Settlement	vote dilution	MOVE Texas Civic Fund et al v. Whitley et al, 5:2019cv00171, (W.D. Tex. 2019).
Tarrant County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Ronald Kirk (Aug. 15, 1994) (Texas)
Marion County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	polling place location	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to James P. Finstrom (Apr. 18, 1994) (Texas)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Midland County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to John Hannah, Jr. (May 9, 1994) (Texas)
Fort Bend County and Harris County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Ronald Kirk (May 31, 1994) (Texas)
Limestone County	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to David M. Guinn (Jun. 13, 1994) (Texas)
Galveston Independent School District	case/litigation	1994	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution, polling place locations	Henderson, et al v. Galveston Independent, et al, Case No. 1994cv00144 (S. D. Tex, 1994)
Edna Independent School District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Stuart Ishimaru to Arturo G. Michel (Aug. 22, 1994) (Texas)
Morton	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	language assistance	Section 5 objection letter, Kerry Scanlon to Paul Lyle (Sep. 12, 1994) (Texas)
San Antonio	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	language assistance	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Lloyd Garcia (Oct. 21, 1994) (Texas)
Gonzalez County Underground Water Conservation District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Mary Ann Wyatt (Oct. 31, 1994) (Texas)
Judton Independent School District	Section 5 objection letter	1994	Attorney General Objection	language assistance	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Galen R. Eloff (Nov. 18, 1994) (Texas)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Edwards Underground water District	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Sally Tamez-Salas (March 2, 1995) (Texas)
Karnes City	Section 5 objection letter	1995	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Deval L. Patrick to Don Tymrac (Oct. 31, 1994) (Texas)
City of Boerne	case/litigation	1996	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	League of United Latin American Citizens, District 19 v. City of Boerne et al; Case no. 5:96-cv-00808 (W.D. Tex 1996)
Sharyland Independent School District	case/litigation	1997	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	League of United Lat, et al v. Sharyland ISD, et al, Case No. 1996cv00132 (S. D. Tex, 1996)
Galveston County	Section 5 objection letter	1998	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to Barbara E. Roberts (Dec. 14, 1998) (Texas)
Lamesa	Section 5 objection letter	1999	Attorney General Objection	deannexation	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to Robert Gorsline (Jul. 16, 1999) (Texas)
Sealy Independent School District	Section 5 objection letter	2000	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to David Mendez (Jun. 5, 2000) (Texas)
Haskell Consolidated Independent School District	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd to Cheryl T. Mehl (Sept. 24, 2001) (Texas)
Schleicher County Independent School District	case/litigation	2002	Final Order	vote dilution	Belman, et al v. Schleicher Co ISD, et al., Case No. 6:2002cv00022 (N.D. Tex. 2002).

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Waller County	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	redistricting	Section 5 objection letter, J. Michael Wiggins to Denise Nance Pierce (Jun. 21, 2002) (Texas)
Freeport	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, J. Michael Wiggins to Wallace Shaw (Aug. 12, 2002) (Texas)
Bexar County	case/litigation	2003	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution	M Hernandez Chapter v. Bexar County, et al Case No. 5:03-cv-00816-WRF (W.D. Tex. 2003)
Yorktown City Council	case/litigation	2003	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	failure to obtain section 5 preclearance	Perez v. City of Yorktown, The, et al, Case No. 2003-cv-029 (S.D. Tex. 2003)
Waller County	case/litigation	2004	Settlement Agreement	other barriers to voter registration	Prairie View Chapter, et al v. Kitzman, Case No. 2004cv00459 (S. D. Tex. 2004)
Bexar County	case/litigation	2005	Final Order	polling place locations	American GI Forum, et al v. Bexar County, et al, Case No. 5:04-cv-00181-FB (W.D. Tex. 2004)
Ector County	case/litigation	2005	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States, et al v. Ector County, Texas, et al, Case No. 7:05-cv-00131-RAJ (W.D. Tex. 2005)
Hale County, TX	case/litigation	2006	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America v. Hale County, Texas et al., Case No. 5:2006cv00043 (N.D. Tex. 2006).
North Harris Montgomery Community College District	Section 5 objection letter	2006	Attorney General Objection	polling place location	Section 5 objection letter, Wan J. Kim to Renee Smith Byas (May 5, 2006) (Texas)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Brazos County	case/litigation	2006	Consent Decree	language assistance	The United States Of America v. Brazos County, Texas et al, Case No. 2006cv02165 (S. D. Tex. 2006)
North Harris Montgomery Community College District	case/litigation	2006	Settlement Agreement	problems at the polls	The United States Of America v. North Harris Montgomery Community College District et al, Case No. 2006-cv-02488 (S. D. Tex. 2006)
Amarillo College District	case/litigation	2006	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Bosquez et al v. Amarillo College District, Case No. 2:2005cv00323 (N.D. Tex. 2006).
Dallas Independent School District	case/litigation	2006	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Villegas, et al v. Dallas Independent S, et al., Case No. 3:2002cv00858 (N.D. Tex. 2006).
Bexar Metropolitan Water District	case/litigation	2007	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution	Rios v. Bexar Metro. Water, et al - Case no. 5:96-cv-00335 (W.D. Tex 1996)
The City of Amarillo, TX	case/litigation	2007	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Bosquez et al v. City of Amarillo, TX, Case No. 2:2005cv00324 (N.D. Tex. 2007).
Galveston County	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance; problems at the polls	United States v. Galveston County, Case No. 07-cv-00377 (S.D. Tex. 2007)
City of Hondo, Texas	case/litigation	2007	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance	Garcia, et al v. City of Hondo, Texas, Case No. 09-cv-00394 (W.D. Tex.2007)
Littlefield Independent School District	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America v. Littlefield Independent School District et al., Case No. 5:2007cv00145 (N.D. Tex. 2007).

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Post Independent School District	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America v. Post Independent School District et al., Case No. 5:2007cv00146 (N.D. Tex. 2007).
Seagraves Independent School District	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America v. Seagraves Independent School District et al., Case No. 5:2007cv00147 (N.D. Tex. 2007).
Smyer Independent School District	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America et al v. Lewis, Case No. 5:2007cv00148 (N.D. Tex. 2007).
City of Earth	case/litigation	2007	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States of America v. City of Earth, Texas et al., Case No. 5:2007cv00144 (N.D. Tex. 2007).
Engelman Irrigation District	case/litigation	2008	Final Order	other barriers to voter registration	Shields et al v Engelman Irrigation District et al, Case No. 08-cv-00116 (S.D. Tex. 2008)
Waller County	case/litigation	2008	Consent Decree	other barriers to voter registration	UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE v. Waller County et al, Case No. 18-cv-03022 (S.D. Tex. 2008)
Dumas Independent School District	case/litigation	2008	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	League of United Latin American Citizens, Statewide v. Dumas Independent School District et al., Case No. 2:1993cv00154 (N.D. Tex. 2008).
Gonzales County	Section 5 objection letter	2009	Attorney General Objection	language assistance; problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Loretta King to Robert T. Bass (March 24, 2009) (Texas)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Fort Bend County	case/litigation	2009	Consent Decree	language assistance; other barriers to voter registration; problems at the polls	United States of America v. Fort Bend County, Texas, Case No. 09-cv-01058 (S.D. Tex. 2009)
Texas Democratic Party and State of Texas	case/litigation	2009	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	LULAC of Texas et al v. State of Texas et al, Case 08-cv-00389 (W.D. Tex.2007)
City of Irving	case/litigation	2010	Final Order	vote dilution	Benavidez v. The City of Irving, Texas et al., Case No. 3:2007cv01850 (N.D. Tex. 2010).
Runnels County	Section 5 objection letter	2010	Attorney General Objection	language assistance; problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Elsa Ocker (Jun. 28, 2010) (Texas)
Val Verde County Clerk, Val Verde County and State of Texas	case/litigation	2010	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	LULAC of Texas et al, Case No. :10-cv-00058 (W.D. Tex. 2010)
Dallas County, Texas	case/litigation	2011	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	Problems at polls	Texas Democratic Party v. Dallas County, Case No. 3:2008cv02117 (N.D. Tex. 2011).
Board of Directors for Garza County Hospital District	case/litigation	2011	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Tobias, et al v. Garza County Hospital, et al,5:2000-cv-00293, (N.D. Tex. 2000).
Galveston County	Section 5 objection letter	2011	Attorney General Objection	language assistance; problems at the polls	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to C. Robert Heath (Oct. 3, 2011) (Texas)
Medina County	case/litigation	2011	Final Order	vote dilution	Vasquez-Lopez et al v. Medina County, Texas et al, Case 5:11-cv-00945 (W.D. Tex. 2011)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
Nueces County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	No. 11-1784 (D.D.C. 2011)
Galveston County	Section 5 objection letter; case/litigation	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to James E. Trainor III (March 5, 2012) (Texas); Galveston County, Texas v. United States of America et al., Case No. 11-1837 (D.D.C. 2011)
Galveston County	case/litigation	2012	Preliminary Injunction	vote dilution	Petteway, et al. v. Galveston County, Texas, et al., Case No. 2011cv00511 (S.D. Tex 2011)
Beaumont Independent School District, Jefferson County	Section 5 objection letter	2012	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Melody Thomas Chappell (Dec. 21, 2012) (Texas)
City of Farmers Branch	case/litigation	2013	Dismissed after alleged violation addressed	vote dilution	Fabela et al v. City of Farmers Branch Texas et al., Case No. 3:2010cv01425 (N.D. Tex. 2013).
Beaumont Independent School District, Jefferson County	Section 5 objection letter	2013	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Thomas E. Perez to Melody Thomas Chappell (Apr. 8, 2013) (Texas)
Lone Star College System District	case/litigation	2013	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Hubbard et al v. Lone Star College System et al, Case No. 2013cv01635 (S.D. Tex 2013)
Irving Independent School District	case/litigation	2014	Final Order	vote dilution	Benavidez v. Irving Independent School District et al., Case No. 3:2013cv00087 (N.D. Tex. 2014).
Grand Prairie Independent School District	case/litigation	2014	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Rodriguez v. Grand Prairie Independent School District et al., Case No. 3:202013cv01788 (N.D. Tex. 2014).

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination (1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other	Reference
City of Pasadena	case/litigation	2017	Final Order	vote dilution	Patino et al v. City of Pasadena et al, Case No. 2014cv03241 (S.D. Tex. 2014)
Hereford Independent School District	case/litigation	2018	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Gamez v. Hereford Independent School District et al., Case No. 2:1995cv00028 (N.D. Tex. 2018).
Richardson Independent School District	case/litigation	2019	Settlement Agreement	vote dilution	Tyson v. Richardson Independent School District et al., Case No. 3:2018cv00212 (N.D. Tex. 2019).
UTAH
San Juan County	case/litigation	2016	Final Order	vote dilution	Navajo Nation et al v. San Juan Cty., 929 F.3d 1270 (10th Cir. 2019) (affirming the district court); Navajo Nation et al v. San Juan Cty., 162 F. Supp. 3d 1162 (D. Utah 2016); Navajo Nation v. San Juan Cty., 266 F. Supp. 3d 1341 (D. Utah 2017); Navajo Nation v. San Juan Cty., 2:12-cv-39, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 211230 (D. Utah Dec. 21, 2017)
San Juan County	case/litigation	2018	Settlement Agreement	language assistance; polling place location	Navajo Nation Human Rights Commission et al v. San Juan Cty. et al, 215 F. Supp. 3d 1201 (D. Utah 2017); Id. Case No. 2:16-cv-154, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 145158 (D. Utah Sept. 7, 2017); 2:16-cv-154, Dkt. No. 198 (D. Utah Feb. 20, 2018)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
VIRGINIA
Statewide	case/litigation	1997	Final Order	vote dilution	Moon v. Meadows, 952 F. Supp. 1141 (E.D. Va.), aff'd, 521 U.S. 1113, 117 S. Ct. 2501 (1997), and aff'd sub nom. Harris v. Moon, 521 U.S. 1113 (1997)
Statewide	case/litigation	2015	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Page v. Virginia State Bd. Of Elections, No. 3:13CV678, 2015 WL 3604029, at *1 (E.D. Va. June 5, 2015)
Statewide	case/litigation	2018	Final Order	racial gerrymandering	Bethune-Hill v. Virginia State Bd. of Elections, 326 F. Supp. 3d 128 (E.D. Va. 2018), appeal dismissed sub nom. Virginia House of Delegates v. Bethune-Hill, 139 S. Ct. 1945 (2019)
City of Newport News, VA	case/litigation	1994	Consent Decree	vote dilution	U.S. v. City of Newport News, No. 4:94-cv-00155 (E.D. Va. 1994)
Dinwiddie County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	1999	Attorney General Objection	polling place locations	Section 5 objection letter, Bill Lann Lee to Benjamin W. Emerson (Dec. 27, 1999) (Virginia)
Northhampton County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to James E. Trainor III (Sept. 28, 2001) (Virginia)
Northhampton County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2001	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to James E. Trainor III (Sept. 28, 2001) (Virginia)
Pittsylvania County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to William D. Sleeper (Apr. 29, 2002) (Virginia)

Jurisdiction	Type of Matter	Date of Interim or Final Resolution	Results	Type of Voting Discrimination	Reference
				(1) vote dilution; (2) language assistance; (3) identification requirements; (4) other barriers to voter registration; (5) problems at the polls; (6) polling place locations; (7) early or absentee voting; and/or (8) other
Cumberland County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2002	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Darvin Satterwhite (July 9, 2002) (Virginia)
Northhampton County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, Ralph F. Boyd, Jr. to Bruce D. Jones, Jr. (May 19, 2003) (Virginia)
Northhampton County, VA	Section 5 objection letter	2003	Attorney General Objection	vote dilution	Section 5 objection letter, J. Michael Wiggins to Bruce D. Jones, Jr. (Oct. 21, 2001) (Virginia)
WASHINGTON
Yakima County	case/litigation	2004	Consent Decree	language assistance	United States v. Yakima County, No. CV-04- 3072-LRS (E.D. Wash. 2004)
City of Yakima	case/litigation	2014	Final Order	vote dilution	Montes v. City of Yakima: https://aclu-wa.org/file/99782/download?token=OWBlvKUP
City of Pasco	case/litigation	2016	Consent Decree	vote dilution	Glatt v. City of Pasco: https://www.aclu-wa.org/file/101908/download?token=oHPP3kU5
WISCONSIN
Statewide	case/litigation	2012	Final Order	vote dilution	Baldus v. Members of Wisconsin Gov't Accountability Board, 849 F.Supp.2d 840 (E.D. Wis 2012)
WYOMING
Fremont County	case/litigation	2010	Final Order	vote dilution	Large v. Fremont County, Wyo., 709 F. Supp. 2d 1176 (D. Wyo. 2010)

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS
U N D E R L A W

1500 K St., N.W., 9th Floor
Washington, D.C. 2005
Phone: 202-662-8600

www.lawyerscommittee.org

Voting Cases the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law Has Participated in Since the Decision in Shelby County v. Holder

- A. Philip Randolph Inst. of Ohio v. LaRose, No. 1:20-CV-01908, 493 F. Supp. 3d 596 (N.D. Ohio Oct. 6, 2020), stayed, 831 Fed. App'x 188 (6th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit in the Northern District of Ohio on August 26, 2020, representing Ohio APRI, the League of Women Voters of Ohio, the Ohio NAACP, and a number of individual Plaintiffs in a challenge against Ohio Secretary of State Frank LaRose's Directive prohibiting any county to install more than one secure ballot drop box for the 2020 general election. The district court denied Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction and the case was dismissed without prejudice. On October 6, 2020, Secretary LaRose issued another directive authorizing county election board staff to collect absentee ballots off-site. Plaintiffs filed a motion for reconsideration based on the Secretary's favorable interpretation of the Directive. The district court granted the motion for reconsideration, and entered a preliminary injunction, which was stayed by Sixth Circuit on October 9. The case was voluntarily dismissed with prejudice, but without costs on October 22, 2020.
- Abbott v. Perez, 138 S. Ct. 2305 (2018). The Lawyers' Committee, Campaign Legal Center, and NAACP Legal Defense & Educational Fund filed a brief as amici curiae with the Supreme Court on April 4, 2018, requesting that the Court affirm the judgment of a three-judge panel of the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, which had found that Texas's 2013 statewide redistricting maps unlawfully furthered and maintained purposeful dilution of minority voting strength in Texas's 2011 maps. The Supreme Court ruled that the 2013 maps were valid, with except for one district, and that Texas' past discrimination was not sufficient to undermine the good faith presumption of a legislature in its redistricting.
- Action NC, et al. v. Strach et al., No. 1:15-cv-1063 (M.D.N.C.). On December 15, 2015, the Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel representing three nonpartisan voter engagement organizations, Action NC, Democracy North Carolina and the North Carolina A. Philip Randolph Institute, and three individual Plaintiffs challenged North Carolina's failure to offer federally mandated voter registration services through motor vehicle and public assistance agencies under sections 5 and 7 of the National Voter Registration Act. The matter was resolved on June 25, 2018 when the parties reached a favorable settlement that required the agencies and the North Carolina Secretary of State to improve their voter registration forms, to provide assistance to individuals filling out voter registration forms (if needed) and to properly collect and transmit voter registration forms to election officials.
- Ala. State Conf. of NAACP v. Alabama, 264 F. Supp. 3d 1280 (M.D. Ala. 2017), aff'd, 949 F.3d 647 (11th Cir. 2020); 2020 WL 583803 (M.D. Ala., Feb. 5, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel brought an action on behalf of a civil rights organization and individual voters, claiming that Alabama's system of electing members of its three highest courts on the basis of statewide, at-large, elections diluted the votes of Black voters in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. Defendants' motion to dismiss was denied by the district court, and its denial was affirmed by the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals. After trial, the district court entered judgment in favor of Defendants, finding that Plaintiffs had not met their burden of proving a Section 2

violation. After judgment, Alabama appealed to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals to vacate its prior ruling that the doctrine of sovereign immunity did not bar this action, on the basis that the judgment in the case rendered the entire case moot. After the Eleventh Circuit declined to vacate the judgment, 806 F. App'x 975, Alabama petitioned the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari, which was granted on May 17, 2021. The Supreme Court vacated the judgment and remanded the case to the Eleventh Circuit with instructions to dismiss the case as moot. (No. 20-1047, U.S. Supreme Court).

- Alabama v. U.S. Dep't of Com., 396 F. Supp. 3d 1044 (N.D. Ala. 2019). This suit was filed by the State of Alabama and Congressman Mo Brooks, seeking a declaratory judgment that the Department of Commerce's Residence Rule that counted all persons residing in the United States on April 1, 2020, for purposes of the Census was unconstitutional. Specifically, the Plaintiffs allege that undocumented persons should not be counted in the census for purposes of apportionment of congressional seats and claim that Alabama will lose a congressional seat if they are counted. The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel moved to intervene as Defendants on behalf of several Local Government Intervenors, and motions were granted on September 9, 2019. Alabama v. U.S. Dep't of Com., 2018 WL 6570879 (N.D. Ala. Dec. 13, 2018); Alabama v. U.S. Dep't of Com., 2019 WL 4260171 (N.D. Ala. Sept. 9, 2019). The district court denied certain of the Defendant and Defendant intervenors' motion to dismiss on the ground of lack of standing, id. at 396 F. Supp. 3d at 1044, and denied Plaintiffs' motion for a three-judge panel to be convened to adjudicate the case. Alabama v. U.S. Dep't of Com., 493 F. Supp. 3d 1123 (N.D. Ala. 2020). After the Census Bureau issued its apportionment figures showing that Alabama would not lose a congressional seat as a result of the 2020 Census, the parties stipulated to voluntary dismissal of the action.
- Bally, et. al. v. Gretchen Whitmer, et al., No. 1:20-cv-01088 (W.D. MI., filed Nov. 11, 2020). This was a lawsuit brought by four Michigan voters against the Governor of Michigan, Michigan Board of State Canvassers, the individual board members of the Michigan Board of State Canvassers, the Wayne County Board of Canvassers, individual members of the Wayne County Board of Canvassers, the Washtenaw County Board of Canvassers, individual members of the Washtenaw County Board of Canvassers, the Ingham County Board of Canvassers and individual members of the Ingham County Board of Canvassers seeking to exclude ballots cast in these counties in the certified election results. Plaintiffs alleged the exclusion of these votes was required because of alleged fraud and other irregularities in the Defendant counties. After the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene with the assistance of local counsel, and the court ordered the Plaintiffs to file a response to said motion, the Plaintiffs chose instead to file a voluntary dismissal on November 16, 2020.
- Arctic Vill. Council v. Meyer, No. 3AN-20-07858CI (AK. Superior Ct. 3rd Judicial Dist. Anchorage Oct. 5, 2020), aff'd sub nom. Alaska v. Arctic Vill. Council, S-17902 (AK. Supreme Ct. Oct. 12, 2020). Together with ACLU of Alaska, ACLU, and NARF, the Lawyers' Committee represented a tribe and several other Plaintiffs in a state constitutional challenge to Alaska's enforcement of the witness requirement for absentee ballots during the pandemic. The superior court granted Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction enjoining the state from enforcing its witness requirement for absentee ballots in the November general election and ordering the state to count unwitnessed absentee ballots.

The state appealed and after oral argument, the Alaska Supreme Court affirmed the district court's decision on October 12. The case is still pending.

- Benisek v. Lamone, 138 S. Ct. 1942 (2018). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief on January 29, 2018 behalf of the NAACP, the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, and individuals as amici curiae in support of neither party, in a case appealing the denial of a preliminary injunction against Maryland's implementation of its congressional districting maps. The case raised the issue of the justiciability of a claim of partisan gerrymandering, and the Lawyers' Committee's brief argued that such claims were justiciable, and provided an example from a case the Lawyers' Committee was litigating in Georgia as to the nature of the proofs that could be elicited in such a case. The Supreme Court did not reach the issue of justiciability, but affirmed the denial of the preliminary injunction motion on equity grounds.
- Bethune-Hill v. Virginia State Bd. of Elections, 137 S. Ct. 788 (2017). This case arose from the redistricting of 12 Virginia legislative districts after the 2010 Census. Plaintiffs, who were voters residing in each of the challenged districts, alleged the redistricting plan constituted an unlawful racial gerrymander. On September 14, 2016, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed an amicus curiae brief in support of neither party which focused upon the confusing nature of the lower court's holdings, which appeared to conflate the predominance inquiry for triggering strict scrutiny with the narrow tailoring inquiry for a district already subject to strict scrutiny. The Supreme Court affirmed the district court majority decision as to one district, but vacated and remanded to the district court with respect to the remaining 11 districts.
- Brnovich, et al. v. Democratic National Committee, et al., Nos. 19-1257 and 19-1258 (U.S. Supreme Ct., Jan. 20, 2021). The Lawyers' Committee, the NAACP, and pro bono counsel filed a brief as amici curiae in the appeal from a decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, sitting en banc, which had ruled that Arizona's laws prohibiting out-of-precinct voting and the collection of absentee ballots by other than family members constituted racial discrimination in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. This is the first case in decades taken by the Court in a Section 2 vote denial case, and the petitioners have argued that the Court should change settled standards for adjudication of such claims, specifically that Section 2 should apply only to voter "qualification" laws/ We and the NAACP have urged the Court not to abandon the established standard, because to do so would thwart the goals of the Fifteenth Amendment and the plain language of the Act and Congress's intent. The case is awaiting decision.
- Brooks v. Mahoney, No. 4:20-cv-00281-RSB (S.D. Ga.). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda, James Woodall, Helen Butler, and Rev. Melvin Ivey in this action seeking to stop the certification of the November 2020 presidential election. The Plaintiffs alleged various electoral irregularities occurred in eight Democratic and predominantly-minority counties surrounding absentee ballots. The Plaintiffs filed the action on November 12, 2020 and voluntarily dismissed the case on November 16, 2020, before any action had occurred in the case.
- City of San Jose v. Ross, 18-cv-02279 (N.D. Cal. filed Apr. 17, 2018) (consolidated with California v. Ross, No. 18-cv-01865). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit on behalf of the City of San Jose, California and the Black Alliance for Just Immigration, challenging the decision by Secretary of Commerce Wilbur Ross to add a citizenship question to the 2020 Census. The case was consolidated with a similar case brought by the State of California. Defendants' first motion to dismiss was denied, 362 F. Supp. 3d 727 (N.D. Cal. 2018), as was their motion for summary judgment and Plaintiffs' partial motion for summary judgment, 362 F. Supp. 3d 749 (N.D. Cal. 2018). The matter proceeded to trial after the district court denied Defendants' motion in limine to exclude certain witnesses, 2019 WL 1975437 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 4, 2019). After trial, the district court issued a decision enjoining the addition of the citizenship question on the grounds that it violated the Enumeration Clause of the Constitution and the Administrative Procedure Act. 358 F. Supp. 3d 965 (N.D. Cal. 2019). Defendants filed a petition for certiorari with the U.S. Supreme Court and the Court granted the petition, vacated the judgment, and remanded the case to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit for further consideration in light of Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551 (2019), where the Court had found that the decision to add the citizenship question to the Census violated the Administrative Procedure Act. The Ninth Circuit dismissed Defendants' appeal on July 30, 2019. City of San Jose v. Ross, 2019 WL 4273890 (9th Cir. July 30, 2019).

- City of San Jose, et al. v. Donald J. Trump, et al., No. 5:20-5167 RRC-LHK-EMC, 497 F. Supp. 3d 680 (N.D. Cal. 2020), judgment vacated and remanded, 141 S. Ct. 1231 (2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit, claiming that President Trump's Executive Memorandum seeking to exclude undocumented persons from the apportionment count resulting from the 2020 Census violated the Census Act, and the Enumeration Clause and Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. A three-judge court granted Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment, and denied Defendants' motion to dismiss. The Defendants appealed the decision to the Supreme Court. In a decision in a separate case on the same issues, Trump v. New York, 141 S. Ct. 530 (2020), the Supreme Court determined that Plaintiffs lacked standing because their injuries were not ripe. Just over a week later, the Supreme Court dismissed the Lawyers' Committee case on similar grounds.
- Collins, et al. v. Adams, et al., No. 3:20-00375 CRS (W.D. Ky. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit claiming that the Governor, Secretary of State, and the State Board of Elections had unduly burdened the constitutional right to vote by failing to make the following adjustments for the general election in November 2020 in light of the COVID-19 public health emergency: (1) waive implementation of the state's new photo identification requirement; (2) implement no-excuse absentee voting; and (3) implement several changes to election procedures that improve the accessibility of absentee voting. The Lawyers' Committee filed a motion for a preliminary injunction, but the state ultimately announced that it was all implementing most of the adjustments that Plaintiffs were seeking. As a result, the Plaintiffs agreed to voluntarily dismiss the case.
- Common Cause Indiana v. Lawson, No. 1:20-cv-01825 (S.D. Ind.), preliminary injunction granted, No. 120CV01825RLYTAB, 488 F. Supp. 3d 724 (S.D. Ind. 2020), reversed, 978 F.3d 1036 (7th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented Plaintiff organizations challenging provisions restricting state court standing to bring action to extend poll hours and limiting available judicial remedies as an undue burden on the right to vote, a violation of procedural due process, and a violation of the Supremacy Clause. The district granted a preliminary injunction granted but the order was stayed and summarily reversed by Seventh Circuit. The case has been dismissed.

- Common Cause Indiana and Indiana State Conference of the NAACP v. Lawson, No. 1:20-cv-02007 (S.D. Ind.), preliminary injunction granted, 490 F. Supp. 311 (S.D. Ind. 2020), reversed, 977 F.3d 663 (7th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented Plaintiff organizations challenging a noon Election Day mail ballot receipt deadline as an undue burden on the fundamental right to vote during COVID-19 pandemic. The district court granted a preliminary injunction but the order was stayed and summarily reversed by Seventh Circuit.
- Common Cause N.Y. v. Brehm, 432 F. Supp. 3d 285 (S.D.N.Y. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented Common Cause New York in a successful challenge to a New York statute that required keeping inactive voters' names out of poll books on Election Day. The Plaintiffs brought the case in 2017 and the district court dismissed Plaintiffs' facial claim under the National Voter Registration Act. Common Cause N.Y. v. Brehm, 344 F. Supp. 3d 542 (S.D.N.Y. 2018). A full trial on the merits was held in October of 2019. In January of 2020, District Court Judge Allison J. Nathan held that the New York State imposed an unconstitutional burden on the fundamental right to vote and that the statute violated the National Voter Registration Act as applied to particular voters disenfranchised in recent elections. The district court permanently enjoined New York's prohibition on including inactive voters' names in poll books but held that inactive voters would have to continue casting provisional ballots, which would then automatically be counted.
- Cook County Republican Party v. Pritzker, et al., 487 F. Supp. 3d 305 (N.D. Ill.). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed an amicus brief on behalf of voting rights and racial justice organizations in opposition to Plaintiff political party's motion for preliminary injunction challenging expanded access to mail voting during COVID-19 pandemic. The brief argued temporary measures expanding and encouraging voting by mail were justified by public interest in voting safely during pandemic, and that Plaintiff's allegation that these measures would lead to fraud were speculative and unsupported. The court denied Plaintiff's motion for preliminary injunction.
- Cooper v. Harris, 581 U.S. ---, 137 S. Ct. 1455 (2017). On October 19, 2016, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief as amicus curiae on its own behalf, in support of the appellees, who had challenged North Carolina's congressional redistricting as including two districts that had been racially gerrymandered in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment. The brief argued that the Court had settled standards to apply in racial gerrymander cases; that, under those standards, the redistricting was subject to strict scrutiny; and that it did not pass muster under that test. The Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the three-judge panel of the United States District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina, giving deference to the lower court's fact-finding, and ruling that the lower court's decision that race was the predominant factor in drawing the two districts in question as majority-minority districts was not clearly erroneous.
- Curling v. Raffensperger, 397 F. Supp. 3d 1334 (N.D. Ga. 2019) (granting 2019 preliminary injunction motion). The Lawyers' Committee entered this case in the summer of 2019, about a year after the case had been filed, representing the Coalition for Good Governance and four voters challenging two voting systems employed statewide in Georgia. The district court granted Plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction, enjoining Georgia officials from using the DRE voting machines after January 1, 2020.

The district court ordered additional relief including implementation of a hand-marked paper ballot pilot program, a plan for using paper ballots as backup in case electronic voting machines falter, and a plan for using paper ballots as a backup to electronic poll books. The Plaintiffs continued the case after Georgia officials scrapped the DRE voting machines and instituted Dominion Ballot Marking Devices, although the Lawyers' Committee ceased active participation in summer 2020 and eventually filed a motion to withdraw as counsel, which was granted in December 2020. The Plaintiffs filed successive preliminary injunction motions in 2020, which the district court largely rejected, but did grant narrow relief on two occasions; the Eleventh Circuit stayed one of those orders prior to the November 2020 election. Curling v. Raffensperger, 491 F. Supp. 3d 1289 (N.D. Ga. Sept. 28, 2020) (requiring the Secretary of State to generate and transmit an updated hard copy electors list to each county election superintendent at the close of absentee in-person early voting, to be available as a backup in case the electronic poll books fail), stayed by Curling v. Sec'y of State for Ga., 2020 WL 6301847 (11th Cir. Oct. 24, 2020); see also Curling v. Raffensperger, 493 F. Supp. 3d 1264 (N.D. Ga. Oct. 11, 2020) (granting a preliminary injunction in part and finding that "the modified scanner settings may well still result in the rejection of valid votes and ballots falling through the identified crack in the system by failing to flag visibly clear voter marks for adjudication by a review panel"). Both preliminary injunction orders are currently before the Eleventh Circuit, but the Lawyers' Committee is no longer counsel.

- Dep't of Com. v. New York, 139 S. Ct. 2551 (2019). On April 1, 2019, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief for the City of San Jose and the Black Alliance for Just Immigration as amici curiae in Support of Respondents in a case arising from the Southern District of New York, challenging the decision of the Secretary of Commerce to add a citizenship question to the 2020 Census. As noted elsewhere in this report, the Lawyers' Committee was representing these parties in a similar case in the Northern District of California. The Supreme Court ruled that the decision to add the citizenship question violated the Administrative Procedure Act.
- Donald J. Trump for President, Inc. v. Boockvar, No. 4:20-cv-02078, 2020 WL 6821992 (M.D. Pa. Nov. 21, 2020), aff'd, 830 Fed. App'x. 377 (3d Cir. Nov. 27, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented Defendant-Intervenors the Black Political Empowerment Project, Common Cause Pennsylvania, League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania, NAACP Pennsylvania State Conference, and eight impacted voters in opposition to the Trump Campaign's attempt to overturn the November 2020 presidential election results in Pennsylvania. In an amended version of the lawsuit filed on November 15, 2020, the Trump campaign asked the court to order the Department of State to not certify its presidential election results because some counties contacted and permitted voters to fix mistakes with their mail ballot declarations while others did not. After hearing argument on Defendants' motion to dismiss, the district court dismissed the case on November 21, saying that "this Court has been presented with strained legal arguments without merit and speculative accusations... unsupported by evidence." The Trump Campaign appealed immediately to the Third Circuit, which affirmed the district court's dismissal of the case.
- Donald J. Trump For President, Inc. v. Boockvar, 493 F. Supp. 3d 331 (W.D. Pa. Oct. 10, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented Defendant-Intervenors NAACP Pennsylvania State Conference, Common Cause, and the League of Women

Voters of Pennsylvania in this action brought by the Trump Campaign alleging federal and state constitutional violations stemming from Pennsylvania's implementation of a mail-in voting plan for the November 2020 general election. The Plaintiffs sought emergency relief but, on August 23, 2020, the Court found that Pullman abstention applied due to unsettled questions of state law being litigated in the Pennsylvania Democratic Party v. Boockvar case. Proceedings continued after the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled in the Pennsylvania Democratic Party case and the parties filed cross motions for summary judgment. On October 10, 2020, the Court granted Defendants' summary judgment motion. The court found that the use of absentee ballot drop boxes is constitutional, that the Secretary's guidance that mail-in ballots should not be rejected where the voter's signature does not match the one on file is constitutional, and that Pennsylvania's restriction on poll watchers to residents of that county is constitutional.

- Donald J. Trump, et al., v. Jocelyn Benson, et al., No. 1:20-cv-01083, ECF 1 (W.D. MI. Nov. 11, 2020). This was a lawsuit filed by the Donald Trump campaign and seven Michigan voters on November 11, 2020 seeking to enjoin the Michigan State Board of Canvassers and the Wayne County Board of Canvassers from certifying the November 3, 2020 presidential election results based upon claims of fraud and other irregularities. On November 13, 2020, the Lawyers' Committee, with the assistance of pro bono counsel, filed a motion to intervene as Defendants on behalf of the Michigan State Conference of the NAACP, Wendell Anthony, Yvonne White and Andre Wilkes. On November 17, 2020, the Court granted the motion to intervene filed by the Lawyers' Committee as well as motions filed by the Democratic Party and the City of Detroit. Subsequently, the Democratic Party Plaintiffs filed a motion to dismiss. The Lawyers' Committee as well as other Defendant parties concurred in the motion to dismiss. On November 19, 2020, the Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed their lawsuit.
- Donald J. Trump for President, Inc. v. Montgomery County Board of Elections, No. 2020-18680 (Montgomery Cty. Ct. of Common Pleas). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed an amicus brief on behalf of the Pennsylvania NAACP, Common Cause Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, and the Black Political Empowerment Project opposing the Trump Campaign's November 5, 2020 petition for emergency relief. The Trump Campaign sought to invalidate approximately 600 absentee and mail-in ballots cast in the November 2020 election because the voters failed to fill out their address immediately below their signed declaration on the outer ballot envelope. On November 13, 2020, a Montgomery County Court of Common Pleas judge issued an order denying the Trump Campaign's petition and ordering that the absentee and mail-in ballots must be counted. The Trump Campaign filed a notice of appeal to the Commonwealth Court on November 17, 2020, which it withdrew the next day.
- Donald J. Trump, Michael R. Pence and Donald J. Trump for President, Inc. v. Joseph R. Biden, et al., 2020 WI 91, 951 N.W.2d 568. Candidates and campaign appealed results of recount and determinations of county and state election officials and requesting relief including reversal of election officials' determinations to count certain ballots in certain counties. Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed motion to appear as amicus curiae on behalf of itself and Wisconsin NAACP in opposition to a challenge of vote counts in Dane and Milwaukee Counties. The case was dismissed and the results affirmed.

- Feehan v. Wisconsin Elections Comm'n, No. 20-CV-1771-PP, 2020 WL 7250219 (E.D. Wis. Dec. 9, 2020): Plaintiff Presidential Elector brought suit alleging that a massive transnational conspiracy altered the outcome of the 2020 presidential election and requesting relief including “de-certifying” election results and certifying for Plaintiffs’ preferred candidate. Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief as amicus curiae on behalf of Wisconsin NAACP in support of dismissal. The district court dismissed the case.
- Gallardo v. State, 236 Ariz. 84, 336 P.3d 717 (2014), The Arizona legislature passed a law that applied only to the Maricopa County Community College District and added two at-large members to what was previously a five-single district board. The legislature had submitted the change for Section 5 preclearance. The Department of Justice issued a more information letter based on concerns that the addition of two at-large members, in light of racially polarized voting in Maricopa County, would weaken the electoral power of minority voters on the board. After receiving the more information letter, Arizona officials did not seek to implement the change. Only after the Shelby County decision did they move forward, precipitating the lawsuit brought by the Lawyers’ Committee and its partners. We could not challenge the change under Section 2, especially because we would not have been able to meet the first Gingles precondition. Instead we made a claim in state court alleging that the new law violated Arizona’s constitutional prohibition against special laws because the board composition of less populous counties was not changed. Reversing the intermediate court of appeal, the Arizona Supreme Court rejected our argument, holding that the special laws provision of the state constitution was not violated. Unsurprisingly, the Latino candidate who ran for the at-large seat in the first election lost and the two at-large members are white.
- Ga. Assoc. of Latino Elected Officials v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Registrations and Elections, No. 1:20-cv-1587-WMR, 2020 WL 6589661 (N.D. Ga. Oct. 5, 2020) (granting motion to dismiss). The Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel represent the Georgia Association of Latino Elected Officials, Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda, Asian Americans Advancing Justice-Atlanta, New Georgia Project, Common Cause, and two individual voters in this lawsuit. The case challenges election officials’ provision of English-only election materials, including paper absentee ballot applications and online voter registration and absentee ballot application portals, to Gwinnett County voters under Sections 203 and 4(e) of the Voting Rights Act. The case arose prior to Georgia’s June 2020 primary election when the State mailed English-only absentee ballot applications to Gwinnett County voters. Plaintiffs filed a preliminary injunction motion, which the district denied on the merits on May 8, 2020. See Ga. Assoc. of Latino Elected Officials v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Registrations and Elections, --- F. Supp. 3d ----, 2020 WL 2505535 (N.D. Ga. May 8, 2020). The Plaintiffs subsequently amended their complaint to identify a broader scope of English-only materials that election officials are providing to Gwinnett County voters. Defendants subsequently filed motions to dismiss, which the district court granted on October 5, 2020. Plaintiffs appealed the district court’s dismissal of the case to the Eleventh Circuit on December 5, 2020. The matter is fully briefed and awaiting argument.
- Georgia Coalition for People’s Agenda v. Deal, 214 F. Supp. 3d 1344 (S.D. Ga. 2016). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel represented the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda, and Third Sector

Development, Inc. in a case challenging State and local officials' failure to extend the registration deadline in the greater Savannah area following Hurricane Matthew. The Plaintiffs brought a fundamental right to vote claim under the U.S. Constitution and a claim under the National Voter Registration Act. Plaintiffs sought a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction and prevailed on their constitutional claim. As a result, the court ordered an extension of the registration deadline in Chatham County for the November 2016 election.

- Georgia Republican Party, Inc., et al. v. Raffensperger, et al., No. 1:20-cv-05018-ELR, ECF 1 (N.D. Ga., December 10, 2020). This lawsuit was filed by the Georgia Republican Party, the National Republican Senate Committee and the Kelly Loeffler and David Perdue Senate campaigns, against Brad Raffensperger, the Georgia Secretary of State, the Georgia State Election Board and its individual Board members in their official capacities. The suit challenged the absentee ballot signature match process, and sought to enjoin modifications to the process resulting from a settlement reached in a federal voting rights lawsuit in March 2020. On December 16, 2020, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel successfully moved for leave to file an amicus brief on behalf of the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda and the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP in opposition to the Plaintiffs' motion for emergency injunctive relief. Ultimately, the Court denied relief to the Plaintiffs and dismissed the Plaintiffs' complaint from the bench on December 17, 2020. On December 18, 2020, the Plaintiffs filed a notice of appeal to the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals. However, the Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the appeal on January 4, 2021.
- Ga. State Conf. of the NAACP v. DeKalb Cty. Bd. of Registration and Elections, 484 F. Supp. 3d 1308 (N.D. Ga. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represent the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda in an action brought under the National Voter Registration Act and the U.S. Constitution that challenges the Board of Election's purges of DeKalb County voters, including the removal of homeless voters. The challenges took place in late 2019, when the Lawyers' Committee sent the county an NVRA notice letter, and the lawsuit was filed in February of 2020. On September 2, 2020, the district court denied Defendants' motion to dismiss the lawsuit on standing and immunity grounds. The case is ongoing.
- Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Emanuel Cty. Bd. of Comm'rs, No. 6:16-cv-0021 (S.D. Ga. Oct. 24, 2016): The Lawyers' Committee represented Black Plaintiffs who brought a minority vote dilution claim under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act concerning the map of Emanuel County School Board districts. The parties negotiated a settlement that resulted in the creation of two majority-minority single-member districts.
- Georgia State Conference NAACP, et. al. v. Georgia, et, al., No. 1:17-cv-1397, 2017 WL 9435558 (N.D. Ga. May 4, 2017), order granting preliminary injunction in part; Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, et. el. v. Kemp, et, al., No. 1:17-cv-1397, 2018 WL 2271244 (N.D. Ga. April 11, 2018), order granting Plaintiffs' motion for attorneys' fees and costs in part. On April 20, 2017, the Lawyers' Committee, with the assistance of pro bono counsel, filed a lawsuit in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia in Atlanta on behalf of Plaintiffs the Georgia Coalition for the Peoples' Agenda, Asian Americans Advancing Justice-Atlanta, Inc., Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Third Sector Development, Inc. (parent of the New Georgia Project), ProGeorgia State Table, Inc., and a Fulton County prospective voter. The suit alleged that the voter registration deadline for federal runoff elections violated Section 8 of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 and was preempted by federal law. The lawsuit was filed prior to a June 2017 runoff election for the Georgia Sixth Congressional District seat. Under Georgia law, the voter registration deadline for runoff elections required voters to register to vote by the 5th Monday prior to the original election leading to the runoff election in order to be eligible to vote in the runoff election. Under Section 8 of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993, Congress set a maximum voter registration deadline for elections in which a federal candidate was on the ballot and Georgia's runoff voter registration scheme violated the federally mandated maximum voter registration deadline in federal elections. On May 4, 2017, the Court granted almost all of the relief requested by Plaintiffs for the June 2017 runoff election and the prospective individual Plaintiff voter was able to successfully register to vote and voted in the Sixth Congressional District runoff election. Subsequently, the parties resolved the matter with a consent order in which the preliminary injunction entered by the Court was extended to apply to all federal runoff elections in Georgia in the future.

- Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. Georgia, 312 F. Supp. 3d 1357 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (denying the 2018 preliminary injunction motion). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel represented the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and registered voters in Gwinnett and Henry Counties in a challenge to a 2015 mid-cycle redistricting plan. Plaintiffs alleged that the plan was a racial and partisan gerrymander drawn for the racially discriminatory purpose of preventing candidates supported by minority voters from being elected in two Georgia State House districts. A three-judge panel dismissed our Section 2 discriminatory purpose claim in response to the State's motion to dismiss on the basis that the protected districts were not majority-minority. See Georgia State Conference of NAACP v. State of Georgia, 269 F. Supp. 3d 1266 (N.D. Ga. 2017). The Plaintiffs then filed a preliminary injunction seeking emergent relief for the 2018 election cycle. The district court denied the preliminary injunction motion, holding that the Plaintiffs failed to establish a likelihood of success on the merits even though the "evidence that race predominated this redistricting process is compelling" and said there was evidence of partisan gerrymandering. The minority-preferred candidates then proceeded to win the 2018 general elections in both of the contested districts, causing the Plaintiffs to voluntarily dismiss the lawsuit shortly thereafter.
- Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, et al. v. Gwinnett County Board of Registration and Elections, et al., No 1:16-cv-2852, 2017 WL 4250535 (N.D. Ga. 2017). On August 8, 2016, the Lawyers' Committee, along with pro bono counsel, filed a lawsuit on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Association of Latino Elected Officials and seven Gwinnett County, Georgia-registered voters. The complaint alleged that the district boundaries for the Gwinnett County Board of Commissioners and the Gwinnett County Board of Education violated Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, because they diluted the voting strength of minority voters. In May 2017, the District Court denied Defendants' motions to dismiss and rejected Gwinnett County's argument that claims under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act are limited to members of a single minority group. Subsequently, Plaintiffs agreed to voluntarily dismiss the action after the 2018 mid-term elections when, after demographic changes in the county led minority candidates to win seats for the first time in the county's history on both the Gwinnett County Board of Education and Board of County Commissioners.

- Georgia State Conference of NAACP, et. al. v. Hancock County Board of Elections and Registration, et al.*, No. 5:15-cv-00414, 2018 WL 1583160 (M.D. Ga. 2018). On November 3, 2015, the Lawyers' Committee, along with pro bono co-counsel, filed a voting rights lawsuit in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Georgia in Macon against the Hancock County Board of Elections and Registration (BOER), five individual members of the BOER, and the Hancock County Supervisor of Elections alleging violations of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, Civil Rights Act of 1964, National Voter Registration Act of 1993 and United States Constitution. The Plaintiffs were the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, the Georgia Coalition for the Peoples' Agenda, and five Black Hancock County voters. This action arose as a result of the challenging and purging of Black voters from the Hancock County voter registration list in advance of the November 3, 2015 City of Sparta municipal election by the majority white Hancock County BOER. After the suit was filed, the district court ordered that all eligible voters be restored to the rolls. The Lawyers' Committee was able to identify 19 such eligible voters (two of whom, unfortunately, had died in the interim). An additional 9 voters were identified as eligible, so long as they produced proof of county address when voting. The case was resolved by a Consent Order which required, among other things, the appointment by the Court of an independent Examiner to oversee the Defendants' compliance with the Consent Order. The monitoring of compliance with the Consent Order by the Examiner is ongoing.
- Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Kemp*, No. 2:16-CV-00219-WCO (N.D. Ga. 2016). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit on September 14, 2016 on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda and Asian Americans Advancing Justice – Atlanta alleging that Georgia's exact-match voter registration verification scheme violates Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and denies eligible Georgians their fundamental right to vote under the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution. The complaint, filed in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia, concerns Georgia's voter registration verification process as implemented administratively by the Georgia Secretary of State, which required all of the letters and numbers comprising the applicant's name, date of birth, driver's license number or last four digits of the Social Security number to exactly match the same letters and numbers for the applicant in the state's Department of Drivers Service or Social Security Administration databases. This process resulted in the cancellation of applications submitted by African American, Latino, and Asian American applicants at rates significantly higher than White applicants. Shortly before the 2016 general election, the parties reached an agreement that would allow applicants who were placed into pending status due to a matching discrepancy with their name, date of birth, Social Security or Driver's license numbers to show ID when they requested a ballot to resolve the issue. And the Defendant agreed to remove a deadline by which the applicants were required to cure a matching discrepancy. Subsequently, the parties reached a settlement in early 2017. Shortly after reaching this settlement, the Georgia General Assembly passed a new law codifying the exact match process. This led to the filing of a second lawsuit, Georgia Coalition for People's Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018). That lawsuit is ongoing.

- Georgia Coalition for People’s Agenda, Inc. v. Kemp, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1251 (N.D. Ga. 2018). This is the second “exact match” suit, filed by the Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel after the Georgia General Assembly passed the new law, codifying the exact match process described above. As part of the exact match process, eligible Georgia citizens who held limited term Georgia driver’s licenses before they attained citizenship will also have their voter registration applications flagged as allegedly submitted by a potential non-citizen. Those applications are put into pending status and subject to cancellation after 26 months even though the applicant subsequently attained citizenship because Driver’s Services records are not routinely updated to reflect a change in citizenship status. In November 2018, the district court partially granted the Plaintiffs’ motion for a preliminary injunction that was focused upon the procedure employed for verifying citizenship at the polling place which resulted in an unreasonable burden on the right to vote. During the 2019 legislative session, the Georgia General Assembly substantially amended the 2017 law, mooting a significant part of the litigation addressing the exact match process relating to the verification of the identity of the applicant (i.e., matching discrepancies related to name, date of birth, driver’s license and Social Security records). Because the 2019 amendment did not change the defective citizenship match process, the litigation is now focused upon obtaining permanent relief enjoining the citizenship match process. This litigation is currently in the discovery phase.
- Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, et al. v. Raffensperger, No. 1:21-cv-01259-JPB (N.D. Ga., March 29, 2021). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel filed suit challenging the implementation of SB 202, a law passed by the Georgia General Assembly, which establishes restrictions and limitations on several forms of voting and enhances the power of the State Board of Elections to the detriment of county boards. The new law, among other things, reduces the time in which voters may apply for absentee ballots, imposes new identification requirements for the submitting of absentee ballots, diminishes the utility of drop boxes by limiting their availability to the days and hours of early voting, prohibits mobile voting unless ordered by the Governor in response to an emergency, criminalizes line-warming (the practice of providing food and water to those waiting in line to vote), eliminates the Secretary of State’s vote on the State Board of Elections, and adds as Chair a person selected by the General Assembly, and grants the State Board to power to assume the powers of a county board the State Board deems is underperforming. The law was enacted in the wake of elections in 2020 and 2021 which saw voters of color continuing to make use of different methods of voting, and continuing the trend of their increasing political power in the State. The complaint alleges that SB 202 is intentionally discriminatory in violation of the 14th and 15th Amendments and Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, has a discriminatory effect in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, and violates the right to vote.
- Gill v. Whitford, 138 S. Ct. 1916 (2018). On September 5, 2017, the Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, and individuals as amici curiae in Support of Appellees in a case challenging a partisan gerrymander in the State of Wisconsin. The brief argued that a claim of an illegal partisan gerrymander was justiciable. The Supreme Court did not reach the issue, but remanded the matter to give voters the opportunity to prove that they suffered concrete and particularized injuries.

- Greater Birmingham Ministries v. Sec’y of State for Ala., 691 F.3d 1249 (11th Cir. 2020). On February 28, 2018, the Lawyers’ Committee, together with the ACLU, the ACLU of Alabama, and Campaign Legal Center, filed a brief as amici curiae in an appeal from the decision of the Northern District of Alabama, which had granted Defendants summary judgment on Plaintiffs’ claims that Alabama’s photo ID law violated Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. 284 F. Supp. 3d 1253 (N.D. Ala. 2018). The brief argued that the district court had misapplied the legal standards in reaching its decision. The Eleventh Circuit affirmed the district court’s decision.
- Gwinnett Cty. NAACP v. Gwinnett Cty. Bd. of Reg. and Elections, 446 F. Supp. 3d 1111 (N.D. Ga. 2020) (denying PI motion). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel represented the Gwinnett County NAACP, Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, and the Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda in this lawsuit challenging the Gwinnett County Board of Commissioners’ decision to employ one countywide early voting location during the first week of early voting for the March 2020 primary election. The Board of Commissioners limited the number of locations in defiance of a request for additional locations from the Board of Elections. Plaintiffs brought a fundamental right to vote claim under the U.S. Constitution. The district court denied the Plaintiffs’ preliminary injunction motion on March 3, 2020, and the Plaintiffs dismissed the action shortly thereafter.
- Hall, et al. v. Jones Cty., et al., No. 4:17-cv-18 (E.D.N.C, filed Feb. 3, 2017). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel represented Black Plaintiffs who brought a minority vote dilution claim under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. The suit challenged the at-large method used to elect the five member Board of Commissioners (governing body) of Jones County, North Carolina. As a result of a favorable settlement reached in this case, the county board is now elected from seven single-member districts, two of which are majority-minority.
- Hall v. Louisiana, 884 F.3d 536 (5th Cir. 2018). The Lawyers’ Committee had entered this case mid-stream in 2015, when counsel for the Plaintiffs took ill at the outset of trial. Plaintiffs in the case had challenged the districting for election of judges to the city court as violating Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. After trial, the district court entered judgment for Defendants. 108 F. Supp. 3d 419 (M.D. La. 2015). After the State changed the district lines on the day the district court ruled for Defendants, the case was declared moot, and Plaintiffs moved for vacatur of the judgment, which motion was denied by the district court. 2015 WL 5022568, August 24, 2018. Plaintiffs appealed the denial of their motion for vacatur. The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit affirmed the denial.
- Hamm v. Boockvar, No. 600 M.D. 2020 (Pa. Commw. Ct.). The Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel represented amici Pennsylvania NAACP, PA Common Cause, PA League of Women Voters, and Black Political Empowerment Project opposing a petition filed in the Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court by a U.S. House candidate, Pennsylvania State House candidate, and four voters. On November 3, 2020, the Petitioners sought a preliminary injunction barring Pennsylvania officials from permitting allegedly invalidly submitted absentee and mail-in ballots to be cured by the submission of provisional ballots. On November 6, 2020, the Commonwealth Court granted preliminary relief ordering that provisional ballots be segregated pending compliance with state procedures for determining the validity of the provisional ballots. The Court denied all other requests for relief and stayed the matter pending further order of the Court.

- Hotze v. Hollins, No. 4:20-cv-3709, 2020 WL 6437668 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 2, 2020), aff'd, 2020 WL 6440440 (5th Cir. Nov. 2, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene as Defendants on behalf of the Texas State Conference of NAACP Branches, Common Cause Texas, and two individual absentee voters in an action brought by Harris County residents challenging local officials' use of drive-thru early voting locations for the November 2020 election. Plaintiffs brought Equal Protection Clause and Elections Clause claims seeking not only to shut down operational locations but also to invalidate thousands of ballots that had been cast at those locations during the early voting period. The Court ultimately granted Defendant individual voters' motions to intervene and dismissed the action due to a lack of standing on November 2, 2020. The Plaintiffs sought an emergency stay with the Fifth Circuit, which the Fifth Circuit denied. The Plaintiffs are continuing to pursue their appeal with the Fifth Circuit. The appeal is fully briefed and will be argued in early August.
- Huerena v. Reagan, No. CV2016-00789 (Ariz. Superior Court, Maricopa Cty. filed June 2, 2016). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed suit challenging the closing of polling places resulting in ordinally long wait times. The matter settled on October 19, 2016, with the County agreeing to develop a time reduction plan for the 2016 and 2020 general elections with the goal of not subjecting more than 5% of voters to a wait of more than an hour.
- Husted v. A. Philip Randolph Inst., 138 S. Ct. 1833 (2018). On September 22, 2017, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief as amici curiae on behalf of Rock the Vote, The Nuns on the Bus of Ohio, The Texas Civil Rights Project, and The Center for Media and Democracy in Support of Respondents, on an appeal to the Supreme Court from a decision of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that Ohio's Supplemental Process for removing voters from the rolls violated the National Voter Registration Act. The brief argued that Ohio's Supplemental Process violated the NVRA, failed to make a reasonable effort to remove ineligible voters from the rolls, and disproportionately disenfranchised minority voters. The Supreme Court reversed the decision of the Sixth Circuit, ruling that Ohio's Supplemental Process did not violate the NVRA.
- Issa v. Newsom, No. 2:20-cv-01044 (E.D. Cal. filed May 21, 2020); Republican Nat'l Comm. v. Newsom, No. 2:20-cv-01055 (E.D. Cal. filed May 24, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel represented Common Cause California and other organizations as amicus in two cases brought by Congressman Issa and the RNC challenging the Governor and Secretary of State of California under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, alleging violations of their First and Fourteenth Amendment rights, the Elections and Electors Clauses, and state law. Specifically, the Plaintiffs challenged the governor's Executive Order N-64-20, which authorized the Secretary of State to mail absentee ballots to every registered California voter to preserve the public health, arguing that changing the "time, place, and manner in which Californians" vote was unconstitutional. The Lawyers' Committee filed an amicus brief arguing in particular the disproportionate impact COVID-19 had on minority populations in California and the burden on the right to vote if Governor Newsom's Executive Order were to be lifted. The case was dismissed after the California legislature passed a new law that permitted the state to mail absentee ballots to all active, registered California voters.
- Johnson, et. al., v. Benson, et. al., No. 20-cv-01098, 2020 WL 6733809 (W.D. MI. November 15, 2020). This was a lawsuit filed by two Michigan voters against Jocelyn

Benson, the Michigan Secretary of State, and Jeannette Bradshaw, the chair of the Michigan State Board of Canvassers, seeking to prevent the certification of the November 3, 2020 presidential election based upon claims of alleged fraud and other irregularities, including that the Secretary of State had allegedly illegally “flooded” the state with absentee ballot applications. After the Lawyers’ Committee, with the assistance of pro bono counsel, filed a motion to intervene as Defendants on behalf of the MI NAACP and three of its members, the Plaintiffs filed a voluntary dismissal; the motion to intervene was fully briefed or heard by the court.

- Johnson v. Secretary of State, --Mich--, 951 N.W.2d 310 (2020). On November 26, 2020, two Michigan voters who identified themselves as “Black Voices for Trump,” filed an original action in the Michigan Supreme Court seeking extraordinary quo warranto relief to delay or prevent certification of Michigan’s presidential election results based upon unfounded allegations of massive fraud and other baseless allegations of improprieties in the November 3, 2020 Michigan presidential election. The relief sought by the Plaintiffs included the seizure of ballots, ballot boxes and poll books; appointment of a special master or legislative committee to investigate claims of fraud related to the counting of absentee ballots at the TCF Center in Detroit, and an injunction preventing Gov. Gretchen Whitmer from certifying Michigan’s presidential election results. The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel were granted leave to file an amicus brief on behalf of the Michigan State Conference of the NAACP opposing the Plaintiffs’ quo warranto action. On December 9, 2020, the Michigan Supreme Court rejected the Plaintiffs’ demands for relief in a 4-3 Order of the Court in which the Court noted that it was denying relief “because the Court is not persuaded that it can or should grant the requested relief.”
- Jones v. Boockvar, No. 717 MD 2018 (Pa. Commw. Ct). The Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel represented the American Civil Liberties Union of Pennsylvania and several individual Pennsylvania voters who cast absentee ballots in the November 2018 election that were rejected because election officials did not receive them by what was, at the time, the nation’s earliest absentee ballot return deadline (the Friday before Election Day). Plaintiffs brought this case shortly after the November 2018 election, raising claims under the Pennsylvania State Constitution as well as a fundamental right to vote claim under the U.S. Constitution. In 2019, after the motion to dismiss was fully briefed and argued, the Pennsylvania Legislature enacted Act 77, which not only pushed back the absentee ballot receipt deadline until the close of Election Day but also instituted no-excuse absentee voting in Pennsylvania for the first time. The Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the case following the passage of Act 77.
- Justice for the Next Generation et al. v. Cole et al, 1:20-cv-0998 (M.D.N.C., Nov. 2, 2020) (consolidated with Allen et al v. City of Graham et al, 1:20-CV-0997). The Lawyers’ Committee represents a racial justice and local community group and 13 individuals whom the Alamance County (North Carolina) Sheriff’s Office and the City of Graham Police Department violently dispersed with pepper spray and arrests on October 31, 2020. Plaintiff organizations had organized the “I am Change” March to the Polls in Graham on the last day of early voting and same-day voter registration in North Carolina, and three days before the November 2020 General Election. Individual Plaintiffs were injured when, without warning and before many marchers had risen to their feet after kneeling for 8 minutes and 46 seconds in memory of George Floyd, GPD officers began yelling at them to “move” while spraying the marchers indiscriminately with pepper spray. Plaintiffs’ claims include Voting Rights Act Sec. 11(b), KKK Act conspiracy (§1985), First and Fourth Amendment as well as state law tort claim against the police chief, Sheriff, and certain personnel from each agency.

- King, et al., v. Whitmer, et al., No. 2:20-cv-13134-LVP-RSW, 2020 WL 7134198 (E.D. MI, Dec. 7, 2020). This lawsuit was filed by Sidney Powell, L. Lin Wood and allied co-counsel on behalf of six Michigan voters against the Governor of Michigan, Gretchen Whitmer, the Michigan Secretary of State, Jocelyn Benson, and the Michigan Board of State Canvassers. The lawsuit alleged that the Michigan election results should not be certified and that the court should determine that Donald Trump won the election in Michigan. The Lawyers’ Committee, with the assistance of pro bono counsel, filed an amicus brief on behalf of the Michigan State Conference of the NAACP in opposition to the Plaintiffs’ motion for emergency injunctive and declaratory relief. On December 7, 2020, the District Court entered its opinion and memorandum denying the Plaintiffs’ motion for emergency relief. Plaintiffs filed a notice of appeal to the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals from the denial of their motion for emergency relief on December 8, 2020. Plaintiffs also filed a petition for certiorari in the Supreme Court on December 11, 2020. On January 26, 2021, the Sixth Circuit ordered the voluntary dismissal of the appeal at the request of Plaintiffs’ counsel. Nevertheless, the Plaintiffs’ petition for certiorari is still pending in the United States Supreme Court, although the Court denied the Plaintiffs’ motion to expedite consideration of the petition on January 11, 2021. King v. Whitmer, No. 20-815, 2021 WL 78064 (S. Ct.). The Defendants subsequently filed motions for sanctions against Plaintiffs’ counsel which are still pending in the District Court.
- Langenhorst, et al. v. Pecore, et al., 1:2020cv01701 (E.D. Wis.). Voters brought suit alleging violations of state election law in certain counties and requesting relief including excluding vote counts from certain counties. The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel moved to intervene on behalf of Michigan NAACP and individuals. The case was voluntarily dismissed.
- Lawyers’ Comm. for Civil Rights Under Law v. Presidential Advisory Comm’n on Election Integrity, 265 F. Supp. 3d 54 (D.D.C. 2017), appeal voluntarily dismissed, 2017 WL 6945782 (D.C. Cir. Dec. 20, 2017). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel filed this suit, alleging that the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity violated the disclosure, notice, and reporting requirements of the Federal Advisory Committee Act. Its motion for a temporary restraining order and a preliminary injunction to require the Commission to hold an in-person meeting with public attendance and to disclose records before the meeting was denied by the district court. Id. at 265 F. Supp. 3d at 54. On August 30, 2017, the district court granted the Lawyers’ Committee’s motion to require the Commission to produce a Vaughn-type index of its documents. The Commission was disbanded, citing the effects of litigation. The Lawyers’ Committee voluntarily dismissed its appeal, previously filed, from the denial of its motion for a TRO and preliminary injunction. Id. at 2017 WL 6945782 at *1. The district court subsequently denied the Lawyers’ Committee’s motion to compel compliance with aspects of the order re the Vaughn-type index, because the Commission was defunct, and some of the documents sought were being produced in other litigation. 316 F. Supp. 3d 230 (D.D.C 2018).

- Lawyers' Comm. for Civil Rights Under Law v. U.S. Dep't of Justice, 2020 WL 7319365 (D.D.C. Oct. 16, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel sued the Department of Justice and the Department of Homeland Security under the Freedom of Information Act to obtain documents pertaining to the creation of the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity. On October 16, 2020, the U.S. Magistrate Judge issued his Report and Recommendation, recommending that DOJ's motion for summary judgment should be granted as to the adequacy of the office of Solicitor General's search as to DOJ's withholding of information under Exemption 5, denying both the Lawyers' Committee's and DOJ's motions for summary judgment without prejudice as to the adequacy of the Office of Information Policy's search; and denying without prejudice both as to the adequacy of the Homeland's Security search and as to its withholding of information pursuant to Exemptions 5 and 6. The district court has accepted the Magistrate's Report.
- Lay v. Goins, No. M2020-00832-SC-RDM-CV (Tenn. Supreme Ct. filed July 7, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed an amicus brief on behalf of the Tennessee NAACP and other organizations concerning the chancery court's enlarging eligibility for absentee voting in light of COVID-19. The case concluded with a favorable opinion from the Tennessee Supreme Court that held that vulnerable populations at risk of contracting COVID-19 or individuals taking care of a high-risk person could request absentee ballots in the August and November 2020 elections.
- League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Reagan, No. 2:17-cv-04102-DGC, 2018 WL 5983009 (D. Ariz., Jun. 18, 2018). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel, on behalf of the League of United Latin American Citizens Arizona and the Arizona Students' Association, brought this action against the Secretary of State of Arizona and the Maricopa County Recorder alleging that Arizona had a dual voter registration system that violated various constitutional guarantees. The parties settled the lawsuit by consent decree.
- League of Women Voters of Arizona, et al. v. Reagan, No. 2:18-cv-02620, 2018 WL 4467891 (D. Az., Sept. 18, 2018). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed this lawsuit alleging that the Arizona Secretary of State failed to update the voter registration addresses of people who update their address with the Arizona Department of Transportation under §5 of the National Voter Registration Act. Plaintiffs filed a Motion for Preliminary injunction, which was denied based on laches and the Purcell doctrine on September 18, 2018. The parties voluntarily dismissed the case in January 2020 pursuant to a settlement agreement.
- League of Women Voters of Ark. v. Andino, 497 F. Supp. 3d 59 (D.S.C. 2020) (granting preliminary injunction in part); voluntarily stayed in part, 2020 WL 6395498 (4th Cir. Oct. 29, 2020); appeal dismissed and remanded, 2021 WL 927238 (4th Cir, Mar. 11, 2021). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represent the League of Women Voters of South Carolina, The Family Unit, Inc., and two individual voters in an equal protection and procedural due process challenge to a South Carolina statute providing for the rejection absentee ballots due to missing or allegedly mismatched signatures on the absentee ballot envelope. Plaintiffs alleged that South Carolina law failed to provide voters with notice and an opportunity to cure the deficiency. On October 27, 2020, the district court granted Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction motion in part. The district court found a likelihood of success on Plaintiffs' procedural due process and fundamental right to vote claims as to South Carolina's signature match process, but it denied Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction motion with respect to absentee ballots lacking a signature. The parties subsequently agreed to a partial stay in the Fourth Circuit (staying the order requiring counties to seek judicial preclearance for any proposed signature matching processes), which kept the portion of the district court order preventing the rejection of absentee ballots based on an alleged signature mismatch in place. The Defendants have appealed the district court's preliminary injunction to the Fourth Circuit, which remains pending. The Fourth Circuit held oral argument on the motion on January 25, 2021, and, on March 11, issued an order dismissing the appeal and remanding the matter to the district court for determination of whether the case was moot. Subsequently, the parties entered into a stipulation of dismissal of the matter, with the state acknowledging that, pursuant to current South Carolina law and Directive No. 2020-001, county boards of elections and voter registration are not authorized to and should not match voters' signatures located on absentee ballot voter oaths with voters' signatures on any other document for the purpose of determining the legitimacy of the absentee ballot or any voter's eligibility to cast a legal ballot in any future election in South Carolina.

- League of Women Voters of Ark. v. Thurston, No. 5:20-cv-5174, 2020 WL 6269598 (W.D. Ark. Oct. 26, 2020) (denying preliminary injunction motion). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel represent the League of Women Voters of Arkansas and several individual voters in a federal constitutional challenge to Arkansas law and procedures that require rejecting absentee ballots due to missing or allegedly mismatched signatures or other minor errors on the absentee ballot envelope without providing voters with notice and an opportunity to cure the deficiency. Plaintiffs filed a preliminary injunction motion in September of 2020 seeking relief for the November 2020 election alleging violations of the fundamental right to vote and procedural due process, which the district court denied on October 26, 2020. The district court held that the election was too close for relief to be appropriate. Plaintiffs have subsequently amended their complaint to add individual voters whose absentee ballots were rejected in the November 2020 election, and the parties are in the course of briefing Defendants' motion to dismiss.
- League of Women Voters of Ohio v. LaRose, No. 2:20-cv-1638, 2020 WL 6115006 (S.D. Ohio Apr. 3, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented the League of Women Voters of Ohio, other organizations, and individual Plaintiffs in a National Voter Registration Act and constitutional challenge to the decision to cut off voter registration more than 30 days before the new primary election date and to hold the primary election on April 28, too little time for Plaintiffs and their members to complete the absentee ballot process and submit their ballots in time to be counted. Plaintiffs filed a temporary restraining order in district court seeking an extension of the voter registration deadline in compliance with the NVRA and an extension of the primary election date on the grounds that it placed a significant burden on the right to vote. The district court denied the Plaintiffs' restraining order finding that Ohio had not violated the NVRA because the primary election date of April 28 was an extension of the original date and because the compressed timeframe for submitting absentee ballots did not burden Ohio voters. The case was voluntarily dismissed.
- League of Women Voters of Ohio v. LaRose, No. 2:20-cv-3843, 489 F. Supp. 3d 719 (S.D. Ohio 2020). Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented the League of Women Voters of Ohio and other organizations and individual Plaintiffs in a challenge against Ohio Secretary of State's enforcement of signature-matching requirements and cure procedures for absentee ballot applications and absentee ballots during the COVID-19 pandemic. Plaintiffs filed a preliminary injunction alleging that the signature-matching procedures, or lack thereof, violated the Right to Vote under the First and Fourteenth Amendments, Equal Protection, and Procedural Due Process. The district court denied the preliminary injunction finding that Ohio's signature-matching laws placed only a moderate burden on elections, did not violate procedural due process, and did not violate equal protection because there was little evidence that the differing procedures employed by counties in matching signatures were merely election-related irregularities. The case is pending.

- League of Women Voters of U.S. v. Newby, 195 F. Supp. 3d 80 (D.D.C. 2016), rev'd, 838 F.3d 1 (D.C. Cir. 2016). The Lawyers' Committee, together with other civil rights organizations, filed suit against the Executive Director of the Election Assistance Commission, challenging his decision to allow Alabama, Georgia, and Kansas to require to add their documentary proof-of-citizenship requirements to the federal mail-in voter registration form applicable to those states. The district court's denial of Plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction against implementation of the Executive Director's decision, League of Women Voters of U.S. v. Newby, 2016 WL 4729502 (D.C. Cir. Sept. 9, 2016), was reversed by the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, Newby, 838 F.3d 1, 9 (D.C. Cir. 2016). The case is pending.
- Lichtenstein v. Hargett, No. 3:20-cv-374, 489 F. Supp. 3d 732 (M.D. Tenn. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented several organizations (including Memphis & West Tenn AFL-CIO Central Labor Council, Equity Alliance, Tennessee NAACP, Memphis APRI, and Free Hearts) in a First Amendment challenge to statute criminalizing distribution of absentee ballot applications. This case was filed after a similar claim brought under a different statute that the state later admitted did not govern the prohibited conduct was dismissed. See Memphis A. Phillip Randolph Inst. v. Hargett, No. 3:20-cv-00374, 478 F. Supp. 3d 699 (M.D. Tenn. 2020). The district court denied the preliminary injunction on September 23, 2020 on the grounds that Plaintiffs had not shown that the statute prohibiting distribution restricted expressive conduct or political speech protected under the First Amendment. A motion to dismiss is pending.
- Lopez v. Abbott, 339 F. Supp. 3d 589 (S.D. Tex. 2018). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed this challenge to Texas's system for electing members of its two highest courts by statewide, at-large, elections as diluting the votes of Latinx voters, in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. After trial, the district court entered judgment for Defendants.
- Louisiana State Conference of National Association for Advancement of Colored People v. State of Louisiana, No. 19-479-JWG (M.D. La. June 26, 2020), appealed, No. 20-30734 (5th Cir. 2020). Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel are challenging the electoral map for Louisiana Supreme Court justices, arguing that the map denies Black voters an equal opportunity to elect justices of their choice, in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. Defendants moved to dismiss arguing that the relief sought in the case, the drawing of a second majority Black Supreme Court district in and around Baton Rouge, would infringe on the jurisdiction of a court in the Eastern District of Louisiana, which had previously issued orders relating to the Supreme Court electoral map in Louisiana. The District Court denied the motion to dismiss, and Defendants appealed to the 5th Circuit where the case is awaiting oral argument on the first week of July.

- Martin v. Crittenden, 347 F. Supp. 3d 1302 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (granting preliminary injunction based on missing or incorrect year birth on the absentee ballot envelope); Martin v. Kemp, 341 F. Supp. 3d 1326 (N.D. Ga. 2018) (granting preliminary injunction based on the mismatched signature issue), stay denied sub. nom Georgia Muslim Voter Project v. Kemp, 2018 WL 7822108 (11th Cir. Nov. 02, 2018), appeal voluntarily dismissed, Martin v. Sec’y of State of Georgia, 2018 WL 7139247 (11th Cir. Dec. 11, 2018). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel represented the Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda and four individual voters affiliated with the Coalition for Good Governance in this challenge to the rejection of absentee ballots due to mismatched signatures or other minor errors on the absentee ballot envelope. The Plaintiffs obtained preliminary relief on the signature match issue in October 2018. The State sought a stay of the signature match from the Eleventh Circuit, which was denied on November 2, 2018. The State subsequently dismissed its appeal of the signature match decision. The district court rejected Plaintiffs’ request for preliminary relief stopping the rejection of absentee ballots due to minor mistakes or omissions on the absentee ballot envelope in an October 2020 order. The Plaintiffs filed another preliminary injunction motion after identifying eligible voters whose absentee ballots were rejected in the November 2020 election, which the district court granted with respect to missing or incorrect year of birth on November 13, 2018. The Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the lawsuit in 2019 after the Georgia Legislature adopted H.B. 316 (2019), which made substantial changes to the mail voting process in Georgia.
- Memphis A. Phillip Randolph Inst. v. Hargett, 473 F. Supp. 3d 789 (M.D. Tenn. 2020) (denying preliminary injunction as to August 3 primary election on laches grounds); No. 3:20-cv-00374, 478 F. Supp. 3d 699 (M.D. Tenn. 2020) (denying preliminary injunction and motion for reconsideration for November 3 general election with respect to absentee ballot application distribution statute); No. 3:20-cv-00374, 482 F. Supp. 673 (M.D. Tenn. 2020) (denying preliminary injunction for November 3 general election concerning signature-matching claims), aff’d on other grounds, 978 F.3d 378 (6th Cir. 2020); No. 3:20-cv-00374, 485 F. Supp. 3d 959 (M.D. Tenn. 2020) (granting preliminary injunction allowing first-time voters who registered by mail to vote absentee), denying stay pending appeal, 977 F.3d 566 (6th Cir. 2020), filed May 1, 2020. The Lawyers’ Committee and partners filed an action challenging the constitutionality of Tennessee’s restrictive absentee ballot statute, a statute on signature verification on absentee ballots in particular the absence of pre-deprivation notice and cure opportunities, a statute criminalizing distribution of absentee ballot applications by anyone other than a member of the election commission, and a statute prohibiting first-time voters who registered by mail from voting absentee in their first election. The Lawyers’ Committee represented multiple organizations and individual Plaintiffs. After the decision in Lay v. Goins, No. M2020-00832-SC-RDM-CV (Tenn. Supreme Ct. filed July 7, 2020), which expanded the criteria for voting absentee in the state during COVID-19, Plaintiffs dismissed that claim from the district court case. The district court issued multiple opinions (see above) on the other claims. The court denied, on laches grounds, Plaintiffs’ preliminary injunction on all claims for the August 6 election. 473 F. Supp. 3d 789 (M.D. Tenn. 2020). The district court denied relief for the November 3 election on Plaintiffs’ signature-match claims which was affirmed by the Sixth Circuit. 482 F. Supp. 3d 673 (M.D. Tenn. 2020), aff'd on other grounds, 978 F.3d 378 (6th Cir. 2020). The court also denied relief on the absentee ballot distribution claim. 478 F. Supp. 3d 699 (M.D. Tenn. 2020). The district court granted relief for November 3 on the first-time voters claim and the Sixth Circuit denied Defendants' stay pending appeal. 485 F. Supp. 3d 959 (M.D. Tenn. 2020), denying stay pending appeal, 977 F.3d 566 (6th Cir. 2020). Both the signature-match claim and the first-time voter claim are pending.

- Miss. Immigrants Rights Alliance v. Hosemann, No. 3:19-cv-831-CWR (S.D. Miss.). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represent the Mississippi Immigrants Rights Alliance and the League of Women Voters of Mississippi in a federal constitutional challenge to Mississippi's proof of citizenship requirement for naturalized citizens and Mississippi's use of the citizenship information contained in the state's driver's license database to require alleged "non-citizen" voters to provide proof of citizenship. The case is ongoing; the Defendants filed an answer to the Plaintiffs' amended complaint and the parties are in the middle of discovery.
- MOVE Tex. Civic Fund v. Whitley, No. 5:19-cv-00171 (S.D. Tex. filed Feb. 4, 2019). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed suit challenging action by the Texas Secretary of State by which he had sent all counties a list of approximately 95,000 persons, whom he had identified as possible non-citizens who had registered to vote, and directed the counties to confirm their status with a goal of removing non-citizens from the voting list. Because the list was created by comparison with the drivers' license database, and because many non-citizens become naturalized citizens after obtaining their drivers' license, the complaint alleged that this process was unconstitutional and discriminated against naturalized citizens in violation of the U.S. Constitution and the Voting Rights Act. The case was transferred and consolidated with a similar pending case, Texas League of Latin American Citizens v. Whitley, No. 5:19-cv-00074 (W.D. Tex. filed Jan. 29, 2019). The matter settled with the Secretary of State withdrawing his directive to the counties, agreeing that the counties would take no further action under the directive, that the counties would identify only currently registered voters who registered to vote before they presented documents to the Department of Public Safety indicating their non-U.S. citizenship status, and other procedures.
- National Urban League, et al. v. Louis DeJoy, et al., No. 1:20-cv-02391 (D. Md.), preliminary injunction denied, No. CV GLR-20-2391, 2020 WL 6363959 (D. Md. Oct. 29, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel represented Plaintiff organizations challenging changes in U.S. Postal Service policy and practice affecting mail voting on right-to-vote, First Amendment, and statutory grounds. The district court denied a motion for preliminary injunction and the case was dismissed voluntarily.
- National Urban League, et al., v. Wilbur L. Ross, No. 20-5799-LHK, 489 F. Supp. 3d 939 (N.D. Cal. 2020), stay pending appeal denied, 977 F.3d 698 (9th Cir. 2020), order clarified by 491 F. Supp. 3d 572 (N.D. Cal. 2020), stay granted in part and denied in part, 977 F.3d 770 (9th Cir. 2020), stay granted 141 S. Ct. 18 (2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel challenged the federal government's decision to shorten the timeline for collecting and processing Census data under the Administrative Procedure Act and the Enumeration Clause. Initially, the Plaintiffs obtained a fourteen-day temporary restraining order preventing the government from winding down Census operations prematurely. See 484 F. Supp. 3d 802 (N.D. Cal. 2020). The Plaintiffs subsequently obtained an injunction extending data collection by one month, and data processing by four months. The Defendants sought a stay from the Ninth Circuit. The Ninth Circuit granted a stay as to the deadline for processing the Census, but denied a stay for the data collection deadline. Defendants then sought relief from the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court granted a stay of the entire injunction. By that time, however, data collection had already been extended two weeks beyond the rushed deadline. The case was settled by stipulated order, under which the Census Bureau (1) agreed to continue to process the population numbers for congressional apportionment on an appropriate full timeline and to release those numbers no earlier than April 26, 2021; (2) agreed to include everyone, regardless of citizenship status, in population numbers for congressional apportionment and state-level redistricting; (3) acknowledged that the “illegal alien” citizenship data it was preparing for former President Trump is statistically unfit for use in apportionment and redistricting; and (4) agreed to continue, with the assistance of third parties, to assess the data it obtained during the partially truncated data collection period under the Trump administration and to provide plaintiffs and the public critical information and bi-monthly reports on its reviews of the quality of the 2020 Census data for the next year.

- Navajo Nation Hum. Rts. Comm’n. v. San Juan Cnty., 281 F.Supp.3d 1136 (D. Utah, 2017). The Lawyers’ Committee and co-counsel, representing Navajo human rights commission and voters who were members of Navajo Nation, filed suit against San Juan County claiming that the county’s voting procedures violated the Equal Protection Clause and the Voting Rights Act, after the county decided to switch to a vote-by-mail system and offer in-person voting in only one place located in the majority-white section of the county. The lawsuit claimed the county did not provide effective language assistance to the region’s many Navajo-speaking voters, resulting in unequal voting opportunities. The parties settled and the County agreed to implement various measures aimed at providing effective language assistance and equal opportunities for Navajo voters.
- New Florida Majority Education Fund, et al. v. Detzner, No. 4:18-cv-00466-MW-CAS (N.D. Fl., Oct. 10, 2018). The Lawyers’ Committee, its partners, the ACLU and the Advancement Project challenged the State’s refusal to provide for a reasonable extension of the voter registration deadline for participation in the November general election in the face of the impending catastrophic Hurricane Michael, coupled with reported problems with the state’s online voter registration system in the waning days of the registration period. The court conditionally denied plaintiffs’ motion for emergency relief and the case was subsequently dismissed.
- New Va. Majority Educ. Fund v. Fairfax Cty. Bd. of Elections, No. 1:19-cv-1379-RDA-MSN, Dkt. 17 (E.D. Va. Nov. 1, 2019). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel represented the New Virginia Majority Education Fund and George Mason University student Amyla Bryant in a federal constitutional challenge brought shortly before the November 3, 2019 election to Fairfax County’s rejection of approximately 170 voter registration applications completed by George Mason University students who provided their university address but failed to provide their dormitory address. On November 1, 2019, the Defendants agreed to a consent order that permitted purged voters to cure their registration status prior to Election Day and allowed those who did not cure to cast a provisional ballot that would count in the November 2019 election. The Defendants ceased their purge practices and the Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the case.

- New Va. Majority Educ. Fund v. Va. Dep't of Elections, No. 1:16-cv-01319-CMH-MSN (E.D. Va. Oct. 20, 2016). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed emergency litigation to extend Virginia's voter registration deadline after the state voter registration website crashed on the final day of registration in advance of the 2016 election. The Court granted a preliminary injunction extending Virginia's statutory voter registration deadline.
- New Va. Majority Educ. Fund, et al. v. Va Dep't of Elections, et. al., No. 3:20-cv-00801, 2020 WL 6051855 (E.D. Va. Oct. 14, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel brought suit on behalf of Plaintiff organizations alleging that the sudden unavailability of Virginia's online voter registration system due to technical failure on the last day of voter registration for the 2020 General Election constituted an undue burden on the right to vote, and requesting relief including an extension of the voter registration deadline. Defendant state election officials agreed an extension was warranted. The court granted Plaintiffs' motion for temporary restraining order and emergency injunctive relief, entered a consent decree extending the deadline for voter registration by 48 hours, and dismissed the case.
- N.C. State Conf. of the NAACP v. N.C. State Bd. of Elections, No. 20 CVS 5194 (N.C. Super. Wake Cty., Apr. 30, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represent the North Carolina State Conference of the NAACP and several Black voters in a state constitutional challenge to several North Carolina counties' use of ES&S ExpressVote ballot marking devices (electronic voting machines) that mark ballots with unreadable barcodes. A Wake County Superior Court judge denied Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction motion on August 19, 2020 in an unpublished decision based on lack of likelihood of success on the merits and the difficulty of implementing the requested relief. Plaintiffs' emergency appeals to the North Carolina Court of Appeals and the North Carolina Supreme Court were denied. The State has filed a motion to dismiss Plaintiffs' Complaint in superior court, and have requested that a hearing be calendared on that motion.
- O'Neil v. Hosemann, ND Miss. 3:18-cv-00815-DPJ-FKB, filed Nov. 21, 2018. The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed this suit challenging Mississippi's burdensome absentee ballot application procedures for run-off elections. The suit was voluntarily dismissed in 2020 after the Mississippi legislature enacted legislation addressing the problems raised in the complaint.
- Organization for Black Struggle, et al., v. John R. Ashcroft, et al., No. 2:20-cv-4184 (W.D. Mo.), preliminary injunction granted in part, No. 2:20-CV-04184-BCW, 493 F. Supp. 3d 790 (W.D. Mo. 2020), stay pending appeal granted, 978 F.3d 603 (8th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represent Plaintiff organizations challenging more restrictive procedures for no-excuse vote-by-mail than for absentee ballots as an undue burden on the right to vote during COVID-19 pandemic; rejection of mail ballots for immaterial errors or omissions in violation of the Civil Rights Act; and failure to provide notice and opportunity to cure prior to rejection in violation of procedural due process. Preliminary injunction was partially granted allowing vote-by-mail ballots to be dropped off in person for November 2020 election but the order was stayed by Eighth Circuit. The case continues on the remaining claims.
- Pa. Democratic Party v. Boockvar, 238 A.3d 345 (Pa. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented filed a motion to intervene on behalf of Common Cause, League of Women Voters of Pennsylvania, Make the Road Pennsylvania, and the Black Political Empowerment Project in this case filed by the Pennsylvania Democratic Party on July 10, 2020 in Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court. The Commonwealth Court denied the motion to intervene but granted amicus status, and the Lawyers' Committee filed an amicus brief with the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court took original jurisdiction of the case using its King's Bench authority. On September 17, 2020, the Supreme Court held that the Pennsylvania election code permits the use of absentee ballot drop boxes, that a three-day extension of the mail-in ballot deadline for the November 2020 election only was warranted under the Pennsylvania Constitution, that county boards of elections were not required to provide opportunity to cure mail-in ballots that were filled out incorrectly, that absentee ballots were invalid if not enclosed in a secrecy envelope, and that the poll watcher residency requirement was constitutionally compliant. The Pennsylvania Republican Party Defendant-Intervenors sought a stay of that decision with the U.S. Supreme Court, which was denied by an equally divided Court on October 19, 2020. On October 24, 2020, the Pennsylvania Republican Party then sought a writ of certiorari on the portion of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's decision extending the absentee ballot receipt deadline to the U.S. Supreme Court, which has not yet made a decision on that cert petition.

- Poor Bear v. Cnty. of Jackson, No. 5:14-CV-05059-KES, 2017 WL 52575 (D.S.D., Jun. 17, 2016). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel sought injunctive and declaratory relief on behalf of members of the Oglala Sioux Tribe requiring Defendants to establish a satellite office for voter registration and in-person absentee voting in the town of Wanblee on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. The Court granted Defendants' motion to dismiss on grounds of ripeness.
- Republican National Committee, et. al., v. State Election Board, et. al., No. 2020-CV-343319 (Super. Ct., Fulton Cnty, filed Dec. 8, 2020). This lawsuit was filed by the Republican National Committee and the Georgia Republican Party, Inc. against the State Election Board, Brad Raffensperger, the Georgia Secretary of State, and individual members of the State Election Board in their official capacities. The Plaintiffs alleged that poll watchers were not being given adequate access to the areas where the tabulation and processing of ballots were taking place; argued that 24-hour absentee ballot dropboxes were not authorized under Georgia law and should be enjoined; and demanded that video surveillance recordings of absentee ballot dropboxes be made available to the public upon request. The Plaintiffs also sought an order compelling the Secretary of State to issue guidance on the issues relating to the lack of adequate access to pollwatchers and with regard to alleged deficiencies relating to absentee ballot dropboxes. On December 23, 2020, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel sought to file an amicus brief on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, the League of Women Voters of Georgia and the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda opposing the relief sought by the Plaintiffs limiting access to the absentee ballot dropboxes because the organizations and the voters they serve would be prejudiced in the event this relief was granted. The Court denied the relief sought by the Plaintiffs, concluding that the Court lacked subject matter jurisdiction based upon sovereign immunity and dismissed the Plaintiffs' Complaint on December 29, 2020.
- Rucho v. Common Cause, 139 S. Ct. 2484 (2019), and Benisek v. Lamone, 138 S. Ct. 1942 (2018). On March 8, 2019, the Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel submitted a brief on its own behalf as amicus curiae in these cases raising the issue of the justiciability of partisan gerrymandering claims. The Lawyers' Committee brief addressed the implications of partisan gerrymandering on racial gerrymandering. The Supreme Court held that partisan gerrymandering claims were not justiciable. Rucho v. Common Cause, 139 S. Ct. 2484 (2019).

- Schmitz v. Fulton Cty. Bd. of Registration and Elections, No. A21A0595 (Ga. Ct. App.), appealed from No. 2020CV339337 (Fulton Cty. Sup. Ct.). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda in this mandamus action brought by private Plaintiffs challenging the decision of the Fulton County Board of Registration and Elections not to purge challenged voters shortly before the November 2020 general election. The Plaintiffs argued that Georgia state law required the Fulton County Board to immediately convene challenge hearings to determine whether 14,346 voters should be removed from the rolls. On October 1, 2020, Fulton Superior Court Judge Jane Barwick granted the Defendants' motion to dismiss the lawsuit on the basis that the National Voter Registration Act prohibits the proposed purges. The Petitioners subsequently appealed the Superior Court's dismissal of the case to the Georgia Court of Appeals, which referred the case to the Georgia Supreme Court. The Georgia Supreme Court dismissed the case on January 5, 2021 due to pleadings deficiencies. Plaintiffs-Appellants' motion for reconsideration was denied on February 1, 2021.
- State ex rel. Ohio Democratic Party v. LaRose, No. 2020-0388 (Ohio Supreme Ct. Mar. 17, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed an amicus brief on behalf of the League of Women Voters and the Ohio A. Philip Randolph Institute in the Democratic Party's lawsuit challenging Ohio Secretary of State Frank LaRose's directive to postpone the primary election to June 2, 2020. The amicus brief did not take a position on the Secretary's authority to issue such a directive but it urged the Ohio Supreme Court to consider extending the voter registration deadline to 30 days before any new election date and in considering a new election date, account for the multi-step, complex absentee ballot process that voters would have to complete in order to get their ballots counted. The case was dismissed when Ohio's legislature passed a new bill setting the election date to April 28, 2020 and mooting out Secretary LaRose's directive.
- Tenn. State Conf. of NAACP v. Hargett, 420 F. Supp. 3d 683 (M.D. Tenn. 2019). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented the Tennessee NAACP and other organizational Plaintiffs in a facial constitutional challenge under the First and Fourteenth Amendments to a newly enacted law that restricted civic engagement organizations from conducting large-scale voter registration drives. The restrictions included draconian criminal and civil penalties for failure to register drives with the Secretary's office, failure to comply with training provisions or the compelled disclosure requirements, and submitting "incomplete applications". Plaintiffs argued that these provisions violated their right to associate and express themselves, were vague, and violated their right to speech and filed a preliminary injunction to enjoin enforcement of the law. The district court granted Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction enjoining the law from taking effect prior to the November 2019 municipal elections. A few months later the legislature repealed these provisions altogether. The case was dismissed and an attorneys' fees motion is pending.
- Texas League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Hughs, 978 F.3d 136 (5th Cir. 2020), and Texas State Conference of the NAACP v. Abbott, No. 1:20-cv-1024-RP (W.D. Tex.). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel represented the Texas State Conference of NAACP Branches in a federal constitutional and Section 2 Voting Rights Act challenge to Governor Abbott's proclamation prohibiting Texas counties from providing voters with more than one absentee ballot delivery location for the November 2020 election. The proclamation had the effect of closing absentee ballot delivery locations in Harris and Travis Counties that were operating in minority communities. The Plaintiffs filed a preliminary action in the matter but voluntarily dismissed the case after the Fifth Circuit stayed the district court's preliminary injunction in a parallel action filed by LULAC. See Texas League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Hughs, 978 F.3d 136 (5th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee filed an amicus brief in the Fifth Circuit in the Hughs case on behalf of the Texas NAACP.

- Third Sector Development, Inc. et al. v. Kemp, Superior Court of Fulton County, State of Georgia, no. 2014cv252546. The Lawyers' Committee, together with co-counsel, filed this challenge to Georgia's "exact match" process of placing voters on a suspended list, if their registration information did not exactly match driver's license and social security data bases. The action sought a writ of mandamus directing the Secretary of State to determine the eligibility of the voters and place them on the rolls. The matter was dismissed after resolution of the issue in Georgia State Conference of the NAACP v. Kemp, No. 2:16-CV-00219-WCO (N.D. Ga. 2016), described above.
- Thomas v. Bryant, 366 F. Supp. 3d 786 (S.D. Miss. 2019), stay pending appeal denied, 2019 WL 943409 (S.D. Miss. Feb. 26, 2019), stay pending appeal dismissed, 756 Fed. App'x. 421 (5th Cir. 2019), stay granted in part and denied in part, 919 F.3d 566 (5th Cir. 2019), aff'd, 938 F.3d 134 (5th Cir. 2019), reh'g en banc granted, 939 F.3d 629 (5th Cir. 2019), judgment vacated and appeal dismissed sub nom. Thomas v. Reeves, 961 F.3d 800 (5th Cir. 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel represented three individual African American Plaintiffs in a minority vote dilution claim under Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act concerning District 22 of the Mississippi State Senate redistricting plan of 2012. Plaintiffs prevailed at trial and the district court ordered a remedial plan. The Defendants sought stays before the Fifth Circuit. The Fifth Circuit denied a stay on the merits but remanded to give the state legislature an opportunity to enact its own remedial plan, which it did. A Fifth Circuit panel affirmed the judgment on the merits and the 2019 August primary and November general elections were conducted under the remedial plan. Joseph Thomas, a Plaintiff and the Black candidate of choice, prevailed in District 22 in the 2019 primary and general elections. The Fifth Circuit, sua sponte, heard the case en banc and vacated the judgment as moot in 2020 because no regular elections would be held under the remedial plan before the 2020 Census and a new redistricting plan was put in place for the 2023 elections.
- Trump v. New York, 141 S.Ct. 530 (Dec. 18, 2020): This case involved the same issues as were involved in City of San Jose v. Donald Trump, No. 5:20-5167 RRC-LHK-EMC. Specifically, a coalition of states and localities led by the State of New York had challenged President Trump's Executive Memorandum seeking to exclude undocumented persons from the apportionment count. The Lawyers' Committee and co-counsel filed an amicus brief on behalf of the Plaintiffs it was representing in City of San Jose v. Trump. In the brief, Lawyers' Committee argued first that the potential injury in the case, the loss of representation and federal funding, was not speculative and that several Plaintiffs and amici were likely to be harmed by the Defendants’ action; and second that the Defendants’ action was unconstitutional. The Supreme Court found that the case was not ripe.

- Trump v. Raffensperger, No. 20-343255 (Fulton Cty. Sup. Ct., filed Nov. 4, 2020). The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel submitted a motion to intervene on behalf of the Georgia NAACP, the Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda, James Woodall, and Helen Butler in support of the Defendants in this election contest filed by Donald J. Trump and the Trump Campaign. The Trump Campaign filed this action on December 4, 2020, and sought to overturn the election results on the basis that the number of illegal votes cast in the November 3, 2020 election exceeded the margin of victory. The Lawyers’ Committee filed numerous papers in the case, including a motion for judgment on the pleadings. The Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissed the case on January 7, 2021, the day before trial was to be held. The superior court never ruled on the motion to intervene.
- Trump v. Wisconsin Elections Commission, No. 20-CV-1785-BHL, 2020 WL 7318940 (E.D. Wis. Dec. 12, 2020), affirmed, 983 F.3d 919 (7th Cir. 2020). Candidate brought suit alleging violations of state election law constituted violation of Electors Clause and requesting relief including voiding election results and “remanding” to Wisconsin Legislature. The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel intervened on behalf of Wisconsin NAACP and individuals in support of dismissal. The case was dismissed and affirmed on appeal by Seventh Circuit.
- Twelfth Congressional District Republican Committee v. Raffensperger, No. 1:20-cv-00180-JRH-BKE, 2020 WL 8255193 (S.D. Ga. Dec. 17, 2020). This lawsuit was filed by the Twelfth Congressional District Republican Committee along with three individual Georgia voters against Georgia’s Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, the Georgia State Election Board Members in their official capacities; the Richmond County Board of Elections and individual members of the Board in their official capacities. The Plaintiffs sought to permanently 1) enjoin the use of absentee dropboxes, including in the high interest January 5th Senate runoff elections; 2) enjoin the early processing of mail-in absentee ballots; and 3) enjoin the use of written guidance issued by the Secretary of State relating to the verification of absentee ballot signatures. The Lawyers’ Committee and pro bono counsel successfully moved on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP and the Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda to intervene as Defendants in this matter because of the prejudice they and the voters they serve would suffer in the event the relief sought by the Plaintiffs was granted. The Court dismissed the Plaintiffs’ claims with prejudice and denied their motion for emergency relief as moot on December 17, 2020 based upon the doctrine of laches, Plaintiffs’ lack of Article III standing and principles of abstention. On January 15, 2021, Plaintiffs filed a notice of appeal to the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals from the order and judgment of dismissal.
- Veasey v. Abbott, judgment entered sub nom. Veasey v. Perry, 71 F. Supp. 3d 627 (S.D. Tex. 2014); stay denied, 769 F. 3d 890 (5th Cir. 2014); mot. to vacate stay denied, 135 S. Ct. 9 (2014), aff’d in part, rev’d in part sub nom, Veasey v. Abbott, 820 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016), aff’d in part, rev’d in part and remanded, 830 F.3d 216 (5th Cir. 2016) (en banc); mot. to vacate stay denied, 136 S. Ct. 1823 (2016), cert denied sub nom. Abbott v. Veasey, 137 S. Ct. 612 (2017); motion for voluntary dismissal granted and motion to dismiss on mootness grounds denied sub nom. Veasey v. Abbott, 248 F. Supp. 3d 833 (S.D. Tex. 2017); decision on remand, 249 F. Supp. 3d 868 (S.D. Tex. 2017); motion for reconsideration denied, 265 F. Supp. 3d 684 (S.D. Tex. 2017), stayed, 870 F. 3d 387 (5th Cir. 2017), rev'd in part and rendered, 888 F.3d 792 (5th Cir. 2018). The Lawyers' Committee and its co-counsel brought suit on behalf of the Texas State Conference of the NAACP and the Mexican American Legislative Caucus of the Texas State House of Representatives challenging Senate Bill 14 ("SB 14"), which required voters to produce one of a limited number of photo IDs in order to vote in person. The complaint, Texas State Conference of the NAACP v. Steen, No. 2:13-cv-00291, was consolidated with other similar complaints under Veasey v. Perry, later changed to Veasey v. Abbott. After trial, the district court entered judgment in favor of Plaintiffs, ruling that SB 14 resulted in discrimination in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act in that Black and Latinx voters were less likely to possess the required IDs and more likely to have difficulty in obtaining the IDs than were white voters. The court also found that SB 14 had been enacted with discriminatory intent. On appeal, the Fifth Circuit, sitting en banc, affirmed the discriminatory result finding and remanded the discriminatory intent finding for further fact-finding. The Fifth Circuit ordered that an interim remedial order be entered by the district court to remedy the Section 2 results violation, while the intent claim was being litigated. On remand, the district court again found that SB 14 had been enacted with discriminatory intent and enjoined both SB 14 and Senate Bill 5 ("SB 5") which had been enacted by the legislature to effectuate the Fifth Circuit's ruling, largely tracking the terms of the interim remedial order. On appeal, the Fifth Circuit ruled that SB 5 rectified both the results and the intent violations, and that there was, therefore, no further need for additional remedy. The district court subsequently dismissed the case for those same reasons, and the matter is pending argument before the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals on the defendants' appeal from the district court's order awarding attorneys' fees and expenses to the plaintiffs.

- Virginia House of Delegates v. Bethune-Hill, 139 S. Ct. 1945 (2019). This is the second appeal to the Supreme Court in this litigation. The Plaintiffs filed the first appeal in the Supreme Court after the three-judge district court majority rejected their racial gerrymander challenge to twelve Virginia House of Delegates Districts. Bethune-Hill v. Virginia State Bd. of Elections, 137 S. Ct. 788 (2017). As a result of that appeal, the Supreme Court remanded the case to the district court for further consideration. After the Plaintiffs were successful on their racial gerrymander claim with regard to 11 of the House of Delegate districts on remand, the Virginia House of Delegates appealed that judgment to the Supreme Court. On February 4, 2019, the Lawyers' Committee, with the assistance of pro bono counsel, filed an amicus brief in support of the Plaintiffs-appellees Virginia House of Delegates v. Bethune-Hill, No. 18-281, 2019 WL 527481 (2019). In its amicus brief, the Lawyers' Committee argued, inter alia, that substantial evidence supported the district court majority's finding that the eleven challenged districts in Virginia's 2011 redistricting were the product of a racial gerrymander in violation of Shaw v. Reno, 509 U.S. 630 (1993), and represented the misuse of federal civil rights protections, specifically Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, 52 U.S.C. § 10301(c). On June 17, 2019, the Supreme Court, with Justice Ginsburg writing the opinion for the majority, dismissed the appeal, concluding that the Virginia House of Delegates lacked standing to represent the state's interests on appeal and did not have standing in its own right to appeal.
- Wisconsin Voters Alliance, et al. v. Wisconsin Elections Commission, et al., No. 2020-AP-001930-OA (Wis. Dec 4, 2020). Voters brought petition alleging violations of state election law in certain counties and requesting relief including voiding election results. The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a brief as amici curiae on behalf of itself and Wisconsin NAACP in opposition to petition to void election results. The petition was denied.

- Wittman v. Personhuballah, No. 14-1504. 136 S. Ct. 1732 (2016). This case involved a challenge to Virginia's Third Congressional District as an unconstitutional racial gerrymander. The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed an amicus brief supporting the district court's holding that race was the predominant concern in the original map's creation, in violation of the Constitution. The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal for lack of standing, leaving the district court's opinion in place.
- Wood v. Raffensperger, 981 F.3d 1307 (11th Cir. 2020), aff'g Wood v. Raffensperger, --- F.Supp.3d ----, 2020 WL 6817513 (N.D. Ga. Nov. 20, 2020). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene in the district court in this case on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda, James Woodall, Helen Butler, and Rev. Melvin Ivey, as well as a brief in opposition to a motion for temporary restraining order sought by L. Lin Wood. The Plaintiff sought to overturn the November 2020 presidential election results. The Plaintiff argued that an agreement between the Secretary of State and the Georgia Democratic Party in March 2020 to settle a lawsuit concerning signature-matching rules had unconstitutionally altered Georgia election law as enacted by the Georgia Legislature. The district court did not rule on the motion to intervene. The district court denied the temporary restraining order on November 20, 2020 on several grounds, including standing and a lack of success on the merits. The Plaintiff appealed the decision to the Eleventh Circuit, which unanimously affirmed the district court's decision on December 5, 2020 on standing and mootness grounds. The Lawyers' Committee's clients participated as amicus before the Eleventh Circuit. The Plaintiff has appealed the Eleventh Circuit's decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, which will consider the cert petition at its February 19, 2021 conference.
- Wood v. Raffensperger, No. 2020CV342959 (Fulton Cty. Sup. Ct.). The Lawyers' Committee and pro bono counsel filed a motion to intervene on behalf of the Georgia State Conference of the NAACP, Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda, James Woodall, and Helen Butler in opposition to this November 25, 2020 action seeking to overturn the November 3, 2020 presidential election results. The Petitioner, a Georgia voter unaffiliated with the Trump Campaign, alleged that the election was improperly funded, that numerous illegal absentee ballots were counted due to a deficient March 2020 settlement agreement between the Georgia Democratic Party and the Georgia Secretary of State's office, among other irregularities. The superior court held a hearing on December 7, 2020, and issued an order the next day. The superior court never ruled on the motion to intervene.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA
ATLANTA DIVISION

GEORGIA STATE CONFERENCE OF THE) NAACP, as an organization; GEORGIA) COALITION FOR THE PEOPLE’S)
AGENDA, INC., as an organization; LEAGUE) OF WOMEN VOTERS OF GEORGIA, INC.,) as an organization; GALEO LATINO) COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FUND,) INC., as an organization; COMMON CAUSE;) as an organization; LOWER MUSKOGEE) CREEK TRIBE,) Plaintiffs,)

v.)

BRAD RAFFENSPERGER, in his official) capacity of the Secretary of State for the) State of Georgia, REBECCA N.) SULLIVAN, DAVID J. WORLEY,) MATTHEW MASHBURN, and ANH LE, in) their official capacities as members of the) State Election Board,) Defendant.)

Civil Action

Case No. _____

COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE AND DECLARATORY RELIEF

52 U.S.C. § 10301, 42 U.S.C.
§ 1983; First, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution)

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. This is a voting rights lawsuit filed pursuant to Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (52 U.S.C. § 10301) and 42 U.S.C. § 1983¹ seeking prospective declaratory and injunctive relief against Brad Raffensperger, in his official capacity as the Georgia Secretary of State; Rebecca N. Sullivan, David J. Worley, Matthew Mashburn, and Anh Le in their official capacities as members of the State Election Board, to enjoin the enforcement and implementation of Georgia Senate Bill 202 (“SB 202”), an omnibus voter suppression bill passed by the Georgia General Assembly on March 25, 2021 and signed into law the same day by Georgia Governor, Brian Kemp.²

2. SB 202 is the culmination of a concerted effort to suppress the participation of Black voters and other voters of color by the Republican State Senate, State House, and Governor. In the last two decades, Georgia has undergone demographic change, namely the increasingly large percentage of the electorate comprised of Black voters and other voters of color. Additionally, as demonstrated by election analyses, Black voters and voters of color usually provide strong support to Democratic candidates. The demographic changes and the voting patterns of voters of color have resulted in evolving political change in Georgia. After several cycles of Republican dominance, Democratic statewide candidates almost won election in 2018 and then won the races for President in 2020 and two Senatorial races in 2021. Unable to stem the tide of these demographic changes or change the voting patterns of voters of color, these officials have resorted to attempting to suppress the vote of Black voters and other voters of color in order to maintain the tenuous hold that the Republican Party has in Georgia. In other words, these officials are using racial discrimination as a means of achieving a partisan end. These efforts constitute intentional discrimination in violation of the Constitution and Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act.

¹Plaintiffs anticipate supplementing this Complaint with claims arising under Section 8 of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 (52 U.S.C. § 20507, 20510)(“NVRA”) after notice of NVRA violations are served on the appropriate parties and the pre-litigation notice period expires.

²A copy of SB 202 as passed by the Georgia General Assembly on March 25, 2021 (“SB 202/AP”) is available on the Georgia General Assembly’s website at this link: <https://www.legis.ga.gov/api/legislation/document/20212022/201498> (last checked 3/27/21).

3. SB 202's sweeping changes are aimed at suppressing the vote of Black voters and other voters of color. The law targets early in-person voting, voting by absentee ballots, and the use of absentee ballot drop boxes - means of voting that have been increasingly used by Black, Latinx, Asian American, members of indigenous populations and other voters of color. In the most recent elections in 2020 and 2021, voters of color used these methods of voting in numbers not seen before. In response, the Georgia General Assembly enacted SB 202 to limit access to these voting methods and burden their use.

4. Despite the fact that many of the provisions of SB 202 will add to the problems of long lines and delays at polling locations by making absentee mail voting and in-person early voting harder, SB 202 even penalizes voters forced to wait in long lines to vote for protracted periods by criminalizing the simple act of individuals and charitable organizations providing voters with water when they are waiting in line to vote. More often than not, it is Black voters or other voters of color who are negatively impacted by long lines and delays at the polls and stand to suffer most when charitable organizations can no longer provide such items to voters waiting to vote.

5. SB 202 also threatens the power of county election boards, responsible for ensuring that voters of color are able to participate equally in the political process, by stripping the Secretary of State of his vote on the State Election Board, replacing the Secretary of State with a voting member appointed by the General Assembly and granting the State Election Board the power to effectively take over the County Board. SB 202, Section 5.

6. The provisions of SB 202, viewed individually or collectively, threaten the fundamental right to vote of all Georgians, but their impact will be felt most intensely by persons of color, which is precisely what the legislature intended.

7. This Court should declare SB 202 unlawful and unconstitutional, and permanently enjoin its implementation.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8. The Court has jurisdiction of this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1343(a) because it seeks to redress the deprivation, under color of state law, of rights, privileges and immunities secured by the Voting Rights Act, and 28 U.S.C. § 1331 because it arises under the laws of the United States.

9. This Court has jurisdiction to grant both declaratory and injunctive relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

10. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2) because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claims occurred in this District.

PARTIES

11. Plaintiff GEORGIA STATE CONFERENCE OF THE NAACP (“Georgia NAACP”) is a non-partisan, interracial, nonprofit membership organization that was founded in 1941. Its mission is to eliminate racial discrimination through democratic processes and ensure the equal political, educational, social, and economic rights of all persons, in particular African Americans. It is headquartered in Atlanta and currently has approximately 10,000 members.

12. The Georgia NAACP works to protect voting rights through litigation, advocacy, legislation, communication, and outreach, including work to promote voter registration, voter education, GOTV efforts, election protection, and census participation.

13. The Georgia NAACP has branches in counties across the state of Georgia that are involved in voter registration, voter assistance, voter education, election protection, grassroots mobilization, and get-out-the-vote efforts, including Sunday early voting events, such as “Souls to the Polls.”

14. The Georgia NAACP has sought to prevent efforts to suppress or disenfranchise African American voters and has been involved in voting rights litigation in Georgia to vindicate their rights.

15. The Georgia NAACP engages in voter outreach efforts, including voter education on voting in-person during early voting, voting by mail and voting in person on election day.

16. The Georgia NAACP has engaged in GOTV campaigns. One of the key components of these campaigns is providing accurate information regarding mail-in ballots to the Georgia NAACP's membership and the rest of the public.

17. The Georgia NAACP has developed materials and worked with local NAACP branches to educate its members and the public about voting by mail, including providing information concerning the availability and location of mail ballot drop boxes during the 2020 general election and 2021 runoff election cycle. The Georgia NAACP also developed messaging and materials regarding mail ballot drop box locations in particular counties.

18. The Georgia NAACP has conducted text and phone banking programs and reached out to voters throughout Georgia to encourage voter participation and to educate the public about the voting process, including about voting by mail.

19. Many of the Georgia NAACP's members have voted by mail in the past and stand to be negatively impacted by the substantial changes to Georgia's vote by mail procedures that have been enacted as part of SB 202. Many more will be impacted by the changes to the availability of absentee ballot drop boxes, changes to early voting times and days and the requirement of a sworn affidavit for voters who go to the wrong precinct to vote prior to 5 p.m., as set forth in SB 202.

Many Georgia NAACP members are at risk of being disenfranchised by the changes in SB 202.

20. The Georgia NAACP has an interest in preventing the disenfranchisement of eligible voters, including its members and voters it may have assisted with navigating the voting process.

21. Due to the substantial changes in absentee voting procedures, absentee ballot drop boxes, early voting periods, restrictions on out of precinct voting, criminalization of line-warming activities (supplying water and snacks to voters in line and other persons who request the refreshments) and the other changes caused by the enactment of SB 202, the Georgia NAACP will not only have to change its messaging to voters of color about these changes, but the NAACP will also have to divert considerable resources from its ongoing election protection, advocacy, and get out the vote efforts to educate and assist eligible voters.

22. The Georgia NAACP will also have to divert its resources to educate voters about the substantial changes to the mail voting process, and will have to respond to questions from voters who used a mail ballot drop box in the November 2020 election and will be confused by the fact that they are not available outside early voting locations in the future.

23. The Georgia NAACP has traditionally provided transportation to the polls for voters on Election Day. The Georgia NAACP will have to divert resources to physically transport voters to the county board of elections to drop off their mail ballots or to polling places or early voting locations to vote in person if they cannot vote by absentee. The nature and scope of the Georgia NAACP's voter assistance efforts will need to change if voters do not have access to a drop box or mail ballots are rejected due to the burdensome ID requirements, the complicated changes for completing absentee ballot applications and returning absentee ballots.

24. The Georgia NAACP's additional efforts to educate voters whose mail ballots are rejected due to the new ID requirements and other procedures will force the Georgia NAACP to have to divert substantial resources away from core activities such as voter registration and other efforts such as criminal justice work. This is due to the fact that the Georgia NAACP's resources are limited.

25. Plaintiff THE GEORGIA COALITION FOR THE PEOPLE'S AGENDA, INC. ("GCPA") is a Georgia nonprofit corporation with its principal place of business located in Atlanta, Georgia. The GCPA is a coalition of more than 30 organizations, which collectively have more than 5,000 individual members.

26. In addition to its main office in Atlanta, the GCPA has field offices in Athens, Albany, Augusta, Macon, Savannah, and LaGrange, Georgia where it is able to provide outreach and support to voters and prospective voters of color and underserved communities outside of the Metro Atlanta area.

27. During the 2020 elections and the January 5, 2021 runoff cycle, the GCPA's voter outreach efforts were conducted in the greater Metro Atlanta region as well as throughout other areas of Georgia from the aforementioned field offices and covered approximately 88 counties in the state.

28. The GCPA encourages voter registration and participation, particularly among Black and other underrepresented communities of color in Georgia. The GCPA's support of voting rights is central to its mission. The organization has committed, and continues to commit, time and resources to protecting voting rights through advocacy, legislation, communication, and outreach, including work to promote voter registration, voter education, GOTV efforts, election protection, census participation and litigation.

29. The GCPA conducts voter registration drives, voter ID assistance, "Souls to the Polls" GOTV events during Sunday early voting and other get out the vote ("GOTV") efforts in Georgia that seek to encourage voter participation among Black and Brown voters and voters in historically underserved communities of color. The GCPA in coalition with other civic engagement organizations in Georgia also participates in voter education and voter empowerment programs.

30. GCPA's voter education and empowerment programs have included, but were not limited to, educating prospective voters about how to register to vote and to confirm their registration status; educating voters about the options to vote in-person during advanced voting, in-person on Election Day and by mail via absentee ballot; providing information to voters about accessing absentee ballot drop boxes to cast their absentee ballots safely and securely, and helping voters to understand the new voting system implemented for the first-time during the 2020 election cycle statewide.

31. The GCPA has also distributed civic education materials to voters and prospective voters; arranged for rides to the polls for voters; and supported the Georgia Election Protection field program in order to provide assistance to voters on the ground near polling sites.

32. GCPA also participates in media interviews, sponsors Public Service Announcements (PSAs), places billboard ads, conducts phone banking, and engages in text message campaigns to educate voters and to encourage participation.

33. The GCPA has an interest in preventing the disenfranchisement of eligible voters who now run the risk of becoming disenfranchised as a result of the new restrictions imposed by SB 202, including substantial and burdensome ID requirements for absentee by mail voting; limitations on early voting days and hours, including Sunday early voting; diminished availability of absentee ballot drop boxes except inside early voting locations during early voting hours, the lack of 24/7 hour access to absentee ballot drop boxes which renders them essentially useless to many voters; the criminalization of “line-warming,” activities, i.e., providing water and snacks to people in line to vote and other persons in the vicinity of polling locations; and other unreasonably burdensome restrictions imposed by these new voting changes on voters and election officials alike.

34. SB 202 will substantially and negatively impact the GCPA’s advocacy efforts now and in the future. This law will inevitably cause Black voters and other voters of color negatively impacted by these new restrictions to lose faith that their votes will be counted on an equal basis as white voters. This sense of futility will likely depress turnout in the future and make it more difficult for the GCPA to carry out its mission of encouraging Black voters, other voters of color and voters in underserved communities to register to vote, vote, and to help protect the rights of other Georgians to vote.

35. Due to the substantial changes in existing Georgia election law and procedures, including the potential imposition of new criminal penalties and significant fines and fees, SB 202 has caused, and will continue to cause, the GCPA to divert a portion of its financial and other organizational resources to educating voters about these changes and assisting voters facing these new restrictions and burdens.

36. As a result of the enactment of these new restrictions on voting in Georgia, the GCPA has, and will continue to have, fewer resources to dedicate to its other organizational activities, including voter registration drives, GOTV efforts and other projects, unless the Court enjoins enforcement of these new laws.

37. Plaintiff LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF GEORGIA, INC. (League) is a nonpartisan political organization that has worked for the last 101 years to ensure that every person has the desire, the right, the knowledge and the confidence to participate in our democracy. The League's 13 local organizations and nearly 700 members are dedicated to our mission of empowering voters and defending democracy.

38. From the League's inception, members have worked for good government by studying issues, advocating for reforms, and, through the League's Observer Corps, observing and reporting on the work of all levels of government.

The League is committed to registering voters, regardless of their political affiliation, and is particularly proud of its work, with community partners, in registering new American citizens at citizenship ceremonies. The League is also dedicated to voter education, both through candidate forums and the Vote411.org voter guide. Many League members also assist with get out the vote efforts, poll watching, and serving as vote review panelists.

39. As part of its mission, the League advocates for expansion of voting opportunities, including through absentee by mail voting, early in-person voting and election day voting. The League expends significant resources in furtherance of its mission, including by organizing voter registration drives, educating the public about the voting process, and assisting voters who have questions or need help navigating the voting process. The League has seen a substantial increase in the number of its members and other individuals who turned out to vote by mail and during early in-person voting during the 2020 election cycle and January 5, 2021 Senate runoff elections.

40. As a result of the risk of disenfranchisement due to new ID requirements for absentee by mail voting, the League must divert more resources toward educating voters about these new requirements, including, but not limited to, warning them of the risk of disenfranchisement if they fail to provide the required ID and other required information when applying or absentee ballots and when returning the ballots; answering questions from members of the public about these new voting restrictions; and explaining how they impact their right to vote. The League will need to devote significant staff time and funds to update standard training materials and informational booklets to reflect these sweeping changes.

41. The League must divert these resources away from its regular advocacy, voter registration, fundraising, and other activities, affecting its ability to operate and function with respect to its normal activities.

42. Plaintiff GALEO LATINO COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FUND, INC. (“GALEO LCDF”); is a non-partisan, nonprofit corporation. GALEO LCDF is one of the oldest, largest, and most significant organizations promoting and protecting the civil rights of Georgia's Latinx community. GALEO LCDF has approximately 165 members across Georgia.

43. GALEO LCDF's headquarters is located in Norcross, which is in Gwinnett County, and a substantial amount of GALEO LCDF's civic engagement, voter registration and get out the vote work takes place in Gwinnett County and other Metro Atlanta counties. This work includes organizing voter education, civic engagement, voter empowerment and get out the vote events and conducting voter registration drives. After Gwinnett County became a covered jurisdiction for Spanish under Section 203 in December 2016, GALEO LCDF has worked also with the Gwinnett County Board of Registration and Elections (“BORE”) in an effort to bring its procedures and election materials into compliance with the law’s requirements.

44. During the 2020 election cycle, GALEO LCDF also worked to address challenges facing Gwinnett County’s LEP Spanish speaking voters as a result of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

45. GALEO LCDF sent bilingual mailers to Latinx Gwinnett County voters with information about the presidential primary as well as additional mailers after the primary was postponed due to COVID-19.

46. GALEO LCDF also sent several rounds of bilingual mailers to all Latinx Georgia voters for both the General Election and the January 5, 2021 runoffs. GALEO LCDF also ran paid advertisements on Spanish media (radio & TV) to promote voting and educate voters about voting for both elections.

47. Due to the sweeping changes to many facets of voting that stand to disenfranchise Latinx, language minority voters and voters of color, GALEO LCDF will be forced to divert resources from his voter registration, existing voter education programs, get out the vote (GOTV) activities and other programs to assist voters, particularly limited English proficient voters and new Americans, in being able to navigate the many changes and challenges of SB 202 that will make it more burdensome for them to vote by absentee ballot, during early voting and in person on Election Day.

48. Plaintiff COMMON CAUSE is a nonprofit corporation organized and existing under the laws of the District of Columbia. It is one of the nation's leading grassroots democracy-focused organizations and has over 1.2 million members nationwide and chapters in 35 states, including 18,785 members and supporters in Georgia. Since its founding in 1970, COMMON CAUSE has been dedicated to the promotion and protection of the democratic process, including the right of all citizens to vote in fair, open, and honest elections. COMMON CAUSE, at the national level and in Georgia, conducts significant nonpartisan voter-protection, advocacy, education, and outreach activities to ensure that voters are registered and have their ballots counted as cast.

49. In Georgia, COMMON CAUSE has increased its efforts in the areas of election protection, voter education, and grassroots mobilization around voting rights in the state. COMMON CAUSE works on election administration issues with its coalition, much of which is represented by the other plaintiffs in the instant lawsuit.

50. COMMON CAUSE, alongside other partners in Georgia, created a program to help recruit volunteers to monitor local board of elections meetings. Common Cause also works with these partners in election protection efforts during both midterm and presidential elections. Through its volunteer recruitment for poll monitors, COMMON CAUSE in Georgia monitors an average of five polling locations in 22 counties for a total of 110 polling places. COMMON CAUSE in Georgia additionally engages in online petition drives, soliciting signatures from its members and supporters urging government officials to take certain actions.

51. COMMON CAUSE in Georgia also works directly with voters who cast provisional ballots to help ensure their ballots can be counted.

52. During the 2020 election cycle, COMMON CAUSE in Georgia assisted some 6,000 voters who cast provisional ballots to cure those ballots so they could be counted — most were cast because the voter appeared at the wrong precinct. As a result of the enactment of SB 202, COMMON CAUSE will continue to divert resources that it would apply to other organizational and programmatic resources toward helping voter resolve provision ballot issues, including provisional ballots cast due voters appearing at the wrong precinct, often through no fault of their own.

53. Plaintiff LOWER MUSKOGEE CREEK TRIBE is a state-recognized tribe located in Grady County on the southwest border of Georgia. The tribal government is located in the old tribal town of Tama, which is located in Whigham, Georgia. The tribe has an enrollment of approximately 2,700 members, most of whom live in rural southwest Georgia and northern Florida within a 150-mile radius to Whigham. The tribe operates a civics education program for its members to encourage them to participate in the political process. The tribe's members are disproportionately poor and likely to be affected by SB202's cutback on voting by mail and criminalization of providing food and water to voters in line at the polls.

54. The United States Census Bureau's 2019 5-Year American Community Survey (ACS) estimates indicate that 41.6% of American Indians in Georgia do not have a computer at home and that American Indians in Georgia are 155% less likely than white Georgians to not have a computer at home. This makes it more likely that Georgia's American Indian voters, including members of the LOWER MUSKOGEE CREEK TRIBE, will face significantly higher burdens complying with SB 202's absentee ballot provisions than white voters because they are less likely to have a computer, printer scanner or internet access at home. These resources are needed to obtain and print an absentee ballot application from the websites of the Secretary of State or county registrar and to print necessary ID documentation for the absentee ballot application and to include when returning a voted absentee ballot to their county registrar's office.

55. Defendant BRAD RAFFENSPERGER is the Secretary of State of the State of Georgia. He is responsible for administering and implementing Georgia's election laws and regulations as well as coordinating Georgia's compliance with the National Voter Registration Act of 193 (52 U.S.C. § 20507, et seq.). He is sued in his official capacity.

56. Defendants REBECCA N. SULLIVAN, DAVID J. WORLEY, MATTHEW MASHBURN, AND ANH LE are members of the State Election Board and are named herein in their official capacities.

57. The duties of members of the State Election Board include: promulgating rules and regulations to "obtain uniformity" in the practices and proceedings of elections officials, "as well as the legality and purity in all . . . elections"; formulating, adopting, an orderly conduct of primaries and elections"; promulgating rules and regulations to "define uniform and nondiscriminatory standards concerning what constitutes a vote and what will be counted as a vote"; and investigating frauds and irregularities in elections. See O.C.G.A. § 21-2-31.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Summary of the Challenged Provisions of SB 202

58. SB 202 is a 98 page omnibus bill which constitutes a major overhaul of Georgia's Election Code and voting procedures. The bill as enacted includes a new and complicated absentee ballot application and ballot return process and mandates new ID requirements when voting by absentee ballot, as well as when requesting an absentee ballot. SB 202/AP Section 25.

59. The new absentee ballot ID requirements mandate that voters include a Georgia Driver's license number or Georgia State ID number on their absentee ballot application. If they have neither, voters are required to copy another form of acceptable voter ID and attach the copies of ID documents along with other identifying information to both their absentee ballot applications and inside the absentee ballot envelope when returning the voted ballot – thereby opening up absentee ballot applicants to potential fraud or identity theft. Because voters, except those over the age of 65 or disabled, must make a new application for an absentee ballot for each election in an election cycle, voters are now required to provide this ID information multiple times each election cycle.

60. The bill also prohibits public employees and agencies from sending unsolicited absentee ballot applications to voters, yet threatens private individuals and organizations who are not so prohibited, such as the Plaintiffs, with a substantial risk of incurring hefty fines for every application they send to an individual who has not yet registered to vote or who has already requested a ballot or voted absentee. This will be the case under SB 202 even though many voters reported not receiving their absentee ballots after making an initial request for one in the 2020 election cycle and voters benefited from having assistance from individuals and groups, like the Plaintiffs' organizations, in helping them submit additional requests so that they could receive their absentee ballots. SB 202/AP, Section 25.

61. SB 202 also significantly limits the accessibility of absentee ballot drop boxes to voters. While all counties would be required to have at least one, the placement of drop boxes is limited to early voting locations and drop boxes are available only to voters who can enter the early voting location during early voting hours to deposit their ballot inside the box. Thus, drop boxes are essentially useless to voters who can vote early in-person or who cannot access early voting hours at all due to work or other commitments during early voting hours.

SB202/AP Section 26.

62. The bill also mandates an earlier deadline of 11 days before an election to request an absentee ballot, leaving some voters who become ill or have to travel out of the area in the lurch if they cannot vote during early voting and are unable to meet the earlier deadline to apply for a ballot.

63. SB 202 gives unlimited discretion to election boards to limit early voting hours to 9 am to 5 pm weekdays and on weekends, and to two Saturdays before the election.

64. This change in the law provides county registrars with unfettered discretion to set the time period for early voting between 9 am and 5 pm during weekdays and on weekends, despite the fact that these are the same hours many individuals work, attend school or have other responsibilities that make it impossible or significantly more burdensome for them to cast ballots during regular workday hours. This change will have a disproportionate impact on Black voters and voters of color who have low income and hourly wage jobs and will have difficulty being able to take time off during their workday to vote between 9 am and 5 pm.

65. Additionally, county boards of election are given unfettered discretion with no guidelines in determining whether to eliminate all Sunday early voting days. SB 202/AP, Section 28.

66. Georgia Secretary of State statistics demonstrate that Black voters and other voters of color utilize Sunday early voting hours significantly more than White voters. Black voters and other voters take part in GOTV efforts focused on Sunday early voting, including “Souls to the Polls” events hosted by Black churches and other faith-based organizations that provide rides to the polls following church services or as part of their church fellowship activities. As a result, the elimination or reduction of Sunday early voting under SB 202 discriminates against Black voters and other voters of color who utilize Sunday early voting hours at higher rates than white voters.

67. SB 202 also substantially changes the rules on whether voters may cast ballots at the wrong polling location or precinct within the same county where they are registered to vote. SB 202 /AP Section 34.

68. Under SB 202, voters who arrive to vote after 5 pm and sign an affidavit under penalty of perjury that they cannot get to their home precinct before the close of the polls will be able to cast a provisional ballot which will count with respect to the same contests on the voter’s home precinct ballot. All other voters who arrive at the incorrect precinct before 5 pm can cast a provisional ballot at the incorrect precinct, but none of their votes will count. In order for their votes to count, they will be required to vote at their home precinct, even if they cannot get to their home precinct by the time polls close. The Board of Elections is tasked with reviewing the sworn statements submitted by the voters who cast provisional out of precinct ballots after 5 pm, but it is unclear what the purpose of that review would be.

69. SB 202 shortens the runoff period to four weeks following the election that led to the runoff for stateside voters, significantly limiting access to in-person early voting, which may only allow for a three-day early voting period if a runoff occurs during Thanksgiving week. The ability to cast an absentee mail-in voting during this reduced time period will also be challenging, if not impossible for some voters. SB 202/AP Section 28.

70. The provisions of SB 202 imposing new burdens on voting by absentee ballots and limiting access to early voting will likely result in longer lines and delays at the polls on Election Day, particularly for Black voters and voters of color in Georgia who are more often than white voters impacted by lines and delays when voting on election day. See, e.g., Stephen Fowler, Why Do Nonwhite Georgia Voters Have To Wait In Line For Hours? Too Few Polling Places, Georgia Public Broadcasting, October 17, 2020, accessible at: <https://www.npr.org/2020/10/17/924527679/why-do-nonwhite-georgia-voters-have-to-wait-in-line-for-hours-too-few-polling-pl>

71. Compounding the burden on Black and Brown voters who experience long lines and delays at the polls, SB 202 also criminalizes “line-warming,” the act of well-meaning individuals and organizations who hand out water or snacks, umbrellas, or chairs to ease the burden on voters standing in line for protracted periods to vote. SB 202/AP Section 33.

72. SB 202 also removes powers from the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State will no longer serve as the Chair of the State Election Board and would no longer have voting powers as a member of the State Election Board. Another provision allows the State Election Board and members of the General Assembly to take over county election offices. SB 202/AP Section 5.

73. Pursuant to SB 202, the county commission or members of the General Assembly could take action to commence a performance review of election supervisors that could lead to their suspension. Up to four election supervisors could be suspended at one time. SB 202/AP Section 7.

Racial and Ethnic Demographics of Voting in Georgia

74. The Secretary of State of Georgia maintains detailed records as to the racial demographics of voting. As a result, the Georgia legislators and its elected officials are well aware of the implications of making decisions as to voting on racial and ethnic minorities.

75. In every presidential election since 2004, the share of registered voters who are white has decreased in Georgia: from 68% in 2004, to 63% in 2008, to 59% in 2012, to 56% in 2016, to 53% in 2020. During that same period, the cumulative share of registered Black, Latinx and Asian American/Pacific Islander (“AAPI”) voters and voters who are members of indigenous tribes has increased.

76. The percentage of the vote that the Republican Presidential candidate has received in Georgia has decreased in every election since 2004 with the exception of 2012.

77. The 2018 statewide election in Georgia demonstrated how fragile the Republican party’s hold on the state was. While Republican candidates won the races for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, and Attorney General, all of the winners received less than 52% of the vote and the Secretary of State election went to a run-off.

78. In 2020, a Democratic candidate won the presidential election for the first time in Georgia since 1992, and two senatorial races were sent to run-offs, with both Democratic candidates winning in January 2021. This was the first time a Democrat had won a United States Senate race in Georgia since 1996.

79. Between 2016 and 2020, the share of registered voters who are white decreased from 56% to 53% and the percentage of voters who turned out who were white decreased from 61% to 58%. These percentages stayed the same for the

January 2021 run-off elections. These 3 percentage point drops were determinative in who won the 2020 and 2021 elections.

80. Election analysis demonstrates that Black voters and voters of color usually provide strong support to Democratic candidates. Members of the Georgia General Assembly are aware of this fact.

81. As seen in the following graphs, even before the pandemic, Black, Latinx, AAPI and American Indian Alaska Native voters (referred to as “AIAN”) in Georgia had made increasing use of voting by mail and early voting. This trend increased significantly during the 2020 and 2021 elections because of the pandemic.

82. Between 2016 and 2018 general elections in Georgia, the percentage of Black, Latinx, AAPI and indigenous tribe voters choosing to vote by mail increased, while the percentage of White voters choosing to vote by mail or to vote decreased somewhat. White, Black, Latinx, AAPI, and indigenous voters all chose to vote by mail at larger percentages during the 2020 and 2021 elections because of the pandemic, with a greater percentage of Black and Asian voters choosing to vote by mail than White voters.

83. Persons of color in Georgia, and particularly Black voters, have chosen to take advantage of early voting opportunities even before the pandemic, at rates comparable to, and often higher than White voters. This is particularly so as to in-person early voting on Sunday where, because of “Souls to the Polls” programs, Black voters, who in the 2020 general election comprised approximately 30% of all registered voters in Georgia, but accounted for 36.5% of Sunday voters, compared to 26.8% of early in-person voters on other days. In comparison, 60% of voters who voted early on days other than Sunday were white; but whites comprised only 47% of in-person early voters on Sundays, despite comprising 53% of Georgia’s registered voters.

84. Black residents of Georgia are 88% more likely than white Georgia residents to be below poverty level, and, upon information and belief, as a result are less likely to possess the IDs required by SB 202, and more likely to encounter technology access issues that would render the printing and copying requirements of SB 202 more burdensome on them.

85. Latinx residents of Georgia are 91% more likely than white Georgia residents to be below the poverty level, and, upon information and belief, as a result are less likely to possess the IDs required by SB 202, and more likely to encounter technology access issues that would make the printing and copying requirements of SB 202 more burdensome.

86. Black Georgians are 58% more likely than white Georgians to lack computer access in their homes.

87. Latinx Georgians are 74% more likely than white Georgians to lack computer access in their homes.

88. Native Hawaiian Pacific Islanders are 100% more likely to lack home computer access than are white Georgians.

89. Upon information and belief, Black and Latinx voters and other persons of color in Georgia are more likely than white voters in Georgia to hold jobs that do not give them the flexibility to take off from work during the time that early voting and drop boxes are available under the new restrictions of SB 202.

90. Since 2013, Georgia has experienced polling place closures, consolidations, and changing of locations of polling places, often in communities of persons of color.

91. Persons of color are more likely than White voters to confront long lines to vote in Georgia when they vote in person.

Legislative History of SB 202

92. SB 202 was part of a wave of proposed legislation introduced in 2021, in a number of jurisdictions, grounded in baseless and often racially tinged claims of voter fraud and election irregularities. Eleven such bills were proposed in Georgia itself.

93. The procedure leading up to the passage of SB 202 was rushed and irregular. Bills covering the same subjects, but with slightly conflicting provisions were introduced in both houses of the Georgia legislature, sometimes in the same house. Committee hearings were scheduled on the bills, but without posted agendas, and without ample notice to the public or opportunity for the public to view the proceedings without attending them in person.

94. Throughout the hearings held on these bills, the legislators were repeatedly warned by community members and organizations that these bills, including SB 202 and predecessor bills with similar provisions, would adversely and disproportionately impact populations of persons of color.

95. For example, at a February 19, 2021 hearing on a related bill that contained many of the same provisions that ultimately were incorporated in SB 202, representatives of the Georgia Coalition for the People's Agenda noted that “prohibiting of early voting on Sundays, and therefore the elimination of the Souls to Polls, feels like a direct attack on certain communities.”

96. At this same hearing, representatives from the Southern Poverty Law Center Action Fund warned legislators that these bills represented calculated attempts to adversely impact minority groups, and that the provisions such as the photo ID requirement for absentee ballots would disproportionately impact racial minorities.

97. There was a brief hearing on SB 202 during the first week of March before the Senate Ethics Committee. At this time, SB 202 was a scant two-pages long, and limited to the issue of distribution of absentee ballot applications. At that hearing, representatives of community groups alerted the Committee to the potential negative impact of the civil penalties for distributing absentee ballot applications to certain voters would have on such community groups.

98. On March 17, 2021, at a hearing of the House Special Committee on Election Integrity, SB 202 was discussed, despite no agenda for the hearing being provided to the public until two hours before the hearing.

99. At this March 17, 2021 hearing, community organizations and civil rights organizations, including from the Georgia Coalition for the People’s Agenda, expressed multiple concerns to lawmakers about SB 202, including the lack of transparency and irregular process, as well as concerns about the bill taking local authority away from county election officials.

100. On March 18, 2021 – the very next day – SB 202 was amended again, with a new substitute replacing it. Chairman Barry Fleming conducted a hearing of the House Special Committee on Election Integrity, despite not having a substitute ready to distribute, and instead described the changes to the bill without releasing new language to the public. Despite the fact that there were changes from the prior day, Chairman Fleming also prohibited comment from organizations that had provided comments on March 17, 2021.

101. On March 19, 2021, two further substitutions to the bill were made and released to the public.

102. On March 22, 2021, an hour before a scheduled hearing of the House Special Committee on Election Integrity on March 22, 2021, House leadership shared the new over 90-page version of SB 202 with Democratic members of the Committee. Chairman Fleming refused to take additional comment on the bill, despite the substantial changes and the two additional March 19 substitutions.

103. When SB 202 was first passed over from the Senate to the House on March 9, 2021, it was a 2-page bill that dealt only with restrictions concerning individuals and third-party groups sending absentee ballot applications to prospective voters. In a matter of two weeks, the bill had grown to over 90 pages dealing with numerous topics.

104. During the debate on the House and Senate floor on SB 202, Black legislators alerted their colleagues to the discriminatory impact SB 202 would have on Black voters and other voters of color.

105. The bill was put up for a full vote two days later on March 25, 2021.

106. Despite the requirements of Georgia law that bills having either a significant impact on expenditures of a state agency or at least $5 million cost to local agencies must have a fiscal note attached, SB 202 contains no fiscal note. The failure to attach a fiscal note to the bill was raised on the Senate floor, but was summarily rejected by the President of the Senate.

107. Throughout the debate on SB 202, its supporters attempted to justify the bill using language similar to that used by former President Trump and his allies concerning non-existent election irregularities in the 2020 Georgia Presidential vote. Representative Barry Fleming, Chair of the House Special Committee on Election Integrity, publicly likened absentee ballots to the “shady part of town down near the docks” where the “chance of being shanghaied” is significant.

CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

COUNT I

52 U.S.C. § 10301 and 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (Discriminatory Purpose in Violation of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, Against all Defendants)

108. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 to 107 above, as if fully set forth herein.

109. 42 U.S.C. § 1983 authorizes suits for the deprivation of a right secured by the Constitution or the laws of the United States caused by a person acting under the color of state law.

110. Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that:

No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

111. Section 1 of the Fifteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution provides that:

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

112. Both the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendment prohibit intentional racial discrimination by state actors.

113. Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, 42 U.S.C. § 1973, in relevant part, provides:

- (a) No voting qualification or prerequisite to voting or standard, practice, or procedure shall be imposed or applied by any State or political subdivision in a manner which results in a denial or abridgment of the right of any citizen of the United State to vote on account of race or color, or [membership in a language minority group].
- (b) A violation of subsection (a) of this section is established if, based on the totality of circumstances, it is shown that the political processes leading to nomination or election in the State or political subdivision are not equally open to participation by members of a class of citizens protected by subsection (a) of this section in that its members have less opportunity than other members of the electorate to participate in the political process and to elect representatives of their choice.

114. A violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act may be based either on a finding of a discriminatory purpose behind the challenged governmental action or a finding of a discriminatory result from the challenged governmental action

115. Discriminatory intent may be established by proof that the defendants used race as a motivating factor in their decisions. Village of Arlington Heights v. Metropolitan Hous. Dev. Corp., 429 U.S. 252, 265 (1977).

116. The burdens of SB 202 are intended to, and will have, the effect of disproportionately and adversely affecting the right to vote of Black voters and other voters of color, including, but not limited to,

- 1) Imposing onerous and unnecessary ID requirements on voters who submit applications for absentee ballots and when they return voted absentee ballots;
- 2) Prohibiting public employees and public entities from sending out unsolicited absentee ballot applications to voters;
- 3) Threatening private individuals and non-public entities with potentially large fines for sending absentee ballot applications to voters who are not currently registered to vote or who have already requested a ballot, received a ballot or voted a ballot;
- 4) Giving county registrars unfettered discretion to limit early voting hours to 9 am to 5 pm and to entirely eliminate Sunday early voting which will weigh more heavily on Black voters and other voters of color who must work 9-5 pm jobs and participate in “GOTV events, such as, “Souls to the Poll” events organized to increase Black voter turnout.

- 5) Limiting access to absentee ballot drop boxes to locations inside early voting sites when advance in person voting is taking place, rendering the drop boxes virtually useless since voters can vote early in person at these locations;
- 6) Prohibiting out of precinct voting before 5 pm without recognizing the confusion and negative impact experienced by Black voters and other voters of color from hundreds of polling place changes in Georgia since the Supreme Court’s decision in Shelby County v. Holder;
- 7) Criminalizing “line-warming,” which provides relief for voters forced to wait in long lines because of the other discriminatory voting changes imposed by SB 202;
- 8) Removing the voting power of the Secretary of State on the State Elections Board, coupled with granting power to the State Election Board to take over county election boards and targeting jurisdictions with large populations of Black voters and other voters of color;

- 9) Encouraging the submission of large numbers of voter challenges by using the term, “unlimited,” in referring to elector challenges in SB 202.

117. Race was a motivating factor behind the enactment of SB 202.

118. SB 202 was enacted at a time when Black voters and other voters of color were making increasing use of means of voting that are being limited and restricted in SB 2020.

119. SB 202 was enacted immediately following elections in which the size of the population of Black voters and other voters of color, particularly when compared to the diminishing share of the white vote, had become larger in statewide elections.

120. In passing SB 202, the Georgia legislature deviated from procedural norms in its rushing the bill to passage, in its failure to provide adequate notice and opportunity to be heard and to view committee proceedings; in its speedy replacement of a 2-page bill with a 95-page bill without sufficient notice; and in its failure to include the required fiscal statement.

121. The purported justification for SB 202 was pretextual.

122. The Chair of the House Committee on Public Integrity made culturally-insensitive statements in connection with the passage of SB 202.

123. The supporters of SB 202 were on notice of the foreseeability of the disparate impact of SB 202.

124. There are less discriminatory alternatives to every aspect of SB 202, including simply maintaining the status quo, particularly given the complete lack of evidence of significant voter fraud.

125. Defendants will be unable to prove that, SB 202 would have been enacted without race as a motivating factor.

126. SB 202 was enacted with a racially discriminatory purpose in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, and the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments.

127. Implementation of SB 202 will irreparably harm Plaintiffs as well as Black voters and other voters of color by denying or abridging their right to vote.

128. WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for relief as set forth hereafter.

COUNT II

(Violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 52 U.S.C. § 10301)

129. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 to 128 above, as if fully set forth herein.

130. In determining whether a challenged voting practice violates the results prong of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, a court undertakes a two-step analysis. First, it must determine whether a provision produced a disproportionate impact on account of race.

131. If there is a disproportionate impact, a court must examine the “totality of the circumstances” and determine whether “the political processes ... are [] equally open to participation by [members of a protected class] ... in that its members have less opportunity than other members of the electorate to participate in the political process.” See e.g., Johnson v. Governor of Fla., 405 F.3d 1214, 1228 n.26 (11th Cir. 2005); Burton v. City of Belle Glade, 178 F.3d 1175, 1197-98 (11th Cir. 1999).

132. The provision of SB 202 that limits early voting, and specifically, limits early voting on Sundays, will have a disproportionate impact on the ability of Black voters in Georgia to participate equally in the political process because Black voters have traditionally voted early on Sundays disproportionately to their share of the Georgia registered voting population.

133. The provision of SB 202 that prohibits “line-warming” will have a disproportionate impact on the ability of Black voters and other voters of color in Georgia to participate equally in the political process because they are more likely than White voters to confront long lines and wait times when they vote in person.

134. The disproportionate impact of these provisions, individually and collectively, is caused by present and past discrimination on account of race and ethnicity by the state of Georgia, as shown by the totality of the circumstances, including factors deemed relevant by the Supreme Court in Thornburg v. Gingles, 478 U.S. 30, 36 (1986).

135. Georgia has a long history of official discrimination in the jurisdiction that touched the right of minorities to register, vote, or otherwise participate in the electoral process, and the history of voting discrimination against Black residents in Georgia is well documented. Georgia's history of racial discrimination in voting is so long and deep that courts have taken judicial notice of it. Johnson v. Miller, 864 F. Supp. 1354, 1379-80 (S.D. Ga. 1994), aff'd and remanded, 515 U.S. 900 (1995); Wright v. Sumter Cty. Bd. of Elections & Registration, 301 F.Supp. 3d 1297, 1310 (M.D. Ga. 2018), aff'd, 979 F.3d 1282 (11th Cir. 2020).

136. Voters of color in Georgia bear the effects of discrimination in education, employment, and health that hinder their ability to participate effectively in the political process.

137. The policy behind the use of the voting practices in question is tenuous and pretextual.

138. As a result of SB 202's requirements and prohibitions described above, individually and collectively, under the totality of the circumstances, the political process in Georgia is not equally open to participation to Black voters and other voters of color in that such citizens have less opportunity than other members of the electorate to participate in the political process and to elect representatives of their choice.

139. The requirements and prohibitions of SB 202 described above constitute qualifications or prerequisites to voting within the meaning of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, and result in the denial or abridgement of the right to vote of U.S. citizens who are residents of Georgia on account of their race or color, or membership in a language minority group, in violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act.

140. Implementation of SB 202 will irreparably harm Black voters and other voters of color.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for relief as hereinafter set forth.

COUNT III

42 U.S.C. § 1983

(Burden On The Fundamental Right To Vote First And Fourteenth Amendments)

141. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 to 140 above, as if fully set forth herein.

142. The First and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution protect the right to vote as a fundamental right. The First Amendment's guarantees of freedom of speech and association protect the right to vote and to participate in the political process.

143. The right to vote is a fundamental constitutional right also protected by both the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment. See, e.g., Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98, 104-05 (2000); Harper v. Va. State Bd. of Elections, 383 U.S. 663, 670 (1966); Anderson v. Celebrezze, 460 U.S. 780, 786-87 (1983).

144. “A court considering a challenge to a state election law must weigh “the character and magnitude of the asserted injury to the rights protected by the First and Fourteenth Amendments that the plaintiff seeks to vindicate” against “the precise interests put forward by the State as justifications for the burden imposed by its rule,” taking into consideration “the extent to which those interests make it necessary to burden the plaintiffs' rights.” See Burdick v. Takushi, 504 U.S. 428, 434 (1992); Anderson v. Celebrezze, 460 U.S. 780, 789 (1983).

145. Even when a law imposes only a slight burden on the right to vote, relevant and legitimate interests of sufficient weight still must justify that burden. Common Cause/Ga. v. Billups, 554 F.3d 1340, 1352 (11th Cir. 2009). The more a challenged law burdens the right to vote, the closer the scrutiny courts will apply when examining that law. Stein v. Ala. Sec. of State, 774 F.3d 689, 694 (11th Cir. 2014).

146. SB 202’s provisions inflict substantial burdens on Georgia’s voters, both through the individual restrictions and provisions and collectively through the combined effect of all of the restrictions and barriers.

147. SB 202’s provisions requiring ID information and photo identification with absentee ballot applications and ballots imposes a substantial burden on all voters. This burden is unnecessary and is not outweighed by any purported State interest.

148. SB 202’s restrictions on sending of absentee ballot applications, both by the Secretary of State and third parties, imposes a substantial burden on voters trying to apply for and vote absentee that is not outweighed by any purported state interest.

149. SB 202's significant limitations on early voting, in particular the impact on Sunday early voting, impose a substantial burden on all voters; this burden is unnecessary and is not outweighed by any purported State interest.

150. SB 202's restrictions on drop boxes will make it harder for Georgia voters, particularly those who do not have the schedule flexibility or ability to take time off of work, to vote also impose an unnecessary burden that is not outweighed by any purported State interest.

151. SB 202's restrictions on out-of-precinct voting, by setting arbitrary times for when out-of-precinct voting is permitted (though still restricted) and otherwise restricting by arbitrary times, impose an unnecessary burden that is not outweighed by any purported State interest.

152. SB 202 also prohibits providing food and water to voters waiting in line at the polls, i.e., "line-warming," which serves no legitimate purpose other than to create unnecessary burdens on those trying to vote in person.

153. The burdens caused by these provisions, individually and collectively, are serious and substantial, and in some cases cause voters to risk being completely disenfranchised.

154. No legitimate state interest justifies these significant restrictions and burdens.

155. The purported goals of increasing confidence in elections or encouraging uniformity are pretextual at best, and in fact would be harmed by imposing the restrictions and requirements of SB 202.

156. These restrictions could undermine, not restore, confidence in Georgia's elections, and would do so at the expense of imposing undue burdens on voters.

157. The requirements and prohibitions in SB 202, individually and collectively, impose a substantial burden on the fundamental right to vote of Georgia citizens, and are neither justified by, nor necessary to promote, interests put forward by the State that were not already being adequately protected by pre-existing criminal laws and election procedures.

158. These provisions will irreparably harm Black voters and other voters of color.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for relief as hereinafter set forth.

COUNT IV

42 U.S.C. § 1983
(Freedom of Speech and Association)
First And Fourteenth Amendments)

159. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege each and every allegation contained in Paragraphs 1 to 158 above, as if fully set forth herein.

160. The First Amendment to the Constitution, as applied by the Fourteenth Amendment, prohibits abridgement of freedom of speech.

161. SB 202, restricts Plaintiffs and their members core political speech and expressive conduct – namely encouraging voting through the distribution of absentee ballots applications in an effort to engage the public and voters and encourage them to vote.

162. By penalizing innocent errors in the distribution of absentee ballot applications, SB 202 will have a chilling effect on Plaintiffs’ and their members’ core political speech, without being narrowly tailored to meet a compelling state interest.

163. As a result of SB 202, Plaintiff organizations will not be able to carry out a key aspect of their organizational mission.

164. Because the restrictions in SB 202 and the potential penalties extend to Plaintiff organizations’ members, their members’ right of association is also jeopardized.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for relief as set forth herein.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Plaintiffs respectfully request that this Court:

1. Declare that the challenged provisions in SB 202 violates the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution and Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act's prohibitions on discriminatory purpose;
2. Declare that the challenged provisions in SB 202 violate the results prong of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act;
3. Declare that the challenged provisions of SB 202 violate the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution as undue burdens on the right to vote;
4. Declare that the challenged provisions of SB 202 violate the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution as undue burdens on the right to free speech and freedom of association;
5. Enjoin Defendants, their agents, officers, employees, successors, and all persons acting in concert with them from enforcing any of the challenged provisions of SB 202;
6. Award Plaintiffs their costs, expenses, and reasonable attorneys' fees, pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1988, 52 U.S.C. § 10301 and other applicable laws; and
7. Order any other relief that this Court deems just and proper.

Dated: March 28, 2021

/s/ Bryan L. Sells

Bryan L. Sells
Georgia Bar No. 635562
The Law Office of Bryan Sells, LLC
PO Box 5493
Atlanta, Georgia 31107
Tel: (404) 480-4212
Email: bryan@bryansellslaw.com

Jon Greenbaum*
Ezra D. Rosenberg*
Julie M. Houk*
jgreenbaum@lawyerscommittee.org erosenberg@lawyerscommittee.org
jhouk@lawyerscommittee.org
Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law 1500 K Street NW, Suite 900
Washington, D.C. 20005
Telephone: (202) 662-8600
Facsimile: (202) 783-0857

Vilia Hayes*
Gregory Farrell*
Hughes Hubbard & Reed LLP One Battery
Park Plaza
New York, New York 10004-1482
Telephone: (212) 837-6000
Facsimile: (212) 422-4726

Applications for admission pro hac vice to be filed*

Counsel for Plaintiffs

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE AND OF SERVICE

Pursuant to L.R. 7.1(D), the undersigned hereby certifies that the foregoing COMPLAINT FOR NJUNCTIVE AND DECLARATORY RELIEF has been prepared in Times New Roman 14, a font and type selection approved by the Court in L.R. 5.1(C), and that I provided notice and a copy of the foregoing using the CM/ECF system which will automatically send e-mail notification of such filing to all attorneys of record.

Respectfully submitted this 28th day of March, 2021.

/s/ Bryan L. Sells

Bryan L. Sells

Georgia Bar No. 635562

The Law Office of Bryan Sells, LLC.

P.O. Box 5493

Atlanta, GA 31107

Tel: (404) 480-4212

Email: bryan@bryansellslaw.com

Counsel for Plaintiffs

Table of Contents

1. Protecting Minority Voters: Our Work Is Not Done (“2014 National Commission Report”)
2. Alabama Hearing Transcript
3. Arizona Hearing Transcript
4. Baltimore Hearing Transcript
5. Boston Regional Hearing Transcript
6. California Hearing Transcript
7. Colorado & New Mexico Hearing Transcript
8. Florida Hearing Transcript
9. Georgia Hearing Transcript
10. Illinois Hearing Part I Transcript
11. Illinois Hearing Part II Transcript
12. Kansas City Regional Hearing Transcript
13. Louisiana Hearing Transcript
14. Michigan Hearing Transcript
15. Minnesota & Wisconsin Hearing Transcript
16. Mississippi Hearing Transcript
17. Nashville Hearing Transcript
18. North Carolina Hearing Transcript
19. Nevada-Utah Regional Hearing Transcript
20. NYC Regional Hearing Transcript
21. Pennsylvania Hearing Transcript
22. Pacific Northwest Regional Hearing Transcript
23. Rapid City, South Dakota Hearing Transcript
24. South Carolina Hearing Transcript
25. Texas Regional Hearing Transcript
26. Virginia Hearing Transcript
27. June 25, 2019 Statement of Kristen Clarke, President and Executive Director for the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, before the U.S. House Committee on the Judiciary Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Hearing on “Continuing Challenges to the Voting Rights Act Since Shelby County v. Holder”
28. September 5, 2019 Statement of Jon Greenbaum, Chief Counsel for the Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, before the U.S. House Committee on the Judiciary Subcommittee on the Constitution, Civil Rights and Civil Liberties Hearing on “Discriminatory Barriers to Voting”
29. Lawyers’ Committee for Civil Rights Under Law’s Preliminary Report on Voting Discrimination Against Racial and Ethnic Minorities 1994-2019
30. Voting Cases the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law Has Participated in Since the Decision in Shelby County v. Holder”

31. Complaint in Georgia State Conference of the NAACP et al v. Raffensperger et al