3 Essentially the law is written in such a way 4 that it's the fault of the voter if he or she 5 can't vote. In other words,
6 disenfranchisement is favored over 7 accommodating voters.

8 With all of this being said, I do 9 want to say that I believe the City of 10 Minneapolis, I believe Hennepin County and I
11 believe the State of Minnesota have made 12 significant improvements to the electoral 13 process for minorities, including language
14 minorities and Asian-Americans. However, I 15 believe there is still a long way to go.
16 Thank you.

17 MR. SPANNAUS: Any questions from 18 the panel or anyone in the audience?

19 (No response.)

20 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much.
21 Next we have Mr. Abdirizak Said of the 22 Minneapolis Highrise Representative Council.

23 MR. SAID: Good morning. Good
24 afternoon, Commissioners. My name is 25 Abdirizak Said. I'm the community organizer

1 of Minneapolis Highrise Representative
2 Council. It's the independent citywide public 3 housing high-rise tenant organization
4 representing the interests of some 5,000
5 low-income residents living in Minneapolis.
6 Forty-two public housing high-rises. About 7 one-third of those are Somali refugees who 8 left war in cities striving for their safety 9 and a better life in America. The vast 10 majority of high-rise Somali residents live in 11 south Minneapolis. Although the 12 Cedar-Riverside neighborhood is the center for 13 the Somali community in the Minnesota area, it 14 is home of the largest Somali population in 15 the country, my remark would be -- will 16 directly address the experiences of the Somali 17 residents living in public housing. However,
18 there are similarities with the Somali elders
19 throughout the metro area. I wanted to talk 20 to you about some of the challenges and 21 successes and opportunities for the 22 improvements.

23 Somali has -- just as a Somali
24 population in Minnesota continues to grow, so 25 does Somali eagerness to becoming citizens and

1 to participate in democracy and elections.
2 Just last fall, the first Somali-American was 3 elected in Minneapolis City Council. The two 4 main challenges facing the high-rise Somali
5 voters are the large -- are the language
6 barrier and the unfortunate -- and unfamiliar 7 with the U.S. political and election system.

8 As Somali voting has increased in 9 Minneapolis, so is it necessary for the 10 Somalian-speaking election judges. The need 11 often outpaces the supply. Many times
12 Somali-speaking volunteers step up to fill the 13 gap, sometimes with unfortunate outcomes.
14 Here are a few examples. In Elliot Park
15 neighborhood precinct during 2012 election
16 where there were no Somali election judges, a 17 bilingual Somali resident leaders was 18 initiate [sic] to help some of the Somali 19 elders who need help, but the polling -- the 20 polling judge who was there denied them the 21 opportunity to allow him to help him. They 22 did not help him after discussion with the 23 judge, and he was allowed to issue by reading 24 ballot for -- and the elders.

25 During 2012 election, the south

1 Minneapolis high-rise that is polling site,
2 Somali resident council president who had been 3 assessed -- assisting fellow Somali
4 non-English-speaking resident with voting for 5 several hours was asked to leave. At first 6 she refused to leave saying that the elders 7 had asked to me -- asked me for the help and 8 that she had tried to be there. She was -- 9 she was then told that there were already have 10 Somali interpreter. So she was told to leave, 11 otherwise we call the police. At the point -- 12 so at the end, this incident was being avoid 13 by if we have -- if there is a lot of judges
14 that can speak the language of Somali
15 language.

16 Some Somali elders report that they 17 don't vote or hesitant to vote at their 18 precinct on election day because they don't 19 speak and read English. One solution has been 20 Somali elders to vote early through the 21 absentee ballot at City Hall. Residents have 22 reported that this experience was more 23 comfortable. There was less pressure due to 24 the long voting lines, city workers were very 25 helpful and they could not [sic] bring someone

1 to help them -- to help them with the language
2 issue without being challenged.

3 Being relatively new citizens,
4 there is this issue that learn about American 5 policy system for the Somalis to full
6 participation. Excellent election information 7 is provided by both Secretary of State and 8 Minneapolis election offices, including board
9 registration material, maps, election
10 timelines and candidates, polling place 11 locations and similar sample ballots; much of 12 it is translated into Somali. Creating 13 materials and presentations of the 14 Ranked-Choice Voting system using in the 2013
15 city election provided by city election 16 officers and other voting advocate groups were 17 very helpful. Maintaining same-day voting 18 registration is also important for the 19 increasing voting.

20 Somalis take their citizenship
21 responsibility very seriously. Recruiting and 22 training more Somali-speaking election judges 23 and voting and the reminding returning 24 election judges of a citizen's right to have 25 the language assistance into the polling booth

1 are steps that would be taken to make what is 2 in most regards a very good and welcome
3 process even better. Thank you.

4 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you. Any of 5 the commissioners have any questions of our 6 witnesses? The next witness and the last 7 witness for the -- this panel 1 here is Pamela 8 Hoopes who is with the Mid-Minnesota Legal 9 Aid, Minnesota Disability Law Center. Thank 10 you for coming.

11 MS. HOOPEES: Thank you. Good
12 afternoon, Commissioners. My name is 13 Pamela Hoopes, and I'm the legal director and 14 deputy director of Mid-Minnesota Legal Aid, 15 Minnesota Disability Law Center. And that 16 office is designated by the governor as a 17 protection and advocacy system for people with 18 disabilities statewide in Minnesota for the 19 purpose of protecting the rights of 20 individuals with disabilities. We provide 21 free civil legal assistance to people with all 22 kinds of disabilities on legal issues related 23 to their disabilities, including disability
24 discrimination and voting rights in a
25 nonpartisan fashion.

1 Some background information to give 2 a factual context regarding voting rights of 3 individuals with disabilities; approximately 4 20 percent of Minnesota's 5.379 million people 5 have some kind of disability according to the 6 Centers For Disease Control. Minnesotans of 7 voting age have disabilities at approximately 8 the following rates: Ages 18 to 44, about 9 11.7 percent; ages 45 to 64, about 22 percent; 10 and age 65 and older, about 36.6 percent.

11 While Minnesota-specific statistics
12 on voting rates of people with disabilities
13 are not available, a national 2011 Rutgers
14 University study on disability voter turnout 15 and polling place accessibility found that 16 nationally voter turnout is 4 to 21 percentage 17 points lower among people with disabilities 18 than among people without disabilities. Our 19 experience with voting rights in Minnesota
20 confirms that voters with disabilities in this 21 state continue to experience barriers to 22 voting and resistance to their full inclusion 23 in the electoral process.

24 I'd like to sketch out briefly a 25 legal framework for voting rights of people

1 with disabilities. Both Minnesota and federal 2 law establish that voting is a fundamental 3 right, and like other citizens, individuals
4 with disabilities have the right to vote.
5 Federal statutes protect the right of people 6 with disabilities to vote prohibiting 7 discrimination and requiring accommodations
8 such as physical assistance when needed.
9 Statutes that provide such legal protections
10 in voting include the Americans with 11 Disabilities Act, the Voting Rights Act, which 12 grants voters with disabilities the 13 affirmative right to receive necessary 14 assistance to vote from a person of the 15 voter's choice; the Accessibility for the 16 Elderly and Handicapped Act requires states to 17 assure that all polling places or federal 18 elections are accessible to handicapped and 19 elderly voters; the Help America Vote Act, 20 which requires states to make polling places
21 more accessible to voters with disabilities 22 and to have accessible voting machines in 23 every polling place to assure privacy and 24 independence in voting for folks with 25 disabilities.

1 Minnesota law also protects the 2 right of individuals with disabilities to 3 vote. This includes those under legal 4 guardianship absent a specific determination
5 by a court that the individual lacks capacity.
6 However, as recently as 2012, that right came 7 under attack, both legislatively and in a
8 federal lawsuit. It took a federal court
9 decision in which Minnesota Disability Law
10 Center wrote an amicus brief on this issue 11 which was then affirmed on appeal by the 12 Eighth Circuit to clarify that although 13 Minnesota's State Constitution contains an 14 archaic categorical ban that purports to limit 15 the right to vote of individuals under 16 guardianship who are insane or who may be 17 non compos mentis. Subjecting an individual 18 to guardianship under Minnesota law does not 19 automatically implicate the individual's right 20 to vote. The federal court confirmed that 21 pursuant to Minnesota statute and federal 22 constitutional law, persons under guardianship
23 in Minnesota are presumed to retain the right 24 to vote unless otherwise ordered by a court.

25 So what are some barriers that

1 continue to face individuals with disabilities
2 to voting in Minnesota? Barriers to 3 registration do continue. Under Minnesota 4 law, people with disabilities who live in 5 residential facilities may have a staff person 6 vouch for them to register on election day if 7 an employer sends a letter with the staff's 8 names listed 20 days before election day.
9 There is a reasonable statutory backup of the 10 employer providing a statement on facility 11 letterhead to meet the rule's requirements if 12 a staff person is left off the list or is 13 hired within the 20-day period. But if an 14 employer fails to take those steps and a 15 person with disabilities arrives at the polls 16 planning to register on election day, the 17 person with disability often then is simply 18 unable to vote because there isn't anyone else 19 there who can vouch for them.

20 Also, the current voter confusion
21 about what forms of ID are acceptable for 22 election day registration adversely affects 23 people with disabilities. Many people with 24 disabilities share housing with another
25 tenant, with their parents or another family

1 member, and the utility bill is not under 2 their own name. Accordingly they frequently
3 will lack utility bills or other accepted 4 forms of proof of residence. In addition, in 5 terms of proving identity, many young people
6 with disabilities who are 18 and older do not 7 drive, and so they don't have a driver's 8 license for an ID. They continue to attend
9 high school in special education through age 10 21, so often their only form of ID is their 11 high school ID. This is currently a barrier 12 to registration.

13 In addition, Minnesota does not at 14 present have online voter registration which 15 the recent Presidential Commission on Election
16 Administration report stated increases voter 17 registration and removes barriers in 18 particular to participation by voters with 19 disabilities.

20 Another area of continuing problems
21 for voters with disabilities are physical 22 access issues in the polling places. Examples 23 of problems that our staff found when we 24 surveyed 12 polling places around the metro
25 area during the last primary election included

1 the following problems in at least 11 of 2 those. Polling place in the basement of a
3 church with steps and no working elevator, 4 steps up into the building entrances with no
5 ramps, narrow and blocked paths to the polling 6 places, insufficient disability parking, heavy 7 doors, lack of curb-cuts in streets leading to 8 the polling places entry to polling places 9 with only revolving doors too narrow for 10 wheelchairs, and once inside, confusing
11 layouts with insufficient signage.

12 Transportation is an issue. Many 13 people with disabilities don't drive and may 14 need special accessible transportation. Lack 15 of ability to get to the polling site is a big 16 barrier, particularly in rural Minnesota where 17 both public transportation and accessible 18 transportation are in scant supply. Although 19 private, nonprofit organizations including 20 ours have organized with some corporate 21 financial support, nonpartisan rides to the 22 polls in the metro area for recent elections, 23 supply of rides falls far short from demands.

24 Voting machines. In Minnesota, the 25 accessible voting machine is the Automark.

1 And the Automarks frequently do not function 2 properly or are placed in a position where 3 privacy is not assured or the election judges 4 are not sufficiently well trained to assist 5 persons using the machine.

6 Attitudinal barriers continue,
7 especially for people with persons who have 8 visible disabilities and are challenged in 9 their right to vote at polling places. If a 10 voter has difficulty talking, poll watchers, 11 other voters and at times election judges 12 question their competency to vote. In 13 addition, people with disabilities who need 14 assistance are sometimes made to feel 15 disrespected by the response of other voters 16 or election judges who question that right.
17 These experiences are a strong deterrent to 18 voting and are shared within the disability
19 community to further discouragement.

20 As noted above, there are 21 continuing legal barriers and Minnesotans must 22 be vigilant to preserve the provisions that 23 now are in the law and as others that support 24 voting of people with disabilities.

25 I'm out of time, so I'll stop. But

1 I will submit my remarks in a written form.

2 Thank you for this opportunity.

3 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you, Pamela.
4 Thank you. As you know, Mark Ritchie, our 5 outstanding Secretary of State has just joined 6 us. He's been Secretary for eight or 7 12 years?

8 MR. RITCHIE: Eight.

9 MR. SPANNAUS: Eight years. And 10 unfortunately, in my opinion, he's not seeking 11 reelection. And I think many Minnesotans feel 12 the same way. Mark has been one of the 13 leaders in the nation in the election process 14 throughout the country. And so you're leaving 15 the state in very good shape.

16 MR. JACOBS: He's getting a degree
17 from the Humphrey School, so that's good.

18 MR. SPANNAUS: That's good. That's 19 good. That's good. Now, we've had all four 20 of our panel 1 witnesses testify. And do any 21 of you commissioners have any questions?

22 MR. JACOBS: I have a question.
23 I'd be curious from any of the witnesses your 24 help in assessing the perhaps inflated pride
25 in Minnesota. We feel so proud of the fact

1 that we have among the highest and often the 2 highest turnout in the country. And I find 3 that when I talk to Minnesotans, that this 4 pride sometimes is in itself a barrier to 5 appreciating the barriers to voting.

6 Could you give some concrete
7 examples that you've seen where you could 8 explain or help to puncture this idea of 9 Minnesota being better than the rest when it 10 comes to some of the specific areas where 11 you're seeing problems? Compare Minnesota to 12 other states that we would feel are comparable 13 or that we would maybe compare ourselves to 14 and expect to be superior in terms of our 15 voting patterns and turnout here in Minnesota.

16 MR. MARTIN: I'd like to go first 17 when you talk about punching holes in things, 18 that would be great. I know that we do have a 19 high turnout rate in the presidential 20 elections, mainly in the '70s, and that has 21 been a point of pride as you very eloquently 22 stated. However, I'll bring a recent race to 23 your attention, one in Ward 1 in St. Paul 24 where prior to ranked voting, okay, so prior 25 to this last election there were upwards of 1 21,000 people eligible to vote in Ward 1.

2 Less than 3,000 showed up to vote. And once
3 you've got the abnormalities with the ballot 4 out of the way, you are talking about a very,
5 very small number of folks who had the -- a 6 lot of folks had the opportunity but took 7 advantage of the opportunity to vote in a very 8 crucial, very tight election that was decided 9 by less than a hundred votes before ranked 10 voting came into the picture.

11 So you have a section of the state
12 of a -- section of the community and a section 13 of the populous that aren't engaged in the 14 system despite your high percentages who don't 15 feel like their vote counts, who feels like 16 they are under observation if they go to a 17 voting booth in their own area, if they go to 18 their polling place, that someone is going to 19 ask them for their IDs and they'll ask at the 20 polls to -- that someone's going to question 21 their utility bill because of who they are and 22 the color of their skin.

23 So I think we have a long way to go
24 in making people feel welcome at their polling 25 places and to make them feel that they are

1 part of the democratic process every day on 2 every election in that their vote will forever 3 mean that they're a member of this society and 4 therefore have a voice.

5 But we are very good at our own
6 propaganda and we pump ourselves up very well.
7 But however, Minnesota has a long way to go to 8 include everyone into the process.

9 MR. YANG: I wanted to share some 10 comments too. Professor Jacobs, you and a 11 colleague of yours had a [unintelligible] 12 piece that there was a counterpoint to 13 regarding the issue of whether turnouts
14 increased because of Ranked-Choice Voting.
15 And I will say the counterpoint to your piece 16 was that -- you know, they use Ward 5 as an 17 example. I will tell you that Ranked-Choice
18 Voting, in my view, did not increase voter 19 turnout in Ward 5. I feel like, you know, 20 what increased turnout was actually candidates 21 who worked really hard to get folks to turn 22 out. And you know, compared to the number in 23 2009 when the number of people who turned out
24 in 2009 in Ward 5 was 2,300 for a city council 25 race, and in 2013 the number increased by

1 about 1,300 to about 3,600 votes. And the 2 good thing about Ward 5 is that we were not 3 the last in terms of turnouts. We were second 4 to the last. Number 12 is better than 13, how 5 about that.

6 But you know, I think the important
7 part to this is just that, you know, I think 8 -- I mean, in terms of viewing voting in terms
9 of race, I mean, I think to some extent you 10 were correct in the sense that, you know, 11 folks who tend to show up to vote are 12 wealthier, whiter, and maybe a little bit 13 older as well. You know, and when we look at 14 numbers in terms of people of color, I mean, 15 those numbers don't increase by all that that 16 much. And you know, using ward 17 [unintelligible] in St. Paul, Ward 5 in 18 Minneapolis, you kind of just could predict 19 that the numbers would be fairly low. And in 20 this case that was the case. And I don't 21 necessarily think that the argument that 22 Ranked-Choice Voting created voter turnout or 23 increased voter turnout, I don't think that 24 was the case. I think that what was the case
25 was that -- you know, in our situation, I

1 mean, one of my guesses is that there was a
2 Hmong candidate, myself, that helped to 3 increase Hmong voters in Ward 5. And you
4 know, we increased it by a large chunk 5 compared to 2009 or any time beforehand. And 6 so I think those are the things that folks
7 have to consider in -- the context is really 8 important in understanding how voters show up.

9 But, I mean, with that being said,
10 though, I do have to say maybe the good thing
11 about Minnesota is that Minnesota does turn 12 out to vote as a whole, I mean, much more than 13 other places. And that's something to be 14 proud of. I mean, I don't know if it's a 15 superiority complex or that. I certainly 16 think that it is something to be proud of.

17 MR. BAKER: My question relates 18 about young people, young voters. You talked 19 about obstacles being -- to voter
20 registration. You talked a little bit more 21 about ways that young people, especially young 22 people of color are being disenfranchised. In 23 what ways are your organizations working to 24 make sure that their engaged in the process?

25 MS. HOOPEES: If I can jump in. We

1 work with people of all disability types. And 2 a lot of our clients also are people of color, 3 and we're statewide. And I think the -- 4 generally with voters with disabilities and 5 then what we found is voters with disabilities 6 who are also people of color have multiple 7 barriers to voting. And with especially young 8 people, I think we found that outreach in 9 various ways to talk about civic engagement
10 and why it's important is really key. And I 11 think what has been most effective with young 12 voters, especially young voters who are also 13 recent immigrants or people of color, is to 14 talk about historical disenfranchisement and 15 how in both -- under -- in many other parts of 16 the world, the right to vote is actually still 17 a life-and-death matter. And that has a huge 18 effect on their own lives in terms of who gets 19 into office, what public policies are. Most 20 people with disabilities have a greater need 21 for specialized healthcare services, social 22 supports. And Minnesota, as you all know, 23 most people with disabilities live in some 24 kind of a community-based setting, and the 25 trend is increasingly toward that.

1 If the public policies of the state
2 and the nation don't support that, that's a 3 big problem for a lot of people with 4 disabilities. And the younger people with 5 disabilities have -- because of special 6 education law, have been much more integrated 7 throughout their youth in most cases than say 8 the older generation of people with 9 disabilities who are more accustomed to being 10 segregated off from mainstream society.

11 So I think for the population of 12 people with disabilities, and particularly 13 people of color with disabilities, the youth 14 are very open and receptive and I think 15 responsive to a message of the need for civic 16 engagement and how it has an absolutely direct 17 effect on their lives and that they're lucky 18 they don't have to fight and die for it, but 19 they might have to fight for it some because 20 there is continuous pushback unfortunately 21 even in Minnesota, which has some really 22 excellent state laws and procedures to support 23 voting engagement of people with disabilities.
24 As I mentioned, the attitudinal barriers are 25 still quite real, and our office and others

1 spend a lot of effort monitoring and pushing 2 back for efforts to curtail some of the very 3 hard one rights.

4 MR. SPANNAUS: Any other questions,
5 Wenda, Mark?

6 (No response.)

7 MR. SPANNAUS: Say, one of the 8 things that bothers me, and now that the 9 legislators or legislatures are all going back 10 in session for this new session, not here but 11 throughout the country, these states back east 12 and of course the southern states that always 13 initiate more restrictions that are obviously 14 very questionable, now the fact of the matter
15 is one of the allegations they make in order
16 to pass that legislation is there's been a lot 17 of voter fraud. Well, we all know that the 18 facts are totally opposite to that; fraction 19 of one percent basically.

20 Now, my question to you is that do 21 you have any experience or any knowledge or 22 any comments on that allegation or know of any 23 potential voter frauds in your areas?

24 MR. MARTIN: Yes, I would like to 25 comment on that. Voter fraud is a fraud, I

1 think that whole argument about voter fraud
2 being the issue. The few people that you 3 would see that find themselves being 4 prosecuted for that are trying -- are confused 5 about whether or not their rights have been 6 restored. You have someone who is off 7 probation in the state of Minnesota and has 8 their civil rights restored here, but they had 9 another case in another state that they 10 weren't off probation yet. It's not someone 11 coming in saying, "I'm John Doe," and "I'm not 12 John Doe." They're trying to assert their 13 right in the state that they live, pay taxes, 14 work in and will eventually die if they stay 15 here. They're going in, they're casting their 16 vote under their name. They're confused about 17 their particular status.

18 Now, with the support of the County
19 Attorney Association and most law enforcement 20 agencies, we would like to clear up that law.
21 We would like to say if you're in the 22 community, you can vote. If you're not behind 23 bars in a cell, you can vote. I think that 24 clears it up for not only for the person who's 25 casting the vote, it clears it up for the

1 election officials, it clears it up -- and it 2 definitely will alleviate the headache that 3 the prosecution office has, because they are 4 given the duty to prosecute these things. And 5 not one county attorney I've had the 6 opportunity to talk to supports that. They 7 just are forced to.

8 So I think that there is -- there 9 is -- the case of over-prosecution, waste of 10 money and resources. We should make it easier 11 to vote, to expand the ability of people to 12 vote instead of trying to restrict it.

13 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you.

14 MR. YANG: I wanted to second that.
15 I think in a lot of situations with regards to 16 limited English proficiency of voters, the -- 17 there's no intent to defraud. There's no
18 willful act of defrauding. I mean, sometimes 19 people just don't understand what the laws 20 are, they don't understand what the 21 restrictions are, them voting or not voting.
22 So sometimes they get caught up in the hype
23 of, you know, I want to vote for President
24 Obama, things like that not knowing, you know, 25 what requirements they need to have to be able

1 to vote, whether they need to have, you know, 2 a naturalization, those kinds of things. But 3 I mean, it's nothing willful at all.

4 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you. You
5 know, one of the ironies of that whole
6 question, as I was -- as Attorney General, I 7 was on the Pardon Board in Minnesota law with 8 the Governor and the Chief Justice. And every 9 three months we would have meetings and people 10 would come and ask for computation of 11 sentences or pardons, pardon extraordinary. I 12 always loved it when people who had had some 13 problems and they would say they want to be 14 given back their voting rights, which means 15 basically they want to be constructive,
16 productive citizens again. That's good news.

17 The other one that -- second to 18 that, maybe first request they make is one I 19 didn't like. They wanted back their gun
20 rights. And I'm obviously very pro gun
21 control, and I was always troubled. At least 22 half of what they wanted was something I did 23 approve.

24 Any other questions by the 25 commissioners?

1 (No response.)

2 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, thank you very 3 much for your testimony. We appreciate it.
4 Very, very good, very interesting. We're 5 going to get to panel 2, I understand, now, is 6 that correct? So the panel will be assessing 7 the state of election administration in 8 Minnesota and Wisconsin. And the four 9 panelists, I believe, are Grace Wachlarowicz, 10 Maribeth Witzel-Behl, Analiese Eicher and 11 Nolan Schmidt.

12 (Off the record.)

13 Thank you very much for coming. I 14 appreciate it. On the program here, Grace is 15 going to be our first witness, is that 16 correct?

17 Would you identify yourself for the 18 reporter.

19 MS. WACHLAROWICZ: My name is 20 Grace Wachlarowicz, Director of Elections and 21 Voter Services for the City of Minneapolis in 22 Minnesota. I want to thank the National 23 Commission on Voting Rights and the Lawyers' 24 Committee for Civil Rights Center Law for 25 convening today's panel to testify on the

1 problems, solutions and opportunities for 2 voters in Minneapolis.

3 Election administration in 4 Minnesota uses a three-tiered model with 5 different roles and responsibilities at the 6 state, county and local or municipal level.
7 Minneapolis is the third largest electoral 8 jurisdiction in Minnesota; larger than every 9 Minnesota county except Hennepin and Ramsey.
10 Under this model, the City's Elections and 11 Voter Services Divisions is responsible for 12 the administration of absentee balloting, both 13 in person and by mail, recruitment, training
14 and deployment of election judges and poll 15 workers, poll management and compiling the 16 results and other documentation for the 17 election.

18 Today I would like to present my 19 testimony in three sections. First, I will 20 detail the challenges we faced administering 21 the 2012 election and also provide a summary
22 of the steps we took to ensure a more positive 23 voting experience in a 2012 municipal 24 election. And finally, if I have time, I will 25 touch on some of the larger policy issues that

1 we believe would have a large impact on the 2 ability of the citizens of Minneapolis to
3 vote.

4 I will begin discussing the 2012
5 election. On November 6th of that year, 6 126 million Americans exercised their 7 constitutionally-protected right to vote.
8 Minnesota led that nation turnout achieving 76
9 participation rate among its voters. In 10 Minneapolis we also achieved a record turnout 11 with 81 percent participation. This is the 12 highest turnout since the enactment of the 13 26th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution in 14 1971 which lowered the voting age to 18 and 15 extended the rights and responsibilities of 16 citizenship to a whole new generation. In 17 total, the city served 215,806 voters.

18 Our preparations for the 2012
19 election included a 30 percent increase in 20 election judges. This was the largest 21 deployment of judges ever committed by the 22 City. We were confident that we would be able 23 to handle the turnout. However, Minneapolis 24 did experience long lines to vote that led to 25 voter frustration.

1 So despite all these increased
2 staffing, the obvious question is: What 3 happened, and what do we need to do to solve 4 the problem? We have identified three primary 5 factors that may answer the question. First, 6 the number and capacity of polling locations;
7 second, the impact of election day
8 registrations; and third, technical problems
9 and the capacity to respond.

10 To start with, the City completed
11 its redistricting and assignment of polling 12 places in March of 2012. The number of 13 polling locations was reduced from 131 to 117 14 for an average precinct size of 1,900
15 registered voters. This number is above the 16 ideal sized precinct based on national trends.
17 We anticipated, however, that the voters would 18 be adequately served due to a statutory change
19 in 2010 that allowed us to process and count 20 absentee ballots centrally at City Hall rather 21 than in the polls. Unfortunately, the 22 capacity to serve the voters was further 23 reduced by the record turnout of election day 24 registrations.

25 Minneapolis processed the 50,668

1 election day registrations. In Minneapolis, 2 that means one of every four voters on 3 election day registered at the polls.
4 Thirty-five of our 117 precincts processed
5 more than 500 election day registrations. It 6 is our opinion that this record number of 7 election day registration was a primary factor 8 that led to the long lines and the wait times 9 across the city.

10 Finally, and not as important to 11 our discussion today, there were some 12 technical problems on election day. The most 13 significant of these problems related to 14 equipment malfunction and ballot printing
15 errors, which made some precinct's ballots
16 unreadable by the ballot counter. These 17 technical problems compounded the other issues 18 mentioned earlier.

19 Clearly steps needed to be taken to 20 fix many of the issues experienced in 2012.
21 We identified four key categories of 22 improvement; precincts and polling places,
23 voter outreach and education, election judge
24 recruitment and training and expanded 25 resources.

1 Our first step was to undergo a 2 thorough analysis of the challenges in all of 3 the City's 117 polling places. Based on 4 direct voter feedback and input from poll 5 workers, staff identified an initial list of 6 polling places that experienced some level of 7 difficulty on election day and prioritized 11
8 sites that, due to limitations of the polling 9 place, including location, capacity,
10 accessibility, parking and other related 11 matters, required some type of corrective 12 action by the City.

13 A key process improvement was 14 initiated with an annual site visit and 15 assessment of every polling location. A 16 variety of factors were evaluated, including 17 size and capacity of the selected facility to 18 accommodate the multiple types of elections, 19 accessibility compliance, sufficient parking, 20 proximity to public transit and community
21 impact and acceptance. Staff then developed 22 room layout options, which included indoor 23 queuing space.

24 Another key initiative was the 25 creation of a robust outreach effort. We

1 connected with voter interest groups to 2 disseminate timely, accurate information about 3 voting, electioneering, election day
4 registration and vouching and similar
5 information.

6 For the 2013 municipal election,
7 which was also our second Ranked-Choice Voting
8 or RCV election, we initiated a plan to expand 9 upon that effort of outreach and education 10 campaign.

11 I am almost out of time. So
12 briefly I want to explain that we overhauled 13 our election website that had information in 14 multiple languages, use of materials and a 15 voter outreach plan that included ambassadors 16 who would be able to work within the community 17 to train and explain the voting processes to 18 others.

19 At this point I'm out of time, so I
20 will submit my written testimony and respond 21 to any questions later. Thank you for this 22 opportunity.

23 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you, Grace.
24 Any questions from the commissioners?

25 (No response.)

1 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you.

2 Next will be Analiese Eicher from 3 One Wisconsin Now, is that correct?

4 MS. EICHER: Correct.

5 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you for 6 coming.

7 MS. EICHER: Thank you for having 8 me. And I will say I'm disappointed that 9 Maribeth is not here. She is one of the 10 finest city clerks, I would say, in the entire 11 country. She does an amazing job. I hope she 12 has a chance to submit some written testimony, 13 because she's incredibly valuable.

14 So again, thank you. My name is 15 Analiese Eicher, I'm the programs and 16 development director One Wisconsin Now and One
17 Wisconsin Institute in Madison, Wisconsin. I 18 have been observing elections since I was 19 legally allowed to and have worked extensively 20 with the Wisconsin Election Protection, that 21 took me a second to get out, particularly in 22 the last election.

23 I'd like to start with something 24 positive that has happened in Wisconsin in 25 regards to voter rights in the last couple of 1 years, and that is the issue of electronic 2 documentation for proof of residence. So in 3 2012, in August of 2012 One Wisconsin

4 Institute successfully petitioned our state 5 government accountability board that 6 administers our elections to formally and 7 unanimously approve the use of smartphones, 8 computers or tablets as proof of residency for 9 Wisconsin voters. The ability of young -- of 10 voters such as young voters on university
11 campuses to use utility bills, bank statements 12 or other approved documents on their 13 smartphones to meet the residency requirements
14 of Wisconsin's voting laws was a historic move 15 towards fully harnessing the power of our 16 technology to expand access to the polls. Our 17 work made Wisconsin the first state in the 18 nation to formally adopt this as a policy for 19 proof of residency.

20 The fall 2012 Presidential Election
21 was the first election where this electronic 22 documentation was permitted. There were a few 23 instances where our poll workers were not 24 fully aware of the changes, however, the -- it 25 was noted that it was of tremendous assistance

1 in the voting process and actually made the 2 process faster for many people registering to 3 vote on election day. It was also noted in 4 some post-election reports that some poll 5 workers went so far as to provide electronic 6 devices of their own to assist voters in 7 finding appropriate proof of residence when 8 they came to register.

9 Given the success of electronic 10 documentation for proof of residence in 11 Wisconsin, we would absolutely recommend and 12 highly encourage other states to adopt similar 13 measures to assist in voter registration.

14 Now on to some more of the 15 not-so-positive things that have impacted 16 Wisconsin's election in the last few years.
17 In 2011, the State Legislature passed a number 18 of measures that placed unprecedented 19 restrictions on proving residence when 20 registering to vote. The first being the 21 repeal of Wisconsin's corroboration law. It
22 was included as part of the voter ID law
23 passed in 2011. This law had been in place 24 since 1975 and allowed voters registering on 25 election day to prove their residence by

1 having another voter corroborate where they 2 lived. This was particularly helpful for 3 student voters, homeless voters, poor voters, 4 transient voters and other marginalized voters
5 who often lacked one of the documents 6 permitted for proving residence when 7 registering to vote on election day.

8 Before 2011, students who 9 registered to vote on election day were able 10 to use university-supplied dormitory lists at 11 the polls along with their student IDs to 12 prove their residence. In response to an 13 unfounded concern over noncitizen students 14 voting, legislators enacted a change that 15 required university administrators to certify 16 citizenship status of students on the dorm 17 list. This new requirement is difficult to 18 implement due to restrictions on the 19 disclosure of citizenship information under 20 the Federal Family Educational Rights and 21 Privacy Act and dorm lists were no longer 22 permitted.

23 So in response to the repeal of 24 corroboration and the discontinued use of dorm 25 lists, some colleges and universities in

1 Wisconsin responded positively to assisting
2 students' ability to access permissible
3 documentation. For some students, accessing 4 your standard document for proof of residence
5 such as a bank statement or your utility bill 6 was not an issue. But for others -- you know, 7 you were still allowed to use your student ID,
8 but you also had to use an official university 9 document to go along with it.

10 So helping to ease this additional 11 burden on students who used to be able to use
12 their student ID and the dorm list but now
13 needing an additional document, the University
14 of Wisconsin system implemented an online
15 system that allowed students to access
16 documentation online to either show
17 electronically at the polls or print out.
18 Some universities notified all students of 19 this option via email and some actually placed 20 computers and printers at campus polling
21 locations to ensure students could register 22 and vote.

23 While the public colleges and 24 universities were fairly successful in 25 addressing the repeal of corroboration and the

1 dorm lists, the only documents students at 2 private colleges and universities could use
3 with their student IDs was a fee receipt. You 4 pay your tuition, you get a fee receipt. With 5 most students receiving tuition bills at home 6 addresses, their fee receipt without the 7 student's campus address would be 8 impermissible. Most private colleges and 9 universities addressed this by including the 10 campus address and allowing students to use
11 their ID to register, however, some students, 12 some private colleges and universities were 13 not able to provide this. And particularly at 14 Viterbo College in LaCrosse, there were a 15 number of students who were not allowed to 16 vote on election day due to the inability to 17 prove their residence at the polls.

18 Actions taken by university
19 officials, while those address student voters, 20 they do not address the voters who are 21 otherwise marginalized. We would highly 22 recommend restoring corroboration and the use
23 of the dorm lists. I know that the clerks 24 were in favor of keeping the dorm lists but 25 were not allowed to overrule the legislature

1 in that aspect. We are actually currently 2 facing additional restrictions on proof of 3 residence in our 2013 legislative session in 4 Wisconsin. Senate Bill 267 recently passed
5 the Wisconsin State Assembly and it would 6 require proof of residence regardless of when 7 a voter registers. So under current law, a 8 voter can register to vote 20 or more days 9 before an election with the city clerk or 10 special registration deputy, and their 11 residence is then confirmed by a voter 12 registration postcard mailed to the address 13 they provided.

14 Under this new bill, they would be 15 required to have registration -- or proof of 16 residence at any time, you know, this placing 17 yet another hurdle on marginalized voters with 18 corroboration already eliminated. This would 19 also significantly complicate voter
20 registration drives by training special 21 registration deputies as voters would be 22 required to again provide that additional 23 piece of information.

24 And I would like to note that voter 25 registration drives often take place on

1 college campuses and minority communities thus 2 negatively impact the ability of these 3 populations from accessing the right to vote
4 and to register to vote.

5 We -- another issue in Wisconsin
6 is, given my time here, I will skip to that, 7 is our restrictions on early voting that we 8 are facing. We -- in November 2012, nearly 9 665,000 Wisconsin residents took advantage of 10 in-person absentee voting and roughly one in 11 four ballots cast in 2008 were cast early.
12 Several municipal clerks, including Madison
13 and Milwaukee, responsible for administering 14 those elections offered extended hours for 15 voting to allow working people to participate 16 and cast their vote after work or on weekends.

17 Even with extended hours, we still 18 saw long lines on election days. And I know 19 that there have been a number of 20 recommendations made to address those long 21 lines. But one of the recommendations was 22 definitely not limiting in-person absentee
23 voting hours. Assembly Bill 54 and Senate
24 Bill 324 in our current legislative session 25 would eliminate any weekend hours for

1 in-person absentee voting and would not allow 2 municipal clerks to offer hours later than 3 6:00 p.m. during the week. This bill has 4 actually passed the Wisconsin State Assembly, 5 and it is expected to pass the State Senate at 6 the end of our legislative session. We 7 believe the passage of this bill would 8 absolutely devastate the ability of many 9 voters marginalized in other ways to access 10 their right to vote and it would have 11 detrimental impact on voters in large 12 municipalities, while voters in smaller 13 communities would still be allowed to call 14 their local clerk to make an appointment to 15 vote. Basically a bill meant to standardize 16 early voting opportunities in Wisconsin will 17 do the exact opposite.

18 And as some of you might know, a 19 number of lawsuits have been filed against the 20 Wisconsin Voter ID Law and two of them were 21 heard this morning. There are two others in 22 federal court. And while those -- that law is 23 currently enjoying -- they are -- they're -- 24 there has been another voter rights law
25 proposed in this current legislative session

1 and leadership in the Wisconsin State Senate
2 and Wisconsin State Assembly have indicated 3 that they will be pushing for that, if not in 4 this legislative session, then the next.

5 I'm happy to answer any questions.
6 And I have written testimony here that I will 7 make sure that you guys all get ahold of.

8 MR. SPANNAUS: Any questions here?
9 There hasn't been any downside to early 10 voting, has there been, as far as you know?

11 MS. EICHER: As far as I know, no.
12 And you know, the -- while the clerks have, I 13 think -- actually it was reported -- and this 14 is why I was hoping that Maribeth would be 15 here, but I know Madison and Milwaukee and 16 some other large municipalities opened their 17 -- you know, opened up on weekends. And so 18 lines on weekends -- and they were able to get 19 those voters processed and through their vote, 20 you know, during the day, during the week, you 21 know, after work hours. And yet -- and then 22 that allowed them to better administer 23 elections on election day, because they 24 weren't seeing, you know, those extra long 25 lines, you know, in addition to the long lines

1 that were -- you know, that already existed.

2 We've had in-person absentee -- 3 no-excuse in-person absentee voting or 4 absentee voting in Wisconsin for years. And 5 it has not -- there have not been any 6 reported, you know, major problems with it.
7 So this restriction I think, in my opinion,
8 came from -- came as a response to the high 9 turnout that we saw in our 2011 recall 10 elections, the 2012 recall election and the 11 2012 fall general election.

12 MR. SPANNAUS: Yeah, there's 13 nothing worse than waiting in a voting line
14 for a couple of hours. There's nothing else 15 you can do is just stand there. You get tired 16 of talking about the weather with the people
17 around you. But some states are trying to cut 18 it back now obviously. We read about that in 19 the paper. And it's unfortunate that when 20 they go to court, they usually always go to 21 court, that some of the judges don't see 22 through what's going on and take judicial 23 notice of that, but they don't.

24 Any other questions?

25 (No response.)

1 Well, thanks very much, Analiese, 2 for that.

3 MS. EICHER: Thank you.

4 MR. SPANNAUS: Now the next is 5 Nolan Schmidt. Now, you're with what we used
6 to call MPIRG, right? Minnesota PIRG?

7 MR. SCHMIDT: We still call it
8 MPIRG around community groups. So I'll be 9 referring to it as MPIRG.

10 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you for 11 coming.

12 MR. SCHMIDT: Hello, commission
13 members. My name is Nolan Schmidt. I am from 14 the small city of Marshfield, Wisconsin. I am 15 currently a student studying political science
16 and history at the University of Minnesota 17 Twin Cities. At the University I've gotten 18 involved with the Minnesota Public Interest 19 Research Group, MPIRG. MPIRG is an 20 organization that represents the students of 21 seven different campuses in Minnesota and the 22 interests that the students hold dear. I also 23 am an intern with FairVote Minnesota. During 24 my time with MPIRG last semester, I
25 participated in the get-out-the-vote campaign

1 for the Minneapolis city-wide election.

2 As an out-of-state student and 3 someone who is interested in government
4 affairs, I have a unique perspective on voting 5 in Minnesota and Wisconsin. One of the most 6 troubling aspects of voting over recent years
7 has been the implementation of restrictions 8 such as the 2011 voter ID law in Wisconsin and 9 the 2012 proposed voter ID amendment in 10 Minnesota. I was happy to see both defeated.
11 The reason for this is very simple. Voter ID 12 laws, A, directly disenfranchise students, and 13 B, act like a poll tax upon students. They 14 disenfranchise students because we don't have 15 IDs with our current address, because we live 16 on campus for nine months out of the year and 17 our parents' home for the rest of the year.
18 And because -- when we get our driver's 19 license, we have -- we get our driver's 20 license in the address that our parents live 21 at, therefore our driver's license is that 22 address. So I myself don't have an ID with my 23 current dorm address. I do however have an ID
24 with my Wisconsin address on it and I have a 25 valid U of M student ID which allowed me to 1 register.

2 If Minnesota would have had a voter
3 ID law in place for the Minneapolis elections,
4 I would have had to taken a bus down to City
5 Hall with proof of residency in hand and stood 6 in line for most likely an excessive amount of 7 time to get a valid Minnesota ID; just so I
8 could get approved for this one election.
9 Now, this situation would have been similar 10 for almost all students and we frankly don't 11 have the time for that. And if we would have 12 had to done [sic] that, the students voting in 13 this area would have plummeted.

14 Furthermore, the student population 15 is a highly transient population. Thus, when 16 we move each year, we would have to go back to 17 City Hall and pay a fee to get a new ID. The 18 24th Amendment restricts the use of poll taxes
19 to make voting more equal. However, voter ID
20 laws place a very similar burden on students 21 as a poll tax would. Because for most 22 students, essentials like food and 23 transportation transcend the need for a new ID 24 each year with their current address, further 25 suppressing students' right to vote by placing

1 an unfair monetary burden upon them.

2 So far I've told you how student 3 voting has been suppressed, but now I will 4 tell you how it can be encouraged. There are 5 very easy ways to make this happen. One of 6 the best options is to use online
7 registration. For the get-out-to-vote
8 campaign this fall, MPIRG actively worked to 9 get students to register to vote, however, a 10 lot of the time students that passed by our 11 tables gave the answer that they were too late 12 for class to stop and take just three minutes 13 to register.

14 Now, what can you do to make that 15 easier? Basically the only way is to take the 16 registration off the paper medium and put it
17 onto the digital. By making online
18 registration a more commonplace practice, 19 students will be able to register to vote from 20 behind their computer screens. This is the 21 21st Century. How about we update this 22 archaic system and bring it into digital age.
23 Plus, by increasing the accessibility of 24 registering, a system is created where more 25 students will register and subsequently vote.

1 Furthermore, online registration allows for 2 out-of-state students to have easier access to
3 voting.

4 This upcoming election cycle is a
5 very important one for me. Both Governor 6 Dayton and Governor Walker will be up for 7 reelection, and I have an opportunity to vote 8 in either state. Currently I don't know which 9 state I want my ballot to be cast. So if I 10 was able to register online for both 11 elections, it would save me a trip back to 12 Wisconsin just to register. And this will be 13 the same story for many other students. So 14 why not make it easier for someone to vote.
15 The technology is out there. Why not use it?

16 A very large problem in modern 17 society is not that there is voter suppression 18 within the student community, but that there 19 is a lack of passion for participating in 20 government. A majority of students just don't 21 care. This is because students feel like 22 their system doesn't care about what they have 23 to say. Their voice is being ignored, thus 24 students tend to ignore the politicians and 25 not vote. And that is awful, because students

1 make up the largest percentage demographically 2 who have the right to vote, but for some 3 reason my peers would rather not participate.
4 Something needs to be done about that.

5 Politicians have to realize that students are 6 a large untapped resource of votes. And if a 7 politician can get a student following, they 8 can greatly sway the election results. Look 9 at President Obama's 2008 campaign. He was 10 able to light the fire under the student
11 population and in key areas swayed the vote
12 enough to give him the victory. This strategy 13 of using students is highly effective, because 14 we are at the age where we're trying to find 15 out who we are, thus our minds are easily 16 moldable, if a solid argument can be made.

17 A politician and maybe party can 18 gain many life-long voters if they push their 19 materials to students. However, right now no 20 politician is doing that. Students need to 21 see this practice change. If we see a change 22 in the involvement by politicians, I believe 23 that student voting will rise.

24 Overall student involvement in 25 voting is already down because of a lack of

1 interest from candidates in student
2 communities. Furthermore, because students
3 are already hard-pressed to find time to go 4 out and vote, placing further restrictions on 5 students would greatly suppress their voting
6 rights. Instead, let's stop silencing 7 students' voices and start encouraging the 8 next generation to speak up and vote.

9 Thank you.

10 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you. Thank 11 you, Nolan.

12 Any questions, people? Do you have 13 a question.

14 MR. BAKER: I know that Minnesota
15 and Wisconsin are always neck and neck for 16 youth turnout, but in both states non-college 17 voting is down. In what ways are your 18 organizations partnering with non-college
19 youth to make sure that they are turning out 20 to the polls on election day?

21 MR. SCHMIDT: Well, we do go around
22 and we make sure that in areas where the youth 23 are highly present such as around college 24 campuses, we go out and door-knock and we will 25 go and say: There is an election coming up.

1 Register to vote. This is how to register.
2 We go -- and we actively go to younger 3 communities and make sure that people are 4 getting out to register to vote.

5 MS. EICHER: I know that in 6 Wisconsin, the Wisconsin -- the state voices
7 table has targeted the Rising American 8 Electorate as the group that they're looking 9 to turn out. And that does include, you know, 10 voters who are that 18 to 35 range, which 11 includes college students but also includes 12 those that have -- either not in college or 13 beyond college.

14 I know that the League of Young 15 Voters does good work in Wisconsin in getting 16 that -- reaching that demographic. You know, 17 could we be doing more? Absolutely. But 18 there are limited resources. You know, in a 19 perfect world we would be knocking on every 20 single door in our state, you know,
21 registering voters. But given the resources,
22 you know, that targeted Rising American 23 Electorate, we are using their resources
24 strategically to reach out to those groups.

25 MS. WACHLAROWICZ: I have to say in

1 the city of Minneapolis, we are trying to 2 reach the younger voter by modern technology
3 as well. In 2013, we initiated our Facebook
4 and Twitter, which is common to the younger 5 generation as another mode to reach them and 6 to get them involved as well. And it has 7 become successful. It's a start to get that 8 engagement.

9 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you, Grace.
10 Wenda, do you have questions?

11 MS. WEEKES MOORE: No, I don't.

12 MR. SPANNAUS: Larry?

13 MR. JACOBS: I have a question, but 14 let's get our Secretary of State first.

15 MR. RITCHIE: I just wanted to ask, 16 some voters don't face the barrier of 17 registration, like in North Dakota they don't 18 have voter registration. We used to not have 19 voter registration except in some limited
20 parts. What do you think about that more 21 modern system of no voter registration?

22 MS. WACHLAROWICZ: I think that 23 voter registration is key, both online and in 24 same-day registration. I think the use of 25 technology such as e-poll books to enhance and

1 facilitate that process as well as just the 2 organization in the polls, specifically going 3 towards the goal of Minneapolis of having 4 election judges reflect the community with 5 election judges that can speak the language
6 spoken, that individuals can come in and feel 7 comfortable registering to vote as well as 8 voting. Those I think are the key factors in 9 election registration.

10 MS. EICHER: I know up until a few 11 years ago there were some communities in 12 Wisconsin where you did not have to register 13 to vote, whereas you -- your rural, smaller 14 communities, but your larger communities did 15 require that voter registration. I think -- 16 you know, either way, I think that you should 17 have a system that applies to every single 18 voter so that you're not saying to folks in a 19 smaller community that: No, no, you don't 20 need to go register to vote, you can just show 21 up and vote on election day, whereas if you 22 live in that large municipality, you have to 23 take extra steps to make sure that you're 24 registered so that you can access that same 25 right that that person in the smaller

1 community has.

2 I don't know the answer to your 3 question. I would have to look more closely
4 at -- you know -- was it North Dakota that you 5 mentioned?

6 MR. RITCHIE: Yeah. They don't 7 have registration. They have a much more
8 modern system, much better system in a way.

9 MS. EICHER: And if it's, you know,
10 better and modern --

11 MR. RITCHIE: Definitely.

12 MS. EICHER: -- I would be in 13 support of that.

14 MR. RITCHIE: Definitely.

15 MS. EICHER: Would have to look at 16 details first.

17 MR. RITCHIE: Voter registration
18 was invented as a barrier to voting, it -- 19 period. And when you don't have voter 20 registration, you eliminate that barrier to 21 voting.

22 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, what happens
23 when people come in, they have to identify 24 that they are residents?

25 MR. RITCHIE: Secretary of State is

1 responsible for creating the list of eligible 2 voters in the state, and they have a very 3 complete system. It's a very advanced system, 4 and it uses a lot of data and technology.
5 It's specified in law the sources that it's 6 drawn from.

7 But in any case, the process of 8 voter registration is invented to be a 9 barrier. So some states don't use it. Some 10 states do.

11 MR. SPANNAUS: Larry, you had a
12 question?

13 MS. EICHER: To follow-up on that,
14 would that have to go under the Secretary of 15 State? Our Secretary of State of Wisconsin
16 does not -- does not oversee our elections.
17 That position was stripped of those powers and 18 it's now under our Government Accountability 19 Board.

20 MR. RITCHIE: I think states can 21 decide how they want to do anything, I mean, 22 but the responsibility -- it's not so much who 23 has it, it's the notion that if you make each 24 individual person have to do this registration 25 process versus something that is done and

1 created; we have a third system in the country
2 which is for young men, mandatory registration
3 for the draft. So you have another system
4 that is out there that has a different kind 5 of -- we have different systems that operate.

6 But for some citizens, they don't 7 face the barrier of voter registration. For 8 some of us who are taxpayers and citizens, we 9 are paying for a very expensive system, very 10 expensive system designed to be a barrier to 11 voting. And some states, citizens aren't 12 paying for that, that system and aren't 13 creating that barrier. So you have different 14 systems in different states.

15 MR. JACOBS: Grace, I had a 16 question I'm hoping you could help me with.
17 The panel before this one, we had several 18 witnesses who discussed barriers in 19 Minneapolis in terms of cultural sensitivity, 20 in terms of language, in terms of outreach.
21 Your presentation talked about the overall -- 22 the web page, the voter ambassadors. Can you 23 help me reconcile what sounds like a brave new 24 world that you're representing versus kind of 25 a world I'm more familiar with which is the 1 barriers.

2 MS. WACHLAROWICZ: We are 3 developing that foundation, and that is our 4 goal to have that engagement. Yes, in 2012 we 5 had a lot of difficulties with those type of 6 barriers.

7 Because of those barriers, lessons
8 learned, we tried to improve that in 2013.
9 Are we there completely? No. It's going to 10 be a long process. But it is the commitment 11 of the City to get to that point to engage all 12 voters regardless of where they're -- what 13 community they are from. I think that one 14 panelist said that they enjoyed the 15 opportunity of absentee voting in City Hall.
16 That concerted effort to assist individuals 17 with that second language barrier with 18 assisting them there, the time. We also 19 provided visual requirements to register to 20 reduce that barrier because people not knowing 21 how to read is a start. And we were naive. I 22 had to chuckle at a council member's comment 23 about the translation. We did seek 24 translation, but unfortunately it was a
25 literal translation; lessons learned.

1 Our next series of translations
2 will be more conversational and will be 3 understand [sic] by the common voter. Here we 4 thought we did something good, but we didn't 5 do it as perfect as we wanted to.

6 MR. SPANNAUS: I think it's time
7 for public testimony now. Is Alan around
8 here?

9 MR. MARTINSON: Yeah, we don't have 10 anyone who has signed up yet. So if you are 11 interested in giving public testimony, we'll 12 have a second public testimony period after 13 the next two panels. So right now we 14 can -- unless the commissioners were holding 15 back some extra questions for the current 16 panelists, we can allow that, otherwise we can 17 get started on our break. If we can -- it's 18 scheduled from 6:00 to 6:10, but if we can 19 come back at 6:00, maybe we can get started a 20 little bit early and give us a little bit more
21 time.

22 So take a break and be back in 23 about 20 minutes.

24 (Recess.)

25 MR. SPANNAUS: The title of this

1 panel is Voting Rights in Wisconsin. We have 2 the counterpart of Jeff Martin here. We 3 have -- Jeff Martin is the St. Paul branch of 4 the NAACP. Richard Saks is the Milwaukee
5 branch of the NAACP.

6 MS. BOEHME: But he's not here.

7 MR. SPANNAUS: Oh, he's not here?

8 MS. BOEHME: No.

9 MR. SPANNAUS: Oh, I'm sorry.

10 Okay. Who is -- is anybody filling in for 11 him?

12 MS. BOEHME: No.

13 MR. SPANNAUS: Okay. So Alicia
14 Boehme, Disability Rights of Wisconsin.

15 MS. BOEHME: Yeah.

16 MR. SPANNAUS: Alicia, thank you
17 for coming.

18 MS. BOEHME: Yeah. Thank you for 19 having me.

20 My name is Alicia Boehme, and I'm 21 here with John Shaw. I work at Disability
22 Rights Wisconsin, which is the federally 23 designated Protection and Advocacy Agency for 24 People with Disabilities in Wisconsin. And 25 John Shaw is from the Board for People with

1 Developmental Disabilities, which is the 2 designated State Developmental Disability
3 Council in Wisconsin. We're here to talk
4 about people with disabilities and voting
5 rights.

6 Historically, people with 7 disabilities have been disenfranchised from 8 the community. Until the last several 9 decades, people with disabilities were 10 routinely warehoused in segregated
11 institutions, often resulting in lost contact 12 with family members and community friends.
13 Although many institutions still exist, the 14 deinstitutionalization movement gave large 15 numbers of people with disabilities the 16 opportunity to live, work and recreate in the 17 community. This integration has been a great 18 benefit to all people with disabilities and to 19 our society as a whole. There is still a lot 20 of work to be done to ensure that people with 21 disabilities have equal and meaningful access 22 to their communities. And we believe that 23 voting is, at the very most basic level, a 24 symbol demonstrating full community
25 participation and integration. And that is

1 why we think it is so important for people
2 with disabilities to vote.

3 Our two agencies have spent the 4 last ten years on voting education and 5 advocacy related to voters with disabilities
6 in our state. Our nonpartisan voting work 7 includes educating voters with disabilities on 8 their rights, GOTV, ensuring that people with 9 disabilities know that they have the right to 10 get out and vote, reminding them that 11 elections are on their way. We do candidate 12 forums. We also do research, which we'll talk 13 about later in the testimony. And we do 14 outreach and we work on accessibility for 15 people with disabilities.

16 Much of our work falls within our 17 joint project, called the Wisconsin Disability 18 Vote Coalition. And over the past decade, we 19 have had the pleasure of talking with voters
20 with disabilities all over the state to better 21 understand how well our voting system is 22 working for people with disabilities.

23 There are over 544,000 people with 24 disabilities over the age of 18 years old in 25 the state of Wisconsin. There is a notable

1 gap between the voting rates of voters with 2 and without disabilities. Nationally, as 3 identified in the 2012 general election,
4 eligible voters with disabilities voted at a 5 rate of about 5.7 percent below that of the 6 eligible non-disabled voting population.
7 Unfortunately, that gap is larger in 8 Wisconsin. It's 8.2 percent. Wisconsin has 9 one of the highest voter turnout rates in our 10 country, which makes this gap very 11 interesting. And when this data is broken 12 down by type of disability, we know that 13 people with cognitive disabilities and 14 physical disabilities are the least likely to 15 exercise their right to vote.

16 Researchers have studied why this 17 gap exists, and have found that 30 percent of 18 voters with disabilities reported difficulty
19 voting at the polls compared to only 8 percent 20 of voters without disabilities. According to 21 their report, the gap includes problems such 22 as transportation problems, problems finding 23 the polling place, the physical accessibility 24 of the polling place and problems using the 25 accessible voting machine.

1 In 2008, the Wisconsin Disability
2 Vote Coalition conducted our own poll and we 3 found that lack of transportation was a huge 4 issue, lack of knowledge about where 5 candidates stand on issues, lack of knowledge 6 about important issues. And questions about 7 eligibility and lack of accessibility were 8 kind of the core problems that -- and barriers 9 that people with disabilities faced. We have 10 attempted to address these concerns through 11 our work. For example, we have held a number 12 of nonpartisan candidate forums on disability
13 issues. Many of these forums are videotaped
14 and transcribed for voters with disabilities
15 to access around the state if they can't 16 attend the forums. And we also hold trainings 17 around the state and have created educational 18 materials, including a brochure on Competency, 19 Guardianship and Voting.

20 We know that physical accessibility
21 to polling sites remains a significant problem
22 for many voters. The Government
23 Accountability Office, GAO, found that 24 72 percent of the polling sites that they 25 surveyed had accessibility barriers.

1 72 percent. That's huge.

2 Significant barriers still exist in 3 Wisconsin as well; however, we are hopeful 4 about the great work that is being done in our 5 state to eradicate these barriers. Our State
6 of Wisconsin Government Accountability Board 7 issued a report in June of 2013, and they 8 found that -- they identified 10,488
9 accessibility barriers at polling sites across 10 the state since 2011. That's a large number, 11 right? We believe that the GAB survey is 12 important. And it's important because we 13 can't -- we have to identify the problems in 14 order to eradicate them. And that's one thing 15 that the State of Wisconsin and the GAB is 16 doing. They have been kind of nationally 17 recognized by the Presidential Commission on 18 Election Administration for their work on this 19 specific project. Other states aren't 20 identifying the problems. They are 21 identifying them. And that's, we believe, the 22 first step to being able to eradicate the 23 barriers.

24 Some common problems that our 25 Government Accountability Board has found is

1 lack of signage, lack of accessible parking
2 for people with disabilities, having doors --
3 inability to get in the front door, the voting 4 equipment not being set up properly, and no 5 place for people with mobility disabilities to 6 kind of roll up and be able to vote on 7 accessible equipment. So those are some of 8 the main problems that they found.

9 Transportation is another
10 significant barrier. The Center for Disease 11 Control and Prevention found that adults with 12 disabilities are more than twice as likely 13 than those without disabilities to have 14 inadequate transportation; 31 percent versus 15 13 percent. In Wisconsin, we have expansive 16 rural areas and it makes it particularly 17 difficult for people with disabilities to get 18 to the polling place. Public transportation 19 and paratransit, accessible taxis or private 20 accessible vehicles are often not available in 21 these rural areas. Even in locations where 22 accessible taxi services are available, they 23 are typically very much cost-prohibitive for 24 voters with disabilities, who are often 25 low-income.

1 So over the past decade we've 2 talked to a number of voters with disabilities 3 and we've kind of distilled down to two very 4 important basic principles relevant to voting
5 policies in Wisconsin. First, accessibility
6 matters. We know that if a person can't get 7 in the front door, they're not likely to come 8 back and vote. They're just not. They're not 9 likely to. If there are many barriers, people 10 with disabilities are turned off from voting.
11 And voters who are unable to cast a ballot 12 because of the barriers are less likely to 13 return. Second, options matter. We know that 14 options matter, okay? And let me finish this 15 point. This means that voting laws that allow 16 flexibilities are important to voters with 17 disabilities; if provided, they are more 18 likely to get out to vote and continue to 19 vote.

20 Thank you very much.

21 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much
22 for coming.

23 Anybody have any questions, Biko or 24 Wenda or Larry?

25 (No response.)

1 MR. SPANNAUS: Incidentally, Mark
2 Ritchie could not stay for the rest of the 3 hearing. He teaches a class at the Humphrey 4 Institute, and so he's over there doing his 5 job right now. So taking Larry's place...

6 Thank you very much again for your 7 enlightening testimony.

8 Next is Neil Albrecht.

9 Your Neil, right?

10 MR. ALBRECHT: I am.

11 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you.

12 MR. ALBRECHT: Good evening and 13 thank you for this opportunity to provide 14 testimony at the National Commission on Voting 15 Rights Hearing. My name is Neil Albrecht and 16 I am the Executive Director for the City of 17 Milwaukee Election Commission. Unlike many 18 other states, Wisconsin embraces a unique 19 model of election administration on a local 20 municipal level and I have the responsibility 21 of oversight of all aspects -- all aspects of 22 election administration in the city of 23 Milwaukee.

24 As I prepared my testimony for 25 today, I took pause to reflect on the issue of 1 voting rights and the topic -- and as this 2 topic relates to the state of Wisconsin and 3 the city of Milwaukee's voting-eligible

4 population. After all, Wisconsin celebrates 5 one of the highest voter participation rates
6 in the nation in presidential elections, 7 second only to Minnesota. An examination of 8 the registration and voting opportunities in 9 these two states, in comparison to other 10 states, demonstrates that diverse points of 11 access to voting is critical to strong and 12 consistent rates of voter participation.
13 Examples of these include same-day
14 registration, registration through the DMV and 15 social service agencies, active special 16 registration deputies conducting registration 17 drives, early voting or in-person absentee 18 voting, no-excuse absentee and permanent 19 absentee voting.

20 While each of these voter access
21 strategies is sometimes referred to as voting 22 privileges, they are, in fact, voting rights.
23 True fairness in elections often requires a 24 concerted effort to balance access with 25 safeguards to ensure elections that are

1 accurate and are not compromised by fraud.
2 With a current emphasis on allegations of 3 voter fraud, and a more restrictive voter
4 access policy, Wisconsin stands at a pivotal 5 moment of time when this critical balance
6 could be lost and voting rights subsequently 7 compromised.

8 In the last presidential election,
9 87 percent of the city's registered voters
10 cast ballots, which correlated to just over 11 60 percent of all eligible voters. I believe 12 this to be a significant accomplishment that 13 participation rates in the city of Milwaukee 14 largely mirror those of the rest of the state, 15 particularly given some of the unique
16 challenges facing many city of Milwaukee
17 voters. These challenges include:
18 29.9 percent or nearly one-third of the city's 19 population was living in poverty at the time
20 of the 2012 presidential election. Milwaukee 21 has the highest concentration of 22 African-American, 40 percent; and Hispanic, 23 17.3 percent residents compared to 6.3 percent 24 and 5.9 percent in the balance of the state.
25 Both represent populations that have

1 historically been disenfranchised from voting.
2 Wisconsin has the highest rate of 3 incarceration of African-American men in the 4 country, leading to a noteworthy percentage of 5 otherwise qualified voters that are either 6 incarcerated or serving probation, parole or 7 extended supervision at the time of an 8 election and not qualified to vote in 9 Wisconsin. Milwaukee also has a large student 10 population with many students living away from 11 home in on-campus or off-campus housing.

12 When considering the aspects of 13 election laws that make voting accessible to 14 all populations, particularly same-day voter 15 registration and early in-person absentee 16 voting, it is important to note that these 17 populations referenced, people in poverty,
18 students and people of color, are the same
19 populations that access these voting options
20 at rates considerably higher than other voting 21 populations. For example, 53,518 of the 22 city's 288,459 voters in the 2012 presidential 23 election registered to vote on election day.
24 This number represents 20 percent or one in 25 five voters. Of the 53,518 same-day

1 registrations, 21 percent resided in areas of 2 the city with the highest student populations,
3 and an additional 20 percent resided in areas
4 of the city with the highest rates of poverty.

5 Comparable percentages apply to 6 residents voting early through in-person
7 absentee voting. The aldermanic districts
8 with the highest percentage of residents 9 voting early were also those districts with 10 populations often identified as the working 11 poor. To accommodate the complex and often 12 unpredictable schedules of Milwaukee's working 13 poor, the Election Commission has offered 14 extended hours to include evening hours during 15 the two weeks in-person absentee voting is 16 available, as well as weekend hours. To give 17 you some example of utilization, these 18 extended hours were heavily utilized with 19 nearly 5,000 residents voting early in one 20 weekend.

21 Sharing the landscape with the 22 success of high turnout elections in Milwaukee
23 are unfounded allegations of voter fraud. I 24 do say unfounded without bias because despite 25 the unparalleled scrutiny of registration

1 data, voters, voting processes and elections, 2 very few cases of intentional fraud have been 3 prosecuted. Nonetheless, in Wisconsin, there 4 is a current movement for review and change.

5 In Wisconsin's last two legislative 6 sessions, proposed changes to election law 7 have included a voter ID bill that would 8 require a person unable to pay for an ID to 9 sign a waiver stating that they are too poor 10 to purchase an ID. The elimination of 11 same-day registration has also been proposed, 12 reductions to the hours of operation for 13 in-person absentee voting and requiring a 14 proof of residence document during open
15 registration.

16 Each of these would have a profound 17 impact on voter registration in the city of 18 Milwaukee, particularly on some of the most 19 vulnerable populations that have historically 20 been disenfranchised from voting. As 21 Wisconsin's legislature considers changes to 22 Wisconsin's election law, I have encouraged a 23 consideration of these voting populations and 24 the critical balance between laws that boost 25 public confidence in the integrity of

1 elections and laws that could reduce voter
2 access and compromise voting.

3 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much,
4 Neil. That was very interesting.

5 Larry or Wenda, any questions?

6 MR. BAKER: Not at this time.

7 MS. WEEKES MOORE: No.

8 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you again for 9 coming, Neil.

10 MR. ALBRECHT: Sure.

11 MR. SPANNAUS: And it's Andrea's
12 turn, Andrea Kaminski. Thank you for coming.

13 MS. KAMINSKI: And thank you for 14 this opportunity to speak on behalf of the 15 League of Women Voters of Wisconsin. I'm 16 Andrea Kaminski, the Executive Director of the 17 State League. And I just want to mention that 18 the League is now in its 95th year in 19 Wisconsin and nationally.

20 Wisconsin has a tradition of clean,
21 fair and open elections. Our state is a 22 consistent leader in national rankings of 23 election systems, including the 2013 study by 24 Pew Center on the States, which based its 25 ratings on 17 statistical measures, including

1 voter wait times, availability of online voter 2 information, percentage of voters with 3 registration or absentee ballot problems,
4 number of military and overseas ballots
5 rejected, voter turnout, a big one, and the 6 accuracy of voting technologies.

7 The strengths of Wisconsin's
8 election system start with the fundamentals.
9 Our right to vote is expressly guaranteed in 10 clear language in our state constitution, and 11 our high citizen participation reflects an 12 engaged citizenry. Our elections are 13 administered by local election officials, with 14 almost 2,000 municipal and county clerks who 15 are generally professional, friendly,
16 competent and committed to helping people
17 register and vote in their communities.
18 Observers are welcome at the polls under 19 Wisconsin's open meetings laws, as long as 20 they respect the need for a safe and orderly 21 voting process. In November 2012, the League 22 of Women Voters trained and placed more than 23 300 observers in the polls in cities, towns 24 and villages across the state and we draw from 25 their written reports for our advocacy.

1 In the nonpartisan Wisconsin
2 Government Accountability Board, we have a 3 state agency with a competent staff to provide 4 training and guidance to our local officials.
5 A model for the nation, the Government
6 Accountability Board is composed of six former 7 judges who are nonpartisan officials in 8 Wisconsin. They work to balance the often 9 conflicting interests of diverse groups and 10 individuals who care about our elections and 11 wish to make them better but see different 12 ways to accomplish that.

13 Over several decades our state has 14 adopted a number of policies designed to 15 encourage people to participate in elections, 16 including election day registration and 17 no-excuse absentee voting.

18 According to Kevin Kennedy,
19 director of the Government Accountability
20 Board, total absentee voting in the state has 21 increased from about five percent in 22 November 2000 to about 25 percent in 2012.
23 Eight out of ten of those absentee ballots in 24 2012 were cast in person at the clerk's 25 office, or in the case of Milwaukee, at the 1 election commission. This in-person absentee

2 voting, as you've heard, is what constitutes 3 early voting in Wisconsin.

4 In November 2012, more than 514,000
5 ballots or almost 17 percent of total ballots
6 cast were cast in-person absentees. Very few 7 problems have been identified as a result of 8 Wisconsin's voter-friendly policies, and the 9 problems that we have seen have generally been 10 isolated incidents and not systemic failures.
11 We have no doubt that because of these 12 policies, Wisconsin consistently ranks among 13 the top two or three states for voter turnout.

14 With so much to be proud of, we 15 must ensure that any future reforms will build 16 on the strengths of our election system.
17 Reform should address real documented 18 problems, or they should take advantage of new 19 technologies or other opportunities to improve 20 elections. Reforms should never set the clock
21 back on the strengths of Wisconsin's
22 elections.

23 A proposal currently before the 24 Wisconsin legislature does just that.
25 Assembly Bill 54 limits the opportunity for

1 students to cast an in-person absentee ballot 2 and also the ability of municipal clerks, many 3 of whom are elected officials themselves, to 4 serve their constituents. This legislation
5 would add a number of restrictions -- add to a 6 number of restrictions that were enacted just 7 a couple of years ago in 2011.

8 One law enacted that year reduced
9 the time when clerks may hold in-person 10 absentee voting to a two-week period ending at 11 5:00 p.m. the Friday before the election.
12 Before that, some municipalities offered early 13 voting hours, as you've heard, over the final 14 weekend and even the Monday before the 15 election. In 2011 -- another 2011 law allows 16 each municipality to have only one site for 17 early voting regardless of the population.
18 Local officials in larger communities such as 19 Milwaukee have worked to make up for that 20 handicap by holding evening and weekend hours 21 during that early voting period.

22 By banning evening and weekend
23 hours for early voting, AB 54 does not uphold 24 that tradition of public service for which 25 Wisconsin's election officials are known.

1 Rather than setting a minimum level of 2 service, it sets a maximum level. This 3 proposal would reduce the opportunities for 4 voters who have to juggle daytime jobs with 5 child or care or elder care or commitments or 6 who travel frequently.

7 In addition, AB 54 does not achieve 8 the stated goal of its authors of creating 9 uniformity around the state, which is the only 10 rationale they've given for that. They 11 haven't said that there have been problems.
12 By treating all municipalities equally, it 13 doesn't treat all voters equally. And the 14 legislation therefore favors those who live in 15 small communities where a clerk may serve a 16 couple of hundred citizens rather than 17 hundreds of thousands. It seeks to impose a 18 statewide cookie-cutter solution to an 19 nonexistent problem. It's been passed by the 20 state assembly and could be voted on in the 21 senate soon. We hope the lawmakers will 22 reject this.

23 If lawmakers really want to improve 24 Wisconsin elections, which are good, they'll 25 support more and better training and resources

1 for local election officials. After all, most 2 of the problems that we have seen in our 3 elections have been the result of poll worker 4 error or, in a few cases, mismanagement.
5 Other positive reforms would be the 6 establishment of a secure online voter
7 registration system. Registration should be 8 permanent and portable. Early voting should 9 be expanded and not restricted. Such reforms
10 would improve polling place management, boost 11 the integrity of our statewide voter 12 registration database and reduce lines at the 13 polls. Ultimately these reforms would 14 encourage voting and increase citizen
15 participation in our government. Thank you.

16 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much.
17 Sir, do you want to add anything
18 to --

19 MR. SHAW: Actually, no. Alicia 20 pretty much said most of the --

21 MR. SPANNAUS: Okay. Well, you
22 certainly -- Wisconsin had a lot of election 23 activity in the past couple years.

24 MS. KAMINSKI: We've had a lot of 25 practice, yes.

1 MR. SHAW: Yes. That was how we 2 found 10,000 accessibility flaws.

3 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, you've all
4 survived. That's a plus anyhow.

5 MR. SHAW: Yes.

6 MR. SPANNAUS: I hope the state has 7 too. But anyhow, we appreciate you coming 8 here. We're glad that Alan put us in -- 9 Minnesota and Wisconsin together. And 10 appreciate you coming here and look forward to 11 working with you in the future.

12 Larry?

13 MR. JACOBS: I had a question for 14 the panel, those of you who would like to 15 address it. President Obama appointed a 16 commission on election administration. There 17 was glowing response nationally. Just about 18 every expert who was asked about it lauded the 19 report as providing common sense consensual 20 sort of recommendations. I'd like your take 21 on whether these ostensibly consensual 22 recommendations have traction and are being 23 adopted in Wisconsin. My impression listening 24 to you is that the national perspective from 25 50,000 feet up does not correspond with the

1 reality in Wisconsin. And I want to just list
2 a few of the items that the President's 3 commission that was bipartisan, and as far as 4 I can tell, nonpartisan, identified.

5 One is in terms of making voter --
6 voting easier. Online registration, early 7 balloting, updating voting equipment to make 8 it more efficient and reliable and sharing 9 voter registration records across state lines.
10 Those are four of a number of recommendations.
11 They were some of the recommendations that the 12 talking heads, you know, embraced and lauded
13 as this pool of easily acceptable nonpartisan 14 recommendations.

15 Is this what's happening in 16 Wisconsin? Could you give us a sense of 17 whether the President's commission has hit pay 18 dirt?

19 MS. KAMINSKI: Okay. There are 20 some -- thank you for that question. There 21 are some efforts to get online registration in 22 our legislature. They won't pass this time, I 23 don't think. And that would be an 24 improvement. For early voting, we're kind of 25 in more of a defensive mode right now. As for

1 updating equipment, I think Neil probably is 2 the best to talk about that and sharing data 3 between states.

4 MR. ALBRECHT: I would just say
5 that many of the items -- and perhaps this is 6 the landscape. Many of the items you
7 reference are about addressing long-standing 8 issues with access to voting and improving 9 access to voting. I don't see any of that on 10 the radar in -- on anyone's radar in the state
11 of Wisconsin to -- you know, to -- I think 12 there is a balance certainly around steps that 13 need to occur around voter laws that encourage 14 public confidence in elections. But the 15 balance is not taking that to such an extreme 16 that you end up restricting voter access. And 17 I would say that right now Wisconsin is very 18 heavy on the side of the restrictions to voter 19 access. And the consequence to that will be 20 populations that have historically been 21 disenfranchised from voting will move further 22 on that continuum toward again being 23 disenfranchised.

24 So it was sort of a long-winded
25 response to your question. But no, I don't

1 think -- I think the intent of those items was 2 really to encourage voter participation. You
3 know, we celebrate the fact that Wisconsin 4 ranks number 2, which is -- but that still 5 only represents 60 percent of the voting
6 eligible population in the state of Wisconsin.
7 There's an entire 40 percent that is not 8 voting, even in presidential elections. And 9 we see nothing that would address some of the 10 long-standing barriers that have kept that 11 40 percent from voting. Instead, the emphasis 12 really seems to be on that 60 percent and what 13 can we do to restrict their access under the 14 guise of preventing voter fraud.

15 MS. BOEHME: Yeah. And one thing
16 that we're really interested in seeing what 17 happens -- I mean, we've had a series of bills 18 that have made voting more restrictive. They 19 take -- took away corroboration, which was 20 really great for our citizens with 21 disabilities who needed someone to corroborate
22 their residency. And, you know, I think over 23 the next number of years as these -- we'll 24 learn the effects of these bills and how they 25 kind of together are going to make an impact

1 on our state, how they affect populations that 2 are least likely to vote, how they affect 3 rural versus urban areas and whether or not 4 Wisconsin is going to stay kind of on the top 5 of the tier when it comes to voter turnout 6 rates.

7 So I think we -- we're seeing these 8 bills coming through and we have a concern 9 about in tandem how all of them together are 10 going to impact folks with disabilities.

11 MS. WEEKES MOORE: Do you have 12 champions in the legislature who are 13 interested in supporting legislation that 14 would address the 40 percent who are unheard 15 and unseen?

16 MR. ALBRECHT: We have champions in 17 the legislature who I think are very dedicated 18 to issues of voter access. Unfortunately, I 19 believe they represent a minority in the 20 legislature.

21 MS. KAMINSKI: They don't have much
22 power right now. And there are a couple of 23 legislators who have introduced legislation to 24 address voter intimidation or giving voters
25 wrong information and that sort of thing.

1 It's not going to move in this climate right 2 now probably.

3 MR. SHAW: On the positive side,
4 the Government Accountability Board is working 5 at trying to get machinery that is more 6 accessible. There will be a pilot project in 7 Wisconsin to test the Prime III voting system, 8 which was developed by -- what was -- the 9 doctor from Clemson University. And so we see 10 that as very positive as far as individuals
11 with disabilities.

12 One of our board members, his prime 13 goal is to try and get picture ballots.
14 Because individuals with disabilities, 15 oftentimes they know the person and it's 16 easier for them to actually see the person and 17 vote who they know for rather than read the 18 person's name. And so we see that that -- if 19 we are able to do that, that could be 20 something that could be very good for the 21 disability community.

22 MS. KAMINSKI: I think the 23 Government Accountability Board is really one 24 of the strengths in Wisconsin and I think it's 25 really helped us to survive the couple of

1 years where we had, what was it, 12 elections
2 in two years. They are a nonpartisan board.
3 They do get criticized from both ends of the 4 political spectrum. But they really do listen
5 and they work very hard to lead, you know, a 6 very good election workforce in the state. We 7 have local officials who are very dedicated to 8 following the law and making -- and minimizing 9 the effects of some of these laws on people in 10 their communities.

11 MS. BOEHME: And to that end, like 12 I mentioned in the testimony, the GAB does 13 have this wonderful project on accessibility, 14 which is unique in the states, which we think 15 is an absolute star of Wisconsin to try and 16 have the state take responsibility for the 17 accessibility of polling sites and to go out 18 and individually on election day survey every 19 single site, polling site in Wisconsin and 20 collate that data, report back to the 21 municipalities what problems were found, 22 follow up with the municipalities to ensure 23 that the changes are made so that those 24 barriers don't exist for voters with
25 disabilities.

1 So we do think that that did come
2 out of the presidential commission and it -- 3 and that is a star, we think.

4 MR. SHAW: Yeah, that's one of the 5 advantages of having 12 elections, you have 6 the opportunity to get out --

7 (Laughter.)

8 MR. SHAW: -- on election day to 9 poll sites and you can find 10,000
10 accessibility issues.

11 MR. SPANNAUS: Yeah, you've had a 12 lot of experience in that presumably.

13 MR. SHAW: Yes.

14 MR. ALBRECHT: If I could just 15 share with you one comment regarding voting
16 equipment since that came up in the EAC
17 question, is that while the EAC does call for 18 a state certification of voting equipment, 19 because of the model used in the state of 20 Wisconsin where municipalities are afforded 21 the autonomy to operate their elections, every 22 one of the 18 -- 1,850 municipalities in 23 Wisconsin gets to choose their own voting 24 equipment as long as it's been certified in 25 the state of Wisconsin. What that's caused is

1 a mess because you have municipalities side by 2 side all over the state using different voting 3 equipment and there's just a real lack of 4 uniformity in terms of voting experiences.

5 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, again, thank 6 you very much. Your testimony was very 7 interesting, enlightening and substantive. We 8 appreciate the time you put in and the way you 9 delivered it. So thank you very much again
10 for coming.

11 MS. KAMINSKI: Thank you very much.

12 MR. SPANNAUS: And again, now we 13 have panel number 4. And it's called 14 Perspectives in Elective Administration, Mark 15 Halvorson, Kathy Tomsich, Jerry Franck and 16 Mike Griffin from -- all of them from 17 Minnesota it looks like. Well, thank you -- I 18 was just going to say thanks for coming to 19 Minnesota, but of course you're from 20 Minnesota. So I -- thanks for coming to 21 Mondale Hall. And as I said, sorry Mark can't 22 be with you tonight. But I appreciate your 23 testifying. And Mark is listed here first, 24 but we'll start with -- Kathy, does it make 25 any difference what order you speak in?

1 MS. TOMSICH: Not to me.

2 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, why don't you
3 start out then, Kathy.

4 MS. TOMSICH: Okay. My name is 5 Kathy Tomsich and I'm a member of the League 6 of Women Voters of Minnesota and have been an 7 election judge for over 12 years. I have 8 participated in many voter registration drives
9 at high schools, colleges and assisted living 10 facilities and also at naturalization
11 ceremonies. Last year, League of Women Voters 12 of Minnesota registered over 8,500 new 13 citizens at these ceremonies. And this was 14 just one year. We've done this for many 15 years.

16 Today I'd like to focus on three 17 issues; online voter registration, early 18 voting and restoration of voting rights.

19 From my experience registering
20 voters and also as an election judge, I 21 believe that solidifying online voter 22 registration in Minnesota law is one of the 23 most significant steps that Minnesota can take 24 to improve both election administration and 25 access to voting. I don't know if people have

1 testified about the cost savings, the 2 efficiency and improvements in accuracy over 3 paper and pen voter registration. But I think 4 it's pretty obvious that this would be a 5 benefit to administration.

6 But there are other benefits. And 7 that was mentioned by Nolan Schmidt in the 8 second panel. States that implemented online 9 voter registration saw an increase in the 10 number of registrations. And we would expect 11 to see an increase in the number of students 12 who register. We would also hope that that 13 would then lead to an increase in the number 14 of people who vote, which is a goal that we 15 all share.

16 But I also expect to see a decrease
17 in the number of election day registrations.
18 And again, this would relate to students here.
19 On election day it is not unusual to have long 20 lines at registration tables, especially in 21 precincts close to college campuses. Election 22 day registration while important and 23 necessary, it does require more work for 24 judges and more time for the voter to complete
25 forms and cast a ballot. So fewer election

1 day registrations will mean less pressure on 2 election judges and allow the poll sites to 3 run more smoothly. The Secretary of State,
4 Mark Ritchie, recently implemented online
5 voter registration. And there is a bill in 6 the state legislature that was introduced this 7 last January that would put this into statute.
8 And the League of Women Voters supports this 9 bill.

10 Early voting. Starting in 2014,
11 Minnesota will offer no-excuse absentee
12 ballots; absentee voting for the first time.
13 And basically for most citizens in Minnesota, 14 this is really the only type of early voting 15 that's allowed. However, absentee ballots are 16 complicated for the voter and costly to 17 process. I have worked on the absentee ballot 18 board for my city and I can testify to how 19 labor-intensive it is to process this type of 20 ballot, some of which are ultimately rejected.

21 The League of Women Voters supports
22 expanding the early voting option to allow a 23 voter to go to an election office prior to 24 election day, sign the roster, fill out the 25 ballot and then drop it into the ballot box so

1 it's processed immediately or, in other words,
2 counted right away. This would be less 3 complicated for the voter and easier to 4 process. And I believe that many people who 5 now vote absentee would prefer this simpler
6 form of early voting. And we could expect to 7 see a reduction in absentee ballots and thus a 8 reduction in rejected ballots.

9 Lastly, restoring the vote --
10 restoring the right to vote. Currently under 11 Minnesota law individuals convicted of a 12 felony are prohibited from voting until they 13 have completed their sentence, including 14 probation or parole. This system is confusing 15 for felons who are living in the community and 16 also for election judges and administrators.

17 I'd like to relate an experience
18 that I had when I was registering students at 19 Century College. A young student came up to 20 me and told me that she had just completed her 21 felony probation but was reluctant to 22 register. She feared that the database would 23 not reflect her recent completion of sentence 24 and she would end up being charged with 25 another felony. So I immediately contacted

1 the Ramsey County Elections office and they 2 assured me that her registration application 3 would receive a complete and thorough
4 examination. She did decide to vote that day.
5 And I advised her to bring her papers
6 indicating completion of sentence to the poll
7 site in case she had difficulty on election 8 day. This experience made me wonder how many 9 other individuals like her who are eligible to 10 vote are either reluctant to participate or 11 decide not to participate because of fear or 12 confusion.

13 The bipartisan Task Force on 14 Election Integrity established by Governor 15 Dayton issued a report in January 2012. The 16 report said, and I would like to quote from 17 the report: No database exists that can 18 accurately identify when a felon regains the 19 eligibility to vote, and that the question of 20 disenfranchisement creates significant 21 confusion among the public election judges,
22 election administrators and the individual
23 convicted of a felony. There are currently no 24 notification procedures consistently followed 25 in the Minnesota criminal justice system in

1 and among the different agencies involved with 2 felonies before, during and after either 3 conviction or incarceration. Accordingly, the 4 Task Force is of the opinion that current 5 Minnesota law frustrates the ability of all
6 citizens to clearly understand eligibility 7 rules and frustrates election officials and 8 county prosecutors in the administration of 9 those rules.

10 The Task Force report went on to 11 give a list of recommendations for the 12 legislature to consider. And the League of 13 Women Voters supports what is referred to as 14 the North Dakota Model. In North Dakota, 15 felons are ineligible to vote while 16 incarcerated and automatically become eligible
17 to vote once they leave prison. This model 18 creates a bright clear line that is easy to 19 understand and administer. It avoids costs, 20 the cost of ongoing administrative work and 21 the work of a prosecutor, the cost of 22 implementing a new data system and mailing 23 written notifications. There has been some 24 research that indicates that restoration of 25 voting rights for felons living in our

1 community is one way to help them reintegrate
2 into society. Actually, this research is -- 3 was done by Christopher Uggen, who is a member
4 of the University of Minnesota sociology
5 department. Just one last thing. It also 6 allows these individuals to be role models for 7 their children so that they can learn the 8 value of civic participation.

9 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much
10 Kathy. Very interesting.

11 Wenda or Larry, any questions?

12 MR. JACOBS: Not at this time.

13 MR. SPANNAUS: Okay. Next we 14 have -- well, I see Mark is here.

15 So Mark you can give your testimony
16 here.

17 MR. HALVORSON: Good evening. My 18 name is Mark Halvorson. I am with Citizens
19 for Election Integrity Minnesota. I am here
20 to discuss recounts this evening, which serve 21 an important function in our democracy.
22 Foremost, a properly conducted recount can 23 assure candidates and the public that in a 24 close election there has been a fair
25 examination of the procedures and an accurate

1 count of all legally cast votes. Recounts can 2 also help improve election systems. Any 3 shortcomings in our voting equipment, ballot 4 design and ballot processing are revealed by 5 the scrutiny of a recount.

6 Statewide recounts are rare, but we 7 should be concerned about how they are 8 conducted all across the country because they 9 can impact any one of us. Out of the nearly 10 3,000 recounts that occurred between 2000 and 11 2009, there were only 18 statewide recounts, 12 lucky us in Minnesota, we've had two in the 13 last four years -- actually three; however, 14 two of those -- these recounts, Florida in 15 2000 and, of course, Ohio in 2004, played 16 pivotal roles in the outcome of the 17 presidential race. And, of course, our 18 recount in 2008, senate recount, which 19 resulted in a 60-vote majority vote in the 20 senate.

21 Let me first discuss the successes, 22 challenges and lessons learned from the 23 Minnesota 2008 recount, then I'll focus on the 24 challenges posed by inadequate state recount 25 laws and I'll finish with some

1 recommendations.

2 In 2009, a citizens jury was 3 organized by two nonpartisan organizations.
4 These were 24 randomly chosen citizens around
5 Minnesota. They were charged with making
6 recommendations for how to improve the recount
7 process. After hearing testimony, the jury 8 developed a list of what went well that 9 included: One, paper ballot recount by hand
10 was very accurate and effective. Number 2, 11 the voting machines were accurate. Number 3, 12 having a paper trail was key to the success of 13 the process. And four, the process was 14 transparent and there was widespread trust and 15 confidence in the recount.

16 As far as challenges and lessons
17 learned, the jury identified several items 18 that needed further study. Here are just 19 three: Number 1, the complexity of absentee 20 ballots. The jury recommended simplifying the 21 application and the ballot. Number 2, the 22 processing of absentee ballots. The 23 recommendation was to centralize the 24 processing at the county level. And number 3, 25 the recount trigger threshold. The jury

1 recommended lowering the recount threshold.

2 The first two of these absentee
3 ballot recommendations were implemented prior 4 to the 2010 election. And in the third,
5 lowering the recount trigger, didn't occur
6 until last year, 2013.

7 Nationally there are some issues
8 and potential problems with state recount
9 laws. For example, there are two states, Ohio
10 and Mississippi, that have no recount laws 11 whatsoever. In the 2012 election, about 12 25 percent of the votes cast around the 13 country were cast on paperless voting
14 machines, also known as paperless DREs,
15 direct-recording electronic. Two key states,
16 Pennsylvania and Virginia, most of the votes
17 were cast on these paperless voting machines
18 without a paper record. None of these votes 19 could be recounted since there is no way to 20 independently verify that the digitally stored
21 voter choices were accurately recorded. Only 22 five states require that all ballots are 23 counted by hand in a recount. Minnesota is 24 one of those five. In Florida, although most 25 votes are cast on paper ballots, drastic

1 changes to state election code severely 2 restrict how many ballots are recounted by 3 hand. So it is essentially impossible to 4 conduct a ballot statewide recount in the 5 state of Florida. In the majority of states
6 recounts are conducted by a machine
7 retabulation, simply refeeding the ballot
8 through the optical scanner again. This poses 9 a challenge for determining voter intent.

10 Bottom line, the combination of 11 paperless voting machines and some inadequate 12 state laws -- recount laws could result in an 13 election meltdown with national implications.

14 Citizens for Election Integrity
15 Minnesota recently announced a new document, 16 Recount Principles and Best Practices, the 17 blueprint for improving state recount laws.
18 This is the first of its kind and was a result 19 of a year-long collaboration with election 20 officials. Secretary Mark Ritchie was one of 21 the coauthors along with myself, former 22 secretary Sam Reed from Washington and Jane 23 Platten from Cuyahoga County, Ohio.

24 Here are some of the 25 recommendations that we came up with to

1 prepare states for recounts. Number 1, that 2 every vote is cast on a paper ballot or 3 results in a voter-verified paper record.
4 This ensures that election officials have an 5 independent record to confirm that the results
6 produced by the voting system accurately 7 reflect the actual votes cast and the 8 intention of the voters.

9 Two, that all election contests be 10 eligible for taxpayer-funded recounts when the 11 margin of victory is very, very close. We 12 refer to this as a close-vote margin recount 13 and provide guidance how to structure these.

14 Three, that close-vote-margin
15 recounts be counted by hand. Although, some 16 states conduct recounts by simply running the 17 ballots through the voting machines, as I
18 mentioned. The visual inspection of a hand
19 count is the most effective method to make a 20 determination of voter intent and is 21 critical -- a critical part of the recount
22 process. We learned that lesson well in 2008.

23 Four, whenever a taxpayer-funded 24 recount is not available, candidates and 25 voters should have the option of requesting

1 that a recount be conducted at their own
2 expense. The costs of the recount should be 3 refunded if initial outcome changed as a 4 result of the recount.

5 Five, every effort should be made
6 to accurately count all valid votes. A vote 7 must not be rejected if it is possible to 8 determine voter intent. These determinations 9 should be applied consistently throughout the 10 state.

11 Six, transparency is key to 12 creating public confidence in the process and 13 outcome of the recount. The importance of 14 transparency should be conveyed to all 15 election officials and staff conducting the 16 recount.

17 Seven, to the extent possible, the 18 canvassing boards, review authorities and 19 judicial panels with the authority to rule on 20 disputed issues during the recount should be 21 formed with a balance of political party 22 affiliations.

23 And eight, for the sake of 24 transparency, observers should be accommodated
25 in whatever way possible without interfering

1 in the process.

2 Let me end with a few comments
3 about post-election audits. Audits, like 4 recounts, can improve voting systems, but they 5 differ from recounts. Audits provide routine
6 checks on voting system performance regardless 7 of how close the margin of victory. Recounts, 8 repeat ballot counting in special
9 circumstances such as close-vote margin.
10 Audits that detect errors can lead to a full 11 recount.

12 Voting systems have produced
13 result-changing errors through problems with 14 hardware, software and programming errors.
15 Well-designed and properly performed
16 post-election audits can significantly 17 mitigate the threat of error and should be 18 considered integral to any vote-counting 19 system. Unfortunately, only half of the 20 states conduct recounts. All states should 21 adopt robust audit laws.

22 Thank you for your time.

23 MR. SPANNAUS: Thanks, Neil [sic].
24 Say, you just said the 50 vote recount and in 25 the senate race, that was the closest

1 full-state recount in the history of the 2 state. The other one that was a popular -- I 3 don't know if it was popular, but it was very, 4 very -- a lot of attention, was the 1962
5 gubernatorial election --

6 MR. HALVORSON: Right.

7 MR. SPANNAUS: -- when Karl Rolvaag
8 won by 91 votes.

9 MR. HALVORSON: Right. The actual 10 closest statewide recount that I'm aware of 11 was the 2004 gubernatorial recount in Ohio -- 12 I'm sorry, in Washington State. And the 13 initial margin of victory was about 134 votes, 14 about half of the recount here in Minnesota.
15 Minnesota was close. It wasn't the closest 16 one on record.

17 MR. SPANNAUS: Oh, I see.

18 MR. HALVORSON: Yeah. But out of 19 close to 4 million votes cast, it certainly 20 was very, very close, which underscores the 21 importance of being -- having a paper record 22 that can be visually inspected for determining 23 voter intent, which was one of several reasons
24 why the vote count changed. There were other 25 reasons too, but -- inconsistent processing of 1 absentee ballots. But voter intent was 2 essential in our 2008 recount. Without paper 3 ballots, we wouldn't have been able to make 4 that determination.

5 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, the 2000
6 presidential election, that was not a total 7 recount, that was just a recount of one or two 8 states, is that correct?

9 MR. HALVORSON: So the 2000 Florida
10 recount?

11 MR. SPANNAUS: 2000 -- the 12 Bush-Cheney -- I think it was Bush-Cheney.

13 MR. HALVORSON: Bush. That was 14 just Florida. And, in fact, Gore did not 15 request a full statewide recount. He only 16 requested a partial recount of -- I'm not sure 17 how many counties. Somebody here might know 18 that answer.

19 But Florida in 2000 as a
20 whole -- Florida -- and what's interesting, 21 Florida in 2000 and then Ohio in 2004, those 22 were two high, high profile recounts back to 23 back that were utter messes, that were utter 24 meltdowns. Fast-forward to 2008, Minnesota, 25 which was the next high-profile recount in the 1 country. And what's fascinating when I go 2 around to national conferences, a lot of 3 people in the election community were 4 wondering what's going to happen. I -- 5 personally, I knew better. I knew we were 6 going to do just fine. But people outside of 7 Minnesota were wondering was there going to be 8 another meltdown like we had in 2000 and 2004

9 or what's going to happen. We showed the rest 10 of the country how it is possible to conduct a 11 recount. People say it took so long. It took 12 eight months. No. That is not correct. The 13 recount in Minnesota took three weeks to hand 14 count. It was the election contest that took 15 so long. It wasn't the recount itself. Three 16 weeks -- no. Four million ballots counting by 17 hand it took a while. Fast-forward to 2010, 18 it didn't take us -- it took us less than a 19 week to count about 3.2 million ballots.

20 MR. SPANNAUS: But what about 1960,
21 there was no recount then, that was a very 22 close presidential election, correct? That 23 was next --

24 MR. HALVORSON: I was five at the 25 time.

1 (Laughter.)

2 MR. HALVORSON: Maybe somebody else
3 would know that. Presidential, there's never 4 been a nationwide presidential recount. But,
5 of course, we had the recount here in 6 Minnesota in 1960.

7 MR. SPANNAUS: Any -- Wenda or 8 Larry, any questions?

9 MR. JACOBS: Not at this time.

10 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you. That was 11 very interesting.

12 Next is Jerry Franck from Common
13 Cause Minnesota.

14 MR. FRANCK: I would just like to 15 thank the commissioners for providing this 16 opportunity to speak today. My name is Jerry 17 Franck and I'm chair of Common Cause
18 Minnesota. Common Cause is a nonprofit, 19 nonpartisan citizen's lobby dedicated to 20 improving government and holding it
21 accountable.

22 The bulk of this testimony comes 23 from Empowering Voters: A Report by the 24 Minnesota Election Protection Team of 2012.

25 In 2012, we had to help overcome a

1 reduced state budget for elections. Our 2 contribution was an increased election
3 protection effort.

4 The team had 315 volunteers, a call
5 center that covered 75 precincts and handled 6 over 1,500 calls.

7 Impediments to fair, free and 8 accessible elections in Minnesota are 9 numerous. For example, statistical analysis
10 shows media bias and overstatement of support
11 to the voter ID amendment. Some media
12 supported ID -- ID amendment by converting 13 ad-buys into news stories. Redistricting
14 caused voter confidence -- I'm sorry, voter 15 confusion over changes in polling places. And 16 high turnout precinct consolidation increased 17 same-day registration in those precincts.
18 Some election judges caused delay with 19 same-day registration by not following proper 20 procedures. This resulted in waits of up to 21 two hours, sometimes in the rain, including 22 people with disabilities and small children.
23 Seventeen percent of voters registered on 24 election day, 21 percent in Hennepin County.
25 Voter intimidation resulted when

1 Election Integrity Watch placed "Voter fraud 2 is a felony" signs 18 months prior to the 3 election in mobile, minority and low-income
4 neighborhoods. They also put up billboards
5 offering $500 for information to help convict
6 organizers of voter fraud. Their website
7 instructed volunteers to photograph or record 8 buses at polling places, multiple voters who 9 were vouched for by the same voter and voters
10 being assisted and assisted living residents
11 voting.

12 Voter and volunteer and harassment
13 happens in Minnesota. Two field teams were 14 threatened in St. Louis Park. An election
15 judge at a Minneapolis school verbally 16 accosted volunteers. A voter sought election
17 protection assistance after an election judge 18 lost her driver's license after being 19 improperly asked for it when she came to vouch 20 for a family member after voting in a pre -- 21 I'm sorry, voting as a preregistered voter.
22 Election judges in Golden Valley asked
23 African-American and Latino voters for proof 24 of citizenship, but not Caucasian voters. At 25 least ten different precincts reportedly had

1 voters turned away by election judges for not 2 providing a state-issued driver's license or 3 other photo ID with current address for 4 same-day registration. Election judges at 5 East Side Boys and Girls Club in St. Paul 6 would deny voters language assistance and 7 threatened to call the police on volunteers 8 attempting to assist Hmong voters. Some 9 non-English speaking voters were forced to 10 throw away ballots and complete new ones.

11 As we move forward we must 12 question, evaluate and challenge changes to 13 the election system to safeguard vulnerable
14 voters' rights. We need to reform language 15 assistance statutes. It's unclear on what 16 constitutes language assistance and 17 limitations on assistants.

18 Examples of cost-effective,
19 low-threshold reforms with broad coalition
20 support are implementing no-excuse absentee 21 voting, allowing early voting, dealing with 22 high immobile voters, assisting voters
23 requesting assistance and a system for online 24 voter registration.

25 Additional programs that Common

1 Cause supports is felon re-enfranchisement,
2 Ranked-Choice Voting, Approval Voting is 3 interesting also, and the National Popular
4 Vote.

5 Thank you.

6 MR. SPANNAUS: Thanks, Jerry.

7 Any questions?

8 MR. JACOBS: Not at this time.

9 MR. SPANNAUS: Okay. Well, one
10 more witness.

11 And you're Mike Griffin of FairVote
12 Minnesota?

13 MR. GRIFFIN: Absolutely.

14 MR. SPANNAUS: Thanks for coming.

15 MR. GRIFFIN: Thank you so much.

16 Again, I'm Mike Griffin. I'm here
17 with FairVote Minnesota. I'm the campaign
18 director. And I'm here to talk about the 2013 19 election that we had in Minneapolis and 20 St. Paul. Back in 2013, I was a field
21 director with FairVote Minnesota and we ran 22 the regular vote campaign where it was our job 23 to go out and educate and inform as many 24 people to get involved and to be educated to 25 rank their ballots successfully on election

1 day.

2 Ranked-Choice Voting is a system
3 that's used all across America, from Portland, 4 Maine to the Bay Area, San Francisco and 5 Oakland also use Ranked-Choice Voting, to 6 countries all around the world. Here in 7 Minneapolis it was first adopted in 2006 where 8 voters overwhelmingly voted to change our 9 election laws. It was first used in 2009. In 10 St. Paul, it was first adopted in 2009 and 11 then used in 2011. So 2013 was the second 12 time that the voters in Minneapolis and 13 St. Paul used Ranked-Choice Voting.

14 So in Minneapolis it was a big 15 test. It was a big mayoral test of offering 16 this new system. So under Ranked-Choice
17 Voting, voters rank their preferences, right?
18 They rank their choices. Their first choice, 19 their second choice and their third choice.
20 To win, a candidate must receive a certain 21 threshold. In a normal -- in a single-seat 22 election there's only one winner, that 23 candidate must receive 50 percent plus one.
24 If no candidate reaches this threshold among 25 first-choice votes, candidates with the fewest

1 first-choice votes are eliminated. Those 2 ballots are redistributed to those voters'
3 second preferences. This process continues 4 until one candidate receives the majority of 5 ballots still remaining.

6 Now, why did we make this switch?
7 Why did we make this switch to Ranked-Choice
8 Voting? Now I'm going to talk about four big 9 issues and touch on them very briefly. One,
10 and I think what's near and dear to my heart 11 is that Ranked-Choice Voting eliminates the 12 high-cost, low-turnout, unrepresentative
13 primary. It eliminates the high-cost, 14 low-turnout unrepresentative primary and that 15 opens up the door for communities of color.
16 We used to have two elections in Minneapolis.
17 One election that happened in November that a 18 lot of people participated in, communities of 19 color, young people, transient communities;
20 and another election, a smaller election
21 called the primary, it happened earlier, 22 right, that election was a small sliver of 23 people participating. That small sliver of 24 people were very unrepresentative to the 25 voters of Minneapolis. That small sliver of 1 people looked opposite of me. They were 2 typically older, typically white and richer.

3 They had the privilege, they had the privilege 4 to prematurely narrow the field down to two 5 candidates and everybody else who showed up in 6 November got to choose from that whittled
7 field. Those days are over in Minneapolis and 8 St. Paul.

9 Ranked-Choice Voting gives voters
10 more choices in the high-turnout and diverse 11 election in November. What our data shows is 12 that communities of color participated in 13 primaries at a very dismally low rate. They 14 participated in a general election at an 15 extremely high rate. So it narrows the 16 playing field for communities of color.

17 Second point is that Ranked-Choice
18 Voting compels candidates to campaign
19 positively. Instead of just attacking their 20 opponents, candidates must earn support from 21 all voters. They no longer can tear down 22 opponents as they need to gain second- and 23 third-place votes. Instead of just 24 campaigning to a small sliver of the 25 electorate to win a primary election, they

1 must build a campaign to try to win a 2 majority.

3 Third, Ranked-Choice Voting
4 mitigates the influence of money in elections.
5 Under Ranked-Choice Voting, having the biggest 6 war chest always doesn't matter. And I'm 7 going to talk about that in a second with the 8 municipal election we had in Minneapolis.

9 And finally, Ranked-Choice Voting
10 fosters more choices and can demand more
11 accountability leadership. Extremism. Again, 12 one more time, instead of just appealing to a 13 small sliver of your base, you must appeal to 14 the general population.

15 Just look at the big picture. What 16 did we accomplish here in Minneapolis and 17 St. Paul last year? Without that high-cost, 18 low-turnout unrepresentative primary, we had a 19 wide open election. And for the first time in 20 decades, the Minneapolis mayoral race, voters 21 were given the option of different political 22 persuasions.

23 Let's talk about some numbers, some 24 data. While Ranked-Choice Voting doesn't 25 necessarily drive turnout, 80,000 people,

1 80,000 people, the highest turnout in 12 years
2 participated last year. And that put to doubt 3 any rumors that Ranked-Choice Voting might 4 deter voters from turning out. More
5 importantly, Ranked-Choice Voting ensured that 6 winners were decided in a single high-turnout
7 election in November.

8 Now, how did they understand
9 Ranked-Choice Voting? Eighty-eight percent
10 ranked two choices. Seventy-eight percent 11 ranked all three choices available in the 12 mayoral race. This was true across all income 13 levels, education levels, ages and races; 14 strong majorities of voters in the 15 lower-income and highly diverse wards, 5
16 and 9, ranked at least candidates.

17 Eighty-five percent of all voters
18 found Ranked-Choice Voting simple to use,
19 including 82 percent of voters of color and 81
20 percent of voters without an education -- 21 college education. This puts to rest any 22 concerns that communities of color and those 23 less educated will find Ranked-Choice Voting
24 difficult.

25 In addition to understanding it,

1 voters like it. A solid majority of voters,
2 including more than two-thirds of voters earn 3 less than $50,000, want to continue using 4 Ranked-Choice Voting.

5 By all measures, the Minneapolis
6 mayoral race was the most civil this city has 7 ever seen. All reports that are coming out
8 call this the most civil election.

9 Now, we -- finally, we saw that 10 grassroots coalition politics trumped money as 11 I said I was going to mention. In 12 Minneapolis, the winner of the 2013 mayoral
13 race was Betsy Hodges. She was outspent two 14 to one by her closest rival.

15 Now, some detractors of 16 Ranked-Choice Voting may claim that a high 17 number of candidates in a Minneapolis recent 18 mayoral election was an inherent flaw of 19 Ranked-Choice Voting. This is untrue. The 20 City of Minneapolis has already begun to work
21 to increase the filing threshold for future
22 elections, to ensure that a reasonably sized 23 slate of serious candidates who can mount an 24 organized campaign; and FairVote Minnesota 25 supports that.

1 I began with FairVote Minnesota
2 after being on several campaigns, including 3 serving as the campus director with 4 Minnesotans United and organizing -- I started
5 organizing for Barack Obama in Milwaukee,
6 Wisconsin. What I have always organized 7 around is greater access to the democratic 8 process and getting new, young and communities 9 of color organized and registered and fired up 10 and ready to vote. While the old system in 11 Minneapolis in effect limited the voices of 12 these communities, Ranked-Choice Voting seeks 13 to amplify them. Ranked-Choice Voting seeks 14 to amplify them. Now, Ranked-Choice Voting 15 doesn't remove all the ongoing barriers to 16 political participation faced by poor voters,
17 student voters and voters of color. It's a 18 step in the right direction. While the old 19 municipal primary system left the culling of 20 candidates to a tiny majority, Ranked-Choice
21 Voting opens it up.

22 Thank you so much for your time,
23 Commission. I'll be here to answer some 24 questions.

25 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much,

1 Mike. That was very interesting. In 2 Minneapolis, so you say that was -- some 3 people still say they didn't like it. But 4 overall does -- do you feel that most people
5 were satisfied with the Ranked-Choice Voting?

6 MR. GRIFFIN: Yeah. Yeah, the 7 people who don't like it are a small minority
8 of people. The reports that are coming out
9 after the election said that voters, people 10 who used the system like it. Usually the 11 people who don't like it are people who aren't 12 the majority of people.

13 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, I've heard
14 some people say the Democrats felt that it 15 gives the Republicans advantage. Is there any 16 truth to that?

17 MR. GRIFFIN: Gave the Republicans
18 advantage?

19 MR. SPANNAUS: Republicans have an 20 advantage in it. But I was interested in what 21 you said about the primary. The primary 22 basically brings out all the againers [ph.], 23 generally speaking, against the proponents,
24 the proponents dedicated to vote as the people
25 who are against it, whether it's gun control

1 or anything else.

2 MR. GRIFFIN: Uh-huh.

3 MR. SPANNAUS: So that was an 4 interesting point you made there.

5 MR. GRIFFIN: But those voters who 6 voted in the primary represented a small 7 sliver of the election. What we do is combine
8 two elections into one. Have one big election 9 where voters who look like me are able to 10 participate at a much higher rate and have 11 their voice heard more often.

12 MR. SPANNAUS: Saves money, right?

13 MR. GRIFFIN: Absolutely it saves
14 money.

15 MR. JACOBS: I wanted to ask the 16 panel a question that was really raised by the 17 first panel that was talking about Wisconsin.
18 The issue raised by the first panel was really 19 one of: What do we do about the intensity of 20 the partisan anger and division when it comes 21 to our elections? We're going to have 22 partisanship. Let's have it on the policy 23 stuff, but not when it comes to who gets to 24 vote and how hard or easy it is. And the 25 point that was made by the Wisconsin panel was

1 that it was very helpful to have this 2 nonpartisan Government Accountability Board.

3 In Minnesota, we have, as do other 4 states, an elected secretary of state. And 5 this is with no disrespect to our current 6 secretary of state or the past secretary of 7 state. But in both cases the secretary of 8 state of Minnesota became lightning rods for 9 partisan disputes. And as I look into 10 legislature now, the issue, for instance, 11 online registration where you would think 12 there would be some broad agreement and there 13 is some agreement, it's clearly being 14 influenced by the parties locking in on 15 different sides. The issue of no-excuse early 16 balloting, it's hard to have a conversation, I 17 find, on that issue with Republicans because 18 they take such a partisan view of it.

19 And so my question to you is: Do 20 you think Minnesota can learn something from 21 the nonpartisan election administration that 22 is now going on in Wisconsin?

23 MR. FRANCK: It doesn't seem to be 24 interested in a progressive movement. When I
25 asked the Wisconsin people or I asked about

1 all these progressive ventures right now,
2 Wisconsin was not interested.

3 MR. JACOBS: I think the key thing
4 is it's not progressive, but it's also not 5 conservative. My understanding is what's 6 going on in Wisconsin is it's a check to the 7 conservative majority that's now in office
8 just as no doubt at some point in our future
9 in Minnesota we're going to have not a 10 democratic progressive majority but a
11 Republican conservative.

12 So the question I'm asking is:
13 Does it make sense to add the ballast of a 14 nonpartisan administrator of the election
15 rules that is not seen as kind of pushing one 16 way or another? And I thought the last panel 17 was very -- they were quite negative on what 18 the legislature were up to. In fact, that's 19 been the theme tonight. But in terms of this 20 accountability board, they consistently across 21 both panels praised the fact that there was 22 kind of an impartial arbiter. Everybody had a 23 bit of a problem with it, but they respect it.
24 And so could we just go down here -- starting 25 with Mr. Halvorson. Can we just go down and

1 tell me do you think it makes sense for 2 Minnesota to consider a nonpartisan office
3 that would administer elections?

4 MR. HALVORSON: I think it's 5 certainly worth looking into. I have to say I 6 haven't studied it closely. When -- Larry,
7 you asked a minute ago are there lessons 8 learned. I'd like this to be very clear for 9 the record. And I'm not implying you're 10 implying this. But I just want to be clear.
11 I think that Minnesota election officials in 12 the 2008 and 2010 elections I think did a 13 great job of administering those recounts in a 14 nonpartisan manner. So I just want to make 15 sure --

16 MR. JACOBS: We agree on that 17 100 percent.

18 MR. HALVORSON: Excellent. I just 19 want to make sure we get that.

20 MR. JACOBS: But my question was 21 very specific.

22 MR. HALVORSON: Yeah.

23 MR. JACOBS: It's about -- about 24 whether we should have -- rather than an 25 elected secretary of state, whether we should

1 have this appointed -- you know, it's like the 2 Congressional Budget Office or in Minnesota we 3 have a legislative auditor who is respected by 4 both parties.

5 MR. HALVORSON: Yeah.

6 MR. JACOBS: Should we go for some 7 kind of model along those lines? We have it 8 in other states and right next door here in 9 Wisconsin.

10 MR. HALVORSON: Again, I think it's 11 worth looking into. I haven't studied it 12 fully enough to be able to come up with a 13 definitive position. But we'd be happy to 14 take a look at it since our organization is 15 nonpartisan.

16 MR. SPANNAUS: So what are you
17 saying, Larry, that we would do away with 18 the constitution office -- we've done away 19 with one constitution office already, the 20 treasurer. So we'd do away --

21 MR. JACOBS: This is something
22 that's being talked about around the country.
23 And, you know, Wisconsin has taken a different 24 path. And, you know, the Republicans who feel 25 as passionately as some of the other panelists

1 about what's going on in Minnesota, they're 2 very concerned. We've seen both Republican
3 Governor Pawlenty and now Democratic Governor
4 Dayton saying they won't sign election 5 administration law that doesn't have 6 bipartisan support. So I take that as a 7 signal that the governors recognize that we 8 don't want our election rules and how they're 9 administered, at least the perception of them
10 to be, you know, invaded by this partisan bug.

11 Does the League of Women Voters 12 have thoughts on this, or not?

13 MS. TOMSICH: Well, I'm not 14 familiar with really what happens in Wisconsin 15 in terms of their board. And in terms -- we 16 have administrative judges that handles rules
17 and regulations and it's a very transparent
18 process as I understand it. So I'm not sure 19 if -- in Wisconsin how it works out in terms
20 of they -- this board, as I understand it, 21 implements the legislation that was passed.
22 So I don't know if we have a problem in 23 Minnesota in terms of implementing legislation 24 that was passed.

25 MR. JACOBS: I'm using this as an

1 example to bring in. But if you look around
2 the country, there's certainly nonelected
3 secretaries of states.

4 MS. TOMSICH: Yes. Okay.

5 MR. JACOBS: And one of the 6 questions that's been raised --

7 MS. TOMSICH: Yes.

8 MR. JACOBS: And I think it's 9 important to be fair about this. Republicans 10 are angry right now because they don't see the 11 secretary of state's office as being 12 evenhanded and nonpartisan. We had the same 13 view regarding the last secretary of state who 14 was republican.

15 MS. TOMSICH: Yes.

16 MR. JACOBS: And so do we just bury 17 our head in the sand and say we're going to 18 leave this up to, you know, the politics of 19 elections, or is there another path that we've 20 seen in other states, and I'm taking it that 21 you don't have a view about that?

22 MS. TOMSICH: We haven't discussed
23 it. But I think it's a very interesting idea.
24 But it seems it would require a constitutional
25 change.

1 MR. JACOBS: Yes, absolutely.

2 MS. TOMSICH: And we have a little 3 bit of fatigue dealing with constitutional 4 proposals.

5 MR. SPANNAUS: The other part of 6 the secretary of state's office basically is 7 corporate registration, corporate records,
8 where it's very easy to appoint somebody.

9 MR. FRANCK: I guess I'll say
10 Common Cause does not have a position on this.
11 But I'd still -- personally I'll say that it 12 isn't obvious to me why it's an elected
13 position.

14 MR. JACOBS: What?

15 MR. FRANCK: It isn't obvious to me
16 why it's an elected position.

17 MR. JACOBS: Thank you.

18 MR. SPANNAUS: Well, again, thank 19 you very much, Mike and Jerry, Kathy and 20 Neil [sic] for coming. You're here, of 21 course. But I appreciate you coming out on a 22 cold night anyway.

23 So now we're going to have some 24 public testimony. And we have two persons 25 that have signed up already.

1 And so Cathy Dorr. Is Cathy Dorr
2 here? Cathy, do you want to -- Cathy, you're 3 going to talk about election judges. And tell
4 us about yourself, your background. Okay. Go
5 ahead, Cathy.

6 MS. DORR: All right. Thank you.
7 My name is Catherine Dorr, C-a-t-h-e-r-i-n-e, 8 D-o-r-r. And I'm here representing myself.
9 But I also should say I'm a member of Citizens
10 for Election Integrity of Minnesota. And I 11 have been an Minneapolis election judge since 12 2006.

13 Thank you all for coming out in 14 midwinter here in Minnesnowta and for the time 15 today and for allowing public testimony. As 16 an election judge in Minneapolis, I have 17 worked in a polling place near the campus. We 18 did experience those long wait times, crowded 19 polling places and extremely long lines and 20 frustration on the part of the voters and the 21 election judges with the one- to two-hour 22 waits.

23 So as an election judge and in 24 talking with my fellow judges, anything that 25 the state or the election administration

1 people can do to implement speeding up the 2 lines, digitizing the process, making it more
3 efficient, we would totally welcome. And I 4 want to say a thank you to Grace because as 5 part of the polling place workgroup, we did
6 study those problems and put in some wonderful 7 solutions that worked quite well in our city
8 elections in 2013.

9 But I'd like to talk mostly about 10 what happens in those back-office things. We 11 are the people. I'm the person in CIEM as 12 well. We are the ones that look behind that 13 curtain to who is running the mechanics of the 14 elections. And there are three issues I want 15 to address. Audits and recounts, which are 16 the test of the reliability of the machines.
17 And I personally think that a voter-verified 18 paper-audited ballot is the thing to have, and 19 that those electronic machines are just -- 20 they have had their time and they should go to 21 the junk pile. And with close elections being 22 more common, audits and recounts will be more 23 important. And I would reference you to our 24 CEI database on the searchable databases for 25 recounts and audits and the recently released

1 reports on best practices for recounts and 2 audits.

3 Number 2, ballot reconciliation.
4 These laws are often antiquated and outdated.
5 I looked at the Minnesota law. We are looking 6 at the national -- the other states on this 7 topic, and they are often inadequate. And in 8 Minnesota the current electronic poll pilot 9 project in 2013 and the pending legislation in 10 2014 on this we hope will greatly solve the 11 problem of people voting in the wrong
12 precinct. This was the root of the problem up 13 in Alexandria that caused us to consider this 14 issue.

15 Thirdly, the restoration of felon
16 voting rights and the league member, Kathy, 17 spoke to this eloquently, but again, there is 18 a nonstandard procedure by the judges and the 19 courts to notify or not notify the felon of 20 their restored rights. There is confusion on 21 the part of felons and the system, inefficient 22 databases with information or lack of 23 information and just general mishmash of that 24 whole supporting information that you need to 25 tell a felon that their rights have been

1 restored.

2 So again, as an election judge, I
3 am urging the voting rights people to look not 4 only at the common topics of eligibility of 5 registration of persons of color of access,
6 but some of these behind-the-scenes 7 administrative things that can preserve the 8 voting right before and after election day.

9 Thank you.

10 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you very much,
11 Cathy.

12 Anyone have any questions for --
13 (No response.)

14 MR. SPANNAUS: Okay. Thank you.
15 Thank you for coming.

16 John Hottinger, please.

17 MR. HOTTINGER: Warren, good seeing 18 you. I appreciate the chance to talk with the 19 panel.

20 MR. SPANNAUS: John is a very 21 distinguished former majority of the Minnesota
22 State Senate -- from Mankato or Nicollet?

23 MR. HOTTINGER: Mankato. Well, 24 Nicollet County also.

25 MR. SPANNAUS: Good to see you

1 again. Thank you for coming.

2 MR. HOTTINGER: Thank you. It's 3 good to see you all. And Catherine helped 4 shorten my discussion, because I was going to 5 talk about felon voters and the challenges 6 that they face, because they really don't have 7 an official notice-giver of when they are off
8 paper. And I struggled with that a lot when I 9 was in the legislature a number of years ago.
10 So I will suppress or compress my discussion.

11 Thank you. Members of the 12 commission, I'm here on behalf of the North
13 Start Chapter of the Sierra Club. The Sierra 14 Club was a partner in something called the 15 Democracy Initiative started last year, a 16 coalition with the Communication Workers of 17 America, Greenpeace USA and the NAACP in 18 response to the Citizens United Election and 19 from the Sierra Club's perspective to confront 20 the reality of big coal and big oil dominating 21 our politics.

22 The initiative's premise is, and 23 I'll quote: Our democracy is under siege.
24 Money is not speech, and corporations are not 25 people. Yet the money and power and influence

1 of ideologically driven money in politics and 2 corporate influence is unprecedented.
3 Simultaneously, our fundamental democratic 4 value of one-person, one-vote is under attack 5 by a barrage of aggressive attempts to 6 restrict access to the ballot box and 7 undermine voting rights.

8 When I was in the Senate, I had the 9 chance to be in the election committee for 10 five years. For two years I was the chair of 11 that committee. And during that time we had 12 testimony that was remarkable and dramatic 13 even in this good state of Minnesota of 14 literally thugs attacking voters in Duluth to 15 try and prevent them from voting. Often they 16 were tribal members. We also had in my own 17 experience in my district, which included a 18 variety of public and private higher education 19 institutions, strong efforts to put barriers 20 in front of those students in order to 21 suppress their vote. Ironically the students 22 were probably divided politically, so whoever 23 may have been initiating those efforts may 24 have hurt their own voters. In any case, 25 students were facing that kind of challenge.

1 On the elections committee we had 2 some success in dealing with that. And the 3 students have also moved forward in their 4 ability to register and vote where they chose,
5 either their home or where they are students.
6 But it's still one of the most fundamental 7 important rights we have as voting. As I'm 8 sure you on the panel know, John Dingell 9 indicated yesterday that he was not going to 10 run for reelection. He's going to retire as 11 the longest-serving member of the United 12 States Congress. And when he was asked: What 13 was the most important vote you cast in your 14 60 years in the United States Congress? He 15 said: The 1964 Civil Rights Act; in part 16 because it provided equal voter registration 17 opportunities for the country.

18 That was 50 years ago. And 19 John Dingell who has lived through a lot, and 20 I had the privilege of working for him for a 21 little while is saying that's the most 22 important vote he cast. So Representative 23 Dingell understands the importance of our 24 democracy on every issue, on voting.

25 I want to salute I guess some of

1 the decisions Minnesota has made that can be 2 guidelines for other states. Certainly what 3 we've done, and I look back at the last 4 election, of course, and the voter ID issue.
5 The voter ID issue, when that started as a 6 Constitutional amendment, first of all, the 7 testimony of Secretary of State Ritchie, now
8 taken as partisan, but I believe from a belief 9 on election administration and a spokesperson,
10 Beth Fraser that really kind of set the stage 11 for the debate that took place during the 12 campaign. And a proposal in the Constitution 13 that I believe would have suppressed people's 14 right to vote was overwhelmingly favored at 15 the beginning of that debate. But with the 16 help of city officials, with the help of 17 election officials, we have a great group of 18 county election officials in the state. I've 19 learned that over the years. We had a good 20 debate and the people of Minnesota, to the 21 surprise of many, voted that down. And that I 22 think is a tribute to the people in Minnesota.
23 In addition, election we've passed
24 in the last couple of years have advanced 25 some of the issues I saw in the election

1 committee. With the help of a
2 [unintelligible] republican legislator, 3 frankly, we passed legislation to make it very 4 difficult for out of state observers to come
5 into the state election day and act as frankly
6 thugs to intimidate voters. That took a lot
7 of guts -- I'm not going to name them for a 8 variety of reasons, not the least of which is 9 he's still a competitive member of the 10 Republican Party. But he took a courageous 11 vote that no people -- very few people don't 12 know about that fostered that in the 13 conference committee.

14 The Secretary of State Ritchie's 15 agenda has been to help veterans get their 16 voting -- vote counted better than it was 17 before, putting it online will be an issue in 18 this session. But was a progress towards 19 making sure people had the right to vote. And 20 tribal members can now vote by using their 21 tribal IDs. Students' opportunities to vote 22 are better protected. Early voting and 23 no-excuse absentee balloting, although still 24 part of the political discussion have become 25 part of our tradition. And as an aside, based

1 on the earlier discussion on the nonpartisan
2 Secretary of State position, actually said
3 that -- Governor Pawlenty in his last term did 4 sign a bill that didn't have a lot of 5 republican support in the house as a result of 6 things done as you are very familiar with,
7 Professor Jacobs.

8 But there does remain one thing on 9 the agenda that really needs attention to it,
10 and I am going to just cut my language short.
11 It sounds like the League of Women Voters' 12 testimony and Catherine's support of that 13 testimony would have been similar to mine.

14 The State has an obligation to make 15 sure people who have served their time after 16 being charged and served their punishment as 17 felons should at least know whether they have 18 the right to vote or not. Most of the, quote, 19 fraudulent, unquote, voting was done by felons 20 who didn't realize they couldn't vote. The 21 bigger challenge, however, is there are folks
22 who have served their time, who are off paper 23 and don't realize they have a right to vote.

24 So thank you for this hearing. I'm 25 sorry I missed all the other testimony. But

1 thank you. And thank you for the opportunity 2 to talk with you.

3 MR. SPANNAUS: Thank you for
4 coming, John. Thank you for your testimony.
5 I think that everybody agrees that this whole 6 suppression of voting that's going on in the 7 east and Pennsylvania and all of these, it's 8 really despicable. I mean, we're trying to 9 encourage more people to vote, instead these 10 people are trying to discourage and hinder
11 people. So I'm glad you came to testify.

12 MR. HOTTINGER: And thank you for 13 that. I certainly agree with you. And too 14 often it's targeted, not only on political 15 positioning but targeted in other areas that 16 are not consistent with our fundamental 17 beliefs.

18 MR. SPANNAUS: Thanks again.

19 MR. HOTTINGER: Thank you.

20 MR. MARTINSON: All right. Just 21 briefly, before we conclude, I want to thank 22 the U of M, our commissioners who asked some 23 fantastic questions, our panelists and the 24 members of the public who testified. I think 25 we covered a lot of issues today. I'm sure

1 there are some issues that we didn't cover,
2 and I hope that folks have a chance to discuss 3 these -- those issues in the coming weeks and 4 months.

5 This is just the beginning of a
6 process and the beginning of a discussion.
7 And I expect that what has been discussed here 8 today will be the basis of a further 9 conversation and actions in the coming months 10 as we work on a nonpartisan basis to try to 11 improve voting rights and election
12 administration in Minnesota and Wisconsin and 13 the entire country.

14 If you didn't have a chance to 15 submit testimony today or want to submit 16 something in writing, please either email that 17 testimony to me,
18 amartinson@lawyerscommittee.org, or you can go 19 online to 20 minneapolishearing.lawyerscommittee.org.

21 So I want to say good night to 22 everyone. I want to give the commissioners a 23 chance to give some brief concluding remarks 24 on their thoughts on the hearing, so I will 25 turn it over to them.

1 MR. SPANNAUS: Wenda, did you want
2 to say a few words?

3 MS. WEEKES MOORE: Oh, let me just 4 say thank you to everyone who came this 5 evening. I think we ought to get extra
6 special credit because of the weather. I know 7 there are a lot of other things you could have 8 been doing this evening.

9 But the right to vote is precious.
10 And it's precious because it's the foundation 11 of our democracy. So I thank all of you for 12 the work that you do and for bringing the 13 voices of the disenfranchised to the attention 14 of this Commission.

15 Have a good evening.

16 MR. JACOBS: I wanted to make two 17 points in closing. One is we've had a long, 18 painful and remarkably successful history of 19 transforming our democracy towards equality.
20 And this is something I think that has now
21 achieved iconic status in America to the point
22 that it's considered to be a given. But I 23 think the testimony here today not only 24 highlights but really documents some very 25 significant, very serious and worrisome

1 backsliding that really raises the question
2 of: Are we getting to the point where we need 3 a new civil rights movement?

4 I'm particularly cognizant of the 5 fact that America, as it was about a century
6 or more ago, is going through an enormous 7 transformation. We are going to see in the 8 coming decades about a 50 percent or more
9 increase in the proportion of voters of people 10 of color, an equally large growth in citizens 11 who are born in other countries. And the 12 question we now face in America is: What will 13 be our response? Will it be following and 14 rejoining the arc of -- towards equality, or 15 will it be backsliding? And I'm very worried 16 by what we've heard tonight that the evidence 17 is building that the doors are closing on 18 equality, and that's something that is quite 19 worrisome.

20 My second point is that I'm also 21 alarmed that many of these discussions about 22 elections and how they are carried out has 23 become poisoned by the partisanship that 24 colors everything we seem to be talking about 25 in the public realm. And I think that's a

1 real challenge.

2 I do take the story in Wisconsin as 3 well as the experience of nonelected
4 secretaries of states and other states to be 5 something that's really worth looking at. If 6 it can leach out some of the polarization over 7 election issues, because clearly America is 8 facing a whole new set of challenges, and we 9 need to find bridges to build to take on those 10 challenges to resume the march towards 11 equality.

12 MR. SPANNAUS: Thanks very much,
13 Larry. I just want to say thank you again for 14 all of you for coming and also thank 15 Alan Martinson and his crew, nice lady doing 16 all the hard work here (indicating) and the 17 timekeeper and the lady over here (indicating) 18 for coming here. I hope you enjoyed being in 19 Minnesota with our lovely weather. And I hope 20 you come back again to better weather.

21 But I'd also like to thank the 22 people from Wisconsin for coming and giving us 23 this interesting and substantive testimony and 24 of course the people on the Minnesota panel.
25 So again, thank you for coming and hope to see

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

you soon and good evening.

(Hearing concluded at 7:42 p.m.)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

REPORTER'S CERTIFICATE

STATE OF MINNESOTA)
) ss.
COUNTY OF HENNEPIN)

I hereby certify that I reported the foregoing proceedings on Tuesday, February 25, 2014 in Minneapolis, Minnesota;

That the proceedings were transcribed by me and is a true record of the proceedings;

That the cost of the original has been charged to the party who noticed the proceedings, and that all parties who ordered copies have been charged at the same rate for such copies;

That I am not a relative or employee or attorney or counsel of any of the parties, or a relative or employee of such attorney or counsel;

That I am not financially interested in the action and have no contract with the parties, attorneys, or persons with an interest in the action that affects or has a substantial tendency to affect my impartiality.

WITNESS MY HAND AND SEAL THIS 4th day of March, 2014.

Dana S. Anderson-Linnell
Notary Public, Hennepin County, MN
My commission expires 1/31/2015

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

VOTING RIGHTS OF MISSISSIPPI HEARING

Taken at Mississippi College School of Law, 151 E
Griffith Street, Jackson, Mississippi, on Thursday,
May 29, 2014, beginning at 11:30 p.m.

1 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Melissia. First 2 of all, welcome to this hearing in Mississippi. We 3 want to make sure that as we gather information 4 across the country, Mississippi is present. The 5 Voting Rights Act is a significant monument for the 6 State of Mississippi as a result of the act and the 7 work of individuals like Henry Kirksey and Carroll
8 Rhodes, who's on the panel.

9 We have appreciated a strong engagement of 10 our voters and their duty to elect members of their 11 choice. And that's due in part because we have the 12 protection of federal government to ensure that all 13 citizens could exercise their franchise.

14 Joining us on our panel today as 15 commissioners, to my far left is Reilly Morse, who 16 is the new executive director of the Mississippi 17 Center for Justice. Reilly Morse resides from the 18 Mississippi Gulf Coast, Biloxi. He's a second or 19 third generation lawyer. Reilly Morse as many of 20 may know for his work after Katrina. He was one of 21 the biggest advocates, both community advocates
22 and legal advocates to ensure a complete recovery
23 from Katrina.

24 Next up here is Carroll Rhodes. Carroll
25 Rhodes has been in practice for about three years.

1 Served as NAACP counsel for about 30 years. Me
2 along with Senator Kirksey have been on the front 3 end of many of our voting rights battles, both in 4 terms of analysis and legal advocacy. We've 5 litigated cases before the US Supreme Court. It was 6 one of his cases that made sure that judicial 7 redistricting was also covered under the Section 5
8 of the Voting Rights Act. He is nationally known 9 for his work, so let's welcome him.

10 Seated next to him is an attorney
11 practicing out of Natchez, Mississippi, but from the 12 big city of Fayette, Mississippi, Deborah McDonald.
13 Often times when you see Carroll doing advocacy on 14 voting rights cases, Deborah is there. Truth be 15 told, Deborah really do the work, Carroll get 16 credit.

17 Deborah has volunteered many, many, many 18 hours to ensure that all citizens of the states have 19 the right to cast an effective ballot, and that 20 individuals have the ability to get elected from 21 districts that are drawn fair and equitable.

22 And to my immediate left is Mr. Leon 23 Russell from Florida. He's the vice chair of the 24 NAACP national board of directors. One of the 25 longest serving members of the board. He is very

1 astute on the issue of process and voting rights 2 issues. Many of the ballots in Florida, he and 3 several others were on the front line of those 4 ballots. He is internationally known. He formerly 5 was the chair of the International Human Relations 6 Board. He is a task master, bar none, and he's very 7 astute around these issues.

8 At this time, we now want to ask our 9 commissioners to come forward -- I'm sorry, our 10 guest witnesses to come forward. Dr. D'Andra Orey 11 who is recently married and now celebrating his 12 birthday. He's about 68 years old. Lost all his 13 hair as you can see. Let's give him a hand.

14 MR. OREY: I'm so old, I don't know if I
15 can make this jump.

16 MR. JOHNSON: Next we have Mr. Claude
17 McInnis. Mr. McInnis recently retired from Hemmi 18 Young Detention Center. He also has served many 19 years as the chair of Hinds County Diplomatic Party, 20 and vice chair of the State Democratic Party.

21 Finally, Mike Sarey. Mike, if you will 22 come forward. Mike is co-director at Southern Echo.
23 It is an community organizing organization. Mike, 24 often times you will see emails dealing with 25 education, voting rights. Mike is a brain trust all

1 to himself. He is one who have a deep analysis of 2 where we are as a community, the historical 3 significance, and he's a big thinker on how we 4 should move forward. Let's give all of our guest 5 witnesses a hand.

6 So, at this time we're going to ask each
7 one of our commissioners if they would give a 8 five-minute opening statement starting with Attorney 9 Reilly Morse.

10 MR. MORSE: Hello everybody. Thank you
11 all for coming out. I want to thank the Lawyers 12 Committee for convening this and taking this 13 important initiative and gathering information.
14 Actually, voting rights is at the essence of what 15 makes our nation functional and responsive.

16 I also want to thank the state conference
17 NAACP and my fellow commissioners, and Mr. Russell 18 for joining us who has been on other of these 19 events. I want to keep my remarks short so we can 20 hear from our witnesses. I appreciate all of your 21 interest in this topic. I look forward to testimony 22 and hopefully some good questions.

23 Thank you very much.

24 MR. RHODES: Good morning everyone. I'm 25 Carroll Rhodes as Derrick has told you. And I am a

1 member of the board of trustees of Lawyers
2 Committee, former member of the board of directors
3 of the Lawyers Committee. And on behalf of the 4 Lawyers Committee, I would like to welcome each one 5 of you to this hearing today. And I hope it's 6 informative both ways so that we can get information 7 from you as much as you can get information from the 8 panel.

9 We were supposed to give you sort of an 10 overview of where we think we are with voting rights 11 in Mississippi and where we think we've been. All 12 of you know the history of voting discrimination in 13 Mississippi, and the things did begin to turn around 14 after the Voting Rights Act, Section 5 of the Voting 15 Rights Act was passed in 1965.

16 There has been a struggle to get the first 17 phase of voting rights enforcement after the Voting
18 Rights Act was really passed, was to get people 19 registered to vote, people of color. The white 20 power structure in Mississippi had presented black 21 from voting ever since the late 1880s, and 22 especially by 1890. And they did it through 23 intimidation, threats, violence, and economic 24 reprisal. That's why one of the reasons Voting 25 Rights Act was passed, there was quite a bit of 1 testimony before congress to make that record for 2 Section 5. And the first thing they did was get 3 black people registered to vote because they thought 4 that would make a difference.

5 But after finding that black people could 6 register to vote in Mississippi in the 1960s and 7 1970s, and blacks began to register in overwhelming 8 numbers and voting in record numbers after they 9 became registered to vote. But the same people were 10 being elected into office. And that was because the 11 power structure saw that they were about to lose the 12 battle on getting blacks registered to vote, so they 13 came up with another ingenious event trying to keep 14 blacks from power, and through such things as at 15 large elections, large election districts starting 16 to make different things required, making sure that 17 the majority vote was acquired to be elected -- to 18 get party nominations.

19 And at that time, most of the people being 20 elected into office in Mississippi were democrats, 21 and the blacks, when they first got registered in 22 the 1960s, were running primarily as independents.
23 That's why they wanted to make sure it would be hard 24 for blacks to be nominated as democratic candidates, 25 it was hard for them to will the elections.

1 After that phase went through, it took a 2 second struggle to get congress to come up and amend 3 the section to the Voting Rights Act in 1982, to 4 make it easier to prove that blacks were being 5 discriminated against even after they were voting.

6 And now we moved into another phase in the 7 1970s, 1980s and the 1990s where we began to elect a 8 record number of blacks to legislative offices. We 9 started with one black legislature in '67, now we 10 have over 50 out of 174 legislatures. We have black 11 judges, and we have black elected officials. Now 12 we're moving back into what I would consider the 13 next reconstruction era because blacks had the right 14 to vote after the civil war.

15 The first reconstruction came, gave blacks
16 the right to vote, whites figured out a way to stop 17 that. They came up with the Mississippi 18 Constitution of 1890. Now blacks are starting to 19 vote and elect people to office. Now we're looking 20 at the next reconstruction starting with voter ID.
21 That is voter suppression that's going on in 22 Mississippi. That's going to be to suppress the 23 affect on black voters, so eventually we'll be back 24 to where we were prior to the civil war.

25 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. Rhodes.

1 MS. MCDONALD: You know, I echo Carroll's 2 sentiments. I was on a phone call yesterday with 3 doing -- I represent the City of Port Gibson. We're 4 doing some redistricting down there as we speak.
5 And I had these two gentlemen on yesterday, and they 6 were talking. And one of them said, "Well, we're 7 going to have to submit this to the Justice
8 Department for pre-clearance." And the other 9 gentleman said, "Oh, no, we don't. Oh, no, we 10 don't." And they were pretty happy about it. And I 11 don't have to tell you which side they were on.

12 So, with that said, I have, like Carroll, 13 been in this fight in the areas of employment 14 discrimination, voting rights and so forth and so 15 on. And I think this is the bleakest that I have 16 seen it in the last -- I've been a lawyer a little 17 longer than three years. And as a matter of fact, 18 32 years. And I think this is the bleakest that I 19 have ever seen it.

20 Carroll and I just got a decision.
21 Derrick was involved in it, too. The NAACP versus 22 several Mississippi counties recently from the Fifth 23 Circuit on May 16th. And in that decision, what 24 they did is, we sought pre-election relief to try to 25 get the districts changed. They didn't give us the

1 pre-election relief. They argued that we had a 2 standing problem, that our plaintiffs weren't right.

3 The plaintiffs went to the Fifth Circuit,
4 wasted time, came back, they vacated, won that case.
5 They vacated the judgment. Came back to the 6 District Court, and then the district judge said it 7 was moot. Well, it was moot because they kept -- we 8 sought pre-election relief, we didn't get that. So,
9 now it's moot. So, we got that decision here 10 recently.

11 So, what I'm saying is, you've got the 12 judiciary that is starchily against the Voting
13 Rights Act, especially in Mississippi. There's no 14 question in my mind. In addition to that, you've 15 got the national, I believe, judiciary that also 16 doesn't believe in the Voting Rights Act.

17 So, with that said, I think we're in a 18 position right now where we're going to have to 19 continue to fight. The fight might be on different 20 fronts. You know, I think it's going to take some 21 grass roots efforts. I think it's going to take 22 some working hard. You know, we've got our 23 Secretary of State on television talking about voter 24 ID and talking about just a long list of 25 identification material that you can have when you

1 present.

2 But, unfortunately, some people don't have 3 that, but they still are American citizens, and they 4 still should be able to vote. So, with that said, 5 I'm going to hand it off to Mr. Russell.

6 MR. RUSSELL: Why have a national voting
7 rights hearing process? Why did the Lawyers
8 Committee and all of the partners who have joined 9 the Lawyers Committee for these 25 hearings across 10 the country find it necessary to come to together to 11 do this?

12 If you study the Voting Rights Act, then 13 obviously, my fellow panelists have a litany of 14 historical facts that they can tell you. One of the 15 things that was most important in the original 16 adoption of the Voting Rights Act and in each of the 17 opportunities to have the Voting Rights Act 18 reauthorized was the creation of a public record, an 19 evidence-based record of what was actually happening 20 to people who had the right to vote, but who were 21 being denied the ability to use that right.

22 We find ourselves today back in that 23 position. It's about enforcement, folks. It's 24 about the ability -- yes, there's a constitutional 25 right to vote. We got it, 13th, 14th, 15th

1 amendments to the constitution. But somewhere there
2 has to be an enforcement mechanism.

3 And what the Shelby case did was to 4 essentially gut that enforcement process. Believe 5 me, it is far better to have a review of what your 6 government wants to do to you in terms of your 7 ability to exercise your franchise before rather 8 than after the fact. It's better to be able to 9 challenge a law before it's had the ability to 10 disenfranchise folks rather than try to prove on an 11 individual basis in counties and cities and states
12 across this nation that Joe Smith faced 13 discrimination individually when he went to cast his 14 ballot.

15 So, what we want to do in this set of 16 hearings is have you to explain what's happening in 17 Mississippi today, what's impacting the ability of 18 folks to actually cast an unfeathered ballot. We 19 want to document that, and we want to be able to 20 present that evidence to the United States Congress
21 as we lobby for what right now Derrick and I agree 22 is an imperfect amendment to try to correct Shelby.

23 But in order to move forward, we've got to 24 create a record that allows us to justify creating 25 the best remedy for Shelby that we can. That's why

1 you're here. That's what we want to hear from you
2 today. We know what happened in 1890. We know what 3 happened in 1960. But what we need to know is 4 what's happening in 2014 to folks in Mississippi as 5 they attempt to exercise their franchise. How are 6 people impacted by Shelby and what do we need to 7 tell congress in order to get them to fix the law.

8 So, that's why we're here. And I
9 appreciate your being here to give us testimony and 10 to witness other folks giving us testimony so that 11 we can build that record.

12 Thank you for coming.

13 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. Russell. At 14 this time, for our guest witnesses, we're going to 15 ask them to each give testimony for five minutes.
16 And once they conclude their testimony, the 17 commissioners will then ask questions.

18 So, I want to first start with Mr. Claude
19 McInnis. You will begin, please.

20 MR. RUSSELL: And we have a clock over 21 here, and also, I have signs. That's the important 22 one.

23 MR. MCINNIS: Thank you. Good morning --
24 good afternoon, in fact. And thank you for inviting 25 me. I feel so honored. I don't know whether or not

1 I deserve to sit here amongst all these folks that I
2 see that I have admired all my life.

3 I am -- I come from a family of 4 sharecroppers. My folks are sharecroppers. I was a 5 field hand. I knew absolutely nobody who voted.
6 Nobody who voted. Absolutely nobody. And it was up
7 into the 1955s, I knew nobody who voted. I remember 8 there was a governor's election, and my father was 9 pacing the floor. And it was talking about free 10 books for the public schools.

11 One of the person running for governor at 12 the time, and all of them were so-called democrats, 13 was for books in public schools. And my father kept 14 saying that if we could only vote, if we could only 15 vote, we could pass this thing. He wanted this.
16 Actually, my father did not get a chance to vote,
17 actually register until 1967.

18 But voting then came such an important 19 thing to me because of my father's passion about 20 this then. In 1962, I joined the movement. And we 21 joined two organizations, actually, in fact. We all 22 joined the NAACP, everybody did. But actually -- 23 and I went to jail many times, mostly for going out, 24 handing out leaflets, telling people they need to go 25 vote. But this was in '62. And you all know about

1 the beans and all of that stuff. It was just almost 2 impossible for folks to vote.

3 I joined the Army, as every male in my 4 family did, in 1964. After I got out of the Army, I
5 joined the movement and the protest at school. I
6 went back on the very same things as I always did, 7 was get people to come to these polls and vote.

8 In '72 was the very first time I worked at 9 the polls. And the lines was -- down the street
10 around the corner for the voter. Not so much now.
11 The last election we had for the mayor's race, we 12 only voted 43 percent.

13 Now, let me tell you this with my last 14 minute. I want to try to ask you -- five minutes is 15 not very much time. I want to ask you to dispel 16 this myth that we have going on in this country.
17 One is that we're a post-racial thing because of the 18 election of Barack Obama. It's worse than ever, and 19 we all know that. More than 60 percent of our folks 20 in this country did not vote for Barack Obama.

21 The other thing is, in this country -- I 22 want to make sure that we dispel this myth, is that 23 in the southern states, especially the State of 24 Mississippi, no state has done anything on its own 25 to do anything about offering rights to minorities

1 to vote in this state. Not one state has. They 2 came dragging, we drug them kicking and screaming to 3 this thing. They did nothing. And as soon as the 4 Voters Right Act of '64, '65 was governed, they went 5 right back to their old stuff.

6 Of course, we got voter ID. The most 7 destructive thing I see so far was this movement of 8 precincts. Without notice, without any claim. I 9 know there was several election lost because 10 precincts simply moved without notice.

11 The other thing is, we got voter ID. We 12 all know what this is for, it's to further diminish 13 people's rights to vote. We all understand that 14 correctly. But let me say this to you about voting:
15 I think the most dangerous things to voting, 16 frankly, is one, absentee voting. The other one is, 17 that people truly do feel that they're not getting 18 anything from their people they're going to vote 19 for.

20 I think we need to talk about that. There 21 are people here that their lives are not changing, 22 not improving because of all the folks that they 23 elected. I think we should talk about that as much 24 as anything. We know about the Voting Rights Act.
25 We know how it got there. We understand the 1 implications of that. We also understand the 2 implications of folks looking at people who they 3 have elected. And it has not positively affected 4 their lives.

5 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. McInnis.

6 Mr. Sayer.

7 MR. SAYER: I want to thank the Lawyers
8 Committee for including me in this process. It's a 9 special honor to be here with my teachers and 10 mentors, Carroll Rhodes and Deborah McDonald, who 11 guided my feet through this process when I first 12 became involved in 1989. I work in 10 counties in 13 the delta, and counties in the east central and 14 southwest around redistricting over the past 25
15 years.

16 Five minutes is a short time to deal with 17 all of this, so let me hone in in this way. The 18 battleground was fierce, hostile, contentious, and 19 always about race. The single most important 20 feature of the Voting Rights Act in terms of work 21 underground was the preclearance procedure.
22 Preclearance gave us a mechanism for holding public 23 officials accountable. It gave us an independent 24 review before the federal government in terms of the 25 Justice Department, and it was intimidating to

1 public officials when they had to choose between 2 doing the right thing and expensive litigation that 3 would come if they didn't do the right thing.

4 It also gave community folks a lot of hope 5 because they knew that they couldn't simply be 6 imposed upon. And it gave -- preclearance gives 7 people the opportunity to take ownership of the 8 process.

9 Because there's a public hearing process,
10 because there's a right to submit alternative plans, 11 it was meaningful for community people to learn how 12 to do redistricting on their own, how to draw 13 districts that are fair and in compliance with the 14 Voting Rights Act, and submit those to the 15 independent reviewing agency, namely the Justice 16 Department, for them to consider when they are 17 evaluating whether or not the plans submitted by the 18 public officials were in compliance with the Voting 19 Rights Act. That gave a meaningful role for 20 community. And in addition, the opportunity to 21 testify at these public hearings.

22 There's an organizing basis. We're 23 bringing people together to form organizations
24 around the voting rights work, and it has enormous 25 impact. One of the things we can talk about is the 1 successes that we had that we couldn't have had 2 without it.

3 In 1992 we held a special election after 4 18 months of bitter struggle, and doubled the size
5 of the legislative black caucus in one election, 6 from 21 to 42. And in 1995, increased the size of 7 the black caucus to 45 out of 174. In 1995, for the 8 first time, the Mississippi Legislature ratified the 9 13th amendment abolishing slavery.

10 Now, while that may have been only 11 symbolic, it did two things: One, we have a culture 12 of symbolism, and symbolism is important. Secondly, 13 it demonstrated the strength of the legislative 14 black caucus.

15 And in 1997, for the first time, the 16 biggest education appropriation in history of the 17 state in terms of the money was the Mississippi 18 adequate education program, which authorized the 19 appropriation of $650 million over five years, which 20 was going to be vetoed by Governor Kirk Fordice, who 21 said putting money in public education was throwing 22 good money out to bad.

23 But the legislative black caucus, under 24 Senator Benny Turner, was the chair at the time, led 25 the fight to override the veto. The white

1 legislative vote to compromise the (inaudible) and 2 the caucus said no. The override won in the Senate 3 by one vote and in the house by three votes, that 4 every one of those majority black districts make a 5 difference. As they say in the law, "Hell yeah."

6 Now, two years later, they passed the 7 large teacher pay raise. Overall, that increase in 8 education funding was over a billion dollars. Now, 9 as the legislature systematically underfunded MAEP
10 since, for the most part, except in 2007, '8 and '9.
11 We have a fight on our hands.

12 But this preclearance feature, without it, 13 we don't have the handle to compel compliance. The 14 opportunity to sue under Section 2 is expensive, is 15 prohibitive in most cases, and there aren't all the 16 attorneys in the world like Carroll, Deborah and so 17 on who can handle all of the cases that arise, and 18 they arise all over, not only at the legislative 19 level, but at your county, municipal, school board, 20 judicial elections.

21 And the other side, when it knows it has 22 grown economically in terms of money available, you 23 know, to fund litigation, they have no
24 compunction about -- can I finish the sentence -- 25 about doing what they do, which is not what they

1 should be doing.

2 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. Sayer.

3 Dr. Orey.

4 MR. OREY: Thank you all for having me
5 here. When I looked down and saw Mr. Lewis Armstrong
6 in the audience, it reminded me that I've actually 7 been doing this stuff for 21 years. We met at the 8 southern regional counsel expert witness training.
9 I was trained under the direction of Burney Coleman, 10 James McLowan, Al Ligman and one more that I'm 11 forgetting. Oh, Dick (inaudible) for dissertation 12 and final.

13 So, I was in good company and I got good 14 training. I want to talk real briefly about -- 15 first of all, my shortest lecture at Jackson State 16 was 50 minutes, so I don't know how I'm going to do 17 five minutes here.

18 The Voting Rights Act, I'm going to talk 19 about just briefly the Voting Rights Act and its 20 impact. The Voting Rights Act has been the most 21 transformative law passed on behalf of 22 African-Americans in the State of Mississippi. Pre 23 1965, there were roughly 6 percent of 24 African-Americans registered to vote, and post
25 Voting Rights Act in 1967, there were 50 percent

1 African-Americans registered to vote.

2 Immediately following the pass of the 3 Voting Rights Act, we saw district in the 4 Mississippi Delta that Benny Thompson now hold, it 5 cracked up because gerrymander, being an 6 African-American, were not able to elect the 7 candidate of their choice. In '66, Cortex was 8 filed, Conn versus Johnson. And Conn versus Johnson 9 was filed because it wanted to eradicate the 10 multi-member districts that were being used for both 11 obvolution.

12 Chandler Davidson defines obvolution as,
13 when electoral structures like at-large elections,
14 multi-member districts, in tandem, racially 15 polarized voting; meaning blacks vote black and 16 whites vote white, and feed the opportunity of 17 blacks to elect the candidate of their choice.

18 In 1967 the Mississippi freedom democratic 19 party ran a Robert Clark as well as some others for 20 local elections. Robert Clark was the only one to 21 emerge victorious, so we had our first 22 African-American in the State Legislature.

23 Fast forward to 1979, it took 14 years for 24 Congressman Johnson to actually pass, if you will,
25 get a favorable response from the courts. Overnight

1 we went from four black legislatures to 17,
2 overnight.

3 And then in the post '80s, James was the 4 pre-form test that actually gave us some definitive 5 prones that we could actually file these lawsuits
6 on. Triple and quantitative but now seems the other 7 one was looking at the compactness of how districts
8 were drawn. It actually said that the studies 9 actually mattered, you know, the way a district
10 looks was a problem. Which it hadn't been a 11 problem. In fact, Sandra Day O'Connor said it was 12 comparable to a parte.

13 So, in terms of implications of the Voting
14 Rights Act, a lot of people suggest that 15 African-Americans do not have power. And I want to 16 challenge that as it relates to the black 17 legislatures. In fact, in terms of black power, we 18 can look back, say, for example, education reform.
19 Robert Clark pushed this and pushed this until it 20 finally got through.

21 And then we can actually look at more
22 recently the Jackson Convention Center. The issue
23 with the Jackson Convention Center, where Lee 24 Perkins was the chair -- let me just jump back real 25 quick.

1 When they increase the African-American
2 legislative force, most recently we saw there was a 3 61/61 tie for the election of the speaker of the 4 house. And then we saw the power of the purse; the 5 power of the purse is a woman. So, there was a 6 female that actually cast the deciding vote which 7 gave the caucus the person that they wanted as the 8 speaker of the house.

9 That actually is good because it increased 10 the number of black chairs and vice chairs to 40.
11 And the purpose of the black chairs are, for 12 example, with the Jackson Convention Center, there 13 were four people on -- there were four people on the 14 committee on, I think. Willie Perkins was the 15 chair. There are five or six. Either way, there 16 were three democrats and three republicans.

17 One of the democrats voted against the 18 Jackson Convention Center in the subcommittee -- or 19 in committee. Willie Perkins, you know, going 20 against tradition, decided to take that bill out of 21 the committee, take it to the floor, and the Senate
22 actually knocked it down. Well, at the same time, 23 the Senate tourism chair actually had a bill on the 24 floor. And this is where the power of the chair 25 actually mattered.

1 Percy Watson was the chair when they 2 convened. He actually did not put that particular 3 senator's bill on the floor. After that senator 4 learned that, he actually went back and rescinded, 5 and actually ended up -- they ended passing the 6 tourism bill, which is the Jackson Convention 7 Center. That's just one or two examples of 8 substantive representation on behalf of blacks.

9 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Dr. Orey. Let's 10 give our guest witnesses a hand.

11 At this time we're going to take -- allow 12 our commissioners to ask questions of our witnesses.
13 We're going to do this for about 20 minutes or so, 14 so we can go deeper into what are some of the 15 current voting issues that we see presently.

16 MR. RUSSELL: I'd like to begin the 17 questioning. If the panel could speak, one of you 18 indicated that you saw as a major issue the problem 19 of absentee voting. I'd like an explanation of 20 that, and a further explanation of why or what the 21 burden of individual litigation, ala Section 2, is 22 when it relates to the preclearance, if there could 23 be a better explanation of that.

24 MR. MCINNIS: I mentioned absentee voting.
25 I wouldn't vote absentee. I would rather not.

1 Absentee voting, you submit yourself to a subjective
2 interpretation. There are about nine things you
3 have to cross before your vote count. So, absentee 4 voting can be used to wash out anybody you want to 5 wash out, actually.

6 You can say that signature is not across 7 the line, they didn't check the precinct, they did 8 not check -- the primary of this thing often is.
9 The seals are not properly sealed on this absentee 10 ballot. So, you can lose your absentee voting in 11 nine different ways.

12 I tell you, I'd like to move to early 13 voting, which is much more simple and much less 14 complex and really is less expensive. So, it is -- 15 absentee voting is a real problem to people having a 16 right to cast their vote because it can be so 17 interpreted. And I know for a fact, in places 18 outside of Hinds County, people who know each other, 19 they know how they vote in these places. They 20 simply use one of these nine categories to wash
21 people out. They do it all the time. I've seen it.

22 So, absentee voting can be a very 23 dangerous thing for people who are not at the 24 polling place. The Section 2 thing I'm sure 25 (inaudible) is much more adapt in this as I am, but

1 it cost a lot of money. Voting for civil rights --
2 voting for the governor, it was really pretty clear
3 and simple what was happening. You could see it.
4 You could see the progress of it, from no voting 5 that my father could do, to the lies around the 6 corner in 1970.

7 Now there are things put in place, you can 8 move a precinct in just about any old time you want.
9 You can pass restrictive IDs. You can pass all 10 kinds of things. How many folks can be in line at a 11 certain precincts, what have you.

12 So, that Voting Rights Act was a real 13 protection for everyday voters. It was clear, easy.
14 And most folks noticed how clear it was, so most 15 folks didn't want to challenge it. So, I think if 16 you try to do something about this, that we ought to 17 make sure that some way we need to get this thing 18 reimplanted.

19 That's the reason we have votes in the -- 20 that's the reason we have black folks in the 21 legislatures. It's not because of the goodwill of 22 this state, it is not. It is because of the 23 vigorous implication and rehabilitation of the 24 Voters Right Act. And that's all this is about.

25 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. McInnis. Any

1 other questions?

2 So, the follow-up I have with the absentee 3 voting is Mr. Sayer. It's my understanding that 4 vote fraud in the State of Mississippi has been 5 found in the casting of absentee ballots. However, 6 there has been no evidence of vote fraud where voter 7 ID would have prevented.

8 MR. MCINNIS: Absolutely none.

9 MR. JOHNSON: Mike Sayer, how do you
10 reconcile the requirement that the state is not 11 placing on individuals who show up in person to have 12 to have voter identification, although there is no
13 requirement for voter identification when you cast 14 an absentee ballot? How would you reconcile that?

15 MR. SAYER: You're asking me to explain
16 the inner workings of their thinking when they goof?

17 MR. JOHNSON: Explain the government.

18 MR. SAYER: Can we go off record?

19 MR. JOHNSON: We're here to make a record.

20 MR. SAYER: I'm not sure we want to make 21 this record.

22 I think the logic is that they really have 23 no way to effectively enforce voter ID when people
24 are voting at home. Because if you were voting 25 absentee ballot at the circuit clerk's office, you

1 have to show voter ID. So, it's in the nursing home
2 or it's at home where someone is disabled or of age 3 to be eligible to vote absentee, they don't want to 4 deputize anybody in doing that. The logic is, it
5 really doesn't matter whether you're at the polling
6 place or at home. There isn't an historic problem 7 with people pretending to be someone other than who 8 they are.

9 So, if you're asking me to define
10 consistency where I think it doesn't exist, I'm 11 probably not the right person. If that answers your 12 question.

13 MR. JOHNSON: You brought out the fact
14 that there is inconsistency in our law. Do you have 15 any knowledge what impact it would have on minority 16 voters, the inconsistency compared to white voters?
17 Are there any known impacts?

18 MR. MCINNIS: Yes, there are. We all know 19 that minorities have a tendency to vote earlier.
20 There is a man whose name escape me right now who 21 stated that we're not going to go to early voting 22 because it helps minorities. Also, there are many 23 churches across the south would organize Saturday
24 and Sunday voting, that they could go early to vote.
25 There's a name for it. I'm sure somebody could come

1 up with it.

2 So, when you have early voting, you could 3 really organize folks to go down and vote early. If 4 you don't -- if you keep absentee voting in though, 5 that's much harder to do. So, frankly, folks, it's 6 just based purely on racism. That's all. That we 7 keep this thing at a (inaudible) the corruption -- 8 form of corruption in our voting process. And we 9 keep it in place, but we implement a thing that has 10 no evidence of having anything to do with 11 corruption.

12 So, we can see that you can be washed out 13 with absentee vote. People in small places and 14 small counties know how you vote. They can find one 15 of those reasons not to allow you to vote. The 16 seals are not proper. This is not a form that we 17 recognize, what have you. But early voting, you see 18 is just no different than you walking into those 19 voting places.

20 So, actually, it's still implemented in 21 Mississippi because of racial reasons. Let's just 22 talk earnest about it, that early voting has a 23 tendency to help minority voting. Absentee voters 24 has a tendency to help those in power to keep folks 25 from voting that they don't want to vote, especially

1 in small isolated communities.

2 MR. OREY: Can I go back to the previous 3 question that was asked in terms of Section 2? So, 4 this is my understanding. Brother Rhodes, you might 5 have to help me out here. Beer versus Burger, 1975
6 I believe it was.

7 MR. RHODES: '76. US.

8 MR. OREY: Beer suggested that you cannot 9 have retrogression. So, retrogression means that 10 you don't have these legislatures in place, and so 11 you cannot go about changing those districts to 12 actually dilute the black vote by gerrymandering 13 those districts, if I'm correct on that.

14 In terms of Section 2, as it relates to 15 Section 4 being struck down, and how much can 16 Section 2 I guess counter that. Section 2 was 17 passed in 1982 as a response to Mobile versus Bolden 18 where they indicated that, you know, you had to show 19 intent that the legislatures or governing body who 20 did redistricting intentionally discriminated 21 against the minority group.

22 Obviously, you cannot understand what 23 these folks were thinking when they did what they 24 did. We know what they were thinking, but we 25 cannot, you know, provide -- unless you do

1 historical. So, I think that there's still an 2 opportunity other than the court -- the Congress
3 came back and passed the law to -- or amended
4 Section 2 where they said, No, you only have to show 5 that it result in impeding African-Americans to 6 elect the candidate of their choice.

7 So, in my opinion, Section 2 still can be 8 applied if, in fact, we find that there is some 9 discrimination that takes place in impeding 10 minorities to elect the candidate of their choice.
11 You all might need to clear that up for me.

12 MR. SAYER: Can I respond to that?

13 MR. JOHNSON: Sure.

14 MR. SAYER: If I understood the question
15 correctly, you're asking about sort of this 16 relationship between preclearance and Section 2.
17 So, in our experience there's a real dilemma that 18 comes with litigation, which is what you have under 19 Section 2.

20 The dilemma is, No. 1, the attorneys take 21 center stage. No. 2, it takes a long time. No. 3, 22 community people tend to lay back when it becomes a 23 lawsuit, and wait to see the outcome of the lawsuit.
24 No. 4, in terms of taking ownership of the process 25 and being active on the playing field, and

1 developing the skills and tools of policy formation, 2 and organizing strategies; being able to stay on the 3 playing field during that whole period is what the 4 preclearance fight offers as the opportunity.

5 And so, we always accomplish more in terms
6 of building local organization and community unity, 7 and an understanding of what the struggle is really 8 about legally and otherwise, when we had a 9 preclearance fight over what ought to happen as 10 opposed to a lawsuit about what did happen.

11 And so, from that point of view, I see 12 that dilemma is one that always plagued us in terms 13 of the relationship between the two.

14 MR. RHODES: I have a follow-up to what 15 you just said, Mike. I had a previous question -- 16 earlier question I was going to ask. I'll go back 17 to that one if I have time.

18 But the follow-up is, have you noticed, I 19 guess for Section 2 type litigation, the 20 difficult -- or any difficulty engaging witnesses in 21 the community to come forward and testify because 22 they might fear economic or any other reprisals?

23 Section 2 cases --

24 MR. SAYER: In A lot of these cases, 25 you're talking about small communities, small towns,

1 rural areas, everybody knows everybody. There are 2 only a handful of primary employers, whether it's a 3 school district, a prison, you know, or a small 4 local industry, or city hall, or the county
5 administration, right. So, that's five I've named 6 that -- where there are people in power in the 7 establishment, in a position to use the broadest 8 umbrella possible, to retaliate for participation.

9 So, yes, there's tension, there's anxiety
10 there's fear. There are so many courageous people 11 who have come forward and so many who are just not 12 certain that they want to put their family at risk 13 in any situation. Because the risk is not only for 14 the witness, the risk is for other family members, 15 for their who are children in school. We have 16 experienced retaliation in all of these different 17 kinds of formats. So, there is a problem.

18 MR. RHODES: I want to ask, in comparison
19 of that, under Section 5, the attorney general, US
20 attorney general, there are regulations in place 21 that allow people to make confidential comment on 22 any municipal plan for -- if government officials 23 can't find out who made those comments, did you find 24 out you had people more willing to make confidential 25 comments whenever there was a submission under

1 Section 5 as opposed to them coming forward and 2 testifying in front of a court in the public under 3 Section 5?

4 MR. SAYER: The answer is an unqualified
5 yes. When there was protection and there is safety, 6 people are much more willing, it wouldn't be an 7 issue if there weren't such risks. The risks come 8 from the tensions that are still here today around 9 race.

10 MR. OREY: I think you also know that 11 there's no secrets in this society. There are no 12 publicly challenges to get along in this society.
13 We can say that you have confidentiality, that you 14 have intention, but we know that's a lie.

15 The difference between those -- Section 4 16 is just there. Before you get anything, you had to 17 go submit. Now, you have to -- you can do what you 18 want. You can move this precinct all day to the 19 poll in an election, and you can carry it out. If 20 people don't know where to go to the polls because 21 you didn't announce it for the election -- you have 22 to submit first. Nobody had to go and submit -- you 23 had to go submit.

24 So, it's stated the county has to submit 25 first. And now you don't. You simply say, I'm 1 moving that precinct. Now, go sue me. Go fight for 2 the way to sue me. If you go before this, you had 3 to submit first before we did the --. That's a very 4 different thing.

5 MR. RHODES: This is my famous question, 6 and it goes to the change in precincts and change in 7 polling places, and combining precincts.

8 Have you noticed anything about how the 9 communities are structured, like precincts where 10 there's primarily black members, combined black and 11 white, or moved from black communities or white 12 communities -- or polling places moved from familiar 13 places, black folks are familiar with to a place 14 that more white folks are? Have you noticed 15 anything?

16 MR. OREY: Yes. Here's the thing about 17 precincts. Precincts are like a home. They're like 18 home. There are precincts in the neighborhood is 19 like home. People come into these precincts and 20 they know each other, they love each other and all 21 that kind of stuff. When all of a sudden you can 22 just move these precincts. It's like moving 23 somebody's home.

24 They moved a precinct from a school called 25 Lake School here in Jackson to a -- sectional home.

1 People called in, and they said, I'm just not -- I'm 2 not going to vote up there. I want to vote where I 3 voted all my life.

4 There's a precinct in Jackson called 5 Casey, it's precinct 33. Folks know those 6 precincts, and they were proud that they voted in 7 that precinct for more than 35 years. Voted in that 8 precinct and they was going to school there.

9 Those folks would be dismayed if you just 10 move their precinct. So, people understand these 11 kind of things just like I understand them. Yes, 12 I'm seeing diminishing voting simply because you're 13 moving a precinct, because people have attachments
14 to their precincts, they love them, and they right 15 where they are. And if Jackson State, you figure 16 that out, these folks who finished Ole Miss sure 17 can. So, they are figuring it out, and that's what 18 they do -- vote time. We lost an election in 19 Madison County because three days -- it was a 20 four-day election. They moved that precinct to 21 almost anyplace they could go (inaudible). We lost 22 part of the election.

23 MR. RHODES: One of those agreement
24 states (inaudible) about two weeks ago, where 25 someone said that they moved the precinct to a gated

1 community. So, I do want to make a point in 2 relation to the witness and this issue of precincts.
3 So, the census comes out with, you know, the 4 precincts and the black only population, white only 5 population, whatnot. (Inaudible) district plans.

6 This raises a big problem for social 7 scientists who do these quantitative analyses. You 8 can have a precinct that was in place during the 9 census, but then if they move that precinct or 10 change those precincts where after the election or 11 before the election they change those precincts,
12 then you can have -- on paper, you can have 50
13 voters -- you can have -- let's say you can have 50 14 votes, but only 25 people.

15 So, because they've combined precincts in 16 some cases, take A, B and C and put them together, 17 the census still has A with 10 voters, B with 20 18 voters, and then C with the remaining. So, that's 19 really, really problematic.

20 MR. JOHNSON: Any more questions from our 21 commissioners?

22 MR. MCINNIS: Do you take questions from 23 the audience?

24 MR. JOHNSON: Once we finish.

25 MS. MCDONALD: I just have one question I

1 wanted to ask. I heard one of the panelists, and 2 either one can answer this or several. But, you 3 know, we have remigration in education, voting and 4 employment right now. So, it really expands the 5 whole forum. I guess one of my questions, I heard 6 one of the panelists say, life is not improving for 7 just regular people.

8 How do we motivate the people of this 9 state to become interested in trying to restore the 10 preclearance issue? How do we do that?

11 MR. SAYER: I think that, in my 12 experience, one of the key things in doing work
13 around census and voting rights is to enable people 14 to see the inherent connection between the right to 15 vote, participation of political process, and the 16 formation and implementation of public policy. When 17 people see that connectivity, then they see that the 18 issue of right to vote is not merely a distraction, 19 now the theory of democracy, but rather it impacts 20 them on a day-to-day basis in terms of who is 21 getting to make these decisions.

22 The right to vote is really about the 23 distribution of power in the community. And the 24 fight about the shape of districts is about who gets 25 to serve in these positions in order to be able to 1 have power over policy formation and implementation.

2 In our experience, when we started back in 1989, 3 1990, we found that people have greater willingness 4 to take the risk of becoming involved when they 5 understood -- came to understand the connection 6 between all of the problems they saw in employment, 7 in housing, in social services, in the treatment of 8 them by police, you know, and you can go on and on 9 down the list of things, health care and so on, are 10 all about public policy and the implementation or 11 the failure to implement public policy.

12 And that goes back to who gets to make 13 these decisions. In Mississippi, for the most part, 14 the people who make these decisions are people who 15 get elected to office. And who gets to elect them 16 makes all the difference.

17 MR. MCINNIS: When I was starting in the 18 movement back in the late '60s and '70s, we made it 19 a point to campaign everywhere. We didn't care 20 where it was. I hear people say now, we don't 21 campaign in these projects because they don't vote.
22 You see, but we didn't care.

23 I put on my sneakers and we went to those 24 projects and we campaigned. We said, look, this 25 makes a difference in your life. You need to come

1 out here and vote. How many times I go to these 2 projects and elections, and I never even see 3 campaign signs up around these apartment complexes.
4 I never see candidates walking up and down these 5 streets, up and down these roads, inside of these 6 apartment complexes, asking people to go vote for 7 them. I do not see that.

8 So, we have to take these elections back 9 to the people, back to where these people are 10 staying, then they can start to feel that they have 11 somebody who is trying to make a difference in their 12 life. We have become homogenous in our communities.
13 I grew up in the Edwards community where I had 14 everything from pipe fitters to lawyers to doctors 15 to nurses to guys who were laborers. So, I saw all 16 of these people.

17 Now we have homogenous communities where 18 you only see one kind of person. But the real deal 19 is, I do not see the kind of campaigning that I used
20 to see. I just don't see it. In depressed 21 neighborhoods, people just don't go and campaign in 22 those neighborhoods. So, I think it's a notion of 23 those folks thinking that those folks are not 24 important, they may not vote for me. So, they don't 25 go out and campaign. You're supposed to go and

1 campaign to everybody in your district, your ward,
2 or your state. We don't do that very well.

3 MR. SAYER: We have to come to appreciate 4 at this point the degree to which class
5 consciousness has become an issue in this battle 6 over race. That's the intension that we are 7 describing, and it is an issue, and it is dividing 8 our communities where they have been together 9 before. So that, you know, that's an issue. We 10 don't have time, obviously, to go into that now.

11 MR. OREY: Eight seconds. At some point
12 we're going to have to address these super majority 13 districts that African-Americans hold. That's just 14 an issue that we're going to have to address. It 15 used to be 65 percent rule that Frank Parker and 16 that that gang used from Lawyers Committee. We're 17 going to have to address those 80 percent, 90 18 percent super black. But we don't need that many.
19 But I'm not the legislature.

20 MR. JOHNSON: At this time we're going to 21 transition and take questions from the audience or 22 any testimony. Three minutes -- two minutes. And 23 our timekeeper, Mr. Leon Russell, as much as 24 possible, try to focus your comment so that it can 25 be placed on the record. Please state your name and

1 where you're from so the reporter can properly
2 report.

3 MR. SPENSON: My name is Jim Car Spenson.
4 I'm vice president of the Hinds County Democratic 5 Executive Committee, and I just worked with 6 Mr. McInnis on working with the polls.

7 And one of the things that we found out --
8 and I realize the city and the county have different 9 jurisdictions, but one of the things that happened 10 is that, if you vote in one precinct in the city, 11 you may not necessarily vote in that same precinct 12 in a county. And that has rendered confusion not 13 only to the voter, but even to those of us who are 14 trying to get whole managers and people who manage 15 the polls -- because poll managers who have managed 16 at the city, well, they also manage for the county.

17 And one of the things that happened with 18 us is that we had down number 17, and we thought, 19 well, we've got to get pollers -- we've got to get 20 poll managers for precinct 17. We found out that 21 when we went and worked on that, poll 17 doesn't 22 exist anymore. So, it did in January, but it 23 doesn't now in June, so they've switched that 24 around.

25 So, Claude, that's just one of those

1 things that I wanted to -- to reinforce what 2 happened to us while we were working together.

3 MR. MCINNIS: 61 and 60.

4 SPEAKER: Yeah, we didn't know anything
5 about them. It was strange to us, and we're trying 6 to get poll managers for all the precincts within 7 Hinds County.

8 Now, as long as you gave me the floor for 9 questions, and Dr. Russell -- or Mr. Russell, 10 Dr. Orey, Mr. Rhodes, y'all all kind of illuded to 11 it in one way or another. And that is that, you're 12 going to make a report from what you're finding in 13 all of the states to Congress of the United States.

14 One of the things that happens in I
15 believe just about every state you're going to find, 16 and that is the super majority districts, the 17 gerrymandering, which I believe comes from the 18 legislature.

19 Would there be any possibility of having 20 the congress have a law or enacting something, where 21 rather than having legislatures determine the 22 districts, if the legislature, if the Congress of 23 the United States would have a committee of 24 nonpartisan people which could oversee every state, 25 every state have a nonpartisan group of people that

1 could figure out how we want to put the districts 2 rather than having the legislatures do it, because 3 they have too much at stake in the gerrymandering of 4 these districts?

5 Thank you.

6 MR. JOHNSON: Any other questions?

7 Representative --

8 MR. OREY: It's a state issue.

9 MR. RUSSELL: One response, and I think
10 Derrick made it. When you ask the question, can you 11 create a nonpartisan commission?

12 SPEAKER: Can the Congress --

13 MR. RUSSELL: Can the commission get 14 appointed by somebody? In the system that we have 15 today, they get appointed by somebody who is 16 partisan, which means that the commission ultimately 17 will be partisan.

18 So, the nonpartisan commission's kind of 19 idea, although it gets floated, and I guess in 20 places like California where they've done 21 restricting by commission, and Iowa, where it was 22 very easy for them to cut cookie cutter squares, you 23 might be able to claim that they are fairer, more 24 fair, but it's unlikely that congress would ever 25 create something that will end up being nonpartisan.

1 MR. RHODES: And a follow-up to that. You 2 have a look at state and local elections versus just 3 elections to congress, not elections to the US
4 Senate. But there's a constitutional provision 5 requiring pre-apportionment of congressional 6 districts, maybe congress could have some 7 nonpartisan commissions there.

8 But the courts have said -- the US Supreme 9 Court have said, elections are a State Legislature
10 now. So, that means if you get a nonpartisan 11 commission in Mississippi, it's going to be the 12 State Legislature, maybe they could set it up and it 13 might be governor appointed commission or 14 legislature appointed commission, so you don't 15 wind -- you won't have any different change because 16 of the people who are going to be deciding what's 17 nonpartisan.

18 MR. HINDS: Good afternoon. My name is 19 John Hinds. I'm the state representative from 20 Washington County, District 50. My statement is 21 about engaging people back into the process.

22 Part of the problem in Mississippi is that 23 we took civics and governing classes out of the 24 school system, and children don't have any 25 interaction in the process until they become 18 or

1 older. And by that time you are formed by your 2 ideas around your dinner table. If momma or daddy 3 was one way, you are subject to be that way unless 4 you're a rebel. But the best way to have a 5 nonpartisan process to educate people would be in 6 the educational system. And we moved away from the 7 government classes eighth, ninth, tenth grade. You 8 knew what the governing system was and how it was 9 established. We've gotten away from that, 10 especially in Mississippi.

11 I believe part of the reason was, that too 12 many minorities were becoming educated on how the 13 process works and how to engage in it. This is 14 about the voting -- putting voter ID in places is to 15 force people to disengage at many venues as 16 possible.

17 I don't have this, so I won't participate.

18 I'm a felon, so I'm not going to participate in 19 this. The lady at the polling place don't like me, 20 is going to harass me. So, I won't participate.
21 Had many opportunities to force people to disengage.
22 And so, what we have to do is find nontraditional 23 ways to encourage people to reengage.

24 I like the early voting process,
25 Mr. McInnis. I think that's something that we need

1 to move forward to. My colleague, Representative
2 Scott and I, we've always talked about putting stuff
3 in place in educational systems that would allow us
4 to force people to reengage.

5 So, I think that's a big part of how we 6 reestablish the engagement of young people as well 7 as their parents, because whatever they chose, 8 you're going to follow your kids most of the time.
9 So, if your kids are reengaged, the adults will come
10 back.

11 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Representative
12 Hinds.

13 MS. FERAN: Senator Kirksey always quoting 14 one of our former -- who said that the State of 15 Mississippi would make it as difficult for 16 African-Americans, at the time it was the "N" word, 17 to survive in Mississippi, make the quality of life
18 as difficult as it is to dip the Atlantic Ocean dry 19 with a spoon. Now, that's pretty tough.

20 So, the struggle in Mississippi has always 21 been a moral issue. We agree that Mississippians 22 are, especially black Mississippians, are very 23 special people. During the '60s the fight was a 24 people's fight. Respectfully, it was a people's 25 fight. A human rights fight. A civil rights fight.

1 Respectfully, it has now -- there was ah-hah moment, 2 it became a dollar sign fight. A moment that -- at 3 that moment, the struggle became for profit. It was 4 taken from the people. Not to be disrespectful.
5 Give it back to the people, find a way to give it 6 back to the people.

7 MR. JOHNSON: Please identify yourself.

8 MS. FERAN: My name is Georgia Feran. I
9 am the director of Arts Classical. It's a local 10 west Jackson organization, and the sole purpose of 11 giving our young people an alternative to violence
12 through the arts. And, yes, I do have a collection 13 tray when you leave.

14 MR. JOHNSON: Any other questions?

15 MR. MCDANIEL: Thank you. Wayne McDaniel,
16 Jackson NAACP. I don't have a question, but I do 17 have some quick highlights of things that I've 18 experienced -- that we've experienced here in Hinds 19 County. One is, we've had poll managers sending 20 people out to voter's cars to see what kind of tag
21 they have on their car. And if a person is voting 22 in Hinds County riding in a Rankin County car, they 23 won't let them vote.

24 Another thing is, our Hinds County 25 election commissioners merging voter precincts in

1 four districts, but the chairman's district is not 2 being -- none of her precincts are being merged.
3 That's wrong.

4 And my last statement is, recently we had 5 a city election for a new mayor, and about two weeks
6 before the mayor's election, the Hinds County 7 election commissioner purged the voter roles without 8 the permission from the city election commissioners, 9 without the permission from the mayor, without the 10 permission of the city council.

11 And then when the city election
12 commissioner started complaining, and they called 13 me, the NAACP, mysteriously those people that was 14 purged two weeks before the election were 15 mysteriously put back on the voter roll two or three 16 days after the election. And those are the problems 17 we're having in Hinds County, which is supposed to 18 be the most progressive county in the State of 19 Mississippi.

20 Thank you.

21 MR. MCINNIS: I think -- Mr. President, I 22 think y'all had mentioned that there are four 23 democrats on that committee. I think we ought to 24 say that, to be in all fairness. And I'm still 25 shocked and continue to be dismayed that that

1 committee with one republican only was still 2 operated and controlled by the republicans. But we 3 have four democrats in that committee. Two of them
4 we fought tooth and nail and bled to get on it. So,
5 I think that it ought to be noted that there's a 6 four to one majority on that committee.

7 THE WITNESS: And she controls that 8 committee with an iron fist, and they vote in her 9 favor.

10 MS. NELL: Good afternoon. My name is Ray 11 Nell, I'm a member of the Mississippi band of 12 Choctaw Indians. I wanted to share a comment with 13 the panelists, and thank you so much for having this 14 forum for all of us voters in the State of 15 Mississippi.

16 As a registered voter at the age of 18, I
17 went to a polling place called Saphron(phonetic) 18 Hill in the Neshoba County area. We walked in and 19 there was a table set, and there they were, four or 20 five white people sitting there. I was given a 21 ballot. I was sent to an area and I voted. Now, 22 here I am 50 years old, and we now have a polling 23 place on the reservation that gives us more access
24 to vote.

25 One of the issues I wanted to bring to

1 your attention is the language assessability. We've 2 been fortunate to have here on staff with the 3 attorney general's office for the State of 4 Mississippi a liaison, which is a -- she serves as a
5 Section 203 coordinator, regional Section 203
6 compliance coordinator. She's also a tribal member.
7 We're fortunate to have in our polling machines --
8 our ballot machines the native Choctaw language.
9 And so, for those of us who need to have the ability 10 to hear who we're voting for in our language, we 11 have that assessability.

12 Of course, there needs to be more work
13 done in regards to being more involved in state 14 elections and national elections. I think we have 15 the same issues of historical trauma that keeps some 16 of our tribal members away from the polls. And 17 that, I think, is a continuing work that we all must 18 do.

19 But I wanted to share those things with 20 you, that that's one of the positive things that we 21 have going on there. And thank you so much for 22 giving us this opportunity to speak to you.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you. Are there any 24 other comments or questions?

25 MS. SCOTT: My name is Andrea Scott. I'm

1 a state representative from Laurel. I wanted to 2 talk about a few things, voter ID and how it was 3 rolled down in Mississippi, and the fact that none
4 of the traditional political machines were utilized
5 for black people to raise the consciousness of black 6 folks so they would know the importance of making 7 sure they had IDs. The churches, all the 8 traditional places where we would go to get the word 9 out for our folks in my opinion was not used. And 10 John can tell you that when the secretary came to 11 us, that was expressed to him, but we still have not 12 been able to see that.

13 In Laurel, about a month ago, there was 14 not one person that even got an ID. And we all know 15 that there are people down there that needs them.

16 The other thing is this whole notion of 17 precinct movement. In these majority black cities, 18 what you're seeing on precinct movement is the 19 precincts are being moved to away from the 20 neighborhoods. And so, I wanted to say that to you.

21 And then on redistricting from the 22 legislature, where we're told that you can -- as 23 long as you keep the number of districts that you 24 have -- in Lauderdale County we had a district that 25 had traditionally moved to a majority district. It

1 was only like 51 or 52 percent, but, you know, it
2 was. And what happened in the redistricting, that 3 district was collapsed and moved further north in a 4 new area where there -- we're certain may not even 5 have a chance. So, if there's a way that -- I don't 6 know, I'm not a lawyer, I'm just a person. But when 7 you have these districts that are trending black and 8 then, you know, other people getting control, and it 9 is a black district, but you under this thing that 10 says as long as you -- yes, sir. I'm sorry.

11 MR. RUSSELL: You don't have to stop
12 immediately.

13 MS. SCOTT: That is important because that 14 particular district in Meridian, we only lost by 15 about 400 votes, and it was a 51 percent black 16 district. If it could have been challenged -- if it 17 could have remained, we probably would have won that 18 district.

19 And then early voting is the last thing.
20 Early voting is critically needed in the south, all 21 over the south for minorities.

22 Thank you.

23 MR. MCINNIS: Madam Scott, may I touch on 24 what you just said and put some meat on what you 25 just said?

1 I was astonished who was doing the voter
2 ID for Hinds County, had been a rabid republican who 3 had absolutely nothing for democrats. And she 4 called me up --

5 MR. JOHNSON: Mr. McInnis, this is 6 non-partisan hearing. So, party identification for 7 the purpose of this hearing is not something that 8 we're promoting. We are talking about how do state 9 and local policies, practices and procedures
10 suppress or discriminate against minority votes.

11 MR. MCINNIS: Mr. President, I apologize.
12 Just to put some meat on this, this person called me
13 up and said, "Claude, what do I do and how can I 14 reach these folks?" And I said, "Have you been to 15 the beauty parlors? Have you been to the barber 16 shops? Have you been to the barbecue places located 17 on Bailey Avenue?"

18 "No."

19 And that's exactly the point you're 20 making, that the folks that they put in charge of 21 this have actually no notion about how to reach the 22 folks in particular kinds of communities. And the 23 vast majority of those folks were not reached 24 because they did not know and understand the 25 mechanism of how to get -- I was just shocked there

1 was no minorities during that kind of outreach from 2 the Secretary of State's office, especially in Hinds
3 County.

4 MR. OREY: Representative Scott's point
5 with respect to the ID and educating vote. I'm at 6 the university, and so you would expect students who 7 actually have college experience relative to the 8 rest of the population, students are extremely naive
9 about voter ID. They think that you should have a 10 an ID when you go vote. And they don't know that it 11 would have more of an impact on the elderly as well 12 as African-American Committee.

13 So, this is an issue that, you know, on 14 the face of it, they could -- I see how they could 15 think that. Well, what's the problem? You need to 16 be able to show them your ID. And they have no 17 clue. And so, these are the things you have to 18 teach them at the university level, and that makes 19 it even more difficult if folks in the community -- 20 if people in college don't know it or don't 21 understand it. Clearly some of the folk in the 22 community don't.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you.

24 MR. BARBER: My name is Rims Barber. I
25 have been an activist here in Mississippi for a

1 while. My concern with the absence of Section 5
2 preclearance is that often it's going to be one 3 person making a decision, the devil will be in the 4 details, and there will be no way to challenge it
5 until it's too late. For example, if the voter ID, 6 the question is, what is the definition of an 7 acceptable photo identification? My understanding
8 is that for this election coming up next week, if I 9 have a drivers license from another state, like 10 Illinois or California, and shows an address in 11 Chicago or San Francisco, that's my picture, that's 12 still acceptable even though I'm registered in 13 Jackson, Mississippi.

14 Now, in November, will those rules be the 15 same?

16 MR. MCINNIS: As far as I know.

17 MR. BARBER: We don't know. And it's only 18 after one person, the Secretary of State, who will 19 make that decision as to what is acceptable or not.
20 Without preclearance, there's no way for us to 21 challenge it until it's over and done with.

22 I think that that's important that we know 23 what the rules are, and the devil is in the details
24 of what are the definitions. And that's why I'm 25 very concerned with the lack of preclearance is

1 going to be in the end make something happen that 2 will hurt us.

3 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Reverend Barber.

4 MR. RHODES: I just want to do a follow-up 5 comment to what Rims has said. The problem you have 6 legally between Section 5 and Section 2, Section 5 7 requires a preclearance before anything is put into 8 place and people have a chance to comment on it.
9 But under Section 2, you can bring a challenge until 10 after it has gone in place, but you cannot get the 11 remedy because the law require you to get a remedy 12 before the discrimination occurs.

13 If the election is hailed with voter ID,
14 people are denied the right to vote, that election
15 can be set aside because it's moot at that point.
16 So, that means you have to file a suit based upon 17 what might happen at the next election, and the 18 election officials going to say, We're going to make 19 that change so it will not happen again. So, you 20 don't get any relief.

21 And then it's going to take four years to 22 litigate it, and you're going to have another 23 election in that four years. And then that same old 24 practice will still be there. So, that's a big 25 problem you have between Section 5 and Section 2 and 1 4.

2 MS. POWELL: I just wanted to add an 3 example to the first comment, a case example of the 4 first comment about confusion of polling places when 5 the city and the county aren't the same.

6 I was working with the League of Woman
7 Voters election day hotline in the last city
8 election. And we knew a few of the polling places 9 were different in city and county, or we had heard, 10 and we never were able to find a list of which ones 11 were different.

12 We had a simpler way to tell people where 13 their polling place was if it was the same as the 14 county. I went to both the city and county election 15 officials and would just get kind of helming and 16 hawing, and never was able to find it. So, it's got 17 to be a problem for the voter if even we couldn't 18 find it.

19 MR. JOHNSON: Can you identify yourself
20 for the record?

21 MS. POWELL: Barbara Powell, I'm a member 22 of the League of Woman Voters.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Ms. Green.

24 MS. GREEN: Thank you very much. I am
25 Addie Green, and former city council of Bolton,

1 Mississippi, a small town of 600. I have been very 2 involved with the civil rights movement and with the 3 NAACP, SCLC. And that was back in the '60s with 4 Dr. King and the civil rights movement.

5 I'd like to say that it's a new day with 6 those of us who set at the table now. We failed to 7 help educate and take people along with us for 8 educational purposes. And when we set at the table, 9 we only concerned about Mr. Green and power. And 10 so, you leave the folk who you represent out.

11 And when those who are setting at the 12 table decide that they want to make sure that they 13 carry folks with them, then they political destroy 14 them. So, I'm basically saying that we need to go 15 back to the table of organizing that brought us to 16 the table so that we can better have civil rights 17 voting involving everybody for educational purpose.

18 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Ms. Green.

19 MS. HAYES: My name is Leyser Hayes, and I
20 am the international --

21 MR. JOHNSON: Ms. Hayes, can you please
22 stand up? Thank you.

23 MS. HAYES: My name is Leyser Hayes, and I
24 am the international connection chairman for Alpha 25 Kappa Alpha sororities. And I just have a comment.

1 Mr. Barber raised an issue about the definitions for 2 what would be an acceptable ID. I just want for the 3 record, because this is crucial, if you're going to 4 determine the definitions, legislation that passed 5 the voter ID, the rules are supposed to define what 6 an acceptable ID is or how you go get your ID. And 7 people don't know where to find that. You need to 8 go to the Secretary of State's office. They're on 9 his website.

10 So, you need to pull that so you can 11 educate people in your community, because right now 12 it's crucial that people be educated. You can 13 change the rules later, but now you have to know 14 what the new rules are. And the only way you're 15 going to find that is to pull the administrative 16 rules that go with the voter ID legislation. That's 17 my comment.

18 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Ms. Hayes. At 19 this time we're going to begin the transition. So, 20 let's give our first witness panel a hand.

21 We're going to ask our panelist for panel
22 two to begin to make your way up front.

23 MR. MCINNIS: Thank y'all so much.

24 MR. JOHNSON: So, we're going to go ahead
25 and get started. If you would allow me to introduce

1 our second panel. First we have Mr. Brad Pigott, 2 former US attorney and Pigott and Johnson, formerly 3 Pigott Reeves and Johnson. Next we have Mr. Anton
4 McKay, a recent graduate of the Tougaloo College,
5 and youth activist from Tunica, Mississippi.
6 Mr. Leroy Johnson, co-director of Southern Echos.
7 And Mr. Charles Irvin representing ACLU. Let's give 8 our panel a hand.

9 At this time we're going to ask our 10 witness to have opening comments, five minutes.
11 Mr. Leon Russell will be timing you and let you know 12 when you are reaching your five minutes. We're 13 going to start with my far left, Mr. Charles Irvin.

14 MR. IRVIN: Good afternoon.

15 MR. JOHNSON: Coming up now is Senator
16 David Blount.

17 MR. IRVIN: Charles Irvin, I'm going to 18 deter to Senator Blount.

19 MR. JOHNSON: Senator Blount, five 20 minutes.

21 MR. BLOUNT: My name is David Blount. I 22 have the honor of representing District 29, which is 23 part of Hinds County in the State Senate. I am also 24 chairman of the elections -- vice chairman of the 25 Senate Elections Committee.

1 Prior to being elected to the State Senate
2 in 2007, I worked for 13 years for the Secretary of 3 State as Mississippi's chief elections officer. I'm 4 also a member of the democratic party of the 5 Municipal Executive Committee. So, I've been 6 involved from the state administrative standpoint -- 7 party standpoint and policy standpoint in 8 legislature. I was happy to be invited to be here 9 today and offer five minutes of comments about 10 action and where we need to go in Mississippi.

11 MR. RUSSELL: Now you've got four minutes.

12 MR. BLOUNT: First, all this comes from a 13 fundamental belief that our you government is 14 stronger the more people who participate in it. And 15 a lot of the public conversation about elections the 16 last few years in Mississippi has been based on 17 fraud. We're all concerned about fraud. We also 18 need to remember that we need to be concerned about 19 access, that we need to be just as concerned about a 20 person in which who had a constitutional right to 21 vote and exercise that right.

22 We ought to have early voting in 23 Mississippi. Most states have early voting, we out 24 to have it in Mississippi. We ought to be able to 25 have -- because voter ID is now the law of the land,

1 we ought to have same-day voter registration in 2 Mississippi. The law requires in the State of 3 Mississippi to show your ID in order to vote.
4 There's no reason you can't have same-day voter 5 registration -- same-day voting.

6 And thirdly, we ought to have on line
7 voter registration. I'm not talking about on line
8 voting, I'm talking about on line voter
9 registration. We've had mail-in voter registration 10 where you mail a piece of paper and an envelop with 11 a stamp on it for more than 20 years, you ought to 12 be able to register to vote online in Mississippi.
13 We had a bill this past session which would allowed 14 this.

15 I'll quickly mention one more thing that 16 was not in my bill that I hope that we can all think 17 about, we being the legislature and the policy
18 makers in this state. If a person loses his or her 19 right to vote as a result of disenfranchising, 20 currently that person can only get his or her right 21 to vote back by a specific act of the legislature 22 naming that person. That, in my opinion, is not the 23 way we ought do it.

24 If you lose your right to vote because of 25 a crime laid out in the constitution, there ought to

1 be a period of time after which that person has paid 2 his or her debt to society, after that person has 3 stayed out of trouble for a certain period of time
4 where that right to vote is automatically restored.
5 It ought to be automatically restored after a 6 certain period of time.

7 So, I know we have a distinguished panel,
8 and I appreciate the opportunity to kind of breeze 9 in here and talk quickly. Mail-in voter 10 registration is the 20th century alternative to on 11 line voter registration. We ought to have on line 12 voter registration in Mississippi. We ought to have 13 early voting. We ought to have same-day voter 14 registration. And we out to have the means by which 15 a person who has lost his or her right to vote after 16 they have paid their debt to society gets that right 17 to vote back without having the legislature pass a 18 bill with your name on it.

19 Those are the things that I will suggest 20 to you would involve more people in the process and 21 we all recognize as a good thing. So, I appreciate 22 the opportunity to be here with this panel and share 23 my thoughts as one member out of 174. I saw 24 Representative Scott, representative of Hinds, here.
25 My friends in the house, but on behalf of at least.

1 But it's my small part of the State Senate to be 2 here. I'm happy to answer questions and do whatever 3 y'all would like me to do.

4 MR. RUSSELL: At this point, we'll move to 5 Mr. Irvin, I believe.

6 MR. IRVIN: My name is Charles Irvin. I'm 7 the legal director at the ACLU of Mississippi. We 8 appreciate the opportunity to come and testify 9 before you. It's my understanding that we will be 10 talking to you about some of the ramifications of 11 the Shelby decision and how that decision strips 12 preclearance from Section 5 of the Voting Rights 13 Act.

14 It seems from listening to the earlier
15 panel, we have some of that covered. So, what I 16 wanted to do is talk about -- we can still talk 17 about Shelby, but I wanted to talk about the fact 18 that at the ACLU we are about protecting rights.
19 And what the Secretary of State has put in place in 20 the form of voter ID, we have to arm ourselves to 21 prepare for the election at hand and then go back to 22 the fight.

23 So, we have to go in two prongs. And a 24 part of that is just basic education. I think it 25 was stated earlier by a member of the audience that

1 the requirements for ID are located on the Secretary
2 of State's website. I think we should start there.
3 I know on June 3rd we will be having the hotline
4 available to answer questions related to potential 5 problems. And I think that goes hand-in-hand with 6 education. If you don't know who to contact, the 7 problems are usually voiced in silence. So, as a 8 community, it's up to us to talk to each other, and 9 I appreciate the fact that this testimony is going 10 forward.

11 So, with that in mind, let's talk about a 12 few of the things that were taken away that are key.
13 And three things stand out to me. In Section 5 14 under preclearance, Mississippi was included without 15 it. That is how we ended up with the voter ID that 16 we have. Immediate action was taken to put that in 17 place.

18 So, let's start with the notice
19 requirement. Without preclearance, there is no set 20 notice requirement. With that in mind, as local 21 communities, it is imperative that if you hear 22 anything related to changes in -- I heard a lot of 23 talk about changes in precinct. There may be 24 changes brought to the table for potential 25 redistricting.

1 Anything along those lines, whether big or 2 small, let us know about it so then we can formulate 3 a challenge. Specifically at the ACLU, you can let 4 us know about it going on line, or you can call us, 5 or you can print out a complaint and mail it in, or 6 you can walk in and fill out a complaint.

7 Why am I talking about complaint process?
8 Simply because a lot of times we will voice our 9 frustration in our civic organizations, and we won't 10 step outside of that to actually fight. And I know 11 just from my knowledge of Carroll, we've had our 12 tangles. And so, the ability go to work and fight, 13 while it may involve attorneys, there is a way to 14 engage the citizenry while fighting in court.

15 So, we have to make sure we build that 16 bridge. And at the ACLU of Mississippi, we want to 17 make ourselves available to help fight that fight 18 along with the other important organizations.

19 And so, I talk about notice. And then 20 there is the fact that, without notice, no one 21 knows. AG Holder doesn't know. Attorney General 22 Holder certainly doesn't know, so the Department of 23 Justice can't join in. And I heard Carroll ask the 24 question about the cost of litigation under Section 25 2. Well, the cost of litigation under Section 2 is 1 going to go higher because we're preclearance. The 2 burden of proof is on the State or the 3 jurisdictions. Where the plaintiff having to bear 4 the burden of proof, that automatically is going to 5 raise up the price.

6 So, I'll stop here and defer to Mr. McKay,
7 and we can talk more about it as we go along.

8 MR. MCKAY: Anton McKay, Upgrade
9 Mississippi. I'd like to just start off by saying 10 something that I say to a lot of my peers a lot; the 11 energy is neither lost nor destroyed, simply 12 transferred from one vessel to the next.

13 In saying that, I challenge -- I've been 14 at the table, I've been able to sit down, and I've 15 been part of the grass root movement all of my life.
16 And the thing that I challenge a lot of the older 17 people to do or my elders to do is to be able to 18 transfer the language down to our level; because 19 often times the natural human intent is when you 20 pull us, for us to pull back.

21 And we say that we're not interested in 22 what's going on, but I challenge you to all look at 23 it like the new world which we do live in, which is 24 technology. And we have like, such as Instagram, 25 Twitter, Facebook, in ways that we can reach the 1 masses without having to ever leave our cell phones.

2 Seriously.

3 So, we talk about the voting and things
4 like that. It's up to who has passed down the twist 5 to make it important to the next generation, that 6 this is where we need to be and this is where our 7 voice has been heard, and this is a vital part of 8 the future of what we hold dear to ourselves.
9 Because, not to sound rude, but the energy has been 10 transferred. And we have the energy, but it's not 11 focused energy. And you see a lot of stuff that's 12 going on, like what is wrong with the youth today.
13 But at the end of the day, all actions and all 14 experience are pretty much learned experience about 15 what we see or what we are allowed to do.

16 We live in a world that we came into this 17 already embedded by somebody the built this world
18 for us. So, when we talk about the voting -- and I 19 tell people how your voice is being heard or whether 20 they can see are you willing to leave behind, or 21 what trees are you planting so the next generation 22 will be able to have shade.

23 When we talk about the voting -- and the 24 thing that got me into -- real serious into it -- 25 I'm a recent graduate. But the thing that moved me

1 the most was, last December I had a chance to meet
2 with a legal attorney, attorney from DC. And she 3 just asked me clearly to -- we had to do like -- we 4 had to clean out a house. And she was like, you 5 want to bring some people with you, okay, that will 6 be fine. So, I brought like nine of my peers with 7 me to come clean out the house. And we got to 8 talking about a lot of things that was going on.
9 And I come from an environment where if you don't 10 like something, you do something about it. Fight 11 for what you believe in.

12 So, the next thing that she said to me,
13 she mailed me a letter from the Huffington Post 14 about the new ID law that has been passed, and how 15 it's like a new poll tax, and it's a new need for 16 freedom (inaudible) to help people register to vote, 17 and also to see the disparities in the numbers of 18 disenfranchising that is done when you tell people 19 they need a new ID to vote.

20 So, when I read it, it touched me in a way
21 like, if this is our God given right, it's not a 22 privilege, it's a right, at what point do we have 23 to -- if it's been challenged and already been 24 passed, I just say we don't cry over spilled milk, 25 we just have to come up with a solution to the 1 problem that has already been stated.

2 So, the thing that we said that be the 3 most influenced thing is, we put together a plan of 4 action, myself along with a lot of my colleagues, 5 like 34 counties that we had, and targeted mainly to 6 the delta area, because it's like, from my research, 7 it's a hard to reach area and get people registered 8 to vote. And we've set up with youth groups and 9 youth organizers, and also with ourselves, to go get 10 people registered to vote and to reach out to the 11 people to let them know that the new voter ID law 12 has been in place, and it's up to us to make sure 13 that our voice been heard. Because who is better to 14 help move the people than the people themselves, 15 especially the youth.

16 Thank you.

17 MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Pigott.

18 MR. PIGOTT: Some of y'all may have heard, 19 if you haven't, you will now, the great old line to 20 the effect that if people in charge are trying to 21 get something passed for themselves or changed for 22 themselves or their own kind, and they keep telling 23 us it's not about the money, it's not about the 24 money, it's not about the money; you can be sure 25 pretty much of one thing, it's about the money.

1 In Mississippi, sadly, when proponents of 2 something like suppressing the vote tell us during 3 the years of efforts that it took them to pass this 4 statute, it's not about race, it's not about race, 5 it's not about race; we can be pretty sure of one
6 thing, it's about race. And they've been telling us 7 for years that this is not a problem, there's no
8 racial differences in ownership of drivers license, 9 everybody has a drivers license. And if you don't 10 believe that, would you believe that we're going to 11 make it easy.

12 Well, a little over a year ago, some of us
13 who are perhaps less trusting in life, I don't know, 14 we just decided to get the states on data and put 15 that to the test. What is the distribution between 16 the two principle races in Mississippi of drivers 17 licenses? We asked -- we tried to invoke the 18 statutes under public records sites, and they said
19 no at the Department of Public Safety. So, we filed 20 a lawsuit against them and got the data.

21 And I have -- I have a single page table
22 if all y'all want to see the particulars of it. I'm 23 just not going to burden you with more than three or 24 four of the facts. But you look at this, it is 25 about race. We compare -- Mississippi does not

1 collect in the voter registration forms or in its 2 voter data, chooses not to collect it on the basis 3 of racial identification. But we compared it to 4 potential voters, which is voter age population.

5 Just over 90 percent of white
6 Mississippians do have a drivers license, but only 7 71.54 percent of African-Americans in Mississippi
8 have drivers license. So, you flip those two facts
9 around, almost 10 percent of white Mississippians do 10 not have a drivers license, but almost 29 percent of 11 African-Americans lack a drivers license.

12 Now, if you look at that, some things are 13 predictable, but there's a category in there that's 14 really poignant to me and sad, and maybe maddening 15 even, the one group within Mississippi that it is 16 most disadvantaged now by their presumptive 17 requirement of photo ID or drivers license. That is 18 the thing that most of us carry. Where we've 19 forgotten is the group of African-American 20 Mississippians who are 75 and over.

21 And I say it's poignant because, think of 22 these, those are the folks who are old enough to 23 have been discriminated against in voting matters in 24 this state according to the official law of this 25 state in the years before the 1965. Voting rights

1 was passed 49 years ago. And sure enough, this is 2 the group, an actual majority of those folks do not 3 have a drivers license. And actual majority.

4 Here we go again. White Mississippians 75
5 and over have a drivers license to the extent of 6 72 percent, but only 46 percent of African-Americans 7 who have -- so, it is about race. We have all the 8 figures here. So, now we're going to have to trust 9 with respect to what we're told are free and easy 10 uses of these voter ID cards. We're going to have 11 trust the same folks as to whether or not the 12 distribution of those or the ease of those is or is 13 not about race.

14 I've looked over -- as some of you all 15 have, the new round of -- I thought these folks, the 16 very folks who are proponents of this voter ID, I 17 thought they were the ones against big government, 18 against new bureaucracy, against new regulations.
19 And worst of all, I thought they were the ones who 20 drove all these lines in the sand against giving 21 discretion to people in the name of the government 22 to deprive you of things.

23 Even those of us who do have drivers
24 license are going to be at the mercy for the first 25 time beginning next week, for those of y'all who

1 want to vote in those primaries, of decisions made 2 at the polls about whether our photograph on our 3 drivers license fairly depicts us.

4 Now, I'm worried. I don't plan to vote in 5 any of those primaries next week, but I'm a little 6 worried about, since my wife talked me into shaving
7 my head, I may not be fairly depicted on the drivers 8 license. But there's a lot to worry about, and 9 these folks cannot by history be trusted very well.
10 And we're just going to have to work hard to expose 11 the same kind of differences that we see in the 12 drivers license.

13 MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Johnson, and then the 14 committee will ask questions.

15 MR. MORSE: May we ask for a copy of that 16 and add it to the record that the court reporter is 17 making?

18 MR. PIGOTT: Yes.

19 MR. JOHNSON: Mr. Johnson.

20 (Exhibit 1 - Data sheet marked for the 21 record.)

22 MR. JOHNSON: Good afternoon. Thanks for 23 this opportunity to be chosen as a witness. I wrote 24 a wonderful piece that's lawyerly, since we have a 25 panel of lawyers, so I wrote a wonderful piece

1 that's lawyerly. Now, I want to talk.

2 Winston Churchill says that the farther we 3 can look back, the farther we can see forward. The 4 farther we can look back, the more we can see 5 forward. On the same level as Winston Churchill is 6 my grandfather. My grandfather said, "Boy,
7 everybody got a forehead. The question is, do you 8 have a forethought." So, part of this is trying to 9 recognize whether or not the folks who make the 10 decisions has a forethought. I know they got a 11 forehead. The question is, do they have a 12 forethought.

13 Race in America is still prevalent. So, 14 let me go back. My mom is one of those folks who is 15 over 75 years old and doesn't have a drivers 16 license. So, it hits home. It's not about what 17 other folks are talking about, it's about what is 18 right at home for me. My mom was one of those folks 19 who were registered by federal registrar, because 20 the local circuit clerk's office and city clerk's 21 wouldn't register black folks.

22 So, we had to have folks coming from away
23 from the federal government to register. So, my mom 24 was registered by the federal registry. My grand 25 mom was one of those folks who had to go to the

1 circuit clerk's office to be registered. And here's 2 what happened, they had taught them how to interpret 3 the constitution, but when they got there, the 4 question they asked her was, "How many bubbles in a 5 bar of soap?"

6 She said, "Well, Baby, you know, we use 7 lye soap, ain't no bubbles." They got flustered, 8 they turned red, didn't know what to do. So, they 9 gave her her registration card. So, I believe the 10 lye soap because there ain't no bubbles, but I 11 believe that the bubbles that we're seeing today are 12 a bunch of lies.

13 When the process works, then the process 14 is no good. So, when you -- in the State of 15 Mississippi, when we got to be 37 percent of the 16 population and 31 percent of voting age population, 17 then we got to be 28 percent of the State
18 Legislature, and 32 percent of municipal government 19 seats, and 35 percent of county level seats, and 20 25 percent of the congressional house, and 21 17 percent of the congressional deligation; and they 22 said, Oh, it's working, we got to stop this, this 23 ain't good for us.

24 Because the more they can get together 25 with folks and build a coalition, the more you have

1 an opportunity that powers may change. And then,
2 when powers change, who the money goes to change.

3 So, these questions about precinct changes
4 and -- we have a community down in Green County last 5 night, the first thing they said was about precinct 6 changes, we want to make it comfortable again for 7 white folks to vote. We want to make it
8 comfortable, so we need to change the precinct so it 9 can be comfortable. We got to have a place where 10 they feel comfortable at. And even though this is 11 the only black majority district in the county, we 12 still want the white folk to feel comfortable. So, 13 we're going to change the precinct where we got to 14 vote at.

15 So, part of that answer to you tonight,
16 this evening is, we got to get boots on the ground,
17 whether they're sneakers, shoes, gym shoes, I don't 18 care. Whether they sandals, I don't care. What we 19 going to need is communities getting together, 20 understanding what the rules are, and playing by 21 those rules as we change those rules. We have to go 22 back to a place where voting isn't an entitlement, 23 but voting is a right of citizenship.

24 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you. Now, at this 25 time we're going allow the commissioners to ask the

1 witnesses questions for 20 minutes. Once we exhaust
2 that, then we're going to open it up for questions
3 and comments from you all.

4 At this time, are there any questions?

5 MR. MORSE: I would ask this panel, first 6 of all, if you have any thoughts about the effect on 7 voter ID, of having district enforcement misdemeanor
8 laws that result in the loss of your drivers 9 license. And I ask that question based on having 10 been a city prosecutor and judge in Gulfport for a 11 number of years and seen disparate racial 12 enforcement of traffic laws where I would see -- I 13 would look out in a room like this from the bench
14 and see 70 percent or more African-American people 15 in the audience in a town that was 35 to 37 percent 16 African-American.

17 And a lot of those folks hold Louisiana 18 licenses, wondering what do you see as an 19 aggravating effect of this sort of enforcement, and 20 not as a disenfranchise level, but at the very 21 bottom level that effects a whole lot of people.
22 Any thoughts on that?

23 MR. JOHNSON: I'm concerned two ways.
24 One, they say if you have a drivers license, you 25 don't need a voter ID. But if you lose your drivers

1 license temporarily, which is a lot that happens -- 2 you think it happens a lot down there where you are,
3 you ought to go to rural Mississippi and go to the 4 rural --

5 MR. MORSE: Don't doubt it.

6 MR. JOHNSON: I'm telling you, it's a
7 whole kind of story. You go into Traffic Court at 8 municipal levels and you go to Traffic Court at the 9 county level, and you see who's there and who's 10 losing their license temporarily for six months and 11 for 90 days. And then if you've got five speeding 12 tickets, you lose it for a year.

13 And so, all of these type of things become 14 part of the problem. And so, if you lost it for a 15 period of time where you don't have it, then do you 16 have to have a voter ID during that time -- if the 17 election is going to happen during that time, do you 18 have to have a voter ID? And if you do have to have 19 a voters ID, how do you then move the process to 20 make that happen?

21 Part of this is, we've got voter IDs being 22 handled and being pressed in Georgia rather than 23 being pressed at the circuit clerk's level inside of 24 our community. So, you've already got a place where 25 stuff can drop through the cracks. And in

1 Mississippi, we've got huge cracks. We ain't just 2 got no small cracks, we got stuff that just drop 3 through, a person can drop through it.

4 So, we've got a lot of laws in Mississippi
5 that I think don't have a problem with this part of 6 the process because I see this constantly when I'm 7 in communities across the rural delta and north 8 Mississippi and the same.

9 MR. RHODES: Let me make a comment on 10 that. Back to the state law on voter ID comes into 11 play. That one is, acceptable form of ID, including 12 a valid and current drivers license, if your license 13 have been suspended, it's not valid.

14 MR. JOHNSON: Right.

15 MR. RHODES: There's another part of the 16 statute that says if you have a Mississippi drivers
17 license, then you cannot get a state issued ID.

18 MR. JOHNSON: That's exactly what I'm 19 talking about.

20 MR. RHODES: So, the way our statute 21 reads, if you have a drivers license, it's just been 22 suspended, you still have a drivers license, so you 23 can't go get a state issued ID.

24 MR. MORSE: It's catch 22.

25 MR. PIGOTT: It gets worse, Carroll. Two

1 things about that. If you're applying for an ID 2 card at the circuit clerk's office, and you're 3 either confused or they're confused of whether your 4 drivers license is valid, it's a crime if you 5 indicate you do not have -- it's a new crime -- it's 6 not just new bureaucracy, this is new crimes that 7 they have enacted in all this voter ID stuff. It's 8 a crime to affirm that you do not have a photo ID of 9 another sort accepted by the statute.

10 So, you know, that's -- it gets worse.
11 The Secretary of State has a different view of valid
12 than the legislature does. And this is another -- 13 this is an example of the bureaucratic nightmare 14 that may be unavoidable in all of this. I mean, we 15 try to suppress the vote. It's tough on bureaucrats 16 to implement all of that. There are all kind of new 17 rules.

18 The Secretary of State -- and it may be an 19 intension to some from the point of validity 20 coming -- invalidity coming from expired or 21 suspended. Because who among the poll workers is 22 going to have that list? But the Secretary of State 23 interprets valid in their proposed regulations a 24 different way than the highway patrol does, I tell 25 you what.

1 They say that a valid -- a valid drivers
2 license, it's valid if it's authentic. If it is 3 what it purports to be, it's not fake or forgery.
4 So, I think he's trying to soften this issue. In 5 fact, on this and a number of instances, it's 6 creating a new opportunity for conflict, different 7 interpretations, more discretion, and more
8 discrimination in the exercise of discretion.

9 So, if the Secretary of State wins out, 10 the problem you raise is not a problem because 11 suspended and expired won't deprive you of voting.
12 But who knows as to which -- whether an individual 13 poll worker is going to follow the statute or follow
14 the Secretary of State.

15 MR. MCKAY: Like I say, we call a spade a 16 spade. In hearing Leroy talking a couple times, if 17 he walk like a duck, quack like a duck and it looks 18 like a duck, you can best believe it's a duck. I 19 guess it's like when you say voter disenfranchise.

20 Like, if you want to put it -- because we 21 did the numbers, in the early 1960s, a young black 22 man was three times more likely of getting pulled 23 over than a Caucasian male. But in the early 2000s 24 and all up to 2014, you're six times more likely to 25 get pulled over.

1 So, if you look at those numbers, you're 2 six times more likely -- you're six times more 3 likely to get a traffic violation. And, you know,
4 we said driving while black still sometimes stands
5 with me, because you tend to know the areas that you 6 feel accepted by the way that you're looked at when 7 you walk in a certain place, by the way when you
8 pass police officers, you've got to double check 9 yourself.

10 But they're supposed to protect and to 11 serve, but who are they really protecting and 12 serving. And if you look at the voter ID law, since 13 when did my right to come in and vote for who I 14 think should have the betterment of the country or 15 the county or the city that I live in should be 16 challenged by a photo ID when this is something that 17 my ancestors or people who died for just to get the 18 right to do.

19 So, I'm not the one to cry over spilled 20 milk. Well, we still looking at the fact of that we 21 do still -- we don't live in a post racial society.
22 But at this time, we can't cry over spilled milk, 23 and it's going to be us as the youth, us as the 24 people coming up to make sure that we come up with 25 solutions rather than a result to the problem that

1 has just been stated before that takes place next 2 Tuesday.

3 MR. RHODES: Brad, I just want to make a
4 further comment on that problem you're talking 5 about. In some traffic offenses, when people are 6 stopped, their drivers license is taken, they're 7 given a ticket to drive on until they show up in 8 court. But if the election happens and somebody is 9 suspended now, their court date is not until July, 10 they don't have an ID to show when they go to the 11 polls.

12 MR. PIGOTT: What are they going to say 13 when they go try to get -- if they're diligent 14 enough during that interim to go to the circuit 15 clerk and say, I need a voter ID card, and what are 16 they going to say under oath when they're asked do 17 you have -- well, I don't have it on me, but the 18 Justice Court clerk does.

19 Again, query whether all of this 20 bureaucracy is intended or not. Some of it is 21 just -- some of these folks may be trying to 22 implement this nightmare in a conscientious way, but 23 whether they are or not, it's still a nightmare.

24 MR. JOHNSON: Brad, one follow-up on that,
25 then I have a question for Ms. McDonald. What

1 happens if this individual who lives in a rural area 2 and can't get to the courthouse to get an ID? How 3 are they supposed to -- what happens in that case?

4 MR. PIGOTT: That depends on whether you
5 believe our Secretary of State's website.

6 Apparently part of the new tax payer money is going 7 not only into photographic equipment -- supposedly 8 all of the registrars -- which I wouldn't want to 9 pay that bill, but the taxpayers have to pay that 10 bill. Apparently you can get a free ride all over 11 the county whenever you want it and say you're going 12 at somebody's expense. I don't know who's. And 13 supposedly a free and easy ride to the circuit 14 clerk's office.

15 I don't believe it. I don't believe that 16 if you go to the outskirts of Washington County 17 or -- that you're going to get a free ride to the 18 polls that the government offers you. Since when -- 19 again, since when was this crowd really in favor of 20 offering free rides to anywhere to anybody.

21 But if -- on paper, there is an elaborate 22 effort right now to make it look easy to get a 23 voter. But the more you look at the regulations, 24 and the more you realize the demographics of the 25 State, and the more you realize the fact that people

1 work for a living during the hours that the circuit 2 clerk is open, the more you realize that not only is 3 this a new layer of intense bureaucracy, intensely 4 inflicted on people as a prerequisite to vote.

5 But it is totally unpredictable. It will 6 differ greatly from community to community. And 7 everybody is at the mercy of the circuit clerk's 8 office or poll workers. And who knows what the most 9 conscientious poll worker will do with an issue like 10 what does valid mean on your drivers license.

11 MR. JOHNSON: Mr. Rhodes, you mentioned a 12 scenario about a community action agency and whether 13 or not they could provide the rides. Do you --

14 MR. RHODES: I wanted to ask the panel if 15 you had heard anyone in the community, because NAACP
16 had checked on whether or not there could be free 17 rides, and the Secretary of State's office said that 18 community action agencies would take people to the 19 poll.

20 And we contacted some of those community
21 action agencies. First, your answer is going to be 22 no. Because in order to ride in a community action 23 agency's van, you have to be of a certain income.
24 And if you're above that income, but you're still 25 too poor to afford a ride to the poll, community

1 action agency won't pick you up.

2 So, I was wondering if any of y'all have 3 heard any instances of people not being able to get 4 those so-called free rides.

5 MR. MCKAY: Part of our training that we 6 renew on the upgrade of the city is, we challenged 7 all the youth to call the hotline and see can we get 8 that free ride. If I'm not mistaken, but I think 9 it's Ms. Gabriel, Joshua Jamen, a couple of 10 ourselves, we called that line. And just because 11 we're going to be in the field and we happen to come 12 across a person, we wanted to show you how to get 13 your free ID, and you have to talk to this monotone 14 voice that's going to take eight minutes for you to 15 actually give them your information before he gives 16 you the number to call to really give you
17 information.

18 Like, it's really like a circle. But you 19 have to realize that, if we're talking about the 20 common people which we are trying to help, as we 21 say, the everyday person that wants to go vote, that 22 wants their voice to be heard, we're still waiting 23 on that free ride.

24 MR. PIGOTT: Healthcare.gov is starting to 25 sound a lot easier.

1 MR. MCKAY: Do have you a passport? Do
2 you have a drivers license? Do you have a Medicaid
3 card, a Medicare card? Have you ever been issued a 4 state issued ID? Who do you work for? Is this an 5 interrogation or can I just get my ride to go get my 6 ID? I'm just trying to vote. And to the everyday 7 working class people, it's kind of hard for you to 8 have to go to an everyday struggle trying to live 9 paycheck to paycheck to take the time out of your 10 day to talk to somebody about going to vote.

11 That's really going to make you feel 12 inferior to the person that you're talking to and 13 feel like your rights aren't really your rights 14 anymore.

15 MR. JOHNSON: Ms. McDonald.

16 MS. MCDONALD: This is the kind of 17 testimony that we need in order to kind of, I guess, 18 submit to the Congress in Washington. It's very 19 specific.

20 And one of my questions is, and maybe I'm 21 asking myself as well as any of the lawyers in this 22 room and anyone else, is there a legal challenge 23 that we can mount? And I know there have been some 24 legal challenges mounted in other states. And where 25 are we on that?

1 And I guess I'm asking myself that, too,
2 because as an activist, it's something that I've 3 been thinking about. Carroll and I have been 4 talking about it, I've been talking about it with 5 Derrick, and I would just like someone to comment on 6 that.

7 MR. IRVIN: Here's what I would say to the 8 legal challenge. Because of the missing crater of 9 preclearance, any challenge is going to come after 10 the fact. That's the bottom line, it comes after 11 the fact. So, that means the election has passed, 12 that means any remedy that you would potentially 13 receive is moot. So --

14 MS. MCDONALD: I guess I was speaking to 15 the validity of the -- I guess this will be the 16 first election cycle that we've had to go through, 17 and so I -- your point is well taken.

18 MR. IRVIN: So, the second step of that 19 though is, when you asked about drivers license, 20 when ask you about free rides, the Section 2 states
21 that if you can document instances with the standard 22 being a results standard, then if you set it up that 23 way where you're documenting systematic 24 disenfranchising, you have a better chance of 25 getting, you know -- your remedy that you would ask

1 for obviously would be under 3c, you would ask for 2 the State of Mississippi as a whole to be bailed 3 back in so that everything can be looked at.

4 MS. MCDONALD: I guess I'm going further 5 and saying that we've got to make a record in these 6 elections in order to get some change.

7 MR. PIGOTT: My view is just exactly what 8 Charles was saying. And it also goes back to what 9 Commissioner Rhodes -- you're commissioner for about 10 another three hours. Commissioner Rhodes was saying 11 before this panel started, which is that the more 12 you know about the debacle of Section 5 being taken 13 away from the Voting Rights Act, the more you 14 realize how much of a difference it's going to make.

15 There's some folks are going to have to 16 fall off the cliff before we can prevent people from 17 falling off the cliff. And it's going to have to be 18 one, and maybe two elections. We're all going to 19 have to work really hard. That's the difference 20 between having experts in Washington and 21 preclearance stage of Section 5 review knowing what 22 will happen and having to prove that it has already 23 happened.

24 But we're going to all do our homework, I 25 trust, but we've -- it's going to take that. It is

1 going to take a lot of work, because now the State
2 has their websites which are promising the moon.
3 And I didn't know, Carroll, about your thing about 4 that they're claiming that the free and easy ride is 5 from CAP agencies.

6 That's because I think they just assume 7 those people are getting free stuff to everybody all 8 the time anyway, and they don't have any rules.
9 They think that. So, that's what we mean. It's got 10 to be easy. Why don't y'all just go do it? I think 11 that's the whole -- that must be the whole policy 12 behind it.

13 MR. RHODES: I would like to add, Brad, 14 Deborah, and the other lawyers in the room, that 15 back when we were doing these type fights in the 16 '70s, '60s, '70s and '80s and '90s, the legal 17 climate was a lot different than what the legal 18 climate -- the judicial climate. Let me correct
19 that.

20 The judges on the bench, it depended on 21 the who was on the bench deciding -- the Voting 22 Rights Act was upheld in 1966, South Carolina versus 23 Castenback. And for a series of cases after then, 24 you had the US Supreme Court that understood the 25 history of discrimination in this country, and the

1 Supreme Court did not hesitate decisions, I think 2 9/0 to say the Congress had that right to enforce 3 the 14th and 15th amendments, making sure black 4 folks and everybody else had access to the right to
5 vote.

6 The current Supreme Court does not -- is 7 not that friendly, does not have that view. Getting 8 back Shelby County, Alabama versus Hoseman. The 9 current Supreme Court said we are now free at last, 10 free at last. Y'all are electing black folks all 11 over the south, black folks are registered, and 12 record numbers, higher than whites.

13 And the current Supreme Court forgot to 14 recognize that that was because primarily Section 5, 15 because these folks who had a history of 16 discriminating couldn't really do it before they got 17 preclearance. They got the preclearance. One thing 18 about the elected officials in Mississippi I've 19 noticed over the years, I call it white power 20 structure, is that they fought black folks getting 21 the right to vote. They fought all of the Section 5 22 submissions, they did not want to get anything 23 precleared.

24 They took courts -- they took cases to the 25 DC District Court and challenged it. But the minute

1 black folks started voting and started getting 2 elected, they run around the country saying, We've 3 changed Mississippi, there's no more racial problems 4 because we have more black elected officials than 5 anywhere else. They the main ones trying to keep 6 black elected officials from being elected. They're 7 now trying to keep black folks from voting with 8 these new laws.

9 MR. PIGOTT: Y'all may think of a better
10 analogy. I try to think of analogy of the cruel 11 irony of the Shelby County decision and the language 12 that they use. I mean, they don't make any bones 13 about it. I'm looking at what can only be called a 14 party line vote of five to four that decided the 15 Shelby County decision.

16 The chief justice said there is no doubt 17 that these improvements, meaning the improvements in 18 eliminating surface (inaudible) in voting are in 19 large part the cost of the Voting Rights Act. I've 20 tried to think of analogy, maybe y'all can think of 21 a better one.

22 Here's mine: If there was time in the 23 past where you were about 60 pounds overweight and 24 your heart condition was suffering and your energy 25 level was low and your life expectancy was low and

1 you went on a diet, and you lost 50 pounds, and your 2 heart got better and everything, does that prove you
3 never needed to be on a diet? Does that prove you 4 don't need to stay on the diet?

5 Does anybody really -- would a doctor tell
6 you that. Well, this just proves to me you don't 7 need a diet. The last thing you need to worry about 8 is that diet.

9 MR. BLOUNT: I think the analogy that 10 Justice Lindberg used that opinion, if I'm not 11 mistaken, it's as if -- if you had been walking in 12 the rain with an umbrella and you were dry, and you 13 were walking in the rain and you're dry, you're not 14 getting wet, it would be as if saying you don't need 15 the umbrella. You don't need the umbrella because 16 you have been dry, you haven't gotten wet.

17 And, of course, what happens was, when you 18 take the umbrella away, you're going to get soaking 19 wet. I'd like to -- I do have to slip out early.
20 There are two primarily elections next Tuesday, not 21 just the one you're reading about in the newspaper 22 all the time. The other party is having a primarily 23 election, too. So, I would encourage you to vote in 24 the primarily of your choice on Tuesday. I think 25 that came up. I'm going vote in the other primary.

1 The notion of preclearance is sort of like
2 the motion, you're much less likely to speed if you 3 know there might a policeman around the corner with 4 a radar gun. And public notice is something that I 5 should have mentioned. I think it may have been 6 Mr. Irvin that mentioned the need for public notice.
7 There ought to be -- until there is some sort of 8 preclearance requirement -- and I think preclearance
9 has been a good thing for Mississippi, and I think 10 preclearance will be a good thing for any state 11 where the possibility of discrimination exists.

12 So, ask yourself, how many states is that?
13 Are there any states for the possibility for where 14 discrimination does not exist?

15 Preclearance has been a good thing. Until 16 we have preclearance restored by the Congress, there 17 are some fundamental things regarding notice that 18 are easily done that the legislature ought to 19 require of any movements of precincts.

20 I think Mr. Johnson mentioned the precinct
21 changes. Any movement of precincts, anything 22 regarding redistricting, it's very easy to provide 23 notice for that. That provides notice not only to 24 the people living in that community, it provides 25 notice to groups like this who are going to be

1 keeping an eye out for any backward movement out 2 there at the local level. That's easily done and 3 something that we need to be aware of.

4 MR. RHODES: I'd just like one quick
5 follow-up to what Senator Blount just said. It is 6 important to vote in one of the two primaries.
7 Historically, Mississippi republican primaries has 8 been white folks voting in those primaries. And 9 they might not encounter the same type of problems.
10 Historically, black voters have voted in democratic 11 primaries.

12 If there's going to be a record made of 13 the problems with voter ID, you need to have people 14 going to the polls so we can know, how are these 15 election officials implementing these new voter ID 16 rules. So, people still need to go vote. They 17 don't need to sit at home and say this is not -- we 18 don't have a reason to go vote now. Because we 19 still need to make a record during this election
20 cycle because it will come up again in November.

21 MR. BLOUNT: The policies regarding the 22 implementation part handle the saying is in regards 23 to what kind of voters you are regardless of the 24 primary they voted in.

25 MR. JOHNSON: Senator Blount, this past

1 session that you've done in the past, you've 2 introduced legislation to try to enact early voting.
3 What has been the response from your colleagues from 4 that legislation?

5 MR. BLOUNT: Well, obviously I'm going to 6 start focusing here today on voter ID. And I had 7 the opportunity for many years to vote against that 8 before it was put into law. And I asked myself, 9 given that it was law, what opportunities might that 10 create for us to enlarge the lack of increased
11 participation.

12 So, early voting is one. And same day
13 registration -- if you have go to the polls and show
14 your ID, then there's no fraud. We've been hearing 15 for years about fraud. There's no fraud if you're 16 showing an ID. Did the bill that I've introduced 17 the last two years since we've had voter ID in 18 Mississippi, did that come up in the committee? It 19 did not.

20 I am the vice chair of the Senate
21 Elections Committee. The chairman of the Senate 22 Elections Committee is Senator McDaniel, who's 23 currently running for the US Senate. And I don't 24 think that our committee got any legislation 25 referred to it this year, probably part of that is

1 because the political season that we're in.

2 But there are things -- I mean, the party
3 that I belong to is not the majority party. I think 4 there are things that we can possibly get done. I 5 think that there are many other states across the 6 country where the Secretary of State implemented on 7 line voter registration. This is not going to solve 8 a lot of the very real problems that the panel is 9 talking about today, but I'm always looking for -- I 10 don't like to just get beat all the time. I'm 11 looking for some positive problematic things that we 12 can do. And you have to -- given that we have voter 13 ID, we have to look for opportunities to use that 14 since we've heard about fraud all these years, and 15 we've moved beyond that, and we can try to let 16 people vote early in the courthouse, register to 17 vote on line.

18 I hope that's an answer to your question
19 that I'm going to try to --

20 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you. Final question
21 from Commissioner Morse.

22 MR. MORSE: We may pick this up in a later
23 meeting since I see the lunch is here. I wonder 24 whether this panel had any short thoughts about 25 people examining whether there's going to be

1 differential enforcement of voter ID in one primary 2 versus another. Any thoughts on that?

3 MR. BLOUNT: I want that record. I want 4 to know if people who want to go vote in the 5 democratic primary in Tallahatchie County are being 6 treated the same as people who are voting in the 7 republican primary in Desoto County. And one of the 8 procedures out there that that grand momma out there 9 who doesn't have a drivers license or left it at 10 home who caught a ride, is that grandmother in 11 Desoto County going to be treated the same as the 12 grandmother in Tallahatchie County.

13 MR. JOHNSON: Well, I've had a
14 conversation with the Secretary of State
15 specifically about that. And his argument was to me 16 was that the training is the same for all. That was 17 his wonderful answer, is that the training is the 18 same for all.

19 He doesn't -- he's going to be sending 20 folks to make sure to check. All right. But the 21 answer is, the training is the same for all. And if 22 some folk take their training and do wrong things, 23 it wasn't because they didn't get the same training.

24 I said, "Okay. The training the same for 25 all." And the good folks from the other side was

1 saying wasn't this supposed to help us stop some of 2 these folks from voting? That was what they said in 3 the meeting at the training. And he said, "No. No.
4 That wasn't what happened." And then one of the 5 little old wonderful white woman, elderly, she said,
6 "That is what you said."

7 And, you know, he quickly said, "Well, 8 we'll have this discussion afterwards." But the 9 person was still the same, and he left there. So, 10 he left before the afterwards. And he left his 11 chief of staff, Davis, to answer that person. And 12 Davis gave us the answer of saying, I don't know 13 what the Secretary of State would do, but we're 14 going to make sure that we have folk at every 15 precinct.

16 And I said, "That's a lot of people.
17 There's a lot of precincts in the State of 18 Mississippi." That was part of the process. And he 19 said, "Well, the legislature gave us money, and 20 we're going to see what we can do to make sure that 21 that's not part of the problem." And my question to 22 him was --

23 MR. PIGOTT: In the republican primary?

24 MR. JOHNSON: Yeah. So, my question was, 25 "Is it going to be selected? Is it going to be

1 selected?" And the answer was, no, they were going 2 to try to make sure it's done everywhere. But the 3 question becomes, you don't have the money to do 4 that, to put folks on the ground everywhere, every 5 precinct. So, will it be selected? And he left 6 with a critical look on his face, and he never 7 answered the question.

8 So, your question is very valid. I don't 9 know what they're going to do. His answer is, is 10 that it's the same training, therefore, folks should 11 be doing the same thing in every location. But he 12 recognized that folks take training differently, and 13 some folks get it right and some folks get it wrong, 14 but that's okay. And if you're in one of the places 15 where they get it wrong and one of them are there, 16 they're going to fix it. But if you're at a place 17 where they are not there, it's just going to happen.

18 So, the idea of us needing to -- making 19 sure that we put down that we take stock is very, 20 very important. So, we're going to have folks at 21 every precinct in my county to make sure that we 22 understand what's going on, who's doing it, and 23 who's not doing it. So, Holmes County is going to 24 do that. But I'm not sure whether or not we've done 25 enough work to make sure that's going to happen in

1 every county in the state every part of the process.

2 MR. RHODES: Final question, the final 3 comment, is that it's the different who runs the 4 primary and general election. Primaries are ran by 5 the political parties. There's two primaries run by 6 the political parties. General elections are run by 7 election commissioners. Election commissioners 8 decide who the poll workers are in November. But 9 the parties decide who the poll workers are in June.
10 But you might have some of the same folks who might 11 run the republican primary, democratic primary than 12 the poll workers during the November election.

13 The question is going to become, how is 14 that enforced in November? Is it just going to be 15 the same type interpretation as, of course, as it 16 was during the primaries when people still need to 17 go vote in November so we can still make a record?

18 November election is going to be the 19 first -- the general election people need to vote if 20 see there are any problems or kinks. The November 21 election is really important to see how it affects 22 minority voters.

23 MR. JOHNSON: So, let's give our witnesses
24 a hand.

25 At this time we're going to take a break.

1 As you can smell, Sugars Chicken is in the back.

2 After the break we're going to bring up our final 3 panel, and then take questions from the audience.

4 MR. SAYER: Question for this panel.

5 MR. JOHNSON: We got the public
6 questioning, and then -- I need some direction here, 7 because I smell food and we got public questions.

8 MR. SPENCE: We're going to eliminate for 9 the first public testimony and questions, but 10 immediately after lunch, we're going to bring 11 everybody back and finish with the questions for 12 this panel. So, it's going to be limited to three 13 people this round, but as soon as we finish with 14 lunch, we'll have another session for public
15 testimony.

16 MR. JOHNSON: Just two questions now.
17 We're going to break for lunch.

18 MR. SAYER: This is Mike Sayer with 19 Southern Echo, Jackson, Mississippi. Here's my 20 question.

21 Brad and others have identified the series 22 of confusions and uncertainties in the 23 interpretation of the statute and the statute in 24 relation to the administrative rules. Is this an 25 appropriate circumstance with persons who need a

1 voter ID and certain friendly circuit clerks to 2 bring an action for declaratory judgment that the 3 statute and rules taken together are void for 4 vagueness under the search -- this situation are 5 subject to selective enforcement, and request an 6 injunction against implementation of the voter ID
7 until these declaratory questions are resolved?

8 And that's in distillatory of the election
9 rather than subsequent to the election. You're kind 10 of with me. Very clearly, this confusion and 11 uncertainty leading to very valid but ultimate and 12 conflicting interpretations by well-meaning people.
13 Don't even have to allege malice.

14 You said which one applies? And that's a 15 good question for a person even with legal training, 16 which applies. The court ultimately decides that, 17 right, when there's a conflict of that? That's why 18 you have declaratory judgments and why you have 19 injunctions in anticipation of a problem. That's 20 the purpose of declaratory judgment. Is that 21 possible?

22 MR. RHODES: Mike, I think maybe that 23 could be the friendly circuit clerk most definitely 24 could finds someone without an ID to be a part of 25 that lawsuit. The State Attorney General will

1 defend -- one thing it might be saying, the circuit
2 clerks don't have standing to sue the state. But 3 you need somebody who might be effected by the 4 statute and the Secretary of State's regulations 5 being interpreted differently.

6 And maybe the circuit clerk could say, I 7 don't know how to interpret it, and I need some 8 clarification. So, it might be a good idea to bring 9 a declaratory judgment action. But finding a 10 friendly court is going to be the next thing.

11 MR. PIGOTT: I think that's going to be 12 State Court system --

13 MR. RUSSELL: I think the confusion having 14 been put on the record is the most important part of 15 this discussion. The second part of the question
16 might be when you and Derrick and Brad and Carroll 17 get together in another meeting, not this one, to 18 decide if a lawsuit is appropriate.

19 MR. SAYER: One thing, what do you think a 20 lawsuit would do? It would put everybody in the 21 State on notice as to these confusion and the 22 necessity for a valid interpretations.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Next question.

24 MS. ROSEMARY: I'm Rosemary, and I work
25 with a small group of political people who discuss a

1 lot of issues. My concern is that I know in my 2 precinct, we have a lot of elderly poll workers.
3 Some of those poll workers I think don't quite see 4 things that's on the paper and on my ID or whatever.

5 My question is, if you have a discrepancy
6 and the poll worker says this doesn't quite look 7 like you, but you know it's you and you've been 8 voting there forever, what recourse do I have, and 9 will I be able to vote at that time even if I do 10 absentee voting, even though you tell me that my 11 ID -- like, what we get it in Mississippi, every 12 five, six years? I forgot. Whatever.

13 I know mine has changed somewhat. But if 14 I don't look like on my ID, but I know that's my ID, 15 what is my recourse if you tell me that does not 16 really look like you and you can't vote? How do 17 I -- what is my procedure and recourse at that 18 particular time as far as voice -- voting?

19 MR. JOHNSON: Deborah, Carroll or Brad, 20 y'all want to?

21 MS. MCDONALD: The law states you vote
22 affidavit. It's in the law. You vote an affidavit
23 ballot.

24 MR. PIGOTT: Folks need to know the second 25 step on that, and it's bad stuff. In order for your

1 affidavit ballot to count now, you're going to have 2 to vote twice. You're going to have to go down to 3 the circuit clerk's office and go to that different 4 bureaucracy where a different group of people work
5 town vote within five days.

6 So, if you got somebody who thinks that 7 you don't look substantially like your drivers 8 license, you're going to have to vote twice, and 9 you're going to have to go through a lot of hurdles 10 in order for your vote to count at all.

11 So, affidavit ballots sound great until 12 you realize you've got to go through that other 13 group of hoops.

14 MS. EVANS: What if you're married and you 15 have a maiden name on your drivers license, but 16 you're Mrs. So and So on voting roles, can they 17 challenge you and not question the vote?

18 MR. JOHNSON: Can you state your name and 19 repeat your question? State your name and repeat 20 your question.

21 MS. EVANS: I'm Lynn Evans. And my 22 question is, if what you have on your drivers 23 license, which is what most women have, is their 24 maiden name and their married name, Lynn Evans, but 25 on your voting registration you have Mrs. OB Evans,

1 for example, are they going to let you vote?

2 MR. PIGOTT: I'm looking at the full page
3 of regulations that pertains to that issue. And 4 that's the problem. I mean, it's -- it depends 5 on -- if it's substantially similar name -- now, 6 that can mean a lot of different things to a lot of 7 different people. And I realize time is expiring, 8 but if your elector middle or last name on the photo 9 to identification is different from his or middle or 10 last name as it appears on the poll book due to 11 marriage, divorce or hyphenation, the elector shall 12 be entitled to cast his or his ballot if a part of 13 the name, the address or the date of birth matches 14 the poll book.

15 So, I mean, bless their hearts, who wants 16 to be the poll watchers in this thing. And you're 17 at the mercy of a convoluted decision, convoluted 18 regulation and a complete discretion. And that's 19 the problem. This is not just about confusion and 20 difficulty. These things are going to be 21 implemented differently against different people in 22 this state for the rest of our lives as long as this 23 kind of thing is a detriment to voting. It's going 24 to be applied differently.

25 MR. JOHNSON: So, we want to thank you

1 all. We'll take the break for lunch. And then 2 right after lunch, we'll have the panel come back up 3 and we'll take additional questions.

4 (A lunch break was taken.)

5 (Exhibit 2 - Leroy Johnson's written 6 testimony marked for the record).

7 MR. SPENCE: Now, the floor is open for 8 public questioning. Before you testify, please 9 offer your name for the record and your representing 10 organization. Please let us know what organization 11 you represent. Or if you're not representing an 12 organization, just say where you're from.

13 MS. YOUNG: Good evening. My name is Mary 14 Caskel Young for the Center for Educational 15 Awareness. And I'd just like to add No. 4 to the 16 affidavit to vote. There are people who are going 17 to the poll, cast a vote affidavit. And I work
18 there. And there are many of those people that do 19 not want to fill out paper ballots.

20 But the four parts of the affidavit ballot
21 is, once you vote and you go back to the courthouse 22 with your ID, your commissioner is supposed to send 23 you a notice whether or not your voting counted. I 24 found out in my community that people was not 25 receiving this letter from their commission. So,

1 even after you go through that process, you are 2 supposed to receive a letter from your commissioner 3 letting you know whether your vote counted or not.

4 So, that's another follow-up you need to 5 take a look into after the election.

6 MS. MCDONALD: You say for affidavit
7 votes?

8 MS. YOUNG: Affidavit votes.

9 MS. MCDONALD: How is that possible? I 10 witness the county's affidavit ballots, and they 11 take them out and you really don't know. It's like 12 a secret ballot. You know, you really don't know 13 who's ballot is being counted, which one and who's 14 getting thrown out.

15 MS. YOUNG: On your affidavit, you have a
16 name --

17 MS. MCDONALD: I'm talking about absentee
18 ballot --

19 MS. YOUNG: One that you have to fill out 20 if you do not have an ID. You're going to have to 21 do it again for this election as well, and the 22 affidavit has always been on the table. But this is 23 where your name and information is filled out on a 24 separate envelop, you also have your name on a 25 separate sheet.

1 Now, when you vote affidavit, you need to 2 look for a letter from your commissioner, whether or 3 not your vote counted. If not, you call your 4 commissioner.

5 MR. RUSSELL: So, the balance is, if you 6 have a challenged vote and you have to use the 7 affidavit ballot, you need to have some indication 8 that your ballot was cast, and that's required by 9 the law is what you're saying?

10 MS. YOUNG: Right. You can call your 11 commissioner if they do not send a letter out. They 12 are supposed to send you a letter.

13 MR. RUSSELL: Yes, ma'am, in the middle 14 isle.

15 MS. WEAVER: Marcia Weaver, Jackson,
16 Mississippi. I wanted to ask -- as we've heard from 17 you and as we've been studying how difficult it's 18 going to be for people to have the right to vote and 19 have it counted. How do you think this compares 20 with back in the '60s?

21 MR. RUSSELL: Who wants to take that?

22 MR. MCKAY: I think we line it up. We 23 have a PowerPoint -- it's ironic that you say it.
24 We have a PowerPoint that we line up that says have 25 times really changed. We have a picture pretty much

1 from the 1960s, and pretty much to now to see how 2 things have changed.

3 I say things have changed. If you say the 4 we have changed, the market have grown bigger 5 between people. The rich are getting richer and the 6 poor are getting poorer because it's not -- like 7 they say, follow the money. And if you look at the 8 numbers -- they say numbers never lie and 9 percentages. They're creating a system to work 10 exactly the way that they want it to work so they 11 can make their money and progress there, because 12 it's definitely not helping. The people just ain't 13 in the design to help. And it's slavery by another 14 name.

15 MR. RHODES: Ms. Weaver, if I can make a 16 comment, too. It might be a misunderstanding about 17 voter ID, for one, that it's the first tool out of 18 the tool box. It will not deny everybody the right 19 to vote. But is a long process. It's a voter 20 suppression process. That might be the first law.
21 You might have other laws coming along that will 22 drop the number of people voting.

23 In the '60s, you probably got to really 24 compare it to the 1880s, 1890s, African-American 25 were voting. They put the state constitution and

1 new restrictive voting laws in place, and the lines 2 started going down gradually overtime until you get 3 to the point where you almost have virtually no
4 African-Americans voting.

5 By the time the Voting Rights Act was 6 passed in 1965, only 6.7 percent of the eligible 7 African-Americans voting in Mississippi were 8 registered to vote and voting. It's up high now.
9 Over time you're going to see that number start 10 dwindling, dwindling, dwindling, until it might be 11 30, 40 years from now, that number would be down 12 again. But it's not going to be overnight. And 13 it's not going to deny everybody the right to vote.
14 But it's designed to suppress a certain percentage 15 of vote, only if there is a dropoff of 2 to 16 3 percent, that makes a difference in a lot of close 17 elections in Mississippi.

18 So, if they use voter ID to keep 3 or 4 or 19 5 percent -- and the reason I'm saying that's 20 important, the studies that ran -- in the gates for 21 the Secretary of State is saying. He is saying only 22 1 percent of eligible voters do not have an ID to 23 vote. That's -- that is not correct.

24 There's a great disparity between the 25 number of whites who are not eligible and the number

1 of African-Americans who are not eligible. One of 2 the statistics that Brad gave was that, for 3 African-Americans over the age of 75, it's less than 4 50 percent have valid and current ID. That and the 5 status of statisticians have shown that historically 6 older voters vote in higher numbers than younger
7 voters.

8 So, with older voters not having valid ID, 9 older African-American voters, those numbers are 10 going to drop, drop, drop, drop. So, that over time 11 is designed to suppress the vote and depress the 12 vote.

13 MR. JOHNSON: I want to say that my mom 14 puts it this way, as one of those who got federal 15 registration. She said up until they started 16 messing with it -- and she said monkeying around 17 with it. I use the word "messing with it" to try 18 to make it better in here. But my mom said 19 monkeying around with it. She had a forever vote by 20 being in federal -- by being one of those who were 21 registered by the federal government.

22 Then the state decided that this idea of 23 forever registration was ballooning the number of 24 people who were registered to vote in these 25 counties. And it asked for a purge. And it states

1 what the process and got this ability to purge those 2 folks who have got federal registration.

3 So, to her, it's like, now it's starting 4 all over again. I don't have a drivers license, 5 right, and now I've got to go and figure out how to 6 get a voter ID, right. What is it? Now -- I had to 7 pay for it, what's the deal. And so, all these 8 things were free. Now, my mom lives 22 miles from 9 the circuit clerk's office, right.

10 Now, the idea is we took it because this 11 call-in number. And she said, well, like when she 12 first tried to get on food stamps, that after so 13 many questions, made her feel so bad, that the 14 answer was, it wasn't worth it. So, the whole idea 15 was, it wasn't worth it. So, she said, "Boy, come 16 and take me up there to the circuit court." And 17 being a dutiful son, I did as a part of that 18 process.

19 So, this whole idea of reoccurrence of 20 what was, in Mississippi, what was is often what is.
21 And so, there's this question of coming back to the 22 same. In a lot of ways, this is a (inaudible) of 23 the confederacy. And it's like, you know, we didn't 24 lose the war, y'all wanted to skirmish. The war is 25 yet going on. And with the war yet going on,

1 whatever means they can do to shrink the electorate, 2 the better off they are.

3 And so, it is for all of us of good
4 conscious. Doesn't make any difference what color
5 you are; of good conscious. We've got a non-threat 6 echo that says it has to be, is it right? These are 7 the questions we ask us. Is it right? Is it moral?
8 Is it just?

9 It can't just be one of those, it has to 10 be all three of those. Is it right? Is it moral?
11 Is it just? And this whole idea of shrinking the 12 vote isn't right, isn't moral, and it sure the hell 13 ain't just.

14 MR. RUSSELL: Other questions?

15 MS. SYKES: I have a question about
16 absentee voting.

17 MR. RUSSELL: State your name, please.

18 MS. SYKES: My name is Cathy Sykes from 19 Jackson, Mississippi. Jackson branch NAACP. I have 20 a question about absentee voting.

21 I was told that if someone voted by 22 absentee, they would not have to show ID. And I'm 23 just trying to get some clarity on that because I 24 heard more than one answer.

25 MR. MCKAY: You don't have to show it, but

1 you have to get it notarized.

2 MS. SYKES: You have to get the request
3 for an absentee ballot notarized?

4 MR. MCKAY: No. You have to get the 5 ballot notarized.

6 MS. SYKES: So, if go into the courthouse
7 and request an absentee ballot, do you have to show
8 your ID at that time?

9 MR. MCKAY: Yes.

10 MS. SYKES: If you request an absentee 11 ballot from your home --

12 MR. JOHNSON: No.

13 MS. SYKES: Okay. You don't have to Xerox
14 your ID and mail it in with your ballot?

15 MR. JOHNSON: No. That's part of the 16 confusion, and that was part of the training that we 17 took that we had with the Secretary of State's 18 office, right. The training that was in the 19 Mississippi delta, the delta-wide training, and they 20 had to like -- they have like five areas where they 21 do training for both the democratic party officials 22 and the republican party officials. They give us 23 joint training.

24 And in that joint training, it was very, 25 very clear that part of the process was that they

1 were going to be having to make sure that folks did 2 picture ID for absentee voting. And he said -- and 3 it was very, very clear -- the only time you have to 4 use you picture ID for absentee voting is when you
5 come to the circuit clerk's office and vote absentee 6 in the office. You still have to be IDed.

7 But if it's those group of folks who get 8 theirs through the mail, there will not be a 9 requirement of a picture ID or photo or 10 identification.

11 MS. SYKES: They don't have to xerox their 12 ID and mail it in with the ballot?

13 MR. JOHNSON: No.

14 MR. RUSSELL: One more question, and then 15 we're going to go back to the --

16 MR. TOLDEN: Verify that. Someone voted 17 in Canton last week at the courthouse just like you 18 said. She chose the drivers license.

19 MR. RUSSELL: Any other questions? We're 20 going to take one, and then we're going to move to 21 the next panel.

22 MR. TOLDEN: I'm Father Jeremy Tolden,
23 resident of Raymond and member of the NAACP.

24 MR. RHODES: Mr. Russell, I did want to 25 make one additional statement. And this follows up

1 what Ms. Marcia Weaver had asked a question earlier, 2 and that's the Common Cause of Mississippi. And 3 Ms. Lynn Evans is here for Common Cause. Did have a 4 statement that would like to make a part of the 5 record which talks about the disparity that this new 6 voter ID law will have on minority voters, the poor, 7 young, and the aging. And I'd like for Ms. Lynn 8 Evans to make sure that we can get this in the 9 record if she would just state her name, and her 10 reports we're going to make part of the record.

11 MS. EVANS: Thank you.

12 MR. RUSSELL: The request is that you
13 state your name and say that (inaudible.)

14 MS. EVANS: I'm Lynn Evans, I'm here
15 representing Common Cause. And I am happy to have 16 this statement submitted as part of the record.

17 (Exhibit 3 marked for the record.)

18 MR. JOHNSON: We thank this panel. Let's 19 give them a hand. And we're going to have panel 20 three now. And that includes Ms. Lynn Evans, Ms.
21 Yasmin Gabriel, Ashley Wicks, Marcia Weaver, and 22 Ashley McKay.

23 As the panel comes, just as an 24 introduction, this panel is going to be talking 25 about election administration, which is to some

1 degree what we've just been discussing, but this is 2 how will the election be conducted by the election
3 officials. That's what this panel is to discuss.

4 Again, members of the panel, you have five 5 minutes each for your presentation, but in as much 6 as I don't have the one sentence introduction of 7 each of you, I'm going to give you an extra minute 8 to introduce yourselves, and then go into your 9 five-minute presentation. And our first panelist is 10 Ms. Lynn Evans.

11 MS. EVANS: Thank you. I'm Lynn Evans,
12 and I'm here speaking on behalf of Common Cause 13 Mississippi. We have been active in this state for 14 over 30 years promoting good government issues such 15 as open meetings, access to public records, campaign 16 finance reform, and campaign finance disclosure 17 bearing non-partisan redistricting, government 18 accountability, fair elections, and open access to 19 the voting booth.

20 We believe that voting under the US
21 Constitution is a right and a responsibility and not 22 a privilege. And therefore, no unnecessary
23 restriction should be erected between the qualified 24 voter and the voting booth. For these reasons, 25 Common Cause Mississippi opposed the State's recent

1 voter ID law.

2 No state public public official has yet
3 been able to show that any voter fraud that would be 4 rectified by voter ID has occurred at the polls in 5 Mississippi. There have been no reported incidences 6 of voters voting under other names, voting more than 7 one ballot at a polling place, or multiple polling 8 places, voters misrepresenting themselves at the 9 polling place, or voters in any other way attempting 10 to vote fraudulently in a manner that would be 11 prevented by voter ID.

12 Moreover, there is every indication that 13 implementation of the 2012 voter ID law will 14 disproportionately affect minorities, the poor, the 15 young, and the aging.

16 As we have noted, Mississippi has a 17 history over racial discrimination. Thanks to Brad 18 Pigott, we know that a majority of African-Americans 19 75 years old and older do not have a drivers 20 license.

21 About one-third of elementary students in 22 Jackson Public Schools are known to change schools 23 during the school year because their parents moved.
24 This very mobile population of young parents would 25 be very likely to have a drivers license that must

1 be renewed every four years that does not show their 2 current address. They could be barred from voting 3 for this reason.

4 In fact, from what we have heard today,
5 the 2012 voter ID act appears to be an attack on the 6 fundamental essence of a democracy, the right of 7 people to select a governmental official to 8 represent them through free and open election.

9 Therefore, Common Cause Mississippi
10 continues to object to a law whose result will be 11 qualified voters turned away at the polls or 12 reluctant to try to vote when no compelling and 13 factual reason has been demonstrated for that wrong.

14 The underlying assumption of voter ID,
15 that a significant number of people trying to vote 16 are not who they say they are is disturbing, and in 17 democracy, when we should be encouraging more people 18 to vote, not discouraging some people from voting.
19 Whether or not it is true that politics is 20 responsible for voter ID laws because one party 21 actually wants to keep certain people from voting, 22 some will feel excluded from the political process
23 and resentful about their exclusion.

24 The reason we want people to vote is that 25 engagement in the political process makes people

1 feel a shared sense of community and a
2 responsibility. Seeing that their votes affects 3 what government does gives voters a visceral state 4 in self-government. In this way democracy is 5 strengthened and will make more vibrant and 6 successful city/state nation.

7 If we really care about getting people to 8 pull together to make their communities better, 9 define (inaudible) laws and policies to increase 10 voter participation. As Senator Blount has 11 suggested, we support early voting, on line voter 12 registration, and same-day voter registration.

13 In conclusion, it should be a proud 14 measure of civic responsibility for all of us to 15 vote. Restricting the right to vote alienates 16 citizens from the government weakening our 17 democracy. It is contrary to our own history and 18 the ideals of our founding documents.

19 Thank you for having me.

20 MR. RUSSELL: Thank you. We will now move
21 to our next panelist, Yasmin Gabriel. And since I 22 don't know you, I might be bouncing around the 23 table.

24 MS. GABRIEL: It's okay. Good afternoon.
25 My name is Yasmin Gabriel. I am the new special

1 assistant to President Hogan at Tougaloo College, 2 but before then I was a director of CNBACLU. And as 3 my mentor and sister would say, I'm obsessive with 4 voting rights. As a young person, when I first 5 heard about initiative 27 back in 2011, I reached 6 out to one of my friends and was like, "What's going 7 on in Mississippi? Are they really going to have a 8 voter ID?" He's like, "Oh, it won't pass. We have 9 Shelby, right?"

10 And there was this whole notion about 11 Shelby was going to save us all in Mississippi.
12 When I got here on the ground in Mississippi in 13 2012, I was kind of told that we didn't need -- we 14 didn't need y'all's help because it wasn't going to 15 happen. Shelby was going to be intact, we were all 16 be fine, right?

17 And so, I wanted to submit to the record a 18 user friendly material that Upgrade Mississippi made 19 in 2011 to educate people about the law that was 20 coming up, right? Hadn't been implemented yet, but 21 we were just really concerned. And I was just a 22 little more cynical than some of my friends about 23 Shelby and about the Supreme Court at that time.
24 So, I just wanted to put that out there.

25 My testimony comes today as a new resident

1 of Mississippi, as a person who just wants to get 2 their free ID, right, and their free ride. So, I 3 saw this little commercial that had the Secretary of 4 State on it saying how easy the process was, and 5 everything was free, right? So, I started digging a 6 little bit more trying to figure out, well, how -- 7 what makes it free for one person and not free for 8 another person.

9 And so, when I called that 1-844
10 Mississippi MS voter number, I got this really 11 monotone person who answered the phone. I'm not 12 easily intimidated. Last time I've checked, I've 13 been told I'm kind of scary. So, I'm not easily 14 intimidated. But there was this guy on the other 15 end who I could hear who didn't look like me, and he 16 was asking me very forward questions: Do you have a 17 passport? Do you have a college ID? Have you ever 18 had a Mississippi drivers -- everything for me was 19 no because I had never lived in Mississippi, right?

20 So, I get to the very end of our call, and 21 he says, Let me give you this number -- and I said, 22 "So, wait. You don't give me the free ride? So, 23 why was all of that?" I just started thinking about 24 some of my friends in the community who would have 25 probably hung up on the phone on him probably five

1 minutes on into it, right?

2 So, once he gave me the number, I noticed
3 that -- I called that number, right? And they told 4 me I had to have the exact -- I had to have the 5 exact identification that I gave him that I told him
6 that I was going to have, right? So, I started 7 playing devils advocate. I said, "If my purse got 8 stolen and my Social Security card was in my purse, 9 you're telling me I couldn't get on the bus for my 10 free ride if I didn't have my Social Security card?"

11 "Yes. Yes. Yes. Yes."

12 So, to make a long story short, I do have 13 my own car. So, I ended up -- I think I talked -- I 14 talked to a few of my coworkers at the time about me 15 trying to figure out how to use this free ride
16 thing. As we got further and further into it, it 17 seemed like it was very confusing, whether or not 18 you were eligible for the free ride, whether or not 19 you were eligible for the free ID.

20 I just learned today, you know, if you
21 have an old ID, you check yes on there, that could 22 be considered a crime, right? So, as a community 23 personnel out in the community, I wanted to make 24 sure that we had the exact law. So, I went and I
25 filed this PowerPoint, because I'm an on line

1 person, at the Secretary of State that I created 2 that was supposed to be this quote, unquote,
3 training, right, around voter ID.

4 And it still asked me a lot of questions.
5 It still didn't really answer everything for me.
6 So, I was thinking, if I was a poll worker or a poll
7 manager, I'm still confused about what fairly 8 depicts someone's identification, you know. If 9 Reilly decides to chop all his hair off right now 10 and take off his beard, he looks like a totally 11 different person. And if I'm not trained properly, 12 I might turn him away. So, I just started thinking 13 about all this different stuff --

14 MR. MORSE: I would think you're Joe Plum.

15 MS. GABRIEL: I would think he's Joe the 16 plumber, he's not even from Mississippi. So, it 17 just seemed to be confusing to me on the 18 administrative side, how are these volunteers and 19 these folks who are going to actually administer 20 these changes, how they were getting trained.

21 And so, we called the office and we asked
22 for the voter application, the voter ID application.
23 That's on line. It's only a sample. You can't even 24 write on it. So, if I want to practice and deal 25 with some individuals who have a hard time writing

1 or maybe they're illiterate and they want someone to 2 help them with that form, you can't get the form 3 unless you go to the clerk's office, right?

4 So, I have to take a second ride. And 5 Derrick was talking about it. I live far away from 6 the clerk's office. I had to drive there, get it as 7 an organizer, you know, make photo copies of it I 8 guess, right? Ashley and I were talking about that.
9 And then taking it back into our communities to 10 actually have people fill them out. That's another 11 tax on my time.

12 At the time, where I worked, I worked in 13 the environment where you could not do personal 14 business at work. So, I was whispering on the phone 15 trying to get -- I was just thinking about other 16 people and them not having the same kind of job I 17 had and working at Popeye's and trying to make that 18 call, right?

19 I was just like, this is not cool. This 20 is not really helping the average person who is a 21 hard working American who wants to exercise their 22 right to vote.

23 And so, I just wanted to testify today
24 about us making sure we watch for those things, 25 making sure that we have this consorted effort to

1 ensure that people who live in nursing homes
2 understand if they register to vote within that 3 address of where they live in the nursing home and 4 not their old house, they don't need an ID because 5 they're exempt from that, right?

6 And so, I'm trying to make sure we do this 7 user friendly campaign to make sure that we all 8 understand the law and are able to comply with it.

9 Thank you.

10 MR. JOHNSON: Ashley Wicks.

11 MS. WICKS: Wow, I get to follow her.

12 MR. RUSSELL: Have as much drama.

13 MS. WICKS: I'm not a drama girl. I am
14 Ashley Wicks. I am now the immediate past president 15 of the Magnolia Bar Association. And my testimony 16 involves our participation in the election
17 protection process.

18 For the last few election cycles, we have 19 partnered with the NAACP and One Voice in the 20 election protection effort. The way election 21 protection works is the Magnolia Bar Association, we 22 provide lawyers for the effort. So, you have 23 lawyers working the phone, lawyers in the field.
24 There are volunteers from other organizations that 25 participate in the process.

1 We start early in the morning, and --
2 yeah, we start early in the morning, and -- I was 3 going to make a joke about me not being on time.

4 We start early in the morning. And once
5 the calls start coming in, we try to serve as a 6 resource for the voter. That might be -- this last 7 particular time that we imputed their information 8 into the computer system, we cataloged the types of 9 calls that we received. If it was something we 10 could fix, like if we could make a phone call or if 11 we could send somebody or call somebody to go to 12 that polling place to assist the person, we did
13 that.

14 This last -- there were certain persons
15 designated as expert, Carroll Rhodes, and I was his 16 executive assistant. And some of the issues that we 17 gathered at the last election protection was that 18 there was purging of the rolls. There were several 19 voter registrations that had not been processed.
20 People didn't know their correct voting precincts or 21 their voter precinct had moved and they had were not 22 aware that their voter precinct had moved.

23 Some people had issues with how they were 24 being treated or talked to at the polls. There were 25 incorrect ballots. We received reports that the

1 president was not on the ballot. And with that 2 particular call, we did place calls to the 3 Department of Justice on long line, voting machines.
4 And if you work the early shift, which is the shift
5 that I worked, that's probably the biggest things, 6 that the machines are not up and running when the 7 polls open, because a lot of people want to go ahead 8 and vote before they go to work.

9 And then the other issue is broken
10 machines. And then, you know, most people want to 11 go vote on the machine. They don't want to -- even 12 if your only advice to them is to fill out a paper 13 ballot, they don't want to vote a paper ballot, they 14 want to vote on the machines. We were trying to 15 figure out what we could do to facilitate that 16 process for them.

17 We called circuit clerks, we called 18 election commissioners, we just tried to serve as a 19 resource for those individuals that called us.

20 That's it.

21 MR. RUSSELL: Thank you.

22 Marcia Weaver.

23 MS. WEAVER: Marcia Weaver is what my 24 momma said.

25 MR. RUSSELL: I'm from Florida.

1 MS. WEAVER: That's okay. Lots of folks
2 have lots of names that they call me. But today I'm 3 representing the Legal Women Voters of the Jackson 4 area. We have members that are from five various 5 counties around the central area.

6 Voter service has been a great interest
7 for the League of Women Voters for over 90 years.
8 And in Mississippi for nearly 50 years, 60 years
9 with the League of Women Voters of the Jackson area.

10 You might know the League is neutral 11 regarding parties and candidates, but is vocal on 12 issues that we've studied and developed position 13 statements. The administration of elections is 14 about -- is an issue about which the League has a 15 historic demonstrated expertise. Today we want to 16 present four issues we believe are important for 17 election administration.

18 One, there has been inadequate education
19 of voters about regulation of voter ID.

20 Two, grass roots organizations must 21 increase emphasis on informing, educating and 22 advising voters and potential voters about current 23 laws.

24 Number 3, the Secretary of State's website
25 is not user friendly for individuals seeking voting

1 information.

2 Number 4, officials training election
3 workers must work to identify and discourage sources
4 of intimidation, including loudly identifying voters
5 and their addresses.

6 Because of inadequate education about the 7 law, as we've heard a lot about today, some people 8 don't know that a photo ID will be required to vote.
9 Others are confused about what constitutes an 10 acceptable form of ID or how to attain a Mississippi 11 voter identification card.

12 Today, in the Clarion Ledger, writer Jimmy 13 Gates reported, to date, no ID cards have been 14 issued in Claiborne and Tunica Counties. I'm not 15 sure what that means, but that's a significant point 16 that we need to follow through on. Some uninformed
17 about voter ID might be intimidated to vote or live 18 in areas where voter education is limited. Remedies 19 must be found for addressing the needs of the 20 uninformed voter.

21 Grass roots organizations, schools and 22 religious groups should continue their voter
23 education efforts. The Secretary of State's website
24 devotes 27 pages to explain voter ID. Some poll 25 workers, as we've heard today, do not understand the

1 photo ID rules as listed in the Mississippi Election
2 Code and the current 2014 Mississippi poll workers 3 manual.

4 The Secretary of State's website has 10
5 acceptable photo IDs, including the Mississippi 6 photo ID card. I hold a higher education degree and 7 it's all very confusing to me. Grass roots 8 organizations, including the political parties, must 9 increase their emphasis to fully inform, advise and 10 educate voters by making sure all methods of 11 providing information relating to current voter 12 laws, especially the new voter ID law, are more 13 easily understandable and accessible. It's 14 important for voters to understand this new law.

15 The Secretary of State's office should 16 clarify voting information. One issue that the 17 website offers is an on line site polling place
18 locator, but it doesn't include voters addresses. I 19 checked addresses in six counties on this past 20 Friday, and it gave no polling place information
21 about any of the addresses that I searched.

22 This site could be very helpful if it only 23 worked. Training for election personnel from county 24 officials to election day workers must include the 25 education to discourage all intimidation. While we

1 understand our friends and family and neighbors hold 2 these election workers positions, it's vital to 3 allow all voters to have personal time and privacy 4 to cast their votes. It's intimidating to have 5 one's name and address announced in loud voice.
6 When verifying the voter's identity, poll workers
7 should speak only to the voter.

8 Finally, they must have no negative 9 attitude shown toward any voter who chooses to have 10 someone assist him or her in the voting booth. The 11 League of Women Voters of the Jackson area agrees to 12 protect in everyone's right to vote is very 13 important. And thank you for hosting this hearing 14 today.

15 MR. RUSSELL: Thank you.

16 Ashley McKay.

17 MS. MCKAY: Good evening. I'm Ashley
18 McKay. And I serve as the Executive Director of 19 Tunica Teens Action, a non-profit based in Tunica, 20 Mississippi. A member of the Mississippi Delta 21 Catalyst Round Table under the great leadership and 22 partnership with Southern Echo, and also a board
23 member for the Mississippi ACLU.

24 And I think I came behind the right person
25 because she talked about Tunica County not giving

1 out voter IDs. And I think one thing about Tunica 2 is that we're a little bit unique in a form of our 3 voter education and the historic concept of our 4 people pushing forward in a manner that folks are 5 trying to be as inclusive as possible inside the 6 voting process.

7 I think we have one of the only places
8 that on Saturday where we have a community pride 9 fair, and they'll be giving out free IDs at the 10 community pride fair for people who want them on 11 site. And we have about 200 young people that will 12 be employed through the county this summer that will 13 get county IDs as a mechanism for future tests to be 14 able to use those inside of the voting process.

15 Now, one thing that I have seen throughout 16 the Mississippi delta is when we talk about the 17 election process and how elections will take place.
18 Nine times out of 10 we talk about election
19 commissioners. We're talking about older white -- 20 old white women who are the wives of farmers. Those 21 are traditionally positions that have been passed 22 down through generations.

23 And no one really knows those positions.
24 No one really knows the power that those positions 25 hold inside of our communities, inside of our

1 elections. A lot of times we'll win the election 2 one night, get up the next morning, the results are 3 on the way.

4 So, just starting to educate people on the 5 power of election commissioners, the power of the 6 folks who are running these different primaries and 7 things of that sort is even another step of 8 education that we have to do inside of our own 9 places and inside of the Mississippi delta.

10 But I do think that one of the things that 11 we really haven't really looked at is that reverse 12 effect that this is going to have on the white power
13 structure inside of the State of Mississippi, 14 especially inside of the Mississippi delta.

15 We have a problem where a lot of times the 16 white farmer children do not live in the county
17 where they vote. We know of some that will travel
18 as far as Wisconsin to come home and vote in state 19 elections and in local elections. And those votes 20 change the outcomes of our elections normally 21 locally. So, people may not be challenging on the 22 voter ID, but it does give some residency some 23 challenges that are going to be faced.

24 So, you're probably going to hear the flip 25 side where you have not just minority folks

1 complaining that they couldn't vote that day, you're 2 going to have a lot of young white folks saying I 3 couldn't vote at my daddy's address where that's 4 where I've been voting all of my life. But they 5 have IDs that say they live in other places.

6 So, it's also unique in the fact of the 7 matter that we have a trans of population with the 8 casinos being there. We have a huge casino
9 industry, and a lot of people don't have Mississippi
10 IDs, but we have information to say that you can use 11 your gaming badge in order to vote.

12 So, trying to demystify a lot of those 13 different things that are happening inside of our 14 communities about voting, but also changing the 15 structure of what poll managers and poll watchers 16 look like. Not so much as our older people aren't 17 needed inside of these fields. They are. You know, 18 they've done it for a while.

19 But getting those faces of young people to 20 say, Hey, there is no age limit on a poll worker, 21 there is no age limit on a poll watcher. So, why 22 not have some of these young students who are taking 23 American government, who are taking Mississippi
24 studies, who are taking US history, serve as poll 25 watchers, serve as poll managers inside these

1 places?

2 So, bringing in a generation of young 3 people who can make $80, that really think that 4 that's a lot of money for a whole day's work, to be 5 inside of these processes, and to be able to help 6 their grandparents, their parents who may not want 7 the help from someone else knowing that they can't 8 read inside of these places, but will feel 9 comfortable with another younger person bringing 10 them into this place and say, I can help you, this 11 is how this machine works and this is how we're 12 supposed do things.

13 So, I really think that we have to look at 14 a whole spectrum of not just this particular 15 election, but for future elections to come, how do 16 we start to change the face of what it should look 17 like, and how do we play a part in making it better.
18 Because like the young man said earlier, we can't 19 cry over spilled milk, but we can most definitely 20 wipe it up and figure out how to use it to our 21 advantage under that system.

22 Because let's face it, the other side
23 never admits to loss. They just figure out a new 24 rule with a new play book, and we just continue to 25 try to come back and stand -- which we don't have a

1 rule for, we don't have a play book as to how to 2 combat the craziness. We will think, okay, they 3 can't come up with anything crazier than a poll tax.
4 And then they come up with voter ID. How do we come
5 back crazy? We just continuously fight this battle 6 and say, we're going to continue to fight, we're 7 going to continue to grow.

8 And it is a new poll tax. It is something 9 that our generation has to deal with. But looking 10 at the whole system of how voting happens inside of 11 the state and how people are disenfranchising, 12 because not only by the election commissioners and 13 poll officers don't understand it, our circuit
14 clerks also don't understand it either.

15 And then there's also the problem with 16 people not really trusting government to go inside
17 of these buildings to say, I want my voice heard.
18 The same system that is (inaudible), then we're 19 going to now told to stand up and start really 20 thinking. We're going to have to look at the 21 entirety of the situation.

22 MR. RUSSELL: Question from the 23 commission. Carroll.

24 MR. RHODES: Not necessarily a question, 25 Ms. Gabriel and Ms. Weaver. I noticed y'all also

1 have prepared a text as well as your testimony. I'm 2 just going to ask if we can make the prepared text 3 an exhibit to this record.

4 MS. GABRIEL: Yes. Certainly. I passed
5 it on to you all to make an exhibit to the record.

6 MS. WEAVER: I think you have mine, but I
7 would keep this one because I have sent mine.

8 (Exhibit 4 marked for the record.)

9 MR. RUSSELL: Do either of you have 10 questions for the panel?

11 MR. RHODES: Ms. Gabriel, the reason I
12 asked because I noticed you didn't get to the part 13 about the new poll tax, that was part of your 14 prepared text. And I want to ask you all, how do 15 you y'all see voter ID as being a sort of a poll 16 tax? A lot of people who proposed and are in 17 support of voter ID do not see the poll tax aspect.
18 So, how do you?

19 MS. MCKAY: As a young person who 20 unfortunately had my license suspended up until 21 recently for tickets in college that I conveniently 22 forgot, right, I just went through the process of 23 getting my license reinstated because I didn't know 24 that my license was suspended up until they expired.

25 So, going to go get a new license, luckily

1 I didn't drive over there that day, I found out,
2 okay, you have tickets in three different places.
3 But I was fortunate enough to have family to say, 4 well, it came out to almost 900 bucks, trying to get 5 these license reinstated. But when you look at 6 other folks who aren't as fortunate to say, we can't 7 pay this particular amount to get this thing
8 reinstated so that you are valid, how does that play 9 a part?

10 We have young men who are afraid to go in 11 to the DMV because they don't know if they have 12 warrants, whether it be for something criminal or it 13 be for child support. So, how do you say you are 14 not allowed to vote because you have warrants for 15 child support and you have the possibility of going 16 to jail because of something personal you may have 17 done, right?

18 And even looking at the notion of having 19 go to these different places, having to take off 20 work, the criminal aspects of it. So, looking at 21 all of these different things that play a part in 22 people having to get that ID, or the notion that I'm 23 not -- I don't -- I can't even ask a young person to 24 say, sign this affidavit to say that you don't have 25 ID.

1 Because they ask for that, right? You
2 have to sign a written affidavit to say that you 3 don't have an ID. When young people -- their 4 affidavit, you immediately think jail. No, I don't 5 want to go to jail for voting, right? I think that 6 we thought that we were past that point in our 7 society where folks were being jailed asking for the 8 right of vote. And it's almost if we were right 9 back in that same space.

10 So, how do we push forward inside of this 11 situation to say these are things that are 12 happening, and these are reasons why a lot of young 13 folks are saying, I don't want to try that right 14 now. And we as organizers on the floor and on the 15 ground have to really take those things into 16 considerations when we go to asking young people 17 about do they have proper identification.

18 MS. GABRIEL: I just want to add to what 19 Ashley was saying. Also, in my experience in the 20 field when I talk with some of these women who work 21 at chicken plants, where you can't take your phone 22 inside, you pretty much have a locker, you leave all 23 your stuff in your locker; how are you going to do
24 business from 8:00 to 5:00 if everyday you work 8:00
25 to 5:00 and the clerk's office only open from 8:00

1 to 5:00?

2 So, if counties are not doing like Tunica
3 has been doing on Saturday, I'm never going to be 4 able to even try to do the poll tax. So, it's 5 almost like the bubble question that Mr. Johnson 6 said earlier; how many bubbles are in a bar of soap?
7 Well, how is a woman who works at a chicken plant
8 get an ID from 8:00 to 5:00 when she works everyday 9 from 8:00 to 5:00? It doesn't happen. It's almost 10 impossible.

11 So, the poll tax have changed. It's not 12 the same as asking the same questions, but I call it 13 Colbert things right now, I call it propaganda, 14 right, where you put this propaganda out and you get 15 this free ride, this free ID really easily, but they 16 don't tell you the requirements to get that free
17 ride and ID, right?

18 A friend of mine who's not here, I wish he 19 could have stayed, he's created -- he made about 20 10,000 push cards they call it with his own money
21 saying if you need a free ride, call this number. I 22 said, "You look like the Secretary of State. This 23 is not even what's accurate in your community." I 24 said, "Have you called the number?" He said, "I 25 haven't."

1 So, once he called the number, he said, "I 2 got to change that." I said, "Exactly, because it's 3 not just a free ride, it's not whole heartedly." 4 So, on paper these things look one way, but in 5 reality, it's so very different. So, I'm in the 6 middle, and I'm in Coahoma County, right, and this 7 poll worker knows who I am, has known me all of my 8 life, and now they're asking for me to have an ID.
9 Well, how do you vote absentee, right?

10 They don't even answer that question for 11 you if you don't have an ID, how you vote absentee.
12 So, we look at the notary law, and found that if 13 you -- if the notary -- let's say Ms. Weaver is a 14 notary, Ashley and Ashley know who I am, and I can 15 go to this notary with their IDs, by law, that 16 notary can satisfy my identity.

17 That's not even anywhere in the Secretary
18 of State's information. I had to go to another 19 place to find that out. When people are asking me
20 that on the ground, she said, Well, I'm a notary, I 21 didn't even know that, right? So, it's just 22 confusion. It's a tax on the people, on your time.
23 So, it's not the same humiliation that maybe you 24 have to ask how many bubbles in a soap, but it's 25 still impossible. It's still a large hurdle for us

1 to overcome for the average, everyday worker.

2 MR. RUSSELL: Mr. Morse.

3 MR. MORSE: I have a question for Ashley, 4 because about six years ago or so I participated in 5 protective vote, and probably talked to you and 6 probably ended up talking to you Carroll before it 7 was over.

8 My topic is about a topic that hasn't yet
9 not been brought, which is presence of law 10 enforcement in polling places. In particular, the 11 occasion that I had to deal with was, I was able to 12 deal with because I knew the chief of police and 13 could tell him to back up. Lighten up polling 14 places with police cars and flashing lights, and 15 basically scaring off people, not only folks who 16 might be unwilling to go and walk past law 17 enforcement, but also the older folks who were 18 afraid to walk into a place where maybe there was 19 some violence.

20 What kind of experience have y'all had 21 called in on that kind of topic?

22 MS. WICKS: I know that we had at least 23 one young man that went to a polling place, and 24 threatened to call the police on him. I don't 25 recall any specific incident of the police being

1 called or outside with their lights on. But I know
2 that we had an incident where there was a young man 3 at a polling place, and they threatened to call the 4 police on him if he didn't leave.

5 One of the good things that one of the 6 Voices have been working on is not only are we 7 taking in information when they call in, but we 8 catalog that, and they're developing a way to follow 9 up on these calls.

10 So, let's say if that was a complaint that 11 there's a police presence, then not only -- you just 12 don't have that complaint made that day, they're 13 developing a process that we can follow up in the 14 interim between elections.

15 MR. MORSE: The other question that I have 16 related to this notion of losing drivers license as 17 being like a poll tax, because what strikes me about 18 it is it's different than lots of other debts that 19 people end up owing the government. There's a lot 20 of other debts where the consequence of not paying 21 it doesn't mean you lose your license.

22 Failure to pay payroll tax, you get a lien
23 against your property. You don't pay your state 24 property taxes, your local property taxes -- there's 25 a whole lot of other things that related to property

1 ownership where, you know what, they're not going to 2 yank your license, they're just going to attach a 3 debt to your property.

4 But with this particular area -- with 5 misdemeanor criminal stuff as well as felony stuff, 6 particularly misdemeanors and failure to pay these 7 traffic debts, you see that I think 8 disproportionately weigh upon communities of color.
9 And I'd like any of the panel's thoughts about that, 10 whether I'm on track or not.

11 MS. MCKAY: That is extremely true,
12 because like the young man said earlier, black 13 people are six times more likely to get stopped by 14 the police, so you're six times more likely to 15 actually end up inside of the system.

16 To your point earlier when you talk about 17 the police presence at the precinct, I think we have 18 to look at it even as a step farther that we're not 19 bringing a police presence inside your home when you 20 go to call for this particular ride for women of 21 color who may be on governmental assistance.

22 I don't want to be answering these types
23 of questions to a government agent on the telephone 24 about who may be in my house, what types of IDs I 25 have, where I'm living, where is my address, all of 1 these different questions when I know that this 2 could possibly transfer up to my food stamps case or 3 my WIC case or my Medicaid case, right?

4 So, there's this whole notion of 5 confidentiality, but do I trust the government 6 enough to give them all of this information in order
7 to be able to vote? So, the police are now inside 8 of the process where you wouldn't even think they 9 would be because of sitting over here now having to 10 think, did I tell the whole truth when I filled out 11 all of this paperwork? Has anything changed since I 12 filled out this paperwork? Do I have to go back and 13 look at all of these different things? Do I want 14 these people inside of my home and inside of my 15 business when it comes to me just wanting to go and 16 cast a ballot?

17 Those are questions that should be arising 18 inside of our community, but those are questions 19 that people are having to deal with.

20 You know, you asked me to talk about the 21 mother who works 8:00 to 5:00. Where is she 22 supposed to find child care for her children on a 23 Saturday to be able to go and get this particular ID
24 if it's even offered on a Saturday. Day cares 25 aren't open. There may be family, there may not be.

1 So, looking at all these different way to 2 say that this is a poll tax, this is something that 3 creates an unnecessary burden on families, on 4 individuals and on community that should not be put 5 in place inside of our different precincts and 6 inside of our different everyday lives. These are 7 questions that, like I said, we thought we passed, 8 but these are questions that are still arising 9 everyday.

10 And I don't think a lot of times they are 11 brought to the forefront to say that these are going 12 to be some issues inside of our communities. And we 13 have to address those on the ground and inside of 14 these spaces where people have those questions.
15 When we talk about what is a valid ID, and there is 16 a clause in it that say as long as it's not expired
17 10 years. So, how is it valid if it's expired,
18 right?

19 So, looking at all of these different 20 questions and the confusion, but also looking at the 21 everyday person not wanting to put themselves out 22 there just to go vote.

23 MR. JOHNSON: At this point we're going to 24 begin to transition and take questions from the 25 audience. Before we do that, I want to ask

1 Ms. Wicks who has to get back to the office, do you 2 have any final comments or are there any questions 3 for her?

4 Ms. Wicks, do you have any final comments?

5 MS. WICKS: Well, no. I think
6 the election -- no earth shattering comments. I 7 just want to stress the importance of not only the 8 importance of election protection, not only that one 9 day, but the follow-up after it, to make sure that 10 the voting process is fair and that people have 11 information. Sometimes just being able to call and 12 ask makes the voter feel better and more empowered.
13 It doesn't make them feel bitter about the whole
14 process.

15 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you. Let's give her a 16 hand.

17 Questions or comments from the audience.
18 Mike Sayer.

19 MR. SAYER: Mike Sayer, Southern Echo,
20 Jackson, Mississippi. I'm going to try to make two 21 points in three minutes.

22 So, here's my question for us to consider:
23 What is the essential ingredient or element in poll 24 taxes, literacy tests, constitutional
25 interpretations, and voter ID? What's the unifying

1 element or the similar element in each one?

2 It's not money. Money may be involved in 3 poll taxes and voter ID. The essential quality of 4 each of those four devices, three of which came out
5 of the 1890 constitution, and voter ID which came 6 out of the referendum a couple of years ago. Is 7 that it was designed to create and undo burden on 8 the voter to depress voter participation? That's 9 the unifying quality. That's the historical 10 connection.

11 Second thing I wanted to say is, even more
12 than ever, having trained, strong, effective poll 13 workers is going to be critical if we're going to 14 monitor how the voter ID is implemented. That means 15 they have to be willing to get up close and personal 16 near the table. The state handbook from the 17 Secretary of State says very clearly that you have a 18 right to be within hearing distance and within sight 19 distance.

20 And if you're a poll watcher sitting 25 21 feet away or 50 feet away just watching the 22 proceedings, you're not going to be able to hear 23 what's going on, see what's going on, see what the 24 attitude or questioning is, see what the denial is 25 or what the grand is. And training is essential to

1 that process. And when we're training poll workers, 2 we also can reach out to the -- poll watchers, 3 training poll watchers, we can also reach out to 4 poll workers and the poll managers. Many of who 5 voluntarily come to the training and participate.

6 It's really critical. I've been in so
7 many situations where I walked into a polling place 8 and seen our poll watchers talking to each other,
9 you know, passing the time of day, they don't have a 10 clue as to what's going on. My point is not to be 11 critical, but to be alert to what it really takes to 12 do an effective poll watching job.

13 MR. RUSSELL: Other questions? Yes, sir.
14 Please give us your name.

15 MR. GARNER: I've got some handouts, or a 16 handout to give everybody.

17 MR. JOHNSON: State your name for the 18 record.

19 MR. GARNER: I'm John Garner. I must say 20 that I'm proud to say that I have a grandson who's 21 poll watching -- I mean poll working because he 22 registered to vote on June 3rd. He won't be 18 yet.
23 He won't be 18 until June 4th, so we're trying to 24 get some really young folks involved in the process.

25 I'm interested in trying to see what the

1 impact of voter ID is. And you'll see from this 2 handout that I think we -- one thing that I hope you 3 folks can do is get people to come to the polls and 4 collect this information. That will help us tell 5 how impact -- what the impact is.

6 You'll see the first thing is the number 7 of people who voted without an ID, and then the 8 number of people who voted an affidavit ballot, and 9 then the number who had no voter ID, but just left 10 without voting. The number of people who had and ID
11 and voted using a machine, the regular way, or paper
12 ballots, whatever. The number of challenged 13 ballots. The number who left without voting for 14 another reason.

15 And then we need to look at affidavit
16 ballots, I think. I'm going to try, if somebody 17 gets to vote that affidavit ballot, to record their 18 name and contact information. And then they have 19 to, in order for that -- to vote, they have to go 20 get an ID within a week. So, by June 10th. I want 21 to try and keep up with -- actually go down to the 22 election commission and find out how many people
23 actually qualified of those people whose names I
24 get, and then, even though they have an affidavit 25 ballot and qualified, to get that vote actually get

1 counted.

2 So, I think these are things that we might 3 want to look at and see what the impact of voter ID
4 is. I hear that in the rural counties where people 5 know -- everybody knows everybody, they may just 6 kind of ignore voter ID. I know who you are, I'm 7 not going to require a voter ID.

8 End of comment.

9 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you. Any other
10 questions or comments?

11 MS. EVANS: Lynn Evans. May I make one 12 other comment? You know in Afghanistan where we've 13 been trying to promote democracy? All you have to 14 do to be able to vote is hold up your hand. And if 15 you have purple ink on your finger, you can't vote, 16 but there's not another reason to turn you away. We 17 could try that here.

18 MR. JOHNSON: Any other comments?

19 MS. ROSE: I have a question. In order to 20 get a voter ID, do you not have to present your 21 birth certificate?

22 MS. GABRIEL: No, ma'am, you don't have to 23 present your birth certificate. There are several 24 things that you can present to the clerk's office.
25 So, there's something that was written that said the

1 Secretary of State had discretion, and he added six 2 different things.

3 So, your birth certificate is one thing.
4 You can have your Social Security card, your 5 Medicaid card, your Medicare card, utility bill, IRS
6 W2 statement, a bank statement that's not six months
7 older. So, all those things that I listed is six 8 that the secretary has. We can get you a user
9 friendly, and I can write it all down for you on a 10 sheet of paper so you can take it back to your 11 community.

12 But that's the one thing that they have 13 done. But it's kind of hard to find on their 14 website, right, where all this stuff is. So, 15 there's six additional things that the Secretary of 16 State will allow, so that the house bill that passed 17 gave him discretion to add a couple of things, and 18 those couple of things are things that we have 19 readily available, light bill. So, I say light 20 bill, water bill, and then application. But the 21 application you have to go get from there, you 22 cannot get it on line, unless we go get it ourselves
23 and start Xeroxing it --

24 MS. ROSE: On the light bill, does your 25 address on the light bill have to match on the voter

1 role?

2 MS. GABRIEL: That's what they're saying.

3 MS. ROSE: So, now when you talk about the 4 question was asked about poll tax, then that's where 5 if you're not there -- like in my situation, my 6 light bill -- if I had that problem, I don't have 7 that problem. But my light bill is under my 8 mother's name, but I pay the bills.

9 So, when you talk about poll tax, you're 10 still talking about it's just a new name for it.
11 You still got to go and pay to get something --

12 MS. GABRIEL: Yes, ma'am. You're 13 certainly right.

14 MS. ROSE: -- to identify yourself. So,
15 that's how the poll is. It constitutes poll tax 16 even though it's not called poll tax. We know now 17 everything has a new name. When you talk about 18 charter schools, we know what that is. Like charter 19 schools, that's a new name. Everything 50 years 20 later has come to get renamed.

21 MS. GABRIEL: Yes, ma'am. You're right.

22 MS. ROSE: But we as civil right workers 23 know that it's the same thing, because a lot of 24 people in this room have not been through what we 25 have to understand that.

1 MS. GABRIEL: I was told today -- I'm not 2 from here, but this is a reunion of all of y'all, 3 it's like a family reunion of everybody in the room.
4 Y'all knew each other just about, for the most part.
5 So, still today we haven't reached the masses with 6 our information. What you're saying, you and I both 7 know it, when you say we're here together, because 8 with both know what that looks like, right? And if 9 you're not eligible for this free ID, how much does 10 it cost? You put that out there. There's no cost 11 for it, right, it's a propaganda.

12 MS. ROSE: But that was in the detail.
13 The voter ID might be free --

14 MR. JOHNSON: We going to have to begin to 15 bring this panel to a close. We'll let Attorney 16 Rhodes make a final comment, then we want to 17 transition to next panel before we adjourn at 5:00.

18 MR. RHODES: And my comment goes to 19 questions ask and answer given, and Mike's question
20 earlier about the difference between the Secretary 21 of State's regulations and the statute.

22 The statute -- and I just want everybody
23 to know that statute controls under Mississippi law
24 Section 23-15, 563. It's a voter identification 25 requirement law in Mississippi under Section 2.

1 Identification required includes: A, current valid
2 drivers license. B, current and valid
3 identification card issued by any branch or 4 department of the State of Mississippi. C, current 5 and valid United States passport.

6 D, current and valid employee
7 identification card containing a photo ID. E, a
8 current and valid Mississippi license to carry a 9 pistol or revolver. F, a valid tribal 10 identification card containing a photograph of 11 elector. G, a current and valid United States 12 military identification card. H, a current and 13 valid student identification card containing 14 photograph. And I, an official Mississippi voter 15 identification card containing a photograph.

16 That's it. Secretary of State has 17 expanded that.

18 MS. GABRIEL: Yes. In that law, if you 19 turn to the next page, you're going to see that they 20 gave him permission to do so.

21 MR. RHODES: Not in the current statute.
22 Regulation, yes. But not in the current statute.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Which goes to what Mike 24 raised earlier.

25 So, we're going to go ahead at this point

1 and begin the transition of panel. If you would, 2 reserve any questions you may have after we 3 transition. Let's give this panel a hand.

4 At this time we're going to ask our fourth
5 and final panel to come up. Ms. Lexi Elmore, Dr.
6 Scott Crawford, Ms. Shirley Walker, Mr. Mike Sayer,
7 and Mrs. Jean Everett, come forward, please.

8 As we transition, we're going to ask that 9 our panelists give a five-minute opening comment.
10 We're going to start with Dr. Walker. If you would 11 start us off and go from there -- I'm sorry, 12 Dr. Crawford.

13 DR. CRAWFORD: Scott Crawford. I
14 appreciate the opportunity to be here. My name is 15 Dr. Scott Crawford. I am a retired clinical 16 psychologist. If you're wondering why I'm speaking 17 this way, my vocal cords are paralyzed. I have a 18 progressive form of multiple sclerosis. Actually, 19 I'm yelling right now.

20 So, I volunteer for several advocacy
21 organizations in the area, Mississippi Collision for 22 Citizens with Disabilities, Living Independence For 23 Everyone, and Disability Rights Mississippi. I'd 24 like to read my prepared comments.

25 In 2008, a friend who was blind attempted

1 to vote at her precinct in Ridgeland. The 2 accessible machine was not assembled and the poll
3 workers were not trained in its use. There was no
4 operation manual on site. The poll workers wanted 5 her to let someone fill out the ballot for her. She 6 declined, got a chair, and sat in front of the poll 7 worker table while calling Shirley Walker at 8 Disability Rights Mississippi to report the problem.
9 She sat there for a few hours until the machine was 10 assembled. They figured out how to operate it. But 11 eventually, she got to vote privately.

12 In 2011, after moving to West Point, Clay 13 County, she informed county election officials that 14 she would need an acceptable voting machine. The 15 officials were unfamiliar with the technology and 16 thought it was a Braille machine. My friend had to 17 explain that it functions using audio and a key pad.

18 By the following election in 2012, they 19 acquired the accessible voting machine, but it 20 malfunctioned. She was sent home because a 21 technician had to be called from Starkville. Five 22 hours later, they called her back and she was able 23 to return to the precinct to vote. She filed a 24 complaint with the Secretary of State's office.
25 This was 2012.

1 Now, about a decade ago the Secretary of 2 State's office asked the Mississippi Collision for 3 Citizens with Disabilities to survey Mississippi's
4 polling placings. Among the problems encountered 5 were precincts that were totally inaccessible to 6 people with disabilities. Make shift ramps that 7 were unstable or unsafe. Precincts too small to 8 accommodate wheelchair users. No privacy for people 9 using wheelchairs. No signage for "accessible 10 entrances" or entrances that were locked.

11 Parking designated as "accessible," but 12 was not, either because it was not on an accessible 13 route, it was too small, it was gravel, or it was 14 unlevel, or an insufficient number of accessible 15 parking spaces. In some instances, polls were 16 relocated to a small storage building on private 17 property. They were found full of personal items, 18 and the surveyor was told that they were removed 19 during the election.

20 Even here in the Capitol of Mississippi, 21 as late as a few weeks ago, election officials were 22 reluctant to place accessible voting machines at all 23 of the polling sites. There's nothing more sacred 24 than an individual's right to vote. A recent study 25 by the Research Alliance for Accessible Voting in

1 2012 showed that, like most others, people with 2 disabilities prefer to cast their ballot in person 3 at their polling place.

4 Of those that do vote absentee, 40 percent
5 do so because they expect difficulties either 6 getting to or accessing the polls. Indeed, in the 7 2012 voting cycle, 30 percent of people with 8 disabilities actually experience polling place
9 problems, three times the rate of non-disabled
10 voters. Whereas curbside and absentee voting is a 11 valuable option upon request, it is not equivalent 12 to being welcomed into the polling place like 13 everyone else and casting a vote in person privately 14 and independently as guaranteed by the help of 15 American Vote Act.

16 To this end, we ask that people with 17 disabilities be included in the Voting Rights Act, 18 providing remedies for historic exclusion of the 19 voting process. Doing so will go a long way to 20 address the failure to make polling places 21 accessible by providing a fast track to court and 22 lowering the standard of proof to an action or 23 policy that has discriminatory effect, not proof of 24 intent to discriminate as it is now.

25 It is 2014, and we should have learned by

1 now that separate has never ever equated to equal.
2 Our job will be done when people with disabilities 3 expect their precinct and the voting process to be 4 readily accessible and usually friendly.

5 That concludes my comments.

6 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Dr. Crawford.

7 Next we will have Ms. Shirley Walker.

8 MS. WALKER: Good afternoon. I'm Shirley 9 Walker, and I'm the voting outreach coordinator for 10 Disability Rights Mississippi. I'd like to thank 11 y'all for your efforts today in hearing what 12 everybody has to say.

13 Disability Rights Mississippi is the 14 federally funded governor designated private,
15 non-private agency mandated to protect and advocate 16 for the rights of individuals with disabilities 17 statewide.

18 In addition to our own mission, we aim for 19 the collective purpose of the non-profit sector 20 which ultimately is supposed be to help create and 21 sustain stronger communities, but how strong is a 22 community that is not also inclusive of all of its 23 members, and how inclusive is a community that does 24 not make it a priority to consider the needs of all 25 voters in regards to access to the ballot?

1 The most fundamental right of citizenship
2 is being able to cast a ballot privately,
3 independently, in the setting of one's own 4 community, and is the primary means in which one is 5 able to have their voice heard. Disability Rights
6 Mississippi is bipartisan, but we strongly believe 7 anything other than fully inclusive and accessible 8 voting sites and practices can only be viewed as 9 voter suppression and discrimination.

10 DRMS provides advocacy for voting rights
11 and accessibility in addition to all of our other 12 programs and services with the ultimate goal being 13 to promote and increase participation of voters with 14 disabilities in the electoral process. We have 15 endeavored to make a difference in the voting 16 experience for the individuals we serve as well as 17 any other person who benefits from learning more 18 about how to take part in (inaudible).

19 I highlighted some of the continuing 20 issues we have found to be problematic includes, a 21 lack of consistency. We have thousands of precincts
22 in Mississippi that have their own way of doing
23 things. There is no clear-cut and consistent rule 24 that each county and city handles it the same way.
25 And this creates confusion, especially when it comes

1 to education of election officials, circuit clerks
2 and poll workers concerning sensitivity, etiquette, 3 and the rights of the voter with visible and 4 non-visible disabilities.

5 Curbside voting. We have found that when 6 we bring a barrier or accessibility issue to a 7 polling site bailiff or election commissioner or 8 poll worker, their standard response is, we have 9 curbside voting, so it's not an issue. It's a 10 blanket statement, and it's provided many election 11 workers with a false sense of being accessible.

12 When we conducted polling site surveys 13 with each staff member taking on an average of 14 eight sites, each one came back with deficits and 15 accessibility concerns. And curbside voting was the 16 answer when they raised the concern on site.
17 Curbside voting at its best still creates a 18 disconnect, but ultimately it segregates voters with 19 disabilities from their neighbors.

20 Physical deficits. We have consistently 21 witnessed issues with improper signage, doors that 22 are too heavy, no curb cuts, no ramp to address a 23 step into a building, lacking accessible parking and 24 gravel pathways, impossible to maneuver in a 25 scooter, wheelchair or walker. And all too

1 frequently, the lack of an accessible machine or 2 problems with poll worker knowledge on how to 3 properly operate the accessible equipment when it is 4 present.

5 Attitudinal barriers. Unfortunately, we 6 have experienced situations with voter
7 discrimination and intimidation that have occurred 8 just in the past couple of years. In one rural 9 community, a radio personality publicly mocked 10 individuals from a facility and condemned the staff 11 members that had assisted them in casting their 12 ballots.

13 Then a group that called itself Committee
14 for Change sent a letter to the same facility's 15 director, basically threatening her, claiming and 16 making the judgment that the individuals that were 17 being brought to vote were not mentally competent, 18 and the assistance being provided to them was 19 illegal.

20 Another example of this barrier was an 21 incident where a community had an election 22 commissioner meeting, and one of the trainers was 23 stating that any resident from a facility brought to 24 vote in groups by van or by bus would be turned away 25 and told that they couldn't vote on an upcoming

1 primary election.

2 Voter ID. We don't yet know how voter ID
3 is ultimately going to impact voters with 4 disabilities, but already, as we've heard today,
5 we've experienced confusion and fear. In general, 6 there are some good state and federal laws for 7 people with disability, but implementation, making 8 accessibility a priority, lack of knowledge, and 9 preconceived attitudes create continuing problems.

10 In conclusion, while it is true that 11 indelible strides have been made when it comes to 12 voting rights, it is also just as clear that there 13 are still miles to go, and it starts with education.
14 The most challenging barriers are attitudinal based 15 on ignorance and fear. These attitudes lead to 16 disrespect and its empowerment of voters
17 disabilities.

18 Changes in knowledgeable and attitude can 19 be achieved through education of election officials 20 and poll workers, and by including voters with 21 disabilities in the electoral process. Every poll 22 worker must understand and buy into the belief that 23 their primary role is to help create stronger 24 communities, and that only then is the process just 25 an equal.

1 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Ms. Walker. Next
2 we have Ms. Lexi Elmore.

3 MS. ELMORE: Let me say, good afternoon.
4 My name is Lexi Elmore, and I am the president of 5 NAACP in McComb, Pike County area. I am here to say 6 that voter apathy has actually set in because of the 7 distance the voter have to travel to vote.
8 Approximately 18 to 20 miles some of our voters have 9 to travel to vote. And in some instances, as we all 10 know, that can be very discouraging, especially when 11 there is no transportation. And we believe that 12 this is a major problem, and one of the reason the 13 voter turn out is so low.

14 Another area that I would like to talk 15 about is, before the redistricting took place in 16 McComb, Pike County, the voters, we would all vote 17 at the same polling place during election. That's 18 the city election and the county election. Now, the 19 city board in McComb, Mississippi decided to change
20 the polling locations. We in the City of McComb 21 vote in one location, the people in the county would 22 vote in another location. And this has caused a 23 ball of confusion.

24 Another area that I would like to touch on 25 quickly is switching polling places that was

1 predominately a black polling place. The city and 2 the county decided that they will switch those 3 polling places to a predominately white church in 4 the Pike County, McComb area. For instance, we had 5 one candidate who was very popular. He had an 6 excellent chance of winning, and he did win. And we 7 feel because of that, the people in that area
8 decided to switch that polling place, which was in a 9 predominately black location, to a white church.
10 And those are some of the reasons that I think that 11 caused a lot of voter apathy, and also voter 12 suppression in the Pike County, McComb area.

13 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Ms. Elmore. And 14 finally, we have Ms. Jean Everett.

15 MS. PAINE: I am not Jean Everett. I am 16 Deidra Paine speaking on behalf of Jean Everett, who 17 is President of the League of Women Voters of 18 Mississippi. And I have given the recorder our 19 statement.

20 First of all, we want to thank you for 21 allowing us to speak to the panel. The League of 22 Women Voters of Mississippi exists to encourage, 23 inform an active participation of citizens in 24 government, and strive through education and 25 advocacies to influence public policy.

1 The League of Women Voters began in 1920
2 as women gained their right to vote. And we 3 expanded our ranks and opened them to men in 1970.
4 So, we urge all of you gentlemen to join us. And we 5 have information on joining the League with us
6 today.

7 Voters are the heart of the League's work.
8 Our position on voting rights is, the League
9 believes voting is a fundamental citizen's right
10 that must be guaranteed. Making democracy work is a 11 trademark phrase that sums up what the League of 12 Women Voters is. Hand-in-hand with voting is the 13 issue of apportionment. Voters need to know their 14 votes will count for something. Our National and 15 State League's have positions that reflect this 16 value.

17 In the most recent redistricting cycle of 18 2011, our Mississippi League sent a letter to the 19 state committee on reapportionment. Our then 20 President Fran Leber, who is with us today, wrote 21 urging the committee in her words to adhere to all 22 constitutional and Voting Rights Act requirements to 23 promote competitiveness and partisan fairness, and 24 respect political subdivisions and communities
25 interests and geographical compactness.

1 She reminded them that to achieve
2 representative democracy, redistricting plans must 3 be drawn in a manner that allows elective bodies to 4 reflect with the diversity of populous. The League
5 called for redistricting to be transparent and open 6 for public participation through the entire process.
7 As the redistricting plans unfolded, we saw there
8 would be no transparency. Changes in the house 9 districts that included loss of exceed in the delta, 10 adding new districts and the spectra of future 11 face-offs for present representatives with others of 12 their own party, and other results unforeseen seemed 13 motivated by partisanship and racial gerrymandering.

14 On a more positive note, however, the 15 Senate plan seemed influenced much less by those 16 forces of partisanship. As the National League 17 considers future redistricting cycles, we have 18 released a paper entitled "Shining the light, 19 redistricting lessons learned in 2011."

20 It is available on our website,
21 www.lwv.org. The National League intends to 22 advocate for formalized transparency and public 23 participation, and to pursue binding partisan
24 neutral criteria that reflect the diversity of each 25 state, including racial and ethnic diversity, as

1 well as communities of interest.

2 That paper further states that now, more
3 than ever, the League and similar organizations need 4 to collaborate and partner to meet the challenges of 5 redistricting reform. We therefore ask that 6 everyone make it your work to contact your 7 representatives, to write letters to your editors, 8 to take part in on line forums to protect our right
9 to vote.

10 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Ms. Paine. Now
11 we have Mr. Michael Sayer.

12 MR. SAYER: Who is the best looking guy on 13 the panel. Also the worst looking guy on the panel.

14 I was asked to talk about rural areas.
15 I'd like to try to tell a story to illustrate the 16 point that I want to make -- the points that I want 17 to make.

18 Drew, Mississippi, that's D-R-E-W, is in 19 northern Sunflower County in the heart of the delta.
20 Drew is 30 miles north of Indianola, the county 21 seat, which is where the citizens councils were 22 created, white citizens councils were created in 23 1955 in opposition to Brown versus Board of 24 Education.

25 Drew is 10 miles north of where Senator

1 Eastland -- infamous Senator Eastland had his 2 massive plantation in Doddsville. And it's 3 seven miles south of where the infamous Parchman
4 penitentiary still exists. About 12 years ago, Drew 5 had what turned out to be a transformation election.
6 The Municipal Board of Alderman -- let me back up a 7 step.

8 Sunflower County was 68 percent black at 9 the time. And the little Town of Drew was a very 10 small town, was majority black. Never had a 11 majority black municipal board. And at the time, 20 12 years ago, they had three whites and two blacks.
13 And one of the whites left the board for reasons
14 that I do not now remember.

15 Johnnie Johnson, who was head of the local 16 Grass Roots Organization, was running for Municipal 17 Board, and had a good chance of winning because they 18 were doing a hell of an organizing job. So, they 19 had the election. And I wasn't there in Drew, but I 20 got a call at home that night about 7:00 p.m. when 21 the polls were closing. Johnnie was on the phone 22 frantically saying, You have to talk to the police 23 chief, he's right here.

24 I said, "Why?" She said, Because he's 25 lifted me up off the ground and is about to throw me

1 out of the polling place. I said, "Why?" She said, 2 Because they've ordered all of the poll workers and 3 poll watchers out of the building before they seal
4 the boxes. Before they seal the election boxes.
5 Before. They didn't want anybody present. So, I
6 said, "Okay. I'll talk to him." The police chief, 7 of course, wouldn't talk to me. Why should he,
8 right?

9 Make that part of the story short, of 10 course, she lost the election, brought a suit to 11 overturn the election on several grounds on election 12 misconduct by the officials, not to mention sealing 13 the boxes after everybody was pushed out of the 14 building. So, they had a reelection, a new 15 election.

16 I was -- I became a poll watcher for that 17 election. It was expected in the morning from about 18 7:00 to 11:00 the white community would vote, which 19 they did in large numbers. It was expected that the 20 black community wouldn't turn out until the 21 afternoon when there was a shift change at Parchman
22 penitentiary. People coming to work would vote 23 first before they went to work, people leaving work 24 would come afterwards.

25 Well, some time between 1:30 and 2:00, the 1 poll manager, elderly blue-haired white lady who 2 happened to be the grandmother of Payton Manning, 3 and what's his brother's name, Eli Manning, and 4 mother to Archy Manning. I should know my Mannings 5 by now, right? She fought all day long about where 6 I was going to stand. I told her she wasn't going 7 to move me one inch. So, she threatened to have me 8 arrested. I said, "Go ahead. There are two federal 9 observers right over there taking it all down.

10 Between 1:30 and 2:00, she approached the 11 back of the three poll workers and said, Place your 12 voting rolls under your seats, which they did. And 13 she then proceeded to pull out a new voter list to 14 be used in the afternoon by each of the poll
15 workers.

16 Now, think about that. Two voting lists
17 with the same election on the same day for the two 18 different communities. Don't you think that the 19 second polling list was somewhat disadvantaged to 20 the black community, right? Well, make a long story 21 short, I raised wholly hell, and they did not use 22 the separate polling list. That's what I was 23 talking before about having a well-trained, strong 24 and effective poll watcher to fight right then and 25 there.

1 But the point is, this is a tiny town, a 2 really tiny town. These are the kinds of things 3 that can go on if you're talking about what is the 4 impact of clearing out the protections that people
5 expect to have. I mean, I invoke the Voting Rights 6 Act up one side, down the other for things that were 7 never in the Voting Rights Act, but she didn't know.
8 And I sounded very authoritative, if I may say so 9 myself.

10 Are you an attorney? Yes, I am. That 11 kind of thing. The point is that we are going to 12 have going to be so vigilant as voter ID, which is 13 maybe the second generation, right, but we don't 14 know what the third generation yet holds, you know, 15 what other devices are going to be added to this.
16 And we're going to have to be vigilant at the policy 17 level, at the implementation level, and especially 18 in small towns where people do not have ready access 19 to a pool of attorneys, you know, who can jump, you 20 know, across the street to your downtown and help 21 out.

22 Do I have time?

23 MR. RUSSELL: No, but go ahead.

24 MR. SAYER: About the same time in --

25 MR. RHODES: Who won the election?

1 MR. SAYER: In the second election,
2 Johnnie won far and away, no question about it. I
3 guess I forgot to tell you.

4 In Kilmichael, which is an even smaller 5 town in eastern Montgomery County, and Mary Young 6 was elected mayor in that election. She is sitting 7 in the middle. That was also transformation. That 8 was the first time that we won a majority of -- it 9 was the first woman mayor and first black mayor of 10 Kilmichael, also the first majority city board in 11 that history of that town.

12 This was strange. I have been a poll 13 watcher in that election, and I got real close when 14 they were counting the ballots. And I tried to help
15 them throw out the ballots that were bad ballots. I 16 wanted to make sure that they weren't accepting 17 where the checkmark wasn't anywhere near the box and 18 that sort of thing. I mean, I was kibitz -- I had 19 no right to, but I was kibitz.

20 So, as it turned out, Mary won. And one
21 of the three elections actually ended in a tie.
22 Okay. And they flipped a coin to see who won that 23 one. But then, the white community was outraged and 24 thought that I had done something to tilt -- you 25 know, the hand on the pinball machine, and I had

1 tilted it. They demanded a recount, which is not 2 provided for under Mississippi law.

3 And I argued that and they didn't care.
4 They went and held the recount. And we had Carl 5 Reeves ready to come down and file an injunction.
6 And I tried to represent my clients in that room.
7 And the police chief took me under one arm and the 8 sheriff took me under the other arm, lifted me up 9 and removed me from the room so that I couldn't 10 participate in the recount processes.

11 So, I waited patiently outside. And at 12 the end of the recount Mary's margin went up, and 13 the three black alderman, their margin went up. All 14 the votes that they put back in were our votes.
15 They put them all back.

16 But, again, that's just small down
17 politics. The poll manager was so outraged at my 18 aggressive participation that they called the 19 Secretary of State to send down an assistant 20 attorney general to monitor the election. So, the 21 gentleman came down, and I introduced myself to him.
22 I figured if I could have (inaudible) and meet him 23 and whatever. So, what kind of work do you do at 24 the attorney general's office?

25 It's securities and tax. I said, "Have

1 you ever worked on a voting case?" He said, No. I
2 said, "What are you doing here?" He said, Hell if I
3 know. Right? But the point is, this is small town
4 situation. Nobody knew. Nobody really had an idea.

5 So, the definition of an expert is 6 somebody that knows a little bit more than anybody 7 else in the room, right? We need our folks to be 8 the experts. They need to know what the law is, 9 they need to know what the rules are, they need to 10 know what it says in the Secretary of State's 11 manual, and they need to have one under their arm so 12 they can open it up and show people it's 13.3 right 13 here, which, of course, they learned in the training 14 if you provide the training.

15 That confidence cannot be underestimated.
16 The importance of community feeling that it knows 17 that it has the power to do this, it just transforms 18 the center of gravity politically in the situation.
19 I probably took too much time. I'm sorry.

20 MR. JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. Sayer.

21 Now, at this time I'm going to ask if any 22 commissioners have any questions of our panelists.

23 MR. RHODES: When was this incident in 24 Drew, and when did it occur in Kilmichael?

25 THE WITNESS: They were in early 2000s.

1 MR. RHODES: Recent.

2 MR. SAYER: Early 2000s. I can't remember
3 which one was in 2001, which one was 2002. Mary 4 might remember.

5 MS. YOUNG: 2003 for Kilmichael.

6 MR. SAYER: 2003?

7 MS. YOUNG: Yes.

8 MR. JOHNSON: What about Drew? It had to 9 be earlier, right?

10 MR. SAYER: No. It was about 2002.

11 MR. JOHNSON: We're not talking about this 12 civil rights time, we're talking about yesterday?

13 MR. SAYER: Yeah. Different stories in 14 the '60s. We would have been killed in the '60s.

15 Let me tell you along those lines. One of 16 the things that I learned outside, after the 17 election was over in Kilmichael, somebody had been 18 in the grocery store across the street. This was 19 chilling. Overheard the grocery store owner talking 20 to one of the other white folks in the community,
21 and said, You got to take the ponytail guy and put a 22 millstone around his neck and dump him in the river.

23 Now, that was 2003. That wasn't 1963.
24 So, you still have that -- if they can talk about me 25 that way, and I was from out of town, imagine the

1 impact that has on somebody who lives in town, sees 2 that, reports that, and says, that's the atmosphere.

3 MR. JOHNSON: Any other questions?

4 MR. RHODES: Another question. Lexi, you
5 talked about election officials of Pike County, 6 moving and changing polling places?

7 MS. ELMORE: Yes.

8 MR. RHODES: And from accessible black
9 community to the white community, timeline.

10 MS. ELMORE: Yes.

11 MR. RHODES: When did that happen?

12 MS. ELMORE: This happened -- the election
13 was in May.

14 MR. RHODES: Of this year?

15 MS. ELMORE: Yes. Because we had one in 16 the Apple Center (inaudible) and Pike County. And 17 also one in the Algiers community. And both of 18 those communities are predominately black, and they 19 moved them to a white church in Pike County in 20 McComb.

21 MR. RHODES: I just want the record to be 22 clear that this was May of 2014 --

23 MS. ELMORE: 2014.

24 MR. RHODES: -- after the Shelby County
25 decision?

1 MS. ELMORE: Yes.

2 MR. RHODES: And they didn't know how to 3 get preclearance?

4 MS. ELMORE: No, they did not.

5 MR. RUSSELL: The same is true of the 6 disability issues that were described as well, they 7 were recent issues that you noted.

8 MS. WALKER: And they were 2011 and 2010.

9 DR. CRAWFORD: I just want to point
10 something out. Help America Vote Act 2002
11 guaranties non-discriminatory voting. And that 12 means people with disabilities are entitled to vote 13 independently and privately in the polling place.

14 It is 2014, and this is a school of law, 15 and someone with a wheelchair can't get on the 16 stage. Okay. What does the -- what are the chances 17 that someone with a disability in rural Mississippi 18 can actually show up and cast their vote
19 independently and privately like everyone else?
20 That's the question we need to ask.

21 MR. JOHNSON: Dr. Crawford, before you 22 hand the pick back, were you aware that under the 23 Help America Vote Act, the Secretary of State's 24 office received resources to make all precincts 80A 25 compliant?

1 DR. CRAWFORD: Yes, sir, I am aware. And 2 I also am aware that the Mississippi Coalition for 3 Citizens with Disabilities was tasked with doing a 4 survey. I asked last week for the results of that 5 survey from the Secretary of State's office. I got 6 no response. I asked again via email again this 7 week, and received no response.

8 So, I do not know if any of those 9 precincts that were found to be inaccessible were 10 made accessible. I do not know if there was any 11 follow-up at all done.

12 MR. JOHNSON: So, do you know -- when was 13 the most recent incident of a precinct not being 14 accessible?

15 DR. CRAWFORD: Months ago. And I tried to 16 vote at my precinct 16 in Jackson, and they did not 17 have the accessible voting machines, what we call an 18 Automark, that uses -- it's for people who are blind 19 and need audio, or people who are -- perhaps can't 20 read, or people with limited manual dexterity.
21 Those machines were not being deployed by the City
22 of Jackson.

23 MR. JOHNSON: So, you're talking about 24 special municipal election this year, 2014?

25 DR. CRAWFORD: It took a great deal of 1 effort on my part to get the machines deployed last 2 month for the mayoral special election. I can say 3 that at my precinct, it was there, but only after an 4 argument with the election officials.

5 MR. JOHNSON: Do you know when the 6 Secretary of State received the funds to ensure that 7 all precincts were 80A compliant?

8 DR. CRAWFORD: It was in the early 2000s, 9 maybe 2004 through 2008, in that range.

10 MR. JOHNSON: So, since 2008, to your 11 knowledge, all precincts have not been --

12 DR. CRAWFORD: I have no data on that. I 13 have no knowledge of that at all.

14 MS. PAINE: I'm a poll manager of Madison 15 County, and I became involved in 2006, the end of 16 2006. The Secretary of State had funds then. We 17 have two voters in our precinct, which is Ridgeland 18 111. We have the VIBS machine, which is video 19 impaired ballot station. It's accessible and 20 usable. But if you are in a wheelchair, you cannot 21 get in the precinct. You cannot get up on the curb, 22 and you cannot get through the door of the building.
23 There are two issues here. The laws
24 exist, but as Mississippi has always done, willful 25 and neglect exist. The laws are on the books. The

1 funds may be available, but law enforcement
2 administration refuses to do anything about it. And 3 if you make a complaint, if you file a lawsuit, 4 there is intimidation, which takes us to something 5 else that has been a threat throughout today.

6 There is voter intimidation. We know
7 there's a voter problem. There are various access 8 issues, but throughout all of this, there is voter 9 intimidation. Even when you've got educated poll 10 workers. And I've had to work with some of them in 11 Madison County. You've got educated poll workers 12 who have a plantation mentality that prevents them 13 from taking hold of the right to be the election
14 official. And this is 2014.

15 So, how do we address that?

16 MR. RHODES: Mike, I have one follow-up
17 question I was going to ask you about. Are you 18 familiar, I guess within the last 15 years, election 19 officials canceled an election?

20 MR. SAYER: I can't hear you.

21 MR. RHODES: Are you familiar within the 22 last 15 years when an election official canceled an 23 election in Kilmichael and they hadn't obtained
24 preclearance?

25 MR. SAYER: I don't remember that.

1 MR. RHODES: I might ask Ms. Young. I'm 2 trying to get stuff on the record about Kilmichael.
3 If Ms. Young could tell us about what happened when 4 they canceled an election without obtaining 5 preclearance.

6 MS. YOUNG: Approximately two weeks --
7 approximately two weeks prior to the election, the 8 chief of police came to our house and wanted us to 9 actually -- we had a meeting downtown that we had to 10 attend. And after getting to the meeting, that's 11 when they announced to us that the election has been 12 canceled. And that opened up a lot of cans of worms 13 because we asked the question what, why.

14 And we was working with Southern Echo, 15 Mike Sayer, who was working with us, teaching us the 16 organizing skill. And we called in other 17 assistants. And from there, we ended up in a 18 lawsuit because of the accusation that they was 19 planning while they canceled the election. But the 20 election -- the cancellation actually happened after 21 everyone had qualified.

22 I qualified on the very last day based on 23 when everybody was out of Kilmichael, when everybody 24 was out of Kilmichael coming to Jackson for 25 the (inaudible) you suddenly have no one in town. I

1 did that like an undercover thing because I was 2 aware where I was. I know that I was not in a
3 pleasant place to be running first time black female 4 mayor.

5 So, I waited until the last day to 6 qualify. And the cancellation of the election, post 7 of the election, took place after everyone
8 qualified.

9 MR. RHODES: And the reason I wanted to 10 make sure that testimony got into the record, 11 because there are two bills pending in Congress, HR 12 House Resolution 3899 and Senate bill 1945, to 13 reauthorize Section 4 of the Voting Rights Act which 14 the Supreme Court struck down in Shelby County case.

15 And part of the proof that Congress was 16 considering was the last Section 5 of Jackson, I 17 guess by the United States Attorney General against 18 anyplace in Mississippi was that election that was 19 canceled in Kilmichael, Mississippi. And that that 20 election -- if that Section 5 objection was not 21 included in the record, Mississippi might not be 22 covered under the new congressional laws.

23 I just wanted to make sure that's -- 24 that's important testimony.

25 MR. JOHNSON: At this time we want to 1 begin the transition to receive comments or 2 questions from the audience.

3 Please state your name.

4 MS. LEBER: I am Fran Leber. And I'm 5 really concerned because we won't have the 6 preclearance anymore. I think -- I worked as a 7 legislature for the League of Women Voters, and 8 there's lots of bills that would make it very 9 difficult, especially for people with disabilities
10 is what I'm talking about today. And I think a lot 11 of those didn't go any further because they were 12 concerned that they would get through the 13 preclearance, and now that's going to be easier.

14 For some examples of things that did go 15 through that still make it very difficult for people
16 with disabilities. I had hip surgery
17 the presidential -- the first presidential election 18 for Obama. And I had a walker. I went to my 19 precinct, and it was in a church. And I had to go 20 up two sets of stairs to get in to vote. There was 21 no way I could do it.

22 So, somebody that was going in, I said, 23 "Would you please tell them I have no way of getting 24 in here?" So, somebody came in down and said, Oh, 25 well, there's a ramp around the side. Well, it was

1 behind bushes, and I didn't know it was there. So,
2 of course, I took it. And the person went back 3 inside. And I got up and the door was locked to get 4 into the room. So, that was one problem.

5 And then I told them, I said, "Well, you 6 don't have any information that you're supposed to 7 have listed for people with disabilities."

8 Oh, it's here on the wall.

9 Well, the door was -- that was when -- 10 another time I went, and I had pain at the time.
11 And I could get up the steps all right, but they 12 still didn't have the sign out for the people that 13 needed to go in in a wheelchair. So, once again, I 14 told them they didn't have their signs out.

15 So, even though they're supposed to by 16 law, we're having trouble even getting them to 17 follow the law that they do pass, and it's going to 18 be so much more difficult because there's going to 19 be more laws that are going to be passed just 20 because they don't have that preclearance I'm 21 afraid.

22 MR. JOHNSON: Ms. Leber, before you sit 23 down. How long have you been tracking legislation 24 on at the Capitol on behalf of the League of Women
25 Voters?

1 MS. LEBER: I would say probably 38 years.
2 And thank you for Derrick Johnson sitting in some of 3 the rushing to minute meetings. And something has 4 really happened. I called him one time and said, 5 "You've got to get down to the next meeting." And 6 thank heavens he gets in there and pulls them to the 7 wire.

8 MR. JOHNSON: So, in your following
9 legislative process in sitting in on election
10 committee meetings, how often is it that legislation 11 will come before that committee and they decide not 12 to advance it because of the Section 5 preclearance 13 requirement? Have you seen it happen?

14 MS. LEBER: Well, the bills are there, and 15 they have them in both houses. But it ends up they 16 don't rule any further. And I think that's the 17 reason, because they think maybe it won't make 18 preclearance.

19 And, for example, the bills that passed in 20 Florida that year, you know, that great big law, 21 that 36-page thing? That whole thing came out, 22 remember, and we did repeat that, and they start 23 taking little sections of it. So, every year they 24 enter more. I think one reason they didn't this 25 year was because it's election year coming up.

1 MR. JOHNSON: So, is it your concern
2 without preclearance, Mississippi election policy
3 landscape will change drastically?

4 MS. LEBER: I'm sure there's going to be 5 more bills passed than if we had it. I don't think 6 there's any doubt about that.

7 MR. JOHNSON: Would it be bills to open up
8 elections to make sure more people had opportunities
9 to vote?

10 MS. LEBER: Did we have any luck getting 11 those through? We keep trying. We have to wait 12 until each election year to getting anything 13 through.

14 MR. JOHNSON: Any other questions? Jed
15 Oppenheim.

16 MR. OPPENHEIM: My name is Jed Oppenheim.
17 I'm here as a citizen of Jackson and as of 18 Mississippi. I wanted to quickly make a couple of 19 points that maybe haven't yet really been made about 20 accessibility to the vote, especially around people 21 with felony convictions or presumed convictions of 22 any kind.

23 I know that often times registering 24 voters, there's a lot of confusion about whether 25 they could register depending on if they've been

1 convicted of crimes, if they're waiting for their 2 court hearing, if they have a misdemeanor. Often 3 times I've encountered people who think they can't 4 vote because of misdemeanors.

5 I will say there's a list of 22 felony
6 disenfranchising crimes out on the table over here.
7 I could read them if you want me to. But, for 8 example, one of the things that's not on here that 9 people always think they can't vote, if they have a 10 convention around particular drug crimes or drug 11 offenses. And that is not one of the 12 disenfranchising crimes.

13 I wanted to make another -- a couple other 14 points. Only two people in the last 10 years, 15 right, we believe, that we know of have actually 16 been convicted of voter fraud in the State. One was 17 for registering to vote with a felony, and the other 18 one was for one person who voted with a felony 19 conviction. So, how they would have still been on 20 the roll probably wasn't their mistake, but probably 21 somebody else's.

22 So, there's a lot of misinformation about 23 who can vote and with what convictions, or even 24 sometimes when the -- you know, the charge is strung 25 out, you know, and the confusion as to what that

1 still means, that one can still vote.

2 And then the other thing I wanted to make 3 note of, especially being in a rural state, by going 4 back to I think both federal elections and statewide 5 elections is, how the voting for, how to say, like 6 around the census in the realm of where votes are 7 counted, too, in terms of individuals who might be 8 incarcerated and where their votes are counted 9 versus the town that they come from versus the town 10 where the prison is.

11 And we have a good example of a number of 12 prisons in our state, especially like Walnut Grove, 13 which was built in a very rural, rural, rural 14 district where there is more people who are 15 incarcerated there than are in the actual town of 16 Walnut Grove living there. That was one of those, 17 you know, relating back to focus census and a number 18 of other things.

19 So, I'll just leave it out there. I'm not 20 an expert in all these things, of course, but I did 21 want to at least bring that forward as part of the 22 testimony.

23 MR. JOHNSON: Any other questions?

24 MS. CLARIDY: I'm Cheryl Claridy. I'm a 25 citizen here in Jackson. In answer to a question

1 that you posed, Mr. Johnson, to Dr. Crawford about 2 accessibility with the machines that are supposedly 3 supplied by the Secretary of State. I was a poll 4 watcher in the first mayoral election last month.
5 And the poll manager told me that she had tried very 6 hard to get a machine in her precinct for somebody 7 that she knew would be coming to vote who was blind.
8 And she was -- they were unable to give her the 9 machine for the precinct.

10 And the man did come to vote and came with 11 somebody else, and he did not have a machine that 12 allowed him to vote privately. That was Precinct 56
13 here in Jackson last month.

14 MR. JOHNSON: Last month, 2014?

15 MS. CLARIDY: Yes, sir.

16 MS. EVERETT: Hi, Jean Everett. I want to 17 thank Deidra for reading our statement, doing that 18 so well. And I just wanted to reiterate something 19 from the League of Women Voters of the United 20 States.

21 When I spoke to one of them letting them 22 know we were participating today, they just 23 mentioned that the most pressing need right now 24 around all this big issue that we've talked about is 25 the modernization of the Voting Rights Act, which is

1 what I think you were speaking of a little while 2 ago, Mr. Rhodes.

3 So, if we can all just take that action
4 and contact our representatives, that would be I
5 think a very good thing. And we offer the US League
6 of Women Voters website, it's a very convenient way 7 for you to do that.

8 DR. CRAWFORD: I'm going to repeat myself 9 here and include people with disabilities in the 10 Voting Rights Act for lots of good reasons.

11 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: I have been very 12 enlightened by your comments about what happens in 13 rural areas. At voting times, I get a terrible 14 feeling that I'm not the only one. I vote one way, 15 and I don't know of anybody else who would vote the 16 other way, but the results are always dumbing down
17 Mississippi citizens, especially the black 18 community, like we just don't know what's going on.

19 And if all the things that you just said,
20 someone is tampering the results. So, we don't -- 21 we're not nearly as bad as they say we are when it's 22 time to vote. We can vote and we do vote 23 intelligently, but someone is messing with the 24 numbers.

25 Thank you so much.

1 MR. TOLLMAN: My name is Father Jerry
2 Tollman. I'm a priest here in the Jackson Diocese, 3 (inaudible) in Raymond. I am part of several 4 organizations, and also -- listing, but that's not 5 important. I just want to say that this whole voter 6 ID thing, these voter suppression laws as we know, 7 this is not something Mississippi invented. This is 8 has been organized, calculated, planned effort for 9 the last -- well, I came in '98, I think it was 10 going on probably back in the '80s they were 11 planning this stuff. And now we've got the Tea 12 Party, we've got this whole visible stuff you see on 13 television.

14 But this, what is it, American Legislative 15 Exchange Counsel, crashed these bills. This is a 16 well oiled machine they got to roll back everything 17 we fought for in the last 50 or 60 years.

18 So, my reason I mention that is, we have 19 other organizations, like Reverend Barber up there 20 in North Carolina. Every night on TV, the most of 21 the most -- the worst voter repression law in the 22 country. Well, you know, hey, listen, it's going to 23 get worse. We've got organizing -- not realizing 24 alone doing this, there are other organizations, 25 other groups like us fighting the same cause. We

1 need to connect with them, network with them, and 2 build a national movement like our ancestors did and 3 keep the right to vote.

4 MR. JOHNSON: John Garner.

5 MR. GARNER: Thank you again. My name is 6 John Garner. A request for Southern Echo and other 7 organizations here. Take this -- get some folks out 8 to these polls who will look at some of these 9 numbers and help us analyze what the effect of voter 10 ID is. And then my other comment is, how do we get 11 a transcript of these proceedings?

12 MR. JOHNSON: I will provide my contact 13 information to anyone who would like a transcript of 14 the proceedings. I will provide a copy to you.

15 MS. YOUNG: I would just like to say -- 16 add to what had already been said, to some of the 17 questions and comments. Because in our opinion, 18 it's not just one little thing, but a cluster of 19 small things that make a difference in our election.
20 And some of the things, such as the voter ID, which 21 we are facing in the first election here in June for 22 voter ID, name not on the poll book, these are some 23 of the things they're facing that is affecting our 24 election in local places. And, in turn, it affects 25 our state election, our crowdness at the polls,

1 changing of address on the day of the election with 2 citizens moving into town.

3 And we know that some move in and vote and 4 they move out. And on top of that, they change
5 their address on the same day. And the poll book 6 being purged the night before the election, people 7 coming to the poll and they are lost, even the 8 workers. I look for names, names not on the book.
9 Even their names not on the book.

10 So, these small things equal to be a big 11 thing. And if we don't face some of these things 12 and deal with some of these things, we're going to 13 lose a lot of important elections. People who can 14 make a positive difference. I'm not talking about 15 someone getting into office, but we need positive 16 change.

17 So, there are other things. And one word 18 I heard stated here today, "intimidation". And 19 there's another word go beyond that. There is a way 20 that you can be threatened and warned. So, we need 21 some kind of help -- I don't know what you call it, 22 what you might say we need, but there are some 23 serious issues that's going on in these small towns.

24 Someone needs to attend to some of these 25 issues because some people are not speaking out

1 because of intimidation. And we need that can of 2 worms opened up where they can feel safe, because 3 that's why you're not getting some of the reports 4 because they feel intimidated. And beyond that,
5 words some use is "warned".

6 I can tell you some stories, just a tip of 7 the bush what Mike said. Mike just started you off.
8 So, there is more. It has not stopped. There are 9 things that have never been told to some. So, 10 listen to the panels, listen to the comments and 11 questions. I'm just adding some more. We still 12 have a lot of work to do, because the word
13 "intimidation" is still a lot stronger. And we need 14 to do something to encourage people that your vote 15 and voice is safe.

16 And the other thing I'd just like to 17 say -- I had just wrote down a little quote on 18 Section 4 and 5, because of my experience in the big 19 Town of Kilmichael. And this is a quote, I think 20 I'm going to write it down and remember it myself.
21 Without the preclearance section, it leads a weak
22 shadow on justice. So, removing Section 5, changing 23 these laws as some had done, it leads us with a weak 24 form of justice. So, we need to work to improve and 25 strengthen justice, not weaken it.

1 MR. JOHNSON: State your name for the
2 record.

3 MS. YOUNG: I'm sorry. Mary McCaskell
4 Young from Kilmichael, Mississippi.

5 MR. JOHNSON: Let's give all of our 6 panelists and witnesses a hand.

7 MR. SAYER: It's a question for 8 clarification. If I understand it correctly, 9 there's a state statute which restricts or precludes 10 purging of rolls within a certain number of days of 11 the election. I just thought it would be helpful to 12 everybody since that's been discussed so much.

13 If one of you could, who is certain of 14 your recollection of it, specify the number of days 15 so that our people knowing that can then fight back 16 against it. I think it was 30, but I'm not sure.

17 MR. RHODES: I think, Mike, there is a
18 statute that said you're not supposed to do it 19 within 60 days of the election. But with all laws, 20 it comes down to enforcement.

21 MR. SAYER: Right.

22 MR. RHODES: It's on the books.

23 MR. SAYER: You can't fight back against 24 the wrongful implementation unless we know what the 25 law requires. And I just wanted to clarify that for

1 everyone. It's not a free ride for the public
2 officials to be purging the roll.

3 MS. PAINE: But in Mississippi, it almost 4 is because, here again, we know what the law may be, 5 but once the record has been purged, then you've got 6 to recover and election day has already passed.

7 So, one thing I'd like to say, and I know
8 we're beyond our time, Mr. Chairman, and I 9 apologize. I feel that we have been negligent. The 10 saying is, The cost of peace is constant vigilance.
11 And we have had 50 years of being free. And we 12 acknowledge in our freedom. And we have not taken 13 care of the vote.

14 When the election officials are preparing 15 for an election, we -- and this is a nonpartisan 16 gathering so I won't name names -- we don't go to 17 the courthouse and watch them prepare the machines.
18 We don't check to see if the legalized purge is 19 done, and then come back to see if there are 20 additional purges.

21 We're working in the courthouse. Why 22 don't we know what's going on? We have failed to 23 take care of our own. That's the correction that 24 needs to be made.

25 MR. JOHNSON: All right. Again, I would

1 like to thank everybody for coming out. Closing
2 remarks from Dorian Spence.

3 MR. SPENCE: I wanted to put this on the 4 record. My name is Dorian Spence, I'm representing 5 the National Commission for Voting Rights by way of 6 the Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights out of 7 Washington, DC. And I'm the person that has been on 8 the conference calls with many of you throughout the 9 playing process. But I want to just say thank you
10 all for coming out. I truly appreciate you all's 11 energy, as well as all of you all's testimony and 12 your presence. But I just want to say a special 13 thank you to all of your organizations, the 14 Mississippi State Conference of the NAACP, all of 15 our guest commissioners, Mr. Leon Russell, Mr.
16 Carroll Rhodes, Mr. Reilly Morse, as well as Ms.
17 Deborah McDonald, all of our testifying witnesses,
18 Upgrade Mississippi, Common Cause, League of Women 19 Voters, the League of Women Voters Jackson area, as 20 well as Southern Echo, and to who it contains.

21 But this hearing honestly would not have 22 been possible without some of these suggestions and 23 people like Mike Sayer, Mr. Sham Lambright, and 24 Mr. Jed Oppenheim, because they were so instrumental 25 in putting this thing together on such short notice.

1 I think we started planning this, what, two weeks 2 ago.

3 And without their efforts, seriously, on 4 the ground and reaching out to their network of 5 people, I don't think anyone down here would have 6 known about it. I would have been in this room by 7 myself with the court reporter trying to kill time.
8 In any event, as well as Dr. Scott Crawford, who was 9 on a lot of our phone calls and exchanged a lot of 10 emails with myself.

11 If I've forgotten anyone that I've talked 12 to -- I truly appreciate you all's presence. My 13 contact information is as follows:
14 Dspence@lawyerscommittee.org. Feel free to reach 15 out to me directly.

16 With that being said, we thank you for 17 your presence once again. And we look forward to 18 working with you in the very near future. Thanks 19 again.

20 (Off record at 5:14 p.m.)

21

22

23

24

25

1 CERTIFICATE OF COURT REPORTER
2 I, Robin G. Burwell, Court Reporter and 3 Notary Public, in and for the State of Mississippi, 4 hereby certify that the foregoing contains a true
5 and correct transcript of the proceedings, as taken 6 by me in the aforementioned matter at the time and 7 place heretofore stated, as taken by stenotype and 8 later reduced to typewritten form under my 9 supervision by means of computer-aided 10 transcription.

11 I further certify that under the authority 12 vested in me by the State of Mississippi that the 13 witness was placed under oath by me to truthfully 14 answer all questions in the matter.

15 I further certify that I am not in the 16 employ of or related to any counsel or party in this 17 matter and have no interest, monetary or otherwise, 18 in the final outcome of this matter.

19 Witness my signature and seal this the 20 10th day of June, 2014

21

22

Robin G. Burwell, CCR
CCR #1651.

23

24

My Commission Expires

25

Table of Contents

17. Nashville Hearing Transcript
18. North Carolina Hearing Transcript
19. Nevada-Utah Regional Hearing Transcript
20. NYC Regional Hearing Transcript
21. Pennsylvania Hearing Transcript

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, REGIONAL HEARING

Thursday, May 8, 2014

4:00 PM - 8:00 PM

GREATER BETHEL AME CHURCH

1300 SOUTH STREET

NASHVILLE, TN 37212

REPORTER: GARY SCHNEIDER

JOB NO: 73960A

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. PERALTA: Good afternoon,
3 everyone. I hope everyone is having a beautiful
4 day. We're having some gorgeous weather.

5 I want to welcome you to our 6 Nashville Regional National Commission on Voting
7 Rights hearing. My name is Maria Peralta, and I 8 am the national coordinator for the National 9 Commission on Voting Rights.

10 The Commission is an initiative of 11 the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, 12 which is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization 13 created 50 years ago to engage the private bar in 14 the fight for social justice and civil rights.
15 And we continue our work today in many areas, 16 including community development, education, and 17 voting, which is the reason that we're all here
18 today.

19 Today's hearing is actually the 23rd
20 that we've been holding, the 23rd hearing. We've 21 been holding hearings across the country to gather 22 information on voting rights and election
23 administration, and to really get a detailed 24 landscape of what's going on on the ground.

25 The information that we are compiling

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 during these hearings and in the state reports 3 that we're compiling will be distributed to 4 members of Congress and to state and local 5 advocates that are working on the issue of voting 6 rights. So your presence here today and your 7 participation in this hearing is really essential 8 to informing that process.

9 I do want to thank our distinguished 10 panelists and our distinguished panel of guest 11 commissioners for being here with us today and 12 presiding over the hearings. I want to thank our 13 planning committee. And I'll just quickly list
14 off the organizations. And my colleague, Aunna
15 Dennis, can go in more detail in a minute.

16 But the ACLU of Tennessee, Black 17 Women's Round Table, Kentuckians for the 18 Commonwealth, League of Women Voters of Tennessee, 19 League of Women Voters of Nashville, Nashville
20 Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, 21 Tennessee Citizen Action, Tennessee State
22 Conference NAACP, and the Urban League of Middle 23 Tennessee. If I left anything out, my apologies.
24 I'm sure Aunna can fill some in.

25 So without further ado, I'm going to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 pass it to Aunna Dennis, who is another
3 coordinator at the Lawyers' Committee, and she 4 will go through in more detail what our afternoon
5 and evening is going to look like, and we can 6 begin. Thank you.

7 MS. DENNIS: My arms are kind of 8 short. Hi, ya'll. I'm Aunna Dennis. I'm the 9 national coordinator for the Legal Mobilization 10 Project with the Lawyers' Committee, so I am very 11 thrilled that you all are here today.

12 So up here on our stage, we have our 13 guest commissioners. We have Monroe Woods. He's 14 the Bolivar -- please correct me if I mispronounce 15 it. I am a Georgia girl. It's the 16 Bolivar-Hardeman County Branch, National 17 Association for the Advancement of Color People,
18 NAACP.

19 And we have also Lottie Shackelford.
20 She's with the Black Women's Roundtable of 21 National Coalition of Black Civic Participation.

22 And then we also have Austin Porter.
23 He's a civil rights attorney in Little Rock, 24 Arkansas.

25 And at the far end here, we have

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Raoul Cunningham. He's the National Association
3 for the Advancement of Color Peoples State
4 Conference President of Kentucky.

5 So those are the overview of our day.
6 So we're going to start off -- I know it's after 7 4:00, but we're doing our welcome and our 8 introduction, and then we're going to have our 9 first panel. And then we'll move right into our 10 second panel, which I'll go over, dilution of 11 minority power and redistricting. And then we'll 12 have a break, and we'll have refreshments and food 13 provided. It is first come, first served, so 14 let's be mindful that other people would like to 15 eat too. And that will be around the corner in 16 the Fellowship Hall. And then we'll go into our 17 third panel, which is disenfranchisement of 18 incarcerated and formerly incarcerated
19 individuals. And then we'll go into our first 20 public testimony time. And if you are doing a 21 public testimony, if you already haven't 22 preregistered, which I know your names, who you 23 are, please register at the table, the 24 registration table. Then we'll go into our fourth 25 panel, which is equal access to the political

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 process. And then our fifth panel and final
3 panel, which is the impact of voter ID on diverse 4 communities. And then we'll have our last public 5 testimony period as well.

6 So the first public testimony period
7 is a little bit longer than the first one. So if 8 you do want to speak, I would say definitely go 9 ahead and get it done in the first public
10 testimony time. And then we'll have closing 11 remarks.

12 And, again, I just want to thank you
13 all for coming. What we're doing is really great 14 work with you-all's knowledge and what you're 15 bringing to the table with what's going on in 16 voting rights. And I definitely want to thank our 17 planning committee because it's definitely been a 18 collaborative effort.

19 So we're just going to go ahead and 20 get started.

21 MS. DENNIS: So we're going to start
22 off with our first panel, and our commissioners 23 will preside over that.

24 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
25 Aunna and Maria.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 And, again, I say thanks to each of 3 you for letting us cover part of your day.

4 I'm Lottie Shackelford, as was 5 mentioned, and I hail from Little Rock, Arkansas, 6 and have spent quite a bit of time, some 20-plus 7 years, in Washington, D.C. And I've been 8 interested in the whole issue of access to voting 9 and being able to vote since a child when I went 10 with my dad to sell poll tax receipts in Little 11 Rock, Arkansas, and surrounding areas, because he 12 believed, and he taught each of his children to 13 believe, that each and everyone should have an 14 opportunity to cast that vote. And basically
15 that's why we are here today.

16 Our role as commissioners, of course,
17 is -- I sort of live by this -- that every day I 18 feel that a good portion of that day I'm going to 19 be a sponge and just soak in information. So our 20 role as commissioners today is to be this sponge
21 and to listen to what you have to share with us, 22 particularly in the areas that have been so
23 identified by Aunna.

24 With that, again, I thank you all for 25 coming and being willing to participate. Thank

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 you.

3 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Good afternoon.
4 I'm pleased to be here. But more than that, I'm 5 delighted that you are here. For those of you in 6 the audience, I'm Monroe Woods. I'm the branch 7 president of Bolivar-Hardeman County Branch of the 8 NAACP, and I serve as well in various capacities
9 within the state of Tennessee under the umbrella
10 of the state conference, Tennessee State
11 Conference NAACP.

12 I had a career in -- as a seat
13 executive service representative with the public 14 government. I had an opportunity to work in 15 various capacities and spent some time actually in 16 each state in the country doing some things, 17 participated in a lot of listening sessions 18 similar to this, one hearing what people have to 19 say about government, what was happening, how it 20 was working, the functions of it. Gained a lot of 21 respect for government. At the same time, you 22 realize that citizens really need to have a voice, 23 and they need to have an opportunity to express 24 their views and thoughts and share what's going on 25 at their level and what's important to them.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We have an issue that we're working
3 with and listening for today. We're looking 4 forward to hearing from you. And for those of you 5 in the audience, whether you're going to be 6 speaking during the public time or just being a 7 part of another sponge, we're delighted that 8 you're here.

9 For the panelists, we are especially 10 delighted that you're here. We look forward to 11 hearing from you, hope that you will share with us 12 some information that you prepared and brought 13 with you so that we jointly can get a good feel 14 for what's happening in your area, especially in 15 the area where you're involved. Thank you for 16 being here.

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Good afternoon.
18 My name is Austin Porter, Junior, and I'm a lawyer
19 out of Little Rock, Arkansas, and been practicing 20 law for the past 27, 28 years. My primary area of 21 practice, I do a lot of civil rights litigation, 22 and I have handled voting rights cases on behalf 23 of my clients.

24 I'm used to suing municipalities,
25 which is what I do as far as dealing with cases

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 involving civil rights. Typically I'm used to 3 being a litigator and taking on cases in court, 4 but this is kind of a different role for me. I'm 5 glad that you're here today. I will be interested 6 in hearing what you have to say because we know 7 that the vote is very important. And this is 8 something that came out of the Civil Rights 9 Movement, what we've had people who fought for and 10 died for. And so we want to make sure that we do 11 everything we can to preserve the right to vote.
12 And we're just very glad you're here and 13 interested in knowing what you have to say. Thank 14 you.

15 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Hello. I'm 16 Raoul Cunningham, state president of the NAACP 17 Conference of Kentucky. I'm glad to be here and 18 would like to take this opportunity, along with my 19 colleagues on the panel, to welcome you.

20 I became involved in voting as a 21 child going with my parents to vote. When I was a 22 senior in high school, we began demonstrating in 23 Louisville, Kentucky, to end segregation and was 24 arrested. But the principal of my high school was 25 running for mayor, and he would not support open

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 accommodations or public accommodations ordinance.
3 And so I really became involved in working to 4 defeat him. And it carried on throughout my 5 career as a student at Howard when we demonstrated 6 for voting, whether it was for DC, who did not 7 have the right to vote, Lottie, or whether it was 8 for the Voting Rights Act. And as a staffer on 9 the United States Senate, senators, staff, worked 10 twice on behalf of reauthorization of the voting 11 rights reauthorization amendments. So it has 12 followed me. And also served as the deputy 13 director of voter empowerment for the National 14 NAACP.

15 So I'm glad to be here, and we look 16 forward to your presentations because it would 17 definitely be worth our listening to, as well as 18 the presentation that will be made to the members
19 of Congress and others who should hear what you 20 have to say.

21 Thank you.

22 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Again, and 23 thanks to each of you. In order to maximize your 24 participation and to give equal time -- after all, 25 we're talking about equal access here. In order

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to do that, there are a few little housekeeping
3 rules I would like to share with you. I'm fairly 4 certain they've been explained to you before, but 5 I will just state them again.

6 For the panelists who are serving as 7 our witnesses today, each of you will be given 8 five minutes to present your prepared testimony.
9 There will be a timekeeper. The timekeeper which 10 you -- oh, there's the timekeeper. There is a 11 timekeeper. And the timekeeper will signal when 12 three minutes are left, then will signal again 13 when one minute is left, and when the five minutes 14 have ended. So I'd just like for you to be 15 cognizant that the timekeeper is over there. So 16 if you're focusing on looking at us, make sure you 17 glance at the timekeeper from time to time.

18 The commissioners may have some 19 questions to ask. But they, too, are to be 20 cognizant of the time, and they will not be giving 21 dissertations when they ask questions.

22 Now, with that said, any questions of 23 the panel, the first panelists?

24 (No response.)

25 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Well,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 then, we would like to start. Of course our first 3 panel, again, is on election administration, and 4 our first witness will be Ms. Patricia Heim.

5 MS. HEIM: Thank you. Good
6 afternoon. It's my pleasure to participate in 7 this assembly and share my election administration 8 experiences from the past 20 years here in 9 Davidson County, Tennessee. Let's think about it
10 for a moment. If I'm a voter, I just complete a 11 voter registration form telling the election
12 department who I am and where I live. Once I'm 13 registered, I take any required ID and head to the 14 polling location to cast my ballot.

15 If I'm a thoughtful voter, I remember
16 to tell the election department if I move so I can 17 easily repeat the process whenever there's another
18 election.

19 But since many voters cast a ballot
20 only once every four years, election
21 administration must be a part-time job, right?
22 Well, not at all. The task is anything but part 23 time, no matter the election cycle. In fact, more 24 has changed for the best, I think, in the last 20 25 years in the field of election administration than

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 during any comparable period in voting history.
3 The start of these significant changes was the 4 Federal National Voter Registration Act of 1993, 5 more commonly referred to as Motor Voter. Then in 6 1994, Tennesseans first experienced personal 7 appearance early voting as a means to increase 8 voter turnout.

9 The Help America Vote Act of 2002,
10 HAVA, required nearly every Tennessee county to 11 purchase new voting equipment and to offer 12 provisional ballots to those who claimed to have 13 timely registered to vote with a designated 14 government office but whose names do not appear on 15 the list of eligible voters.

16 Add to the above changes, the photo
17 IDs laws recently enacted, election administrators 18 and voters alike begin to wonder how can there be 19 anything left to change. Well, we just smile and 20 remind them that redistricting will begin anew in 21 2021, just to keep them and us on our collective 22 toes.

23 So let's talk the good, the bad, and 24 the ugly. How have all these changes impacted 25 voters and election administrators?

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 The good: The NVRA has made it
3 easier to register to vote either in person or by 4 mail; voter databases are now computerized in 5 every state, making it easier to conduct certain 6 list maintenance functions required by the NVRA; 7 voters are no longer automatically purged from 8 registration lists by reason of a name change due 9 to marriage or divorce or a move within their 10 county of registration; personal appearance early 11 voting provides increased flexibility and 12 convenience to voters; voting machines now provide 13 greater flexibility to serve those with visual, 14 mobility, or dexterity challenges; HAVA allows 15 voters mistakenly left off the voter list to cast 16 a provisional ballot; an absentee by-mail ballot 17 can be requested three ways: by e-mail, by fax, or 18 written request by US mail; using photo ID as a 19 means of voter verification is more reliable than 20 our old signature comparisons. They become less 21 reliable as voters age or experience ailments like 22 arthritis or the effects of a stroke.

23 A photo ID is not required for 24 residents of nursing homes, by-mail absentee 25 voters, voters hospitalized on election day,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 voters with religious objections, or indigent
3 voters.

4 Numerous churches and civic groups
5 have helped voters obtain photo IDs, enabling them
6 access to a myriad of other services that do
7 require such photo IDs. For example, opening a 8 bank account; getting food, rent, or utility 9 assistance; obtaining medical care; access to some 10 government buildings; and, yes, even obtaining a 11 library card right here in Nashville, Tennessee.

12 The bad: Keeping voters educated
13 about the constant changes in election law is a 14 lot more difficult. Voters who fail to notify 15 election offices of a change in address are 16 unaware of important information about upcoming 17 elections and then face longer wait times to vote.
18 Voter rolls have increased in size, but,
19 unfortunately, voter turnout is usually below 20 50 percent for all elections other than 21 presidential elections.

22 More complexity in election
23 administration process has reduced a willingness 24 of numerous voters to participate as election day
25 officials.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Technology is both a blessing and a
3 curse. It improves efficiency in some areas, but 4 it leads to skepticism by others over the loss of 5 paper documents. Those are some of the bad 6 points.

7 What about the ugly? Well,
8 unfortunately, civic and political groups conduct 9 voter registration drives and sometimes turn in 10 those registration forms after the deadline or not 11 even at all, depriving those citizens of their 12 right to vote in an upcoming election.

13 Election administrators who fail to 14 perform regular list maintenance, or timely notify 15 other jurisdictions when a voter registers in a 16 new location, leaves those voters registered in 17 multiple jurisdictions that can lead to a voter 18 casting more than one ballot in the same election 19 contest.

20 University students are often 21 encouraged by others to register to vote in the 22 jurisdiction where they attend college for 23 convenience sake. Some have lost scholarships 24 based on a change of their residency.

25 Thank you. And I've run out of time.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: I'd like
3 to thank you, Ms. Heim.

4 Any questions from the commission as 5 to Ms. Heim?

6 (No response.)

7 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Ms.
8 Williams.

9 MS. WILLIAMS: Good afternoon. Thank 10 you for the opportunity to speak before you. My 11 name is Lynn Williams, and I'm a long-time League 12 of Women Voters member and volunteer, a former 13 member of Nashville's Metro Council, and current 14 government relations professional for a national 15 patient advocacy organization. I value the power 16 of the vote.

17 In 2006, the Nashville League of 18 Women Voters conducted a voter integrity study to 19 exam aspects of the election process in Davidson 20 County. That was two years before passage of the 21 Tennessee Voter Confidence Act, requiring use of 22 voter-verified paper ballots in elections across 23 the state, and the resulting legislation that 24 undid mandatory requirements of that statute, and 25 five years before photo voter ID became the law of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the state in May 2011. I participated in that 3 study by conducting a poll-watchers project that 4 has continued through the implementation of the 5 photo voter ID law and adoption of new iVotronic 6 touchscreen voting technology purchased by the 7 Davidson County Election Commission.

8 I have submitted for the record the 9 reports from poll-watching projects conducted 10 during the August 2011 election when voter ID was 11 first required, and the March 2012 presidential 12 primary election when precincts were redefined and 13 new technology installed.

14 Metro Nashville Davidson County
15 covers over 500 square miles, requiring 16 administration of hundreds of staffed precincts 17 located primarily in schools, churches, and 18 community centers. It is a large and daunting
19 task, and Davidson County's Election
20 Administration has been challenged by top 21 leadership changes on the administrative and 22 commission level in recent years, while facing the 23 need to upgrade equipment and respond to 24 redistricting requirements.

25 For the purpose of this hearing, I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 will focus on one aspect of a fair and open 3 election, accessibility in the broadest sense, and 4 the League of Women Voters' observations of 5 practices that affect its voters' abilities to 6 participate in elections in Metropolitan Nashville
7 and Davidson County.

8 During the periods under League
9 observation, most polling places were easily 10 identifiable or marked with signs and entrances, 11 and most polling places were accessible to persons 12 with disabilities, but not without exception.

13 Cases were noted where there was no automatic door 14 opener or where stairs were required for voters to 15 enter the polling place without posting
16 directional signage to alternative entrances.

17 Overall, poll watchers observed 18 voting by individuals with vision, hearing, or 19 cognitive impairments or physical disabilities,
20 and proper assistance was offered. Individuals 21 seeking assistance were able to privately and 22 independently cast their ballots in all cases, but 23 not so in every case where able-bodied people
24 voted. More than one observer noted the precinct 25 voting machine arrangement required voters to walk

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 in such a path that they could see the screens of 3 those already engaged in voting, or were located 4 so close together that it was difficult to 5 maneuver around them.

6 In some cases, precincts had other
7 activities like roller-skating or basketball
8 occurring in close proximity during early voting 9 and on election day, making parking and hearing
10 difficult.

11 Sometimes paths to voting machines
12 were difficult to manage and littered with 13 electrical cords. The Davidson County Election 14 Administration made good efforts to address these 15 issues as they were reported, yet continued 16 challenges have occurred as precinct locations are 17 shifted and voters reoriented to their voting 18 sites.

19 As photo ID became standard and new 20 sites coupled with new regulations, some voters
21 have been sent away to vote at a different 22 location or without ID, find the election main 23 site, and vote within two working days even if it 24 requires the voter to miss work.

25 There occurred one more accessibility

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 issue I want to note. This past year,
3 Nashville/Davidson County Administration moved its 4 election administration main office from a
5 centrally located campus of city services to a 6 suburban site near the International Airport. As 7 a result of concerns expressed by this 8 organization and others, a satellite site for 9 voter services is maintained on the original 10 campus.

11 Without vigilance and determination
12 to fair and accessible elections, this and other 13 barriers to voting, such as mandating voter photo 14 IDs and reducing the number of operating days at 15 early voting sites, will continue to be noted as 16 setbacks if they prohibit any registered voter 17 from participating in elections.

18 The League of Women Voters
19 continuances to monitor election integrity in 20 Davidson County and encourage voters to report 21 incidents of concern, and, like incidents of 22 actual voter fraud, they have been relatively few.
23 Thank you.

24 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Do you
25 have any questions?

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Ms. Williams, I
3 have a question here. As it relates to the voter 4 precincts, have you noticed any areas, let's say, 5 for instance, in economically disadvantaged areas 6 or even in African-American communities where 7 voting precincts have been closed that would cause 8 any type of impediment to allow people to vote?

9 MS. WILLIAMS: Under the study and 10 the observations of the poll watchers, there were 11 occasions when polls were temporarily closed, open 12 late. They really weren't necessarily in areas 13 that were heavily minority. One in particular was 14 out in a suburb that isn't considered, you know, 15 to be an urban area. There have been occasions of 16 long lines and lines at the close of the poll, as 17 historically happens. But not really. Not as 18 much as one might expect.

19 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Any other
20 questions by anyone?

21 (No response.)

22 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
23 Ms. Williams.

24 Next is Ms. Tricia Herzfeld.

25 MS. HERZFELD: Thank you so much for

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 having me. I'm sorry that I don't think anything 3 formally prepared. We just had an election on 4 Tuesday, so I have been a little bit busy.

5 So my name is Tricia Herzfeld. I am
6 currently a member of the Davidson County Election
7 Commission. I am one of the newly installed
8 members. I've been serving on the commission 9 since April of this past year where four of the 10 five commissioners are new. The new administrator 11 of elections just took office in November, so we 12 are kind of almost primarily new blood.

13 Prior to my time on the election
14 commission, I was the legal director for the ECLU 15 of Tennessee and have filed multiple 16 election-related lawsuits. Also served as a poll 17 watcher and have run a variety of voting day 18 election hotlines.

19 So it was my experience in monitoring 20 the elections in Tennessee that got me on the 21 commission now. It's a totally different 22 experience being on the inside from being on the 23 outside. And I can tell you that when I joined 24 the commission, we were quite distressed by what 25 we found. I don't know if you all are familiar at

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 all with the state report on the state of the 3 Davidson County Election Commission, but I think 4 it's fair to say that it was nothing short of 5 scathing. And that was a republican-led 6 administration issuing that report on a 7 republican-led election commission, so I don't 8 think anybody would say that it was partisan.

9 The major issues that I've seen since 10 I've been on the commission are that there seems 11 to be -- even before my time on the commission, 12 there seems to be too much focus in the public and 13 within politics on keeping people from voting
14 instead of encouraging people to vote. And as I 15 thought about my remarks last night, I kept 16 thinking, my goodness, wouldn't it be wonderful if 17 everyone spent as much time encouraging people to 18 vote as they do trying to keep people from it, 19 issues with voter ID, felon voting. You know, I'm 20 sure you're all familiar with the statistics, I 21 know there's a panel dedicated to that later, how 22 many people have been disenfranchised through our 23 horrible felon disenfranchisement law here in 24 Tennessee.

25 The fact that people have a difficult

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 time getting to the polls; the fact that we are 3 constantly changing the law, as Ms. Heim has said; 4 that you can change addresses and not realize that 5 you needed to do that, and suddenly you're stuck 6 at a polling location and it's five to 7:00 and 7 you're confused and you don't know what to do.

8 Those days all keep people from voting,
9 challenging people on the basis of their perceived 10 citizenship whether they're naturalized citizens 11 or not. All those things, there seems to be a lot 12 of effort at that.

13 And then I thought about all the 14 public relations regarding Obamacare, for example, 15 who have so many people that have been out there.
16 You've got celebrities, you've got, you know,
17 apps, you've got commercials and all these things
18 trying to get people to sign up for Obamacare.
19 You don't see a whole lot of people doing that to 20 get out the vote.

21 When I was younger, there was a whole
22 Get Out the Vote campaign, and it made people want 23 to go vote. And now it seems like all you see is 24 people trying to keep others from voting, and I 25 think that's got us a little bit lopsided,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 specifically in Davidson County, I think a lot of 3 our issues have developed from some neglect and 4 some complacency. I think generally the public, 5 and I think probably politicians as well, seem to 6 think that elections just happen, and they take it 7 for granted because they happen and they always 8 happen, and there are people in an office, and 9 they make that happen. But the truth of the 10 matter is, they don't. The budget at the Davidson 11 County Election Commission has been cut by nearly 12 40 percent since the last presidential election.

13 Now, I realize that we are in the 14 midst of a recession, maybe we're coming out. But 15 we have a constitutional obligation to ensure that 16 this happens, and this happens right. And cutting 17 budgets of election commissions is certainly not a 18 way to help anybody, specifically those 19 politicians that are trying to get elected.

20 I don't know why this is doing this.

21 The other issues, the outsourcing of 22 various election issues, I think we've eroded a 23 bit of voter confidence by letting a lot of stuff
24 be outsourced, doing a lot of electronic stuff 25 without having paper ballot backup. If there's

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 ever a question about elections, it certainly 3 erodes confidence that there's no way to 4 double-check that, and that's a concern as well
5 for recounts and that type of thing.

6 And, finally, one of the things that 7 was brought up in the state report was the lack of 8 poll workers that we had in Davidson County, which 9 has been a huge problem, which goes with an aging 10 population and difficulty in getting people to 11 volunteer their time, which brings me back to the 12 issue of getting people excited by voting as 13 opposed to having to fight for it. Thank you very 14 much.

15 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
16 Ms. Herzfeld.

17 Any questions?

18 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Yes.

19 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Go ahead.

20 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: He's 21 yielding to you. That's a first for --

22 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: How about
23 it?

24 I'd like to go back to, is it,
25 Ms. Heim? Did you say that Tennessee instituted

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 voter ID in 2011?

3 MS. HEIM: 2012 was the first 4 election we used voter IDs in the state of 5 Tennessee.

6 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay. What 7 was the effect of voter ID in terms of turnout?
8 Was there a noticeable difference prior to voter 9 photo ID as to after photo ID?

10 MS. HEIM: The November 2012 election
11 was one of our largest ever. We had a 66 percent 12 voter turnout, so it was truly one of our best 13 ever.

14 The one prior to that, in November 15 '08, it was done a little bit. But I think when 16 you have an incumbent, sometimes that happens for 17 the presidential election.

18 In 2008, the first election for 19 President Obama, we had a 70 percent turnout. It 20 dropped to 66 percent.

21 But we did not see a serious number
22 of voters turned away because of lack of photo ID.
23 We offered always the opportunity to file an 24 exemption for indigency or religious objections.

25 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: What is the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 criteria for your photo ID?

3 MS. HEIM: For obtaining a photo ID
4 or for casting an exception?

5 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: For 6 obtaining one.

7 MS. HEIM: The Department of Safety,
8 I believe, requires the same documentation that's 9 required by the National Safe ID, or whatever it's 10 called. It's national documentation. I believe 11 you have to provide proof of citizenship to get a 12 state ID driver's license or voting ID, photo ID, 13 proof of citizenship, proof of residency. Those 14 are the two documents I believe that are required.

15 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: And I 16 think Tennessee is the only state thus far where 17 the law has been ruled constitutional.

18 MS. HEIM: That is my understanding.

19 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: That's my 20 understanding.

21 MS. HEIM: I don't know that Georgia 22 has lost. Forgive me. I don't pay attention to 23 every other jurisdiction, but I'll defer to our 24 Georgia residents. Does Georgia not have a photo 25 ID as well?

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: They do.
3 It's just like Arkansas. Arkansas presently has a 4 voter ID law. This election cycle will be the 5 first one to be implemented under that law, while 6 a judge has ruled the law unconstitutional, but 7 has stayed the implementation of his latest
8 ruling, and I think somebody will probably speak 9 to that later in the afternoon. But a judge
10 has -- while the judge has ruled it
11 unconstitutional, he is staying his decision, as I 12 understand it, because of the timing.

13 MS. HEIM: I see.

14 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Early
15 voting starts May 20th. I don't mean May 20th.
16 May -- what is Monday? May...

17 MS. HEIM: 12th.

18 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: It
19 started. Two weeks. I'm getting my Mondays 20 confused. It just started. And so he ruled that 21 it was just too -- there wasn't enough time.

22 MS. HEIM: I was the officer of 23 election at Davidson County's largest precinct
24 yesterday, nearly 6,000 voters. We had one person 25 who cast a provisional ballot, and she said she

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 just forgot her photo ID because she works at the 3 sheriff's office, and she said, "I will gladly 4 come back and present my photo ID." But we had no
5 other people turned away for lack of a photo ID 6 yesterday at my precinct. I can only speak to 7 what happened at my own location.

8 COMMISSIONER WOODS: One brief
9 question for Ms. Herzfeld.

10 MS. HERZFELD: Yes.

11 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Now that you are 12 commissioner on the inside, what are some of the 13 priorities that you hope to work on to correct 14 some of the things that you noted when you were on 15 the outside?

16 MS. HERZFELD: Yes. The list is 17 long, and it's much more overwhelming than I ever 18 anticipated. It's totally different being on the 19 inside than being on the outside.

20 We have had a change in leadership.
21 That's the very first thing that we did. And 22 that, unfortunately, was necessary, but I think a 23 good step.

24 The current commission seems to not 25 be divided by politics, which is something that I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 am very proud to say. I was a little bit
3 concerned that when you have, you know, three 4 republicans and two democrats, that that could 5 turn into a catfight pretty quickly. And I really 6 am proud by how much we all work together and seem 7 to really, truly just want to fix things.

8 We have some things we need to fix,
9 clearly. We are fortunate enough to have a report
10 laying them all out in great detail from the state 11 administrator. But the first thing we need to 12 work on is getting an adequate budget. You know, 13 the staffing numbers and the monetary value of the 14 office has been a significant hinderance in our 15 ability to do our jobs.

16 I believe it was also mentioned that 17 our office was moved kind of involuntarily to a 18 location really, literally in the middle of 19 nowhere. There is one bus line that goes to it, 20 and it's quite preposterous that anybody would 21 think that that's an appropriate place to put an 22 election commission. But trying to work with that 23 is certainly a thing we need to work on.

24 We're working very hard and trying to 25 let people know more about us and make ourselves a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 little bit more accessible, whether that be for 3 poll workers, poll watchers, or potential voters.

4 We have a lot of PR work to do and a
5 lot of real work to do. Unfortunately, I think 6 it's going to take a little bit longer than any of 7 us had hoped. But Tuesday's election seemed to go
8 okay. You know, a few hitches. But, you know, 9 all in all, you know, it's a growth project.

10 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: As it
11 relates to getting poll workers in to work, the 12 complaint sometimes is the age of the poll worker, 13 this kind of thing. But then I also hear 14 sometimes complaint about the pay that we give.
15 Have you all approached that concern, of pay?

16 MS. HERZFELD: Oh, yes. We've spent 17 an extraordinary amount of time trying to 18 brainstorm about ways to really try to encourage 19 more people, and more of a variety of people, to 20 be poll workers. And not to say that we are not 21 at all grateful for the poll workers that we have.
22 They do an extraordinary service. And they are 23 paid very little money, on their feet for, you 24 know, 12, 14 hours a day. And most people aren't 25 so thankful to the poll workers when they're in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 there.

3 However, there is an issue with 4 recruiting younger people, you know, trying to 5 bring in some new blood. I think specifically 6 when you're dealing with technology updates, 7 sometimes you want a mix of generations at the 8 polls in order to be able to deal with those 9 issues kind of one on one.

10 We've reached out. We've recently
11 hired a person in charge specifically of poll 12 recruiting and -- or poll worker recruiting who 13 has been reaching out to civic organizations, 14 churches, you know, high school students, you name 15 it, trying to get people to sign up.

16 We've also done our requested budget
17 to the mayor's office, which is now going in front 18 of Metro Council, asking to raise the rate for 19 poll workers from, I believe it's $120 a day to 20 $150 a day; still a pittance for the hard work 21 that these people do, but anything we can to get 22 qualified people motivated to come out and work
23 the polls.

24 COMMISSIONER PORTER: In Arkansas, we 25 have a provision, if a person has been convicted

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 of a felon, once they have completed their term of 3 sentence and whatever probation, they can regain 4 their right to vote. Is there a similar provision 5 here for Tennessee?

6 MS. HERZFELD: There is. I think
7 there's a panel that will be discussing it later
8 with the ACLU of Tennessee. But I was fortunate 9 enough to litigate some of those cases, so I have 10 some familiarity. It's a very complicated law 11 here in Tennessee. It has changed from year to 12 year. So it depends on which year you had which 13 felony conviction and whether that felony 14 conviction renders you infamous. It's a very 15 complicated formula. Not only that, but you have 16 to get certification that you don't owe any 17 restitution on that crime after you've completed 18 your parole or probation, and, to add one more to 19 it, you also have to get certification that you do 20 not owe any child support. And I believe Tom 21 Castelli at the ACLU will be discussing that 22 later. But it was challenged all the way through 23 the Sixth Circuit, and I believe there was a cert 24 petition filed with the supreme court. It's been 25 upheld. It's unfortunate. I don't know what

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 child support has to do with being convicted of a
3 felony. But, functionally, it has made it 4 incredibly difficult for people to regain their 5 franchise, and I think you all don't need to hear 6 me talk about what it means for society to not be 7 able to reintegrate people as full citizens.

8 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: We want to 9 thank you all for excellent testimony. And 10 because of the importance of your subject area, we 11 could really use the entire time because I think 12 everybody has more questions. We want to thank 13 you so very, very much for giving of your time and 14 services for the panel.

15 So as you all depart, I would like to 16 ask the second group of witnesses, Atiba Ellis, 17 Kermit Moore, Joe Rowe, and Sekou Franklin, to 18 come. If all four of you are here, if two will 19 get at each table, that may help a little bit this 20 time.

21 Again, I would like to welcome you
22 all to the witness table. I would like to also go 23 over again a few little housekeeping rules. Each 24 of you will be given five minutes to present your 25 prepared testimony. There is a timekeeper. She

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 will signal when you have three minutes left, then 3 again when you have one minute left, and then she 4 will signal when the five minutes have ended. So 5 we would respectfully ask that you try and adhere 6 to that time frame.

7 The commissioners may have some
8 questions to ask, but we will do that -- I think 9 I'll just wait until the end this time of 10 you-all's presentations, and then we will ask 11 questions. Thank you.

12 We will start with Mr. Atiba Ellis.

13 MR. ELLIS: Good afternoon, and thank 14 you for the opportunity. Thank you for the 15 opportunity to testify here today. The topic is 16 redistricting and -- but I will spend my last 17 minute also talking about voter ID, at least the 18 specter of voter ID in West Virginia. But I want 19 to dedicate most of my time to the case of Tennant 20 versus the Commission of Jefferson County and the 21 redistricting litigation that took place in West
22 Virginia after the latest census.

23 What West Virginia has gone through 24 of late has been a bit of demographic change. The 25 state did not increase in population. It's still

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 about 1.8 million people, and, thus, entitled to 3 three federal congressional districts. But the 4 population has shifted more towards the Eastern 5 Panhandle, which has, in effect, become a suburb
6 of Washington, D.C.

7 With that, the West Virginia
8 legislature engaged in its every-decade
9 redistricting. And after several proposals had 10 been made, the ultimate proposal that was created 11 complied with certain rules. First of all, it 12 complied with the federal "one person, one vote" 13 rule, a doctrine we're all familiar with inasmuch 14 as it guarantees that every vote will be valued in 15 comparison to every other vote cast.

16 The state legislature also had to 17 comply with a court of West Virginia state
18 constitutional law, which is that the legislature 19 is forbidden from breaking up counties and, as 20 much as possible, precincts within the same
21 municipality. So the legislature was constrained 22 by those rules and ultimately came up with a plan 23 that sought to avoid those problems, as well as 24 prevent incumbent competition.

25 What was interesting about the plan,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 though, was that there was a 0.79 percent variance
3 between the largest district of the three 4 congressional districts and the smallest. So, in 5 other words, about five -- there was a 5,000 6 person difference between the largest district and 7 the smallest district. And so there was a lawsuit
8 filed alleging that the state had violated the one 9 person, one vote rule inasmuch as for each vote to 10 be equal, each district had to be equal in size.

11 The Supreme Court of the United 12 States ultimately ruled on this issue and held 13 that such a small variance was acceptable inasmuch 14 as it was connected to the policy issues that I 15 mentioned, trying to make sure that incumbents did 16 not compete against each other, trying to follow 17 through West Virginia constitutional law issues in 18 terms of not breaking up counties.

19 And as one Con law scholar, who was a 20 colleague and friend, mentioned, anyone who lives 21 in West Virginia realizes the importance of 22 counties as sort of the markers of where one is in 23 a state.

24 So given that ruling, and in the 25 context of other rulings that the supreme court

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 had recently provided in terms of redistricting,
3 in particular the Texas litigation, it signals a 4 change that the supreme court is allowing more 5 flexibility to state and local legislatures in 6 order to affect their constitutional
7 responsibilities to redistrict, which sounds 8 innocuous in and of itself. But in the context of 9 Shelby County and the worries that this 10 flexibility might be abused, it does offer the 11 specter of potential harm.

12 And now that I'm on my last minute, 13 I'm going to also mention one other act in the 14 Virginia legislature, which was a proposed voter 15 ID initiative. The republican party offered a 16 voter ID initiative that would have required
17 typical showing of a federal or a government
18 issued photo ID and certain other qualifications 19 in order to possess the ID and for it to be 20 presented while voting.

21 Now, this failed because the 22 democrats control both houses of the West Virginia
23 state legislature, but it signals a strong intent 24 to push more towards heightened regulation of the 25 vote. And depending on what happens in the next

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 election, that initiative might be taken further.

3 Thank you for your time.

4 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.
5 Thank you, Mr. Ellis.

6 Mr. Kermit Moore.

7 MR. MOORE: Good afternoon, and 8 thanks for having me as a part of this panel. I'm 9 Kermit Moore, Southern Region Director of the 10 A. Philip Randolph Institute. I'm here to talk 11 about redistricting in the state of Tennessee.

12 In the battle for voting rights,
13 Tennessee has been overlooked, but we have been 14 struggling. We are experiencing voter 15 suppression, gerrymandering challenges, just as 16 those seen in other states such as Texas and North 17 Carolina, which are getting all the attention.

18 On January 4, 2011, Speaker of the 19 House of Representative Beth Harwell announced a 20 new redistricting plan for Tennessee House of 21 Representatives. The redistricting plan was 22 developed through closed-door negotiations and 23 received no substantive input from democratic 24 legislatures or civic and community based 25 organizations. This process weakens democratic

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 participation and erodes the integrity of 3 Tennessee's representative bodies, a plan that 4 also undermine the spirit of the Voting Rights Act
5 of 1965 and other voting rights protection.

6 The plan reduced black political 7 representation in Memphis and Shelby County, and 8 also Chattanooga and Hamilton County. It has been 9 indicated that the speaker could have retained or 10 created another black district in Memphis and 11 Shelby County.

12 Rather than complying with the 13 state's constitution and keeping Shelby County, 14 which is where Memphis is located, hold the 15 legislature, following the 2010 census, split
16 Shelby County in the State Senate Redistricting
17 Plan, attaching part of the county to a 18 predominantly white conservative senate district 19 in Fayette County. This negatively impacted local 20 legislature affecting Shelby County, meaning our 21 representatives aren't able to pass local bills
22 that will help residence in Shelby County, 23 particularly when it comes to public education.
24 Memphis and Shebly County lost one senate seat and 25 two house seats during the redistricting. We are

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 challenging the redistricting plan in state court
3 right now asking the Supreme Court of the State of 4 Tennessee to hear an appeal.

5 This is not a voting rights case.
6 But if we are successful, that will be additional 7 African-American citizens from Shelby County. All 8 of these efforts, in light of Tennessee's 9 struggling economy, struggling schools,
10 worker-unfriendly laws and more, makes it harder 11 than ever for low-income voters and voters of 12 color to participate in the political process.
13 Thank you.

14 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
15 Mr. Moore.

16 Mr. Rowe.

17 MR. ROWE: Good afternoon. I
18 appreciate the opportunity to be here. I am a 19 member of the Chattanooga Hamilton County NAACA,
20 and I have worked at the local and at the state 21 level. I have also in the past served as a member 22 of the Hamilton County Election Commission. Thank 23 you.

24 In June of 2011, the Chattanooga
25 Hamilton County branch of the NAACP appointed me

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 to work with the community and political leaders
3 at the city, county, and state level to help 4 ensure that minority voters of Chattanooga and 5 Hamilton County have an equal opportunity to 6 participate in all levels of the redistricting
7 process.

8 The process to redistrict the 9 Hamilton County nine districts went well. We were 10 able to achieve our goal of approximately 11 60 percent minority in each of those districts.

12 The state redistricting process fell 13 short of our goal to maintain the two seats 14 occupied by minority representatives, as was 15 mentioned earlier. Only one of the seats,
16 District 28, is protected by the Voting Rights Act
17 of 1965. The other district seat, District 29, 18 was held by a minority and was a majority white 19 district with a large number of minority voters, 20 about 30 percent. The state redistricting
21 committee placed the two minorities in the same
22 district and forced them to compete for District
23 28. The District 29 seat, formerly held by a 24 minority legislature, was redrawn with a 25 significant reduction in the number of minorities

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 in their district.

3 The redrawn District 29 seat was won 4 in the next election, believe it or not, by the 5 cousin of the former Hamilton County mayor who had 6 recently resigned his seat to become an assistant 7 to the governor of Tennessee. That's kind of 8 interesting. Since state redistricting laws allow 9 state districts to cross a third of the 95
10 counties in Tennessee, that particular 11 redistricting process could have gone either way.
12 It wasn't necessary to make a major change in 13 District 29.

14 The real key issue that we're dealing 15 with in Chattanooga is the fact that on 16 November 12th the 1987, black plaintiffs signed to 17 file a federal lawsuit against the city of 18 Chattanooga for failing to honor the Voter Rights
19 Act of 1965. It took them 20 years to the point 20 of accepting the federal law as the prevailing 21 law.

22 On August 8th, 1989, the federal 23 judge ruled in favor of the plaintiffs to put in 24 place and eliminate the at-large district process 25 and put in place a mayor and city council form of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 government with four majority minority districts.

3 And in 2000, the redistricting
4 process remained unchanged with only a slight 5 shift for population changes.

6 However in 2010, the city of 7 Chattanooga announced before the redistricting
8 process that there would only be three districts, 9 not the four that we had been accustomed to in the 10 past, based on The Voting Rights Act. I 11 challenged that personally before the city council 12 and asked them to abide by The Voting Rights of 13 1965.

14 The council refused to budge on their 15 position of three majority districts. And the 16 attorney for the city advised the city council
17 incorrectly that Voting Rights Act of 1965
18 specifically said race cannot come into play. It 19 cannot be the only thing, but it cannot come into 20 play.

21 Also within that discussion, one of 22 the city council members of Hispanic dissent made 23 some real negative comments about the black 24 community. And all of this is your package. He 25 said that, "White people have been more fair to me

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 than anyone else," and he's sick and tired and 3 resentful of the racial suggestions that are being 4 made.

5 His district was the one that we 6 worked in the process of converting to a black 7 majority district. The only reason why he held 8 that seat was because of those plaintiffs who 9 filed federal lawsuits to allow him to hold that 10 seat, and then he was challenging those of us who 11 opened the door for him.

12 Early in the redistricting process,
13 it appeared that the deck was stacked against us.
14 We reached out to the ACLU in Atlanta Georgia, and 15 Katie O'Connor, an ACLU staff attorney, was 16 assigned to our team to provide support.

17 We were able to draw districts to 18 support the four district concept, but it was 19 rejected by the city council because they said it 20 appeared to be racial gerrymandering, so they 21 turned it down.

22 We believe the Chattanooga City
23 Council is in violation of The Voting Rights Act
24 of 1965 by splitting communities of interest, 25 stacking minority voters into District 6 that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 could have been used in District 7 to make another
3 black majority district. This would have enabled 4 the city of Chattanooga to have the four majority 5 districts that we feel that we should have.

6 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
7 Mr. Rowe.

8 Mr. Franklin.

9 MR. FRANKLIN: Greetings. My name is 10 Sekou Franklin. I'm a professor at Middle State
11 Tennessee University, and I also conduct racially 12 polarized voting analyses for voting rights cases.
13 And what I'll talk about briefly today is 14 persistent patterns of racially polarized voting
15 in Tennessee and the subsequent need for majority 16 minority districts. And I'll spend my last one or 17 two minutes looking at racial priming in 18 Tennessee, which is a strategy used to activate 19 racial resentment amongst white voters.

20 Racially polarized voting is 21 typically used in voting rights analyses. I think 22 most of you probably heard of that. If you can 23 show that racially polarized voting exists
24 particularly between if you have a black candidate 25 and a white candidate in a, for example, majority

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 white district, then you can perhaps show that 3 voters tend to vote based upon maybe the 4 preferences, the racial preferences of their 5 particular candidate. So a lot of people who look 6 at voting rights analysis make the argument that 7 if you have persistent patterns of racially 8 polarized voting, it may be difficult for African 9 Americans to win over white voters. And, thus, if 10 you take a case like Shelby County in West
11 Tennessee, you need an African-American district 12 so that African Americans can essentially vote for 13 their preferred candidate.

14 Here in Tennessee, we have a long 15 history of racially polarized voting. In the 16 paper that I submitted to you, I looked at five or 17 six elections using a technique called ecological 18 inference analysis, which is an estimation
19 procedure that's commonly used in voting rights
20 analyses. And we see in Tennessee, for example, 21 in the last four or five presidential races, that 22 the gap in racially polarized voting has actually 23 increased. There was a 46 percent gap between the 24 black and white preferred candidate in the last 25 presidential election. That number has increased

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 by 25 percent in the last 12 years. In other 3 words, if you looked at the 2000 presidential 4 election, would you find that black and white 5 voters were more similar in their voting patterns.
6 But if you looked at 2012, you would find that 7 black and white voters were far, far different in 8 their voting patterns.

9 I also looked at the mayoral election
10 of 2007 in Nashville/Davidson County, as well as 11 several elections in Memphis, and also found
12 persistent patterns of racially polarized voting.

13 As mentioned earlier, racially
14 polarized voting is a good indicator for examining 15 the likelihood that African-Americans can win 16 competitive biracial elections, especially 17 elections that have a high voter turnout. And 18 this it particularly important considering the 19 recent demographics shifts in Tennessee, in which, 20 between 2000 and 2010, the African American and 21 Latino voting age population, that's 18 and above, 22 has grown at a much faster rate than the white 23 voting age population, but at least the state 24 legislative districts political representation
25 amongst African-Americans has gone down.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Racial priming is another technique
3 that's used in campaigns particularly targeting 4 African-American candidates, as well as white 5 candidates who have large constituencies of 6 African-American voters. Racial priming is a use 7 of subtle racial appeals that's primarily used to 8 stimulate white racial resentment particularly 9 when it comes to African-American candidates or 10 white candidates with larger African-American 11 support.

12 We see examples of racial priming in 13 Tennessee, for example, in 1994 in which Jim 14 Sasser ran against Bill Frist. We saw racial 15 priming used in terms of some of the pamphlets 16 that were distributed in East Tennessee. And in 17 2008, we saw a controversial mailer that was 18 distributed through the Second District of 19 Tennessee that targeted Representative Nathan 20 Vaughn, called the blackbird mailer, which also 21 was used and designed to activate white racial 22 resentment. And in 2006, we also saw that being 23 used in the election with Harold Ford, Junior, and 24 Bob Corker. I conducted additional statistical 25 analyses that showed that there was a racial

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 difference in that particular election? Whites 3 typically voted against Harold Ford, Junior some 4 would argue because of the use of racial priming 5 techniques such as the a Playboy Bunny add that 6 gained a lot of national recognition, as well as 7 other tactics that were used that received less 8 recollection.

9 Why is a discussion about racial 10 priming important for Tennessee and the Voting
11 Rights Act? Tennessee is a Section 2 case, voting 12 rights Section 2 state. Most of Tennessee is 13 covered by Section 2.

14 In 1982, when Congress amended the 15 Voting Rights Act, it assessed what's called the 16 "senate factors," or also called the "totality of 17 circumstances test." In that test, Congress 18 identified the use of overt and subtle racial 19 appeals in political campaigns as problematic and 20 perhaps as diminishing the affluence of the black
21 vote.

22 So if you look at the use of racial 23 appeals -- I'm sorry, racial priming and subtle 24 appeals primarily used to activate white racial 25 resentment, I would argue that that also should be

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 covered by voting rights protections.

3 Racial priming is a persistent -- 4 racial priming is not incidental or anecdotal to 5 Tennessee. It is persistent. It is enduring. It 6 is constitutive of elections and political 7 campaigns, primarily political campaigns that's 8 used to defeat African-American candidates or 9 white candidates with significant numbers of black 10 support.

11 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
12 Mr. Franklin.

13 Panelists, questions.

14 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Mr. Moore, it
15 was kind of interesting, you indicated that in 16 Shelby County, African Americans lost two senate 17 seats; is that correct?

18 MR. MOORE: One senate seat and two 19 house of representative seats.

20 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Okay. And 21 that's because of the area was redistrict?

22 MR. MOORE: Yes. Part of Shelby
23 County was redistricted to be in Fayette County, 24 and they took other representatives, as they did
25 in Hamilton County, and put them together.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Has there been 3 any current legal challenge to that?

4 MR. MOORE: No.

5 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Okay.

6 MR. MOORE: Well, yes.

7 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Okay.

8 MR. MOORE: The redistricting plan is 9 before -- the briefs have been sent to the supreme 10 court, and we're waiting on a decision to see if 11 they will hear our challenging of the 12 redistricting plan.

13 COMMISSIONER PORTER: What was the 14 makeup, I guess? Do you know the makeup of the 15 state redistricting committee? I guess these 16 folks who met behind closed doors, were there any 17 African-American representation?

18 MR. MOORE: All republicans.

19 COMMISSIONER PORTER: And all white?

20 MR. MOORE: All white, closed door.
21 The other state representative and senators didn't 22 know about the meetings. No transparency at all.

23 COMMISSIONER PORTER: All right.

24 Thank you.

25 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Any other

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 questions?

3 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Not a
4 question, just a comment. In the state of 5 Kentucky, it was democratic control that used the 6 same tactic of going behind closed doors and 7 coming up with the redistricting plans of the 8 legislature. So it does cross party lines.

9 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Any 10 questions and/or comments?

11 It seems as though the commissioners
12 are low with the questioning.

13 I think, Mr. Ellis, time ran out
14 before you were able to finish your presentation.
15 Is there something burning that you would like to 16 share?

17 MR. ELLIS: Well, one thing I wanted
18 to add to my comments, since you're allowing me 19 the moment, and I appreciate that, is that when 20 looking -- in a way, West Virginia is a different 21 case inasmuch as it's a state with a relatively, 22 very small minority population, and a lot of my 23 comments were not necessarily directed at that 24 sort of practice. But one thing I do want to add 25 is that where there is diversity in the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 legislature, it has often been because of 3 multimember districts. Often we think about 4 districts in terms of single member, i.e., there's 5 one district and one representative. But West
6 Virginia has a mix of single and multimember
7 districts.

8 And these comments -- reflecting on 9 my testimony, I realized I did not add -- because 10 of time, I did not add this point. But in looking 11 at the redistricting litigation, especially the 12 state supreme court litigation, there were a 13 number of parties who were very interested in 14 eliminating the multimember districts where there 15 were more women and minorities being elected. And 16 in the litigation, they point the opponents of the 17 multimember districts and the -- ultimately the 18 plan that the legislature put together pointed to 19 the efficiencies that could be gained from 20 single-member districts, so 100 house of delegate
21 districts. And they argued to the supreme court 22 that that should be the plan that should be 23 implemented.

24 The court resisted that temptation
25 basically saying, well, that's a political

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 question, it's up to the legislature to choose how 3 it wants to do. And the nature of that choice is 4 a political question in the sense of that's what 5 the politicians are elected to decide, and the 6 courts aren't in a position to deal with that.

7 I raise that because if one looks at 8 the briefs and looks at those who were supporting 9 the elimination of these multimember districts 10 where several of the women and people of color in 11 the West Virginia legislature come from, it is the 12 chamber of commerce and certain other right wing 13 political groups that are sort of championing the 14 move towards single-member districts in West 15 Virginia.

16 So it's a very different type of 17 political shift, but in its own way targeting 18 people of color.

19 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Are you
20 suggesting that the multimember districts would be 21 more helpful for diversification as opposed to 22 single-member districts?

23 MR. ELLIS: Depending on the context,
24 they can be. There are some scholars who have 25 written about the advantages of multimember

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 districts and have said that, given the 3 opportunity to vote for, say, five different 4 representatives for a county as opposed to one 5 representative in one district, that voters across 6 different races will vote for the person they 7 might prefer and then give their other votes to 8 other people and, thus, helping folks who 9 otherwise wouldn't get those votes to get them.
10 So there is some scholarly evidence towards that.

11 On the other hand, I do want to point 12 out that there are folks who have pointed out that 13 a lot of the historical litigation around voting 14 rights and redistricting has been because of 15 multimember districts, and they're being used to 16 shut out minorities.

17 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: I'm sorry.
18 Go ahead. I was just asking --

19 MR. ELLIS: Oh, no. I had -- I mean, 20 the point, very simply, is that there is 21 historical evidence that multimember districts
22 have been used to shut out minorities. But there 23 is also evidence that -- and if one looks at the 24 West Virginia case, it's an opportunity to involve 25 more women and minorities in voting as well. So

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the answer depends on the context.

3 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Okay.

4 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Professor
5 Franklin, you were speaking of the priming, racial 6 priming, et cetera. My question to you is this:
7 What action do you feel could be taken to deal 8 with that issue and by what entity?

9 MR. FRANKLIN: Well, there's a 10 political action that could be taken, and then 11 there's just basic legal action. And the legal 12 action or the legal response would be that priming 13 should be considered within a broader frame of 14 Voting Rights Act coverage because if you look at 15 those -- the 1982 amendment to the Voting Rights 16 Act, those seven factors, they explicitly say that 17 if subtle racial appeals are used along with a 18 variety of other factors together which -- seven 19 or eight other factors together, that itself 20 should constitute voting rights coverage.

21 But oftentimes when we talk about 22 priming, it's seen as incidental or anecdotal, 23 just politics as usual. And I'm making an 24 argument that racial priming should be 25 considered a lot -- at this -- combined with these

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 other factors as constitute above voting rights -- 3 politically, there is a political response to 4 racial priming which just -- the academic 5 literature shows that if a candidate is being 6 primed, like a Harold Ford, Junior, the best thing
7 that you should do is just tell the general public 8 that you're being primed.

9 But typically black candidates,
10 particularly, or white candidates who have large 11 black constituencies, they're being primed, 12 they're so afraid of racializing a race, they're 13 afraid of racializing a campaign, they run away 14 from it, they joke from it, they don't talk about 15 it, they're afraid of scaring off white voters.
16 But all the research says that if you're being 17 primed politically, the best thing to do is to 18 tell voters this is what's being done to you, you 19 need to pay attention to it, and let's offer a 20 response. So that's the political part, but then 21 there's also a legal part.

22 COMMISSIONER PORTER: I was just kind
23 of curious about your judicial races. I noted you 24 mention in your report there were four candidates 25 who ran for a particular judgeship. And I think

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the white candidate, there were, what, three or 3 four African Americans who ran for that particular 4 judgeship, and I guess the white candidate won
5 that particular election. Do you have minority 6 judicial subdistricts, for instance, like in 7 Shelby County?

8 MR. FRANKLIN: I was basically asked 9 to author -- to provide an analysis for a legal 10 team. So in terms of offering -- in terms of 11 answering that question about subdistricts, I
12 can't really answer that particular question. I 13 was just given a list of candidates to analyze,
14 and that's what I did, look to see if racially 15 polarized voting took place in the particular 16 districts.

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: We had an 18 interesting situation in Pine Bluff. Pine Bluff 19 is an area that's roughly about 65 percent African 20 American, and you had several candidates who ran 21 for mayor. Probably about seven of the candidates 22 were African Americans, and there was one white 23 person who ran. And I guess when you have the 24 candidates bumping up against then, that almost 25 acts as a voter delusion within itself.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MR. FRANKLIN: Oh, absolutely. No
3 question. And the study I did of Memphis, really 4 what happened ultimately is you had several black 5 candidates running in a race with one white 6 candidate. And black vote was split, but the 7 white vote was consolidated. And that can work
8 the other way too. You could also have in a city 9 that's majority white, several white candidates 10 running and one black candidate, and the black 11 vote could be so consolidated and the white vote 12 could be split.

13 So typically when we do RPV, or 14 racially polarized voting, we try to look at broad 15 patterns over a period of time that give us a 16 larger frame or picture of whether or not it 17 exists, notwithstanding of what I just described 18 about multiple candidates running.

19 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.
20 My fellow commissioner just shared
21 with me that we are right on time too.

22 But I did want to give -- Mr. Rowe, I 23 think time was called on you as well --

24 MR. ROWE: Yes.

25 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: -- and to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 see if there was one burning point that you didn't 3 get to give that you would like to give.

4 MR. ROWE: Yes. There are a couple
5 of points.

6 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Just don't 7 put us over time.

8 MR. ROWE: Okay. Redirecting is a
9 forward-looking process.

10 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: I'm sorry?

11 MR. ROWE: It's a forward-looking 12 process, not looking at today's time or looking 13 backwards. We spent a lot of time trying to 14 understand the Voting Rights Act of 1965 in order
15 to advance redistricting. But the key components, 16 key elements, never in play. One is the role that 17 chamber of commerce plays because they're the ones
18 who are -- the direction of the city. That's a 19 huge issue. Annexation, what's going on with 20 annexation. HUD plays a significant role as well 21 because in cities like mine, there is a huge 22 number of public housing units. As HUD begins to 23 shrink those down, it shakes up the whole
24 redistricting process. And the way that it's done 25 is at the end of the process, before you know the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 true impact, and by then it's too late, that is 3 they begin closing those units down before they 4 formally announce that they're being taken off the 5 market. So four or five years out when you feel 6 the impact of it, you've already been impacted the 7 three or four years in front of that.

8 So we have to look at all of these 9 other agencies and organizations that provide and 10 fuel this information into redistricting. People 11 like me, part time, we're focused on the Voter 12 Rights Act of '65. We don't have access to all 13 this other information.

14 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.

15 I'd like to thank you all for such 16 extraordinarily good testimony. So thank you so 17 very, very much, and thanks for sharing with us.

18 With that, I will ask that -- for the 19 second panel, I just -- not for you to come now, 20 but I want to just give an assessment to see -- 21 the third panel, I'm sorry, to see if they are 22 here. We're going to take a break here. But is 23 Ms. Tonya Fogel and Mr. Tom Castelli, are they 24 here?

25 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Tonya Fogel

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 is here.

3 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Oh, great.
4 Okay. I just wanted to make certain just for 5 logistical purposes.

6 What we will do now...

7 MS. PERALTA: Do you want to do the 8 third panel and then break since your witnesses
9 are here?

10 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: If it's 11 okay with you, with the witnesses. Oh, great.
12 Well, thank you.

13 Mr. Castelli and Ms. Fogel, if you
14 all will come to the witness stand.

15 I gather from the audience -- did you
16 all need to take a stretch break? I was hearing a 17 lot of chatter. And I'm going to ask if you do 18 it, do it quietly. Just stand up and stretch a 19 second, and that's okay. But just stand up and 20 stretch a second, and then we're going to begin 21 with the panel.

22 Okay. Thank you all again. I'm 23 charged with sharing a few little housekeeping 24 rules with you.

25 Your testimony should be no more than

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 five minutes. There is a timekeeper. At the end 3 of -- when you have three minutes left, she will 4 give you a sign. When you have one minute left,
5 she will give you a sign. And when the five 6 minutes have ended, I think she has something that 7 says "stop." So if you all will be respectful of 8 the time.

9 Ms. Fogel, you may begin.

10 For this session, I probably should 11 remind the audience again that this panel is on 12 disenfranchisement of incarcerated and formerly 13 incarcerated individuals. Thank you.

14 MS. FOGEL: First of all, allow me to 15 give honor to God, who is truly the head of my 16 life. Without him, I could do nothing.

17 I'm honored to be perceived as an 18 expert witness. And at the end, if you have any 19 questions and I stumble, I will defer to 20 Mr. Cunningham.

21 But I'm here to talk about Kentucky
22 and the right to vote. I'm going to give you some 23 statistics, because I know you all have the 24 packet, but the people in the audience may not.

25 What I talk about Kentucky and being

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 here in Tennessee, that's a great honor. I used 3 to play ball for the University of Kentucky, and 4 back then Tennessee won everything.

5 So, you know, we have a
6 disenfranchisement of a lot of people, and I'd 7 like to tell you right now that I'm one of those 8 people. I'm a graduate of the University of 9 Kentucky with a BA degree in therapeutic 10 recreation. Tomorrow night I will receive an 11 associate degree in business management. And so 12 there's a lot of people like me in Kentucky.

13 I would like for you to keep this in 14 mind: Over a quarter-of-a-million people are 15 disenfranchised in Kentucky and has taken the 16 right to vote away, the right to vote. Did I 17 commit the crime? Yes. Did I pay my time? Yes.
18 And I came back into my community to be received 19 as a returning citizen. So I'm a voice of the 20 voiceless.

21 I work hard and volunteer for the 22 Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, which is a group 23 that acts on disenfranchisement of people in 24 Kentucky. We have been at the table for about 25 nine years how trying to get a bill, House Bill

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 70, passed through our legislation. This year was 3 the closest year. We thought we were going to get 4 it through, get it passed. But just like I heard
5 before from some panelists, the things that I see 6 in Kentucky, down in Frankfort, some of those 7 people ought to be arrested and locked up, the 8 people that we have voted to represent us.

9 In Subsection 145 of the Kentucky
10 Constitution that was passed in 1891 and amended 11 in 1955, the Section 145 states that every citizen 12 of the US who is 18 years old and living in our 13 state is entitled to vote except for the convicted 14 of treason or felony or bribery in an election.
15 It says that persons hereby excluded may be 16 restored their civil rights by executive party.

17 The same section bars people from 18 voting who are incarcerated at the time of 19 election. Even if they have not been convicted of 20 a felony, it includes the awful language that 21 idiots and insane persons may not vote. That's in 22 our constitution in Kentucky.

23 So as we work really hard to try to 24 restore peoples' right to vote, our governor has 25 say-so as to who gets their rights back and who

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 don't. So we -- I'll take myself. What has 3 happened is, I'm the poster child for Kentucky. I 4 was granted my right to vote by Governor Paul 5 Patton, and he missed an indictment number. So 6 the board of elections contacted me and said, "You 7 are no longer eligible to vote. You're still 8 falling under the felony category."

9 By that time, we had this governor by 10 the name of Ernie Fletcher that was sitting as the 11 governor. His process was that I had to write an 12 essay, get three character references, and then 13 pay a fee. Well, we already know all that Jim 14 Crow stuff, and I fell right in it.

15 It's just that my mom and my granny 16 taught me how to vote. My granny died at 102, my 17 mom died at 80, and they came through the 18 struggle. I mean, we're still in the struggle, 19 but, I mean, they were the water hose people, 20 people that I sit here and represent.

21 We've got a lot of people working.
22 Here's what we've said: The people that are 23 working in Kentucky, and remember that quarter of 24 a million that I'm talking about, they've paid 25 their debt to society, they served out their time,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 and now they cannot vote.

3 And so what we're asking our 4 constitution to do is to pass House Bill 70, 5 that's the name of it. And that states that 6 anyone that is nonviolent that has paid their debt
7 to society, that has returned, paying tax and paid 8 all restitutions, that they be given their right
9 to vote. That's that quarter of a million people 10 that I'm talking about. And so I want to keep on 11 pushing that, that number. We are so
12 disenfranchised.

13 We had Senator Paul Patton come down
14 to the legislation this year, and he said some 15 words about supporting House Bill 70. Our 16 governor even stood up at the Martin Luther King
17 March and said how it was a travesty that the bill 18 has not passed in the senate. Well, I'm here to 19 tell you that he didn't give a pardon, a blanket 20 pardon, since he's so attune to -- 21 Is that my bell? Okay. I'm going to 22 be obedient.

23 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: We'll let 24 you finish --

25 MS. FOGEL: Thank you, Lord.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: -- your 3 sentence. We'll allow you to finish your 4 sentence.

5 MS. FOGEL: Well, all I would like to 6 tell the panel is that there's so many statistics
7 here, I didn't even touch on them. There's a 8 group of people who are working for the cause of 9 the people who do not have a voice.

10 The last thing I want to say is there 11 is one gentleman who has been fighting his right 12 to vote. He served our country. He was busted
13 for a sack of marijuana. He served our country, 14 he served in three wars, and he came back, and he 15 still cannot vote, and that's it.

16 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.

17 MS. FOGEL: There's still some more 18 stuff, but I'm fine. Thank you for allowing me to 19 speak.

20 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.

21 MS. FOGEL: That timer has got me --

22 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.

23 MS. FOGEL: -- tore up.

24 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you
25 so much.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Mr. Castelli.

3 MR. CASTELLI: Thank you. Thank you
4 for having me. Am I -- can you hear me?

5 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: I don't 6 think your mic is on. I can hear you, but I 7 don't --

8 MR. CASTELLI: Well, I don't know how 9 to turn it on, so --

10 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: It's on 11 now.

12 MR. CASTELLI: Okay. Great.

13 I'm Tom Castelli. I'm the legal 14 director of the ACLU of Tennessee.

15 We've been involved with this issue
16 for quite a while. As Ms. Herzfeld, who was my 17 predecessor who was up here earlier talking about 18 election commission work, told you, the voter 19 disenfranchisement statute in Tennessee is 20 horribly, horribly convoluted and very harsh. It 21 depends on what felony you committed at what point 22 in time, it depends on whether you need a judicial 23 proceeding to get your voting rights restored, or 24 whether you can file paperwork with the 25 commission.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We made an attempt -- well, first of 3 all, right now the disenfranchisement statute is 4 if you've committed a felony crime. If it's on a
5 particular list, you can never have your voting 6 rights restored, or you can only have them 7 restored with a pardon from the governor. And 8 that list continues to grow. It was violent 9 crimes, and now it's beginning to add nonviolent 10 crimes like voter fraud, bribery charges, and 11 certain charges for interference with government 12 operations.

13 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Mr. Castelli,
14 would you turn that mic away. I think it's 15 getting --

16 MR. CASTELLI: Okay. Is that better?

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: It might. I'm 18 not sure.

19 MR. CASTELLI: Okay. So you have to 20 pay all fines, fees, and restitution in full. And 21 then we have this very unique requirement that all 22 child custody payments be paid in full before 23 restoration of voter rights. And I don't know of 24 any other state that has this, this requirement.

25 We challenged that in a case that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 came down from the Sixth Circuit in 2010. It was 3 called Johnson v. Bredesen. We challenged that.
4 Mr. Johnson was one of the plaintiffs in that 5 case. He had served a sentence, paid all his 6 fines, paid his restitution, had a child support 7 arrearage, actually had custody of that child at 8 the time that he was seeking restoration, but that 9 did not matter because there is nothing in the law 10 that says there is an exception if you can show an 11 inability to pay or if you're actually currently 12 in -- have custody of a child. It's kind of a 13 hard-and-fast rule. If you owe, you're not 14 eligible.

15 We failed in our challenge in the 16 Sixth Circuit. We challenged it on equal 17 protection grounds saying that there was a 18 disparate treatment between people of means and 19 people without means because you were essentially 20 saying -- essentially creating a pay-to-vote
21 scheme. If you had money, you didn't a problem.
22 If, like many people coming out of the corrections 23 system with a felony conviction, might struggle to 24 get a job, might struggle with being able to pay, 25 those people were not able to vote. And the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 message that we felt that the Tennessee General 3 Assembly was sending and the Sixth Circuit was 4 sending is that if you weren't able to pay, then 5 you weren't worthy enough to vote.

6 Probably the most striking thing
7 about this child support payment is it has nothing
8 to do with the underlying felony. There's no 9 requirement that you be put in jail because of 10 your inability to pay child support, which is a 11 misdemeanor in the state of Tennessee, and 12 requires a showing that you wilfully did not pay 13 your child support.

14 So, essentially, we've just allowed 15 the state, and the Sixth Circuit has allowed any 16 state in their jurisdiction, to just tack on a 17 financial requirement to the restoration 18 requirements to vote, which was -- their other 19 argument in that case was this is essentially an 20 unlawful or constitutional poll tax which would 21 violate the 24th Amendment. And, again, the Six 22 Circuit disagreed with us.

23 One judge did dissent and agreed that 24 this disparity between basically wealth created a 25 situation where there was no legitimate government

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 interest being served and, therefore, the statute
3 should have failed. But, unfortunately, that 4 single judge was just one voice on the panel.

5 As Tricia indicated, we did take that 6 up to full hearing of the Sixth Circuit and 7 petitioned for the supreme court for a hearing, 8 and that was denied.

9 But in Tennessee -- I see I got about 10 a minute left.

11 In Tennessee, this is a fallout of 12 this, is we've got about 340,000 disenfranchised
13 citizens. Only two percent of -- the stats show 14 only two percent are able to get their voting 15 rights back. This has a huge disproportionate 16 impact on the African-American community. I think 17 nationwide the stats are 1 in 13 African-American 18 adults are disenfranchised. In Tennessee, it's 1 19 in 5-and-a-quarter.

20 So that being said, ACLU of Tennessee
21 are continuing to look for ways to not only 22 challenge or change this law, but to -- or to find 23 other ways to restore the voting rights to our 24 citizens with felony convictions. Thank you for 25 having me.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you,
3 Mr. Castelli.

4 Before the commissioners begin with 5 their questions, partly because I was trying to go 6 by this -- the format that we -- the schedule we 7 had been given.

8 So now for the timekeeper, I would 9 ask if you would help me, we'll have 15 minutes
10 for questions. So if you will help me to adhere 11 to that time frame, 15 minutes of questions.

12 Now, commissioners, you all may ask 13 questions. But I just wanted you all to know what 14 the time frame was because we were using our 15 schedule before, and now we're doing something
16 different.

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Mr. Castelli,
18 I'm just kind of curious, as far as the lawsuit
19 that was -- that challenge, was there a challenge 20 to a different impact as far as on 21 African-American voters?

22 MR. CASTELLI: I'm not -- I don't 23 think there was -- first of all, no, there was not 24 because we were thrown into a rational basis 25 analysis by the Sixth Circuit. Even though we're

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 dealing with the right to vote, the Sixth Circuit 3 determined that since the right to vote had been 4 stripped, we weren't dealing with the fundamental 5 rights. So, therefore, we -- the only thing the 6 state had to show was rational basis. I wasn't on 7 this lawsuit. But that tells me that there was 8 not a challenge based on the disparate impact on 9 African-American voters, which might provide us
10 with a possible future challenge if we can show
11 that impact. And I think the -- you know, 12 that's -- I'm not a social scientist, I'm an 13 attorney. But that -- you know, the stats that 14 I've seen is starting to bear that out, not only 15 voter disenfranchising, but in over-incarceration
16 issues and other criminal justice issues.

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Do you know
18 whether or not there has been any type of studies 19 that would indicate, let's say, for instance, the 20 percentage of whites who have been able to get 21 their right to vote returned versus the percent of 22 African Americans who have been able to get their 23 right to vote returned? Do you know whether or 24 not there have been any kind of studies that talk 25 about those numbers?

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MR. CASTELLI: The only studies I'm 3 aware of would be kind of like a total -- totality
4 of the circumstance to you here, the raw numbers.
5 They don't actually get in depth into a -- you 6 know, whether there's an advantage beyond to -- 7 given to white persons with felony convictions as 8 opposed to African Americans or other minorities.
9 It's more of just a "here's the raw numbers." And 10 if we look at the raw numbers, we have a 11 disproportionate amount, based on our population, 12 of -- we have a disproportionate amount of 13 American-American adults, or men in particular, in 14 our criminal justice system, which is a problem.
15 And then that -- these studies are kind of coming 16 off of that. Those adults are being 17 disenfranchised because of their entry into the 18 criminal justice system and the felony conviction 19 rate. That's the only stake we have.

20 What I'd be interesting in seeing is 21 I think what you're talking about, which is what's 22 the access like for the African-American adults
23 coming out of the system to get the right
24 restored, and is the statute, because of, say, 25 this child support requirement and the other

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 financial requirements, raising a bar that is 3 particular to people within the minority
4 community.

5 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: As we take 6 a look at that, this whole issue, have -- do you 7 have any suggestions in the sense of what will be 8 some of the most effective forms of outreach to 9 individuals who may be subject to 10 disenfranchisement because of their criminal 11 records or those -- particularly those with 12 misdemeanors? Do you have any examples or...

13 MS. FOGEL: I know in the state of 14 Kentucky, we do have statistics showing that 15 people who come out of incarceration, they are 16 less likely to be repeat offenders because once 17 you come back and you are a returning citizen and 18 you no longer take from the community and you 19 become part of the community, you do everything to 20 protect that right.

21 Just like he stated, according to the 22 2013 report from the League of Women Voters in 23 Kentucky, Kentucky has the third highest rate of 24 disenfranchisement in the nation. One out of 25 every 14 residents is disenfranchised, almost

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 three times the national rate we have in the 3 country. More than one out of every five African 4 Americans over the age of 18 is ineligible to
5 vote.

6 Our process is that the person coming 7 out of incarceration first has to appeal to the 8 DOC, department of corrections. Once they give 9 their okay, then it goes to the prosecutor, and 10 then the prosecutor weighs in on it, and then it 11 goes to the governor.

12 And I ask you, if you prosecuted me,
13 what likelihood are you going to give me my right
14 to vote back because I'm able to out of office? I 15 don't know what the reasons are down in Frankfort, 16 Kentucky. They seem to think that everyone that's 17 incarcerated is either black or they're democrat.
18 And so -- that has been said. I mean, we went 19 around and took some polls. And so that is -- 20 that's ludicrous.

21 What I'm sitting here to say is 22 Stevie Wonder can see the writing on the wall.
23 Then I've heard that states are taking child
24 support. That may trickle down to Kentucky. I 25 know one of our senators attached a lot of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 amendments to House Bill 70 that was ludicrous.
3 They wanted voter ID, and they wanted to wait five 4 years after the sentence. When a person is on 5 parole, that is the waiting period. I don't know 6 why we have to continue to prove that we're okay
7 in this community when we're paying taxes. Either 8 take away the taxes since we can't vote, or give 9 us our voting rights and we'll continue to pay the 10 taxes. I mean, they should be split some kind of 11 way. We need y'all's help in Kentucky.

12 COMMISSIONER WOODS: I have a
13 question for Mr. Castelli.

14 MR. CASTELLI: Castelli, yes, sir.

15 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Castelli.

16 In looking at those 340,000
17 disenfranchised persons in the state of Tennessee, 18 is there any way of determining how many of those 19 could have had their records expunged at the end 20 of their sentence if it had been asked for at the 21 time of prosecution?

22 MR. CASTELLI: As far as 23 expungement --

24 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Yes.

25 MR. CASTELLI: -- of the crime? I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 really don't know.

3 COMMISSIONER WOODS: What happens, of 4 course, is that frequently there's plea
5 bargaining. But in that plea bargaining process, 6 for African Americans, quite often, it's not a 7 part of the plea bargain. And, therefore, when 8 their sentence is up, it remains on their record.
9 And in other instances when the plea bargain is 10 underway, it becomes a part of the plea bargaining 11 process for a lot of persons who were convicted.
12 And, therefore, when their sentence is up, they 13 can vote.

14 MR. CASTELLI: Yes. We have -- in 15 Tennessee, we have what's called a judicial 16 diversion, which sounds kind of like what you're 17 talking about.

18 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay.

19 MR. CASTELLI: In that situation, the 20 guilty conviction isn't actually entered, and then 21 expungement happens and, you know, there is -- 22 there is some -- and, again, I don't have access 23 to a study, but I think some concern on whether or 24 not that option is not being given to 25 African-American defendants is the same -- at a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 same rate as white defendants. But that wouldn't 3 affect disenfranchisement. Tennessee's 4 expungement statutes aren't necessarily dependent 5 on the plea bargain process for felony
6 convictions. There's only certain situations 7 where you can -- if you don't get this pretrial
8 diversion, which is where they hold the guilty 9 plea, in that situation there wouldn't be any jail 10 time involved as well.

11 I mean, probably one of the problems, 12 kind of going back to addressing one of the 13 questions, is I think there's a lack of 14 information to those coming out of prison of what 15 their rights are because if you've paid all the 16 monetary obligations, it actually is a terribly 17 complex process, assuming that your crime was 18 committed after a certain date. You fill out of 19 form. You have your probation officer certify 20 you've completed probation and paid everything, 21 you turn it into the election commission, you get 22 registered to vote. That's part of that 2006 law 23 that we have actually been trying to work to make 24 better, and then we got kind of hijacked with the 25 custody requirement.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 But that's not -- you know, I don't 3 think that's common knowledge to someone walking 4 out after serving their prison sentence or getting 5 off probation. And, actually, that's -- my 6 organization and partner organizations, that's 7 something we're trying to do, is get that word out 8 to people with felony convictions, that you can 9 get your voting rights restored. Not all 341,000
10 of those folks have child support arrearages.
11 Some of them just don't know how to do it. And as 12 they trickle into our organizations, we try help 13 them and assist them.

14 But I'm not sure that there's really 15 a mechanism in Tennessee where expungement in 16 particular is being used to disenfranchise 17 African-Americans voters at a greater rate than 18 white voters. I think there may are other 19 mechanics certainly that may be being used in a 20 disparate way that is affecting African-American 21 defendants more than white defendants. And, of 22 course, the consequence of that is they lose their 23 right to vote.

24 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Do you
25 have some suggestions then on some outreach

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 methods that could be used to get this
3 information?

4 MR. CASTELLI: I mean, you know, I'd 5 like to see -- you know, I'd like to see that this 6 be -- you know, when you have a probation officer, 7 your probation officer, part of their job is to 8 help you get into compliance. If you miss a 9 probation officer payment, you know, probation 10 payment, or if you don't report, you know, the 11 idea behind probation is that they're there to 12 kind of govern you back to the straight and 13 narrow.

14 I don't think it would be so 15 farfetched to add to that idea of -- since we are 16 personalizing you by taking away your right to 17 vote, that part of that role would be to guide you 18 back to restoring your right to vote after you've 19 completed your sentence.

20 We, of course, kind of think that 21 waiting until the end of a probation period is too 22 long; that if you were sentenced to, say, ten full 23 years, you served five, and then you're on parole 24 or probation for five years, you shouldn't have to 25 wait the whole time to have your rights restored.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Of course, you know, that's our opinion that might 3 have been shared by some others. But, you know, 4 that's one way that the legislative action could 5 help.

6 Otherwise, I think it's just a matter
7 of education, and I don't really have a suggestion
8 other than continuing to talk to the people out 9 there who are coming back into our communities.
10 And, you know, the organizations that do try to 11 help people returning from corrections facilities 12 back into communities, let them know about this, 13 let them know about the process, try to understand 14 the process. And then, you know, we'll continue 15 to try to get kind of know-your-rights-type 16 materials out to those who need it. Obviously we 17 can't reach every single last person.

18 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: One of the 19 things you were saying is having this be a part of 20 the process that the probation officers would 21 share with the inmate once they're being released.
22 Am I understanding --

23 MR. CASTELLI: I mean, that's -- and 24 that's kind of an off-the-top-of-my-head thought, 25 but, yeah. I mean, I think what we're talking

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 about is a rehabilitative corrections system, 3 supposedly. And I think -- I mean, we may -- we 4 may say that and know that that's not necessarily 5 what our justice system does, but that's what it's 6 supposed to do.

7 COMMISSIONER PORTER: I know in 8 Arkansas we have a commission that's been put 9 together by the governor where they're -- they 10 have in place -- they're trying to create a 11 situation where there they put a seamless reentry 12 into society --

13 MR. CASTELLI: Yes.

14 COMMISSIONER PORTER: -- to remove 15 such things, barriers, for people who are coming 16 out of incarceration such as, one of the ideas 17 that's been tossed around, if a person has been 18 incarcerated, then, obviously, the child support
19 obligations should be basically reduced to a -- I 20 mean, a very low amount. I mean, how is a person 21 going to be able to pay child support if they're 22 incarcerated?

23 There are other things that are being 24 put in place, and the commission is supposed to 25 come together with a report during the fall to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 allow those persons who are coming out of the 3 correctional facilities to have basically a 4 seamless reentry into society. That may be 5 something that in Kentucky that could be put 6 together.

7 MS. FOGEL: Yeah, in Kentucky --
8 Kentuckians for the Commonwealth is a 31-year-old 9 organization, and we have a coalition of a lot of 10 organizations and agencies that work around this 11 issue. It's just simply not enough, what we have 12 in Kentucky. Every person coming out of 13 incarceration who has paid their debt to society 14 should automatically be restored as you're coming 15 in as a returning citizen. I mean, all we want to 16 do is just get back to our dreams. We want to be 17 a part of the community. And so what the 18 government does, this sitting governor, he has 19 done an okay job. But what will happen when the 20 next governor takes office? He will have a right 21 to make the process easier or more difficult than 22 what it is right now. And so we do have a website 23 where people -- the probation parole can help 24 individuals coming back.

25 I want to make a statement on Senate

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Bill 4 and House Bill 463 in the state of 3 Kentucky. They came up with a bill because a lot 4 of judges and a lot legislative kids was getting 5 felonies, and so they didn't introduce a bill 6 where a person can have this diversion. And if 7 they complete like a treatment program, then their 8 charge just disappears. But that's not good 9 enough because all of us don't have a lawyer.

10 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: I wanted to 11 answer one question. Kentucky does not have 12 expungement. The only ones that can be expunged 13 in Kentucky are for misdemeanors and Class D 14 felonies.

15 MS. FOGEL: And it cost $100 for --

16 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: So,
17 therefore, Kentucky does not have that. In 18 terms -- Kentucky also has an awkward system of 19 how you apply. And I realize my role as a 20 commissioner, and was trying to stay out of it.
21 But I do think it needs further explanation that 22 an individual who applies can get their rights 23 back. It is a cumbersome process. And as we have 24 seen with governors changing, by executive orders, 25 it changes, and it can change from governor to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 governor. Therefore, the bill that Tonya has been 3 referring to, HB70, has passed the Kentucky House 4 of Representatives by overwhelming majorities for 5 the last seven years -- last year, 82 to 12 -- 6 only to be denied by the republican leader. The 7 majority floor leader refuses to call the bill up.
8 Even though Senator Rand Paul from his own party 9 came to testify in favor of the bill, he still has 10 refused to call it up. So that's where it stands
11 now.

12 We are working with the governor.
13 Now, this governor has made the process more 14 progressive, and it is easier. But it's still a 15 cumbersome process, especially if you've been out 16 for a while.

17 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: And 18 depending upon the whims of who the governor --

19 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Depending 20 on the whims of the governor. And that is what 21 we're trying desperately to change with HB70.

22 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: Thank you.

23 Again, I want to thank you, the 24 panelists, for a wonderful, wonderful job. Well 25 will done.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Now I'm going to ask the 3 representative, would you give them directions as 4 to what they're supposed to do. Were going to 5 take a break. But, I mean, where do they go? Is 6 this the food break? What's why I wanted you to 7 give them particulars.

8 MS. PERALTA: Absolutely. We have a
9 light dinner for folks. If you could exit and 10 just make a right, we'll be in the Fellowship 11 Hall.

12 COMMISSIONER SHACKLEFORD: How much 13 time should they have?

14 MS. PERALTA: We're taking a 15 20-minute break. We'll be back at 6:10.

16 (Brief recess observed.)

17 MS. DENNIS: So the first person is 18 Honey Dozer. Remember, I said I was Georgian.
19 How do you pronounce it?

20 MS. DOAGHER: Honey Doagher
21 (phonetic).

22 MS. DENNIS: Dozer. There we go.

23 MS. DOAGHER: Hello. My public
24 testimony is going to highlight the felony 25 disenfranchisement, and its going to focus in on

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the cumbersome process that was mentioned earlier.

3 My personal story, when I was 4 released from parole, my parole officer handed me 5 the papers that showed me this is what you need to 6 do to get your right to vote back. And I thought, 7 "Oh, that's fantastic." And I read it, and it
8 said that I had to have three character
9 references, and he made mention how these needed 10 to be civil servants. And being a person who had 11 aged out of a group home who was not from 12 Kentucky, I had no references. I didn't know 13 anyone to create those references. So I looked at 14 it as I was now put under pressure to create a 15 fraudulent relationship in order to gain my rights
16 back. But I was just charged as a fraudulent 17 person. That's why I went to jail. And so to 18 have to create a fraudulent relationship with 19 civil servants in order to get my right to vote 20 back made me feel like the system was very 21 tainted. There was something very, very wrong 22 with that process, and I thought that that was 23 just personal to me.

24 And as time has moved on, there's a 25 lot of children who age out of group homes who

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 have no idea what they're looking -- what their 3 future has for them. And they may not have the 4 relationships that I had. And throughout the 5 process, I am now a full-time student who is an 6 activist, and I am majoring in political science.
7 And, yes, at this time, I have an abundance of 8 references that I could use to gain my right to 9 vote back.

10 However, there are one in four 11 Kentuckians who don't have that privilege, and so 12 I will maintain my solidarity with those 13 individuals until we get House Bill 70 passed.

14 So that is my highlight of voter
15 disenfranchisement. Thank you.

16 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Can I ask
17 her one quick question?

18 MS. DENNIS: Yes, two minutes for
19 questions.

20 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: You said
21 when you were released from the Kentucky
22 institution --

23 MS. DOAGHER: Yes.

24 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: -- and you
25 were given the application to file for your rights

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 back --

3 MS. DOAGHER: Yes.

4 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: -- you were 5 told who you had to get?

6 MS. DOAGHER: I was told that I had 7 to have civil servants as my three character 8 references.

9 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Civil 10 servants?

11 MS. DOAGHER: Clergy members.

12 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: That was 13 under the Fletcher administration?

14 MS. DOAGHER: That was.

15 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay.

16 MS. DENNIS: All right. Thank you.
17 Can I have Flaco Aleman? Is Flaco
18 here? Okay.

19 MR. ALEMAN: I'd like to thank the 20 commission for the opportunity to come speak today 21 and testify on behalf of voting rights.

22 My story is similar to many people 23 across the country. At 18 years old, I went to 24 prison and spent 11 years of my life in prison.
25 And at 35 years of age, I've never had the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 opportunity to vote. I'm not a drug addict or an 3 alcoholic. And I, you know, would like to think 4 that I'm good at the work that I do.

5 But there's a lot of irony in my not 6 being able to vote. That irony comes in the work
7 that I do both personally and professionally. Not 8 only am I a member of Kentuckians for the 9 Commonwealth, who has been working on the 10 restoration of voting rights for close to a 11 decade, but I also am executive director for 12 Kentucky Jobs with Justice. And one of the things 13 that we've done, along with Kentuckians for the 14 Commonwealth and several other folks in our 15 coalition, is to not just look at the 16 disenfranchisement of voter power the returning 17 citizens face, but also the disenfranchisement of 18 other parts of civic engagement from employment 19 being one of those focuses. And what we found is 20 that in Jefferson County, Kentucky, approximately 21 one in four African Americans have either a felony 22 or a misdemeanor. And recidivism speaks a lot, 23 plays a big role when we talk about felony
24 disenfranchisement and voter disenfranchisement.

25 And one of the things that I'm proud

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 to say that we've looked at expanding the public
3 conversation about returning citizens far well
4 beyond the rights to vote, particularly around Ban
5 the Box legislation. Ban the Box legislation, 6 which we were able, through a strong collation
7 with Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, Kentucky 8 Jobs with Justice, the ACLU of Kentucky, the 9 Kentucky FLCIL, several labor organizations and 10 social justice and racial justice organizations 11 were able to pass this legislation with the 12 unanimous vote in Jefferson County. And what this 13 says is that now in Jefferson County, Kentucky, 14 metro government and their vendors can no longer 15 ask on an employment application have you been 16 convicted of a crime or inquire about that 17 question. We see that very critical to the life 18 of returning citizens, and I can speak personally 19 to that as well.

20 But the irony in that work, in voter
21 empowerment, and turning out the vote each 22 election year in a nonpartisan manner speaks
23 volumes because one of the things we tell people
24 when people ask me the question why should I vote, 25 why should I care about the civic engagement

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 process, is I tell people that's where our power
3 lies. Our power lies in solidarity and our power 4 lies in the ability to cast a vote and cast a 5 ballot for our elected officials.

6 So my life is full of that irony
7 while I preach that power and I preach that 8 solidarity. I myself still cannot partake of that 9 solidarity. And so it is only through the work 10 that I do professionally and personally that we 11 continually strive to organize the unorganized or 12 organize the disenfranchised until we are able to 13 pass House Bill 70.

14 And from a personal level, you know,
15 I have a lot of conversations, and I have caused a 16 lot of people in the coalition a lot of ruffled 17 feathers. You know, personally, I believe that 18 ever person should have the right to vote, no 19 matter what the crime, maybe outside of treason.
20 But, you know, I move forward with renewed 21 strength knowing that there are organizations like 22 Jobs with Justice, like Kentuckians for the 23 Commonwealth, like the Fairness Campaign who push 24 forward for the registration of voting rights.
25 And I challenge everyone to push that conversation

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 further as we look to what returning citizens need 3 not just the right vote, but the right to full and 4 fair employment, healthcare, and things of that 5 nature. Thank you.

6 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

7 MS. DENNIS: Did you all have any 8 questions or anything?

9 COMMISSIONER WOODS: No.

10 MS. DENNIS: Okay.

11 All right. Next we have Teddy Smith 12 Rogalar (phonetic). Remember, Georgian. You will 13 have to correct me.

14 MS. ROGLAR: Excuse my shoes. My 15 74-year-old feet decided what shoe I would have on 16 right now.

17 But, anyway, my first sign is to God,
18 my creator, and to Christ, my keeper.

19 I have to tell you briefly, I
20 didn't -- I'm a former felon. I didn't wake up 21 one morning, as I've been trying to tell people in 22 Frankfort, and decide I would commit a crime.

23 When I came to Kentucky at 11 years
24 of age, I was repeatedly raped over the summer, 25 and I kind of lived in hell in my mind for years

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 and years and years. And when I turned 18, I
3 started drinking alcohol so I could escape from my 4 misery. So I did binge drinking, and it got worse
5 and worse. I would get arrested. I finally went 6 to Pewee Valley, went to prison a couple of times.

7 And when I did get myself together
8 and go through treatment and got my mind squared
9 away, I went to school with my daughter, and I 10 earned three associate degrees in three years, and 11 I worked for a United States Congressman. And I 12 thought until I started being on the council with 13 Protection & Advocacy from Frankfort, I thought my 14 record was sealed, and I thought I was no longer a 15 felon. But in working with them when they put 16 together the 120-county resources manual, I found 17 that my record was sealed to an extent. They 18 couldn't find it, the department of corrections.
19 But I told them what my number was, and they were 20 able to find it. And I'd never voted in Kentucky, 21 and I'm glad I didn't because I could have been 22 arrested for voting with a felony record.

23 I get so angry and upset with the 24 legislatures. If you lie to people in law 25 enforcement, you can go to jail, and they lie all

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the time. But it's really weird.

3 This -- I started to say Kentucky is 4 a racist state, but everywhere I've been in 5 America is racist, including when I lived in 6 Harlem, New York, and I lived in San Diego,
7 California. So racism is alive and well all over 8 this country. And every facet of our lives is 9 based on how someone else feels about the color of 10 our skin.

11 For example, heroine is real popular
12 again. Here in Kentucky, it's being cut with a 13 drug that's supposed to put you to sleep. And of 14 all the overdoses in Kentucky, or in my area of 15 Kentucky, all of the ODs were of white people and 16 only one black person. So the powers that be in 17 Frankfort are trying to rush through Senate Bill 5
18 so white folks can -- if they complete everything 19 that's ordered by the court, they can do treatment 20 and everything, they throw their records out. And 21 I'm -- I'm trying to get someone down there to 22 give me a sensible answer than if -- if you do 23 this, well, then retro back to the crack -- people 24 that are in jail for crack and clean up 25 everybody's record. I don't know what needs to be

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 done. I feel we need to go back to the -- like 3 the era of Civil Rights. We need to take to the 4 street because people aren't -- they're not 5 listening. The way the racial composition is 6 going now, white males are already out numbered.
7 But I'm finding here in Kentucky especially, they 8 are trying to make sure that they stay in control.
9 Thank you.

10 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Thank you.

11 MS. DENNIS: All right. Next we have 12 Michael Fogel. Okay. We'll come back to him.

13 Next we have Carol Westlake.

14 MS. WESTLAKE: Thank you. I'd like
15 to thank the commission for being here. Welcome 16 to Nashville. We're very can glad that you're 17 here. It's an important thing that you're doing.
18 So thank you very much.

19 I'm Carol Westlake. I'm a proud
20 member of the League of Women Voters of Nashville
21 and Davidson County, who are helping to sponsor 22 this hearing. I'm also the executive director of 23 the Tennessee Disability Coalition, and I'd like 24 to talk a little bit about disability rights and 25 voting and the participation.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 The coalition is in alliance with 3 about 47 different disability groups across the 4 state of Tennessee. All of us are committed to 5 independence inclusion and the full and equal 6 participation of people with disabilities in all 7 aspects of community life. Obviously, voting is 8 fundamental to that.

9 For the last 14 years, the coalition
10 has had a specific campaign designed to increase 11 the specific participation of people with 12 disabilities in Tennessee. We've worked a lot on 13 poll accessibility, voter registration, Get Out
14 The Vote, and accessible voting systems. There 15 was a real need to do that. Data from the 2000 16 election showed us that we had a 12 percent gap in 17 voting between people with and without 18 disabilities. We just weren't showing up at the 19 polls. We set about to do something about that.

20 Working with our member agencies, we 21 established local vote committees, we worked with 22 election officials, we trained people how to vote 23 and how to get out the vote, did a lot of good 24 work. The passage of HAVA, the Help America Vote 25 Act, really strengthened our efforts. Our

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 secretary of state and our election commissioner 3 worked hard to improve accessible voting in 4 Tennessee, and we were really able to make 5 strides.

6 In 2008, Rutgers University
7 researchers surveyed voters nationwide with and 8 without disabilities postelection, including 9 Tennessee. They reported that in Tennessee, the 10 voting gap had shrunk to six-and-a-half percent 11 instead of 12 percent. We were very proud our of 12 ourselves. We felt like we were making real 13 progress. We decreased that gap by almost half.

14 Well, for the last three years, the 15 coalition has been partner in the Research
16 Alliance for Accessible Voting. We call it RAAV.
17 This three-year grant from the US Election
18 Assistance Commission was part of two contracts
19 that the EAC put out in response to a 20 congressional mandate to look at ways to make 21 voting more accessible and to identify successful 22 approaches to addressing barriers to voting.
23 Clemson University was a project manager, and 24 Nancy Ward, who is going to be on your forth 25 panel, I think, was a part of that team as well.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 So I'm really anxious to see my friend from 3 Oklahoma.

4 One of the things that we -- you
5 know, as Nancy will tell you, is that independent 6 voting, confidential voting is something that 7 people with disabilities often don't have.
8 Ensuring that citizens can vote with little or no
9 difficulty is fundamental to a democracy, and it 10 is an important topic in public debates and policy 11 initiatives. Ensuring that people with 12 disabilities can vote prevents distinct 13 challenges. And Lynn William talked about a few 14 of those on your first panel today.

15 The unique needs of people with 16 disabilities, though, I'm here to tell you, are 17 becoming less unique. They're becoming more 18 mainstream. The Census Bureau reports that in 19 1998, there were 80 million people in America who 20 were age 45 and older. And in that same group in 21 2012, 120 million. We're the baby boomers. We're 22 on our way.

23 You know, if you add extended life
24 expectancy to that, an average to 15 to 30 years
25 longer than we're used to, you're looking at a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 huge cohort of people who are likely to experience 3 disability and have accessibility needs related to 4 voting, among other kinds of things.

5 There are estimated to be 5 million
6 people with disabilities in Tennessee, making us 7 one of the largest minority groups in our state.

8 Statistically, roughly 75 percent of 9 us are of voting age. That's a lot of people, and 10 it's growing.

11 Our work with the RAAV project was 12 focused on how to improve the voting experience at 13 the polls for voters with disabilities. I want to 14 share just a little bit of baseline research that 15 the RAAV team found. Nationally, almost 16 30 percent of voters with disabilities had 17 difficulty voting at the polls, compared with only 18 eight percent of people without disabilities. The 19 top three problems that people had with voting are 20 seeing the ballot, understanding how to vote, 21 using the machine to mark the ballot, and having 22 to wait in line, and being able to physically be 23 able to do that. Those are the things that we 24 really wanted to be able to take a look at and to 25 work out.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 I want to tell you about some of the 3 things that did work as we did our research.
4 Early voting works. Forty -- sorry. Oh, I'm on 5 the stop.

6 COMMISSIONER WOODS: I'm sorry.

7 MS. WESTLAKE: Okay. I'm going to 8 stop.

9 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Yes.

10 MS. WESTLAKE: I apologize.

11 Well, I will tell you that -- one
12 thing, which is the photo ID issue that was raised 13 earlier. When we looked at our data from the 2012
14 election, our gap is back up to nine-and-a-half 15 percent. I think a lot of that has to do with 16 photo ID and people with disabilities having 17 trouble with that.

18 I apologize. Thank you.

19 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

20 MS. DENNIS: Whatever extra 21 information you all have, you can always give that 22 to me, and I will put it into the record.

23 So now we have Michael Fogel.

24 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: He's nervous.

25 MS. DENNIS: Oh, okay. So you can

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 send in your written testimony. That's perfectly 3 fine.

4 COMMISSIONER PORTER: I just have a
5 question, if I can. I noticed that there have 6 been several people talking about, you know,
7 obviously, felon conviction and voter
8 disenfranchisement. Is there a concerted effort 9 to join other groups, other civic organizations to 10 try to, I guess, have a bigger political push in 11 order to try to eliminate the disenfranchisement 12 that we have -- that so many of our people have as 13 a result of felony conviction? I'm thinking about 14 the Women League of Voters, you know, when you're 15 talking about have a felony conviction, that is 16 sort of a form of disability that people have 17 because of that. And so I was just kind of 18 curious as to whether or not what other 19 organizations have you joined with or tried to 20 solicit in order to assist you in your endeavor.

21 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: I think I
22 can answer that for you.

23 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Okay.

24 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: If I may.

25 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Thank you.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: In
3 Kentucky, this year we had the 50th anniversary
4 for the March on Frankfort. Sixty-three 5 organizations joined in with that, and the focal 6 point was HB70. Those groups included Kentuckians
7 for the Commonwealth, Jobs for Justice, NAACP, 8 Urban League, 63 YMCAs, Kentucky Commission on 9 Human Rights were all a part, fairness. It was 10 the broadest-based coalition that we could have 11 across the state, and they all joined in and all 12 are committed to working this next session.

13 As a matter of fact, the principal 14 sponsor of the bill is retiring from the 15 legislature. We've already met, and that 16 person -- the next legislature who is going to 17 take the point has already been selected, and we 18 are ready to keep that coalition together.

19 COMMISSIONER STOKES: I do have a 20 follow-up, because I heard from earlier testimony
21 and comments that you made that the reason HB70 --
22 am I correct --

23 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Yes.

24 COMMISSIONER STOKES: -- has not been 25 considered at this point is because it has not

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 been introduced.

3 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Oh, no.

4 COMMISSIONER STOKES: I may have 5 gotten that wrong.

6 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay. The 7 bill has been introduced.

8 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Right.

9 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: For the 10 last seven sessions, it has passed the house of 11 representatives by overwhelming majorities. This 12 year is the first year it had a hearing in the 13 senate. We did get it that far. But the senate 14 let it die. Well, let me put it -- we had the 15 hearing. The majority floor leader tacked on 16 quite a few amendments. And when the house then 17 would not concur with his amendments, he let it 18 die in the senate.

19 COMMISSIONER STOKES: An intentional
20 strategy to --

21 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: It's the 22 same -- it's the same senator who introduced photo
23 ID, and that is -- he is the biggest outlook
24 supporter we have in the state senate, I do 25 believe.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. DENNIS: Thank you.

3 And I failed to mention that we have 4 another guest commissioner who has joined us. Her
5 name is Patricia Stokes, and she's the president
6 of the Urban League of Middle Tennessee. So 7 please excuse my lapse of giving you all 8 information. So sorry about that.

9 All right. So we're going to keep 10 going. So next we have Pastor Kelvin Walker.

11 MR. WALKER: How is everybody doing?
12 I only have a few minutes to speak. I guess my 13 question would be why. I mean, what's the logic 14 behind taking somebody's voting rights? What 15 would be -- I mean, what would be the purpose of 16 it? I mean, can you ask anybody that question and 17 really get a logical answer to that particular 18 question? You know, because when you consider the 19 fact that if a person commits a crime, especially 20 here in the state of Tennessee, and then you're 21 properly adjudicated through the system, you go 22 in, the purpose of going through the system, the 23 person being in incarceration, is for 24 rehabilitation and punishment. So if I go through 25 the system, I'm rehabilitated, I'm properly

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 punished, I meet a parole board, I'm paroled out 3 into -- back into free-world society, that should 4 send a signal to somebody with some sense that 5 says this individual is ready to come out and 6 should be able to participate in society and their 7 life.

8 I was incarcerated in a state prison
9 system in the state of Tennessee back in the '70s.
10 I actually cast my first ballot, my first voting 11 ballot while incarcerated in the state prison
12 system, and I've been voting ever since.

13 Some of my crimes were violent
14 crimes, so I don't understand the logic behind 15 these manipulative tactics in restructuring and 16 pretending to mold and shape these voter 17 registration laws and different things like that.
18 And, you know, you make people jump all kind of 19 hoops. What if you got a violent crime, then you 20 can't vote. If the crime was committed during a 21 certain period of time, then you can't get your 22 voting rights and stuff like that. But here it 23 is, the last time I committed a crime was 31 years 24 ago. And I've been voting in all of the 25 elections, just went and voted, and did some early

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 voting this last election here.

3 My mindset is not the same mindset
4 that I had, although the system didn't let me out
5 because I got out through the federal court
6 system. But at the same time, I'm an individual.
7 I have a right to feed my children and to live
8 where I need to live and to work and own
9 businesses and do whatever I need to do. So why 10 is it that I -- after all this time, why is it 11 that I should not have the same rights of any 12 other citizen in this country that have not 13 committed a crime when you consider the fact that 14 I'm no longer a criminal.

15 And let me say this: When I went to 16 prison, I should have been in prison. They should 17 have locked me up, and they did lock me up. But 18 once I got out of prison and I'm no longer in 19 possession of that mindset or that criminal 20 thought -- that criminal thinking, then I should 21 not be treated as if I still possess that same 22 mindset. Something ought to be changed. And 23 somebody ought to implement some laws instead of 24 trying to play with these laws. Why don't we put 25 something on the table that says let's get rid of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 this stuff because to say, well, you got to do 3 this and then you pay all child support. Who in 4 prison that's been locked up for 5, 10, 15 years 5 whose got a child whose parent that took him to -- 6 whose significant other then took him to court for 7 child support is not going to have child support.
8 Then you get out, you got to jump a hoop, you're 9 disenfranchised, you can't get a job, you can't 10 interview, you can't be -- then you're expecting 11 to be able to pay this stuff? Man, that's 12 ridiculous. So my question again is why. Why?
13 Where is the logic in it all? That's the 14 question.

15 MS. DENNIS: Do you all have any
16 questions?

17 COMMISSIONER WOODS: No.

18 MS. DENNIS: All right. Next we 19 have -- I'm probably going to butcher your name.
20 But I've said I'm a Georgian. Drost? Can you 21 just say it for me?

22 MS. KOKOYE: Yes.

23 MS. DENNIS: Thank you.

24 MS. KOKOYE: Good evening, everybody.
25 My name is Drost Kokoye. You'll never hear the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 name again, so it's fine.

3 I'm just going to speak a little bit
4 about language equity and language access when it 5 comes to voting and polling locations and the 6 application that has to do with people who have 7 difficulty communicating in English or just would 8 rather have somebody that are with them while 9 they're using the computer or don't really feel 10 comfortable using that kind of thing.

11 I was a poll watcher at Paragon Mills 12 Elementary School in 2012 for the national 13 elections. During my eight hours there, I
14 witnessed a lot of people from the community there 15 be turned away because, after sitting in line or 16 standing in line for about 20, 30 minutes to get 17 to the front to be told, oh, well, we don't really 18 have that application right now, just wait another 19 ten minutes and I'll get to you in just a little 20 while. These hurdles that are put in front of our 21 community members who have already made the strive 22 to come and make their voices heard, but then 23 you're telling them that they're still not going 24 to be allowed that space.

25 And so I feel like if the application

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 is there, then the poll workers need to be aware 3 that this is something that everybody, regardless 4 of how comfortable -- if they wanted to have 5 access to this application, then they're allowed 6 that. And just that educational part of it itself 7 would help protect the voting rights of a lot of 8 people, especially in the minority communities.
9 Thank you.

10 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Before you
11 leave --

12 MS. KOKOYE: Yes.

13 COMMISSIONER WOODS: -- one question.
14 Are you saying that people stand in line, they go 15 to the poll to vote, and then when it's time for 16 them to vote, they don't have something in their 17 language so that they can understand how to vote?

18 MS. KOKOYE: So all of the voting,
19 so, like, the machines and everything, they're all 20 in English. But if I -- my native language is 21 Kurdish. So if I go up there and I decide I'd 22 rather have somebody else come and help me, then 23 there's an application that I fill out that says 24 this person has now become my helper --

25 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Right.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. KOKOYE: -- and we both agreed to 3 this, and somebody from the poll workers has also 4 signed on and seen this happen.

5 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Sure.

6 MS. KOKOYE: But that takes 7 oversight. And if the people who are running the 8 polls decide that's just extra for us and we'd 9 rather not do that, which is often what happens, 10 then those people who have already been waiting 11 the 20, 30 minutes who brought the extra person so 12 that they can have full understanding of the 13 positions that they're voting for, the correct 14 name that they're looking for, then don't get to 15 vote.

16 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. All
17 right.

18 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Another
19 question or a point of clarification, Drost, 20 because I think it's important to put your 21 comments in context. So in Metro Nashville, the 22 area that you talked about, Paragon Mills, is 23 probably one of the more diverse communities. And 24 I don't know the statistics, but I know within the 25 Metro school system, we have 140 languages. So

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that's the context that you are speaking of.

3 Are you associated with a particular 4 group that is advancing strategies that could be 5 productive in sort of helping get out the 6 information about the applications or make suring 7 that people have those in place? I know being 8 able to offer it at the polls, but making sure 9 that people have that information in place before 10 they get to the polls.

11 MS. KOKOYE: Absolutely. With a 12 couple of the communities that I work with, what 13 we try to do is, first of all, this engagement 14 process and why voting in the first place is 15 important and significant, and then taking the 16 ballot examples to the community and showing it, 17 whether it's at the mosque or the weekend school 18 or something, to where the community becomes 19 familiar with it and they're not scared of it.
20 But the names and kind of being able to pick it 21 out, or even a machine, it's kind of intimidating 22 for somebody who either hasn't done it before or 23 isn't on computers regularly. And so usually 24 parents will take one of their older siblings or 25 something like that to where they can help them go

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 through that process.

3 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Thank you.

4 MS. KOKOYE: Thank you.

5 MS. DENNIS: All right. Now we have 6 Cheryl Allen.

7 MS. ALLEN: Hello. I was an officer
8 on the election this year, and I worked with 9 Whites Creek 201, very heartbroken. First of all,
10 the first thing I want to say is, starting March 11 the 1st, I did a voters' drive for people to come 12 in and register to vote. We had 30 days before 13 the election to be able to vote.

14 On this form, this document right
15 here, it says, "Have you ever been convicted of a 16 felony in this state or any other state?" That's 17 the only question that's asked on this card. It 18 said if you falsify a question, you will be 19 punished. So the only question that was asked is 20 have you ever been convicted of a felony, so a 21 person says yes.

22 When I turn those cards in, every 23 last one of them that checked, yes, that they were 24 convicted of a felony was thrown away or given 25 back to me to take back to them because they were

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 not allowed to vote. On these forms, it did not 3 say have you been restored or have nothing. The 4 only thing it says is "have you ever." So that's 5 one thing.

6 The second thing is, all of the 7 people that came in to vote, the line was so long, 8 and they waited so long, that they were turned 9 away; they didn't want to stay anymore. So I had 10 to call -- I'm getting nervous. I had to call to 11 get another machine to come out. It took about 12 35, 40 minutes to bring another machine out, so 13 the line was, like, coming on out the door. And 14 people were driving up, seeing the line, and 15 leaving. I was waving them down, had to stop and 16 ask them if they could come back.

17 I have a case that I'm working on 18 right now that a young man was convicted of a 19 crime -- no, he wasn't convicted. He was accused, 20 so he was arrested, spent two years in jail until 21 he was able to get in court. He went to court 19 22 times but never been inside the courtroom. While 23 he was in jail waiting to go into court, they sent 24 him a letter saying his voter rights was taken 25 away. Never been convicted, anything. But he

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 waited two years. He's out of jail, never been 3 charged, but his rights was taken away already.
4 Something needs to be done about that.

5 The machines, we have the EPB
6 machines. They were -- I had two. They had to 7 bring another one because that line also was 8 getting long. The machine kept stopping in the 9 middle of me printing the ballot so they can go
10 and vote. It kept stopping, so I had to start 11 over. When I start over, then the machine said 12 that this person has already been issued a ballot.
13 So I called and said this man said hadn't voted, 14 he has not received a ballot or anything, but he 15 still couldn't vote. He had to do a provisional 16 vote. He said he wasn't going to do one because 17 he knew he had not voted or anything. He was a 18 junior; his father was a senior. His father died 19 30 years ago. So he was able to vote. I called 20 to the station when I was able to get into them.
21 I could not get to the numbers. Every number was 22 either busy or the answer machining picks up. So 23 I had to keep waiting, keep waiting. Finally got 24 in touch with somebody that said nothing we could 25 do, he just has to do a provision. He didn't want

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 to do a provision. It's a lot. Those machines, 3 they need to get rid of them, stay with the paper,
4 and let's keep it going that way.

5 COMMISSIONER STOKES: I just want to 6 make sure that I heard all of your concerns. So 7 the first related to the ballot. And the question
8 about the conviction, but not a follow-up question 9 about restoration.

10 MS. ALLEN: Right.

11 COMMISSIONER STOKES: If rights have 12 been restored -- voter application, the 13 application process.

14 MS. ALLEN: Right.

15 COMMISSIONER STOKES: The second had 16 to do with the actual polling site not being 17 adequately equipped --

18 MS. ALLEN: Right --

19 COMMISSIONER STOKES: -- with enough
20 machines.

21 MS. ALLEN: Right.

22 COMMISSIONER STOKES: And then some 23 of the machines not functioning properly.

24 MS. ALLEN: Right.

25 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Is that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

correct?

MS. ALLEN: That's correct.

COMMISSIONER STOKES: And not the right amount of support --

MS. ALLEN: Right.

COMMISSIONER STOKES: -- for the offices at the poll.

MS. ALLEN: Right.

COMMISSIONER STOKES: And that was at Whites Creek.

MS. ALLEN: At Whites Creek.

We had over 800 voters came out to vote, but the machines were not functioning right, so one of them I just had to completely turn that machine off. I don't know if those votes were counted, but we had to turn that one off. Inside of the machine, we had seven people came in to vote, but it kept saying that they had no -- they've already been issued a ballot, and it was seven that said they've already been issued a ballot. But then the man that I talked to, he said, "Well, have everybody --" the first person that said that he's already been issued then, since he had to do a provision, everybody else had

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to do a provision. But they had a solution, but 3 they wouldn't give it to me because that one 4 person had already voted.

5 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Let me ask you
6 this: Whenever there's an election at a 7 particular precinct, there's always a number of 8 people who at least showed up to vote. You 9 indicated that there were approximately 800 people
10 who showed up to vote at, was it Whites Creek?

11 MS. ALLEN: Whites Creek, yes.

12 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Whites Creek,
13 about 800 people. Did you actually see the number 14 of people who actually cast votes at that 15 particular precinct? Did it sort of match up?

16 MS. ALLEN: Yes --

17 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Okay.

18 MS. ALLEN: -- it matched up because 19 the count that was on the EPB machine and the 20 count that was on a voter's machine, they all had 21 to equal up to the same, and it did.

22 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Now, in 23 previous elections, had you had that many people 24 turn out for that particular precinct to vote?

25 MS. ALLEN: Well, most of the time --

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the majority of the people in Whites Creek that I
3 was told -- this is my first year of doing it.
4 But they usually do the early voting. But this 5 time, they all was coming in on May 6th. But a 6 lot of them was doing redirect because they were 7 told to go to Haynes Middle School, then they was 8 told to come back to Whites Creek, and they kept 9 going back and forth, and they said they're just 10 not going to vote, which is ridiculous because 11 they need to have it one voting place and let 12 everybody able to vote there instead of going back 13 and forth.

14 COMMISSIONER STOKES: So was there a 15 way to track the numbers that did not actually 16 vote? I know you said there were 800 that voted 17 and matched up with the machines. But is there -- 18 was there any way to document the numbers that did 19 not vote because of difficulties or the confusion 20 about polling sites?

21 MS. ALLEN: When they came in to do
22 the redirect, they -- when I pulled their name up 23 in the EPB, which is these machines that we should 24 not have, they had on there that you not able to 25 vote here, you have to go to Haynes Manor or

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Outlook Baptist Church. Well, I had to pull out 3 one receipt and have them to sign, which is my 4 receipt I keep, to say that they did come here, 5 and then give them another receipt so they can 6 take to the other person. And so that's how we 7 kept up with that vote.

8 But the ones that got tired of 9 sitting in the line left. The ones that drove up 10 that wouldn't -- didn't want to come in because 11 the lines was so long, they left. So there was no 12 way to count them. It could have been more.

13 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: What were 14 the reasons that they had to go from precinct to 15 precinct?

16 MS. ALLEN: I guess because they 17 changed the direction or changed something
18 wherever they used to vote. When they do a 19 primary, they come to one station when they do 20 primary voting. And then the general election, 21 they go somewhere else. So now all of these 22 people that used to come to Whites Creek was told 23 they had to go to either Outlook Baptist Church or 24 go to the school to vote, and they were upset.
25 And a lot of them -- one lady, she and her mother

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 voted at Whites Creek. But when we pulled her 3 name up, it said she had to go to the middle 4 school. And she said, "Well, can you let me know, 5 because I have to go and pick up my mother. I'm 6 just getting off work. I ran over here so I can 7 vote," but now she had to go somewhere. And we 8 pulled her mother's name up, and her mother had to 9 go somewhere else. She said, "Just forget it.
10 I'm not voting." So it's a shame.

11 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Was it due
12 to redistricting?

13 MS. ALLEN: I don't know what it is.

14 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay.

15 MS. ALLEN: But they need to have one
16 location where everybody votes where they know 17 where to go to, and they don't.

18 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

19 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Thank you very
20 much.

21 MS. DENNIS: All right. Thank you.

22 And we have now Eleanor Woods.

23 MS. WOODS: Good evening. Thank you
24 for the opportunity to come. I'm Eleanor Woods 25 from Chattanooga, Tennessee, and I'm the chair of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 housing for the local branch there of the NAACP.

3 I have with me a voters' roster of 4 active registered voters in Hamilton County
5 District, City District 7, which is considered a 6 heavily African-American district for that city.
7 In fact, probably has the most African-American 8 people in this district.

9 I'm here because the citizens of 10 District 7 made a major complaint because they 11 were involved in a recall of their city
12 councilmen. And the Hamilton County Election
13 Commission Office gave them this list to get 14 signatures from. This is 10,672 supposedly active 15 registered voters. And when the citizens went out 16 to get the signatures, which they were required to 17 get 15 percent of the signatures to recall their 18 councilmen, the citizens went out and knocked on 19 the doors. And what they discovered was that the 20 majority of the people on this list does not 21 exist. Either the housing project was completely 22 closed or halfway closed and most of the citizens 23 had been moved from those housing projects, or 24 streets were completely gone, or houses were 25 boarded up and the people were not there, and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 several things. Some of them were dead and had 3 been dead for more than 10 or 20 years in some 4 cases. And then, also, some of the people that 5 were supposed to be on this list had not voted for 6 more than 10, and in some cases 15 years, and some 7 of them had never voted.

8 So as you know, what the outcome was 9 probably for these people who were seeking to use 10 the democratic process using the voters' active 11 list to recall their councilmen. They were 12 required to have 1600 signatures, but they fell 13 short 421 because over 2,000-some-odd signatures
14 were rejected.

15 So when we looked closer to the list,
16 we discovered that because these people had moved, 17 and it's a very poor district, new people had 18 occupied some of the houses who were registered 19 voters, but the database had not caught up with 20 the people who were in these existing houses. And 21 the signatures were from valid registered voters, 22 but the database did not support it; they were not 23 at these houses. In fact, the people that on this 24 list that's supposed to be at these houses cannot 25 not be found, the majority. I will say there was

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 some. So this group of people we feel have been 3 disenfranchised in the voting process.

4 And, also, when people are showing up
5 to vote -- because of the redistricting process
6 and the fact that this district, South
7 Chattanooga, is the number one gentrified
8 community in the country. If you all kept up with 9 the news, it is the number one gentrified 10 community in the country. Then a huge number of 11 African Americans that once existed on this roster 12 have been moved out this community. And there's 13 no way to keep up with this other than either the 14 census -- of the census track, the people that 15 come out of the census studies, or the election, 16 which is supposed to be accurate.

17 So the local branch of the NAACP has 18 asked that the last election, which was May 6th, 19 at least the verification of those ballots be held 20 until there's an internal audit of the Hamilton
21 County Election Commission there locally, at least 22 in this district. And we're now studying to see 23 whether other zip codes or other communities are 24 experiencing the same discrepancy in their voting 25 districts.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We did compare it to one voting
3 district, which was a predominantly white 4 district, and that district's margin of error was 5 maybe only one to two percent marginal error. And 6 this error here is a great margin of error, and at 7 least needs to be, at least in our case we feel, 8 investigated minimally, questions asked. Because 9 if people show up to vote and they have -- get an 10 address change and it's not found in the database 11 because they're not keeping up with it, then they 12 won't be allowed to vote when they show up, and 13 they won't know where they are because this is not 14 right.

15 So on behalf of the citizens of 16 Hamilton County and City District 7, we are asking 17 that this be at least investigated because, if you 18 know, when federal funds are requested for a 19 district, and particularly a poor district, the 20 statistics are used to get those governmental 21 funds. And we feel that this district, because 22 it's been heavy gentrified, and we do know because 23 I do serve as the executive director of a CDC,
24 that the city of Chattanooga is using the 2000 25 census data as opposed to 2010 census data. And

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the 2000 census data was when the majority of the 3 African Americans were in this community. And now 4 it's been gentrified heavily, so they're not 5 there.

6 So we want all of these things to be 7 looked at closely as we go forward so that African 8 Americans will not be disenfranchised, and that 9 when funding is awarded to a city or a community, 10 that it goes to the people it's supposed to go to.
11 Thank you.

12 MS. DENNIS: Questions.

13 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Ms. Woods,
14 I'm just kind of curious. You indicated this is 15 City District 7?

16 MS. WOODS: Yes, that's correct.

17 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: And do you
18 know what the population change was, I guess, 19 between the 2010 census versus the 2000 census?

20 MS. WOODS: I don't know the exact
21 percentage, but I can get that for you. But I 22 know it's a big shift.

23 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: A big 24 shift.

25 MS. WOODS: It's such a big shift,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that it's the number one gentrified community in 3 the country.

4 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Now, the -- 5 I guess your city council members, are they 6 elected by wards?

7 MS. WOODS: Yes.

8 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay.
9 Thank you. And you to cause it the one in Direct 10 7?

11 MS. WOODS: That's correct.

12 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Question:
13 You said that 2000 names where rejected when you 14 turned your petition in?

15 MS. WOODS: Yes. Out of 3,700, 16 2,000 -- it was over 2,000, maybe -- I've got the 17 exact number written down, but it's over 2,000
18 that were rejected.

19 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Why?

20 MS. WOODS: They said the signatures
21 were not valid. But when we went to the doors and 22 got the signatures from the people that lived in 23 the homes, they had valid voter IDs at that 24 particular address.

25 But what we found, for example, we

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 went to one house, and this person had moved and 3 hadn't been there for ten years. Then the person
4 who was now in that home, we took their signature
5 because they were there, and the data does not 6 reflect that person in that home.

7 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: But they 8 were a registered voter?

9 MS. WOODS: Yes, this is correct.

10 Oh, and some of them, also, the 11 signatures, they have did not have a signature 12 expert, but they rejected a lot of them because 13 they said the signature did not match the 14 database. Some of these people are older now than 15 what they were in 1960 or 1940. And I know my 16 signature has kind of went downhill as I've gotten 17 older. So we did have a signature expert, but a 18 lot of them were denied because they said the 19 signatures did not match.

20 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Were they able 21 to say with what frequency they update?

22 MS. WOODS: The Hamilton County
23 Election Commission stated that they had purged
24 the list in 2009, and then again in 2011, yet I 25 have relatives that have moved from one place and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 to another place, and it has not been purged, and 3 in 10 or 20 years because it's still showing them
4 at the old address.

5 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: They still 6 do purging?

7 MS. WOODS: That means if you have 8 not voted --

9 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: I know what 10 purging means.

11 MS. WOODS: Yes.

12 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: But some 13 areas you can no longer do purging; am I correct?

14 MS. WOODS: Yes. But they made a 15 statement that they --

16 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: As a result
17 of federal legislation, you can't always purge.

18 MS. WOODS: Yes, sir.

19 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay.

20 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Thank
21 you.

22 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Thank you,
23 Ms. Woods.

24 MS. WOODS: Thank you.

25 MS. DENNIS: All right. We're going

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 to move back into our panel, so we're going to go 3 to panel four, which is equal access to the 4 political process.

5 COMMISSIONER WOODS: And that panel
6 is it Eben Cathey, Beth Metzger/Leslie Jones, 7 Nancy Ward, and Angela Webster.

8 Okay. Now we're all in place; is 9 that right?

10 Okay. Thank you for coming, and 11 welcome. Equal access to the political process.

12 And one of our commissioners just 13 stepped out, but we will go forward and start with 14 Eban Cathey.

15 MR. CATHEY: Yes. I'm Eban Cathey.
16 What, about five minutes? Is that what...

17 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Yes. The rules
18 are that you each have five minutes. And there's 19 a timekeeper over here that has a whistle, have 20 some signs that will let you know when you have 21 one minute to go and when your time is up.

22 MR. CATHEY: All right. I've got a
23 lot to say. I'm going to speak fast.

24 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay.

25 MR. CATHEY: So my name is Eban

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Cathey. I'm the communication coordinator at the 3 Tennessee Immigrant & Refugee Rights Coalition.
4 We are a grass-roots advocacy organization made up 5 of immigrants, refugees, and allies that works to 6 make Tennessee a more welcoming state for new 7 Tennesseans.

8 The purpose of engagement work aims 9 to educate and engage immigrant communities in the 10 civic process to become effective advocates for 11 their communities. We think this is really 12 important because over the last decade, there have 13 been numerous attacks coming from state government 14 and municipal government on immigrant communities, 15 which makes of the utmost importance that eligible 16 immigrant voters are able to hold our legislatures
17 accountable.

18 We have one of the fastest growing
19 immigrant populations in America, Tennessee does.
20 And we all know how diverse Nashville is with 21 about 11 percent of our population foreign born.

22 So I'm going to start at the state
23 level. So as the immigrant population has grown 24 in Tennessee, you know, our state legislature 25 responded with some anti-immigrant legislature

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that, you know, has worked to marginalize foreign 3 born communities and create various participation.

4 We oppose that voter ID law that 5 passed in Tennessee because of the 6 disproportionate impact it will have on low-income 7 communities and communities of color. We also 8 oppose the subsequent anti-immigrant legislation 9 that sponsors claim was necessary to protect the 10 sanctity of the voting booth, including an attempt 11 to deny driver licenses to undocumented youth who 12 have been granted Deferred Action for Childhood 13 Arrivals, DACA. I mean, what happened there was, 14 some legislatures found out that some undocumented 15 youth were going to soon be able get driver 16 licenses. They didn't want them to get it because 17 they thought they'd try to vote with it, right.
18 So -- and that was a federal program the Obama 19 administration created in 2012 which has got 20 yearly 5,000 undocumented youth driver licenses
21 and work permits.

22 On the municipal level, Davidson
23 County had attempted to implement county-wide 24 policies that would create barriers for immigrant 25 voters. Back in 2012, the election commission

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 voted for a review of recently registered voters
3 who were born outside of the US. Similar efforts 4 in Florida and elsewhere led to large numbers of 5 US citizens being improperly purged from the voter 6 rolls. Former Commissioner Abernathy, who had 7 introduced the measure, had claimed that there 8 were likely 3- to 10,000 immigrants who had 9 registered to vote though they weren't citizens.
10 So because of community advocacy and a lot of 11 public outcry and some very serious legal 12 concerns, the election commission voted to rescind
13 their vote in March of 2003. A subsequent review
14 was done by the state that determined that 14
15 noncitizens were improperly registered to vote, 16 and of those only one had voted. So that's a far 17 cry from the 3- to 10,000 that were suspected.
18 Only one had voted improperly.

19 Also, in late 2012, a training was 20 given to poll workers, I gave you all a copy of 21 the slide up here. It's got the gate on it. It's 22 a poll worker training. The slide was telling 23 poll workers to act as a gatekeeper. They said if 24 somebody comes up, you know, to vote and you think 25 they don't have a very good command of the English

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 language, you should challenge their right to 3 vote, okay? So that's not the job of a poll
4 worker, right? That's done when you register to 5 vote. That's where citizenship is determine. So 6 this is just acting as a deterrent or intimidation 7 for folks who maybe don't have a strong command of 8 the English language who are going to exercise
9 their right to vote. It also leads to unwarranted
10 profiling and, you know, wrongfully challenging 11 voters based how they look or how they sound.

12 So we witnessed several, several 13 problems on election day in November of 2012, and 14 I'll just give a couple anecdotes of those really 15 quickly. Many states and counties have ballots 16 translated for their voters to ensure equal access 17 to the ballot box, though Tennessee does not offer 18 ballots in languages, as Drost Kokaye was talking 19 to us about earlier.

20 Voters are able to bring someone into 21 the voting booth with them to provide 22 interpretation. I was with Drost that day. I was 23 actually a poll watcher at the same place she was, 24 at Paragon Mills, which is in the middle of a very 25 dense immigrant neighborhood, and, you know, just

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 echo what she said. They didn't have the forms 3 available, right? I saw a man with an 4 intellectual disability turned away early in the 5 morning when they realized he didn't have the 6 forms that he had to sign and his mom would sign 7 to where they could both go in the booth. So I 8 saw that happen personally. She saw a lot of 9 folks who maybe didn't have a strong command of 10 the English language turned away on the same day.

11 So, you know, for a place that has a 12 huge immigrant population, you'd figure you want 13 to have a big stack of those forms, right? It's 14 only way they can get somebody to help in the 15 booth with them. They didn't have any of the 16 forms. They went and searched in their car; they 17 couldn't find them.

18 Just give me thirty more seconds.

19 Also, I wanted to say that I was a 20 poll watcher at GlenCliff High School as well, 21 which is also a very heavy immigrant neighborhood.
22 And the number one barrier to voting, it was the 23 lines. There were 300 people waiting outside in 24 the rain and in the cold, and the cars are driving 25 in, and they'd see the line, they'd circle out.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 You can't put a number on that.

3 COMMISSIONER WOODS: We'll give an 4 opportunity to you later on.

5 MR. CATHEY: All right. Thank you.

6 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Beth Metzger and 7 Leslie Jones.

8 MS. JONES: Good evening. My name is 9 Leslie Jones, and this is my colleague Beth 10 Metzger. We're with the Kentucky Protection &
11 Advocacy, and we're part of the federally mandated 12 systems across the United States and United States 13 territories that protect the rights of individuals
14 with disabilities.

15 Because we submitted written 16 comments, we just want to give you some 17 highlights. Kentucky is unique in many, many 18 ways. But one thing about Kentucky that is unique 19 is our percentage of disabled population is 20 greater than the national average. Kentucky is a 21 small state. We have about 4,400,000 people.
22 Twenty percent of our population is 23 self-identified with disabilities. So it's an 24 important thing in Kentucky. That's, in fact, our 25 largest minority population in Kentucky.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 When the Help America Act was 3 enacted, P&A has been involved for the last 4 decade, and it started with office of secretary of 5 state in the election board, they created a
6 statewide HAVA --

7 COMMISSIONER WOODS: I'm sorry.
8 Mr. Cathey, will you move your microphone away, 9 please. A little further away. Thank you.

10 MS. JONES: They created a statewide 11 advisory committee which Beth serves on, and she 12 gets to serve on with Commissioner Cunningham. So 13 that's been quite successful.

14 Impediments in Kentucky before the 15 Help America Voting Act, most -- Kentucky has got 16 120 counties with many, many polling places. Most 17 of those places were not accessible, and they did 18 not have voting machines. Now, because of the 19 Help America Act, people have voting machines.
20 And to go through time, I'll just turn it over to 21 Beth.

22 MS. METZGER: Some of the things that 23 have been reported to us, even after the polling 24 place accessibility surveys were done and the 25 accessible machines were put in, were that folks

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 still experienced physical barriers like with an 3 inaccessible route to the polling place, the 4 polling place at the -- I'm sorry, the accessible 5 machine at the polling place wasn't set up on 6 time, and the precinct election officers had no 7 clue on how to use it. Those machines that were 8 set up were only being offered to people with 9 visible disabilities. So there goes -- the 10 independent and private vote goes out the window.

11 Also, other barriers were machines
12 not being lowered, not appropriate signage for 13 accessible entrances. We also encountered some 14 people who experienced attitudinal barriers. One 15 young lady reported to me that a precinct election 16 officer actually laughed at her when she came in 17 to sign in to vote.

18 Another issue that we hear quite 19 frequently is about those people who had their 20 voting rights removed in a guardianship 21 proceeding. Before 2009, Kentucky had a blanket 22 ban on voting rights for folks who obtained a 23 legal guardian. That has since changed, and now 24 the judge has to make a separate decision.

25 You all have been provided a copy of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 our voting booklet, as well as a precinct election 3 officer training video that our office created in 4 response to all of these things, and more, that we 5 have heard about. And all of these videos were 6 distributed to the local election boards to use in 7 their precinct election officer training.

8 Thank you for the opportunity to us
9 to present to you today.

10 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Thank you.

11 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Nancy Ward.

12 MS. WARD: Hello. My name is Nancy 13 Ward, and I am the co-director for the 14 Self-Advocates Becoming Empowered, SABE, National 15 Technical Assistance Center for Voting and 16 Cognitive Access. I live in Oklahoma City, and my 17 office is with the Oklahoma Disability Law Center.
18 I am much honored to have this opportunity to 19 testify before you today.

20 People with disabilities, like me,
21 have not always felt confident and comfortable
22 about voting. However, having a disability isn't 23 the problem with voting. It is having accessible 24 equipment, accessible locations, and the respect
25 to vote.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 In August of 2012, I used a new type
3 of voting equipment developed by Clemson
4 University called the Prime III. By using this 5 equipment, I was able for the first time to cast 6 my own private and independent vote. Now that is 7 power that I have never felt before.

8 For the 2012 election, Project Vote
9 used the personal interview checklist in six 10 states to collect the voting experiences of people
11 with disabilities. We wanted to see if people 12 were able to cast a private and independent ballot 13 and if their voting location was accessible. What 14 we learned was that some voters had good 15 experiences and others not so good.

16 Here are two examples: When the 17 lines to vote became so long, some polling
18 locations used the zigzag amusement park/airport
19 line approach to keep voters in line. This was a 20 great idea. But it would have even been better if 21 the line spaces were wide enough for people using 22 a wheelchair to get through. Easy fix.

23 A poll worker told a voter that she 24 cannot have an assistant help her to vote because 25 she didn't look like she had a disability.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Clearly, poll workers need more
3 training. I ask you then, why can't self-advocacy 4 groups and P&As teach poll workers how to use the 5 accessible equipment and polling locations and how 6 to make voting a positive experience?

7 In closing, even though voters had 8 some negative experiences, the vast majority 9 reported the polling places more welcoming than in 10 years past. However, even with this improvement, 11 we still have a long way to go for many voters to 12 have a positive experience in casting a private 13 and independent vote.

14 You can find the complete report on 15 our website, www.govoter.org. For the 2014
16 election, we will be working with more
17 self-advocacy groups and P&As across the country 18 to collect even more information about voting 19 experiences as reported by voters with 20 developmental disabilities.

21 And then I was asked to put in some 22 information about our curriculum. People -- well, 23 you were given a copy of my testimony, and it's in 24 that. And I'm sorry I do not have it on mine, but 25 I'll give you a brief description of it. Is what

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 we took is our curriculum on voting, and we have 3 made it accessible for people who don't know how 4 to read by using pictures.

5 Thank you.

6 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you. We 7 have that. Very good. Thank you very much.

8 Angela Webster.

9 MS. WEBSTER: I'm Angela Webster.
10 I'm the public policy advisor for Disability Law &
11 Advocacy Center of Tennessee, which is also a 12 protection and advocacy agency. And I won't 13 explain that system since my colleagues did such a 14 fine job of that.

15 I would encourage you, when it comes 16 to your time for questioning, to ask Nancy about 17 her curriculum. It is an amazing set of training 18 materials that we have had the pleasure in 19 Tennessee of being able to participate in their 20 training and be one of their great recipients, and 21 later we developed that into a Tennessee state
22 specific curriculum called Vote TN, and that's one 23 of the things that we do in Tennessee to educate 24 voters across the state. So I would encourage you 25 to ask her about that since she ran out of time.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 So Disability Law & Advocacy Center
3 of Tennessee -- and I won't say our full name 4 again because it will take up all my time, saying
5 DLAC. So DLAC is our acronym.

6 We, as our colleagues do, are charged 7 with ensuring protection of people with 8 disabilities for all types of issues, including 9 voting access. Through those activities, we also 10 do many things similar to some of the things that 11 have been talked about. Nancy may not have seen 12 our co-worker guide, which I did not bring. I 13 thought I had four. I have three copies. But I'd 14 like to share that with you. We have created a 15 tool that we do train poll workers about about 16 disability specific issues. These are in every 17 polling location in the state. So as you go 18 out -- and those that are poll watchers, I would 19 encourage you to see if they're available and out.
20 These guides talk about how to assist voters with 21 disabilities, but they talk about being an 22 accessible poll worker in general.

23 And while I could talk about many 24 things facing Tennesseans with disabilities when 25 they go to cast their ballot, probably the thing

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that we have most control of changing in Tennessee
3 is helping poll workers develop accessible 4 attitudes and become accessible people. And 5 that's one of the things that we do along with our 6 partners. One of our partners, Carol Westlake, 7 spoke very eloquently earlier about issues facing 8 Tennesseans with disabilities. We are one of the 9 member agencies of the Tennessee Disability
10 Coalition and work with that group. We have 11 discussed all kinds of ideas to further train poll
12 workers.

13 DLAC also does site accessibility
14 surveys. The reason that you -- and I must 15 apologize you don't have written comments from me.
16 And the reason for that is, I oversee our 17 statewide voting program, and part of what we do 18 is poll site accessibility surveys, so we were 19 deploying people across the state in order to do 20 poll site accessibility surveys.

21 We find a broad range in Tennessee
22 from no issues to issues with physical access, 23 physical barriers, to poll workers, as has been 24 explained before, who don't seem to understand how 25 to utilize the equipment.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 But in our poll site access surveys, 3 one of the things that we do note is that the 4 majority of the time, poll workers are interested 5 in understanding how to further assist voters.
6 And one of the things that we have done to address
7 that issue is partner with the secretary of state
8 and his office and the coordinator of elections
9 and the state HAVA attorney Mark Billing and Cara
10 Harr in order to address some of those issues.
11 And we have ongoing developing relationships with 12 county election officials across the state in 13 order to address that.

14 I have some visuals about some issues
15 we have identified. One of the largest issues 16 that we've identified as of late is, like, across 17 the country. People who are deaf are not -- do 18 not tend to be active voters, and so we have 19 recently secured funding to do an effective 20 communication campaign, and we will be doing that 21 in the coming months to try and engage people who 22 are deaf in the voting process.

23 We also, like many states, have an 24 election day hotline. And the things we most hear 25 about are things around transportation and around

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 misunderstanding of poll workers and what the 3 voter needs.

4 I'm devastated to hear that a person
5 with an intellectual disability did not get the 6 chance to vote because of the lack of the form.
7 And I would love to know where that happened
8 because I did not know that.

9 Thank you for your time, and I'm 10 happy to answer any questions.

11 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

12 Fellow commissioners, if you would,
13 let's start with Mr. Cathey on the end over here, 14 and then we'll all -- whatever questions we have 15 for him, we'll ask him, and then we'll work our 16 way across.

17 Any questions?

18 COMMISSIONER STOKES: I think it
19 would be helpful to sort of repeat some of the 20 experiences in the polling locations where you
21 experienced that. I think you mentioned Paragon 22 Mills and Glencliff.

23 MR. CATHEY: Right. So it's -- yeah,
24 so I was at Paragon Mills in Glencliff, which is 25 in South Nashville. You know, those are probably

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the densest immigrant neighborhoods in our city.
3 And, yeah, so at Paragon Mills, they didn't have 4 those forms. And, you know, I'll say it again, in 5 a place where you can be sure with so many Kurdish 6 and Somali and Latino voters, you need to have 7 those forms in abundance. It's also the same form 8 that you would use to bring in someone to the 9 booth with you. And they didn't have any of the 10 forms. So there's no telling how many people were 11 turned away that day. You know, I saw one at 12 7:01 A.M. turned away. I think he was one the 13 first voters there with his mom. And I think 14 Drost saw several others through the day.

15 I left there -- and the lines got 16 pretty long there as well. There was a poll 17 worker that was improperly trained. She was very 18 young, and she just didn't have a mastery of the 19 equipment, and she wasn't able to answer
20 questions, and the lines grew to be pretty long.
21 But not like they were at Glencliff High School.

22 At Glencliff High School, it was kind 23 of like the stories you hear on the news. It was 24 like a three- or four-hour line, and people were 25 outside in the rain, in the cold, it was dark.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 And the worst part about it was there was an 3 auditorium beside them. They could have just move
4 them all into the auditorium, right? It was a 5 completely empty auditorium, and they made the 6 people stand outside.

7 And, you know, I know it's important 8 to measure, you know, how many people are 9 disenfranchised, but there's no way to put a 10 number on how many people left from the line or 11 how many people drove into the parking lot and saw 12 the line and just turned right around. It was 13 kind of a joke while you were standing in line how 14 many people were doing that. You know, I would 15 say that there's lots of problems, but the line 16 probably disenfranchised hundreds of people that 17 day at that Glencliff High School voting precinct.

18 COMMISSIONER WOODS: One question I
19 would have, was that one election, or is that a 20 pattern that happens repeatedly, election after 21 election after election?

22 MR. CATHEY: I'm not sure. That was 23 the first time I had ever been a poll watcher at 24 that location. But it was -- I guess I wonder how 25 much of a consequence it was that -- you know,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 I -- the city did not invest the proper resources
3 in those locations that were predominantly people
4 of color. I can't answer your question. But I 5 know that it was really bad at both those 6 locations that day.

7 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Thank
8 you.

9 Questions for Ms. Jones or Metzger?

10 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Beth, is 11 this the same video that was shown to us at the 12 last HAVA meeting?

13 MS. METZGER: Yes it was.

14 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: Okay.

15 MS. METZGER: Yes, it is. That 16 video, the script, I actually wrote it. And it 17 stars both individuals a variety of disabilities
18 and a variety of nationalities and actual precinct
19 election officers. And it was very interesting 20 because our actors on both sides learned a lot.
21 And so we're very, very excited about this, and it 22 would not have been made fully possible if we 23 didn't have a good working relationship with our 24 secretary of state and our state board of 25 elections.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: I'm going
3 to leave that alone.

4 MS. METZGER: One other thing. One
5 thing I didn't get to mention is that we do a lot 6 of training. We co-train with self-advocates.
7 Self-advocates are folks with disabilities.
8 Leslie and I have created an interactive training 9 and have taken it on the road, and we've -- this 10 is our third year of doing it, and we have 11 educated more than a thousand individuals.

12 MS. JONES: The one thing I would add
13 is we take our training to places historically 14 people don't go: Into nursing home, personal care
15 homes, supported living communities, which I'm 16 sure the sister P&A does.

17 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay.

18 Commissioners, are there any 19 questions for Ms. Nancy Ward?

20 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Yes.

21 I'd like to give Ms. Ward an 22 opportunity to speak more about, I think it's the 23 teach the Project Vote toolkit. Is that the 24 curriculum that --

25 MS. WARD: Yes.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 COMMISSIONER STOKES: You wanted to 3 share that.

4 MS. WARD: Okay. The first project
5 vote training was done in 2004, and it was done so 6 that the pictures couldn't be changed. And now 7 it's up on the website, and you can make it state
8 specific. And we had last February our first 9 training with Maine, South Carolina, and 10 Wisconsin, with one state who has done the 11 training that Angela is talking about, and then 12 two states that haven't done the training before.
13 And it was interesting to see the interaction
14 between the two because you can now make, you 15 know, the information state specific.

16 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Great.

17 Okay. Any questions for Ms. Angela
18 Webster?

19 COMMISSIONER STOKES: I know that you
20 pay particular attention to the local polling
21 sites and expressed some concerns. Is your office 22 a good resource for some of the advocates that we 23 have present today to address some of the poll 24 site concerns that they have?

25 MS. WEBSTER: Yes, we would be a good

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 resource for that. We do follow up any time we 3 have concerns, and we send staff. In the audience
4 with me is Jamie Stuart. We divide the state, so
5 she basically takes from Nashville east, and I 6 take Nashville west, and we go out to each of the 7 counties where there are concerns and follow up.

8 When we do poll site surveys, we send 9 a follow-up letter to the county, and a copy goes 10 to the state as well, to demonstrate our findings.
11 And then, again, we follow up with those counties
12 and talk about the concerns. And we offer to walk 13 the poll sites and provide suggestions for 14 improving things, including ensuring that forms 15 are out on election day.

16 When we're out on election day, if we 17 identify problems, we call the county election 18 administrators at that moment and we talk about 19 the concerns that we have seen thus far and ask 20 that they be corrected during the going election 21 day, and we have not yet had a county refuse to do 22 that. So not that that couldn't happen, but so 23 far we have found that, by and large, the county 24 election officials seem to want to provide full 25 access, especially to voters with disabilities.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 And the other thing I didn't mention
3 is our -- well, Jamie, our staff, has redeveloped 4 the accessibility tool that's used to see if poll
5 sites are accessible for voters with disabilities, 6 and that is being tested and resubmitted, and it
7 includes suggestions for if you have -- if you 8 identify this issue, what's the fix. So we would 9 welcome calls.

10 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Thank you.

11 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Panel, thank you
12 very much. You have been very helpful. Thank 13 you.

14 And we're asking going to ask the 15 next panel to get prepared to come. And this 16 panel is the impact of voter ID on diverse
17 communities.

18 Brady Henderson, are you here?

19 Julian Fisher? Thank you.

20 Justin Jones? Justin Jones? Okay.

21 George Barrett? George Barrett?

22 Okay. And Brenda Gilmore? Yes, he's
23 here.

24 First let me thank this panel for 25 waiting. You've been here for a while, so we're

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 delighted that you were able to stay with us. And 3 we begin this last series of discussions for our
4 panel.

5 And if we may, we will start with -- 6 well, you know about the time clock, right? And 7 they will hold up a sign when you have a minute 8 left, and then when it's time to stop.

9 And so if we may, we'll start with 10 Brady Henderson.

11 MR. HENDERSON: Thank you. And it's 12 an honor to be here in such good company. My name
13 is Brady Henderson, and I'm legal director at ACLU
14 of Oklahoma. Pardon my voice. I'm losing it, 15 unfortunately, after a couple of weeks of bad 16 allergies and of talking until I've been blue in 17 the face about one of two things which everyone in 18 Oklahoma is talking about right now, one being why 19 did we just torture a man to death last week; the 20 second being why is the Thunder's defense so bad 21 during the playoffs. And those are very opposite 22 ends of the seriousness spectrum. But it is also 23 a great opportunity to come talk about something 24 different.

25 In Oklahoma, because we have a litany

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 of civil rights issues, frankly, voting rights can 3 sometimes get pushed to the back burner. And, in 4 fact, I think it's almost something that can be 5 somewhat like a latent disease, if you will, for a 6 community. It can fester. You can have the type 7 of disenfranchisement you don't see, you don't 8 necessarily have signs of it that are on the 9 surface, and before you know it, suddenly you 10 realize that it's affected everything and it's 11 affected policy.

12 I want to talk briefly about one of 13 the things going on in Oklahoma. We certainly 14 have the same problems, similar problems to many 15 states in terms of things like felon
16 disenfranchisement. I included some written 17 materials on that. However, I want to talk about 18 voter ID.

19 Oklahoma, like many states, has gone
20 through the voter ID movement. Now, in addition 21 to being a civil rights lawyer, I'm also a former 22 prosecutor. And in that, I share a commonality 23 with every prosecutor, former, retired or active,
24 in Oklahoma who is alive today; that is, that I 25 have never, ever prosecuted a case of voter fraud,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 and that is because they don't exist, frankly, in 3 our state, at least not in-person voter fraud.

4 And, yet, luckily our legislature,
5 being out ahead of things just in case one did 6 exist, managed to get this bill passed to put it 7 to a vote to the people back in 2009. It was 8 actually enacted in 2010. 74 percent of 9 Oklahomans said that we should have voter ID, and 10 they said it under this proviso that there was 11 this rampant in-person voter fraud, which, again, 12 nobody has ever been able to find one example of, 13 but supposedly it's there. Point being, we now 14 have a voter ID law, and we've had one election 15 cycle to figure out how it's going to work.

16 A couple of lessons have been 17 learned. First of all, some background.
18 Oklahoma's voter ID law is less restrictive, for 19 instance, than the state of Wisconsin's, which was 20 just invalidated in the Frank case. It allows 21 more forms of ID. And, importantly, one of its 22 saving graces, if you will, that does make it a 23 bit better than some of these laws, it allows a 24 thing called your voter ID card, which is freely 25 issued to anyone who registers to vote, to be used

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 in lieu of your photo ID.

3 Now, the problem is, of course, this 4 also completely defeats the anti-fraud purpose
5 because a voter ID card is printed on plain card
6 stock, has no photo, and can be incredibly easily
7 counterfeited. So there is a problem there.

8 In any case, like many states, the 9 challenge is how do we challenge it. We know that 10 the impact is something that is not good for the 11 electorates. What we see is a type of 12 disenfranchisement that I think affects small 13 numbers relative to the whole, but that doesn't 14 mean it's insignificant.

15 One of the things when we're talking 16 about voting rights that we have to remember is, 17 because this is such a fundamental right, if I'm 18 the one disenfranchised, it doesn't matter whether 19 I'm part of the class of ten voters, of a 20 thousand, of 10,000, I have had a fundamental 21 right taken away from me.

22 In Oklahoma, we have documented cases 23 where people were unable to cast a ballot because 24 of the law. So far, those cases arising from the 25 2012 election have all been from where the law was

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 not enforced consistently or correctly, which is 3 one of the problems inherent in this kind of 4 legislation. But we also think there are other 5 things going on under the radar. And, in fact, 6 what Mr. Cathey testified about I think is very 7 apropos because that's one of the things you can't 8 put a number on, and we see it in Oklahoma as 9 well.

10 Now that we have voter ID, our lines
11 are longer at every polling place. We have more 12 opportunities for people to leave, to not get to 13 vote, and that's something that doesn't merely go 14 away. It's something that's real, but we cannot 15 quantify it easily.

16 What we also know is that many 17 people, because of the hype surrounding the 18 legislation and the state question, even though 19 they could have voted with this free voter ID 20 card, they presumed, and perhaps were made to 21 presume, that they had to have a particular 22 driver's license or state issued photo ID when 23 they didn't. And from what we can tell, that -- 24 those people were disproportionately out of 25 communities of color, they were out of communities

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 with limited English proficiency, and they were 3 out of poor communities. That's the problem we're 4 seeing in Oklahoma with voter ID. But like other 5 states, we've had difficulty challenging it.

6 There's a new case that might suggest
7 a different response from the one in Wisconsin.
8 In a case called Gentges, which is a rather odd 9 name, a gentleman in Tulsa named James Thomas, a 10 one full lawyer, law professor, has filled an 11 incredibly aggressive challenge to Oklahoma's law.
12 It doesn't look at disparate impact on any one 13 race. It doesn't look at one particular impact on 14 a protected class. It simply says our state 15 constitution -- oh, I just have a stop. I thought 16 I still had a minute. All right. Gentges, I will 17 simply say, is an aggressive challenge that might 18 give us some creative ways to challenge voter ID, 19 and I'm happy to take questions on it later.

20 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Very 21 good.

22 Jillian Fisher.

23 MS. FISHER: Thank you for having me.
24 I'm Jillian Fisher of the ACLU of Arkansas, and 25 I'm very happy to represent -- I think I'm the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 only panel to represent Arkansas in the voting
3 rights.

4 The Arkansas legislation always 5 provides some challenges and opportunities
6 regarding our effort to protect voting rights.
7 However, until '13, it was particularly 8 challenging mainly for the sheer number of voter 9 restrictions or voter regulations bills that were 10 introduced. And we believe this is partially due 11 to the fact this was the first time in over a 12 hundred years that the republican party was the 13 control of the state legislation.

14 Although we -- there was problems
15 with multiple bills, we chose to focus our 16 litigation efforts on the law that was most 17 detrimental to Arkansas citizens, and that was Act 18 595 of 2013, better known as a voter ID law. We 19 believe this law not only creates unnecessary 20 obstacles and barriers to voters without 21 addressing any real problems, like Brady kind of 22 explained, but also burdens the least amount of 23 resources, and this proportionally affects certain 24 groups because of color, the poor, those who are 25 disabled, women, ethnic, and its minorities.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 The law was first implemented on 3 January 1st, and it requires all voters to show
4 proof of identity each and every time they cast a 5 ballot, and this includes absentee voters, which I
6 know some state do not. So even absentee voters
7 must provide some form of ID.

8 The general assembly budgeted zero
9 dollars for voter education. I have -- in the 10 question, I do have a list of states and what they 11 allocated. Some are in the millions. Arkansas 12 budgeted zero; they said it was not necessary.
13 However, as somebody who is specifically -- my 14 main duty is to education and do outreach for 15 voter education. And I assure you Arkansas voters 16 are not aware of this law, are not aware of the 17 changes, especially the groups that are affected 18 by this law.

19 We've seen numerous problems and -- 20 already, so it's only been implemented for five 21 months. But -- and we have not had our primarily 22 election yet, but we've had special elections. In 23 Craighead County, there's 54 percent of the 24 absentee ballots were not counted because they 25 failed to provide the necessary documentation.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Fifty-four percent.

3 Two lawsuits have been filed against 4 the voter ID law, and both have rule the voter ID 5 law is unconstitutional. The first was filed by 6 the Pulaski County Election Commission, and they 7 filed it regarding absentee voters and guidance 8 over a cure period.

9 The rules in question, the mercy
10 rules, and a statute that were based upon a 11 violation, they ruled that they were in violation 12 of the Arkansas Constitution and ordered that the 13 voter ID law be enjoined. However, it was 14 immediately appealed, and it was stayed by the 15 Arkansas Supreme Court.

16 A few weeks before this, we at ACLU
17 had also filed a separate case. We filed suit on 18 behalf of our clients charging that the law
19 violated the Arkansas Constitution by legally 20 adding voting qualifications and 21 unconstitutionally violated our Arkansas voters'
22 rights.

23 On Friday, May 2nd, the court granted
24 our injunction but stayed their own decision, 25 waiting on the Arkansas Supreme Court's ruling on

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the case. We are very optimistic about our 3 outcome of our case, especially since it's 4 already been ruled in Arkansas twice. However, we 5 are also prepared for a very long, drawn-out 6 fight.

7 Generally, I do also -- kind of going 8 away from that, I do want to -- the landscape of 9 voter restrictions in Arkansas in general,
10 although we have seen a lot of setbacks, 11 especially recently in legislation, we have also 12 identified some opportunities. And, of course, 13 assuming our capacity can still be at what is, we 14 would like to continue with those opportunities.

15 I can personally attest, being out in 16 a -- public and being out in education, that 17 voting rights and civil rights groups are actually 18 solidifying for once around this issue, and we are 19 trying to take positive steps to not only voter 20 education, but also voter access for free and fair 21 elections. Thank you.

22 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

23 Justin Jones.

24 MR. JONES: Hi. Good evening. My 25 name is Justin Jones, and I serve as chairman of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the Nashville Student Organized Committee, and I'm 3 also a student Fisk University.

4 Today we, as students, are, once
5 again, picking up the torch waged almost 50 years 6 ago by our parents and grandparents in the civil 7 rights movement for the most basic and fundamental 8 right to vote. Today our fight is against James 9 Crow, Esquire, a much more subtle and 10 sophisticated form of voter suppression to voter
11 ID.

12 Now, if we look at 2008, we saw the 13 highest youth student voter turnout since Vietnam.
14 Therefore, it's no coincidence that in 2011, 15 legislature across this nation began enacting
16 voter ID law, a law which disproportionately 17 affects as students. If we look at national 18 statistics, 15 percent of college students are 19 disenfranchised by this law.

20 I would like to direct the 21 committee's attention to a supreme court case from 22 the '60s known as Symm v. United States. This 23 supreme court case gives college students a right 24 to vote where they go to college. However, 25 because of voter ID laws, many college students

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 around this nation are disenfranchised not being 3 able to access the right form of identification 4 where they go to college even though we do have a 5 right. Therefore, this right is being taken away 6 from us.

7 I brought a copy of my own voter
8 registration here in Davidson County and my 9 student ID. In many states across this nation, 10 this is enough to vote. However, in Tennessee, I 11 was denied the right to vote because I cannot 12 access a Tennessee ID.

13 If we look at the requirements to 14 access a Tennessee ID, you need two forms of 15 residency. Living in a dorm, you don't have a 16 utility bill, you don't have a water bill, you do 17 not have an electricity bill. Therefore, we do 18 not -- it's impossible to get these two residency 19 requirements. Therefore, so many students are 20 disenfranchised by this law. At my own school
21 alone, we took statistics, and 9 out of 10 22 students do not have a Tennessee ID because 23 out-of-state IDs are excluded. And Tennessee law 24 explicitly excludes student IDs.

25 Now, one thing that's really

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 interesting and hypocritical, we can argue, about 3 this law is that IDs for faculty are accepted to 4 vote from public institutions, but student IDs
5 from the same institutions are denied. It makes 6 no sense.

7 And so, you know, we actually had the 8 rare opportunity to actually testify and to debate 9 with some of the members of the house of 10 representatives on the local government 11 subcommittee in regards to HB2373, which we 12 presented this session.

13 The last session we had, one of the 14 members, when asked why are we making it harder 15 for people to vote, respond that we want the right 16 people to vote. Our question is who are the right 17 people.

18 If we continue looking at the -- if I
19 could just use an example of Fisk University.
20 Fisk University is located at 1000 17 Avenue 21 North. The nearest TDOT center, which is the 22 Tennessee Department of Transportation, is 30
23 minutes away, and it's only open until 5:00 P.M., 24 Monday through Friday. Students who are -- you 25 know, full-time students don't have time,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 especially if you don't have a car, to go down to 3 the center to, you know, wait in line to get their 4 ID. A lot of us don't have the right
5 identification already, you know, the residency
6 requirements. And so, again, this creates another 7 barrier.

8 And if we look at students, students 9 are already, you know, especially susceptible to 10 this law because, you know, they're new to the 11 process. And so this law does not -- it creates 12 confusion for everyone, of course. But students 13 particularly are, you know, affected by this 14 because they are, you know, newcomers to this 15 voting, you know, process. And so that's one 16 point I would just like to make.

17 And so another point that, you know, 18 some people told us, well, you know, you need an 19 ID to -- you need your ID to ride an airplane.
20 And, yes, you do. But, however, what 21 distinguishes those from voting is that those are 22 luxuries. Driving and getting -- you know, 23 traveling internationally with a passport, those 24 are luxuries. Voting is a right guaranteed to 25 everyone regardless of social economics,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 regardless of, you know, status, and regardless of 3 race. And so that's the point.

4 And I think that's all the testimony.

5 And if we look at Indiana's law,
6 which Tennessee based their law off of, even 7 Indiana's law allows students to use their voter 8 IDs from public institutions. Tennessee has one 9 of the five strictest voter ID laws in the nation.

10 In 2010, Tennessee, in fact, had the 11 second lowest voter turnout in the nation. We 12 should be making it easier for people to vote. We 13 should be appealing to people to vote, not making 14 it harder through, you know, the type of 15 identification.

16 And if we do want to go after voter
17 fraud, because there is the issue, you know, 18 problems with voting, let's go after voter 19 suppression through, you know, faulty voting
20 machines, let's go after, you know, the voter, you 21 know, suppression committed through making lines 22 longer or poll -- let's not make it harder for 23 people through the identification that they use, 24 because when this case was brought before the 25 Tennessee Supreme Court, they admitted there's no,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 you know, cases of in-person voter fraud. And so
3 we're creating an issue to stop a nonissue.

4 And so with that, I would like to 5 conclude my testimony.

6 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you very
7 much.

8 George Barrett.

9 MR. BARRETT: Thank you, sir. We 10 appreciate you being here and affording us an 11 opportunity to talk about the basic pressing 12 problems in a democratic society.

13 By way of introduction, I am George 14 Barrett, a practicing attorney, licensed by the 15 state of Tennessee and practice law in Nashville.

16 I have been practicing law for a 17 little over 50 years, and I have had a number of 18 cases involving elections, irregularities, and 19 fraud.

20 And I might say as an aside, that on 21 June the 21st, 1963, I was sitting in the East
22 Wing of the White House when President John 23 Kennedy created the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 24 Rights Under Law. I was perhaps the youngest 25 person there, and I might even say I had hair at

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that time. I'm, therefore, intimately familiar
3 with election laws in Tennessee.

4 In the 2010 election, another party,
5 one that I don't belong to, captured the 6 governor's office and both houses of the 7 legislature. Since we're nonpartisan, I wish them 8 to remain anonymous.

9 Effective January 1, 2012, Tennessee
10 adopted a voter ID requirement for voters to be 11 eligible to vote, and listed a series of state and 12 federal documents that could be used for voting as 13 long as it had the person identified by name and 14 photograph. Those identifications specifically 15 excluded state issued ID cards to students of 16 institutions of higher education. The law was 17 subsequently amended in 2013, which limited the 18 identification to cards issued by either the state 19 of Tennessee or the United States Government with 20 an appropriate identification and photo. Again, 21 specifically excluded were students in 22 institutions of public higher education.
23 Therefore, Tennessee State University, which is 24 historically a black college university, students 25 are excluded, as are students in any institution

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 of public higher education, University of 3 Tennessee, et cetera.

4 As a result of the passage of the 5 original law, my law firm was employed by the city 6 of Memphis to test the constitutionality of the 7 statute. Among the plaintiffs were two elderly
8 black women in Memphis, Ms. Stephanie Daphne
9 Turner-Golden and Ms. Sullistine Bell, both 10 citizens and residents in Memphis. The city in 11 response to the statute, which says that ID cards 12 issued by any governmental agency, state or local 13 in any state of the union, at the behest of the 14 mayor, convinced the library board to issued ID 15 cards to citizens with their photos on it. These 16 two citizens secured those ID cards and attempted 17 to vote since they had no other state ID.

18 Tennessee has a rich history of voter 19 participation dating back to the 1870, the 20 Constitution adopted after the Civil War in 21 reaction to suppression of voters in elections 22 during that period. This constitution was one of 23 the most probative and least restrictive ones in 24 the country of any state in the United States.
25 Under Article I, Section 5, it says the elections

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 shall be free and equal, and the right of 3 suffrage, as hereinafter declared, shall never be 4 denied to any person entitled thereto, except upon 5 conviction by a jury of some infamous crime, 6 previously ascertained and declared by law, and 7 judgment thereon by court of competent 8 jurisdiction.

9 And Article IV, Section 1, says, a 10 right to vote, every person, every person being 11 eighteen years of age, being a citizen of the 12 United States, being a resident of the state for a 13 period of time as prescribed by the legislature, 14 and being duly registered in the county of 15 residence for a period of whatever they should 16 establish to have the right to vote. All such 17 requirements will be equal and uniform across the 18 state, and therefore shall be no other 19 qualification attached to the right of suffrage.
20 That's about as clear as the constitution could be 21 in guaranteeing the equal right of access to the 22 ballot.

23 I'm going to run out of time.

24 Our application for preliminary 25 injunction was denied by the court, so we set a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 hearing. And during the course of the hearing, we 3 took certain depositions, including Mark Goins, 4 the Director of Elections for Tennessee, who, in 5 the course of his testimony, could not identify 6 one single vote of voter ID fraud out of over a
7 million votes cast in Tennessee in the 2008
8 election.

9 Without boring you with the redundant
10 trial and appeal process, I'll go directly to the 11 actions of the supreme court. The chancery court 12 dismissed the case, and the court of appeals 13 reinstated the case and affirmed the authority of 14 the city of Memphis to issue library cards.

15 Upon appeal to the state supreme 16 court, the supreme court mooted the court of 17 appeals and upheld the constitutionality of the 18 statute in a unanimous decision despite that clear 19 language. The reversal of the library card ruling 20 was the fact that the mooted by the change in the 21 statute. We attempted to raise issue in federal 22 court without success.

23 This action by the supreme court is 24 directly contrary to Tennessee jurisprudence. The 25 fraud in the instance is the creation of a problem

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 of a solution to a problem that does not exist,
3 voter ID fraud.

4 Thank you.

5 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

6 Okay. And our next...

7 MR. BARRETT: My representative.

8 COMMISSIONER WOODS: The Honorable
9 Brenda Gilmore.

10 MS. GILMORE: Thank you. My name is 11 Brenda Gilmore, and I'm a state representative 12 representing the Nashville area. I'm also a 13 member of a number of community organizations. To 14 my dismay, it was during my watch in the Tennessee
15 General Assembly that we passed a terribly
16 obtrusive law requiring voter ID in order to vote.
17 Although the sponsors could not give specific 18 examples of fraud, this law was pushed through and 19 erects barriers to the poor, the elderly, women, 20 and minorities.

21 As a member of National Council of 22 Negro Women and NAACP, we partnered to help 23 seniors acquire their voter ID. Some of the 24 specific challenges we faced during this time
25 included the following: Mr. Clifford Glass, and I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 brought a picture of him, who is now deceased, was 3 a veteran. He had his VA card with him when we 4 took him to the driver's license center. But he 5 was told that he needed his DD214, which was his 6 discharge papers. He was also required to pay an 7 additional $8 for a state issued ID. We had to 8 take Mr. Glass home and bring him back on another 9 day to present this documentation, which was not 10 needed. However, had we not been available, this 11 treatment may have deterred a senior from voting.
12 I was going to show...

13 We have a youtube of Mr. Clifford 14 Glass. And, again, I want to illustrate that he 15 is now deceased.

16 (Video played.)

17 My name is Clifford R. Glass. I
18 served in the Air Force from July 1954 to January 19 of 1958. I have been voting since 1960. Due to 20 an automobile accident, I lost my license 21 approximately 12 years ago. I was going to get my 22 voter ID card because they said you have to have 23 it in order to be able to vote. When I got there, 24 I approached a gentleman at the counter and told 25 him what I wanted. I showed him my veterans card.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 He said that was no good. He said you have to 3 have a state-issued ID card in order to be able to 4 vote. And he told me when you come back, be sure
5 and bring $8 to pay for this ID card. And I told 6 him, I said, no. And I did not go back.

7 Well, it's a forum for poor tax.

8 John Lewis had an editorial in the New York Times 9 several months ago, this is reinstatement of the 10 poor tax, is all it is. We fought against that 11 forever, and there's a constitution amendment
12 against it. It's just a clever way to institute 13 poor tax to discriminate against the poor, the 14 elderly, students, and people like that.

15 I have a shirt that was given to me
16 by one of my friends, and on this shirt it says, 17 'If you don't vote, you don't count.' So this is 18 a privilege and a right for a person to vote.
19 People have been killed for what I'm trying to do.
20 And like I said, you need to speak up, speak out, 21 and be heard.

22 (Video ends.)

23 The second example I wanted to share
24 with you had to do with 96-year-old Ms. Dorothy 25 Cooper of Chattanooga. Ms. Cooper was a married

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 woman who, at 96 years old, had been voting for 3 over for 60 years. She worked domestic and had 4 never learned to drive because she did not have a 5 driver's license. Ms. Cooper showed up with a 6 driver's license, a voter's registration card, 7 utility bills. And because her married name of 8 Cooper did not match her birth name of Dorothy 9 Alexander, she was denied a voter ID card.

10 Ms. Cooper was eventually told that she could vote
11 by absentee, as a voter ID would not be required.

12 However, she was born before women 13 had the right to vote, so voting meant a lot to 14 her, and she actually enjoyed going to the 15 precinct to vote. This was denied to her.

16 And the last example has to do with a
17 TSU student who was adopted. We tried to help 18 this TSU student who did not have a birth
19 certificate, and he could not obtain his voter ID.

20 Some of the other barriers that 21 prevented these elderly people to receive their 22 voter ID included transportation. Most of the 23 driver's license centers are located on the 24 outskirts of town. A majority of these seniors 25 live in the urban core and are concentrated in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 high-rises. The bus systems do not go to these 3 locations or involve a maneuvering a bus system 4 that requires them to change bus lines to get to 5 their final destination.

6 Some of the rural areas do not have 7 driver's license centers at all and require people 8 to take a day off from work to travel to a nearby 9 city where a center is located.

10 And free does not always mean free.
11 The cost of the voter ID is $8. Although money
12 was allocated in the Tennessee General Assembly 13 for the indigent, most seniors were asked for the 14 $8 fee. Members of NCNW and NAACP paid for a 15 number of seniors to obtain their voter ID.

16 And, lastly, use of computers.
17 Finally, the seniors have to use a computer to 18 request their voter ID. Many of these seniors do 19 not know how to use a computer or were not agile
20 enough to use a computer.

21 Although voter fraud is almost never 22 heard of in Tennessee, this law continues to 23 disenfranchise classes of people such as women, 24 minorities, and the elderly, and poor people. It 25 was and it still is a solution looking for a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 problem.

3 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you. I
4 want to thank each of you for your comments.

5 And now we'll ask the commissioners
6 to ask their questions. And, again, we'll start
7 on this end over here with Mr. Brady Henderson.
8 Any questions for Henderson?

9 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Mr. Henderson,
10 I think I remember that there was an additional 11 point that you wanted to make with regard to some 12 cases that you were --

13 MR. HENDERSON: I'll just be very 14 brief in describing what's going on right now in 15 Oklahoma, that we have a case that may take a 16 different tack from many others around the 17 country, then, again, it's about looking to an 18 individual voter and trying to see if we can -- 19 when we have constitutional language that even 20 rises to the level of, for instance, what 21 Mr. Barrett was describing, can we actually get 22 appellate courts to say this is such a fundamental 23 right, that even if the level of burden on an 24 individual voter is relatively low, in other 25 words, even if I have an alternative, if I have a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 means to go get an ID, can I still claim this 3 burden is too much.

4 And, in fact, there is a case now in 5 the Oklahoma Supreme Court that suggests that 6 might be the case. There's a wonderful line out 7 of it in which a person's ability to have access 8 to something like their driver's license or voter 9 ID card as compared to a person's ability or 10 financial means to pay a poll tax. And the court 11 says just because somebody could have afforded a 12 poll tax doesn't make a poll tax constitutional.
13 So I think it gives us hope that maybe there's 14 something else out there that might help put these 15 laws in a different perspective, and I think 16 that's good for people in a variety of states at 17 the end of the day.

18 COMMISSIONER STOKES: And that's 19 Gentes.

20 MR. HENDERSON: Gentes, that's right.
21 And I --

22 COMMISSIONER STOKES: G-E-N-G-H?

23 MR. HENDERSON: It is actually
24 G-E-N-T-E-S. And I've put a copy in the written 25 materials that each of the commissioners have,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 just of the current supreme court opinion. It 3 will in many months head back up to the supreme 4 court on the merits, and we'll see what happens.
5 It's an aggressive case, and so nobody can make 6 too many bets as to where it's going to go at this 7 point. But I think, at minimum, it will define a 8 lot about Oklahoma voter ID law in terms of what 9 can and can't be done. We similar provisions, for 10 instance, excluding student IDs, things like that 11 as well. And so I think that there's a lot there 12 the court is going to consider on the merits.

13 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Mr. Henderson,
14 there my be some situation where an individual's 15 driver's license may be suspended, maybe a DWI or 16 something like that.

17 MR. HENDERSON: And, in fact, that's 18 relatively common in Oklahoma. We're one of the 19 states that puts people into spirals of 20 suspensions and revocations, where very often 21 somebody's license gets suspended and, because we 22 don't have good mass transit in much of state, 23 they keep driving, and they get caught, and the 24 driving under suspension ticket resuspends the 25 license. And, of course, you can just essentially

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 splay that out ad nauseam. It goes on forever.
3 And so it is actually a problem.

4 And one of the things that makes this 5 case intriguing is really the benefit for people 6 in that kind of situation because now you can say, 7 okay, it's not just a matter about whether you 8 have some other way to access this, it's a matter 9 of whether you ought to be challenged to have to 10 make sure you have a particular kind of ID out 11 there simply to exercise the franchise.

12 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay.

13 Ms. Fisher, was there a point you 14 needed to make?

15 MS. FISHER: I guess after I heard
16 everybody else's testimony, I do -- I want to go 17 through the voter ID law in Arkansas. So for 18 those who are present at the polls, you must show
19 a photo ID that is issued by the state of Arkansas 20 or the federal government, it must have your name, 21 your picture, and cannot be expired for more than 22 four years. So driver's license, ID cards,
23 passports. We do also take accredited post
24 secondary college or university IDs in Arkansas.
25 So I do want to make that point, but that's --

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 actually, Arkansas does allow that.

3 And absentee voters -- which I also 4 learned by being here a lot of states don't 5 require that. But in Arkansas, absentee voters, 6 again, every voter must prove their identity each 7 and every ballot. So absentee voters must provide 8 a copy and use a photo ID, state or federal 9 government, or they can provide something with 10 their name and their address, such as a utility 11 bill or a bank statement that was issued within 12 the last 60 days.

13 However, people are still having 14 problems just because they can -- you know, you 15 don't have a house, you don't have a residence.
16 Or if you -- and there's one woman that I spoke to 17 who her husband was deceased and all of the bills 18 were in his name, so she had nothing with her name 19 and her address, and she did not have an ID.

20 So I guess I just kind of want to 21 make that clarification.

22 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Thank
23 you.

24 COMMISSIONER PORTER: I know in 25 Arkansas, I guess if you do not have your ID when

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 you show up at the ballot, there is a
3 provisional --

4 MS. FISHER: Correct.

5 COMMISSIONER PORTER: -- ballot.

6 MS. FISHER: So there is provisional
7 ballots that you are given. So you have to now go
8 to the county clerk's office on Monday at noon, 9 and you can sign saying that you have a religious 10 objection to having your picture taken, or that 11 you're too poor to afford one, or show your ID.
12 And those are the only -- and that's it. And our 13 argument is, who is going to go to, two days later 14 or wherever, and admit that they're too poor to 15 provide an ID. And, again, a poll tax of, you 16 know, getting transportation to the county clerk
17 and so forth.

18 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Thank
19 you.

20 Justin Jones, any questions?

21 COMMISSIONER STOKES: Justin, have 22 you met Attorney Barrett before? Okay. So you 23 all know each other.

24 MR. JONES: Yes, ma'am.

25 MR. BARRETT: It wasn't in all my

PROCEEDINGS

1 cases. He's filed his lawsuit.

2
3 COMMISSIONER STOKES: So is there a
4 group that's organized at Fisk, or are you in 5 community with other students and other 6 universities?

7 MR. JONES: Yes, ma'am. It's a
8 coalition of students from Fisk, TSU, Vanderbilt, 9 and American Baptist College.

10 And can I make one point that I 11 forgot to mention in my testimony?

12 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Yes.

13 MR. JONES: One thing that I just 14 really wanted to make a point of pointing out that 15 really can kind of reveal the intention behind 16 this law is that, again, student IDs are not 17 accept, but gun permits are accepted in Tennessee.
18 And I think that really can verify, you know, what 19 the true intention of this law is.

20 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Thank you.

21 Mr. Barrett, any questions?

22 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: My question
23 could be for Mr. Barrett, Mr. Jones, or 24 Representative Gilmore. In the first panel that 25 dealt with administration, and when voter ID came

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 up, I came up with the impression from an election
3 official that there may not have been a problem
4 with voter ID in Tennessee. Now, for those of us 5 who are here, I asked that specific question, and 6 I was told basically there wasn't a problem. And 7 then when I talked to someone else, they said, 8 well, that person was from Davidson County as if 9 there were not a problem in Nashville. But in 10 hearing the three testimonies, I get the distinct 11 impression that there are problems. And I just 12 want to make that analysis and get some comments 13 on it for those of us who were here. And maybe 14 I'm the only one that got that impression.

15 COMMISSIONER PORTER: Two of us got 16 that impression, we know.

17 MS. GILMORE: I think if I may 18 address it, and I'm sure others have a different 19 perspective, but I think the issue may be that 20 those election officials when somebody comes in to 21 vote, that their perception is that there's not a 22 problem because they show up with the voter ID.
23 But there are literally hundreds and many even 24 thousands of people who cannot obtain that voter 25 ID who actually is staying at home because of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that.

3 And in some cases, to get your birth
4 certificate, it requires you to go to the social 5 security office, and it's more than just the $8 6 that it costs to get the voter ID. And in one 7 case, I think it was $140 for them to do the 8 research, to go back and actually do the research 9 to prove that they had actually been born and what 10 date, some of these elderly people. So their 11 perception is it may not be a problem. But they 12 just don't know how many dead bodies that they had to 13 step over before they got to the election day.

14 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: I was 15 looking for that type of information --

16 MS. GILMORE: Um-hmm.

17 COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM: -- but 18 didn't get it from that first panel that we had.

19 MR. BARRETT: I must say that there 20 seems to be the coordinative election is appointed 21 by the state election commission which is partisan 22 and reflects the party that controls the 23 legislature. With the change in 2010, we had a 24 whole turnover of state coordinative election and 25 county directors of election, and that made the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 election a nightmare. And there seemed to be some 3 of those officials dedicated to keeping people
4 from voting. It's a phaenomenon that I hadn't 5 experienced since the early '60s when we had the 6 last great voters' scandal and six people went to 7 prison in a lawsuit I was involved in, not 8 (unintelligible) where we rewrote our election
9 laws. We had a pretty smooth running election 10 machinery, in the best sense of the word, with 11 access to the polls and people getting the right 12 to vote and exercising that right. It absolutely 13 was disruptive and an utter chase in 2010.

14 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Concerning the 15 first panel, let me just make one observation, and 16 that is that one of -- Commissioner Tricia
17 Herzfeld said that there were tons of problems, 18 and that they were working on them, and they had a 19 lot of things to work on. Before she was a 20 commissioner, she was on the other side looking at 21 checking on things. And now she's on the inside, 22 and it's her job now to come up with answers,
23 solutions to those issues that have to be fixed.

24 I don't know if you recall or not,
25 but she was sitting where Jones is sitting when

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 she testified about what are the things that 3 needed to be fixed and done, and that they needed 4 money, they needed this, they needed that. But 5 she did say that there were some issues and 6 problems that she knew about before she became a 7 commissioner, and now that she is, it's her job to 8 come up with a fix.

9 COMMISSIONER PORTER: We do have a 10 court reporter here.

11 And, court reporter, thank you so
12 much for taking the record.

13 And we'll just have to review the 14 record.

15 COMMISSIONER WOODS: Okay. Thank you
16 very much, panel. You've been informative, and we 17 appreciate you very much for being here tonight
18 and sharing with us. Thank you.

19 Before Aunna speaks, I want to, as 20 one of the commissioners, thank her and Maria for 21 all of the work that they're doing to put together 22 these various hearings and tell them how delighted 23 we are to be a part of what you put together.

24 Thank you very much.

25 MS. DENNIS: We're going to go ahead

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 and close. I definitely want to thank our guest 3 commissioners and, of course, Ms. Shackelford, who 4 was here earlier. They've been great with 5 facilitating or panels tonight and today, so thank 6 you all.

7 I also want to thank the witnesses
8 and our audience. Some of you all have stayed 9 since, like, 3:30. I don't even know what time it 10 is. But we definitely want to thank you all for 11 that, for your participation, for all the 12 information that you've given to us and to the 13 lawyers' committee. With your information that 14 you're giving, it's just going to go for this 15 public record, and what we've got from this 16 regional, because it includes five states, which 17 are Arkansas, Kentucky, Oklahoma, West Virginia, 18 and, of course, Tennessee. It's been just 19 absolutely amazing. There hasn't been a hole that 20 wasn't filled, so I definitely thank you all.

21 And I also want to thank our 22 volunteers and our planning committee. Without 23 our volunteers and our planning committee, this 24 would have not been a success. And everybody who 25 has done outreach to get others here to be

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 witnesses, just thank you all. I'm just so happy.
3 Maria as well.

4 So this basically closes out our 5 hearing. I thank you all for coming. There will 6 be next steps, and we'll contact you all what will 7 be the follow-up. So I know there's some people I 8 got that card from.

9 But definitely thank you all, and you all 10 have a great night.

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

PROCEEDINGS

C E R T I F I C A T E

STATE OF TENNESSEE) COUNTY OF DAVIDSON)

I, Gary Schneider, a Shorthand
Reporter, do hereby certify that the foregoing proceedings were taken down and transcribed to the best of my knowledge, skill and ability.

Dated: May 20, 2014

Gary Schneider

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Introductions

Job No: 72361

1 DORIEN L. SPENCE: Good morning, good
2 morning. Can everyone hear me in the back? Good 3 morning. Welcome, welcome to the National 4 Commission on Voting Rights here in beautiful
5 Rocky Mount, North Carolina. My name is Dorien L.
6 Spence and I am a staff attorney with the Lawyers 7 Committee for Civil Rights under Law in 8 Washington, D.C. And on behalf of the Lawyers 9 Committee, we sincerely thank you for your 10 participation, we thank you for your time, and we 11 thank you for your support.

12 And right at the outset I would also 13 like to thank the OIC of Rocky Mount, North 14 Carolina first for their service to the 15 community, and second, for hosting us today for 16 such an important event in such a fitting space 17 for a discussion about one of the most 18 fundamental aspects in our society, the right to 19 vote.

20 This center, the OIC, pushes its 21 students to prepare for the future. And in the 22 sake of preparation they stress the importance of 23 a solid foundation. And as I look out onto the 24 crowd today it is abundantly clear that the 25 foundation in our fight for the right to vote is

1 strong. The Lawyers Committee is a nonprofit, 2 nonpartisan civil rights organization founded at 3 the request of President John F. Kennedy over 50
4 years ago to engage lawyers in the never-ending 5 fight for racial justice and equality.

6 The work of the Lawyers Committee
7 continues today in a range of areas--fair 8 housing, employment discrimination, education, 9 community development and, of course, voting 10 rights--access to the ballot, the reason why we 11 are all here today. Today's hearing is a part of 12 a series of nationwide hearings convened by our 13 National Commission on Voting Rights and I am 14 deeply honored to be here today in the State of 15 North Carolina. It's such an important state in 16 the fight for voting rights. A state that is near 17 and dear to my heart and it is where I earned my 18 law degree.

19 As many of you know, last summer, the 20 United States Supreme Court struck down a key 21 protection of the Voting Rights Act, one that 22 protected you, North Carolina voters, from 23 discriminatory voting changes. The court released 24 states with a long history of discrimination and 25 discriminatory practices from a critical

1 responsibility to show upfront, first and 2 foremost that the voting changes that they sought
3 to implement would not disadvantage minority 4 voters. And once the states were released, what 5 happened next? In the aftermath, we immediately 6 saw these same states revert to their own ways.
7 States like North Carolina immediately moved 8 towards suppressing the minority vote, creating 9 hurdles to the ballot, restricting access to the 10 polls.

11 We believe that the court was wrong,
12 dead wrong in the decision of the Shelby County 13 case. But what is clear is that the fight must 14 continue on. So, one of our main purposes through 15 these national hearings is to identify the need 16 for strong protections against discrimination in 17 voting by looking at current records in states 18 across the country. So, we are here to listen to 19 the people of North Carolina. With the testimony 20 we receive today and after the hearing, the 21 National Commission will prepare two reports: one 22 on voting discrimination, and another on election
23 administration and electoral reform. The reports 24 in the records from the hearing will be available 25 to you next year, to anyone seeking to reform or

1 improve existing voting laws such as 2 policymakers, advocates, and voting citizens such 3 as yourselves. It has been made abundantly clear 4 that the right to vote is a fundamental political 5 right because it is the right which is 6 preservative of all rights.

7 Now, to get us started with our hearing 8 this morning, I would like to welcome to the 9 microphone a man who needs no introduction and we 10 are deeply honored to have him here today, North 11 Carolina's own Reverend Dr. William J. Barber.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: All right. Yay!

14 WILLIAM J. BARBER: Good morning to you 15 all and good morning to all of those who are 16 watching us by streaming. Today we are streaming 17 this across the nation, this morning, this 18 tremendous hearing. Let me thank God for the 19 privilege of our being here today. And on behalf 20 of Jamie Phillips, attorney Jamie Phillips Cole, 21 who all of us are looking one day to call her 22 Judge Jamie Phillips Cole, our chief organizer on 23 the ground, and to attorney Sonia Gill, who have 24 done tremendous cooperative work, working 25 together to bring together this hearing. The

1 North Carolina NAACP, the Forward Together Moral 2 Movement, the HKONJ People's Assembly--we want to 3 welcome, first of all, our leader and tremendous 4 "shero", attorney Barbara Arnwine, who leads the 5 lawyers' committee. Let's give it up.

6 [APPLAUSE]

7 And on behalf of the UNC Center for 8 Civil Rights, the Advancement Project, the 9 Southern Coalition for Social Justice, all of 10 those persons, those organizations led by 11 tremendous individuals. Where is Mark Dorison and 12 Penda Hair and Attorney Earls? The ACLU Blueprint 13 of North Carolina, Democracy of North Carolina.
14 We welcome all of those who have been a part of 15 pulling this commission together. We give a 16 special recognition to attorney Kim Keenan, the 17 general counsel for the National NAACP, and our 18 own national leader, Lorraine Miller, as well as 19 Hilary Shelton, who were all instrumental in 20 organizing this tremendous partnership between 21 the NAACP and the lawyer's committee with all of 22 our partners here on the ground.

23 There is no better time to take a
24 serious look at North Carolina's voting record.
25 And we say that to this panel of commissioners.

1 David Harris, our former leader in the General 2 Assembly, Miss Canard, and Dean Pierce, and our 3 very own Eva Clayton, whose living room floor I 4 used to sleep on every now and then when my 5 father was organizing way back in the day. But 6 there's no time to take a serious look at North 7 Carolina's voting record. Nine months or so after 8 the Supreme Court gutted Section 5 of the Voting 9 Rights Act and seven months after extremists in 10 North Carolina passed the worst voter suppression
11 bill we've seen since Jim Crow.

12 As we come here today, the truth is 13 that here in North Carolina we are the canaries
14 in the coalmine of a [UNINTEL] rollback of voting 15 rights. This is the testing ground. This is 16 today's Selma. This is what people would like, if 17 they pass and get away here, what some would like 18 to see around the country. The voter suppression 19 law we've seen here passed--first introduced 20 before Shelby, and then passed immediately in the 21 aftermath of Shelby when the leader who passed 22 it, led the effort, said, "Now that the headache 23 has been removed..."--passed after renown Mickey 24 Michaux stood on the floor and tried to quote 25 what the Constitution of North Carolina said, and

1 he was ruled out of order for bringing history up
2 in a debate about voting rights.

3 This new law hurts all people. All
4 people. And this week's hearing will make a 5 powerful case for restoring full voting rights
6 and protections in North Carolina. We welcome you 7 here, where in 1868 blacks and whites came 8 together and wrote this in Article 1 of our state 9 constitution. "For the redress and grievances and 10 for amending and strengthening laws, elections
11 shall be held often." Section 10: "All elections 12 shall be free." Section 19: "No one shall be 13 denied equal protection under the law based on 14 race, color, religion, or national origin." 146 15 years ago, blacks and whites wrote that.

16 We welcome you here where 146 years
17 ago, Article 6 of that same constitution written 18 trying to overcome the vestige of slavery-- 19 Article 1, Section 19 says, "No person shall be 20 denied or subjected to discrimination," where 21 Article 6, Section 1 said, "The right of citizens 22 to vote in North Carolina shall not in any way be 23 undermined."

24 Here we are after in 1870, 144 years
25 ago, when this nation said in the 15th Amendment,

1 "The right of citizens of the United States shall 2 not be denied or abridged by the United States or 3 any other state on account of race, color, or 4 previous condition of servitude." Abridged means 5 to shorten, to leave out some parts of, to lessen 6 the strength of or the effect or, or to reduce in 7 scope.

8 So, 144 years ago, we said in this 9 country that nobody not only could not deny but 10 could not abridge. We welcome you here to this 11 state where in 1898 there was a terrorist riot 12 that turned back and tried to undo all of these 13 reconstruction efforts. We welcome you here to 14 this place whereby 1900 in North Carolina, people 15 rewrote our state constitution and reintroduced 16 white supremacy, particularly in voting laws.

17 We welcome you, Barbara, right here to 18 Rocky Mount, where George White, who was elected 19 by fusion politics, Lincoln Republicans, and 20 blacks working together, and he was elected but 21 in 1900, he was run out of office. The last 22 African-American that would serve in Congress
23 until Oscar DePriest was elected in 1928. And no 24 African-American was elected to Congress from 25 North Carolina until 1992. And yet, George

1 Wright, who lived right in this area in Rocky 2 Mount, in this area, declared that like the 3 phoenix, we would rise from the ashes. We welcome
4 you to this auditorium where on November 27th,
5 when this was Booker T. Washington High School--
6 November 27, 1962, almost a year before the march 7 on Washington, Dr. King stood right here where 8 this hearing is taking place. And Dr. King in 9 this room with nearly 1,800 people listening to 10 him, did the first rendition of "I Have a Dream".
11 And he said in this room, "I have a dream that 12 one day right here in Rocky Mount, the sons of 13 former slaves and the sons of former slave owners 14 will meet at the table of brotherhood, knowing 15 that one God brought man to the face of the 16 earth."

17 We welcome you here where the Voting
18 Rights Act that was signed in 1965 created this 19 area as a cover district. 40 counties in North 20 Carolina, even though all 100 had discrimination.
21 We welcome you here to a place where it took even 22 after the Voting Rights Act, 25 years before 23 North Carolina had another Congressperson in the 24 United States Congress. And it was from this area 25 that that woman named Eva Clayton became...

1 [APPLAUSE]

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes!

3 WILLIAM J. BARBER: We welcome you to 4 North Carolina where in 1968, the Southern 5 strategy was put in full force and politicians in 6 this state began to say that the Voting Rights 7 Act was a violation of states' rights. And now we 8 welcome you here where we find ourselves in a 9 place where extremists are trying to undermine 10 progress in voting rights. The empirical data 11 tells us that they're engaged in voter 12 suppression, and we're in the middle of a time 13 where there's even attempts at the federal level 14 to weaken federal protection at the very time new 15 demographics and electorates are emerging.

16 But we also welcome you here where just 17 yesterday, Judge Peak in a victory in our case 18 ruled that legislators' privilege is not 19 absolute. And actually, what she said yesterday-- 20 because legislators in this state that passed 21 this voter suppression bill wanted to argue 22 legislative immunity. But she said, "The Court 23 concludes that while the judicially created 24 doctrine of legislative immunity provides 25 individual legislators with absolute immunity

1 from liability for their legislative act, that 2 immunity does not preclude all discovery in the 3 context of this case. Instead, claims of 4 legislative immunity or privilege in this 5 discovery context must be evaluated under a 6 flexible approach." In other words, you've got to 7 turn over the records. [CHUCKLES] In other words, 8 you can't engage in legislation that hurts
9 people's federal protections and then claim 10 legislative immunity. In other words, turn over 11 the records.

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's right!

13 WILLIAM J. BARBER: And so, we welcome
14 you here today where we are fighting on the 15 ground. We welcome you here where we've seen a 16 mighty coalition develop. We welcome you here to 17 get the facts at this hearing and to carry those 18 facts all the way back to the Congress. We 19 welcome you here to go back and tell those in 20 D.C. we need voting rights protection, we need a 21 strong preclearance for these Southern states. We 22 cannot go backwards, because today we sit in the 23 room where Dr. King preached the hope before he 24 ever got to the mall in Washington, that this 25 would be a place where the sons of former slave

1 owners and the sons of former slaves would be 2 able to sit down at the table of brotherhood
3 together. Without voting rights that table is 4 destroyed. And so, we welcome you to set the 5 record straight and to declare the truth in the 6 highest places of power so that we might go
7 forward together and not one step back. God bless
8 you.

9 [APPLAUSE]

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: All right. Awesome.

11 JAMIE PHILLIPS COLE: Good morning. My 12 name is Jamie Phillips Cole. I am the Public 13 Policy and Legal Redress Coordinator for the 14 North Carolina NAACP, and I would like to 15 introduce our wonderful guest commissioners.
16 First, we have Barbara Arnwine. For the last 25 17 years Barbara Arnwine has served as President and 18 Executive Director of the National Lawyers 19 Committee for Civil Rights Under the Law. She is 20 nationally and internationally renowned for major 21 contributions to critical justice issues, 22 including the passage of the landmark Civil 23 Rights Act of 1991 and Voting Rights Act
24 reauthorization. A graduate of Scripps College
25 and Duke University School of Law, she has been a

1 fearless champion of civil rights and racial 2 justice issues, national and internationally, in 3 the areas of fair housing and fair lending,
4 employment, education, and of course, voting
5 rights. Ms. Arnwine's work also includes 6 immigrant rights, judicial diversity, criminal 7 justice reform, racial profiling, and healthcare 8 disparities. A prominent leader in the civil 9 rights and human rights community, she continues 10 to fight for the preservation of affirmative 11 action and diversity programs.

12 She has served in numerous other 13 prestigious capacities including international, 14 civil, human, and women's rights matters. She is 15 a prominent leader of Election Protection, the 16 nation's largest nonpartisan voter protection 17 coalition launched in 2004 to assist historically 18 disenfranchised persons to exercise the 19 fundamental right to vote.

20 A frequent conference orator, she has 21 also penned numerous articles and is regularly 22 quoted and featured by national media outlets,
23 including MSNBC's "The Melissa Harris-Perry Show"
24 and "Politics Nation with Al Sharpton." Ms.
25 Arnwine is a member of the ABA section of

1 Individual Rights and Responsibilities. She is a 2 Vice-Chair of the National Coalition to Abolish 3 the Death Penalty and an Equal Justice Works 4 board member. She also serves as co-chair of 5 Rainbow PUSH Sports board of directors. Please 6 join me in welcoming Ms. Barbara Arnwine.

7 [APPLAUSE]

8 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you, thank you.

9 JAMIE PHILLIPS COLE: Former 10 Congresswoman Evan Clayton. Congresswoman Eva 11 Clayton was the first African-American woman to 12 represent North Carolina in Congress. Elected in 13 1992, Ms. Clayton became the state's first black 14 representative since 1901. From her post on the 15 House Agricultural Committee, Ms. Clayton 16 advanced the interest of her rural district in 17 the northeastern part of her state and called 18 attention to the economic inequalities that 19 affected African-Americans nationally. Born and 20 raised in Savannah, Georgia, Ms. Clayton moved to 21 North Carolina to pursue her studies, where she 22 received a bachelor of science degree in biology
23 from Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, 24 North Carolina in 1955.

25 In 1962, she earned a master's in

1 biology and general science from North Carolina
2 Central University in Durham. The civil rights
3 movement mobilized Ms. Clayton to become active 4 in civic and political affairs even at one point 5 picketing her husband's law office to protect 6 ownership of its office building that contained a 7 segregated restaurant. As early as 1968, Eva
8 Clayton was recruited by civil rights activist
9 Vernon Jordan to seek election to Congress in a 10 North Central North Carolina district. Though 11 Clayton won 31 percent of the vote in the 12 democratic primary, incumbent Lawrence Fountain 13 prevailed. However, Clayton's campaign had the 14 intended effect of spiking black voter
15 registration.

16 In 1974, she cofounded and served as 17 the Executive Director of Soul City Foundation, a 18 housing organization that renovated dilapidated 19 buildings for use as homeless shelters and 20 daycare centers. Two years later, she worked on 21 the successful gubernatorial campaign of Jim 22 Hunt, who later appointed Clayton as Assistant 23 Secretary of North Carolina Department of Natural 24 Resources and Community Development. Clayton 25 served in that capacity from 1977 until 1981.

1 After leaving state government, she founded an 2 economic development consulting firm. In 1982, 3 she won election to the Warren County Board of 4 Commissioners, which she carried until 1990.
5 During her five terms serving in Congress, Ms.
6 Clayton served as a member of the Agricultural,
7 Small Business and Budget Committees. During her 8 time in office, she was a staunch defender of 9 rural and agricultural interest in North Carolina 10 and also created a high profile for herself as an 11 advocate for programs to help economically 12 disadvantaged African-Americans and served as 13 Chair of the Congressional Black Caucus
14 Foundation. We are honored to have Ms. Clayton 15 serve as a guest commissioner today.

16 [APPLAUSE]

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's for sure. Yes!

18 JAMIE PHILLIPS COLE: Next we have 19 attorney Raymond Pierce, who was actually my dean
20 when I was at North Carolina Central University
21 School of Law, so I'm happy to have him here.
22 Raymond Pierce is a corporate practice partner 23 with the law firm of Nelson Mullins Riley and 24 Scarborough, LLP and is the former dean of North
25 Carolina Central University School of Law. A

1 well-recognized attorney in North Carolina, Mr.
2 Pierce served in the administration of President 3 Bill Clinton as Deputy Assistant Secretary at the 4 U.S. Department of Education Office for Civil 5 Rights. Pierce's career includes an appointment
6 as special counsel by the Ohio Attorney General, 7 a partner with the law firm of BakerHostetler,
8 LLP, and in-house counsel in the Corporate Law
9 Department of the LTV Corporation, a Fortune 50
10 aerospace defense steel and energy company.

11 Pierce began his career as a civil 12 rights attorney with the John W. Walker Law Firm 13 in Little Rock, Arkansas, where he worked on 14 class action employment discrimination cases.
15 Pierce is also a member of the board of directors
16 of Mechanics and Farmers Bank, the oldest 17 African-American bank in North Carolina. He also 18 serves on the board of governors of the North 19 Carolina Bar Association and the Executive 20 Committee of the American Association Council on 21 Legal Education. Please join me in welcoming 22 attorney Raymond Pierce.

23 [APPLAUSE]

24 Next we have former state Senator Ellie 25 Kinnaird. Ellie Kinnaird has been involved in

1 civic and community activities since 1962, when 2 she joined the League of Women Voters in Alabama.
3 She has devoted her political life to issues of 4 election expansion and campaign financing, social 5 justice, including the elimination and mitigation 6 of the death penalty, human trafficking, juvenile 7 justice, and the environment. In 1987, Ellie
8 Kinnaird was elected Mayor of Carrboro, NC, 9 serving four terms. In 1996, she was elected to 10 the North Carolina State Senate, serving for nine 11 terms before resigning to work on voter and 12 election issues.

13 She has represented over her 17 years
14 Moore, Lee, Randolph, Chatham, Person and Orange 15 Counties. She served as Chair of the 16 Appropriation for Justice and Public Safety,
17 Chair of Mental Health and Youth, and Vice Chair 18 of Environment and Natural Resources. She also 19 served on the Health and Judiciary Committees.

20 Ellie holds a BA from Carleton College, 21 an MAN 2: from UNC Chapel Hill, and a JD from 22 North Carolina Central University School of Law.
23 Yes, awesome. She practiced law in private 24 practice and with North Carolina Prisoner Legal 25 Services. Ellie is the mother of three sons and a

1 grandmother of two granddaughters and a grandson.
2 Ellie is the recipient of numerous awards
3 including the ACLU Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, 4 North Carolina Council of Churches, People of 5 Faith Against the Death Penalty, and the Academy 6 of Trial Lawyers, North Carolina Association of 7 Women Attorneys, and the North Carolina
8 Conservation Council on the Sierra Club.

9 [APPLAUSE]

10 And last but not least, we have 11 attorney David Harris. David Harris is an 12 attorney in private practice in Durham. His 33-13 year career has included work with legal services
14 in Goldsboro and Wilson, where he represented 15 plaintiffs and communities in several voting 16 rights cases, including Green v. City of Rocky 17 Mount. Mr. Harris also filed an amicus curiae 18 brief with the Supreme Court on behalf of Legal 19 Services of North Carolina and Thornburg v.
20 Gingles. Mr. Harris also served as a trial 21 attorney in the Voting Rights section of the 22 Civil Rights Division of the United States
23 Department of Justice. At the DOJ Mr. Harris was 24 part of the team of attorneys responsible for 25 enforcing Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.

1 While Executive Director of the Lawyers Committee
2 for Civil Rights in Boston, Mr. Harris was part 3 of the team of attorneys who successfully
4 litigated Black Political Task Force v. Galvin, 5 which challenged the Massachusetts House of 6 Representatives' redistricting plan which diluted 7 the voting power of African-American voters in 8 violation of Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act.

9 During 2011, Mr. Harris worked for the 10 North Carolina Legislative Black Caucus to help 11 formulate alternative House, Senate, and 12 Congressional redistricting plans. Those plans
13 were unfortunately rejected by the General
14 Assembly in favor of plans that packed black 15 voters to a limited number of districts and 16 diluted minority voting strength and influence in 17 most districts. Mr. Harris has also represented 18 candidates before local and state election
19 boards. Finally, Mr. Harris has published
20 multiple articles on the Voting Rights Act.
21 Please join me in welcoming attorney David 22 Harris.

23 [APPLAUSE]

24 Thank you to all of our guest
25 commissioners, witnesses, and all of the public

1 for being here today.

2 [APPLAUSE]

3 All right, and now I'll welcome all of 4 our guest commissioners to give their 5 introductory statements.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much,
7 Jamie, for that introduction and for your 8 remarks, and thank you, Reverend Barber, for just 9 those amazing, wonderful, inspiring introductory 10 remarks. And thank you, Dorien, for kicking us 11 all of today.

12 I wanted to start by thanking Brenda 13 Ford Harding for picking me up at the airport 14 yesterday and driving me here and for her great 15 hospitality. I wanted to thank Dorien, Sonia, 16 Jamie for your great heart and unyielding work in 17 putting together this event. And we know it takes 18 a lot to get things like this--making it happen.

19 [APPLAUSE]

20 I want to thank the audience and 21 everyone for being here today. So many people did 22 such important work over the last six months to 23 make this event happen and we need to acknowledge 24 them first. First, thank you to OIC Rocky Mount 25 for hosting us in this historical and sacred and

1 wonderful facility. And thank you for having us
2 here.

3 [APPLAUSE]

4 It is great to continue that tradition.
5 We also must acknowledge the tireless efforts of 6 our Planning Committee, members from the ACLU of 7 North Carolina, Democracy North Carolina, North 8 Carolina NAACP, the Southern Coalition for Social 9 Justice, and the UNC Center for Civil Rights.
10 Thank you for bringing us here.

11 I want to particularly thank from those 12 organizations Chris Brook, Jeremy Collins,
13 Elizabeth Haddick, Mark Dorson, Jennifer March, 14 Bob Hall, Jamie Phillips Cole, Irv Joyner, and 15 Reverend Barber. All of you have done a great job 16 of pulling this event together. None of this 17 would be possible without your efforts. I'm also 18 very grateful for the leadership of all of our 19 guest commissioners--David Harris, Ellie
20 Kinnaird, Raymond Pierce and, of course, Eva 21 Clayton.

22 But I also have to say a word clearly
23 that when I say Eva Clayton's name, I rapidly 24 remember that this wonderful Congresswoman--she 25 and Mickey Michaux, and so many others showed us

1 how to do it. It was their example. That's why 2 we're here today--because they taught us how to 3 stand up and speak truth to power. They taught us 4 how to organize and how to build unity despite so 5 many different focuses. I want to just say to 6 both Eva Clayton and to Mickey Michaux thank you, 7 because you are special to every one of us. Thank 8 you.

9 [APPLAUSE]

10 And Ellie Kinnaird, you've been showing
11 the world and the nation how it's done, too, so 12 thank you. And, finally, we need to thank the 13 witnesses who will come to tell their stories
14 today. Thank you for taking time out of your life 15 to tell these personal stories that are so vital 16 to building the record that we need to document 17 the need for change. You know I'm happy to be 18 here in North Carolina. As many of you know, I 19 attended and graduated from Duke Law School, my 20 bar membership is here in North Carolina, this is 21 where I got my career start, and I was blessed to 22 practice law in this great state for over seven 23 years. I am deeply connected to North Carolina 24 not only by profession and practice and living 25 here but I'm connected by my family, such as the

1 Hardings and so many others who I come and have 2 to be with constantly. So, it is a pleasure to be 3 home again.

4 North Carolina is such an important
5 state in this conversation of voting rights
6 because you made for so many years such great 7 progress--50 years that you showed us how we 8 could make voting better. And now we stand here 9 today where those gains are in serious danger, 10 where there's an effort to reverse all of the 11 hopes and aspirations of the people of this 12 state. The recent experience in North Carolina 13 vividly illustrates why we so desperately need to 14 continue fighting to protect the right to vote.

15 Prior to the passage of the Voting
16 Rights Act in 1965, North Carolina was a terrible 17 place to be a minority voter. Through the use of 18 poll taxes and literacy tests, the state 19 suppressed the voting rights of most African-20 Americans. In fact, in 1962, only 36 percent of 21 African-Americans were registered to vote in this 22 state. However courageous and dedicated North 23 Carolinians like Ms. Rosanell Eaton were 24 determined to exercise their fundamental right.
25 She knew that her father had been banned from 1 voting but she was determined to vote. And at the 2 age of 21, Ms. Eaton became one of the first 3 African-Americans in her county to successfully 4 register to vote, but she didn't just 5 successfully register to vote, she only was able 6 to do that because she passed a literacy test 7 where she had to recite verbatim the Preamble of 8 the United States Constitution.

9 This is the story. This is the legacy
10 that brings us to this place today. All that 11 changed with the passage of the Voting Rights
12 Act. Half of the jurisdictions of North Carolina
13 were covered by Section 5 of the Voting Rights
14 Act and the watchful eyes of both the Department
15 of Justice and advocates played an important role 16 in ensuring that the state did not return to the 17 days in which the right to vote was far from 18 guaranteed. But not only did North Carolina make 19 this progress, over the years the legislature 20 prodded by powerful forces in this state, took 21 affirmative steps to increase access to the 22 polls. Through these efforts and members of the 23 North Carolina Legislature like Ellie Kinnaird, 24 the state created one of the most admirable 25 voting processes in the country, and that

1 included a lengthy early voting period and same-2 day voter registration that registered thousands 3 of people to vote, and that opened up the voting
4 process.

5 The result was an unprecedented 2012
6 presidential election where North Carolina had 7 very few problems and it was astonishing what it
8 showed us. And it was illustrated by the numbers 9 because in a country where we consider a turnout 10 of 63-65 percent of our voting population a great 11 number, your state had 80 percent African-12 American turnout. That is the culmination of the 13 beautiful work that has been done here.

14 But instead of celebrating these 15 remarkable achievements, the North Carolina 16 Legislature began dismantling. Following the 17 Shelby decision, it gutted the protections of the 18 Voting Rights Act through what is called the 19 Monster voting Bill, which attacked the right to 20 vote. As long as God gives me breath, I will 21 always keep my eyes on this state. And it is 22 important that this hearing is being held so that 23 we can focus on this mighty record and what's 24 happening. You, in North Carolina--you are 25 inspiring our nation right now, through the

1 efforts and leadership of Reverend Barber and so 2 many. You are inspiring our nation through your 3 Moral Mondays and you have inspired other states
4 to stand up. So, Arkansas now has what they call 5 Truthful Tuesdays, and there is organizing going 6 on in Georgia that successfully just last Friday 7 defeated an effort to cut early voting in 8 Georgia. This is the inspiration that grows when 9 your state is growing in Florida--and it 10 continues to grow throughout the nation. We are 11 grateful to you because in the fight against 12 oppression the only way you can respond to 13 oppression is by uniting and fighting.

14 The NAACP, the Lawyers Committee, the 15 United States Human Rights Network, and 80-plus 16 U.S. representatives of NGOs two weeks ago 17 testified in Geneva, Switzerland before the 18 United Nations, and yesterday they released the 19 concluding observations. I recommend them to you 20 because they have in there, very specific 21 findings around the United States noncompliance 22 with international law regarding voting rights, 23 voter suppression, felon disenfranchisement. So 24 utilize that vital tool. Everyone, let's have a 25 great hearing today. I am looking forward to 1 hearing from our esteemed experts and advocates 2 on how we can keep moving forward with this 3 important work. Thank you.

4 [APPLAUSE]

5 EVA CLAYTON: Should I say amen? Amen. I
6 also want to acknowledge attorney Barbara
7 Arnwine. I want you all to help me acknowledge 8 that this is her birthday today and can we say 9 happy birthday?

10 [APPLAUSE]

11 Happy birthday... I don't sing. Whoever 12 sings. We want you to know we are delighted that 13 you're sharing this with us.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

15 EVA CLAYTON: Reverend Barber, I knew
16 you when you were yet a young man, right?

17 WILLIAM J. BARBER: My, my.

18 EVA CLAYTON: Oh, my lord. Well, I am
19 delighted. I was about to say, Representative 20 Michaux, one of the honors of getting old--they 21 remember us, right? [CHUCKLES] I am delighted to 22 be a guest commissioner of this North Carolina
23 hearing for the National Commission on Voting
24 Rights. Thanks to the North Carolina Conference 25 NAACP, and the Coalition of North Carolina Civic

1 Organization for their leadership in organizing 2 this opportunity for citizens to speak out and to 3 share. Hopefully, we will hear from witnesses and 4 you in the audience your observation, concerns,
5 and expectation for fair and just election laws
6 in North Carolina. Your presence here today
7 signifies that there is much concern about North 8 Carolina's current and future election laws and 9 how they will affect you, the citizens of North 10 Carolina. Again, our narrative will become a 11 significant and factual part of a National 12 Commission report on voters rights, for which 13 North Carolina is very grateful. Thank you for 14 that.

15 The right to vote is one of the 16 defining characteristics of our American 17 democracy, which is governed by the people, all 18 the people they elect. However, African-Americans 19 or blacks and other minorities have had a bumpy 20 road to full participation to elect the people 21 who govern America. Although black men were 22 granted the right to vote early through the 23 ratification of the 15th Amendment and several 24 outstanding black men were elected to Congress 25 and to the State General Assembly during

1 reconstruction. However, full participation was 2 not enjoyed.

3 I have been engaged in voter
4 registration efforts and an advocate for equality 5 of election laws for more than 50 years. The 6 Voters Right Act of 1965 is generally recognized 7 as a landmark legislation of this century that 8 removed barriers due to race and ethnicity to 9 full voter participation in local, state, and 10 federal elections. This most important 11 legislation, though not perfect, was in direct 12 response to the citizens' protest and advocacy
13 for equality for voting rights. Hundreds of men, 14 women, and youth paid the dear price of being 15 attacked by local officials when they marched 16 from Selma to Montgomery. John Louis, now a 17 Congressman, was severely beaten.

18 Given the implementation of the 1965
19 Voting Rights Act in America as well as in North 20 Carolina, we witnessed greater participation of 21 minorities in the election process. This included 22 registration, actual voting, and blacks and 23 minorities elected to local, state, and national 24 positions. It is recorded, as you've heard 25 earlier, that only 36 percent of blacks were

1 registered in North Carolina in 1962 and one year
2 after the 1965 Voting Rights Act, the percentage 3 had increased to 50 percent.

4 Upon coming to Warren County in 1963,
5 my husband and I organized a voter registration
6 project through the American Friends Service
7 committee and found the registration for blacks
8 in Warren County to be less than 20 percent, 9 although blacks in the population was recorded to 10 be at 65 percent. The passage of the Voting 11 Rights Act made it possible for minorities to be 12 elected to political offices. In 1968 Henry Frye 13 became the first African-American elected to the 14 North Carolina House of Representatives in the 15 20th Century. That was an active political year 16 of 1968. Dr. Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte ran 17 for governor, and a young mother, Eva Clayton 18 from Warren County, ran for Congress in the 2nd 19 Congressional District. Both of us were royally
20 defeated. However, black registration increased 21 significantly.

22 Several American presidents since the 23 1965 Voting Rights Act, both Republicans and 24 Democrats, have amended or extended the Voting 25 Rights Act to ensure that all Americans had the

1 opportunity to vote. North Carolina generally
2 followed the Voting Rights Act and witnessed 3 greater participation in the election process. As 4 a result of this greater participation, blacks
5 were elected to local positions across the State
6 of North Carolina as either sheriff, county 7 commission, board of education, mayor, and many 8 other positions.

9 Currently, the North Carolina General
10 Assembly has the highest percentage of blacks
11 they have had in history. The irony, 12 unfortunately, is that blacks themselves have 13 less power because of a lopsided political 14 representation. The redistricting passed by the 15 General Assembly has locked in this political 16 disadvantage and has further disadvantaged black 17 representatives from the state, both at the state
18 level and at the Congressional level.

19 American voters elected President
20 Barack Obama, the first African-American 21 President twice, using the current electoral 22 system based on the election laws authorized and 23 amended under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.
24 However, the sense of fairness and justice 25 experienced during greater participation of

1 voters has changed fast to a sense of suspicion
2 of fraud and disenfranchisement. The right to 3 vote should be encouraged in America through 4 appropriate laws and regulations and not used as 5 a stumbling block or a deterrent to full 6 citizenship.

7 It was apparent that the North Carolina
8 General Assembly and other southern states felt 9 free to move forward with their possibly 10 discriminatory and limiting voters' rights after 11 the decision from the Supreme Court that Part D 12 of the Voting Rights Act where they had to ensure 13 and secure prior approval before changing
14 election law was no longer required. North 15 Carolina immediately was one of the first states 16 to act after the court's decision. However, I 17 believe the state has overplayed its hand. It is 18 not difficult to discern that this law is 19 designed to fix a self-imposed problem of fraud, 20 but this law creates barriers, roadblocks, and 21 unnecessary requirements to make it difficult for 22 thousands of blacks, Hispanics, and seniors--the 23 protected class under the Voting Rights Law from 24 voting.

25 I am pleased that Reverend Barber of

1 the NAACP and other leaders of our state indeed 2 have filed their lawsuit. I was pleased by the 3 federal judge's action yesterday. I know we will 4 hear more details about that today. You witnesses 5 bring unique experiences and observations and 6 knowledge that I hope you will share with us so 7 that the factual record can reflect what the 8 actual situation is in North Carolina. I thank 9 you for your attention.

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 RAYMOND PIERCE: Thank you,
13 Congresswoman. I want to thank Barbara Arnwine
14 for inviting me to come out here. I would say 15 that during my seven years as Dean of the Law
16 School at North Carolina Central University, 17 clearly one of the hallmarks was having Barbara 18 Arnwine speak at that law school. And I think I 19 would've counted it as a failure of mine if I did 20 not have Barbara come and speak at that law 21 school. And Jamie, I think she proudly said that 22 I was her dean but I can say even more proudly 23 that she was my student. And not only was she one 24 of my students, she was one of the better
25 students at that law school. If you preside over

1 an institution, over time, over the years you
2 begin to learn and see who the serious-minded
3 young people are--the people who take education
4 and the study of law for its more serious
5 purpose, that is, to bring about change. That's 6 why Thurgood Marshall and so many people went to 7 law school--they knew that this Constitution
8 meant something. And so, I'm not surprised to see 9 Jamie here doing what she's doing. So, I'm so 10 glad to see you doing this, Jamie. You all give 11 that young lady a hand.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 Voter suppression is a serious charge
14 for any government that constitutes itself as a 15 democracy, because it is the collective 16 conscience of a nation that directs it, and that 17 collective conscience is best measured by the 18 democratic process that our country has in place.
19 And I would argue, perhaps now even more so, that 20 the importance of a democratic process to gauge 21 the collective conscience of the nation is as 22 important now if not more important than any 23 other time in our nation. If you just look around 24 this world, whether it's in Crimea, or the 25 Ukraine, or Russia, or Southeast Africa, or

1 Central Africa, or Asia, wherever--North Korea, 2 how our country responds to these issues must be 3 governed by the collective conscience of the 4 people. And even domestically, with issues of 5 healthcare, education, and our banking systems, 6 it is very, very important that the collective 7 conscience as gauged by the democratic process 8 direct our government's response and, thus, the 9 policies that govern our nation. So, voter 10 suppression that would impede that, obstruct 11 that, cannot be tolerated.

12 So, I believe it is very, very 13 important for those of you who have come to speak 14 that you speak earnestly. This is for the record.
15 And if we do push you a little bit more in your 16 responses and your testimony, don't take it the 17 wrong way. That's what judges and commissioners 18 do. So, thank you.

19 [APPLAUSE]

20 ELLIE KINNAIRD: Good morning. I want to 21 thank the National Commission on Voting Rights
22 and the NAACP and those who have brought this 23 important subject to the attention of the nation.
24 We, of course, have suffered with it for the last 25 two years and it is needing a broader audience,

1 and we are very pleased that we are given that 2 opportunity for a broader audience by this group 3 that has brought us together.

4 I have a long history in the North
5 Carolina legislature with voting and election
6 laws. I was elected to the North Carolina Senate 7 in 1996 on a campaign financing reform platform.
8 That was the beginning of the era of big money 9 taking such a large part in elections. Many of us
10 were alarmed at the corrosive effect that money 11 from special interests was having on campaigns 12 for office and we feared on legislation. We saw 13 public financing as the way to democratize the 14 election process and we had help from people like 15 Bob Hall, and Bob Phillips, and these others who 16 saw that this was the beginning of a very 17 difficult challenge to our democracy.

18 My first action as a newly-elected
19 Senator was to amend the president pro tem Senate
20 Bill 1 to require the reporting of a 21 contributor's employer or employment when 22 donating to a campaign. It has been one of the 23 most important changes in campaign financing 24 transparency. Subsequently, I worked with then 25 Senator Wib Gulley on public financing. For

1 several terms we were able to create public
2 financing for some of the Council of State
3 offices' elections. The Council of State is a 4 little known elected body such as the treasurer, 5 insurance commissioner, auditor, etc., that does 6 not campaign heavily and, unfortunately, gets 7 much of its financing from those they regulate, a 8 potentially corrupting influence. Subsequently, 9 after we were able to get public financing for 10 the Council of State, we were able to extend it 11 to Appellate Court judges. Interestingly, when 12 this last legislature was proposing to repeal
13 public financing, 12 Appeals Court judges wrote 14 to the legislature to ask them to keep public 15 financing that they felt protected them from 16 political change.

17 Until the Republicans took control of 18 the legislature, we had hoped to extend public 19 financing to all Council of State offices and 20 perhaps to the legislature and governor. Now all 21 public financing has been repealed by the last 22 legislature in this last session and the money 23 grab is on at an even more intense scale, thanks 24 to Citizens United--and I think that a similar 25 release of the limitations on individual

1 contributions will be decided by the court this 2 year.

3 One of my first bills was at the 4 request of University of North Carolina students 5 to find a single polling place on campus for 6 elections. Many students live off-campus in 7 apartments and often do not know where they vote.
8 While the bill didn't lead to a remedy for the 9 UNC Chapel Hill students, the late Senator Martin 10 Nesbitt, then a House member, approached me about 11 turning the bill into early voting for the entire 12 state. As we know, it was expanded over the years 13 and has become the most preferred method of 14 voting and as we will hear, African-Americans use 15 this at a very high rate. And such, when we 16 reduce it, it makes a difference. So, it is 17 especially dismaying that early voting has been 18 shortened by one week.

19 An important introduction to 20 citizenship was preregistration for 16 and 17-21 year olds. Civic classes used preregistration to 22 teach students about becoming active members of 23 our democracy and they were ready to vote when 24 they turned 18. And this was the first change in 25 our voting act, and that is very sad.

1 Finally, we passed same-day
2 registration in voting, which was very helpful to 3 student who are often distracted by a busy
4 schedule of classes, exams, and papers, and too
5 late realize they have not registered to vote 25
6 days before the election. People moving from out 7 of town also often found this convenient. This 8 expansion of access to the ballot and others were 9 nurtured by Democracy North Carolina Common Cause 10 and the Center for Voter Education that helped 11 with every step along the way.

12 The new election laws passed last 13 session by the legislature has rolled back those 14 progressive accesses to the ballot. The 15 ostensible reason was to prevent voter fraud, 16 even though there is no evidence of voter fraud.
17 In the debate I asked the sponsors why there were 18 three pages dealing with photo ID and all the 19 rest with all of this other...

20 Another sad loss was that early voting 21 has been shortened by one week. Projects such as 22 Souls to the Polls which carried people on buses 23 after church to polling places was highly 24 successful. With shortened early voting that is 25 no longer widely available. Losing a week of 1 voting will cut down the number of people who 2 will vote. 43 counties have requested waivers for 3 extending the hours as being too burdensome.

4 Straight ticket party voting was repealed. There
5 are many offices that do not advertise heavily 6 before an election, as do the presidential and 7 gubernatorial offices, the Council of State and 8 judges--so there is little opportunity to learn 9 about the candidates.

10 So, if you voted for your party, you 11 knew that you were voting for the same values and 12 goals, even though you didn't know the number-- 13 the actual person you are voting for's history.
14 And in a severe limitation of the franchise, a 15 person voting in the wrong precinct will not have 16 their vote counted.

17 Finally, another real impairment to 18 voting is the requirement in 2016 of a photo ID.
19 This would not be such an impediment if the list 20 were expansive, but on the contrary, it is a very 21 narrow list resulting in difficulties to obtain 22 the required IDs. It is great sadness to see 23 North Carolina retreating from the most expansive 24 access to the ballot to the most obstructionist.
25 It is also, to me and the many who worked on that

1 access, a personal loss. Thank you.

2 [APPLAUSE]

3 DAVID HARRIS: Thank you, Senator. Good 4 morning, everybody, and good morning members of 5 the panel, the commission, and as well as members 6 of the initial panel. First of all, I'd like to 7 say thank you to the National Commission on the 8 Voting Rights Act for their kind invitation for 9 me to serve as one of the guest commissioners.
10 It's good to see so many faces that I have known 11 over the years--emphasis on years--partners in 12 justice. I will not say partners in crime because 13 what we're talking about is a crime--so I'm 14 talking about partners in justice.

15 I'll try to keep my remarks really
16 short this time. [CHUCKLES] Imagine yourself--a 17 high school education, served your country in the 18 military, went to war, went to Europe, come back, 19 you decide to register and vote. You go to 20 register and vote and the person gives you
21 something to read. It's called a literacy test.
22 And, of course, you read it and the person tries 23 to prevent you from registering to vote anyway 24 and you have to raise a little you know what to 25 be able to register to vote. And you actually

1 were able to register to vote. That was my 2 father, rest in peace. He told me that story many 3 times and from a personal perspective, that's the 4 beginnings of my interest in voting rights.

5 It was Sam Irving, III who wrote, "The 6 State of North Carolina officially and 7 effectively discriminated against black citizens
8 in matters touching their exercise of the voting 9 franchise." Those were his words from the Gingles 10 case at the three judge district court level. Oh, 11 I'm down to two minutes already. And it's 12 particularly nice to be back in Rocky Mount. I 13 see Susan Perry Cole here and Brenda Harding.
14 There was a mention of Green v. City of Rocky 15 Mount. That was a case in which Brenda and I were 16 lead counsel on. Sue was our boss. And those of 17 you who know Sue know what that mean to have her 18 as your boss. We did several all-nighters to get 19 that case filed in court. Well, that was very 20 necessary because Rocky Mount, out of seven city 21 council members, only had one black--even though 22 the city was pretty much 50/50 black and white 23 even back then. And Rocky Mount had an annex, an 24 additional area to further [DILUTE?] black voting 25 participation, and was going to allow them to 1 vote in the next election even though the 2 Department of Justice had not pre-cleared the 3 annexation.

4 So, we head off to Wilmington--Brenda
5 and I and our clients--and take it before Judge 6 Fox. And Judge Fox is shaking his head. "I can't 7 block these folks from voting." And Brenda says 8 repeatedly, "You have no choice." That was the 9 power of Section 5. And the judge ruled that 10 those people in those annexed areas could not 11 vote in the next election. As a result of that 12 litigation, Rocky Mount's city council is now 13 majority black, reflecting the population of this 14 town. That is the way it's supposed to be. It's 15 about representation. I'll move a little more 16 quickly.

17 During my time in Boston, and mind you, 18 Massachusetts is not Section 5 covered but it is 19 Section 2 covered. The Massachusetts State House 20 actually passed a plan that packed blacks in 21 districts so that they could not be more majority 22 or minority districts. We fought that and won and 23 they had to redraw the districts.

24 The 2006 report of the National 25 Commission on the Voting Rights Act documented

1 all the reasons why Section 5 needed to be 2 renewed and Congress used that report for its 3 renewal. The Supreme Court last year by 4 invalidating Section 4, which is the trigger for 5 Section 5, basically makes Section 5 useless.
6 Now, there is a bill pending in both chambers of 7 Congress to fix that but the Voting Rights 8 Amendment Act of 2014, your testimony today on 9 the current problems in exercising the right to 10 vote and the problems that will be caused by 11 House Bill 589 helps to create the record that 12 the commission needs to present to Congress that 13 is considering this new legislation to fix and 14 renew Section 4 of the Voting Rights Act. We look 15 forward to hearing from the panelists and from 16 everybody in the audience today. Thank you.

17 [APPLAUSE]

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much,
19 everyone, for your introduction statements and we 20 appreciate that.
21
22
23
24
25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was 7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 1

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: And at this point
2 we're going to turn to our witness panel. We are 3 so blessed to have an absolutely outstanding 4 panel of witnesses. And I'm going to, because we 5 are running a little bit behind our schedule--I'm 6 going to do these introductions a little bit 7 shorter than I would like. But let me start with 8 Representative Mickey Michaux, who is an attorney 9 and businessman. Representative Michaux is a 10 native of Durham, North Carolina, and an alumni 11 of Durham North Carolina Central University. He 12 has led a school of law, as I'm being reminded by 13 the dean [CHUCKLES] and he has led a life of 14 public service, servicing in the United States 15 Army Medical Corps and the Army Reserves. He was 16 an assistant district attorney before being 17 elected to the North Carolina Legislature in 18 1972. And your campaign is what taught me about 19 voting rights. You know, working on your 20 campaigns, watching what occurred, learning about 21 racially polarized voting from those experiences 22 was amazing.

23 You have also--you became the first in 24 1977--Mr. Michaux became the first black United 25 States Attorney in the South since

1 reconstruction, when he was appointed to head the 2 office in the middle district of North Carolina.
3 He is currently a member of the North Carolina 4 General Assembly and has represented the state's 5 31st House District since 1983. As of 2008,
6 Representative Michaux is the longest-serving 7 African American member of the North Carolina
8 General Assembly. He serves on very important 9 committees. Will everyone join me in welcoming 10 Representative Mickey Michaux.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 Next we have Bob Hall. Bob Hall is the 13 Executive Director of Democracy North Carolina, a 14 nationally renowned nonpartisan social justice
15 organization based in Durham. Mr. Hall has worked 16 with grassroots groups across the South since 17 1970, collaborating on a variety of economic and 18 social justice projects. Mr. Hall is a veteran 19 leader of the election protection activities in 20 North Carolina and has assisted thousands of 21 voters at every step of the election process from 22 registration through early voting, to Election
23 Day.

24 He has tirelessly worked to combat
25 voter suppression efforts in North Carolina. He

1 has served on numerous nonprofit boards and 2 governmental commissions, provided expert 3 testimony in court cases, and consulted with 4 officials in dozens of states on voting rights
5 and campaign finance reform. He was the founding 6 editor of Southern Exposure, the magazine of the 7 Institute for Southern Studies where he worked 8 for 25 years. His honors include the prestigious 9 internationally recognized MacArthur Fellow 10 Award, the North Carolina Press Association's 11 First Amendment Award, NCARP's Advocacy Friend of 12 the Year Award and so many others. He holds a 13 master's degree from Columbia University. Will 14 everyone join me in welcoming Bob Hall.

15 [APPLAUSE]

16 Sitting next to Bob Hall is 17 Representative Evelyn Terry. Representative
18 Evelyn Terry is a member of the North Carolina
19 House of Representatives representing District 71
20 of Forsythe County. She was first elected 21 recently and Representative Terry earned her 22 bachelor's degree from Johnson C. Smith
23 University, and she later earned a master's 24 degree at Appalachian State University, which 25 just last year made national news due to voter

1 restrictions adopted by the Watauga County Board
2 of Elections. Prior to her service in the North
3 Carolina General Assembly, Representative Terry
4 was the Chair of the Forsythe County Department
5 of Social Services board of directors. She serves 6 on the House Elections Committee and has been an 7 outspoken and fearless champion for voting rights 8 for her constituencies and for voters across the 9 state of North Carolina. Let's welcome
10 Representative Evelyn Terry.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 As the song goes, it's getting hot in 13 here. Some great, great panelists. I am very 14 pleased to introduce Anita Earls. Attorney Earls
15 is a civil rights lawyer of great esteem with 25
16 years' experience and serves as the Executive 17 Director of the Southern Coalition for Social 18 Justice. Prior to founding the Southern Coalition
19 for Social Justice, she was Director of Advocacy
20 at the U.N. Center for Civil Rights and Director
21 of the Voting Rights Project at the Lawyers' 22 Committee for Civil Rights of the Law, where we 23 worked together. In the Clinton Administration
24 Miss Earls was a Deputy Assistant Attorney 25 General in the Civil Rights Division of the

1 United States Department of Justice, where she 2 had responsibility for the division's voting 3 educational opportunities, disability rights and 4 coordination and review sections. For the first 5 ten years of her career, Ms. Earls litigated
6 civil rights cases as a partner with Ferguson 7 Stein Wallas Adkins Gresham and Sumter in 8 Charlotte, North Carolina. And in her private 9 practice she did a variety of incredible civil 10 rights matters and civil liberties matters.

11 Ms. Earls was appointed by the 12 government of North Carolina to the State Board 13 of Elections in 2009 and she currently serves on 14 the North Carolina Equal Access to Justice
15 Commission and she is making huge national impact 16 every single day. Will you please welcome Anita 17 Earls.

18 [APPLAUSE]

19 Outstanding. Outstanding. Bob Phillips
20 is our next witness. Bob Phillips has served as 21 Executive Director of Common Cause, North
22 Carolina since 2001. His work includes both 23 lobbying the legislature and building statewide 24 grassroots campaigns for a variety of good 25 government reforms. Most recently Bob helped put

1 together a broad and diverse coalition that 2 pushed comprehensive lobbying and effort reforms
3 through the North Carolina Legislature. Dedicated 4 to the idea of equal justice at the polls, Bob 5 fought tirelessly against House Bill 589. Bob is 6 a native North Carolinian, a graduate of UNC
7 Chapel Hill and has worked as a broadcast 8 journalist in Raleigh. Prior to his service at 9 Common Cause, Bob served as press secretary for 10 former Lieutenant-Governor Dennis Wicker. Please 11 join us in welcoming Bob Phillips to the panel.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 With us today in present--last but not 14 least is Professor Irving L. Joyner. He is a 15 professor at North Carolina Central University 16 School of Law where he teaches courses in 17 criminal law, criminal procedure, civil rights, 18 race and the law, professional responsibility and 19 trial practice. Professor Joyner also provides 20 pro bono legal counsel to several political 21 religious and community organizations and to 22 needy individuals in civil rights and criminal 23 appeals cases. In other words, people, he is a 24 great tactician. A great legal tactician. And he 25 also serves on several state study commissions

1 and agencies and in leadership roles with a 2 variety of community groups and organizations. He 3 served a five-year term as the Vice Chairperson 4 of the Wilmington Race Riot Commission; he is 5 also a regular legal commentator for local state 6 and national media, primarily in areas of law, 7 politics, civil rights, and racial justice. And 8 for the past ten years he has cohosted the 9 highly-acclaimed Legal Eagle Review. Please join 10 me in welcoming Professor Irving Joyner.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 All right, now, here's where the tech
13 comes in. We're praying that it's going to work 14 but we hope to have by Skype Doctor Sandra 15 Thompson, a shareholder at Buchalter Nemer in 16 Irving, California, and a member of the firm's 17 Intellectual Property Group. Dr. Thompson is a 18 native North Carolinian--and her Ph.D. in 19 analytical chemistry at North Carolina State 20 University.

21 She is a board member of the Lawyers
22 Committee for Civil Rights Under Law and has 23 volunteered for the National Election Protection 24 since the 2004 election. And in 2012, she 25 volunteered for election protection in North

1 Carolina, where she helped to set up a field
2 program for legal volunteers. She has undertaken
3 extensive research on North Carolina election
4 administration, voting [MISSIONS?] and voting
5 rights cases litigated in the state. Please 6 welcome by Skype at some point [CHUCKLES] we 7 pray, Dr. Sandra Thompson. Thank you.

8 [APPLAUSE]

9 With that, I turn it over to our first witness.
10 Mr. Michaux.

11 MICKEY MICHAUX: Thank you so much. I'm 12 pleased to be here. Everybody's welcoming 13 Reverend Barber. I saw him in the back. I'm the 14 only one can call him Billy. I knew him when he 15 was a student at North Carolina Central. But I 16 shall be very brief and give you basically--which 17 is what my mantra is.

18 First of all, let me let you understand 19 that in the early '90s, North Carolina ranked 20 about 46 in voter turnout. And we started a 21 series of introducing legislation that would try 22 to increase that voter turnout. We did early 23 voting during that period of time, we did one-24 stop registration, we did same-day registration.
25 We put in several through the years, at that

1 time, in order to encourage folks to vote. By the 2 time we had passed all of those in the early 3 2000s and whatnot, we had risen from 46th to 11th
4 in voter turnout in the country. So, you can see 5 that the very pieces of legislation that we 6 passed in order to increase that voter turnout, 7 those were the same pieces of legislation that 8 were in House Bill 589 that were repealed. So, 9 it's very clear to me, and it should be to 10 everybody else, what the purpose of 589 was.

11 Those folks who passed 589 and wrote it called it 12 Voter Intelligence and Verification Act, VIVA.

13 That was the synonym. We attach another meaning
14 to that word, VIVA. It's the Voter Intimidation
15 and Vilification Act. And that's really what it 16 is.

17 The second thing I want to call to your 18 attention is that in crafting Section 4, the new 19 Section 4 of the Civil Rights Act there should be 20 an emphasis on voter suppression. That was not a 21 part of what--one of the reasons that Section 4
22 got kicked out and made Section 5 inapplicable.
23 It's very key that you look at that. And here in 24 North Carolina, there's no question in my mind 25 that voter suppression is the very nature of 589.

1 For instance, when those of us who were 2 in the majority at one time had all the voting 3 bills passed, who had redistricting done, it's 4 very odd that we had 13 Congress people, seven of 5 whom were Democrats, six were Republicans. Now, 6 how much fairer could you get? When they came 7 back and redistricted in 2010, after the 2010
8 elections, it went nine to four in favor of them.
9 What happened also as a result of what we passed 10 in terms of voter turnout to bring it up to 11 where we're getting that, was the fact that they 12 got in--those people who are now putting these 13 horrendous bills in, they were the ones who 14 benefited from what we put in in the '90s.

15 But it's very clear that now what they 16 want to do is to suppress what helped them get 17 into office. In other words, they don't want to 18 be bothered with the racial block that turns out 19 as a result of what we did. I think what I'm 20 really trying to tell you is that the suppression 21 is geared toward the minority vote, the African-22 American vote, and the Hispanic vote. Because if 23 you can suppress that vote, then you don't have 24 to worry about losing the power that you have 25 gained as a result of what we put in some time

1 ago. It's just that simple.

2 The third thing is--and it always 3 bothered me. I know I've got a minute but I'm 4 going to finish this anyway. The third thing is 5 that they said that they needed photo ID because 6 photo ID is required for everything like getting 7 on airplane, buying drugs, doing first one thing 8 and then the other. But none of those things that 9 they mention are a Constitutional right.

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's right.

11 MICKEY MICHAUX: And what you have with 12 that is you're going to penalize people who can't 13 get voter ID or even structure it. So, for 14 instance, they won't let a student use their 15 student identification as identification to go
16 vote. So, those who don't have a driver's license 17 have to find a way to get some type of 18 identification. And if they're going to give it 19 to them free, then it's going to cost the state 20 more money than they have allotted for things 21 like that happening. So, why would you put 22 infringements on a Constitutional right? And if 23 you're going to put infringements on 24 Constitutional rights, I don't know of any other 25 Constitutional right that requires a photo ID to 1 exercise.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's right.

3 MICKEY MICHAUX: For instance, the 4 Second Amendment rights that they claim. The 5 right to bear arms. Why don't you require photo
6 IDs in situations like that? I mean, it's a
7 Constitutional right. So, these are basically 8 some of the things that I wanted to bring to your 9 attention. And the fact that irrespective of how 10 much progress we have made, I have always said
11 that what we have done with the passage of House
12 Bill 589 is we have morphed from the 19th Century 13 to the 21st Century, forgetting all of the 14 progress that was made during the 20th Century.

15 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes.

16 MICKEY MICHAUX: And that's exactly what 17 has happened. We are going back to post-18 reconstruction days when things like that 19 happened. And to give you a primary example, in 20 1971, we wrote a new Constitution for the state 21 of North Carolina which eliminated all of the 22 things in terms of voting that had been declared
23 unconstitutional. But because some folks wanted
24 to, I guess, keep some semblance of that there, 25 when we pulled out the literacy test in the new

1 Constitution, some folks put it on the ballot
2 anyway. So, North Carolina right now has a
3 literacy test problem facing them right now.
4 We're trying to get rid of it. I think it's going
5 to be on the ballot this fall. But North Carolina 6 still has a literacy test there, even though they 7 can't enforce it. And this was in 1970. So, you 8 can see how things sort of go.

9 So, it's one of these situations where 10 we've got to be very, very careful. And I would 11 suggest that what you do is when recommendations 12 are made by you, that particularly those things 13 involving voter suppression be handled. I think 14 that's about it. One other thing, too. I do want 15 to recognize somebody in the audience who's been 16 a great help to me particularly in the General 17 Assembly. Gary Bartlett is out there, who is the 18 Executive Director of the State Board of 19 Elections. And Gary did a great job in helping us 20 fathom through a lot of these things.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 I didn't want Gary to go unnoticed.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

24 BOB HALL: I'd likewise like to 25 recognize Gary Bartlett, who really embodies

1 fair, accessible, honest elections. And a lot of 2 the progress was made with him overseeing it to 3 make sure that the integrity of the process was 4 preserved. The vote is the great equalizer. Such 5 a powerful concept. Rich or poor, black or white, 6 we all stand as equals before the ballot box. We 7 all have a voice, an equal voice in choosing our 8 representatives. In a Democratic republic,
9 nothing could be more conservative or radical 10 than this commitment to make real the promise of 11 one person, one vote. One person, one vote. That 12 bedrock principle calls us to recognize our 13 neighbors as equal partners. It should be the 14 basis of treating each other with respect as 15 fundamentally equal. But, unfortunately, North 16 Carolina, as many of you have now said, has a 17 long history of those in power manipulating the 18 rules of voting for their own advantage.

19 The Democrats in North Carolina did it 20 over 100 years ago after forcefully ousting the 21 fusion government of African-American Lincoln 22 Republicans and white populists through the 23 Wilmington Massacre. Before that coups, voter
24 turnout rates in North Carolina routinely hit 80
25 percent of eligible voters throughout the 1870s

1 and 1880s. 80 percent of eligible voters. But 2 then the Democrats manipulated the voting rules
3 through a series of Jim Crow laws, including the 4 poll tax, the literacy test, the grandfather
5 clause, through intimidation, through racist
6 propaganda, through restrictions that affected
7 blacks and poor whites. They sent the message
8 that politics and voting is just for the boss
9 man. Voting participation dropped down to the 40
10 percent--under 40 percent. North Carolina 11 throughout the entire 20th Century was among the 12 worst 12 states for voter turnout. As 13 Representative Michaux mentioned, 46th in the 14 '90s still. Even after the Voting Rights Act. It 15 was really only after the beginning of early 16 voting--after Sunday and weekend voting during 17 early voting, same-day registration, out of 18 precinct voting--after these reforms that we 19 started to climb higher.

20 We had the biggest increase from '04 to 21 '08 in the nation. We then did hit in the top 12
22 states. In 2012, we were ranked 11th in voter 23 turnout. And then in 2013, bam, with the 24 Republicans in charge and the General Assembly in 25 the governor's mansion, we had this new voter

1 suppression law that had tremendous and harsh
2 impact. They had already put in redistricting--a 3 gerrymandering system that was to block the 4 reemergence of any kind of fusion politics at the 5 polls. They systematically packed African-6 Americans in fewer districts, they split more 7 precincts than the Democrats had ever done.
8 African-Americans were 50 percent more likely to 9 live in a split precinct than whites. This is 10 computerized apartheid. That is what the new 11 redistricting plan was put in place--computerized 12 apartheid.

13 Then the monster law. Early voting cut 14 by a week. African-Americans are 22 percent of 15 registered voters but they were 36 percent of 16 those who used the first week of early voting.
17 They were 43 percent of those who voted on that 18 first Sunday. Cut. Same day registration.
19 African-Americans, again, 22 percent of 20 registered voters--they were 34 percent who used 21 same day registration. Young people ages 18-25, 22 12 percent of the registered voters but 33
23 percent of those who use same day registration.
24 Go after the young people. Don't let their IDs in 25 colleges by used for IDs. The government ID

1 system, 34 percent of the voters without an ID
2 are African-Americans, even though they were 22
3 percent of registered voters. Again,
4 disproportionately.

5 Out of precinct voting eliminated, pre-6 registration eliminated, straight ticket voting
7 eliminated. All of them were used
8 disproportionately by African-Americans and 9 that's what the system is about. It's voter 10 suppression. The telling sign is that the only 11 system, the only method of voting that was 12 encouraged by this new law is mail-in balloting.
13 Voting absentee. Mail-in balloting. Every expert 14 knows that the preferred method of cheating in 15 voting is through the mail, absentee voting. That 16 puts to lie the whole concept that this monster 17 law was passed in order to address fraud. It does 18 not.

19 The truth is that African-Americans-- 20 200 percent of registered voters, there are only 21 7 percent of those who use the mail-in ballot.
22 Republicans in North Carolina use it more. And 23 then opportunities to challenge voters were 24 increased by this law.

25 Bringing up today, bringing it up to

1 this week--last night, in the Buncombe County,
2 the Republican majority I Buncombe County decided 3 that they were going to summon 95 voters who had 4 been challenged by the Tea Party as not being 5 living at their address. These were inactive 6 voters, already known to maybe not live at their 7 address--but they were going to send a summons 8 out to them into the neighborhood. They chose the 9 poorest blackest precinct in Ashville to 10 challenge voters. The Republican voter--to speed 11 up the process--we already got a process under 12 the National Voter Registration Act to deal with 13 folks when they move but don't tell us. Buncombe 14 County is now--not covered by the Voting Rights
15 Act, but it's an illustration of why the Voting 16 Rights Act needs to go beyond just these covered
17 counties.

18 Similarly, in Watauga County, nearby,
19 the majority Republican board has taken the early 20 voting site off the Appalachian State University 21 Campus--the early voting site, which had been 22 there for years. It's in the center of 70 percent 23 of the voters in that county. But, no, they're 24 going to eliminate it. Again, this is the reason 25 why we need to have that Voting Rights Act expand

1 beyond to include youth.

2 These are crimes against democracy.
3 When you go after people's right to vote, you are 4 committing a crime against democracy that must be 5 addressed. Thank you.

6 [APPLAUSE]

7 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you, thank you.
8 Yes, Ms. Terry.

9 EVELYN TERRY: Good morning. And I'd 10 also like to say thank you for this opportunity.
11 I'm going to take a different twist from the very 12 specifics regarding this dragon that we're 13 battling. And pardon me if I make it very 14 personal, but it is very personal with me because 15 of my background and what I witnessed growing up.
16 I cast my first vote the year that I graduated 17 high school. This act was as significant as my 18 graduation because it was my duty and pathway to 19 an education, and then a job. It also meant 20 opportunity to give back. After all, my mirror 21 images of early childhood included struggles of 22 my grandfather, an illiterate but brilliant man, 23 trying to become a registered voter.

24 He achieved that milestone in the late 25 1950s and registered finally as a Republican. He 1 died in 1980 at the age of 101.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Wow.

3 EVELYN TERRY: But I'll tell you, I
4 can't count the number of times my mother, who 5 was his daughter, sashayed him to a precinct
6 place in a trailer park area there at Forsythe
7 County that continued to require of him to do--
8 they wouldn't let him make a mark. And my mama 9 was feisty and fiery and she kept going back.
10 That's the only thing they knew to do. But she 11 then decided, "Ah-ha, this literacy thing, I'm 12 going to beat it." Papa learned the Preamble to 13 the Constitution and she really had him going on 14 to start memorizing other stuff. Because she 15 said, "We're going to do this!" and he wanted to 16 do it.

17 So, why am I here today? I'm here
18 because I believe deeply in the principles of 19 liberty and justice for all. This includes the 20 privilege granted to every citizen in America to 21 register and vote. No one should have to be put 22 through the degradation, the threat of loss of 23 security, Jim Crowism, and intimidation that I
24 witnessed as a child against my grandfather.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: My, my.

1 EVELYN TERRY: Incidentally, that same
2 old fine gentleman was invited to the White House
3 by the President of the United States of America 4 in the 1970s because of the contributions that he 5 had made in our community. Now, I just have to 6 say that in the 1970s you know who was in the 7 White House, but this old man registered as a
8 Republican and we couldn't make him change it.
9 Okay.

10 Today I regret to inform you that my 11 grandpa--that this privilege taught me and my 12 family was a precious gift is now under siege in 13 North Carolina, no matter what political party
14 you choose. My story is no different than far too 15 many hardworking responsible citizens in the 16 state from the days before the passage of the 17 Voting Rights Act. What is different today is 18 we're going backwards.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: My, my.

20 EVELYN TERRY: North Carolina is growing 21 backwards with a legislative agenda akin to the 22 days of Jim Crow. House Bill 589 is rife with 23 stupidity and is totally unnecessary. Period.
24 Moreover, it is an insult to the dignity of 25 humanity of all people. As a proud black woman

1 and as a direct descendent of a proud African-2 American legacy that contributed significantly to 3 the state of North Carolina, I will fight with 4 every breath left in my body against this 5 draconian legislation designed only to keep 6 people of color from voting. It is wrong, it is a 7 very misuse of history to satisfy an agenda of 8 structurally racist and sexist public policy.

9 [APPLAUSE]

10 ANITA EARLS: Thank you very much. Hard 11 to follow. [CHUCKLES] Thank you very much for the 12 opportunity to be here today. And in my very 13 brief time I have just a couple of points I want 14 to make. First, an overarching point. As you 15 review the evidence, remember the distinction 16 between discrimination as evidenced by 17 participation rates and the success of black 18 candidates and discrimination as evidenced by 19 policies, procedures, structures, practices that 20 make it harder for African-American voters to 21 participate in the political process. Because 22 what we see in this state right now in 2014 is a 23 situation where our past successes and the past 24 work that we've done over the past 25, past 50 25 years, has led to increased participation and

1 increased success of African-American candidates.

2 And that is exactly what's led to the 3 extraordinary challenges we face today--the 4 backlash, if you will, and the repressive

5 policies. So, you can't simply look at that

6 measure of progress and say we no longer need the 7 Voting Rights Act. We need it more than ever

8 because that progress has led to a backlash.

9 My written testimony summarizes the 10 evidence that we've presented in the 11 redistricting case. I want to highlight just two 12 points. I don't know if people are aware of this 13 or not but when the legislature drew these maps,

14 the Congressional maps and the legislative maps,

15 they started with a proportionality quota.

16 Without any data on racially polarized voting,

17 without any past election results they set out to 18 draw 25 majority black House districts and ten

19 majority black Senate districts, even though in 20 the previous plan we had zero majority black

21 Senate districts and only nine majority black

22 House districts. So, they vastly increased the 23 number of districts.

24 And the court in dealing with this--so,

25 it's a quota. It's racial gerrymandering at its 1 worst. And it was designed to minimize the 2 influence of black voters but also progressive 3 white voters who voted with them. In the face of 4 this, the trial court said, "There's plenty of 5 evidence. The legislature looked at a lot of 6 evidence." They didn't analyze it but they said 7 the legislature looked at a lot of evidence, so 8 all three jingles factors are found in this 9 state. The legislature was justified in drawing

10 these districts.

11 I can tell you there is no Section 2
12 voting rights case in this country where a court 13 has said that the jurisdiction has to go from 14 zero to nine majority black districts and has to 15 go from nine to 24 majority black House 16 districts. That has just never happened. But we 17 have a legislature that apparently proved to the 18 satisfaction of a court that the racism in this 19 state was so bad that they had to do that in 20 2011. And yet, two years later in 2013, they 21 completely ignore the impact of House Bill 589 on 22 black voters. The evidence in the record--before 23 the legislature showing that these measures would 24 disproportionately make it harder for black
25 voters to vote in this state. They could ignore

1 all that evidence and constitutionally pass that 2 law. I submit to you that those realities don't 3 coexist, right? And the question is going to be 4 whether our court system will resolve that 5 fairly.

6 The second point I want to make about 7 the litigation is that we've demonstrated that 8 voters were disenfranchised by the way precincts 9 were split. That thousands of voters were 10 misassigned and got the wrong ballots in both the 11 primary and the general elections. And this is 12 because so many precincts were split. And we went 13 and looked at each of those wrongly assigned 14 voters--they were right on the lines where the 15 precinct splits happened. And so, this is not a 16 criticism of our local election officials who 17 were doing their best to assign voters properly-- 18 this is a point that if the General Assembly is 19 so concerned about voter fraud, how can they 20 justify splitting so many precincts and 21 essentially disenfranchising--giving people 22 ballots, allowing them to vote in offices that 23 they technically aren't qualified to vote in 24 because they don't live in that district. How can 25 they justify thousands of people getting the

1 wrong ballot in the name of achieving essentially 2 an extreme racial gerrymander.

3 So, I think that there's a real 4 disconnect there and a real problem with how the 5 redistricting plan was drawn. So we will see 6 whether the courts will say that--just as they 7 said racial gerrymandering when Democrats did it 8 is unconstitutional, well, they say that racial 9 gerrymandering when Republicans do it is 10 unconstitutional. We'll see whether our state our 11 federal courts do that.

12 But ultimately I think it comes down to 13 the public. And what the polling right now in 14 North Carolina shows is that amongst the general 15 public, voting rights is not an issue that they 16 see as a big problem. You know, they're concerned 17 about teacher pay, they're concerned about jobs, 18 they're concerned about the economy, they're 19 concerned about healthcare. Voting rights is not 20 on our list. Amongst the rising American 21 electorate in this state it is an issue, and they 22 do recognize that there are threats to our voting 23 rights. So, we have a lot of work to do to 24 educate the general public, and I hope that this 25 commission's work can help in that regard.

1 I also request permission to supplement
2 my remarks--we will have expert reports produced-3 -filed next Tuesday that deal with the history of 4 discrimination in voting in North Carolina and 5 we'll provide those to the commission. Thank you.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

7 [APPLAUSE]

8 BOB PHILLIPS: Good morning. My name, 9 again, is Bob Phillips and it's a real honor to 10 be around so many icons whom I consider in the 11 fight for voting rights in North Carolina. I'm a 12 lobbyist at the North Carolina General Assembly
13 and I've had the pleasure to visit Representative 14 Terry in her legislative office and I can tell 15 you, I've seen that photo--and I think you're in 16 it--with you, and your grandfather, and that 17 President. It's quite a picture.

18 Common Cause--we believe voting should 19 be easy and accessible for everyone. It's as 20 simple as that, which is why we've worked in 21 coalitions for the past decade to improve voter 22 access in North Carolina. Improvements that 23 include same day voter registration, 24 preregistration of 16 and 17-year olds, and 25 enhancing early voting by having more polling

1 sites with longer hours and weekend voting. I
2 will add that Common Cause is a plaintiff in one
3 of the lawsuits challenging House Bill 589. And I 4 want to focus on three areas. The manner in which 5 the legislation was passed in the North Carolina
6 General Assembly, the impact we fear the new law 7 will have on voter education, and the prospect 8 the new law may have on fostering voter 9 intimidation at polling sites.

10 As I mentioned, one of the hats I wear 11 for Common Cause is that of a lobbyist. For the 12 better part of the 2013 legislative session I 13 spent time seeking to stop, slow down, and/or 14 weaken the effort to make voting harder for North 15 Carolinians. As you may know, the path for House
16 Bill 589 was rather long and dramatic. The House
17 adopted its version in late April but the Senate 18 took no action for nearly three months. Then in 19 late July, after the U.S. Supreme Court gutted
20 the National Voting Rights Act, the 15-page House
21 bill that primarily focused on photo voter ID, 22 ballooned into a 50-page behemoth with 60
23 different sections, comprehensively repealing 24 and/or weakening the raft of election laws that 25 had been put in place to make voting easier and

1 accessible.

2 In less than three days, the Senate ran 3 through one of the most comprehensive election 4 law bills ever considered in North Carolina, with 5 limited public input and limited legislative 6 debate. There was no time to thoughtfully look at 7 what had been proposed, no time to thoughtfully 8 respond, no time to effectively educate the 9 constituencies we work with, especially those 10 voters in underserved communities. And from my 11 perspective, it was clear that was the point.
12 Voting, a fundamental right for all, was a victim 13 of the worst display of partisan politics.

14 So, now we are faced with the 15 consequences of these new laws. Common Cause 16 believes the cornerstone of our democracy is the 17 right and ability to vote in free elections. And 18 for the last decade we've invested some time 19 providing nonpartisan voter education to 20 underserved communities. In some of the state's 21 key cities specifically our work has involved 22 canvassing neighborhoods, talking face-to-face 23 with voters. We know firsthand how important that 24 is. In underserved communities particularly we've 25 found that many voters did not know about same-

1 day voter registration. We found that voters
2 weren't always aware of the expansive early 3 voting period providing up to two Sundays and 4 three Saturdays in many areas to be able to cast 5 a ballot.

6 When you're an infrequent voter or 7 someone new to the community, or someone who 8 slipped through the cracks and never registered 9 to vote--and we have nearly a million folks like 10 that in North Carolina--these laws that we've now 11 lost, had been important in helping this 12 constituency exercise their right. Our presence, 13 our door-to-door canvassing and constituency in 14 doing this work--I should say consistency in 15 doing this work in each election cycle we believe 16 had an impact in helping more voters living in 17 underserved communities be able to vote.

18 And now, with these wholesale changes, 19 with no state funding for public education, we 20 wonder how many voters will be disenfranchised
21 because they do not realize that there is a 25-22 day voter registration deadline now back on the 23 books. Or they may not realize that the early 24 voting time period has been cut almost in half.
25 And for the thousands of young people who come to

1 North Carolina for college, many of them enrolled 2 at our historic black colleges and universities, 3 many of the first-time voters, and all of them 4 with a legal right to vote in North Carolina, we 5 worry about how they will understand the new 6 laws, how they will be properly registered on 7 time, and how they will know what to do to obtain 8 the free ID if they must have it to vote. There 9 is no education to speak of, other than what the 10 good government organizations are doing. People 11 who don't receive the outreach we're all 12 collectively trying to provide stand to be 13 disenfranchised.

14 Another danger of the new law is the 15 prospects of voter intimidation at the polls. The 16 new law makes it easier for voters to be 17 challenged. No longer must the accuser live in 18 the same precinct as the accused, and that has 19 the potential to literally open up a voter fraud
20 vigilantism campaign. I've seen firsthand at high 21 volume precincts in minority communities,
22 outsiders come in to ask inappropriate questions
23 of voters outside the polls.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: Right.

25 BOB PHILLIPS: This was nothing more

1 than intimidation, but the law allowed us to have 2 them removed because they indeed were from the 3 outside. Now the new law gives them standing to 4 come to a precinct and observe from the outside,
5 and if moved to, challenge a voter. We already 6 know there are organizations that are dedicated 7 to their own, quote, "poll monitoring" campaigns.
8 We fear this new law opens the door for them to 9 potentially intimidate voters.

10 So, in conclusion, North Carolina has a 11 new election law that will make it harder for 12 people to vote. A new law that was not 13 thoughtfully debated. A law producing dramatic 14 changes that many people are not aware of or will 15 understand. We believe North Carolina has the 16 most unfriendly suppressive voting laws in the 17 land.

18 [APPLAUSE]

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

20 IRVING L. JOYNER: I want to thank the 21 National Commission for this opportunity to make 22 some points. Many of the points that I plan to 23 make have already been made. I want to see if I
24 can tie some of it together. We live in a 25 participatory democracy where people choose to

1 participate in this franchise. And, indeed, that 2 was the case in 1865, after the Civil War, when 3 newly-freed African-Americans and those free
4 African-Americans joined with the Republican
5 Party, farmers, and poor whites to develop a 6 coalition to eagerly engage in the democratic 7 franchise. They participated at a very high rate--
8 -I'll talk about that--to the tune of some 80 9 percent turnout. And that turnout was what it was 10 because there was hope that the democracy was 11 going to mean something to them. And, indeed, it 12 did mean something because during that period of 13 time from 1868 up through 1898, you had more than 14 100 African-Americans elected to serve in the 15 state legislature, both the House and the Senate.
16 You had four African-Americans who served in the 17 U.S. Congress because of that enthusiasm 18 exhibited and the hope that the individuals had 19 that the democracy meant something to them.

20 On the other side of the picture you
21 had the Democratic Party that was intent on 22 blocking the ability of African-Americans to 23 participate in that franchise. And, in fact,
24 under the guidance of Furnifold Simmons, Josephus 25 Daniels, the owner of the Raleigh News and

1 Observer, Charles Aycock, from Wayne County, who 2 would subsequently be elected as governor--they 3 began a demonization of the African-American 4 campaign, to convince whites that they should not 5 consort with African-Americans and join in these 6 multiracial coalitions for the advancement of the 7 state, which led to the 1898 Wilmington
8 rebellion--which basically represented the only 9 coup d'etat that has occurred in the United 10 States history.

11 But following that coup d'etat in 12 Wilmington, participation by African-Americans in 13 the electoral franchise died. And from 1898 14 until 1968, no African-American was elected to 15 serve in the North Carolina House of 16 Representatives. And from 1898 up through-- 17 actually, the 1900s up to 1992, no African-18 American was elected to serve in the U.S.
19 Congress from North Carolina. And that 20 demonization and suppression of the vote led by 21 the Democratic Party was accompanied by physical 22 intimidation...

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Exactly.

24 IRVING L. JOYNER: ...by the Klan and 25 the Red Shirts, and other supporting groups and

1 organizations that effectively stifled the vote
2 of African-Americans during that time. And up
3 until 1959, when we had the case of Lassiter v.
4 Northampton County, challenging the literacy
5 test, there was little enthusiasm in African-6 American communities for exercising the right to 7 vote.

8 1965, the Voting Rights Act came along
9 and our leadership decided--and we talk about it 10 in piecemeal--but there was a conscious decision 11 made in 1968 to go out and run people for 12 political office for the purpose of increasing 13 the voter registration role among African-14 Americans. And you had an Eva Clayton running, 15 you had a Mickey Michaux running, you had a 16 Reginald Hawkins running, you had people running 17 all over the state to encourage people, African-18 Americans, to take advantage of the 1965 Voting
19 Rights Act.

20 Mickey lost. Representative Clayton
21 lost. Other--Reggie Hawkins lost. But what 22 resulted from that was an increase in the 23 registration of African-Americans. Henry Frye won 24 and was the first African-American to be elected 25 to the House since 1898. And the history is that

1 not until 1982 did more than four African-2 Americans serve in the North Carolina General 3 Assembly at the same time. All right? So, from 4 1968 to 1982, only four served at the same time.
5 So, this is recent history. But it's recent 6 history because it resulted from voter
7 suppression. It resulted from voter intimidation, 8 which was going strong. Because when Mickey ran, 9 when Representative Clayton ran, when Reggie ran, 10 they knew that they were subject to being 11 attacked by people around them who did not want 12 them to exhibit the ideal that African-Americans 13 should participate in the franchise.

14 And I say all of that to say that what 15 we have today, we've seen it before. We've seen 16 it in 1890, in 1892, 1898, and all the way up, 17 where you have laws that are designed to promote 18 voter suppression, where you have an attitude
19 that African-Americans ought not be able to vote.
20 A demonization of African-Americans as a whole, 21 and that their participation in the process is 22 somehow evil and destructive to the democratic 23 franchise.

24 So this history bodes us well in terms
25 of understanding what the goal is now. This

1 notion of being able to challenge people at the 2 polls does no more than harken back to the 3 intimidation that we have already experienced. So 4 we know where this is going and that is why we 5 need to fight hard to counter the efforts that 6 are going on.

7 One finally point and that has to do
8 with the effort to enact a new Voting Rights Act.
9 Representative Michaux makes the point that the 10 Voting Rights Act was created to prevent voter 11 suppression. That's what we have today. And if 12 the new Voting Rights Act does not address voter 13 suppression in places like North Carolina, where 14 it's hot and heavy, then it will have absolutely 15 no meaning in the real world.

16 [APPLAUSE]

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Thank you
18 so much. All right, are we able to go to Skype?
19 Okay? Are we...? Can somebody let me know? If 20 not... Okay, and what we're going to do, as soon 21 as we go to Skype and briefly do this 22 presentation, then we're going to have people 23 come to the mics who want to testify for--we're 24 going to just do a really brief public testimony 25 and the panel's going to skip our Q&A but we have

1 sent two questions over that we would like 2 answered for the record. Okay, let's go to the 3 Skype. All right, Sandra, we have you and we're 4 waiting for you to go ahead and start. She is 5 speaking--I can't hear her. Hold on, Sandra, just 6 one minute while we get your volume right. She 7 can't hear us. Sandra, can you hear me? There we 8 go.

9 SANDRA THOMPSON: Good. [UNINTEL PHRASE]
10 something about it. [UNINTEL PHRASE] advocacy. I
11 started my work [UNINTEL PHRASE] in California,
12 but it is clear that North Carolina [UNINTEL 13 PHRASE]. I grew up with [UNINTEL PHRASE] so it is 14 still [UNINTEL PHRASE]. First [UNINTEL PHRASE]
15 voters [UNINTEL PHRASE] especially [UNINTEL
16 PHRASE] it is important to have [UNINTEL PHRASE]
17 longer hours for voting. [UNINTEL PHRASE]
18 election process. As background, North Carolina 19 has [UNINTEL PHRASE] so five largest counties are 20 [UNINTEL PHRASE] and Cumberland. The five largest 21 cities are Charlotte, Raleigh, Greensborough,
22 Winston-Salem, and Durham. The 2010 [UNINTEL
23 PHRASE] 80 counties are rural, having an average 24 population density of 250 people per square mile 25 or less. According to the Census Bureau website,

1 North Carolina [UNINTEL PHRASE]...

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Okay, thank you. We're 3 going to stop right now. And what we'll do is 4 we'll get this statement in writing and thanks
5 very much. If we can end the Skype at this moment 6 because, unfortunately, it wasn't working--which 7 I feared. But anyway, you know, tech--that's the 8 world we live in.

9 Why don't we have people start coming
10 to the mics--and there are two mics set up here 11 in the front of the room. And while you're 12 coming, if we could turn to have our questions 13 answered that we have presented. Representative 14 Michaux.

15 MICKEY MICHAUX: Yes, ma'am.

16 BARBARA ARNWINE: There's a new one,
17 unfortunately, also for you.

18 MICKEY MICHAUX: Oh, are you going to 19 ask me the question or do you want me to...

20 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, you can just go
21 ahead and answer those questions.

22 MICKEY MICHAUX: The first question is,
23 "Is there any legislative effort in the North
24 Carolina General Assembly to reverse House Bill
25 589?" There will not be in this short session

1 because we are limited to what can be introduced 2 and whatnot. What we are basically interested in 3 now is getting a vote turnout so that in the 4 session coming up in 2014, that session--we will 5 have at least reduced the super majority that is 6 there and can create some dialogue. Certainly 7 there will be efforts to repeal it but what will 8 happen there--if the conscious of some folks 9 work, then we should be able to do it, but it's 10 not going to work that way. So what we're going 11 to have to do is rely on the courts and make a 12 real push. We hope to make some progress in 2014.
13 The real push really has to be 2016 when voter ID
14 comes into session, and when we can really make a 15 bigger push. We've got to gear up in order to 16 make some changes in faces in order to get 17 something done.

18 The second question here is that 19 "During the two-three years prior to the 20 enactment of these new voter laws, were you aware 21 of any significant concerns expressed in the 22 General Assembly regarding voter fraud?" Now, let 23 me tell you folks, that's the biggest farce that 24 has ever been played on the people of the state
25 of North Carolina. Even they have now admitted

1 that there was no significant fraud involved in 2 voting in the state. We've had some of the 3 cleanest elections of any state in the union. And 4 this idea about we want to attack voter fraud, we 5 want to prevent voter fraud--it was all in the 6 minds of those folks who were doing it. I don't 7 see how they could imagine anything like that 8 ever happening in terms of voter fraud. Had it 9 happened, I'm certain that the Board of Elections 10 would've found out.

11 The fact of the matter is there are 12 instances where reports of voter fraud were 13 reported, investigated by the Board of Elections 14 and there was no basis for it at all. And that's 15 why I'm glad that Mr. Bartlett is here. I can 16 remember some testimony given before a committee
17 where a lady came in and said that voter fraud
18 had been committed in Durham because a dead 19 person had voted. And she happened to call the 20 name of the person that she was talking about-- 21 and, fortunately, I was sitting there and heard 22 it. I knew the person that she was talking about.
23 The person who voted was Junior who lived in the 24 same house as Senior. Senior was dead, but Junior 25 voted, and they never differentiated between 1 Senior or Junior.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Right.

3 MICKEY MICHAUX: So, that was one that 4 they brought up and everybody said--in Buncombe
5 County again, somebody mentioned Buncombe County.
6 There were instances of fraud mentioned there. I
7 personally talked to the folks in Buncombe County
8 at the Board of Elections there and said there 9 were complaints made but there was no evidence of 10 any fraud--in those specific instances was there.
11 So, fraud was just a big farce.

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much.
13 Anita?

14 ANITA EARLS: So, one question is "How 15 do you suggest challenging the redistricting of 16 North Carolina in the courts?" And I can tell you 17 there are two cases pending right now. One in 18 State Court challenging both the Legislative and 19 Congressional districts--that has been appealed 20 to the State Supreme Court. We're waiting for an 21 opinion. We have also in that case filed a 22 motion--we asked Justice Newby on our State 23 Supreme Court to recuse himself because his 24 campaign was fueled with millions of dollars from 25 the same entity that paid consultants who drew

1 the redistricting maps. He declined to recuse
2 himself. But if we don't get a favorable opinion 3 from the State Supreme Court, we could certainly 4 use help trying to convince the United States
5 Supreme Court to take the case.

6 The other case that's pending is in 7 Federal Court in the middle district, challenging
8 just the Congressional districts on racial 9 gerrymandering grounds.

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much. If 11 everybody will help me thank this panel.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 And while the wonderful, incredible, 14 great testimony--you're going to see this in the 15 report for sure. Excellent job. Outstanding job.
16 While we're transferring, we invite the next 17 panel to please come up. And while that panel is 18 coming to participate, Mr. Gilbert, Ms. Caudill, 19 Gilkeson, and Mr. Lofton, while you're coming up, 20 we also invite people to come to the mics for any 21 public testimony, which we're going to limit to 22 just a few minutes. And we will do more public 23 testimony as we keep on going during the day. I 24 understand Miss Perry has some...

25 [TAPE SKIPS]

1 REVEREND BARBER: ...North Carolina is 2 that not just say civil rights traditional NAACP, 3 but we have this fusion coalition of litigation
4 because the laws are so bad affecting everybody.
5 And so, right out of the bat, we filed against 6 redistricting. The NAACP, and other groups I 7 heard Anita mention--right out of the bat we 8 filed against the voter suppression deal, which 9 is why we're so adamant--that we are seeing the 10 kind of litigation we will be forced into without 11 any clear preclearance protection.

12 And so what it would, in essence, do-- 13 we're battling. And what we don't need the 14 Congress to do is to further assist those who are 15 engaging in voter suppression by disabling 16 methods that we have, i.e. preclearance, and 17 forcing us to have to do even more extreme 18 litigation from our side. And the danger of that 19 litigation is they would be able to enact 20 suppressive laws that would, in fact, go into 21 effect, be utilized--we would have to sue. And 22 then on the backend, if those laws were proved 23 discriminatory, the laws may be rendered 24 unconstitutional, but for two, three, four, five 25 years we would've been actually operating a

1 voting system utilizing those unconstitutional
2 laws. And like a sunrise, you may get another one 3 but you never get the one you have this day. And 4 so it is with a vote. Once you've lost that, you
5 can never get it back again. That is what's so 6 important about why we are so adamant about 7 having this federal protection. Because we're 8 getting ready to be set up in a situation where 9 laws could be put in place, very discriminatory, 10 and be utilized in the electoral process, and we 11 would only be able to amend those after the 12 impact and the damage has been done.

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much. Any 14 other public statements before we move to our 15 panel? After this one we're going to move 16 directly to the panel. Okay, please state your 17 name and then we can get started.

18 CLARENCE ALBERT, JR.: Sure. My name is 19 Clarence Albert, Junior...

20 BARBARA ARNWINE: We can barely hear
21 you, Mister...

22 MAN: Speak into the mic.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Directly into the mic.
24 I know we can't...

25 CLARENCE ALBERT, JR.: Okay, how is

1 that?

2 MAN: Good.

3 CLARENCE ALBERT, JR.: My name is 4 Clarence Albert, Junior, I'm a retired chief 5 petty officer of the United States Navy. I just 6 want to say thank you guys for what you've done 7 and continue to do. Stay geared up, stay on the 8 battlefield because this struggle continues. This 9 is spontaneous--this just came out of my mind
10 since I've been sitting here. The first question 11 is, how do we reintroduce voter registration back 12 into the school system? You know, that was taken 13 out. Propaganda is very effective no matter if 14 it's positive or negative...

15 BARBARA ARNWINE: You might want to hold 16 the mic. We really can't hear you well. There you 17 go.

18 CLARENCE ALBERT, JR: I did that in the 19 Navy a lot. Okay, I find myself alone in the 20 trenches with you guys but I'm seeking 21 illumination. This is where I am in my head right 22 now. I remain in a continuous state of rage
23 because of relative consciousness. That's my best 24 James Baldwin. I want to know how do I prick the 25 consciousness of my peers? What does the flame

1 burn so bright but no one seeks the comfort of 2 its light? Tell me and I will go.

3 I sometimes feel limited in my ability 4 to organize and articulate words to speak and 5 awaken my slumbering people. Tell me and I will 6 go. I've read many books. George G.M. James,
7 Stolen Legacy, Na'im Akbar, Vision of a Black 8 Man, Marvin X, This Crazy House, America. These 9 books have made a significant contribution in my 10 quest for who I am. Tell me and I will go.

11 Also, I want to know from you guys-- 12 tell me where to light the fuse to move, 13 motivate, excite the spirit of my people. These 14 are the areas that I'm dealing with right now.
15 And in listening to you guys, I'm going to make 16 this last statement. I am not sure at this moment 17 in my life if this country has the right name--or 18 has it been named correctly? Because when I hear 19 it, I hear--the first word is United. United 20 States of America. And we're having these 21 struggles and these battles at this time in day?
22 Thank you.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.
24
25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 2

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: At this point, we're
2 going to turn to our next panel. We are really 3 blessed, everyone, to have a great panel of some 4 of the foremost election administration experts
5 in the State of North Carolina and our country.
6 We are blessed to start it off with Mr. George 7 Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert recently retired after 25
8 years of service as the Director of Elections for 9 Guilford County. Prior to serving as Elections
10 Director for Guilford County, Mr. Gilbert worked 11 for the Congressional Research Service in 12 Washington, D.C., and then six years for two U.S.
13 Senators. Mr. Gilbert earned economic degrees at 14 the University of Florida and Florida State
15 University. Mr. Gilbert has spent his career 16 serving the voters of Guilford County and his 17 expertise on the subject of today's hearing is of 18 tremendous value to this discussion. Thank you 19 and welcome, Mr. Gilbert.

20 GEORGE GILBERT: Thank you.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 Judy Caudill is a retired Director of 23 Elections for Lincoln County, North Carolina. She 24 served in this capacity for 43 years. Prior to 25 becoming the director, she served as a poll

1 worker for three years. She graduated from King's 2 Business College. Ms. Caudill was certified as an 3 election administrator by the elections center in 4 the North Carolina State Board of Elections. She 5 was awarded a Certificate of Excellence by the 6 State Board of Elections in 2011. She also was 7 the recipient of the Long Leaf Pine Award issued 8 by the governor in 2011. She was also the 9 recipient of the 2012 Spectrum of Democracy Award 10 for Outstanding Public Servant, presented by the 11 North Carolina Center for Voter Education. We are 12 eager to learn from her almost half-century 13 career as an elections worker. Thank you. We 14 welcome you, Ms. Caudill.

15 [APPLAUSE]

16 Bill Gilkeson is the state's leading 17 expert on election law and redistricting with 18 over 25 years of experience on the legal staff of 19 the North Carolina General Assembly. During his 20 tenure, he advised legislators on employment law
21 and First Amendment law. Mr. Gilkeson
22 participated in redrawing State House, State 23 Senate and Congressional seats. He also worked on 24 legislative efforts to redistricting local 25 governmental boards in several North Carolina

1 counties. His work included preparing county
2 precinct lines for inclusion and census
3 geography, preparing submissions for preclearance 4 under Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, and 5 providing evidence in landmark redistricting 6 litigation such as Shaw v. Reno. A 1985 graduate 7 of the UNC School of Law, Mr. Gilkeson has 8 dedicated his legal career to serving the State 9 of North Carolina. Please welcome Mr. Gilkeson to 10 this panel.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 Ah, and last but not least, Mr. Joseph 13 Lofton is a retired professional who has had 14 prior experiences ranging from everything from 15 food to corrections and the Wake County board of 16 elections. His election experience began in 2005
17 as a member of the Elections Board, with later 18 experiences as chairman of the board until 2013.
19 Mr. Lofton was appointed by the State Board of 20 Elections to chair a three-county hearing panel 21 focusing on residency challenges--issues of a 22 candidate. Mr. Lofton has a BS degree in science 23 from Cameron University, Lawton, Oklahoma, and an 24 MA, master's degree in public administration from 25 Central Michigan University through the Seymour

1 Johnson Air Force Base campus.

2 Mr. Lofton is currently a member of the 3 American Correctional Association, State Employee
4 Association of North Carolina, Minority Pioneers, 5 Wayne County Democratic Party, local branch of 6 the NAACP, and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

7 Alrighty. [CHUCKLES] He was awarded the Bronze 8 Star, First Oak Leaf Cluster for services in the 9 Republic of Viet Nam and presented with Order of 10 the Long Leaf Pine signed by then Governor Mike 11 Easley. Mr. Lofton has visited the Republic of 12 China as a member of an international delegation 13 to the People Ambassador Program focusing on the 14 area of elections. We are thrilled this morning 15 to have this stellar panel. And with that said, 16 everybody, welcome this great panel and Mr.
17 Gilkeson.

18 [APPLAUSE]

19 All right, thank you so, so much. This 20 is the meat of so much of our discussion today, 21 and we really look forward to your testimony. Mr.
22 Gilbert.

23 GEORGE GILBERT: Thank you very much. I
24 really appreciate the commission holding this 25 series of hearings and I appreciate the

1 opportunity and the honor of being invested to 2 testify before this commission. Fortunately, I 3 wrote my written testimony last fall when this 4 hearing was originally scheduled. I say
5 fortunately because my activities since that time
6 have been far removed from the elections arena
7 and I've probably forgotten many of the details
8 that I hope I remembered correctly then.

9 I've been general contracting a 10 renovation of a house that's as old as I am and 11 trying to get moved in. So, I haven't been able 12 to keep up with elections very much, but I will 13 let me my written testimony stand. And in that I 14 included a lot of the details of the impact on 15 election administration. Today I would like to 16 focus my oral presentation on what was almost a 17 parenthetical statement with which I ended my 18 written testimony, and that was that House Bill 19 589 will have the same disenfranchising effect on 20 voting opportunities of many voters who are not 21 members of protected classes but whose rights to 22 vote it is our duty to preserve.

23 As I considered these issues in the 24 intervening months, I thought back to the mission 25 statement that was written by myself and my

1 former staff over 20 years ago, and that 2 statement served as the guiding principle of the 3 Guilford County Board of Elections throughout my 4 tenure there and beyond. And it states, quote, 5 "Our mission is to provide all qualified citizens 6 with the opportunity to vote in fair, accurate, 7 open elections according to constitutional and 8 statutory rights and requirements." Foremost in 9 our minds when that mission statement was written 10 was the integrity of elections. We did not then, 11 nor can we now restrict the definition of 12 election integrity to a matter of simply 13 conducting elections by the book. The question of 14 enfranchising eligible citizens is at the heart
15 of the integrity of elections. Enabling all 16 citizens the opportunity to vote if they choose 17 to do so is the most compelling element of the 18 integrity of our elections. It encompasses both 19 ensuring that ineligible persons do not cast 20 ballots and ensuring that every eligible citizen 21 has the opportunity to cast a ballot.

22 I'm not a lawyer but my understanding 23 of restrictions on constitutional rights is that 24 there should be a compelling public interest
25 served by such restrictions. As elections

1 administrator for Guilford County for 25 years, I 2 never found a compelling public interest that 3 justified the voter ID requirements of House Bill
4 589 nor any of the other rollbacks of voting 5 opportunities that had been granted voters during 6 the past 20 years. As my written testimony
7 documents, voter participation increased 8 dramatically during that period.

9 If enhancing the integrity of elections
10 was the primary motivation of House Bill 589, my 11 experience leads me to the conclusion that the 12 exact opposite will be the result. Talk of 13 election integrity seems to have lost sight of 14 the fact that the denial of one qualified vote 15 has the exact same impact on the election
16 integrity as does casting one unqualified vote.
17 The changes enacted in House Bill 589 will result 18 in far more legitimate votes being denied than it 19 will unqualified votes prevented. The bill is a 20 major setback to the election integrity and to 21 claim otherwise is itself election fraud. Thank
22 you.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you very much.

24 [APPLAUSE]

25 Powerful. I've also been remiss in not

1 pointing out that we are blessed to have a young 2 lady here who is holding up signs to remind us of 3 our time. So, thank you so much and we will 4 definitely be paying attention to your signage as 5 we move forward. Yes.

6 JUDY CAUDILL: I also want to thank the 7 Lawyers Committee for inviting me to participate.
8 As an election official for 46 years, I have seen 9 a mass of changes in the electoral process. From 10 the beginning of the Loose-leaf Permanent 11 Registration System to the present statewide 12 computerization system voters had very few places
13 to register to vote. Limited age requirements, 14 literacy and residency requirements, the limited
15 ability to vote by an absentee ballot without a 16 valid reason. All of this limited a person's 17 right to be eligible to register and vote on 18 Election Day, especially the elderly, minority 19 persons, and young potential voters. Now, under 20 current law and the General Assembly saw to enact 21 laws that prevented all these things from 22 happening--in the current law, modern technology-- 23 -those restrictions have been removed and these 24 people have easier access to all aspects of the 25 elections process.

1 We had come a long way and I'm appalled 2 at some of the requirements in House Bill 589. In 3 my opinion, we are taking two steps backwards in 4 doing what is best for the voter and how the 5 electoral process is managed. The impact of voter 6 ID on voters will prohibit some voters from 7 voting because of the limited forms of acceptable
8 ID. Even persons with photo ID may have problems.
9 Appearances do change as we all age. Women change 10 the color of their hair. Some elderly people may 11 have a problem with transportation to obtain one 12 of the proper IDs.

13 Poll workers and elections
14 administrators will be expected to take the time 15 to determine reasonable resemblance causing 16 longer lines. If poll workers question the 17 resemblance, which may cause confrontations with 18 the voters, even though the voter will be told 19 they may vote by provisional ballot, officials 20 will have to spend more time explaining the law
21 to the voter which, again, will cause longer 22 lines and discourage others from voting.

23 Shortening of the early voting period 24 and the requirement of having to maintain the 25 same number of hours in previous similar

1 elections will be a tremendous challenge for 2 rural counties. Funds to operate additional sites
3 will be hard to justify to county commissioners 4 who are already asking departments to cut 5 expenses and they're not funding money for 6 additional sites. If funds are not provided for 7 additional sites, then poll works for the funded 8 sites and the county election staff workers will 9 have to work longer hours, causing them to be 10 more fatigued and not as alert to the other 11 aspects of their duties.

12 The elimination of out of precinct
13 provisional ballots will cause a tremendous 14 number of voters their right to cast a vote on 15 Election Day. Had they appeared at a one-stop 16 site and got to change their address, they would 17 have been allowed to change their address and 18 given a ballot and they could've voted, and that 19 vote be counted. Something is wrong with this.
20 The general public does not always know current 21 laws. Voters do not intentionally go to an 22 incorrect precinct to vote. For various reasons, 23 some voters will not have the time or 24 transportation not go to their correct precinct.

25 It appears that House Bill 589 has

1 different sets of rules for certain people.
2 Elimination of preregistration occurred about the 3 time of my retirement but, in my opinion, this is 4 clearly going to cause a hardship for our younger 5 generation. I can't speak for other rural 6 counties, but in my county the Board of Education
7 did not feel the need to participate in the voter 8 registration process for their eligible age
9 students, much less the preregistration of 16-10 year olds. They feared being accused of 11 participating in political activity. Therefore, 12 most 16-year olds were informed at the DMV when 13 they applied for the driver's license that they 14 could preregister. Preregistration allowed the 15 younger generation to be eligible to vote when 16 they became qualified. After all, they are the 17 future leaders of our country.

18 I believe that some of the requirements 19 in House Bill 589 will deny some voters their 20 right to vote. Voting is supposed to be our right 21 and not a privilege.

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so, so much.
23 That was powerful. Powerful. Yes.

24 [APPLAUSE]

25 BILL GILKESON: My name is Bill Gilkeson

1 and I'm honored to be here. I thought that one of 2 the reasons that I was invited to be here was not 3 just that I was an attorney who drafted election 4 bills at the General Assembly but also because 5 for 15 years I was a precinct official starting 6 out as the chief judge in my own precinct,
7 ironically at Josephus Daniels Middle School, 8 given his background in all this--and then I was 9 a coordinator of several precincts.

10 I was called the chief judge of my 11 precinct and that was a name that at one point 12 was called the registrar, because the registrar
13 was the person who registered people to vote. You 14 had to register to vote before every election and 15 you had to go before the precinct registrar and 16 he was the guy who determined whether you had 17 properly read and interpreted the Constitution.

18 Fortunately, by the time I got there, 19 the precinct official's job was not to try to 20 keep people from voting but to make sure that 21 everybody who was eligible to vote could vote and 22 vote in an efficient matter--that the polls were 23 operated in an efficient matter. I worked on the 24 early voting legislation while I was at the 25 General Assembly working with the late Senator

1 Martin Nesbitt, who died recently, and it took 2 him several sessions of the legislature to get 3 the early voting as we know it enacted. The first 4 bill that he introduced was titled A Bill to 5 Eliminate Long Lines at the Polls. And he called 6 it that because he understand that long lines at 7 polls, inefficient polling places have the effect 8 of disenfranchising working people--single 9 mothers who are working two or three jobs.

10 And I was honored to be a precinct 11 official and I miss it sometimes. I'm kind of 12 conflicted out of it now. But I'm not sure I 13 would want to do it under the current legal 14 regime after the House Bill 589. I certainly 15 think it would be particularly hard if I were a 16 precinct official in a minority precinct. For one 17 thing, the legislature has enacted redistricting
18 plans with an unprecedented number of split 19 precincts. That means that on Election Day, the 20 officials have more different kinds of ballots in 21 the same precinct and they have to make sure that 22 the right ballot gets to the right voters.

23 In the 2012 Presidential election, the 24 stress of all that was relieved by early voting.
25 Early voting sites are better set up to handle

1 split precincts. And because so many people voted 2 early, the polling places weren't mobbed on 3 Election Day. But now, a week has been cut out of 4 early voting and, theoretically, the same number 5 of hours are to be crammed into the remaining 6 time at different sites. I think this may mean
7 that more people will vote on Election Day--there
8 will be longer lines on Election Day, and there 9 probably will be longer lines at the early voting
10 sites.

11 Another thing is that the bill has 12 eliminated straight ticket voting. This may be 13 one of the sleepers of this bill as far as its 14 effect, particularly in African-American 15 precincts, the African-American voters. There are 16 statistics showing that they disproportionately 17 use the straight ticket--so, what will happen is 18 that when the ballot is long, voters who were 19 accustomed to voting a straight ticket will 20 either have to skip the down ballot races or they 21 will spend a longer time in the voting booth. If 22 they do the latter, that is, fully exercising 23 their right to vote, the lines will back up both 24 at polling places on Election Day and at early 25 voting sites.

1 Then another thing a precinct official
2 may have to face is the possibility of 3 challenges. The bill now allows voters from 4 anywhere in the county to challenge voters on 5 Election Day. It used to be that only a voter in 6 the same precinct could challenge an Election Day 7 voter. In addition, the bill allows political 8 parties to appoint at-large observers who can go 9 to any precinct in the county.

10 I and some of my colleagues have 11 petitioned the State Board of Elections to adopt 12 a rule which we think is justified, that would 13 say that observers cannot challenge voters. It's 14 just inconsistent with their statutory role. And 15 the Board of Elections has agreed to consider 16 that. But in the meantime, I went to a State 17 Board of Elections training session at the 18 beginning of this week, and the election
19 officials there were being told that observers 20 can file challenges. A challenge will result in a 21 mini-trial at the precinct, conducted by the 22 precinct officials while the line backs up.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh, come on.

24 BILL GILKESON: I never had to do that 25 as a precinct official. I don't want to have to

1 do that. And on top of that, in 2016, they've 2 added the voter ID, which presents its own
3 potential mini-trial that voters--its own 4 controversies that the precinct officials will be 5 expected to deal with. And if somebody says that 6 the photo on the ID doesn't resemble the voter,
7 there has to be a mini-trial while the line backs 8 up at that time, while the three judges of the 9 precinct decide that issue. So, I think it would 10 be very hard to be a precinct official these days 11 and do the job that precinct officials are 12 supposed to do.

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you very much.

14 [APPLAUSE]

15 JOSEPH LOFTON: My name is Joseph
16 Lofton. It's a pleasure to be here and thank you 17 for inviting me. First of all, I'd like to thank 18 Mr. Bartlett. When I served as Chairman of the 19 Wayne County Board of Elections, he was 20 available, he was accessible, and he always 21 responded to our requests so it made the job 22 easier for us. And I thank him for that.

23 I was asked to talk about the impact of 24 no Sunday voting, which is near and dear. And I
25 want to say right up front about Sunday voting--

1 my father and grandfather were ministers. So, as 2 far as being engaged in the religious process, I 3 have certainly been engaged in the religious 4 process from a very small kid to the current day.
5 But Sunday voting provides a brief period of 6 availability to the polls for anyone but 7 especially to those with certain issues that go 8 beyond the norm. The debate has been basically on 9 religious grounds. While we know in modern times 10 that people go to church and yet find time to 11 engage in many recreational activities and other 12 things today, i.e., ballgames, movies, beach 13 outings, just pure relaxation, which is good. But 14 also, there is time to go vote if you make that 15 choice. And what I'm saying is the choice should 16 be there for someone to be able to vote on the 17 weekends if they desire to do so.

18 Churches and other groups find it
19 convenient to assist others on Sunday while work 20 and other tasks might make it difficult during 21 the workweek. People can utilize absentee voting 22 but many find it to be extraordinary to show 23 their pride by expressing their constitutional 24 right in person. The trip to the polls for 25 handicapped and others with special needs makes

1 this process personal. There are many elderly 2 that are handicapped and live alone absent of 3 many of our present day communication tools. In 4 fact, many may not have loved ones who can come
5 and provide the information and transportation
6 needed. Consequently, the presence of Sunday 7 voting can be an enhancement to the practice of 8 an activity that is available to all that are 9 qualified to participate in, rather than a 10 deterrence.

11 On one occasion as Chairman of the 12 Election Board, I even found myself in a quandary
13 where there was a disagreement about Sunday 14 voting, had to have a public hearing to get the 15 public input, and at the end of that had to 16 appeal to the State Board of Elections and we won 17 on Sunday voting. But I'm saying that was the 18 kind of challenge that we have been faced with at 19 times.

20 My other discussion is on the challenge
21 to the minority community--and that's a wide 22 range discussion. And I'd like to say, first of 23 all, in my public work I used to use what I call 24 the three C's, and became pretty well known for 25 the three C's. One was communication, the second

1 one was coordination, and the third was--and 2 sometimes more importantly, cooperation. And as 3 we talk about this particular subject, challenges 4 to the minority community, it's important that 5 all the different entities in the minority 6 community come together and practice those three 7 C's so they come out as a single unit as opposed 8 to three or four divided units. Because sometimes 9 that frustrates the people involved in the 10 process and it also kicks you back in terms of 11 your ability to move forward to prepare people to 12 vote. It's going to require some reeducation on 13 some folks about voting--this photo ID that 14 someone has already spoken about, and about other 15 issues that when they are presented to the 16 people, the people accept them not as something 17 that they need to do but they accept it as a 18 challenge and as something that's designed to 19 keep them from voting. That's the way they 20 perceive it.

21 Providing transportation requires a
22 coordinated effort--to get people to the polls 23 who are not able to get there on their own. And 24 if we're going to get as many folks as we can out 25 to vote, we have got to work on these specific

1 issues. Reduction in polling sites, change in 2 polling hours serve to confuse those who have 3 voted for years and not feel that their 4 activities are directed at them. The possible 5 threat of having more observers at the polls can 6 provide a threatening atmosphere. And there's 7 been some discussion about having more observers 8 in there--that can not only be confusing to the 9 voter, but it can be confusing to the people that 10 work in the polling site. Particularly when these 11 folks are challenging and doing things that 12 sometimes they're not required to do or 13 authorized to do. Thank you.

14 [APPLAUSE]

15 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much. At 16 this time, the panel is going to ask questions 17 and we're going to do this for a little bit under 18 ten minutes, and then we're going to turn to the 19 public testimony again. All right, yes, go ahead, 20 Raymond Pierce. Here you go.

21 RAYMOND PIERCE: Okay, thank you. I 22 mean, clearly, you all are knowledgeable, and 23 proficient, and experienced with respect to the 24 voting laws and voting processes of the state. My 25 question is, were any of you ever called or are

1 you aware of any of your colleagues that were 2 called to testify before the General Assembly of 3 the state during the deliberations of this House
4 bill--to inform their decision making and the law
5 making process? Were the professional bodies, 6 people such as yourselves, who manage and run and 7 direct elections for the state and have done so 8 for many years, were you called or were you aware 9 of any of your colleagues that were called to 10 testify and help inform the legislation when they 11 were deliberating on this House bill?

12 BILL GILKESON: I spoke at a public
13 hearing. I signed up and spoke at a public 14 hearing for three minutes, I guess.

15 GEORGE GILBERT: By the time this bill
16 was enacted, I was retired. But I was not aware 17 either in the early stages of consideration of 18 this bill, and I've communicated with some of my 19 colleagues since--not aware of any of them being 20 consulted regarding the impact of the bill.

21 RAYMOND PIERCE: And then one follow-up
22 question. Again, were any of you all aware 23 firsthand or secondhand--and when I say
24 secondhand, through your professional colleagues 25 in the election direction processes throughout

1 the state--were you aware of any significant 2 calls of concern with regard to voter fraud in 3 advance of this?

4 GEORGE GILBERT: Well, I didn't serve
5 nearly as long as Judy here did but--we never had 6 any evidence of voter fraud in my 25 years of 7 service. I had conversations with members of the 8 General Assembly over the past ten years about 9 this issue, and those who support this bill 10 always claim that, "Well, yeah, it's going on, 11 you just can't see it." And my position on that 12 is that you cannot disprove something for which 13 there is no evidence. Thank you.

14 [APPLAUSE]

15 JUDY CAUDILL: In the 46 years or the 43
16 that I worked in the Elections Office, we never 17 had a hearing on voter fraud.

18 ELLIE KINNAIRD: Madame Chair, I have a 19 question for Bill Gilkeson.

20 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, please.

21 ELLIE KINNAIRD: Because he was the 22 drafter of many of these, both when we were 23 expanding the voting access and then--

24 BILL GILKESON: I didn't draft this 25 bill. I didn't do this bill at all. It was gone

1 by the--

2 ELLIE KINNAIRD: Were you gone by then?

3 I hadn't realized that. Okay, well, perhaps you 4 can then just comment on what would have 5 happened, since you were not there when this 6 latest bill was... I was wondering if anybody 7 used statistics in drafting the bill--the impact 8 on cohorts of voters because I do know that 9 during the floor debate in the Senate, Angela 10 Bryant, who, by the way, is a Senator from this 11 area, was able to demonstrate--and by that time 12 we had iPads rather than paper. I still have 13 paper, but we had iPads. And they were able to 14 show on every single screen--Angela Bryant had 15 charts that showed the impact of each of these, 16 particularly early voting and voting in the wrong 17 precinct, of the severe impact because of the 18 numbers of people who had used early voting and 19 whatnot.

20 So, those statistics--that information 21 was available to the people who were drafting the 22 bill. Would that have had any effect on that 23 drafting of that bill to show the negative impact 24 on cohorts of voters?

25 BILL GILKESON: Well, as you say, I

1 think some of this information was available and 2 the bill was enacted anyway. There is one theory
3 that says we don't care about disparate impact. I
4 think as long as everybody is affected, as long 5 as all voters are affected by the same rule, then 6 that's--to some minds that translates to 7 nondiscrimination. I think Chief Justice John 8 Roberts once said--I think he said in the oral 9 argument about the case--

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: Shelby.

11 BILL GILKESON: In the Shelby County
12 case about Section 5, he said something to the 13 effect of "The way to avoid discrimination on the 14 basis of race is not to discriminate on the basis 15 of race."

16 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

17 EVA CLAYTON: I have a question.

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, right here?

19 EVA CLAYTON: I also want to ask... Did
20 you find during your experience that Section 5 21 was easy or difficult to enforce?

22 GEORGE GILBERT: I found that complying 23 with Section 5, which we were subject to 24 throughout my tenure there, was a relatively 25 simple process. The Justice Department was always

1 easy to work with, they were always responsive, 2 they never demanded more information than we 3 could provide. 99 percent of the time we knew 4 exactly what information they wanted and were 5 able to provide it, and with no follow-up they 6 were approved. We never had a Section 5
7 preclearance request denied. I'm not saying that 8 there weren't things suggested sometimes that 9 might've been denied, but we avoided those 10 because of Section 5 preclearance. So, it was 11 very much an active part of our considerations in 12 making the decisions at Guilford County.

13 JOE LOFTON: And I concur with that.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Yes, David?

15 DAVID HARRIS: Quick question to Bill
16 Gilkeson. Good to see you again. Bill, you've 17 been a little bit modest here. You also worked 18 with the [UNINTEL] Legislative Black Caucus
19 during the 2011--

20 BILL GILKESON: Yes, indeed, with you.

21 DAVID HARRIS: You were the map guru and 22 you flagged to the caucus and to the rest of us 23 initially all of the split precincts that were in 24 the maps that were ultimately adopted. And the 25 number of split precincts was unprecedented in

1 number. I notice also that House Bill 589 states 2 that if someone files a provisional ballot in the 3 wrong precinct, that ballot is not counted, even 4 if it's in the same county. You alluded to it 5 earlier, but can you kind of expand on what is 6 the probable impact of the combination of the 7 split precincts and this new provision in House
8 Bill 589?

9 BILL GILKESON: Well, what the precinct
10 officials would have to do is, if a precinct is 11 split, they're going to have--every precinct has 12 all the ballot styles, all the different kinds of 13 ballots that every voter in that precinct is 14 eligible to vote, and they have to give that 15 ballot to the right voter. Now, if the voter is 16 assigned to a precinct and they go to that 17 precinct and vote, they should be able to vote a 18 regular ballot. The problem is they may not--it 19 becomes difficult for the precinct officials to 20 determine what the right one is to give them.

21 So, it's entirely possible that people 22 will be given the wrong ballot and will vote the 23 wrong ballot, not as a provisional ballot but 24 just as a regulator ballot that cannot be 25 retrieved.

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: All right. In 2 following up on David's question, is there any 3 requirement by law or by regulation that people
4 are informed that they are at the wrong precinct 5 and what their correct precinct is?

6 BILL GILKESON: I don't believe it's 7 stated in the statutes. I went to a training 8 session earlier this week of the Board of 9 Elections, and they were talking somewhat about 10 this problem. What they said was that--I'm pretty 11 sure they expect the precinct officials to tell 12 the voter whether they're in the right precinct
13 or not and if they're not, what the right
14 precinct is. But some voters will want to vote a 15 provisional ballot anyway because that precinct 16 is all the way across town and it's 7:15.

17 The instruction that was given to 18 people--and it was orally--was that the precinct 19 official can tell people when they give them the 20 provisional ballot "This ballot will only count 21 if you're in the right precinct."

22 Apparently the staff of the Board of 23 Elections has decided that the prohibition on 24 counting out of precinct provisional votes will 25 not apply to a voter who has an unreported move.

1 It will apply to a person who goes to the wrong 2 precinct as a result of convenience--just for 3 purposes of convenience.

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's terrible. Thank 5 you. Will everyone join us in thanking this 6 incredibly wonderful amazing panel.

7 [APPLAUSE]

8 I think I can say on behalf of everyone 9 here that we are grateful to you for your 10 service. You've done a great job for the people 11 of North Carolina and for our nation--and for our 12 democracy. Thank you so much.

13 [APPLAUSE]

14 We invite the next panel to please 15 assemble and while that...

16 [TAPE SKIPS]

17 Go ahead.

18 JENNY CATORLICH: My name is Jenny
19 Catorlich. I'm from Apex and I have been a worker 20 at the polling place for the last seven years.
21 I'm very much opposed to this law for all of the 22 reasons that have been stated before, but I just 23 wanted to add my experience as a poll worker.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: Good.

25 JENNY CATORLICH: In addition, I can

1 definitely imagine with the loss of early voting
2 and the voter IDS with the split ballots, it
3 definitely will make for very long lines, 4 particularly in primary elections where--our 5 polling place had nine ballots already before the 6 redistricting. I can imagine there being many 7 more afterwards. And in a Presidential election 8 when you've got long lines to begin with, if 9 we've lost a week of early voting we're going to 10 have longer lines already, which discourages
11 voters to begin with. And if we have to cut lines 12 off at 7:30, you're sending people away. It's 13 unconscionable.

14 What concerns me almost more than that 15 is that it's poisoning an experience for people.
16 Our polling place--and I believe this is true 17 from my experience in election training for other 18 works in Wake County--but our polling place has 19 been a place where it's almost a celebration of 20 democracy. People come together, and it's the one 21 time you're with your neighbors and you're 22 voting, and you set aside parties--even though 23 you're voting in a partisan election, and you're 24 working with other people to make an election, to 25 encourage people to vote--and that's all we were

1 there for was to encourage everyone to have the 2 chance to vote. But these laws with three judges 3 having to decide if you look like your ID and 4 having to rule on challenges and the chance that 5 you've got a line held up with that kind of 6 thing, and people in the lines starting to choose 7 sides when the country is already divided enough, 8 I think it's going to make matters worse. And 9 it's an impact that I hate to see happen. It's 10 just another bad impact of this already bad law.

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: And as a poll worker, 12 how do you think this mini-trial procedure is 13 going to affect the administration of the vote?

14 JENNY CATORLICH: I can't even imagine
15 it. I would think the only way you could manage 16 it would be to pull the person out of line but 17 that's going to take three poll workers
18 automatically out of commission. So, that's going 19 to slow down. So, you're going to need more 20 workers. But as was stated earlier, I can imagine 21 that a lot of workers are going to refuse to work 22 once we see what these laws are.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh, my goodness.

24 JENNY CATORLICH: Which then makes you 25 wonder about the people who are going to be

1 willing to work under these conditions. I am very 2 concerned about elections in North Carolina as I
3 haven't been in the 25 years I've lived here.

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much.
5 That was great.

6 JENNY CATORLICH: Thank you for the 7 chance to speak.

8 [APPLAUSE]

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much.
10 Yes, the young lady right here? Hold on--your 11 mic, we're going to turn it on.

12 MADISON GIMMERY: Hello? I'm Madison
13 Gimmery. I'm concerned about the elimination of 14 the opportunity for 16 and 17-year olds to 15 preregister to vote and be automatically added to 16 the voter rules when they turn 18--which was one 17 of the first parts of the new voting law to go 18 into effect. The opportunity was granted by a 19 bill that passed with overwhelming bipartisan 20 support and went into effect in 2010. There were 21 no reports of anyone casting a ballot before 22 turning 18.

23 The program was essentially cost-free 24 and information on the pending applications was 25 not available to the public. Over 160,000

1 teenagers preregistered here in North Carolina
2 when they went to the DMV to get a driver's 3 license or through programs in their high 4 schools. In 2012, 30 percent registered as 5 Democrats, 30 percent as Republicans, and 40
6 percent as Independents. 18-24 year olds have the 7 lowest voter registration rate out of any group
8 in North Carolina and a much lower rate of voter 9 turnout. The Commission on Youth Voting and Civic 10 Knowledge recently issued a report in which they 11 looked at how to increase civic engagement among 12 youth. One of their recommendations was voting 13 reforms that allowed preregistration and tying 14 this with civics lessons in schools. This is what 15 North Carolina was doing before September 1st of 16 this year.

17 Voters who become engaged at an early
18 age are much more likely to stay engaged. A study 19 conducted at NYU showed that in Florida,
20 teenagers who preregistered turned out in higher 21 numbers than those who registered after turning 22 18.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Wow.

24 MADISON GIMMERY: I feel very strongly 25 that our state needs to invest in its future and

1 we should be encouraging our young people to take 2 an active role in shaping the policies that 3 affect our state and our nation. Thanks for 4 listening.

5 [APPLAUSE]

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.
7 Outstanding. Thank you, thank you, Madison. Yes?

8 NEHEMIAH SMITH: That's hard to follow.

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: I know. She's 10 outstanding.

11 NEHEMIAH SMITH: My name is Nehemiah
12 Smith. I own the Weekly Defender, which is an 13 African-American weekly that covers 27 counties
14 in eastern North Carolina. I get an opportunity 15 to interact with a lot of people in my coverage 16 area, and my coverage area is mainly rural. And 17 what I have found is that the people are so 18 intimidated by this new law in the rural areas-- 19 and it has a lot to do with their history, the 20 history of getting the opportunity to vote and 21 fighting for that, and now it seems as though 22 that's being taken from them.

23 For instance, one lady came to me and 24 she said, "Well, Mr. Smith, I just don't know 25 what to do. I went to the polls and the man said

1 that he was going to arrest the folk if they 2 didn't stay 50 feet back from the polls." Well, 3 she didn't understand that he was talking about 4 those people who were working with the campaigns.
5 And so she turned around and left because she 6 wasn't 50 feet away. She felt intimidated. And he 7 came out screaming and hollering. Well, she 8 didn't understand that thing.

9 There was even an instance I think in 10 [SKYLAR NET?] where one of the poll workers said
11 something about voter ID and the lady said, 12 "Well, I don't have my ID" so she left.

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh, my goodness.

14 NEHEMIAH SMITH: And this kind of thing 15 is going to continue to go on in these rural 16 areas. In a metropolitan area you have people 17 that are going to be there and say, "No, wait a 18 minute, this is not going to happen." But in a 19 rural area it's going to be very difficult if 20 there's not some intensive education about what 21 the law is and when it goes into effect. There 22 are going to be some major problems in these 23 rural areas and you're going to see that the 24 numbers of people that are voting drops. And I
25 think it's going to drop precipitously.

1 So, this law is foolish. The Word says,
2 "Forsake foolishness that you may live" and I 3 just don't understand how the people in the rural 4 areas are really going to get the opportunity to 5 express their right if they already feel 6 intimidated.

7 BARBARA ARNWINE: Okay.

8 NEHEMIAH SMITH: I come from a family
9 that--my maternal great grandfather voted--three 10 years later he died, okay? But the thing is we 11 have made a pledge in our family that no matter 12 what, when you turn a certain age, you register
13 to vote.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes.

15 NEHEMIAH SMITH: So, when I go into the 16 voting booth, it is an exercise of respect for a 17 man that just got the right and died a couple of 18 years later. Please don't take this away from 19 those people that may have had the same 20 experiences in their families. Thank you.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. And this is 23 going to be our last public testimony. Go ahead.

24 EVELYN PAUL: My name is Evelyn Paul and 25 I felt motivated to speak from this gentleman

1 here. I'm from Craven County, which is about two 2 hours southeast of here. Our claim to fame is we 3 are the county were the gentleman in 2008 brought 4 a coffin with Barack Obama inside of it for his 5 freed of expression. And so I can tell you that 6 these new laws with poll watchers scare me half 7 to death for the same reason--because of the 8 added possibilities of intimidation with these 9 new poll watchers. I was telling Mr. Joyner and 10 some other people I've already looked at the new 11 election judges and most of the election judges 12 that are assigned--we have 23 precincts--most of 13 the election judges are assigned from the two 14 primary precincts that are 98 and 97 percent 15 white Republicans and have been assigned to most 16 of the precincts as the primary election judges.

17 Almost all of our precincts are split
18 and I work the polls every year and I have seen 19 some of the same things that this gentleman
20 reported. People get scared because all they hear 21 is "You're 50 feet from there, you shouldn't be 22 there. Where is your ID?" And they're low 23 information voters, they haven't voted 24 frequently, and they don't understand that this 25 person has no business telling them that, and

1 they get in their car or they walk. They leave
2 and they don't vote. And they don't realize that 3 they've just been disenfranchised and they don't 4 come back again. And they don't know who to call-5 -and they don't vote. And it just scares me how 6 many people will not vote just based on scare
7 tactics. And this is just a terrible law and I 8 just pray that it does not go through because 9 people--everybody has the right to vote and it's 10 wrong to deny anyone this right to vote. Thank 11 you.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Thank you
14 so much. Thank you.

15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 3

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: At this point we're
2 going to turn to our next panel that's going to 3 focus on accessibility... [TAPE SKIPS] ...really 4 honored that you're here to talk about a very 5 critical issue about access to the ballot. And I 6 just--you know, we're indebted to you for your 7 advocacy and for your work.

8 I want everyone to know that what we're 9 going to do is we're going to have this panel and 10 after this panel, we're going to again have 11 questions from the commissioners and we're going 12 to go to an open mic, and at one o'clock we're 13 going to break for lunch. And because I have to 14 step out for a few minutes after the 15 introductions and the beginning of your 16 testimony, we're going to have David--I 17 understand David Harris has been requested to see 18 this panel through until the lunch break. I hope 19 to rejoin during lunch.

20 The first person who has graciously
21 agreed to come and share the important testimony
22 about accessibility at the polls is Ms. Mercedes 23 Restucha?

24 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Restucha.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Restucha-Klem. She is

1 a staff attorney with Disability Rights North
2 Carolina, which is a federally mandated nonprofit 3 law firm that protects and advocates for the 4 rights of people with disabilities. Ms. Klem 5 advocates for employment programs and 6 agricultural architectural assets and voting 7 rights. She works tirelessly to remove any 8 barrier, physical or otherwise, which prevents 9 people with disabilities from exercising their 10 right to vote. Before joining Disabilities Rights 11 North Carolina in 2011, Mercedes practiced in 12 criminal defense and immigration law. She is a 13 graduate of North Carolina's Central School of 14 Law where she was editor on the Law Review, and 15 the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill.

16 Currently, Mercedes serves on the 10th
17 Judicial District Wade County Bar Association 18 Communities and Technologies Commission, she is 19 also on the board of United North Carolina.

20 Please welcome Ms. Klem to the panel.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 Ms. Mary Bethel. Bethel?

23 MARY BETHEL: Bethel.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: There we go. Ms. Mary 25 Bethel is Associates State Director for Advocacy

1 with AARP North Carolina, where she works to 2 develop and implement AARP's advocacy activities
3 initiatives in North Carolina. This includes 4 efforts which are state-focused as well as those 5 pertaining to national initiatives and campaigns.
6 Prior to joining AARP in October of 2005, she 7 worked for almost 30 years with the North
8 Carolina Division of Aging and Adult Services 9 where she served in a variety of administrative, 10 supervisory, and program capacities.

11 For the last 11 years of her tenure 12 with the division she was special assistant to 13 the director. While at the division she served as 14 lead staff person for external and legislative 15 affairs and for matters related to health, 16 consumer advocacy, and special population groups.
17 Thank you for your service and think you for 18 joining us today.

19 [APPLAUSE]

20 Ms. Erika Hagensen is the Director of 21 Public Policy and Advocacy at the Arc of North 22 Carolina. Prior to moving to North Carolina, 23 Erika served as the Executive Director of the 24 Joseph P. Kennedy Junior Foundation in Washington 25 D.C. Erika later became the director of

1 disability rights, family and technology policy
2 for the Arc of the United States and United 3 Cerebral Palsy's Disability Policy Collaboration,
4 DPC. During her tenure at the DPC, Erika
5 successfully lobbied with the larger disability 6 community to restore the Americans With 7 Disabilities Act to Congress's original intent 8 through the passage of the ADA Amendments Act of 9 2008. That same year, Erika received the OMB
10 Watch Public Interest Rising Star Award for her 11 pursuit of governmental accountability, citizen
12 participation, and social justice. Thank you, 13 Erika, for joining us today. And ladies and 14 gentlemen, another star panel. So, we start.

15 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Thank you. In 16 North Carolina, individuals with disabilities
17 vote at a rate that is 14 percent below the rate 18 of the general population. This voting gap is 19 consistently doubled that of the gap at the 20 national level. People with disabilities in North 21 Carolina have long faced...

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: Uh-oh, bring the mic
23 up. Oh, is it on? Okay, speak louder.

24 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: People with 25 disabilities in North Carolina have long faced

1 substantial challenges with voting well prior to 2 recent legislation. Barriers include not being 3 able to access the polling site because it's not 4 physical accessible, and not being able to cast a 5 private and independent vote. We also routinely 6 hear of complaints to local boards of election
7 that people who arrive at the polls in a van or a 8 bus from a facility do not appear to be eligible 9 to vote and are presumed to be incapable of 10 voting and subject to coercion by facility staff 11 or others.

12 Those who live in residential
13 facilities or who may need assistance or other 14 accommodations to cast a ballot have to navigate 15 burdensome processes to exercise a fundamental 16 right. And even when these legal and physical 17 barriers are removed, attitudinal barriers based 18 on generalizations, stereotypes, and biases
19 continue to prevent individuals from casting a
20 ballot.

21 Individuals under guardianship and 22 individuals who live in nursing homes, state or 23 county-run institutions, community-based 24 residential facilities or other private 25 institutions face a host of barriers to voting.

1 Our state statute makes it a felony for a care 2 facility staff to assist a voter in requesting, 3 casting, or witnessing an absentee ballot. In 4 light of the isolation experienced by many 5 facility residents from anyone other than 6 facility staff, this limitation has effectively 7 disenfranchised voters living in facilities.

8 Although state law provides that local 9 boards of elections must organize multi-partisan 10 assistance teams to assist voters in facilities 11 with absentee ballots, few counties are in 12 compliance. VIVA directed the State Board of 13 Elections to develop rules and procedures to 14 guide the local boards of elections regarding 15 these multi-partisan assistant teams, and 16 Disability Rights North Carolina is closely going 17 to be monitoring those efforts.

18 VIVA also requires that any newly-19 purchased voting machines produce a paper ballot, 20 and while this is a good move, in any new 21 technology purchases full accessibility and 22 universal design need to be a primary factor. As 23 a result of the Help America Vote Act, each 24 polling site now has an accessible voting machine
25 but they're generally found stashed in a corner

1 of the room. Local election staff frequently do 2 not have proper training on operating the 3 machines and are often completely unfamiliar with 4 the technology. Comprehensive training must be 5 provided when acquiring and using any new 6 technologies.

7 The most discussed change as a result
8 of VIVA is the photo identification requirement.
9 During the last election, our experiences with 10 voters living in facilities demonstrated that 11 over 10 percent of those registered voters who 12 attempted to vote by absentee ballot did not have 13 their ballot counted due to failure to provide 14 proper identification or proof of residence. And 15 this was prior to the passage of VIVA and the 16 photo ID requirement.

17 People with disabilities will be 18 disproportionately affected by the photo
19 identification requirement in two key ways:
20 Compared to the general population, they're less 21 likely to have access to the necessary documents 22 to obtain identification. People struggling with 23 maintaining their physical and their mental 24 health, living on low incomes, and who already 25 have a difficult time meeting their daily needs

1 will find it difficult to prioritize obtaining 2 the identification in order to vote. Many 3 individuals with disabilities do not currently 4 have a driver's license or a photo identification 5 card. They don't receive bills or other 6 documentation and they may often move or are 7 homeless and do not have the required
8 documentation to verify their residence.

9 The second limitation is that photo
10 identifications are currently only available
11 through the Division of Motor Vehicles. The DMV 12 is not well-positioned or equipped to meet the 13 access needs of people with disabilities, many of 14 whom do not drive, and rely on public 15 transportation.

16 Another change created by VIVA was the 17 elimination of the same-day registration and 18 shortening of the early voting period, and we've 19 discussed this. But depending on the nature of an 20 individual's disability, the flexibility
21 available to vote at any time during the weeks 22 leading up to an election make it more likely 23 that the person will be able to vote, depending 24 on the nature of their illness or the medication
25 that they're taking. Long lines on election days

1 discourage individuals with mobility impairments, 2 medication management concerns, or others who 3 just fatigue easily from participating in the 4 process. Any further limits on early voting will 5 pose challenges to voters with disabilities and 6 will further contribute to the existing gap that 7 is present in this population.

8 Lastly, during the most recent 9 legislative session, a bill was introduced to 10 eliminate the right of people under guardianship
11 to vote.

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: What?

13 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: While it was 14 not adopted, there were still many out there who 15 would like to curtail the voting rights of people 16 who need help managing their finances or help 17 making healthcare decisions. Some believe that 18 people with disabilities are more vulnerable to 19 have their vote influenced or exploited. The fear 20 of fraud cannot trump the right to vote.

21 Our guardianship laws in our procedures 22 bear no relationship to what is required in 23 determining the capacity to vote and any attempt 24 to conflate the two would likely be 25 unconstitutional. If there are any questions

1 about exploitation, the focus should remain on 2 addressing the acts of the wrongdoers and 3 promoting accessible opportunities for all 4 eligible voters to vote. And I'll be happy to 5 answer any questions at the end of the panel.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much.
7 Thank you. Please.

8 [APPLAUSE]

9 MARY BETHEL: Hi. Again, I'm Mary
10 Bethel, I'm with AARP North Carolina. We have our 11 state office in Raleigh. We have 1.1 million 12 members for AARP in North Carolina and our 13 membership is 50-plus. I want to commend the 14 previous speaker for all she said and just offer
15 a big amen for the comments that she made. Now, 16 my comments are going to focus specifically on 17 issues related to accessibility for older adults.
18 As we know, voting is a birth right of all
19 Americans and the most basic of political rights.
20 Older voters, many of whom have lived through 21 several wars and times when they had to fight for 22 voting rights, vote in disproportionately greater 23 numbers than other age groups in elections in our 24 state and across the country. We are concerned 25 about any rules or requirements that impose

1 unfair hardships on a person's effort to 2 participate in the electoral process.

3 In the debate about photo ID that took 4 place in the last legislative session, we 5 expressed our concern along with many other 6 groups that have talked today, that the basic 7 right to vote could be compromised by a voter ID
8 requirement. Now, older voters are significantly 9 less likely to have a photo ID compared to 10 members of other age groups. The Brennan Center
11 for Justice estimates that approximately 18
12 percent of older adults do not have a photo ID.
13 In North Carolina we have over 1.3 million people 14 over the age of 65, and if you take 18 percent of 15 1.3 million people, that's 234,000 individuals.

16 We know that most people prove their 17 eligibility to vote with a driver's license and 18 House Bill 589 does contain a provision that an 19 expired license or a passport can be used, and if 20 it was current when someone turned 70 it may be 21 used for life. There are, however, we know, many 22 older adults, particularly the 85-year olds, the 23 old-old, who have never had a driver's license in 24 our state. Now, House Bill 589 provides for the 25 issuance of a special ID card, that was mentioned

1 previously, by the Division of Motor Vehicles for 2 a person who does not have a driver's license.
3 There is no fee for this card if certain criteria
4 are met, including if a person's blind, over age
5 70, or homeless. Another criteria for obtaining a 6 special ID card without a fee is not having an 7 acceptable photo ID.

8 Now, the bill also spells out
9 provisions for issuing a certified copy of a 10 birth certificate or a marriage certificate to a 11 person over the age of 62 for the purpose of 12 obtaining a photo ID. Now, all this is well and 13 good, however, coming up with the documentation 14 for that birth or marriage certificate can pose a 15 problem for many folks if they do not have these 16 in their possession.

17 Older adults are more likely not to 18 have a birth certificate because many of them 19 were born before the recording of births was 20 required in a standardized procedure. If you do 21 not or cannot find your birth certificate, it may 22 not be possible to get one depending on where you
23 were born. Also, if you happened to be born out 24 of state, that can impose an additional barrier 25 for someone trying to do this. Going through the 1 process of gathering information to prove your 2 identity may prove to be a real challenge, 3 particularly for someone of advanced years and 4 someone who also may have significant health

5 problems.

6 In addition, the issue of getting 7 transportation, particularly in rural areas where 8 we have a lack of transportation resources or 9 less options available, may provide an additional 10 obstacle for older drivers being able to gather 11 this information to get their ID but also to get 12 to the Division of Motor Vehicles to actually 13 have an ID picture taken if they are able to do
14 that.

15 We also know that there was a provision
16 in House Bill 589 that stipulates that you do not 17 need a photo ID if you use a mail-in ballot or 18 you qualify for curbside voting. This will be an 19 aid to many folks but there will also be some 20 folks who fall through the cracks. We anticipate 21 there will be more people who are going to be 22 using curbside voting, and this is certainly 23 going to be an issue that local boards of 24 election are going to need to take into 25 consideration--because they're probably going to

1 have to have more individuals that are there to 2 assist people with curbside voting and possibly 3 also have more space available for curbside
4 voting, too.

5 We have concerns that changes may occur
6 to our voting laws--due to the legislation that 7 was passed--resulting in there being longer lines 8 at the polls. Many seniors and people with 9 physical disabilities, as already been noted, may 10 find it difficult to stand for long periods of 11 time, and they actually may give up on the 12 process of voting. We know the longer the lines, 13 the more likely the person is to be deterred from 14 waiting and to become frustrated with the whole 15 election process.

16 As the previous speaker noted and we 17 concur, there are special challenges to voting 18 for people in long-term care facilities. The 19 American Bar Association recently urged state, 20 federal, and local governments to improve the 21 access of residents in long-term care facilities 22 by establishing mobile polling stations.
23 Evaluation of mobile polling stations in the 24 State of Vermont found that the facility staff as 25 well as election officials reported mobile

1 stations made voting more convenient and 2 accessible for residents, it reduced the workload 3 for election officials, and it minimized the 4 threat of fraud or coercion.

5 We also think that there could be 6 issues with older adults not realizing that on 7 Election Day they have to go to the precinct poll
8 where they live. Now, older adults sometimes move 9 in on a temporary basis with family members or 10 reside for a short term in a place other than 11 their home, and this takes the away from their 12 precinct polling place. So, some folks could be 13 disenfranchised that way.

14 In closing, I just want to say that 15 AARP certainly realizes there is a great need for 16 education of older adults regarding the new 17 voting law in North Carolina, and that we plan to 18 engage in a voter education process, and we also 19 want to work with many of the partners in this 20 room that we've worked with on many things over 21 the years. Thank you again.

22 [APPLAUSE]

23 ERIKA HAGENSEN: Thank you for the 24 opportunity to provide testimony regarding voting 25 accessibility concerns for North Carolinians with

1 intellectual and development disabilities or IDD.
2 My name is Erika Hagensen and I'm with the Arc of 3 North Carolina. The Arc has provided advocacy and 4 services to people with IDD and their families 5 since 1953. We believe that people with 6 intellectual and developmental disabilities have 7 strengths, abilities, and inherent value, that 8 they are equal before the law and must be treated 9 with dignity and respect.

10 With the time allotted I'd like to 11 highlight some of the concerns we have with some 12 of the most recent changes with the passage of 13 House Bill 589. With regard to photo ID, as my 14 panelists have so very eloquently articulated, to 15 obtain a valid photo ID a voter must use a 16 variety of supporting documents. Many of those 17 documents are unavailable to individuals with 18 IDD, or they have an expense to secure them. And 19 if you live poverty and extreme poverty, any 20 expense is a high expense. While H-Bill 589 21 directs the state to assist a person born in 22 North Carolina with a free birth certificate, 23 someone born outside the state lacks that 24 support.

25 The DMV is the gateway for this valid

1 ID process for many individuals. The law lacks
2 clear rules on how DMV employees will be trained
3 to effectively assist this population, a 4 population they don't work with on a daily basis.
5 Similarly, while the law states that 6 identification cards will have no fee, the rules
7 and regulations governing this process have yet 8 to be issued. We find that concerning.

9 With regard to the physical 10 accessibility of the DMV offices, again, the 11 gateway for these free IDs, many counties don't 12 have a DMV office itself but a mobile DMV
13 station. Similarly, the location of DMVs are 14 designed with drivers in mind, many are off major 15 transportation lines, and this really curtails
16 the access for people who require transportation
17 assistance.

18 Regarding the reduced list of 19 acceptable forms of ID, there's any number of 20 concerns. I'll highlight that state college IDs 21 are no longer acceptable proof of identity. This 22 restriction really impacts students with IDD in 23 our state who participate in vocational programs 24 in our community colleges and through programs at 25 state colleges. Students are very proud of their

1 student IDs. They carry it with them every day.
2 It seems reasonable that they could use this in 3 the voting process.

4 With regard to the elimination of same-5 day registration, early voting, and 6 preregistration of 16 and 17-year olds--same-day 7 registration, we worked tirelessly to create this 8 as an opportunity for North Carolinians in 9 general. It's an opportunity for all people to 10 exercise their right to vote. When you take this 11 away, it creates, as Mercedes noted, multiple 12 steps that are required to make that voting 13 process possible. You have to know when the 14 registration deadline is, you have to get your 15 documentation together, you have to perhaps 16 secure transportation support, physical support 17 in and out of the building, or to negotiate in a 18 non-disabled world. That's many steps which could 19 really curtail the opportunity for people to 20 exercise their right to vote.

21 By reducing early voting by a week,
22 again, those same processes are in place. You 23 often require assistance in the voting process 24 and it's difficult to align your schedule with 25 the person who supports you to make that

1 possible. There's also decreased access for 2 individuals who are employed and trying to manage 3 the voting opportunity with their employment 4 responsibilities.

5 Finally, as it was so eloquently 6 articulated earlier, the elimination of 7 preregistration for 16 and 17-year olds in public
8 schools--we think this is a universally bad
9 choice. We should be encouraging the opportunity, 10 the rights and responsibilities of voting for all 11 people and doing so at an early age. By 12 eliminating this opportunity it particularly 13 impacts people who included voter registration as 14 a tangible component of their individual
15 education program or IEP plan. It coordinates 16 with civics classes, transition goals, and many 17 other post-high school preparation opportunities.

18 And with my last minute I'd like to 19 talk about the massive increase to the 20 opportunity to challenge voters and how that will 21 impact individuals with disabilities. We know 22 that individuals with identifiable markers for 23 minority groups are more likely to be challenged, 24 and voters with disabilities will surely be 25 subjected to increased scrutiny. This is a

1 population that undergoes regular bullying, this 2 is a population that sometimes has a decreased 3 ability to navigate new and uncertain situations
4 and certainly stressful situations, and we see 5 this as a particularly concerning situation.

6 Of particular note, we find it odd that 7 while IDs aren't required until 2016, someone can 8 challenge a voter prior to that time and ask to 9 see their voter ID. We think it's absolutely 10 inconceivable that you could be challenged on 11 something that is not yet legally required. The 12 Arc will work tirelessly with our partners to 13 educate our community, to educate lawmakers, and 14 to ensure that the right to vote for individuals 15 with intellectual disabilities and all North 16 Carolinians are protected. Thank you.

17 [APPLAUSE]

18 DAVID HARRIS: Thank you to each of the 19 witnesses. The information you provided is 20 extremely insightful. Right now I'll ask if any 21 commissioners have any questions.

22 WOMAN: You presented--or somebody from 23 your organization presented before the 24 Legislative Committee?

25 MARY BETHEL: Yes.

1 WOMAN: I know that Mary did, but I'm 2 just wondering... When you presented these facts
3 that you have just listed here to the committee
4 members, what was their reaction to these facts, 5 that this will greatly diminish the ability of 6 these cohorts of voters to vote?

7 MARY BETHEL: I would say that not only 8 did we present to the committees that were 9 hearing the discussion on the bills, but many of 10 us, including Disability Rights, AARP North 11 Carolina, and others actually met a lot with the 12 leadership of the General Assembly that was 13 putting together the legislation. Regarding voter 14 ID, now, we really didn't have a whole lot of 15 input into the rest of the bill--but the voter 16 ID, there were numerous meetings that we did have 17 with the leadership. And I do think that some of 18 the accommodations, if you want to call them 19 that, that were put into the bill--for instance, 20 like allowing a person, if they have an ID, a 21 driver's license at the age of 70, that's still 22 good for life. Those types of things--and some of 23 the things with curbside voting, things like that 24 were things that were added from the original 25 provisions that were proposed.

1 WOMAN: I just want to say they really
2 didn't want the AARP down on them. That's why 3 they allowed 70-year olds to keep that.

4 WOMAN: Did I misunderstand that 5 oldsters who live in resident areas can or cannot 6 have a guardian to help them with their voting?

7 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Individuals
8 living in facilities can have their guardian or a 9 near relative assist them to vote but the 10 facility care staff can't help them vote.

11 WOMAN: I'm glad you're making the 12 distinction. If my mother lives in a place, I can 13 help her...

14 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Yes, ma'am.

15 WOMAN: But the people in the rest home
16 or retirement can't help them?

17 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Exactly, right.

18 WOMAN: So, what happens to people who 19 don't have any guardians outside? What happens to 20 them.

21 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: That's the 22 major concern is that most people don't have 23 their guardian... Or often times it's the county 24 that's their guardian, or their family doesn't 25 live nearby and consider taking them to vote. And

1 so what the state has in place are called multi-2 partisan assistance teams that are organized by 3 the local boards of elections. When we called in 4 the last election the counties that had the most 5 residential state facilities for people with 6 disabilities, they didn't even know what we were 7 talking about. And so, the new legislation has 8 kind of beefed up their requirements to 9 promulgate those rules and to provide training to 10 the local boards, but what we found is that very 11 few counties are in compliance or prepared to do 12 what needs to be done to help these individuals
13 vote.

14 WOMAN: Okay.

15 MAN: Mercedes, you said that the 16 Department of Motor Vehicles--you don't believe 17 that they're prepared for this.

18 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: No.

19 MAN: Can you talk a little bit about 20 that? I want to push that.

21 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Erika, you
22 mentioned the fact that most DMV offices--many 23 are not on public transportation lines. And so 24 that's one thing. You're assuming that somebody 25 is going to be able to drive up. That's one thing

1 that people with disabilities--many do not drive.
2 And that's the first barrier. And then just the 3 attitudinal barriers of working with individuals 4 with intellectual disabilities, visual 5 impairments, accessible technologies, hearing
6 impairments--just the cultural competence that it
7 takes to navigate and communicate effectively
8 with individuals, the DMV does not have it.

9 MAN: Okay, and a follow-up. Irma? Is it 10 Irma?

11 ERIKA HAGENSEN: Erika.

12 MAN: Erika, I'm sorry. You were talking 13 about the elimination of student IDs and its 14 impact on IDD students.

15 ERIKA HAGENSEN: The preregistration
16 process?

17 MAN: Yes.

18 ERIKA HAGENSEN: Oh, the student IDs,
19 yes.

20 MAN: The student IDs. I want you to 21 talk a little bit more about that, also.

22 ERIKA HAGENSEN: Well, it was previously
23 an acceptable form of ID. It's one that students 24 have and they're proud of. They keep them--they 25 show them to everybody, they have them every day,

1 and they're proud to be part of that system. It's 2 just terribly unfortunate that they can't use
3 that and be prepared in the next piece of living
4 as an adult in their community. Yeah.

5 WOMAN: I just wanted to make an 6 observation between that they did between 7 students and AARP--people like me who they know 8 vote, we can tell--what, our Social Security? But 9 a student who's in college and registered to 10 vote, they can't use their ID. Do you understand 11 the difference?

12 ERIKA HAGENSEN: And this is a 13 population that we should be engaging in every 14 way to participate in this process.

15 WOMAN: Absolutely. Absolutely.

16 ERIKA HAGENSEN: The young lady made an 17 excellent point earlier--you get individuals 18 engaged, the more likely they're going to be 19 engaged and continue to be engaged. So that was 20 an excellent point that you made earlier and it's 21 likewise with every population.

22 DAVID HARRIS: We'll continue this 23 discussion but I wanted to go ahead and mention 24 if anyone wished to address the commission during 25 this time, before we break at one o'clock, come

1 on down and line up at the mics. Thank you.

2 MARY BETHEL: One of the provisions of 3 the new statute is that for people who have some 4 impairment and cannot get out of a building, for 5 instance--they're in some sort of a nursing home 6 or group home and can't get out--they now have to 7 have a team of two people to come in while they 8 are voting and monitor the voting. This is going 9 to be an obstacle, I would think, that is going 10 to be very great.

11 MERCEDES RESTUCHA-KLEM: Yes, those are 12 the multi-partisan assistance teams that are just 13 not going to work. As I mentioned, the main 14 counties that house the main state-run
15 facilities--you know, Granville County--did not 16 have an idea of what a multi-partisan assistance
17 team was two years ago. And so to be able to rush 18 to get it done now prior to the primaries...

19 JULIANA CABRALES: Good afternoon. My 20 name is Juliana Cabrales and I'm here with NALEO, 21 the National Association of Latino Elected and 22 Appointed Officials. The National Association of 23 Latino Elected and Appointed Officials' NALEO
24 Educational Fund is pleased to have the 25 opportunity to provide the National Commission on

1 Voting Rights with recommendations to improve
2 Latinos' voting experience in North Carolina.
3 NALEO Educational Fund is the leading nonprofit, 4 nonpartisan organization that facilitates full 5 Latino participation in the American political 6 process, from citizenship to public service. Our 7 current voter education and outreach efforts
8 expand in California, Florida, New York, Texas
9 and most recently North Carolina.

10 One of our key efforts is the operation
11 of the National Bilingual Hotline for Voter
12 Education and Protection, 888-VEIGOTA. In 2012, 13 the hotline received over 21,000 calls for 14 general information incident reports. Through the 15 hotline and field poll observation reports we 16 have identified several barriers that impede 17 Latino political participation and effective
18 election administration.

19 First, the lack of effective language
20 assistance at polling places. Second, unnecessary 21 and cumbersome requirements for voter
22 registration and casting ballots that produce 23 administrative complications during elections.
24 And, third, lack of basic information about and 25 understanding of the process of voting.

1 The Latino population in North Carolina
2 comprises 9 percent of the statewide population.
3 From the overall Latino population, 81 percent
4 speak another language at home. Latino 5 participation is significantly enhanced by the 6 access to translated materials and availability
7 of bilingual poll workers at convenient voting
8 locations on Election Day who are readily 9 available to provide comprehensive in-person
10 assistance.

11 A polling place or election
12 administration office that lacks accessible 13 translated materials, bilingual staffing, and 14 awareness of voter rights to assistance to third 15 parties will predictively impair the ability of 16 Spanish-dominant voters to obtain service and 17 subsequently cast a ballot.

18 In 2012, more than 12 percent of the 19 calls to our National Voter Information Hotline
20 came from voters who reported inadequate language 21 assistance or lack of translated materials at 22 their polling site. Similar issues were reported 23 throughout North Carolina.

24 Unnecessary requirements to vote. From 25 state cutbacks on early voting and limits on

1 same-day and third-party voter registration to 2 identification and proof of citizenship 3 requirements marked a new breaking point of 4 obstacles for Latino participation. Findings from 5 the hotline demonstrate numerous voters encounter
6 challenges with government agencies and agencies 7 administering public benefits, including the 8 Department of Motor Vehicles, which in some cases 9 failed to provide voter registration cards or 10 properly process registration applications. The 11 election administration landscape also 12 contributed to confusion for Latino voters.

13 Unnecessary requirements and increasing 14 complexity disproportionately affects 15 underrepresented voters. As such, we strongly 16 recommend that election officials and 17 policymakers advocate procedures that are 18 streamlined, transparent, and easily understood.
19 Thoughtful and easily understood messaging about 20 newly adopted changes goes hand in hand with a 21 thoughtful and deliberative process.

22 Most fundamentally, Latino voters
23 continue to lack basic information about the 24 understanding of the process of voting. More than 25 13,000 callers sought basic information about the

1 voter registration policies, including where and 2 how to register, when registration deadlines
3 were, and whether the caller was validly 4 registered. Over 6,700 calls sought basic 5 information about casting a ballot, inquiring
6 about issues such as the location of the caller's 7 polling place and procedures for casting early or 8 absentee ballots. 20 percent of calls reported 9 problems with availability of provisional 10 ballots, and 27 percent of voters attempting to 11 cast a ballot were registered but not found in 12 poll books. We encourage the use of user-friendly 13 tools and procedures to inform citizens of their 14 status as voters.

15 In conclusion, there are over 250,000
16 eligible Latino voters with nearly 96,000 to be 17 registered here in North Carolina. The Latino
18 electorate in North Carolina increased 27 percent 19 from November 2012 to 2013 alone--more than any 20 other group statewide. A combination of 21 education, training, and mobilization are 22 recommended as key strategies for effectively
23 engaging the Latino community. Focused attention
24 to outreach strategies targeting voters,
25 potential voters, poll monitors, and poll workers

1 remains essential to protecting the Latino vote.

2 Thank you.

3 [APPLAUSE]

4 DAVID HARRIS: Do any of the 5 commissioners have questions or a statement?

6 MAN: One follow-up question. 250,000
7 registered?

8 JULIANA CABRALES: No, the potential--
9 Latino elective, yes.

10 MAN: What was that number you gave 11 after that?

12 JULIANA CABRALES: 96,000, which is what 13 we believe is the Latinos that are yet to be 14 registered but are eligible and could potentially 15 become voters.

16 MAN: And can you speak to, or do you 17 have any information on what the voting trend has 18 been in terms of increase of that percentage that 19 is registered?

20 JULIANA CABRALES: So, the numbers I
21 stated from 2012 to 2013, there was an increase 22 in 27 percent in the Latino electorate in the 23 state. Larger than any other group statewide.

24 WOMAN: Was that increase in voting or 25 in registration?

1 JULIANA CABRALES: In registration.

2 WOMAN: In registration. So, what 3 percentage of those who registered--are they 4 voting?

5 JULIANA CABRALES: I don't have those 6 numbers with me but I'd be glad to share them for 7 the record.

8 WOMAN: Okay, that'd be helpful. Because 9 we're finding that that is also increasing--at 10 least in the statistics that are in here--showing 11 that of the registration, those who are 12 registered are also voting more. I think in 2012, 13 it was up to 80 percent of blacks--and that's a 14 record because we haven't voted... In fact, more 15 blacks voted in 2012 than 2008. My question is, 16 given that, why didn't we do better with the 17 Presidential election in 2012? But the facts show 18 there is an increase in minorities, and hopefully 19 that's also for Latin Americans, too.

20 JULIANA CABRALES: Yes. And I also know
21 that statewide, of all minority voters, Latinos
22 are the ones that vote at lowest percentages. So, 23 if there has been an increase, it's definitely a 24 smaller portion of the population than in other 25 minority groups.

1 WOMAN: Okay, okay.

2 MAN: And participation in early voting-
3 -did you talk anything about that?

4 JULIANA CABRALES: No, I did not touch
5 on that.

6 MAN: Okay, thank you.

7 DAVID HARRIS: Any additional questions
8 that the commissioners have for our witnesses?

9 MAN: I want to thank them.

10 DAVID HARRIS: Anyone else from the 11 floor wish to speak before we break for lunch?
12 Hold on a second. Do we break for lunch? Do you 13 wish to speak? Go ahead.

14 SUSAN PERRY-COLE: Good morning--or 15 maybe it's afternoon. My name is Susan Perry-
16 Cole, I'm a resident of Edgecombe County, and I
17 want to thank the National Commission on Voting 18 Rights and the Planning Committee for coming to 19 Edgecombe County. This is my home county and I 20 wanted to offer just a few brief remarks from the 21 point of view of this county and rural counties
22 in Eastern North Carolina.

23 I would like to begin by associating
24 myself with some of the remarks that Irv Joyner
25 and Bob Hall made concerning the state's long

1 history of placing race front and center as an 2 effective tool for raising the specter of--I'm 3 going to say in quotes, "negro domination". Irv 4 called it demonization and suppression of the 5 vote, but this is a part of the culture and 6 history, unfortunately, of our state. And as we 7 come forward today looking on that long history 8 of voter intimidation and suppression, it's not 9 hard to predict what might happen here.

10 I would like to say that in the 11 Thornburg v. Gingles decision they did refer to a 12 pattern of racial block voting in North Carolina, 13 and this pattern, again, is deeply rooted in this 14 earlier history of white supremacy campaigns that 15 date back to the late 1800s. And racial block 16 voting is still in existence, still alive and 17 well today, and it's a part of the fabric--
18 particularly in rural Eastern North Carolina.

19 I would also like the panel to be aware 20 that here in Edgecombe County, there is an 21 extensive record of widespread voting abuses and 22 discrimination against black voters, which 23 reached a fever pitch in the '80s when there was 24 a proliferation of viable black candidates who 25 were motivated to run and in many instances win

1 elective office. Voting complaints were so
2 widespread in our area that the U.S. Department
3 of Justice's Civil Rights Division did find that 4 the likelihood existed that minority voters would 5 not be allowed to cast a ballot without 6 interference in particular polling places on 7 Election Day and, therefore, federal observers 8 were appointed here in Edgecombe County. At that 9 period in time, Edgecombe County was the only 10 county in North Carolina where federal observers 11 were ever assigned. I don't know if that has 12 changed up until the present day.

13 So, again, speaking from the point of 14 view of this rural region that we're in, I'd like 15 to point out that Edgecombe County is one of 12
16 rural counties that is still experiencing double-17 digit unemployment. And in my community, which is 18 a predominantly black community, this county, we 19 have a high poverty rate and where we have a 20 growing number of elderly residents. And,
21 therefore, we believe that the law that you're 22 looking at, this voter suppression law, would 23 have a devastating impact on our region.

24 Voting statistics show that many of 25 North Carolina's low-income elderly and blacks

1 tend to vote for Democrats, and this is the 2 population that I believe that this law was 3 intended to disproportionately impact. Democracy 4 South, which testified today, has documented that 5 blacks constitute 29 percent of early voters, 34 6 percent of same-day registration voters--that was 7 in 2012. We also are 34 percent of the voters in 8 the state without driver's licenses. A recent 9 study found, in fact, that 318,000 North Carolina
10 voters have no driver's license and no state ID.

11 Given the history of voter intimidation
12 in our area, I'd like to mention just a couple of 13 factors that I think might surface going forward 14 in the atmosphere we're in now. First of all, in 15 the absence of federal preclearance requirement, 16 it is impossible to know when local election 17 officials are moving precincts or making other 18 voting-related changes that might have a 19 discriminatory impact on black voters. There's 20 some evidence now that some early voting 21 locations are being moved. So, really, at the 22 local level we're at a disadvantage in a state 23 with 100 counties, trying to follow all this 24 stuff without preclearance requirements. Also, 25 there's enormous power at the local county level

1 to adopt discriminatory voting strategies without 2 these preclearance protections. And, again, it's 3 difficult to monitor in a timely fashion just 4 what is going on. With respect to oversight, 5 oversight by state and local officials now
6 increasingly is drawn from the ranks of ultra-7 conservative forces, and I'm not sure that will 8 provide an adequate protection for those of us at 9 the local level.

10 There's been some discussion earlier
11 this morning about voter intimidation and I just 12 want to mention that my understanding is, under 13 this new law there will be the ability to appoint 14 more monitors inside of the polls. And I think 15 people talked about these little mini-trials that 16 you'd have to go through if someone challenges
17 your right to vote. And I know here in this area, 18 many of the elderly would be very much at a 19 disadvantage to assert themselves in the face of 20 being challenged under those circumstances.

21 So, I just want to conclude and say
22 that, you know, five or six years ago, I never 23 thought I'd be standing here talking about things 24 that we thought we took care of 30 years ago--but 25 here we are now, we're back--sort of back to the

1 future, back where we were 30 years ago. And I'm 2 just really grateful--and I know this has been 3 hard sitting on the panel and listening to all of 4 us rattle on, but I'm ever so thankful for all of 5 you taking time out to listen to us and to show 6 that this is an important right that we must 7 protect. Thank you.

8 [APPLAUSE]

9 DAVID HARRIS: Any questions? We'll 10 break for an hour. Be back at 2 o'clock. Thank 11 you.

12 WOMAN: Thank you, everyone. Our 13 commissioners, we have lunch waiting for you 14 around the corner in this building, but go to 15 your left and then make another left.

16 [TAPE SKIPS]

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: --and OIC again for 18 being magnificent hosts. Thank you so, so much.
19 And, yes, I'm hearing extra praise for the 20 chicken. Okay. And the beef. All right. So, 21 everybody's having a ball, so that was great.

22

23

24

25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 4

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Moving on with our 2 agenda to keep us on time, we're happy to 3 introduce panel 4 which will discuss the impact 4 of new voting rules on minority voters.

5 This is a panel that is, once again as 6 we have been hearing, a panel of just amazing 7 star leaders. We are so appreciative of your 8 taking your time to lend to this compilation of 9 great evidence and information regarding barriers 10 to voting, both electoral and based on 11 discrimination. This has been fabulous.

12 It is my pleasure to start this 13 afternoon by introducing somebody who really, 14 truly needs no introduction because he is one of 15 the national leaders of Great Report, a true 16 citizen of North Carolina and a native son of 17 great, great leadership. Rev. Dr. Barber
18 graduated Cum Laude from North Carolina Central 19 University in Durham, North Carolina, receiving 20 his BA in political science. He received a 21 masters divinity degree from Duke University
22 where he was a Benjamin Mays fellow and a dean's 23 scholar.

24 Rev. Dr. Barber has a doctoral degree
25 from Drew University in Madison, New Jersey with

1 a concentration in Public Policy and Pastoral 2 Care and he has received an honorary doctorate of 3 humane letters from NCCU.

4 The honorable Governor Beverly Purdue
5 presented Rev. Dr. Barber with the Order of the 6 Long Leaf Pine, North Carolina's highest 7 citizenship award presented to outstanding North 8 Carolinians who have a proven record of service 9 to the state.

10 Rev. Dr. Barber II is the President of 11 the North Carolina State Conference of the NAACP 12 since 2005 and was reelected to the national 13 board of the NAACP in 2011 and was appointed as 14 the national NAACP chair on the Legislative 15 Political Action Committee.

16 Under his leadership the NAACP
17 developed a new 21 century voter registration, 18 voter participation system. In North Carolina 19 this system registered more than 442,000 new 20 voters.

21 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: In the nation.

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh, nationally. Okay,
23 thank you. Nationally--I'd say that was going to 24 be real good for North Carolina. Okay. Nationally
25 this system registered more than 442,000 new

1 voters and provided access to 1.5 million voters.

2 Since Rev. Dr. Barber became president,
3 he led the North Carolina NAACP state conference
4 to national recognition when he accepted the 2006
5 Juanita Jackson Mitchell Esq. Award for legal 6 activism, the highest award in the NAACP for 7 Legal Redress for Advocacy. In addition, in 2008
8 the NAACP of North Carolina became the recipient
9 of the Thalheimer Award for most programmatic 10 NAACP State Conference and in 2010 Rev. Dr.
11 Barber won the National NAACP Kelly Alexander
12 Award. But he's also gone viral on the internet
13 because when you say Rev. Dr. Barber's name, 14 everybody says and if you haven't voted yet, if 15 you ever need the vote you need the vote now and 16 he has been such a leader of Moral Monday and so 17 many other things and an inspiration to the 18 nation.

19 It is my pleasure to welcome Dr. Rev.
20 William J. Barber again to our proceedings.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: My next honor is to 23 introduce Miss Penda D. Hair, co-founder of the 24 Advancement Project in 1999. She is an innovative 25 racial justice organization that works alongside

1 community and grassroots groups to eradicate 2 structural inequities and create a just 3 democracy.

4 Ms. Hair has spearheaded litigation
5 against voter restrictions, discriminatory
6 electoral provisions and other civil rights
7 violations across the nation. Ms. Hair currently 8 serves on the team of lawyers representing North 9 Carolina NAACP in a federal voting rights lawsuit 10 filed in August of 2013 challenging the state's 11 recent voter suppression law.

12 She also is counsel in cases
13 challenging onerous photo ID requirements in 14 Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. Under her leadership, 15 Advancement Project has produced groundbreaking 16 reports on voting rights including In Pursuit of 17 an Affirmative Right to Vote in 2008 and What's 18 Wrong with this Picture?: New Photo ID Proposals 19 Part of National Push to Turn Back the Clock on 20 Voting Rights in 2011.

21 Ms. Hair is the former director of the 22 Washington DC office of the NAACP Legal Defense 23 and Education Fund and the author of the 24 Rockefeller Foundation's report on innovative 25 civil rights strategies, Louder Than Words:

1 Lawyers, Communities, and the Struggle for 2 Justice in 2001.

3 She is a graduate of Harvard Law School
4 and the University of Tennessee. She clerked for 5 Federal Appellate Judge Wilfred Feinberg and U.S.
6 Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun. She is a 7 frequent TV and radio commentator on issues of 8 race and democracy and, as she told me in the 9 hall, Penda said, "It's good to be in North 10 Carolina." Welcome Penda Hair.

11 [APPLAUSE]

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: Miss Allison Riggs is 13 a staff attorney for the Southern Coalition for 14 Social Justice. Her work focuses on voting rights 15 and environmental justice. She has been with the 16 Southern Coalition since 2009 and her voting 17 rights work over the last five years has been 18 focused on redistricting and combating voter 19 suppression. She has litigated redistricting
20 cases in Texas, Florida, Tennessee and North 21 Carolina.

22 She has been a dedicated advocate in 23 defense of the constitutionality of Section 5 of 24 the Voting Rights Act. Attorney Allison Riggs 25 received her undergraduate, Master's Degree and

1 J.D. from the University of Florida in 2 Gainesville, Florida.

3 During law school, she was the student
4 coordinator for the Restoration of Civil Rights
5 Project--a student organization that provided 6 assistance to applicants seeking to have the 7 State of Florida restore to them their right to 8 vote following a felony conviction.

9 Welcome Allison Riggs.

10 [APPLAUSE]

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: And rounding up this 12 illustrious panel, Chris Brook. Mr. Brook 13 currently serves as the Legal Director of the 14 American Civil Liberties Union of North Carolina.
15 He received both Bachelor of Arts and his law 16 degree from the University of North Carolina at 17 Chapel Hill. After graduating from law school in 18 2005, he worked as an associate at the Raleigh
19 law firm of Cranfill, Sumner & Hartzog for three 20 years before joining the newly formed Southern 21 Coalition for Social Justice in 2008 as a Staff 22 Attorney.

23 From 2007 to 2011, Mr. Brook also 24 taught in the Legal Research/Writing Program at 25 the UNC School of Law as an adjunct professor.

1 Mr. Brooks has worked with grassroots community 2 partners, coalition partners and the legal 3 community while serving the State of North
4 Carolina. Thank you for your service. It's a 5 welcome and an honor for you to be here today.

6 Ladies and gentlemen, that is our panel
7 and we will start with Rev. Dr. Barber. Thank 8 you.

9 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Thank you so
10 much attorney Arnwine.

11 On behalf of the NAACP, our vice 12 presidents across the state, especially our first 13 vice president and national board member Ms.
14 Caroline Q. Coleman, more than 100 branches, more 15 than 200 partners in our Forward Together Moral 16 Movement, 945 arrestees and after 114 Moral 17 Monday events since April of last year more than 18 100,000 people gathering to stand against voter 19 suppression and other issues on February the 8th.
20 And on behalf of our Plaintiffs, Rosanell Eaton, 21 Mary Perry and Caroline Q. Coleman, I wanted to 22 come today and to give this testimony and submit 23 fuller records to you as well.

24 Last June the Supreme Court decided 25 Shelby County v. Holder which granted the voting

1 rights--guttled the Voting Rights Act. In his 2 ruling for the majority last June, Chief Justice
3 John Roberts argued that there is no longer need 4 for the federal government to actively ensure 5 voting rights. But he and five who joined him 6 were terribly wrong and we know that here in 7 North Carolina.

8 Justice Ruth Ginsberg, in a brave and 9 blistering dissent to the majority, stated the 10 patently obvious: the reason things have changed
11 since 1965 because of the Voting Rights Act, 12 because the Voting Rights Act has been in place 13 since then.

14 She wrote: Throwing out preclearance
15 when it has worked and is continuing to work is 16 like throwing away your umbrella in a rainstorm 17 because you are not getting wet.

18 Prior to Shelby, only 40 counties in 19 North Carolina were considered, even though we 20 believe historically many more should have been 21 considered to be covered jurisdictions. After 22 Shelby--none in some sense under the new Shelby.

23 Over the past 30 years the Department
24 of Justice has logged more than 40 objections to 25 changes in voting laws in North Carolina many of 1 which were based on same or similar changes that 2 were ultimately passed as a part of this extreme 3 voter suppression law and we are clear to never 4 call it a Voter ID Law. It is a voter suppression

5 law.

6 But it did not start with that. The 7 first thing the extremists in our Legislature did 8 was they passed the worst voter redistricting 9 plan since the 19th century, stacked and packed 10 52 percent of black voters into 27 house
11 districts and 49 percent of black voters into 19 12 of 50 senate districts. And then after Shelby or 13 prior to Shelby, the General Assembly had been 14 considering a more narrow voter suppression law.
15 But after the Supreme Court's decision the 16 extremists realized that they were not as free, 17 but they were going to go as far as they could.

18 As one legislator put it immediately
19 after Shelby, "Now we can go with the full bill."
20 Another legislator actually said after Shelby, 21 the day it was passed, "Now that the headache has 22 been removed.

23 This person was the leader of promoting 24 in the bill--now that the headache has been 25 removed. It went on to pass the most regressive

1 voter suppression bill since Jim Crow. This voter 2 suppression law rolls back popular early voting
3 including Souls to the Polls on Sunday that 4 thousands of North Carolina citizens have used
5 and more than 70 percent of black voters use 6 during early voting in 2008-2012.

7 One of the things about this voter
8 suppression bill is it does not deny people
9 certain voting rights--we are actually rolling 10 back rights that people have already used in more 11 than two elections. In a state that has had the 12 highest increase of voters in the last two 13 presidential elections and African-American votes 14 in 2012 was higher than any other demographic.
15 This Legislature chose to end same-day
16 registration though African-Americans cast 34
17 percent of same-day registration ballots.

18 It refuses to allow counties to count 19 provisional ballots mistakenly cast in the wrong 20 precinct. African-Americans cast 30 percent of 21 out of precinct ballots, even though they are 22 only 22 percent of the electorate. It limits 23 early registration and ends entirely for 16 and 24 17 year olds, bars counties from keeping polls 25 open to accommodate long lines and gives

1 vigilante poll watchers more power to challenge
2 voters.

3 Now this bill also requires all voters
4 to show specific forms of voter ID, but bans
5 student IDs, non-North Carolina driver's license 6 making it the worst Voter ID Bill, worse than 7 South Carolina and Alabama. 318,000 registered
8 North Carolina voters do not have a DMV-issued 9 driver's license or state ID. 67 percent of them
10 are black, white and Hispanic women.

11 They claim that it was because of in-12 person voter fraud, but the speaker of the house 13 went on MSNBC and actually admitted that it was 14 not because of fraud and one of their operatives 15 when asked on TV about this particular voter 16 suppression said this, "If it affects a bunch of 17 lazy blacks who want to get free things from the 18 government so be it."

19 The North Carolina State Conference and 20 the NAACP in 47 minutes after they signed this 21 particular voter suppression and other plaintiffs 22 were the first to bring a lawsuit in Federal 23 Court in North Carolina claiming that HB59 passed 24 the General Assembly on July 25th violates 25 Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act and the 1 Constitution.

2 Finally, not only must we litigate
3 under Section 2, but we need bipartisan effort to 4 strengthen and amend the current proposed VRA 5 Section 4 fix that is before the Congress. We 6 need all of our allies to stand with us. We do
7 not need a Washington Beltway fix. We need a fix 8 that will deal with the continuing reality of 9 voter suppression and racialized voter
10 suppression bills.

11 The bill has been started, but we can't 12 stop until the fix guarantees preclearance, 13 especially for North Carolina, Alabama, South 14 Carolina and Virginia. To suggest that there is 15 not enough racism in North Carolina, there's not 16 enough racism in voting in Alabama, there's not 17 enough racism in South Carolina where the 18 Confederate flag still flies, to have a bill that 19 guarantees preclearance when it is initiated is 20 just wrong.

21 Anyone who tries to pass a law that 22 leaves these southern states out--I want you to 23 hear me on this--anyone, democrat, republican, in 24 the civil rights community, any organization
25 purporting to stand for the civil rights

1 community that does not fight to strengthen and 2 amend, does not say these states must be covered 3 are enemies to voting rights--no matter what 4 color, no matter what kind. To suggest that we 5 can accept the Voting Rights Act fix that gives 6 us less than we won on the Edmund Pettus Bridge 7 is wrong.

8 To suggest that the Tea Party is 9 greater than white supremacists of the 1950s and 10 that we are more afraid of the Tea Party than we 11 are of slave masters in the 1800s is just wrong.
12 And anybody who in the back room, front room or 13 out in public signs on and pushes this without it 14 being strengthened in an amendment becomes an 15 accessory to the crime of future voter 16 suppression throughout the state, throughout this 17 country.

18 I have heard some say this is the best
19 we can get. My word, especially to black people 20 who are in those rooms, is thank god Harriet
21 Tubman didn't negotiate for three days of freedom
22 and four days of slavery. Thank god that Rosa 23 Parks didn't negotiate for a little fairer 24 treatment of segregation. Thank god that 25 Frederick Douglass didn't negotiate for just a

1 better, more humane system of slavery and thank 2 god that Ms. Boynton, who I met last week on the 3 Edmund Pettus Bridge, is over 100 years old--was 4 the woman that was beaten. Her picture is an 5 iconic picture of being beaten on that bridge.
6 Thanks god those marches 49 years ago did not 7 simply ask for just what they could get.

8 Remember, finally, President Linden
9 Banes Johnson told Dr. King, he said, "We can't 10 do the Voting Rights Act." Dr. King picked up his 11 hat. He said, "Where are you going?" He said, 12 "I'm going out to create the condition to make 13 this possible."

14 You never negotiate before you fight
15 and anybody, democrat, republican, black, white 16 that is negotiating a fix that does not help the 17 people fight is participating in our future
18 demise and we must stand against it.

19 [APPLAUSE]

20 BARBARA ARNWINE: Let me just say one
21 thing for the record that's very important. I 22 just want to, because this is being videotaped
23 and it will be part of the official record, I 24 just want to remind and say that this is a non-25 partisan hearing, that we are not--this hearing

1 is not meant not designed to influence any 2 pending legislation before Congress because we 3 can't do that as a 501(c)(3) org in this context.
4 So I just want to be very clear that we welcome 5 everyone's comments, but the official purpose of 6 this hearing is not designed to influence
7 specific pending legislation. Thank you.

8 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: And I did 9 check with my lawyers before I came here to make 10 sure that my statement was democrat, republican, 11 black or white--

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: I heard that. It
13 doesn't matter.

14 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Right. And 15 that we could do that. Because we're on the same 16 page, but we're in a war down here in the south.

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Penda.

18 PENDA D. HAIR: Thank you and thank you
19 to the Commission for the opportunity to present 20 testimony today on the impact of new voting rules 21 in North Carolina on people of color.

22 In the wake of the Supreme Court's 23 ruling last year gutting Section 4 and 5 of the 24 Voting Rights Act, there is no greater example of 25 the impact of new rules on voters of color than

1 here in North Carolina.

2 This state following the Supreme 3 Court's ruling removing it and others from 4 federal review of voting practices passed the 5 nation's most wide-sweeping voter suppression law 6 in 50 years and this law stands to turn back the 7 clock for voters of color. So, I'm happy to 8 submit my testimony here today and I will give 9 you written testimony for the record in my 10 capacity as co-director of Advancement Project, a 11 national civil rights organization that advances
12 universal opportunity and just democracy.

13 I have been a voting rights lawyer for 14 three decades litigating many cases under the 15 Voting Rights Act and the Constitution and I have 16 to say that during this time I have not seen such 17 widespread attempts to disenfranchise voters of 18 color as we have seen here in North Carolina in 19 this past year.

20 North Carolina is a stark example of 21 the continued need for the Voting Rights Act and 22 for why we need the system that was eliminated by 23 the United States Supreme Court under which 24 changes in voting practices had to be preapproved 25 by the United States Department of Justice in

1 states that had a history of voting
2 discrimination, including North Carolina which 3 had 40 counties that were covered by the Voting 4 Rights Act immediately prior to the Supreme 5 Court's decision in Shelby.

6 One month after the Shelby decision,
7 the North Carolina General Assembly moved to 8 enact sweeping new limitation on the franchise,
9 as was eloquently described by Reverend Barber. A 10 law known as the Voter Identification
11 Verification Act the Legislature not only for the 12 first time required voters in North Carolina to 13 show one of a very few forms of photo ID that are 14 difficult to obtain if you don't have the 15 documents that are required, but it also took 16 away a week of early voting including a day of 17 Sunday voting and it eliminated same-day 18 registration and it eliminated preregistration of 19 16 and 17 year olds and it enacted other sweeping
20 changes.

21 If you look at this bill, both its 22 individual provisions and collectively, what you
23 see and what our cases will show when we present 24 our evidence in court is that this law was 25 drafted with surgical precision to go after the 1 votes of people of color. So this panel on the 2 impact on people of color is just so important.

3 I'm just going to cite a couple of 4 statistics that show how carefully this was 5 drafted to really target and suppress the votes 6 of people of color. So just taking one of the 7 provisions, which is elimination of a week of 8 early voting and a day of Sunday voting and we 9 know that in the African-American community in 10 particular, and it's been mentioned here already 11 today, Sunday voting is a tradition called Souls
12 to the Polls. The early voting period in North 13 Carolina has been cut almost in half by this 14 bill.

15 Just let me give you one fact about 16 voting in North Carolina in 2012 to illustrate 17 the impact of this. 70 percent of all African-18 Americans who voted in North Carolina in 2012 19 voted early--70 percent voted early and that's 20 what the Legislature goes after.

21 I can't go through all of the different 22 provisions and illustrate, but in each one of 23 them there is an adverse impact on African-24 Americans or Latinos or both. So, as Reverend 25 Barber said, the North Carolina NAACP and several

1 individual plaintiffs, some of whom he named, and 2 also six churches filed a lawsuit in Federal 3 Court the day that the governor signed this bill.
4 My co-panelist here filed a lawsuit also on the 5 same-day on behalf of the League of Women Voters
6 and other plaintiffs and then a month or so later
7 on September 30th 2013 the United States
8 Department of Justice also found this law to be 9 discriminatory under the Voting Rights Act and it 10 filed a third lawsuit. Those lawsuits have been 11 consolidated and we are all working together and 12 we are going to prove that this law not only 13 violates the Voting Rights Act because of 14 disparate impact, but is intentionally 15 discriminatory.

16 I would just second what Reverend 17 Barber said, that the Voting Rights Act
18 amendments need to cover North Carolina and other 19 states that have a history that continues today 20 of discriminating against voters of color. Thank 21 you.

22 [APPLAUSE]

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

24 ALLISON RIGGS: Good afternoon. Thank 25 you for the opportunity to speak to the 1 commission and to everyone in the audience.

2 Again, my name is Allison Riggs and I'm 3 an attorney at the Southern Coalition for Social 4 Justice focusing on voting rights. For the last 5 five years I've spent a considerable amount of 6 time fighting these fights across the state.

7 During the legislative process last year, I was 8 present during most of the committee hearings, 9 the public hearings, the floor debates. What Ms.
10 Hair and Reverend Barber have mentioned is true 11 and in the record--that there was evidence of 12 disparate usage rates of almost all of the 13 provisions in House Bill 589.

14 So the Legislature knew that voters of 15 color were disproportionately using out of 16 precinct voting, disproportionately using early 17 voting, disproportionately using same-day 18 registration. That's undisputed and was in the 19 record.

20 Also in the record was the fact that in 21 other states we've seen that those disparate 22 usage rates translate into a real harm. So, if 23 you take away early voting in Florida we saw 24 voters of color feeling the hurt. It's a direct 25 connection. There were academic studies that we

1 introduced into the record in front of the 2 General Assembly.

3 But some of the provisions of the law
4 aren't necessarily as easy to document, but this 5 was still a discussion that we were having. So,
6 for example, in 2012 a group in Wake County
7 started recruiting poll observers to be present 8 in heavily minority precincts on Election Day and 9 inspired the Department of Justice to send some 10 folks down to watch Wake County in the November
11 2012 elections.

12 We found that list. We said hey, wait a 13 second. What's going on here in these precincts?
14 Oh wait, let's look at the population. So this is 15 something that's happening across the state
16 already and this was under the old observer laws.
17 So this is why we absolutely believe that there 18 may not be as clean cut data as with same-day
19 registration and early voting, but this is a hurt 20 that's going to be felt by people of color.

21 On a bigger scale I think that what the 22 Legislature failed to do, and why we need to be 23 talking about the Voting Rights Act applying in 24 North Carolina now, is recognize that the long 25 and sad history of voting discrimination--any

1 discrimination, but especially voting
2 discrimination in North Carolina has left scars.
3 The effects of that, the effects of 4 discrimination in voting, the effects of 5 discrimination in housing, education, employment-6 -all of that now is still being felt by a huge 7 percentage of our population in the state and 8 each of those ramifications affects ability to 9 participate in the political process.

10 You can't condemn a man to poor job 11 conditions, poor employment opportunities such 12 that he doesn't have a vehicle or access to 13 public transportation and then make it harder for 14 him to get to the polling place. But that's 15 exactly what we're seeing. That's exactly what 16 we're demonstrating in this litigation--that the 17 operation of these new laws in the reality that 18 we feel here today in this state and how we've 19 treated voters of color in this state, the two 20 are related and that will lead to a very harmful 21 effect for voters if this law isn't kept from 22 being put in place in November of 2014 and if 23 federal preclearance isn't required again in 24 North Carolina.

25 There are numerous ways in which the

1 House Bill 589 is being implemented too in a way
2 that's going to affect voters of color in a 3 negative way. Governor McCrory promised that the 4 number of early voting hours that we would have 5 wouldn't change--that it would just be a 6 compressed election schedule and not fewer hours.
7 That's patently false. Over 40 percent of North 8 Carolina's counties already have gotten an 9 exemption from having to offer the same number of 10 hours--counties in which hundreds of thousands of 11 voters--well over a million and closer to two-- 12 but hundreds of thousands of voters, hundreds of 13 thousands of black voters will face an election
14 setting in November in which they have less 15 opportunity to participate in the political 16 process.

17 So this is a bill that no one with a
18 straight face can say is not going to hurt voters 19 of color in this state and it's being implemented 20 in a deceptive and discriminatory fashion. We'll 21 continue to do what we can to fight it in court 22 and fight it on the ground too and organize folks 23 to turn out to register to vote and to make their 24 voices heard. Thank you.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you, Allison.

1 [APPLAUSE]

2 CHRIS BROOK: Thank you so much for the 3 opportunity to speak on this panel. I greatly 4 appreciate it. It's a real privilege to speak
5 with these esteemed panelists. My name is Chris
6 Brook. I'm Legal Director at the ACLU of North
7 Carolina. They've covered a lot of the high 8 points so I just want to underline some of the 9 key points that they've made and tell a couple of 10 stories related to those because I think those 11 are exceptionally important to consider as we 12 weigh the impact that House Bill 589 is going to 13 have on the right to vote, particularly in 14 communities of color in North Carolina.

15 The statistics don't lie. 589 is going 16 to make it harder for every North Carolinian to 17 vote, but those burdens are going to be 18 disproportionately borne in communities of color.
19 As Reverend Barber referenced in his comments, 70
20 percent of African-Americans voted early in 2012 21 compared to only 51 percent of whites in our 22 state.

23 Same-day registration, African-
24 Americans, despite being only around 22 percent
25 of North Carolina's population, were 34 percent

1 of same-day registrants who were new into the 2 system. They were 45 percent of same-day 3 registrants who were changing their address via 4 same-day registration.

5 We see similar impacts in the photo ID
6 provisions that are in the Bill. As Reverend 7 Barber referenced, hundreds of thousands of North
8 Carolinians don't have matches between the ID 9 that they have and the voting data that is held 10 by the State Board of Elections. But 34 percent 11 of those non-matches are African-American 12 compared to, again, only 22 percent of North 13 Carolinians.

14 So, the numbers don't lie here. It's 15 very plain that the disproportionate impact is 16 going to be felt from these changes in 17 communities of color. But let me stay with the 18 photo ID example for a moment because proponents 19 of these voter suppression measures want to focus 20 all of the time on photo ID and want to say it's 21 no big challenge to get a photo ID. Anybody who 22 has been to the Division of Motor Vehicles, where 23 most of us will end up trying to get a photo ID, 24 knows that that's not necessarily the case. But 25 again, that is a burden that is going to be

1 disproportionately felt in African-American 2 communities in our state.

3 For example, the highest percentage of 4 African-American county in the state is Bertie 5 County down here in eastern North Carolina.
6 Bertie County is 61 percent African-American. Do
7 you know how many hours the DVM is open each 8 month? Six hours a month in Bertie County. Six 9 hours a month. It's open every second Tuesday of 10 the month from 9:30 to 3:30 p.m.

11 So, you're talking about asking people 12 to potentially drive 50 miles round trip from 13 Colerain in North Carolina to Windsor, North 14 Carolina, the county seat in Bertie County to be 15 able to get an ID and hopefully working class 16 folks have time during that six-hour window. We 17 all know that that's not necessarily the case.

18 The other thing that I want to focus on 19 is everyone has done a wonderful job of 20 documenting the real poisonous atmosphere that 21 this bill has established. One of the ways it has 22 done that is what Allison spoke about, by 23 authorizing sort of roving groups that can go 24 throughout a county and file a challenge anywhere
25 to any voter within that county whether they know

1 anything about that polling precinct. But that 2 poisonous atmosphere is not just within the four 3 corners of HB589. It also establishes a culture 4 where we do not respect the vote and we 5 especially do not respect the vote in communities 6 of color.

7 Since the governor signed House Bill
8 589 what have we seen? We've seen boards of 9 election attempt to stop an African-American 10 voter at Elizabeth City State University from 11 running to be on the city council in Elizabeth 12 City. We've seen county boards of election in 13 Watauga County and Forsyth County discuss or 14 actually move polling places away from university 15 communities making it harder for students to 16 vote.

17 Just last night in Buncombe County
18 Voter Integrity Project challenged over 180
19 voters on the voter rolls in Buncombe County. All 20 of those voters came from--there are 80 precincts 21 in Buncombe County. All of those challenges were 22 to voters living in 11 precincts in the city 23 center of Asheville, which is the only place in 24 Buncombe County that has a sizable African-25 American population.

1 So, there are damages that are within 2 the bill and we need to talk about those, but we 3 also need to talk about the environment that 4 House Bill 589 has established in our State.

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: Excellent. Very, very 6 impressive. Thank you.

7 [APPLAUSE]

8 BARBARA ARNWINE: At this moment I turn
9 to the panel for questions. Yes, David, kick us 10 off.

11 DAVID HARRIS: Thank you everyone. It's 12 good to see all of you again. Particularly Penda, 13 I haven't seen you in a couple of years actually 14 I guess.

15 Each of your organizations have, not 16 just in North Carolina but in other states, filed 17 Section 2 actions. Now, the practical impact of 18 the Shelby decision is to eliminate the 19 preclearance process, as you know, under Section 20 5 and force the only remedy as an action under 21 Section 2 and the Constitution. This is a little 22 bit of background. But, for the record, and this 23 is to all of you, either one of you can answer or 24 a combination, please explain for the record as 25 well as to the audience two things. One, the 1 difference in the burden of proof with respect to 2 Section 5 compared to Section 2. Secondly, and 3 this is probably the most important, the cost, 4 the financial cost related to litigating a

5 Section 2 action.

6 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Thanks David.
7 Let me take a stab as the non-lawyer and then all 8 the other lawyers can engage in the technical.

9 When I think about what the Shelby 10 decision has done in moral terms, it forces those 11 who are abused and violated in terms of this 12 franchise of voting in this democracy to then 13 bear the burden of challenging the violator while 14 the violator's violations go into effect and then 15 if you are successful on the backend of proving 16 that the violator violated your rights you cannot 17 go back and undo the power that the violator 18 gained during that period of time or the 19 policies. So, in essence, you can catch them in 20 discrimination later and have to live with the 21 impact of it.

22 Where there is preclearance, because 23 the courts and the law in this country recognize 24 that voting rights is like a fresh sunshine rise-25 -you can't get the same one again. You never can

1 get a vote lost again. So, Section 5 said you
2 have to be precleared. We have to check this out 3 on the front end. We have to examine the 4 rationale, the reason and the reality that will 5 exist if this is placed into law.

6 If we lose that down here in the south
7 and North Carolina is the canary in the mine, we 8 see, we don't have to guess what people will do 9 without Section 5 preclearance. We see what 10 people will do because immediately upon the 11 Shelby decision the statement was made by the 12 leader of this voter suppression bill, "Now that 13 the headache" and I want that to go on the record 14 and I'll stop here. Talking about the atmosphere, 15 my friend, and the insensitivity, to describe the 16 Voting Rights Act and Section 4 and 5 as a
17 headache is to say Medgar Evers being shot 18 through the back in front of his wife was a 19 headache. People being beat going across the 20 bridge for something that had already been 21 promised to them 100 years early in 1870 was a 22 headache. Dr. King being shot through the throat 23 was a headache.

24 The leadership of our State Legislature 25 says, "Now that the headache has been removed

1 let's show people what we will do." So, North 2 Carolina is the test, it's the modern day Shelby.
3 If they get away with it here it becomes the 4 example of what will happen around the country.
5 And we see right now what will happen if anything 6 is decided that does not insure that these 7 changes have to be examined on the front end, on 8 the front end and the cost would be incredible 9 because right now if we didn't have friends and 10 the ability to litigate we couldn't litigate now-11 -it's just too overwhelming.

12 And so it is in fact to rig the game
13 and it is to reverse lastly the real purpose of 14 the Constitution which is to protect the minority 15 from the tyranny of a majority. Without 16 preclearance we reverse that logic and we protect 17 the majority from the criticism and the challenge 18 of the minority which would be a reversal of 19 jurisprudence at the very time that we don't need 20 it in history.

21 PENNA D. HAIR: That was a fantastic
22 explanation of the impact of Shelby. I'll just 23 address a couple of more technical issues about 24 your question. You asked what the difference is 25 in the standard of proof under Section 5 of the 1 Voting Rights Act, which is the preclearance

2 system, and Section two, which is the primary 3 part of the Voting Rights Act that we as private 4 plaintiffs rely on when we have to affirmatively 5 prove voting discrimination.

6 In both of those intentional
7 discrimination is illegal, but the standard is 8 different in other respects. Under Section 5, if 9 the practice or policy makes things worse for a 10 protected group, which includes African-Americans
11 and Latinos and other minorities, if it makes it 12 worse, then it is retrogressive--that's the 13 technical term--and it will be barred, it will 14 not be precleared. So, that is a pretty clear 15 standard. All you have to do is look. Are voters 16 of color going to better or worse under this 17 change?

18 Under Section 2 it is a "totality of 19 circumstances test" where the ultimate question
20 is, is the protected group of voters of color-- 21 have a discriminatory result in terms of access 22 to be able to vote for and elect candidates of 23 choice. So, a totality of the circumstances test 24 is very labor-intensive to prove.

25 You asked about the cost. I just want

1 to talk a little bit about the three cases that 2 we lawyers here, all four of our organizations, 3 are working on. I haven't counted them, but in 4 terms of number of lawyers, I think it's 5 somewhere between 30 and 40 and that may be 6 undercounting. We are all working around the 7 clock and we've divided up the work and we're 8 efficient. It takes that many lawyers because 9 there are so many issues. There are so many 10 documents to go through and so many witnesses to 11 find and prepare. So, it is a big undertaking 12 that is very, very expensive.

13 I would say it costs hundreds of 14 thousands of dollars to do a big case like this.
15 We haven't added it up yet in this case, but from 16 other cases I know in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, 17 hundreds of thousands of dollars and those were 18 just one issue. The other cost that is always an 19 impact is you have to have expert witnesses to 20 prove this totality of circumstances. In this 21 case, the Advancement Project and the NAACP case
22 along, are looking at something like four expert 23 witnesses and expert witnesses typically don't do 24 this without being paid by the hour so it is as 25 very expensive undertaking.

1 The last thing I would say is high 2 profile cases like this you can raise funds for,
3 you can maybe get law firms to do pro bono work, 4 but when you're talking about Asheville and 5 Elizabeth City and things popping out here and 6 things popping out here and over there and trying 7 to keep track of that and then send a lawyer to 8 every one of those places and that's where 9 there's less funding and less support to do that 10 work, that is one of the real harms that come 11 from removing the preclearance system because all 12 those little things that are popping out, first, 13 the jurisdictions would have known and they 14 wouldn't do those things. But if they did, DOJ 15 would be on it. They couldn't do it without 16 getting it precleared.

17 So, it's not just the big, high-profile
18 cases, it's every election board in every state 19 now has to be monitored by us and by groups like 20 us.

21 ALLISON RIGGS: I won't be repetitive,
22 Mr. Harris, but I wanted to unpack one piece of 23 the cost difference and that's the cost of time.
24 As Reverend Barber has mentioned, you can't undo 25 a discriminatory election. But when the burden of 1 proof is on plaintiffs and we are the ones who 2 have to gather the evidence to prove our case and 3 defendants are the ones, the state is the one

4 holding the evidence, they will and have engaged 5 us in a war of attrition. They will at every turn 6 fight disclosure of information that we are 7 legally entitled to. They will fight every 8 motion. They will engage every resource and they 9 have unlimited resources. Aside from the 10 Department of Justice lawsuit, every plaintiff is 11 a grassroots organization or an individual 12 activist, each of which is doing this because 13 this is what they believe in and what their work
14 is about. They don't have deep pocketbooks.

15 That cost of time makes a huge 16 difference about why Section 2 isn't sufficient.

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

18 CONGRESSWOMAN EVA M. CLAYTON: Cost of 19 time also is borne out by the citizens too. Cost 20 of time for you as well as not able to go back 21 and correct what has been done. Is there any 22 appreciation--I almost know the answer to this,
23 but I'm asking it--any appreciation of resolution 24 in time wise of this? As we look at the impact of 25 this bill, we have an election coming up, right?

1 And then part of the bill is that it goes into 2 effect 2016, at least the ID part. But much of 3 the damage or the impact that you have projected
4 will indeed occur. So you almost find yourself
5 proving the case by denying the people, I mean 6 those of us who are out there.

7 So, is there any interim part? The 8 lawsuit will be the final resolution, we know 9 that. But is there any way that we can mitigate 10 the full impact, the intentions of this program?
11 I guess that's the education program, the 12 advocacy program. It seems like knowing what we 13 know now there has to be another strategy in 14 addition to the legal case. If we're not going to 15 prove we're dying in order to say we didn't get 16 the right medicine. We've got to find an 17 alternate until we get the real cure. I don't 18 know if I'm making myself clear.

19 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Congresswoman
20 Clayton, one of the things that--that's an 21 interesting question because again it places you 22 in a quandary which is the point of this stuff.
23 On the one hand you are arguing, for instance,
24 that voter ID is illegal. If you position
25 yourself then to go out and push it, in one sense

1 of another you actually become complicit in the 2 very thing you're fighting.

3 So, what we're chosen to do, because 4 that part doesn't go into existence until two 5 years later, is to put all of our efforts in the 6 NAACP and number one, getting an injunction this 7 year. That's why we're in the federal courts.
8 That's why we were so moved yesterday when the 9 courts said to the Legislature you don't have 10 immunity. You don't have the right to go in and 11 hide why you did what you did in something that 12 the Congress has the ability to examine and said 13 must be open to examination.

14 We feel good about that. We feel great 15 about the possibility of this injunction because 16 there are so many Constitutional questions at 17 stake here. We believe the courts will ultimately 18 say we at least have to hear it before we allow 19 these things to go into effect. But that's always 20 a risk.

21 There's another piece that comes in.
22 See, talking about atmosphere, at the polls they 23 can begin to ask you whether or not you have 24 voter ID. Last year Governor McCrory asked all of 25 the people voting for him to present their ID. I

1 was in line and watched his supporters do that 2 and other people say, "Well I can't vote" and I
3 had to stop them.

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: That was the purpose.
5 That was the design.

6 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: That was the 7 design. There's one other cost factor that we've 8 not talked about and we're looking at it. Kick
9 me, Allison. But, you know, we've not had a 10 conversation in this country around the 24th
11 Amendment. The fact of the matter that when you 12 force voters to have to use extra gas and time 13 and time off of work and if they don't have a 14 license in-state to buy a license, are you in 15 fact creating a poll tax?

16 Many of us in the advocacy world are 17 talking and saying to lawyers that needs to be 18 examined because a poll tax is still illegal 19 under any guise. It's a cost and it's illegal.

20 Then finally, it was interesting on the 21 floor, and Allison was there, when Mickey Michaux
22 said the Article 6 of our Constitution gives 23 clear description as to who can vote and it says 24 nothing about the things that this legislation 25 has tried to attach on to qualification. So, in

1 essence, we believe this law is not only a
2 violation of federal law, but it is a violation
3 of our very own State Constitution.

4 And remember for the record, when he 5 was giving the history, you can pull the 6 transcript, a legislator said, "Point of order", 7 and Barbara you'd love this one, she said,
8 "History that Mr. Michaux" and this is not 9 verbatim, "is bringing to the floor is not 10 germane to this discussion about voting" and 11 Mickey said, "I'm bringing up the history of our 12 Constitution" and the speaker said, "You're out 13 of order. I support the point of order" and he 14 had to sit down. He was literally sat down as he 15 was trying to tell the Legislature about the very 16 Constitution that they have sworn to uphold.

17 So we're in a quandary in some ways.
18 Our angle has been to fight it legally since the 19 other part doesn't go into two and to do a lot of 20 educating that somebody can ask you this year for 21 your ID, but you don't have to give it and you 22 can still vote. Because otherwise it looks as 23 though you're actually succumbing and saying that 24 it's all right when you go out to get something 25 that you're litigating to say it's not all right.

1 So, it's really a trick which is,
2 again, we wouldn't be doing this, we wouldn't 3 have to do this. We wouldn't have to go through 4 this kind of, what do they call it when you twist
5 yourself all up, contortions--social contortions 6 if preclearance was in place.

7 CHRIS BROOK: Just to add just a little 8 bit to that and tie Congresswoman Clayton's 9 question back to the previous question from Mr.
10 Harris and I think the sort of theme of the 11 burden being pushed onto voters in an 12 unbelievable fashion across the board, both in 13 this litigation, but on the ground throughout 14 North Carolina is something that we should 15 appreciate.

16 Shelby County moves the legal burden to 17 us and now that we've filed these lawsuits we 18 apparently are going to have the burden to fight 19 every day to get any documents from our elected 20 officials about what motivated them to make these 21 Draconian changes to our laws.

22 But also, who has run into any voter 23 education that the State of North Carolina is 24 doing to prepare people in 2014 for the changes 25 that are coming? You run into people--I don't see

1 any.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: I don't see it either.

3 CHRIS BROOK: So you run into people on 4 a daily basis who have no clue that they can not 5 register same-day anymore, no clue that a week of 6 early voting has just been wiped off the books.
7 So again, the state is shirking what really 8 should be its burden and moving it over to the 9 Plaintiff groups, groups like our groups, to do 10 voter education so people know about what is in 11 589 and how the voting experience is going to be 12 very, very different in 2014 and then even 13 increasingly different in 2016 should these 14 measures remain in place.

15 PENDA D. HAIR: I want to follow up on 16 that. A letter writer to the editor of the N&O
17 last week, or maybe it was this week, said well, 18 if you want to vote the Legislature out, all you 19 do is vote straight democratic ticket--and of 20 course that's not true. There's no straight party 21 voting. I did write a letter correcting that to 22 the editor. I was glad they did put that in.

23 But that really speaks to the ignorance
24 people have of the profound changes and how we're 25 going to get it to people I don't know because it

1 is a matter of profound significance with a lack 2 of ability to get to the voters so that they 3 understand all these things. Like you will be 4 asked in '14 if you have a photo ID, but you do 5 not need one and, as you say, the person at the 6 end of the line might hear photo ID and turn 7 around and go.

8 So, how we get this information to the 9 voters is, I think, absolutely crucial at this 10 point.

11 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Madam Chair.

12 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes.

13 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: I wanted just 14 to mention because, again, cost. You know, the 15 NAACP are all volunteers. We're loosing our 16 volunteers in the street. But again, as Penda and 17 Allison have, we don't have the deep pockets of 18 say an Art Pope that can put $50 million into 19 elections over 10 years. $50 million, one person, 20 and who was in the room when the redistricting 21 maps were drawn and then turned around and funded 22 20 of the very districts that he was sitting in 23 the room drawing. We don't have that kind of 24 money.

25 Radio costs. We are hiring 50

1 organizers for Freedom Summer, young people. But 2 even that is limited. We're doing those things 3 all because, again, this is allowed to pass
4 without preclearance. So we're at max, over max, 5 and working. I think that's important for the 6 record that many of the groups that fight these 7 things, the people on the ground are volunteers.
8 As a State Conference president I'm a volunteer.
9 All of our State Conference presidents are 10 volunteers. So we put 30 hours or 40 hours a 11 week, that's in addition to the jobs that sustain 12 us, trying to protect a franchise that we thought 13 was protected and was signed in blood.

14 When we think about this finally, 22
15 percent of African-Americans are active voters, 16 but we represent 31 percent of the registered 17 voters who do not have a government issued photo
18 ID in the State of North Carolina.

19 The last thing I want to mention for 20 the day is that Chris brought up something when 21 you all talked about cost. As a preacher I 22 measure cost not only in terms of money, but in 23 terms of the soul of the state. When I was making 24 this testimony before the Legislature, and mind 25 you they tried to stop me twice during the

1 hearing for talking about history. I just kept 2 talking. You all don't know nothing about that, 3 you know, because you can't do anything but 4 arrest me and you get kind of used to that.

5 [LAUGHTER]

6 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: But at the end
7 of it I said this, Barbara, finally let me say--I 8 wanted to talk about the cost of what they're 9 doing to the state and people in the state. They 10 finally let me say that the misinformation you 11 are feeding the public by leading our state down 12 this path is dangerous, literally dangerous. The 13 constant false assertions by legislatures and 14 others that elections have been filled with fraud
15 creates and feeds a crazy conspiracy theory.

16 And then, and I want to introduce this 17 in the record, I read to them the blog. Because 18 the real cost to the soul of the state is not the 19 headlines in the news--it's the blogs. It's when 20 you read underneath an article that says the 21 NAACP sued. Here is an example of what this 22 craziness is feeding. One comment in the blog 23 after we challenged this voter suppression.

24 "This man and his terrorist group, the 25 NAACP is why we need voter ID. We need laws to 1 keep people like Barber and his people from 2 letting people vote who are not registered or 3 legal residents." The next one. "If the NAACP had 4 its way all felons could vote and all you need is 5 just your name and sign on the line as long as 6 you vote for their guy."

7 Next line. "This is how we got in the 8 mess with Obama." This is in actual print. Next 9 one. "Use your logic. How dumb does one have to 10 be to vote?" Next one. "Why don't you get a real 11 job and stop spewing your vile and hatred among 12 simple-minded people? It's self-appointed groups 13 like the NAACP that are the major contributors to 14 civil and moral breakdown in our black 15 communities. Go Legislature, go."

16 Last one. "Hard word, what dumb shits 17 you all are. No one said voting is just for 18 blacks. The NAACP is the most racist, terrorist 19 organization that ever existed and somebody ought 20 to do something."

21 There is a cost deeper than money when 22 you feed this kind of crazy conspiracy theory and 23 when things are not proven on the front end as 24 being wrong because it lends people thinking that 25 it's okay. It feeds this kind of craziness and it

1 can get people hurt.

2 CHRIS BROOK: One other point I wanted
3 to make, Senator Kinnaird, about the lack of 4 knowledge around the bill. That started and can 5 be traced back directly to the very atypical 6 legislative debate that occurred in our House and 7 in our State Senate.

8 The bill that was completely 9 unnecessary, but a much different version of 10 photo Id only, that passed the House was 11 considered for four weeks in April of 2013. The 12 Senate and House passed what was then a 57-page 13 bill from introduction to passage was less than 14 48 hours. How can you have a real debate about 15 its provisions? How can you educate North 16 Carolinians about what's in the fine print when 17 you're doing it under the cover of darkness?

18 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: That's right.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes?

20 MAN 2: Two questions. One real quickly, 21 whose court is it in right now, the lawsuit?
22 Whose court is it in?

23 CHRIS BROOK: The Middle District
24 Federal Court in Winston-Salem.

25 ALLISON RIGGS: And there's a State

1 Court action on the voter ID provision in state
2 court.

3 MAN 2: Has a judge been assigned for 4 the first?

5 ALLISON RIGGS: Yes, it's Judge Thomas
6 Schroeder in Winston-Salem, federal judge and 7 Judge Michael Morgan in Wake County.

8 MAN 2: Judge Morgan. Okay, thank you.
9 The second, Reverend Barber, in your travels 10 around the state, and maybe even around the 11 country--let me preface this by saying this. It 12 is not uncommon for me in the role I'm in now to 13 come across fairly prominent folks in our 14 business community who are really concerned about 15 this tide. They see it as really damaging the 16 state in terms of its image around the country if 17 not around the world, particularly with respect 18 to economic development, attracting business and 19 so forth and so on. I hear that fairly regularly.

20 My question is do you hear that,
21 Reverend Barber, and are these people even 22 contemplating anteing up and getting involved? Do 23 you hear any of that?

24 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Indeed. What 25 we see happening, what you see, for instance,

1 with our Fusion Movement, and by the way, people
2 talk about the Moral Monday Movement as just this 3 year. The Forward Together Movement has been in 4 existence seven years. We started in 2006. Mr.
5 Gatewood is out there in the audience, one of the 6 key organizers. And because we organized and came 7 together in 2007, we were the ones that pushed 8 through same-day registration and early bird.
9 Remember [SENATOR GANNARD?]? It had been stuck.
10 We were operating in silos, but when we all got 11 together, from Southern to ACLU to democracy, we 12 were able to push through--not to talk politics, 13 but to talk history, some say President Obama won 14 North Carolina in 2008. No he didn't. He lost on 15 Election Day. He won during the same-day 16 registration, early voting period because of the 17 new--He actually lost on Election Day. He won 18 because of the advocacy of blacks and whites and 19 republicans and democrats and others who want to 20 see a more progressive North Carolina.

21 Now, what we're seeing now, when 22 100,000 people showed up February the 8th and the 23 thousands of people, nearly 1,000 have gone to 24 jail because of all of this avalanche of 25 regressive laws from denying Medicaid, denying

1 unemployment, denying earned income tax credit,
2 cutting public education and then after they did 3 all of that, trying to deny the right to vote.
4 Those people have been black, white, Asian,
5 Latino, republicans, democrats, millionaire
6 businessmen, unemployed workers, doctors, 7 uninsured people, lawyers, gay, straight--it's 8 not partisan.

9 One of the group, I think Civitas, did
10 a study of the Moral Monday people to try to 11 scare us off, because they wanted to prove that 12 we were just democrats, and found that 11 to 16 13 percent of the people were republicans and 14 independents. Because there is, even some of the 15 polling, that people are deeply bothered by any 16 politician of any party getting an office, voting 17 in a way and then using their power to try to 18 undermine people's only place to examine them and 19 give them a report card and that is at the polls.

20 Last two stories. We were in Airedale 21 County this past Monday. Now Airedale County is 22 no bastion of liberalism. All four legislators 23 made a zero on our report card. All of them
24 supported this voter suppression. The governor 25 was there. But in the middle of a cold night

1 hundreds of people showed up.

2 I was speaking and a miracle occurred.
3 An old 81 year old white lady--

4 WOMAN 1: 84.

5 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: 84 year old
6 white lady interrupted the sermon and took it
7 over. And this was the point she interrupted. I 8 was talking about republicans who had supported 9 the Voting Rights Act and progressive legislation 10 down through the years and how it was not about 11 party, it was about democracy. I was speaking and 12 I hadn't had this to happen to me recently. She 13 said, "Excuse me, Reverend Barber, let me say 14 something." I said, "Amen." She said, "My family 15 is nine generations deep in North Carolina. My 16 great-great granddaddy was a republican 17 legislator and a judge and he stood at the 18 polling places to make sure Jim Crow people
19 didn't stop black people to vote. And I'm sick 20 and tired of seeing folk that have hijacked my 21 granddaddy's party." That's what she said.

22 She said, "I went to jail because I'm 23 well off enough to do it and I'm retired and 24 there's a whole lot of us out here that are 25 seeing these policies as Constitutionally

1 inconsistent, morally indefensible and 2 economically insane."

3 The answer to your question is yes, 4 yes there are many people who are disgusted when 5 any group of politicians use their power to 6 undermine the fundamental right of voting. There 7 are some who believe the most important amendment 8 to the Constitution is the Second--guns. But 9 there is a whole other group that believes there 10 some amendments more important than that--freedom 11 of speech, equal protection under the law and the 12 15th Amendment that protects the right to vote.

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Before we finish this 14 panel I just have one question. I believe, 15 Reverend Barber, it was in your testimony that 16 you mentioned the impact on women of color. I 17 wanted to just hear more about how this 18 legislation impacts on women of color and also 19 any other unique barriers in election
20 administration, election operations, racial 21 discrimination in voting that impacts on women of 22 color.

23 REV. DR. WILLIAM BARBER: Well Barbara, 24 it's interesting you raise that. Last night I was 25 speaking at the Planned Parenthood gala in

1 Washington DC and I said to them there's no way 2 in the world you can be concerned about women's 3 rights, feminism and the protection of women and 4 not be concerned about the Voting Rights Act
5 formula Section 4 protecting the southern states
6 and what's happening because at every instance 7 women receive a double whammy and black women 8 receive a triple whammy.

9 You see, first of all this voter
10 suppression law has a disparity impact on race, 11 so black women get hit there. Then secondly, it 12 has a disparity impact on the poor, so poor black 13 women get hit there. Then thirdly, it has a 14 negative impact because 67 percent of the people
15 without voter ID that they're currently calling 16 for are women, so women get hit there. Then god 17 forbid a woman gets married and the guy she 18 marries doesn't want to love who she is and she 19 has to let him go and she shows up at the poll
20 with the ID but the ID has another name on it, 21 she gets hit there. And lord knows hopefully the 22 sister doesn't show up and she's changed her 'do.

23 I'm being real. That's practical stuff.
24 You know, doesn't have the same hair that she had 25 on the license when she took it. Then whoever is

1 examining that ID, since it's photo, can call it 2 into question. So women, in a very practical and 3 I'll let them get on the legal, get hit in 4 essence over and over and over and over again.

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: We haven't had a lot
6 of testimony today about language and barriers 7 that Latino voters and other voters for which 8 English is not their first language, we haven't 9 talked about Section 203 related issues. I would 10 like to just impose upon this panel a little to 11 give us some of those perspectives because that's 12 something we're very much documenting in these 13 series of hearings.

14 ALLISON RIGGS: The question in North
15 Carolina is what is the population going to look 16 like in 2020?

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Right.

18 ALLISON RIGGS: The Latino population in 19 the state right now is fairly low compared to a 20 lot of other states. That doesn't mean that 21 Latino voters in this state aren't going to feel 22 the hurt of this bill just as much as black 23 voters. But in 2020 we expect the Hispanic 24 population in North Carolina to have exploded and 25 we'll start seeing the ability to draw Hispanic

1 districts in different counties and possibly even 2 on the state level.

3 So, this is the Legislature acting--I 4 mean, very similar to what the Legislature has 5 done in Texas, but seeing an exploding population 6 to which they don't want to be accountable and 7 then acting to injure those. If you look at the 8 poverty statistics in North Carolina, Hispanic 9 residents have it about as bad as you can 10 imagine. Native American residents of the state 11 also huge, huge disparities, socio-economic 12 status, access to vehicles, in education
13 attainment, healthcare outcomes. Across the board 14 there are statistically significant, and to the 15 non-statistician, to the layman's eyeballs, huge 16 disparities between the conditions facing white 17 residents and the conditions facing residents of 18 color.

19 So, absolutely there are going to be 20 huge negative impacts on Latino and Native
21 American groups in this state.

22 BARBARA ARNWINE: Okay. Thank you. All 23 right, any other questions from the panel? At 24 this point we've been doing better on time, but 25 it is time for us to open up the mics again for

1 public testimony. While we are waiting for people 2 to come to the mics will you join me in thanking 3 this outstanding panel?

4 [APPLAUSE]

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: Keep fighting. Keep 6 fighting. Keep litigating. Keep doing what you're 7 doing. Thank you. Thank you. We need you. We need
8 you. Thank you. Yes?

9 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: Good
10 afternoon.

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: Just one minute. I
12 also want to invite the next panelists to please 13 come up and take your places. Thank you so much.
14 Thank you.

15 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: My name is 16 Hernando Ramirez Santos. I am an editor of Que
17 Pasa newspaper here in North Carolina. Just a
18 question.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

20 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: There are 21 119,000 Latino voters registered in North
22 Carolina right now.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: Say that number again.

24 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: 119,000.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Okay.

1 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: Latino voters
2 registered right now in North Carolina. We have a
3 population of 800,000 Hispanics living in North
4 Carolina. We have a big population, young 5 population between 16 years old to 18 years old 6 that are U.S. citizens. They are right now in the 7 problem that they cannot register to vote.
8 Starting in 2016 they will not have the chance to 9 register for voting.

10 Also, higher up in these problems is 11 the language barrier that is big for the Latino
12 voters. For the Latino community the language 13 barrier is great. It's terrible. What we need is 14 more education. What we need is more information 15 for the Latinos in the community because actually 16 what I hear is what is happening more in the 17 African-American community, but I think that we 18 need to hear more in the panels about what is 19 happening with the Latino community and the 20 Latino voters that really are very forgotten.
21 They don't have many choices and there is an 22 important issue of lack of information that they 23 have.

24 It's important to have more information
25 for the Latinos in these kinds of panels.

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: I am so glad that 2 you've stood up and testified. I wish we had 3 included more of this testimony in the panels 4 because it's so, so critical. If you have an 5 opportunity to submit in writing some more to us 6 we really would be appreciative because in every 7 state where we've been doing the hearings we're 8 hearing a lot about Section 203 barriers and 9 people refusing to provide language assistance, 10 people's intimidation of Latino voters, not to 11 mention Native American voters and Asian voters.

12 We really would love to hear more.

13 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: And we'd love
14 to send something.

15 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you very much.

16 HERNANDO RAMIREZ SANTOS: Thank you.

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. It's very 18 much appreciated. Yes?

19 MELANIE GOFF BRADLEY: [OFF MIC AND 20 UNINTEL]. So, I'm married and when I introduce 21 myself, as I just said, I'm Melanie Goff Bradley.
22 I had my name changed when I got married at the 23 driver's license bureau and they offered to take 24 care of my other name change with the Board of 25 Elections because we have Motor Voter here in

1 North Carolina and so I figured that was well
2 taken care of. My social security card says
3 Melanie Joy Goff Bradley. My driver's license
4 says Melanie Joy Goff Bradley.

5 In 2012 when I stood in line and said
6 my name is spelled G-O-F-F space B-R-A-D-L-E-Y 7 they said, "No it isn't." And they had me in the 8 Bs and I said, "Well, that's wrong. We have one 9 stop registration. Will you please fix it? And 10 they said, "Whoops, we've printed your ballot.
11 Let's go ahead and let you go down to the Board 12 of Elections and change your registration some 13 other time."

14 I eventually did go to the Board of 15 Elections and offered them the explanation that 16 my registration was wrong and it did take me 17 quite a while to convince them that they could 18 type my name incorrectly.

19 I thought this had been taken care of 20 15 year ago, and I'm not the only woman whose 21 name is entered incorrectly. I'm not the only 22 woman whose driver's license might not match. I'm 23 worried about the fact that small, in my opinion, 24 mistakes of other people will impact my ability
25 to vote. I've taken a lot of time to make sure

1 that all my records are together, but I'm blessed 2 and there are a lot of people who are not quite 3 as blessed as I am who are going to experience
4 some difficulties taking the time and the money
5 to get this done.

6 I know people who have responded to my 7 question, "Oh yes, my ID and my registration 8 match perfectly." But they appear on lists drawn 9 up from voter registration van computer programs 10 by Democracy North Carolina for example and they 11 appear on lists that they do not have a North 12 Carolina driver's license matching the name that 13 they're registered under. That is a fact.

14 The fact that a free ID can be 15 available to these people is of no use if they 16 don't realize they need one. I didn't realize 17 until that one day when somebody said my name was 18 registered incorrectly. It's going to be of no 19 use to them when they show up to vote and they're 20 not allowed to vote and a free ID is not going to 21 be free if they don't have the proper 22 identification papers, birth certificate which 23 may not be available to them, especially the 24 elderly and especially people who have come to 25 North Carolina from other states to retire who

1 may not have all of the original documents that 2 are going to be required.

3 I also feel that one of the changes in 4 this voting law, that Reverend Barber calls the 5 voter suppression law, is taking away some of the 6 power of the vote and adding it to the power of 7 the dollar because the individual contribution is 8 raised in North Carolina from $4,000 to $5,000.
9 It was hard enough for me to come up here and say 10 well I don't even have $4,000 much less $5,000, 11 either one. But there will be more people who 12 will not be able to participate at that level and 13 that's on top of other things that have occurred 14 with the power of the dollar in funding the 15 campaigns. So that's just one other section of 16 the Voting Rights law that I'd like to address.
17 Thank you.

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you for sharing
19 your personal story and thank you for being so 20 persistent in your right to vote. That was very 21 much appreciated.

22 [APPLAUSE]

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: And thank you. Yes
24 ma'am.

25 OPHELIA GOULD-FAISON: Good afternoon to

1 the commission and the panelists and those who 2 are here.

3 BARBARA ARNWINE: Your mic is low. Let's 4 see if we can get it up or speak directly into 5 it.

6 OPHELIA GOULD-FAISON: My name is 7 Ophelia Gould-Faison. I'm a resident of Halifax 8 County. At this time I am actively--I don't have 9 statistics because I'm actively working in my 10 community with a group of volunteers. We are 11 going throughout our county. Voter education and 12 voter registration is our purpose. That's not an 13 easy task. We've tried to get directions from the 14 Board of Elections. I think because the law is so 15 new and broad it really can be deciphered into 16 the eye of the beholder.

17 For example, if you're baking a cake,
18 you know, your milk, butter, water, whatever-- 19 someone may say, "Well, don't use butter. Use 20 oil." So, I mean, it's in the eye of the beholder 21 as to interpretation of the law. Even for myself 22 to understand or for my team members to get a 23 clear understanding of what the law states is not 24 an easy task at all.

25 For an example, in 2010 I took a young

1 man, he was able to go and vote himself. In 2012
2 he was diagnosed with throat cancer. We were 3 busing or taking people to the polls. However, in 4 2012 I took him separately and he could talk a 5 little bit. Since then he has a trach and he 6 can't talk. He's in a facility now. He did tell 7 me that he wanted me to help with his acquiring 8 whatever he needed to vote in this election.

9 I have the statement from the North
10 Carolina Board of Elections which states, and 11 I've heard it before today, is that, "This 12 information will be used to confirm your voter 13 registration. In addition, this form must be 14 signed by the voter or the voter's near relative 15 or qualified legal guardian." I think we 16 addressed that earlier. Some of them don't have-- 17 I'm not his girlfriend, but a childhood friend.
18 We all grew up together. So, I don't qualify for 19 that. But he did call yesterday and requested an 20 absentee ballot. But he had the trach in and that 21 person on the other end would not have been able 22 to understand what he was saying.

23 The same thing with his hands. He can 24 write. Also the photo ID, we live in a rural area 25 and the young lady was talking about the cost.

1 First of all, a lot of our residents don't have 2 cars. We don't have public transportation. We 3 don't have taxi cabs. For them to get to the DMV-4 -I live in Littleton specifically and in our 5 county it's about 25 to 30 miles. They would have 6 to get someone to take them there and if they 7 don't have what they need then they have to go to 8 Halifax to get the birth certificate. It's free 9 to get the documents maybe, but for them to 10 travel is not going to be free.

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's a good point.

12 OPHELIA GOULD-FAISON: About the photo
13 ID, we're not concentrating on the photo ID 14 because we know that's 2016. However, we are 15 trying to educate our voters about not getting 16 discouraged if they hear the request from a poll 17 worker do you have a photo ID. I think that can 18 be discouraging if someone in line just would 19 hear that. They said it's to find out if they 20 don't have one they can help them to get one. I 21 doubt if that's true.

22 But at this time it is difficult to get 23 the information out, the correct information out.
24 The 16 and 17 year olds, they struck it out about 25 the 16 and 17 year olds however, 17 year olds can

1 register to vote if they are going to be 18 by 2 the time of the general election in November and 3 they can vote. But that is not anything that is 4 broadly known.

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: There's confusion.

6 OPHELIA GOULD-FAISON: Yes, there is 7 confusion in that. So again, thank you all. Thank 8 you for your time and any assistance that local 9 communities can be given. Thank you.

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: We're grateful for 11 your testimony. Thank you so, so much.

12 [APPLAUSE]

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Thank you
14 for coming. All right, thanks again for the 15 statements from the public. It's really enriching 16 this record and making it stronger.

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 5

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: We are now going to 2 turn our attention to the impact of new voting
3 rules and other election administration barriers 4 on students in North Carolina. And we have,
5 again, a wonderful star panel. What we're going 6 to do with this panel is a little bit different.
7 For the next two panels we're going to use a
8 different process of introductions. [TAPE SKIPS] 9 And I am sorry if you had not heard that in 10 advance but I want to make sure that we give you 11 that opportunity.

12 After your statements, we are going to 13 then have questions from the commissioners; and 14 then after the commissioners' questions we will 15 open the mics again. I just want to say it means 16 a lot to us that you're here. There were to have 17 been two other participants who have not shown at 18 this time for the panel. So, we welcome you and 19 we look forward to your testimony. Thank you. So, 20 we'll start with you, Ms. Ali.

21 LAILA ALI: Hello, everyone. My name is 22 Laila Ali, and I would first like to thank all of 23 you for giving me the time to share my 24 experiences. And I'm currently at North Carolina 25 State University and I'm also interning with

1 Ignite North Carolina. This is my second
2 semester. And we've been working with a project 3 called North Carolina Vote Defenders, where we 4 recruited students from different campuses to be 5 poll monitored and attend the polls and actually 6 inform people about their rights to vote. And 7 that experience really showed me three things. It 8 taught me the importance of voting and the 9 privilege of having the right to vote.

10 The second thing is that it made me
11 witness what happens at the polls and what kind 12 of challenges voters can encounter. And the third 13 thing is that it allowed me to communicate with 14 students on campus about their perspectives on 15 the new law and what they see are the challenges 16 that could arise from it. And I noticed a few 17 things--that the students are either misinformed 18 or are uninformed. And it kind of gave me the 19 time to kind of clarify their confusion. And the 20 most thing is that they're very confused about 21 the law. For example, they don't know what 22 sections of the law are going to be implemented
23 either in 2014 or 2016. They don't understand 24 what kind of IDs are going to be asked for when 25 they get there in 2014 or 2016. Also, some of the 1 students are out of state residents, so in 2016

2 they won't be able to have a professional ballot.
3 So, what are going to be the circumstances then?
4 They don't understand that.

5 So, the major thing is that they're 6 confused about what to do next. And also, another
7 thing that I noticed is when I asked these people 8 what do you think about the law and stuff, we all 9 agree that--you know, we're balancing our college 10 lives and juggling all the classes and stuff--we 11 don't have time to go to the DMV and get a North 12 Carolina issued ID. And it just creates barriers 13 for students to get involved and get engaged in 14 the political stage and actually practice their 15 right to vote. So, that's really what I noticed 16 and experienced. I think that's all. Thank you so
17 much.

18 [APPLAUSE]

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Well, thank you. That 20 was great. Before we move on, can you just tell 21 us a little bit more about the North Carolina 22 Vote Defenders? What the organization is like, 23 and its membership, and its locations?

24 LAILA ALI: Well, the office is in 25 Durham, North Carolina and we have interns from

1 different parts of North Carolina, all across 2 North Carolina. And these interns go to their 3 campuses and they do outreach, and they recruit
4 students from the campuses. And then we have a 5 two-hour training to welcome those volunteers, 6 and we get trained about the voter ID law and 7 like the changes that are going to happen and 8 what to expect when we arrive at the polls. And 9 once at the polls, we stand, we have our vests 10 on--it's like orange--we're out there. And we 11 pass out cards from Democracy NC really 12 summarizing the laws and what our rights are, and 13 we speak to the people, and we're at the buffer
14 zone. And we actually hand out...

15 And I'll tell you the kind of 16 experience I had at the polls in Wade County. I 17 didn't see problems with students probably 18 because it was a municipal election and there 19 wasn't a huge turnout. But I did see curbside
20 voters had problems. I was at an elementary 21 school and for some reason that elementary school 22 did not have any windows. So they couldn't see 23 the curbside voters.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: Wow. Wow.

25 LAILA ALI: So, we were kind of there to 1 assist. This lady came up and she couldn't go in 2 and we assisted her, and we told the officials to 3 come out and help her, and they did.

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: Excellent, excellent.
5 Thank you. To impressive.

6 LAILA ALI: Thank you.

7 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so much.
8 Yes? Mr. Perlmutter.

9 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: Hi. My name is Bryan
10 Perlmutter, I am the Director of Ignite North 11 Carolina and the North Carolina Vote Defenders
12 Project. I am a North Carolina native, I grew up 13 in Charlotte, and I now live in Durham, North 14 Carolina. I graduated from North Carolina State 15 University in May of 2013. And during my time at 16 NC State I was a community organizer with the 17 North Carolina Student Power Union and have 18 continued advocacy work. I work on two main 19 projects: One is called the Youth Organizing 20 Institute that works with high school students, 21 and the other is the North Carolina Vote Defender
22 Project.

23 And so, first, I think it's really 24 important to acknowledge that students are widely 25 underrepresented in our political system, and

1 that's in terms of voting, in terms of actual 2 representation in office. And in this kind of 3 critical juncture that we're in, it's really 4 important that students and young people are able 5 to participate in the democratic process. And the 6 new law that was being passed and being 7 implemented is creating a vast range of barriers.
8 And so, the past week I spent time in Boone,
9 North Carolina, and in Greensboro and Charlotte 10 on university campuses talking to students. And 11 there are a couple of things that I just want to, 12 like from those conversations, point out.

13 Just having conversations with students
14 on campus about what they need to vote and doing 15 voter education--I had two students say that they 16 were not going to register where they were on 17 campus because their parents would receive a tax 18 penalty. And this was a provision that was not 19 passed but had a lot of media attention around
20 it.

21 BARBARA ARNWINE: It was proposed.

22 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: And so it just kind
23 of creates this sentiment that whatever the media 24 narrative puts out, whatever folks are hearing, 25 that is what they go with. And so, this creates

1 this tension on campus--that students are unaware 2 and don't know how to react. There are lots of 3 different confusing messages and different 4 messages coming from different types of people.

5 And another really important component
6 that students use--I know I have used--is early 7 voting. And, specifically, same-day registration.
8 Students often times move dorm addresses or move 9 apartments on a yearly basis and so this means 10 that folks have to reregister continuously. And 11 before, students used to know--they could go to 12 the campus polling site and change their address 13 and vote at the same time. So, the removal of 14 same-day registration creates this huge barrier 15 that students are going to have to register and 16 need that infrastructure on campus to be able to 17 do that, which is often times inadequate.

18 And within that component we've seen
19 this backlash and this changing of moving voting 20 locations. So, not only are students not able to 21 change their address and register to vote at the 22 same time, the physical polling locations are 23 moving around as well, and that is just adding to 24 the confusion that folks are having.

25 In 2013, this is even before the new

1 law went into effect, we saw in Boone, North
2 Carolina a precinct move off of campus. Then
3 through appeal, the State Board of Elections
4 moved it closer to campus at this bar called 5 Legends. And so what had happened was students 6 who were coming to vote--the campus was split 7 into two. So, half the students were voting at 8 one precinct and half the students were voting at 9 the other precinct. And in that process there 10 were over 50 provisional ballots cast at one of 11 the precincts, and students having to walk two 12 miles from one precinct to the other precinct.

13 And so, with inadequate public
14 transportation and inadequate education about 15 where folks need to go and what folks need, these 16 are creating huge barriers for students. And this 17 is just in 2013.

18 And so moving forward, just through our 19 time on campus doing this voter education, seeing 20 that folks are confused and that they want to 21 participate in the democratic process. They want 22 to have their voices heard, they want to be 23 represented. And through this mass confusion that 24 this bill is creating, it's targeting young 25 people to create this confusion and keep then

1 further underrepresented. And so--thank you.

2 [APPLAUSE]

3 BARBARA ARNWINE: No, the thanks is to 4 you. Thank you for your advocacy and your work.
5 Mr. Hall?

6 MR. HALL: Good afternoon and good
7 afternoon to the commissioners and my fellow 8 panelists. My main purpose on this panel is to 9 bring some age balance here to increase the 10 average...

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh, come on. We can't 12 believe that. [CHUCKLES]

13 MR. HALL: To raise the average age
14 here. But I'm very happy to be here because I 15 think this is a critical issue for our time. I am 16 a professor of political science at North 17 Carolina Central University. I also direct the 18 Institute for Civic Engagement and Social Change.
19 At North Carolina Central University we work with 20 different people on campus, especially at the law 21 school, sponsoring events that would educate 22 people, students as well as the community, about 23 the political process. I also chaired the 24 Political Action Committee for the North Carolina 25 NAACP from 2006 to 2008 and I am the convener and

1 founder of the very new Student Engagement and 2 Empowerment Network, which is an effort to build 3 a civic capacity of students at North Carolina's 4 HPCUs.

5 When you look at this monster voter
6 suppression bill--because that's what it is--you 7 look at several provisions and the 8 disproportionate impact that these provisions 9 would have on youth and student voting and 10 participation in the process. And I mention 11 participation in the process because it's not 12 just voting--because we want students as well as 13 people in the community to be fully engaged 14 within the process and to understand the 15 different methods that can be used in order to 16 influence what goes on in the political system 17 along with voting.

18 When you look at the provisions of the 19 monster voter suppression bill--when you look at 20 compressing the early voting period, it will have 21 a disproportionate impact on youth. For example, 22 I have some data from--it's a little bit dated 23 but it tells how young people have used 24 especially early voting and same-day
25 registration.

1 In terms of early voting, this is in 2 2008--in Durham County, 23.5 percent of young 3 black voters between the ages of 18 and 29 voted 4 during the early voting period. So, around 24
5 percent. That compares to around 19 percent 6 statewide. So, in other words, young people were 7 using the early voting period more frequently 8 than were those in other age cohorts.

9 In Durham County 75 percent of the 10 votes, again--this is in 2008--were from the 11 early voting ballots. 78 percent of the votes on 12 North Carolina Central's campus were from early 13 voting. In fact, just as Reverend Barber 14 mentioned, Barack Obama lost on Election Day but 15 he won during the early voting period. And I can 16 remember on that day, a lot of people were 17 concerned on Election Day itself because they 18 didn't see a lot of people at the central voting
19 site. You know, and I was a little concerned too 20 because I was getting calls from people from 21 around the community. But I knew also that the 22 vast majority of students had already voted 23 during the early voting period. And, in fact, we 24 used the early voting period to mobilize students 25 quite a bit. It's become a tradition on our

1 campus, in fact, to get students to participate 2 in a march to the early voting site.

3 In 2004, we had about 1,200 to 4 participate in the march. In 2008, we had about 5 2,000 people to participate in the march. And the 6 turnout for students on campus now who had 7 registered in the campus precinct for 2008 was 8 right at 90 percent, and much of that was because 9 of participation during the early voting period.

10 In terms of same-day registration, the 11 rate of use of same-day registration for the 12 state and the county in 2008 was around 6 percent 13 and 8 percent, respectively. In the central 14 precinct it was close to 14 percent. So, again, 15 disproportionately, young people--and especially 16 North Carolina Central students in this 17 particular instance were using same-day
18 registration. It was a way to get students more 19 involved in the process.

20 And one concern I have other than 21 voting is what is the message that is being sent 22 to young people and to people in general when 23 they have people who are supposed to be 24 representing their best interest, creating more 25 barriers to voting? It sends a message. It

1 becomes very confusing. It sends the message that 2 they don't really want us to be a part of the 3 process when we should be opening up the process, 4 making it easier for people to participate.

5 And I have some survey data that shows 6 that at the peak of the use of all of the 7 provisions that made North Carolina stand out as 8 being fairly progressive in terms of voting laws 9 that have been changed, that students had more of 10 a sense of being a part of the process. They were 11 less alienated. They were more involved in 12 political activities outside of voting.

13 So, I think that with these changes it 14 will lead students and other people to go back to 15 a higher sense of alienation from the political 16 process. Thank you.

17 [APPLAUSE]

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: Excellent, excellent.
19 Thank you, thank you. All right, that was 20 excellent. To the panel. Ms. Clayton, yes?

21 EVA CLAYTON: Did I understand that you
22 currently now have on the campuses precincts
23 where students register and vote--or nearby?

24 MR. HALL: I'm sorry?

25 EVA CLAYTON: Is your voting precinct on

1 campus or nearby the campus?

2 MR. HALL: It's on campus.

3 EVA CLAYTON: It's on campus. Is there a 4 threat of that precinct being closed?

5 MR. HALL: There has been some talk of 6 it but it has not been closed yet. We have very 7 good turnout during Presidential elections and 8 especially for some reason the last two
9 Presidential elections.

10 EVA CLAYTON: [CHUCKLES] I wonder why.

11 MR. HALL: But we experience significant 12 challenges for municipal elections. Those are 13 still challenges. Even though during the last 14 mid-term election, our turnout rate for the on-15 campus precinct was actually higher than Durham
16 County and Florida State. So, we are experiencing 17 some progress there but still, that is always a 18 challenge. But turnout for municipal elections 19 can be as low as 3-6 percent, especially for 20 primaries.

21 EVA CLAYTON: There was some question
22 during the discussion of the legislation--rather, 23 they were going to continue having--I think the 24 college that was identified was the University of 25 Ashville, Appalachia? I think they might've had a

1 precinct on campus and had one nearby and they 2 were making the choice to close the one on campus
3 and have the young people go to the closest 4 precincts to them. I'm not sure...

5 [OFF-MIC COMMENT]

6 EVA CLAYTON: Appalachia? I knew that 7 was a possibility so I wonder if that was...
8 That's not true in your case, I gather?

9 MR. HALL: Correct.

10 WOMAN: Thank you for what you're doing.
11 And if we can reach as many students as possible 12 we need to not only inform them about all of this 13 but perhaps to encourage them to use absentee 14 ballots if they've been registered. This is a 15 question for Bryan. Are you statewide working on 16 students or just in certain areas?

17 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: We have folks in 18 seven counties in North Carolina and we're 19 working to expand that in our capacity.

20 WOMAN: What's your email address?
21 Because I'm working with some students and I
22 think we need to get everybody working together.
23 What's your email address?

24 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: I can give you my 25 card afterwards.

1 WOMAN: That'd be great.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Go ahead.

3 MAN: Given all of your efforts--the 4 students here--given all of your efforts--by the 5 way, it's good to see you, Dr. Hall. It's like an 6 NCSU reunion here. [CHUCKLES] The Eagles are in 7 this house. I don't see any A&T folks in here.

8 [CHUCKLES]

9 DR. HALL: I'm a proud graduate of North
10 Carolina A&T so...

11 MAN: Oh, okay, all right. I'll leave it 12 alone. For the students here, given all your 13 efforts, could you offer any projections with 14 regard to student participation and/or turnout
15 for this November?

16 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: Could you maybe 17 repeat that or reframe that?

18 MAN: I'm sorry?

19 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: Could you repeat the
20 question?

21 MAN: Given all of your efforts in 22 response to these changes in the voting laws here 23 in North Carolina--your efforts obviously to 24 ensure that--it sounds like, in particular, the 25 student ID issue, is addressed, would you all be

1 willing or could you offer any projections in 2 terms of what do you think is going to happen
3 based on all your efforts or not--what do you 4 think is going to happen here in November in 5 terms of either participation of students,
6 turnout...? Do you have any projections.

7 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: So, I think it's hard 8 to project that, and I think that what we're 9 going to continue to see is people be very 10 confused about this law and this legislation and 11 what they need. I think that there's constant 12 different news articles and different people on 13 their campus telling them different things. And 14 that as much as I would hope that there's a large 15 student turnout and that everything goes 16 flawlessly based on conversations and what we 17 have seen just in the past year, it is very 18 troublesome and I think that there are prospects 19 for students being very confused at the polls and 20 there being lots of problems.

21 MR. HALL: Yeah, it's hard to give a
22 number or even a range of numbers, really. But I 23 think because of the possibility--or the 24 certainty, really, of confusion, quite frankly,
25 we want to make the process as open as possible

1 because when I look at the electorate--and for 2 those who have done this work for a while, you 3 know that you divide the electorate into three 4 groups. Those people who always vote, so you 5 don't have to spend your limited resources on 6 them--your resources are time, people, and money.
7 Those people who will never vote regardless of 8 what you do. But most of the people are in the 9 middle. And so you have to engage people five to 10 seven times in order to get them to vote.

11 So, because of this, it may create more 12 of those in the middle, so you may have more 13 people that you really have to work with. So, 14 again, it's hard to pinpoint a number or a range 15 but what we can--I think all of us can project is 16 that we will redouble our efforts to make sure 17 that people are informed about the law, that 18 there is as less confusion as possible. But at 19 the same time I think that it should be used as a 20 way to mobilize students--you know, to say that 21 this is a direct attack on your voting rights.
22 What are you going to do about it? And I think 23 the thing to do is to come out in larger and 24 larger numbers.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, go ahead, David.

1 DAVID HARRIS: This is actually not a
2 question but a comment--an encouragement. Back
3 in--I will not say which year--when I was a poli-
4 sci major at NCCU undergrad, I had an opportunity 5 to work with student organizations across the 6 state, especially within the university system 7 campus, and to the school, whether it was 8 Appalachia State at East Carolina, the students 9 had the same issues with respect to being able to 10 vote locally. And we're talking about a pretty 11 long time ago.

12 These issues continue, as you have 13 probably noticed from the history and the 14 discussion today--a lot of these issues continue.
15 It's like you think you have it solved, and then 16 it flares up again. It's like a Hydra. And it 17 keeps flaring up. This too will be defeated. You 18 will be the instruments of that defeat. And you 19 will prevail. It is important that you continue 20 to not only organize your folks, the students on 21 your campus, on Central's campus, but also on 22 other campuses so that they simply work around 23 the system, flood the polls, and basically send a 24 message to those who want to block the franchise 25 or make it more difficult to exercise the 1 franchise, that it simply will not be successful.

2 That's the encouragement. Keep doing what you're 3 doing.

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: Excellent. Before we 5 end this panel, I believe I've gotten all the 6 questions from the panel--do you have any ending 7 statements that you just want to make before we 8 stop this particular panel? Yes, please.

9 LAILA ALI: I just think that it's 10 really important to keep educating and informing 11 students about the law. And I also feel like the 12 State Board of Elections should also, you know, 13 outreach to people more and make sure that 14 information is out to students. Because I feel 15 that that information isn't as accessible to 16 students as it should be. And I think that this 17 country's worked hard for voting rights and some 18 countries around the world are still fighting for 19 that right, and we don't want that being 20 deprived.

21 And I'm not a U.S. citizen and I can't 22 vote but I really would love to have the 23 privilege to. But what I can do--I can help. And 24 I just feel like students should not be deprived 25 from their right to vote no matter what happens.

1 Thank you.

2 BRYAN PERLMUTTER: I think these voting
3 laws are so critical to how we are able to 4 participate, and students need to be able to 5 participate in the democratic process. It is 6 urgent and essential that not only the state make 7 arrangements to create mass education campaigns, 8 but also at the federal level there needs to be 9 legislation that addresses and allows for 10 participation of all people.

11 MR. HALL: I'm going to go off track a 12 little bit, because I'm going to go beyond this 13 voting law--because we know it's a bad thing and 14 we know that there are several things that need 15 to be fixed or eliminated about it, and open up 16 the process. What I'm concerned about--because 17 when I look at voting rights, there's a National 18 Commission on Voting Rights--I hope that the 19 scope of your work would expand to deal with the 20 issues of civic education. That's what we call it 21 now anyway. Because the quality of civic 22 education is very abysmal in this country right
23 now.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes. Yes.

25 MR. HALL: When we get the students on

1 campus, they come in very alienated, very 2 apolitical, very unconcerned about the process.
3 We need to reach down into the high schools and 4 into elementary schools to make sure that 5 students are learning the role that they can play
6 in the political process. We have to counter all 7 of the forces that are convincing them to look at 8 things just as an individual to be alienated from 9 their communities, to not believe in collective 10 action.

11 We have to do something to make sure
12 that the generations several years down the road, 13 as they become eligible voters, that when they 14 reach that age, they are ready to vote and 15 understand the process, and demystify the beast
16 that is called the American political system so 17 that they can understand how they can become real 18 change agents.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. And I think 20 it's fair to say that we all are very troubled by 21 the cutbacks in public education regarding civic 22 participation, civic education. That there are so 23 many people graduating who have no idea what our 24 government looks like because they're not taught, 25 they're not told about the separation of powers.

1 That's why they don't quite understand. They 2 don't understand the Constitution, the different 3 Bill of Rights. So, this is, I think, just 4 another threat to democracy. And your point is 5 well-taken.

6 I would just say to Ms. Ali, to Mr.
7 Perlmutter, students have always been the 8 vanguard of every movement and students born in 9 the United States and students who have come to 10 the United States have been instrumental in 11 moving our country and compelling us forward in a 12 progressive way. So, I just want to thank you for 13 your incredible advocacy. Your being here today 14 is inspiring, enlightening, and we look forward 15 to your enjoying reading the reports as they are 16 issued on these hearings that are being held 17 around the country. Thank you so much.

18 [APPLAUSE]

19 At this time we're going to call for 20 any public testimony, and let's see if there's 21 anyone who wants to give public testimony right 22 now. Yes?

23 MARK DOROSIN: Good afternoon. My name
24 is Mark Dorosin, I'm an Orange County
25 Commissioner and I just wanted to add a few

1 comments to this particular panel. Two points to 2 really highlight: One is our universities have a
3 huge role to play in ensuring that our students
4 are enfranchised. Ms. Ali talked about the need 5 for students to get accurate information, and 6 what we found is that the students are often 7 getting inaccurate information from the 8 universities themselves. And, in addition, while 9 some universities are very accommodating for 10 creating access for student voting, other 11 universities do not want to have polling places 12 on campus for a variety of reasons. They don't 13 want to have the campuses be opened as those 14 public places or to share those valuable spaces.

15 At the University of North Carolina,
16 for example, we had a polling place on campus
17 last election cycle, it was very successful. This 18 year the university has said that they can't 19 accommodate that. And so, I think in the struggle 20 for empowering students we really need to get the 21 universities and their leadership on our side.

22 The other key point about having the 23 universities involved is that we know students
24 are a highly transitory population, they move 25 sometimes every year. And so, what we've already

1 seen in North Carolina is students are vulnerable 2 targets for the kind of vote challenging that was 3 described in some of the earlier panels. And as 4 we see new opportunities for challengers to be at 5 the polling place, we know that those targets are 6 going to be students and we know that they're 7 likely going to be students of color. So it's 8 critical that we engage around those issues.
9 Thank you.

10 BARBARA ARNWINE: Great, Mark. That was 11 excellent. Thank you. Any other public testimony?
12 Oh, yes, sir.

13 KEITH RIVERS: Good afternoon.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, good afternoon.

15 KEITH RIVERS: My name is Keith
16 Rivers...

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes, Keith.

18 KEITH RIVERS: And I'm from Elizabeth
19 City, North Carolina and one thing--with the 20 declawing of Section 5, it is allowing the local 21 board of elections to have a free reign. And most 22 people are aware of what went on in Elizabeth
23 City with Motravias King--excuse me, Councilman
24 King now. However, this started seven years ago 25 in 2007 with the intimidation of college

1 students.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes.

3 KEITH RIVERS: And in many of these 4 isolated small rural areas, the local papers are 5 many times the only media source that we have.
6 And what happens--in 2008, 18 students were 7 subpoenaed and put on the front page of the 8 paper. In 2010, they actually had to come in to 9 the hearing and Democracy North Carolina along 10 with the Southern Coalition and the NAACP came 11 forth. Now, what that does is that sends a 12 message out to the students "I'm not going to 13 vote in Elizabeth City." And a lot of it is 14 because on the national level, to many of these 15 local communities, it's okay, but many of these 16 smaller colleges can change municipal elections.
17 And even prior to Mr. King filing for election, 18 in April of 2013, 50-some students were removed 19 from the voter [ROLLS?], simply because the same 20 person who challenged Mr. King went in and said 21 that these students no longer lived here and the 22 board upheld that.

23 And so this is something that we have 24 to look at, that this commission has to look at 25 when it comes to these students--and in the 1 smaller rural areas they're not going to get the 2 same publicity they would at a North Carolina

3 Central, at a Winston-Salem. Thank you.

4 [APPLAUSE]

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you so, so much.
6 Thank you. At this time we're going to take a 7 short break. We're going to reconvene as closely 8 to 4:10 as we can, and we encourage everyone
9 right now who's on the next panel to please...

10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Panel 6

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Okay, good afternoon
2 everyone. Good afternoon. We are in the home
3 stretch and we have yet another illustrious
4 panel. This panel is going to address the needs
5 of rural voters and the impact of HB589 in rural 6 counties across North Carolina and of course to 7 talk about any other specific and strong barriers
8 to rural voters that affect the area of either 9 discrimination in voting or electoral 10 administration in voting.

11 We are lucky to have four of our 12 panelists to participate. Once again, using this 13 new procedure, we're going to ask you to open 14 with a one-minute introduction and then you can 15 continue with your five-minute statement. After 16 that we will, of course, have questions and 17 answers from the commissioners.

18 I just want to once again thank you.
19 It's really been amazing the testimony we've 20 heard today and you're just going to bring it 21 home and put the icing on the cake and to make 22 this just a wonderful amazing day.

23 So, we're going to hear from Keith 24 Rivers, Elizabeth Haddix, Mark Hess--is that 25 right?

1 MARCUS THOMPSON: Yes, Marcus.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Marcus Thompson,
3 Estelle "Bunny" Sanders. Please, Mr. Rivers.

4 KEITH RIVERS: Good afternoon.

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: Good afternoon.

6 KEITH RIVERS: As stated, I am Keith
7 Rivers and I currently serve as an Executive 8 Committee Member of the North Carolina State 9 NAACP as well as the branch president in 10 Pasquotank County.

11 It's saddening and disheartening. I
12 served my country for 21 years in the United 13 States Navy and to have to undergo and go through 14 this type of just ordeal and painful evolution to 15 fight and continue to fight for rights that 16 people have already signed for in blood. House 17 Bill 589 is a bad, bad bill.

18 I live in the first congressional 19 district which is the 4th congressional district 20 in the nation. Now, it's very important that we 21 understand some things. The North Carolina
22 Department of Commerce ranks the state's 100
23 counties based on economic well-being and assigns
24 each a tier group. The 40 most distressed 25 counties are designated as tier one counties. The

1 eastern part of North Carolina is comprised of 41
2 counties with nearly 21 percent of the population 3 living in poverty and also has the highest 4 concentration of African-Americans. Many of these 5 counties are considered rural counties.

6 As I stated earlier, I also serve as 7 the District 12 director of the North Carolina
8 NAACP. Five of the six counties in my district 9 are tier one counties. It's very important that 10 we understand the economic state of these 11 counties because when you couple the economic 12 state with the logistics of many of the voting 13 polls which already is an issue--just getting to 14 the polls and many persons living in these 15 counties are without transportation. Many of them
16 have to travel upward to 30 miles, some 60 miles 17 just to get to the voting polls under the 18 conditions now.

19 As stated earlier, 70 percent of 20 African-Americans voted during early voting. Now, 21 when you shorten that from 17 days to 10 days 22 think about the nightmare. Think about what 23 you've just done. Think about the economic state 24 of this rural area.

25 Photo ID, which we know this has not

1 been implemented in the State of North Carolina, 2 however, and I think it was stated earlier also 3 about the Division of Motor Vehicles. Many of 4 these counties do not have DMVs. Some have a
5 mobile unit. For example, Gates County has a 6 mobile unit that comes one day a month and it 7 comes during the hours in which most people are 8 at work.

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: You said how many of 10 the counties don't have a DMV?

11 KEITH RIVERS: In my district Pasquotank
12 County out of six there are four without.

13 BARBARA ARNWINE: Wow, okay. Sorry.

14 KEITH RIVERS: No, you're fine. If you 15 go on the state's DMV website, many of the 16 counties that do not have DMVs, they don't even 17 post when the mobile unit will be in their 18 county. Again, we are in a rural area so many of 19 the persons do not even have internet services.

20 The elimination of preregistration of 21 16 to 17 year olds is going to be--I lose just my 22 track how disenfranchising this will be because 23 right now a lot of the voter registration is 24 being done at the high schools for 16 and 17 year
25 olds, the preregistration, where once you

1 eliminate this you add this to the rural area 2 where transportation is already an issue, how are 3 we, again, going to register or continue to push 4 forward the democratic process of voting and 5 being engaged in our civic duties?

6 Elderly persons in this area.
7 Transportation becomes another issue, which we've 8 already talked about. But elderly persons, how do 9 they get to and from the voting polls? Remember, 10 we are talking about 30 to 60 miles. In 11 Pasquotank County our Weeksville voting district 12 has the heaviest African-American population and 13 the lowest turnout because in many of these 14 counties there's only one early voting site--one 15 during early vote. In Weeksville you have to 16 travel 32 miles just to early vote, but yet we 17 know that's being cut down to 10 days.

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: What county is that?

19 KEITH RIVERS: That's in Pasquotank.
20 Hyde County, most of your counties there are only 21 going to have the one early voting site and 22 usually that's going to be at the Board of 23 Elections. So wherever you live in the county 24 you're going to have to travel that distance.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Most of that's going

1 to be over 30 minutes.

2 KEITH RIVERS: Once again, the elderly--
3 we know even with photo ID many of these persons 4 were birthed at home so there is no birth
5 certificate. Then you only have the DMV who comes 6 around once a month. So they've got to find 7 transportation to get there and then they have to 8 have the credentials, the two forms. Many of 9 these persons don't have birth certificates.

10 So, I just want to make a last note
11 that the House Bill 589 only adds more obstacles 12 to rural North Carolina and it is a bill that has 13 already been singled out to prevent and 14 discourage Americans living in North Carolina 15 from their right to vote. It has been targeted at 16 African-American and other minorities, the poor 17 and the elderly will be hardest hit by this bill.
18 Thank you.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. That was 20 riveting. Thank you.

21 [APPLAUSE]

22 MARCUS THOMPSON: Thank you. My name is 23 Marcus Thompson. I'm on this panel basically as a 24 representative of a rural voter. I'm native to 25 rural North Carolina. I lived in Martin County

1 most of my life. I've served in many capacities
2 as an organizer or as a volunteer for campaigns 3 and for various outreaches throughout my 4 community. As a person who has lived through 5 being a citizen that was wanting to vote in a 6 rural community I can speak from that standpoint 7 and also from the standpoint of someone who 8 registers people to vote, someone who tries to 9 get the vote out and that kind of thing.

10 From both of those perspectives, first 11 of all, as a rural voter I'd like to speak. Of 12 course you're going to hear the same problems 13 reiterated over again, but the problem of getting 14 to the polls if one works out of town. He spoke 15 of the poverty in many of these rural 16 communities. So that being the case that means 17 that there's no jobs in that area so if you are 18 working, if you are employed you're generally 19 employed outside of where you live.

20 I've typically always had to commute 30
21 to 40 minutes for any type of employment outside 22 of my community because I lived in a rural 23 community. That means that if you work a typical 24 job from 9:00 to 5:00 you've got to add time onto 25 that just to get home. Rural voters typically,

1 like myself, I didn't go to college. I just 2 worked at a factory job for many years and so
3 that's very hard work. It's very laborious. So 4 whatever you do, you commute home, you're very 5 tired. These are obstacles that people feel they 6 are not actively engaged in the political 7 process. That fatigue alone is a barrier to them
8 voting. You say, you know, I just worked a hard 9 day's work. It's hard for me to get back and 10 forth to work. It presents problems right out of 11 the gate.

12 The problem with information being 13 available is also something that you find in a 14 rural area. Rural areas receive very little media 15 attention, as you might imagine, and rural areas 16 suffer from inadequate news media period. So that 17 really minimizes the effect that they get little 18 coverage and then there's no real big media 19 outlets there to start with. When you think about 20 why people are voting, they vote over issues.
21 They vote over concerns in their community. If we 22 don't have media there that informs people of 23 what's going on in the community there is another 24 reason why people might have the thought process
25 that I don't need to vote or they don't

1 understand the importance of their vote.

2 A lot of times we see that poor people,
3 we lament the fact that poor people have little 4 representation in our government so to speak. We 5 say that money is taking over politics or 6 whatever. Well it's because rural people a lot of 7 times feel that their vote doesn't count. They 8 feel like rich people control that, you know, and 9 I'm just trying to struggle just to make a 10 living. This is a thought process that as an 11 organizer I've run into and that you have to 12 fight with. People say, "I'm doing all I can do 13 just to put food on the table and to live and 14 rich people have the government controlled 15 anyway, so what does my vote count?"

16 Therefore they don't vote and therefore 17 the cycle kind of precipitates itself where they 18 don't vote and therefore their voice isn't heard 19 and therefore politicians kind of say hey, well 20 never mind poor people, never mind rural voters, 21 we'll focus on other matters. It's a cycle that 22 we see just continuing on forever.

23 Fighting the long distance that people 24 must travel, that's something. Fighting the 25 prevalent attitude that elections don't really

1 matter, that politicians are all untrustworthy.
2 Then just to top it all off you get 3 misunderstandings, misinformation and incomplete 4 information oftentimes. So, if you were a rural 5 voter, you do watch the news or whatever, any 6 kind of lie, any kind of misinformation that's 7 presented there--again, you don't have many media 8 sources so you might go on the one or two little 9 bits of information that may be false and 10 incomplete.

11 Again, as an organizer you run into 12 people having misconceptions that, again, you 13 have to kind of counter and have to teach. So, 14 it's very important the more time that these 15 people have, myself included, to vote, the more 16 time that we have to be involved in the political 17 process, that's just going to make things better.
18 So, why in the world if you care about democracy, 19 if you care about people in this country, why 20 would you be trying to limit the voting rights of 21 a whole segment of the population? Especially the 22 ones that really need the assistance of 23 government, that really need their voices heard.
24 Because the more affluent, they've got the 25 avenues to make their voices heard. It's those in

1 rural communities, it's those that are the less 2 fortunate of us that are hit the hardest when we 3 mess with voting rights and when we mess with the 4 availability of early voting and these things.

5 The last thing I'll say is just a few 6 bright spots. The election of President Obama has 7 created excitement in some of these communities
8 that we've seen. As all things come to an end 9 this too must pass. That's coming to an end so we 10 see that there's an emphasis that needs to be 11 placed on helping people in rural communities to 12 stay excited, to stay in the political process 13 and to be engaged.

14 High profile actions of the governor
15 and the Legislature hopefully will cause people 16 to say hey, this affects me. Thank you guys for 17 coming and doing what you do to help put a 18 spotlight on what's going on in these 19 communities. Of course, things like the 20 Affordable Care Act has made politics seem more 21 relevant because people know that something has 22 happened, something big has happened and it
23 affects me and I need to do something about it.

24 So, thank you so much for what you're 25 doing today.

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Powerful testimony.
2 Thank you. Thank you.

3 [APPLAUSE]

4 ESTELLE SANDERS: Thank you so much for 5 the opportunity to address this commission.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Mic closer.

7 ESTELLE SANDERS: Thank you so much for 8 the opportunity to address this commission. My 9 name is Bunny Sanders. I'm mayor of the small 10 town, Roper, that's located in northeastern North 11 Carolina, population 613.

12 I'd really like to share in opening a 13 short story that makes this whole vote
14 suppression--I take it to heart. My grandfather 15 all his life his dream was to vote. He would go 16 to the polls every single time there was an 17 opportunity to register and every time he was 18 told over and over, "Ain't nothing changed, Tom."
19 He was supposed to understand that.

20 That is what my grandfather would hear 21 every single year. He wanted to vote before he 22 died. He finally got the chance to vote before he 23 died in 1957. But according to the Federal Bureau
24 of Investigation and the Department of Justice 25 records located at the National Archives and

1 Records Administration in DC, the modern Civil 2 Rights Movement might well have begun in Roper.

3 According to research done by [YAHIV
4 ISA?] PhD at Elizabeth City State University, in 5 the 1940s African-Americans living in Roper
6 challenged the authoritarian democratic run one-7 party system that had denied them the right to 8 vote for several decades.

9 [ISA?] says FBI records indicated that 10 the movement that allowed the FBI and the 11 Department of Justice to investigate and 12 successful prosecute several white electoral 13 officials for violating the federal Civil Rights
14 Law was led by two railroad workers. One of them
15 was my grandfather. The other was a Mr. Milton 16 Cox. They actually showed me the documents where 17 Herbert Hoover notes and my grandfather's name 18 was there.

19 I am so proud that he was able to be in 20 the forefront of getting the vote in that town. I 21 also remember part of the conversation was that 22 they came back and they allowed in the county
23 maybe five or six people to vote. They offered 24 that. But my grandfather and Mr. Cox refused to 25 vote until everybody was given the right to vote.

1 So, it's just a story that makes this 2 very dear to my heart. My father served as mayor.
3 This is interesting. My grandfather never got to 4 know this, but my father served as mayor for 20
5 years and I have been serving now for 18 years.
6 So, my grandfather's work was not in vain.

7 The other part of this whole idea of 8 what's happened in eastern North Carolina, we 9 live in the fifth poorest county in the state, 10 Washington County. But eastern North Carolina has 11 been the poorest region in the state for three 12 decades and that despite the fact that we had the 13 most powerful voice in the State of North 14 Carolina representing us.

15 So, if you can imagine where we are 16 with this kind of poverty, with the most powerful 17 voice in the state representing us, where we are 18 going to be if our voice is limited by vote
19 suppression. I am concerned about what the effect 20 of this is going to be on us. Already we are 21 seeing--what has happened in eastern North 22 Carolina over the years has been that we tend in 23 our poverty to fight each other for just a small 24 piece of already a quarter of a pie. Now it's 25 drilling down to our towns and our counties.

1 I just finished a big battle with my 2 county over the fact that for years and years the 3 libraries in the counties have been located in 4 the county seats. That means that the kids who 5 live in other towns in those counties don't have 6 access to libraries. That was important 10 years 7 ago, but it's even more important now because 8 there are counties in North Carolina, remote 9 rural areas, that have less access to the 10 internet than some third-world countries. That is 11 something that nobody in this state should be 12 accepting of. That is a very serious problem and 13 it's not being addressed.

14 The problem I have with the libraries 15 is that because the only place for those kids who 16 live in those remote areas to access it or the 17 only place that they can even hope to get access 18 is if they did have internet service in their 19 communities. Well, they're not able to respond to 20 homework assignments that require it and so 21 forth. But anyway, that's one of the really 22 serious issues that have affected us.

23 The other thing is things like 24 recreation. In a number of communities in eastern 25 North Carolina kids have to pay to play. Kids

1 have to pay a fee to play basketball and 2 football. They pay the county to participate 3 which means that that's discriminating against 4 poor kids. But that's the kind of inter-fighting 5 that we do when we're in poverty. So, this is 6 just going to exacerbate all of what we're 7 already experiencing.

8 We are finding now that there are 9 grants coming through that are supposedly being 10 made available from the state, but they require 11 dollar for dollar matches. Well, when you do that 12 you eliminate a town the size of Roper. I can't 13 afford to match anything. So, that automatically 14 means that when it comes to infrastructure grants
15 and other economic development grants, we are out 16 of the ballgame.

17 I'm sorry my time is up, but there is 18 much more to be said about the difficulties of 19 being a poor community who is not going to lose 20 its voice.

21 BARBARA ARNWINE: Enlightening.
22 Excellent. Thank you. Thank you.

23 [APPLAUSE]

24 ELIZABETH HADDIX: Good afternoon. I'm 25 Elizabeth Haddix. I'm a senior staff attorney at

1 the UNC Center for Civil Rights in Chapel Hill.

2 The UNC Center for Civil Rights is part
3 of the UNC Law School. It was founded by 4 legendary Julius Chambers along with Jack Boger 5 and has since 2001 concerned itself with 6 structural racism in the area of education and 7 also in 2006 our work sort of expanded to include 8 representing communities that were excluded from 9 municipal services and political representation.

10 We've already talked, other panelists
11 have talked about the fact that--oh, and I wanted
12 to say before I began, I noticed that there was a 13 court reporter here before and I'm relieved to 14 know that this is being recorded and will be 15 transcribed for all of this witness testimony to 16 be submitted to the U.S. Congress. We don't 17 forget, none of us here today, and certainly 18 appreciate your participation in this as the 19 commissioners, how important this testimony is.
20 As we say, from our lips to Congress' ears.

21 So, prior to the Shelby decision, which 22 has been talked about a little bit already, 40 of 23 North Carolina's 100 counties were covered under 24 the Section 5 preclearance regulations and that 25 made a huge difference for us, especially in

1 rural counties. The application of Section 5
2 acknowledged that because of the lingering
3 vestiges of Jim Crow's segregation and exclusion 4 for economic and educational opportunities, the 5 significant African-American populations in these 6 mostly rural counties were particularly 7 vulnerable to political isolation and electoral 8 powerlessness.

9 The elimination of the voting rights
10 coverage formula together with the 2013 changes 11 in North Carolina's voting legislation and 12 electoral procedures that we've all been talking 13 about today will only deepen that isolation and 14 powerlessness.

15 The UNC Center for Civil Rights multi-16 faceted Inclusion Project began with the data-17 driven state of exclusion report, which is 18 available online and we can make hard copies 19 available to you as well, which looked at 20 minority communities across North Carolina. That 21 being defined as over 75 percent or over 22 communities of color. We measured a variety of 23 factors impacting the quality of life for 24 residents in those communities.

25 The data with regard to political

1 representation was telling and emphasizes the 2 need for expanding rather than eliminating 3 effective policy measures to address the 4 continuing legacy of discrimination in elections
5 and in voting rights. We want to emphasize, as a 6 former witness did, that this exclusion happens 7 not in a vacuum and the changes that were made to 8 our electoral procedures in North Carolina also 9 happen not in a vacuum, but in the context of 10 rollbacks in housing, protecting people from 11 discrimination in housing, in the location of 12 unwanted land uses, in access to equitable 13 educational resources--it's all part of a 14 movement in this country that needs to be 15 addressed immediately and vigorously by us all.

16 In evaluating the impact of residential 17 segregation on political engagement, our state of 18 exclusion report analyzed the gap between the 19 racial demographics of the general population of 20 the county and that of its Board of 21 Commissioners. In every one of the 10 counties 22 that showed the greatest racial disparity in 23 representation, county commissioners were either 24 all elected at large, which is the electoral 25 process that most significantly dilutes minority

1 voting strength, or through a mixture of at large 2 and residency districts where candidates must 3 live in a designated district, but are still 4 elected county-wide.

5 Both of these methods similarly 6 disadvantage minority votes and rural votes. Hyde
7 and Jones Counties are each almost 40 percent 8 people of color, but have all white Boards of 9 County commissioners. Both elect commissioners at 10 large, but Hyde has residency districts. Neither 11 county was subject to Section 5, nor were five of 12 the other 10 counties with the greatest 13 disparities.

14 Political exclusion persisted even in 15 counties subject to Section 5 however, suggesting 16 that some excluded communities were never able to 17 take full advantage of its power. Greene, Onslow, 18 Pasquotank--all Section 5 counties had a racial 19 differential of more than 30 percent. Notably, 20 all have either at large or residency districts.

21 The second phase of the Center's 22 Inclusion Project probes more deeply into the 23 data from particular counties evidencing racial 24 exclusion. Most recently we released our report 25 on Lenoir County, a rural eastern county whose

1 population is 40 percent black. I have submitted
2 a copy of our Lenoir report with our written 3 comments for consideration in the congressional 4 record. Lenoir County was subject to the 5 stringent provisions of Section 5 of the Voting
6 Rights Act and the local and municipal voting 7 districts in place were adopted and adapted under 8 its protection.

9 The 2010 redistricting by the North
10 Carolina General Assembly also "relied" on the 11 Voting Rights Act, but in a perverse way that 12 actual disenfranchised African-American voters in 13 this rural county. Under the North Carolina
14 Constitution, voting districts are not supposed 15 to cross county lines unless necessarily under 16 federal law, such as the Voting Rights Act.
17 Ostensibly acting to comply with the Voting 18 Rights Act, the Legislature drew districts that 19 packed African-American voters into super-20 majority districts significantly reducing the 21 voting power of minorities in other districts.

22 I see that my time is up. I'm not 23 finished with my comments. I have submitted them.
24 We have submitted them in writing though and if 25 you would like me to continue I'm happy to.

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you very much.
2 Thank you. Thank you.

3 [APPLAUSE]

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. All of 5 these submissions that have been turned into us
6 will become part of the record and we appreciate 7 that. At this time I'm going to turn it over to 8 the panel, to the guest commissioners for your 9 questions so that we can get into this. I'm so 10 happy we're doing this panel. This is really, 11 really important because it is telling a story 12 that is so key to understanding the impact of 13 losing Section 5 and the impact of 589 in a 14 different way.

15 So, anyone want to kick us off?

16 EVA CLAYTON: I wanted to say a couple 17 of things. I'm not sure this is a question, but 18 it just reinforces what you said. A couple of 19 things. Those of us who live in rural areas know 20 that we pay a price for living in rural areas.
21 Whether we go to the doctor, whether we go 22 shopping, we don't have the infrastructure and 23 the services there. Then if you compound the fact 24 that election laws, which are supposed to be kind 25 of fundamental of our basic rights, when that is

1 compounded with having to travel longer distances
2 for early voting--if you live where I live, I 3 live on the extreme end of Warren County, almost 4 to Halifax. But my voting precinct is in the 5 County Seat. So if I'm not able to do that,
6 combined with me being poor, I have to travel 20
7 miles. Some of these counties are even larger 8 than that.

9 We travel anyhow, those of us in rural 10 areas. If you don't have a car and then if you 11 are rural and actually an elderly person who is 12 not driving, you have to wait for that person.
13 So, now the law has impounded whether that person 14 is able to--I just think the rural aspect of this 15 adds to the severity of an already punitive law.

16 Many of us don't have housing. Many of 17 us don't have other things and then you combine 18 the right to interact and say to your government 19 we need good education, we need other things, you 20 made it even more extreme. So, I guess that's 21 just my way of saying amen to what you already 22 said.

23 ESTELLE SANDERS: What's so very cruel
24 about this law is, and particularly to the 25 elderly, is that this is their second time going

1 through this. You know? I see people who are 2 getting ready to have to deal with this a second 3 time and it is so cruel to watch that happen.
4 Their votes are actually being suppressed. There
5 are elderly people who cannot get a birth 6 certificate and the kinds of problems you talked 7 about--them getting to where they can get the ID
8 and so forth, it's just impossible.

9 ELLIE KINNAIRD: The only concession
10 that we were able to get in this whole voting 11 bill was that while they cut the voting by one 12 week, the early voting by one week, we said that 13 they had to keep the same hours as the 2012
14 election. However, I have understood that 43 15 counties have gotten a waiver so they don't have 16 to do that. So, our rural counties are going to 17 be punished and I assume these in the south--have 18 they done the same thing? Have they gotten the 19 waivers?

20 The beauty of keeping the same hours
21 was that they would have to stay open later for 22 early voting, maybe till 7:30 which would allow a 23 lot of working people to get to early voting. But 24 if they're not going to do that and have this 25 early voting shortened by one week that double

1 penalizes. Did all of your counties then get a 2 waiver so that you're not going to have the extra 3 hours or the extra sites?

4 ESTELLE SANDERS: I don't know about any 5 waivers.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: I have a question. I
7 see Raymond has the map up of the state. I have a
8 question. How many counties in eastern North 9 Carolina are rural counties that were covered 10 under Section 5 prior to the Shelby decision in 11 North Carolina?

12 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I should know the 13 answer to that, but I don't. I know I have 10 14 here that were--and I would just ask my 15 colleagues from the Center down in the audience 16 if they have that information.

17 MAN 1: [OFF MIC AND UNINTEL].

18 BARBARA ARNWINE: And I was just trying 19 to get a sense of how many of those were rural-- 20 would be classified as rural. It would be helpful 21 for us to break that information down as we 22 prepare this report.

23 EVA CLAYTON: One of the things, I knew 24 that eastern North Carolina, the First 25 Congressional District, had a substantial number

1 of those because of prior discrimination in that.
2 I'm not sure whether Pitt was in there or not.
3 But I know Edgecombe was in then, part of Nash,
4 Rocky Mount, Pasquotank County was in there. I'm 5 not sure of--anybody have those? Somebody may 6 have that.

7 ELLIE KINNAIRD: It's online.

8 ELIZABETH HADDIX: Pitt was certainly-- 9 Pitt was a Section 5 county.

10 EVA CLAYTON: It was? Okay.

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: We'll get that.

12 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I think Halifax as 13 well. Pitt, Halifax, Greene--

14 RAYMOND PIERCE: I think Gilbert was the 15 only non-rural county that is covered.

16 BARBARA ARNWINE: Oh really? Okay. All
17 right. That's helpful.

18 ELLIE KINNAIRD: It's online if you want 19 to look it up.

20 BARBARA ARNWINE: Any other questions
21 from the panel?

22 RAYMOND PIERCE: Sorry, I'm going to ask 23 you to repeat something you said earlier, the 24 gentleman from the Elizabeth City area. The 25 number of DMV operations, can you tell us about

1 that again in your area?

2 KEITH RIVERS: I'm the District Director
3 of District 12 which is six counties.

4 RAYMOND PIERCE: And what are those
5 counties?

6 KEITH RIVERS: Pasquotank, Camden
7 County, Currituck County, Perquimans County,
8 Chowan County and Gates County. Currituck, 9 Camden, Gates--four out of those six are without 10 DMVs.

11 RAYMOND PIERCE: Four out of those six 12 what?

13 KEITH RIVERS: Are without DMVs, without 14 stationary Division of Motor Vehicle Departments.
15 Pasquotank County has one. In Gates County they 16 have a mobile unit that comes. I pulled this 17 information right off of the state DMV's website.
18 What I found when you pull up the DMV's website, 19 it will say that it actually has a DMV, but when 20 you go to the location it comes up DMV and you 21 almost have to read to realize that there is no
22 DMV. Then you'll see Greenville.

23 In Gates when I pulled it up it gave 24 all the dates, which was one day a month, and it 25 was from 10:00 o'clock in the morning till 4:00

1 o'clock in the afternoon. That's a person's work
2 time.

3 BARBARA ARNWINE: Right.

4 KEITH RIVERS: When I pulled up Camden
5 County it gave no times. It just pulled up the 6 screen. So I'm like, okay when can I go and get a 7 valid ID card?

8 RAYMOND PIERCE: And you were saying the 9 percentage of African-Americans who voted in that 10 district who did not--

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: You need the mic.

12 RAYMOND PIERCE: I think you were saying 13 the percentage of African-Americans who vote in 14 your district who do not have driver's license-- 15 did you talk about that?

16 KEITH RIVERS: Who do not?

17 RAYMOND PIERCE: Who do not have
18 driver's license.

19 BARBARA ARNWINE: What's the percentage?

20 KEITH RIVERS: Okay. Well, in Pasquotank
21 County you have, and this is prior to the last 22 election, but there were about 2,300 persons who 23 were registered voters without North Carolina 24 identification cards which would be--if you have 25 about 20,000 people in the county, you have to do

1 the math, but that's the number that are without.

2 RAYMOND PIERCE: That right there is an 3 example. So, you've got a county there, 4 Pasquotank County, where you have at least, to 5 your knowledge, 2,300 registered voters who do 6 not have driver's licenses, North Carolina ID and 7 it is also a county where there is no DMV.

8 KEITH RIVERS: No, there is a DMV in 9 Pasquotank County.

10 RAYMOND PIERCE: In Pasquotank.

11 KEITH RIVERS: There is a DMV in 12 Pasquotank County.

13 RAYMOND PIERCE: Okay.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: What about in Gates?

15 KEITH RIVERS: In Gates County there is 16 no DMV.

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Right. Do we have any 18 sense of the numbers?

19 KEITH RIVERS: In Gates?

20 RAYMOND PIERCE: I get the picture.
21 Thank you.

22 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I just have the 23 answer to your question about how many of the 40
24 counties in North Carolina that were covered 25 under section five are rural. All but one.

1 Guilford appears to be the only one that's not.

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's what David
3 said.

4 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I was going to say
5 all but two.

6 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

7 ELIZABETH HADDIX: It's actually in our
8 report.

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you for putting 10 that on the record. That's very helpful.

11 EVA CLAYTON: Could you also identify 12 how many of those are in the 1st Congressional 13 District?

14 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I'm sorry?

15 EVA CLAYTON: Can you from your data
16 tell how many of the 40 are in the 1st
17 Congressional District? Guilford is in the 12th, 18 but where is the other?

19 ELIZABETH HADDIX: I'm happy to read 20 into the record which counties.

21 EVA CLAYTON: Okay.

22 ELIZABETH HADDIX: So, it's Anson,
23 Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Camden, Caswell,
24 Chowan, Cleveland, Craven, Cumberland, Edgecombe, 25 Franklin, Gaston, Gates, Granville, Greene,

1 Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Hertford, Hoke,
2 Jackson, Lee, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, Northampton,
3 Onslow, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Person, Pitt,
4 Robeson, Rockingham, Scotland, Union, Vance,
5 Washington, Wayne and Wilson.

6 EVA CLAYTON: The majority are in the 7 1st. Some are up in the west, Union and others in 8 that area.

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: That's awesome. Thank 10 you. That was very, very helpful. Any other 11 questions from the panel? Okay. Well, once again 12 thank you. This was vital testimony. In putting 13 together the record it's so important to make 14 sure that we have this evidence tight so that 15 when we're presenting this report it's very clear 16 what's going on with voter suppression, what's 17 going on with voter exclusion, what's going on 18 with these kinds of laws in the different states 19 so that we really do present what the challenges 20 are and what the realities are and what it's 21 going to really take to restore the kind of 22 protections that we lost when Section 4 was 23 invalidated and therefore nullifying Section 5.

24 Thank you so much. You're powerful.
25 You're wonderful. Keep doing the great advocacy

1 you're doing and we are indebted to you. Thank
2 you.

3 [APPLAUSE]

4 BARBARA ARNWINE: Ladies and gentlemen,
5 at this point we call upon any people who would 6 like to make final testimony from the floor. This 7 is the last opportunity for any open mic
8 presentations.

9 [LIAMIA?] SMITH: My name is [LIAMIA?]
10 Smith. I came up earlier.

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: Yes.

12 [LIAMIA?] SMITH: But I wanted to give 13 an example of just how voter suppression will 14 hurt these rural counties.

15 BARBARA ARNWINE: Please do.

16 [LIAMIA?] SMITH: In Halifax County,
17 which is one of the counties in my coverage area, 18 they have three different school systems in that 19 one county. In a way they haven't desegregated 20 since Brown, since 1954. So, what they did was 21 they redrew the districts. So I know of a child 22 that can stand here and can look across the 23 street and see a school, but can't go to that 24 school and has to go 30 miles away to another 25 school in the county.

1 So, now those people that went and 2 redrew those school districts are trying to make 3 sure that the vote is suppressed in Halifax
4 County so that they won't have to change their 5 way of living. They started using language like, 6 "This candidate, this candidate, this candidate
7 is one of us" or "We don't want to change our way 8 of life. We don't want to change our schools. We 9 don't want to raise our taxes."

10 So, it's so very important that voter 11 suppression is stopped at all levels because it's 12 not just at the poll level. It's stratified. It 13 comes all the way down until it gets down to your 14 street. In Scotland Neck, North Carolina they 15 made it such that the town did not send in their 16 application for preclearance for a whole section 17 of town that is right in the town, but those 18 people can't vote in the local election. They can 19 only vote in the general election.

20 So, those types of things are the types
21 of suppression that you don't see and this stuff 22 has been with the DOJ since about 1976-'77 and 23 they haven't done anything about it yet. So those 24 are the types of things that are going on.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: And that's the precise

1 testimony we want. That's powerful. That's 2 precisely why we're here today. Thank you so much 3 for entering that into the record.

4 [APPLAUSE]

5 REV. CURTIS GATEWOOD: I would like to 6 first of all thank you all for being here. It is 7 great to have the National Commission on Voting
8 Rights come to our town.

9 BARBARA ARNWINE: Introduce yourself to 10 us.

11 REV. CURTIS GATEWOOD: I am Reverend 12 Curtis Gatewood. I am the HKonJ coalition 13 coordinator for the North Carolina NAACP. I just 14 want to reiterate the point that this is not a 15 voter ID bill. People like to reduce it to voter
16 ID.

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Exactly.

18 REV. CURTIS GATEWOOD: And we say well, 19 we could use ID to get on a plane, ID to get 20 Sudafed and all that. First of all, we challenge 21 that notion. Number one, voter ID is just one 22 suppressive component of the voter suppression
23 bill. Not only will it have been 237 years before 24 we even had to talk about voter ID, and we all 25 know why we're now talking about voter ID, but

1 what does voter ID have to do with cutting a week
2 out of early voting? What does voter ID have to 3 do with taking out Sunday voting?

4 We all know many ministers, which I am 5 a minister, use Sunday voting to get the 6 congregations out to vote. What would voter ID
7 have to do with eliminating Sunday voting? What 8 would voter ID have to do with stopping teens 9 from voting, preregistering to vote? What does 10 voter ID have to do with stopping straight ticket
11 voting?

12 So, we're here to say first of all we 13 do not want our commission or others to be fooled 14 by the title Voter ID Bill that we hear a lot via 15 the media. But this is a bill that cuts through 16 the heart of people's right to vote across 17 boundaries, especially those of us in the church.

18 One of the people who were working on 19 the bill during the hearings he talked about 20 well, Sunday people don't have to vote. That's a 21 day of the lord. Those types of ways how the 22 Bible has been manipulated in addition to what we 23 are seeing going on with the right to vote, we 24 are here to say we are thankful for those who are 25 now coming out, ministers who are now saying that

1 the Bible actually gives us things to do other 2 than give offerings and sing on the choir. We 3 believe that participating through the electoral 4 process is a part of doing what the lord would 5 have us to do in serving humanity.

6 So, we would like to just say what this 7 bill does to the church and Sunday voting and so 8 many other aspects really should be right away an 9 indicator that this is not a voter ID bill.

10 Lastly, I would just like to say 11 another reason we really have to watch what is 12 going on, there are people who even ask why do we 13 need NAACP or commissions such as yours. When you 14 look at what has happened between the 15 Emancipation Proclamation and the 100 years
16 leading up to it, there are so many African-17 Americans who came right out of the slave 18 plantations and started rebuilding and actually 19 started being elected to office.

20 Since that time there was a need for a 21 Civil Rights Bill then during the 1800s. After 22 that, the creation of a white backlash caused all 23 of that progress to be destroyed. So, we're here 24 to say not only do we need commissions and a 25 monitoring of our rights to vote to protect us

1 and make sure that we gain the rights, but we 2 also need you here to protect our rights whilst 3 we achieve progress. Thank you very much. We love
4 you.

5 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Thank you.

6 [APPLAUSE]

7 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

National Commission on Voting Rights

March 28, 2014

Closing Remarks

Job No: 72361

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you. Thank you
2 everyone. What a great audience you've been. As 3 we close I'm going to turn to each guest
4 commissioner for a one-minute closing and then I 5 will just end with some thanks and we will be 6 concluded. Yes, please.

7 EVA CLAYTON: Well, I want to end like I 8 started, by thanking the National Commission for 9 holding these hearings around the country and 10 what an extraordinary opportunity that we have 11 here in North Carolina to be a part of that 12 factual compilation that will be presented to 13 American people.

14 For us who are in North Carolina, I 15 hope we do take seriously that the advocacy for 16 voting is the advocacy for life because indeed 17 that's where we are talking about rather how the 18 education we have, the housing we live, even the 19 income and environment we have. The right to vote 20 is indeed a part of the system that allows us to 21 have a decent life. Those of us who call 22 ourselves leaders must educate others and 23 advocate for others. Thank you.

24 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

25 [APPLAUSE]

1 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you for serving,
2 Commissioner Clayton.

3 RAYMOND PIERCE: Thank you, Barbara, for 4 inviting us. Reverend Gatewood, good seeing you
5 again. As I said earlier when we first started 6 out, voter suppression is a very serious charge 7 in any democracy, any government that constitutes 8 itself as a democracy. It's important that we 9 hold these hearings and it's clear to me from the 10 passion of the commentary here today that there 11 is a strong legitimacy and merit to this charge.

12 So, I hope that our conduct here today, 13 this commission, have pushed and prompted the 14 types of questions, follow up questions to the 15 people that have come here to present. Clearly 16 the Commission on Voting Rights has brought some 17 high-quality individuals, people who are 18 connected to the issue, the voting election 19 officials here, the people who have actually been 20 impacted by this, the young and the old.

21 We've got some work to do here. It's in 22 the record now and I just think this should be 23 continued on across, not just the state, but 24 across the country. Thank you.

25 BARBARA ARNWINE: Absolutely. Thank you.

1 [APPLAUSE]

2 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you,
3 Commissioner Pierce.

4 ELLIE KINNAIRD: I wanted to thank the 5 National Commission on Voting Rights for holding 6 this hearing that shines a spotlight on the 7 egregious disenfranchisement of many of our areas 8 that we've heard from today. We heard facts, we 9 heard statistics, we heard direct impacts. You 10 have gathered a record that can no longer be 11 denied of what the intent of that bill was and I 12 thank you. We all need to get that word out and 13 let people know that in spite of this we're going 14 to make sure that we get everybody registered to 15 vote and out to vote. Thank you.

16 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you.

17 [APPLAUSE]

18 DAVID HARRIS: I also would like to
19 thank the National Commission on Voting Rights
20 for the opportunity to serve as a guest
21 commissioner. It's good to see you again, 22 Barbara. It's been a while.

23 BARBARA ARNWINE: It's a pleasure.

24 DAVID HARRIS: It's been a while for 25 several people in here actually and it's good to 1 see you.

2 Particularly during the last panel I
3 was reminded of something that all of us know and 4 something that certainly I've seen going back 5 during the early days of doing this type of work, 6 voting rights work, and that is the connectedness 7 between voting had civic participation and 8 poverty and the subtext of education and 9 opportunity. It's all interconnected.

10 If 589 is not flipped, the end result 11 will be even worse issues of poverty than was 12 described with respect to the Tier 1 counties.
13 This has to be reversed. It must be.

14 BARBARA ARNWINE: Thank you,
15 Commissioner David Harris. Thank you so much.

16 [APPLAUSE]

17 BARBARA ARNWINE: Again, thanks to 18 everyone who organized. Come on, put up your 19 hands if you were part of the planning committee.
20 Put up your hands all of those great planning 21 committee members. Fabulous job. Congratulations.
22 We are finished.

23 I want to just remind everyone that the 24 outcome of this hearing today is that there will 25 be two reports produced. Well, three actually.

1 There will be a report that will be out at the 2 end of May on what's called discrimination in 3 voting in the United States of America. That 4 report will cover all the states that we have 5 been talking about.

6 We're also going to produce, as we can,
7 state-specific reports that will be dedicated to 8 different states. We already have some drafts of 9 those done from the hearings we've already 10 conducted. We also will do a report, another 11 conglomeration compendium report in September and 12 that will be called the report on barriers and 13 problems in electoral administration. So, that 14 report will also come out.

15 Those reports as they come out we will 16 do everything we can to publicize them. We'll 17 call upon all of you, your groups, everyone to 18 get the word out. We're going to make it 19 ubiquitous so that everybody has access to the 20 reports and we are hoping that they will have 21 major impact upon people in this dialog and in 22 practical responses.

23 We also look forward to testimony that 24 may be called upon in different chambers to 25 explain these great reports. With that said, my

1 heartfelt thanks to everyone. I look forward to 2 being back home in North Carolina again soon. I 3 just want to thank everybody, this great 4 audience. You were fabulous. This is the hard 5 work, but this is what fighting is about. This is 6 what true democracy looks like and I just want to 7 thank again you remarkable guest commissioners
8 and the extraordinary witnesses. Thank you so
9 much.

10 [APPLAUSE]

11 BARBARA ARNWINE: We are finished--and 12 early.

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 Gotham Transcription states that the preceding
2 transcript was created by one of its employees
3 using standard electronic transcription equipment
4 and is a true and accurate record of the audio on
5 the provided media to the best of that employee's
6 ability. The media from which we worked was
7 provided to us. We can make no statement as to 8 its authenticity.

9
10 Attested to by:

11
12
13 Sonya Ledanski Hyde
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

1
2 NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS
3 NEVADA-UTAH REGIONAL HEARING
4
5

6 Taken at 500 South Grand Central Parkway
7 Las Vegas, Nevada 89101

8 On Saturday, April 26, 2014

9 at 10:00 a.m.
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23

24 JOB NO.: 73451

25 Reported by: Jualitta Stewart, CCR No. 807, RPR

1 APPEARANCES:
2 Jeanetta Williams,
ID-NV-UT NAACP President

3
4 Carmen Berkley,
Director, AFL-CIO Civil Rights Division
5 Gregory Cendana,
Executive Director, Asian Pacific
6 American Labor Alliance
7 Hon. Karen Bennett-Haron,
Chief judge, Las Vegas
8 Township Justice Court
9

10 Witnesses:

11 Lonnie Feemster,
NV State Director, NAACP National Voter Fund
12 Rachel Anderson,
Professor of Law at the UNLV
13 William S. Boyd School of Law and President of the Las Vegas National 14 Bar Association
15 Kevin E. Hooks,
Las Vegas Urban League
16

17 Dan McCool,
Professor, University of Utah
18 Mark Maryboy,
Former San Juan County Commissioner (Utah)
19

20 Jenn Gonnolly,
Co-President, League of Women Voters of Utah
21 Morgan Lyon Cotti,
Program Manager, Hinckley
22 Institute of Politics, University of Utah
23 Donald Rust,
President, League of Women Voters of Nevada
24

25 Andres Ramirez,
Consultant, Mi Familia Vota

1 APPEARANCES, (continued.)

2 Ross Miller,

Nevada Secretary of State

3

4

5

--o0o--

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1 LAS VEGAS, NEVADA;

2 Saturday, April 26, 2014; 10:00 A.M.

3
4 MS. PERALTA: Welcome, everyone, to the 5 Nevada-Utah regional hearing of the National 6 Commission on Voting Rights.

7 Before I say a few words about the 8 commission and the lawyers' committee, I want to 9 take a moment to thank our distinguished panel of 10 guest commissioners for being here today to help us 11 preside over the event.

12 I would also like to thank our partnering
13 organizations that helped to make this event 14 possible. And they are: The ACLU of Utah; Las 15 Vegas Urban League; Lawyers' Committee for Civil 16 Rights, that's us; League of Women Voters of Nevada;
17 Mi Familia Vota; the NAACP; NAACP National Voter
18 Fund; and the Utah League of Women Voters.

19 And finally, I just wanted to say a 20 special thanks to Sean Dugar who is the western 21 regional director from the NAACP. Sean, raise your 22 hand. Sean was really the lead organizer for 23 putting this event together, and we want to thank 24 him and the leadership of the NAACP. I don't see 25 Sue Casiaga (Phonetic), but both of you and

1 leadership of the NAACP have really been 2 indispensable partners in helping us make sure these 3 hearings are a success all across the country. So 4 thank you for all your efforts.

5 The commission on voting rights is an 6 initiative of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 7 Rights Under Law. And just really briefly, the 8 lawyers' committee is a nonprofit, nonpartisan 9 organization founded 50 years ago to engage the 10 private bar in the fight for civil rights and racial 11 justice. Today we continue our work in areas 12 including the housing, employment, community 13 development, education, and voting rights, which is 14 the reason why we're all here today.

15 Today's hearing, covering both Nevada and 16 Utah, is the 18th in a series of nationwide hearings 17 that we're holding across the country to gather 18 information about the landscape of voting rights and 19 election administration across the country.

20 As many of you know, last summer the 21 Supreme Court effectively gutted a key provision of 22 the Voting Rights Act, one that protected voters 23 from the effects of discriminatory changes in voting
24 laws.

25 The court released states with some of

1 the most troubling histories of racial 2 discrimination in voting from a critical
3 responsibility to demonstrate upfront that voting 4 changes such as moving a voting place would not 5 disadvantage minority voters. In the Supreme 6 Court's view, this requirement was outdated and no 7 longer related to current needs. We believe they 8 got this wrong. So one of the main purpose through 9 these hearings is to identify the needs for stronger 10 protections against discrimination and voting by 11 looking at the current record in states across the 12 country.

13 And we also want to hear about election 14 administration issues as well as opportunities for 15 reform and best practices. Across the country, over 16 the past few years, we've seen a wave of restrictive
17 voting laws making it harder for many eligible 18 voters to cast a ballot. Some of these have taken 19 the form of strict voter ID laws, proof of 20 citizenship, registration laws and others.

21 Further, we continue to see similar 22 election administration challenges cycle after cycle
23 related to poll worker training, voter registration 24 and the like.

25 So your input today is really critical

1 for ongoing advocacy and reform at the state, 2 local -- excuse me -- at the local, state and 3 national levels.

4 With the testimony that we receive today,
5 the lawyers' committee and the national commission
6 will be producing two reports, one on voting
7 discrimination and the other on election
8 administration issues. And both of these reports 9 and the records from the hearing will be made 10 available to the public and advocates and anyone 11 really interested in expanding voting rights in 12 their states.

13 So right now, I would like to ask Sean to 14 come on up. And he's going to give you an overview 15 of the program today, introduce our guest
16 commissioners and kick off the hearing. Thank you.

17 MR. DUGAR: Thank you, Maria. As Maria
18 said, my name is Sean Dugar, and I'm the western 19 regional field director for the NAACP, overseeing 20 all our operations west of the Rocky Mountains.

21 Today we are honored to have a great 22 panel pulled together, a great commission, as well 23 as a number of organizations and individuals who 24 will be testifying.

25 Hopefully, you all got a copy of the

1 program when you came in. It goes over the basic -- 2 or it includes the coverage of our basic format for 3 this process.

4 The guest commissioners will each bring 5 greetings. Following those greetings, we will bring 6 forth the first panel. Each panelist has five 7 minutes to give their presentation. As they're 8 giving their presentation, our timekeeper over there 9 will show cards, showing -- telling when they have 10 one minute and 30 seconds and when it's time for 11 them to stop.

12 Again, our commissioners will kind of 13 help to preside over those sessions and make sure 14 that our folks -- our witnesses stay on time.

15 So without any further ado, I would like 16 to introduce our wonderful, wonderful guest 17 commission for the day.

18 First, we have Jeanetta Williams,
19 president of the Idaho-Nevada-Utah state area
20 conference for the NAACP.

21 We have Ms. Carmen Berkley, the director
22 of the AFL-CIO civil rights division.

23 We have Mr. Gregory Cendana -- did I say
24 that right? Okay. Executive director of the Asian 25 Pacific American Labor Alliance.

1 And Honorable Judge Karen Bennett-Haron
2 of the Las Vegas Township Justice Court.

3 So I will pass it off to you-all to give 4 your introduction and then call the first panel.

5 MS. WILLIAMS: Good morning. Good
6 morning. I am, as Sean said, Jeanetta Williams, 7 president of the Idaho-Nevada-Utah, and I'm very, 8 very happy that everyone took the time out of their 9 busy Saturday to be here today.

10 And we all know the importance of voting, 11 at least the ones in this room know, and then we 12 know that we have folks outside that know the 13 importance of voting. Not only being able to 14 register to vote, but then being able to participate 15 and help others to be able to vote. It is a right 16 that we should all be aware of and not take voting 17 for granted. It's also a privilege because we have 18 some of the folks in different states, if they have 19 a felony, they're not able to vote, and they would 20 like to have that privilege back.

21 But we all know that because it is kind 22 of an attack on voting and voting rights, that we 23 should make voting mandatory for everyone that if 24 you're a citizen, you should go out and make sure 25 that you vote in every election.

1 That's one of the reasons why the NAACP,
2 in our Salt Lake branch, last year in October when 3 we had our president and CEO Benjamin Jealous as our 4 speaker, we gave awards out to three of our 5 partners. We have a lot of other partners, but the 6 three that we worked with in the past year, the year 7 before to help register voters in Utah with the 8 Human Rights Campaign, the League of Women Voters of 9 Utah and then the AKA Sorority. And they all 10 received the outstanding partnership award from our 11 branch, and we want to continue that effort in a way 12 that people will know that voting, to the NAACP and 13 our partners group, are very important. And again,
14 thank you.

15 MS. BERKLEY: Good morning. My name is 16 Carmen Berkley, and I serve as the director of 17 Civil, Human and Women's Rights for the AFL-CIO.
18 The American Federation of Labor and Congress of 19 Industrial Organization is a federation of 56 labor 20 unions that work together to ensure that workers can 21 bargain collectively. We work to ensure that all 22 people are treated fairly with decent paychecks and 23 benefits, safe jobs and respect for equal
24 opportunity.

25 It is great to be here in Nevada where

1 169,000 wage and salary workers are union members, 2 many of which work in Las Vegas as service workers, 3 culinary workers, taxi workers, and healthcare 4 providers.

5 Nevada is a highly diverse state and with 6 a union density of over 14 percent, it is important 7 for us to ensure that community of color and 8 underrepresented communities are able to vote and 9 that their voting rights are protected.

10 My role at the AFL-CIO is to ensure that 11 workers of color, women and other communities of key 12 workers are properly represented in the workplace, 13 and that includes voting rights. Far too many of 14 our communities have faced barriers at the ballot 15 box over the past few election cycles in an effort 16 to suppress the rights of citizens to vote and many 17 community members.

18 At the AFL-CIO, we proudly stand for the 19 rights of all citizens to vote, including those who 20 have been previously incarcerated. We believe that 21 individuals who have served their time have the 22 right to give back to their community through the 23 electoral process.

24 So I'm excited to be here in Las Vegas to 25 listen to the testimony and take this information

1 back to Washington, D.C. to ensure that all eligible 2 voters are able to participate.

3 MR. CENDANA: Good morning. My name is 4 Gregory Cendana, and I serve as the executive 5 director of the Asian Pacific American Labor
6 Alliance and the Institute for Asian Pacific 7 American Leadership & Advancement. We are the 8 country's first and only organization of Asian 9 American Pacific Island union members and workers 10 that advance with workers and organize civil right.

11 I also have the pleasure of serving as 12 the chair of National Council of Asian Pacific 13 Americans, a coalition of more than 30 national 14 Asian American, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander 15 serving organizations. And I think it's 16 particularly fitting for me to be here because of 17 growth of the Asian American and Pacific Islander
18 community.

19 According to the U.S. Census in 2010,
20 Utah saw a growth of -- from 2000 to 2010 of 60
21 percent in the Asian American Pacific Islander 22 community. And in Nevada, which has seen the 23 largest growth of any state across the country, a 24 increase of 116 percent. And I think it's 25 particularly fitting that we're actually in this --

1 in Clark County because the Asian American Pacific 2 Islander population actually grew 130 percent.

3 And protecting voting rights is a
4 fundamental issue for our Asian American and Pacific 5 Islander community so that we can ensure that we 6 have the power to be heard and we have a say in what 7 happens in our local communities and across the 8 country. We are the fastest growing racial and 9 ethnic in the country, and this growth can result in 10 discrimination, especially in places where there's a 11 history of voter discrimination.

12 For immigrant communities, there are many 13 challenges that language minority voters face when 14 we're at the polls. It's important that we 15 strengthen the enforcement of existing federal laws 16 for voters with limited English proficiency, provide 17 better poll -- poll worker recruitment and training, 18 and share the formation of community advisory groups
19 at the local level.

20 I am honored to be here today as a guest
21 commissioner for this Nevada-Utah regional hearing, 22 and look forward to hearing from the witness and 23 stories of how they're impacted by discrimination, 24 election administration problems, voter registration 25 procedure, and other challenges.

1 Thank you all for joining us today, and 2 thank you for the invite of being a part of this 3 hearing.

4 MS. BENNETT-HARON: Good morning,
5 everybody. My name is Karen Bennett-Haron, and I
6 currently serve as the chief judge of the Las Vegas
7 Township Justice Court, which essentially serves all 8 of Clark County.

9 It is indeed an honor to serve as a part 10 of the panel that so distinguished themselves and 11 explained their position with regard to protection 12 of voting rights, and I think it's essential that we 13 all acknowledge that commitment.

14 I am especially proud to preside today 15 over the first panel which will represent the 16 concerns that have been voiced primarily in Nevada 17 with respect to challenges to minority voters and 18 poll workers, the disenfranchisement of our felony 19 community that has now served their time and we want 20 them back in our voting polls, and of course, the 21 representation of the communities of color, 22 primarily minority communities.

23 And so I don't want to talk a whole lot 24 about myself other than to say that I, too, am very 25 adamant about the protection of voting rights. I

1 think it's essential that we communicate, that we 2 not take that right for granted. Too many died in 3 the struggle and fought for us to have that right, 4 and so it's imperative that we preserve that legacy.

5 So without further ado, unless there is 6 something else, I think we can probably get started 7 with the first panel. Yes.

8 Okay. So I'd like to invite Lonnie
9 Feemster, the esteemed Professor Rachel Anderson
10 and Mr. Kevin Hooks to the DS.

11 MS. BERKLEY: And we also just wanted to 12 let folks know that this event is being recorded.

13 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Recorded and 14 reported, right? Okay.

15 MS. BENNETT-HERON: So is everybody
16 situated just about? If you all wouldn't mind, a 17 few introductory comments and then we can get on 18 with your actual testimony. So we'll start 19 with Mr. Feemster.

20 MR. FEEMSTER: Is the microphone on?

21 MS. BENNETT-HERON: If you press where 22 the talking face or outline is. Right there. Then 23 you can --

24 MR. FEEMSTER: Oh. Thank you. All
25 right.

1 I'm sorry. You said introduce
2 yourselves. I didn't catch everything that you
3 said.

4 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Just a few
5 introductory comments about what you're here to do
6 today. And then you can -- for all the panel, then 7 we'll start with your particular testimony.

8 MR. FEEMSTER: Okay. I have worked as 9 the NAACP National Voter Fund, the Nevada state 10 director for the last five election cycles, and my 11 involvement is a love for civic engagement in a 12 state that has a low level of civic engagement, at 13 least by the social signs that I've read over the 14 years and my own experience.

15 So I've voted since I was 18, when they 16 changed the law and allowed us to vote, and I was 17 told never talk about politics or religion. Those 18 are the things that pretty much fill my life now.
19 So I don't know why everyone is so afraid of it, but 20 it's such importance -- but hopefully, we won't get 21 into religion today.

22 MS. BENNETT-HERON: And Professor
23 Anderson.

24 MS. ANDERSON: I'm Rachel Anderson. I am
25 a tenured professor of law at the William S. Boyd

1 School of Law at the University of Nevada, Las 2 Vegas. I am also the president of the Las Vegas
3 chapter of the National Bar Association. I am a 4 director and vice president of the American Civil 5 Liberties Union of Nevada, and a director of the 6 American Society of Comparative Law. And my 7 scholarship includes work in the areas of civil 8 rights and human rights, including specifically 9 voting rights and elections in Nevada as well as a 10 particular focus on race.

11 MS. BENNETT-HERON: And Mr. Hooks.

12 MR. HOOKS: Good morning. I -- you
13 want --

14 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Good morning. Yes.
15 Outline that looks as though they're talking. Press
16 that.

17 MR. HOOKS: Forgive me for being 18 technologically challenged.

19 MS. BENNETT-HERON: That's okay. Just 20 speak loud.

21 MS. PERALTA: Yeah. Sorry about that.
22 We're going to get that fixed. We're going to get 23 that fixed.

24 MR. HOOKS: Fair enough.

25 Good morning. I am Kevin Hooks, the

1 president and CEO of the Las Vegas, Clark County
2 Urban League. I am primarily here because as a 3 national organization that participated in all of 4 the work that led to the establishment of the voting 5 rights that we enjoy today in this democracy, it's 6 important to us, as an organization, to make sure 7 that we participate in the restoration and 8 protection of those rights. There's no fundamental 9 right greater to our democracy than that of the 10 right to vote, and that's why we are here today to 11 speak on something that is so important. So the Las 12 Vegas, Clark County Urban League is proud to 13 participate in this discussion today.

14 Thank you.

15 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Okay. Then we'll 16 begin with the testimony of Mr. Feemster.

17 MR. FEEMSTER: Can you hear me?

18 MR. DUGAR: Your light's off.

19 MR. FEEMSTER: Okay.

20 MR. DUGAR: Give us one moment. We're 21 having technical difficulties.

22 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Oh, wow. Everybody's 23 light is blinking. Okay.

24 (Pause in proceedings.)

25 MR. FEEMSTER: All right. I think my mic

1 is on now.

2 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Okay. Very good.

3 MR. FEEMSTER: Okay. Maybe everyone can 4 change seats.

5 Again, I'm Lonnie Feemster with the NAAC
6 National Voter Fund. I have been involved with 7 the --

8 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Are you still not 9 able to hear? Is that the --

10 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: No, I can hear.
11 I'm just now listening to the thump coming from the 12 jazz festival.

13 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Right. Because 14 they're going to be getting set up, so we're just 15 going to have to all blend in today. Okay? All 16 right. I'm sorry.

17 MR. FEEMSTER: I've been involved with 18 registration, education and participation for the 19 NAAC National Voter Fund. A part of that involves 20 poll watching, making sure that the policies and 21 practices are fair in a state. I would say E 22 pluribus unum, if my Latin is correct, from many 23 opinions I think you come with -- with one clear 24 direction for where we need to go on voter rights.

25 I don't know everything about voting in

1 the state. I've talked to a lot of people. I've 2 talked to people who worked polls for 50 years in 3 our branch, and my concern is that everything isn't 4 perfect, but they -- we -- I haven't seen recently a 5 high level of voter discrimination.

6 However, there are isolated incidents
7 that I hear about from people that work at the 8 polls, and my experience. I was challenged on my 9 signature in the last election, which I became a 10 little indignant about because I signed it there and 11 I'm signing it here. And I don't get what is your 12 problem. Well, I always carry an ID. So I think we 13 have a problem with explicit bias and some 14 individual errors that we hear anecdotal stories.

15 And so I think what is important is that 16 you take from everyone and you probably get a clear 17 picture. I think in -- so I don't have anything 18 specific under voter discrimination particularly.
19 As far as the election administration, obviously, 20 there are some things that I mentioned in my written 21 testimony is that young adults have some problems in 22 voting at a higher and higher rate, according to my 23 research at the U.S. Census Bureau. And a lot of 24 times the student populations don't understand the 25 rules. They're not voting where they grew up.

1 They're in a different city.

2 I think most of the kids at UNR come from 3 Las Vegas, and my son came down here to go to 4 school. I think they just want to get out of town, 5 but I think we have to recognize they're 6 communicating differently. A lot of the money that 7 goes into television is what motivates people to get 8 out and vote. They say that's an idiot. I'm going 9 to go out and vote. I'm going to go and vote 10 against that idiot.

11 Well, young people aren't getting the 12 information because they don't get their information 13 that way. It's much of the older population that 14 votes at a high rate. So I think it's important 15 that we recognize this growing, rising electorate
16 and that we also adjust our efforts to make sure 17 that they are informed of the rules of voting so 18 that they have that opportunity and use the digital 19 marketing platform that they use through the various 20 online resources and mobile things that are 21 available like texting, Twitter and Instagram, all 22 the things that I don't use.

23 As far as reform, one of the things I
24 advocate that I think is -- worked out well, I've 25 tried watching polls and I've gone around poll to

1 poll. In fact, I had the opportunity to actually be 2 hired by Edison Research to do exit polling. I 3 said, "Oh, boy. Now I get to find out who are these 4 crazy people that come up with these exit polls."
5 But I was on call, and I didn't get called.

6 So I said, "Well, I'm going. I got my 7 mobile phone. They can call me." I went around the 8 polls and there were people walking out and we got 9 to walk down to the other polling place. And the 10 end result was, I said, "Look, you need a ride," I'd 11 take them down there, and then I'd get there and I'd 12 talk to a couple poll workers I know. And I'd pick 13 up someone else, take them to another polling 14 location, and apparently, a lot of people do not 15 understand the rules and they are going to the wrong 16 polling locations and many times, have to vote on 17 provisional ballots.

18 You can see, quite simply, maybe it needs
19 to be in big block letters, bigger than anything, 20 "This is where you go to vote" on the front of the 21 sample ballot and the address because if you vote on 22 election day, it's a problem. But we are moving 23 close to -- well, we're over -- 50 percent of the 24 voting is done early for our off presidential 25 election, and 69 percent, I think, in Nevada for our

1 presidential elections.

2 So we are pushing for early voting. And 3 on that issue, one of the things that came up, as 4 far as election reform, they were going to eliminate 5 Sundays in Washoe County for voting. And we had a 6 group of nonpartisan organizations petition our 7 county commission, and they changed the rules
8 immediately. So they are going to include Sundays
9 for voting. And we -- we immediately organized 50
10 churches to a souls to the polls effort. So I think 11 everything else is in writing on my testimony, 12 though. Thank you.

13 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Thank you.

14 MR. FEEMSTER: I'm sorry. I didn't see 15 the timekeeper. He should have stood behind you, 16 Judge.

17 MS. BENNETT-HERON: May I ask, you want
18 to come closer? All right. Okay. Thank you so 19 much, Mr. Feemster.

20 And now, none other than our Professor
21 Anderson.

22 MS. ANDERSON: Thank you. So I should 23 start out by noting that I'm speaking in my 24 individual capacity and not on behalf of the 25 organizations to which I belong. And I'll also note

1 that in 2012, I did voter protection, which you
2 would think would have informed what I'm going to 3 tell you, and in a moment I'll tell you why it 4 didn't.

5 So Nevada has streamlined online voter
6 registration and status checking for a voter's 7 registration status, which means for many voters, it 8 is very easy to register to vote and to know if they 9 are registered to vote. And so we might think that 10 for the average voter, it is quick and easy to 11 register or update your status. And we'll just 12 start with that assumption.

13 We know in January, Attorney General
14 Holder gave testimony at the end of the month of 15 January where he highlighted nationally and brought 16 additional attention to an issue that people have 17 been talking about for a long time, found voter 18 disenfranchisement or as we might say, the taking 19 away of voting rights for people who have been in 20 prison at some period -- during some period of time 21 and have been convicted for something that was a 22 felony, at least at that time that they were 23 convicted, whether or not it is later or the laws
24 change.

25 And in bringing attention to this issue,

1 he highlighted the large number of people who are 2 imprisoned because of the combination of the 3 workings of the criminal justice system or of the 4 justice system where a felony may be at issue and 5 our system of voting rights. And we see this 6 playing out in Nevada, and he mentioned Nevada as 7 one of the key states.

8 In Nevada, we have a significant portion 9 of people who are disenfranchised because of having 10 their rights taken away. I'm going to use the 11 felony disenfranchisement, although I really object 12 to that terminology because it brands people later 13 for something that, arguably, they have now paid for 14 in the past.

15 And so Nevada has approximately or close 16 to 5 percent of its population who have lost their 17 right to vote, which puts the number somewhere 18 around, let's say, 90,000 people who don't have the 19 right to vote in this state because of the loss of 20 their rights. That is exacerbating the communities
21 of color. I'll take the African-American community 22 where the numbers are highest, but this also applies 23 in differential numbers to the Latino community or 24 the African-American community.

25 The numbers are estimated as high as 25

1 percent, which means we're talking up to over 50,000
2 African-Americans in this state, which is one in 3 four African-Americans in the state of Nevada who 4 may have lost their voting rights or don't have the 5 right to vote because of the felony 6 disenfranchisement laws.

7 If we ask the question of how many people 8 get their rights reinstated, because the 9 conversation in Nevada generally turns to changes in 10 the voting laws in 2003 and in 2005 that allowed 11 people to actually get their rights reinstated, then 12 the data that comes out for, I want to say, 2010 is 13 less than 1 percent, so approximately 0.17 percent.
14 So it's only a tiny fraction of people are applying 15 and only a tiny fraction are having their rights 16 reinstated. And this can have to do with not 17 knowing that they can have their rights reinstated, 18 not having the right paperwork at the right time,
19 not submitting it in the right way or other reasons.

20 So the voter protection work that I did
21 in 2012 should have helped me when I spent my spring
22 break trying to research this information for a 23 program that was done with the Las Vegas Chapter of 24 the National Bar Association, the NAACP, and the 25 Urban League. It took me a week to get the

1 information that you have in the back of your 2 packets on voter registration and reenfranchisement 3 in Nevada. And I'm a law professor with a lot of 4 resources at my disposal and time spent working on 5 these issues.

6 I found the one person in the state,
7 arguably, who has that information. There's almost 8 no information provided online, at the state level, 9 none. There is one document provided at the county
10 level that is a paper document. And we have a 11 significant portion of people, specifically in Clark
12 County, who are low income and, therefore, have no
13 access to Internet at home, and their only access 14 may either be through their children at school or -- 15 I'm at stop.

16 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Can she just finish
17 that last sentence.

18 MS. ANDERSON: Or at the library where 19 the time is limited.

20 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Okay. Thank you very
21 much.

22 And Mr. Hooks.

23 MR. HOOKS: Thank you, once again. I
24 would like to state for the record -- I'd like to 25 state for the record, I am Kevin Hooks. I live at

1 353 East Bonneville Avenue in Las Vegas, Nevada, ZIP
2 code is 89101.

3 I state that for a couple reasons. First 4 and foremost, it is not only am I the proud
5 president and leader of a historic civil rights
6 organization, I'm also a proud resident of Clark
7 County. And in doing so, I'm reminded of Fannie Lou 8 Hamer's statement once about being a first-class
9 citizen. I am proud of being a first-class citizen, 10 and I will fight to continue to maintain that 11 position.

12 There is no right more fundamental to 13 democracy than the right to vote. Our efforts 14 should continually be focussed on expanding and 15 enhancing our democratic process. The Supreme 16 Court's recent rulings are a direct blow to 50 years 17 of progress towards voter equality and to the dream 18 that Dr. Martin Luther King so passionately and 19 purposely shared with the nation in 1963. And that 20 remains so five decades later.

21 While the Clark County registrar's office
22 do not currently note any particular discrimination 23 complaints from the most recent election cycle, we 24 must remain as diligent as ever in defending and 25 protecting the rights that were so hard fought and

1 died for during the civil rights movement of the 2 '50s and '60s.

3 We encourage our leaders to abandon party
4 lines and partisanship and act in the best interest
5 of our nation and our democracy by restoring voting
6 rights. We cannot focus on celebration of progress
7 until we ensure a continuation of the very equality
8 and opportunity that are at the core of this country
9 and our democracy. In the words of Mary McLeod 10 Bethune, "We have always fought for America in spite 11 of its imperfections. Now we fight for a new 12 America."

13 Thank you.

14 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Questions from the
15 panel?

16 MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, I -- I do have one.
17 And one of my questions, I guess I might want to ask 18 is that what -- can you just kind of give us a 19 couple examples of what you've done with the Urban 20 League as far as getting people registered to vote, 21 and then also making sure that they get to the 22 polls.

23 MR. HOOKS: Thank you. The Las Vegas
24 Urban League and the Urban League, at a national 25 level, we work diligently through our national Urban

1 League Young Professionals and the Las Vegas Urban 2 League Young Professionals doing registration to 3 voter events, encouraging people to vote, and when 4 necessary, even organizing and coordinating rides to 5 the polls.

6 As you know, we are a 501(c)(3), so we do
7 not pick sides. We're not completely nonpartisan, 8 but it's important for us to make sure that we 9 provide opportunities for all of those that we serve 10 to participate fully in democracy.

11 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

12 MS. BERKLEY: Professor Anderson.

13 MS. ANDERSON: Yes.

14 MS. BERKLEY: In your opinion, what could 15 be done to help educate returning citizens about 16 their ability to get their rights reinstated?

17 MS. ANDERSON: I think the first thing is 18 that they could be provided with a clear document 19 that tells them for their specific situation exactly 20 which steps they need to take. And more useful -- 21 so -- that would be the information that could be 22 provided to them.

23 I think that the legislation that should 24 be passed would be to automatically reinstate 25 people's voting rights rather than placing the

1 burden on those that are psychologically,
2 economically, and resource-wise, in general, least 3 able to pursue their rights.

4 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Any other questions?

5 I have a general question for all three 6 of you, and this is just something that has plagued 7 me over the last few years. I'm a native Las Vegan,
8 and I've seen quite a difference in -- oh, sorry.
9 I've been telling y'all to cut your mics on and I
10 didn't cut mine on. Thank you.

11 And I think -- I'm a native of Las Vegas.
12 I was born in 1961, so -- and I've seen almost a 13 decline in terms of the interest that communities of 14 color have in participating in what we are now 15 calling our voting rights process. And so I don't 16 know if that's been y'all's experience, particularly 17 I know Mr. Feemster brought up the young folks and 18 we commun- -- young people communicate differently 19 now. They don't rely upon television commercials to 20 inform them.

21 But the level of interest and the level
22 of, you know, why should I participate, you know, I
23 don't get anything out of it. Folks are all -- you 24 know, everybody's got a scam. Everybody's -- 25 nobody's authentic anymore. There is a lack of 1 distrust in what -- in even some of the 2 organizations that we grew up trusting, whether it 3 be the NAACP or the Urban League or, you know, any 4 number of organizations. Even institutions like the 5 church in our community are now kind of seen as 6 being a bit distrustful.

7 So how can we make voting rights and,
8 more importantly, engagement in -- civic engagement,
9 as Mr. Feemster says, relevant amongst our young 10 folks now? How do we make this relevant? How do we 11 make them even engage? Because I think some of what 12 we are talking about, Professor Anderson, there's 13 just the lack of interest on the part of -- because 14 we have many brilliant returning citizens, but some 15 don't really care too much about participating in a 16 mainstream system that is seen as ostracizing it.
17 So how can we make this a relevant piece again?

18 Rachel?

19 MS. ANDERSON: So I taught a human rights 20 class a few years ago, and I used a game from the 21 1970s called Blacks & Whites, which was about the 22 psychology of race. It's like Monopoly, but the 23 players are black or they're white. They -- and I 24 had the students draw them randomly. And the 25 students who drew black players had completely

1 different rules for them and had very little access
2 and started with very little. Right. So 3 paralleling a particular aspect of society. And the 4 game was created by the psychology department.

5 Within about five minutes, maybe ten of 6 the game, these students who were playing black 7 players become apathetic. And that persists
8 throughout the game. They can play for an hour, it 9 doesn't matter, even if there are opportunity cards 10 or other small things that allow them an 11 opportunity.

12 And when I asked the students, you know,
13 "What happened? You didn't seem very interested.
14 You started talking on the side" -- to the students 15 who were normally engaged -- they said, "I knew 16 there was no way I could win." They didn't see any 17 way out, you know, the options were so low, I was 18 apathetic. And they said it themselves.

19 And so I think that the conversation
20 about this administrative hurdle, which is why I 21 talked about them, even though they're not that 22 visible, they're significant in affecting whether or 23 not people want to engage, whether or not they 24 believe that engaging is relevant. I was 25 disheartened.

1 In the week it took me to gather the 2 information that I put into a flowchart, I was --
3 and I had -- I mean, I had a lot of people that I 4 was able to call, and I was calling them. I would 5 have to stop each day because I was depressed. And 6 I wasn't even trying to get my own rights, and would 7 say that -- that, you know, that's the desolation of 8 disenfranchisement is trying to go through these 9 hurdles.

10 And as I spoke with the different
11 officials, each of them said, "Well, it's on the Web 12 site." But I would say, "Well, I've gone through 13 the Web site and I see this, this and this." But I 14 had the credibility of my title of law, of the 15 university, of being, you know, an employee of the 16 state to even say that and have them listen to me, 17 and even then, they didn't have the answer. So it 18 was only frustrating for them in that context, and I 19 think that they were making an effort. I think they 20 were -- they were actually trying to provide the 21 information.

22 So if we don't actually walk through each
23 step that citizens have to go through in the same 24 way we walk through each step as we want a customer 25 to go efficiently through a casino or through some

1 type of economically beneficial context, then we're 2 not able to remove those hurdles and we are in 3 effect saying to people, "You are going to have to 4 work so hard that maybe it isn't worth it to 5 actually make that effort because you're going to 6 spend your entire life just focussing on that one
7 thing. And by the time you get that right to vote 8 or otherwise, you know, maybe -- maybe it doesn't 9 feel as important."

10 And if they've already been 11 disenfranchised through the time that they are in 12 prison, they've already moved away from the system.
13 So they're now decoupled from the system all 14 together and they're in a system that is not 15 treating them as human beings in a way that we 16 generally understand human and civil rights. And so 17 if we don't automatically reinstate people's rights 18 and if we don't automatically or in ways that are 19 immediate and valid allow people to exercise their 20 rights, then we are completely undermining the 21 legitimacy of both beliefs of -- beliefs in our -- 22 well, legitimacy and beliefs in democracy and the 23 justice system. So I think automatic reinstatement, 24 direct access and actually walking through it the 25 same way we would in a consumer context.

1 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Anything else?

2 MR. FEEMSTER: Yes, I hope my written
3 testimony is entered into the record also because I
4 did not read from it. But the issue of poll workers
5 is very important. We need to have diversity that 6 reflects our community. The registrar voters told 7 me that their -- their poll worker pool is pretty 8 much filled by experienced people who worked the 9 last polls. Well, they didn't reflect the community 10 back then, so that's part of it. All of our 11 organizations need to get our members civically 12 engaged in the process.

13 One individual recommended that we have 14 our young people be required to work as poll 15 workers. That would be a great way. I know I had 16 kids as young as five at the polls with picket signs 17 saying "early vote" in front of the early voting 18 location, and I got them involved at five all the 19 way up to 16. And they said, "Well, we can't even 20 vote. Why are we doing this?" One young lady put 21 it best, she said, "I couldn't wait to vote. I was 22 involved ever since I was a little kid."

23 I think what we have to learn from 24 history, and if you don't know your history, you 25 will repeat its mistakes. The gilded era gave the 1 power in this country to the extremely wealthy, 2 people much more -- wealthier than Bill Gates and 3 the Koch brothers and George Soros and whoever.

4 These people had a lot more money, ten times as much 5 money. They own the government. And the 6 progressive era came in and changed things and gave 7 the low income, got the children out of factories, 8 they outvoted the big money. Big votes can outvote 9 big money, so civic engagement is critical.

10 When you read The Vanishing Voter, I 11 think it was Mr. Patterson who wrote the book. The 12 voting rate has been declining over 50 years and 13 18-year-olds went down like a rock. As soon as we 14 gave them the right to vote, except for me, I didn't 15 know this was going on. But the trend has changed 16 for young Americans. And what's happening is they 17 are not being influenced as much by big money 18 because a lot of -- a lot of it's going into the 19 television media that is influencing the older 20 voters who watch television at much higher rates.
21 So we're seeing the shift, the millennials are going 22 to take over our country, as long as they don't mess 23 with social security.

24 The felony law is a Jim Crow law. It was 25 Jim Crow when it started and it's Jim Crow now. It

1 should be one sentence, and I'm conservative. It
2 should say if you're not in jail, you can vote.
3 That means if you have on handcuffs, you can vote.
4 Although, I'd question how you got them on, but 5 that's not the point.

6 It is so complicated. I have never seen
7 anyone in Nevada be able to explain the law to me,
8 including the legislators that wrote it. They start 9 talking and you cannot explain to a person the 10 felony disenfranchisement law. And if they're 11 registered, they commit another felony if they don't 12 have their civil rights.

13 And so that law should not be several 14 pages, it should be one sentence. And there are 15 places where you can vote in jail, as you're aware 16 of. I think the -- the young people should be 17 engaged, but I think the most important thing is we 18 are moving through a second progressive era where we 19 will outvote the big money because once people 20 realize that is just brainwashing, they did it with 21 radio and newspapers 120 years ago and now they are 22 using the television and cable channels.

23 And so I think that is the most important 24 thing is to reverse this trend of downward voting, 25 and it seems like the 18 to 24-year-olds since 2000.

1 And then there was a few less in 2012, but the 2 Census Bureau analysis kind of goes into why there
3 is some light differences. Young people are voting 4 at higher and higher rates. And now it's the 18 and 5 34-year-olds that -- really that block of voters.
6 And so to me, we are moving there, but we have to 7 continue to engage our young adults.

8 MR. HOOKS: Let me just say directly to 9 answer your question, the challenge that we face in 10 engaging the youth of today is one that is simply 11 the fact that they have no personal experience with 12 the civil rights movement that caused the young 13 people in the '60s to act.

14 As a result of that, we continue to try 15 to solve those problems and get them engaged by 16 using methods from the past. It's essentially 17 trying to solve digital problems with analog
18 solutions.

19 And I would submit that one of the things 20 that we have been doing at the Urban League, and we 21 founded the Urban League's -- the National Urban 22 League of Young Professionals, which I'm a proud 23 founder of. It was an idea that I took to Hugh 24 Price, who was the CEO at the time, and along with 25 two other members of the national board.

1 And it was for that explicit purpose to 2 get more people in our -- in our generation to 3 participate in the movement and cater. And, you 4 know, ten years later, we're -- more than ten years
5 later, we've got 67 chapters around the country, 6 tens of thousands of people participating in that 7 movement.

8 The challenge that we're facing is most 9 of them are seasoned professionals that have college 10 education. So it's just like any scenario. It's 11 easier to get that group of people motivated to 12 participate because they can feel the cause. An 13 example, the recession, which the recession, they 14 felt it. They wanted something done about it.

15 The people in the lower rungs of the 16 economic ladder and the people in the higher rungs 17 of the economic ladder, they had no need to 18 participate in the recession, therefore, they 19 weren't involved.

20 The same thing with fighting for civil 21 rights and being engaged, and so until we come up 22 with solutions, and we're trying with the National 23 League of Professionals, we're sharing best 24 practices with our colleagues at the NAACP. We're 25 learning from one another and we're going to

1 continue to do that. But again, until we figure out
2 particular solutions to the problems of the today, 3 we're not going to get those people engaged.

4 MS. BENNETT-HERON: Are there any 5 questions or comments from the audience? Time.

6 All right. Okay. Well, thank you all 7 very much for participating in our first panel. We 8 really appreciate your hard work and effort and 9 solute you in all that you do.

10 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you. Thank you.
11 We're going to ask our second panel if they would 12 come forward. And that would be Dan McCool, Mark 13 Maryboy, Jenn Gonnolly and Morgan Cotti.

14 And what we'll do is in the order of 15 introduction, we'll go in that order. And so our 16 first panelist be will be Dan McCool. He's a 17 professor, political science at the University of 18 Utah. And his topic will be on native voting issues 19 in Utah.

20 Our second panelist will be Mark Maryboy, 21 and he's the former San Juan County commissioner in 22 Utah, and San Juan apportionment and native seats.
23 He will be addressing that issue.

24 Jenn Gonnolly, co-president of the League
25 of Women Voters of Utah, and she will address

1 same-day registration pilot; low turnout issues.
2 And our problem with -- related to the voters of 3 Utah turnout.

4 Morgan Cotti will speak on -- she's the 5 program manager at the Hinckley Institute of 6 Politics at the University of Utah, and she will 7 speak on the caucus to primary systems; turnout 8 issues. And so we'll turn the time over to our 9 first presenting, Dan McCool.

10 MR. MCCOOL: Thank you. Do I need to 11 turn this on?

12 MS. WILLIAMS: Yes. It's the --

13 MR. MCCOOL: Thank you. My name is Dan 14 McCool. And I'm a professor of political science at 15 the University of Utah. I co-authored a book called 16 Native Vote in 2007. Much of my discussion today 17 will come from that book.

18 In 2012, I edited a book called The Most 19 Fundamental Right: Contrasting Perspectives on the 20 Voting Rights Act. When the Voting Rights Act was 21 being considered for renewal in 2006, Congressman
22 James Sensenbrenner, who is a conservative
23 Republican, made this statement: "History reveals 24 that certain states and localities have not always 25 been faithful to the rights and protections

1 guaranteed by the constitution. And some have tried 2 to disenfranchise African-Americans and other 3 minority voters through means ranging from violence
4 and intimidation to subtle changes in voting rules."
5 I believe that's why we are here today.

6 Now, the Voting Rights Act has played a 7 critical role in Indian country, in all sections of 8 the act, Section 2, which prevents racial 9 gerrymandering; Section 5, when it was in effect,
10 before Shelby County; and Section 203, the language 11 assistance provisions. We've seen lawsuits in 12 Indian country on all three of those sections.

13 Now, the struggle for equal voting rights 14 in Indian country is a long one. It's been going on 15 a long time. The states have been quite creative in 16 coming up with ingenious ways to try to prevent 17 American Indians from voting. Some state
18 constitutional provisions actually outlawed Indian 19 voting. They've come up with these residency 20 requirements claiming that Indians were not actually 21 residents of the counties and states in which they 22 live.

23 They have come -- they've come up with 24 what I call self-termination. American Indians are 25 the only group in America where the law said the

1 only way you can vote is if you give up your 2 language and your culture and your identity and give 3 up your home and your homeland and become just 4 exactly like white people before you'd be allowed to 5 vote. That's actually written into many laws in 6 western states, trying to deprive Indians of the 7 right to vote because they don't pay some taxes, as 8 though it was some kind of privilege rather than a 9 fundamental right.

10 There were claims that Indians were mere 11 guardians of the state and, therefore, not deserving 12 of the right to vote. And literacy tests have also 13 been applied to American Indians.

14 In our book Native Vote, we analyzed 75
15 cases in Indian country. The Indian plaintiffs won 16 71 of those 75 cases. That clearly indicates 17 there's a consistent problem and there's a long-term
18 pattern of discrimination against American Indians.
19 Eight of those cases involve Section 203. Nine 20 involved preclearance. So you can see that the 21 Shelby County case is going to have a significant 22 impact in Indian country, and the rest of them were 23 a Section 2 case.

24 Let me just speak briefly about the 25 impact of the Shelby County case. We're going to 1 see a loss of what's called the prophylactic effect.

2 We don't now how many bad laws were stopped before 3 they were ever enacted because they knew there would 4 be preclearance. But we know there was an effect
5 there.

6 What's going to happen, I think, is those 7 laws are going to be passed. They're going to go 8 into effect and then these jurisdictions will be 9 sued under Section 2. So enforcing the Voting 10 Rights Act just got a lot more complicated and lot 11 more expensive. And the laws have to go into effect
12 now, before they can be challenged. When Section 5 13 was operative, they could stop -- they stopped 14 before they went into effect.

15 So it's going to cost a lot, these 16 cases -- Section 2 cases are very expensive, but I
17 think we've seen a lot of them in Indian country, 18 and I think we're going to see a lot more.

19 Let me just conclude by saying the Voting 20 Rights Act has had a tremendously powerful impact on 21 the ability of American Indians to participate in 22 the political process and have an equal opportunity 23 to elect candidates of their choice.

24 And there have been two cases in Nevada 25 and Utah. Humboldt County was sued in 1978, and

1 they agreed to actually change their election
2 procedures because it was disadvantaging American 3 Indian voters.

4 And San Juan County was sued in 1983.
5 They settled in 1984, and that was a Section 2 case.
6 So -- and that case is actually now being 7 relitigated. So we can see a direct impact of the 8 Voting Rights Act in Indian country. Thank you.

9 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you. Our next 10 panelist will be Mark Maryboy.

11 MR. MARYBOY: Good morning, ladies and 12 gentlemen. Today I will talk to you about my 13 experience as a county commissioner in San Juan
14 County, Utah. I was elected as a county
15 commissioner in 1985, the first Native American ever 16 elected to the public office in the city of Utah. I 17 served for 16 years and retired in 2004. I've never 18 lost an election when I ran for the county 19 commissioner seat.

20 My experience is it was the hardest job I 21 have ever had. From the day I was elected to the 22 day I retired, I was challenged by the commissioners 23 that I served with. It was interesting when I was 24 elected, one of the county commissioners told me
25 that they didn't need to be sued. They didn't need

1 federal government to tell them to create a new 2 district. Out of the goodness of their heart, they 3 could have easily reapportioned and created a new 4 district. That was what I heard. But I really 5 think that it would have never happened.

6 A seat on the county commission is very,
7 very important for the Navajo people in San Juan
8 County because as a county commissioner, you are a 9 voice for the people. When I first got elected, 10 over 90 percent of the people had no water, no
11 electricity in their homes. And as a county 12 commissioner, I was a voice for the people and lives 13 were improved.

14 Today a lot of people have running water 15 and electricity in their homes, better roads, and we 16 were also able to create a hospital and also a 17 public health service for the Native Americans of 18 San Juan County. And we were also able to improve a 19 lot of roads and also able to talk about public 20 lands for Native Americans.

21 So in my conclusion, I can tell you that 22 voting rights for Native Americans, minorities, 23 everybody, is very good as far as social and 24 economic involvement is concerned.

25 Thank you very much.

1 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you very much.

2 Jenn Gonnolly is going to make some --

3 MS. GONNOLLY: Good morning. Thank you
4 for giving me the opportunity to speak to this 5 commission. The League of Women Voters of Utah is 6 very concerned about the consistent and ongoing 7 decline of voter participation in Utah. In 1960,
8 78.3 percent of Utahns who were eligible to vote
9 turned out to the polls. But in the 2008 election, 10 that had fallen to less than 50 percent. And that's 11 contrary to the national trend because in 2008, the 12 national -- nationally, we saw more voters turn out 13 than since 1976. So Utah is turning in a direction.

14 We feel that there are three causes for 15 this trending. First, gerrymandering to create 16 noncompetitive districts.

17 The second problem would be access to 18 candidate selection process.

19 And the third is voter registers,
20 confusion around how to register to vote. I would 21 like to talk about voter registration today. Voter 22 registration is required because there are two sets 23 of schools of thought about the vote. One school of 24 thought, which the League of Women Voters supports, 25 is this is a right, that every citizen should go to

1 the polls.

2 And the other school of thought is that 3 this a privilege that requires a personal -- a set 4 of personal responsibility in order to enact that 5 privilege. That leads to things like registering to 6 vote and deadlines for registering to vote.

7 In Utah, there was a law passed during 8 the 2013 election that had caused great confusion 9 based on how you register to vote and what your 10 deadline is.

11 For instance, if you register online, you
12 can register 15 days prior to the election and vote
13 in the early election time. But if you register 14 online seven days prior to the election, you can 15 only vote on election day. Now, if you vote -- if 16 you register to vote in person, that can be done up 17 to the day before, possibly. But there's confusion 18 on different county clerks whether that is true.

19 This sort of confusion in this day and 20 age -- we talked about the millennials, and 21 millennials do things instantaneously. They decide 22 to vote and they expect to be able to vote.

23 So the good news in Utah is, we also 24 passed a bill in the 2013 session that will allow a 25 pilot project for counties to choose. If the county

1 chooses, they can participate in this pilot project
2 that will allow them to accept same-day voter
3 registration. This should be very easy in this day 4 and age.

5 Right now, if you go to the polls and you
6 are not on the list in that polling place, you can 7 vote by a provisional ballot. And then after the 8 election, the county person will through that 9 provisional ballot. They will check to see if 10 you're registered anywhere in the state of Utah. If 11 you are, they will change your registration and they 12 will count your vote. If you are not registered 13 anywhere in the state of Utah currently, they will 14 consider that a voter registration and they will not 15 count your vote.

16 We believe that counting those votes is 17 appropriate, and with this pilot project counties 18 can choose to count that vote. I spoke to our 19 lieutenant governor's office on -- or day before 20 yesterday. One county has already applied to 21 participate in this pilot project. Five others, all 22 counties of the first class, which would be the 23 largest counties in the state of Utah, have said 24 that they will do it. And there are five others of 25 the second and third class that are considering the

1 project.

2 We firmly believe that this project will 3 allow more people to go to the polls by eliminating 4 the confusion over the dates and how to register to
5 vote.

6 And I appreciate your time. Thank you.

7 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

8 Now Morgan.

9 MS. GONNOLLY: Thank you.

10 MS. COTTI: Yes. Morgan Lyon Cotti.

11 Thank you. I'm also going to build onto what Jenn
12 was saying and address Utah's declining voter 13 turnout. And one of the culprits people have really 14 pointed to is Utah has a really unique way of 15 nominating candidates for primaries or even general
16 elections.

17 Utah has still been using a caucus and 18 convention system to do this that most states did 19 away with a century ago. During each general 20 election year, there are some neighborhood caucus 21 meetings held throughout the state that have been 22 certainly really poorly attended. However, they're 23 very important because at these caucus meetings, 24 they're electing the county delegates and the state 25 delegates that will meet at party conventions, and

1 these delegates have a lot of power. They are the 2 ones that determine which two candidates will be on 3 the ballot for every primary election.

4 However, Utah is especially unique 5 because if you get enough delegate votes, you don't 6 have to have primaries. You get to be the party's 7 nominee in the general election.

8 So, for instance, Orrin Hatch, who has 9 been a senator in Utah since 1976, has already had 10 two primaries. This is problematic for a number of 11 reasons.

12 First, it's confusing and adds an extra
13 barrier to the voters. If you can't show up this 14 one night every two years to your neighborhood 15 caucus meeting, you're shut out. And there has been 16 no mechanism to have any sort of absentee voting.

17 Second, those delegates who are elected,
18 it makes it so just a few thousand people are going 19 to be determining who our elected officials are, 20 especially because we do have so many uncompetitive 21 elections in Utah. So if you are your party's 22 nominee, you're pretty much a shoe-in for a lot of 23 races.

24 And these delegates have been shown to be 25 very -- not very representative of the average Utah

1 voter or even of their party members. Surveys have 2 shown that they have very different opinions and 3 very different priorities.

4 For instance, in 2010, surveys showed 5 that every -- members of each party and voters in 6 general, they highly valued education, and that was 7 one of their top priorities. But for republican 8 delegates, it wasn't even a top ten priority. And 9 they often vote in ways that the general population 10 doesn't agree with either.

11 In 2002, delegates unseated a very 12 popular governor. She was not even able to run for 13 reelection for her own seat because she did not meet 14 the threshold.

15 And the same thing happened in 2010 to 16 U.S. Senator Bob Bennett. He did not get to run for 17 reelection either because he got ousted in the 18 convention.

19 So not surprisingly, there has been a 20 move to change this system. And a group -- a group 21 called Count My Vote started a ballot initiative to 22 try to make it so that this issue is on this 23 November's election so that people -- the people of 24 Utah can vote on whether they want to keep the 25 caucus and convention system. And in Utah, you need

1 about just over 100,000 signatures to get an 2 initiative on the ballot, and they were almost at 3 that threshold when the legislature actually decided 4 to get involved. And some legislation was proposed 5 to change the convention system and to also change 6 the primary system.

7 However, this wasn't the Count My Vote
8 people, and it was really interesting to see the 9 compromise and some of the conversations that they 10 had. And I should note that the leaders of Count My 11 Vote are very well-known people in Utah. They have 12 former governors, some of the most prestigious 13 business owners in Utah and very well-known leaders 14 in higher education as well.

15 In the end, they did come to a 16 compromise, and Senate Bill 54 was passed by both 17 houses of the legislature and signed by the 18 governor, and it will go into effect in 2016. And 19 what this bill does, it does keep Utah's caucus and 20 convention system. However, it creates an 21 alternative path to the ballot, to the primary
22 ballot.

23 Now, just instead of worrying about 24 delegate votes, if you get enough signatures from 25 your constituents, you can also be in the primary.

1 And it basically opened up Utah's primaries so that 2 if you were a nonaffiliated voter, you could vote, 3 and vote in the republican or democratic primaries
4 now as well.

5 We're hoping that this Count My Vote
6 movement will have a few positive effects on Utah's 7 turnout. First of all, open primaries have been 8 shown to increase turnout to wherever they occur.
9 And it's also nice that even if you cannot attend 10 your neighborhood caucus meeting anymore, since, 11 hopefully, there will be more primaries, you can 12 still have a say who your party's nominees are and 13 who your elected officials are.

14 And finally, there have been a lot of 15 complaints that elected officials are too beholden 16 to these delegates who are not representatives of 17 the state's voters as a whole. So now there is the 18 hope that elected officials will be more accountable 19 to voters as well as to their delegates.

20 Thank you.

21 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you, Morgan. I
22 appreciate everyone's testimony, and I'm going to 23 open it -- the time up now to our commissioners.

24 Are there any questions from the 25 commissioners?

1 MS. BERKLEY: So -- and, you know, I feel 2 like in Washington and in the media oftentimes when 3 we talk about voting rights, it's always geared 4 toward African-Americans and Latinos. So Professor 5 McCool or Commissioner Maryboy, how can those of us 6 that work at national organizations promote the 7 issues that are happening within the Native 8 community, and what can we do to highlight some of 9 these issues in Washington and to the media?

10 MR. MCCOOL: Mark, you want to go first?

11 MR. MARYBOY: I just want to say that 12 during my tenure as county commissioner, we had poll 13 watchers during the election. Native Americans in 14 San Juan County are indigenous people, somewhat 15 resentful to the encroachment of the white 16 population for the last 130 years. And for that 17 reason, election has not been very important to the 18 people for that reason. Navajos have not bothered 19 to learn how to vote, learn the democratic process 20 of participating in elections until recently.

21 So their education on the election
22 process is not very good, and it has been very 23 helpful to have the poll watchers from the federal 24 government at every election. I would recommend 25 that that be continued because over half of the 1 population is comprised of Native Americans, and 2 it's extremely important that the Navajos 3 participate and learn and get assistance from the 4 poll watchers on these election processes.

5 Thank you.

6 MR. MCCOOL: I think the heart and soul
7 of the Voting Rights Act is that we have an equal 8 opportunity vote for everyone regardless of your 9 race or ethnicity, everyone is included, and that 10 also includes American Indians. And I think there 11 has been some very unique efforts to try to prevent 12 American Indians from voting and -- and it's taken a 13 great deal of litigation.

14 I think the next step, and Mark alluded 15 to this, is education, making sure that everyone not 16 only understands the importance of voting, but they 17 also understand that they have a right to vote and 18 it really does make a difference. Mark Maryboy was 19 elected because the U.S. Justice Department forced 20 San Juan County, it dragged them kicking and 21 screaming, into a three-person election district 22 system in San Juan County. And Mark changed the 23 politics in San Juan County forever.

24 So that there is a beautiful illustration
25 of the power of the vote if we just have an equal

1 opportunity to vote, that it really does make a 2 difference and it's significant.

3 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you. Any other
4 questions from the commission?

5 Let me just ask one question, and 6 everybody can maybe answer something very short.
7 You know, because all of the changes that we see in 8 Utah and sometimes I think people get discouraged 9 and not go out to vote. Has that been the 10 experience that you've seen, each one of you, in the 11 capacity that you're working in?

12 MS. COTTI: I'll go ahead and start. I 13 do think that all of the changes are presenting 14 confusion. When's the primary, the primaries are 15 moving, what is the deadline for voter registration, 16 how do we get involved. I think the confusion is 17 causing that apathy as well as some of the other 18 problems, the noncompetitive district and the access 19 to candidate selection process.

20 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

21 MR. MCCOOL: It's really a problem of 22 noncompetitive elections, a sense -- and I think 23 Morgan alluded to this very clearly -- a sense that 24 the party caucus is where all the power is, and 25 people feel frustrated that they just don't have an

1 impact in that kind of system, so it needs to
2 change.

3 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

4 MS. COTTI: Yes. And I've also done
5 research on how these noncompetitive elections have 6 affected turnout. And we see that in those years
7 where candidates are winning by really large margins
8 or where they didn't even have someone to run 9 against, those are some of the years that Utah had 10 their lowest voter turnout.

11 And Utah's legislature has been 12 controlled by a super majority really since the 13 '80s. So unfortunately, there doesn't seem to, 14 like, really be an easy fix for this. We're hoping 15 that with the Count My Vote reforms that some of 16 these races can be more competitive, there will be 17 less confusion with the primary system. Somewhat 18 coincidentally, Utah's conventions, party
19 conventions are today, so it will be interesting.
20 There's going to be news stories and Twitter updates 21 about people who will be your candidate, who is 22 going to be on the general election. But this, 23 hopefully, is the last year that will be happening.
24 People will be able to choose who their nominees and 25 candidates are from here on out.

1 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

2 Mark, did you have a comment on that?

3 MR. MARYBOY: The situation on the 4 reservation is very remote. It's very difficult for 5 some of these new processes like online
6 registration. So for that reason, there seems to be 7 a demand for more education in that sense, so people 8 can -- Navajos can participate in the voting
9 process.

10 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you very much.

11 I'm going to go back to the commissioners 12 to see if there's another question that anybody may 13 want to ask before we open it up to public. There 14 being none, any questions from the public?

15 Being none, I want to thank all of our 16 panelists for outlining the voting procedure in Utah 17 and the importance of changing processes. And we 18 want to let you know that we appreciate your time 19 that you've shared with everyone today. And it's 20 good seeing everybody today. Thank you.

21 MR. MARYBOY: Thank you.

22 MS. WILLIAMS: Public comments? Being 23 none -- I turned myself off and wasn't supposed to.

24 We're going to break for lunch, and then 25 we'll come back in to resume the remainder of the 1 panel discussions. Thank you.

2 (Lunch recess.)

3 MR. CENDANA: Hello, everybody. I hope
4 you enjoyed your break and the lunch that you had.
5 I know there are some new people in the room today, 6 so if we can do a quick -- a quick round of the 7 guest commissioners that are here.

8 My name is Gregory Cendana. I serve as 9 the executive director of the Asian Pacific American
10 Labor Alliance.

11 MS. BENNETT-HERON: And my name is Karen
12 Bennett-Heron, I'm the chief judge of the Las Vegas 13 Justice Court.

14 MS. BERKLEY: My name is Carmen Berkley, 15 and I'm the director of Civil, Human and Women's 16 Rights for the -- for the AFL-CIO. I forgot where I 17 worked.

18 MS. WILLIAMS: I'm Jeanetta Williams, 19 president of the NAACP tri-state conference of 20 Idaho, Nevada and Utah.

21 MR. CENDANA: And I want to just give 22 greetings or say hi to our guest host commissioner, 23 Commissioner Lawrence Weekly who is in the audience 24 with us today. So thank you for joining us and for 25 hosting us.

1 So before we go into our next panel, we 2 actually do have some public testimony. So first 3 up, I would like to call up Jeff Beardsley, who will 4 share concerns in the deaf population.

5 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: He wants to be 6 able to make sure that the interpreter can see him.

7 MR. CENDANA: Okay.

8 (Interpreting.)

9 MR. BEARDSLEY: Hello, everyone,
10 commissioners, my name is Jeff. I am representing 11 the Nevada Disability Efficacy Law Center. It's an 12 organization, a nonprofit organization, and we're 13 governor appointed and we're also federally and 14 state funded. We have two issues that we would like 15 to address, the first being the polling places.

16 A few deaf people have been frustrated
17 with their experiences, so we would like to throw 18 out to you that the poll workers need to be fully 19 trained on how to approach and be -- in a sensitive 20 way, and to have an understanding of those people 21 who are in a wheelchair or blind, deaf or hard of 22 hearing, that they need full training.

23 The second issue would be there are 24 various levels of education who are deaf. There are 25 many who can read English, then there are other

1 levels below that, and then those individuals who 2 have American sign language as their primary 3 language and those who look at the terminology and 4 the English that is in the polling places or 5 available to the citizens are unknown or foreign to 6 them because it's all in English and they feel 7 overwhelmed by the English.

8 So something needs to be developed to 9 perhaps have sign language available to them so that 10 they could see that in the polling booth as they're 11 voting, and that should be something nationwide for 12 all 50 states to help satisfy the needs of the deaf 13 and hard of hearing accessibility. This is 14 something that I would like to point out.

15 I think that's all I would like to say.
16 Thank you.

17 MR. CENDANA: Thank you for your 18 comments, Jeff.

19 I'd like to say -- I now would like to 20 call up James Ohrenschall, who is a Nevada
21 assemblyman, and he will be discussing Assembly Bill 22 440, and 441.

23 MR. OHRENSCHALL: Good afternoon -- good 24 afternoon, commissioners. I wasn't sure if this was 25 working.

1 Thank very much for taking the time to 2 hear my testimony. My name is James Ohrenschall.
3 I'm a resident of Las Vegas, Nevada, and I'm an 4 elected member of the state assembly. I represent 5 Assembly District 12, which is here in Clark County, 6 Nevada, which -- Las Vegas, North Las Vegas,
7 Henderson. Although, the district I represent 8 encompasses unincorporated Clark County and parts of 9 the city of Henderson.

10 During the last session of the 11 legislature in 2013, I was fortunate enough to chair 12 the assembly committee on legislative operations and 13 elections. And when I was given that assignment by 14 the Speaker Kirkpatrick of the assembly, one of the 15 things we looked at was what we could do policy-wise 16 to try to increase voter participation here in 17 Nevada.

18 I've been involved in many elections as a 19 candidate or as a campaign worker, as a volunteer as 20 a campaign manager and invariably, during the 21 election cycles here in Nevada, I will meet people 22 who are very interested in participating in voting, 23 but they missed the deadline. They didn't register 24 in time by the deadline in order to be able to vote 25 in that election.

1 Oftentimes, I will meet citizens who are 2 qualified electors, qualified to vote, and they're 3 very busy. They might be working one job, two jobs
4 three jobs, they might be taking care of a sick
5 relative, going through a lot of like circumstances, 6 and they got excited about the election closer to 7 election day than a lot of other people who aren't 8 even registered. They became interested, got 9 excited, learned about the candidates as the 10 election became close and decided they wanted to 11 register and wanted to participate, but because of 12 the deadline we have, were unable to.

13 The committee sponsored Assembly Bill
14 440, which originally would have provided for voter 15 registration in Nevada up to and including election 16 day, the same-day voter registration. There were 17 many concerns, assembly members of the legislature
18 felt this would leave the process open to potential 19 fraud, to abuse. So we tried to address those 20 concerns in the assembly, and we amended the bill to 21 move back a few days and to allow people to register 22 to vote all the way to the end of our early voting 23 period in Nevada, which ends the Friday before that 24 next election, whether it was the primary or the 25 general.

1 And we had testimony on the record from 2 the different registrars of voters that they felt 3 that that would be satisfactory, that there wouldn't 4 be problems in terms of them having a roll of voters 5 for election day or terms of potential fraud. They 6 did not feel that there would be any greater chance 7 allowing extended voter registration through the end 8 of early voting.

9 That bill did pass both houses of the 10 legislature and unfortunately, it got -- it was 11 vetoed by the governor. I hope that the next 12 session, we'll either look at a similar idea or 13 perhaps look at that same bill because I do think 14 that if it had become law, more people who do get 15 excited near the end, near election day would be 16 able to participate and would not be precluded by an 17 artificial deadline.

18 The second bill that came out of the 19 committee, I chaired in the assembly, Assembly Bill 20 441, had to do with an idea, I'm sure you're very 21 familiar with, called voting centers. During our 22 early voting period in Nevada -- well, here in Clark 23 County specifically, registered voters can go and 24 vote anywhere in the county they want to. They can 25 vote at early voting sites near their home or if

1 they happen to work on the other side of town or 2 going to a doctor's appointment on the other side of 3 town, they can vote at early voting sites there.
4 There's no geographical restrictions about where 5 someone can vote.

6 However, in Nevada on election day, there
7 are geographical restrictions. Registered voters 8 can only vote at their assigned polling place. And 9 again, through my experience, I will often get calls 10 on election night at 5:30, an hour or so to a poll
11 close from a voter who says, "I'm at my polling 12 place. I've been voting here for the last 15 years.
13 They told me I can't vote here. They've reassigned 14 me. I'm not going to make it to be able to vote in 15 time." Voting centers would try to help end that 16 problem.

17 And that bill, again, passed the 18 legislature in both houses, was vetoed by the 19 governor. I do hope that the next legislature will 20 be able take a look at that idea. I'm happy to 21 answer your questions, and I appreciate your taking 22 time to hear my testimony.

23 MR. CENDANA: Thank you so much.

24 MR. OHRENSCHALL: Thank you.

25 MR. CENDANA: I would now like to call up

1 panel 3, which will include the following witnesses:
2 Donald Rust, who is the president of the League of 3 Women Voters of Nevada. He will talk about voter 4 intimidation and voter ID proposals as well as 5 Andres Ramirez with Vota -- Mi Familia Vota, and 6 will discuss voting challenges within the Hispanic 7 community. So if I could please have Donald and 8 Andres please come up.

9 So why don't we start with you, Mr. Rust, 10 if that's okay.

11 MR. RUST: Fine. I would like to thank 12 Sean Dugar and the commission for inviting me to 13 testify. I'm from Pahrump, Nevada, and as you've 14 notice, ironically, I'm president of the League of 15 Women Voters of Nevada, which is a little unusual.

16 My experience in my county, which is 17 where my wife and I have lived for 19 years, is in 18 the last voter cycles, we've had a variety of voter 19 intimidation by groups within the community at 20 polling centers and in effect, also at town voter 21 meetings. I was once a member of the town board in 22 Pahrump, and I think about a year ago a group came 23 and tried to do a citizen's arrest of an elected 24 town board for trying to do away with an ordinance 25 that they didn't want lifted. So that kind of 1 intimidation keeps people from going to town board 2 meetings.

3 Another intimidation issue involves at 4 voting sites where a group handed out a list of 5 people you should not vote for. They were outside 6 the limit just barely of that kind of activity at a 7 polling site. Nevertheless, they did intimidate
8 voters, and I know from experience, since I was one 9 of the candidates, I didn't get voted in because 10 those lists included my name at the top. So that 11 kind of intimidation is something we need to work 12 on, and I'm sure that Pahrump isn't unique in that 13 respect. But we need to vote -- work nationally on 14 such an issue so that people aren't intimidated to 15 go to a polling place and vote based on what they 16 know before they got there.

17 So nevertheless, as state president of 18 the League of Women Voters, our primary focus with 19 the league is voter registration and voter rights.
20 And our national convention this June in Dallas will 21 be focussing on those issues independently.

22 At least I think that one of the big 23 pushers in the United States to have voter ID laws 24 changed so that it makes it more difficult to 25 register is because of voter fraud. I've seen and

1 read and heard of no significant evidence presented 2 anywhere about such fraud, but it's used as the 3 excuse to change the ID laws so that you have to 4 have an ID to register.

5 In Nevada, it's not difficult to 6 register. And so far, they have not changed the 7 registration laws and -- even though I believe there 8 was an attempt, but it wasn't followed through.
9 Right now in Nevada, it's not that difficult to 10 register. And when you go to vote, they have a 11 register of people who have registered to vote, you 12 show them an identification, but that hadn't 13 changed. You've always had to show it. It didn't 14 have to be anything other than a driver's license or 15 a voter card, which you got when you registered.

16 And so you sign a register that they have 17 with your name on it. You know where you're going 18 to vote. In our county, even though it's big, 19 18,000 square miles, the population is relatively 20 sparse except in Pahrump where we have the biggest 21 population. But they have a booklet there that you 22 sign with your name right next to your printed name.
23 So so far, there hasn't been any problem, that I'm 24 aware of, in our county and, for that matter, in 25 Nevada regarding voting rights.

1 But we don't have large populations of 2 minorities, however, as you can see with the recent 3 Cliven Bundy, bigotry is not dead in Nevada. And I 4 hope that one of the things that the commission can 5 do is focus on changes to the system that minimize 6 bigotry when it comes to voting rights and voting
7 issues. Thank you.

8 MR. CENDANA: My first question for you, 9 Mr. Rust, is, you talked a little bit about some 10 examples around voter intimidation. What are the 11 things that you think we should keep in mind in 12 terms of potential --

13 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Microphone.

14 MR. CENDANA: Testing. Everyone. I'll 15 say it again.

16 So thank you for your testimony. In your 17 remarks, you talked about some of the voter 18 intimidation. You shared some voter intimidation
19 examples.

20 MR. RUST: Well, I believe in the right 21 of free speech. However, I think that should be 22 limited, at least in terms of voting places. The 23 closeness of anything that happens at a voter -- at 24 a voting place -- polling place should be farther 25 away. Right now, I think in Nevada it's 120 feet.

1 Well, nobody needs to be that close if they want to 2 hand out literature. If they want to hand out a 3 list that says "don't vote for these people," fine.
4 But do it 200 or 300 feet away, not virtually right 5 outside the door.

6 And the citizen's arrest of an elected
7 board, I think that people should be able to somehow 8 not allow such things to happen. In this case, 9 those people weren't arrested, not the town board,
10 but I mean the people who attempted the citizen's 11 arrest. Nothing happened to them except they got 12 their headlines in the paper.

13 So I'm not sure what the national 14 commission can do, but those kinds of things 15 shouldn't be allowed inasmuch as you can control
16 them.

17 MR. CENDANA: Thank you. Are there any 18 other questions from the other commissioners
19 for Mr. Rust? Okay. Thank you.

20 Now we'll go to Mr. Ramirez. Thank you.

21 MR. RAMIREZ: Members of the commission,
22 thank you for allowing me the opportunity to share 23 my thoughts on these important issues and for 24 including such a diverse and competent panel of 25 experts.

1 I've been involved in voter registration
2 efforts here in Nevada since 1996, and as such, have 3 witnessed the progress that has been made along the 4 way, and I'm also up for whatever challenges we 5 still face.

6 I want to focus my testimony on a few
7 specific issues with regards to voter registration
8 and voter participation, specifically here in Clark
9 County.

10 In the past decade, we have seen more
11 resources invested into registering Hispanic voters 12 in Clark County than ever before. Hispanic voter 13 participation has shown a dramatic increase, 14 according to election polls conducted by the 15 national election poll which shows an effective 16 increase in their share of the electorate in Nevada, 17 from 10 percent in 2004 to 19 percent in 2012.
18 That's an increase of 9 percent in the share of the 19 electorate in the span of just two presidential 20 election cycles.

21 This growth is significant and as a
22 result of the increased efforts to educate, enroll 23 and engage Hispanics in the electoral process. The 24 Clark County election department here is one of the 25 best in the country, and their proactive approach to

1 increase voter participation should be replicated in 2 other jurisdictions. They've actively recruited
3 bilingual poll workers. They've provided ample
4 information in Spanish and other languages and work
5 with Hispanic and other community service 6 organizations on identifying the best locations to 7 conduct early voting. This approach has led to a 8 very healthy and productive relationship with the 9 Clark County election department and the various 10 organizations that conduct civic engagement
11 activities in the Hispanic community and other 12 language communities.

13 However, with this growth, there has also 14 been growing pains. Due to the increasing numbers 15 of Hispanic participation in elections and voter 16 registration, there is an increased need to hire 17 additional bilingual poll workers and voter 18 registrars. This is a good problem to have, but 19 it's still a problem that needs to be solved. As 20 groups such as Mi Familia Vota continues to increase 21 their operations in registering Hispanic voters, the 22 need to assess how to best collaborate with the 23 election department to prepare them to recruit and 24 train the appropriate number of people needed for 25 each election cycle. This is not only a problem,

1 again, with the Spanish-speaking community. It has 2 also become an increasing problem with the Filipino
3 community who speaks Tagalog here in Clark County.
4 They're currently experiencing dramatic population
5 growth in Clark County as is the Hispanic community.

6 Solving these issues are not complex, but 7 we need to continue these collaborations between 8 government agencies and community service providers 9 so that -- so that they don't get worse and can be 10 solved in a reasonable manner. Sometimes it's 11 better for these community service organizations to 12 conduct the recruitment and outreach efforts to 13 train bilingual workers and registrars instead of 14 the election department.

15 And so we need to figure out a better 16 arrangement for how that can be done so that the 17 trust that exists with these community service
18 providers can be leveraged who have the partnerships 19 and have the networks in the community as opposed to 20 the election department who doesn't, and, therefore, 21 they can provide a pipeline of trained and skilled 22 workers more seamlessly into the process. So that's 23 one of the things that I need to be happening.

24 But, you know, among the variety of 25 issues that you've heard, whether they're from IDs

1 or voter intimidation, to me solving this problem of 2 having educated, trained cultural workers, whether 3 it's a language issue or other cultural 4 sensitivities in the election department, is one of 5 the most important areas we need to solve to ensure 6 that more minorities and other cultural populations
7 have an easier access once we get to the ballot box 8 and to voter registration.

9 And so, again, developing those 10 partnerships and relationships will increase the 11 participation of these minorities.

12 So thank you for your time and 13 consideration.

14 MR. CENDANA: Thank you. I have a couple 15 follow-up questions for you, Mr. Ramirez. You 16 shared with us about how you feel that Clark County 17 particularly has done a great job of some of the 18 outreach to ensure different issues are addressed.

19 Can you share some specific examples of 20 how that's the case so we can make sure we have that 21 on record and we can be able to also use this as a 22 positive example because I think we're hearing a lot 23 of some of the challenges and issues, but I think 24 it's good to also uplift some of the positive
25 examples.

1 MR. RAMIREZ: Absolutely. So for 2 example, the Clark County election department has a
3 committee of community organization that they work 4 with. They use this to help identify what are the 5 best locations to have early vote locations and in 6 some cases, in polling locations. They work with us
7 on loading out their specific, what is their Spanish 8 language promotion material they're going to have,
9 for us to review it in advance and make sure there 10 are no cultural things or errors in the process.
11 And so there's a lot of collaboration.

12 Here in Clark County, something that 13 should be on the record that hasn't been placed 14 there is that an overwhelming majority of people 15 vote prior to election day. So that is in excess of 16 60 percent, closer to 70 percent of people already 17 voting early voting.

18 So these establishment of early voting
19 locations is an extremely important process for us.
20 So having them in places, in shopping centers such 21 as Cardenas or having them at the East Las Vegas 22 Community Center, which reach a large number of 23 Spanish-speaking in the Hispanic community, is 24 extremely important. And we changed some of these 25 locations where they used to have them at

1 Albertson's, and now they have it Cardenas, which we 2 thought it was a better location to reach our 3 community. That collaboration, that communication 4 has helped us to make sure that they have better 5 training processes for those early vote locations.

6 MR. CENDANA: Those are great examples.
7 And then my second follow-up question, I think this 8 is something that I'm also very curious about, 9 especially, you know, you talked about some of the 10 growth of the Hispanic community not only population 11 but also the electorate.

12 Can you talk a little bit about if you 13 have been able -- done work to kind of talk more 14 about the broad and multiracial ways to kind of 15 build across, and if there was -- I know, you talked 16 about the Filipino community, but is there examples 17 of ways in which you've been able to talk about 18 voting rights more collectively to be able to 19 connect across communities? If you can share some 20 of those experiences, that would be great.

21 MR. RAMIREZ: Absolutely. So from the 22 standpoint of Mia Familia Vota, we are openly 23 engaged in communications with Filipino 24 organizations and increasingly with some of the 25 African-American organizations to talk about how we

1 can share best practices from some of the things 2 that we have done to help mobilize and educate the 3 Hispanic community to see where we might be able to 4 collaborate with the Filipino community and help 5 them, and how we can also partner with some of the 6 other minorities, such as the African-American 7 community, so that we share resources and share 8 experiences and we can all be successful in this 9 process.

10 MR. CENDANA: Thank you. I want to open 11 it up to the other commissioners, if you all have 12 any other questions for Mr. Ramirez.

13 MS. BENNETT-HARON: I have a question, 14 and it's --

15 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Your mic.

16 MS. BENNETT-HARON: Sorry. I always 17 forget this. All right. I do have a question.

18 With regard to voting education and the 19 community engagement vote from a cultural 20 perspective as well as collaborative efforts, it 21 always seems to me that it is around the time of 22 election. Is there some ongoing effort to do this, 23 for lack of a better description, during the down 24 time period so that when the election comes, we're 25 not, you know, trying to hurry up and get everybody

1 on board, people are ongoing -- are engaged on an 2 ongoing basis?

3 MR. RAMIREZ: Absolutely. So the Mi
4 Familia Vota motto is a year-round, consistent 5 motto. And so ours is a process of teaching people 6 about civic participation and not just electoral 7 participation.

8 So we conduct a variety of activities,
9 and that is from people who aren't citizens. We 10 conduct citizenship drives and citizenship classes 11 to train them how to become citizens.

12 Those that are citizens, we conduct voter 13 registration activities throughout the year to get 14 them registered to vote. Those that are already 15 registered to vote, we get them involved in how to 16 participate in townhall meetings, how to contact 17 their elected officials and when the legislature is 18 in session, how to go testify to the legislature on 19 behalf of issues. So we try to do a comprehensive 20 curriculum to keep people engaged so that voting 21 isn't the only thing they identify with civic 22 engagement.

23 MS. BENNETT-HARON: Very good. Thank
24 you.

25 MR. RUST: Your Honor, may I also comment

1 on that?

2 MS. BENNETT-HARON: Yes. Sure.

3 MR. RUST: One of the things that we 4 would like to see more of is the -- especially for 5 young people, and that is teaching civics again 6 because a lot of young people have no concept of how 7 their government operates. Why it has three 8 separate divisions and things like that. So the 9 concept of voting to them is almost alien because 10 they have no idea what it relates to and how their 11 government operates and how it affects them.

12 So we would like to see our school
13 systems teach that again. Because when I went 14 through school 50 years ago, we learned civics from 15 the time I was in junior high school through high 16 school, and every year it got more comprehensive.
17 And I think students need to learn that so they can 18 see the relevance to what they're doing or what 19 they're being asked to do.

20 Thank you.

21 MS. BENNETT-HARON: Thank you.

22 MR. CENDANA: A quick follow-up question.
23 You talked about the need for civics.

24 MR. RUST: Yes.

25 MR. CENDANA: Are there school systems in

1 places where you know that that -- that happens
2 already that can be looked to as models or places 3 that we can go to for curricula or kind of 4 implementation?

5 MR. RUST: Well, I was born and raised in 6 Iowa, and, you know, they were still teaching it in 7 Iowa. But in Nevada, to my knowledge, civics as a 8 subject is -- now, I could be wrong, but at least in 9 my county, it's not taught.

10 MR. CENDANA: Thank you.

11 MR. RUST: Thank you.

12 MR. CENDANA: Any other questions?

13 MS. WILLIAMS: Yes, I do have one. My 14 mine is directed is, is there a La Raza in Nevada?
15 And if there is, do you do any outreach for the 16 getting together on voter registration and being at 17 the poll?

18 MR. RAMIREZ: So there used to be an 19 official National Council of La Raza office here in 20 Nevada. They closed down last year. We do have 21 several National Council of La Raza affiliates who 22 exist in Nevada, and we do collaborate with them as 23 well as other organizations on voter registration
24 and so forth.

25 We actually recently, within a year and a

1 half, we established what we call the Latino
2 Leadership Council, and we gathered the heads of all 3 the Latino organizations or groups engaging in 4 Latino outreach or community service and we host 5 regular meetings to discuss a variety of issues
6 about how we work together for everyone to achieve 7 their goals and objectives.

8 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

9 MR. CENDANA: Any other questions for the 10 commissioners? All right. Well, thank you, 11 Mr. Rust and thank you, Mr. Ramirez, for your 12 testimony today.

13 MR. RUST: Thank you.

14 MR. RAMIREZ: Thank you.

15 MR. CENDANA: Alrighty. So we now open 16 up to see if there are any other people who would 17 like to give public testimony.

18 MR. PORTER: Yes, I would like to 19 comment.

20 MR. CENDANA: Okay. Mr. Beardsley? Oh.

21 MR. PORTER: Good afternoon. I'm a
22 60-year resident of Las Vegas. My name is Alex X.
23 Porter. Now, looking at these voting right bills, 24 going back to shortly after the Civil War, how many 25 bills have you had passed to give blacks, in

1 particular, a right vote? At a certain time, we all 2 end up the same way.

3 A man said something in the '60s in the 4 civil rights movement that he who have the power and 5 authority to grant you your freedom on a piece of 6 paper has the power and authority to revoke that 7 freedom.

8 We see a few months ago what they've 9 gutted the civil rights bill -- I mean the voting 10 rights bill. We see a few days ago they gutted 11 different direction. What they are saying to 12 states, you have the right. Now, we know what 13 happened to states' rights.

14 What we are looking at now, if we're not 15 careful, 50 years from today we'll be carrying 16 picket signs again because we want to vote. Keep 17 this in mind. Isn't it strange that after the Iron 18 Curtain fell, all those people came here from 19 Lithuania, from Poland, from Russia and from 20 Yugoslavia, they didn't need no special voters
21 rights bill. When they have to give us a special 22 bill, there's something wrong with that. Keep that 23 in mind. Otherwise, we will be here again.

24 Thank you.

25 MR. CENDANA: Thank you. Any other --

1 yes.

2 (Interpreting.)

3 MR. BEARDSLEY: This is Jeff, again,
4 Beardsley. Two comments. Hooks -- or Kevin E.
5 Hooks and especially in -- with the deaf population 6 is one of my main concerns from 30 years ago, we in 7 a deaf school or schools for the deaf, we were 8 taught and we learned how to work with being voters.
9 But now we're here in the 21st century and people 10 think oh, it's not so important and they really 11 don't care. And so how can we change this back to a 12 positive encouragement, especially with our deaf
13 youth, to give them the input to work and to help 14 motivate them? This is something I would like to 15 throw out to the commissioners.

16 MR. CENDANA: Thank you.

17 MS. GAINS: My name is Ida Gains, and I
18 rise in support of the bills that the assemblyman
19 talked about, especially the one about same-day
20 registration and voting. I think that legislation 21 has value, and I would like to see us build 22 momentum, so when the next session of the 23 legislature legislation comes up, that we will have 24 a community base that will go and testify in favor 25 of that legislation. And if it's passed by the 1 legislators, hopefully, the governor will not veto

2 it.

3 Thank you.

4 MR. CENDANA: Thank you.

5 Are there any other folks who would like 6 to get in public comment, testimony?

7 UNIDENTIFIED SPEAKER: Let's take a
8 break.

9 MR. CENDANA: Okay. So since there is no
10 other public comment, we're going to take a quick 11 break until 1:15, and we'll be back at 1:15 for the 12 final panel. Thank you.

13 (Recess taken.)

14 MS. BERKLEY: Thank you so much for being 15 back again. My name is Carmen Berkley. I'm the 16 director of Civil, Human and Women's Rights for the 17 AFL-CIO. Today for our last panel, we actually have 18 the Nevada Secretary of State, Mr. Ross Miller, who 19 will be giving testimony.

20 MR. MILLER: Thank you for the invitation
21 to testify today. For the record, I'm Nevada
22 Secretary of State -- is it off? Now, can you hear 23 me?

24 MS. BERKLEY: Okay.

25 MR. MILLER: Thank you for the invitation

1 to testify today. For the record, I'm Nevada
2 Secretary of State, Ross Miller.

3 As is the case with most secretaries of 4 state around the country, I'm the state's chief 5 elections officer. While the office of the 6 secretary of state has a broad range of duties in 7 Nevada, there is no duty that takes a higher 8 priority in my office than maintaining the security, 9 integrity and accessibility of our election system.

10 There are those who believe that security 11 and integrity require some sacrifice of 12 accessibility. I'm not among them. Every policy 13 consideration we make regarding elections gives full 14 weight to maintaining access to registration and 15 voting.

16 I've been asked to testify today about 17 three broad issues; online voter registration, voter 18 ID laws, and the addition of a foreign language
19 ballot. I'd like to start by addressing our online 20 registration on our early, which by virtually in any 21 standard would be considered a success.

22 In 2010, we had a pilot program in Clark
23 County and became one of just ten states to offer
24 online voter registration providing a quick and easy 25 option for Nevada residents looking to register to 1 vote. 2012 was the first cycle during which all the 2 17 Nevada counties had access to online voter

3 registration.

4 The Nevada Secretary of State's office
5 now offers the option to register to vote online 6 through my office's Web site or at 7 www.registertovotenv.gov or through our voter
8 registration Facebook app. We were the second state 9 in the country to develop such an app.

10 Prior to the 2012 elections, through 11 online registration available throughout the state, 12 my office launched an aggressive voter registration
13 campaign. With funding from the Help America Vote
14 Act, we conducted a well-organized multimedia 15 education campaign, including television, radio, 16 print, outdoor and social media reaching into every 17 part of the state both geographically and 18 demographically. Starting in urban and rural areas 19 as well as a broad demographic spectrum through our 20 paid and earned media outreach. I should also point 21 out that our campaign won multiple awards from the 22 public relations community.

23 Online registration was so heavy during 24 that period that it briefly threatened to overwhelm
25 our system, but it did not. We averaged 470

1 registration transactions per day in the two weeks
2 preceding our educational campaign. In the final 3 three weeks of online registration, the same period
4 as our campaign, we averaged nearly 2400
5 transactions per day, an increase of more than 500
6 percent of daily activity. Total registered voters 7 for the 2012 election cycle totaled approximately 8 1.5 million Nevadans with more than 70,000 new 9 registrations occurring during the period of our 10 outreach efforts in the final six weeks of the 11 registration period.

12 The total number of voters in the 2012 13 election was 4 percent higher than during the 14 immensely popular 2008 election, which also in 15 itself set a record turnout. From 2008 to 2010, we 16 had a slight drop-off, but in 2012, we intensified 17 our efforts. We experienced -- we experienced an 18 increase of 9.5 percent over 2010 registrations. I 19 think it's reasonable to conclude, based on those 20 results, that our online voter registration and 21 voter registration efforts in general can be 22 characterize as robust.

23 So, too, I believe is our early voting
24 program. When telling people from outside of Nevada 25 about our early voting locations, I often joke that

1 Nevada is the only state where you can be grocery
2 shopping and hear an announcement over the loud
3 speakers calling for wet mop at voting booth No. 6.

4 The fact that since I took office in 5 2006, we've been able to expand early voting 6 opportunities, thanks in large part to our 7 commitment from our county registrars and clerks 8 throughout the state.

9 One of the best ways to avoid any 10 disparity in terms of physical accessibility is to 11 have enough polling locations. Since I became 12 secretary of state in 2007, my office has purchased 13 four voting trailers in Clark County. The mobility 14 of the units during early voting gives us and the 15 county the flexibility to change locations during 16 early voting to maximize voter access, each trailer 17 having a capacity of anywhere to 10 to 24 voting
18 machines.

19 During the early voting period of the 20 2012 elections, these four trailers served 46,434
21 voters. That is an average of more than 11,600
22 voters per trailer. It's also been a support -- 23 I've also been in support of extending or increasing 24 the number of days on which early voting is 25 available. And I testified in the legislation in 1 2009 in favor of the same-day registration bill.

2 And in 2011, the legislature passed our 3 bill to require that early voting be open on a 4 Nevada day holiday, which is usually the Friday just 5 prior to the election. Our commitment to 6 accessibility of early voting has resulted in an 7 encouraging trend.

8 In the 2000 election, 33.6 percent of the 9 votes cast were by early voters. By 2006, that 10 number had increased nearly 42 percent. In 2012, we 11 had more than 60 percent of the voters cast by early 12 vote. And when you add in the absentee ballots from 13 2012, 7 out of 10 Nevadans cast their ballots before 14 election day on a day and time that was convenient 15 for them.

16 Of course, on the other side of 17 accessibility are the proposals to enact voter ID 18 laws. Beginning with the 2007 session, there have 19 been nine bills seeking to implement some type of 20 voter ID. Philosophically, I think I've made clear 21 about where my administration stands on 22 accessibility. I have consistently opposed these 23 type of voter ID laws. And from a purely pragmatic 24 perspective, restricting access to the polls can be 25 expensive.

1 The fiscal notes on those nine bills
2 generally range somewhere between half a million to 3 two and a half million dollars, and those estimates
4 are on the low end because some counties didn't 5 forecast any cost at all because there were too many 6 unknown factors in the proposals. And in one bill, 7 proposed in 2009, had a projected cost of $15
8 million. But the bottom line of voter ID laws isn't 9 the fiscal bottom line, it's the accessibility
10 issue.

11 We know from the state voter registration 12 list that somewhere between 85 and 95 percent of 13 registered voters have a driver's license. In other 14 words, somewhere between 5 and 15 percent 15 potentially don't have a driver's license. The 16 concept that they should have to go out and get 17 additional identification in order to exercise a 18 constitutional right is just unacceptable.

19 Finally, regarding our addition of 20 Tagalog to the ballot, there are a couple of points 21 I'd like to make. I saw an article recently about 22 English language learners in the educational system.
23 The headline spoke volumes and applies not just to 24 education, but to our policy regarding language on 25 the ballots. The headline said, English language

1 learners need help, not an inflexible state mandate.
2 A difference in language should not be used as a 3 barrier or as a tool for exclusion.

4 There's a requirement for citizenship to 5 be able to read, write and speak relatively simple, 6 basic English. The key word there is "simple." And 7 there is some citizenship exceptions for some older 8 and long-time residents and for some disabled
9 permanent residents. But it takes more than simple 10 language to understand ballot questions that are 11 difficult for even a college-educated, native
12 English speaker to understand.

13 So if we're going to accept citizens with 14 limited English-speaking capabilities or even none 15 at all in some cases, then it is incumbent on us to 16 ensure that those citizens can take part in the 17 democratic process.

18 One of the great advantages of being a 19 citizen of this country is the ability to vote in 20 elections that are fair and accessible. The 2010
21 U.S. Census made it clear that Nevada had reached 22 the Voting Rights Act threshold for including 23 Tagalog on our ballots. And Clark County did a 24 commendable job with creating Tagalog-speaking poll 25 workers to assist with that new voting population.

1 The only real cost to add Tagalog was in 2 the translation for the ballots, simple ballots and 3 registration materials. We need to remain aware of 4 demographic trends so we'll be prepared to meet the 5 needs of other new voters in the future. It's not 6 unusual to see Southern Nevada follow trends of 7 Southern California. With that in mind, we can look 8 to Southern California and see that in 2010, various 9 counties added Chinese to ballots that already 10 included Spanish, Vietnamese, Cambodian, Asian 11 Indian and a half a dozen other languages.

12 A news article about the inclusion of 13 Tagalog on the Nevada ballot summed up not only the 14 language issue, but also many of the access issues
15 that you're addressing today. It quoted a Filipino 16 voter who said he had stopped voting because he 17 couldn't understand everything on the English ballot 18 and didn't want to cast a ballot on something he 19 didn't understand.

20 I think anyone would agree that democracy 21 becomes stronger and more effective when we're able 22 to include more voters who take that kind of 23 responsible attitude no matter what language they 24 speak. And that should also apply to their ethnic 25 or racial heritage or their physical capabilities.

1 Thank you for the opportunity to testify
2 today. I'll be happy to answer any questions you 3 may have.

4 MS. BERKLEY: Thank you so much,
5 Secretary Miller. I just have a quick question.
6 I'm sure our guest commissioners do as well.

7 So, you know, I sat in a ton of meetings
8 about online registration, and there are definitely 9 people that say that it's not safe and it's not 10 effective, but you clearly shattered that myth.

11 What would you say to, you know,
12 adversaries or people that feel -- you know, people 13 that have a lot of fears around registering people 14 to vote online rather than face-to-face voter
15 registration?

16 MR. MILLER: Well, it's also, I think, 17 important to understand the current existing 18 process, which is a paper-based form which provides 19 basic identifiers that we then implement in order to 20 provide safeguards to make sure that we're able to 21 identify that the voter is, in fact, eligible.
22 Those exact same safeguards exist in the digital 23 realm.

24 And as we head towards the new digital 25 era, people just expect to be able to do this

1 online, especially younger voters. As I mentioned, 2 we had a very successful outreach campaign, and we 3 literally chose spokespeople that would appeal to 4 the younger demographic for that campaign, knowing 5 that we should encourage them to register online and 6 let them know that this was a simple process that 7 they could pull up even on their Smartphone. And 8 with that campaign, we saw an enormous success. And 9 so I think it's important to realize that with new 10 technology, we're able to implement the same 11 safeguards that exist with the paper-based system.

12 MS. BERKLEY: Great. Thank you.

13 Any questions?

14 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you. How are you
15 doing?

16 MR. MILLER: Good to see you.

17 MS. WILLIAMS: Good to see you too. I 18 would like to commend you and your office on all the 19 work that you're doing in order to not block folks 20 from getting out there and registering to vote.

21 And my question is, do you think this 22 will be something that's ongoing or have you had any 23 other groups that have tried to stop this practice 24 since you've been in office?

25 MR. MILLER: The online voter

1 registration or just more broadly make it more
2 accessible?

3 MS. WILLIAMS: Online voting.

4 MR. MILLER: No. The online voter 5 registration program was a little bit unique in 6 Nevada in that we really didn't face much opposition 7 legislatively in implementing it. You know, we 8 pointed out that, you know, that it had been 9 implemented in a few other states, some other 10 western states, and we were able to make the case 11 successfully to the legislature and, you know, this 12 had a nonpartisan impact. There were equal parts, 13 republican and democrats alike, that were using the 14 system, so it didn't favor one party over another.
15 And we were fortunate that the legislature saw the 16 wisdom of that and allowed us to go forward.

17 The National secretary of State's 18 Association, where I was president of that 19 association last year, I know from talking to my 20 colleagues that this has been somewhat of a 21 sensitive issue, and there's secretaries of state 22 across the country that work very aggressively to 23 try to implement online voter registration for 24 whatever reason the legislature -- their 25 legislatures won't pass.

1 But, you know, this is clearly the wave
2 of the future. I think it's inevitable that all 50
3 states, at some point, will have online voter 4 registration. I'm just proud that Nevada took some 5 of the leading roles it's, benefitted our citizens
6 substantially.

7 MS. WILLIAMS: Thank you.

8 MR. CENDANA: Thank you, Secretary
9 Miller. And my name is Gregory Cendana. I work as 10 the executive director of the Asian Pacific American
11 Labor Alliance.

12 And I think you mentioned as the 13 demographic threshold, especially in the Filipino 14 community that meant that providing Tagalog
15 (Unintelligible) ballots and materials.

16 Can you share a little bit about your 17 experience with what it was like to kind of have 18 those ballots, how you worked with the commission 19 and to ensure those were provided and if there would 20 be any best practice that you think we should know 21 about or learn as -- you know, as we continue to see 22 increases in different populations in other parts of 23 the country as well.

24 MR. MILLER: You know, when I was in 25 office -- when I took office in 2007, we only had

1 the obligation to print the ballots in Spanish and 2 English in both of our larger counties. And so when 3 we faced the 2012 elections, which was the first 4 election where we mandated to print ballots in 5 Tagalog, I'll confess to a little bit of hesitancy, 6 you know, I thought it was going to be very 7 difficult to implement. In fact, it turned out to 8 be pretty easy. One of our major concerns was the 9 fact that Tagalog has so many different dialects.
10 So I would settle on, you know, one that would 11 appeal to the broadest sector in the community.

12 But in working with the community, you 13 know, we just opened up dialogue and really came to 14 somewhat of a consensus as to the language that 15 ultimately should be printed. It wasn't that 16 difficult, and we were able to look to other 17 jurisdictions that, you know, had faced this issue 18 before and adopt some of their best practices in how 19 to do it.

20 And certainly there's somewhat of an 21 added cost to it, but, you know, we're proud that 22 Nevada is growing demographically and becoming more 23 diverse. And so certainly this is something that we 24 embrace and want to make sure that we do it in as 25 responsible a manner as possible.

1 MR. CENDANA: And one follow-up question.
2 Are there recommendations or examples of how you 3 particularly engage with the Filipino community and 4 that you would recommend or you would kind of point 5 out on the record for other folks to think about, 6 especially as they're having to do more translated 7 material and things of that nature.

8 MR. MILLER: Well, here is where I really 9 give credit to Larry Lomax, who is the retired 10 registrar in Clark County, who was one of the most 11 talented election officials that I ever encountered.
12 He did a very good job of sitting down with the 13 community and reaching out to them and trying to get 14 as broad a perspective as he could on what issues he 15 need to confront when he was dealing with this issue
16 and ultimately, I think, one that was successful.

17 MR. CENDANA: Thank you.

18 MS. BERKLEY: My last question is, it's 19 my understanding that your office introduced a voter 20 ID bill -- sorry about that. My computer just 21 turned off. Your office introduced legislation that 22 would introduce voter ID to Nevada. Can you share 23 with us a little about that bill?

24 MR. MILLER: Yes. Thank you.

25 It was labeled a voter ID bills, which I

1 think is unfortunate, because that really 2 mischaracterized the spirit and intent of what we 3 were trying to accomplish.

4 Our proposal was quite different than a 5 traditional voter ID proposals that had been 6 surfaced across the country. As I said in my 7 testimony, I've always been adamantly opposed to any 8 requirement that a voter show to a polling place and 9 produce -- would have to produce a piece of plastic 10 or a driver's license before they're allowed to 11 vote.

12 As I mentioned in my testimony, somewhere 13 between 85 to 95 percent of Nevadans have -- 14 registered voters have a driver's license in Nevada.
15 That means that anywhere between 5 and 15 percent 16 may not have one. There's a problem.

17 But our current system in Nevada is a 18 signature verification. So when you show up at the 19 polling location, we still have a paper-based poll 20 book that the individual voter is required to sign.
21 And then the poll worker is then obligated to 22 compare the signature that the voter has provided 23 with the signature that is on file.

24 If those signatures do not match in the 25 sometimes subjective opinion of the volunteer poll

1 worker, they are then required to produce a form of 2 identification. The list of forms of identification 3 at that poll that the voter is then required to 4 produce is very onerous and very restrictive. We 5 saw in the last election a tremendous rise in the 6 number of voters that were required to produce a 7 piece of identification. You know, these poll
8 workers, I'll tell you, they do an outstanding job, 9 but we'd be naive to think that some of them don't 10 approach these polling places with some bias. They 11 know the rules.

12 My wife was asked at the last election to 13 show her ID because the poll worker, in his 14 estimation, said that the signature did not match.
15 She believes firmly that that was just a farce and 16 that poll worker was asking everybody in line for a 17 form of identification as a way as to avert the 18 existing law.

19 And so what we proposed would have 20 eliminated this problem, and it would have provided 21 the exact same safeguard that proponents of voter ID 22 argue as essential in the election. In providing 23 visual verification, make sure that the voter that's 24 in front of them is the same one that's registered 25 to vote, which incidentally, I don't think there's 1 much evidence of that type of fraud occurring at the 2 polling place, but the public believes strongly that 3 this is something that they need to have in place.

4 So what we would have done is to 5 eliminate the paper-based poll books and instead 6 implement an electronic poll book. So at every 7 polling location, instead of a paper roster, you 8 would have had a laptop. And on those laptops, we 9 would import photographs for anybody that had a 10 driver's license on file with the DMV.

11 And so when they show up at the polling
12 location, nothing would have changed. The poll
13 worker would have simply compared the photograph 14 that they have in their laptop with the individual 15 in front of them. If there was any question about 16 the appearance, they would simply sign an affidavit 17 saying that they are who they say -- sign an 18 affidavit saying that they are who they say they are 19 and be allowed to vote.

20 For those individuals who do not have a 21 driver's license, they would have simply taken their 22 photo and imported it into the laptop. And any 23 individual that didn't want to have their photograph 24 taken, would have been able to sign an affidavit and 25 vote with or without any delay.

1 This was a proposal that was written by 2 the Brennan Center. It was an idea, I should say, 3 as an alternative to voter ID laws. Because this 4 proposal wouldn't in any way disenfranchise even a 5 single vote. Certainly there's a cost to it, but 6 eventually, you're going to want to use technology 7 in a responsible way to administer the election. We 8 thought this was a positive step. It would have 9 reduced, in our estimation, substantial problems
10 that we have with provisional ballots when people 11 are unable to produce the form of ID that they're 12 required to or if their signature doesn't match or 13 if they're at the wrong polling location.
14 Ultimately, the legislature did not pass it. But I 15 think it's an idea that is worth revisiting at some 16 point.

17 MS. BERKLEY: Thank you. Thank you so
18 much, Secretary Miller, for your testimony.

19 MR. MILLER: Thank you.

20 MS. BERKLEY: All right. Well, I think 21 that, you know, we have -- are -- is there anything 22 from any of the NAACP or lawyers' committee?

23 All right. Well, I think that we want to 24 thank all of you for being here. Thank all of you
25 for your testimony. I know on behalf of the NAACP

1 and the lawyers' committee, we're doing hearings all
2 across the country. This information does not go -- 3 you know, it's not going to go nowhere.

4 I'm sure that they're going to be working 5 very hard to make sure this testimony ends up in the 6 hands of decision-makers, certainly within the hands 7 of people who are trying to vote. And I know on 8 behalf of myself and Ms. Williams for the NAACP and 9 Mr. Cendana from the Asian Pacific American Labor
10 Alliance and myself from the AFL-CIO, we are going 11 to work very hard this next cycle to make sure that 12 all voters who are eligible to vote are able to turn 13 out to the polls.

14 Thank you so much for being here.

15 (Thereupon, the taking of the proceedings 16 concluded at 1:26 p.m.)

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

REPORTER'S CERTIFICATE

STATE OF NEVADA)
) SS COUNTY OF CLARK)

I, JUALITTA STEWART, do hereby attest that I took down in shorthand all of the proceedings had in the before-entitled matter at the time and place indicated; and thereafter said shorthand notes were transcribed into computer-aided transcription; and that the foregoing transcript constitutes a full, true, and accurate record of the proceedings had to the best of my skill and ability.

Executed this 8th day of May 2014.

JUALITTA STEWART, RPR, CCR NO. 807

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS - NEW YORK CITY

New York, New York

Friday, April 11, 2014

1:06 p.m.

Fordham Law

McNally Auditorium

Hosted by:

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE

FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

Reported by:

ROBIN NUNEZ

JOB NO. 72716

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

GUEST COMMISSION

JOHN FEERICK, former Fordham Law School Dean.

JUAN CARTAGENA, President & General Counsel,
LatinoJustice PRLDEF.

JOHN DUNNE, former Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights.

DR. HAZEL DUKES, President, NAACP New York
State Conference.

RON CHEN, Acting Dean, Rutgers Law
School-Newark, former New Jersey Public
Advocate

MARGARET FUNG, Executive Director, AALDEF

HEARING AGENDA

1
2
3		Page
4	OPENING REMARKS
5	Sheila Foster - Associate Dean,
6	Fordham Law School.....	6
7	Kim Keenan,
8	General Counsel, NAACP.....	14
9	Commissioner Fung.....	18
10	Commissioner Chen.....	20
11	Commissioner Dukes.....	21
12	Commissioner Dunne.....	22
13	Commissioner Cartagena.....	23
14	Commissioner Feerick.....	26
15	WITNESSES - PANEL 1
16	Dr. Divine Pryor Center for
17	NuLeadership on Urban
18	Solutions.....	32
19	Joan Gibbs
20	Center for Law and Social Justice
21	At Medgar Evers College.....	37
22	Randolph M. McLaughlin
23	Pace Law School.....	44
24	Kristen Clarke
25	New York Attorney General's office.....	48
26	Fred Brewington
27	Law Offices of Frederick K. Brewington..	55
28	WITNESSES - PANEL 2
29	Dorothy Hsu
30	AALDEF.....	83
31	James Hong
32	AACCORD.....	88
33	Lucia Gomez
34	La Fuente.....	93

1
2	WITNESSES - PANEL 2(continued)
3	Ingrid Alvarez
4	Hispanic Federation.....	103
5	PUBLIC TESTIMONY PART 1
6	Eric Merin
7	Kirkland and ellis.....	134
8	David H. Stonehill
9	Communications committee
10	Co-chair of Voting Rights Foward.....	138
11	Hazel Scottie Coads
12	Chair of the civil engagement
13	For NAACP New York State conference.....	144
14	WITNESSES - PANEL 3
15	Catherine Weiss
16	Lowenstein Center for the Public
17	Interest & Election Protection.....	151
18	Mary Ciccone
19	Disability Rights New Jersey.....	163
20	Anthony Cureton
21	President of Bergen County NAACP.....	177
22	WITNESSES - PANEL 4
23	DeNora Getachew
24	Brennan Center at NYU Law School.....	196
25	Susan Lerner
26	Common Cause New York.....	209
27	Dan Kolb
28	New York State Bar Association
29	Special Committee on Voter
30	Participation.....	211
31	Jeff Wice
32	Jaekcle Center at SUNY
33	Buffalo Law School.....	221

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

PUBLIC TESTIMONY

Julissa Gutierrez
NALEO Educational Fund.....242

Russel Semmel
Voting Rights Forward.....248

Nicole Sammy
Co-chair of the Field and Program Committee
For Voting Rights Forward.....254

Latrice Walker
Attorney in the office
Of Congresswoman Yvette Clark.....280

FINAL COMMENTS

Commissioner Feerick.....260
Ms. Keenan.....263
Commissioner Dukes.....267
Commissioner Chen.....270
Commissioner Fung.....274

Barbara Arnwine
President and executive director
Of the Lawyers' Committee.....275

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MS. FOSTER: So good afternoon. As 3 everyone gets settled, I just want to say a 4 couple of words of welcome. I'm Sheila
5 Foster, I'm vice dean of the law school,
6 I'm also on the faculty here. And on behalf 7 of the dean I wanted to welcome you to the 8 law school. We are very pleased to be 9 hosting the New York City regional hearing
10 for the National Commission on Voting
11 Rights today, and we are pleased to stand 12 with the Lawyers' Committee For Civil 13 Rights Under Law, an incredible
14 organization that has done very important 15 work to secure equal justice through the 16 rule of law. We are pleased to stand with 17 the organization today to combat all forms 18 of inequality and discrimination, and in 19 particular to advance voting rights today.

20 We are particularly proud today that 21 among the commissioners for the hearing is 22 our own John Feerick, who is a living
23 legend here at Fordham. John has really 24 devoted his 50-plus year legal career to 25 advancing social justice inequality. In

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 fact, during the law school centennial year
3 in 2006, we created the Feerick Center for 4 Social Justice to honor John's lifetime of 5 selfless achievement in his almost 20-year
6 tenure of dean of the law school, and it 7 really is we are so thrilled that he 8 continues to use his skills and his public 9 service commitment to honor the work of the 10 committee and the commission today.

11 I also wanted to note how involved 12 our students are in the work of the 13 commission, and the committee. Among our 14 more than two dozen student groups is 15 Fordham Law Advocates for Voter Rights.
16 This nonpartisan group is dedicated to 17 promoting political empowerment through 18 election monitoring, voting rights 19 restoration, community outreach and 20 election process education. It is just 21 really one example of the commitment that 22 our students have to serve in the public 23 interest, and to be dedicated to the 24 service of others, which is one of the ways 25 in which we live out our Jesuit mission as

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 a law school.

3 So the entire community, the 4 students, the faculty, and the 5 administration is pleased again to have you
6 here today. We hope that the hearing bears 7 fruit. After all, the future of our 8 democracy ultimately depends on initiatives
9 like the National Commission on Voting
10 Rights and the work of the Lawyers'
11 Committee For Civil Rights Under Law. Thank 12 you so much for being here. Our very best 13 wishes for a successful hearing, and I'm 14 going to turn is over to Chris.

15 MS. SHIELDS: Thank you so much,
16 Dean Foster. And the thank you guys so much 17 for being here today. Buenas tarde. On 18 behalf of the Lawyers' Committee For Civil 19 Rights Under Law, I want to welcome you and 20 thank you so much for coming out to the 21 tri-state hearing.

22 I was joking with my commissioners
23 the other day when we did our briefing call 24 that I had a bit of bad luck with my 25 hearings. First of all, the president is in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 town so certainly there is a little bit of 3 a draw there for him being in town at the 4 National Action Network conference, but my 5 two colleagues happened to join me and help 6 me put things together this morning, but 7 their bus broke down on the way to New 8 York, so I have come to think I'm cursed.
9 But this is my final hearing of the 10 commission, so I don't have very much more
11 to go and hopefully I don't have anymore
12 bad luck moving forward. My name is Chris 13 Melody Fields Figueredo, I'm the manager of 14 legal mobilization and strategic campaigns
15 at the Lawyers' Committee. Go ahead and try 16 to say that three times fast.

17 I want to thank Fordham Law School
18 for hosting us today so we can have this 19 really incredibly important conversation 20 about the foundation of one of the most 21 fundamental rights that we have in this 22 country, the right to vote. Today's hearing 23 in New York is the 16th in a nationwide
24 series of hearings that we are having all 25 across the country. We have ten more to go

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 in the month of April, so we have a very,
3 very, very busy month ahead of us.

4 For someone like me, who I consider 5 myself a bit of a voting nerd, I've been 6 doing this for, or working around democracy 7 issues for almost ten years now. It has 8 been truly an eye opening and sort of 9 breathtaking experience. I feel like I know
10 a lot of about voting, but I think I
11 definitely encountered, at every hearing,
12 I've learned something new. I've learned a 13 new perspective. I've learned quite a bit
14 and I always think if you are not learning
15 in your job, then you are not doing
16 something right. It has been a truly
17 remarkable experience for myself, as well.

18 So I am just going to do a couple of 19 housekeeping items before we get to the 20 program and to our commissioners and the 21 panels today. For those of you that are 22 wishing to do public testimony, we'll have 23 two periods of public testimony. One at 24 3:25, and one at 5:45. If you haven't 25 already indicated at the front that you

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 want to give public testimony, go to the 3 registration table, fill out a note card
4 with your name and the topic that you want 5 to speak about, and when we come to that, 6 the commissioners will call your name and 7 we'll have mikes at the front.

8 A couple of other items, our hearing
9 today is being transcribed by our wonderful 10 court reporter, so especially for 11 witnesses, speak clearly and loudly.

12 Enunciate so he can hear you and make sure 13 that he records your testimony correctly.

14 The event is also being recorded and 15 will be made available to the public later.
16 If you are speaking, we are going to have a 17 timekeeper in the front so please be 18 mindful of the timekeeper, former witnesses 19 have five minutes to speak. It's up to the 20 discretion of our chairman John Feerick to 21 allow you to go over that time, but please 22 be mindful of the timekeepers.

23 We also have sign language
24 interpreters today. If you are a member of 25 the deaf and hard of hearing community,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 please just let us know so we can make sure
3 that you can see the sign language
4 interpreters.

5 If you are on social media, if you
6 are on twitter or Facebook, as you can see 7 behind the commissioners we are using the 8 #NCVR to keep the conversation going online 9 for those that can't be here today, and you 10 are more than welcome to tweet at the 11 Lawyers' Committee, our handle on twitter
12 is @LawyersComm.

13 And then finally, thank you. I
14 certainly did not put this hearing together
15 by myself. We had a wonderful, fantastic
16 planning committee of organizations and law 17 firms that we met almost weekly for the 18 last month and a half to put this hearing
19 together. So I want to thank the Latino
20 Justice, PRLDEF; AALDEF; Common Cause New 21 York; ACLU of New Jersey; Demos; Brennan
22 Center; MinKwon Center; NALEO Education
23 Fund; the NAACP and the NAACP Legal Defense 24 Fund; and the Center for Law and Justice at 25 Medgar Evers College; and the law firms of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Davis, Polk, Wardwell; and Kirkland &
3 Ellis. Thank you guys so much. Thank you 4 for being on calls or taking my e-mails in 5 the lead up to this hearing. I certainly 6 really could have not done this without you 7 guys.

8 And then of course I would love to 9 thank our commissioners. They are all 10 incredibly prestigious people who have been 11 fighting for voting rights and civil rights
12 for a long time and I'm certainly honored 13 to have them oversee the hearing today. And 14 then our witnesses today, thank you so much 15 for making yourselves available. You also 16 have been tireless advocates for voting 17 rights and we are really looking forward to 18 your testimony.

19 So, with that, I want to introduce 20 Kim Keenan who is the general counsel of 21 the NAACP. She's been an incredible friend
22 to the Lawyers' Committee, and the NAACP 23 has been a fabulous partner with these 24 hearings across the country, and we are 25 very grateful to everything they have done

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to make these hearings possible as well.

3 So I will turn it over to Kim.

4 MS. KEENAN: Thank you, Good
5 Afternoon.

6 So this past summer the U.S. Supreme 7 Court struck down a key provision of the 8 voting rights act in Shelby. One that 9 protected many voters in particular from 10 discriminatory changes in voting. The court 11 released states with a troubling history of 12 race discrimination voting from a critical 13 responsibility to show, up front, that 14 voting changes would not disadvantage
15 minority voters. The court found that this 16 requirement was outdated and no longer
17 related to current needs.

18 Let me be clear, they got it wrong.
19 And that's what we are here today to prove 20 that all around this nation there are 21 rules, there are practices, there are 22 procedures that make it very difficult for 23 every American citizen who is entitled to 24 cast a ballot to be able to cast that 25 ballot freely.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 I'm reminded of the rule in Florida
3 where if you had to leave the line to go to 4 the bathroom, you weren't allowed to go to 5 the bathroom, and one wonders how one
6 creates such a rule.

7 Well, not all of the three states
8 here today are fully covered under the 9 previous coverage formula. We felt it was 10 critical to include voices from the entire 11 nation and reflect the current record on 12 voter discrimination. Less the court be 13 confused that voter discrimination is only 14 happening in some places, we want to make 15 sure they have the record of the whole 16 country to review.

17 In addition, today, we also want to 18 hear from you about election administration
19 and election reform. Across the country,
20 over these past few years, we've seen a 21 wave of restrictive voting laws. Those 22 making it harder for eligible voters to 23 cast a ballot. These have taken the form of 24 strict Photo ID laws and proof of 25 citizenship registration laws and others.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 The fact of the matter is we don't have 3 voter fraud in America. What we have is 4 suppressive voting regulations that make it
5 hard for people to vote.

6 Further, we have continued to see
7 similar election challenges in the cycle
8 related to poll worker training, voter
9 registration, and the use of provisional 10 ballots. Your input on these issues in 11 Connecticut, New Jersey and New York is 12 critical for ongoing advocacy and reform 13 effort at the local state and national 14 level. We also look forward to how we can 15 improve elections and increase access to 16 the ballot box. With the testimony we 17 receive today and after the hearing, the 18 National Commission will prepare two 19 reports, one on voting discrimination and 20 another on election administration and 21 electoral reform. The reports and the 22 records from the hearings will be available 23 later this year to anyone seeking reform or 24 to improve existing voting laws, including 25 policymakers, advocates, of course

PROCEEDINGS

1 students, and the voting public.

2 So now I'd like to introduce our 3 commissioner panel for today's hearing.
4 Presiding over our event today are 5 commissioners each with a deep commitment 6 and a demonstrated record to protecting 7 access to the ballot box for all eligible
8 voters.
9

10 We have a national commissioner here
11 today, John Dunne, who is the former 12 attorney general for civil rights. He's 13 right there, if you can let everybody know.
14 And right next to me is Margaret Fung who 15 is the executive director of AALDEF. And 16 then next to her we have Ron Chen, the 17 acting dean of Rutgers School of Law and 18 former New Jersey public advocate. And next 19 to him we have Dr. Hazel Dukes, the 20 formidable president of the New York State 21 conference of the NAACP and the national 22 board of directors. And then next to her we 23 have Juan Cartegana, President Cartagena,
24 president and general counsel of the Latino 25 Justice PRLDEF. And then next to him we

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 have John Feerick, who we heard is the 3 former Fordham Law School dean.

4 So our commissioners will preside
5 over today's event and will receive 6 testimony from several panels of witnesses
7 and ask follow-up questions as they desire 8 to ensure that we create as robust a record 9 as possible about the state of voting in 10 the tri-state region today.

11 Today's hearing is the 16th in the 12 series of nationwide fact-finding hearings
13 convened by the National Commission on 14 Voting Rights. I'd like to thank our 15 commissioners and witnesses.

16 And now I'll turn it over to the 17 commissioners for their opening remarks and 18 then the first panel of witnesses. Thank 19 you so much.

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
21 very much. Why don't we start with Margaret 22 and just go down the panel of 23 commissioners.

24 COMMISSIONER FUNG: My name is 25 Margaret Fung and I'm the director of Asian

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 American Legal Defense Education Fund, and 3 I want to thank the Lawyers' Committee for 4 inviting me to be a guest commissioner
5 today.

6 As you may know, Asian Americans are 7 now the fastest growing Asian group in the 8 nation. As the number of Asian American 9 voters has increased, our organization has 10 also observed more problems on election day 11 and incidents of discrimination.

12 Historically, many Asian Americans 13 were denied the right to vote because of 14 discriminatory laws that prevented Asian 15 immigrants from becoming naturalized
16 citizens, and today, Asians American have 17 become actively involved in all aspects of 18 the political process. The Voting Rights 19 Act has been critical for enforcing the 20 rights of Asian New Yorkers.

21 In 1994, we used the preclearance
22 provision, Section 5 of the Voting Rights
23 Act, to get the first fully translated 24 Chinese language ballots in the nation. So 25 we look forward to hearing testimony today,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 ways to strengthen the enforcement of the 3 Voting Rights Act, and also to ensure equal 4 access to the vote for all Americans.

5 COMMISSIONER CHEN: I want to thank 6 the Lawyers' Committee and the National 7 Commission for the honor of serving as a
8 guest commissioner. The issue of voting
9 rights is something that I have been doing 10 a lot of work in my career, especially 11 recently as public advocate and when I 12 returned to Rutgers Law School. And the 13 issue of access to the franchise is one 14 that we here, especially in the tri-state
15 area, have to be aware of the nuanced ways
16 in which access by voters to the franchise 17 can be suppressed. Perhaps not in as an 18 egregious or noticeable ways, as in some 19 other parts of the country, but perhaps 20 because of that lack of obviousness, even 21 more insidious in some ways. I very much 22 look forward to hearing the testimony and 23 receiving the evidence of how we can make 24 sure that the franchise is available
25 equally to all.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 COMMISSIONER DUKES: I'm pleased to 3 join with commissioners today, and I have 4 to thank the Lawyers' Committee for 5 inviting us. We, the NAACP, are 105 years
6 old celebrating this year, and for me, I 7 was saying to Margaret, I think we've been 8 on this battle for about 30 years, and when 9 I think about when I was asked to serve as 10 the commissioner, I had to go deep down and 11 hear from Senator Dunn, who you'll hear 12 from, in Nassau County. And when you think 13 of voter suppression in the tri-state area, 14 you are right, professor. People kind of 15 say what are you all talking about? Well, 16 we are talking about voter suppression in a 17 way in the tri-state area that is more 18 complicated than in those areas that its 19 covered by.

20 So I am looking forward, too, to 21 hear from people who have experienced what 22 I know is true, and I've experienced, to 23 come forth today. So again, we can go to 24 those persons in our legislative at the 25 federal level, and say to them enough is

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 enough. Let's not piecemeal this anymore.
3 Let's get it right so all Americans can 4 participate to the fullest. This is 5 democracy. Thank you much.

6 COMMISSIONER DUNNE: I'm John Dunne.
7 During the first Bush Administration I had 8 the privilege as serving as the assistant 9 attorney general in charge of the civil 10 rights division and spend at least half of 11 my time reviewing applications from the 12 current states seeking approval for their 13 changes in election procedures under 14 Sections 4 and 5 of the Voting Rights Act.
15 A truly daunting, challenging, and very 16 satisfying experience.

17 Hazel, I think you're wrong on one
18 thing, we were neighbors, not in the old
19 days in Nassau county when I was a member 20 of the state senate. Voter suppression is 21 where republicans have two times the number
22 of enrolled voters than the Democrats. I 23 think that's what that was all about.

24 I had a very good experience serving 25 in the state senate chairing a variety of

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 committees, but most recently I joined with 3 my colleague, Dan Kolb, to chair -- 4 co-chair a special commission for the New 5 York State Bar Association on the subject
6 of voter participation. I'm looking forward 7 to this hearing. A hearing two weeks ago in 8 Boston was very rewarding and insightful,
9 and I thank Fordham Law School for making 10 it possible for us to meet here today.

11 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Good
12 afternoon, my name is Juan Caratgena, I am
13 the president of and counsel for Latino 14 Justice, PERLDEF. I had the privilege of 15 serving on this commission in 2005. Last 16 time we discussed the reorganization of the 17 Voting Rights Act, so I thank the Lawyers' 18 Committee and the National Commission of 19 Voting Rights Act for inviting me back to 20 serve on this panel.

21 In all the years that have gone by 22 that I have been doing voting rights work,
23 since 1981, the issues and the obstacles 24 really revolve around two themes, in my 25 opinion. The first one is that we

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 consistently treat citizens in this country
3 as if they have to earn and re-earn their 4 right to vote. We don't treat it as a
5 right. We actually, in many jurisdictions,
6 treat it as a privilege. That in large part 7 explains why so many of us who are eligible
8 to vote are excluded from the franchise. It
9 explains why so many of us who are eligible
10 to vote and have registered to vote have to 11 re-approve that we are eligible to vote
12 again, and again. It explains voter ID
13 laws. It explains purges. It explains
14 everything. So it is time that we treat the 15 vote as a right in a democracy.

16 The second theme is that we still 17 have to integrate the halls of our 18 legislative bodies, and that's actually the 19 work that we do collectively. We increase
20 the number of black, Latino, Asian, Native
21 American voices along with white voices
22 within the halls of this particular power 23 powered by this business. And it is that 24 lack of integration that still exists
25 today. The number of people elected in this

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 country are really over-represented. We are 3 only one race in this country, and as a 4 result we have to continue to fight to make 5 sure that all voices are heard.

6 So I'll end with this, the Voter 7 Rights Act in Shelby when Shelby was 8 decided about a week before, I stood in 9 front of a press conference, and Dr. Dukes 10 was there with me I recall, and we were 11 celebrating the action of a New York City
12 council who had just voted to override a 13 veto by the mayor of the City of New York 14 to make sure the Community Safety Act, the 15 ability of the Community Safety Act to 16 redress the issues of stop and frisk
17 policing in New York City, that it was 18 going to be overwritten. And I remarked 19 then what I'll remark to you now, the 20 success of that initiative is directly a 21 product of the Voting Rights Act. We would 22 not have had such an integrated, such a 23 progressive, such a responsive legislation 24 in New York City council had it not been 25 for the Voter Rights Act of 1965, in

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Section 5, as it applies to the counties
3 here.

4 I applauded the council then, and I 5 applaud the council every time it takes 6 actions that are responsive to the needs of 7 its voters. I look forward to this year.

8 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 9 much. My name is John Feerick. I'm a full 10 time professor here at Fordham Law School, 11 and it's a real honor from me to serve with 12 the commissioners you just heard from. I 13 realized as I thought about today that I've 14 been a lawyer for 52 years, and in the 15 1960s was a very exciting time for a young 16 lawyer because the things that hadn't
17 happened in American and history before
18 were happening. President had a voting 19 rights commission, and the laws came on the 20 books. The Voting Rights Act was a memorial 21 to a fallen president, and it was very 22 exciting from the standpoint of a young 23 lawyer at that time, and I think it was 24 representative of a lot of people who were 25 involved in the life in the bar to see what

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 was happening in America.

3 I had the honor to chair a
4 subcommittee of the city bar that I was 5 asked to testify before the constitutional
6 rights subcommittee of the judiciary
7 committee about whether the voting rights 8 amendments that were then proposed to 9 extend the Voting Rights Act another five 10 years. Actually, the first five-year
11 extension, myself, and a New York lawyer 12 named Shelly Elson appeared before the 13 committee, and we expressed the view of the 14 oldest bar association in the history of 15 New York State, then called the Association
16 Bar City of New York, and now the City Bar 17 Association, and we sat with who chaired 18 the hearings the day we testified in 1970,
19 how important it was that the voting rights
20 amendments be adopted because America
21 called out for that kind of remedy to deal 22 with the kind of problem that we were faced 23 with throughout the history of our country.

24 Some years later, I had the fortune 25 to serve on the special committee of the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 American Bar Association, a very special
3 committee, to deal with the election law
4 issues and voter participation. And I
5 served on that committee for seven years, 6 as I recall. I became the second chair of 7 that committee. The first chair became the 8 president of the American Bar Association,
9 and so for, I would say, all of my years
10 from the 60s and 70s, there was no subject 11 more important to me than this kind of 12 subject. I also was an adjunct at Fordham, 13 teaching a course in employment
14 discrimination.

15 I saw the move from when I became 16 dean of Fordham Law School in 1982. I no
17 longer had the luxury as being immersed 18 from a technical standpoint and a
19 substantive standpoint where I can write 20 bar association reports, articles, and 21 testified many times before Congress on 22 election kind of issues. Electoral college
23 reform was another area, but I made a 24 central part of my administration in the 25 law school was be very supportive of

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 students and student groups, and faculty
3 who wanted to become involved in these kind
4 of issues, and it's really been an honor
5 for me to see the evolution of Fordham Law
6 School, because of the incredible students,
7 incredible faculty responding to these kind 8 of subjects.

9 What I was asked by Dan Kolb and 10 John Dunne to serve on the state bar
11 special committee, I hesitated because I
12 felt my life had gone in a different 13 direction. I also founded the Social 14 Justice Center here at Fordham Law School 15 and the Law School of Social Justice, and 16 it deals with poverty issues. We don't deal 17 with voting rights, that's not where we 18 are. We try to work with community groups, 19 with legal service organizations with the 20 courts, with government, on poverty issues.
21 Try to make a difference by getting the 22 students involved and getting the volunteer
23 lawyers involved. So it is really an honor 24 to come back to where the first 20 years of 25 my life really were spent in this area.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 I teached a course, at the law
3 school, on creation of the federal 4 constitution, and I spent a lot of time on 5 the creation of the constitution itself, 6 which had a terrible defect in terms of how 7 to address the issue of slavery, but I also 8 talk about the history that followed from 9 the creation of the constitution, and there 10 is no area that expresses the importance of 11 the right to vote than the amendments of 12 the constitution.

13 Amendment after amendment, every 14 amendment has had a struggle associated 15 with it, and we can lose our liberty, we 16 can lose our momentum if we don't stay
17 engaged in this kind of area. And so I 18 applaud the witnesses who are going to 19 testify. The panelist who are going to 20 speak to you. And just consider myself an 21 honor to be in the room with so many 22 wonderful people.

23 The format of our hearing today is 24 as follows: We are going to have two 25 panels, each panelist is asked to bring, if

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 they can, to bring their remarks within 3 five minutes. Each panelist will have five 4 minutes, but I'm not heavy on the time
5 clock. I don't want that to be interpreted 6 because otherwise we won't go home today.
7 So I'm going to try to do a pretty good job
8 of keeping the panel within five minutes, 9 and then when each of the panelists are 10 finished, unless the commissioners want to 11 ask a question when a particular speaker is 12 speaking on the subject, when the panel is 13 finished, we will ask questions of the 14 panel, whether as an individual or the 15 panel at large. That's our program. We are 16 going to have two panels, and at 3:30 we'll 17 deal with the question of those who might 18 be interested in giving testimony in the 19 public part of this hearing. And we are 20 going to start with -- I saw a microphone 21 out there. Am I correct, Chris, that the 22 panel will speak -- are they going to speak 23 from the podium?

24 MS. FIELDS: Yes.

25 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Okay. So let

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 me start. On the first panel we have five
3 panelists, and I'm taking it a little bit 4 out of order. I was told that there was 5 some here and one or two yet to come. It's 6 possible everybody might be here right now.
7 My mindset is who is here when we started,
8 and I was told that Dr. Divine Pryor,
9 Center for NuLeadership on Urban Solutions 10 is here. Would you give us the honor of 11 getting us started.

12 DR. PRYOR: Good Afternoon. First I 13 want to thank the commission for extending 14 this opportunity to have me come and 15 testify before you today.

16 My name is Dr. Divine Pryor. I am 17 executive director of the Center for 18 NuLeadership on Urban Solutions. Which is a 19 very unique center. It is the nation's 20 first and only criminal justice public
21 policy research and training center
22 created, developed, and run by formerly 23 incarcerated professionals, representing 24 every discipline from law to medicine. And 25 so on that note you should be aware that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the issue of voter suppression and felony 3 disenfranchisement is something near and 4 dear to us.

5 I just wanted to say just a few 6 things, and five minutes is not a lot of 7 time, but I think it is enough time for me 8 to remind everyone here that the issue of 9 voter suppression and felony
10 disenfranchisement, meaning keeping people
11 away from participating in what is, I
12 think, the principled democratic activity 13 in this country, and that is voting has 14 been something that has been historic, that 15 for individuals who are the descendants of 16 slaves know that if you go back to the 17 founding of America, efforts to suppress 18 the vote and to keep slaves and descendants 19 of slaves out of that particular system has 20 been relentless. And so I think that 21 everyone should understand that this is not 22 accidental. That this is something that is 23 intentional, and it's purposeful.

24 I just want to remind everyone that 25 slaves didn't have the right to vote, and

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 even if there was discussion of a slave 3 participating in the process, they were 4 calculated as three-fifths of the vote, so 5 they couldn't even have the weight of an 6 entire vote. And then we also know that 7 throughout that entire period, particularly 8 focussing on Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation
9 Proclamation, that it took a civil war 10 before that emancipation could even be 11 recognized, and then even subsequent to the 12 civil war there was yet another effort to 13 suppress the vote.

14 So we had many different types of 15 laws that was designed exclusively and 16 specifically to deny the vote to former 17 slaves, and so when we had all types of 18 incidents where individuals were required
19 to pass a literacy test in order to vote, 20 what we have to recognize is that the 21 literacy test was designed specifically to 22 exclude individuals from voting in the 23 process because if, in fact, an individual 24 is a former slave, then their ability to 25 read and to pass the literacy test, of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 course, we know, would not be possible. And 3 we also know of cases where individuals who 4 did pass the literacy test, we know that 5 those individuals were arrested because the 6 cost of an individual just leaving slavery 7 to be able to pass the test meant they had 8 to know how to read, and of course that was 9 against the law.

10 So we have an Ex Post Facto
11 application of voter suppression laws, and 12 we know that even today, and many of us
13 have now heard of Michelle Alexander's book 14 on the new Jim Crow, but she continues to 15 talk about how the legal system is used to 16 deny individuals the vote. And so, you 17 know, once a person is convicted
18 particularly of a felony in most states,
19 they are denied the right to vote. There 20 are only two states who allow individuals 21 to vote while in prison and the rest of the 22 states deny those individual. And then we 23 have dozens of states who continue to deny 24 individuals their right to vote even after 25 they have served their time. And so these

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 efforts and these activities, they actually 3 contradict the very principle of fairness
4 and decency.

5 The whole foundation of democracy is 6 undermined by this continuous assault of 7 individuals and denying them the right to 8 participate in the process. And so we have 9 sort of a contradiction. We have a quandary
10 here because we want to promote to the rest 11 of the world that we, you know, should be 12 the leader in democracy, and we want to 13 promote to the world we have laid down the 14 principles of the quality and the fairness 15 and of decency, and in fact, we have 16 practices that go back from the founding of 17 America and up until today that actually 18 contradict that notion. And so until we 19 understand the intentionality of these 20 activities, that this is purposeful.

21 We all recall what happened in 22 Florida, during the Bush elections, and we 23 know what continues to happen around the 24 country. Various ID requirements and so 25 forth for individuals to vote. These are

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 intentional attempts. These are not 3 accidental. These are not administrative 4 quirks. These are not bureaucratic 5 oversights. But these are individuals who 6 are designing the systems to exclude 7 individuals from the voting polls.

8 Thank you so much.

9 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
10 very much. That's about the best five 11 minutes I've heard in a long time. You're 12 100 percent. Thank you. Our next speaker is 13 Joan Gibbs.

14 MS. GIBBS: Good Afternoon.

15 I first want to thank the National 16 Commission and also the Lawyers' Committee
17 for Civils Right Under Law for these 18 hearings and extending an invitation for 19 us. My name is Joan Gibbs, and I'm the 20 general counsel for the Center for Law and 21 Social Justice at Medgar Evers College, 22 which is part of the City University of New 23 York. I've submitted written testimony, so 24 I'm going to summarize it briefly in order
25 to stay within time.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 I'm going to be talking about
3 several issues that are currently facing 4 black and other voters of color in New 5 York. The first is the Governor's failure
6 to call a special election. There are 7 currently 12 vacant seats in the state 8 legislature, 2 in the senate and 10 in the 9 state assembly. As a result of these 10 vacancies, nearly 2 million New Yorkers are 11 without representation in the state 12 legislature. Moreover, nearly 800,000 of 13 those without representation are people of 14 color, most of whom reside within the City
15 of New York. In the two vacant senate
16 seats, one, in the 20th, is in Brooklyn, 17 and six of the assembly districts are 18 majority minority districts within the City
19 of New York.

20 The 20th was vacated by the election
21 of Eric Adams to the borough president.
22 Most of these vacancies occurred because 23 either the incumbent was elected to another 24 office in the November 2013 general 25 election, or because the incumbent was

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 automatically moved because following a
3 felony conviction. Pursuant to state law,
4 in particular public offices law section 5 42.4, the government has the discretion as 6 to whether and when to call a special 7 election to fulfill these vacancies. In 8 particular, when vacancies occur before
9 April 1st, the governor is empowered either 10 to call a special election or leave the 11 seat or seats vacant until the next general
12 election.

13 Historically, however, contrary to 14 the current practice, special elections to 15 fill vacant seats that have occurred after 16 the general election have been scheduled 17 for the March of next year. The reasons for 18 this is not hard to fathom, and that is, as 19 New York Court of Appeals has said, when a 20 vacancy occurs, the vacancy must be filled 21 by an election of the shortest space of the 22 time that's reasonably possible.

23 The need for expeditious special
24 elections rest on two very real and germane
25 premises in a representative democracy.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 One, basic voting rights of a district's 3 constituents to elect and have 4 representatives in the state legislative 5 bodies, and two, equal protection rights of 6 the district resident, constituent services
7 which are provided locally to district
8 offices of state representatives.

9 Now, notwithstanding calls for 10 various groups and individuals, including 11 the speaker of this assembly, members of 12 Congress, members of the state legislature,
13 the New York City council, public interest 14 groups and others, Governor Cuomo has 15 refused to call a special election. In 16 January, when asked about this, he remarked
17 that the problem -- He dismissed the idea
18 of calling a special election, referencing
19 of the recent conviction of assemblyman
20 Dennis Eric Stevenson from the Bronx, 21 possibility of other members being 22 convicted. And then, the fact is special 23 election is very expensive.

24 We are not unaware of the fact that 25 elections cost money. Of course they do. We

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 are also aware that the board of elections
3 in the City of New York is unfunded, and 4 that because the 2009 Military and Overseas
5 Voter Empowerment Act and the subsequent 6 federal court decision, New York State will 7 be holding two primary elections in 2014. A
8 Congressional primary, and another primary 9 election September, and thereafter a 10 general election in November; however, the 11 additional expense of holding a special 12 election does not constitute a waiver of 13 any sort of a state's duty to its voters of 14 their right to vote.

15 Elections in a democracy should not 16 be optional. The large number of 17 unrepresented New York State residents 18 makes a sham of representative democracy in 19 the state of New York, and also sets a 20 horrible precedent for the future.

21 Another issue that I want to address
22 briefly and that is the practice of the New 23 York State Senate and overpopulated
24 downstate districts, particularly districts 25 within the City Of New York. As a result of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 those, the city is without a representative 3 in the state senate, and that 4 representative, if the maps are fairly 5 drawn, would be a person of color, possibly 6 a Latino. In the 2002 redistricting cycle,
7 this practice was challenged in Rodriguez
8 versus Pataki, and is being challenged
9 again in this redistricting cycle in Favors
10 versus Cuomo.

11 In both incidents are being 12 challenged -- in both cases, it has been 13 challenged as one of violation of the one 14 person, one vote requirement of the 14th 15 amendment, and this time is also being 16 challenged as a violation of the 14th 17 amendment's prohibition based on 18 discrimination on the basis of race
19 because, in fact, the majority of people
20 who are in these overpopulated districts
21 are black, Latinos and Asians.

22 I want to make a note, a special 23 note and then I'm going to stop, about the 24 argument that the senate is making in this 25 case. Their argument is that the districts

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 downstate are not overpopulated, but rather 3 they are underpopulated because allegedly,
4 New York City has so many immigrants, or 5 people who are not citizens or whatever.
6 That's their general argument. The fact of 7 the matter is the constitution requires, in 8 our opinion, that the total population be 9 counted. Certainly in the New York State 10 constitution requires that. And that the 11 senate is making this argument is very 12 dangerous. It is a very dangerous precedent 13 for the future, and it seems to me sort of 14 opening way to challenge the growing 15 minority -- fact that the population of the 16 United States is slated to become majority 17 minority in the future.

18 So with that, I want to stop, but I
19 just wanted to say about another thing as a 20 result of the Shelby case. There has been 21 practices that have been changed in the 22 last voting cycle. The old machines were 23 brought back, and then polling places were 24 changed at the last minute without proper 25 notice. These changes would not have been

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 tolerated before Shelby, and hopefully that 3 decision would be changed with subsequent 4 laws.

5 Thank you very much and I look 6 forward to any questions you may have.

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
8 much.

9 Professor Randy McLaughlin, Pace Law
10 School.

11 MR. MCLAUGHLIN: Thank you for 12 having me. I'll try and be brief. There are 13 two matters I'd like to bring to your 14 attention. One deals with the Shelby case 15 and how that's going to play out in the 16 future.

17 The notion is that private lawyers, 18 lawyers in civil rights organizations will 19 pick up these cases and sue the 20 municipalities and governments across 21 country. I want to talk about two cases,
22 one is the case entitled New Rochelle 23 Voter Rights Fund versus City of New 24 Rochelle, and the other case is the United 25 States versus Portchester.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 In the first case, the first case
3 was filed by myself as a private lawyer on 4 behalf of the voters in the City of New 5 Rochelle following the 2000 census, when 6 the City of New Rochelle was 7 underpopulating a predominantly minority 8 district and essentially gutting that 9 district that we helped to create in the 10 1988 lawsuit. So we filed the lawsuit. We 11 filed for a temporary restraining order, a 12 preliminary injunction. And we had to 13 fundraise, we didn't have any civil rights 14 organizations backing the case, and it was 15 extremely expensive to hire three experts 16 at sometimes up to $10,000 a piece.

17 We were successful in that case, but 18 again we did that not from a full trial, 19 but we expedited it in a preliminary 20 injunction way and won the case. The U.S.
21 v. Portchester, the United States
22 government sued the Village of Portchester
23 to change the at large election system 24 there. We intervened on behalf of an 25 Hispanic voter and challenged the system

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 along with the justice department. The 3 justice department threw, I want to say, 50 4 to $100,000 worth of resources behind that 5 case. Hired experts, maps, color-coded. You 6 name it, they have it. And we kind of 7 piggybacked. We piggybacked, essentially,
8 on that case, and as a result of that case, 9 and the justice department's work, we were 10 able to change the way the at large 11 election system worked in the village of 12 Portchester, and interestingly the remedy
13 we got in that case was not districts, 14 which we saw as plaintiffs, the justice
15 department and myself, but the village 16 asked for cumulative voting, which we 17 though was an interesting remedy, and one 18 chosen to work.

19 But, in fact, cumulative voting was 20 enacted in the Village of Portchester. We 21 believe it is the first case of its kind, 22 certainly in New York State, and maybe in 23 the country where cumulative voting was 24 ordered in by a municipality as a result of 25 federal voting rights case. And as a result

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 of that cumulative voting process, for two 3 election cycles now we've had a Latino 4 elected to that board, first time in the 5 history of Portchester, and we think it 6 serves as a moral.

7 The caution we would like to point
8 is unless Section 5 is reenacted, unless 9 Section 5 is reinvigorated, these kind of 10 problems and the problems that Ms. Gibbs
11 has talked and the others will talk about, 12 will become legendary. The reason why they 13 enacted Section 5 back in 1965 was for the 14 very nature that these cases were so 15 expensive and so many putting the burden on 16 the voting rights community and the 17 communities themselves to bring these cases
18 would mean that millions of individuals 19 would be losing the right to vote and 20 losing the right to equal representation.
21 That is what is going to happen. That is 22 clearly what's going to happen, and I know
23 Attorney General Holder is trying his best 24 at a state level to try and beat back some 25 of these challenges. But the fight is not

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 only at the state level, it is at the 3 county, the local, and municipal level. And 4 without Section 5, I think we'll have a 5 return to the 19th century.

6 Thank you.

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
8 much.

9 The next speaker is Kristen Clarke,
10 New York Attorney General's office.

11 MS. CLARKE: Good Afternoon, my name
12 is Kristen Clarke, chief of the civil 13 rights bureau of the New York State 14 Attorney General's office, and I want to 15 start off by thanking the National 16 Commission on Voting Rights for holding 17 this very important and timely hearing, and 18 thank the esteemed guest commissioners, 19 many whom have made enormous contributions
20 to the field of voting rights. I'm pleased 21 to be here today on behalf of Attorney
22 General Eric Schniederman.

23 As the chief law enforcement agent
24 of the State of New York, our office is 25 deeply committed to ensuring that all

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 eligible voters across our state have free
3 and unfettered access to the ballot box.
4 Our work is shaped and informed by a 5 recognition that the right to vote stands 6 as one of the most important rights in our 7 democracy. Our work is particularly 8 important now in the wake of the Supreme 9 Court's recent ruling in Shelby County,
10 Alabama versus Holder, which has suspended 11 the important protections which long have 12 been provided by the Section 5 preclearance
13 provision of the Voting Rights Act.

14 Our office submitted a multistate 15 brief, that was joined by the states of 16 Mississippi, North Carolina and California, 17 and in that brief we underscored the 18 important role Section 5 displayed in 19 deterring and combatting discrimination
20 here in this state and across the current 21 states in our nation.

22 As congress now works to restore the 23 protections afforded by the preclearance 24 provision, we recognize its important that 25 states remain visual and to help fill the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 void that was left in the wake of the 3 Shelby County ruling. And to that end, the 4 New York State Attorney General's office
5 works to combat discrimination and barriers
6 that stand as obstacles to the ballot box 7 through aggressive enforcement of our 8 nation's civil rights laws, and I want to 9 speak briefly about some of the problems 10 that we have observed and the problems that 11 we seek to address.

12 First, we note that the State of New 13 York has consistently had one of the lowest 14 voter turnout rates in the country, and 15 this fact did not change in the recent 2012
16 general election. A recent report reveals 17 that during the 2012 general election, 18 voter participation stood at a rate of 19 46.3 percent. Decline of more than 12
20 percentage points when compared to 2008.
21 The turnout rate among New Yorkers in that 22 election fell behind only Hawaii and West
23 Virginia. Many attribute the low 24 participation rate in our state to our 25 state's paper-based registration system,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the early voter registration deadline and 3 other outdated voter registration policies
4 and practices.

5 Indeed, New York is one of about a
6 dozen states across the nation that does 7 not allow in-person voting and also places
8 restrictions on those who can cast absentee 9 ballots. We also know that language 10 barriers and barriers for persons with 11 disabilities persist and also contribute to 12 low participation and turnout in our state.

13 During the most recent election
14 cycles, our office has operated a statewide 15 election day hotline where we have fielded
16 and troubleshooted problems that voters 17 have faced at the ballot box. And those 18 problems have ranged from request for photo
19 identification, though no such requirement
20 exists under New York State law. Barriers
21 faced by voters with disabilities including 22 blocked access ramps and other 23 obstructions. Language barriers faced by 24 minority language voters. Inaccurate
25 translated ballots and voter intimidation

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 resulting from aggressive challengers
3 stationed inside the polls on election day.
4 The high volume of calls to our hotline and 5 range of problems that we were able to 6 troubleshoot and resolve underscore the 7 important safeguards provided by election
8 monitoring efforts. Our office believes 9 that language should not stand as a barrier 10 of responsibility to participate in the 11 process.

12 According to census data,
13 approximately 5.5 million New Yorkers do
14 not speak English as their primary
15 language, of whom 45 percent speak English
16 less than very well. These numbers include
17 2.7 million New Yorkers who primarily speak
18 Spanish at home, of whom 46 percent speak
19 English less than very well. To address
20 these needs, our office launched a 21 statewide language access initiative to 22 address the barriers, and as a result of 23 our work we secured agreements in Rockland,
24 Dutchess, Montgomery, Sullivan, Putnam,
25 Schenectady, Ulster and Chautauqua counties

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 here in New York, and many of these areas
3 for the very first time assessed those who 4 are limited -- the numbers of limited
5 English proficient voters in their 6 community and translated everything from 7 the voter registration form up through the 8 ballot offered on election day, engaged in 9 the identification and recruitment of 10 bilingual poll workers, among other steps.

11 Our experience shows that language 12 access can help increase voter turnout and 13 participation, and most importantly help 14 ensure that every eligible voter has 15 meaningful access to the ballot box.

16 We have also been working to address 17 the barriers faced by persons with 18 disabilities, and last year achieved a 19 path-setting agreement with Allegany
20 County. We required that they redesignate
21 new polling sites where accessibility
22 barriers will not be corrected, and work to 23 eliminate architectural barriers at sites 24 that were inaccessible and require that 25 they undertake new training and put in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 place new policies to ensure all voters,
3 regardless of their disability status,
4 enjoy full access to the ballot box.

5 The republican commissioner in that 6 county, Commissioner Richard Hollis,
7 observed that making their poll sites
8 accessible is "not a negative thing to do," 9 and commented on the substantial strides 10 made in partnerships with towns and 11 municipalities within the county to ensure 12 every polling site was made fully 13 accessible to voters regardless of their
14 disabilities.

15 Finally, in closing, I observe that 16 next year marks the 50th anniversary of the 17 voter rights act of 1965, one of our 18 nations federal civil rights law. We 19 observe while that great progress has been 20 made, that significant barriers remain, and 21 we know that the future of our nation's 22 democracy remains tied to our ability to 23 resolve the barriers that exclude or make 24 it difficult for all eligible voters to 25 participate in our political process.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Thank you.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
4 much.

5 Our final speaker on the first 6 panel, and then we'll be open to the 7 commissioners to ask panelist who spoke any 8 questions they would like to put to them.
9 Fred Brewington, Law offices of Frederick
10 K. Brewington.

11 MR. BREWINGTON: Good afternoon, and 12 I want to thank the National Commission on 13 Voting Rights and the esteemed
14 commissioners for the opportunity to come
15 and speak with you; however, I want to say 16 that I am in awe with my colleagues that 17 are here who I know have been battling 18 mightily in this issue and I see that I'm 19 not alone in the struggles, so it is good 20 to be amongst individuals that are in this 21 room.

22 I wanted to first start out by 23 outlining some things and I bring you some 24 information concerning the area in which I 25 find myself litigating most, which is in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the Long Island area. Particularly, I
3 wanted to start out with some facts. The 4 political and governmental system of Long
5 Island is extremely fragmented. With over 6 1,000 separate governmental units in 7 1,199 square miles. Highly fragmented 8 regions perpetuate structural racism, and 9 in the laws and in the policies that are 10 facially neutral produce racially and 11 economic inequities.

12 For example, fragmentation of zoning
13 authority allows communities to effectively
14 exclude affordable housing. Fragmentation
15 of property taxing authority allows 16 businesses to use the entire region to be 17 taxed, but be taxed by only a few 18 communities. And fragmentation of school
19 districts isolates children in racially
20 segregated, high poverty schools. I utilize 21 that as a start for us as we go through 22 this because Long Island has issues of 23 poverty, race, income family structure, and 24 school quality that are closely linked to 25 the issue of race, which then lead us into

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 a number of questions that tell us that 3 there are ten, high-need districts in Long 4 Island, particularly school districts, and 5 I'm focussing on the smaller governmental 6 entities first so that we have some 7 backdrop. Hempstead, Roosevelt, Freeport,
8 Westbury, Amityville, Wyandanch, William 9 Floyd, Brentwood, Central Islip and 10 Copiague are the ten highest need districts 11 on Long Island. On Long Island, African 12 Americans make up 8.6 percent of the Long 13 Island population, which is up from the 14 2000 census which was 8 percent. Almost 15 every town in Long Island saw an absolute
16 decline in the number of non-Hispanic
17 whites, with Hempstead leading the way, 18 Hempstead being Hempstead Town and 19 Hempstead Village, with a 12.7 percent
20 decline in non-Hispanic whites. The top 21 three communities in Nassau County with the 22 highest rates of foreclosure and at-risk 23 housing are Hempstead, Freeport, and 24 Elmont, all areas that are concentrated and 25 oftentimes referred to in Nassau County as

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the corridor.

3 We know that the Voting Rights Act
4 of 1965 and its attack of most recently in 5 particularly in the loss of Section 5
6 raises a number of questions for us all.
7 And the question that I come to you to 8 impose as I go through the information is 9 that while we must continue and vigilantly
10 fight to have Section 5 reinstated, we also 11 must be clear that right now we have tools
12 left available to us which Professor 13 McLaughlin spoke about briefly.

14 As a private attorney litigating
15 these cases, I know well how difficult it 16 is to litigate Section 2 cases, but while 17 we are in the process of seeking to 18 reinstate or have Section 5 reinstated or 19 reinvigorated depending on the term that 20 you want to use, my suggestion is that we 21 start to ask all of our friends in the 22 areas that are not covered now by 23 preclearance to start collecting the 24 information that we are going to need come 25 the next cycle. In order to meet the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Gingles standard and the senate factors, it
3 is going to be necessary that we collect 4 information that deals with the fabric of 5 what's going on in those communities.

6 For instance, in Long Island, rather 7 than redistrict in 2013, the Nassau County
8 legislature sought to try and short-circuit 9 the process and redistrict early, therefore 10 stopping the ability of the community to 11 both organize and be fully informed about 12 what was going on with regard to 13 redistricting. We did, on Long Island, file 14 a lawsuit called Boone versus the County of 15 Nassau in an attempt to try and thwart that 16 along with other litigation that ended up
17 going to the court of appeals of New York
18 State, finding that the county of Nassau
19 had violated its own rules and regulations 20 regarding how it should and when it should 21 redistrict.

22 But in that case, we had prepared
23 and were prepared to go forward with a 24 number of things that which would show that 25 not only the actions of the Nassau county

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 legislature were inappropriate with regard
3 to the Voting Rights Act, but they had done
4 -- taken steps which would intentionally 5 intend to infringe upon the rights or 6 voting rights of a growing and burgeoning 7 minority community, particularly African 8 American and Hispanic.

9 So what happened in that case, and 10 most importantly, is a clear indication 11 that those individual that would want to 12 thwart and take away the voting rights of 13 individuals that are growing, particularly 14 in Nassau County where there is a growth
15 coming from the New York City lines coming
16 all eastward in the areas of Elmont, North 17 Valley Stream, Floral Park, and the like, 18 that the need is for us in all of our 19 jurisdictions to start collecting
20 information that will allow us to litigate
21 successfully under Section 2, just in case
22 Section 5 itself is not available to us.
23 Even though it is more expensive and it is 24 more difficult in a lot of different ways, 25 it most certainly start to raise a number

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 of questions that as we learn in the case
3 of Goosby versus The Town of Hempstead,
4 basically had the opportunity to air a lot
5 of laundry that a lot of people knew 6 existed that needed to be spoken about in 7 order that the fabric of the government
8 might change.

9 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
10 very much. It is going to be an opportunity 11 now for the commissioners to ask questions.
12 I think we'll move the microphone to the 13 panelist that a questioned might be 14 directed to or to the whole panel, whoever 15 raises their hand first.

16 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Dr. Pryor, I am
17 very interested in the felony
18 disenfranchisement. I didn't hear directly, 19 what would you have as one of the main 20 points that you would like for the 21 commission to be a recommendation?

22 DR. PRYOR: Well, overall my 23 recommendation should be that a person's 24 criminal past shouldn't be used used as a 25 factor to exclude them from voting. I think

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 that once an individual has served their 3 times, in all fairness and decency that 4 they should automatically have the right to 5 vote. I think that the second thing I would 6 do is ensure those individuals who can vote 7 who are no longer under any kind of 8 community supervision and they are made 9 aware they can actually can go and register
10 to vote. They don't need to bring any kind 11 of paperwork with them as has been alluded 12 to in several sectors.

13 And then the last thing would be 14 that not only are individuals allowed to 15 vote, but those individuals also should be 16 allowed to fully participate in the 17 democratic process. They should be serving 18 on juries. They should be doing everything 19 every other citizen is allowed to do. So 20 obviously we ask that people be treated 21 fairly and in accordance with the 22 principles that we promote.

23 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Have you looked 24 at the challenges and the roadblocks that's 25 put up that if a young Africa American has

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 committed a crime in North Carolina, and 3 they have been in New York 20 or 25 years, 4 served their time, no supervision, they are 5 asked to go back to Carolina to get their 6 paperwork.

7 DR. PRYOR: Yes, that's true. There
8 are some remedies in place. I mean, we can 9 apply for an individual to have a 10 certificate of good conduct if they have 11 one ore more felonies in New York State in 12 regardless to what state he actually 13 committed the crime in. The only thing that 14 would be required would be access to 15 disposition from those states. And yes, it 16 is true some of those states require that 17 the individual come in personally. Won't 18 allow them to do it by mail. There are some 19 obstacles that I think there are some 20 remedies we can sort of propose to mitigate 21 against that.

22 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Thank you.

23 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Just for the 24 record, the questions were put by 25 commissioner Hazel Dukes.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Commissioner Cartagena.

3 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: So I just 4 want to follow-up on one piece. The fact of 5 the matter is that a lot of the discussion
6 in Washington, D.C. about the Voting Rights
7 Act stops dead on arrival when start
8 talking about felonies disenfranchisement.
9 It stops because people start thinking
10 about what the political wings or victories 11 or discussions or negotiations would be,
12 and everybody assumes that you can't talk
13 about this because it is DOA. And I think, 14 and I'd like to hear from you directly, but 15 since people who are convicted of crimes
16 can still vote from the their prison cells
17 in Canada, Puerto Rico, South Africa,
18 Israel, Maine and Vermont, tell me, in your 19 own words, what would you tell us to tell 20 our negotiators and politicians in 21 Washington where we should start and end 22 this negotiation.

23 DR. PRYOR: Well, that's a loaded
24 question. What I will say is I'm going to 25 continue to say that we rely on the system

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 of juris prudence to mete out justice. And 3 I think that justice is defined in a number
4 of different ways. I think unless a 5 conviction is equivalent to a person losing 6 their citizenship, there should be a way
7 that a person's right to citizenship is not 8 only democratic, but it's immoral and it's 9 unethical. I think we have to begin to 10 appeal to a higher order. I know that we 11 practice the law, rely sometimes 12 exclusively on the law. I think we need to 13 go outside that sphere and we need to 14 appeal to the a consciousness of America.
15 We need to start talking about fairness and 16 decency and all the principles that 17 comprise what we call democracy, and I
18 think that we need to put people on notice 19 and begin to appeal at another level.

20 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Thank you.

21 COMMISSIONER CHEN: I want to ask
22 Professor Gibbs some follow-up questions
23 about the vacancies, the special election
24 vacancies, which I will admit is an issue I 25 was not aware of. Coming from New Jersey,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 we deal with it in a different way. As with 3 many things, but that will take long here.
4 I think you said this, but I want to make 5 sure the record is clear, now the current 6 vacancies, I think you said there were 12.

7 MS. GIBBS: Yes.

8 COMMISSIONER CHEN: That they are -- 9 those districts, are they all majority 10 minority districts?

11 MS. GIBBS: No, they are not all,
12 but of the -- I said there of the 2 senate
13 seats, one is in a majority minority 14 districts and six of the assembly seats are 15 majority minority districts. And those 16 districts are all within the City of New 17 York.

18 COMMISSIONER CHEN: And the others
19 are more --

20 MS. GIBBS: There is one in Long
21 Island and there is one upstate.

22 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Do you have any 23 concrete recommendations other than trying 24 to be more persuasive with Governor Cuomo
25 that he should call for a special election

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 with mechanisms that can address this
3 problem?

4 MS. GIBBS: Well, I think I have two 5 recommendations, one at the federal level,
6 I think that there could be, if there is a
7 new voting law that's ultimately enacted, 8 that there be a provision requiring the 9 special elections be held in a certain 10 period of time. I think that's going to be 11 possible. I'd have to think about that. But 12 the state law, Governor Cuomo's power is 13 pursuant to a state law. That state law 14 could be changed, and I think, I mean, at 15 this point this issue might be moot. We 16 were hoping that he would do it for the 17 June Primary, and which is rapidly
18 approaching, but I think, as I said, it 19 sets a very dangerous precedent for the 20 future.

21 COMMISSIONER CHEN: I also wanted to 22 share with you what New Jersey does, which 23 is if there is a vacancy in the 24 legislature, the political party of the 25 departing incumbent chooses a replacement,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 so the vacancy is filled very, very 3 quickly. There are some issues of whether a 4 political party should have that authority
5 or not, and so I do not necessarily 6 recommend it, but I suppose that's another 7 way to make sure that the people are 8 represented.

9 MS. GIBBS: That's similar to what 10 happens here when the special elections 11 here at the county committees. I guess the 12 county committees nominates a person but 13 also independents can also run. So that's 14 an issue that people debate back and forth.
15 Special elections result on, you know --
16 there are so many people in the legislature 17 are there by virtue of special election.

18 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Just to be 19 clear, in New Jersey there is no election.
20 The political party just fills the seat.

21 MS. GIBBS: Oh, okay.

22 COMMISSIONER DUKES: But as 23 Ms. Gibbs said, it is power of the 24 governor, but we do not have this. He has 25 set a precedent. We have had special

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 elections. He has put the media here, if 3 you will. The media have played up the low 4 turnout in voting even in the election that 5 we had for mayor and public advocate. And 6 so the governor used that as a shield for 7 himself because this is the first time that 8 I can remember that we have not had a 9 special election. With that many seats, we 10 got almost 1.8 million people, African 11 Americans and Latinos, that was without 12 representation during the budget cycle and 13 the NAACP called for and it was on record
14 to the governor along with the local branch 15 of Brooklyn, calling for it. I think that 16 your point, the recommendation, as a danger 17 in that precedent.

18 Now, I'm not sure that I want a 19 party to appoint. I think the people should 20 speak, and that's what I'm looking for. We 21 have some lawyers looking at that now. With 22 a coalition we have with Brennan Center, we 23 have been working on it. I don't know 24 whether they are here yet, but we have been 25 looking at it, Attorney Gibbs.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. GIBBS: Thank you.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Were there
4 any other questions the commission might 5 want to ask?

6 (No Response)

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: If I can just 8 ask a question of Kristen Clarke. I heard a 9 lot of important subjects on the attorney 10 general's list of election law proposals.
11 Is there one or more, at this time, that 12 has sufficient strength if you are in a 13 position to comment on that to have a 14 chance of passage in the legislature so 15 that if the Bar of the state, that 16 certainly Dan Kolb and John Dunne's
17 committee is an ongoing committee, that 18 should be weighing in on because there is a 19 momentum of some kind that could take place 20 on a particular issue?

21 MS. CLARKE: One of the issues that 22 I did not get to touch on during my remarks 23 concerns intimidation faced by voters who 24 are challenged at the polls on election
25 day. Challenged by people who argue that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 they are not eligible or qualified to cast
3 a ballot. And this is an area of deep
4 concern to our office. And just last month
5 the attorney general, along with assembly
6 member Karim Camara, introduced the Voter
7 Intimidation Prevention Act to control this 8 problem -- to eliminate this problem, and 9 conceptually would require that before a 10 challenger can step up and argue that 11 somebody is not entitled to cast their 12 ballot, that they have a good faith basis 13 for making that challenge, and that they 14 turn over whatever evidence they believe 15 they are in possession of that establishes 16 that somebody is not qualified to cast 17 their ballot. So that's one vehicle that we 18 think is viable. It has been presented to 19 the assembly and would help cure a real 20 problem that we think exists in polls
21 across our state.

22 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Is there
23 anything in your communication that 24 indicates how pervasive it is? That 25 particular issue.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. CLARKE: It is a problem that we 3 have heard about during the course of 4 monitoring elections by way of our election
5 day outline. We know it is a real issue. We 6 know it is a problem that has been 7 particularly targeted at African Americans
8 and Latino voters, students as well.

9 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Is there
10 problems throughout the state?

11 MS. CLARKE: Hard to say whether it 12 is a problem across the state, but it is 13 certainly a problem that's pervasive and 14 that warrants attention from the assembly.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

16 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Kristen
17 Clarke, can you repeat for us, please, the 18 Attorney General Schneiderman's position in 19 response to complaints from other attorneys 20 general throughout the country that 21 preclearance, when it was in existence in 22 Section 5, was such a burden, you all 23 wanted to get a rid of it for that very 24 reason. What was this attorney general's 25 position in that matter?

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MS. CLARKE: We submitted a brief to 3 the Supreme Court, the Shelby County
4 Alabama versus Holder case, presenting the 5 views and position of New York, and 6 speaking about our experience in New York.
7 And our experience has shown that 8 compliance with the preclearance process 9 has not been burdensome, has not been 10 costly, has not been difficult, and that 11 it's a process that has helped ensure more 12 access and that without it, we would have 13 seen more discrimination faced by voters, 14 and that was a brief that was joined by the 15 states of Mississippi and North Carolina
16 and California, and we think presenting 17 very powerful evidence about why we need 18 the protections of the preclearance
19 provision.

20 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Thank you.

21 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Senator
22 Dunne, I saw you poised. You're on.

23 MR. DUNNE: Just some followup on 24 the Shelby case. I too filed an amicus 25 brief along with former attorney general

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Thornberg and Drew Days and those who had 3 been deeply involved in the issue.
4 Unfortunately we were unsuccessful in that.
5 It gives me more energy to fight further.
6 Speaking of energy, if you have any left, 7 Ms. Gibbs, I wanted to ask you about just 8 one item. You talked about overpopulated 9 districts, could you tell me just how that 10 happens? They are depending upon the most 11 recent Census, but there has been an 12 enormous increase in the communities.

13 MS. GIBBS: As you know -- I don't 14 know whether you know it or not, but 15 basically the legislature has a practice 16 that the majority party in each of the 17 houses draws the map. So the assembly draws 18 --

19 MR. DUNNE: I've been there 3 or 4
20 times, personally.

21 MS. GIBBS: So senate drew the maps
22 and they were all most in the districts and 23 downstate New York, in New York City and 24 surrounding areas, Long Island,
25 Westchester, are overpopulated in

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 comparison to the ones upstate, and we are 3 litigating this and my office along with 4 some other people here are challenging them
5 in violation of the 14th amendments ban 6 against race discrimination. In response to 7 that argument, the senate majority, 8 everybody that's currently in the 9 Republican party, has argued that these 10 districts are, in fact, not overpopulated, 11 but they are underpopulated because of the 12 presence of, allegedly, of so many 13 non-citizens in New York City. Now I just 14 want to note that the census form in the 15 last cycle did not ask whether somebody was 16 a citizen or not. So there is no way of 17 knowing how many non-citizens are in New 18 York, and so in its essence it is the old 19 argument that they are making is an 20 argument based on pure speculation.

21 I guess, I don't know, maybe they 22 had somebody walk the streets of New York
23 City and do an eyeball count of how many 24 people were not citizens. But in any event, 25 is it contrary to our reading of the

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 history concerning the interpretation -- 3 court cases concerning what is the 4 appropriate population for your district.
5 We read them to say it is the total
6 population, and New York State's law
7 requires that it be the total population.

8 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Senator Dunne
9 was in the senate here in New York, we go
10 back some 30 years ago, this was done
11 really to give the Republican party a seat.
12 Another seat. Remember in the redistricting 13 we added another seat to the senate of the 14 State of New York, which is 15 unconstitutional, and that's where our 16 fight really should be. The old population
17 was a fraud, just for them to get another a 18 seat in upstate, and Attorney Brewington
19 was apart of that argument when they added 20 the seat.

21 MR. DUNNE: But we should point out 22 that that seat was won by a democrat, and 23 it wasn't intended to happen that way.

24 COMMISSIONER DUKES: That's right.
25 By a mere slight margin, she worked like

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 you couldn't believe it.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Dean Chen.

4 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Well, since 5 several of our panelist have spoken on the 6 issue of redistricting, maybe I can ask a 7 general question to all panelists, which is 8 what do you think about the mention of 9 drawing up the maps? Are there better ways 10 to do it? I take it here in New York it's 11 legislature that does it as opposed to,
12 like in New Jersey, we have so called 13 bipartisan commissions that draw the map. I 14 was counsel to the chairman of the 15 commission that did the last congressional 16 redistricting and I can say that that 17 methodology has some problems as well. Do 18 you have any thoughts on what an ideal 19 method for redistricting would be to 20 minimize politics or gerrymandering?

21 MR. MCLAUGHLIN: Well, I think it is 22 probably going to be impossible to 23 eliminate politics altogether from the 24 process. I think, however, that we can 25 certainly build a better mousetrap than the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 one we currently have. So with the senate 3 is choosing the voters who they want to 4 vote for them. So theoretically, 5 republicans will continue to dominate that 6 body. I'm not in favor of pure bipartisan 7 commission without some control over that, 8 because then the question comes off who 9 appoints that body. I do think this is a 10 serious question that needs to be looked 11 at. And the reason why I think that is that 12 every redistricting cycle, the minority 13 voters, minority organizations, civil 14 rights organizations have to sue once again
15 to change the way things are done. The last 16 cycle, Joan and I were involved in the 17 cases as well as Ms. Fung and others here, 18 and of course Mr. Cartagena. The 19 legislature refused to even draw lines for 20 Congress. So the lines that were drawn were 21 drawn not by the legislature but by the 22 court.

23 Maybe that's the way we should do
24 it. We should let the courts draw the line.
25 We have to look at the line and if they

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 were drawn by an expert, but obviously 3 that's not the best way either.

4 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Let me ask,
5 Margaret, do you -- okay. Does any on the 6 panel -- any of the commissioners have any 7 additional questions? Did you have one
8 Juan?

9 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Actually, I
10 wanted to talk about Long Island.
11 Mr. Brewington, good afternoon.

12 MR. BREWINGTON: Good afternoon.

13 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: I
14 definitely am aware of the difficulties of 15 engaging the political process in parts of 16 Long Island, especially Suffolk County, to 17 address the needs of Latino residents
18 there, but I was completely unaware of that 19 huge portrait of something about over a 20 thousand governmental units in a very short 21 relatively compact -- how would you again
22 describe what that poses for difficulties
23 of having responsive governments.

24 MR. BREWINGTON: It poses enormous 25 problems for the electoral process and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 having good representative government. The 3 reason is because you have all of these,
4 and I refer to them as Thieftans, not to be 5 derogatory but to be regal. And one of 6 things that happens is because of the 7 control that you have with disability in 8 town or another subcomponent of the 9 government, they would not let it go, and 10 because they would not let it go it means 11 that persons that have been -- who continue 12 to be in power, because of the subjugation 13 of voting minority, continue to maintain 14 power and authority in that jurisdiction.

15 When it comes down for change,
16 change is basically the insanity of doing 17 the same thing over and over again. In 18 places such as Nassau County and Suffolk
19 County, we have legislatures, and I just 20 want to repeat something that Professor 21 McLaughlin said, Suffolk County in the 22 last, not 2010, but in the 2000 cycle, that 23 the Suffolk County legislature refused to 24 redistrict. We had to bring the case 25 Montano against the County of Suffolk in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 order to force them to redistrict because 3 they couldn't figure out a way to keep the 4 growth in the Brentwood area, which was a
5 largely Hispanic community that has grown 6 and burgeoned and prospered, from having 7 access through an elected official, and it 8 was not until we went before Judge Spatt in 9 that case and forced that legislature to do 10 their duty. The question that was asked was 11 does it pose a problem, yes it does. Going 12 back to the question that was raised by 13 Professor Chen is that in this situation, 14 the responsibility for government to 15 redistrict at the local level is as 16 important as it is at the senate and the 17 assembly level, and even more so important 18 because of the rundown of what comes from 19 the state and comes from the federal 20 government and the localities. And when 21 those governments have a choke hold on the 22 rights of the electorate that is in that 23 jurisdiction, it poses a serious concern, 24 and I think that one way of doing it is to 25 take it initially out of the hands of the

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 legislature, put it into a commission
3 overseen by a court and then give them
4 choices from which they can start to look 5 at and then place it before the 6 legislatures.

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
8 very much.

9 I'm going say that I thought the 10 panels did wonderful in answering questions
11 and your presentations, and obviously you 12 abbreviated your presentations. I know that 13 the record will have your full statement if 14 you provide us with that full statement, so 15 that your five minutes will be more than 16 five minutes in terms of the depth of what 17 you have to say to us. I want to thank you 18 very much and it's now my opportunity to 19 convene the second panel, and please remain 20 if you are able to.

21 The first member of the second panel
22 is Dorothy Hsu, the Asian American Legal 23 Defense and Education Fund, and I'll be 24 working down a list that's in the program.
25 I think everyone is here.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MS. HSU: Good Afternoon, my name is 3 Dorothy Hsu, and I am a legal fellow in the 4 democracy program at the Asian American 5 Legal Defense and Education Fund. Also 6 known as AALDEF. On July 2nd, 2013, AALDEF
7 representing South Asian voters in Queens
8 sued the New York City Board of Elections
9 for failing to provide translated Bengali 10 ballots in Queens County. We are forced to 11 sue the board because four consecutive 12 elections had passed and the board never 13 fully complied with the Federal Voting
14 Rights Acts language assistance provision 15 section 203, under which the board was 16 required to provide Asian Indian language
17 assistance in Queens.

18 The board proposed a compliance plan
19 with interpreters and other translator
20 materials for elections; however, AALDEF's
21 pool monitoring during these election
22 revealed ongoing failures, including too
23 few interpreters at poll sites, and signs 24 identifying interpreters were often
25 missing, relegating Bengali speaking

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 interpreters to sit in front of Chinese
3 interpreter and available signs. The board 4 also refused to formally confirm that 5 Bengali ballots would be available for the 6 upcoming elections, and unfairly treated
7 Bengali language assistants differently
8 from Chinese and Korean language assistants
9 by failing to provide section 203
10 compliance plans and refusing to meet with 11 the Asian Indian language advisory group.

12 In the election immediately
13 following the lawsuit, the board for the 14 very first time provided Bengali ballots
15 and has done so in each election since. The 16 board has since formally adopted a written 17 compliance plan and settled a lawsuit with 18 AALDEF.

19 In the 2013 New York City mayoral
20 election, we again observed many barriers
21 for Asian American voters including 22 interpreters shortages, poll worker
23 confusion, improper voter identification
24 requirements and mistranslated ballot 25 propositions, and the instance of the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 mistranslated ballot proposition, Chinese
3 speaking voters did not have a realistic
4 opportunity to vote on one of the statewide
5 ballot items because it was not properly
6 translated, and in fact was just a repeated 7 text of an earlier ballot item.

8 In the 2013 New Jersey gubernatorial
9 election, we observed interpreter shortages 10 in Bergen County, which is covered for 11 mandatory Korean language assistance, and 12 we observed hostile co-workers in Middlesex
13 County.

14 In the 2012 presidential elections,
15 AALDEF polled over 9,000 Asian American
16 voters in 11 Asian Languages across 14
17 states. In New York specifically, we polled 18 4,089 Asian American voters, and many of 19 them faced barriers to voting. We observed 20 many Asian American voters displaced by 21 Hurrican Sandy were turned away by poll
22 workers who were unaware of Governor
23 Cuomo's executive order allowing their 24 ballots to be counted wherever they were 25 cast. They were again no Bengali ballots

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 available for the fourth election in a row.

3 706 Asian American voters were 4 required to show identification but were 5 not first time voters. 120 voters were 6 required to prove their U.S. citizenship, 7 and 211 voters complained that their names 8 were missing or had errors in the list of 9 voters at poll sites.

10 Nationally, AALDEF monitors received
11 more than 300 complaints of voting problems
12 during the 2012 presidential election.

13 Among these complaints we found Asian 14 American voters were unlawfully required to 15 provide proof of citizenship, which is 16 obviously not required at any poll site in 17 any jurisdiction in the country. They were 18 required to provide identification to vote.
19 They were mistreated by hostile or poorly
20 trained poll workers, were denied Asian 21 language assistance, and had their names
22 missing from or misspelled in the poll
23 books. And Asian American voters also faced 24 long lines, machine breakdowns,
25 misdirection to poll sites and inadequate

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 notification of poll site assignments or 3 changes.

4 We also observed many egregious
5 violations including Korean American voters
6 segregated into a separate Korean lines in 7 Annandale, Virginia. This is shockingly not 8 the first time that this has happened. This 9 also happened in the 2004 presidential 10 election, Boston's Chinatown with the 11 Chinese American voters. There is obviously 12 so much to do on language access in New 13 York, New Jersey and the rest of the 14 country. We will continue to monitor the 15 elections and protect the rights of limited 16 English proficient voters.

17 Thank you.

18 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
19 much. I must say I have your statements, 17 20 pages, single spaced, with charts. Very 21 impressive. For anybody that wants detail
22 and sources. Thank you.

23 Our next speaker is James Hong from 24 the Asian American Community Coalition on 25 Redistricting and Democracy.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MR. HONG: Good Afternoon,
3 commissioners. My name is James Hong and I
4 will be speaking on behalf of the Asian 5 American Community Coalition on 6 Redistricting and Democracy, or AACCORD for 7 short.

8 First of all, thank you everyone and 9 to the Lawyers' Committee and to organizers 10 of this event for your service and for 11 convening this great hearing. I'd like to 12 speak about our coalitions experience and 13 how important the protections and oversight
14 of the Voting Rights Act are for Asian 15 Americans in New York, especially in 16 regards to redistricting.

17 In 2011, a number of legal advocacy 18 social services, community-based and 19 organizations came together around the 20 issue of redistricting and its impact on 21 Asian Americans in New York City. Together
22 we created a pan-Asian, nonpartisan 23 coalition that collaborated closely and 24 advocated forcefully at the federal, state
25 and city levels for redistricting plans

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that would not divide and dilute the Asian 3 American communities in New York. We were 4 very fortunate to have AALDEF here in this 5 panel all bring their expertise to their 6 coalition, and our member organizations
7 worked closely with them in making
8 recommendations regarding Asian American 9 neighborhoods, which would result 10 ultimately in what came to be known as the 11 Unity Maps, which we supported throughout 12 the process.

13 Now we are here in the wake of the 14 Shelby decision, and this affected the 15 Section 5 coverage, but of course Section 2 16 also applies to redistricting, and we saw 17 this in play very much during the process, 18 and what the results -- some of the biggest 19 results of this process was that at the 20 state level, state senate and state
21 assembly redistricting, we went from one
22 majority minority district to four majority 23 minority districts within that process.
24 From one assembly district to three, and 25 from zero senate districts to one senate

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 district. And while there is no rationale
3 given to the state task forces
4 redistricting plans, we saw what seemed 5 like an anticipation of Section 2-based 6 criticism in the assembly's creation of the 7 two additional Asian majority minority 8 districts, and the senate's creation of the 9 first Asian majority minority district. And 10 we consider these great steps for the 11 state.

12 At the same time, Richmond Hill in 13 Queens remains one of the most fragmented 14 areas of New York City, currently in the 15 sixth assembly district, Bayside, Queens
16 another established and growing Asian 17 American population was divided even more
18 deeply in the city council plan. And there 19 are other examples, but those were the most 20 egregious. And before Shelby, in New York
21 City, Section 5 preclearance was in effect 22 for only three of the five boroughs or 23 counties, Bronx, Brooklyn, and Manhattan,
24 and in many senses this coalition's work
25 yielded -- we feel like it yielded

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 victories for us. And while our organizing
3 and mobilizing was powerful, we believe 4 that our words fell on the ears of 5 Statesmen and commissioners with the weight 6 made possible only by history of federal 7 protection against race-based 8 discrimination in the electoral process.

9 We cannot know how much worse it 10 would have been had preclearance not been 11 in place for those counties. But even when 12 Section 5 preclearance was in effect, we 13 did witness the state task force exacerbate 14 an already egregious gerrymander that 15 divided the Asian American population in 16 south and southwest Brooklyn. Where we saw 17 the percentages of Asians in the state 18 senate districts there actually decrease in 19 the same area because it was divided from 20 four districts to five districts.

21 Nevertheless, Section 5 oversights
22 of redistricting of minority communities 23 remains essential, and we hope to see that 24 reinstituted as much as possible.

25 In our review, the Voting Rights Act

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 not only should be applied again, its 3 application to redistricting should be 4 restrengthened, expanded and enhanced. The 5 Voting Rights Amendment Act currently being 6 considered would be a first step. It seems 7 necessary. For example, it seems necessary 8 that a borough such as Queens, which is 9 itself a majority minority area to be 10 covered for future formulas and future
11 formulas for coverage, and we saw there may 12 be parts of process that we think federal 13 oversight might be appropriate, such as the 14 2-year -- there's simply a 2-year 15 moratorium on legislators being able to 16 participate in the redistricting commission 17 at the city level, and we saw that may not 18 have been enough. And also we saw the 19 process at the city council level being 20 just sort of made up as it went along 21 because of a scandal, and the city council 22 speaker kind of weighed in to change the 23 process, ad hoc. And so while these aren't 24 policy recommendations per se, these are 25 particular concerns that we have.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 So in the future we hope that the 3 federal voting rights laws apply greater 4 scrutiny, expanded coverage, and higher 5 standards to redistricting plans and 6 processes as this is becoming a potent but 7 almost always legal vehicle for those with 8 vested interest to disenfranchise emerging 9 communities and communities of color.

10 Thank you.

11 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
12 much.

13 Lucia Gomez.

14 MS. GOMEZ: Good afternoon. My name
15 Lucia Gomez. I am the executive director 16 for La Fuente. We are tri-state worker and 17 community fund that engages communities in 18 base building throughout New York City and 19 Long Island as well as New Jersey now. We 20 typically participate throughout the entire 21 year registering new citizens along with 22 MinKwon, The New York Immigration
23 Coalition, and a couple of other partners
24 both in Brooklyn and Central Islip, Long 25 Island, at the the federal houses

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 registering well over 300 new citizens
3 every single week through the entire year.

4 Contrary to what some folks might 5 think in terms of the immigrant population,
6 only, and I would say only, even though it
7 is a large number, well over 3 million
8 immigrants live in New York City. 4 million 9 in the entire state, and approximately we 10 would probably venture to say 600 to 11 700,000 are actually undocumented 12 immigrants. With a larger number of 13 increased citizenship rates going up very 14 high, well over 10 percent in the last ten 15 years in terms of the citizenship rate, the 16 rate in which individuals are becoming 17 citizens. And so both in New York and New 18 Jersey we see an increase number of 19 citizenship ceremonies Monday through 20 Friday in the Newark Federal courthouse and 21 more and more people are becoming citizens.

22 As we see this, there are many 23 boroughs in New York city that have not 24 quite adjusted to the idea of language 25 minorities, and in particular what we've

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 notice is that in places like the Bronx,
3 which for a very long time has largely seen
4 a very large Latino community, it hasn't 5 necessarily been a traditional non-English
6 speaking Latino community. But with a 7 growing number of new immigrants coming 8 into the areas of the Bronx, I was able to 9 witness last year and two years prior to 10 that, was the fact that there were no 11 bilingual poll workers in three of the 12 sites that I was touring and dropping off 13 materials and participating as one of the 14 watchers in some of these areas, and that 15 was extremely troublesome. Especially in a 16 place like the Bronx where the diversity in 17 terms of mostly black, mostly Latino, in 18 terms of the demographics in many of these 19 areas I was in and polling locations, and 20 yet we saw no bilingual poll workers. One 21 location had a bilingual poll worker that 22 was actually manning the machine, and 23 obviously no one knew he was bilingual, and 24 I actually had to assist some of these 25 voters who were kind of lost in the middle

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 of that.

3 So we do see a large growing number 4 and we saw it during the congressional 5 redistricting. The district that was drawn
6 in upper Manhattan to the Bronx
7 demonstrated and actually saw shift over 8 the Latino community has actually gone from 9 upper Manhattan over to the Bronx and 10 followed that shift and drew that district 11 accordingly, but in that shift we also 12 haven't seen the way in which New York City
13 functions in their elections is way too
14 politically intertwined, thus causing a 15 major heightened races like we saw two 16 years ago, and will see again.

17 They are not taking the diligent 18 care to ensure there is a separation 19 between partisan politics and the 20 candidates, and that kind of thing with the 21 electoral, the actual process on election
22 day. So we continue to see that and flag it 23 as a major problem, especially when there 24 were reports that staff, key staff with the 25 New York City Board of Elections were

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 actually meeting directly with political 3 candidates and their campaigns only days 4 before an actual election. Thus causing, in 5 many cases, in Washington Heights in 6 particular, a rapid change in poll workers.

7 Two days before the actual election,
8 and in many scenarios folks were accustomed 9 to going to a polling location and seeing 10 their poll worker, having that kind of 11 assistance, that rapid change only two days
12 beforehand really raised some major alarms
13 at the way in which New York City conducts 14 its election.

15 This is not different in places like 16 Long Island, where, in fact, we are going 17 to see a major school board election take 18 place this year in Hempstead and we are 19 raising the alarm now that there happens to 20 be, for the first time, a Latino running 21 for the Hempstead school board, and its 22 already causing major racial divide amongst 23 black and Latino voters in the Village of 24 Hempstead. So that is going to be a huge 25 opportunity for us.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We've already contacted the Ve y
3 Vota Hotline to ensure that Spanish
4 language voters are not discriminated 5 against at the polling location. One of the 6 things that we found was that they used the 7 lack of bicultural competence aside from 8 not being bilingual, is the fact because 9 they don't understand the name, they ask
10 folks for ID, and so they ask people for ID
11 just to make sure they have the correct 12 spelling and can actually find you on the 13 rolls. And I've seen that happen in New 14 Jersey, and I see it happen in New York 15 City, and that's inexcusable. So no need to 16 ask for ID just for a simple process.

17 And then the last thing I want to 18 add is redistricting. I just had to go 19 there because everyone has been talking 20 about it. Two major things that I think 21 would change the way in which districts 22 could potentially be drawn or handled is 23 the fact that there is -- you have to wait
24 an entire year in order for your party 25 affiliation change to take effect in the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 State of New York. That's a big deal
3 because people plan ahead of time, right,
4 to run, sure. But when there is a vacancy
5 or when there is an opportunity that 6 arises, someone retires, you know, in the 7 Latino community in particular, you don't 8 know that you have to change -- elections
9 are won in New York City in primaries, so 10 the inability to actually change your party 11 registration closer to an election or at 12 any given point. I know in Rhode Island you 13 can affiliate when you walk in through the 14 door on election day and you can walk out
15 and unaffiliate immediately. So this is a 16 major problem because in redistricting they 17 know this. They know that this is a major 18 issue. They draw everything based on party 19 politics, and it becomes a major concern.

20 Obviously drawing congressional 21 districts by the courts was an amazing win 22 for immigrant communities in particular 23 because they were able, for the first time, 24 to galvanize together in Congressman King's 25 district in Long Island to push on an issue

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 such as immigration reform with a path to
3 citizenship.

4 How does the district continue to be 5 divided and not see collective drawing in 6 all those communities in the areas on 7 Central Islip and Brentwood. King wouldn't 8 see the light of day and be able to 9 understand that he has to be with the 10 individuals that he best represents. So 11 that's a clear example.

12 And the last thing I would say about 13 New Jersey is that I actually use New 14 Jersey's redistricting process as an 15 example now when we are trying to change
16 Nassau County's charter. In order to revise 17 the charter, because currently they had a 18 make believe commission that's chaired by a 19 Republican -- there is an independent
20 person who has no vote, but it is evenly 21 split and they never decide, or they didn't 22 decide that the majority party is 23 republican so they went with whatever they 24 want and they are going to have control of 25 the entire legislature by five seats for

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the next ten years, and it was really bad
3 and crazy. And this was after they were 4 already slapped in the hand and forced to 5 redo it because they jumped the gun and did 6 it really discriminatory.

7 But in Nassau county we want to 8 change the process to be a little bit 9 similar to New Jersey, and I only say a 10 little bit. I'm a Jersey girl, and I say it 11 because one of the things that I love is 12 the idea of there being that the commission 13 actually, those plans that they vote on and 14 that they pass, even though they do it by 15 that one member, this is one guy that 16 always decides. There is this one guy that 17 always decided and he's the independent
18 member that's chosen off this, typically it 19 is a list that if the name is on the same
20 list for the democrats and the Republicans, 21 then that one member, in this case was 22 Allen Rosenthal, I think for both 23 processes, their person.

24 COMMISSIONER DUNNE: John Farmer.

25 MS. GOMEZ: John Farmer. That person

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 was a deciding factor. He listened to both 3 sides. They never sat in the same room
4 together other than in the public hearings, 5 and it was interesting to see how they 6 managed themselves throughout the entire 7 process. But we are recommending that 8 person to be the deciding vote actually 9 implements these plans.

10 In New York, you don't see that. The 11 legislature decides what they want. In New 12 Jersey it is different so I think a 13 combination, not necessarily all gung-ho
14 about their process, but a combination of a 15 citizen type of commission, politics has to 16 be engaged and involved, but a real process 17 where the plans that are decided upon are 18 the ones enacted without legislative vote
19 on it. Without voting them down and then 20 have the entire court take the process. So 21 that's my recommendation with that.

22 Thank you.

23 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
24 much.

25 Our final panelist on this

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 particular panel is Ingrid Alvarez,
3 Hispanic Federation.

4 MS. ALVAREZ: Good Afternoon.

5 Members of the National Commission
6 on Voting Rights, thank you for the 7 opportunity to share the Hispanic
8 Federation's perspective on voting rights
9 in the tri-state region. My name is Ingrid 10 Alvarez-DiMarzo and I proudly serve the 11 Federation as their Connecticut State
12 director.

13 Hispanic Federation is a national 14 Latino service oriented membership and 15 Advocacy organization dedicated to 16 promoting the social, political, and 17 economic wellbeing of the Hispanic 18 community. We represent over 100 local 19 community-based organizations that empower 20 and advance the interest and aspirations of 21 Hispanic Americans by improving educational 22 achievement, increasing financial 23 stability, strengthening Latino
24 non-profits, promoting healthy communities
25 in giving voice to our community.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 The basis and foundation for our 3 democratic form of government is the right
4 to vote. Hispanic Federation is committed 5 to the principle that every citizen has the 6 right to equally and fully participate in 7 the electoral process.

8 In the last 50 years, we have made
9 significant process on voting rights, yet 10 actions, or in some cases inaction by 11 certain localities and individual 12 government bodies continue to deny or 13 suppress the right to vote of Latinos, 14 limited English proficient individuals and 15 other Americans.

16 I would like to share with you two 17 recent examples in my home state of 18 Connecticut that illustrate ongoing voting 19 rights issues and concerns and the need for 20 greater vigilance of those of us committed 21 to strengthening our democracy.

22 During the 2010 elections, the City
23 of Bridgeport had widespread shortages of 24 ballots at the polling sites. Bridgeport is 25 Connecticut's most populated city. It has a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 population of 126,425 residents. Latinos
3 making up the largest group at about 4 42.1 percent followed by African Americans 5 at 46,152 residents, 31.7 percent. The 6 consequences in the city of 68,000
7 registered voters, Bridgeport registrars 8 only ordered 21,000 ballots. The 9 consequences of that decision were deeply 10 felt.

11 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Outrageous.

12 MS. ALVAREZ: Yes, outrageous. I
13 agree.

14 Thousands of voters were 15 disenfranchised, standing in lines for 16 hours awaiting for a judges order to extend 17 the hours at our polling sites and to 18 provide photocopy ballots. Out of 19 confusion, frustration, many individuals
20 left the polling places without voting.
21 Those who bore the chaotic process that day
22 learned two days later of an undisclosed 23 bag of 335 uncounted ballots that was 24 found. That bag ultimately decided who our 25 next governor was going to be.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 In 2013, election officials in 3 Danbury, Connecticut proposed to move the 4 Park Avenue school, a predominantly Latino 5 neighborhood, in a practice that is 6 happening with prevalence in many Latino
7 communities. The proposal not only raised 8 concerns regarding the effect of the 9 polling site change can have on minority
10 working class voters, but has brought out 11 allegations of voter suppression. The 12 proposal would have moved the polling
13 location from an easily accessible school
14 where residents have voted for more than 40 15 years, to a location two miles away with 16 limited transportation access. The proposal
17 comes after Hispanic voters accused poll 18 site workers of language discrimination by 19 encouraging non-English speaking voters to 20 get off voting lines and return once they 21 had s translator during the 2010 elections.

22 As the commission considers the 23 voting rights of language minorities, the 24 Hispanic Federation recommends it focusses 25 on advancing the following actions:

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Increase bilingual assistance at polls.
3 Hispanic Federation recommends that both 4 Connecticut and New York's board of 5 elections work to ensure that the rights of 6 Latinos and limited English proficient are 7 upheld during the voting process by 8 drastically increasing the number of 9 bilingual poll workers and improving poll 10 worker training to properly assess select 11 voters.

12 The federal voting rights act
13 mandates that a state or political 14 subdivision must provide assistance to 15 voters if more than five percent of voting 16 age citizens are members of a single 17 language minority group and do not speak or 18 understand English adequately enough to 19 participate in the electoral process. Under 20 this provision, 9 state municipalities in 21 Connecticut are required to provide Spanish 22 language ballots in voting materials.
23 Bridgeport, East Hartford, Hartford, 24 Meriden, New Britain, New Haven, New 25 London, Waterbury and Windham. We must

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 ensure that this, in fact, happens in every 3 election in each of these municipalities.

4 In Fairfield county, the City of 5 Danbury with a population of 82,087
6 residents in a growing population of over 7 22,000 Latinos is noticeably absent from 8 this list, and should be added to ensure 9 full compliance with the spirit of the 10 Voting Rights Act.

11 Section 203 of the Voting Rights Act
12 states that bilingual assistance for 13 Spanish speaking voters must be provided in 14 New York, Bronx, Kings, Queens, Nassau,
15 Suffolk and Westchester counties. New York 16 has the most foreign born voters than any 17 other big city. In 2012, thirty percent of 18 all New York City voters were foreign born.
19 This was twice as many immigrant voters
20 than Los Angeles, Chicago and Miami.

21 Not only does New York and 22 Connecticut have a legal obligation to 23 provide these services, but a moral 24 obligation as well. It is a responsibility 25 of the board of elections to ensure that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 all U.S. citizens have the opportunity to 3 cast their vote and choose their 4 legislative body.

5 The need for early voting -- the 6 implementation of early voting in New York
7 would provide an opportunity -- I'm sorry,
8 an important avenue to increase voter
9 turnout and work to eradicate common issues 10 at poll sites. About 53.6 percent of 11 registered voters casted ballots during the 12 2012 presidential election, leaving New 13 York 44th among 50 states in the district 14 of Columbia for voter participation. The 15 implementation of early voting would 16 provide New Yorkers an accessible and 17 reliable means to cast their ballot during 18 weekdays and weekends before election day, 19 allowing for flexibility with individual's 20 schedules to vote.

21 To date, 33 states in the District
22 of Columbia have implemented a form of 23 early voting. In fact, 30 percent of voters
24 in the United States cast their ballots
25 before election day. Research has shown

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that the implementation of early voting
3 improves poll worker performance, reduces 4 stress on the voting system on election
5 day, increases access to voting, shortens 6 lines on election day, and leads to 7 increased voter satisfaction. As states
8 across the country are passing voter 9 suppression laws, New York has the 10 opportunity to expand access to voting by 11 implementing early voting.

12 Hispanic Federation is pleased to 13 offer our assistance by serving as a 14 resource for voting rights advocacy.

15 Thank you for your time.

16 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
17 very much.

18 I'd would ask the panelist, when you 19 respond to questions, if you could identify 20 yourselves. That way we have a record of 21 who says what. It would be very important.
22 Maybe I'll start it off. Of the last 23 speaker, how early should we have a system 24 of early voting? Do you have a view on how 25 early?

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 MS. ALVAREZ: I don't have an exact
3 time frame. I think that opening that up 4 for consideration and taking a look at who 5 early voters are and what inclinations and 6 what leads them to choose that process is 7 important in being able to determine and to 8 answer that question, but it does reduce 9 the amount of time that people spend on 10 polling sites. It does reduce the stress of 11 poll workers. It minimizes, and 12 specifically with the example of the case 13 in Bridgeport, it would afforded it, those 14 who choose to, in that election the 15 opportunity to cast a vote. Many people 16 went home without casting a vote alone.

17 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.
18 Dean Chen --

19 MS. GOMEZ: I just want to the 20 answer that quickly as well.

21 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Please.

22 MS. GOMEZ: I would say a minimum
23 of one week at a minimum. Like a week
24 before the actual election. Because all 25 your campaign operations, your field, I

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 mean, all their GOTB operations pretty much
3 starts about a week before the election, 4 and I think going hand in hand with that 5 process would be amazing.

6 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

7 Anybody else want to comment on that.

8 (No response.)

9 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

10 COMMISSIONER CHEN: First of all,
11 several panelists have raised the issue of 12 majority minority districts particularly 13 with regard to Asian Americans voters.
14 Again, just to try to develop a record, and 15 to fill in my own lack of knowledge, has 16 the issue of Section 2 of the Voting Rights
17 Act of the majority minority and Asian 18 American district ever been litigated? And 19 if it were to be litigated, let's say the 20 answer to that is no, if it were to be 21 litigated, do you think that a record
22 exists that the factual requirements that I
23 believe are laid out by the Supreme Court
24 in order to establish a majority minority
25 district, the Gingles test that the group E

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 act politically cohesively, that they be 3 sufficiently large and concentrated and 4 that normally the white majority voters 5 would vote to defeat the candidates of the 6 minority, do you think that a record exists
7 or could easily be established that Asian 8 American majority districts, at least in 9 the tri-state, area would meet those tasks?

10 MR. HONG: Within a coalition we 11 didn't discuss actually very much in depth.
12 Maybe, I don't know if Margaret wants to 13 weigh in on this, I don't know if there is 14 sufficient record, but that I think it is 15 because there is a cycle within the 16 community, that there is a cycle, sort of a 17 chicken and egg, where if you have a 18 candidate then that spurs people to go out
19 and vote much more than before. From a 20 particular community, particularly racial 21 or ethnic communities, and that may show a 22 pattern, but the way that the districts 23 were set up, there was so many of the 24 districts were not viable for Asian 25 American candidates, so they never ran. So

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 there was never any record established. So
3 I think that is one of the problems with 4 looking for that record. And also just in 5 my personal opinion it seems like the 6 standards that have been put down in 7 Gingles, these have made the voting rights 8 more onerous for advocates to go after 9 Section 2 claims. To me, it would be great 10 if it was expanded. If it wasn't so
11 difficult to bring a Section 2 claim.

12 COMMISSIONER CHEN: If I can 13 follow-up just briefly, the second Gingles
14 test required the showing that the group
15 acted cohesively. I've heard it suggested
16 again from my New Jersey experience that it 17 is not necessarily a foregone conclusion
18 that Asian voters, which includes a fair 19 number of distinct cultures, necessarily 20 vote cohesively, and so I guess to me this 21 is just food for thought, how would you 22 develop a record for that if the time came 23 when such an issue arose that Asian 24 American voters voting cohesively because 25 they started subdividing among South

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Asians, Chinese Americans, Japanese
3 Americans, Philippino Americans, and the 4 likelihood it might not have a sufficiently 5 large group to meet the first Gingles task?

6 MS. GOMEZ: I'm going to answer this 7 because we listen to this stuff, the Latino 8 community like all the time wether or not 9 Latinos are cohesive. We have Mexicans and 10 Puerto Ricans and Dominicans. And I don't 11 think at all that that is a valid argument 12 until you are able to see the actual 13 election take place and then find the 14 candidate that's able to galvanize all 15 those communities. And it is really 16 identity politics at its best, right? I 17 mean, at the end of the day, New Jersey is 18 not like New York in a very specific sense 19 because of the reality in which people are 20 actually elected and how strong the party
21 politics play into it. They want a Latino 22 in that seat, they pick the Latino. That's 23 exactly why we got two new Latinos in the 24 state assembly and that's why we got a 25 Latina State Senator because they decided,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 you know, they weren't the majority
3 minority numbers weren't exactly there.
4 They made the political decision to make it 5 happen, and it was very, very deliberate to 6 make it happen. And they do it because they 7 want to dilute the argument that you need 8 majority minority districts in order to at 9 least catapult the vote.

10 That was a huge argument during the 11 redistricting process in 2011. The fact 12 that there was an argument being made by 13 minority groups saying we need the majority 14 minority seats in order to catapult and 15 make the first jump without needing the 16 blessing of the party because that is a 17 major problem, and so I think in 18 municipalities you are able to see where 19 there are Asians. You see a Philippino in 20 Jersey city, when he was able to galvanize 21 the ambiance and the environment of being 22 Philippino and that community, you know, on 23 top of everyone else in Jersey city who 24 voted for him because it is an at large 25 seat. He didn't need the majority minority,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 but ethnic and the identity politics truly 3 played into it in order to ensure that he 4 got elected. So I think there is a lot more 5 involved here than Gingles, which has 6 really been horrible in the last couple of 7 years in order to really make us really 8 challenge Section 2 challenge, for the 9 Latinos and Asians, and I'm assuming it is 10 only going to get worse.

11 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: May I just 12 add to that, there is no question that the 13 Philippino population of Jersey City
14 supported the Philippino candidate at 15 large. I think the questions on the Gingles 16 for the Asian community because of the 17 dispersals are, to what extent do you
18 overcome Gingles even when you have Asians 19 who are running? It is not impossible to 20 satisfy cohesion when the Asian community
21 does select a preference in the voter
22 booth, and even if that preference is not 23 for a candidate in the Asian Community 24 directly.

25 Secondly, I do remember, Margaret

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 knows this very well, that in New York in 3 the old challenge to Nydia Velasquez's 12th
4 congressional district, Shaw versus Reno
5 challenge, there was significant language
6 in that opinion demonstrating cohesion
7 among Asian voters here in New York city.

8 COMMISSIONER FUNG: Specifically the 9 Manhattan and Brooklyn Chinese American 10 populations would be cohesive and they were 11 properly apart of the 12th congressional 12 district.

13 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Definitely.
14 So in many ways what Lucia Gomez is 15 recognizing in the Latino community in its 16 differentiation between natural origin
17 groups is part and parcel of the larger 18 discussion of the Voting Rights Act and 19 requirements in the hoops we have to show.
20 As voting rights attorneys we have to get 21 these districts fair, but ultimately 22 speaking, the test should never really be 23 whether Dominicans and Puerto Ricans and 24 Mexicans eat the same food, dance the same 25 music, or like the same TV shows. The real

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 question is when they go behind a voting
3 booth in the privacy of that particular 4 right, do they select similar candidates, 5 and the answer to that question is usually 6 yes.

7 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Ms. Gomez, you
8 talked about the poll watchers in 9 districts. We see that in all of the 10 districts, they are not trained enough. In 11 New York City, I testified before the city
12 council. I would propose that we look at a 13 different ways of poll watchers being 14 selected as well as trained. I think to ask 15 people to get up at 4:00 in the morning to 16 open up polling sites and stay 'til 9 or 17 10:00 at night or 9 to 11, those persons
18 lose everything. We find that more seniors 19 are beginning to take it because of the 20 salary that is paid to be a poll watcher. I 21 would recommend that we look at a different 22 kind of make up of poll watchers.

23 Certainly we should have the 24 language speakers, but I also think we 25 should also have a shift like they have in

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the retail stores. They are part-timers. We 3 have people that come in at 9 and work 'til 4 2, or come in at 2 and work 'til 4, and 5 from 4 'til closing time. I think that we 6 need to look at different models for that.

7 Now how are your poll watchers
8 selected? Are they selected from the 9 political clubhouse.

10 MS. GOMEZ: My --

11 COMMISSIONER DUKES: The problem you
12 having or not having Hispanic or Asian poll 13 watchers.

14 MS. GOMEZ: So, the way in which the 15 New York City Board of Elections is set up 16 is that the appointments are made county
17 wide and so that county board of elections 18 through the party structure identifies the 19 poll watchers. It's been traditional.
20 That's pretty much the way they do it. New 21 York City voters, and their campaign, 22 they've actually started to recruit new 23 poll workers and they do that when there
24 aren't a sufficient amount of poll workers 25 at a particular location that has been

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 designated, and they maybe able to plug 1
3 or 2 in a given region, but they themselves 4 have indicated that they had trouble based 5 on the timing. The fact that someone has to 6 take the entire day off or that they don't 7 have a pool large enough in terms of 8 minority poll workers. Always coming to us 9 asking us to find minority poll workers.

10 Interestingly enough, a majority of 11 the members of my institution are 12 monolingual Spanish speaking so they 13 wouldn't be helpful at a polling locations.
14 But I think at the end of day, something 15 else to look at is their salary. What else
16 are they getting throughout the entire day, 17 and whether or not the political parties, 18 these are individuals they cultivate in 19 terms of their clubs, whether or not all 20 the clubs in the city are being cultivated,
21 or is it just a particular assembly person
22 or senate person who controls the party 23 politics within that county is actually 24 being drawn into it.

25 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Last question

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 is on Hempstead. In the school board
3 election, it has been 20 years since we've 4 been out there, the parties used to play a 5 great part in school board elections.

6 Senator Dunne and I came from Nassau
7 County. What is the politics of the school
8 boards now especially in Hempstead?

9 MS. GOMEZ: So the politics were the 10 same as they were 30 years ago, and the 11 school board president of the Hempstead
12 school board is still the person running 13 30 years later, and the school board has 14 not changed much considering the population
15 in Hempstead right now is 50 percent 16 Latino, 50 percent Africa American, and 17 children's population is over 60 percent
18 Latino in the schools, and so the school 19 board does not reflect at all what the 20 actual school population looks like. They 21 are both at large.

22 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: I think I saw 23 a hand at the very end of the panel.
24 Commissioner Fung.

25 COMMISSIONER FUNG: I just wanted to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 comment on Professor Chen's comment. I
3 think part of the reason that -- first of 4 all, Asian American participation in 5 elections is still fairly recent although 6 if you look at some of the recent city
7 council elections in which Asian Americans
8 were elected, the support from the Chinese 9 and Korean American population, you would 10 see that there is cohesiveness, and through 11 AALDEF's exit polls you see there is a lot 12 of Pan-Asian support especially for Asian 13 Americans candidates, for other candidates.
14 But I guess I would say that because of the 15 difficulties of doing a Section 2 case, 16 that makes it especially important for 17 Congress to figure out how it will make the 18 preclearance provisions, which have been 19 very useful for the Asian American 20 community and other communities, how to 21 revive those provisions so that there is an 22 actual review of discriminatory actions, 23 and hopefully an opportunity to stop those 24 actions before they occur.

25 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Are there

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 other questions from the panel?

3 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Yes,
4 particularly Ms. Alvarez, I do a lot of 5 voting rights work. I don't think I've ever 6 heard a story as ridiculous as ordering one 7 third of what they need. Tell me what they 8 were telling the press as the reason -- 9 were they basing it on previous years 10 turnouts, where you had low turnout in 11 previous years and that's why you ordered a 12 lower number of election ballots? Tell me 13 some more.

14 MS. ALVAREZ: So the city of 15 Bridgeport has 60 registered vote -- I'm 16 sorry, there were 68,000 registered voters,
17 so regardless you don't order 21,000
18 ballots. As you can imagine this playing 19 out, so you had candidate polls released, 20 so it was a manifestation, I think, of the 21 ugliest that would happen on election day.
22 You had individuals wanting to vote and 23 committing to standing on those lines as 24 long as they could, but at some point you 25 give up because it was so chaotic, there

PROCEEDINGS

1 was just information missing.

2 Misinformation back and forth. Some of the 3 polling sites received the photocopy
4 ballots delivered by police. Other places
5 were still waiting for that to happen. Then 6 there was misinformation, miscommunication 7 as to which polls had extended hours that 8 night past the regular polling site, and to 9 me, that will forever be, in Fairfield
10 County Connecticut, the biggest blackout.

11 And then two days later for those 12 who did cast that day to find out there was 13 a missing bag of ballots found somewhere 14 that ultimately decided the governor's 15 race. It is, I think, that is our worse.
16 And here not too long ago, we are actually 17 up for another governors' race, ran at our 18 heels, that will be an interesting 19 scenario.

20 But if I can add to what Lucia had 21 contributed due to the question about the 22 training of poll workers and the diversity 23 within that pool, for example, in 24 Connecticut, in the city of Danbury, 25

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 through federation member organizations 3 nonpartisan, through the office of the 4 registrar, voters both democratic and 5 Republican offering assistance asked where 6 do you sign up to work at the polls.

7 Bilingual individuals, English and Spanish
8 speaking, and primarily young emerging 9 people in the community, the median age of 10 a Latino in the state of Connecticut is 11 27 years old, so these are young people
12 civically engaging, wanting to contribute 13 bilingual skills to provide, and they were 14 turned down. Yet still they have people 15 being asked to return with a translator.

16 And when those poll workers who provided 17 that information at that polling site were 18 addressed and informed that that was 19 misinformation they were giving, they were 20 like take it up with, you know, the 21 supervisor, and the supervisor was nowhere 22 to be found when we went out looking to 23 address the issue.

24 We were able to get at least three 25 of the individual to file grievances, but

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 that's also an education process for first 3 time voters, and intimidating, I think,
4 also sometimes, for them to say we'll file
5 this grievance. We'll follow through with 6 this. And so folks just either got off the 7 line or had a child who did translating for 8 them.

9 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

10 I'd like go back to the first speaker,
11 Dorothy. A long time ago I chaired a state 12 commission that had a lot of 13 recommendations, and the person I reported 14 to said to me, "if there is one thing you 15 would like to see happen, what is it?" And 16 I would like to ask you, who gave us such 17 an outstanding paper with a lot of 18 different reflections in there, is there 19 one thing, if you had the opportunity to 20 make one thing happen, what would that be 21 in your case?

22 MS. HSU: It is hard to think of 23 just one thing. Well, we do appreciate the 24 DOJ's vigorous enforcement of section 203, 25 but we do think even more forcefully and --

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 forcefully investigate and enforce section
3 208, which allows voters to bring in a 4 person of their choice to help them vote.
5 So that would be perhaps a person wanting 6 to bring a family member instead of using 7 an interpreters. And in cases where perhaps 8 there weren't enough interpreters, we also 9 would like more forceful enforcement of the 10 help America vote act, which in the 11 implementation of identification
12 requirements, because we see that as a huge 13 problem as well as the administration of 14 provisional ballots echoing Dr. Hazel
15 Dukes. We also have issue with poll
16 workers. There are a lot of poll workers 17 who did not know the language assistance
18 requirements. So a lot of the poll sites 19 didn't hang the necessary translated 20 materiel, or, you know, poll workers would 21 say he didn't understand, they couldn't 22 read the materials so they just kind of put 23 it aside or hung it upside down. Things 24 like that. Sometimes they were hostile.
25 Sometimes they just ignored issues that

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 were ongoing.

3 We also saw issues finding bilingual
4 poll workers to sign up. We too find that 5 it was difficult to get people to sign up 6 from 4:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m., so we actually 7 did suggest to the board of elections wait, 8 and they agreed to do that for at least 9 Korean interpreters because they were 10 having difficulty hiring them. And lastly 11 we actually strongly encourage the 12 promotion of volunteer language assistance.
13 Asian Americans are the largest growing 14 minority group, oftentimes even though we 15 don't meet the coverage under section 203,
16 there is a great need for language 17 assistance whether through the 18 interpreters. Sometimes the community is 19 growing faster than the census can report.
20 Even the last election we found that there
21 was a need for Asian Indian language
22 assistance in Brooklyn and Bronx.

23 We hadn't reached that point yet in 24 the Census. Maybe we'll see that in the 25 next one. I mean, these are problems that

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the board of election should understand and 3 should not be surprised by.

4 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
5 very much. Is there any other questions?

6 COMMISSIONER DUKES: I'm not an 7 attorney, may I ask you bring people in 8 with them to vote, don't we allow that in 9 certain categories?

10 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Yes, the 11 Voter Rights Act allows any voter who needs
12 assistance to bring somebody to help them
13 in the voting booth. I think the only 14 exceptions are union members, believe it or 15 not.

16 MS. HSU: Union members and 17 employers.

18 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: And
19 employers.

20 MS. HSU: The issues that a lot of 21 poll workers don't know that rule so they 22 steer people away.

23 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Lest there be 24 recommendation in training.

25 MS. HSU: Yeah.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 COMMISSIONER CHEN: The issue of 3 early voting, which you mentioned 4 Ms. Alvarez, the governor of my state has 5 expressed a disinclination to go that route
6 and his justification is that New Jersey
7 has no explanation needed absentee mail
8 balloting, so that covers -- that addresses 9 the problem. I don't know if you have any 10 reaction to that?

11 MS. ALVAREZ: We shared Bridgeport's
12 experience and Connecticut's with him, 13 right, so we follow the process, right, and 14 it can go broke. So where is the harm? And 15 what I'm talking about citizens, we are 16 talking about saying civic engagement, 17 there should be no obstacle to how and when 18 you cast your vote. So we can agree to a 19 time frame and a procedure and policy and 20 train an individual to understand that. Why 21 would we deny someone's ability to 22 civically engage. To cast their right to 23 vote. And so whether --

24 COMMISSIONER CHEN: On the machine
25 you mean?

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MS. ALVAREZ: Yeah.

3 COMMISSIONER CHEN: On the machine
4 for early voting as opposed to --

5 MS. ALVAREZ: For early voting.

6 COMMISSIONER CHEN: And absentee
7 ballot.8 MS. ALVAREZ: We live in a very busy
9 world. Most households you have where there 10 is two, there are two people that are 11 working, there are children in school, and 12 again, when we can facilitate the act when 13 we can create the opportunity, most 14 recently in Connecticut, this time around 15 for the next governors race, there will be 16 online voting. I'll check back with guys
17 and let you know how that happens. We live 18 in the era of technology and the way we 19 receive and live, technology is a part of 20 that. And I think that it is just as 21 crucial as training to constantly take a 22 look at how our communities are changing.
23 How we can facilitate civic engagement. How 24 we can ensure our voters rights. If it 25 means going to cast your vote in a machine

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 week before the election.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
4 very much. I think we've arrived at a point 5 where we should be sure anyone who wants to 6 give public testimony has an opportunity do
7 so. On behalf of the commissioners I want
8 to thank all the panelists who participated 9 and contributions you made. If there is 10 anybody else who has a question, and the 11 only reason I try to move to the next point 12 is the keep the schedule we set out. Which 13 contemplates going into the evening. Thank 14 you very much.

15 So the question is is there anyone
16 here that would like to offer public 17 testimony? If so, I would ask that you put 18 your name on a sheet of paper and if you 19 wouldn't mind give it to Chris Fields, who 20 is to my left. She's the person that's been 21 helping put together the program today.

22 The first person I have Eric Merin.
23 Please. Are you a lawyer at Kirkland &
24 Ellis.

25 MR. MERIN: Yes.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you for 3 being here. And I have here the topic Super 4 Storm Sandy election protection.

5 MR. MERIN: I know I believe we will 6 be hearing more about this later today, but 7 as you said my name is Eric Merin, I'm with 8 the Law firm of Kirland & Ellis, and for 9 many years now, with the Lawyers'
10 Committee, we hosted an election protection
11 hotline. Where voters can call and voice
12 their concerns and problems on election 13 day, and we wanted today to just convey 14 some of the experiences we had specifically 15 during the 2012 election, which was in the 16 wake of Super Storm Sandy.

17 That year, specifically, our call 18 volume was incredibly high. We had 19 volunteers that basically could not get off 20 the phones. They were answering so many 21 calls, and notably many of these calls came 22 in the day before the election. Voters who 23 either could not get to their polling place 24 because of damage from the hurricane or 25 they just didn't know where their polling

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 place would be. I wanted to provide for the 3 commission this public testimony to two 4 specific examples of incidents that 5 occurred on the election day that kind of 6 really highlight the need for contingency 7 planning on election day for these types of 8 situations. The first one involved a 9 situation in Rockaway, Queens. For those of 10 you from the area know Rockaway, Queens is 11 home to actually many nursing homes in the 12 area, and it was also an area that was hit 13 very hard by Super Storm Sandy. Now many of 14 these nursing homes normally have 15 arrangements with their local election
16 officials, where they'll receive absentee 17 ballots for the residents so that their 18 residents are able to vote, since many of 19 these residents cannot leave their room and 20 actually go to the polling place on 21 election day. Now, due to Super Storm Sandy 22 and obviously the havoc that it reeked,
23 many of those nursing homes never received 24 those absentee ballots on election day, 25 unfortunately, too late.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We received many call from people 3 such as activities directors and nurses in 4 these nursing homes saying that their 5 residents wanted to vote but unfortunately 6 could not leave the home and the ballots
7 had never arrived. Now, that day we weren't 8 able to help them. But with proper planning 9 in the future, these local municipalities
10 can create plans for situations. Hopefully 11 something like that would not be replicated
12 in the future.

13 The other problem that I'm sure 14 you'll hear more about later today when 15 panelists speak about Super Storm Sandy was 16 that we had tremendous ballot shortages in 17 New York City. As many of you know, the 18 governor issued an emergency order that 19 allowed any individuals to vote at any 20 polling place in New York City. Because 21 many people were displaced. Despite 22 tremendous efforts of many of these 23 election officials, we received many, many 24 voter calls, especially during rush hour, 25 that their polling places did not have

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 ballots and could not vote. Again, we were 3 able to work with election officials to try 4 and work with the city to get ballots to 5 these polling places so voters were able to 6 vote. But as the polls started closing, 7 many voters called us because they were 8 uncertain on what to do because their 9 polling location did not have enough
10 ballots.

11 We helped them communicate with city
12 officials, but many of these voters you've 13 heard time and time again today just became 14 frustrated and decided that it wasn't worth 15 voting that day.

16 Now just I guess, in conclusion, the 17 election protection hotline, every year and 18 every election, receives tons of call
19 volume and lots of calls from people trying 20 to just exercise their right to vote, but I 21 guess today, the one thing if I can convey 22 is that Super Storm Sandy really 23 highlighted that these types of emergency 24 can cause unique issues for local 25 officials. That in the future, if we plan

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 properly, we can avoid it.

3 Thank you.

4 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 5 much. As I would just mention as a very 6 active member of the bar, obviously, that 7 they have Dan Kolb and Senator Dunne here, 8 co-chair of the state bar committee. If 9 there is something you want to put in 10 writing and send to them, I'm sure that 11 they would be interested in receiving it.

12 The next speaker I have, is it David 13 Stoneshill?

14 MR. STONEHILL: Stonehill.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

16 I don't want to speculate, are you a 17 lawyer?

18 MR. STONEHILL: Yes. How'd you
19 guess?

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Just that you
21 are so well-dressed at this hour in the 22 afternoon.

23 MR. STONEHILL: I suppose.

24 Good Afternoon, my name is David H.
25 Stonehill. I'm an attorney civic activist

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 from Merrick, New York as well as the 3 communications committee co-chair of Voting
4 Rights Forward. Voting Rights Forward is a
5 nonpartisan civil rights organization
6 committed to protecting the rights of all 7 eligible voters. The organization was 8 formed in January of this year by a group 9 of voter protection attorneys alarmed by 10 the U.S. Supreme Court decision in Shelby 11 County v. Holder. Through advocacy and 12 public education, we seek to restore the 13 Voting Rights Act and therefore strengthen 14 voting rights for all Americans.

15 My brief remarks today are not about 16 politics, but about democracy. I've 17 personally been involved with election
18 protection since 2001. Both as a field
19 election monitor for the democratic party 20 in Nassau County, New York, and as an 21 administrator setting up election
22 monitoring programs in New York City and 23 Nassau County and Suffolk County. I've also 24 consulted with campaigns in New Jersey,
25 Illinois and Alabama regarding voter

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 protection issues.

3 I have found election monitoring to 4 be a very satisfying part of my life. It is 5 a very great feeling to help individuals 6 vote, yet attempts are made even in this 7 day and age to try and prevent some people 8 from exercising their right to vote. In the 9 world of voter suppression and voter
10 intimidation, no place in the United States 11 is immune. New York may not be Alabama and 12 New Jersey may not be Georgia, but we do 13 get our share of election incidents.
14 Preelection robot calls with misleading
15 information about candidates; caging
16 incidents involving fraudulent challenges
17 to registered voters; discrimination
18 against non-English speakers at the polling 19 place, etcetera, are very real in and 20 around New York City.

21 Disturbingly, there are people who 22 feel they must win by any means necessary.
23 Yet at a time when voting rights still 24 needs legal protection, the Shelby decision 25 shockingly weakened the federal

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 government's ability to enforce the 1965
3 Voting Rights Act. A major casualty was the 4 ability of the justice department to 5 preclear voting changes such as the 6 redistricting of the voting procedures in 7 jurisdictions throughout the country with a
8 history of voting discrimination.

9 Protecting our cherished right to 10 the vote has been a bipartisan effort since 11 the 1960s. That is why the recent 12 introduction of the Voting Rights Amendment 13 Act in Congress by republicans and 14 democrats are so important. Instead of the 15 same old political gridlock we see in 16 Washington and have seen in New York State 17 as well, ideological and personal
18 differences have been overcome in this bill 19 by common determination and understanding 20 that our democracy is built upon the right 21 to vote. Take away someone's ability to 22 vote, and you are on a slippery slope to 23 elimination to freedom itself.

24 Voting Rights Forward joins other 25 civil rights organizations in supporting

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 swift passage of the Voting Rights
3 Amendment Act. The Voting Rights Act will 4 be modernized for the 21st century while 5 restoring the justice department's ability
6 to protect voters from current 7 discrimination at the polls.

8 It is not perfect legislation, but 9 it goes a long way toward giving us a 10 voting process to be proud of, and not one 11 to be embarrassed about.

12 Thank you for giving me the 13 opportunity to speak today. I should also 14 note that some other members of my 15 organization will be speaking today.

16 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
17 very much. Senator Dunne has a question.

18 MR. DUNNE: Since you admitted to 19 being a lawyer, let me get some free legal 20 advice from you.

21 Mr. Stonehill, very seriously, thank 22 for this. Have you and your organization 23 looked at the Shelby County decision and 24 figured out what the Congress can do to 25 right that wrong and try to restore some of

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the Sections 4 and 5.

3 MR. STONEHILL: Well, basically, we 4 are supporting, as well as other
5 organizations, the Voting Rights Amendment 6 Act, which has already been -- it was 7 submitted in January.

8 MR. DUNNE: Is that the 9 Sensenbrenner bill?

10 MR. STONEHILL: Yes. So we are 100
11 percent behind it, and we are trying to, as 12 well as with other organizations, of 13 course, we will be trying to mobilize
14 public opinion to support it as well.

15 MR. DUNNE: Thank you.

16 MR. STONEHILL: Thank you.

17 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
18 very much.

19 The next person, I'm not sure I can 20 read the writing, though it is much better
21 than mine, is it Mark Turner.

22 (No response)

23 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: We'll just 24 hold this if the person comes.

25 Natalie Victoria.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 (No response)

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: These were 4 cards I received from people that wanted to 5 speak. They appear not to be here right
6 now.

7 Is there anybody else here who would 8 like to add some comments to the public
9 record? If so we would be happy to receive 10 your testimony.

11 (Ms. Scottie Coads walks up to 12 stage)

13 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Welcome, I
14 would hope that the witness would also 15 identify the young man who is here with 16 here.

17 MS. COADS: Good Afternoon everyone.
18 The young man, Parker, is my Grandson, and 19 I didn't sign up today because I wasn't 20 sure I would be able to make it. I'll try 21 to go through this without my glasses.

22 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Could you give 23 your name for the record.

24 MS. COADS: My name is Hazel Scottie
25 Coads, and I'm the chair of the civil

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 engagement for NAACP New York State
3 conference. Good Afternoon everyone, and 4 thank you for this opportunity to speak. It 5 was with deep sadness that in 2014 we must 6 remain more diligent and in such fighting
7 way in such fighting mode for the -- I'm 8 not able to see until I get my glasses, I'm 9 sorry.

10 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Take your
11 time.

12 (Glasses are brought up)

13 MS. COADS: Okay. That's better. It 14 is with deep sadness that in 2014 we must 15 remain more diligent and in such fighting
16 mode for our citizens concerning our right 17 to vote and the need to demand that our 18 rights are protected.

19 Throughout the State of New York, we 20 have had some difficult times during the 21 2010 redistricting from Albany and the 22 Boroughs and even on Long Island. On Long 23 Island we have not -- we have struggled 24 like you wouldn't believe to address the 25 redistricting issue. We were slandered, we

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 were mistreated at every legislative 3 session. It is important that we continue
4 to remind our communities of the negatives
5 that we endured during the difficult years 6 and times, and there are plenty. We must 7 continue to fight the monster that I'm 8 calling it, with the fervor as we never did 9 before.

10 I would like to coin this "looking 11 back and looking forward," with the 12 comprehensive vote watch program to include 13 some of the following, and there are many 14 things that we have to include continued 15 voter registration and then get out to 16 vote. Continue to fight for the Section 4
17 amendment by the Congress and the senate.
18 Expand our vote to include ex-felons. New 19 York has it already in place, but we have 20 to fight for it at other places. Mobilizing 21 to include like-minded organizations to 22 come together for the national rights.
23 Holding hearings on the Voting Rights Act 24 Amendment. Holding forums to hear from 25 potential elected officials.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Do not support those that are not 3 supporting the NAACP in its progressive 4 platform. Continue to fight against voter 5 ID in New York, that many people who are 6 still promoting voter ID, and won't stand
7 for it in the state of New York. Supporting 8 the Democracy Restoration Act. Restoring 9 voting rights in the federal elections to 10 to nearly 4.4 million Americans with 11 criminal convictions in their past. There
12 is much work to be done. The NAACP New York 13 State conference will continue to defend 14 democracy at the ballot by any means 15 necessary.

16 Thank you for hearing me.

17 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 18 much. Are there any questions on the 19 commission by the witness?

20 (No response)

21 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Can I ask you
22 one question, I have a question. Maybe 23 Chris you could -- I was not clear at 24 something you said, you spoke about 25 mistreatment in legislative sessions, were

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 you speaking of something very general or 3 mistreatment that reached you?

4 MS. COADS: No, in general. I
5 testified at least eight times in Nassau
6 County during the redistricting process, 7 and each of those times, I along with the 8 400-plus people we put in the room to have 9 their voices heard were mistreated by their 10 legislative body and the majority in the 11 legislature.

12 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: How were you
13 mistreated? Give me an example.

14 MS. COADS: We were ignored. We were 15 -- actually at one point they had to close 16 everything down because it really got out
17 of hand. They refused to answer questions.
18 We were insulted. We were really mistreated 19 collectively. Everyone who attended all of 20 those sessions remember. This is what 21 happens, sir, when the majority are not 22 progressive and they grab for power and 23 position. They cut the lines so terribly 24 that minorities don't have a chance of 25 being elected to the senate in Albany.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 It is a fight that we must continue,
3 and I don't see any way out except for us
4 to join coalitions and to be strong about 5 what we need to do, and that is to fight to 6 get progressive people elected in Albany.

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.
8 Commissioner Cartagena.

9 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: May I add,
10 thank you Ms. Scottie Coads. My 11 organization on Latino Justice is part of 12 that coalition you are talking about. That 13 we're part of that effort right there in 14 Nassau and I commend you and I thank you
15 for bringing that to our attention. It's a 16 very important issue and you're right, the 17 dominant party basically ignored the the 18 needs of the wider community. If it wasn't 19 for a coalition, even a small improvement
20 that happened would have never happened. So 21 thank you for your leadership on that.

22 MS. COADS: Thank you so much. And 23 not only in Nassau, representing the NAACP
24 on a state level, I testified for that, and 25 it was unfortunate to see that there were

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 no minorities on the commission, no women, 3 and all of the hearings were held during 4 the day when you couldn't have the majority 5 to appear to testify. I mean, it has just 6 been a long, hard road, and in Nassau
7 County we have nine senators, not just 8 Nassau but in all of Long Island. Nassau 9 and Suffolk. We have nine senators, but we 10 don't have a chance in 40 years to elect a 11 minority in Long Island the way the 12 districts have been drawn. And so we've 13 been fighting diligently, the fight is 14 going to continue.

15 You don't hear much about it from 16 Nassau's perspective because they are all 17 conservatives. To get some progressives in 18 office, we have to stay diligent, and we 19 have to continue to fight.

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
21 very much.

22 We've reached the point for a short
23 break in the proceedings. So we'll recess
24 for about 15 minutes and return for two 25 more panels, and another opportunity for

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 people to give public testimony. Thank you
3 very much.

4 (A recess is taken. 3:50 p.m.)

5 (Reconvened for panel 3. 4:11 p.m.)

6 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: The next panel
7 is called Elections in New Jersey. It is a 8 three-member panel, and we have three 9 speakers, three panelists, and I'll call 10 the first, Catherine Weiss of The 11 Lowenstein Center for the Public Interest &
12 Election Protection.

13 MS. WEISS: So I'm Catherine Weiss
14 and I am chair of public interest at The 15 Lowenstein Center for the Public Interest
16 at Lowenstein Sandler, which is a law firm 17 with offices in New York, New Jersey and 18 California. And we ran the election
19 protection voter hotline for the 2012
20 presidential election in New Jersey.
21 Election protection, as I think most of you 22 know, is a nonpartisan nationwide voter 23 protection coalition of which the firm has 24 long been part. We did this in 25 collaboration with the Lawyers' Committee

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 for Civil Rights. And I am therefore going 3 to address election issues surrounding 4 emergency preparedness having had a direct 5 experience of emergency unpreparedness.

6 So the 2012 election occurred one
7 week after Hurricane Sandy made landfall in 8 New Jersey. Some of you I think will 9 remember this caused an unimaginable
10 destruction. Transportation,
11 communications, electricity, water supply, 12 housing, everything was out of service for 13 a very, very long time indeed, and in the 14 face of this level of destruction, our 15 election officials made heroic efforts, 16 truly heroic efforts to put on the 17 presidential election one week later, which 18 they succeeded in doing. I'm going to talk 19 about both what worked in that process and 20 what failed in that process, and then I 21 will talk about recommendations for having 22 a more thoughtful and intentional emergency 23 preparation for elections.

24 So let's start with what they did 25 really incredibly well, given what was

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 happening in New Jersey. They relocated
3 polling places in every election district
4 in the state and have them up and running 5 for election day. You can't imagine what 6 that meant. The polling places they had 7 been intending to use, many of them were 8 without electricity, meaning they couldn't 9 run the voting machines, and others were 10 being used for shelter for people homeless
11 as a result of the storm, and nevertheless 12 they had polls up and running in every 13 district. They also put voting machines in 14 buses and ran them from shelter to shelter 15 so that people can vote. In advance of the 16 election, the secretary of state issued a 17 series of directives under the emergency 18 declaration that the governor had made. And 19 one of those directives allowed for 20 provisional voting, voting by provisional
21 ballot by displaced voters in any location
22 in the state where they found themselves.
23 So people who could not be home and instead 24 were staying elsewhere could vote wherever 25 they were.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 That made an enormous difference to 3 thousands of voters. The rate of 4 provisional voting was up in New Jersey.
5 There was also an ad hoc early in-person
6 voting system that resulted from a 7 directive that required the county clerk's 8 offices to remain open everyday between 9 midweek the week before and the election, 10 including all weekend which meant that many 11 people lined up at the county clerk's 12 offices, applied there for mail-in ballots,
13 and cast them all in one fell swoop in sort 14 of makeshift early voting system that 15 relieved some of the pressure on election 16 day itself. Also the director of our 17 division of elections maintained open 18 communication with the advocates who were 19 working to protect the right to vote with 20 all the advocates, meaning that we spoke to 21 him everyday leading up to the election, 22 and countless times on election day itself.
23 Mary Ciccone, who is in the audience, was 24 among us that day.

25 Now I'm just going to talk about

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 some of what did not work that day. What 3 mainly failed was technology. And here is 4 what did not work. Polling place hookups, 5 right? So there were 13,000 calls into 6 election protection on the day before
7 election day, and election day itself. A 8 little more than 13,000 calls fielded from 9 New Jersey residents, which is an 10 extraordinary volume of calls, and many of 11 them, most of them asked the question
12 "where do I vote. My regular voting place, 13 I went there, it is closed. There is no
14 electricity. I don't have a car. Where do I 15 vote?" And the normal way of answering that 16 is you look it up on the states' database.
17 Well, the state's database repeatedly 18 crashed on election day, and when it 19 crashed, everything that was derivative of 20 that database, there was a text system
21 where you can text the word "where" to a 22 certain number in order to find where you 23 polling place was. That depended on the 24 state database. It failed when the state 25 database failed. And Google searches and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 all general search engines also were 3 derivative of the state database, so we had 4 blackout periods throughout the day, but we 5 had people saying where do I vote, and we 6 could not answer the question because they 7 were not in their normal polling places.

8 The second technological step that 9 was really a shocking disaster was that in 10 an effort to ensure that as many people as 11 possible could vote, the secretary of state 12 issued a directive that allowed displaced 13 voters to apply for mail-in ballots, 14 absentee ballots by fax or e-mail to the 15 county clerk's office, and thousands, 16 thousands and thousands of people tried to 17 make that application. And the fax servers
18 and the e-mail servers in all the county
19 clerk's offices went down. And in fact, 20 when we were calling because we got 21 hundreds of calls from people who were 22 waiting for their ballots after having made
23 e-mail or fax request or attempts at e-mail 24 or fax request, so we were constantly in 25 touch with the county clerk's office, and

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 two of them, two of the county clerks burst 3 into tears on the phone that day on 4 election day and said if you sent me every 5 volunteer you have -- we had a hundred 6 volunteers over each day, over the course
7 of each day in different shifts -- if you 8 sent me all your volunteers I still 9 couldn't respond to all of the requests 10 that have come in today. They just could 11 not. They were completely unprepared to 12 manage the volume they received, so that 13 system fail very dramatically.

14 In response to the failure of that 15 system, the secretary of state extended the 16 deadline for voting, and here is a little 17 puzzle because there is a question about 18 whether federal law allows her to extend 19 the deadline for voting, which I'll come 20 back to.

21 But more than that, she extended it
22 three days after the election. People who 23 applied on time were supposed to be able to 24 cast ballots at any time up to November 25 9th, 3 days after election day in 2012. So

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 guess how many people want to vote after 3 the election has been called by the media?
4 Not too many. So that system also really 5 did not work. Then there was the problem of 6 emergency first responders. So on the 7 Monday before the Tuesday election day, we 8 got a call from a guy named Matt who early 9 on Monday morning said "I got 10,000 guys 10 working for me, I'm the dispatcher, and 11 they all have to vote." What he actually 12 said, I took this call, what he actually 13 said was they are union, and they have to 14 vote, and the shop stewards are going to 15 send them back if you don't find me a way 16 to allow them to vote. And they were 17 repairing the roads and putting the 18 electricity back in order. Like they could 19 not go home. My electricity was out, they 20 were not leaving the state of New Jersey, 21 in my opinion.

22 So, there are 2,000 of these 10,000
23 workers were New Jersey residents, and he 24 built time off in the shift for each of 25 them to vote by provisional ballot wherever

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 they were located, and that worked well.

3 There is a problem with provisional 4 voting, which is that you are voting on 5 ballots that aren't your local district
6 ballots. So the down ballot races for local 7 candidates are wrong. You have to know who 8 you are voting for and write it in, or lose 9 your local votes, but at least the top of 10 the races, statewide and federal races are 11 often correct.

12 Anyway, they voted by provisional
13 ballot if they were from New Jersey, but 14 there were 8,000 out-of-state workers who 15 come from all over the country to help put 16 New Jersey back together, and we referred 17 them to the Lawyers' Committee, but really 18 no-go for the vast majority of them. There 19 is simply no way to allow them to vote.

20 All right, so here's some of the 21 recommendations that came out of that 22 experience. First, there should be written 23 emergency plans by all election officials 24 in the country. It was a huge problem to 25 try to put this together in six days.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Second, there should be laws and 3 rules that make it easier to cast ballots
4 in an emergency, including laws and rules 5 that allow provisional balloting in any 6 state polling place by people displaced by 7 emergency, and extended use of absentee 8 ballots, extended hours for voting, and 9 early in-person voting to relieve the 10 pressure of one day voting systems. There 11 should be a plan for educating voters about 12 changes that plan should include both high 13 and low tech systems of communications. Bus 14 signs, physical signs at polling places.
15 Paper posting as well as e-mail, texting,
16 things like that. There has to be a 17 relocation and resupply plan.

18 If the machines fail, what are we 19 going to use instead? How do we get enough 20 paper to all of the districts? In Jersey, 21 incredibly, the paper supply did run out, 22 but it did run out continually that day in 23 New York. What's going to happen if our 24 headquarters is displaced by an emergency?
25 Do we have an alternative place for the

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 command center of our election officials to 3 be, as happened also in New York. There has 4 to be a plan for recruiting and training
5 poll workers on emergency preparedness.

6 There were many hundreds of poll workers
7 who could not get to work on election day.
8 There were gas shortages, and people's car 9 had been destroyed as well. And they had to 10 recruit at the last minute. There needs to 11 be a plan for emergency recruitment for 12 poll workers. They should collect and 13 publish data on what works and doesn't in 14 emergency elections. There has to be 15 legislation to preserve the right to vote
16 for emergency first responders.

17 There are now, by my count, seven or 18 eight states that have passed such laws,
19 but state laws are inherently insufficient 20 because so many workers are from out of 21 state, and no state can allow voter from 22 another state to vote. That doesn't work.
23 So I think that what needs to happen is 24 there needs to be federal legislation
25 possibly based on the Uniform and Overseas

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Citizens Absentee Voting Act, which would 3 allow first responders to vote by the same
4 means that military voters and overseas
5 voters are now committed to vote.

6 And finally there needs to be 7 further study on the problem of what 8 happens if you can't get there. Supposedly 9 Hurricane Sandy had hit the day before the 10 election, I am confident that the election 11 couldn't have then happened at all. What 12 then? Particularly in a presidential 13 election where if the election proceeds in 14 the rest of the country, an entire state 15 can be effectively disenfranchised because 16 the media will call the outcome of that 17 election without the states having cast 18 their votes unless those votes are 19 determined unless the votes from the 20 electoral college are determinative, so 21 there is a problem to work out about how 22 effectively to deal with elections that 23 might need to be postponed.

24 So those are some of the lessons we 25 learned in Hurricane Sandy. And I'm happy

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to take questions. Thank you.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
4 very much. I know there would be some 5 questions from the panel, but I would just 6 like to ask whether your statement is an 7 abbreviated version of a larger statement 8 on the subject, and if so, that would be 9 very valuable to have as part of the record 10 in these proceedings because of the nature 11 what you've addressed.

12 MS. WEISS: Thank you. I submitted
13 written testimony that's a much longer
14 version of what I just said.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

16 MS. WEISS: And it has citations and 17 everything. Footnotes you'll love.

18 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
19 very much. We'll come back with questions.

20 The next is Mary Ciccone. Disability
21 Rights New Jersey.

22 MS. CICCONE: Good afternoon. My 23 name is Mary Ciccone, I'm the managing 24 attorney for disability rights New Jersey 25 and I'm also the project coordinator for

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the protection advocacy for voter acces
3 program in New Jersey. I would like to 4 thank you for the opportunity to speak with 5 you today about voter issues with people
6 with disabilities.

7 Disability Rights New Jersey is a
8 federally funded non-profit organization
9 that has been designated as the protection 10 and advocacy system for people with 11 disabilities in the state of New Jersey.
12 DRNJ provides legal representation
13 advocacy, technical assistance, education 14 and training, and information referral for 15 people with disabilities, their families 16 and professionals who serve them. One of 17 the DRNJ's major priorities is voting, with 18 respect to people with disabilities. It has 19 been well documented that people with 20 disabilities vote at a much lower 21 percentage than people without 22 disabilities. The numbers are, like, only 23 20 percent of people with disabilities will 24 vote. That's about the average.

25 For people with disabilities, there

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 are many barriers. First, one of the most 3 common barriers and one of the most 4 difficult to address is lack of 5 transportation. In New Jersey, New Jersey
6 is lucky to have a very big public 7 transportation system, at least in the 8 northern part of the state, but there are 9 many areas in the state that have a lack of 10 public transportation. Especially in South 11 Jersey, Jersey Shore Communities, and the 12 western part state. There is very little 13 transportation for people, and for people
14 with disabilities it can be very difficult 15 to get to a polling place if they have no
16 transportation to get there.

17 Another barrier is the lack of 18 polling place accessibility. New Jersey has 19 actually made significant strides in having 20 accessible polling places; however, there 21 are, on election day, many times a lot of 22 issues arise because there is not proper 23 signage to the accessible entrance.

24 Accessible doors may be locked so people
25 who use a wheelchair can't get to the door

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to get to the polling place, or the door
3 may not be open, or may be too heavy to 4 open so a person may not get through the 5 door to get to the polling place. Also one 6 of the big barriers with people with 7 disabilities are people who live in 8 institutions. People who reside in 9 institutions.

10 In New Jersey with development
11 centers and psychiatric hospitals, which 12 there are quite of number of state run 13 institutions, although they are competent 14 to vote and would be eligible to vote, they 15 have to rely on staff to either get them on 16 an absentee ballot or to take them to the 17 polling place. So some institutions do not 18 take people to the polling place so they 19 have to make sure they rely solely on the 20 staff to get them an absentee ballot. Help 21 them fill it out and make sure it is sent 22 in. And depending on when they may be 23 admitted, they may not have the opportunity 24 to do that.

25 Another issue is for people with

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 mental illness. Many people with mental 3 illness are in residing transitory
4 situations so they move around a lot. They 5 may be homeless, they may be in a group
6 home or a boarding home and they move
7 around. So they don't really reside in one 8 location long enough to become eligible to
9 vote.

10 Then another issue is on election
11 day, we have issues with respect to the 12 audio accessible machines. All machines in 13 New Jersey are required to have an audio 14 component, so the person with visual 15 impairment can go in and vote on the audio 16 machine, and they can vote independently.
17 Unfortunately because of technology, many 18 poll workers do not understand it, do not 19 know how to operate it, are scared to death 20 that they don't know what they are doing so 21 they don't have a lot of people using them.
22 They just don't know how to do it. So they 23 just sit there and go "I don't know how to 24 do it, it is not working." So people who 25 have visual impairments, they have the

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 right to vote independently, but they wind
3 up having to take someone to the polling 4 place because the machine is not working or 5 the person operating it does doesn't know 6 how it works.

7 New Jersey has taken big steps to 8 reduce these barriers. As I said before, 9 they greatly reduced the number of 10 inaccessible polling places. In the past 11 many number of years ago, the division of 12 elections would regularly grant waivers to 13 county boards of elections to have their 14 polling places in accessible locations.
15 Those would be routinely granted and there 16 was no end date. Now they have a rule that 17 they will only grant waivers in exceptional 18 circumstances, and it is only a one year, 19 one time only exception. So that has 20 significantly reduced the number of 21 inaccessible polling places.

22 When Super Storm Sandy hit, one of 23 the big issues that we raised with the 24 director of divisions of elections was when 25 you move polling places, how are you going

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to address accessibility. Recognizing that 3 many of the polling places could be 4 inaccessible, and they said that no matter
5 what happens, they will make sure that 6 they'll make plans for people -- to make 7 sure that there are in accessible
8 locations. New Jersey also has a vigorous 9 vote by mail system. Which does help people
10 with disabilities. Persons can request a 11 vote by mail ballot, without any reason 12 given. They just request it. So it doesn't 13 necessarily mean they don't have to 14 identify themselves as a person with a 15 disability, they can just request as anyone 16 else can. And for people with disabilities, 17 they don't always want to be identified as 18 having disabilities. They just want to be 19 able to vote like everybody else does. So 20 the idea that there is no reason that you
21 have to give, gives people a lot more 22 confidence in actually requesting a vote by 23 mail ballot.

24 You also can request a vote by mail
25 ballot to be for the general election. You

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 can mark the box of the ballot application
3 and say, I want a general election ballot
4 for every year until I stop saying I want 5 one. That reduces one of the annoyances of 6 having to request a vote by mail-in ballot.
7 Because you have to formally request it
8 every year, but this, for general election,
9 you can request it and it can keep coming
10 in the future.

11 You can also mark on there, if you 12 want, you can mark a box that allows you to 13 request -- they will automatically send you 14 a vote by mail ballot for every election in 15 that particular year. So if you request one 16 for the April school board election or 17 whatever little election you have because 18 New Jersey has lots of them, then they will 19 send you a ballot for every single election 20 that year. So that reduces, once again, the 21 efforts that you have to take to request
22 the vote by mail.

23 So those are some things that have 24 been helpful, but there are still a lot of 25 issues, and barriers still remain. As I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 said many times, even if the polling place
3 is accessible, there is a lot of -- signage
4 is not put up to the accessible entrance.
5 You see this a lot with respect to schools.
6 New Jersey uses schools for elections in 7 many cases. Well, the accessible entrance
8 is usually the main entrance to the school 9 building; however, the polling place may 10 actually be the gym, so at the schools in 11 an effort to try and prevent a lot of 12 people from coming in and out of the school
13 building, they tell you go to the entrance 14 where the gym is, which is fine, but that 15 may be an inaccessible location, so all the 16 signage says go that way, but there is 17 nothing to indicate to a person with a 18 disability that they got to go to the main 19 entrance which is accessible when they go 20 through the school building, and many 21 times, as I say, it becomes very difficult 22 because they say the school does not want 23 people wandering through the hallways. So 24 there really needs to be signage to let 25 people know where they are supposed to go.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 With respect to, although I'm very 3 happy with the vote by mail system, the one 4 problem with vote by mail is that there is 5 a strict requirement that the ballots and 6 envelopes be filled out 100 percent
7 correct. You can't make a mistake on them.
8 This is one of the biggest complaints with 9 respect to vote by mail. For someone with a 10 cognitive impairment that can be very 11 tricky, because you have to sign the 12 outside of the ballot, there is an envelope 13 that you have to sign, that's your 14 signature, and you have the inside ballot
15 which you fill out. There is a lot of steps 16 you have to take for. Most people it is 17 pretty easy, but many times the ballots
18 will be thrown out because you didn't 19 follow the steps 100 percent correctly. And 20 as they said, there is a strict requirement 21 if you didn't follow -- if everything is 22 not perfectly, all your i's are crossed -- 23 all you t's are not crossed, it will be 24 thrown out. And I say for people with 25 cognitive impairments, there is a strong

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 likelihood that they will not follow all
3 the proper -- they will not dot all the i's 4 and cross all the Ts, and their ballots are 5 less likely to be counted.

6 Another thing is identification in 7 New Jersey as done through the signatures.
8 For people with disabilities their 9 signatures tend to change, or they have 10 very poor signatures or some people don't 11 have signatures at all other than maybe x.
12 And some people who have had their arms 13 that they can't write at all, they have 14 actually formally gotten their signature or 15 stamp for purposes of banking, legal 16 documents, everything. They use a stamp.
17 The division of elections will not 18 recognize that stamp signature as their 19 signature, and they will throw out the 20 ballot if they use a stamp signature. And 21 people may not realize that because they 22 use that stamp signature for all their 23 other legal documents, why wouldn't it work
24 for the voting? But they won't.

25 Finally one of the big areas for

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 poll worker training, and this goes back to 3 putting out signage, operating of audio 4 components on machines, things that 5 actually happen on election day, usually 6 when we get calls on election day for 7 problems with respect to voting, it's 8 usually someone didn't do something. They 9 didn't allow someone to take in -- they 10 brought someone to assist them in the 11 polling place and they didn't allow them.
12 They didn't put signage at the proper 13 entrance. They didn't unlock the door. They 14 didn't know how to operate the machines.
15 Those are things that are solely in the 16 realm of poll worker training, and that 17 tends to be a problem.

18 Every election, the biggest issue
19 that we see are actual on election day 20 problems with people with disabilities that 21 tend to result from lack of poll worker 22 training.

23 So, in conclusion, as I've said
24 before, there are many barriers to people 25 with disabilities voting. Some of them are

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 very hard to address. Transportation,
3 that's going to require a lot. Those aren't 4 easily solved. It involves long term for 5 many groups to try and improve 6 transportation so that people have the 7 ability to get to the polls on election
8 day, but something such as poll worker 9 training, that is something that should be 10 addressed. We hear it in all kinds of areas 11 with respect to voting that better poll
12 worker training people will help people 13 vote better and easier if that's 14 implemented.

15 Thank you.

16 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
17 very much. Just a question I would like to 18 ask, you made reference to the percentage
19 of people with disabilities of voters is 20 20 percent, I thought you said; my question is 21 how many of those in the category being 22 disabled registered to vote?

23 MS. CICCONE: Honestly, I'm not 24 really sure. The registration numbers are 25 low and those who actually vote are even

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 lower. So I don't have percentage. I don't 3 know the actually percentage.

4 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Because we 5 are going to have a speaker after you who 6 is going to point out that there is 7 tremendous voting participation for those 8 who register to vote, and that leads me to 9 be curious as to whether there needs to be 10 a greater effort in the country with 11 reference to registration by those who are 12 disabled.

13 MS. CICCONE: I know that the 14 disability community does a lot of effort 15 to registration, and I know our agency was 16 involved, a number of years ago, in making
17 sure that the National Voter Registration
18 Act, the NVRA, was applied in state
19 hospitals, and the state was actually 20 ensuring that when people came into the 21 hospital or development centers, they were 22 registered to vote, gave them an 23 opportunity to register to vote. That was 24 not being done for many years. It's now 25 being done in all state hospitals and the

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 developmental centers. It's also being done
3 in other locations that would deal
4 regularly with people with disabilities.

5 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
6 much.

7 My fellow commissioners will 8 probably have some questions when everybody
9 -- we just have one -- we had a, I was told 10 that the -- it is Anthony Curcio. Our 11 speaker is not who is listed on the 12 program, which is Richard Smith, but 13 Anthony Curcio; is that correct.

14 MR. CURETON: Cureton.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.
16 Thank you for being with us.

17 MR. CURETON: Good Afternoon,
18 everyone.

19 Please bear with me, I'm the pinch
20 hitter. I'm going to do the best I can.
21 This young lady about three to my left, I'm 22 pretty sure she will correct me later on if 23 I do not serve the NAACP well.

24 My name is Anthony Cureton and on 25 behalf of Richard Smith, who is president

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 of the New Jersey State conference, I stand
3 before you to talk about the issues
4 affecting Africa Americans, specifically in 5 the state of New Jersey. In my capacity, I
6 serve as the president of Bergen County
7 NAACP, and I serve as northern Jersey
8 regional rep. The NAACP is dedicated to 9 protecting an expanding the voting rights 10 of all citizens, especially low income and 11 communities of color who are 12 disproportionately impacted by traditional 13 voting hours.

14 Through the efforts of the New 15 Jersey State Conference, our organization 16 will afford to expand opportunities to 17 early in-person voting. We are highly 18 disappointed in Governor Christie for 19 vetoing senate bill S2364 that would have 20 added New Jersey to the other 32 states
21 that have some form of early voting. Senate
22 bill S2364 would have created a two-week 23 window for all voters to cast ballots at 24 designated polling places before the 25 election day.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 In addition, senate bill 2364 will 3 have allowed voting in 3 to 7 locations a 4 few weeks prior to the election. Polling
5 places that would have been open all week, 6 and allow Saturday and Sunday voting. By 7 vetoing senate bill 2364, Governor Christie
8 has joined the ranks of conservative
9 governors who have sought to limit access 10 to the polls and stifle votes. A solution 11 for these communities include ensuring 12 enough time in appropriate locations before 13 election day to cast a ballot.

14 Unfortunately, the New Jersey state
15 legislature did not garner enough support
16 to override Governor Christie's veto.

17 There are many benefits to early 18 voting. For starters, early voting has 19 proven to reduce wait time on election day.
20 In the 2012 election across the country we 21 witnessed waiting time in excess of an 22 hour. By allowing early voting over a
23 longer period of time, we can dramatically
24 reduce early -- the burden of long lines
25 and wait times for election day.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 In 9 states they allow early 3 in-person voting, 30 percent of the 4 electorate use early voting, proving its 5 popularity with voters. Another key benefit 6 of early in-person voting is to the 7 potential to increase turnout and expand 8 the electorate. This is especially true for 9 minority voters.

10 Although having a historical low 11 record of voter turnout in these 12 communities, in recent election we have 13 witnessed African American usage of early 14 in-person voting exceeding that of white
15 voters thanks to programs like the NAACP
16 Souls to the Polls. By vetoing senate bill
17 S2364, Governor Christie made it 18 increasingly difficult for African 19 Americans and other communities to reverse
20 their historical low record turnout to cast
21 a ballot. In vetoing the bill last year,
22 Governor Christie noted a major reason
23 being cost; however, the governor
24 instituted a $26 million special election
25 four weeks prior to the existing statewide

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 election. Those $26 million could have 3 covered the cost of instituting early 4 in-person voting as well as an additional 5 two years of the process.

6 If you are familiar, we had New 7 Jersey State Senator Corey Booker run for 8 senator Laughtenberg's Senatorial spot. And 9 with that, Governor Christy decided to have 10 a special election. I would also like to 11 list that New Jersey is one of the more 12 than dozen states that continue to bar 13 those who are on probation or parole from 14 the ballot box. This is a policy that's 15 hard to justify. The fact that you've 16 committed a crime shouldn't have anything
17 to do with your right to vote. After all, 18 it doesn't alter the other fundamental 19 rights you have as a citizen.

20 We give felons their rights to 21 drive, right to own property, so why not 22 their right to vote. It is one thing to 23 have a stake in society. It is not just in 24 their interest to vote, it is also our 25 interest to fully integrate them back into

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 society. It is reported that in New Jersey
3 alone there are 100,000 African Americans 4 men, who are disenfranchised because they 5 are currently on parole or probation. The 6 problem will only get worse because while 7 African Americans only make up 13.7 percent 8 of the population in our state, African 9 Americans make up 62 percent of those 10 currently incarcerated by the state. This 11 is why we strongly advocate for our 12 government and legislature to consider 13 lifting the voter restrictions for parolees
14 and probationers. It will not only 15 complement, but also strengthen the entire 16 reentry process.

17 The world we live in and the needs
18 of families today are different and more 19 complicated than when the laws currently on 20 the books were written. The lesson learned 21 from the tragedy of Hurricane Sandy gives 22 further credence to the need for early 23 in-person voting opportunities. Today, 24 there are more demands on citizen and we 25 need to ensure all communities have every

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 opportunity to vote, not just on a random
3 Tuesday, but everyday throughout week. The 4 weekends, And yes, even Sunday after church
5 leading up to election day.

6 The right to vote is just that, a 7 right. When we take that right away from 8 the people, we have taken a piece of our 9 democracy and we further restrict the very 10 freedom in which our country was founded.

11 Thank you very much.

12 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
13 very much. So I'll open to commissioners to 14 ask the panelists any questions they have.

15 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Mr. Cureton.

16 MR. CURETON: Yes, sir.

17 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Thank you
18 for your remarks. I'm especially glad that 19 you mentioned the way that felon
20 disenfranchisement works in New Jersey.
21 Because it is worse in New Jersey than it 22 is in New York, because even people on 23 probation aren't allowed to vote during 24 their probationary period. You superimposed 25 that with the fact that apparently New

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Jersey still probably has the highest
3 proportion in prison, in New Jersey prison
4 of persons with nonviolent drug offenses.
5 And then you really are devastating the 6 political power within both black and 7 Latino communities within the state. So I
8 really have one question for you, in two 9 different way, one is New Jersey is also 10 unique in that it is assembly, the state
11 senate gets elected from the very same 12 district. There is only 40 districts in the 13 entire state. Every districts elects 3
14 people. Effectively what we call
15 multimember fix. And therefore the reliance
16 on fair redistricting every ten years in a
17 place like New Jersey, color is everything 18 with respect to multimember districts. In 19 many ways, the slating process from what I 20 understand in New Jersey, the ability of 21 local parties to decide who is going to run 22 for which office, who is going vie for 23 which office, in particular the legislative 24 district because, again, you have one 25 senator, two assemblymen, for a total of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 three, dictates a lot of the politics
3 there, and I'm wondering if you think,
4 generally speaking, that the election of 5 African American candidates to either the 6 state senate or the state assembly is 7 commensurate with the number of voters of 8 African American descent in the state, and 9 can it be part and parcel of the way
10 election systems are structured.

11 MR. CURETON: I do believe, it is 12 primarily a the way the election system is 13 structured. You look at Bergen County, 14 which I speak for specifically, how they 15 redistrict in Bergen county, African 16 Americans have been down to three 17 communities, and those three communities 18 essentially may have allowed for the 19 election of those minorities. Outside of 20 that, there are limits to maybe less than 21 four percent of minority representation in 22 any of the electoral process, not just in 23 Bergen County. And I'm pretty sure that 24 exceeds beyond the state as well. That you 25 very well know.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Thank you.

3 COMMISSIONER CHEN: I'll first ask a
4 general question for the entire panel. I 5 should tell you, at the severance of my 6 commissioners, I've been injecting this is 7 how we do it in New Jersey before you got 8 here, so I should give that time back.

9 I have a general question that I
10 think cuts across all the specific subject 11 matters you talk about, and it picks up on 12 what Dean Feerick was asking about, which 13 is the rate of registration and the way in 14 which New Jersey's voting system either
15 promotes or perhaps inhibits voter 16 participation in the way it administers its 17 voter registration period process.

18 In my experience, when I've done 19 voter protection work on election day, the 20 number one reason why someone is turned 21 away at the polls is they don't appear on 22 the poll books, so if I can ask a general
23 question and maybe each of you can address 24 it from the perspective of the 25 constituencies you came here to speak

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 about, whether you find that the New Jersey
3 system of requiring 21-day advanced 4 registration is creating barriers --
5 unnecessary barriers? Are there solutions?
6 And a loaded question, I suppose, is New 7 Jersey even complying with existing 8 requirements on making voter registration 9 relatively pain free?

10 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Take any one
11 of the questions.

12 MS. CICCONE: The 21 days is 13 actually fairly new. It was 28 days up 14 until 5 years ago, 6 years ago. I'm not 15 exactly sure, but I knew it used to be 28 16 days so they were all "wow, we are only 17 making it 21 days." People with with 18 disabilities, the 21 days can be very 19 problematic because, as they say, many 20 people, especially those with mental health
21 issues, they are transitory. They're moving 22 all over the place. So the idea that they 23 have to be in their place 21 days before 24 the ballot or before the election, register
25 within that time can be very challenging

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 for people with disabilities. I know other
3 states can manage to do same day
4 registration.

5 I don't know why New Jersey can't,
6 other than it is institutional -- I mean, 7 I've talked to many county boards of 8 election people, "oh, we can't do that, How 9 will we know?" Well, other states do same 10 day registration. But it is institutional,
11 and I don't know if there is any lobbying 12 that's been to try to shorten the time or 13 get it to the point where it's only
14 same day registration

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

16 Kim.

17 MS. KEENAN: I did have a question 18 about the use of technology during the 19 campaign because my understanding is that 20 because of Hurricane Sandy, techniques were 21 used that had never been used before, and I 22 was hoping that you can elaborate on that 23 because I am always concerned when people 24 say we don't know where people are and we 25 can't find them and they have to be in this

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 polling place that's right across the 3 street with my social security number. I'm 4 sure the IRS can find me right now with no
5 picture. Right? Pin point me at this very 6 second if they'd like. So I'd you to talk 7 some more about, you know, you talked about 8 the things that worked and the things that 9 didn't work, but certainly with the 10 hindsight of time, what things we might do 11 more of because I understand there were 12 some faxing, I understand there was some -- 13 people could vote at any poll. It just 14 seems to me that we are making this harder 15 than it is, and the wheels have already 16 been made, at least in some other 17 jurisdictions. What expansive
18 recommendations would you make to make it 19 easier, a novel idea, easier for people to 20 vote?

21 MS. WEISS: Yeah. The problem with 22 the technology, honestly I think, is that 23 we are talking about government entities 24 here that don't have the budgets to have 25 the capacity, the electronic capacity, to

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 deal the the thousands of people who would 3 use electronic means to vote if it were 4 permitted. So what Hurricane Sandy 5 demonstrated was that if you -- say the 6 mistake of tens of thousands of displaced
7 voters, I mean tens of thousands, anyone 8 who is displaced can vote by e-mail or fax,
9 but you haven't done anything to upgrade
10 infrastructure to enable people to vote, 11 everything will crash and it will crash at 12 8 in the morning. And that's what happened
13 and they could not get back up and running.
14 They just lacked the literal technological 15 capacity to work a system that they 16 implemented, and when you go to them and 17 they fix that, they say it takes money,
18 there is no money, right? You get into it
19 about that. And I think realistically 20 speaking we have to think about whether we 21 want to invest in voting systems that are 22 21st century voting systems, or whether we 23 are prepared to live with voting systems 24 that are 19th century voting systems, when 25 we have to. That's sort of where the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 technology is.

3 As to making it easier, I agree with 4 all of the proposals. I think if there were 5 early voting, you don't have as many people 6 trying to get through a narrow key hole on 7 election day. You can let them vote on 8 other days. It makes no sense not to have 9 early voting in my view. What you need is 10 to enfranchise people. I think the 11 registration system is also profoundly 12 problematic.

13 Dean Chen knows from the time that 14 we were at the Public advocate together 15 that the level of compliance with existing 16 voter registration requirement that you'd 17 be given an opportunity for voter vehicle.
18 You should be given an opportunity of 19 medicaid offices, that is extremely spotty.
20 And so there are countries in the world 21 that on your eighteenth birthday, they 22 register you. That's all. It's done. You 23 turn eighteen, you're registered. It isn't 24 clear to me why we have built that in the 25 systems that we have. They know who was

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 born here, at least. They know who was 3 naturalized here. This is all information
4 that resides already in some government
5 office. Theoretically, if it were a
6 national will, there would be automatic 7 registration, right? So that's sort of an 8 ongoing conversation, I think, about what 9 we need? What are we doing? What is this 10 system? What's it for?

11 MS. KEENAN: Is it fair to say that 12 in you findings, both pro and con and 13 everything, that voter ID was not a problem 14 of getting people to vote after Hurricane 15 Sandy? In other words, nobody is worried 16 that when people did vote by these ulterior 17 means, that they weren't, in fact, who they 18 say they were.

19 MS. WEISS: There were spotty
20 requests for voter identification, but 21 there is no voter identification law in New 22 Jersey, and so let me repeat that because 23 some poll workers are unaware of it, there 24 is no voter identification law in New 25 Jersey. So what came up as people called in

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 we said they are not allowed to ask you.
3 Because of course, people had walked out of 4 their homes leaving everything behind, they 5 weren't carrying their papers. So that 6 problem was a small problem during that 7 period. Not in an immense way.

8 MS. KEENAN: I just have another
9 question for Mr. Cureton, you talked about 10 how the governor's veto of the bill has 11 really hindered voting. And I was hoping 12 you can just give us a contrast of what it 13 looked like before and what it looks like 14 now.

15 MR. CURETON: Please, don't take 16 this personally, much hasn't changed.

17 MS. KEENAN: Right.

18 MR. CURETON: Again, this is another
19 step by the governor to disenfranchise
20 voters. Vetoing that bill to eliminate all 21 possibilities where there can be an 22 increased number of minority voting. And 23 was it intentional? I would say yes. My 24 philosophy I will speak about is the one 25 thing people don't want to have is what you

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 have to chase after. In this particular 3 case he doesn't want to have early voting 4 because the numbers will, hopefully -- 5 well, it has proven that the numbers have 6 increased, and there was sufficient
7 minority voter turnout. So I guess -- I
8 hope I'm answering your question.

9 MS. KEENAN: Yes.

10 MR. CURETON: We have to go for what 11 people want to happen. And that's something 12 that's been stemming for how many years.
13 You're preaching to the choir right now,
14 and I think the government recognizes that 15 and they approved that with special
16 elections.

17 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Commissioner
18 Cartagena.

19 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Just one
20 more question. Ms. Weiss, how are you?

21 MS. WEISS: Fine, how are you?

22 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Good. I
23 know that the hurricane affected all people
24 in New Jersey equally. But by any chance, 25 did anybody analyze whether or not the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 problems that you just raised in voter
3 administration affect the people based on 4 either race, national origin, or income in 5 the numbers?

6 MS. WEISS: That's a very good
7 question. I have not seen any analysis that 8 broke down -- let me start with this, the 9 New Jerseyians incredibly voted at higher
10 than the national average in the 2012
11 election. So one week after the hurricane, 12 they are still beating the national 13 average. The voting rate in New Jersey
14 dropped slightly prior to elections, but it
15 was still higher than the national average, 16 even though thousands of people were living 17 in shelters and with relatives.

18 I haven't seen any breakdown of the 19 turnout data that compares the race
20 breakdown from 2012 with earlier
21 presidential elections. Someone may have 22 done it. If so, I haven't seen it, but I'm 23 going to guess, because I know what housing 24 data look like. Housing data showed that 25 poor people disproportionately lost their

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 house, right? And that's because there are 3 pockets of the shore in Atlantic City,
4 Seaside Heights, there are various parts of 5 the shore where there are very high density 6 rental properties, and renters were the 7 last people to get help. And so I'm going 8 to guess, because so many were displaced,
9 that it would show more depression of low
10 income voting because of the higher levels
11 of displacement, but haven't seen any yet.

12 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: Thanks.

13 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: I'm going to 14 just -- I think we'll probably, unless the 15 commissioners wants to get a final 16 question, we probably have to go to the 17 next panel, but I want to thank members of 18 this panel very much for your 19 participation, and stay around if time
20 permits for you. Thank you.

21 The fourth panel is going to deal
22 with elections in New York. It is a
23 four-member panel. We'll start with DeNora
24 Getachew. Front and center.

25 MS. GETACHEW: Good Afternoon,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 commissioners and members of the audience.
3 Thank you on behalf of the Brennan Center 4 for the opportunity to present testimony to 5 the commission today.

6 The Brennan Center is a nonpartisan 7 law and policy institute that focuses on 8 issues of democracy and justice. Among 9 other things, we work to ensure fair and 10 accurate voting procedures and systems and 11 that every eligible American can 12 participate in elections. I am DeNora
13 Getachew, campaign manager legislative 14 counsel at the Brennan Center. In that 15 capacity, I lead our legislative and 16 advocacy campaigns in the states. This is 17 actually a new position for us as we work 18 to find ways, nationwide, to modernize our 19 voter registration system and to reduce the 20 influence of money in politics. The Brennan 21 Center works nationally, including here in 22 New York, to advance these rules.

23 As a Fordham law school alumni, I'm 24 incredibly honored to be testifying today
25 about a subject that I love while here at

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Fordham Law School. In my testimony today I
3 will present to the commission certain 4 problems experienced by New York voters and 5 offer commonsense solutions that have been 6 tested for how we can bring New York's 7 voting practices into the 21st century.

8 Specifically, I will address the 9 state's problems with long lines on 10 election day, it is an unreliable and 11 antiquated voter registration system. And 12 it's unnecessarily confusing ballots. The 13 commission's conversation today is 14 especially timely since New Yorkers no
15 longer enjoy any protections under Section 16 5 of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. The 17 overarching problem that New York faces is 18 that we suffer from very low voter turnout.
19 Any discussion of electoral problems must 20 be evaluated in the context of this.

21 In 2010, according to the United 22 States election project at George Mason
23 University, New York was the lowest ranked 24 state with respect to voter turnout in the 25 general election. An embarrassingly low

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 36.3 percent of our voting eligible
3 population showed up to vote. In the 2012
4 general election, an election that we heard
5 had record turnout, New York ranked 46.
6 Looking back over the last decade, New York 7 consistently ranks towards the bottom of 8 the list when it comes to voter turnout.
9 Ranking 41st in 2008 presidential election 10 year, and 45th in 2004, also a presidential 11 election year. The first problem is New 12 Yorkers had to wait too long to cast their 13 ballots. New Yorkers are used to waiting in 14 lines especially during the presidential 15 election years when turnout may be higher.

16 As was noted in the past, other
17 jurisdictions lines were as long as an hour 18 on election day during the presidential 19 election in 2012. This can be attributable 20 to various causes ranging from shortages
21 provoked by a national disaster, to broken 22 down machines, to poorly trained poll
23 workers. There is simply not enough 24 flexibility in New York's voting system to 25 absorb such problems before major delays

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 occur.

3 Early in-person voting relieved some 4 election day pressures. Early in person is 5 a voting solution that others have talked 6 about. It is one that allows for more
7 direct voter engagement, and allows voters 8 to visit an election officials office or in 9 some states satellite voting locations to 10 cast their ballots, without excuse, prior 11 to election day.

12 New York, unfortunately does not 13 allow early in-person voting. Instead, 14 state workers are required to provide an 15 accepted excuse before they can cast a 16 ballot in the absentee ballot, which places 17 another hurdle on busy complex lives that 18 we now face. Early in-person voting is 19 presently available in two-thirds of the 20 state. When it is implemented, it is hugely 21 popular and successful. And as the 22 presidential commission on election
23 administration recently noted, is that 24 reform that states should embrace because 25 no voter should have to wait in line for

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 more than 30 minutes to cast their ballot.

3 The Brennan Center hopes lawmakers will 4 continue to prioritize instituting early 5 in-person voting in the remainder of this 6 legislative session.

7 The second problem I'd like to 8 discuss is that New York's Voter 9 Registration system is unreliable and 10 antiquated. Again, New York rates are a 11 dismal 47th in the nation in regards to 12 voter registration, with less than 13 64 percent of eligible New Yorkers actually 14 registered to vote.

15 Our system urgently needs reform to 16 get away from the paper-based system where 17 election clerks deal with mounds of paper 18 forms, submitted by voter up until the 19 registration deadline while also preparing 20 for election day. These forms often, even 21 when filled out or lost, not timely 22 entered, and are set aside to be dealt with 23 later and ultimately not dealt with.

24 Inaccuracies with voter registration
25 problems are problematic in their own

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 right. What makes the system truly 3 unacceptable is that they contribute to 4 election day problems.

5 Every time a poll worker struggles
6 to look up a voter's record, we lose
7 election day efficiency. There is a
8 commonsense solution, New York needs to 9 modernize its voter registration systems. I 10 would like to highlight two ways that they 11 can do that. First, by implementing 12 electronic voter registration at designated 13 agencies, and second by implementing online 14 registration. Again, reforms of the 15 presidential election commission recently 16 noted as the way that we should going. We 17 should be making our election systems 18 reflect the way that voters interact with 19 the system in their everyday lives.

20 New York deserves partial credit, at 21 least I will give them, for doing some of 22 that. So today, New York first has 23 implemented a partial online system through 24 the state department of motor vehicles 25 website, so if a voter goes on that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 website, and they have a driver's license
3 or permit or state issued ID, they can 4 register to vote online and update there 5 voter registration record.

6 Second, New York again, as I said,
7 presently has some component of electronic 8 registration at DMVs. So that, practically 9 speaking, if I am someone who is 10 interacting a transaction business at the 11 department of motor vehicles, I can update 12 my voter registration record while they are 13 doing so when prompted by the employee. So 14 this is, again, a positive step they have 15 taken to update and modernize our election 16 systems, but they need to go further. In 17 particular, to think about how to allow 18 electronic registration at all public 19 service agencies around the state to 20 technology that is already in place at the 21 DMV, and also to extend online registration
22 with those with other forms of ID besides a 23 state issued ID.

24 Finally, the third problem I want to 25 talk about very briefly is that New York's

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 ballots are confusing and disenfranchise
3 voters. New York, and I feel so negative
4 talking about New York's problems, sorry,
5 New York, has notoriously confusing
6 ballots, which is due in part to the states 7 full face ballot requirement. In order to 8 comply with the statutory requirement,
9 election officials have to substantially 10 minimize the ballots font size to be able 11 to put all the candidates and questions
12 that might be on the ballot on any given 13 year on the same page. This can create 14 major headaches for voters, especially 15 older voters, those within impaired vision, 16 and low income citizens who may have 17 trouble reading small text on the ballot.

18 Another result of an ill constructed
19 ballot is that voters may improperly 20 complete their ballots, including by 21 overvoting. An overvote occurs when a voter 22 selects too many candidates for an office
23 and none of their votes end up counting.
24 Overvotes can happen when ballots are 25 improperly designed, and present the voter

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 with a confusing choice about the 3 permissible number of candidates they 4 should select for a particular office.

5 I would note that when an election
6 is run effectively and efficiently,
7 overvotes should be very close to zero.
8 Just to give you a snapshot of what that 9 means, in 2010 the overvote rate approached 10 .4 percent for the governors race which was 11 about 20,000 votes being lost in that 12 contest alone. That number was closer to 13 50,000 or 60,000 overvotes. Again, that 14 could be attributable to poor ballot
15 design, which again can affect a crucial
16 election. If we look here at the New York
17 City experience, there were over 6500
18 overvotes cast in the 2010 gubernatorial
19 election. Worse in last years general
20 election, here in New York City, there were 21 approximately 7900 overvotes. There is 22 another simple and commonsense solution for 23 this problem. As the presidential 24 commission noted earlier this year in its 25 report, ballots should be well-designed and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 simple to read and understand. The New York
3 State legislature should heed this 4 recommendation and reconcile all of the 5 statutory ballot requirements to make 6 ballots more user friendly, easier to read,
7 and reduce the incidents of overvotes. This 8 would avoid voter confusion on election
9 day, reduce lines at the polls, and ease 10 the burden on poll workers.

11 I would just note there is currently 12 a bill pending in the New York State 13 Assembly, the voter friendly ballot act of 14 2013, which would accomplish this. And so 15 we hope that the state legislature would 16 take steps to implement that bill.

17 In conclusion, New York suffers from 18 abysmally low voter turnout, and this 19 problem exacerbated by -- again with the 20 negative words -- antiquated and confusing
21 voter registration and election systems, 22 which are in desperate need of reform. But 23 there are commonsense and proven ways to 24 bring our states election systems into the 25 digital age, which will also hopefully

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 increase voter turnout and engagement.

3 Implementing early voting in person would 4 help aid in election day congestion at the 5 polls. The state should eliminate its use 6 of paper when registering at the DMVs or 7 other public service agencies, and finally 8 the state must prevent overvotes and other 9 problems with ballot usability. The 10 problems are known, the solutions are 11 within reach. Now we need elected leaders 12 to embrace and prioritize modernization.

13 I thank the commission for the 14 opportunity to testify, and considering our 15 findings and recommendations, I look 16 forward to answering any questions you may 17 have.

18 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 19 much. It's very nice to see a former 20 Fordham student doing such important work.
21 I'll allow the next speaker.

22 Susan, are you ready.

23 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Yes.

24 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Susan Lerner.
25 Common Cause. The most distinguished

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 citizen of this state.

3 MS. LERNER: Thank you, but no. And 4 I apologize for not being sufficiently on 5 top of things to have gotten in my 6 testimony in advance.

7 But really, my testimony is 8 encapsulated with one basic idea and that 9 is that while we are all acutely aware of 10 the very overt voter suppression that we 11 are seeing in so many states around the 12 country, states like North Carolina and 13 Ohio, that are rolling back the kind of 14 reforms that DeNora was just talking about, 15 that we don't have this rollback in New 16 York.

17 I think we are overlooking an 18 important aspect that of election
19 administration that ends up being what I 20 call soft voter suppression, and that is 21 the result of an incompetent or very 22 disorganized election administration,
23 particularly in our large cities. We see 24 this very frequently at polling place in 25 Brooklyn with large minority populations.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 We see this frequently in polling places on 3 Long Island, in Suffolk and in Nassau,
4 where you have a great density of minority
5 voters. And the elections are just run in a 6 very inefficient slipshod fashion. It has a 7 result of creating long lines for 8 presidential elections. It has the result 9 of placing obstacles in the way of voters, 10 non-English language voters, voters who 11 need assistance or just everyday voters on 12 your less congested election cycles, and it 13 ultimately has a chilling a effect on the 14 publics desire to participate as the overt
15 attempts to discourage entire populations
16 from voting. That comes from efforts like 17 rolling back early voting or setting up
18 voter ID, because nothing is more
19 discouraging to a person who is not heavily 20 invested in participating in our system.
21 But for one reason or another, deciding 22 that they are going to take the time to 23 vote in between their two jobs, where they 24 know that they have to pick up their 25 children in half an hour or 45 minutes, and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 they get to the polling place and the line
3 is out the door, or they get to the polling 4 place and nobody seems to be able to find 5 their name, and they get sent to the wrong 6 table, and they get the runaround, and they 7 run out of time. The impression that's 8 creating in the minds of that voter is that 9 it is not worth investing the time in the 10 future, and I believe that this has an 11 suppressing effect in many urban districts
12 just as much as if there were a malfeasant
13 desire to discourage people from voting.

14 So while we focus on the very overt
15 actions, which are designed to discriminate 16 against voters which are designed to 17 discourage voting, I think we also have to 18 commit ourselves to working for a better, 19 more efficient election administration, 20 well-funded and professional, in our 21 cities, where we have large concentrations 22 of minority voters, non-English voters, and 23 just ordinary working people who are 24 discouraged from voting because of a very 25 inefficient, underfunded system, and that's

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 basically the message that I have in my 3 written testimony and the point that I
4 wanted to make today.

5 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: I want to 6 thank you very much and let you know once
7 the panel is finished, the commissioners
8 will have some questions to ask the panel 9 so if can stay around for a while, you'll 10 get some questions.

11 MS. LERNER: Delighted to stay
12 around. Thanks.

13 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

14 Dan Kolb, co-chair to the state the 15 state bar committee to which we made 16 reference and a distinguished member of the 17 Davis Polk law firm and many other titles.

18 MR. KOLB: Obviously, I'm very 19 pleased to be able to appear before the 20 state bar's special committee on voter 21 participation. If I may, Mr. Chairman, can 22 I ask that I have the opportunity to 23 follow-up on another witness, Catherine
24 Weiss, you asked whether there was a more 25 detailed report that was available with

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 respect to disaster relief, and having 3 participated with her in that effort, I 4 would like to hand it up, make it part of 5 the record.

6 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Please.

7 MR. KOLB: Thank you. The state bar
8 special committee on voter participation 9 was formed by a year and a half ago because 10 state board president Seymour James 11 recognized the appalling voter 12 participation rate in New York, which has 13 been the subject of comment several times
14 by witnesses here, it seems like we all 15 have a slightly different perception of how 16 bad that percentage of voter participation 17 is. Our figures were 47th and 48th among 18 the states. It appears that some have us as 19 high as 45. Whichever one of those you use, 20 what's been happening over the last 21 15 years is New York has fallen back 22 consistently as compared to the other 23 states, dropping below the national 24 average.

25 At the same time, it's notable that

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the others state that have been adopting 3 changes in their voting laws, modifications 4 such as early voting, improvements in their 5 registration systems such as using online
6 registration. They've been making changes
7 and New York has not, and to just echo a 8 couple of the previous speakers, you don't 9 necessarily have to go out and do negative 10 things to suppress the vote or reduce the 11 vote. You can also do nothing. And I'm not 12 suggesting there is an overall campaign to 13 do nothing in order to discriminate, but 14 nothing has produced the low voter turnout 15 that was the reason for formation of the 16 committee.

17 Now, very briefly, you've already 18 heard the committee head on it John Dunne,
19 who was one of the national commissioners
20 and who was presiding here. I'm not sure it 21 came through clearly that John Feerick was 22 also on our committee. I would insert it 23 was a great pleasure for me to serve with 24 both of them, and it is important that the 25 committee was a very balanced committee.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 President James set out to select ten
3 republicans, ten democrats, and one
4 independent, John Feerick. Two co-chairs,
5 John Dunne and myself, were from opposite 6 parties, and unlike our Congress, our 7 committee was able cooperate and function
8 and reach conclusions, do it to the extent 9 that all of our recommendations were 10 unanimous, save one, where we had one
11 dissent, and I certainly thought, as we all 12 did, that dissent was very responsible. So 13 our view was that if you are going to 14 increase voter participation, the way to do
15 it was, number one, and most important,
16 increase registration. And as John Feerick 17 mentioned earlier, I'm a the speaker who's 18 come along and talk a little bit about that 19 difference.

20 In New York, the best percentage of 21 total population voting in the last several 22 elections has been about 57 percent. Of the 23 registered voters almost 90 percent, 89
24 point something percent have voted in a 25 number of major elections, and if we follow

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 conventional wisdom, increasing 3 registration will certainly increase voter
4 participation. Those statistics suggest 5 that's the case in New York, and so we put 6 our primary emphasis on increasing
7 registration.

8 The first recommendation for 9 increasing registration was to do what the 10 Brennan Center speaker has just articulated
11 which is to see to it that there is online 12 registration available, and second to 13 permit voters when they interact with any 14 state or federal agency to be able to 15 register electronically. The success at the 16 DMV is already evidence, as you've already 17 heard, that was a major step forward. But a 18 lot of people in New York don't even have a 19 driver's license because they don't go to 20 the DMV, and they don't know about the 21 online registration itself. So we highly 22 recommend again, it was unanimous, that 23 there be registration available online, and 24 any time you interact with an agency to be 25 able to register there electronically.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Experience in other states suggest
3 that will drive up registration
4 immaterially, and by the way, specifically
5 will drive up registration among younger 6 voters, the lowest registration rate is 7 between people between 18 and 24 years old,
8 and obviously younger voters tend to find 9 themselves comfortable with 10 online-anything. And records in other 11 states have suggested that registration in 12 that population would jump very 13 substantially.

14 Two other principle recommendations, 15 register, pre-register, people 16 and 16 17 years old. There is really no objection 17 that I've heard to that, but that is our 18 recommendation. And then we know from the 19 record in other states that it will 20 substantially increase voting participation 21 and registration first, if one is allowed 22 to register either on election day or in 23 same day registration where there is early
24 voting.

25 In New York, our antiquated system

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 requires that there be a constitutional 3 amendment to achieve that, and our 4 committee recommends that although it is a 5 long process, that an effort be made to 6 permit registration both on election day
7 and on early voting days. Now the second 8 emphasis we place with the second major 9 point we focussed on was improving the 10 voting experience for voters. So that has 11 been already mentioned by prior speakers,
12 the voters will feel comfortable coming
13 back. They'll vote. They'll have a good 14 experience. They will come again. They 15 won't suffer through a trial, which 16 unfortunately has been the case.

17 We have recommended early voting.
18 It's the one issue where we had dissent. We 19 have done it recognizing that it is hugely 20 popular in other states, that it is a great 21 convenience for many voters, but we did not 22 recommend that a voting period is long, as 23 is typical in other states, be used. We 24 very specifically recommended that no more 25 than one week should be the period, and we

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 got there in discussion because in our 3 committee, because the people who objected
4 to early voting, stressed cost, stressed
5 the fact that you couldn't mobilize voters
6 as efficiently, and you would lose if you 7 had a very long period, the sense of 8 community spirit that would come normally 9 on election day, it would shorten the 10 period. We made sure we were recommending 11 that there would be at least the 12 opportunity for any voter who was off on 13 any day to be able to vote, and certainly 14 weekend voting, but we stuck to one week, 15 which would limit cost, would probably 16 permit a better selection of polling 17 places, and we have not really heard any 18 reason why that wouldn't be an excellent 19 compromise between those who don't want 20 early voting at all and those who do.

21 As already has been mentioned, the 22 improvement of the professionalism of poll
23 workers would be a huge advance. We've 24 heard now from how many speakers, I think 25 maybe poll workers training and poll worker

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 funding has been mentioned by more speakers
3 than any other points, and there are 4 numerous changes to improving the shifts, 5 improving the education, improving the 6 amount of money they are paid. The 7 selection of state workers, not people who 8 are not state workers. Including more 9 students. Great many things that can be 10 done to professionalize that force and 11 should be done. Ballot design is well on 12 its way, I think, largely thanks to the 13 Brennan center because they have been 14 leading the band on that and done a great 15 job in ballot. Anybody who tried to read
16 the ballot on the last election in New York 17 will know why it is important to have that 18 change.

19 And, finally we recommended a change
20 in the law with respect to deceptive acts
21 in New York. There is a pretty good statute 22 with respect to the deceptive acts in New 23 York. There is one notable problem though:
24 It only applies to primaries. Now nobody 25 has explained to me, I'm sure there was

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 some reason why it wouldn't apply to 3 elections, but we've recommended that that 4 change be made. So now, overall, there is 5 one more point, to change these laws to do 6 things like direct there be changes to the 7 poll worker training and so forth, and not 8 funded is not going work. Unfunded mandates 9 don't work, and so a very strong 10 recommendation of our committee is that the 11 funding be there so that this can be 12 accomplished.

13 And Mr. Chairman, we ask that our 14 report be received as part of the record.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Received. And
16 thank you.

17 MR. KOLB: And for anybody
18 interested in our report, it is on the 19 tables out there. Thank you very much.

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 21 much. And I just would note that you and 22 Senator Dunne at the end of the work, the 23 admiration of the whole committee. There 24 was no dissent. What a great job you both 25 did.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MR. KOLB: Thank you very much.

3 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: A final 4 panelist is Jeff Wice, Jaeckle Center at 5 SUNY Buffalo Law School and Sandler Reiff,
6 Young & Lamb, and after that final 7 panelist, I will go to the commissioners as 8 to whether they have any questions and 9 there will be an opportunity for public 10 testimony if there is anybody who would 11 like offer some public testimony.

12 MR. WICE: Thank you. My name is 13 Jeff Wice and I am a fellow at the SUNY
14 Buffalo Law School, I'll touch on my role
15 there before I close my comments.

16 I've also been a practicing 17 redistricting lawyer for many years, mostly 18 in New York State, and I'll use my 19 remaining time here to talk about the 20 redistricting Section 5 experience in New 21 York State and why the Section 5 Voting 22 Rights Act was a very key tool here in New 23 York.

24 In preparing my comments for today,
25 I took a look back at a 2006 report that

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Juan Cartagena put together on the history
3 of the VRA in New York from the 1960s to 4 2006, when the VRA was last reauthorized.
5 I'm going to try to use my time to pick up
6 on what's happening since then. That I 7 refer you to Juan's report because it is 8 still very relevant today in that 9 redistricting that ended last year relied a 10 lot on the history of the last ten years, 11 which was quite well covered in that 2006
12 report.

13 After the Shelby decisions and the 14 introduction of the Sensenbrenner bill, it 15 is noted that only four states will still 16 be covered under the formula under the 17 methodology in the congressional 18 legislation. And people always wonder,
19 well, why is New York covered. It is not 20 Alabama. It is not Mississippi. The fact is 21 that the Voting Rights Act in Section 5 has 22 been a key tool in New York to protect 23 minority voting rights and that even today 24 in 2014, minority vote dilution is still 25 very relevant throughout New York and most

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 parts of New York City. I know our first 3 panel touched on part of that earlier this 4 afternoon. I'll try to use some data to 5 show you the numbers that were developed
6 last year during the New York City
7 councilmanic redistricting.

8 Before I do that, just a few
9 instances of where Section 5 is important
10 in New York. In 2010, the New York 11 legislature enacted a law that required the 12 reallocation of state prison populations to 13 inmate homes of record prior to 14 incarceration. That essentially
15 reallocated, I think it was about 50,000 16 inmates, mostly in upstate prisons, back to 17 their known identifiable homes of record, 18 and usually in cities in downstate. After 19 that bill was signed by then Governor
20 Paterson, it had to go to the justice
21 department for preclearance, which happened 22 rather quickly. But that when the 23 legislature itself, the Latfor task force 24 that works for the legislature to develop 25 redistricting plans, dragged its feet,

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 especially the part of the state senate, a 3 majority, there was fear that the 4 reallocated prison data wouldn't be used.
5 That the senate would not, in fact, use the 6 reallocated data to draw the 2012
7 redistricting plan. Had it not been for the 8 concern that the justice department would 9 reject the senate lines and the assembly
10 for failure to use the readjusted data, I 11 don't think the law would've been 12 implemented.

13 Section 5 was there in place to 14 ensure that a law that was precleared by 15 the federal government cannot be undone
16 simply because the senate republicans
17 challenged it in court and lost. They 18 thought it was unconstitutional, but they 19 realize the bigger ball game creating the 20 63-member senate plan, that's in place now, 21 would have never have been precleared. So 22 that was a very important reason that 23 Section 5 was needed in New York.

24 Last year, I offered service counsel
25 to the assembly and the senate over four

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 different cycles of redistricting. So I was 3 part of that have process on the inside.

4 Last year, I was counsel to the New York
5 City councilmanic districting process, and 6 I'm going to read to you some of the 7 results that our research demonstrated as 8 we drew the 51 council districts.

9 Essentially, we retained a nationally known 10 expert, Dr. Lisa Handley, to conduct the 11 traditional Thornberg versus Gingles voting
12 anylysis where you look at minority vote
13 dilution, district by district, ED by ED, 14 and found that of the 19 districts in the 15 benchmark, in the 2003 city council plan, 16 that those districts had to be maintained, 17 that there was still significant levels of 18 racially polarized voting throughout New 19 York City, and it required these districts
20 to be redrawn. We found that black voters 21 usually supported the same candidates.

22 Hispanic voters often supported the same
23 candidates. And Asian American Voters often 24 supported the same candidate. But in 25 different ways over different times.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Analyses were done in of the 2008
3 presidential primary when Barack Obama and 4 Hillary Clinton faced off. We looked at the 5 mayoral election in 2005, where an Hispanic
6 candidate ran. In 2009, we had Mayor
7 Bloomberg running again, to see what the 8 voting patterns required, so that the 9 analysis that was run show that you still 10 do have significantly higher levels of 11 polarized voting to require that those 12 districts be maintained in Section 5.

13 In redrawing the plan in Brooklyn, 14 we also found that we can create what we 15 called an opportunity district in South
16 Brooklyn, where a minority candidate wasn't 17 guaranteed of winning but could win. I
18 think I recall a minority candidate
19 actually did win that race, but the numbers
20 show that President Obama did not carry 21 that district in the primary in 2008, so 22 the numbers still count. They are still 23 relevant to show that polarized voting is 24 still alive in New York City and that needs 25 to be faced. Without Section 5, I fear if

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 its left to the politicians alone, most of 3 whom I worked for, we'll find out in 2020,
4 unless we have the kinds of protections
5 that the VRA provided.

6 I was also involved as Fred
7 Brewington and Randy McLaughlin referred to 8 earlier in some suburban lawsuits under 9 Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act. And 10 what do you do in the post-Shelby world? As 11 part of the Favors case, challenging the 12 State Senate which is still before the 13 Eastern District Federal Court, there were 14 two parts, two intervention motions that 15 had been dropped. One in the Bronx for the 16 failure to create an Hispanic district, and 17 one in Nassau County for the Failure to 18 create, the essential corridor, a minority 19 district where the African American and the 20 Hispanic population was divided into five 21 separate districts, but because of the 22 failure to have the kind of sufficient
23 data, especially for the growing Hispanic 24 population in Nassau, those two -- the 25 Senate challenge was withdrawn. The Bronx

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 challenge was withdrawn, and the case that 3 I brought against the Town of Hempstead
4 last year for the failure to create a 5 second minority town council district was 6 withdrawn for failure to have good data.

7 So I'm going close by saying that my 8 role at Buffalo Law School, we are creating 9 what we are calling the New York State
10 Democracy Clearinghouse, which is an effort 11 to gather, catalog, have available for the 12 public by internet-means every 13 redistricting plan, law and tenure voting 14 history for New York's counties, towns and 15 cities, hoping that kind of information, 16 and which the courts look to when you have 17 redistricting and the other kinds of 18 election law challenges will have access 19 to.

20 One of the hardest things to do in a 21 costly federal court challenge is to scurry
22 for the data at the last minute to see do 23 you have a case or not. So this effort is 24 just getting underway. We hope we'll be 25 successful. You are one of the first to

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 hear of it here. With that, I'll close and
3 thank you very much.

4 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
5 very much, and I would just note that that 6 particular effort is worthy of recognition
7 by the bar of the state. It is really 8 terrific.

9 MR. WICE: We are finalizing our 10 plans and moving forward and we'll be in 11 touch.

12 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
13 very much. It is now an opportunity for the 14 commissioners to put questions, if they 15 have, to the distinguished panelist.

16 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Hazel Dukes,
17 just let me express my gratitude being here
18 in New York to all of you. Susan, you 19 weren't here early when many others gave 20 their testimony about the special election.
21 Raised really some opera house from our 22 friends across the river, New Jersey. They 23 had not heard of that, one --

24 COMMISSIONER CHEN: We have other
25 problems.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 COMMISSIONER DUKES: I want to 3 express my gratitude. I was telling my 4 general counsel here the kind of work we've 5 able to do here in New York throughout the 6 state is because of the collaboration and 7 service that you all have given us, and I 8 think it has been expressed to this 9 commission and to you that it is right that 10 all citizens should vote and have that
11 right.

12 We have a lot of work to do here to 13 see that some of these bills are passed in 14 the city and in the state, and I think the 15 commission, when I spoke to Melanie, doing
16 some of this preparation, I said to her 17 that a lot of people think that because we 18 are in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, 19 we don't have problems, I hope today that 20 the recording will show while we don't have 21 what Ohio and the voter suppression, we do 22 have voter suppression here when we got 23 1.8 million people without representation
24 because the governor would not call a 25 special election.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Governor Christy called it because 3 he didn't want African Americans and 4 Latinos to come out during his election, so
5 he was smart enough to do it. There is no
6 reason here. Susan and I stood together on 7 the steps of City Hall. There was no reason 8 for us not to have a special election and 9 those people be disenfranchised. So I think 10 that this hearing, when they go back, the 11 Lawyers' Committee will see that, yes, the 12 Northeast region should still need prodding 13 the will to make voting a right for all its 14 people.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Dean.

16 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Let me thank all
17 the members of this panel, and of course
18 the previous panelist, for their testimony.
19 I found this today to be extremely 20 enlightening. If I can, maybe I can get 21 away with two questions generally that is 22 posed to anyone who would care to answer.
23 The first is we've heard it from a number 24 of you and previous panelists that the 25 problems imposed by antiquated registration

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 systems, and I can, again, lend some 3 credence to that from experience across the 4 Hudson. In 2006, under HAVA, every state
5 was required to create a statewide voter
6 registration system, and I am interpreting 7 your comments, but I do not want to put 8 words in your mouth if you have to 9 follow-up, that this does not solve the 10 problem. I can say in New Jersey that is 11 certainly not the case. In some measure, 12 because there are frankly turf wars between 13 the chief elections official and county 14 clerks and commissioners of election as to 15 who gets to put what into the statewide
16 voter system. That has maybe rendered it 17 not the model of efficiency we were hoping 18 for.

19 The second general question, and I
20 hope this does not seem like a rhetorical 21 one, but which I think has been the 22 undercurrent of much of the discussion
23 here, is in light of the fact that Shelby 24 County has effectively deprived us of the 25 protections of Section 4 and Section 5, all

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 of us are asking what can we still get out
3 of Section 2. Again, not to put words in 4 your mouth, the undercurrent I am hearing 5 is that Section 2, if it is all we got,
6 we'll make the best of it, is insufficient
7 given the burden it places on voting 8 advocates to make the cases as opposed to 9 the Section 5 process which obviously the 10 burden was flipped the other way.

11 So if anyone has any reflections on 12 that very general comment, that would be 13 very grateful.

14 MS. GETACHEW: So speaking to your 15 first question, I think that we all thought 16 that the Help America Vote Act would be the 17 promise, and having the statewide voter 18 registration database would solve some of 19 our problems. But unfortunately, as I'm 20 sure Susan can attest to this, at the time 21 I had been working at the state and 22 local -- good government work -- and New 23 York was drag, kicking its feet in order to 24 comply with the requirements of HAVA, and 25 while we have made progress as it relates

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 to having such a database, to the extent 3 that our voter registrations systems are 4 not modernized and are not consistent with 5 voters being able to access that system, and 6 make sure that information is current and 7 accurate in that system, we still have the 8 same problems we had in the past.

9 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Can I ask a very 10 specific question. In New Jersey today, if 11 a voter wants to see whether he's 12 registered in the SVRS and what the 13 informations is, can the voter do that 14 online?

15 MS. LERNER: Yes, here in New York
16 you can. You can check the registration 17 database through the state board of 18 elections website and for the larger 19 jurisdictions like New York City. You also 20 can access that information online, but the 21 sort of turf war that you were talking 22 about in New Jersey, I'm sorry, we are past
23 masters of that in New York. It got nothing 24 on us. And basically it is a fight between 25 the counties, with New York City always

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 saying that why should we listen to anybody
3 telling us that people moved out of New 4 York City. We should go first. And so the 5 communications back and forth between the 6 counties have not been productive in 7 ensuring that the database is accurate. In 8 major part, I believe, because of the 9 problems with the New York City board of 10 elections.

11 Some of the other counties do a much 12 better job of communicating among 13 themselves, and removing duplicates or 14 people who are deceased. New York City is 15 sui generis, but not in a good way.

16 MR. KOLB: It is the case that the 17 statewide database doesn't solve all the 18 problems, but I think it is important to 19 recognize that it does hold an advantage if 20 we register online, that it would be much 21 easier to then have a voter move, register
22 for the next election. That's something 23 they move between counties or within the 24 state, too far because it doesn't serve it.
25 But with the statewide database, it could

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 be done if we are registered online all
3 over the state.

4 MR. WICE: Two quick comments, one
5 problem in New York, I found working in so 6 many county boards of election here in New 7 York, every county board has one
8 democratic, one republican commissioner 9 outside of New York City where it is 10 larger, but that is designed to fail 11 because unless the democratic and 12 Republican commissioners both agree on the 13 simplest things as to where to put the 14 paper clips, you are not going to see any 15 forward movement. On the post-Shelby 16 decision, what can be done, on my effort to 17 create a clearinghouse is one part of it,
18 but in the Sensenbrenner bill there is a 19 one point mandate, it is a good one, that 20 states what the localities can do. Whenever 21 any change to a voting law is enacted, it
22 has got to be made public so that people 23 know about it. That's a very key point and 24 one of the best things I've seen in the 25 bill that is otherwise not one of my

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 favorite mandates. It is a pretty good one.

3 COMMISSIONER CARTAGENA: I have to 4 apologize to my commissioners, my fellow
5 commissioners here, Dean Feerick, that I
6 will have to leave very soon. I have a 7 commitment across the river. We have been 8 talking about across the river for a while.
9 And unfortunately I won't be able to stay, 10 but let me just add this, this was an 11 excellent panel. Ms. Getachew, your 12 analysis of where we stand vis-à-vis the 13 rest of the states was even eye opening to 14 me. I had no idea that we're nearly last or 15 nearly last on virtually every indicator,
16 and that's a sad state of affairs for New 17 York.

18 Mr. Kolb, the fact that the bar
19 association and the association of lawyers
20 is taking on tradition of the wonderful 21 work that the lawyers will have to play for 22 the respect and protection of civil rights, 23 and human rights and constitutional rights.
24 It is embodied in all of the work that you
25 have done in this particular report and I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 thank you.

3 Susan, your clear enunciation, of 4 the professionalism that's required of the 5 New York City board of elections could not 6 have been stated any clearer. And I thank 7 you for all that work.

8 And Jeff, I really thank you as 9 well, and not because you cited my report 10 from so many years ago, you put on the 11 record something that we hardly ever talk 12 about enough, and that's basically 13 polarized voting. We forget that 14 unfortunate reality of the United States is 15 that individuals often use race as a cue to 16 decide who to vote for, and it is often a 17 feature how structures are to deny and 18 suppress minority voter rights. I'm glad 19 you put that on the record. That is a very 20 important.

21 Thank you Mr. Chair, and I thank all 22 of you.

23 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 24 much. Great to have you serve with all of 25 us.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Any other questions to the panel,
3 Commissioner Margaret?

4 COMMISSIONER FUNG: Yeah, actually,
5 it was mentioned earlier by Catherine
6 Weiss, the notion of automatic 7 registration, is that you turn 18 or 8 perhaps you can preregister at 16 or 17.
9 Why isn't -- would you support automatic 10 registration to avoid many of the problems 11 that otherwise have come up in terms of 12 promoting.

13 MR. KOLB: I'm sorry, I didn't hear
14 the question. I'm sorry.

15 COMMISSIONER FUNG: Whether you 16 would support automatic registration, when 17 someone turned 18, they are registered to
18 vote.

19 MR. KOLB: That would be a natural 20 follow-up to having them register at 16.
21 That would be the idea. They already 22 preregistered and obviously many young 23 people are seeking their driver's license
24 in that period. You register them right
25 there. Then they are registered for good,

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 and frankly that's the place where the 3 greatest fault lies in terms for total
4 registration, and they did the same thing
5 for the online registration, obviously 6 young people -- Arizona there is an 7 astronomical increase once they went online
8 among the younger voters registering.

9 MS. LERNER: I think ultimately 10 universal automatic registration is where 11 we are going to end up. As we transition 12 further and further away from the 13 historical roots of voter registration as 14 such an effective suppression tool. It is 15 not something that we talk about frequently
16 because here in New York, we are so far 17 away from any modernization that it feels 18 like we would be putting the cart before 19 the horse to be arguing for automatic
20 universal registration, but I know that one 21 of the democratic appointees to the state
22 board of elections, Doug Kellner, speaks
23 when he has an opportunity to speak about 24 registrations as the ultimate goal is that 25 we should should just stop with this

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 halfway measures modernizing this or 3 modernizing that and go straight to 4 automatic universal registration. Which I
5 certainly support.

6 MR. KOLB: If I can just add so that 7 the record is clear that it is much less 8 costly to register voters that way and much 9 more accurate. It is just undeniable that 10 those advantages exist.

11 MS. GETACHEW: And that it makes it 12 easier to track voters when they move. The 13 portability component is already built into 14 that. I think part of what we don't 15 remember in a state like New York where the 16 population is so transient, New Yorkers,
17 and especially New York City residents move 18 all the time, and to the extent that they 19 are not interacting with government
20 agencies when they do that, when they move, 21 we often lose those voters and have no
22 records that Susan talks about that are out 23 of date and may reflect either dead voters 24 or voters who are no longer residents of 25 the district, and so having a system that

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 already has in place all the qualified
3 registered voters only simplifies that 4 aspect.

5 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Any other
6 questions?

7 (No response)

8 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: I want to 9 thank the panel very, very much for your 10 participation. We reached the point in the 11 program where if there is anyone here who 12 would like to offer public testimony, you 13 have the opportunity to do so. I have one 14 card, Julissa, please come join us.
15 Gutierrez. If I read the writing correctly.
16 Come on down. I'll give you an opportunity 17 up on the stage. Take your time.

18 In addition to your name, your 19 organization, I want to be sure I have -- I 20 couldn't READ one letter on the card.

21 MS. GUTIERREZ: Good afternoon.
22 Julissa Gutierrez with NALEO Education
23 Fund, and based here in New York City.
24 NALEO Educational Fund is the National 25 Association of Latino Elected and Appointed

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Officials. We are a national nonprofit
3 dedicated to nonpartisan civic engagement
4 from citizenship to public service. And it 5 is a pleasure to be here to be able to 6 speak during this time, and really to 7 address some of the not only 8 recommendations, but resources and 9 highlight them in which we've been able to 10 provide to the community here in New York 11 and the tri-state area, but across the 12 country in which is something that I would 13 recommend that we also highlight the lack 14 of and the need of that.

15 Since 2008, we have invested 16 significant commitment and energy in the 17 NALEO Educational Fund and partners to 18 reach Latino voters and provide them with 19 the information to navigate the voting 20 process at the state, local and national 21 level. We have been, and are once again 22 intimately involved in efforts to 23 reauthorize and strengthen federal civil 24 rights perceptions and elections as well.
25 Our experiences in research findings from

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the field reinforce our concerns about
3 three primary barriers that impede Latino
4 political participation and effective 5 election administration, one of which has 6 already been addressed.

7 One, the lack of effective language
8 assistance at polling places.

9 Two, unnecessary and cumbersome
10 requirements for voter registration and 11 casting ballots that produce administrative 12 complications during elections.

13 And three, which I'll focus on, the 14 lack of basic understanding and 15 informational of the process for Latinos
16 when voting.

17 And to address this challenge, we 18 have a national bilingual hotline that's 19 open year round, and it is operated by the 20 NALEO Educational Fund, and it is also 21 promoted through national media
22 partnership, Univision, Entravision, and 23 Permedia, and also leveraged by nonpartisan 24 nonprofit national partners and local 25 partner. Some of which who have spoken

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 actually earlier today like La Fuente and
3 Hispanic Federation.

4 As the only effort of its kind of 5 serving Latinos, it has become a very 6 trusted and central resource for the 7 community, and, for example, in 2012, on 8 the election year, there were over 21,000 9 calls that were fielded, and through our 10 experiences, the hotline confirmed that the 11 two primary issues for Latino voters was a 12 lack of understanding about the process of 13 voting and lack of provisional ballots.

14 Regionally, in 2013, over 4,000
15 calls were fielded 4,021, and 2013, less
16 than that, 317 calls. Just to give you a 17 background and context of the number of 18 calls that are received, you know, in 19 anticipation of increased call volume on 20 election days, we staffed up and built up 21 remote call centers. We have done so in 22 Pennsylvania, in Connecticut and have 23 worked also with Lawyers' Committee and 24 also wit Davis Polk, particularly last year
25 as well. And more than half of the callers

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 locally are seeking basic information about 3 the voter registration process, including 4 where and how to register, when 5 registration deadlines were, and where the 6 caller is validly registered. They also 7 seek basic information about casting a
8 ballot.

9 You know, a lot of voter education
10 has to happen much more than it already is, 11 inquiring about issues such as location of 12 polling place, procedures for casting
13 absentee ballots. So we encourage the user 14 friendly tools and procedures to inform 15 citizens of their status as voters, and a 16 quarter of calls also come in about, which 17 we label problem calls, about provisional 18 ballots, includes that the ballots were not 19 available, were not offered by the poll
20 workers, or refused voters who requested
21 them. And the other quarter of the problem 22 calls that we get from voters are about the 23 same situation as those who attempted to 24 cast provisional ballots. These callers 25 believe that they had registered, but their

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 names were not found in poll books.

3 The same issues where discovered
4 when we did a poll monitoring effort last 5 year, including in New York. A combination 6 of ultimately what we're seeing is that a 7 combination of education, training and 8 mobilization are required and recommended
9 as key strategies for engaging the Latino 10 community. Both the Spanish speaking and 11 English speaking community. As we are a 12 bicultural community, and that there is 13 also, I would highlight, investments both 14 in-kind and paid media to do this, which we 15 work tirelessly on. And there is focused 16 outreach attention to targeting voters, 17 potential voters, poll monitors, as we have 18 discussed.

19 So thank you so much.

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very 21 much. Let me ask the commissioners if they 22 have any questions they'd like to ask you
23 anyone. Anyone?

24 (No response)

25 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you so

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 much, and just one detail, your statement
3 is perhaps more extensive than the remarks
4 you gave. If I'm correct on that, I hope 5 you will file your statement with the 6 reporter so we have everything that you
7 wanted to say. Thank you.

8 Chris, come on up. Chris Fields who 9 has really been so key to all these,
10 certainly our program today, and I know we 11 are at the point where if there is no one 12 else who wants to offer public testimony, 13 the final step is have reflections from the 14 commissioners who are here, and yourself 15 obviously.

16 MS. FIELDS: So nobody else wants to 17 give public testimony -- oh, we got one 18 more. Come on up.

19 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Feel no
20 pressure. We are ahead of ourselves. Our 21 invoices will show that we were here 'til 22 6:30 at least.

23 Introduce yourself please.

24 MR. SEMMEL: Yes, my name is Russel
25 Semmel and I'm with a group called Voting

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Rights Forward. Good evening, my name is 3 Russel Semmel and I'm an attorney in 4 private practice, residing and registered 5 to vote here in New York County. During the 6 2012 presidential election season I served 7 on a leadership team for a group called 8 Lawyers 44, a New York City based 9 organization of young lawyers responsible 10 for recruiting, training and mobilizing 11 voter protection volunteers in support of 12 President Obama's campaign. Our group saw 13 first hand many of the challenges that 14 voters and election administrators faced;
15 the effort the we and partner organizations 16 had to expend that year to ensure that we 17 had the number of people necessary to 18 monitor the polls equipped with the skills 19 necessary to protect voters rights was 20 staggering. Hundreds of volunteers were 21 deployed, and tens of thousands of dollars
22 of man hours were spent simply to guarantee 23 that everyone could exercised the 24 fundamental right to choose their political 25 leaders.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 In practice, it was clear that 3 without these resources, millions of 4 people, especially within been minority 5 communities and among students and the 6 elderly, would have been effectively denied
7 this most basic opportunity. For instance,
8 in neighboring states to which we provided
9 support, this is Pennsylvania where I spent 10 election day locked in boiler room in 2012.
11 The breadth of misinformation intentionally 12 disseminated regarding everything from the 13 mundane, such as the location of polling 14 sites, to the extraordinary such as the 15 fluid status of the states voter ID laws, 16 was enormous. We had a specific term for 17 this subtle, but no less passive form voter 18 suppression, we called it voter confusion.
19 And that was in the context of the nation
20 protected by the Voting Rights Act before 21 Shelby County v. Holder.

22 During that election cycle, a large 23 number of problematic regions around the 24 United States, including the very county 25 where we now sit, plus the Bronx and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Brooklyn, were legally presumed to be 3 creating obstacles to vote or at the very 4 least be indifferent to difficulties that 5 voters faced. Since June of last year, when 6 the Supreme Court struck down the 7 preclearance provisions, those 8 jurisdictions are free to enact any 9 suppressive measure they can justify as 10 protecting the integrity of the vote, even 11 though the object effect is to undercut the 12 confidence thereof.

13 Now there is much to be said about 14 the many dimensions of the missions charge, 15 which is to survey the current landscape of 16 voting rights and election administration 17 nationwide, but the first step to 18 ameliorate these threats to our basic 19 right, let alone stop the bleeding, is to 20 prevent the progressing to state where even 21 fewer can vote easily, if at all, is to 22 pass the Voting Rights Amendment Act. For 23 this reason alongside fellow veteran voter 24 protection attorneys of the 2012 election,
25 I now serve on the leadership for Voting

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Rights Forward, which is the new,
3 nonpartisan civil rights organization
4 committed to voter protection and 5 expansion, beginning with the passage of 6 the VRA.

7 We encourage this commission and 8 those who listen to throw your entire 9 capital behind this bill, based on your 10 findings, and we will do whatever we must 11 to support you in the effort. Stories I 12 have observed personally ranged from the 13 outrageous to the absurd. First the absurd, 14 I grew up in Palm Beach County Florida, and 15 when I was in high school my aunt, among 16 many of my friends parent unwittingly voted 17 for Pat Buchanan; and then the outrageous,
18 in 2008 I watched unidentified men in suits 19 approached minority voters in line at the 20 poll where I was assigned to monitor in 21 North Philadelphia to persuade them away
22 from the booths. But the lesson from both 23 is the same, that in a political 24 environment where so many feel they can't 25 win on the merits, they are justified to

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 change the rules of the game, and every 3 measure of protection is essential.

4 The amount of resources we had to 5 dedicate to voter protection instead of 6 policy discussion and something
7 substantive, as great as it was, is nothing 8 compared to the cost of a democracy without 9 the VRAs protection in some form. VRA must 10 be restored through the Voting Rights
11 Amendment Act and from then we can continue 12 to protect and expand voting rights 13 nationwide.

14 Thank you.

15 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
16 very much. Are you a member of the New York 17 bar?

18 MR. SEMMEL: Yes.

19 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: I hope you 20 bring in your youth, your enthusiasm, your 21 energy to the election committees of the 22 bar of the state. When I was growing up 23 there weren't many of us, but there is a 24 constant need. Dan Kolb and others are 25 really leading the pack and we can use a

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 lot of younger lawyers.

3 MR. SEMMEL: Our organization is 4 committed to doing whatever we can to help.

5 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you.

6 MR. SEMMEL: Thank you.

7 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Is there
8 anyone else that wanted to offer public
9 testimony?

10 (Ms. Sammy walks to podium).

11 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Yes, please.

12 MS. SAMMY: Good Afternoon, my name
13 is Nicole Sammy. I'm a resident of New York
14 City and registered voter in New York 15 County, I'm also co-chair of the Field and 16 Program Committee for Voting Rights
17 Forward, along with my colleague Russel who 18 just came before me.

19 I'll remind you all that last year
20 the U.S. Supreme Court declared that 21 Section 5 of the voting rights of 1965 to 22 be unconstitutional, and as a result,
23 voters around the country have been left
24 defenseless against racial voting 25 discrimination. In addition, states and

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 districts around the country have been left
3 without guidance and ways to amend voting 4 laws and redraw voting districts. On 5 January 16th, a bipartisan group of 6 congressman introduced the Voting Rights
7 Amendment Act of 2014, the VRAA. If passes
8 it -- the VRAA would update crucial 9 protections against discrimination, 10 previously addressed by the VRA. Most New 11 Yorkers are probably unaware that parts of 12 the city became covered jurisdictions under 13 the VRA in 1971. New York, Bronx, and Kings
14 county became covered after New York State
15 passed English literacy laws in the late
16 1960s. The literacy laws disenfranchised
17 voters with limited English proficiency,
18 particularly voters originally from Puerto 19 Rico. The literacy laws coupled with low 20 voter turnout in these three counties meant 21 the counties would be covered by the VRA.
22 As such, the counties required preclearance
23 by the justice department or district court 24 before they were permitted to change voter
25 laws.

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Since 1971, New York City has 3 precleared with the justice department over 4 2000 changes in voting laws and 5 regulations. These changes have included 6 redistricting efforts, the addition of new 7 languages on the ballot, and changes to 8 polling sites. As recently as last year, 9 the federal government ordered that some 10 jurisdictions in Queens must provide 11 ballots in Bengali that comply with the 12 language assistance requirement of the VRA.
13 For decades, the VRA has informed election 14 legislation in New York City. The VRA has 15 been effective in resolving ambiguity and 16 aligning expectations. City officials have 17 turned to the VRA to prevent voter 18 discrimination. They have also turned to 19 the VRA to positively address the needs of 20 voters by expanding access to the ballot 21 box. Particularly where English is not the 22 dominant language.

23 As we have heard from testimony of 24 others today, racial discrimination and 25 language discrimination and barriers for

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 entry continue to plague voting in the 3 city. So we asked Congress to pass the 4 Voting Rights Act Amendment to restore 5 protections previously provided under the 6 1965 Voting Rights Act. And to restore 7 guidelines that have effectively and 8 encouraged positive election legislation in 9 New York City.

10 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you very
11 much.

12 MS. SAMMY: Thank you.

13 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Are there any 14 questions from the commissioners?

15 (No response)

16 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you. Is 17 there anyone else? Last chance. With us 18 anyway.

19 (No response)

20 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Okay. Thank 21 you very much.

22 Chris, I think you were up as before
23 we had the additional witnesses.

24 MS. FIELDS: I promised my 25 commissioners when we spoke earlier this

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 week that we would end early and I think we 3 are going to end early. So I just want to 4 thank everyone again for coming out today, 5 especially members of the NAACP who have 6 been here all day. Thank you so much for 7 coming out. I think it has been a really 8 great day. A lot of great information. A 9 lot.

10 As I mentioned earlier today in my 11 opening remarks, as I've been going around 12 the country doing these hearings, it has 13 been truly an eye opening experience, and 14 today was yet another eye opening 15 experience.

16 You know, as Dan Kolb mentioned
17 earlier, I think one of the definite 18 takeaways from today is poll worker
19 recruitment and training. I think we heard 20 it almost from every single panelist, that 21 at some point it has, and it is definitely 22 not a just theme here today, but it is 23 something that I heard across the country.
24 It is something that we really need to 25 think and evaluate because often that is

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 the first person so many of our voters
3 encounter when they come to the polls. And 4 if you give them a bad experience from the 5 offset, you know often they won't come back
6 and vote. And we know I have been doing 7 this for almost ten years, and I see as my 8 role in this community, and working as 9 providing a great experience for voters,
10 and if you make that first experience a 11 great experience, you've made a lifetime 12 voter. And it is so incredibly important to 13 ensure that happens.

14 I think especially today and 15 throughout the entire testimony we've heard 16 today, it has absolutely been critical, and 17 what we've heard is that we still need the 18 Voting Rights Act. We have come a long way,
19 but we still have a long way to go, and I 20 know that the members of our commission and 21 certainly a lot of our speakers earlier 22 today, we are committed to making sure that 23 we use whatever tool we have in the tool
24 box to protect the right to vote.

25 There is a large community through

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 the Lawyers' Committee and the election
3 protection program, out there fighting 4 every single day for you, and we will 5 continue to fight for you, no matter what.
6 So no one who has the right to vote is 7 turned away from the ballot box.

8 So with that, thank you again. Thank 9 you Fordham Law School. Thank you the 10 students who have volunteered throughout 11 the day. Thank you our volunteers for the 12 NAACP. Thank you to our court reporter who 13 has been diligently taking notes and will 14 have a good, robust record of what has 15 happened today, and with that I will turn 16 it over the guest commissioner for final 17 comments.

18 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
19 very much. Why don't I kick it off and 20 I'll ask my colleagues just to supplement
21 that with there own comments.

22 First, I want to add my own thanks
23 to my colleagues serving as commissioners, 24 and also to the all the panelists and the 25 people who gave public testimony and all of

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 those who stayed or left a little earlier
3 who were here today. I guess I have just a 4 few, three substantive reflections. First 5 of all, what really brings us here today is 6 the constitution of the United States. It 7 is the constitution that created a civil 8 society. It gave us three branches of 9 government. It acknowledged that we have a 10 federal state system, and it wasn't 11 perfect, it is not perfect, but it has done 12 a pretty good job. It is the longest 13 serving, written constitution in the 14 history of the world, and it had a 15 mechanism for amendments to the 16 constitution. And you can't read the 17 amendments of the constitution, you should 18 know there is 27 of them, without 19 appreciating the importance of the right to 20 vote. It is all over the amendments of the 21 constitution. And I think it is important 22 to take a count that the right to vote in 23 many ways is the anchor. Without the right 24 to vote, how do you anticipate in the 25 governance of our country and the

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 representative right that gets expressed in 3 the legislative branch both federal and 4 state was a very, very important liberty, 5 and it only works if those who are to be 6 governed have an opportunity to express 7 themselves.

8 And I know politics is there, has 9 always been there, but if we want to 10 continue to have a robust democracy, it 11 seems to me all these kinds of issues need 12 to be seriously dealt with by those who 13 serve in the public office, and I've spent 14 50 years working on these kind of issues. I 15 guess it started for me in 1961, '62, and 16 there has been a lot of change, and there 17 has been a lot of progress that I see, but 18 it is something that will never end, and as 19 people like all those here doing the great 20 work that you're doing, it keeps it out
21 there.

22 As Cy Vance used to say to me, Cy 23 Vance Senior, he said "you got to keep 24 putting out there what you think is right, 25 what you think ought to happen, even if

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 there is no chance that anyone is going to 3 take it right now, because when good people
4 keep putting it out there, and it stays out 5 there, in the fullness of time, people will 6 grab hold of different parts of what's 7 right to do." So my reflection is, those 8 who are on all the panels in the leadership 9 roles have done a fabulous job of keeping 10 it out, and you are going to have 11 successes. We saw that. Some younger people 12 here, and they are going keep it going, and 13 when reform happens, as Cy Vance would say 14 to me and others when we worked together, 15 he said "we won't be around, John, but the 16 parents of reform of all those who 17 participated, every step of the way."
18 That's really my reflection.

19 Kim.

20 MS. KEENAN: As the newest
21 commissioner for this commission panel.

22 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: John Dunne
23 said you were going to be terrific.

24 MS. KEENAN: The first thing I want
25 to is thank the commissioners here today. I

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 want to thank the Lawyers' Committee and I
3 want to thank the NAACP who gives me the 4 wonderful opportunity to, as my job, fight 5 for justice. You get up in the morning and 6 that's what you get to do everyday, so I 7 want to thank all of them for that.

8 Second, I want to say, and I was 9 struck by this today, I was very struck by 10 the number of lawyers, and I want to say
11 because we don't say it enough, how proud I 12 am of the profession today. I'm from 13 Buffalo, New York and I know they were 14 working at SUNY Buffalo at some of these 15 changes, and a number of the young lawyers 16 are here and certainly many decades ago in 17 my career, one of the first things I did 18 was election protection, and it is like a 19 window to the world because it's an 20 opportunity to really see what it looks 21 like. Its another thing to learn it in a 22 book. It's another thing to hear it from 23 somebody else, but when you get that call
24 from some real person somewhere in America 25 and they tell you they can't vote, you just

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 start thinking to yourself "where am I? How 3 could this be?" If you keep your nose to 4 that grindstone for a while, you get to see 5 a bigger picture of a disconnect. So I'm 6 really proud of the bar president too, and 7 I'm really proud to see so many lawyers
8 engaged in this work.

9 And so finally I want to say this,
10 every panel has made essentially the same
11 point, we have to do better by this, right?
12 Our constitution demands that we do better
13 than this, and certainly we must do better 14 than this for people who have jobs and 15 focus, and lifestyles that they can't do 16 this without our help, because it is 17 difficult for me to accept on any level 18 that we would live in a country where every 19 time I turn on the TV and I'm looking at 20 something in another country, we are 21 talking about our fabulous right to vote, 22 and how all of you should have this right
23 to vote, and we're televising the elections 24 where the South Africans are standing in 25 miles long lines and we're saying "isn't

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that great, they have democracy," but yet 3 we only have one voting machine or yet we 4 have a line -- or yet, in Florida, if you
5 take a bathroom break you lose your spot
6 line. I mean, when did we become that 7 America.

8 For me, to invalidate the coverage
9 formula in Section 5, and literally put the 10 burden on individual citizens to fix
11 something that is broken when this formula 12 has been the thread that has been holding 13 that process together, says that we need to 14 perk it up and we need to be vigilant and 15 we need to be focused to make sure that we 16 do everything we can to fix this, not just 17 for people of color in communities that are 18 urban and don't have the money for more 19 machines, not just for people who are 20 disabled and have a harder barrier to even 21 get in to the polling place, but we need to 22 fix this for everybody, because this is for 23 us. This is a system that we believe is the 24 greatest system in the world and when we 25 don't make ourselves live up to it, we do

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 ourselves and we do everyone else a
3 disservice.

4 So thank you. I'm proud to be here,
5 and I'm just happy to note that I'm 6 fighting for justice with such great people 7 from all over the country.

8 COMMISSIONER DUKES: I would like 9 to, again, express my gratitude to the 10 National Commission on Voter Rights and the 11 Lawyers' Committee for not bypassing the 12 northeast area. People think that we live, 13 when they fly over, and they are going to 14 land, they think they're going to land into 15 the land of honey and milk until, they get 16 off at JFK or Laguardia. And when you come 17 into Brooklyn, Brooklyn.

18 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Or Newark.

19 COMMISSIONER DUKES: Or Newark. Come
20 into Brooklyn and to the Bronx and to Far 21 Rockaway and to Staten Island, these are 22 people that I have here today who live this 23 at each election. As I said today, for real 24 partners we can collaborate. All of the 25 people who have been coming before us today

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 had some interaction with them because of 3 our branches here in New York State. We go
4 from Buffalo to Eastern Long Island, and so
5 I have interacted with Long Island. I lived 6 on Long Island for 30 years. I know the 7 voter suppression that one party has had 8 there for 50 years. It took 50 years before 9 a democrat could be elected county
10 executive in the county. So I know about 11 voter suppression. When I lived in Nassau 12 county, I really thought I was in 13 Burmingham, Alabama. So you've done a great 14 service today to the northeast area. To my 15 -- we said today why are we here. I think 16 we've been here like 30 years, long time, 17 longer than I have testified to federal, to 18 state, to city.

19 Susan and I were standing on the 20 steps of City Hall where 1.8 million
21 African Americans and Latinos and Asians 22 are denied to have people at a table to 23 talk about their interest for budget, so it 24 is important that we go into this. As 25 General Counsel Keenan said, how are we

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 going to tell the other part of the world
3 how great we are in this country, yet we 4 deny people the fundamental right to vote.
5 Shame on us. And I think that the fight
6 will have to continue. Our voices must be 7 heard.

8 And I want to express my gratitude
9 for the volunteers that came from the NAACP
10 and others because we've been out everyday 11 this week advocating for the rights of 12 people. Yesterday we were with parents and 13 students. Last week we walked in the rain
14 ten miles with workers for minimum wage,
15 raised the wage, all the issues are here 16 and it stems from voter suppression. When 17 people see that people persons are 18 interested in everyday living. They will go 19 to polls, but when they see people just 20 continue to take liberties and rights away 21 from then, it's discouraging for them to 22 get there, and that poll watcher who has 23 been sitting there since 4:00 in the 24 morning, and say you should have a nap or 25 he should have a nap somewhere, between --

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 don't get up at four anyway, they get up at 3 ten. So they've had a full day work from 4 that. We cannot continue to treat those 5 persons like that and we think we are going 6 to have democracy.

7 COMMISSIONER CHEN: Well, this has 8 been an extremely fulfilling afternoon for 9 me, and I want to thank the Lawyers'
10 Committee and the National Commission for 11 giving me the honor for serving as a guest
12 commissioner today. What I heard and what I 13 hope the permanent record will reflect is a 14 very powerful testimony by all of our 15 panelists who gave testimony on some very 16 fundamental issues, and for me, just 17 speaking for myself personally, first, I 18 think I can say personally what I probably 19 did not need much convincing of which this 20 afternoon has reinforced is that the 21 aftermath of Shelby County has been very 22 unfortunate thus far. Advocates for voter 23 enfranchisement are working with one hand
24 tied behind their back.

25 We will, yes, as advocates we will

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 do our best with the tools that remain to 3 us whether it be Section 2 or some other 4 legal provision, but it is absolutely 5 essential that there be some legislative 6 remedy to the disabling effect of that case
7 and the ability to protect voters' rights
8 and particularly we're more sophisticated, 9 more frankly now a bit of bravado in the 10 less sophisticated techniques at voter 11 suppression, which are now possible in 12 light that case.

13 Second, I think we received a lot of 14 powerful, fact-based, empirical testimony 15 that the mechanisms that we used to 16 administer the voting system need to keep 17 up with the times. We've heard a lot of 18 testimony about how the voter registration 19 system needlessly, without purpose, without 20 really any meaningful goal, offsetting
21 goal, are disenfranchising people for no 22 good reason. And I will say this, this is 23 not really a partisan issue, this is a 24 bipartisan problem.

25 My experience, frankly, has been

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 that the politicians or political 3 operatives of any or at least any of the 4 major political parties dislike about 5 voters is the opportunity for voters to 6 surprise them, and therefore the most 7 effective way to prevent that unwelcome
8 surprise is to do things like make it
9 difficult to register to vote so you know
10 now who exactly is voting, so your computer 11 analyst that have this mapped house to 12 house to house can tell you with confidence 13 how a certain redistricting map is going to 14 turn out with modern technology.

15 And third, I guess the third
16 observation I will make with the testimony
17 this afternoon has showing me, Dr. Dukes 18 and I have jokingly gone back and forth on 19 across the river. I can talk back, and New 20 York and New Jersey and the winner of that 21 contest is not exactly covering themselves
22 in glory, but I think there is universal 23 observation you can make. For reasons that 24 I can't figure out, I perhaps was not aware 25 of how the discretion whether or not to

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 call a special election, which for various 3 technical issues is not too much an issue
4 in New Jersey, was such an issue in New 5 York.

6 The governor of New York's decision 7 not to call special election clearly is 8 having a disenfranchising effect,
9 apparently, perhaps a disproportionate 10 effect on communities of color. In New 11 Jersey, the one time we did have a special 12 election, the governor called a special 13 election two and a half weeks before the 14 general election was going to happen
15 anyway. Arguably, I question his motives,
16 but the effect of disenfranchising voters 17 is simply did not have a wherewithal to 18 participate in the process, so frequently 19 and so intensively in such a short period 20 of time.

21 I think what it goes to show is that 22 when a system allows for political 23 discretion, they will find a way for that 24 discretion to be abused in the voting 25 system, and therefore I think it is very

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 important, for whatever mechanisms we 3 develop, as the testimony this afternoon
4 shows, gives us clear rules. Understandable
5 rules. And as open rules as possible as far 6 as who gets to vote, how they vote, and 7 when they vote.

8 COMMISSIONER FUNG: Again, thank you
9 to the Lawyers' Committee and to Barbara 10 Arnwine who is here, for this project, and 11 for the extensive hearings that you all 12 have organized.

13 Of all the people that say we are 14 here in a post-racial society, I think the 15 testimony today, as many other incidents
16 throughout our lives shows, much more work 17 needs to be done. And I think the fact that 18 racial and language minority voters here in 19 New York, New Jersey and Connecticut are 20 still facing the kinds of problem described 21 today. In the case that we do have a lot 22 work ahead and I hope that -- many of our 23 groups have worked together on a number of 24 these kinds of issues.

25 In a strong multiracial coalition of

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 civil rights advocates and election reform
3 advocates and government groups, we really 4 do need to put as much pressure as we can 5 on Congress to fix voting right as well as 6 to make changes in the New York State 7 legislature to make sure some of the 8 problems of discrimination that we continue
9 to see not continue in the future. So 10 thanks very much.

11 MS. FIELDS: And we have a very 12 welcome surprise, my boss, the leader of 13 the Lawyers' Committee For Civil Rights
14 Under Law and advocate where I don't know 15 where she draws her energy from, but if 16 you're falling asleep you are about to get 17 fired up. Ms. Barbara Arnwine, president 18 and executive director of the Lawyers'
19 Committee.

20 MS. ARNWINE: Hi, Good Afternoon.
21 Good evening everyone. Thank you so much 22 for today's hearing. I just can't begin to 23 tell you how much it means to have this 24 tri-state hearing on voting rights. I'm 25 glad I was able to make it. It was

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 debatable because of all of the security.

3 When the secret service lays down the 4 security, well, it is serious and, it 5 wasn't clear we were going to be able to 6 get out in to be here. And I am just 7 delighted to be able to join you.

8 I just want to start off, having 9 served as a chair of one of these hearings
10 and having been a commissioner, I know what 11 it takes to do it, and you are to be 12 commended. I want to commend all of our 13 great commissioners because this is heavy 14 and hard work and thank you for serving and 15 being there.

16 Dr. Hazel Dukes, one of our nation's 17 national treasures, one of the leading 18 advocates for racial justice and social 19 justice in our country, what an honor that 20 you were able to be with us today.

21 To our chairman John Feerick. To Ron 22 Chen, the amazing Kim Keenan, and of course
23 to the incomparable Margaret Fung. Thank 24 you, everyone, for these great, wonderful
25 commissioners.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 I also want to thank all the 3 witnesses because it takes a lot to come 4 out on a workday and to testify and 5 participate in this process. I want to 6 thank our mini partner organizations that 7 joined, and making this possible. I want to 8 thank my board members here in New York
9 City. Before we even got into the building 10 somebody came up to us and said, "we are 11 here because of John Nonna, who is one of 12 our board members. And also sitting on the 13 front row is Dan Kolb who has been co-chair 14 of the Lawyers' Committee, and one of my 15 really esteemed board members, and just a 16 role model in every respect for all of us.
17 So Dan, it is great you are here holding up 18 the board role.

19 I also just wanted to say that there 20 is no way you can underestimate the 21 importance of this record. When we passed
22 the Voting Rights Act in 2006, many people 23 knew that the minute that that act was 24 enacted that there would be a concerted 25 push to have it declared unconstitutional.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 And the reason why the act was not declared 3 unconstitutional was because people saw the 4 great record of voting discrimination that 5 had been compiled before that. These 6 hearings are important because they allow 7 for the public to find out about racial 8 discrimination in voting, the needs for 9 electoral reform. They're important because 10 they allow people to have an opportunity to 11 bring their voices to this movement, to 12 preserve our democracy, and they are 13 important because without them, how would 14 public policymakers, how will legislators, 15 how will anyone have any ability to really 16 know what the facts are throughout the 17 country regarding discrimination in voting.
18 And I know possibly the media might get a 19 hold of it, oh my goodness. So it is my 20 hope that this hearing and the compiled 21 record will be absolutely influential in 22 the days to come.

23 I just left the President's speech
24 at the National Action Network where he 25 spoke passionately, strongly -- in fact, he

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 was just on fire, about voting rights, and 3 it was great to hear him raise his voice in 4 defense of our democracy. It was great to 5 hear him speak so strongly after having 6 been at the LBJ library yesterday, where he 7 spoke on the 50th anniversary of the Civil 8 Rights Act, and he gave a presidential 9 address.

10 Today, he was Mr. On-fire, and he 11 talked about the importance of voting
12 rights. He talked about the voter
13 suppression. He talked about the brokenness
14 of long lines and the horrendous hurdles 15 that Americans have to go through just to 16 cast their most fundamental vote. It was 17 moving, and he spoke about the daily heroes 18 and sheros who make our democracy work. And 19 when he spoke about those people, he didn't 20 call out, you know, big names of every 21 person that people would see in the media.
22 He talked about the average voter and their 23 role in fighting for our democracy by doing 24 that most important thing in the world, and 25 that's by voting despite the obstacles.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 Voting despite the effort to keep you.
3 Voting despite the discouragement. Voting
4 no matter what, and this hearing today
5 gives credence voice and once again affirms 6 that important principle that nothing is 7 more secure or important to a democracy
8 than the right to vote.

9 Thank you so much.

10 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
11 very much. We have one final witness who 12 asked to provide public testimony. We are 13 still within the time period. We would be 14 delighted to receive that testimony.

15 MS. WALKER: Good afternoon
16 everyone. My name is Latrice Walker. I'm an 17 attorney in the office of Congresswoman 18 Yvette Clark, and I got caught up in the 19 Obama traffic shutdown so I apologize for 20 my tardiness. I should've know to take the 21 West Side Highway than the FDR. That being 22 said, I'm sure this is the choir we are 23 preaching to here. There has been extensive 24 testimony about all of the downfalls and 25 atrocities that took place November, in

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 2013 in New York City where I remember when 3 I went to go vote, if the levers weren't 4 really squared off next to the person whose 5 name I wanted to vote for, so I had to 6 figure out and cross my fingers and hope
7 that the lever was connected to the person 8 I indeed wanted to vote for. A number of 9 telephone calls, I see Susan Lerner here, 10 and I was on her phone, Susan I'm getting 11 calls for people who weren't able to vote
12 for the mayor as well as the public
13 advocate.

14 So that being said, I did want to 15 read a letter to you on behalf of the 16 central Brooklyn Black Legislators
17 Coalition, and I can read to you the name 18 of all of the black elected officials from 19 central Brooklyn who signed on to this 20 letter. It is a short letter to Governor 21 Cuomo, and it reads we:

22 "Dear Governor Cuomo, we write to 23 you as the Coalition of Black Brooklyn
24 Legislators, which includes elected
25 officials on the federal, state, and city

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 levels of government, to express our 3 collective concern that the delay in 4 schedule in special elections for several 5 state assembly and state senate seats has 6 effectively disenfranchised approximately 7 1.5 million New Yorkers.

8 The issues represented in this 9 letter affect nine assembly districts and 10 two senate districts across the state of 11 New York. To deny these communities
12 adequate government representation 13 constitutes an unfair administration of 14 justice, a violation of their 15 constitutional rights, and taxation without 16 representation. In Brooklyn, in particular, 17 hundreds of thousands of residents are 18 affected by the vacancies that were created 19 in three assembly districts, and one senate
20 district. In November 2013, New York State
21 assembly member Inez Barron of the 60th
22 district, Raphael Espinal of the 54th
23 district, and Alan Maisel of the 59th
24 district were elected to the New York City
25 council. A member of the state senate, Eric

PROCEEDINGS

1
2 Adams of the 20th senatorial district was 3 elected borough president of Brooklyn. As 4 of January 2014, the respective state
5 governments seats that they previously
6 represented were left vacant. In the case 7 of the assembly seats, their offices have 8 been closed. Under the present political 9 calendar where the general election is not 10 held until November 2014, these vacancies 11 can last for essentially one year through 12 January 2015.

13 These districts are majority 14 minority districts, and as a result are 15 subject to protections of the Voting Rights
16 Act of 1965. Each member of the state
17 assembly represents approximately 128,000
18 people. Each member of the state senate 19 represents approximately 300,000 people. As 20 a result, there are today, in Brooklyn
21 alone, approximately 700,000 New Yorkers
22 that lack representation in either the New 23 York State Assembly or the New York State
24 Senate.

25 The 54th and 60th assembly districts

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 are presently comprised of at least 95
3 percent Black, Latino and Asian voting age
4 population and constituency. The 59th
5 assembly districts presently comprises of a
6 66 present Black, Latino and Asian voting
7 age population constituency. The 20th 8 senatorial district presently comprises of 9 a 55 percent of black, Latino and Asian 10 voting age population constituency. These 11 facts support the contention that the 12 affected districts are predominantly 13 communities of color.

14 Today, the people of Brooklyn pay
15 their taxes, income taxes on their wages,
16 federal taxes on products and services, 17 capital gains taxes, property taxes, and 18 the various fees required to obtain
19 driver's licenses and/or operate a 20 business. Yet, hundreds of thousands of 21 these men and women are not represented in 22 the state legislature and are therefore 23 without a voice in the debates, 24 deliberations, conversations and votes that 25 determine the future of our communities.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 We believe, again, that this is 3 tantamount to taxation without 4 representation. As the New York State
5 legislative calendar typically ends in 6 June, the delay in schedule in special 7 elections until June or September will, in 8 effect, prevent those affected from 9 participating in the form of representative 10 self-government known to us as democracy.

11 Over the course of your tenure as 12 governor, you have prided your 13 administration on securing on-time annual 14 state budgets. We anticipate that this 15 years budget will be completed timely; 16 however, a fundamental difference will be 17 that decisions regarding funding for major 18 social programs, public housing, public
19 education, health initiatives, business 20 incentives, state agencies, programs and 21 budgets and taxes and fees, would be 22 ultimately determined without the interest 23 of these communities being served by their 24 duly elected representatives.

25 Not having representation at this

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 stage renders these communities vulnerable, 3 defenseless, disadvantaged, and ultimately 4 underserved with respect to the state
5 budgetary process.

6 We understand that the decision to 7 call for a special election remains within 8 the discretionary powers of your office;
9 however, this power is not unfettered. We 10 reject the notion that the decision to hold 11 special elections would be unduly
12 burdensome and not cost effective.

13 We believe that the cost of leaving 14 the seats vacant and the offices closed in 15 some of the most vulnerable communities in 16 our state is too high a price to pay and 17 sets bad precedent in the state of your 18 democracy.

19 When state action or inaction
20 contradicts that of federal law, a 21 balancing test should be conducted to 22 determine whether the states interest in 23 saving money substantially outweighs the 24 depravation of representation in the state
25 legislature.

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 We whole heartily support our 3 colleagues, councilwoman Inez Barron, and 4 Senator Kevin Parker in their pleas to you 5 to fill these legislative vacancies in the 6 shortest space of time as reasonably
7 possible as mandated in the New York State
8 court of appeals in the decision of Roher
9 versus Dinkins.

10 We respectfully urge you to promptly
11 schedule special elections for the vacant
12 seats that currently remain in the New York
13 State assembly and the New York State 14 Senate in accordance with the laws of the 15 State of New York and with the voting 16 rights of act of 1965."

17 This letter was signed by none other
18 than Congresswoman Yvette Clark, Congress
19 member Hakeem Jeffries, New York City
20 Public Advocate Letitia James, Senator
21 Velmanette Montgomery, senator John Samson,
22 Assembly Member Nick Perry, Assembly Women
23 Annette M. Robinson, Assemblyman Karim
24 Camara, Assembly Member Walter Mosely,
25 council member Mathieu Eugene, council

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 member Jumaane Williams, Council Member
3 Laurie Cumbo, and Council Member Robert 4 Cornigy.

5 So thank you again for giving me the 6 time to share that. I also have copies of 7 it for your record as well as copies of 8 Senator Parker's letter, and a copy of the 9 resolution that was introduced by 10 Councilwomen Inez Barron.

11 Thank you.

12 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Thank you
13 very much.

14 Are there any questions of the 15 witness?

16 (No response)

17 COMMISSIONER FEERICK: Seeing no
18 hands, I'm going to declare these 19 proceedings adjourned.

20 (Time noted: 6:37 p.m.)
21
22
23
24
25

PROCEEDINGS

C E R T I F I C A T E

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

STATE OF NEW YORK)
) ss.: COUNTY OF NEW YORK)

I, ROBIN NUNEZ, a Notary
Public within and for the State of New York, do hereby certify that the within is a true and accurate transcript, to the best of my abilities, of the proceedings held on, 2014.

That I am not related to any of the parties to this action by blood or marriage; and that I am in no way interested in the outcome of this matter.

I have hereunto set my hand this 23rd day of April, 2014.

ROBIN NUNEZ

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24

NATIONAL COMMISSION OF VOTING RIGHTS
PENNSYLVANIA STATE HEARING
February 6, 2014
National Constitution Center
525 Arch Street
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19106
4:01 p.m.

COMMISSIONERS:

- Honorable Pedro A. Cortes
- Honorable Nelson A. Diaz
- J. "Jerry" Whyatt Mondesire
- Regine Metellus

Hearing transcribed by: Susan Endt

Love Court Reporting, Inc.
1500 Market Street
East Tower, 12th Floor
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102
(215) 568-5599

Page 2 INDEX <table border="0" style="width: 100%;"> <tr> <td style="width: 5%; text-align: right;">1</td> <td style="width: 85%;"></td> <td style="width: 10%; text-align: right;">PAGE</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">2</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">3</td> <td>SECTION</td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">4</td> <td>Welcome</td> <td style="text-align: right;">3</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">5</td> <td>Panel I</td> <td style="text-align: right;">30</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">6</td> <td>Panel II</td> <td style="text-align: right;">72</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">7</td> <td>Public Testimony</td> <td style="text-align: right;">123</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">8</td> <td>Panel III</td> <td style="text-align: right;">193</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">9</td> <td>Closing Remarks</td> <td style="text-align: right;">223</td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">10</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">11</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">12</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">13</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">14</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">15</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">16</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">17</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">18</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">19</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">20</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">21</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">22</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">23</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> <tr> <td style="text-align: right;">24</td> <td></td> <td></td> </tr> </table>	1		PAGE	2			3	SECTION		4	Welcome	3	5	Panel I	30	6	Panel II	72	7	Public Testimony	123	8	Panel III	193	9	Closing Remarks	223	10			11			12			13			14			15			16			17			18			19			20			21			22			23			24			Page 4 1 So on behalf of the Lawyers' 2 Committee, I want to thank you guys 3 for coming out today and supporting 4 the afternoon despite the power 5 outages. I hope folks have been able 6 to shovel themselves out of the snow. 7 You know, in D.C., if we see a 8 raindrop, the entire city shuts down. 9 So the fact that you guys actually 10 came out, is a million steps ahead of 11 anybody in D.C. 12 I also want to thank the 13 National Constitution Center. Thank 14 you so much for this beautiful 15 facility and I think it's a really 16 fitting place to have this discussion 17 about the right to vote. 18 For those of you that don't 19 know about the Lawyers' Committee, we 20 are a nonprofit, nonpartisan civil 21 rights organization, founded at the 22 request of President John F. Kennedy 23 and Attorney General Robert F. 24 Kennedy, fifty years ago to engage the
1		PAGE
2
3	SECTION
4	Welcome	3
5	Panel I	30
6	Panel II	72
7	Public Testimony	123
8	Panel III	193
9	Closing Remarks	223
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
Page 3 1 MS. FIGUEREDO: Good 2 afternoon, everyone. How are you 3 doing today? So we are going to go 4 ahead and get started. We have really 5 bad traffic outside. A lot of people 6 are still without power. So we are 7 going to go ahead and have a great 8 event. 9 I just want to thank you 10 guys so much for coming out today. 11 Welcome to the Pennsylvania hearing 12 for the National Commission on Voting 13 Rights. 14 My name is Chris Melody 15 Fields Figueredo. I'm the manager of 16 legal mobilization and strategic 17 campaigns at the Lawyers' Committee 18 for Civil Rights Under Law, based in 19 Washington, D.C. And what that means 20 is, besides having an incredibly long 21 title, I'm an organizer that tries to 22 get lawyers to think outside of the 23 box every day, which is not an easy 24 thing to do.	Page 5 1 private bar in the civil rights 2 struggle. 3 Today, we continue our work 4 on a range of issues from fair 5 housing, employment discrimination, 6 education opportunity, community 7 development and, of course, voting 8 rights, the reason why we are all here 9 today. 10 Today's hearing is the 11 fifth -- actually, the sixth of 12 hearings that we are having across the 13 country, convened by the National 14 Commission on Voting Rights. 15 This past summer, as many of 16 you may know, the Supreme Court handed 17 us a wonderful present with their 18 decision on a key provision on the 19 Voting Rights Act. One -- one -- 20 fundamental civil rights on pieces of 21 legislation that has protected many 22 voters from voting discrimination in 23 certain jurisdictions. 24 The Court's belief upon

Page 6 1 certain states with a troubling 2 history of race discrimination in 3 voting from critical responsibility to 4 show up front the voting changes would 5 not disadvantage minority voters. The 6 Court found that this requirement was 7 outdated and no longer related to the 8 current needs. Well, I think they got 9 that wrong. 10 While Pennsylvania did not 11 fall under the coverage formula, we 12 wanted to include voices from all 13 around the country to reflect the 14 current record of voting 15 discrimination. 16 In addition, today, the 17 testimony that's going to be formally 18 presented, any of those that are going 19 to do public testimony will be 20 collected and will range from a lot of 21 topics. We are also including 22 election administration and reform. 23 We also want to look forward to the 24 future.	Page 8 1 today, after the hearing, the National 2 Commission will be issuing two reports 3 later -- later, this spring and, 4 another one, later this fall. One 5 will focus on voting discrimination 6 and the second will focus on election 7 administration and electoral reform. 8 The reports and the records from 9 today's hearing will be available 10 later this year for anyone who wants 11 to be a part of that change and the 12 work that we want to do and here, in 13 Pennsylvania, to push policymakers, 14 advocates and anyone else that wants 15 to be informed. 16 We hope that the records -- 17 the reports will inform Congress and 18 educate the public regarding the 19 recent voting record discrimination 20 and what to look out for when they are 21 considering things in Congress. 22 Now, I would love to 23 introduce -- and I see that Judge Diaz 24 has joined us.
Page 7 1 Across the country, over the 2 past several years -- and Pennsylvania 3 knows this very well -- we have seen a 4 range of restrictive voting laws 5 passed, making it harder for eligible 6 voters to cast a ballot. They come 7 from strict forms of photo 8 identification laws to proof of 9 citizenship, registration laws and 10 much, much more. 11 Further, we've also 12 continued to see election 13 administration issues that continue to 14 plague the way elections are run in 15 every locality across the country. 16 Your input today is going to 17 be really helpful to help inform what 18 we need to do to fix voting across the 19 country, what are the new things that 20 are happening out there, so we can 21 make sure that no person who's 22 eligible and wants to cast a ballot is 23 prevented from that opportunity. 24 With the testimony given	Page 9 1 You just slipped in there, 2 didn't you? 3 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Oh, I 4 was here before you got here. They 5 put me in the (inaudible). 6 MS. FIGUEREDO: Did you get 7 a cookie or something beforehand? 8 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Did I 9 get what? 10 MS. FIGUEREDO: Did you get 11 a cookie or something beforehand? 12 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: No, 13 nothing. Nothing but your speech. 14 MS. FIGUEREDO: And I want 15 to now introduce our very illustrious, 16 fantastic panel of commissioners that 17 will be presiding over the hearing 18 today. 19 First, the Honorable Cortes, 20 former Pennsylvania secretary of 21 state. Next, we have Regine -- 22 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: 23 Metellus. 24 MS. FIGUEREDO: -- Metellus,

Page 10 1 who is the senior vice president chief 2 operations officer at The Urban League 3 of Philadelphia. 4 Next, we have the Honorable 5 Nelson Diaz. He's a former judge of 6 the Philadelphia Court of Common 7 Pleas, a former Philadelphia City 8 Solicitor, a former general counselor 9 to the Department of Housing and Urban 10 Development. So he's done a couple 11 things. And, finally, we also have J. 12 or Jerry Whyatt Mondesire, who is the 13 president of the NAACP state 14 conference. 15 So the commissioners, as I 16 said, will preside over the hearing. 17 They will take the information that's 18 given to us by our formal witnesses 19 and ask any follow-up questions so we 20 have as robust of a record as possible 21 about the state of voting in 22 Pennsylvania today. 23 So a couple of housekeeping 24 items before we get started. For	Page 12 1 name down and make sure we get it 2 correctly. Also, like I said before, 3 be mindful of the timekeeper and their 4 signs. 5 We also have sign language 6 interpreters for any of those that -- 7 we wanted to make sure that the 8 disability rights of the community was 9 represented as well. 10 Now, for those of you that 11 are social media savvy, as you can see 12 back here, we are using social media 13 to keep this conversation going. So 14 if you do use social media, we are 15 using the hashtag NCVR and, also, the 16 hashtag voting rights to keep going 17 this conversation going. We want to 18 make sure that folks all across the 19 country are keeping abreast what is 20 going on. 21 And then, finally, I have 22 some people to thank. I certainly did 23 not put this together myself. Again, 24 thank you, again, to the National
Page 11 1 those that do want to give public 2 testimony, a volunteer up front should 3 have told you to fill out an index 4 card with the topic that you will be 5 speaking about. When we call the 6 public testimony, you'll have the 7 opportunity to speak into one of the 8 microphones. You know, just -- you 9 have three minutes to speak. 10 There will be a timekeeper 11 that will count you down and, you 12 know, we want to make sure we hear 13 from the public. We have formal 14 witnesses and experts that really know 15 what is going on in voting today in 16 Pennsylvania, but you guys are the 17 people that are going to the polls and 18 carrying a lot of issues and we want 19 to hear from you as well. 20 A few other items, the 21 hearing is being transcribed so we 22 will have a physical record. If you 23 are giving public testimony, please 24 speak clearly so Susan can write your	Page 13 1 Constitution Center, our host. I also 2 want to thank our law firm sponsors 3 who provided financial support to make 4 sure that we could have this hearing, 5 Ballard Spahr, Fox Rothschild, 6 McKeever & Mitchell, Schnader, 7 Harrison & Segal. 8 They secured this space, got 9 us the interpreters and provided the 10 transcription as well and, of course, 11 I want to thank our commissioners and 12 witnesses and, of course, I want to 13 personally and publicly thank our 14 fantastic Pennsylvania-based partners 15 that have helped through the process 16 in promoting this event. I could read 17 all your names and I won't go through 18 every organization, but they are on 19 the posters outside and also inside 20 your program. I certainly want to 21 thank them. In the last couple days, 22 I've sent a couple of frantic emails 23 and phone calls and we have had the 24 change to program a couple of times.

Page 14

1 So thank you guys so much
2 for your support and I look forward to 3 continue to work with you. So on that 4 note, I will turn it over to the
5 commissioners.
6 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
7 you, Chris. And my thanks, as well,
8 to the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 9 Rights Under Law for convening this 10 Pennsylvania statewide hearing on 11 voting rights for The National 12 Commission of Voting Rights and thank 13 you, Chris, as well for organizing the 14 hearing and for bringing us together.
15 I want to thank also my 16 fellow commissioners, the witnesses 17 and everyone that's here and even 18 those that are not in attendance but 19 care about voting rights, for helping 20 us out.
21 We are going to be talking 22 today about voting rights, as well as 23 election administration and access to 24 the ballot and for those who care

Page 15

1 about those issues, I thank you
2 deeply.
3 I had the privilege of 4 serving as Pennsylvania Secretary of 5 State -- or Secretary of the 6 Commonwealth from 2003 until 2010. In 7 that capacity, I also served as the 8 State's Chief Election Official.
9 In the seven-and-a-half
10 years I was in office, the Department
11 of State administered 15 -- 1-5 -- 15 12 primary and general elections in which 13 we were charged with implementing the 14 Help America Vote Act of 2002, where 15 we were required to work with the 16 counties to replace punch cards and 17 letter machines with modern voting
18 technology. We were also responsible 19 for improving the physical and 20 language accessibility of our citizens 21 through the Help America Vote Act or 22 HAVA.
23 We were charged with 24 developing and implementing a new

Page 16

1 statewide voter registration and 2 management registration database,
3 known in Pennsylvania as the Statewide
4 Uniform Registry of Electors or SURE.
5 During my tenure, as well, I
6 was able to and had the privilege of 7 chairing, in 2005, the Pennsylvania
8 Election Reform Task Force that was 9 convened by, then-Governor Ed Rendell.
10 This was a thirteen-member task force
11 that included Barry Kauffman from 12 Common Cause, Dr. Laura Lavin (ph)
13 from The League of Women Voters, Doug 14 Hill from the County Commissioners 15 Association of Pennsylvania, local 16 election administrators, state and 17 county-elected officials, former 18 judges and other individuals with 19 profound experience in elections.
20 We heard testimony from many 21 groups and individuals saying we have 22 dozens of -- we had dozens of sessions 23 to gather our -- the -- the areas that 24 we were looking into for potential

Page 17

1 reform in Pennsylvania. I was -- we 2 issued a final report in 2005. We 3 issued a dozen of recommendations,
4 most of which were adopted
5 unanimously. Unfortunately, most of 6 those recommendations have not been 7 implemented, which brings me to the 8 point that most of the state and local 9 administrators and officials that I 10 know care deeply about elections and 11 they are decent people and work hard 12 for the voters and their constituents, 13 but there is still much more work that 14 needs to be done.
15 There is need for 16 legislative changes, including 17 constitutional amendments, as well as 18 changing the practices and procedures 19 to ensure that our voters have the 20 ample right to vote that they so 21 deserve.
22 Pennsylvania, in my opinion,
23 is not keeping up with fellow states
24 when it comes to potential election

Page 18

1 and administration improvements and 2 when I was secretary of state, I was 3 actively involved in the Association
4 of Secretaries of State and was -- we 5 met many times when I sat through the 6 discussions on voting issues, I was 7 amazed at what other states were 8 doing, but embarrassed as to what we 9 were not doing here in Pennsylvania.
10 So this hearing is much
11 needed and I'm glad to be a part of 12 it. Again, I thank you for being here 13 and for the opportunity to listen from 14 your experience and your ideas.
15 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: Good 16 afternoon. I, too, would also like to 17 add my notes to my fellow
18 commissioners, to Chris Fields, to all
19 of you participating this evening. I
20 am very much interested and very much 21 eager to participate and I'm looking 22 forward to some great dialogue.
23 Again, my name is Regine Metellus. I
24 am a senior vice president and chief

Page 19

1 operating officer for The Urban League
2 of Philadelphia.
3 Again, it is a pleasure for 4 me to be here this evening or this 5 afternoon and I say that both from a 6 professional perspective, as well as 7 from a personal perspective. When I
8 say professional, meaning The Urban 9 League of Philadelphia because from 10 The Urban League of Philadelphia's 11 perspective, this topic goes to the 12 core of what we do to empower 13 communities.
14 As one of the oldest civil 15 rights organizations in Philadelphia,
16 serving the African-American community 17 in Philadelphia since 1973, we are 18 engaged in encouraging the community
19 to get engaged in the voting process.
20 During the last presidential election
21 cycle, we, along with other affiliates 22 across the country, participated in 23 The National Urban League initiative 24 called Occupy the Vote and as part of

Page 20

1 that initiative, we were really tasked
2 with getting them informed about 3 registration, as well as getting them
4 informed and educated on the process.
5 Since then, we continue to work on 6 voting education primarily on two 7 fronts. First, by promoting the 8 message that every election is 9 important. There is an election every 10 year, twice a year. Not just the 11 election that happens every four years
12 on the presidential level. Secondly,
13 by supporting legislation and policies 14 that protect the right to vote for our 15 underserved and underrepresented
16 communities.
17 In the past few years, the 18 voting climate has changed, not just 19 in Pennsylvania, but really across the 20 land, across the country. Our work in 21 protecting the vote -- right to vote
22 and educating those on the importance
23 of voting has never been more 24 imperative and necessary. So

Page 21

1 today's -- today's discussion is 2 critically important and necessary.
3 On a personal note, I'm also 4 the daughter of two immigrant parents
5 who came to this country over fifty 6 years ago and I remember, very much -- 7 when I was little, I remember my 8 parents being active and very much 9 engaged in political conversations and 10 discussions. And for my father, 11 his -- for him to vote was very 12 important. He made sure every single 13 election, primary and general and he 14 went out to vote and so I sort of grew 15 up with that -- grew up with that.
16 It's really -- a lot of immigrants
17 come here for that. For many reasons, 18 but for that reason as well, which is 19 the freedom of expression we enjoy in 20 that country. It's not something that 21 happens every place.
22 So, again, it's something
23 that was very important.
24 Unfortunately, my father actually --

Page 22

1 twenty-three years ago, he actually
 2 passed away very suddenly of a heart
 3 attack and, for me, it's sort of the 4 strange coincidence of that day was 5 that, on the morning that he passed 6 away was the same morning that my 7 mother had her appointment to become a 8 U.S. citizen because she wanted to 9 also have the right to vote. So in my 10 mind, it was this very sad day, but I
 11 think, looking back -- years later, 12 looking back on that event, and the 13 way -- sort of the timing of how that 14 worked out sort of, to me, felt like 15 my father passing the baton to my 16 mother.
 17 So for those reasons, from a 18 personal standpoint, today's 19 conversation is very important and I
 20 feel a very personal connection to it.
 21 So all that said, I'm 22 extremely excited to be a part of this 23 hearing and, in listening to the 24 testimony that you will offer to us.

Page 23

1 I, as well as The Urban League,
 2 strongly believe that our vote is our 3 voice and that this hearing offers the 4 opportunity or all people to not only 5 be heard, but for them to be inspired 6 to action. In the work that we do
 7 every day, there is nothing more
 8 important.
 9 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: All the 10 remarks, I guess, are for the record.
 11 I was the person in 1973 who filed the 12 lawsuit that made bilingual education
 13 possible in Pennsylvania. I held 14 hearings throughout the country, both 15 for the D.M.C. and for the A.V.A.
 16 This was related to voting and voting
 17 rights.
 18 In 1975, I was the head
 19 legal counsel for the Philadelphia
 20 Party, which ran Charles Bowser for 21 mayor and I handled all legal issues
 22 including lawsuits that were filed
 23 across the state. For twenty-five 24 years, I was on the Board of the

Page 24

1 United States Hispanic Leadership
 2 Institute that registered over one
 3 million Latino voters throughout this 4 country, throughout the Midwest. I
 5 was the chairman of the Election
 6 Commission of Philadelphia in 2008.
 7 I'm a committeeman of the 9th ward
 8 and, in 1997, I was the attorney that 9 forced Pedro Cortes to make sure that 10 all the registrations were filed 11 correctly. Ed Rendell was the 12 then-governor and I represented the 13 Puerto Rico Federal Affairs Office, 14 not only here in Pennsylvania, but in 15 Illinois in relation to a fraud
 16 issues. So I've been involved in the 17 elections a little bit.
 18 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
 19 Good afternoon. Let me also salute my 20 fellow commissioners and to the
 21 National Commission of Voting Rights.
 22 I'm Jerry Mondesire. I run
 23 the NAACP here in the state of 24 Pennsylvania and, for the last sixteen

Page 25

1 years, I've also been the president of 2 the NAACP in Philadelphia. The 3 Right to vote for all
 4 Americans has never been under such 5 assault since the end of 6 reconstruction almost 150 years ago.
 7 In the Northeast, the Midwest, of 8 course, in the states of the old 9 confederacy, attempts to limit and/or 10 tightly dimension the number of 11 citizens who are allowed to use the 12 franchise have been running amok for 13 the past half-dozen years. Attempts
 14 to pose restrictive so called voter ID
 15 laws have been seen in nearly two 16 dozen states.
 17 In other places, politicians
 18 have curtailed early voting, stopped
 19 same-day registration, imposed 20 penalties and/or fines against 21 volunteer organizations who conduct 22 registration drives and voter outreach
 23 programs. The overall impact of these 24 efforts would be against the backdrop

Page 26 1 of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision 2 last year to emasculate the Voters' 3 Rights Act of 1965. It's to ensure 4 the poor and eligible voters, 5 especially in states that have 6 progressive voting histories, while 7 also discourage voting among people of 8 color, the young, the elderly and new 9 immigrants. That's why these series 10 of hearings by the National Commission 11 of Voting Rights are so important and 12 I thank you everyone in the audience 13 for taking your time out of your busy 14 schedules to be here today. 15 Today's mainstream news 16 media no longer devotes much space or 17 time to the great social and 18 philosophical issues of the day. So 19 it is only in public discussions like 20 the one being held here today, that we 21 can fully examine the strengths and 22 the weaknesses of the American 23 democracy, which after all is what we 24 have come to rely on to protect our	Page 28 1 information that you give us, 2 especially those of us who actively, 3 like the NAACP, protect the right to 4 vote for every citizen in 5 Pennsylvania. Thank you. 6 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 7 you, Jerry, and thank you, Nelson, and 8 Regine. 9 The format of our hearing 10 today is going to be such in that we 11 are going to call one -- we are going 12 to have four panels vary in time 13 between half-an-hour to forty minutes 14 and I will call the panel and 15 introduce, by name, and titles and 16 witnesses, participants of the various 17 panels. We are -- we have asked the 18 panels, our witnesses, to speak for 19 five minutes. We are going to have 20 someone keeping time that will be on 21 this side. 22 So I ask, at least, the 23 panelists, in order to keep the 24 hearing going as planned, please keep
Page 27 1 collective freedom. 2 The conversation we are 3 holding here today is part of that 4 discussion. It will be part of the 5 record that all of us will take from 6 this room when we leave it and prepare 7 for the next election. As my fellow 8 commissioner just pointed out to you, 9 there is an election in Pennsylvania 10 every six months. 11 There's a lot at stake. The 12 voter ID lawsuit is currently being 13 considered for appeal by the governor. 14 I personally hope he does because we 15 want to use it against him in the 16 upcoming election. I'm very positive 17 because Tom Corbett and the voter ID, 18 I think it is an outrageous attempt to 19 suppress the vote of citizens all 20 across the commonwealth. 21 So I'm glad to be here. I'm 22 looking forward to the conversation of 23 those of you who are scheduled to 24 testify and I hope to use the	Page 29 1 an eye out on our friend here to the 2 left of the panelists, the right side 3 of the stage -- your left side -- for 4 keeping time. They'll, very politely, 5 let you know you're going over your 6 allotted time. There is also -- the 7 witnesses that are presenting in the 8 panel have also provided written 9 testimony that will be part of the 10 record. 11 So with that, I'm going to 12 call the first panel. Panel number 13 one is the panel on discriminatory 14 impact of voting changes on 15 communities. This panel will cover 16 racial discrimination and issues that 17 impact communities of colors. And as 18 I said, each panelist will present for 19 five minutes. Then, we will have -- 20 which will cover about twenty minutes 21 of the allotted forty minutes of time 22 for that panel and then, after each 23 panel has presented, there will be an 24 opportunity for the commissioners up

Page 30

1 here to ask some follow-up questions
 2 and engage in continuous dialogue.
 3 And with that, I'd like to 4 call the first four members of panel
 5 number one. And they are Marian 6 Schneider, who is a senior attorney, 7 Advancement Project, Robert Meek, who 8 is a managing attorney for the 9 Disability Rights Network of 10 Pennsylvania, Jerry Vattamala, who is 11 the staff attorney with the Asian
 12 American Legal Defense and Education
 13 Fund and last, but not least, Ana 14 Sostre-Ramos, a private citizen.
 15 We will start with the 16 panelists that are here at the moment
 17 and, again, panelists, we thank you 18 for being here. We thank you for your 19 time and your testimony, which is 20 vitally important to the purpose of 21 this hearing.
 22 So with that, Ms. Schneider,
 23 the floor is yours.
 24 MS. SCHNEIDER: Thank you,

Page 31

1 Secretary Cortes, Ms. Metellus, Judge
 2 Diaz and Mr. Mondesire. It's my 3 pleasure to be here today and I 4 appreciate having the opportunity to
 5 speak.
 6 As Secretary Cortes
 7 mentioned, I am the senior attorney at 8 Advancement Project, a national civil 9 rights and racial justice organization 10 in Washington, D.C. I work in the 11 voter protection program and we work 12 with our partners in legal,
 13 legislative and communication 14 strategies to remove barriers to 15 voting for voters of color. I've been 16 working on election-related matters
 17 since 2006. I'm also one of those who 18 sued Secretary Cortes in the Banfield
 19 case.
 20 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Welcome
 21 to the club.
 22 MS. SCHNEIDER: I've been 23 trial counsel in the Applewhite
 24 against the Commonwealth, a voter ID

Page 32

1 case, but I've been asked to talk
 2 about a case involving Lincoln
 3 University in which I was pro bono
 4 counsel and I just preface my remark
 5 by saying it's fitting that we are 6 here at the American Constitution
 7 Center that created our liberty.
 8 We, as Americans, take a lot
 9 of things for granted. We are -- some 10 of us are acutely aware of how much we 11 take electricity, hot water, our -- as 12 simple as phone service for granted.
 13 And many of us take for granted that 14 when we go to the polls for Election
 15 Day, that we can vote quickly and 16 easily without fuss, but that's not 17 the case for all our fellow citizens
 18 and voting discrimination on account 19 of race exists and it's present, even 20 if it's more subtle and nuanced and 21 masked by seemingly neutral
 22 regulations.
 23 The troubling images of our 24 fellow citizens of the South engaged

Page 33

1 in a life-or-death struggle for civic 2 equality at the height of the civil 3 rights movement is emblazoned on our 4 national consciousness and that 5 spawned the Voting Rights Act and
 6 that's why we are here today.
 7 Pennsylvania doesn't have a
 8 spotless record. Individuals have 9 used the Voting Rights Act to 10 challenge voting practices that have 11 an impact on voters of color and 12 that's one of the cases that I'm going 13 to talk to you about.
 14 English against Chester
 15 County was a case that arose out of 16 refusal of the Chester County Board of 17 Elections to move the polling place
 18 that serves the Lincoln University 19 community to larger quarters. This is 20 the kind of local practice and local 21 change that has an enormous impact
 22 and, yet, can fly under the radar.
 23 The suit was brought on behalf of 24 individual African-American voters who

Page 34 1 didn't get a chance to vote or waited 2 up to eight hours to vote that day. 3 In 2008, the local election officials 4 predicted that this would happen 5 because there were long lines during 6 the primary election and they 7 petitioned the Chester County Board of 8 Elections to move the polling place. 9 Lincoln University offered one of its 10 gymnasiums. The Board refused to move 11 the polling place and ignored the 12 testimony about the lack of parking, 13 the small space inside and that it is 14 located next to an active railroad 15 line. Instead, they cited the 16 erroneous perception that the 17 gymnasium lacked accessibility for 18 voters with disabilities. 19 On Election Day 2008, the 20 long lines that were predicted 21 actually occurred and there was a 22 series of events that coalesced that 23 caused these long lines. First of 24 all, the voting place was too small to	Page 36 1 percentage of any precinct in Chester 2 County and has the highest black 3 voting age population in the county. 4 After the elections, hundreds of 5 voters petitioned the board to move 6 the polling place. Instead of moving 7 it to the campus, they moved it 8 farther away to -- even farther from 9 campus, not walking distance, at a 10 location that already has a precinct. 11 As a result of that, a suit was filed. 12 I was honored to be pro bono counsel 13 and represent voters who were denied 14 their right to vote. Their stories 15 were compelling. 16 Golden English, the main 17 plaintiff, went two or three times on 18 the day of election, trying to vote, 19 but couldn't wait and left. One of 20 the other petitioners who lived next 21 door, she is the wife of a pastor, and 22 she watched all day for lines to 23 dissipate. They never dissipated, so 24 she never voted. I know I've run out
Page 35 1 accommodate additional privacy booths 2 or additional scanners for their over 3 two thousand registered voters in that 4 precinct. There were no space for 5 voters to write or fill out 6 provisional ballots. 7 There was every -- there 8 were poll watchers inside the polling 9 place. Every Lincoln University 10 student was challenged on grounds of 11 identity, even when they had their 12 voter registration card or their 13 driver's license in hand. 14 The County failed to include 15 the most up-to-date poll book with the 16 judge of election's materials and that 17 meant many voters were not in the poll 18 books, which required calls to the 19 County and then hand writing names on 20 the back of the poll book. All of 21 these caused these long lines. 22 The Lower Oxford East 23 precinct, which is home to Lincoln 24 University, had the lowest turnout	Page 37 1 of time. 2 The Lincoln suit settled 3 almost immediately after it was filed. 4 The polling place was moved to the 5 campus. It's housed in a brand new 6 building, the International Cultural 7 Center, and it's convenient to the 8 community and to the students, but we, 9 as a nation -- we used Section 2, but 10 it was after the fact. That's not 11 good enough. We, as a nation, have to 12 prevent these from occurring before 13 Election Day and that's what I hope 14 this commission can recommend to 15 Congress. Thank you. 16 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 17 you. 18 We are going to now receive 19 the testimony of Mr. Robert Meek. 20 MR MEEK: Good afternoon. 21 It's a pleasure to be here. Thank you 22 very much for inviting me, Secretary 23 Cortes, Ms. Metellus, Mr. Nelson and 24 Mr. Mondesire.

Page 38

1 My name is Robert Meek, I'm 2 the managing attorney with the
3 Disability Rights Network of 4 Pennsylvania, which is the 5 federally-designated protection and 6 adequacy system for people with 7 disabilities in Pennsylvania.
8 One of the many things that 9 we do is address problems of voting
10 for people with disabilities. I'm 11 going to highlight a couple of things
12 that we attempted to do to improve 13 access to the polls for people with 14 disabilities, unfortunately and often, 15 a group often relegated to the 16 sidelines in any of these debates.
17 One thing I'd like to bring 18 to your attention and Secretary
19 Cortes, unfortunately, probably 20 remembers this because we were forced 21 to bring him into a case, in current 22 litigation and we brought an action
23 against the City of Philadelphia Board 24 of Elections for failing to provide

Page 39

1 accessible polling locations for 2 people with disabilities, especially 3 mobility impairments and that the -- 4 that -- interestingly enough, the 5 Department of Justice investigating 6 the same issue and, eventually, after 7 much raving and gnashing our teeth, we 8 reached a settlement agreement with 9 the City in which we had a partnership
10 with the Department of Justice to help 11 us implement the settlement, which was 12 to inspect and evaluate all of the 13 polling locations in Pennsylvania -- 14 I'm sorry -- in Philadelphia to ensure 15 that they were either accessible or 16 could be made accessible. If they 17 could not be accessible, we made 18 recommendations to moving those 19 polling locations to acceptable
20 locations -- to acceptable locations
21 where those locations could be made 22 accessible. And because the city of 23 Philadelphia is huge and has 1,680
24 voting divisions, that was a

Page 40

1 monumental task.
2 It was around 1,200 polling 3 actual locations because some of the 4 locations were unusual polling
5 locations, but it was a monumental
6 undertaking and I think that it's safe 7 to say, after about four years of 8 monitoring, the City has come to have 9 a very, very, very high percentage of 10 accessible locations, which is a great
11 thing.
12 What I would want the 13 Commission to recommend to Congress is 14 to ensure that that same kind of 15 accessibility is accomplished across 16 the state.
17 Pennsylvania has, obviously,
18 many, many municipalities that have 19 voting divisions that are not 20 accessible. The current provisions in 21 the state law that are propagated 22 by -- through the Secretary of the 23 Commonwealth's office just aren't 24 enough to ensure that that access

Page 41

1 happens. Those things were in place
2 when we brought this litigation and 3 the problem is that the way the system
4 operated, just did not ensure 5 accessibility.
6 It's very easy for 7 municipalities to say that their 8 locations were accessible or there was 9 an alternative way to passing the 10 vote. Our concern was those 11 alternatives were far more burdensome 12 on people with disabilities than they 13 might be on an the ordinary citizen 14 because they required all kinds of 15 pre-notice, revealing of private 16 physical and mental health information 17 and were just extremely, extremely 18 personally invasive.
19 Those alternatives, we 20 determined, were not appropriate and,
21 fortunately for us, the Court agreed 22 with us that -- and so I'm pleased to 23 the Commission as to make 24 recommendations that those sorts of

Page 42 1 things, the alternative ballot kind 2 of -- out. That this -- the 3 municipalities stop, that -- that that 4 loophole is closed because that's 5 really a very grave, grave problem for 6 people with disabilities. 7 Another thing I wanted to 8 touch on, again, for persons with 9 disabilities is that -- and this is 10 certainly a usual wrinkle is -- and 11 I'm glad we have sign language 12 interpreters here, that makes me 13 happy -- is exactly for people who use 14 ASL as their primary language. 15 The Voting Rights Act 16 requires, I guess, jurisdictions to 17 provide all kinds of information in 18 native languages to people that are 19 not English speakers and our 20 contention is that persons who utilize 21 ASL, in fact, are a minority-language 22 group and that there should be some 23 recommendations to improve how those 24 kind of -- that kind of information is	Page 44 1 and should not be subject to any kind 2 of challenge based on their status as 3 a person with a disability. 4 Thank you much. Appreciate 5 it. 6 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 7 you, Mr. Meek. 8 As a reminder, we will, 9 first, take the testimony of witnesses 10 and then we will have time for 11 questions. I want to encourage my 12 colleagues to take from here and 13 continue dialogue. 14 Next, we have with us Ms. 15 Ana Sostre-Ramos, a private citizen 16 who will testify. Thank you, Ms. 17 Ramos. 18 MS. SOSTRE-RAMOS: Hi. 19 Thank you. Thank you for inviting me, 20 the whole committee. 21 Actually, I'm coming from 22 Puerto Rico since 1981. I am involved 23 with Latino Vote. We are very 24 involved with voter registration and
Page 43 1 transferred or transmitted, I should 2 say, to persons who do use ASL. 3 One other thing I wanted to 4 mention, which is, fortunately, 5 Pennsylvania is actually a good 6 example of this, is that I would 7 encourage that Congress be advised 8 that this is something that needs to 9 be -- have a greater spread and that 10 is the lack -- Pennsylvania, 11 unfortunately, does not have any 12 competency barriers to persons to 13 vote, for people at the elections 14 (inaudible) and that's a good thing. 15 I would hope that the Commission would 16 recommend to Congress that there 17 should be no barriers for people with 18 mental illness or disabilities because 19 it just bars people based on a status, 20 rather than actual abilities and our 21 concern is that people who are -- who 22 can make decisions, who can decide who 23 to vote for and then understand what 24 is going on should be allowed to vote	Page 45 1 getting everybody to vote 100 percent, 2 9.9 vote. As soon as I come to 3 Philadelphia, I'm like we have to 4 vote. We have got to get involved and 5 I guess -- 6 COMMISSIONER CORTES: I'm 7 sorry. Could you come closer? 8 MS. SORTE-RAMOS: Sure. 9 Thank you. 10 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 11 you. 12 MS. SORTE-RAMOS: I'm 13 pleased to get involved with a group 14 called Latino Vote and, as a member of 15 that group, we started to go out and 16 register people to vote, going door to 17 door, all the Latino, door to door, to 18 make sure that everybody had the right 19 paper and not register -- just all day 20 on Spring Garden and bring the card 21 back to them, make sure they have it 22 in their hand and ready to vote, but, 23 unfortunately, we're having a big 24 problem.

Page 46 1 Our situation is more or 2 less like the other two people who 3 speak before about the polling places 4 and we had a major problem with the 5 Latino, just because of the way we 6 look or the way we talk, but we have a 7 situation where we have to help more 8 than -- it's getting a little hard to 9 vote. 10 They are changing polling 11 places to the location where they are 12 going to vote and, also, they are 13 discriminating without translation. 14 We need -- all the documentation 15 should be in Spanish and English as 16 well, so everybody can understand what 17 they're are going to do. They should 18 be more translated -- people 19 professionally translating in the 20 voting place and let the people vote. 21 And some of the places here, 22 especially in Philadelphia, the voting 23 places have been changing locations, 24 like I heard before a couple of times.	Page 48 1 you cannot come inside. I said, oh, 2 really, they cannot come in here, 3 let's -- let's call some of the police 4 officer and everything and make sure 5 this place is going to change because 6 this place is supposed to be open to 7 the public and, you know, make sure 8 the people vote. 9 We -- with this law that 10 they tried to -- thank God that it is 11 already stopped right away. I was 12 going, as a Latino, to go in 13 Harrisburg and testify with all the 14 situation that happened with this 15 picture ID. And thank God that it 16 happened, but even though with that, 17 even though that's past and now they 18 don't have to use it, they are still 19 asking the people, you need ID. And 20 not just an ID for voting, it's a 21 picture ID, license, that type of 22 thing. 23 If you don't have a license 24 or you don't have the ID, you cannot
Page 47 1 They change location. They just don't 2 change location, they don't even put 3 where exactly the people have to go 4 and then as soon as they go -- you 5 don't allow here -- we had a couple of 6 people that we had to just go there 7 and I go personally with them and I 8 wait and I see people, they should not 9 be going places and no houses, no 10 residence. 11 I have voting places in a 12 house that is a residence of people 13 living. I don't think that's right. 14 They don't allow people, exactly 15 whoever they want to get into their 16 property and I believe that if you 17 open your property for voting places, 18 that's no longer a residence. That's 19 a public place. It's where everybody 20 can come in and out to vote. 21 So they don't -- some that 22 they don't allow the Latino to go 23 inside and vote. You're not allowed 24 in here or we don't have interpreter,	Page 49 1 vote. So that's still going on, that 2 situation, even though I'm sure it 3 passed. I believe that we should have 4 permission also here in Philadelphia 5 to dealing with this situation in 6 Philadelphia and, also, in 7 Pennsylvania, and not just here, to 8 helping more the Latino as well. 9 Last election, we have 6,646 10 voter registrations and just 3,340 11 Latinos vote. So it's a big 12 difference from all the changes. 13 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 14 you. Thank you, Ms. Sostre-Ramos. I 15 appreciate your testimony and input. 16 Is Mr. Jerry Vattamala here 17 in the room? If not, we will proceed 18 with the follow-up questions and we 19 will ask Mr. Vattamala to join the 20 next panel, panel number two. 21 So I open the floor for my 22 fellow commissioners to ask questions 23 if they have any. 24 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:

Page 50

1 Mr. Meek, tell us -- if you can, give 2 us a sense of the numbers of people 3 who you would consider disabled who 4 are voting in the city of Philadelphia
5 and if you have the ability to us tell 6 us how extensive it is across the 7 country.
8 MR MEEK: I don't think I
9 can give you a number of persons who 10 are eligible to vote who have a 11 disability. And, again, recall that 12 our lawsuit was about people with 13 mobility disability. So there is 14 going to be plenty of other people 15 with sensory and other kinds of 16 disabilities.
17 The general consensus is 18 that, in Pennsylvania, where we have 19 twelve million people, you know, the 20 guess work would be maybe ten, fifteen 21 percent people have disabilities, but 22 that's guess work. It's not an 23 insignificant number. It's not a 24 majority certainly, but it's not an

Page 51

1 insignificant number. Urban areas
2 tend to have probably a higher 3 concentration of people because 4 services here are more accessible for 5 people who live in the city than they 6 may be in more rural area and, of 7 course, that's where more people live
8 naturally.
9 Anyway, so it's -- 10 Philadelphia has a significant 11 disability population. I cannot tell
12 you the number though. Sorry.
13 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: The 14 group homes where a lot of folks live, 15 do they take people to vote on given 16 Tuesdays?
17 MR MEEK: They do. Many do.
18 They should and -- but that doesn't 19 necessarily mean it happens. It 20 should.
21 So, again, I can't tell you 22 whether they do or they don't because 23 I'm not monitoring that.
24 Unfortunately, I wish I could, but I

Page 52

1 can't.
2 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: No
3 one is, I presume.
4 MR MEEK: I doubt anyone
5 does.
6 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
7 Thank you.
8 COMMISSIONER DIAZ:
9 Ms. Schneider, how long -- have you 10 looked at this stuff on a national 11 basis and I was wondering whether or 12 not you looked at some of the western 13 states where there is voting by mail
14 and whether or not there is a
15 possibility of instituting either 16 electronic or voting-by-mail process
17 in terms on nationally.
18 MS. SCHNEIDER: Well, we 19 have looked at national voting reforms
20 and when you say vote by mail, we kind 21 of put that into an early voting
22 category, either in-person or early 23 voting a no-excuse absentee voting.
24 Advancement Project, we

Page 53

1 recommend a significant early voting
2 period about, you know, ten days to 3 two weeks before the election, 4 including two weekends before the 5 election. We also recommend same-day
6 voter registration during the early 7 voting period because those reforms,
8 taken together, have been demonstrated 9 to increase turnout, which is the goal 10 of some of these election reforms.
11 So Pennsylvania has a 12 constitutional provision regarding 13 absentee voting and there is some 14 controversy over whether you would 15 need an amendment or whether you can 16 do it legislatively. So that would be 17 the legal issue about whether absentee 18 voting can be, I guess, relaxed in 19 Pennsylvania.
20 As far as -- Advancement
21 Project, it doesn't take it that -- 22 just electronic voting -- voting -- 23 having voted ballots transmitted over
24 the internet is not -- to date, is not

Page 54 1 secure. And until it becomes secure 2 and Secretary Cortes and I could 3 debate about whether the electronic 4 voting machines in the Commonwealth 5 are secure, but we would not recommend 6 that at this time and there's actually 7 a project that's being undertaken as 8 we speak by the Election Verification 9 Network and computer scientists who 10 are doing a study of whether it is 11 feasible to have an electronic voting 12 system secure, that could be a secure 13 transmission. At this moment, it 14 doesn't exist. 15 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: I want 16 to also qualify something that 17 Ms. Ramos talked about. The reason 18 bilingual education is available in 19 this country is because of the unique 20 status of the Puerto Rican community, 21 where Puerto Rico's language is 22 Spanish, but they're citizens, by 23 birthright. So when they come here, 24 as a result, they don't have to take	Page 56 1 the Northeast. 2 MS. SCHNEIDER: If I could 3 address that, in Section 4(e) under 4 the Voting Rights Act has been a 5 utilized tool for exactly that reason 6 but we -- in New York, they were able 7 to get language -- bilingual materials 8 and I don't know if it was a dozen 9 counties based on the Puerto Rican 10 population and the secretary of the 11 board of elections in New York agreed 12 to have bilingual materials in those 13 counties and that is something 14 Advancement Project very much is 15 interested in trying to do with the 16 Puerto Rican population in 17 Pennsylvania because it's increasing. 18 COMMISSIONER CORTES: The 19 Section 4(e) of the Voting Rights Act 20 is the one provision that was used, as 21 most of you know, in the case of Berks 22 County and it's the one that speaks -- 23 as Judge Diaz mentioned -- speaks to 24 the voting rights of those individuals
Page 55 1 an immigration test in any language, 2 so they are citizens by birthright. 3 So that opened the door for bilingual 4 education for all people. 5 So I just want to give 6 credit to that community who opened 7 that door of bilingualism in this city 8 for all people, but it's really 9 because of the unique status. Most 10 immigrants have to take a test in 11 English and, thereby, there's a 12 requirement, but because of that 13 issue, I think one of the reasons -- 14 and so they are disfranchised, period, 15 as a result of the language issue and 16 it's taken forever to get that into 17 fruition in the Northeast 18 particularly. Although, it's worked 19 very well in Orlando and maybe because 20 of the nature of the economic status 21 of the difference between the Orlando 22 community and the communities in the 23 Northeast and it's a problem that we 24 have not been able to tackle well in	Page 57 1 who are U.S. citizens by birth for who 2 are, you know, born under the U.S. 3 flag, but whose primary language is 4 structured in Spanish and that happens 5 to be in Puerto Rico. So thank you. 6 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: My 7 question is primarily for 8 Ms. Schneider, but I invite any of the 9 panelists to respond. 10 There was the case -- the 11 Chester County case that there was a 12 discussion about the length of time 13 that it took people to vote and the 14 size of the room. I'm wondering if 15 you can speak to any efforts -- and 16 I'll just focus on Pennsylvania -- 17 nationwide would be ridiculous -- but 18 efforts within Pennsylvania to talk 19 about what those benchmarks should be. 20 I mean, clearly, seven hours is way 21 too long, but is there discussion or 22 efforts to sort of identify what 23 benchmarks we should be targeting and 24 working towards those?

Page 58

1 MS. SCHNEIDER: Well, I
2 think The Presidential Commission that 3 released -- the Presidential 4 Commission on Election Administration
5 released a report in the past two 6 weeks and they have recommended that 7 no one should wait more than thirty 8 minutes to vote and they recommended a 9 standard formula that would allow -- 10 that should be applied in all polling 11 places, so that thirty minutes is the 12 maximum.
13 I would certainly urge --
14 there was actually a regional hearing
15 that the PCEA conducted here in 16 Philadelphia in September and there 17 was a lot of testimony regarding 18 actually voters with disabilities 19 especially, but there was a very 20 interesting section on this exact 21 issue, how long it takes and how 22 people are served in the polling
23 place.
24 So how you figure out those

Page 59

1 times is -- I think what you have to 2 do is, first of all, you have to look 3 at the voting age population in the 4 precinct, the number of registered
5 voters in the precinct, how long it 6 takes to get to the line and the 7 equipment. It depends on what kind of 8 equipment you have. And then you need
9 a space -- and I said that at Lincoln
10 University -- some people were saying, 11 oh, well, it's only the presidential 12 that has a lot of people, it doesn't 13 matter, you need a scalable space.
14 You have two thousand voters
15 registered in this precinct. You got 16 to -- if you're going to have an 17 eighty percent turnout, you have to be 18 ready for an eighty percent turnout.
19 You need a place that's scalable. If 20 you have a lower turnout, then you can 21 deal with that.
22 So it has to be based on the 23 election year, the number of voters
24 and using that thirty-minute

Page 60

1 benchmark, I think, is a good one and 2 Pennsylvania should definitely adopt
3 that, but I'm hoping that Congress
4 will take the Commission's 5 recommendations to heart as well.
6 COMMISSIONER CORTES:
7 Following up on the questions about 8 the polling place location and moving 9 of the poll locations, which Ms.
10 Schneider, as well Ms. Sostre
11 referenced, the question I have is:
12 So we heard about a case in Chester
13 County with Lincoln University, how 14 pervasive or how big of a problem is 15 the change in polling locations to 16 locations that would be considered 17 inconvenienced by distance, by the 18 issue of just simply not enough
19 parking spaces. Is that pervasive?
20 Is that something that happens
21 frequently throughout the state?
22 MS. SCHNEIDER: Well, I
23 don't know the statistics of how 24 frequently it happens, but this is

Page 61

1 exactly the kind of practice that the 2 Voting Rights Act, in Section 5, the 3 preclear provision was meant to 4 address, because there is -- these 5 kind of local changes fly under the 6 radar and I will say that, at this 7 year alone, that Kutztown University
8 wanted to move its polling place off 9 campus, making it harder for those 10 students to vote and there was another 11 university that also -- 12 Shippensburg -- Shippensburg
13 University wanted to move its polling
14 place off the campus, making it harder 15 for their students to vote. As 16 Ms. Sostre-Ramos mentioned, in 17 Pennsylvania -- and part of it is to 18 move polling places so they are 19 accessible for voters with 20 disabilities, but so the -- I think 21 that without a standard formula to 22 use, to address what should be an 23 active polling place, that those 24 things happen and they fly under the

Page 62

1 radar and that's why we don't have the 2 statistics that you're looking for as 3 to how pervasive it is, but if there 4 is no notice and no disclosure, it's 5 hard to prevent voter disenfranchise 6 before the election and then, after 7 the election, it's irreparable harm.
8 COMMISSIONER CORTES: This 9 follow-up question is asked to 10 Mr. Meek, but anyone of the group can 11 answer as well.
12 During the 2005 Election
13 Reform Task Force, there was 14 significant discussion on ways to 15 address access and accessibility for 16 voters with disabilities. One of the 17 discussions that generally takes 18 place, not just here, in Pennsylvania, 19 but nationally, is the adoption of 20 accessible regional voting centers or 21 megacenters, where there is plenty of 22 locations with plenty of parking 23 spaces, ramps, the locations are, in 24 an ideal world, an ideal location for

Page 63

1 voters with disabilities to vote.
2 I know what the discussion
3 was when we discussed this during the 4 task force, but I wondered what is the 5 position of the Disability Rights
6 Network of Pennsylvania when it comes 7 to the adoption of regional centers or 8 megacenters that may be farther away
9 from the traditional center, but may 10 provide increased access.
11 MR MEEK: Thank you for the 12 question. Interestingly, one of the 13 main, major thrusts of our lawsuit was 14 that we wanted the ability of people
15 with disabilities to vote like 16 everyone else, which was vote at their 17 local polling location, where they 18 could vote with their neighbors, 19 engage with election officials and,
20 essentially, have the same voting
21 experience as anyone else.
22 So our concern would be if 23 you created these hubs, that would 24 move people away from that kind of

Page 64

1 experience and might even end up with 2 a kind of segregated environment. So
3 I have to say I oppose that notion,
4 given our history with the lawsuit,
5 and just what I think might become a
6 default segregated kind of system.
7 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
8 you, Mr. Meek.
9 For the benefit of the 10 group, that was the conclusion of the 11 task force. We were thirteen members
12 and unanimously voted down a 13 suggestion or recommendation to create 14 centers for the very reason that you
15 stated. We need to make sure that all 16 voters, independent of any particular 17 condition are able to vote like 18 anybody else with the same rights and 19 the same access.
20 MR MEEK: I just want to 21 address one thing that the previous 22 question -- the movement of places
23 because I know, in Philadelphia, there 24 is a whole process, a judicial

Page 65

1 process -- quasi-judicial process.
2 In order to move a location,
3 there has been hearing in front of 4 commissioners and people can offer
5 testimony and the commissioners rule
6 after that determination and taking a
7 number of considerations, but there
8 are limits that are already 9 established about movement of 10 locations have to be in an adjacent 11 division and there are some that can't 12 more than five blocks away from the 13 current location.
14 So there are constraints on 15 movement of -- and the process by 16 which -- it's a transfer process by 17 which that happens. So I'd be 18 concerned if that process was somehow
19 undermined and not continued to carry 20 out the way it is and so that's...
21 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: In my 22 experience, the only people who 23 complain, they do happen to be ward
24 leaders.

Page 66

1 MR MEEK: Absolutely. Judge
2 Diaz, you hit the nail on the head.
3 That's where we had most of 4 the grief about movement, was from the 5 ward leaders who somehow their 6 brother-in-law's house was the voting
7 place, so that's where they wanted it.
8 So Ms. Sostre-Ramos
9 mentioned the whole idea -- we also 10 were opposed to having voting
11 locations in private residences. We 12 think that's a very negative kind of 13 message to people and it is difficult
14 in Philadelphia. Philadelphia is a 15 very old city with a lot of old stock 16 in public buildings. However, we 17 think public buildings and commercial 18 buildings are the places to go and 19 they are probably more easily made 20 accessible than private residences 21 ever could be.
22 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 23 you. We are almost out of time for 24 this panel.

Page 67

1 If you happen to have our 2 schedule, we are actually running a 3 little bit behind schedule because we 4 have three panels as opposed to four,
5 but there is a law in Pennsylvania 6 dating back 2005, 2006 -- 2006, that 7 limited where you could have some of 8 the polling places. You couldn't have 9 it in bars, you couldn't have it in 10 some of the restrictive locations that 11 are membership driven.
12 It's interestingly enough to 13 see that was one of those that was the 14 right statute of legislation, but then 15 you have the other backlash, people
16 are saying that place may be a private 17 residence, it may be a bar, but it's 18 convenient, it's right next to my 19 house and, now, I have to go somewhere 20 else, but it's a point well taken and 21 at least we have some of those laws
22 already.
23 With that, I don't know if 24 any of the other panelists has a

Page 68

1 pressing question, if not, I would --
2 MS. SOSTRE-RAMOS: I would 3 just like to add something that you
4 just said about the convenience.
5 In that situation,
6 particular situation that I was 7 telling you about, the property and 8 residence, that would be good if they 9 allowed everybody, as well, to go in,
10 but in that particular situation,
11 believe me, we find a place. It could 12 be even a supermarket that they have a 13 big place to do and, also, school,
14 hospital, whatever, but not in a 15 property. Not in the property.
16 COMMISSIONER CORTES: We
17 agree.
18 MS. SOSTRE-RAMOS: We did
19 that. We did that. We make sure -- 20 at the last minute you change the 21 voter's place, let's change it right
22 now. And I have a place where people 23 can vote without nobody that don't 24 allow certain people and everybody.

Page 69

1 COMMISSIONER CORTES: And
2 that's is an excellent point. The 3 group may already know that there are 4 some groups, some represented here
5 like Advancement Project, Committee of 6 Seventy, Common Cause and others -- 7 The League of Women Voters -- they 8 have hotlines, so that Election Day,
9 if you see any irregularity, you can 10 report that. We also have an 11 800-number, the Department of State, 12 and we are very quick to call the 13 local officials to make sure that none
14 of that was taking place, but you know
15 the --
16 MS. SOSTRE-RAMOS: Yes.
17 That happened. Yes. Now, I do
18 remember, yes, the seventy, the group 19 of seventy. Yes, we called them and 20 they came. Very good. Thanks again
21 for that. They helped us.
22 COMMISSIONER CORTES: With 23 that, again, we thank the panelists
24 for their testimony and we thank you

Page 70

1 kindly for everything that you're 2 doing on a daily basis to protect the 3 voting rights of all citizens. Thank
4 you.
5 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
6 Thank you.
7 MS. SOSTRE-RAMOS: Thank
8 you.
9 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Thank
10 you.
11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: This
12 is the second panel and this is a 13 panel on election administration
14 issues.
15 In fact, we are going to 16 have two panels on election
17 administration issues. We are going 18 to hear from the first set of 19 panelists. Then, after that, we are 20 going to have what we're deeming open
21 mic for the public and, as Chris
22 Fields mentioned, this is where if you 23 are member of the public at this time, 24 if you're not scheduled to be a

Page 71

1 panelists, you could please stand up
2 and we will make sure you have three 3 minutes to present your views and be
4 heard.
5 The second panel is a panel
6 that will cover disability issues.
7 It's going to -- the topic is going to 8 have -- we are going to talk about 9 elderly voters, that's going to lead
10 to Election Day problems, there's 11 going to be issues that we discuss 12 related to some specific counties. We 13 are going to also hear about voter 14 registration, provisional ballot
15 problems and et cetera.
16 Our panelists for the -- for 17 the second panel are Joe Certaine.
18 Joe is the former operations director
19 for the Pennsylvania Voter ID
20 Coalition. We also invite Ms. Mary
21 Catherine Roper, senior staff attorney
22 with the ACLU of Pennsylvania,
23 Mr. Jamaal Craig, who is the Civil and 24 Human Rights Technician for the United

Page 72

1 Steelworkers and last, but not least,
2 we would like to invite Mr. Jerry 3 Vattamala. He's here with us. He is
4 the staff attorney with the Asian
5 American Legal Defense and Education
6 Fund.
7 So if we could have Mr.
8 Certaine, Ms. Roper, Mr. Craig and Mr.
9 Vattamala join us.
10 Is Mary Catherine Roper with 11 us? Hopefully she will join us in the 12 next few minutes.
13 Thank you, again, Panelists,
14 for being with us. We appreciate your 15 time and your hard work in voting
16 rights.
17 We will start, first, with 18 Mr. Jerry Vattamala, who, again, is
19 the staff attorney with the Asian
20 American Legal Defense and Education
21 Fund. And by the way, you have -- we 22 have traversed the panel on the 23 discriminatory impact of voting
24 changes on communities and I think

Page 73

1 that's your topic. So let's start
2 with you and then let's talk about
3 election administration.
4 MR. VATTAMALA: Sure. I
5 apologize. I was stuck in traffic
6 coming from New York.
7 My name is Jerry Vattamala.
8 I'm an attorney for the Asian American 9 Defense and Education Fund, AADEF.
10 AADEF is a forty-year old national 11 civil rights organization that works
12 to defend the civil rights of Asian 13 Americans through litigation advocacy
14 and community education.
15 Since 1988, every major
16 election, AADEF has monitored. For 17 example, in 2012, we had close to nine 18 hundred volunteers in fourteen states
19 and Washington, D.C. -- including here 20 in Pennsylvania -- monitoring the 21 elections at different locations.
22 Some of the issues that we observed on 23 Election Day -- two of the main 24 problems here in Pennsylvania and

Page 74 1 nationally was lack of language 2 assistance. And, two, the 3 discriminatory and uneven applying of 4 voter ID laws and request for proof of 5 citizenship of Asia-American voters. 6 So with the lack of language 7 access, the City of Philadelphia, 8 after 2006, the U.S. v. Philadelphia 9 had agreed to voluntarily provide 10 English-language assistance in 11 Chinese, Vietnamese, Korean and Khmer. 12 Since that time, they have 13 significantly backslid each successive 14 election, until the point in 2012 15 where there were only four Asian 16 language interpreters for the entire 17 city. Wholly inadequate. 18 Some of the major 19 neighborhoods where there is a 20 significant population of 21 Asia-American voters that need 22 language assistance, for example, 23 South Philly -- South Philadelphia. 24 The South Philadelphia branch library	Page 76 1 English less than very well. 2 First-time voters. More than three 3 times the national average are 4 first-time voters and they have often 5 will be accompanied to the poll site 6 by someone that's there to assist 7 them, a child, a niece, a nephew, a 8 family friend. 9 Many poll workers are not 10 aware of Section 208 of the Voting 11 Rights Act which allows a person of 12 their choice to accompany the voter 13 inside the voting booth and assist 14 them. There were numerous -- numerous 15 incidences where the poll workers 16 said, no, you can't do that, only one 17 person allowed in the voting booth. 18 So there is a lack of training there 19 as well. 20 Unfortunately, you know, we 21 met with the city solicitor and some 22 of the commissioners. They've refused 23 to provide Asian-language assistance. 24 They put the onus on us, as an
Page 75 1 poll site, we had our volunteers 2 there. There was long lines of 3 Vietnamese-American voters that needed 4 language assistance, but there was no 5 interpreter there. 6 Philadelphia has something 7 called Language Line. It's a line -- 8 hotline that limited-English 9 proficient voters can call and receive 10 assistance in their language. That 11 blue sheet was not displayed at any of 12 the poll sites that we were in on 13 Election Day. Our volunteers asked 14 the poll workers if they can explain 15 how to use Language Line. They were 16 not aware of Language Line. They did 17 not know how to use it. So what was 18 the end result? Well, the voters were 19 not able to vote. They had to go back 20 home. 21 The Asia-American electorate 22 is very unique in certain ways. Very 23 high rates of literacy insufficiency, 24 meaning they speak and understand	Page 77 1 organization that works for the 2 community, to provide the 3 interpreters. We don't have the 4 resources. Quite frankly, it's very 5 disappointing because, at one point, 6 they did provide the interpreters. 7 They've come to a point now where they 8 say they're not required to do it, 9 they are not going to do it and, 10 actually, all voters suffer then 11 because the lines get longer and the 12 people get frustrated. 13 In terms of voter ID, as you 14 know in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 15 there is soft roll-out with the voter 16 ID law. The poll workers were allowed 17 to request ID, but it was not 18 required. What we noticed and what 19 our volunteers noticed was the 20 selective implementation of that and 21 the improper implementation. 22 For example, we had, at 23 certain poll sites, where poll workers 24 would only ask -- only ask

Page 78 1 Asian-American voters for their ID and 2 make it a requirement. We've seen 3 that across the country, whether there 4 is a voter ID law or not, poll workers 5 use that as an opportunity to 6 selectively disfranchise certain 7 voters. We have tried to work with 8 the Board of Elections here and the 9 city solicitor and commissioners and 10 we sort of have come to an end road. 11 They're refusing to provide 12 interpreters. We are trying our best 13 to work with them, but it's a real 14 issue. 15 The Asia-American community 16 needs interpreters and language 17 assistance and, often times, not to 18 mention, these are elderly, first-time 19 voters. This is -- they are not 20 familiar with the voting process. 21 They get to the poll site, there is no 22 language assistance and sometimes they 23 are faced with poll workers that are 24 coming up with new requirements.	Page 80 1 part of a large coalition of groups 2 that, each election, gets together to 3 do election protection work, centered 4 around the 866-OUR-VOTE hotline, which 5 is advertised all across Pennsylvania. 6 In terms of the Election Day 7 response, the Committee of Seventy 8 takes primary responsibility for 9 organizing the response for 10 Philadelphia and, in 2012, it was 11 officially a five-county day in 12 Philadelphia. 13 ACLU of Pennsylvania 14 organizes the response for essentially 15 the rest of Pennsylvania. What we do 16 is we line up volunteer attorneys and 17 potential observers and so on in as 18 many counties as we can and then we 19 field the complaints coming in. 20 On Election Day in 2012, we 21 heard a lot of the same complaints 22 that we hear year after year, in 23 addition to, of course, a great deal 24 of confusion, the confusing signs and
Page 79 1 And lastly, I want to end 2 with this. Asian-American naming 3 conventions is also something that is 4 very unique. Their names are often 5 inverted and poll workers will not 6 look to see if the last name was his 7 first name or vice versa and 8 Asia-American voters, then, are not 9 provided with provisional ballots and 10 often are turned away from polls. 11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 12 you, Mr. Vattamala. I appreciate it. 13 Ms. Roper, you're here. We 14 thank you. We are going to ask you to 15 speak next. And Ms. Mary Catherine 16 Roper is senior staff attorney with 17 the ACLU of Pennsylvania. Thank you 18 for being here. 19 MS. ROPER: Well, thank you 20 very much for your patience with me. 21 I was just in court until a couple 22 minutes ago. I apologize for being 23 late. 24 The ACLU of Pennsylvania is	Page 81 1 so on about voter ID, but I have to 2 say that the overwhelming problem, 3 both in and very-much outside of 4 Philadelphia, has to do with 5 registrations, lost registrations, 6 names not in the book, people holding 7 their voter registration cards in 8 their hand were not able to vote. 9 These problems were, I'll 10 say, far-more prevalent in areas where 11 there is a large student population, 12 as well as a few other select areas, 13 Wilkes-Barre, turned out -- which does 14 have a university and it has a couple 15 universities around there -- that 16 turned out to be an area of great 17 concern. 18 So every election, there are 19 some problems, right? There are 20 always some -- some judges of 21 elections who are being incredibly 22 aggressive about challenging voters. 23 There are always complaints about 24 constables and their sort of

Page 82 1 threatening presence outside of 2 polling places. That's a constant 3 complaint. And uncooperative voting 4 officials and always, of course, there 5 are problems with voting places that 6 are simply too small. 7 In 2008, the most noticeable 8 example of that was at Lincoln -- 9 outside Lincoln University in Chester 10 County. In 2012, there were a lot of 11 problems in North Hampton County, in 12 particular, with the polling places. 13 They were just not adequate for the 14 numbers of people there. There were 15 also, just frankly, problems that had 16 to do with acts of God, a storm and so 17 on. 18 So -- but I will say that 19 the one, obviously, addressable 20 problem that we saw, just in huge 21 numbers of complaints, was the 22 registration problems. Didn't see 23 those kinds of problems in 2008. Have 24 not seen them, of course, in the	Page 84 1 Mr. Jamaal Craig, with the United 2 Steelworkers, to present his 3 testimony. 4 MR. CRAIG: Thank you. 5 I, in 2012, according to the 6 AFL-CIO statewide programs, My Vote, 7 My Right, election protection program 8 here in Pennsylvania and, as Ms. Roper 9 stated, some of these problems that we 10 see -- well, let me just say we had 11 hundreds of activists out at the 12 polling locations throughout the 13 state, monitoring Election Day 14 activity to complain -- in regards to 15 those complaints and assisting voters. 16 We were part of the 17 coalition that she spoke to as well. 18 As she stated, one of the big problems 19 was registration and something that I 20 want to speak on with regards to that 21 problem was the fact that people -- 22 the poll workers, there seemed like 23 there was a lack of understanding on 24 their part.
Page 83 1 smaller elections which we also 2 staffed, but in 2012, that was 3 overwhelming. That was something that 4 we, unfortunately, could not really 5 remedy and that wasn't something that 6 we could go to court over or 7 something. The only thing we could do 8 was pressure local officials into 9 allowing people to file provisional 10 ballots. I think that proved to be 11 largest story of this election. 12 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 13 you, Ms. Roper. 14 For the benefit of all the 15 panelists, the form is we have given 16 each of you at least five minutes to 17 speak or five minutes and then after 18 that, we will have about an equal 19 amount of time in this case -- about 20 twenty minutes -- for questions that 21 will come from my fellow commissioners 22 and then we also have discussions that 23 will take place. 24 Next, I'd like to invite	Page 85 1 So training is something 2 that -- that could be really 3 beneficial in my eyes. Again, lots of 4 problems in terms of the access and 5 she mentioned it as polling locations 6 being too small, but there's some 7 polling locations that I saw that had 8 a number of problems reported, where 9 there were different activities taking 10 place in the polling locations and it 11 just caused lots of confusion and 12 people interfering with the election 13 process that had nothing to do with 14 it. 15 A couple of other things I 16 wanted to notate was, in some areas in 17 the predominantly African-American 18 communities -- the smaller 19 African-American communities in 20 Western Pennsylvania, there were 21 issues of -- where we had State 22 constables on site, brandishing -- 23 well, in their daily uniform with 24 weapons and people had problems and

Page 86 1 there were reports of poll workers 2 reporting different situations to 3 these constables that had nothing to 4 do with the role of election -- you 5 know, administering the election. 6 So when we address these 7 things, they kind of cleared up a 8 little, but moving forward throughout 9 the day, they resurfaced. So some 10 clarity in terms of law enforcement 11 personnel being on site, who is 12 responsible for those types of things, 13 you know, signage explaining these 14 types of things. I mean, I think the 15 hotline that we talked about was 16 beneficial in reporting that and 17 having some assistance to explain 18 that, but that's a hotline, it worked, 19 but it would be beneficial to have 20 somebody from the Election Commission 21 administering that type of -- answers 22 to those types of questions on the 23 site because it is more official in 24 that capacity.	Page 88 1 focused on the need for the 2 empowerment for individual voters by 3 making nonpartisan voter education a 4 cornerstone of any attempts to 5 introduce reform in the election 6 process in the commonwealth of 7 Pennsylvania. 8 Too often, voters, on 9 Election Day, are offered a phone 10 number and I've heard it mentioned 11 here twice already. They are offered 12 a phone number to call after-the-fact 13 when some voting irregularity is 14 observed or experienced, rather than 15 an opportunity to learn what their 16 rights are as voters, once they 17 register and vote and well before they 18 go to the polls. 19 Well-meaning voter advocacy 20 organizations are awarded grants based 21 upon what they claim they can do to 22 document violations of the voters' 23 rights on Election Day, rather than 24 arranging for nonpartisan voter
Page 87 1 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 2 you. Thank you, Mr. Craig. 3 Now, I'll ask Joe Certaine, 4 who, for the record, is a personal and 5 professional friend and colleague of 6 mine, to present his testimony and 7 Mr. -- 8 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: We won't 9 hold it against him. 10 COMMISSIONER CORTES: 11 Absolutely, we won't hold it against 12 Joe. Never. Joe is here with the 13 Pennsylvania Voter ID Coalition. 14 MR. CERTAINE: Well, I'm 15 formerly. 16 COMMISSIONER CORTES: 17 Formerly. That's how I introduced you 18 before. He's former operation 19 director. 20 MR. CERTAINE: What I have 21 to say today -- and thank you for 22 allowing me the opportunity to present 23 this -- this testimony. 24 What I have to say is really	Page 89 1 education and training for registered 2 voters long before they go to the 3 polls to vote. They pride themselves 4 on so-called election protection 5 programs that force voters to become 6 dependent upon their largesse on 7 Election Day. 8 Most of these programs seem 9 to prefer publicizing their efforts to 10 react to voter victimization, rather 11 than educating and training voters to 12 help themselves. More needs to be 13 done to allow voter empowerment to 14 become a reality in Pennsylvania, 15 providing access to current, accurate 16 and nonpartisan information and 17 showing voters how to use the tools 18 available, for nonpartisan voter 19 education training is the only real 20 way to ensure informed long-term voter 21 participation in Pennsylvania. 22 During the lead up to the 23 2013 general election, I received an 24 urgent message from community leaders

Page 90

1 in nearby Chester County, PA. Now,
 2 you would think that they had learned 3 something, but they explained that,
 4 even though Pennsylvania Commonwealth
 5 Court had stopped the Commonwealth
 6 from enforcing PA Act 18, the 7 Pennsylvania voter ID law, on Election
 8 Day, November 5th, partisan political 9 operatives at the neighborhood level 10 were telling voters that they would 11 have to produce and show an ID card on 12 Election Day to be allowed to vote.
 13 The leaders asked for 14 assistance in educating voters in the 15 neighborhood that the PA Court has 16 said voters didn't need to show an ID.
 17 Dissemination of false or misleading 18 information is routinely done in 19 economically-disadvantaged voter
 20 precincts and in communities of color.
 21 Only comprehensive,
 22 nonpartisan voter education
 23 opportunities at the neighborhood 24 level can ensure availability of

Page 92

1 law, heading off what surely would 2 have truly been a disastrous Election
 3 Day in Pennsylvania. And I mean
 4 disastrous.
 5 The numbers that were given
 6 to people to call for election
 7 protection didn't work. Most people
 8 couldn't get through. When you did
 9 get through, there was no response.
 10 People felt intimidated about going 11 into inner-city areas. There's a 12 whole raft of problems associated with 13 this whole election protection
 14 nonsense.
 15 As a grass-roots organizer
 16 and voting rights field operator for 17 decades, I've seen the variety of ways 18 used by political machines to 19 manipulate the potential registrants
 20 and voters who are entirely unfamiliar 21 with the voting process and procedures
 22 on Election Day.
 23 In Philadelphia County, 24 Pennsylvania, there have been

Page 91

1 current and accurate information about
 2 the election process for voters.
 3 The recent ongoing attempt 4 to impose requirements for photo voter
 5 ID cards in Pennsylvania was itself a 6 very intimidating experience for 7 Pennsylvania African-American voters
 8 especially.
 9 The restrictions built into 10 the law harkened back fifty years to 11 the suppressive election tactics like 12 the poll tax or the required
 13 recitation of parts of the U.S.
 14 Constitution in order to qualify to 15 vote. In Pennsylvania, during the 16 2012 general election, a daring
 17 attempt was made to disenfranchise
 18 enough presidential voters to ensure a 19 defeat for the incumbent.
 20 African-American voters
 21 realized that, once again, attempts 22 were being made to stop them from 23 voting. There was great relief when 24 the Court stopped enforcement of the

Page 93

1 innumerable examples of political 2 parties discouraging voter
 3 registration efforts by anyone other 4 than a dominant political apparatus in 5 a certain area.
 6 On many occasions, the party
 7 officials of the dominant political 8 party in the neighborhood will 9 actively discourage independent,
 10 nonpartisan voter registration
 11 activities in order to maintain that 12 political dominance. They do not 13 offer, nor will they support any 14 nonpartisan voter-education efforts at 15 the neighborhood and grassroots level.
 16 As I recall, during my years
 17 of activism, I can only remember two 18 -- two different Philadelphia County
 19 commissioners who actively encouraged
 20 and participated in nonpartisan voter
 21 registration and education activities
 22 at the neighborhood level. The result
 23 of this abdication of responsibility
 24 by election officials, coupled with

Page 94 1 the lack of even basic civics lessons 2 in the school system contribute to the 3 apathy and lack of information about 4 voting rights in general, in 5 Philadelphia and throughout 6 Pennsylvania. 7 This has given rise to 8 numerous organizations whose announce 9 goal is to protect voters' rights on 10 Election Day. If individual voters 11 were to have meaningful access to 12 opportunities for nonpartisan voter 13 education and Election Day training by 14 credible, nonpartisan instructors, 15 voter empowerment would sharply 16 increase and participation on Election 17 Day would greatly improve. 18 There are other obstacles 19 traditionally contributing to 20 confusion and voters suppression. 21 They include the lack of advertising 22 of upcoming elections. There is 23 like -- you know, there's a notice in 24 the newspaper an election is coming	Page 96 1 actually there was a couple of minutes 2 from each -- 3 COMMISSIONER CORTES: We are 4 still sticking to the five. 5 MR. CERTAINE: So you're 6 telling me to shut up? 7 COMMISSIONER CORTES: No. 8 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: We 9 didn't say that. 10 MR. CERTAINE: Yes? 11 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: We 12 have the opportunity to explore -- 13 MR. CERTAINE: Mary told me 14 yes, so... 15 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: -- 16 some of the other points during the 17 question-and-answer period. 18 MR. CERTAINE: Anyway, 19 that's -- there's more, but I -- it's 20 submitted so... 21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: We 22 thank you, Mr. Certaine. 23 And we will proceed with 24 questions from the commissioners.
Page 95 1 and then there's another one a little 2 bit later that talks about polling 3 places and who is running and that's 4 it. You might get an editorial insert 5 at some point to talk about the 6 candidates and their qualifications, 7 but that's it. 8 So there's no real 9 opportunity for voters -- voters, not 10 these organizations -- voters to learn 11 what it is they must do in order to be 12 able to vote and vote for the 13 candidate that they choose on Election 14 Day. 15 Revising regulations and 16 formulas for placement of voting 17 machines, that's already been gone 18 over here. 19 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: We 20 definitely value your testimony, but 21 we are trying to keep to a timetable. 22 MR. CERTAINE: Oh, am I over 23 time? 24 THE TIMEKEEPER: Well,	Page 97 1 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: 2 Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Let me ask 3 the young man, Mr. Vattamala? 4 MR. VATTAMALA: Vattamala. 5 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: 6 Vattamala. Is that Spanish? 7 MR. VATTAMALA: That's 8 Indian. 9 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: We 10 have lot of ballot questions in 11 Pennsylvania. It didn't always 12 happen. Like forty years ago, they 13 were rare, but they are far more -- we 14 see a lot more ballot questions now. 15 It's a referendum kind of system, but 16 you didn't mention that and that 17 concerns me because that as Joe has 18 just said -- and I know Joe very 19 well -- there is no public discussion 20 about ballot questions among English 21 speakers at all -- print, news media, 22 radio, television. 23 So in your community, how do 24 you even know what's going on with the

Page 98

1 spending of the bond issue money and 2 certain regulations that are taking 3 place? I mean, that's a whole dark
 4 secret that's somewhere in the next 5 universe.
 6 MR. VATTAMALA: In a ways,
 7 yes. I mean, we try and crawl before 8 we can walk. Just getting them to the 9 poll site, knowing when the election
 10 is. Voting on the non-ballot issues 11 is a victory for us.
 12 So it's a challenge getting 13 citizens -- immigrants to naturalize 14 and to register to vote and to 15 actually make it to the poll site and 16 be able to actually -- to vote is 17 really what we try and do.
 18 There are concerns sometimes 19 when those ballot initiatives are hard 20 to understand when they are in 21 English. When they are translated, it
 22 makes it even that much tougher.
 23 In New York, where there was 24 about six ballot initiatives and

Page 99

1 number four and number five were 2 exactly the same in the Chinese
 3 version that was translated. They 4 just copied and pasted it. Nobody 5 caught it until one of our people 6 caught it, one of our volunteers and 7 we, then, we had to report that to the 8 Board, but if there are interpreters
 9 there, interpreters could point out
 10 that, well, on the back of the ballot, 11 there is some initiatives that you can 12 vote on and can explain what those 13 mean.
 14 So we really need -- the 15 interpreters are the most integral 16 part of the voting process for someone 17 that's limited-English proficient.
 18 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: Is 19 that a matter of money? Is that 20 what's blocking the interpreters?
 21 MR. VATTAMALA: No, it's not 22 a matter of money.
 23 Since Asian languages are 24 not covered under 203 in

Page 100

1 Philadelphia -- Spanish is covered so
 2 they have Spanish interpreters because 3 they are required to do so under 4 federal law -- but since they don't 5 have the same requirement for Asian 6 languages, they're saying, hey, we're 7 not required to do that, we're not 8 going to do that, but everybody
 9 suffers as the result.
 10 And, also, the poll workers,
 11 not knowing, you know, that Section 12 203 allows these voters to be assisted 13 by any person of their choice, as long 14 as it's not their boss or union rep.
 15 They don't know that. So someone that 16 could assist them, usually a family 17 member, is prevented from going into 18 the voting booth with them, with the 19 voter and the voter, ultimately, is 20 not able to vote.
 21 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: You
 22 mentioned a city solicitor. Do you 23 remember who it was?
 24 MR. VATTAMALA: Yes, it

Page 101

1 was -- we met with Bob Aversa.
 2 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Bob
 3 Aversa, he worked for the -- for the 4 Election Commission.
 5 COMMISSIONER SINGER: No.
 6 He worked for the City Solicitor's
 7 office.
 8 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: City
 9 Solicitor's office?
 10 COMMISSIONER SINGER: Yes.
 11 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: So he 12 was an assistant. You never got to go
 13 to the boss?
 14 MR. VATTAMALA: No. We also 15 met with Al Schmidt.
 16 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Al
 17 Schmidt is the chairman, right?
 18 MS. SINGER: No. He's vice 19 chair.
 20 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Vice
 21 chair?
 22 MS. SINGER: Yes.
 23 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Okay.
 24 MR. VATTAMALA: We brought

Page 102 1 our observations from the past 2 elections. 3 After every election, we 4 follow-up the jurisdiction and detail 5 our results. We have an exit poll 6 survey that asks the voters questions 7 about when they became a citizen, what 8 language they speak, if interpreter 9 services were available, if 10 translations were available, if they 11 encountered any problems, were they 12 required to show ID, were they 13 required to show proof of citizenship. 14 In the last 2012 election, 15 we had 246 Asia-American voters that 16 were required to prove their 17 citizenship at the poll sites on 18 Election Day. It's really 19 unbelievable. 20 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: The 21 Asian community contributes a lot of 22 money to the politics of Philadelphia. 23 Particularly, the Korean community. 24 And I'm wondering what kind of	Page 104 1 English only, that said the poll site 2 has been moved. We called the city 3 solicitor and the commissioner's 4 office the day of the election because 5 once we sent our observers there, they 6 saw the sign. 7 There are numerous 8 Chinese-American voters that use that 9 poll site, that use interpreter 10 services. That's one of the poll 11 sites where they did have an 12 interpreter. 13 None of them -- none of 14 those voters would know that the poll 15 site moved because all there was, was 16 just one sign in English. So that's 17 very important for us and for our 18 voters in our community, something 19 like a poll site change really needs 20 to be displayed in different 21 languages. 22 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: 23 Mr. Certaine, you've had some powerful 24 positions in your life after you were
Page 103 1 influence they have been asserting, if 2 any, on some of those issues. 3 MR. VATTAMALA: Well, I 4 can't necessarily speak to that, but 5 in terms of interpreter services and 6 language assistance, there is none 7 available right now. It is very 8 limited. What we have so far, in 9 2012, is four -- four interpreters. 10 At one point, there was many more than 11 that after the U.S. v. Philadelphia 12 settlement. 13 At this point, the city 14 solicitor says, well, you know, we'll 15 voluntarily arrange, in 2006, to 16 provide Asian language assistance. 17 Now, their stance is, well, what 18 agreement, we didn't have any 19 agreement with you. 20 One last point, the Benjamin 21 Franklin House was a poll site that we 22 observed for many years. It was moved 23 a couple years ago for compliance with 24 the ADA. There was one sign, in	Page 105 1 an activist and I've known you all 2 that long. 3 I'm trying to figure out, 4 from what you said in your testimony, 5 why wasn't -- why aren't you able to 6 impose civic lessons somehow in our 7 educational programs or otherwise? 8 MR. CERTAINE: Well, because 9 it wasn't under my jurisdiction, 10 Judge, because if it had been -- 11 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: You were 12 the managing director of the City of 13 Philadelphia. 14 MR. CERTAINE: But managing 15 director doesn't have any jurisdiction 16 over the school system at all, but had 17 there been that kind of jurisdiction, 18 we wouldn't have the situation we have 19 now. 20 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Let me 21 tell you what we did in the Midwest, 22 was we had an educational program 23 funded by the -- some of the 24 foundations to come into the schools

Page 106

1 with voting machines and give a
 2 leadership development training on the 3 voting process and that elevated, not 4 only the opportunities for voter 5 participation, but elevated the 6 candidates that came out when they 7 left high school to participate in the 8 electoral process.
 9 MR. CERTAINE: Judge, if you
 10 remember during the time of the 11 Philadelphia Urban Coalition, not this 12 new hybrid --
 13 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: The real
 14 one.
 15 MR. CERTAINE: The real one.
 16 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: When you
 17 and I were kids.
 18 MR. CERTAINE: When we were 19 children, yes. We used to, through 20 the Voter Education Project through 21 the Coalition, we used to go into 22 schools to help history teachers and 23 other teachers provide information to 24 students about the election process.

Page 107

1 We used to take small
 2 machines, sample machines provided by 3 the county commission's office, but 4 that was during the time -- well, that 5 was during another era. It doesn't 6 seem to be that important now.
 7 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Well,
 8 you know, I'm with you on the -- as 9 you know -- on the civic issue because 10 it used to be part of the school
 11 curriculums when most of the schools 12 were white. Now that most of the 13 public schools happen to be 14 African-American or Latino, I don't 15 see any civic lessons promoted in most 16 of those institutions and I'm not 17 saying it's discrimination, but I'm 18 saying there is an apparent impact, in 19 terms of the priority, thereby, in 20 terms of educating people on how you
 21 become a voter or how you participate 22 in a democratic country, but that's 23 another argument.
 24 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: Just

Page 108

1 a point of the clarification for
 2 Mr. Vattamala.
 3 Is it your organization's 4 position that you prefer to have the 5 City provide the interpreters or is it 6 your position that you would prefer to 7 really provide more information and 8 more training for the people who are 9 working at the poll places to let them
 10 have, so that the voter is comfortable
 11 with coming to the poll. It doesn't 12 necessarily have to be either or. I'm 13 just curious if there is a preference 14 for your organization.
 15 MR. VATTAMALA: I wouldn't 16 say they are mutually exclusive. We 17 definitely want both. I mean, for a 18 poll worker to know that they have to 19 follow federal law -- I mean, they 20 should know that and that's something 21 that is -- unfortunately, we shouldn't 22 have to advocate for it. That's a 23 federal right that every voter has in 24 every poll site across the country.

Page 109

1 You know, 203 only applies to certain 2 jurisdictions, certain languages.
 3 You know, 208, the provision 4 that allows a person to be accompanied 5 by a person of their choice applies
 6 everywhere. And, unfortunately, too 7 many poll workers don't know that.
 8 So they definitely need to 9 be educated about that, but that is 10 not something that's on the table.
 11 They have to follow that.
 12 In terms of supplying 13 interpreters, we are happy to assist 14 and that's what we have done in the 15 past. Their position, at this point, 16 is provide interpreters to us or there 17 will be no interpreters and that is 18 not acceptable. There needs to be a 19 partnership there, where we are 20 willing to work with them to provide 21 as many interpreters where it's 22 needed. Some places, it's not needed.
 23 We are not saying that every poll site 24 should have interpreters in every

Page 110

1 language, but there are certain poll
 2 sites that we know there are a large
 3 number of limited-English proficient
 4 immigrant communities that are 5 naturalizing, that they are coming out
 6 to vote and there is a real problem
 7 there, in everyone's eyes.

8 COMMISSIONER CORTES: I have 9 a comment and a question as well, just 10 going back to Mr. Certaine's testimony 11 and his very strong opinions about the 12 role of the voter protection groups 13 and one of the thoughts -- and,
 14 actually, an experience I had with 15 those working closely with some of the 16 groups that are represented here today
 17 is that I took a little bit of 18 issue -- and I appreciate the work of 19 all of the voter protection groups. I 20 took a little bit of issue with the 21 information on the voting
 22 irregularities will be taken on 23 Election Day, but will not be shared 24 with the Department of State until

Page 111

1 after the election because, after the 2 election, that person already was 3 disfranchised, but as part of the 4 ongoing battle, one of the things that 5 we did is ask the county -- ask any of 6 the groups that learn about anything, 7 to call us so that we can try to 8 remedy it. It was not perfect. We 9 didn't reach everybody. Sometimes we 10 couldn't even just get the local 11 person to answer the phone so they 12 could be corrected, but just a general 13 thought and I think, Joe, that it got 14 much better once we were able to get 15 information almost real time but,
 16 sometimes, it was very difficult.

17 So for my part, I do
 18 appreciate the work of all the voting
 19 protection groups, but I do recognize 20 that if the information doesn't come 21 in a timely fashion, it can be very,
 22 very challenging.

23 Ms. Roper, do you want to 24 comment on that? I have a question,

Page 112

1 but I will certainly give you time to 2 express your thoughts.

3 MS. ROPER: Thank you very 4 much. I would like to comment on that 5 and say that, in 2008, we had an open 6 line to the Department of State and 7 the Department of State helped us
 8 resolve a number of problems around 9 the commonwealth. That was not 10 repeated in 2012. We did not have 11 that same kind of cooperation and some 12 counties are -- always, our first call
 13 is to the county or to the county
 14 solicitor, to whoever we can reach.
 15 Sometimes, it's one or the other and,
 16 sometimes, it's neither.

17 And so in trying -- we are 18 not simply collecting complaints. We 19 are trying to resolve issues on the 20 spot, so that voters can vote. That 21 is the whole goal.

22 In addition, we do create
 23 voter education ahead of time,
 24 distributing thousands and thousands

Page 113

1 of pieces of literature about voting
 2 rights, which we, in fact, had to 3 revise over and over again as things
 4 changed with respect to the voter ID
 5 case, but I completely agree that the 6 way to address this is to have the 7 ability to reach the government
 8 officials who can actually make a
 9 difference on that day. That is by no 10 means uniformly available in the 11 commonwealth.

12 COMMISSIONER CORTES: I
 13 appreciate it.

14 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Let 15 me -- let me add, if I may, the state
 16 law obligates the secretary of state 17 to be the official supervisor of the 18 elections. The big problem that I've 19 had in my litigation is that they 20 always delegate their authority to the 21 county and, thereby, having difficulty
 22 getting the secretary of state -- I'm 23 talking about secretary of state
 24 position -- the secretary of state

Page 114 1 implementation of the issue, the 2 county commissioners, they just don't 3 want to get into the political fight 4 between the commissioner and the 5 secretary of state and so that the 6 lack of the secretary of state taking 7 authority over their legal authority, 8 is one of the difficulties I have had 9 in my litigation working between them. 10 And I don't know how to resolve that, 11 outside of getting rid of the 12 commissioners, you know. 13 MS. ROPER: Your Honor, I 14 think one of the things that is just 15 simply a reality is that a lot of 16 these issues have to be dealt with at 17 the county level. 18 I mean, we -- and you know, 19 open a phone line to the secretary of 20 state's office. I don't mean the 21 secretary of state themselves, but 22 since the secretary of state's office 23 can be tremendously helpful if that 24 person will, then, turn around and	Page 116 1 been there forever. 2 So if you're a first-time 3 voter because you're a new voter or 4 you happen to change voting locations, 5 the poll books are flagged to ask you 6 for a form of ID. It's not a photo 7 ID. It's rather expansive. It could 8 be a phone bill. It could be 9 anything. However, it is very 10 challenging for certain -- our voters 11 and citizens to come up with even 12 that, but anyhow -- so be that as it 13 may, but if you happen to come into 14 the polling place and you're a 15 first-time voter and don't have the 16 proper ID, if you happen to not be in 17 the poll book, but you attest and you 18 say, yes, I registered on time or if 19 your vote is challenged, you're 20 supposed to get a provisional ballot, 21 but there is challenges with that as a 22 form to vote. 23 So sound bite, thirty 24 seconds, if you can, for the benefit
Page 115 1 call county offices, but the fact is 2 that these things have to be handled 3 on the county level and I -- it would 4 be terrific if we had leadership from 5 the secretary of state to require 6 counties and make counties accountable 7 for their availability and their 8 response on Election Day. 9 COMMISSIONER CORTES: We 10 have less than five minutes to 11 conclude this panel and I was going to 12 throw out there a thought-provoking 13 comment and question, so I want to 14 challenge everyone to maybe sound 15 bites of thirty seconds tops, but it 16 goes to the issue of provisional 17 ballots because when someone is unable 18 to vote, in Pennsylvania, they use a 19 provisional ballot, as required by 20 HAVA and other laws, is that if you 21 happen to come to the polling place -- 22 and by the way, there is voter ID 23 requirements in Pennsylvania for 24 first-time voters and that's always	Page 117 1 of the Commission and for the record, 2 issues with provisional ballots and, 3 more so, what would be solutions that 4 you see based on the current law and 5 anyone can take the lead on that. 6 MS. ROPER: I'll take a 7 start. Thank you. The ability to 8 file a -- to fill out a provisional 9 ballot is always a start for a remedy, 10 because what that does is provide the 11 voter basically a placeholder and an 12 opportunity to come back and 13 demonstrate his or her right to vote, 14 which is incredible for -- frankly, 15 just most people are not going to be 16 able to meet to follow that up with 17 the county officials and so on. 18 I will tell that you, in 19 Philadelphia at least, there were a 20 number of polling sites running out of 21 the provisional ballots because of the 22 number of registration issues that 23 were going on. Provisional ballots 24 are, I would say, really not a

Page 118

1 practical solution. They are,
 2 perhaps, more a way of registering the 3 number of problems, than actually 4 getting people to vote.
 5 COMMISSIONER CORTES:
 6 Mr. Vattamala?
 7 MR. VATTAMALA: Provisional
 8 ballots come up a lot in our work
 9 because, as I mentioned,
 10 Asian-American naming conventions, 11 often times, are outstanding by any 12 convention, so there are numerous 13 issues that pop up on Election Day.
 14 One thing that we try to do
 15 is educate the voters to know that 16 there is no circumstance in which you
 17 should walk away from the poll site
 18 and say I just couldn't vote. It is a 19 mandate. It's a temporary measure
 20 that -- at the very least, it's a good 21 thing that there's that emergency
 22 measure in place. Too many poll 23 workers don't even know about that and 24 not enough voters know about that.

Page 119

1 So I think there needs to be 2 a lot more education on it and what we 3 try and do on Election Day, we have -- 4 all of our volunteers are given a
 5 phone number to call on Election Day.
 6 It's usually the local 7 jurisdiction's number to report
 8 problems, but our volunteers outside
 9 of the poll site are also informed -- 10 well, wait a second, they are supposed 11 to get a provisional ballot, go back 12 inside and demand a provisional ballot
 13 so that you can vote.
 14 We keep track that 15 provisional ballots are being filled
 16 out by our survey. It's a troubling 17 trend that the number increases, but 18 there is just too many that are not 19 even offered the provisional ballot.
 20 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 21 you, Mr. Vattamala.
 22 Mr. Craig?
 23 MR. CRAIG: As it's been 24 stated about provisional ballots, it's

Page 120

1 a Band-Aid and I think some serious --
 2 some serious thought and efforts
 3 should go into looking at the areas 4 where the concentration -- the highest 5 concentration of these provisional
 6 ballots is coming from and I think 7 that will shed some light in terms of 8 how we deal with some of the other
 9 problems that we have in our election 10 system and the practices.
 11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 12 you.
 13 Mr. Certaine, do you have a
 14 comment?
 15 MR. CERTAINE: In 2012, in 16 the 11th ward of the city of 17 Philadelphia, there was a drastic 18 shortage of provisional ballots and 19 they were needed because the -- the 20 books with the voters' names in them 21 were so messed up, that people who had 22 voted for years were not able to vote
 23 that day because their names were not 24 in the books. They ran out of

Page 121

1 provisional ballots and they really 2 couldn't get anymore, so all those 3 people were disfranchised.
 4 The other thing is that 5 the -- under the voter ID law, you had 6 six days to -- if you didn't have ID, 7 under this law, you had six days to 8 present formal identification to the 9 County Commissioner's office. Two of 10 those days were holidays -- were 11 weekend days. You know, so the 12 reality of a lot of this maneuvering
 13 with provisional ballots would be not 14 necessary, first of all, if election 15 workers were trained and there was 16 synchronization between the 17 Commonwealth and the County and voting
 18 precinct on who is eligible to vote.
 19 And, secondly, if voters
 20 were better educated about what the 21 process is and what their rights are,
 22 they wouldn't need as many provisional
 23 ballots either.
 24 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank

Page 122

1 you, Mr. Certaine.
 2 And I want to thank all the 3 panelists for their testimony and,
 4 also, as I said to the first panel,
 5 for all the things you do on a daily 6 basis to protect the rights of voters.
 7 Thank you.
 8 At this time, we are going
 9 to move on to the section or the part 10 of the program in which we have an 11 open mic for public testimony, but we 12 do have or -- we ask that you, please, 13 let us know that you want to speak.
 14 We will do that now.
 15 As a reminder, the speakers
 16 will have three minutes and I kindly 17 ask, just as we've done for the 18 private speakers, to please keep an 19 eye, if you can on -- I would invite 20 my friend who was here at the end to 21 come back and show us the time. So 22 you have three minutes, if you could,
 23 please, to present your testimony.
 24 I have, already, some names

Page 123

1 that I'm going to call and then we 2 will hear your thoughts. You have 3 three minutes, please.
 4 And the first person that 5 I'd like to invite up is Mr. Rahat
 6 Babar, please, with the APABA
 7 Pennsylvania, he is the president.
 8 And I understand you want to 9 talk about issues for Asian-American 10 voters. If would you, please, come 11 up. I guess we have microphones at 12 that end as well. Go ahead. You can 13 use that microphone as well. Thank 14 you, sir.
 15 MR. BABAR: Thank you very 16 much. As you know, my name is Rahat
 17 Babar. I'm the president of Asian 18 Pacific American Bar Association of 19 Pennsylvania. This year, APABA
 20 celebrates our 30th anniversary as an 21 organization dedicated to advancing 22 its members and promoting justice and 23 equality and legal access for all 24 Asian-Pacific communities.

Page 124

1 For years, the APABA-PA, in 2 partnership with several 3 organizations -- including all of them
 4 here -- worked to meet the challenges
 5 facing our constituencies in 6 exercising their voting rights. Our 7 work included, for example,
 8 registration drives and poll
 9 monitoring to protect the fundamental 10 right to vote.
 11 Our efforts, however, rose 12 to another level upon the enactment of 13 Pennsylvania's voter ID law. In March 14 2012, the beginning of a presidential 15 election year, the Pennsylvania
 16 legislature passed, and the Governor 17 of Pennsylvania signed, Act 18 of 18 2012. The law required that every 19 voter that appeared at the polls to 20 show acceptable proof of photo 21 identification as a prerequisite to 22 voting. The law specified the form 23 that the photo identification must 24 take in order to pass muster.

Page 125

1 Moreover, the name on the 2 identification must be substantially 3 conforming to the name listed on the 4 voter's registration record.
 5 Even when the law was 6 subject to a partial preliminary 7 injunction during the 2012 elections,
 8 we discovered that poll workers
 9 applied the voter ID law in a
 10 discriminatory way against Asian 11 Americans and other persons of color.
 12 Some Asian-American voters were 13 subject to excessive requests to 14 present identification and, in other 15 instances, required to prove 16 citizenship. We observed that the 17 Commonwealth failed to adequately
 18 provide Asian-American voters of 19 limited-English proficiency with 20 information about the requirements of 21 the law.
 22 In addition, the voter ID
 23 law imposed a disproportionate burden
 24 for the naturalized citizens to obtain

Page 126 1 valid photo identification since those 2 who did not have a naturalization 3 certificate would be deterred from 4 voting given the lengthy time and 5 expense to obtain a replacement 6 certificate. 7 Very quickly, we realized 8 that the voter ID law would impose 9 unconstitutional obstacles, in 10 addition to the existing barriers that 11 Asian Americans already face at the 12 polls. For voters to obtain a 13 compliant form of identification, they 14 would be required to submit vigorous 15 supporting documentation. Considering 16 that many Asian Americans, as we heard 17 earlier today, have different naming 18 conventions, voter roll errors were 19 bound to occur. 20 As a result, poll workers -- 21 who often are unfamiliar with the 22 cultural norms of the community -- 23 would have to make a determination on 24 whether the name on the identification	Page 128 1 and the Asian American Legal Defense 2 and Education Fund submitted an amicus 3 brief in the litigation that 4 challenged constitutionality of the 5 voter ID law. Thankfully, the 6 Commonwealth Court has recently issued 7 a permanent injunction barring the 8 enforcement of the voter ID law and, 9 while a post-trial motion is pending, 10 the injunction remains in place. 11 As this commission travels 12 the country to hear stories and 13 testimony about the challenges to 14 voting rights and election 15 administration, I trust that the 16 lessons learned here in Pennsylvania 17 provide insight to the harm that 18 restrictive voter ID requirements have 19 on the franchise. 20 As the Commonwealth Court 21 recognized in its decision, the right 22 to vote, fundamentally in 23 Pennsylvania, is irreplaceable, 24 necessitating its protection before
Page 127 1 is substantially conforming. 2 These concerns, among 3 others, raised significant 4 consternation that the requirements of 5 the voter ID law would -- as a recent 6 court decision recognized -- weigh 7 most heavily on members of the 8 society. 9 In response, the APABA-PA 10 has engaged in numerous outreach 11 efforts in educating the community on 12 the requirements of the voter ID law. 13 We joined the Pennsylvania Voter ID 14 Coalition, where organizations of all 15 stripes banded together to collaborate 16 and share resources to educate voters 17 on the requirements of the voter ID 18 law. 19 I see that my time is 20 expired. Can I have thirty seconds? 21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thirty 22 seconds. 23 MR. BABAR: Thank you. 24 On the legal front, APABA-PA	Page 129 1 any deprivation occurs. So many 2 before us have sacrificed so much that 3 we must continue to preserve and 4 ensure every citizen's right to vote. 5 Thank you very much. 6 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 7 you. We appreciate your testimony. 8 At this time, I invite 9 Mr. Sam Hawk to present testimony. 10 MR. HAWK: Hello, my point 11 in being here -- okay -- I have like 12 four things just quickly to say. One 13 is the absentee. I would like to 14 cooperate, in general, with voting and 15 in forming the procedures. 16 Availability in different 17 languages, especially ASL, is 18 something. Like for me, if I go in, 19 there is a procedure -- wait -- should 20 I go on -- okay -- cooperate with us. 21 There should be some 22 practices associated with deaf and 23 hard of hearing voters. Like, I'll 24 give you an example. A voter -- I

Page 130

1 come in, I'm eligible to vote, but 2 they are challenging that eligibility
 3 in the voting place and when that 4 happens, the poll place becomes -- the 5 judge of elections comes up and it
 6 should be just quickly. It should be 7 quickly, but if a deaf person comes in 8 and they can challenge them, you know,
 9 what is the procedures for me? How am 10 I going to be accommodated? That's 11 just one thing I'm asking about.
 12 In general, there is 13 different voting procedures. I don't 14 have any idea what your best practices
 15 are for communicating -- communication
 16 accessibility.
 17 Now, deaf-blind -- 18 accommodations for deaf-blind. If 19 people who come in, they are deaf, 20 they can't hear, then they can't see 21 and ASL is their language, they can't 22 see and, now, they bring someone with 23 them. I am -- 70,000 people that have 24 both hearing and -- deaf and blind

Page 131

1 around here. And, for them, they tend 2 to be collecting absentee ballots.
 3 Now, if we get them to 4 accommodate them, deaf-blind tend to 5 bring somebody with them and then they 6 show them what to do. The voters, 7 they bring someone with them and we're 8 supposed to be able to do that if we 9 don't have the absentee ballot card, 10 but that second person doesn't get to 11 come in with them.
 12 Now, why not solve that 13 problem? It's better if a deaf-blind 14 person needs to bring someone that 15 backs up themselves. Maybe they pay
 16 someone or have they right -- maybe 17 they have the right to vote and make 18 some changes. We need to make some 19 changes, predominantly in the way they 20 can vote.
 21 And, lastly, the 22 interpreter. Hearings need
 23 interpreters, yes, but ASL's position 24 in the polling place is a little

Page 132

1 challenging -- okay -- but please --
 2 did you hold up -- oh, I have to stop.
 3 She said stop. So I guess I'll stop.
 4 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Well,
 5 thank you. Thank you, Mr. -- Mr.
 6 Hawk, anything else that you wanted to 7 present very briefly?
 8 MR. HAWK: Yes.
 9 COMMISSIONER CORTES: And I
 10 want to thank our timekeeper because 11 she is doing her job. I do appreciate
 12 it.
 13 THE TIMEKEEPER: Just thirty 14 seconds.
 15 MR. HAWK: Okay. The 16 interpreter needs to be in the 17 appropriate place. You see, like, if 18 there is a deaf person and if you tend 19 to use some sign language, yeah, I
 20 tend to use -- I have low proficiency 21 maybe and, yes, maybe there needs to 22 be the same directions given to low 23 proficiency.
 24 Now, if I'm still trying to

Page 133

1 tend to voice, it doesn't help the 2 deaf or hard of hearing person. Okay.
 3 The last part on here is the 4 advertising. Okay. Advertising,
 5 radio, TV, you know, should have each
 6 that's closed-captioned. These things
 7 need to be closed-captioned and online
 8 or -- maybe online, too, so we can use 9 that, too. I'm just trying to say the 10 interpreter is like -- we would like 11 interpreters to help us. Thank you.
 12 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 13 you, Mr. Hawk. We greatly appreciate
 14 your testimony.
 15 Next, I invite Mr. Philip PJ
 16 Mattiacci.
 17 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Can I
 18 ask a question?
 19 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Sure.
 20 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Can I
 21 ask a question, does --
 22 MR. HAWK: Yes, I hope so.
 23 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Does the 24 process of using interpreters cause

Page 134

1 longer time periods in delay in the
2 voting process?
3 For example, we heard
4 testimony that there should be at 5 least no more than a thirty-minute 6 wait and that is the average with 7 regards to voting and I just wondered 8 if you have a large number of 9 individuals who need interpreters, 10 whether that would cause the issue of 11 needing more time?
12 MR. HAWK: Okay. Let me --
13 interpreters, they tend to cooperate
14 and they are skilled, so they tend -- 15 more experienced interpreters, they 16 have a strategy. Just maybe a 17 two-second delay.
18 INTERPRETER: No, the 19 question was if -- can you repeat the 20 question about if there is no
21 interpreters, does it cause a delay.
22 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: Yeah.
23 The question that I have is 24 the use of interpreters at the polling

Page 135

1 places, does that essentially require 2 the opportunity to have the 3 thirty-minute time issue that they 4 spoke about earlier in the testimony.
5 I don't know if you heard that. And 6 so I just don't know if that clogs up 7 the process and, therefore --
8 INTERPRETER: Wait a minute.
9 He wasn't here for that part. He just 10 says, sorry, I just got in here a 11 little late but, see, what he's 12 talking about is -- I'm interpreting 13 for him.
14 MR. HAWK: Thirty minutes,
15 can you answer that, please, okay.
16 I'm going to go into this.
17 Let me say, the interpreter,
18 maybe thirty minutes might not be 19 enough because a person that's deaf is 20 like -- for example, with ASL, they 21 come in and say what's your name and 22 they don't match their face up, you
23 know, they have -- the interpreter -- 24 if the interpreter comes in and

Page 136

1 they're cultured -- you know, they 2 come in, they got to make a point,
3 they have to understand clearly. They 4 have to get a picture and it has to 5 match up.
6 So some of them might take a
7 few more minutes, five minutes. You
8 know, they're deaf. You know, it
9 might -- it might be thirty minutes,
10 it might make it forty minutes. You
11 know, but, for example, the deaf-blind 12 interpreters -- the deaf-blind, they 13 have to do tactile on their hands and 14 that might take a little longer. It 15 might use a little more time, a little 16 more.
17 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
18 you very much.
19 At this time, I invite 20 Mr. Philip PJ Mattiacci.
21 MR. MATTIACCI: Oh, that's 22 me. I was already up. That's me.
23 Thank you, Gentlemen -- 24 Ladies and Gentlemen. I just want to

Page 137

1 say that two or three weeks ago I went 2 through the voting process and I'm 3 deaf and there are deaf around and we 4 are enthusiastic to be going to the 5 polls. It's great. It's positive.
6 And I arrive and I signed it and what 7 do I do, they open it up -- I am
8 overwhelmed. All these things.
9 Buttons.
10 I'm just overwhelmed and I
11 said, could someone help me and, no,
12 you are on your own, go on in there.
13 And I'm limited now. So what did I 14 do, I was working with a civic 15 committee person and I brought them in 16 and said show me a demonstration of 17 the voting machine and do you have 18 provisions for the deaf. Voting, you
19 know, show me what these things are so 20 I feel comfortable when I go in.
21 And then there was black
22 deaf advocates and some other things
23 and they need that. People need that.
24 They need support all the process all

Page 138

1 along so they become more comfortable
2 with what happens when they go in.
3 Communicate, you know, with 4 committee people. It's not clear.
5 These things aren't clear. For 6 example, the deaf, we are here today
7 and we just found out this week. I
8 mean, I didn't have time to tell
9 people to, come on, oh, we got to go
10 here. I just found out about this.
11 So I'm just saying that we need -- you
12 all need to work on that. Okay.
13 And, second, for -- I don't 14 know if there was deaf-blind there and 15 I'm just telling you -- and,
16 generally, we were close to -- we're 17 close to SEPTA. We don't mind opening 18 up topics and maybe City Hall should 19 have some meetings that are for the 20 hard of hearing.
21 You know, you would be 22 surprised how many deaf people would 23 just come there and would be 24 comfortable to come, you know, and

Page 139

1 give you all these questions. People
2 are nervous about coming here. I'm 3 not nervous. He's fine. We're not 4 nervous. We're brave, but there's a 5 lot of people that grow up and are 6 they really brave? No, I don't know 7 if they are brave to come here to 8 talk. So you should have more deaf
9 people involved. It would benefit
10 everybody in the long run.
11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
12 you very much, Mr. Mattiacci.
13 For purposes of --
14 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: I
15 have a question.
16 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Mr.
17 Mondesire, please.
18 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
19 Thank you, Mr. Chairman.
20 I want to ask both
21 gentlemen. We have, in our TV
22 universe today, we have hundreds of 23 channels dedicated to losing weight,
24 buying sneakers, pots and pans and all

Page 140

1 other kinds of stuff.
2 Would it be helpful to have 3 a channel on the internet system that 4 spoke to this community, the deaf
5 community?
6 MR. MATTIACCI: Well, let's
7 see. Now, me, I have an idea, yes.
8 Let's work on it. We work for DHCC,
9 the Deaf-Hearing Communication Center.
10 And we cooperate with people. We have 11 to make some videotapes and some 12 things in sign, closed-caption. We 13 have it going along and maybe we 14 should talk. It would be great.
15 Maybe we could do something like that.
16 I mean, maybe we could make it bigger.
17 Expose to more people. And we need 18 equipment, of course, and stuff so...
19 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: All
20 right. Thank you.
21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
22 you, Mr. Mondesire.
23 MR. MATTIACCI: Wait, wait,
24 wait, wait. Hold on, please.

Page 141

1 Are you familiar with the 2 state law interpreter, Act 57?
3 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: No.
4 MR. MATTIACCI: I suggest 5 you take time to look through that 6 law. I believe it passed in 2004 and 7 it provides interpreters -- the rule
8 of the state that required -- a rule 9 with the state through the Office of 10 Deaf and Hard of Hearing
11 responsible -- a whole list of rules.
12 Like certified, qualified and I think 13 you should learn more about that law.
14 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: That's a 15 high requirement that they have for 16 other languages that qualify. Many of 17 the Hispanic interpreters are not 18 qualified.
19 I remember when I became a
20 judge, it was all Spanglish. So I 21 instituted a high school exam. That's 22 all. High school Spanish and high 23 school English, just to get people who 24 were qualified.

Page 142 1 And that may be an issue 2 related to all the other languages 3 that we use interpreters is to get 4 some kind of qualifications. So 5 that's a good suggestion that didn't 6 come in the Act 57, which should also 7 apply to many interpreters. You speak 8 well. 9 MR. MATTIACCI: But be 10 careful how you use that word qualify. 11 My parents are hearing and they sign 12 real good. They sign wonderfully, but 13 could they be an interpreter for me? 14 No, because they are not certified. 15 And when an office, they sent me 16 people, but my mother can keep 17 interpreting, you know, but she's 18 proficient, but I mean certified and 19 qualified people. Both certified and 20 qualified people. 21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: For 22 purpose of logistics, so everybody 23 knows, we are coming to the time where 24 we are supposed to end the public	Page 144 1 Charles McGowen and I'm president of 2 the large -- the Philadelphia Chapter 3 of the Philadelphia Deaf Society for 4 the Advancement of the Deaf. And let 5 me get -- like PJ said, advertising. 6 Monday, I'm looking and I see. Oh, I 7 have to come here, this was 8 advertised, oh, come here, we have to 9 go. More people -- more deaf people 10 will come but, yeah, we try and expose 11 them to this, but it's a small -- 12 small town hall thing, get exposure. 13 I'm trying to get people to come. 14 Now, I'm looking at all the different 15 topics. I'm trying to see its about 16 voting. I'm so strong about that, but 17 sign language, he's ready to come, we 18 need more exposure, we need to get 19 ready and have more exposure. 20 You got all these different 21 topics but, like PJ, said just trying 22 to think about what we are going to 23 say about the laws here, we are going 24 to go, we want to go vote and then you
Page 143 1 session. I still have, in my hands, 2 three other speakers. I can extend 3 the time for another nine minutes but, 4 otherwise, we will have to stop here 5 and go to panel three. 6 We have program -- the 7 program calls for other open mic 8 public testimony session at the end of 9 the fourth panel. That will be around 10 7:25. 11 If we don't have anymore 12 public testimony, I don't want to 13 necessarily keep us to that time, but 14 I have three more speakers. If we can 15 have folks stick to their three 16 minutes, I think we can make it. 17 I will call Mr. Charles 18 McGuire (sic), who also -- 19 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: McGowen. 20 INTERPRETER: McGowen. 21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: -- 22 McGowen, to present testimony as well. 23 MR. MCGOWEN: Hello. Hello. 24 Let me try to say this -- my name is	Page 145 1 drop in and you need a voice. You go 2 in, where is my -- I have my right to 3 vote, but there's a small target. We 4 have the target. Deaf people, we have 5 a target. Round them up. You know, 6 get them ready to vote. They are all 7 spread out all over the place. 8 Maybe if we can target more 9 deaf people to get more people and 10 teach them about their rights to vote 11 and more and more empower them people 12 to come and help you and help learn 13 about voting and get more deaf people 14 involved and the politicians will get 15 more involved and then, if they are 16 staying in Harrisburg, then thank God 17 for having the interpreter today. 18 That's a very good thing today. 19 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 20 you. Thank you very much, Mr. 21 McGowen. We appreciate your 22 testimony. 23 Next, I invite Bishop Daniel 24 Laurent to present, please.

Page 146 1 BISHOP LAURENT: My name is 2 Bishop Daniel Laurent. I am a 3 full-time interpreter and talking 4 about interpreter and I've been 5 watching. I work for the Court of 6 Philadelphia. Also, I am certified 7 for medical/legal technology and, 8 also, I am an official (inaudible) and 9 I am from Millbourne, Pennsylvania. 10 I have seen many people at 11 the polls and I observe that we don't 12 have an interpreter. And then we have 13 about thirty percent of Asian people 14 and then we have Pakistan. We have 15 people from Bangladesh and we have 16 Asian people like Chinese and also 17 people from India. And in Millbourne, 18 we have more Asian people than any 19 other category, but we don't have an 20 interpreter and I have seen friends 21 helping others and I have seen the 22 families helping others, but it's not 23 legal. 24 So I think it's good to have	Page 148 1 living services with Liberty 2 Resources, Incorporated. We are the 3 center for independent living in 4 Philadelphia. We provide a variety of 5 services for people with cross 6 disabilities, including a very 7 extensive voter education information 8 program. 9 We provide nonpartisan voter 10 education classes which are called 11 Voter Education 101 -- and candidate 12 forums to our consumers. The purpose, 13 of course, is to provide our consumers 14 with the information they need to make 15 an informed decision when they go to 16 the polls. And I do think that goes 17 along, you know, with what we were 18 talking about, having materials in 19 accessible formats, whether it be in a 20 different language or ASL, 21 close-captioning. 22 It's really very, very 23 important that our people learn how to 24 use the voting booths. We have folks
Page 147 1 an interpreter to have helpers and can 2 train more people to be at the poll. 3 Poll watchers can do the job better if 4 they are trained. And, also, judge of 5 elections can do better. And myself, 6 as a speaker, I went to media. I get 7 trained. I know how to run the 8 machine and I know how to control the 9 system and I spend time doing that. 10 So I believe that if more 11 people get trained, it would be better 12 for people to come and vote easily and 13 then people would feel safer and then 14 people will enjoy coming to the poll. 15 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 16 you, Bishop Laurent. We appreciate 17 your testimony. 18 The last person I have to 19 speak in this portion of the public 20 testimony is Mr. Fran Fulton or Ms. 21 Fran Fulton. 22 MS. FULTON: Talk about 23 accessible. My name is Fran Fulton 24 and I'm a manager of independent	Page 149 1 from Spring Garden, Delaware Avenue 2 down prior to each election with a 3 couple of voting booths so that people 4 can learn how to use them. We have a 5 very strong deaf advocacy group and 6 they do the same thing. 7 Aside from that, we have 8 been very active in the community, 9 fighting for the rights of people with 10 disabilities. 11 In the year 2000, the City 12 of Philadelphia spent $20 million on 13 new voting machines. As it turns out, 14 those machines were not accessible to 15 people who were blind and visually 16 impaired. And, you know, the late 17 '90s, we all know was -- the 18 technology services were rapidly 19 growing and we couldn't understand why 20 this wasn't considered. So we went to 21 court. 22 A lawsuit was filed, N.O.G. 23 versus Tartaglione. Liberty 24 Resources, National Organization of

Page 150

1 Disabilities, American Counsel for the 2 Blind and National Federation for the 3 Blind and individuals including 4 myself. We sued the City alleging
 5 that they violated the Americans with 6 Disabilities Act by not providing 7 equipment that was accessible for 8 people who are blind and visually
 9 impaired. We won the suit, if you
 10 want to say that, but it cost the City
 11 even more money because they had to go 12 back and retrofit the machines.
 13 Being a user of the voice 14 technology, I will tell you it takes 15 me much longer to vote with the 16 assistive technology, but I would much
 17 rather -- my time in that polling
 18 booth is my time and I would much 19 rather do that than have to have 20 someone assist me, where I actually 21 feel rushed, I don't think they are 22 reading questions to me properly,
 23 sometimes I feel I'm being influenced.
 24 I waited forty years before I could

Page 151

1 vote privately and I cherish that.
 2 So the only other thing I
 3 wanted to mention -- Bob Meek spoke 4 quite a bit about -- is the voting
 5 machines. Our suit -- the polling 6 places -- our suit also had to do with 7 there were only forty-three accessible 8 polling places at that time and the 9 City had to modify and/or, if 10 possible, change the locations. So we 11 were successful with that, too.
 12 There is one other battle.
 13 We battled the machines. We battled 14 the polling site. There is one more
 15 battle that not all of the politicians 16 in the world can control or win and 17 that is the weather. People with 18 disabilities cannot travel well in bad
 19 weather. I had a horrible time coming
 20 here today. There was a curb path
 21 that was so narrow, I really didn't 22 think I would even make it through 23 there, but cleaning of the streets is 24 a different story. People who have

Page 152

1 disabilities are often affected by the 2 weather. Many of them travel by 3 their -- using their wheelchairs or, 4 you know, I walk with a cane. When 5 the weather is bad, they stay home.
 6 That's it.
 7 So I'm here to endorse early 8 voting. Early voting will allow 9 people to come out on a day when they 10 feel good and when the weather is 11 good. So I hope you take that under 12 advisement and encourage the State of 13 Pennsylvania to endorse early voting.
 14 Thank you.
 15 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 16 you, Ms. Fulton. And we will take -- 17 keep that in mind and we thank you for 18 your recommendation of early voting,
 19 which I know is shared by many.
 20 I will call one last public 21 speaker and then, after that, we will 22 proceed with our third panel. And 23 that is Mr. Howard Bilofsky and I hope 24 I pronounced your last name correctly.

Page 153

1 MR. BILOFSKY: Thank you so
 2 much. It's an honor to speak to you,
 3 you're doing great work. I'm vice 4 president of the Board of the 5 Pennsylvania Voting Rights Coalition,
 6 though I'm speaking here as a public
 7 citizen.
 8 The Voting Rights Coalition
 9 goes back to -- our roots go back to 10 the early fight on Act 18, the voter 11 ID law and our work is to reach out to 12 the public for advocacy, for 13 education, for training the trainers.
 14 Education is really the key.
 15 What we really do is we 16 inform the public and information is 17 the essential word and information is 18 power, of course, and sharing the 19 power, providing information in the 20 transparent way is critical to, not 21 only the sorts of things that Joe 22 Certaine was talking about but, also,
 23 those election protection groups as 24 well.

Page 154

1 The Commonwealth has done a
 2 very poor job of providing information
 3 that's timely and reliable for those 4 of us who are trying to keep track of 5 what is going on. So I urge you to 6 make transparency both a process and 7 information a key point in your 8 deliberations. So thank you.
 9 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 10 you, Mr. Bilofsky. You're absolutely 11 right. Transparency is paramount to 12 the work that all election
 13 administrators perform.
 14 At this point in time -- and 15 I want to thank, again, on behalf of 16 the Commission, all the public
 17 speakers for their testimony.
 18 At this time, we are going
 19 to move right to the third panel, 20 which is a continuation of issues on 21 election administration and I would 22 like to call to join us here at the 23 table, Ms. Ellen Kaplan, vice 24 president and policy director of The

Page 155

1 Committee of Seventy -- forgive me,
 2 forgive me -- yes -- as well as 3 Mr. Chance Toland-Wilson, who is a 4 student at Temple University and 5 Benjamin Geffen, staff attorney with 6 the Public Interest Law Center of 7 Philadelphia.
 8 I welcome you, Ms. Kaplan,
 9 Mr. Toland-Wilson and Mr. Geffen.
 10 We will start with you,
 11 Ms. Kaplan.
 12 MS. KAPLAN: Thank you. I'm 13 very pleased to be here and I'm happy 14 to see my -- my own committee person
 15 up here on the stage.
 16 So I'm Ellen Madeline 17 Kaplan. I'm the vice president and 18 the policy director of the Committee
 19 of Seventy, which is a nonpartisan,
 20 not-for-profit watchdog organization
 21 that fights for honest and effective 22 government, fair elections and 23 better-informed citizens and I'm 24 really happy to be here today.

Page 156

1 And as I understand it, the 2 goal of this National Commission on 3 Voting Rights is to gather testimony
 4 in support of two reports. One, on 5 voting discrimination and a second on 6 election administration and electoral 7 reform. I'm going to focus my 8 comments on the latter. Although, I
 9 do want to note the Committee of 10 Seventy's concern about the problems
 11 faced by the growing number of voters
 12 in the city of Philadelphia who do not 13 speak English as their primary
 14 language.
 15 I think in the presidential 16 election, we had an enormous problem
 17 faced by Spanish-speaking voters who 18 felt that they did not have enough
 19 interpretation services at polling 20 places and there was an article in 21 today's Daily News that said that 47
 22 percent of Asian Americans in 23 Philadelphia -- and that's 43,000 24 people -- have limited proficiency in

Page 157

1 English and the City has to ensure 2 that all people who are eligible to 3 vote, of all constituencies, know 4 what's on the ballot, know where they 5 need to go to vote and know that help
 6 is available when they go into a 7 polling place. And I would urge this 8 group to talk about that because it's 9 a real problem and I think it's 10 something that will grow.
 11 On the issue of election
 12 reforms, which to me is really 13 synonymous with making it easier to 14 participate in the voting process to 15 make sure the voters have a good
 16 experience when they do vote, I think
 17 Pennsylvania and Philadelphia have a 18 long way to go and, with all due 19 respect to the former secretary -- who 20 I think favored many of the reforms 21 that, unfortunately, have not moved in 22 the General Assembly -- I think all 23 that all of us have to do is look at 24 the Presidential Commission's report

Page 158 1 and it paints a pretty dismal picture 2 of how difficult it can be to vote in 3 Pennsylvania. We don't have online 4 voter registration. The bill is 5 idling in the State House, I believe. 6 At the moment, we don't have 7 early voting options and we just heard 8 about the difficulty of voting on one 9 day, particularly for disabled people, 10 and we don't have no-excuse absentee 11 ballots, we don't have electronic poll 12 booths and the list could go on and 13 on. And Pennsylvania's voting 14 procedures really are more consistent 15 with the way people lived decades ago, 16 rather than how people live today and 17 I really hope that the members of the 18 State Legislature will take those 19 recommendations to heart and any 20 advice you can give on how we can do 21 that would be enormously appreciated 22 but, sadly, here in Philadelphia, a 23 lot of those reforms really would be 24 like adding a GPS to a broken-down	Page 160 1 happened here on that day. 2 It was enormously 3 frustrating for the thousands of 4 people that needed to vote by 5 provisional ballots, who should have 6 been able to vote on the voting 7 machines. People whose voter 8 registration applications were not 9 processed. We do it manually. 10 It's -- it's -- it just blows me away 11 that we still process voter 12 registration applications that way in 13 2014. 14 There were problems with 15 minority voting inspectors, a whole 16 host of problems. And I know I talked 17 about this with Commissioner Singer, 18 who is sitting behind me. We need to 19 tell voters in Philadelphia that these 20 problems are going to be fixed when we 21 have a high turnout election in the 22 governor's race this year, the mayor's 23 race the year after and the 24 presidential race the year after that
Page 159 1 Model-T Ford because it is really what 2 happens on the local level that really 3 determines whether people have a good 4 or bad experience at the polls. 5 And with all -- again, my 6 committee person, I always have an 7 excellent voting experience at your 8 polling place, but that's not true for 9 a lot of people who vote here and we 10 know this because the Committee of 11 Seventy, for over a hundred years has 12 been running a program where we put 13 field volunteers all over polling 14 places in Philadelphia to answer 15 voter's questions and to report 16 problems at the polls. 17 So we get -- we have heard 18 an enormous amount from voters who are 19 highly frustrated with some 20 experiences in Philadelphia. Most 21 notably, in the November 2012 22 Presidential election. And I could 23 give you chapter and verse on that. 24 There were five probes of what	Page 161 1 because I think we are going to turn 2 voters off to going to polling places 3 if there is a repeat of the 4 experiences that they had -- too many 5 of them had in November 2012. 6 So, again, I urge this group 7 to echo the Commission's call for some 8 of the reforms that would make it 9 easier to vote on the local level. 10 We need mandatory training 11 of poll workers. It can't just be 12 when they first -- when they get 13 elected to be a poll workers, because, 14 for a number of poll workers, that 15 could have happened decades ago and 16 there was a huge amount of 17 misinformation around the voter ID law 18 and that's just one. So we need 19 mandatory training. We need adequate 20 compensation for poll workers, if we 21 want people to work a thirteen-hour 22 day. We need to tell voters the 23 status of their voter registration 24 application, so they don't go to

Page 162 1 polling places and find out they can't 2 vote on the voting machines and they 3 have to vote by provisional ballot, 4 which to people, this handout was not 5 having their vote count. 6 I think my time is probably 7 up, so I'll stop, but it's a herculean 8 task and any assistance the Committee 9 of Seventy can lend to your efforts, 10 we'd be delighted. Thank you. 11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 12 you, Ms. Kaplan and thank you to the 13 Committee of Seventy. 14 Next, testimony from 15 Mr. Chance Toland-Wilson from Temple 16 University. 17 MR. TOLAND-WILSON: Hi. 18 Thank you very much for allowing me to 19 speak. It's an honor and a privilege 20 to speak in front of you. 21 As Ms. Kaplan just told you, 22 there are enormous amounts of issues 23 faced by voters in Philadelphia. I 24 don't want to bore you with things	Page 164 1 would show this to poll workers and 2 they would say, I'm sorry, it's not 3 that I don't believe you, it's just 4 there's nothing I can do. That phrase 5 was used over and over again. A lot 6 of these people don't seem like 7 they're trying to inhibit the 8 democratic process but, as she 9 mentioned, they aren't up to date with 10 what's going on. 11 She also mentioned about 12 voters who had to provisionally vote 13 because their voter registration 14 wasn't fully processed yet. I was one 15 of those voters. I had made sure, 16 long before November, that I was able 17 to vote and I would be able to vote in 18 the normal fashion. I was still 19 denied. 20 I went to vote with a group 21 of about thirty-five to forty students 22 who were all in my class that day. We 23 were all let out early to make sure we 24 got to the polling place on time. I
Page 163 1 that you've already heard, but I want 2 to color my testimony with how this 3 affects first-time voters. 4 Not to continually harp on 5 what happened in the 2012 presidential 6 election, but it was an absolute 7 disaster, especially for many 8 first-time voters. 9 At Temple University, there 10 are two different polling locations 11 within two square blocks of each 12 other, so we have a lot of access to 13 polling machines. I was shuffled back 14 and forth between those two polling 15 locations three times in the 2012 16 presidential election. 17 Each time, when I went and 18 gave my initial address so they could 19 process me, I was told you have been 20 given the wrong information. I took 21 my phone. I believe the president 22 of -- someone had installed an 23 official website that allowed you to 24 check where you're supposed to go. I	Page 165 1 think, out of that group, if fifteen 2 of us voted, that might be a high 3 estimate. 4 It's a travesty when 5 first-time voters -- many of whom have 6 been looking forward to this 7 experience for years -- have to go to 8 polling places and be consistently 9 told I'm sorry, I want to help you, 10 but I can't. 11 As an 18-year-old at the 12 time, I had been used to being told by 13 adults what to do and when to do it. 14 Quite frankly, I've become fed up with 15 that. This completely and totally 16 eroded, personally and for a majority 17 of my age group, our trust in this 18 process. I have always considered 19 myself a citizen first and foremost 20 and I truly am passionate about these 21 types of issues, but when we are not 22 allowed to have a voice, you take away 23 that ability. And it -- I mean, to 24 say frustrating is really not the word

Page 166

1 for it. It was -- I really can't put 2 into words the frustration that I felt
 3 on that day and thank you very much
 4 for allowing me to speak today and I
 5 hope we can do something to reform
 6 these issues because, honestly, if my 7 experience in 2012 was the same I had 8 in the 2013 general election, I
 9 wouldn't vote anymore.

10 I always considered that the 11 highest civic duty one could have.
 12 And after one election, I considered
 13 not voting in future elections. I
 14 think that shows what the average 18 15 to 21-year-old faced, especially 16 during the 2012 presidential election.

17 Thank you very much for 18 allowing me to speak.

19 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 20 you, Mr. Toland-Wilson. I hope that 21 you will not be dissuaded or so 22 disenchanted with your experience that 23 you will not vote again and -- but 24 it's very important to hear the

Page 167

1 experiences of the first-time voters,
 2 young voters, college students.

3 Pennsylvania, I think, is 4 well known for having some of the 5 finest institutions of higher learning
 6 in the state. So we have many, many 7 first-time voters that if their 8 experience is just like yours, it's 9 tragic. So we will certainly do what 10 we can to make sure that that's 11 improved in the future.

12 And last but certainly 13 last -- last but not least,
 14 Mr. Benjamin Geffen with the Public 15 Interest Law Center of Philadelphia.

16 We appreciate you being 17 here, sir, and we welcome your
 18 testimony.

19 MR. GEFFEN: Thank you for 20 the opportunity to speak today. The 21 Public Interest Law Center of 22 Philadelphia is a civil rights
 23 organization. We have been in 24 Philadelphia since 1969 and, over the

Page 168

1 last year-and-a-half, we have had the 2 privilege of working with some other
 3 groups including, Advancement Project,
 4 ACLU of Pennsylvania and the Firm of 5 Arnold & Porter to seek a permanent 6 injunction to block enforcement of Act
 7 18, Pennsylvania's voter ID law.

8 Through litigating that case 9 and through watching officials and 10 ordinary citizens struggle to adapt to 11 the statute, we learned some lessons
 12 about the effect of the voter ID law.
 13 And one of the lessons I want to talk
 14 about today is that the voter ID law
 15 causes a lot of confusion. Confusion
 16 among voters, confusion among state 17 employees who are charged with 18 implementing the law, and confusion 19 among poll workers who are on the 20 front lines of voting.

21 I will give a few examples
 22 of voter confusion that we heard about 23 in the trials in that case. One of 24 the plaintiffs is an elderly voter who

Page 169

1 lives on the outskirts of Pittsburgh.
 2 Her name is Nadine Marsh. Mrs. Marsh
 3 doesn't drive and doesn't have a
 4 driver's license. She had to ask her
 5 daughter to take off work to drive her
 6 a long distance to a PennDOT location
 7 to get a photo ID for voting purposes.

8 The whole trip, driving
 9 there, waiting in line, coming home, 10 took about a half a day and it took 11 Mrs. Marsh and her daughter three 12 trips before she got an ID.

13 The first time she went, the 14 polling -- sorry -- the PennDOT
 15 location was open. It was a Monday,
 16 but it turned out, that location
 17 doesn't actually give out the kind of 18 IDs you need to vote on Mondays. The 19 second time they went, an employee at 20 the center told her she didn't know
 21 what she meant when she asked for a 22 free voter's ID, so she went home 23 empty-handed.

24 It was only on the third

Page 170 1 trip that she was able to get an ID to 2 vote. She was lucky enough that she 3 had a daughter who could take time off 4 of work to do this repeatedly. Not 5 everyone is as fortunate. 6 The second example of voter 7 confusion is a disabled grandmother 8 named Mary Baker. She was once an 9 elected republican committeeperson in 10 her home city of Reading. 11 Even though the state was 12 preliminarily enjoined from enforcing 13 the law in the November 2012 election, 14 a poll worker told Mrs. Baker on 15 Election Day that she wouldn't be able 16 to vote in the next election if she 17 still didn't have an ID card. Sadly, 18 Mrs. Baker stayed home from the poll 19 in the May 2013 primary election 20 because of the inaccurate information 21 that she heard from the poll worker. 22 A final example of voter 23 confusion is a woman named Carol 24 Aichele, who is Pennsylvania secretary	Page 172 1 exhibited by or caused by state 2 employees. First, PennDOT was meant 3 to provide free IDs, under the 4 statute, to people who would need them 5 to vote. At the trial, we heard 6 testimony from a long-time voter named 7 Patricia Norton, who lives in 8 Womelsdorf, Pennsylvania in Berks 9 County. 10 Mrs. Norton testified that 11 she was turned away when she went to 12 PennDOT and asked for a voter ID 13 because she asked for an ID and they 14 said it cost $13.50. She offered 15 $13.50 in cash and they told her, no, 16 it's got to be check or money order, 17 so she went home empty-handed. 18 Herbert Janenski (ph), 19 another voter, tried to renew a 20 license and received a letter back 21 from PennDOT saying that they couldn't 22 process his application because he had 23 a balance due of $0.00. 24 Then, the final lesson I
Page 171 1 of state. After the voter ID law was 2 passed, Secretary Aichele visited the 3 editorial board of the Erie Times News 4 and showed her State employee ID to 5 the members of the editorial board to 6 demonstrate how simple it is to come 7 up with ID that can be used to vote 8 under Act 18, told that, as her 9 employee ID lacked an expiration date, 10 and was, therefore, unacceptable for 11 voting. This, apparently, was 12 something that even the secretary of 13 the commonwealth had been unaware of 14 at the time. 15 So the overall lesson about 16 voter confusion is that complicated 17 bureaucracy in election administration 18 deters many voters from bothering to 19 show up at the polling place and it 20 can trip up even those who do persist 21 in trying to exercise their right to 22 vote. 23 So, next, I'd like to give 24 some examples of confusion either	Page 173 1 want to give is that the law is 2 confusing enough to trip up poll 3 workers as well. After the law was 4 preliminarily enjoined, stories rolled 5 in from across Pennsylvania of 6 inconsistent practices at balloting 7 sites. At some places, poll workers 8 didn't ask for an ID at all, even 9 though they were supposed to ask for 10 one under the preliminary injunction. 11 In other places, there were 12 outdated signs that suggested that ID 13 was still sine qua non for voting and 14 we heard trial testimony from a woman 15 named Nina Prifty (ph), who doesn't 16 have an ID and she was a poll worker. 17 She wasn't required to show ID to get 18 a position as a poll worker, but she 19 could not be trusted to vote without 20 an ID and she was confused about the 21 discrepancy as well. 22 So the overall lesson there 23 is that poll workers may not be 24 receiving adequate training and

Page 174

1 supervision to accurately administer
2 the voter ID law. Thank you.
3 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
4 you, Mr. Geffen.
5 And I now provide the 6 Members of the Commission to ask
7 questions.
8 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
9 Mr. Chance Toland-Wilson, what did
10 your friends who were rejected do?
11 Tell us the personal side of how they 12 felt and the conversations that took 13 place. You said thirty-five went to 14 vote and, roughly, thirteen were 15 allowed to vote, if I got the numbers
16 correct.
17 MR. TOLAND-WILSON: Yes.
18 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
19 What did those who had been rejected
20 do? Give us a sense of how they 21 walked away.
22 MR. TOLAND-WILSON: Well, 23 the two polling locations are a local 24 community center and an elementary

Page 175

1 school, which --
2 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
3 Move a little closer.
4 MR. TOLAND-WILSON: Yes. So
5 they are very literally across the 6 street from each other. When we went,
7 depending on where you lived, that 8 group of thirty-five broke in about 9 two equal, separate groups. Both 10 groups ended up seeing each other when 11 they were shuffled between polling
12 stations.
13 I know a couple of people
14 that automatically, once they were 15 denied, were just like, honestly?
16 You know, some people don't 17 feel this is a truly important issue
18 and they just went home automatically.
19 Some were more bullish about wanting 20 to make sure that their voice was 21 heard and went to the second station,
22 politely stating that the only other
23 station within -- I'm going to say 24 within close to mile, you know, there

Page 176

1 is no other station in the area -- had 2 already rejected them, so logic tells 3 you that we are voting here.
4 They were, then, given the 5 same thing that I was told more than 6 once: I'm sorry, I want to help you,
7 but I simply can't. At that point, a
8 large majority of them, once again, 9 said, all right, we tried and we are 10 going to go home.
11 Of the group of about ten to 12 fifteen that ended up voting, I'm 13 going to say that the average person 14 spent about an hour -- not even -- 15 this doesn't include waiting in 16 line -- but just trying to figure out
17 where they would be allowed to vote.
18 I'm saying, of that group, seven or 19 eight were forced to provisionally 20 vote, which the administration of 21 which I, personally, found
22 disrespectful and rushed, but you
23 know, that's almost a whole different 24 story.

Page 177

1 Honestly, I don't think a
2 single person that I went to vote with 3 that day left the poll satisfied, 4 whether or not they actually were 5 given the chance to vote.
6 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE:
7 Thank you very much.
8 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: I was 9 wondering whether or not you had an 10 opinion on the issue that was asked 11 before related to mail voting and/or 12 internet voting, with regard to a 13 breach or limits.
14 MR. GEFFEN: I can speak a 15 little bit to that and how it connects 16 to the voter ID situation and that 17 laws like Act 18 have been passed in a 18 lot of states in the last few years
19 but, one of the reasons that 20 Pennsylvania's law is among the very 21 strictest in the country, is that 22 Pennsylvania lacks any safety net in 23 the form of no-fault absentee voting
24 or other alternative means of voting

Page 178

1 that don't require somebody to show up
2 in person, on Election Day, at a
3 specific polling place.
4 And the significance is that 5 in states that permit absentee voting,
6 people who are unable to acquire one 7 of the types of photo IDs they would 8 need to vote aren't disfranchised, 9 because they can still cast an 10 absentee ballot.
11 So one of the many reasons
12 that literalize absentee or other
13 balloting sanctions in Pennsylvania 14 would be helpful, is that it would 15 assist people who are unable to get a 16 photo ID or people who have trouble
17 physically traveling to the polling 18 place, especially in rural areas or if 19 we're dealing with elderly voters or 20 voters with disabilities, it would 21 give them more options for how to make 22 their voice heard on Election Day.
23 MS. KAPLAN: I think a 24 number of states do already have

Page 179

1 mail-in voting, including right across
2 the river in New Jersey and I think it
3 would really behoove Pennsylvania to 4 do a real analysis of the early voting 5 options that other states use and -- 6 with the idea of adopting a mail-in 7 voting system here.
8 As for internet voting, to 9 my knowledge, I don't know of 10 instances where internet voting is -- 11 has -- maybe you can address this, you 12 would know -- that a secure system for 13 voting by internet is working anywhere
14 in the United States. I believe that 15 there are some places overseas that do 16 allow internet voting, but I am not 17 aware, unless it's a private program 18 in a small place of internet voting
19 around the country.
20 I think we will probably get 21 there, but reports that I have read
22 are -- in fact, still have some major
23 security concerns.
24 COMMISSIONER CORTES:

Page 180

1 Internet voting was first, at least in 2 Pennsylvania, was first considered -- 3 there was a certain program back in 4 2002 that was studied and I was a
5 supporter of that as a way to create 6 additional opportunities to vote. The 7 program was shut down for some
8 security concerns.
9 There are states that are 10 rather progressive. Washington, you
11 may have know is now -- vote by mail, 12 has been instituted. You don't have 13 the online voting as much as you have 14 online voting registration, which has 15 been adopted, I believe, at last 16 count, by seventeen states and it's a
17 good way to be sure that we overcome
18 some of the challenges that Mr.
19 Toland-Wilson had experienced.
20 I believe that -- 21 personally, that the technology is 22 available. There's -- and you can, 23 you know, split hairs and go on for 24 weeks on end to talk about the -- that

Page 181

1 one side believes you never can make 2 technology safe enough. Others will 3 argue we already employ sophisticated
4 technology in banking and other
5 transactions, but all that becomes -- 6 you can put pros and cons of each side 7 of the equation and probably never 8 reach a consensus.
9 I do think that, as a
10 country, we are not taking advantage
11 of technology. Australia, Estonia,
12 even countries nearby, Mexico, have 13 experimented successfully with 14 internet voting.
15 I believe the technology is 16 available, but we haven't even gotten 17 to the point of passing a law to talk
18 about no-excuse or no-reason absentee 19 voting, which was one of the 20 accommodations that came out of the 21 2005 Pennsylvania Election Reform Task
22 Force.
23 So that was a measure that 24 we agreed on as a group and,

Page 182

1 unfortunately, even that has not
 2 passed. So we have a long way to go
 3 in Pennsylvania. With that, I would 4 agree.
 5 Do you have a question? I
 6 have some thoughts as well.
 7 Well, I just wanted to --
 8 well, I'll stop here because, again,
 9 the issue of no-excuse -- I prefer to 10 call it no-reason absentee voting -- 11 it's so paramount and I would 12 encourage everyone to start at that 13 point and talk to your legislators and 14 others. And you're right, there is -- 15 at the moment still stalling in the 16 House State Government Committee, the 17 bill that was passed -- the bill that 18 would have been passed unanimously in 19 the Senate for online voter
 20 registration.
 21 It passed unanimously in the 22 one house and -- where you have both 23 republicans and democrats and not 24 being able to move it an inch in the

Page 183

1 House, I believe, is something that 2 should be addressed at this time.
 3 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: I
 4 actually have a two-part question.
 5 One is -- the first part is: Clearly,
 6 in the testimony that we just heard
 7 and the training is sort of a common 8 thing needed. In the prior panels, we 9 heard that.
 10 So what do you see is the 11 challenge to this training issue that 12 keeps coming up? And part two is:
 13 Are there any jurisdictions, in 14 Pennsylvania or elsewhere in the 15 country, that you would you point to 16 as good examples that we can look to 17 as we, at least, try to address this 18 issue of training?
 19 MR. GEFFEN: One of the 20 things I think is that if you don't 21 make the system needlessly
 22 complicated, you can get away with 23 imperfect training more easily than if 24 you throw up a lot of extra red tape.

Page 184

1 And so to the extent that 2 our voting system already works -- for 3 example -- in the example of Act 18, 4 that was a law that was purported to 5 be addressing an issue of impostor
 6 fraud. People showing up at the 7 polling place and saying they are 8 someone -- saying they are someone 9 they weren't and casting a fraudulent
 10 ballot.
 11 That state trial actually
 12 said, in writing, we know of no
 13 examples of any time this has happened
 14 in Pennsylvania or anywhere else in 15 the country. So I guess one answer to 16 this question, maybe, is a little 17 glib. It's don't create extra work 18 and extra complications when there is 19 not actually a problem to be solved,
 20 but as for the training of poll
 21 workers, I agree with the suggestion
 22 that Ms. Kaplan made -- I believe it
 23 was Ms. Kaplan -- to pay to better 24 professionalize and to attract

Page 185

1 additional people into the ranks of 2 poll workers and also the judge of 3 elections to train these workers.
 4 MS. KAPLAN: I think there
 5 are ways to do the trainings so that 6 more poll workers can participate.
 7 You can do webinars you can get -- and 8 I know there are continuing legal 9 education. There are lots of classes 10 you can take online and you don't have 11 to go someplace to do it.
 12 Personally, I would like
 13 them to say that you can't work at a 14 polling place unless you get trained
 15 annually. The voter ID is just one 16 example, but I could sit here for an 17 hour and tell you stories that we 18 heard from voters, through our 19 volunteers or voters calling the 20 office and saying the poll worker told 21 me to do this and that wasn't right
 22 and I -- and it was -- it's enormously 23 frustrating for voters to get 24 misinformation from the very people

Page 186

1 who are supposed to be in charge of
2 polling places.
3 So I would really love to 4 see mandatory training and, to tell 5 you the truth, we shouldn't have to 6 pay people that much extra to get 7 training for their jobs. If they want 8 these jobs, I think we ought to 9 increase the pay for performing on 10 Election Day, but it's -- people need
11 continuing training when they are in a 12 job where there are different legal 13 requirements sometimes from election
14 to election.
15 MR. TOLAND-WILSON: I'm not 16 nearly as qualified to talk about this 17 as my two guests with me, but as a 18 current college student -- and I'm not 19 sure what requirements there are to be 20 a polling attendant and such -- but 21 the fact that I don't see any young 22 people whatsoever, socially, can be a
23 little concerning but, also, I'm a 24 pre-law student who would jump at an

Page 187

1 opportunity to take part in the civic 2 process part.
3 The fact that we don't start
4 involving college students and young
5 people in all parts of the voting
6 process, it alienates us and I'm not 7 going to harp on, you know, the 8 differences between generations, but 9 if I, in the 2012 elections, would 10 have seen one person that I could 11 personally identify with and ask 12 questions, whether they were right or 13 wrong, I would feel more comfortable
14 with the process.
15 When I'm dealing with people 16 that we don't truly -- we are unable 17 to communicate on the same level, it 18 makes it less transparent and more of 19 a process. Anything, in my opinion, 20 that does that, I don't think is 21 right.
22 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: I'd like
23 to talk to Chance about my generation.
24 At fifteen, I got involved

Page 188

1 in the election process because we 2 were denied the right. My children --
3 when I was working for the 4 (inaudible), all of them worked with 5 me on the polling places.
6 And so the problem, more
7 than anything else, was that my 8 generation is totally satisfied and 9 has not been able to pass down that 10 whole great generation that was 11 involved in the civil rights movement.
12 So the educational process really 13 hasn't filtered down. We've basically 14 been satisfied.
15 So the reason we have high 16 turnouts in the election of the 17 president because of voter ID,
18 because -- I know there were high 19 turnouts when John Street ran because 20 Bush was trying to put a bug in 21 somebody's -- so when people realize 22 that their rights are sort of being 23 infringed, all of the sudden, we rise
24 up. And unfortunately -- I have never

Page 189

1 missed an election since my first
2 election, I was 21 years old. It's 18
3 years now. It was 21 at my first
4 election.
5 So I have to tell you that 6 it is a problem of us not passing that 7 torch down and we have to do something
8 about that before our rights are taken 9 away, as we saw what you had to say.
10 When that happens, then, all of the 11 sudden, people rise up and that's the 12 wrong time to do it. You have to 13 built in all the time. And a leader
14 like you -- you're obviously a 15 leader -- like you can stimulate many 16 others to do that.
17 It was one student who took 18 over the Temple University Law School, 19 back in 1971 and that person is still 20 around and became a judge.
21 So, you know, it's important
22 to provide the leadership that you
23 have and I'm very happy that you have 24 provided and that you're here and,

Page 190

1 like you see, how many young people
 2 are here. It's a task that we have to 3 work on and I hope that we can pass 4 that torch down, which I asked the 5 question about civic education, you
 6 know, nobody gets it.
 7 MS. KAPLAN: If I might 8 state, the Pennsylvania election code
 9 does allow for exemplary high school 10 students to work in polling places and 11 I know that Pittsburgh has a robust
 12 program where they do recruit high 13 school students. What better way to 14 get young people, who are about to be 15 voters, interested in the voting 16 process become lifelong voters by 17 having high school workers work in 18 polling places?
 19 COMMISSIONER CORTES:
 20 Absolutely.
 21 We are out of time for this 22 panel, but I certainly concur with 23 Judge Diaz and the comments that have 24 been presented.

Page 191

1 I'm just going to close with 2 a couple thoughts here for the group
 3 for everyone's benefit. We have a
 4 significant problem in Pennsylvania, 5 as has been stated, in terms of 6 getting more young people and others
 7 to engage and become poll workers.
 8 I don't know if everybody
 9 knows, but there was a change, in the 10 time I was in office, where the new 11 voter registration form has a box that 12 asks if you -- if that person
 13 registered and most of the registerers
 14 are younger voters -- whether you want
 15 to be a poll worker and, if you 16 checked that off, the county that 17 received that application is supposed 18 to contact you to engage you in that 19 possibility.
 20 Training is always a problem
 21 and we do not have mandatory laws for 22 training, which is -- is incredible.
 23 One of the things that we did, back in 24 the day when I was in office, was to

Page 192

1 create CDs. You know, there's a
 2 reason we hear from the counties why
 3 they cannot force or, otherwise, make 4 the poll workers train, so we tried to 5 make it easier and we created that to 6 be -- that I know of, one was on 7 general instructions for opening the 8 polling place and how to go about 9 answering basic questions and what to 10 do with the -- if the equipment didn't 11 quite work. All the things like that.
 12 And I thought it was well done and not 13 overly complicated.
 14 The second video was on how 15 to properly provide services to voters
 16 with disabilities, how to make sure, 17 not only the -- a sensitivity to the 18 needs of voters with disabilities, but 19 to do it right and to be comfortable 20 as a poll worker. I thought those 21 were tremendously helpful CDs. We 22 distributed them to every -- every 23 county. I just don't know how much
 24 they were used, but and if I may --

Page 193

1 I'll close with that and I -- thanks, 2 again, to the panel for your 3 testimony -- testimony we have in 4 writing as well and the transcript and 5 we certainly take to heart -- and I 6 know that The National Commission of 7 Voting Rights does -- for the 8 experiences and the suggestions that 9 you present. So thank you so much.
 10 We will proceed immediately
 11 to seat the last panel, panel number 12 four. And this is a panel on 13 strengthening elections in 14 Pennsylvania.
 15 We have -- our three 16 presenters are Susan Carty, the 17 president of The League of Women
 18 Voters of Pennsylvania. Second, Mr.
 19 Barry Kauffman, who is the executive 20 director of Common Cause of 21 Pennsylvania and our third presenter
 22 is Stephanie Singer, who is a
 23 Philadelphia city commissioner.
 24 Commissioner, if you're

Page 194

1 ready, we'll start with you. If not,
 2 we can start with Ms. Carter. We have 3 no problem switching from one side to 4 the other. So I'll let you decide who 5 wants to go first.
 6 MS. CARTER: Are you ready?
 7 COMMISSIONER SINGER: Well,
 8 I'm ready and also since I'm speaking 9 about poll workers, it's relevant to 10 what we have heard before. I'm 11 Stephanie Singer. I'm one of three 12 city commissioners in the city of 13 Philadelphia and I'm sure you can 14 imagine that I have a lot of things to 15 say about all the topics we've heard 16 about.
 17 COMMISSIONER CORTES: And 18 only five minutes to do it.
 19 COMMISSIONER SINGER: Well,
 20 I'm going to stick to improving poll
 21 worker training, but before talking 22 about poll worker training, let's talk 23 about poll worker recruitment and 24 retention.

Page 195

1 In many Pennsylvania
 2 counties, including Philadelphia, the 3 fear of losing poll workers hampers
 4 improvements in election
 5 administration.
 6 Let me give you one example.
 7 We discovered, last year, a problem
 8 with write-in votes and there's no
 9 redundancy at the polls in 10 Philadelphia. So if one piece of 11 paper goes missing, you can lose all 12 of the write-in votes.
 13 And this is real problem and 14 it makes sense to introduce 15 redundancy, so that there are two 16 pieces of paper, right, that go
 17 separate ways, so that these things 18 cannot be lost and this kind of 19 redundancy is in all elections
 20 procedures that I know of, except for 21 this one, but any redundancy, any way
 22 to fix this issue, requires us to ask 23 something more of poll workers in 24 addition to what they are doing and

Page 196

1 the internal discussion goes like
 2 this: Well, we can't ask them to do
 3 more because if we ask them to do 4 more, they are going to quit and we 5 are going to have even more trouble
 6 recruiting.
 7 So I wanted to give a few 8 concrete ideas for improving the 9 recruitment and the retention of poll
 10 workers. One is to pay poll workers 11 more. This is expensive. So, for 12 example, in Philadelphia, this would 13 cost an extra one million dollars
 14 every year. That's about a ten 15 percent increase in our budget and I'm 16 all for it because that's easy for me
 17 to say, right?
 18 So another thing that we can 19 do that's much less expensive is 20 simply to honor poll workers.
 21 Congress could do this. State or 22 local governments could do this.
 23 Create a poll worker appreciation day.
 24 Poll workers are simply not

Page 197

1 appreciated and this is a relatively 2 inexpensive thing to do.
 3 Another thing that we could 4 do is encourage the business community
 5 to step up, on a volunteer basis, say
 6 by allowing -- just as there is jury 7 duty, many companies offer jury duty
 8 leave, which is paid.
 9 If companies were to offer
 10 poll worker leave, which is paid, that 11 would be terrific. And then, as has 12 been mentioned, education outreach, 13 especially to the Millennials to 14 advertise -- you know, I would have 15 loved to have had the young man
 16 working behind a desk. So how do 17 we -- how do we make that connection, 18 so when people like him are 19 interested, to know what the 20 opportunities are?
 21 So to move on to poll worker 22 training, we have some variety of 23 training modes, which is good. As 24 Secretary Cortes said, the videos --

Page 198

1 actually, those videos are not just 2 CDs. They are online.
 3 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Right.
 4 COMMISSIONER SINGER: And 5 people can just go look at them and -- 6 and I recommend that to all of the 7 poll workers I come in contact with.
 8 Counties hold in-person
 9 trainings. My office is experimenting 10 with pushing information out in small 11 chunks like emails and we've addressed
 12 or started to address the very real 13 issue of getting those telephone 14 interpretation blue sheets on every 15 polling place table and it is a 16 struggle. It -- it is something that 17 we need to do much, much better at.
 18 And the way I think about it
 19 is that different persons -- different 20 people learn in different ways. So we 21 need to create an ecosystem for poll
 22 worker learning. We need to have poll
 23 workers teaching poll workers. We 24 need good information out there, but

Page 199

1 this kind of experimentation needs
 2 money and not that much, but Congress
 3 or private foundations could provide 4 small grants to encourage 5 interpretation -- sorry -- to 6 encourage experimentation.
 7 And, finally, one critical
 8 thing that is missing is the 9 evaluation of the effectiveness of 10 training. So if we did get some 11 grants for experimenting with 12 different kinds of poll worker
 13 training, they have to include a 14 requirement -- a requirement that the 15 effectiveness of the education is 16 measured.
 17 Finally, I would like to say 18 that the poll workers really are on 19 the frontline and it is a logistical
 20 issue. I know of no other logistical 21 issue like it, wherever you work, you
 22 run a business, whatever you do, 23 imagine running a thousand of those 24 businesses that you had to get up an

Page 200

1 running for one day and then not again
 2 for another six months.
 3 So I am so grateful to the 4 people who work the polls and I'm 5 grateful to you for the work that 6 you're doing. Thank you for giving me
 7 the opportunity to testify.
 8 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank
 9 you, Madame Commissioner, and thank 10 you for -- for your testimony and 11 keeping the time. That's great. We 12 do appreciate that. Thank you. And 13 we will have time to elaborate on some 14 of these topics as well.
 15 Next, I'll ask Mr. Barry
 16 Kauffman of Common Cause of 17 Pennsylvania to present his testimony.
 18 MR. KAUFFMAN: Thank you.
 19 Good evening, Commissioner Cortes and 20 Diaz, Metellus and Mondesire, and also 21 the voters of Pennsylvania who showed 22 up today.
 23 I'm Barry Kauffman, the 24 executive director of Common Cause of

Page 201

1 Pennsylvania, and protecting voting
 2 rights and integrity questions have 3 all been core issues of Common Cause.
 4 We fought to secure protecting the 5 voter law, the passage of the SURE Act
 6 and the HAVA implementation
 7 legislation. We created the 8 Pennsylvania Voters' Coalition which 9 quickly grew to have over seventy 10 members -- organizational members and 11 issue experts.
 12 Over recent presidential 13 election cycles, Common Cause has 14 assembled teams of hall monitors to 15 watch election proceedings around the 16 Keystone State, partly with a large
 17 statewide coalition of election
 18 protection organizations.
 19 Common Cause and its 20 partners observed a wide array of 21 problems on the last Election Day.
 22 And prior Election Days which we 23 monitored. For the purposes of 24 today's hearing, we are going to focus

Page 202 1 on one remedy to one of the problems, 2 the need to modernize Pennsylvania's 3 voter registration system. 4 It has become glaringly 5 evident that Pennsylvania's voter 6 registration system is not meeting the 7 commonwealth's voters needs. 8 Fortunately, modern technology is 9 providing means to remedy many of the 10 problems. And right now, according to 11 the Q Research Center, eleven states 12 now offer online voter registration 13 and an additional six others have 14 passed legislation enabling electronic 15 registration. 16 Pennsylvania voters deserve 17 the same kind of opportunities and 18 conveniences which are now being 19 experienced in other states. Online 20 voter registration is, in fact, a 21 four-way win. If Pennsylvania becomes 22 the eighteenth state to adopt online 23 voter registration, you can expect to 24 see the following: First, saving	Page 204 1 registration systems, some states who 2 use it indicated -- (inaudible) 3 counted as much as forty percent of 4 voter registrations. 5 So by allowing people to 6 register online any time of day, at 7 home or at work and right up to thirty 8 minutes before the thirty-day cutoff 9 for registration, we are better 10 serving -- we would better serve the 11 public. 12 And in fact, Arizona 13 registration rates have, among 18 to 14 24 years olds, have risen from 29 15 percent to 53 percent with online 16 voter registration. And, furthermore, 17 it appears that there was partisan 18 parity among those who register 19 online. 20 We also see improvement in 21 the speed and accuracy of voter 22 registration rolls. Paper 23 registration can be as much as five 24 times more error-prone than online
Page 203 1 money for state and local government 2 and taxpayers because online voter 3 registration has proved to lower 4 administrative costs for state and 5 local government elections. 6 In fact, Arizona counties 7 say they spend now half the time 8 processing online -- processing online 9 registrations compared to what they do 10 with manual registrations, dropping 11 their cost of processing to 83 cents 12 per registration. 13 We also see an increase in 14 citizen convenience and satisfaction. 15 Online voter registration eliminates 16 the need for voters to go out and get 17 the forms or to travel to county 18 offices to submit their registrations. 19 Voters can make -- address party 20 affiliation changes to their 21 registrations more easily online. 22 While online voter 23 registration does not completely 24 replace the traditional paper	Page 205 1 registration because online 2 registration allows voters to enter 3 their information correctly, 4 increasing the accuracy of the 5 registration data and the speed with 6 of which entries get into the system. 7 This increases the accuracy of voter 8 registration records and poll books 9 and further saves money by reducing 10 the number of provisional ballots 11 needed on Election Day. 12 Finally, tightening the 13 security of voter opportunities from 14 abuse is another factor. Public 15 officials who have concerns about 16 election fraud should be running to 17 embrace online voter registration. 18 When voters register online, there are 19 fewer opportunities for voter 20 registration problems such as failure 21 to deliver a valid registration 22 (inaudible) or misuse or manipulation 23 of registration information and 24 permits problems to be discovered and

Page 206 1 amended much more easily than in the 2 past. 3 Finally, no state that has 4 adopted online voter registration has 5 ever turned back. In fact, they 6 recommend it to their sister states. 7 And, finally, just last month, online 8 voter registration received another 9 strong endorsement. When the 10 President's Commission on Election 11 Administration issued its report, this 12 report is encouraging because leaders 13 of the Democratic and Republican 14 parties were able to put aside their 15 partisan differences and agree on 16 common-sense suggestions for approving 17 and modifying our election systems. 18 Common Cause of PA and it's 19 allies, The Election Modernization 20 Coalition, urge Pennsylvania state and 21 local officials to heed PCA's 22 recommendations and the successful 23 experiences of our sister states by 24 implementing online registration now.	Page 208 1 system -- online system called Smart 2 Voter and it's a system that is being 3 used in Pennsylvania, but not all 4 across Pennsylvania, but The League is 5 certainly encouraging our other 6 chapters to use this system, which 7 allows voters to go online for months. 8 It's on all of the time. 9 It provides education for 10 new voters. It provides history. It 11 provides demonstrations and as you 12 come close to the elections, it 13 provides all the candidates and the 14 candidates have the opportunity to go 15 online and expand their personal 16 information for their own following. 17 And that encourages others to come to 18 this system. 19 It's a great system, but we 20 have a long way to go expanding that 21 across the state. That's my sales 22 pitch. Okay. 23 The League of Women Voters 24 believes, as you know, that every
Page 207 1 We thank you for this 2 opportunity and we appreciate your 3 work and we hope that Pennsylvania 4 will -- this side of the panel today 5 will help Pennsylvania modernize its 6 election systems and better serve its 7 citizens of the Keystone State. 8 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 9 you, Mr. Kauffman. We greatly 10 appreciate your testimony. 11 The last presenter of the 12 panel of witnesses that we have 13 scheduled for this afternoon -- 14 evening is Susan Carty, who is the 15 president of The League of Women 16 Voters of Pennsylvania. 17 MS. CARTY: Hi. Being last 18 is rather tricky, isn't it? I could 19 just end right here. There's been so 20 many -- 21 COMMISSIONER CORTES: But we 22 don't want you to. 23 MS. CARTY: Before I begin, 24 I'd just like to put in a plug for a	Page 209 1 citizen should be protected in the 2 right to vote. It is our mission that 3 all voters have the fundamental right 4 to free and fair access to voting. We 5 know that voting is the crucial 6 bedrock of a healthy democracy and we 7 also know that right here in 8 Philadelphia, democracy was born and 9 it's no accident that tonight we meet 10 in this magnificent 11 historically-significant building, The 12 Constitution Center, a powerfully 13 impressive place that reminds us to 14 take pause and to consider who we are, 15 how we came about and, most 16 importantly, reminds us of what we 17 must protect. 18 There could not be a more 19 fitting place to have this 20 conversation. Today's session falls 21 on the heels of the landmark judicial 22 voter ID law. I think I will skip any 23 further discussion of the voter ID 24 law. We've heard it all and know it

Page 210 1 definitely was a problem. 2 Today's voter faces the 3 following conditions, as we have 4 heard, one day to vote, no 5 opportunities for early voting, highly 6 restrictive absentee ballot provisions 7 and no opportunity for online voter 8 registration and, as we said, as of 9 April, Senate Bill 37, providing for 10 online registration, passed 11 unanimously. And today we ask why has 12 the chairman of the State Government 13 Committee not brought this modern, 14 cost-saving, voter-supportive bill out 15 of the house. 16 The League supports secure 17 online voter registration. We need to 18 ensure that the program would be 19 designed to be available to all 20 eligible citizens. And now with the 21 report that we have from the 22 Presidential Commission of Election 23 Reform, the results indicate that 24 voters expect major improvements to	Page 212 1 from the report -- and transcend 2 differences of party and political 3 perspective. The elector seeks, above 4 all, modern, efficient, responsive 5 administrative performance in conduct 6 of elections. 7 The League of Women Voters 8 of Pennsylvania encourages this state 9 to modernize its image and become 10 recognized as a voter-supported state. 11 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 12 you, Ms. Carty. Thank you. I 13 appreciate your testimony. 14 Fellow commissioners, if you 15 have questions for the panel, please. 16 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: 17 Actually, I don't necessarily have a 18 question. It's really more of a 19 comment. It's also sort of feeling 20 conflicted because, on one hand, I'm 21 just encouraged by the possibility 22 of -- you basically can do anything 23 online, go shopping -- there are so 24 many different things you can do you
Page 211 1 the voting experience. Our history 2 and detailed efforts from The League 3 have also been submitted to the 4 Commission. 5 The time has come for 6 Pennsylvania's election system to join 7 the 21st century by providing voters 8 with ample opportunities to vote. 9 In-person early voting recognizes the 10 needs of working families, changing 11 demographics and increasing number of 12 caregivers, as well as employers. 13 Early voting provides us all with an 14 additional opportunity to act upon our 15 fundamental right to vote. 16 No-excuse absentee voting 17 signals to the citizens that the 18 democratic system is alive and well. 19 The League's experience working with 20 voters has shown that voters continue 21 to expect choices, when and how they 22 vote. 23 Voters expectations are 24 remarkably uniform -- this is a quote	Page 213 1 online, but then on the flip side, 2 it's just a sad fact that it's taking 3 so long to transfer all this modern 4 technology into the whole electoral 5 process. 6 So, again, it's not so much 7 a question. It's just hearing all the 8 things from the panel that are 9 possible versus where we are and, you 10 know. The feeling is that just the 11 (inaudible). It's a very sad state of 12 affairs. 13 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Well, 14 Commissioner -- 15 COMMISSIONER SINGER: I 16 think that there is a very really 17 reason for that. What separates 18 elections from pretty much everything 19 else is that there is no single money 20 interest or single powerful -- 21 concentrated powerful interest entity 22 with an interest in elections. The 23 interest in elections and fair 24 elections is distributed to all of the

Page 214

1 people.
2 So when you -- so it's hard
3 to -- to make things change, you need
4 an entity or you need a group or you 5 need a leader to really lead the 6 charge and there -- there's no natural 7 confluence of power or leadership and 8 of resources, really, to lead that 9 charge.
10 And so it really is up to 11 the people -- the people -- to demand 12 this, but that's a very different 13 process from the kind of process that 14 brings us change in banking or in -- 15 in almost anything else you can name.
16 MR. KAUFFMAN: Can I just 17 add something to that?
18 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Sure.
19 MR. KAUFFMAN: I think we 20 are seeing a change of attitude,
21 particularly in some of the voter 22 rights groups. Whereas, before, we 23 did get somewhat confrontational with 24 election officials, I think we are

Page 215

1 moving more to a situation unseen,
2 such as Just Vote Colorado. I think 3 we are going to be seeing more and 4 more cooperative efforts.
5 We have, at Common Cause,
6 with some of our colleague
7 organizations, the Advisory Counsel of 8 Election Officials, to help guide us
9 as we work through reforms. We may 10 have great ideas, sometimes we don't 11 fully comprehend what the implications
12 are at the ground.
13 So we have a group of 14 election officials we are working with 15 to make sure that the reforms we that 16 we propose will actually work. We can 17 cooperate to help them when they need
18 help.
19 For instance, Commissioner
20 Singer talked about the need to 21 recruit poll workers. We have an 22 organization in the Lehigh County, and 23 some other counties, who saw over this 24 job at the last minute, who were able

Page 216

1 to help increase the votes.
2 So I think we need to have a 3 smart collaborative effort and not 4 seeing each other as adversaries and 5 say we are all in this together and 6 let's make this work.
7 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: I have a
8 quandary. The right to vote is a 9 constitutional mandate, which should 10 be a federal right and a federal 11 consent. Somehow, every county in 12 Pennsylvania has a different process.
13 Every state in the union has a 14 different process and I remember the 15 chad voting.
16 What is it about us that we 17 can't have uniform voting, so that -- 18 we are free to move from state to 19 state, we are free to commerce and 20 other things. What is it about us --
21 I have such respect for Common Cause
22 and The League and I don't -- you 23 know, you guys do the debates and 24 you're sort of looked upon as the

Page 217

1 clean window of impartiality.
2 Common Cause, you took some 3 money out of the election process, but 4 still the thing is, if I went to New 5 York City, I'm going to vote
6 differently a hundred miles away then 7 I would -- let's go to Camden, I'll 8 vote definitely than I'll vote and 9 it's only a bridge away.
10 What is it about us
11 Americans that we can't have a uniform
12 system?
13 MS. CARTY: I would just 14 offer, just for conversation, I think 15 it's a problem of human nature wanting 16 to hold onto their identity. Whether 17 it's a township, a school district, a 18 county, they identify with who they 19 are and they don't want to feel that, 20 by having a uniform system, that they 21 will lose their identity or,
22 politically, it's harder to throw, I
23 would say, darts at particular areas
24 or communities.

Page 218

1 If they are all uniform,
2 it's difficult to say -- use trigger
3 words like fraud or trigger words like 4 integrity. Well, our community is 5 full of integrity, but yours might not 6 be and I don't want to be like yours
7 and we are better than yours.
8 So we have this endless
9 competition that becomes so powerful, 10 it impedes what you're referring to.
11 This is a fundamental right. This 12 isn't a right to be tampered with or 13 to be manipulated and our organization
14 has what I call a collective memory, 15 which we could be losing because we 16 need young people.
17 The women before us had an 18 unbelievable history, what they had to 19 accomplish and overcome. That's never 20 going away. It just pops up in 21 another -- in another custom. We have 22 to be alert and I don't think -- I 23 just don't think humans -- humanity is 24 ready to give up their identity, which

Page 219

1 is change.
2 MR. KAUFFMAN: I concur with 3 what Susan just said. I think we 4 have, in answer to your question, a 5 problem with constitutional inertia.
6 I think it was Article 2 of 7 the constitution which reserves the 8 right to run elections in the states
9 and there's also the states' rights
10 amendment, which is, I guess, the 11 tenth amendment.
12 We have to get past that. I
13 mean, it took a civil war a hundred 14 years ago for us to get from being 15 these united states to being The 16 United States of America. We have to 17 start thinking more of ourselves as 18 The United States of America because 19 we are all -- like I said earlier, we 20 are all in this together and people
21 who have voter rights in Colorado --
22 Pennsylvania's voters' rights
23 shouldn't be any different from theirs 24 or Arizona or Florida. Hopefully, we

Page 220

1 are a little better than Florida.
2 You know, we have to start
3 thinking of ourselves as The United 4 States and start acting like that.
5 Otherwise, we are still the thirteen
6 little colonies -- fifty colonies now.
7 And, I guess, just as a nation, we 8 have grow up a little bit.
9 COMMISSIONER CORTES: And I
10 have to say that, Judge, that you're 11 very learned in all these matters.
12 I think we both would agree
13 with both Susan and Barry and I have 14 to tell you when the Department of 15 State was charged with implementing 16 this Statewide Uniform Registry of 17 Elections -- the SURE System -- it was 18 an uphill battle and the arguments we 19 heard -- even though it was a legal 20 mandate federal state -- the 21 challenges that we need to -- to 22 respect our local sovereignty, whether 23 it's county or otherwise. And the 24 people kept reminding me and saying

Page 221

1 you have Philadelphia, which is the 2 fifth most populous city in the United 3 States and then you have -- you have 4 Perry County and I think it's Forest
5 County that don't even have a single 6 traffic light in the entire county and 7 the experiences and the cultures of 8 those communities are very different.
9 So you have to allow for a certain 10 measure of individuality.
11 That being said, I agree
12 that we should have some uniformity
13 and I think we should continue to push 14 for that uniformity, despite, you
15 know, the challenges and I think there 16 are ways to balance it in the interest 17 of respecting the individuality of 18 communities with protecting the 19 voters' rights and I certainly agree 20 with that, but we are running short on 21 time.
22 We probably have two minutes
23 of this panel, but any -- any final 24 thoughts on the part of the

Page 222

1 commissioners or the panelists?
2 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: No.
3 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: No.
4 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Well,
5 let me -- let me put this out there.
6 I think that -- I think I'm going to 7 just go with general comments, if I
8 may. There was talk about the voter 9 registration -- online voter
10 registration experience in some states
11 like Arizona, where you saw a 12 significant increase in the amount of 13 young voters who registered private 14 and were more engaged because it's 15 electronic and people don't want to 16 bother with paper anymore. It's not 17 part of the culture of the younger 18 voters, but also I would -- I would 19 suggest that, even for older voters, 20 online voter registration might be 21 helpful.
22 People sometimes don't give 23 enough credit to our senior citizens
24 and others say if it's too modern,

Page 223

1 they won't adapt. I can tell you my 2 uncle godfather is seventy-something
3 for the first time he touched a 4 computer and, now, he's an expert in 5 Skype. So he knows it better than I
6 do.
7 So I think there is 8 certainly room for lots of benefits
9 that can come about from modernizing
10 our voting systems and our procedures.
11 So with that, I thank you
12 very much, our distinguished panelists
13 on our panel on strengthening 14 elections, for your testimony.
15 It is my understanding that 16 we don't have any other members of the 17 public that want to present testimony.
18 So if that is the case, I'm going to 19 move to close the program and, for 20 that, I will ask Chris Melody Fields
21 Figueredo with the Lawyers' Committee
22 for Civil Rights Under Law to present
23 the parting remarks.
24 MS. FIGUEREDO: Well, thank

Page 224

1 you guys so much for coming. I know
2 it's been a really hard week in the 3 state of Pennsylvania but, certainly,
4 here locally with the weather
5 conditions and folks being without 6 power and thanks for trooping it out
7 and coming out and I know it's already 8 cold again outside, but I thank you 9 guys so much for coming out and,
10 again, thank you to our -- our 11 partners and our supporting 12 organizations.
13 You know, Barry is still 14 here and he was on a lot of the calls
15 with me and, certainly, I couldn't 16 have done this and put this great 17 event together and I certainly want to 18 also thank our commissioners.
19 I want to say I have been 20 quite in awe of you guys throughout 21 the evening. You just had really 22 thoughtful comments and questions and 23 I think you've drawn out some really 24 great testimony from our witnesses.

Page 225

1 You know, I -- some
2 observations that I have had this 3 evening, clearly, throughout the 4 testimony and, certainly, in the 5 early -- earlier panels, there is 6 still a need for the Voting Rights Act
7 and, certainly, you know, even though 8 Pennsylvania is not one of those 9 covered jurisdictions, there have 10 definitely been issues that have 11 disproportionately impacted 12 communities of color, persons with 13 disability and others from 14 participating in the franchise.
15 And, you know, we have come
16 a long way, but we still got a lot way
17 to -- a way to go and, you know, 18 coming from someone who is the child
19 of an immigrant and, you know, I 20 remember the first time, after my 21 mother became a citizen and taking her 22 to vote for the first time and what an 23 amazing experience that was for her
24 and I always speak, when I do the

Page 226 1 trainings or talks to folks, if you 2 make that first experience a great 3 experience, you're going to make a 4 lifelong voter. 5 And, Chance, you know, I 6 certainly encourage you to talk to 7 your friends, but if we don't make 8 that first experience for voters a 9 good experience, you might turn them 10 away for life and I certainly -- I'm 11 from the Lawyers' Committee for Civil 12 Rights Under Law and our work with 13 doing voter protection here in this 14 state and many of the other groups 15 here, you know, make that commitment 16 to continue to do that voter education 17 before Election Day to make sure 18 people know what their rights are and 19 what resources and tools are out there 20 but, as Joe said earlier, we have to 21 empower the community. 22 You can't certainly just 23 leave it on others to do the work for 24 you and we have to empower the	Page 228 1 know Barry and Susan and others will 2 continue to be working together to 3 make sure that happens. 4 So with that, I will turn it 5 over to our commissioners for their 6 final thoughts and then we will end 7 the program. 8 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 9 you. Thank you, Chris. I want to 10 thank you personally for bringing us 11 together. 12 Events like this always 13 remind me of weddings. It takes 14 months of preparation in bringing 15 everyone together and it happens so 16 quickly. Sometimes, it's tough to 17 think about the hard work that goes 18 behind it. So my thanks to you and to 19 The Lawyers' Committee for this 20 important forum and the hearing. 21 I want to thank my fellow 22 commissioners there to -- to -- beyond 23 for what we have done here in the last 24 three hours plus, I thank you for
Page 227 1 community to take a part and bring, 2 you know, people -- more people into 3 the process. 4 And I actually want to say a 5 special thank you to the deaf 6 community for tuning out. Certainly, 7 you said that if you give them more 8 notice, that you'll bring -- bring 9 more people there and I certainly look 10 forward to further conversations of 11 how we can improve the process and 12 increase access for your community. 13 And I think one of the 14 things I have really gotten out of 15 today's hearing and I think it sort 16 of -- the good thing about this, you 17 know, not being a formally-covered 18 jurisdiction, we can really talk about 19 looking forward and how we can improve 20 the process and increase access and, 21 you know, I think the -- the last two 22 panels really spoke to that. 23 You know, we have a lot of 24 work to do here in Pennsylvania and I	Page 229 1 that, but I thank you much more 2 importantly for what you've been doing 3 for years and what you will continue 4 to do to protect voters' rights and to 5 see that Pennsylvania moves forward in 6 the quest to become modern, but I 7 would like to see it as a model for 8 our states to follow. 9 I'd like to put a word of 10 thanks and appreciation to the 11 election administrators throughout the 12 state. I know there was a lot of 13 talk, and rightly so very accurate, 14 about the deficiencies and 15 irregularities and the shortcomings. 16 I work closely with those election 17 officials and I can tell you that 18 most -- most are very dedicated and 19 hardworking. There is need for more 20 training. There is need to further 21 encourage others to join the ranks of 22 the poll workers, but those that do 23 the work, for the most part, mean 24 well. It doesn't mean perfect, but it

Page 230

1 means they do try. I do want to make 2 sure that we acknowledge their work.
3 And, finally, I'd like to 4 close with the words of Barry Kauffman
5 when he says we are all in it
6 together. It's true. We are in it
7 together and I think we share a common 8 goal of seeing that elections are 9 transparent, that are fair, that are 10 accessible and I thank all of you for 11 what you do to ensure that that goal
12 is accomplished. Thank you so much.
13 COMMISSIONER METELLUS: I'm 14 going to keep my comments brief so 15 that -- I feel like I'm at the end of 16 my mileage with my throat. I also 17 wanted to thank Chris Fields for her
18 work in bringing us together as well 19 as anyone here and, again, my fellow
20 commissioners.
21 For me, this evening, that 22 would be my point. I found it to be 23 very interesting, to be informative, 24 to be an education. Hearing all of

Page 231

1 the perspectives, hearing all the 2 different experiences and different 3 concepts and ideas that I haven't even 4 considered, it was interesting. And I 5 think it really pushes us, as an 6 organization, to really find ways that 7 we can contribute to make a difference
8 in this area.
9 I would be -- excuse me -- I
10 would be curious to find out what 11 other ways -- I know this is going to 12 be a public document, yes, but I'd be 13 curious to find out other ways the 14 conversation goes onto the public and 15 in forums that have wide access.
16 I think tonight's
17 conversations are very important. I
18 think it's something that affects all 19 of us whether we are aware of it or 20 not, and, thus, being able to 21 communicate this in a wide format, I
22 think, is important.
23 So, again, thank you to all
24 of you who came out this evening and I

Page 232

1 appreciate the opportunity for being
2 here.
3 COMMISSIONER DIAZ: I
4 appreciate the invitation, the 5 Secretary and Regine and Mondesire, 6 all of whom I have a great respect for 7 and appreciate their public service.
8 One of the problems of life
9 is the lack of equity and fairness for 10 all. And I can't give you the remedy
11 for a simple thing like voting.
12 Imagine what happens in the school
13 system, where blacks and Latinos don't 14 get the benefit. Imagine what happens 15 in the economic setting. Imagine what 16 happens in the university setting, all 17 of which I have served on boards or 18 commissions and have been the outlier
19 looked upon because all I ask for is 20 equity and opportunity.
21 And, just like this, why
22 can't we get it? We can all get some 23 uniformity. Everybody votes the same 24 way, registers the same way. And

Page 233

1 somehow this identity issue is 2 ridiculous. If the federal government
3 says you do it, you do it.
4 So I continue to grapple
5 with the fact that we are all God's 6 children, but somehow God loves poor
7 people more than rich people. That's 8 all.
9 COMMISSIONER MONDESIRE: Let 10 me also thank the Lawyers' Committee
11 for Civil Rights for having this 12 session and the other ones being held
13 around the country.
14 First, the thing I got out
15 this most was hope because I agree
16 with my fellow commissioners,
17 especially my ad-hoc chairman, Mr.
18 Cortes, in that our voting process in 19 Pennsylvania and many states
20 throughout the country are in serious
21 chaos and I was particularly touched 22 by the deaf community, who had the 23 good sense to show up here tonight and 24 teach a lot of us, especially me,

Page 234 1 about the special needs that you have 2 that I will take to heart when I go 3 back to work with the NAACP. 4 The most -- the reason I say 5 I leave with hope is because at least 6 we are talking about it and we are 7 talking about it at a very high level 8 in a very important place and there 9 will be some public discussion about 10 it, but I was disappointed because I 11 think some of you (inaudible) the 12 newspapers here in town and I saw a 13 reporter from one of the mainstream 14 newspapers, but I didn't see him take 15 one single note, not one time did he 16 pull out a pen and write. 17 It's tragic that Channel 6, 18 10, 3 and 29 are not here. If I shot 19 Judge Diaz, it would be all over the 20 place. It is funny, but it's not 21 funny, or the -- it's tragic. 22 As I said in my opening 23 remarks -- some of you were here, some 24 of you weren't -- that the public	Page 236 1 it's called Bill 1945 and on the House 2 side, it's 3899. They are two bills 3 that will reform the Voting Rights Act 4 and put back what's been taken out by 5 the Supreme Court. And the reason I 6 say I still have hope is that, in 7 1999, when I first took over the NACCP 8 of Pennsylvania, we never thought we'd 9 be able to restore the right of 10 ex-felons to vote, but we did. 11 One vote -- a republican on 12 the Commonwealth Court voted with us 13 in the case called Mixon versus 14 Commonwealth. Mixon was an ex-felon. 15 He joined with the NAACP and we 16 restored the rights for all ex-felons 17 who come out of prison so they can 18 have the right to vote. 19 So things can change, but 20 they don't happen easily and they 21 don't happen quickly. So I thank you 22 for joining us and I hope you stay 23 around for the rest of the struggle 24 because that's what it takes to make
Page 235 1 conversation, the mainstream media, 2 does not take into account some of the 3 very serious ideas and philosophical 4 conversations that were held here. To 5 have the head of The League of Women 6 Voters and the head of Common Cause 7 and the City Commissioner and all of 8 the other people talk about these 9 issues that should be carried out and 10 carried forth by the public media. 11 So I join my fellow 12 commissioner, Ms. Metallus, when she 13 says we have to get the word out. 14 If there is anything that we 15 can do with our 350,000 members, 16 Chris, we'll do, once the public 17 document is made available to the 18 NAACP. 19 Then, finally, before I shut 20 up, there is hope again because the 21 bill to reform the Voting Rights 22 Act -- you haven't read about in 23 papers or heard it on TV -- but it's 24 been introduced. On the Senate side,	Page 237 1 the kind of change that the League and 2 Common Cause and all of the other 3 groups who testified here today. It 4 takes a lot of work. Thank you. 5 COMMISSIONER CORTES: Thank 6 you so much. I really appreciate it. 7 Have a great evening. 8 (Hearing concluded at 7:40 p.m.) 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

	229:13	administering (2) 86:5,21	220:12;221:11,19;233:15
$	accurately (1) 174:1	administration (16) 6:22; 7:13;8:7;14:23;18:1;58:4; 70:13,17;73:3;128:15; 154:21;156:6;171:17; 176:20;195:5;206:11	agreed (4) 41:21;56:11; 74:9;181:24
$0.00 (1) 172:23 $13.50 (2) 172:14,15 $20 (1) 149:12	acknowledge (1) 230:2 ACLU (5) 71:22;79:17,24; 80:13;168:4 acquire (1) 178:6 across (20) 5:12;7:1,15,18; 12:18;19:22;20:19,20; 23:23;27:20;40:15;50:6; 78:3;80:5;108:24;173:5; 175:5;179:1;208:4,21	adoptive (2) 203:4; 212:5 administrators (4) 16:16; 17:9;154:13;229:11 adopt (2) 60:2;202:22 adopted (3) 17:4;180:15; 206:4 adopting (1) 179:6 adoption (2) 62:19;63:7 adults (1) 165:13 Advancement (8) 30:7; 31:8;52:24;53:20;56:14; 69:5;144:4;168:3 advancing (1) 123:21 advantage (1) 181:10 adversaries (1) 216:4 advertise (1) 197:14 advertised (2) 80:5;144:8 advertising (4) 94:21; 133:4,4;144:5 advice (1) 158:20 advised (1) 43:7 advisement (1) 152:12 Advisory (1) 215:7 advocacy (4) 73:13;88:19; 149:5;153:12 advocate (1) 108:22 advocates (2) 8:14;137:22 Affairs (2) 24:13;213:12 affected (1) 152:1 affects (2) 163:3;231:18 affiliates (1) 19:21 affiliation (1) 203:20 AFL-CIO (1) 84:6 African-American (7) 19:16; 33:24;85:17,19;91:7,20; 107:14 afternoon (7) 3:2;4:4; 18:16;19:5;24:19;37:20; 207:13 after-the-fact (1) 88:12 Again (32) 12:23,24;18:12, 23;19:3;21:22;30:17;42:8; 50:11;51:21;69:20,23; 72:13,18;85:3;91:21; 113:3;154:15;159:5;161:6; 164:5;166:23;176:8;182:8; 193:2;200:1;213:6;224:8, 10;230:19;231:23;235:20 against (9) 25:20,24;27:15; 31:24;33:14;38:23;87:9, 11;125:10 age (3) 36:3;59:3;165:17 aggressive (1) 81:22 ago (11) 4:24;21:6;22:1; 25:6;79:22;97:12;103:23; 137:1;158:15;161:15; 219:14 agree (9) 68:17;113:5; 182:4;184:21;206:15;	agreement (3) 39:8;103:18, 19 ahead (5) 3:4,7;4:10; 112:23;123:12 Aichele (2) 170:24;171:2 AI (2) 101:15,16 alert (1) 218:22 alienates (1) 187:6 alive (1) 211:18 alleging (1) 150:4 allies (1) 206:19 allotted (2) 29:6,21 allow (10) 47:5,14,22;58:9; 68:24;89:13;152:8;179:16; 190:9;221:9 allowed (11) 25:11;43:24; 47:23;68:9;76:17;77:16; 90:12;163:23;165:22; 174:15;176:17 allowing (7) 83:9;87:22; 162:18;166:4,18;197:6; 204:5 allows (5) 76:11;100:12; 109:4;205:2;208:7 almost (6) 25:6;37:3;66:23; 111:15;176:23;214:15 alone (1) 61:7 along (4) 19:21;138:1; 140:13;148:17 alternative (3) 41:9;42:1; 177:24 alternatives (2) 41:11,19 Although (2) 55:18;156:8 always (14) 81:20,23;82:4; 97:11;112:12;113:20; 115:24;117:9;159:6; 165:18;166:10;191:20; 225:24;228:12 amazed (1) 18:7 amazing (1) 225:23 amended (1) 206:1 amendment (3) 53:15; 219:10,11 amendments (1) 17:17 America (4) 15:14,21; 219:16,18 American (9) 26:22;30:12; 32:6;72:5,20;73:8;123:18; 128:1;150:1 Americans (9) 25:4;32:8; 73:13;125:11;126:11,16; 150:5;156:22;217:11 amicus (1) 128:2 amok (1) 25:12 among (9) 26:7;97:20; 127:2;168:16,16,19; 177:20;204:13,18 amount (4) 83:19;159:18; 161:16;222:12 amounts (1) 162:22 ample (2) 17:20;211:8 Ana (2) 30:13;44:15 analysis (1) 179:4
A	AADEF (3) 73:9,10,16 abdication (1) 93:23 abilities (1) 43:20 ability (5) 50:5;63:14; 113:7;117:7;165:23 able (26) 4:5;16:6;55:24; 56:6;64:17;75:19;81:8; 95:12;98:16;100:20;105:5; 111:14;117:16;120:22; 131:8;160:6;164:16,17; 170:1,15;182:24;188:9; 206:14;215:24;231:20; 236:9 above (1) 212:3 abreast (1) 12:19 absentee (15) 52:23;53:13, 17;129:13;131:2,9;158:10; 177:23;178:5,10,12; 181:18;182:10;210:6; 211:16 absolute (1) 163:6 Absolutely (4) 66:1;87:11; 154:10;190:20 abuse (1) 205:14 acceptable (4) 39:19,20; 109:18;124:20 access (16) 14:23;38:13; 40:24;62:15;63:10;64:19; 74:7;85:4;89:15;94:11; 123:23;163:12;209:4; 227:12,20;231:15 accessibility (6) 15:20; 34:17;40:15;41:5;62:15; 130:16 accessible (18) 39:1,15,16, 17,22;40:10,20;41:8;51:4; 61:19;62:20;66:20;147:23; 148:19;149:14;150:7; 151:7;230:10 accident (1) 209:9 accommodate (2) 35:1; 131:4 accommodated (1) 130:10 accommodations (2) 130:18;181:20 accompanied (2) 76:5; 109:4 accompany (1) 76:12 accomplish (1) 218:19 accomplished (2) 40:15; 230:12 according (2) 84:5;202:10 account (2) 32:18;235:2 accountable (1) 115:6 accuracy (3) 204:21;205:4, 7 accurate (3) 89:15;91:1;	Act (26) 5:19;15:14,21; 26:3;33:5,9;42:15;56:4,19; 61:2;76:11;90:6;124:17; 141:2;142:6;150:6;153:10; 168:6;171:8;177:17;184:3; 201:5;211:14;225:6; 235:22;236:3 acting (1) 220:4 action (2) 23:6;38:22 active (4) 21:8;34:14; 61:23;149:8 actively (4) 18:3;28:2;93:9, 19 activism (1) 93:17 activist (1) 105:1 activists (1) 84:11 activities (3) 85:9;93:11,21 activity (1) 84:14 acts (1) 82:16 actual (2) 40:3;43:20 actually (28) 4:9;5:11; 21:24;22:1;34:21;43:5; 44:21;54:6;58:14,18;67:2; 77:10;96:1;98:15,16; 110:14;113:8;118:3; 150:20;169:17;177:4; 183:4;184:11,19;198:1; 212:17;215:16;227:4 acutely (1) 32:10 ADA (1) 103:24 adapt (2) 168:10;223:1 add (4) 18:17;68:3;113:15; 214:17 adding (1) 158:24 addition (6) 6:16;80:23; 112:22;125:22;126:10; 195:24 additional (6) 35:1,2;180:6; 185:1;202:13;211:14 address (13) 38:9;56:3; 61:4,22;62:15;64:21;86:6; 113:6;163:18;179:11; 183:17;198:12;203:19 addressable (1) 82:19 addressed (2) 183:2; 198:11 addressing (1) 184:5 adequacy (1) 38:6 adequate (3) 82:13; 161:19;173:24 adequately (1) 125:17 ad-hoc (1) 233:17 adjacent (1) 65:10 administer (1) 174:1 administered (1) 15:11

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

and/or (4) 25:9,20;151:9; 177:11 anniversary (1) 123:20 announce (1) 94:8 annually (1) 185:15 anymore (4) 121:2;143:11; 166:9;222:16 APABA (2) 123:6,19 APABA-PA (3) 124:1; 127:9,24 apathy (1) 94:3 apologize (2) 73:5;79:22 apparatus (1) 93:4 apparent (1) 107:18 apparently (1) 171:11 appeal (1) 27:13 appeared (1) 124:19 appears (1) 204:17 Applewhite (1) 31:23 application (3) 161:24; 172:22;191:17 applications (2) 160:8,12 applied (2) 58:10;125:9 applies (2) 109:1,5 apply (1) 142:7 applying (1) 74:3 appointment (1) 22:7 appreciate (22) 31:4;44:4; 49:15;72:14;79:12;110:18; 111:18;113:13;129:7; 132:11;133:13;145:21; 147:16;167:16;200:12; 207:2,10;212:13;232:1,4, 7;237:6 appreciated (2) 158:21; 197:1 appreciation (2) 196:23; 229:10 appropriate (2) 41:20; 132:17 approving (1) 206:16 April (1) 210:9 area (5) 51:6;81:16;93:5; 176:1;231:8 areas (9) 16:23;51:1; 81:10,12;85:16;92:11; 120:3;178:18;217:23 argue (1) 181:3 argument (1) 107:23 arguments (1) 220:18 Arizona (4) 203:6;204:12; 219:24;222:11 Arnold (1) 168:5 arose (1) 33:15 around (15) 6:13;40:2; 80:4;81:15;112:8;114:24; 131:1;137:3;143:9;161:17; 179:19;189:20;201:15; 233:13;236:23 arrange (1) 103:15 arranging (1) 88:24 array (1) 201:20 arrive (1) 137:6 article (2) 156:20;219:6 Asia-American (6) 74:5,21; 75:21;78:15;79:8;102:15	Asian (19) 30:11;72:4,19; 73:8,12;74:15;99:23; 100:5;102:21;103:16; 123:17;125:10;126:11,16; 128:1;146:13,16,18; 156:22 Asian-American (6) 78:1; 79:2;118:10;123:9;125:12, 18 Asian-language (1) 76:23 Asian-Pacific (1) 123:24 Aside (2) 149:7;206:14 ASL (7) 42:14,21;43:2; 129:17;130:21;135:20; 148:20 ASL's (1) 131:23 assault (1) 25:5 assembled (1) 201:14 Assembly (1) 157:22 asserting (1) 103:1 assist (6) 76:6,13;100:16; 109:13;150:20;178:15 assistance (13) 74:2,10,22; 75:4,10;76:23;78:17,22; 86:17;90:14;103:6,16; 162:8 assistant (1) 101:12 assisted (1) 100:12 assisting (1) 84:15 assistive (1) 150:16 associated (2) 92:12; 129:22 Association (3) 16:15;18:3; 123:18 attack (1) 22:3 attempt (3) 27:18;91:3,17 attempted (1) 38:12 attempts (4) 25:9,13;88:4; 91:21 attendance (1) 14:18 attendant (1) 186:20 attention (1) 38:18 attest (1) 116:17 attitude (1) 214:20 Attorney (13) 4:23;24:8; 30:6,8,11;31:7;38:2;71:21; 72:4,19;73:8;79:16;155:5 attorneys (1) 80:16 attract (1) 184:24 audience (1) 26:12 Australia (1) 181:11 authority (3) 113:20;114:7, 7 automatically (2) 175:14,18 AVA (1) 23:15 availability (3) 90:24;115:7; 129:16 available (12) 8:9;54:18; 89:18;102:9,10;103:7; 113:10;157:6;180:22; 181:16;210:19;235:17 Avenue (1) 149:1 average (4) 76:3;134:6; 166:14;176:13 Aversa (2) 101:1,3 awarded (1) 88:20	aware (5) 32:10;75:16; 76:10;179:17;231:19 away (19) 22:2,6;36:8; 48:11;63:8,24;65:12; 79:10;118:17;160:10; 165:22;172:11;174:21; 183:22;189:9;217:6,9; 218:20;226:10 awe (1) 224:20 B Babar (4) 123:6,15,17; 127:23 back (24) 12:12;22:11,12; 35:20;45:21;67:6;75:19; 91:10;99:10;110:10; 117:12;119:11;122:21; 150:12;153:9,9;163:13; 172:20;180:3;189:19; 191:23;206:5;234:3;236:4 backdrop (1) 25:24 backlash (1) 67:15 backs (1) 131:15 backslid (1) 74:13 bad (4) 3:5;151:18;152:5; 159:4 Baker (3) 170:8,14,18 balance (2) 172:23;221:16 Ballard (1) 13:5 ballot (23) 7:6,22;14:24; 42:1;71:14;97:10,14,20; 98:19,24;99:10;115:19; 116:20;117:9;119:11,12, 19;131:9;157:4;162:3; 178:10;184:10;210:6 balloting (2) 173:6;178:13 ballots (20) 35:6;53:23; 79:9;83:10;115:17;117:2, 21,23;118:8;119:15,24; 120:6,18;121:1,13,23; 131:2;158:11;160:5; 205:10 Band-Aid (1) 120:1 banded (1) 127:15 Banfield (1) 31:18 Bangladesh (1) 146:15 banking (2) 181:4;214:14 bar (3) 5:1;67:17;123:18 barriers (4) 31:14;43:12, 17;126:10 barring (1) 128:7 Barry (8) 16:11;193:19; 200:15,23;220:13;224:13; 228:1;230:4 bars (2) 43:19;67:9 based (7) 3:18;43:19;44:2; 56:9;59:22;88:20;117:4 basic (2) 94:1;192:9 basically (3) 117:11; 188:13;212:22 basis (4) 52:11;70:2;122:6; 197:5 baton (1) 22:15 battle (4) 111:4;151:12,15; 220:18	battled (2) 151:13,13 beautiful (1) 4:14 became (4) 102:7;141:19; 189:20;225:21 become (12) 22:7;64:5; 89:5,14;107:21;138:1; 165:14;190:16;191:7; 202:4;212:9;229:6 becomes (5) 54:1;130:4; 181:5;202:21;218:9 bedrock (1) 209:6 beforehand (2) 9:7,11 begin (1) 207:23 beginning (1) 124:14 behalf (3) 4:1;33:23; 154:15 behind (4) 67:3;160:18; 197:16;228:18 behoove (1) 179:3 belief (1) 5:24 believes (2) 181:1;208:24 benchmark (1) 60:1 benchmarks (2) 57:19,23 beneficial (3) 85:3;86:16, 19 benefit (6) 64:9;83:14; 116:24;139:9;191:3; 232:14 benefits (1) 223:8 Benjamin (3) 103:20; 155:5;167:14 Berks (2) 56:21;172:8 besides (1) 3:20 best (2) 78:12;130:14 better (15) 111:14;121:20; 131:13;147:3,5,11;184:23; 190:13;198:17;204:9,10; 207:6;218:7;220:1;223:5 better-informed (1) 155:23 beyond (1) 228:22 big (6) 45:23;49:11;60:14; 68:13;84:18;113:18 bigger (1) 140:16 bilingual (5) 23:12;54:18; 55:3;56:7,12 bilingualism (1) 55:7 bill (8) 116:8;158:4;182:17, 17;210:9,14;235:21;236:1 bills (1) 236:2 Bilofsky (3) 152:23;153:1; 154:10 birth (1) 57:1 birthright (2) 54:23;55:2 Bishop (4) 145:23;146:1,2; 147:16 bit (8) 24:17;67:3;95:2; 110:17,20;151:4;177:15; 220:8 bite (1) 116:23 bites (1) 115:15 black (2) 36:2;137:21 blacks (1) 232:13 blind (5) 130:24;149:15; 150:2,3,8 block (1) 168:6 blocking (1) 99:20
---	---	--	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

blocks (2) 65:12;163:11 blows (1) 160:10 blue (2) 75:11;198:14 Board (12) 23:24;33:16; 34:7,10;36:5;38:23;56:11; 78:8;99:8;153:4;171:3,5 boards (1) 232:17 Bob (3) 101:1,2;151:3 bond (1) 98:1 bono (2) 32:3;36:12 book (4) 35:15,20;81:6; 116:17 books (5) 35:18;116:5; 120:20,24;205:8 booth (4) 76:13,17;100:18; 150:18 booths (4) 35:1;148:24; 149:3;158:12 bore (1) 162:24 born (2) 57:2;209:8 boss (2) 100:14;101:13 both (12) 19:5;23:14;81:3; 108:17;130:24;139:20; 142:19;154:6;175:9; 182:22;220:12,13 bother (1) 222:16 bothering (1) 171:18 bound (1) 126:19 Bowser (1) 23:20 box (2) 3:23;191:11 branch (1) 74:24 brand (1) 37:5 brandishing (1) 85:22 brave (3) 139:4,6,7 breech (1) 177:13 bridge (1) 217:9 brief (2) 128:3;230:14 briefly (1) 132:7 bring (10) 38:17,21;45:20; 130:22;131:5,7,14;227:1,8, 8 bringing (4) 14:14;228:10, 14;230:18 brings (2) 17:7;214:14 broke (1) 175:8 broken-down (1) 158:24 brother-in-law's (1) 66:6 brought (6) 33:23;38:22; 41:2;101:24;137:15; 210:13 budget (1) 196:15 bug (1) 188:20 building (2) 37:6;209:11 buildings (3) 66:16,17,18 built (2) 91:9;189:13 bullish (1) 175:19 burden (1) 125:23 burdensome (1) 41:11 bureaucracy (1) 171:17 Bush (1) 188:20 business (2) 197:4;199:22 businesses (1) 199:24 busy (1) 26:13 Buttons (1) 137:9 buying (1) 139:24	C call (21) 11:5;28:11,14; 29:12;30:4;48:3;69:12; 75:9;88:12;92:6;111:7; 112:12;115:1;119:5;123:1; 143:17;152:20;154:22; 161:7;182:10;218:14 called (10) 19:24;25:14; 45:14;69:19;75:7;104:2; 148:10;208:1;236:1,13 calling (1) 185:19 calls (4) 13:23;35:18; 143:7;224:14 Camden (1) 217:7 came (7) 4:10;21:5;69:20; 106:6;181:20;209:15; 231:24 campaigns (1) 3:17 campus (5) 36:7,9;37:5; 61:9,14 can (107) 7:20;11:24; 12:11;26:21;32:15;33:22; 37:14;43:22,22;46:16; 47:20;50:1,9;53:15,18; 57:15;59:20;62:10;65:4; 68:23;69:9;75:9,14;80:18; 88:21;90:24;93:17;98:8; 99:11,12;111:7,21;112:14, 20;113:8;114:23;116:24; 117:5;119:13;122:19; 123:12;127:20;130:8; 131:20;133:8,17,20; 134:19;135:15;142:16; 143:2,14,16;145:8;147:1,3, 5;149:4;151:16;158:2,20, 20;162:9;164:4;166:5; 167:10;171:7,20;177:14; 178:9;179:11;180:22; 181:1,6;183:16,22;185:6,7, 7,10;186:22;189:15;190:3; 194:2,13;195:11;196:18; 198:5;202:23;203:19; 204:23;212:22,24;214:15, 16;215:16;223:1,9;227:11, 18,19;229:17;231:7; 232:22;235:15;236:17,19 candidate (2) 95:13;148:11 candidates (4) 95:6;106:6; 208:13,14 cane (1) 152:4 capacity (2) 15:7;86:24 card (6) 11:4;35:12;45:20; 90:11;131:9;170:17 cards (3) 15:16;81:7;91:5 care (3) 14:19,24;17:10 careful (1) 142:10 caregivers (1) 211:12 Carol (1) 170:23 carried (2) 235:9,10 carry (1) 65:19 carrying (1) 11:18 Carter (2) 194:2,6 Carty (6) 193:16;207:14, 17,23;212:12;217:13	case (16) 31:19;32:1,2,17; 33:15;38:21;56:21;57:10, 11;60:12;83:19;113:5; 168:8,23;223:18;236:13 cases (1) 33:12 cash (1) 172:15 cast (3) 7:6,22;178:9 casting (1) 184:9 category (2) 52:22;146:19 Catherine (3) 71:21;72:10; 79:15 caught (2) 99:5,6 Cause (17) 16:12;69:6; 133:24;134:10,21;193:20; 200:16,24;201:3,13,19; 206:18;215:5;216:21; 217:2;235:6;237:2 caused (4) 34:23;35:21; 85:11;172:1 causes (1) 168:15 CDs (3) 192:1,21;198:2 celebrates (1) 123:20 Center (14) 4:13;13:1; 32:7;37:7;63:9;140:9; 148:3;155:6;167:15,21; 169:20;174:24;202:11; 209:12 centered (1) 80:3 centers (3) 62:20;63:7; 64:14 cents (1) 203:11 century (1) 211:7 certain (14) 5:23;6:1; 68:24;75:22;77:23;78:6; 93:5;98:2;109:1,2;110:1; 116:10;180:3;221:9 Certaine (21) 71:17;72:8; 87:3,14,20;95:22;96:5,10, 13,18,22;104:23;105:8,14; 106:9,15,18;120:13,15; 122:1;153:22 Certaine's (1) 110:10 certainly (23) 12:22;13:20; 42:10;50:24;58:13;112:1; 167:9,12;190:22;193:5; 208:5;221:19;223:8;224:3, 15,17;225:4,7;226:6,10,22; 227:6,9 certificate (2) 126:3,6 certified (5) 141:12;142:14, 18,19;146:6 cetera (1) 71:15 chad (1) 216:15 chair (2) 101:19,21 chairing (1) 16:7 chairman (6) 24:5;97:2; 101:17;139:19;210:12; 233:17 challenge (6) 33:10;44:2; 98:12;115:14;130:8; 183:11 challenged (3) 35:10; 116:19;128:4 challenges (6) 116:21; 124:4;128:13;180:18; 220:21;221:15	challenging (5) 81:22; 111:22;116:10;130:2; 132:1 chance (7) 34:1;155:3; 162:15;174:9;177:5; 187:23;226:5 change (19) 8:11;13:24; 33:21;47:1,2;48:5;60:15; 68:20,21;104:19;116:4; 151:10;191:9;214:3,14,20; 219:1;236:19;237:1 changed (2) 20:18;113:4 changes (9) 6:4;17:16; 29:14;49:12;61:5;72:24; 131:18,19;203:20 changing (4) 17:18;46:10, 23;211:10 channel (2) 140:3;234:17 channels (1) 139:23 chaos (1) 233:21 Chapter (2) 144:2;159:23 chapters (1) 208:6 charge (3) 186:1;214:6,9 charged (4) 15:13,23; 168:17;220:15 Charles (3) 23:20;143:17; 144:1 check (2) 163:24;172:16 checked (1) 191:16 cherish (1) 151:1 Chester (8) 33:14,16;34:7; 36:1;57:11;60:12;82:9; 90:1 chief (3) 10:1;15:8;18:24 child (2) 76:7;225:18 children (3) 106:19;188:2; 233:6 Chinese (3) 74:11;99:2; 146:16 Chinese-American (1) 104:8 choice (3) 76:12;100:13; 109:5 choices (1) 211:21 choose (1) 95:13 Chris (9) 3:14;14:7,13; 18:18;70:21;223:20;228:9; 230:17;235:16 chunks (1) 198:11 circumstance (1) 118:16 cited (1) 34:15 citizen (11) 22:8;28:4; 30:14;41:13;44:15;102:7; 153:7;165:19;203:14; 209:1;225:21 citizens (18) 15:20;25:11; 27:19;32:17,24;54:22; 55:2;57:1;70:3;98:13; 116:11;125:24;155:23; 168:10;207:7;210:20; 211:17;222:23 citizen's (1) 129:4 citizenship (5) 7:9;74:5; 102:13,17;125:16 city (36) 4:8;10:7;38:23; 39:9,22;40:8;50:4;51:5;
--	---	---	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

55:7;66:15;74:7,17;76:21; 78:9;100:22;101:6,8; 103:13;104:2;105:12; 108:5;120:16;138:18; 149:11;150:4,10;151:9; 156:12;157:1;170:10; 193:23;194:12,12;217:5; 221:2;235:7 civic (8) 33:1;105:6;107:9, 15;137:14;166:11;187:1; 190:5 civics (1) 94:1 Civil (17) 3:18;4:20;5:1,20; 14:8;19:14;31:8;33:2; 71:23;73:11,12;167:22; 188:11;219:13;223:22; 226:11;233:11 claim (1) 88:21 clarification (1) 108:1 clarity (1) 86:10 class (1) 164:22 classes (2) 148:10;185:9 clean (1) 217:1 cleaning (1) 151:23 clear (2) 138:4,5 cleared (1) 86:7 clearly (5) 11:24;57:20; 136:3;183:5;225:3 climate (1) 20:18 clogs (1) 135:6 close (9) 73:17;138:16,17; 175:24;191:1;193:1; 208:12;223:19;230:4 close-captioning (1) 148:21 closed (1) 42:4 closed-caption (1) 140:12 closed-captioned (2) 133:6, 7 closely (2) 110:15;229:16 closer (2) 45:7;175:3 club (1) 31:21 coalesced (1) 34:22 Coalition (12) 71:20;80:1; 84:17;87:13;106:11,21; 127:14;153:5,8;201:8,17; 206:20 code (1) 190:8 coincidence (1) 22:4 cold (1) 224:8 collaborate (1) 127:15 collaborative (1) 216:3 colleague (2) 87:5;215:6 colleagues (1) 44:12 collected (1) 6:20 collecting (2) 112:18;131:2 collective (2) 27:1;218:14 college (3) 167:2;186:18; 187:4 colonies (2) 220:6,6 color (7) 26:8;31:15;33:11; 90:20;125:11;163:2; 225:12 Colorado (2) 215:2;219:21 colors (1) 29:17 comfortable (6) 108:10; 137:20;138:1,24;187:13;	192:19 coming (20) 3:10;4:3; 44:21;73:6;78:24;80:19; 94:24;108:11;110:5;120:6; 139:2;142:23;147:14; 151:19;169:9;183:12; 224:1,7,9;225:18 comment (6) 110:9;111:24; 112:4;115:13;120:14; 212:19 comments (5) 156:8; 190:23;222:7;224:22; 230:14 commerce (1) 216:19 commercial (1) 66:17 Commission (24) 3:12; 5:14;8:2;14:12;24:6,21; 26:10;37:14;40:13;41:23; 43:15;58:2,4;86:20;101:4; 117:1;128:11;154:16; 156:2;174:6;193:6;206:10; 210:22;211:4 COMMISSIONER (148) 9:3,8,12,22;14:6;18:15; 23:9;24:18;27:8;28:6; 31:20;37:16;44:6;45:6,10; 49:13,24;51:13;52:2,6,8; 54:15;56:18;57:6;60:6; 62:8;64:7;65:21;66:22; 68:16;69:1,22;70:5,9,11; 79:11;83:12;87:1,8,10,16; 95:19;96:3,7,8,11,15,21; 97:1,5,9,99:18;100:21; 101:2,5,8,10,11,16,20,23; 102:20;104:22;105:11,20; 106:13,16;107:7,24;110:8; 113:12,14;114:4;115:9; 118:5;119:20;120:11; 121:24;127:21;129:6; 132:4,9;133:12,17,19,20, 23;134:22;136:17;139:11, 14,16,18;140:19,21;141:3, 14;142:21;143:19,21; 145:19;147:15;152:15; 154:9;160:17;162:11; 166:19;174:3,8,18;175:2; 177:6,8;179:24;183:3; 187:22;190:19;193:23,24; 194:7,17,19;198:3,4;200:8, 9,19;207:8,21;212:11,16; 213:13,14,15;214:18; 215:19;216:7;220:9;222:2, 3,4;228:8;230:13;232:3; 233:9;235:7,12;237:5 commissioners (27) 9:16; 10:15;13:11;14:5,16; 16:14;18:18;24:20;29:24; 49:22;65:4,5;76:22;78:9; 83:21;93:19;96:24;114:2, 12;194:12;212:14;222:1; 224:18;228:5,22;230:20; 233:16 commissioner's (2) 104:3; 121:9 commissions (1) 232:18 Commission's (4) 60:4;	107:3;157:24;161:7 commitment (1) 226:15 Committee (23) 3:17;4:2, 19;14:8;44:20;69:5;80:7; 137:15;138:4;155:1,14,18; 156:9;159:6,10;162:8,13; 182:16;210:13;223:21; 226:11;228:19;233:10 committeeman (1) 24:7 committeeperson (1) 170:9 Common (17) 10:6;16:12; 69:6;183:7;193:20;200:16, 24;201:3,13,19;206:18; 215:5;216:21;217:2;230:7; 235:6;237:2 common-sense (1) 206:16 Commonwealth (17) 15:6; 27:20;31:24;54:4;88:6; 90:4,5;112:9;113:11; 121:17;125:17;128:6,20; 154:1;171:13;236:12,14 Commonwealth's (2) 40:23; 202:7 Communicate (3) 138:3; 187:17;231:21 communicating (1) 130:15 communication (3) 31:13; 130:15;140:9 communities (15) 19:13; 20:16;29:15,17;55:22; 72:24;85:18,19;90:20; 110:4;123:24;217:24; 221:8,18;225:12 community (30) 5:6;12:8; 19:16,18;33:19;37:8; 54:20;55:6,22;73:14;77:2; 78:15;89:24;97:23;102:21, 23;104:18;126:22;127:11; 140:4,5;149:8;174:24; 197:4;218:4;226:21;227:1, 6,12;233:22 companies (2) 197:7,9 compared (1) 203:9 compelling (1) 36:15 compensation (1) 161:20 competency (1) 43:12 competition (1) 218:9 complain (2) 65:23;84:14 complaint (1) 82:3 complaints (6) 80:19,21; 81:23;82:21;84:15;112:18 completely (3) 113:5; 165:15;203:23 compliance (1) 103:23 compliant (1) 126:13 complicated (3) 171:16; 183:22;192:13 complications (1) 184:18 comprehend (1) 215:11 comprehensive (1) 90:21 computer (2) 54:9;223:4 concentrated (1) 213:21 concentration (3) 51:3; 120:4,5 concepts (1) 231:3 concern (5) 41:10;43:21;	63:22;81:17;156:10 concerned (1) 65:18 concerning (1) 186:23 concerns (6) 97:17;98:18; 127:2;179:23;180:8; 205:15 conclude (1) 115:11 concluded (1) 237:8 conclusion (1) 64:10 concrete (1) 196:8 concur (2) 190:22;219:2 condition (1) 64:17 conditions (2) 210:3;224:5 conduct (2) 25:21;212:5 conducted (1) 58:15 confederacy (1) 25:9 conference (1) 10:14 conflicted (1) 212:20 confluence (1) 214:7 conforming (2) 125:3;127:1 confrontational (1) 214:23 confused (1) 173:20 confusing (2) 80:24;173:2 confusion (12) 80:24; 85:11;94:20;168:15,15,16, 18,22;170:7,23;171:16,24 Congress (9) 8:17,21; 37:15;40:13;43:7,16;60:3; 196:21;199:2 connection (2) 22:20; 197:17 connects (1) 177:15 cons (1) 181:6 consciousness (1) 33:4 consensus (2) 50:17;181:8 consent (1) 216:11 consider (2) 50:3;209:14 considerations (1) 65:7 considered (8) 27:13; 60:16;149:20;165:18; 166:10,12;180:2;231:4 considering (2) 8:21; 126:15 consistent (1) 158:14 consistently (1) 165:8 constables (3) 81:24; 85:22;86:3 constant (1) 82:2 consternation (1) 127:4 constituencies (2) 124:5; 157:3 constituents (1) 17:12 Constitution (6) 4:13;13:1; 32:6;91:14;209:12;219:7 constitutional (4) 17:17; 53:12;216:9;219:5 constitutionality (1) 128:4 constraints (1) 65:14 consumers (2) 148:12,13 contact (2) 191:18;198:7 contention (1) 42:20 continually (1) 163:4 continuation (1) 154:20 continue (12) 5:3;7:13; 14:3;20:5;44:13;129:3; 211:20;221:13;226:16;
--	---	--	---

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

228:2;229:3;233:4 continued (2) 7:12;65:19 continuing (2) 185:8;186:11 continuous (1) 30:2 contribute (2) 94:2;231:7 contributes (1) 102:21 contributing (1) 94:19 control (2) 147:8;151:16 controversy (1) 53:14 convened (2) 5:13;16:9 convenience (2) 68:4;203:14 conveniences (1) 202:18 convenient (2) 37:7;67:18 convening (1) 14:9 convention (1) 118:12 conventions (3) 79:3;118:10;126:18 conversation (9) 12:13,17;22:19;27:2,22;209:20;217:14;231:14;235:1 conversations (5) 21:9;174:12;227:10;231:17;235:4 cookie (2) 9:7,11 cooperate (5) 129:14,20;134:13;140:10;215:17 cooperation (1) 112:11 cooperative (1) 215:4 copied (1) 99:4 Corbett (1) 27:17 core (2) 19:12;201:3 cornerstone (1) 88:4 corrected (1) 111:12 correctly (4) 12:2;24:11;152:24;205:3 Cortes (75) 9:19;14:6;24:9;28:6;31:1,6,18;37:16,23;38:19;44:6;45:6,10;49:13;54:2;56:18;60:6;62:8;64:7;66:22;68:16;69:1,22;70:11;79:11;83:12;87:1,10,16;96:3,7,21;110:8;113:12;115:9;118:5;119:20;120:11;121:24;127:21;129:6;132:4,9;133:12,19;136:17;139:11,16;140:21;142:21;143:21;145:19;147:15;152:15;154:9;162:11;166:19;174:3;179:24;190:19;194:17;197:24;198:3;200:8,19;207:8,21;212:11;213:13;214:18;220:9;222:4;228:8;233:18;237:5 cost (4) 150:10;172:14;196:13;203:11 costs (1) 203:4 cost-saving (1) 210:14 counsel (6) 23:19;31:23;32:4;36:12;150:1;215:7 counselor (1) 10:8 count (3) 11:11;162:5;180:16 counted (1) 204:3	counties (13) 15:16;56:9;13;71:12;80:18;112:12;115:6,6;192:2;195:2;198:8;203:6;215:23 countries (1) 181:12 country (25) 5:13;6:13;7:1,15,19;12:19;19:22;20:20;21:5,20;23:14;24:4;50:7;54:19;78:3;107:22;108:24;128:12;177:21;179:19;181:10;183:15;184:15;233:13,20 County (39) 16:14;33:15,16;34:7;35:14,19;36:2,3;56:22;57:11;60:13;82:10,11;90:1;92:23;93:18;107:3;111:5;112:13,13;113:21;114:2,17;115:1,3;117:17;121:9,17;172:9;191:16;192:23;203:17;215:22;216:11;217:18;220:23;221:4,5,6 county-elected (1) 16:17 couple (16) 10:10,23;13:21,22,24;38:11;46:24;47:5;79:21;81:14;85:15;96:1;103:23;149:3;175:13;191:2 coupled (1) 93:24 course (11) 5:7;13:10,12;25:8;51:7;80:23;82:4,24;140:18;148:13;153:18 Court (16) 5:16;6:6;10:6;41:21;79:21;83:6;90:5,15;91:24;127:6;128:6,20;146:5;149:21;236:5,12 Court's (2) 5:24;26:1 cover (3) 29:15,20;71:6 coverage (1) 6:11 covered (3) 99:24;100:1;225:9 Craig (7) 71:23;72:8;84:1,4;87:2;119:22,23 crawl (1) 98:7 create (7) 64:13;112:22;180:5;184:17;192:1;196:23;198:21 created (4) 32:7;63:23;192:5;201:7 credible (1) 94:14 credit (2) 55:6;222:23 critical (3) 6:3;153:20;199:7 critically (1) 21:2 cross (1) 148:5 crucial (1) 209:5 Cultural (2) 37:6;126:22 culture (1) 222:17 cultured (1) 136:1 cultures (1) 221:7 curb (1) 151:20 curious (3) 108:13;231:10,13 current (9) 6:8,14;38:21;40:20;65:13;89:15;91:1;117:4;186:18	currently (1) 27:12 curriculum (1) 107:11 curtailed (1) 25:18 custom (1) 218:21 cutoff (1) 204:8 cycle (1) 19:21 cycles (1) 201:13 <hr/> D <hr/> daily (4) 70:2;85:23;122:5;156:21 Daniel (2) 145:23;146:2 daring (1) 91:16 dark (1) 98:3 darts (1) 217:23 data (1) 205:5 database (1) 16:2 date (3) 53:24;164:9;171:9 dating (1) 67:6 daughter (4) 21:4;169:5,11;170:3 day (61) 3:23;22:4,10;23:7;26:18;32:15;34:2,19;36:18,22;37:13;45:19;69:8;71:10;73:23;75:13;80:6,11,20;84:13;86:9;88:9,23;89:7;90:8,12;92:3,22;94:10,13,17;95:14;102:18;104:4;110:23;113:9;115:8;118:13;119:3,5;120:23;152:9;158:9;160:1;161:22;164:22;166:3;169:10;170:15;177:3;178:2,22;186:10;191:24;196:23;200:1;201:21;204:6;205:11;210:4;226:17 days (7) 13:21;53:2;121:6,7,10,11;201:22 DC (5) 3:19;4:7,11;31:10;73:19 deaf (26) 129:22;130:7,19,24;132:18;133:2;135:19;136:8;137:3,3,18,22;138:6,22;139:8;140:4;141:10;144:3,4,9;145:4,9,13;149:5;227:5;233:22 deaf-blind (7) 130:17,18;131:4,13;136:11,12;138:14 Deaf-Hearing (1) 140:9 deal (3) 59:21;80:23;120:8 dealing (3) 49:5;178:19;187:15 dealt (1) 114:16 debate (1) 54:3 debates (2) 38:16;216:23 decades (3) 92:17;158:15;161:15 decent (1) 17:11 decide (2) 43:22;194:4 decision (5) 5:18;26:1;127:6;128:21;148:15 decisions (1) 43:22 dedicated (3) 123:21;	139:23;229:18 deeming (1) 70:20 deeply (2) 15:2;17:10 default (1) 64:6 defeat (1) 91:19 defend (1) 73:12 Defense (5) 30:12;72:5,20;73:9;128:1 deficiencies (1) 229:14 definitely (7) 60:2;95:20;108:17;109:8;210:1;217:8;225:10 Delaware (1) 149:1 delay (3) 134:1,17,21 delegate (1) 113:20 deliberations (1) 154:8 delighted (1) 162:10 deliver (1) 205:21 demand (2) 119:12;214:11 democracy (3) 26:23;209:6,8 democratic (4) 107:22;164:8;206:13;211:18 democrats (1) 182:23 demographics (1) 211:11 demonstrate (2) 117:13;171:6 demonstrated (1) 53:8 demonstration (1) 137:16 demonstrations (1) 208:11 denied (4) 36:13;164:19;175:15;188:2 Department (9) 10:9;15:10;39:5,10;69:11;110:24;112:6,7;220:14 dependent (1) 89:6 depending (1) 175:7 depends (1) 59:7 deprivation (1) 129:1 deserve (2) 17:21;202:16 designed (1) 210:19 desk (1) 197:16 despite (2) 4:4;221:14 detail (1) 102:4 detailed (1) 211:2 determination (2) 65:6;126:23 determined (1) 41:20 determines (1) 159:3 deterred (1) 126:3 deters (1) 171:18 developing (1) 15:24 development (3) 5:7;10:10;106:2 devotes (1) 26:16 DHCC (1) 140:8 dialogue (3) 18:22;30:2;44:13 Diaz (43) 8:23;9:3,8,12;10:5;23:9;31:2,20;52:8;54:15;56:23;65:21;66:2;70:9;87:8;100:21;101:2,8,11,16,20,23;102:20;104:22;105:11,20;106:13,16;107:7;113:14;133:17,20,23;134:22;141:14;
---	--	---	---

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

143:19;177:8;187:22; 190:23;200:20;216:7; 232:3;234:19 difference (4) 49:12;55:21; 113:9;231:7 differences (3) 187:8; 206:15;212:2 different (27) 73:21;85:9; 86:2;93:18;104:20;126:17; 129:16;130:13;144:14,20; 148:20;151:24;163:10; 176:23;186:12;198:19,19, 20;199:12;212:24;214:12; 216:12,14;219:23;221:8; 231:2,2 directly (1) 217:6 difficult (4) 66:13;111:16; 158:2;218:2 difficulties (1) 114:8 difficulty (2) 113:21;158:8 dimension (1) 25:10 directions (1) 132:22 director (8) 71:18;87:19; 105:12,15;154:24;155:18; 193:20;200:24 disabilities (25) 34:18;38:7, 10,14;39:2;41:12;42:6,9; 43:18;50:16,21;58:18; 61:20;62:16;63:1,15; 148:6;149:10;150:1,6; 151:18;152:1;178:20; 192:16,18 disability (10) 12:8;30:9; 38:3;44:3;50:11,13;51:11; 63:5;71:6;225:13 disabled (3) 50:3;158:9; 170:7 disadvantage (1) 6:5 disappointed (1) 234:10 disappointing (1) 77:5 disaster (1) 163:7 disastrous (2) 92:2,4 disclosure (1) 62:4 discouragement (2) 26:7;93:9 discouraging (1) 93:2 discovered (3) 125:8; 195:7;205:24 discrepancy (1) 173:21 discriminating (1) 46:13 discrimination (10) 5:5,22; 6:2,15;8:5,19;29:16;32:18; 107:17;156:5 discriminatory (4) 29:13; 72:23;74:3;125:10 discuss (1) 71:11 discussed (1) 63:3 discussion (11) 4:16;21:1; 27:4;57:12,21;62:14;63:2; 97:19;196:1;209:23;234:9 discussions (5) 18:6;21:10; 26:19;62:17;83:22 disenchanted (1) 166:22 disenfranchise (2) 62:5; 91:17 disfranchise (1) 78:6 disfranchised (4) 55:14;	111:3;121:3;178:8 dismal (1) 158:1 displayed (2) 75:11;104:20 disproportionate (1) 125:23 disproportionately (1) 225:11 disrespectful (1) 176:22 Dissemination (1) 90:17 dissipate (1) 36:23 dissipated (1) 36:23 dissuaded (1) 166:21 distance (3) 36:9;60:17; 169:6 distinguished (1) 223:12 distributed (2) 192:22; 213:24 distributing (1) 112:24 district (1) 217:17 division (1) 65:11 divisions (2) 39:24;40:19 DMC (1) 23:15 document (3) 88:22; 231:12;235:17 documentation (2) 46:14; 126:15 dollars (1) 196:13 dominance (1) 93:12 dominant (2) 93:4,7 done (10) 10:10;17:14; 89:13;90:18;109:14; 122:17;154:1;192:12; 224:16;228:23 door (7) 36:21;45:16,17,17, 17;55:3,7 doubt (1) 52:4 Doug (1) 16:13 down (10) 4:8;11:11;12:1; 64:12;149:2;180:7;188:9, 13;189:7;190:4 dozen (3) 17:3;25:16;56:8 dozens (2) 16:22,22 Dr (1) 16:12 drastic (1) 120:17 drawn (1) 224:23 drive (2) 169:3,5 driven (1) 67:11 driver's (2) 35:13;169:4 drives (2) 25:22;124:8 driving (1) 169:8 drop (1) 145:1 dropping (1) 203:10 due (2) 157:18;172:23 During (15) 16:5;19:20; 34:5;53:6;62:12;63:3; 89:22;91:15;93:16;96:16; 106:10;107:4,5;125:7; 166:16 duty (3) 166:11;197:7,7	153:10;158:7;164:23; 179:4;210:5;211:9,13; 225:5 easier (3) 157:13;161:9; 192:5 easily (7) 32:16;66:19; 147:12;183:23;203:21; 206:1;236:20 East (1) 35:22 easy (3) 3:23;41:6;196:16 echo (1) 161:7 economic (2) 55:20;232:15 economically-disadvantaged (1) 90:19 ecosystem (1) 198:21 Ed (2) 16:9;24:11 editorial (3) 95:4;171:3,5 educate (3) 8:18;118:15; 127:16 educated (3) 20:4;109:9; 121:20 educating (5) 20:22;89:11; 90:14;107:20;127:11 education (32) 5:6;20:6; 23:12;30:12;54:18;55:4; 72:5,20;73:9,14;88:3;89:1, 19;90:22;93:21;94:13; 106:20;112:23;119:2; 128:2;148:7,10,11;153:13, 14;185:9;190:5;197:12; 199:15;208:9;226:16; 230:24 educational (3) 105:7,22; 188:12 effect (1) 168:12 effective (1) 155:21 effectiveness (2) 199:9,15 efficient (1) 212:4 effort (1) 216:3 efforts (13) 25:24;57:15,18, 22;89:9;93:3,14;120:2; 124:11;127:11;162:9; 211:2;215:4 eight (2) 34:2;176:19 eighteenth (1) 202:22 eighty (2) 59:17,18 either (6) 39:15;52:15,22; 108:12;121:23;171:24 elaborate (1) 200:13 elderly (5) 26:8;71:9; 78:18;168:24;178:19 elect (2) 161:13;170:9 election (146) 6:22;7:12; 8:6;14:23;15:8;16:8,16; 17:24;19:20;20:8,9,11; 21:13;24:5;27:7,9,16; 32:14;34:3,6,19;36:18; 37:13;49:9;53:3,5,10;54:8; 58:4;59:23;62:6,7,12; 63:19;69:8;70:13,16; 71:10;73:3,16,23;74:14; 75:13;80:2,3,6,20;81:18; 83:11;84:7,13;85:12;86:4, 5,20;88:5,9,23;89:4,7,23; 90:7,12;91:2,11,16;92:2,6, 13,22;93:24;94:10,13,16,	24;95:13;98:9;101:4; 102:3,14,18;104:4;106:24; 110:23;111:1,2;115:8; 118:13;119:3,5;120:9; 121:14;124:15;128:14; 149:2;153:23;154:12,21; 156:6,16;157:11;159:22; 160:21;163:6,16;166:8,12, 16;170:13,15,16,19; 171:17;178:2,22;181:21; 186:10,13,14;188:1,16; 189:1,2,4;190:8;195:4; 201:13,15,17,21,22; 205:11,16;206:10,17,19; 207:6;210:22;211:6; 214:24;215:8,14;217:3; 226:17;229:11,16 election-related (1) 31:16 elections (38) 7:14;15:12; 16:19;17:10;24:17;33:17; 34:8;36:4;38:24;43:13; 56:11;73:21;78:8;81:21; 83:1;94:22;102:2;113:18; 125:7;130:5;147:5;155:22; 166:13;185:3;187:9; 193:13;195:19;203:5; 208:12;212:6;213:18,22, 23,24;219:8;220:17; 223:14;230:8 election's (1) 35:16 elector (1) 212:3 electoral (4) 8:7;106:8; 156:6;213:4 electorate (1) 75:21 Electors (1) 16:4 electricity (1) 32:11 electronic (7) 52:16;53:22; 54:3,11;158:11;202:14; 222:15 elementary (1) 174:24 elevated (2) 106:3,5 eleven (1) 202:11 eligibility (1) 130:2 eligible (8) 7:5,22;26:4; 50:10;121:18;130:1;157:2; 210:20 eliminates (1) 203:15 Ellen (2) 154:23;155:16 else (10) 8:14;63:16,21; 64:18;67:20;132:6;184:14; 188:7;213:19;214:15 elsewhere (1) 183:14 emails (2) 13:22;198:11 emasculate (1) 26:2 embarrassed (1) 18:8 emblazoned (1) 33:3 embrace (1) 205:17 emergency (1) 118:21 employ (1) 181:3 employee (3) 169:19; 171:4,9 employees (2) 168:17; 172:2 employers (1) 211:12 employment (1) 5:5 empower (4) 19:12;145:11;
E
	eager (1) 18:21 earlier (5) 126:17;135:4; 219:19;225:5;226:20 early (17) 25:18;52:21,22; 53:1,6;152:7,8,13,18;

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

226:21,24 empowerment (3) 88:2; 89:13;94:15 empty-handed (2) 169:23; 172:17 enabling (1) 202:14 enactment (1) 124:12 encountered (1) 102:11 encourage (9) 43:7;44:11; 152:12;182:12;197:4; 199:4,6;226:6;229:21 encouraged (2) 93:19; 212:21 encourages (2) 208:17; 212:8 encouraging (3) 19:18; 206:12;208:5 end (13) 25:5;64:1;75:18; 78:10;79:1;122:20;123:12; 142:24;143:8;180:24; 207:19;228:6;230:15 ended (2) 175:10;176:12 endless (1) 218:8 endorse (2) 152:7,13 endorsement (1) 206:9 enforcement (4) 86:10; 91:24;128:8;168:6 enforcing (2) 90:6;170:12 engage (5) 4:24;30:2; 63:19;191:7,18 engaged (6) 19:18,19; 21:9;32:24;127:10;222:14 English (13) 33:14;36:16; 42:19;46:15;55:11;76:1; 97:20;98:21;104:1,16; 141:23;156:13;157:1 English-language (1) 74:10 enjoined (2) 170:12;173:4 enjoy (2) 21:19;147:14 enormous (4) 33:21; 156:16;159:18;162:22 enormously (3) 158:21; 160:2;185:22 enough (13) 37:11;39:4; 40:24;60:18;67:12;91:18; 118:24;135:19;156:18; 170:2;173:2;181:2;222:23 ensure (13) 17:19;26:3; 39:14;40:14,24;41:4; 89:20;90:24;91:18;129:4; 157:1;210:18;230:11 enter (1) 205:2 enthusiastic (1) 137:4 entire (3) 4:8;74:16;221:6 entirely (1) 92:20 entity (2) 213:21;214:4 entries (1) 205:6 environment (1) 64:2 equal (2) 83:18;175:9 equality (2) 33:2;123:23 equation (1) 181:7 equipment (5) 59:7,8; 140:18;150:7;192:10 equity (2) 232:9,20 era (1) 107:5 Erie (1) 171:3	eroded (1) 165:16 erroneous (1) 34:16 error-prone (1) 204:24 errors (1) 126:18 especially (13) 26:5;28:2; 39:2;46:22;58:19;91:8; 129:17;163:7;166:15; 178:18;197:13;233:17,24 essential (1) 153:17 essentially (3) 63:20;80:14; 135:1 established (1) 65:9 estimate (1) 165:3 Estonia (1) 181:11 et (1) 71:15 evaluate (1) 39:12 evaluation (1) 199:9 even (35) 14:17;32:19; 35:11;36:8;47:2;48:16,17; 49:2;64:1;68:12;90:4; 94:1;97:24;98:22;111:10; 116:11;118:23;119:19; 125:5;150:11;151:22; 170:11;171:12,20;173:8; 176:14;181:12,16;182:1; 196:5;220:19;221:5; 222:19;225:7;231:3 evening (9) 18:19;19:4; 200:19;207:14;224:21; 225:3;230:21;231:24; 237:7 event (4) 3:8;13:16;22:12; 224:17 events (2) 34:22;228:12 eventually (1) 39:6 everybody (12) 45:1,18; 46:16;47:19;68:9,24; 100:8;111:9;139:10; 142:22;191:8;232:23 everyone (8) 3:2;14:17; 26:12;63:16;115:14;170:5; 182:12;228:15 everyone's (2) 110:7;191:3 everywhere (1) 109:6 evident (1) 202:5 exact (1) 58:20 exactly (6) 42:13;47:3,14; 56:5;61:1;99:2 exam (1) 141:21 examine (1) 26:21 example (18) 43:6;73:17; 74:22;77:22;82:8;124:7; 129:24;134:3;135:20; 136:11;138:6;170:6,22; 184:3,3;185:16;195:6; 196:12 examples (5) 93:1;168:21; 171:24;183:16;184:13 excellent (2) 69:2;159:7 except (1) 195:20 excessive (1) 125:13 excited (1) 22:22 exclusive (1) 108:16 excuse (1) 231:9 executive (2) 193:19; 200:24	exemplary (1) 190:9 exercise (1) 171:21 exercising (1) 124:6 ex-felon (1) 236:14 ex-felons (2) 236:10,16 exhibited (1) 172:1 exist (1) 54:14 existing (1) 126:10 exists (1) 32:19 exit (1) 102:5 expand (1) 208:15 expanding (1) 208:20 expansive (1) 116:7 expect (3) 202:23;210:24; 211:21 expectations (1) 211:23 expense (1) 126:5 expensive (2) 196:11,19 experience (22) 16:19; 18:14;63:21;64:1;65:22; 91:6;110:14;157:16;159:4, 7;165:7;166:7,22;167:8; 211:1,19;222:10;225:23; 226:2,3,8,9 experienced (4) 88:14; 134:15;180:19;202:19 experiences (7) 159:20; 161:4;167:1;193:8;206:23; 221:7;231:2 experimentation (2) 199:1,6 experimented (1) 181:13 experimenting (2) 198:9; 199:11 expert (1) 223:4 experts (2) 11:14;201:11 expiration (1) 171:9 expired (1) 127:20 explain (3) 75:14;86:17; 99:12 explained (1) 90:3 explaining (1) 86:13 explore (1) 96:12 Expose (2) 140:17;144:10 exposure (3) 144:12,18,19 express (1) 112:2 expression (1) 21:19 extend (1) 143:2 extensive (2) 50:6;148:7 extent (1) 184:1 extra (5) 183:24;184:17,18; 186:6;196:13 extremely (3) 22:22;41:17, 17 eye (2) 29:1;122:19 eyes (2) 85:3;110:7	179:22;186:21;187:3; 202:20;203:6;204:12; 206:5;213:2;233:5 factor (1) 205:14 failed (2) 35:14;125:17 failing (1) 38:24 failure (1) 205:20 fair (5) 5:4;155:22;209:4; 213:23;230:9 fairness (1) 232:9 fall (2) 6:11;8:4 falls (1) 209:20 false (1) 90:17 familiar (2) 78:20;141:1 families (2) 146:22;211:10 family (2) 76:8;100:16 fantastic (2) 9:16;13:14 far (4) 41:11;53:20;97:13; 103:8 far-more (1) 81:10 farther (3) 36:8,8;63:8 fashion (2) 111:21;164:18 father (3) 21:10,24;22:15 favor (1) 157:20 fear (1) 195:3 feasible (1) 54:11 fed (1) 165:14 Federal (8) 24:13;100:4; 108:19,23;216:10,10; 220:20;233:2 federally-designated (1) 38:5 Federation (1) 150:2 feel (10) 22:20;137:20; 147:13;150:21,23;152:10; 175:17;187:13;217:19; 230:15 feeling (2) 212:19;213:10 fellow (14) 14:16;17:23; 18:17;24:20;27:7;32:17, 24;49:22;83:21;212:14; 228:21;230:19;233:16; 235:11 felt (5) 22:14;92:10; 156:18;166:2;174:12 few (8) 11:20;20:17;72:12; 81:12;136:7;168:21; 177:18;196:7 fewer (1) 205:19 field (3) 80:19;92:16; 159:13 Fields (5) 3:15;18:18; 70:22;223:20;230:17 fifteen (4) 50:20;165:1; 176:12;187:24 fifth (2) 5:11;221:2 fifty (4) 4:24;21:5;91:10; 220:6 fight (2) 114:3;153:10 fighting (1) 149:9 fight (1) 155:21 FIGUEREDO (8) 3:1,15; 9:6,10,14,24;223:21,24 figure (3) 58:24;105:3; 176:16 file (2) 83:9;117:8
F
face (2) 126:11;135:22 faced (5) 78:23;156:11,17; 162:23;166:15 faces (1) 210:2 facility (1) 4:15 facing (1) 124:5 fact (16) 4:9;37:10;42:21; 70:15;84:21;113:2;115:1;

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

filed (6) 23:11,22;24:10; 36:11;37:3;149:22 fill (3) 11:3;35:5;117:8 filled (1) 119:15 filtered (1) 188:13 final (5) 17:2;170:22; 172:24;221:23;228:6 finally (9) 10:11;12:21; 199:7,17;205:12;206:3,7; 230:3;235:19 financial (1) 13:3 find (5) 68:11;162:1;231:6, 10,13 fine (1) 139:3 finest (1) 25:20 finest (1) 167:5 firm (2) 13:2;168:4 First (32) 9:19;20:7;29:12; 30:4;34:23;44:9;59:2; 70:18;72:17;79:7;112:12; 121:14;122:4;123:4; 161:12;165:19;169:13; 172:2;180:1.2;183:5; 189:1,3;194:5;202:24; 223:3;225:20,22;226:2,8; 233:14;236:7 First-time (11) 76:2,4; 78:18;115:24;116:2,15; 163:3,8;165:5;167:1,7 fitting (3) 4:16;32:5;209:19 five (12) 28:19;29:19; 65:12;83:16,17;96:4;99:1; 115:10;136:7;159:24; 194:18;204:23 five-county (1) 80:11 fix (2) 7:18;195:22 fixed (1) 160:20 flag (1) 57:3 flagged (1) 116:5 flip (1) 213:1 floor (2) 30:23;49:21 Florida (2) 219:24;220:1 fly (3) 33:22;61:5,24 focus (5) 8:5,6;57:16; 156:7;201:24 focused (1) 88:1 folks (7) 4:5;12:18;51:14; 143:15;148:24;224:5; 226:1 follow (4) 108:19;109:11; 117:16;229:8 Following (4) 60:7;202:24; 208:16;210:3 follow-up (5) 10:19;30:1; 49:18;62:9;102:4 Force (8) 16:8,10;62:13; 63:4;64:11;89:5;181:22; 192:3 forced (3) 24:9;38:20; 176:19 Ford (1) 159:1 foremost (1) 165:19 Forest (1) 221:4 forever (2) 55:16;116:1 forgive (2) 155:1,2 form (7) 83:15;116:6,22;	124:22;126:13;177:23; 191:11 formal (3) 10:18;11:13; 121:8 formally (1) 6:17 formally-covered (1) 227:17 format (2) 28:9;231:21 formats (1) 148:19 former (8) 9:20;10:5,7,8; 16:17;71:18;87:18;157:19 formerly (2) 87:15,17 forming (1) 129:15 forms (2) 7:7;203:17 formula (3) 6:11;58:9; 61:21 formulas (1) 95:16 forth (2) 163:14;235:10 fortunate (1) 170:5 fortunately (3) 41:21;43:4; 202:8 forty (7) 28:13;29:21; 97:12;136:10;150:24; 164:21;204:3 forty-three (1) 151:7 forty-year (1) 73:10 forum (1) 228:20 forums (2) 148:12;231:15 forward (9) 6:23;14:2; 18:22;27:22;86:8;165:6; 227:10,19;229:5 fought (1) 201:4 found (5) 6:6;138:7,10; 176:21;230:22 foundations (2) 105:24; 199:3 founded (1) 4:21 four (11) 20:11;28:12;30:4; 40:7;67:4;74:15;99:1; 103:9,9;129:12;193:12 fourteen (1) 73:18 fourth (1) 143:9 four-way (1) 202:21 Fox (1) 13:5 Fran (3) 147:20,21,23 franchise (3) 25:12;128:19; 225:14 Franklin (1) 103:21 frankly (4) 77:4;82:15; 117:14;165:14 frantic (1) 13:22 fraud (4) 24:15;184:6; 205:16;218:3 fraudulent (1) 184:9 free (5) 169:22;172:3; 209:4;216:18,19 freedom (2) 21:19;27:1 frequently (2) 60:21,24 friend (4) 29:1;76:8;87:5; 122:20 friends (3) 146:20;174:10; 226:7 front (6) 6:4;11:2;65:3; 127:24;162:20;168:20 frontline (1) 199:19 fronts (1) 20:7 fruition (1) 55:17	frustrated (2) 77:12;159:19 frustrating (3) 160:3; 165:24;185:23 frustration (1) 166:2 full (1) 218:5 full-time (1) 146:3 fully (3) 26:21;164:14; 215:11 Fulton (5) 147:20,21,22,23; 152:16 Fund (5) 30:13;72:6,21; 73:9;128:2 fundamental (5) 5:20; 124:9;209:3;211:15; 218:11 fundamentally (1) 128:22 funded (1) 105:23 funny (2) 234:20,21 Further (5) 7:11;205:9; 209:23;227:10;229:20 furthermore (1) 204:16 fuss (1) 32:16 future (3) 6:24;166:13; 167:11	142:5,12;145:18;146:24; 152:10,11;157:15;159:3; 180:17;183:16;197:23; 198:24;200:19;226:9; 227:16;233:23 government (7) 113:7; 155:22;182:16;203:1,5; 210:12;233:2 governments (1) 196:22 governor (2) 27:13;124:16 governor's (1) 160:22 GPS (1) 158:24 grandmother (1) 170:7 granted (3) 32:9,12,13 grants (3) 88:20;199:4,11 grapple (1) 233:4 grassroots (1) 93:15 grass-roots (1) 92:15 grateful (2) 200:3,5 grave (2) 42:5,5 great (19) 3:7;18:22;26:17; 40:10;80:23;81:16;91:23; 137:5;140:14;153:3; 188:10;200:11;208:19; 215:10;224:16,24;226:2; 232:6;237:7 greater (1) 43:9 greatly (3) 94:17;133:13; 207:9 grew (3) 21:14,15;201:9 grief (1) 66:4 ground (1) 215:12 grounds (1) 35:10 group (22) 38:15;42:22; 45:13,15;51:14;62:10; 64:10;69:3,18;149:5; 157:8;161:6;164:20;165:1, 17;175:8;176:11,18; 181:24;191:2;214:4; 215:13 groups (15) 16:21;69:4; 80:1;110:12,16,19;111:6, 19;153:23;168:3;175:9,10; 214:22;226:14;237:3 grow (3) 139:5;157:10; 220:8 growing (2) 149:19;156:11 guess (11) 23:10;42:16; 45:5;50:20,22;53:18; 123:11;132:3;184:15; 219:10;220:7 guests (1) 186:17 guide (1) 215:8 guys (9) 3:10;4:2,9;11:16; 14:1;216:23;224:1,9,20 gymnasium (1) 34:17 gymnasiums (1) 34:10
G
Garden (2) 45:20;149:1 gather (2) 16:23;156:3 gave (1) 163:18 Geffen (7) 155:5,9;167:14, 19;174:4;177:14;183:19 General (15) 4:23;10:8; 15:12;21:13;50:17;89:23; 91:16;94:4;111:12;129:14; 130:12;157:22;166:8; 192:7;222:7 generally (2) 62:17;138:16 generation (3) 187:23; 188:8,10 generations (1) 187:8 Gentlemen (3) 136:23,24; 139:21 gets (2) 80:2;190:6 given (13) 7:24;10:18; 51:15;64:4;83:15;92:5; 94:7;119:4;126:4;132:22; 163:20;176:4;177:5 giving (2) 11:23;200:6 glad (3) 18:11;27:21;42:11 glaringly (1) 202:4 glib (1) 184:17 gnashing (1) 39:7 goal (6) 53:9;94:9;112:21; 156:2;230:8,11 God (5) 48:10,15;82:16; 145:16;233:6 godfather (1) 223:2 God's (1) 233:5 goes (8) 19:11;115:16; 148:16;153:9;195:11; 196:1;228:17;231:14 Golden (1) 36:16 Good (27) 3:1;18:15; 24:19;37:11,20;43:5,14; 60:1;68:8;69:20;118:20;
H
hairs (1) 180:23 half (2) 169:10;203:7 half-an-hour (1) 28:13 half-dozen (1) 25:13 Hall (3) 138:18;144:12; 201:14

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

hampers (1) 195:3 Hampton (1) 82:11 hand (5) 35:13,19;45:22; 81:8;212:20 handed (1) 5:16 handled (2) 23:21;115:2 handout (1) 162:4 hands (2) 136:13;143:1 happen (12) 34:4;61:24; 65:23;67:1;97:12;107:13; 115:21;116:4,13,16; 236:20,21 happened (7) 48:14,16; 69:17;160:1;161:15;163:5; 184:13 happening (1) 7:20 happens (17) 20:11;21:21; 41:1;51:19;57:4;60:20,24; 65:17;130:4;138:2;159:2; 189:10;228:3,15;232:12, 14,16 happy (5) 42:13;109:13; 155:13,24;189:23 hard (12) 17:11;46:8;62:5; 72:15;98:19;129:23;133:2; 138:20;141:10;214:2; 224:2;228:17 harder (4) 7:5;61:9,14; 217:22 hardworking (1) 229:19 harkened (1) 91:10 harm (2) 62:7;128:17 harp (2) 163:4;187:7 Harrisburg (2) 48:13; 145:16 Harrison (1) 13:7 hashtag (2) 12:15,16 HAVA (3) 15:22;115:20; 201:6 Hawk (9) 129:9,10;132:6,8, 15;133:13,22;134:12; 135:14 head (4) 23:18;66:2;235:5, 6 heading (1) 92:1 health (1) 41:16 healthy (1) 209:6 hear (10) 11:12,19;70:18; 71:13;80:22;123:2;128:12; 130:20;166:24;192:2 heard (28) 16:20;23:5; 46:24;60:12;71:4;80:21; 88:10;126:16;134:3;135:5; 158:7;159:17;163:1; 168:22;170:21;172:5; 173:14;175:21;178:22; 183:6,9;185:18;194:10,15; 209:24;210:4;220:19; 235:23 hearing (31) 3:11;5:10;8:1, 9;9:17;10:16;11:21;13:4; 14:10,14;18:10;22:23; 23:3;28:9,24;30:21;58:14; 65:3;129:23;130:24;133:2; 138:20;141:10;142:11; 201:24;213:7;227:15;	228:20;230:24;231:1; 237:8 hearings (4) 5:12;23:14; 26:10;131:22 heart (5) 22:2;60:5;158:19; 193:5;234:2 heavily (1) 127:7 heed (1) 206:21 heels (1) 209:21 height (1) 33:2 held (4) 23:13;26:20; 233:12;235:4 Hello (3) 129:10;143:23,23 help (20) 7:17;15:14,21; 39:10;46:7;89:12;106:22; 133:1,11;137:11;145:12, 12;157:5;165:9;176:6; 207:5;215:8,17,18;216:1 helped (3) 13:15;69:21; 112:7 helpers (1) 147:1 helpful (6) 7:17;114:23; 140:2;178:14;192:21; 222:21 helping (4) 14:19;49:8; 146:21,22 Herbert (1) 172:18 herculean (1) 162:7 hey (1) 100:6 Hi (3) 44:18;162:17;207:17 high (15) 40:9;75:23; 106:7;141:15,21,22,22; 160:21;165:2;188:15,18; 190:9,12,17;234:7 higher (2) 51:2;167:5 highest (3) 36:2;120:4; 166:11 highlight (1) 38:11 highly (2) 159:19;210:5 Hill (1) 16:14 Hispanic (2) 24:1;141:17 historically-significant (1) 209:11 histories (1) 26:6 history (6) 6:2;64:4;106:22; 208:10;211:1;218:18 hit (1) 66:2 hold (6) 87:9,11;132:2; 140:24;198:8;217:16 holding (2) 27:3;81:6 holidays (1) 121:10 home (11) 35:23;75:20; 152:5;169:9,22;170:10,18; 172:17;175:18;176:10; 204:7 homes (1) 51:14 honest (1) 155:21 honestly (3) 166:6;175:15; 177:1 Honor (4) 114:13;153:2; 162:19;196:20 Honorable (2) 9:19;10:4 honored (1) 36:12 hope (19) 4:5;8:16;27:14, 24;37:13;43:15;133:22; 152:11,23;158:17;166:5,	20;190:3;207:3;233:15; 234:5;235:20;236:6,22 Hopefully (2) 72:11;219:24 hoping (1) 60:3 horrible (1) 151:19 hospital (1) 68:14 host (2) 13:1;160:16 hot (1) 32:11 hotline (4) 75:8;80:4;86:15, 18 hotlines (1) 69:8 hour (2) 176:14;185:17 hours (3) 34:2;57:20; 228:24 house (10) 47:12;66:6; 67:19;103:21;158:5; 182:16,22;183:1;210:15; 236:1 housed (1) 37:5 housekeeping (1) 10:23 houses (1) 47:9 housing (2) 5:5;10:9 Howard (1) 152:23 hubs (1) 63:23 huge (3) 39:23;82:20; 161:16 Human (2) 71:24;217:15 humanity (1) 218:23 humans (1) 218:23 hundred (4) 73:18;159:11; 217:6;219:13 hundreds (3) 36:4;84:11; 139:22 hybrid (1) 106:12	Illinois (1) 24:15 illness (1) 43:18 illustrious (1) 9:15 image (1) 212:9 images (1) 32:23 imagine (5) 194:14;199:23; 232:12,14,15 immediately (2) 37:3; 193:10 immigrant (3) 21:4;110:4; 225:19 immigrants (4) 21:16;26:9; 55:10;98:13 immigration (1) 55:1 impact (7) 25:23;29:14,17; 33:11,21;72:23;107:18 impacted (1) 225:11 impaired (2) 149:16;150:9 impairments (1) 39:3 impartiality (1) 217:1 impedes (1) 218:10 imperative (1) 20:24 imperfect (1) 183:23 implement (1) 39:11 implementation (4) 77:20, 21;114:1;201:6 implemented (1) 17:7 implementing (5) 15:13,24; 168:18;206:24;220:15 implications (1) 215:11 importance (1) 20:22 important (18) 20:9;21:2, 12,23;22:19;23:8;26:11; 30:20;104:17;107:6; 148:23;166:24;175:17; 189:21;228:20;231:17,22; 234:8 importantly (2) 209:16; 229:2 impose (3) 91:4;105:6; 126:8 imposed (2) 25:19;125:23 impostor (1) 184:5 impressive (1) 209:13 improper (1) 77:21 improve (5) 38:12;42:23; 94:17;227:11,19 improved (1) 167:11 improvement (1) 204:20 improvements (3) 18:1; 195:4;210:24 improving (3) 15:19; 194:20;196:8 inaccurate (1) 170:20 inadequate (1) 74:17 inaudible (8) 9:5;43:14; 146:8;188:4;204:2;205:22; 213:11;234:11 inch (1) 182:24 incidences (1) 76:15 include (5) 6:12;35:14; 94:21;176:15;199:13 included (2) 16:11;124:7 including (11) 6:21;17:16; 23:22;53:4;73:19;124:3; 148:6;150:3;168:3;179:1;
I
ID (69) 25:14;27:12,17; 31:24;48:15,19,20,21,24; 71:19;74:4;77:13,16,17; 78:1,4;81:1;87:13;90:7,11, 16;91:5;102:12;113:4; 115:22;116:6,7,16;121:5, 6;124:13;125:9,22;126:8; 127:5,12,13,17;128:5,8,18; 153:11;161:17;168:7,12, 14;169:7,12,22;170:1,17; 171:1,4,7,9;172:12,13; 173:8,12,16,17,20;174:2; 177:16;178:16;185:15; 188:17;209:22,23 idea (4) 66:9;130:14; 140:7;179:6 ideal (2) 62:24,24 ideas (5) 18:14;196:8; 215:10;231:3;235:3 identification (9) 7:8;121:8; 124:21,23;125:2,14;126:1, 13,24 identify (3) 57:22;187:11; 217:18 identity (5) 35:11;217:16, 21;218:24;233:1 idling (1) 158:5 IDs (3) 169:18;172:3;178:7 ignored (1) 34:11

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

195:2 inconsistent (1) 173:6 inconvenienced (1) 60:17 Incorporated (1) 148:2 increase (9) 53:9;94:16; 186:9;196:15;203:13; 216:1;222:12;227:12,20 increased (1) 63:10 increases (2) 119:17;205:7 increasing (3) 56:17;205:4; 211:11 incredible (2) 117:14; 191:22 incredibly (2) 3:20;81:21 incumbent (1) 91:19 independent (4) 64:16; 93:9;147:24;148:3 index (1) 11:3 India (1) 146:17 Indian (1) 97:8 indicate (1) 210:23 indicated (1) 204:2 individual (3) 33:24;88:2; 94:10 individuality (2) 221:10,17 individuals (6) 16:18,21; 33:8;56:24;134:9;150:3 inertia (1) 219:5 inexpensive (1) 197:2 influence (1) 103:1 influenced (1) 150:23 inform (3) 7:17;8:17; 153:16 information (29) 10:17; 28:1;41:16;42:17,24; 89:16;90:18;91:1;94:3; 106:23;108:7;110:21; 111:15,20;125:20;148:7, 14;153:16,17,19;154:2,7; 163:20;170:20;198:10,24; 205:3,23;208:16 informative (1) 230:23 informed (6) 8:15;20:2,4; 89:20;119:9;148:15 infringed (1) 188:23 inhibit (1) 164:7 initial (1) 163:18 initiative (2) 19:23;20:1 initiatives (3) 98:19,24; 99:11 injunction (5) 125:7;128:7, 10;168:6;173:10 inner-city (1) 92:11 innumerable (1) 93:1 in-person (3) 52:22;198:8; 211:9 input (2) 7:16;49:15 insert (1) 95:4 inside (7) 13:19;34:13; 35:8;47:23;48:1;76:13; 119:12 insight (1) 128:17 insignificant (2) 50:23;51:1 inspect (1) 39:12 inspectors (1) 160:15 inspired (1) 23:5	installed (1) 163:22 instance (1) 215:19 instances (2) 125:15; 179:10 Instead (2) 34:15;36:6 Institute (1) 24:2 instituted (2) 141:21; 180:12 instituting (1) 52:15 institutions (2) 107:16; 167:5 instructions (1) 192:7 instructors (1) 94:14 insufficiency (1) 75:23 integral (1) 99:15 integrity (3) 201:2;218:4,5 Interest (8) 155:6;167:15, 21;213:20,21,22,23;221:16 interested (4) 18:20;56:15; 190:15;197:19 interesting (3) 58:20; 230:23;231:4 interestingly (3) 39:4; 63:12;67:12 interfering (1) 85:12 internal (1) 196:1 International (1) 37:6 internet (10) 53:24;140:3; 177:12;179:8,10,13,16,18; 180:1;181:14 interpretation (3) 156:19; 198:14;199:5 interpreter (23) 47:24;75:5; 102:8;103:5;104:9,12; 131:22;132:16;133:10; 134:18;135:8,17,23,24; 141:2;142:13;143:20; 145:17;146:3,4,12,20; 147:1 interpreters (33) 12:6;13:9; 42:12;74:16;77:3,6;78:12, 16;99:8,9,15,20;100:2; 103:9;108:5;109:13,16,17, 21,24;131:23;133:11,24; 134:9,13,15,21,24;136:12; 141:7,17;142:3,7 interpreting (2) 135:12; 142:17 intimidated (1) 92:10 intimidating (1) 91:6 into (23) 11:7;16:24;38:21; 47:15;52:21;55:16;83:8; 91:9;92:11;100:17;105:24; 106:21;114:3;116:13; 120:3;135:16;157:6;166:2; 185:1;205:6;213:4;227:2; 235:2 introduce (5) 8:23;9:15; 28:15;88:5;195:14 introduced (2) 87:17; 235:24 invasive (1) 41:18 inverted (1) 79:5 investigating (1) 39:5 invitation (1) 232:4 invite (10) 57:8;71:20;72:2;	83:24;122:19;123:5;129:8; 133:15;136:19;145:23 inviting (2) 37:22;44:19 involved (11) 18:3;24:16; 44:22,24;45:4,13;139:9; 145:14,15;187:24;188:11 involving (2) 32:2;187:4 irregularities (2) 110:22; 229:15 irregularity (2) 69:9;88:13 irreparable (1) 62:7 irreplaceable (1) 128:23 issue (29) 39:6;53:17; 55:13,15;58:21;60:18; 78:14;98:1;107:9;110:18, 20;114:1;115:16;134:10; 135:3;142:1;157:11; 175:17;177:10;182:9; 183:11,18;184:5;195:22; 198:13;199:20,21;201:11; 233:1 issued (4) 17:2,3;128:6; 206:11 issues (30) 5:4;7:13;11:18; 15:1;18:6;23:21;24:16; 26:18;29:16;70:14,17; 71:6,11;73:22;85:21; 98:10;103:2;112:19; 114:16;117:2,22;118:13; 123:9;154:20;162:22; 165:21;166:6;201:3; 225:10;235:9 issuing (1) 8:2 items (2) 10:24;11:20	109:2;183:13;225:9 jurisdiction's (1) 119:7 jury (2) 197:6,7 justice (4) 31:9;39:5,10; 123:22
K
Kaplan (12) 154:23;155:8, 11,12,17;162:12,21; 178:23;184:22,23;185:4; 190:7 Kauffman (10) 16:11; 193:19;200:16,18,23; 207:9;214:16,19;219:2; 230:4 keep (12) 12:13,16;28:23, 24;95:21;119:14;122:18; 142:16;143:13;152:17; 154:4;230:14 keeping (5) 12:19;17:23; 28:20;29:4;200:11 keeps (1) 183:12 Kennedy (2) 4:22,24 kept (1) 220:24 key (3) 5:18;153:14;154:7 Keystone (2) 201:16;207:7 Khmer (1) 74:11 kids (1) 106:17 kind (26) 33:20;40:14;42:1, 24,24;44:1;52:20;59:7; 61:1,5;63:24;64:2,6;66:12; 86:7;97:15;102:24;105:17; 112:11;142:4;169:17; 195:18;199:1;202:17; 214:13;237:1 kindly (2) 70:1;122:16 kinds (6) 41:14;42:17; 50:15;82:23;140:1;199:12 knowing (2) 98:9;100:11 knowledge (1) 179:9 known (3) 16:3;105:1; 167:4 knows (4) 7:3;142:23; 191:9;223:5 Korean (2) 74:11;102:23 Kutztown (1) 61:7
L
lack (11) 34:12;43:10;74:1, 6;76:18;84:23;94:1,3,21; 114:6;232:9 lacked (2) 34:17;171:9 lacks (1) 177:22 Ladies (1) 136:24 land (1) 20:20 landmark (1) 209:21 language (29) 12:5;15:20; 42:11,14;54:21;55:1,15, 56:7;57:3;74:1,6,16,22; 75:4,7,10,15,16;78:16,22; 102:8;103:6,16;110:1; 130:21;132:19;144:17; 148:20;156:14 languages (8) 42:18;99:23;

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

100:6;104:21;109:2; 129:17;141:16;142:2 large (7) 80:1;81:11;110:2; 134:8;144:2;176:8;201:16 larger (1) 33:19 largesse (1) 89:6 largest (1) 83:11 last (30) 13:21;19:20; 24:24;26:2;30:13;49:9; 68:20;72:1;79:6;102:14; 103:20;133:3;147:18; 152:20,24;167:12,13,13; 168:1;177:18;180:15; 193:11;195:7;201:21; 206:7;207:11,17;215:24; 227:21;228:23 lastly (2) 79:1;131:21 late (3) 79:23;135:11; 149:16 later (6) 8:3,3,4,10;22:11; 95:2 Latino (9) 24:3;44:23; 45:14,17;46:5;47:22; 48:12;49:8;107:14 Latinos (2) 49:11;232:13 latter (1) 156:8 Laura (1) 16:12 Laurent (4) 145:24;146:1, 2;147:16 Lavin (1) 16:12 Law (57) 3:18;13:2;14:9; 40:21;48:9;67:5;77:16; 78:4;86:10;90:7;91:10; 92:1;100:4;108:19;113:16; 117:4;121:5,7;124:13,18, 22;125:5,9,21,23;126:8; 127:5,12,18;128:5,8;141:2, 6,13;153:11;155:6;161:17; 167:15,21;168:7,12,14,18; 170:13;171:1;173:1,3; 174:2;177:20;181:17; 184:4;189:18;201:5; 209:22,24;223:22;226:12 laws (10) 7:4,8,9;25:15; 67:21;74:4;115:20;144:23; 177:17;191:21 lawsuit (6) 23:12;27:12; 50:12;63:13;64:4;149:22 lawsuits (1) 23:22 lawyers (1) 3:22 Lawyers' (8) 3:17;4:1,19; 14:8;223:21;226:11; 228:19;233:10 lead (5) 71:9;89:22;117:5; 214:5,8 leader (3) 189:13,15;214:5 leaders (5) 65:24;66:5; 89:24;90:13;206:12 Leadership (5) 24:1;106:2; 115:4;189:22;214:7 League (18) 10:2;16:13; 19:1,9,10,23;23:1;69:7; 193:17;207:15;208:4,23; 210:16;211:2;212:7; 216:22;235:5;237:1 League's (1) 211:19	learn (8) 88:15;95:10; 111:6;141:13;145:12; 148:23;149:4;198:20 learned (4) 90:2;128:16; 168:11;220:11 learning (2) 167:5;198:22 least (12) 28:22;30:13; 67:21;72:1;83:16;117:19; 118:20;134:5;167:13; 180:1;183:17;234:5 leave (5) 27:6;197:8,10; 226:23;234:5 left (5) 29:2,3;36:19;106:7; 177:3 legal (16) 3:16;23:19,21; 30:12;31:12;53:17;72:5, 20;114:7;123:23;127:24; 128:1;146:23;185:8; 186:12;220:19 legislation (5) 5:21;20:13; 67:14;201:7;202:14 legislative (2) 17:16;31:13 legislatively (1) 53:16 legislators (1) 182:13 legislature (2) 124:16; 158:18 Lehigh (1) 215:22 lend (1) 162:9 length (1) 57:12 lengthy (1) 126:4 less (5) 46:2;76:1;115:10; 187:18;196:19 lesson (3) 171:15;172:24; 173:22 lessons (6) 94:1;105:6; 107:15;128:16;168:11,13 letter (2) 15:17;172:20 level (12) 20:12;90:9,24; 93:15,22;114:17;115:3; 124:12;159:2;161:9; 187:17;234:7 liberty (3) 32:7;148:1; 149:23 library (1) 74:24 license (5) 35:13;48:21,23; 169:4;172:20 life (3) 104:24;226:10; 232:8 lifelong (2) 190:16;226:4 life-or-death (1) 33:1 light (2) 120:7;221:6 limit (1) 25:9 limited (4) 67:7;103:8; 137:13;156:24 limited-English (4) 75:8; 99:17;110:3;125:19 limits (2) 65:8;177:13 Lincoln (10) 32:2;33:18; 34:9;35:9,23;37:2;59:9; 60:13;82:8,9 line (11) 34:15;59:6;75:7,7, 15,16;80:16;112:6;114:19; 169:9;176:16 lines (8) 34:5,20,23;35:21; 36:22;75:2;77:11;168:20 list (2) 141:11;158:12	listed (1) 125:3 listen (1) 18:13 listening (1) 22:23 literacy (1) 75:23 literalize (1) 178:12 literally (1) 175:5 literature (1) 113:1 litigating (1) 168:8 litigation (6) 38:22;41:2; 73:13;113:19;114:9;128:3 little (20) 21:7;24:17;46:8; 67:3;86:8;95:1;110:17,20; 131:24;135:11;136:14,15, 15;175:3;177:15;184:16; 186:23;220:1,6,8 live (4) 51:5,7,14;158:16 lived (3) 36:20;158:15; 175:7 lives (2) 169:1;172:7 living (3) 47:13;148:1,3 local (19) 16:15;17:8; 33:20,20;34:3;61:5;63:17; 69:13;83:8;111:10;119:6; 159:2;161:9;174:23; 196:22;203:1,5;206:21; 220:22 locality (1) 7:15 locally (1) 224:4 located (1) 34:14 location (12) 36:10;46:11; 47:1,2;60:8;62:24;63:17; 65:2,13;169:6,15,16 locations (30) 39:1,13,19, 20,20,21;40:3,4,5,10;41:8; 46:23;60:9,15,16;62:22, 23;65:10;66:11;67:10; 73:21;84:12;85:5,7,10; 116:4;151:10;163:10,15; 174:23 logic (1) 176:2 logistical (2) 199:19,20 logistics (1) 142:22 long (21) 3:20;34:5,20,23; 35:21;52:9;57:21;58:21; 59:5;75:2;89:2;100:13; 105:2;139:10;157:18; 164:16;169:6;182:2; 208:20;213:3;225:16 longer (7) 6:7;26:16;47:18; 77:11;134:1;136:14; 150:15 long-term (1) 89:20 long-time (1) 172:6 look (11) 6:23;8:20;14:2; 46:6;59:2;79:6;141:5; 157:23;183:16;198:5; 227:9 looked (5) 52:10,12,19; 216:24;232:19 looking (11) 16:24;18:21; 22:11,12;27:22;62:2; 120:3;144:6,14;165:6; 227:19 loophole (1) 42:4 lose (2) 195:11;217:21 losing (3) 139:23;195:3;	218:15 lost (2) 81:5;195:18 lot (34) 3:5;6:20;11:18; 21:16;27:11;32:8;51:14; 58:17;59:12;66:15;80:21; 82:10;97:10,14;102:21; 114:15;118:8;119:2; 121:12;139:5;158:23; 159:9;163:12;164:5; 168:15;177:18;183:24; 194:14;224:14;225:16; 227:23;229:12;233:24; 237:4 lots (4) 85:3,11;185:9; 223:8 love (2) 8:22;186:3 loved (1) 197:15 loves (1) 233:6 low (2) 132:20,22 Lower (3) 35:22;59:20; 203:3 lowest (1) 35:24 lucky (1) 170:2
M
machine (2) 137:17;147:8 machines (15) 15:17;54:4; 92:18;95:17;106:1;107:2, 2;149:13,14;150:12;151:5, 13;160:7;162:2;163:13 Madame (1) 200:9 Madeline (1) 155:16 magnificent (1) 209:10 mail (4) 52:13,20;177:11; 180:11 mail-in (2) 179:1,6 main (3) 36:16;63:13; 73:23 mainstream (3) 26:15; 234:13;235:1 maintain (1) 93:11 major (6) 46:4;63:13; 73:15;74:18;179:22; 210:24 majority (3) 50:24;165:16; 176:8 makes (4) 42:12;98:22; 187:18;195:14 making (5) 7:5;61:9,14; 88:3;157:13 man (2) 97:3;197:15 management (1) 16:2 manager (2) 3:15;147:24 managing (4) 30:8;38:2; 105:12,14 mandate (3) 118:19;216:9; 220:20 mandatory (4) 161:10,19; 186:4;191:21 maneuvering (1) 121:12 manipulate (1) 92:19 manipulated (1) 218:13 manipulation (1) 205:22 manual (1) 203:10 manually (1) 160:9

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

many (46) 5:15,21;16:20; 18:5;21:17;32:13;35:17; 38:8;40:18,18;51:17;76:9; 80:18;93:6;103:10,22; 109:7,21;118:22;119:18; 121:22;126:16;129:1; 138:22;141:16;142:7; 146:10;152:2,19;157:20; 161:4;163:7;165:5;167:6, 6;171:18;178:11;189:15; 190:1;195:1;197:7;202:9; 207:20;212:24;226:14; 233:19 March (1) 124:13 Marian (1) 30:5 Marsh (3) 169:2,2,11 Mary (5) 71:20;72:10; 79:15;96:13;170:8 masked (1) 32:21 match (2) 135:22;136:5 materials (4) 35:16;56:7, 12;148:18 matter (3) 59:13;99:19,22 matters (2) 31:16;220:11 Mattiacci (8) 133:16; 136:20,21;139:12;140:6, 23;141:4;142:9 maximum (1) 58:12 may (16) 5:16;51:6;63:8,9; 67:16,17;69:3;113:15; 116:13;142:1;170:19; 173:23;180:11;192:24; 215:9;222:8 maybe (17) 50:20;55:19; 115:14;131:15,16;132:21, 21;133:8;134:16;135:18; 138:18;140:13,15,16; 145:8;179:11;184:16 mayor (1) 23:21 mayor's (1) 160:22 McGowen (6) 143:19,20, 22,23;144:1;145:21 McGuire (1) 143:18 McKeever (1) 13:6 mean (18) 51:19;57:20; 86:14;92:3;98:3,7;99:13; 108:17,19;114:18,20; 138:8;140:16;142:18; 165:23;219:13;229:23,24 meaning (2) 19:8;75:24 meaningful (1) 94:11 means (5) 3:19;113:10; 177:24;202:9;230:1 meant (4) 35:17;61:3; 169:21;172:2 measure (4) 118:19,22; 181:23;221:10 measured (1) 199:16 media (8) 12:11,12,14; 26:16;97:21;147:6;235:1, 10 medical/legal (1) 146:7 Meek (15) 30:7;37:19,20; 38:1;44:7;50:1,8;51:17; 52:4;62:10;63:11;64:8,20; 66:1;151:3	meet (3) 117:16;124:4; 209:9 meeting (1) 202:6 meetings (1) 138:19 megacenters (2) 62:21; 63:8 Melody (2) 3:14;223:20 member (3) 45:14;70:23; 100:17 members (11) 30:4;64:11; 123:22;127:7;158:17; 171:5;174:6;201:10,10; 223:16;235:15 membership (1) 67:11 memory (1) 218:14 mental (2) 41:16;43:18 mention (4) 43:4;78:18; 97:16;151:3 mentioned (12) 31:7;56:23; 61:16;66:9;70:22;85:5; 88:10;100:22;118:9;164:9, 11;197:12 message (3) 20:8;66:13; 89:24 messed (1) 120:21 met (4) 18:5;76:21;101:1, 15 Metallus (1) 235:12 METELLUS (18) 9:22,23, 24;18:15,23;31:1,37;23; 57:6;95:19;96:8,11,15; 107:24;183:3;200:20; 212:16;222:3;230:13 Mexico (1) 181:12 mic (3) 70:21;122:11;143:7 microphone (1) 123:13 microphones (2) 11:8; 123:11 Midwest (3) 24:4;25:7; 105:21 might (16) 41:13;64:1,5; 95:4;135:18;136:6,9,10, 14,15;165:2;190:7;218:5; 222:20;226:9 mile (1) 175:24 mileage (1) 230:16 miles (1) 217:6 Millbourne (2) 146:9,17 Millennials (1) 197:13 million (5) 4:10;24:3;50:19; 149:12;196:13 mind (3) 22:10;138:17; 152:17 mindful (1) 12:3 mine (1) 87:6 minority (2) 6:5;160:15 minority-language (1) 42:21 minute (3) 68:20;135:8; 215:24 minutes (30) 11:9;28:13, 19;29:19,20,21;58:8,11; 71:3;72:12;79:22;83:16, 17,20;96:1;115:10;122:16, 22;123:3;135:14,18;136:7, 7,9,10;143:3,16;194:18;	204:8;221:22 misinformation (2) 161:17; 185:24 misleading (1) 90:17 missed (1) 189:1 missing (2) 195:11;199:8 mission (1) 209:2 misuse (1) 205:22 Mitchell (1) 13:6 Mixon (2) 236:13,14 mobility (2) 39:3;50:13 mobilization (1) 3:16 model (1) 229:7 Model-T (1) 159:1 modern (7) 15:17;202:8; 210:13;212:4;213:3; 222:24;229:6 Modernization (1) 206:19 modernize (3) 202:2;207:5; 212:9 modernizing (1) 223:9 modes (1) 197:23 modify (1) 151:9 modifying (1) 206:17 moment (4) 30:16;54:13; 158:6;182:15 Monday (2) 144:6;169:15 Mondays (1) 169:18 Mondesire (28) 10:12; 24:18,22;31:2;37:24; 49:24;51:13;52:2,6;70:5; 97:1,5,9;99:18;139:14,17, 18;140:19,22;141:3;174:8, 18;175:2;177:6;200:20; 222:2;232:5;233:9 money (11) 98:1;99:19,22; 102:22;150:11;172:16; 199:2;203:1;205:9;213:19; 217:3 monitored (2) 73:16;201:23 monitoring (5) 40:8;51:23; 73:20;84:13;124:9 monitors (1) 201:14 month (1) 206:7 months (4) 27:10;200:2; 208:7;228:14 monumental (2) 40:1,5 more (85) 7:10;17:13; 20:23;23:7;32:20;41:11; 46:1,7,18;49:8;51:4,6,7; 58:7;65:12;66:19;76:2; 86:23;89:12;96:19;97:13, 14;103:10;108:7,8;117:3; 118:2;119:2;134:5,11,15; 136:7,15,16;138:1;139:8; 140:17;141:13;143:14; 144:9,9,18,19;145:8,9,11, 11,13,15;146:18;147:2,10; 150:11;151:14;158:14; 175:19;176:5;178:21; 183:23;185:6;187:13,18; 188:6;191:6;195:23;196:3, 4,5,11;203:21;204:24; 206:1;209:18;212:18; 215:1,3,4;219:17;222:14; 227:2,7,9;229:1,19;233:7	Moreover (1) 125:1 morning (2) 22:5,6 most (25) 17:4,5,8;35:15; 55:9;56:21;66:3;82:7; 89:8;92:7;99:15;107:11, 12,15;117:15;127:7; 159:20;191:13;209:15; 221:2;229:18,18,23; 233:15;234:4 mother (4) 22:7,16;142:16; 225:21 motion (1) 128:9 move (16) 33:17;34:8,10; 36:5;61:8,13,18;63:24; 65:2;122:9;154:19;175:3; 182:24;197:21;216:18; 223:19 moved (6) 36:7;37:4; 103:22;104:2,15;157:21 movement (6) 33:3;64:22; 65:9,15;66:4;188:11 moves (1) 229:5 moving (5) 36:6;39:18; 60:8;86:8;215:1 Mrs (5) 169:2,11;170:14, 18;172:10 much (54) 3:10;4:14;7:10, 10;14:1;17:13;18:10,20, 20;21:6,8;26:16;32:10; 37:22;39:7;44:4;56:14; 79:20;98:22;111:14;112:4; 123:16;129:2,5;136:18; 139:12;145:20;150:15,16, 18;153:2;162:18;166:3,17; 177:7;180:13;186:6; 192:23;193:9;196:19; 198:17,17;199:2;204:3,23; 206:1;213:6,18;223:12; 224:1,9;229:1;230:12; 237:6 municipalities (3) 40:18; 41:7;42:3 must (5) 95:11;124:23; 125:2;129:3;209:17 muster (1) 124:24 mutually (1) 108:16 myself (4) 12:23;147:5; 150:4;165:19
N
			NAACP (7) 10:13;24:23; 25:2;28:3;234:3;235:18; 236:15 NACCP (1) 236:7 Nadine (1) 169:2 nail (1) 66:2 name (19) 3:14;12:1; 18:23;28:15;38:1;73:7; 79:6,7;123:16;125:1,3; 126:24;135:21;143:24; 146:1;147:23;152:24; 169:2;214:15 named (4) 170:8,23;172:6; 173:15 names (7) 13:17;35:19;

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

79:4;81:6;120:20,23; 122:24 naming (3) 79:2;118:10; 126:17 narrow (1) 151:21 nation (3) 37:9,11;220:7 National (19) 3:12;4:13; 5:13;8:1;12:24;14:11; 19:23;24:21;26:10;31:8; 33:4;52:10,19;73:10;76:3; 149:24;150:2;156:2;193:6 nationally (3) 52:17;62:19; 74:1 nationwide (1) 57:17 native (1) 42:18 natural (1) 214:6 naturalization (1) 126:2 naturalize (1) 98:13 naturalized (1) 125:24 naturalizing (1) 110:5 naturally (1) 51:8 nature (2) 55:20;217:15 NCVR (1) 12:15 nearby (2) 90:1;181:12 nearly (2) 25:15;186:16 necessarily (5) 51:19; 103:4;108:12;143:13; 212:17 necessary (3) 20:24;21:2; 121:14 necessitating (1) 128:24 need (57) 7:18;17:15; 46:14;48:19;53:15;59:8; 13:19;64:15;74:21;88:11; 90:16;99:14;109:8;121:22; 131:18,22;133:7;134:9; 137:23,23,24;138:11,12; 140:17;144:18,18;145:1; 148:14;157:5;160:18; 161:10,18,19,22;169:18; 172:4;178:8;186:10; 198:17,21,22,24;202:2; 203:16;210:17;214:3,4,5; 215:17,20;216:2;218:16; 220:21;225:6;229:19,20 needed (8) 18:11;75:3; 109:22,22;120:19;160:4; 183:8;205:11 needing (1) 134:11 needlessly (1) 183:21 needs (16) 6:8;17:14;43:8; 78:16;89:12;104:19; 109:18;119:1;131:14; 132:16,21;192:18;199:1; 202:7;211:10;234:1 negative (1) 66:12 neighborhood (6) 90:9,15, 23;93:8,15,22 neighborhoods (1) 74:19 neighbors (1) 63:18 neither (1) 112:16 Nelson (3) 10:5;28:7;37:23 nephew (1) 76:7 nervous (3) 139:2,3,4 net (1) 177:22 Network (4) 30:9;38:3;	54:9;63:6 neutral (1) 32:21 new (16) 7:19;15:24;26:8; 37:5;56:6,11;73:6;78:24; 98:23;106:12;116:3; 149:13;179:2;191:10; 208:10;217:4 news (4) 26:15;97:21; 156:21;171:3 newspaper (1) 94:24 newspapers (2) 234:12,14 Next (18) 9:21;10:4;27:7; 34:14;36:20;44:14;49:20; 67:18;72:12;79:15;83:24; 98:4;133:15;145:23; 162:14;170:16;171:23; 200:15 niece (1) 76:7 Nina (1) 173:15 nine (2) 73:17;143:3 nobody (3) 68:23;99:4; 190:6 no-excuse (5) 52:23; 158:10;181:18;182:9; 211:16 no-fault (1) 177:23 NOG (1) 149:22 non (1) 173:13 non-ballot (1) 98:10 none (4) 69:13;103:6; 104:13,13 nonpartisan (13) 4:20;88:3, 24;89:16,18;90:22;93:10, 14,20;94:12,14;148:9; 155:19 nonprofit (1) 4:20 nonsense (1) 92:14 nor (1) 93:13 no-reason (2) 181:18; 182:10 normal (1) 164:18 norms (1) 126:22 North (1) 82:11 Northeast (4) 25:7;55:17, 23;56:1 Norton (2) 172:7,10 notably (1) 159:21 notate (1) 85:16 note (4) 14:4;21:3;156:9; 234:15 notes (1) 18:17 not-for-profit (1) 155:20 notice (3) 62:4;94:23;227:8 noticeable (1) 82:7 noticed (2) 77:18,19 notion (1) 64:3 November (5) 90:8;159:21; 161:5;164:16;170:13 nuanced (1) 32:20 number (31) 25:10;29:12; 30:5;49:20;50:9,23;51:1, 12;59:4,23;65:7;85:8; 88:10,12;99:1,1;110:3; 112:8;117:20,22;118:3; 119:5,7,17;134:8;156:11; 161:14;178:24;193:11;	205:10;211:11 numbers (5) 50:2;82:14,21; 92:5;174:15 numerous (6) 76:14,14; 94:8;104:7;118:12;127:10 O obligates (1) 113:16 observations (2) 102:1; 225:2 observe (1) 146:11 observed (5) 73:22;88:14; 103:22;125:16;201:20 observers (2) 80:17;104:5 obstacles (2) 94:18;126:9 obtain (3) 125:24;126:5,12 obviously (3) 40:17;82:19; 189:14 occasions (1) 93:6 Occupy (1) 19:24 occur (1) 126:19 occurred (1) 34:21 occurring (1) 37:12 occurs (1) 129:1 off (7) 61:8,14;92:1;161:2; 169:5;170:3;191:16 offer (7) 22:24;65:4;93:13; 197:7,9;202:12;217:14 offered (5) 34:9;88:9,11; 119:19;172:14 offers (1) 23:3 office (16) 15:10;24:13; 40:23;101:7,9;104:4; 107:3;114:20,22;121:9; 141:9;142:15;185:20; 191:10,24;198:9 officer (3) 10:2;19:1;48:4 offices (2) 115:1;203:18 Official (5) 15:8;86:23; 113:17;146:8;163:23 officially (1) 80:11 officials (18) 16:17;17:9; 34:3;63:19;69:13;82:4; 83:8;93:7,24;113:8; 117:17;168:9;205:15; 206:21;214:24;215:8,14; 229:17 often (10) 38:14,15;76:4; 78:17;79:4,10;88:8; 118:11;126:21;152:1 old (5) 25:8;66:15,15; 73:10;189:2 older (1) 222:19 oldest (1) 19:14 olds (1) 204:14 once (9) 88:16;91:21; 104:5;111:14;170:8; 175:14;176:6,8;235:16 One (96) 5:19,19;8:4,4; 11:7;19:14;24:2;26:20; 28:11;29:13;30:5;31:17; 33:12;34:9;36:19;38:8,17; 43:3;52:3;55:13;56:20,22; 58:7;60:1;62:16;63:12; 64:21;67:13;76:16;77:5;	82:19;84:18;95:1;99:5,6; 103:10,20,24;104:10,16; 106:14,15;110:13;111:4; 112:15;114:8,14;118:14; 129:12;130:11;151:12,14; 152:20;156:4;158:8; 161:18;164:14;166:11,12; 168:13,23;173:10;177:19; 178:6,11;181:1,19;182:22; 183:5,19;184:15;185:15; 187:10;189:17;191:23; 192:6;194:3,11;195:6,10, 21;196:10,13;199:7;200:1; 202:1,1;210:4;212:20; 225:8;227:13;232:8; 234:13,15,15;236:11 ones (1) 233:12 ongoing (2) 91:3;111:4 online (37) 133:7,8;158:3; 180:13,14;182:19;185:10; 198:2;202:12,19,22;203:2, 8,8,15,21,22;204:6,15,19, 24;205:1,17,18;206:4,7,24; 208:1,7,15;210:7,10,17; 212:23;213:1;222:9,20 only (24) 23:4;24:14; 26:19;59:11;65:22;74:15; 76:16;77:24,24;83:7; 89:19;90:21;93:17;104:1; 106:4;109:1;151:2,7; 153:21;169:24;175:22; 192:17;194:18;217:9 onto (2) 217:16;231:14 onus (1) 76:24 open (10) 47:17;48:6; 49:21;70:20;112:5;114:19; 122:11;137:7;143:7; 169:15 opened (2) 55:3,6 opening (3) 138:17;192:7; 234:22 operated (1) 41:4 operating (1) 19:1 operation (1) 87:18 operations (2) 10:2;71:18 operatives (1) 90:9 operator (1) 92:16 opinion (3) 17:22;177:10; 187:19 opinions (1) 110:11 opportunities (10) 90:23; 94:12;106:4;180:6;197:20; 202:17;205:13,19;210:5; 211:8 opportunity (23) 5:6;7:23; 11:7;18:13;23:4;29:24; 31:4;78:5;87:22;88:15; 95:9;96:12;117:12;135:2; 167:20;187:1;200:7;207:2; 208:14;210:7;211:14; 232:1,20 oppose (1) 64:3 opposed (2) 66:10;67:4 options (3) 158:7;178:21; 179:5 order (7) 28:23;65:2;91:14;
---	--	---	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

93:11;95:11;124:24; 172:16 ordinary (2) 41:13;168:10 organization (13) 4:21; 13:18;31:9;73:11;77:1; 108:14;123:21;149:24; 155:20;167:23;215:22; 218:13;231:6 organizational (1) 201:10 organizations (10) 19:15; 25:21;88:20;94:8;95:10; 124:3;127:14;201:18; 215:7;224:12 organization's (1) 108:3 organizer (2) 3:21;92:15 organizes (1) 80:14 organizing (2) 14:13;80:9 Orlando (2) 55:19,21 others (15) 69:6;127:3; 146:21,22;181:2;182:14; 189:16;191:6;202:13; 208:17;222:24;225:13; 226:23;228:1;229:21 otherwise (5) 105:7;143:4; 192:3;220:5,23 ought (1) 186:8 ourselves (2) 219:17;220:3 out (71) 3:10;4:3,6,10; 7:20;8:20;11:3;14:20; 21:14;22:14;26:13;27:8; 29:1;33:15;35:5;36:24; 42:2;45:15;47:20;58:24; 65:20;66:23;81:13,16; 84:11;99:9;105:3;106:6; 110:5;115:12;117:8,20; 119:16;120:24;138:7,10; 145:7;149:13;152:9; 153:11;162:1;164:23; 165:1;169:16,17;176:16; 181:20;190:21;198:10,24; 203:16;210:14;217:3; 222:5,23;224:6,7,9,23; 226:19;227:6,14;231:10, 13,24;233:14;234:16; 235:9,13;236:4,17 outages (1) 4:5 outdated (2) 6:7;173:12 outlier (1) 232:18 outrageous (1) 27:18 outreach (3) 25:22;127:10; 197:12 outside (9) 3:5,22;13:19; 81:3;82:1,9;114:11;119:8; 224:8 outskirts (1) 169:1 outstanding (1) 118:11 over (30) 7:1;9:17;10:16; 14:4;21:5;24:2;29:5;35:2; 53:14,23;83:6;95:18,22; 105:16;113:3,3;114:7; 145:7;159:11,13;164:5,5; 167:24;189:18;201:9,12; 215:23;228:5;234:19; 236:7 overall (3) 25:23;171:15; 173:22	overcome (2) 180:17; 218:19 overly (1) 192:13 overseas (1) 179:15 overwhelmed (2) 137:8,10 overwhelming (2) 81:2; 83:3 own (3) 137:12;155:14; 208:16 Oxford (1) 35:22 <hr/> P <hr/> PA (4) 90:1,6,15;206:18 Pacific (1) 123:18 paid (2) 197:8,10 paints (1) 158:1 Pakistan (1) 146:14 panel (36) 9:16;28:14; 29:8,12,12,13,15,22,23; 30:4;49:20,20;66:24; 70:12,13;71:5,5,17;72:22; 115:11;122:4;143:5,9; 152:22;154:19;190:22; 193:2,11,11,12;207:4,12; 212:15;213:8;221:23; 223:13 panelist (1) 29:18 panelists (15) 28:23;29:2; 30:16,17;57:9;67:24; 69:23;70:19;71:1,16; 72:13;83:15;122:3;222:1; 223:12 panels (8) 28:12,17,18; 67:4;70:16;183:8;225:5; 227:22 pans (1) 139:24 paper (6) 45:19;195:11,16; 203:24;204:22;222:16 papers (1) 235:23 paramount (2) 154:11; 182:11 parents (3) 21:4,8;142:11 parity (1) 204:18 parking (3) 34:12;60:19; 62:22 part (26) 8:11;18:11;19:24; 22:22;27:3,4;29:9;61:17; 80:1;84:16,24;99:16; 107:10;111:3,17;122:9; 133:3;135:9;183:5,12; 187:1,2;221:24;222:17; 227:1;229:23 partial (1) 125:6 participants (1) 28:16 participate (5) 18:21;106:7; 107:21;157:14;185:6 participated (2) 19:22; 93:20 participating (2) 18:19; 225:14 participation (3) 89:21; 94:16;106:5 particular (5) 64:16;68:6, 10;82:12;217:23 particularly (5) 55:18;	102:23;158:9;214:21; 233:21 parties (2) 93:2;206:14 parting (1) 223:23 partisan (3) 90:8;204:17; 206:15 partly (1) 201:16 partners (4) 13:14;31:12; 201:20;224:11 partnership (3) 39:9; 109:19;124:2 parts (2) 91:13;187:5 Party (5) 23:20;93:6,8; 203:19;212:2 pass (3) 124:24;188:9; 190:3 passage (1) 201:5 passed (14) 7:5;22:2,5; 49:3;124:16;141:6;171:2; 177:17;182:2,17,18,21; 202:14;210:10 passing (4) 22:15;41:9; 181:17;189:6 passionate (1) 165:20 past (10) 5:15;7:2;20:17; 25:13;48:17;58:5;102:1; 109:15;206:2;219:12 pasted (1) 99:4 pastor (1) 36:21 path (1) 151:20 patience (1) 79:20 Patricia (1) 172:7 pause (1) 209:14 pay (5) 131:15;184:23; 186:6,9;196:10 PCA's (1) 206:21 PCEA (1) 58:15 Pedro (1) 24:9 pen (1) 234:16 penalties (1) 25:20 pending (1) 128:9 PennDOT (5) 169:6,14; 172:2,12,21 Pennsylvania (119) 3:11; 6:10;7:2;8:13;9:20;10:22; 11:16;14:10;15:4;16:3,7, 15;17:1,22;18:9;20:19; 23:13;24:14,24;27:9;28:5; 30:10;33:7;38:4,7;39:13; 40:17;43:5,10;49:7;50:18; 53:11,19;56:17;57:16,18; 60:2;61:17;62:18;63:6; 67:5;71:19,22;73:20,24; 77:14;79:17,24;80:5,13, 15;84:8;85:20;87:13;88:7; 89:14,21;90:4,7;91:5,7,15; 92:3,24;94:6;97:11; 115:18,23;123:7,19; 124:15,17;127:13;128:16, 23;146:9;152:13;153:5; 157:17;158:3;167:3;168:4; 170:24;172:8;173:5; 177:22;178:13;179:3; 180:2;181:21;182:3; 183:14;184:14;190:8; 191:4;193:14,18,21;195:1;	200:17,21;201:1,8;202:16, 21;206:20;207:3,5,16; 208:3,4;212:8;216:12; 224:3;225:8;227:24;229:5; 233:19;236:8 Pennsylvania-based (1) 13:14 Pennsylvania's (8) 124:13; 158:13;168:7;177:20; 202:2,5;211:6;219:22 people (163) 3:5;11:17; 12:22;17:11;23:4;26:7; 38:6,10,13;39:2;41:12; 42:6,13,18;43:13,17,19,21; 45:16;46:2,18,20;47:3,6,8, 12,14;48:8,19;50:2,12,14, 19,21;51:3,5,7,15;55:4,8; 57:13;58:22;59:10,12; 63:14,24;65:4,22;66:13; 67:15;68:22,24;77:12; 81:6;82:14;83:9;84:21; 85:12,24;92:6,7,10;99:5; 107:20;108:8;117:15; 118:4;120:21;121:3; 130:19,23;137:23;138:4,9, 22;139:1,5,9;140:10,17; 141:23;142:16,19,20; 144:9,9,13;145:4,9,9,11, 13;146:10,13,15,16,17,18; 147:2,11,12,13,14;148:5, 23;149:3,9,15;150:8; 151:17,24;152:9;156:24; 157:2;158:9,15,16;159:3, 9;160:4,7;161:21;162:4; 164:6;172:4;175:13,16; 178:6,15,16;184:6;185:1, 24;186:6,10,22;187:5,15; 188:21;189:11;190:1,14; 191:6;197:18;198:5,20; 200:4;204:5;214:1,11,11; 218:16;219:20;220:24; 222:15,22;226:18;227:2,2, 9;233:7,7;235:8 per (1) 203:12 percent (10) 45:1;50:21; 59:17,18;146:13;156:22; 196:15;204:3,15,15 percentage (2) 36:1;40:9 perception (1) 34:16 perfect (2) 111:8;229:24 perform (1) 154:13 performance (1) 212:5 performing (1) 186:9 perhaps (1) 118:2 period (4) 53:2,7;55:14; 96:17 periods (1) 134:1 permanent (2) 128:7;168:5 permission (1) 49:4 permit (1) 178:5 permits (1) 205:24 Perry (1) 221:4 persist (1) 171:20 person (28) 7:21;23:11; 44:3;76:11,17;100:13; 109:4,5;111:2,11;114:24;
---	---	--	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

123:4;130:7;131:10,14; 132:18;133:2;135:19; 137:15;147:18;155:14; 159:6;176:13;177:2;178:2; 187:10;189:19;191:12 personal (7) 19:7;21:3; 22:18,20;87:4;174:11; 208:15 personally (10) 13:13; 27:14;41:18;47:7;165:16; 176:21;180:21;185:12; 187:11;228:10 personnel (1) 86:11 persons (8) 42:8,20;43:2, 12;50:9;125:11;198:19; 225:12 perspective (4) 19:6,7,11; 212:3 perspectives (1) 231:1 pervasive (3) 60:14,19; 62:3 petitioned (2) 34:7;36:5 petitioners (1) 36:20 ph (3) 16:12;172:18; 173:15 Philadelphia (66) 10:3,6,7; 19:2,9,15,17;23:19;24:6; 25:2;38:23;39:14,23;45:3; 46:22;49:4,6;50:4;51:10; 58:16;64:23;66:14,14; 74:7,8,23,24;75:6;77:14; 80:10,12;81:4;92:23; 93:18;94:5;100:1;102:22; 103:11;105:13;106:11; 117:19;120:17;144:2,3; 146:6;148:4;149:12;155:7; 156:12,23;157:17;158:22; 159:14,20;160:19;162:23; 167:15,22,24;193:23; 194:13;195:2,10;196:12; 209:8;221:1 Philadelphia's (1) 19:10 Philip (2) 133:15;136:20 Philly (1) 74:23 philosophical (2) 26:18; 235:3 phone (9) 13:23;32:12; 88:9,12;111:11;114:19; 116:8;119:5;163:21 photo (9) 7:7;91:4;116:6; 124:20,23;126:1;169:7; 178:7,16 phrase (1) 164:4 physical (3) 11:22;15:19; 41:16 physically (1) 178:17 picture (4) 48:15,21;136:4; 158:1 piece (1) 195:10 pieces (3) 5:20;113:1; 195:16 pitch (1) 208:22 Pittsburgh (2) 169:1;190:11 PJ (4) 133:15;136:20; 144:5,21 place (56) 4:16;21:21;	33:17;34:8,11,24;35:9; 36:6;37:4;41:1;46:20; 47:19;48:5,6;58:23;59:19; 60:8;61:8,14,23;62:18; 66:7;67:16;68:11,13,21, 22;69:14;83:23;85:10; 98:3;115:21;116:14; 118:22;128:10;130:3,4; 131:24;132:17;145:7; 157:7;159:8;164:24; 171:19;174:13;178:3,18; 179:18;184:7;185:14; 192:8;198:15;209:13,19; 234:8,20 placeholder (1) 117:11 placement (1) 95:16 places (34) 25:17;46:3,11, 21,23;47:9,11,17;58:11; 61:18;64:22;66:18;67:8; 82:2,5,12;95:3;108:9; 109:22;135:1;151:6,8; 156:20;159:14;161:2; 162:1;165:8;173:7,11; 179:15;186:2;188:5; 190:10,18 plague (1) 7:14 plaintiff (1) 36:17 plaintiffs (1) 168:24 planned (1) 28:24 Pleas (1) 10:7 please (15) 11:23;28:24; 71:1;122:12,18,23;123:3,6, 10;132:1;135:15;139:17; 140:24;145:24;212:15 pleased (3) 41:22;45:13; 155:13 pleasure (3) 19:3;31:3; 37:21 plenty (3) 50:14;62:21,22 plug (1) 207:24 plus (1) 228:24 pm (1) 237:8 point (22) 17:8;67:20;69:2; 74:14;77:5,7;95:5;99:9; 103:10,13,20;108:1; 109:15;129:10;136:2; 154:7,14;176:7;181:17; 182:13;183:15;230:22 pointed (1) 27:8 points (1) 96:16 police (1) 48:3 policies (1) 20:13 policy (2) 154:24;155:18 policymakers (1) 8:13 politely (2) 29:4;175:22 political (9) 21:9;90:8; 92:18;93:1,4,7,12;114:3; 212:2 politically (1) 217:22 politicians (3) 25:17; 145:14;151:15 politics (1) 102:22 poll (97) 35:8,15,17,20; 60:9;75:1,12,14;76:5,9,15; 77:16,23,23;78:4,21,23; 79:5;84:22;86:1;91:12;	98:9,15;100:10;102:5,17; 103:21;104:1,9,10,14,19; 108:9,11,18,24;109:7,23; 110:1;116:5,17;118:17,22; 119:9;124:8;125:8;126:20; 130:4;147:2,3,14;158:11; 161:11,13,14,20;164:1; 168:19;170:14,18,21; 173:2,7,16,18,23;177:3; 184:20;185:2,6,20;191:7, 15;192:4,20;194:9,20,22, 23;195:3,23;196:9,10,20, 23,24;197:10,21;198:7,21, 22,23;199:12,18;205:8; 215:21;229:22 polling (65) 33:17;34:8,11; 35:8;36:6;37:4;39:1,13,19; 40:2,4;46:3,10;58:10,22; 60:8,15;61:8,13,18,23; 63:17;67:8;82:2,12;84:12; 85:5,7,10;95:2;115:21; 116:14;117:20;131:24; 134:24;150:17;151:5,8,14; 156:19;157:7;159:8,13; 161:2;162:1;163:10,13,14; 164:24;165:8;169:14; 171:19;174:23;175:11; 178:3,17;184:7;185:14; 186:2,20;188:5;190:10,18; 192:8;198:15 polls (15) 11:17;32:14; 38:13;79:10;88:18;89:3; 124:19;126:12;137:5; 146:11;148:16;159:4,16; 195:9;200:4 poor (3) 26:4;154:2;233:6 pop (1) 118:13 pops (1) 218:20 population (7) 36:3;51:11; 56:10,16;59:3;74:20;81:11 populous (1) 221:2 Porter (1) 168:5 portion (1) 147:19 pose (1) 25:14 position (7) 63:5;108:4,6; 109:15;113:24;131:23; 173:18 positions (1) 104:24 positive (2) 27:16;137:5 possibility (3) 52:15; 191:19;212:21 possible (4) 10:20;23:13; 151:10;213:9 posters (1) 13:19 post-trial (1) 128:9 potential (4) 16:24;17:24; 80:17;92:19 pots (1) 139:24 power (6) 3:6;4:4;153:18, 19;214:7;224:6 powerful (4) 104:23; 213:20,21;218:9 powerfully (1) 209:12 practical (1) 118:1 practice (2) 33:20;61:1 practices (6) 17:18;33:10;	120:10;129:22;130:14; 173:6 precinct (8) 35:4,23;36:1, 10;59:4,5,15;121:18 precincts (1) 90:20 preclear (1) 61:3 predicted (2) 34:4,20 predominantly (2) 85:17; 131:19 preface (1) 32:4 prefer (4) 89:9;108:4,6; 182:9 preference (1) 108:13 pre-law (1) 186:24 preliminarily (2) 170:12; 173:4 preliminary (2) 125:6; 173:10 pre-notice (1) 41:15 preparation (1) 228:14 prepare (1) 27:6 prerequisite (1) 124:21 presence (1) 82:1 present (18) 5:17;29:18; 32:19;71:3;84:2;87:6,22; 121:8;122:23;125:14; 129:9;132:7;143:22; 145:24;193:9;200:17; 223:17,22 presented (3) 6:18;29:23; 190:24 presenter (2) 193:21; 207:11 presenters (1) 193:16 presenting (1) 29:7 preserve (1) 129:3 preside (1) 10:16 President (15) 4:22;10:1, 13;18:24;25:1;123:7,17; 144:1;153:4;154:24; 155:17;163:21;188:17; 193:17;207:15 presidential (16) 19:20; 20:12;58:2,3;59:11;91:18; 124:14;156:15;157:24; 159:22;160:24;163:5,16; 166:16;201:12;210:22 President's (1) 206:10 presiding (1) 9:17 pressing (1) 68:1 pressure (1) 83:8 presume (1) 52:3 pretty (2) 158:1;213:18 prevalent (1) 81:10 prevent (2) 37:12;62:5 prevented (2) 7:23;100:17 previous (1) 64:21 pride (1) 89:3 Prifty (1) 173:15 primarily (2) 20:6;57:7 primary (8) 15:12;21:13; 34:6;42:14;57:3;80:8; 156:13;170:19 print (1) 97:21 prior (3) 149:2;183:8; 201:22
--	---	---	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

priority (1) 107:19 prison (1) 236:17 privacy (1) 35:1 private (11) 5:1;30:14; 41:15;44:15;66:11,20; 67:16;122:18;179:17; 199:3;222:13 privately (1) 151:1 privilege (4) 15:3;16:6; 162:19;168:2 pro (2) 32:3;36:12 probably (7) 38:19;51:2; 66:19;162:6;179:20;181:7; 221:22 probes (1) 159:24 problem (25) 41:3;42:5; 45:24;46:4;55:23;60:14; 81:2;82:20;84:21;110:6; 113:18;131:13;156:16; 157:9;184:19;188:6;189:6; 191:4,20;194:3;195:7,13; 210:1;217:15;219:5 problems (33) 38:9;71:10, 15;73:24;81:9,19;82:5,11, 15,22,23;84:9,18;85:4,8, 24;92:12;102:11;112:8; 118:3;119:8;120:9;156:10; 159:16;160:14,16,20; 201:21;202:1,10;205:20, 24;232:8 procedure (1) 129:19 procedures (8) 17:18; 92:21;129:15;130:9,13; 158:14;195:20;223:10 proceed (4) 49:17;96:23; 152:22;193:10 proceedings (1) 201:15 process (49) 13:15;19:19; 20:4;52:16;64:24;65:1,1, 15,16,18;78:20;85:13; 88:6;91:2;92:21;99:16; 106:3,8,24;121:21;133:24; 134:2;135:7;137:2,24; 154:6;157:14;160:11; 163:19;164:8;165:18; 172:22;187:2,6,14,19; 188:1,12;190:16;213:5; 214:13,13;216:12,14; 217:3;227:3,11,20;233:18 processed (2) 160:9; 164:14 processing (3) 203:8,8,11 produce (1) 90:11 professional (3) 19:6,8; 87:5 professionalize (1) 184:24 professionally (1) 46:19 proficiency (4) 125:19; 132:20,23;156:24 proficient (4) 75:9;99:17; 110:3;142:18 profound (1) 16:19 program (17) 13:20,24; 31:11;84:7;105:22;122:10; 143:6,7;148:8;159:12; 179:17;180:3,7;190:12;	210:18;223:19;228:7 programs (5) 25:23;84:6; 89:5,8;105:7 progressive (2) 26:6; 180:10 Project (9) 30:7;31:8; 52:24;53:21;54:7;56:14; 69:5;106:20;168:3 promoted (1) 107:15 promoting (3) 13:16;20:7; 123:22 pronounced (1) 152:24 proof (4) 7:8;74:4;102:13; 124:20 propagated (1) 40:21 proper (1) 116:16 properly (2) 150:22;192:15 property (5) 47:16,17;68:7, 15,15 propose (1) 215:16 pros (1) 181:6 protect (9) 20:14;26:24; 28:3;70:2;94:9;122:6; 124:9;209:17;229:4 protected (2) 5:21;209:1 protecting (4) 20:21;201:1, 4;221:18 protection (14) 31:11;38:5; 80:3;84:7;89:4;92:7,13; 110:12,19;111:19;128:24; 153:23;201:18;226:13 prove (2) 102:16;125:15 proved (2) 83:10;203:3 provide (25) 38:24;42:17; 63:10;74:9;76:23;77:2,6; 78:11;103:16;106:23; 108:5,7;109:16,20;117:10; 125:18;128:17;148:4,9,13; 172:3;174:5;189:22; 192:15;199:3 provided (6) 13:3,9;29:8; 79:9;107:2;189:24 provides (6) 141:7;208:9, 10,11,13;211:13 providing (7) 89:15;150:6; 153:19;154:2;202:9;210:9; 211:7 provision (5) 5:18;53:12; 56:20;61:3;109:3 provisional (25) 35:6; 71:14;79:9;83:9;115:16, 19;116:20;117:2,8,21,23; 118:7;119:11,12,15,19,24; 120:5,18;121:1,13,22; 160:5;162:3;205:10 provisionally (2) 164:12; 176:19 provisions (3) 40:20; 137:18;210:6 public (38) 6:19;8:18;11:1, 6,13,23;26:19;47:19;48:7; 66:16,17;70:21,23;97:19; 107:13;122:11;142:24; 143:8,12;147:19;152:20; 153:6,12,16;154:16;155:6; 167:14,21;204:11;205:14;	223:17;231:12,14;232:7; 234:9,24;235:10,16 publicizing (1) 89:9 publicly (1) 13:13 Puerto (7) 24:13;44:22; 54:20,21;56:9,16;57:5 pull (1) 234:16 punch (1) 15:16 purported (1) 184:4 purpose (3) 30:20;142:22; 148:12 purposes (3) 139:13;169:7; 201:23 push (2) 8:13;221:13 pushes (1) 231:5 pushing (1) 198:10 put (15) 9:5;12:23;47:2; 52:21;76:24;159:12;166:1; 181:6;188:20;206:14; 207:24;222:5;224:16; 229:9;236:4	rates (2) 75:23;204:13 rather (10) 43:20;88:14,23; 89:10;116:7;150:17,19; 158:16;180:10;207:18 raving (1) 39:7 reach (5) 111:9;112:14; 113:7;153:11;181:8 reached (1) 39:8 react (1) 89:10 read (3) 13:16;179:21; 235:22 reading (2) 150:22;170:10 ready (9) 45:22;59:18; 144:17,19;145:6;194:1,6, 8;218:24 real (12) 78:13;89:19;95:8; 106:13,15;110:6;111:15; 142:12;157:9;179:4; 195:13;198:12 reality (3) 89:14;114:15; 121:12 realize (1) 188:21 realized (2) 91:21;126:7 really (52) 3:4;4:15;7:17; 11:14;20:1,19;21:16;42:5; 48:2;55:8;83:4;85:2; 87:24;98:17;99:14;102:18; 104:19;108:7;117:24; 121:1;139:6;148:22; 151:21;153:14,15;155:24; 157:12;158:14,17,23; 159:1,2;165:24;166:1; 179:3;186:3;188:12; 199:18;212:18;213:16; 214:5,8,10;224:2,21,23; 227:14,18,22;231:5,6; 237:6 reason (10) 5:8;21:18; 54:17;56:5;64:14;188:15; 192:2;213:17;234:4;236:5 reasons (5) 21:17;22:17; 55:13;177:19;178:11 recall (2) 50:11;93:16 receive (2) 37:18;75:9 received (4) 89:23;172:20; 191:17;206:8 receiving (1) 173:24 recent (4) 8:19;91:3;127:5; 201:12 recently (1) 128:6 recitation (1) 91:13 recognize (1) 111:19 recognized (3) 127:6; 128:21;212:10 recognizes (1) 211:9 recommend (8) 37:14; 40:13;43:16;53:1,5;54:5; 198:6;206:6 recommendation (2) 64:13; 152:18 recommendations (8) 17:3, 6;39:18;41:24;42:23;60:5; 158:19;206:22 recommended (2) 58:6,8 reconstruction (1) 25:6 record (11) 6:14;8:19;
Q
qua (1) 173:13 qualifications (2) 95:6; 142:4 qualified (6) 141:12,18,24; 142:19,20;186:16 qualify (4) 54:16;91:14; 141:16;142:10 quandary (1) 216:8 quarters (1) 33:19 quasi-judicial (1) 65:1 quest (1) 229:6 question-and-answer (1) 96:17 quick (1) 69:12 quickly (8) 32:15;126:7; 129:12;130:6,7;201:9; 228:16;236:21 quit (1) 196:4 Quite (5) 77:4;151:4; 165:14;192:11;224:20 quote (1) 211:24	R	race (5) 6:2;32:19;160:22, 23,24 racial (2) 29:16;31:9 radar (3) 33:22;61:6;62:1 radio (2) 97:22;133:5 raft (1) 92:12 Rahat (2) 123:5,16 railroad (1) 34:14 raindrop (1) 4:8 raised (1) 127:3 Ramos (2) 44:17;54:17 ramps (1) 62:23 ran (3) 23:20;120:24; 188:19 range (3) 5:4;6:20;7:4 ranks (2) 185:1;229:21 rapidly (1) 149:18 rare (1) 97:13

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

10:20;11:22;23:10;27:5; 29:10;33:8;87:4;117:1; 125:4 records (3) 8:8,16;205:8 recruit (2) 190:12;215:21 recruiting (1) 196:6 recruitment (2) 194:23; 196:9 red (1) 183:24 reducing (1) 205:9 redundancy (4) 195:9,15, 19,21 referenced (1) 60:11 referendum (1) 97:15 referring (1) 218:10 reflect (1) 6:13 reform (12) 6:22;8:7;16:8; 17:1;62:13;88:5;156:7; 166:5;181:21;210:23; 235:21;236:3 reforms (9) 52:19;53:7,10; 157:12,20;158:23;161:8; 215:9,15 refusal (1) 33:16 refused (2) 34:10;76:22 refusing (1) 78:11 regard (1) 177:12 regarding (3) 8:18;53:12; 58:17 regards (3) 84:14,20;134:7 Regine (4) 9:21;18:23; 28:8;232:5 regional (3) 58:14;62:20; 63:7 register (7) 45:16,19;88:17; 98:14;204:6,18;205:18 registered (8) 24:2;35:3; 59:4,15;89:1;116:18; 191:13;222:13 registerers (1) 191:13 registering (1) 118:2 registers (1) 232:24 registrants (1) 92:19 registration (60) 7:9;16:1,2; 20:3;25:19,22;35:12; 44:24;53:6;71:14;81:7; 82:22;84:19;93:3,10,21; 117:22;124:8;125:4;158:4; 160:8,12;161:23;164:13; 180:14;182:20;191:11; 202:3,6,12,15,20,23;203:3, 12,15,23;204:1,9,13,16,22, 23;205:1,2,5,8,17,20,21, 23;206:4,8,24;210:8,10,17; 222:9,10,20 registrations (9) 24:10; 49:10;81:5,5;203:9,10,18, 21;204:4 Registry (2) 16:4;220:16 regulations (3) 32:22; 95:15;98:2 rejected (3) 174:10,19; 176:2 related (5) 6:7;23:16; 71:12;142:2;177:11 relation (1) 24:15	relatively (1) 197:1 relaxed (1) 53:18 released (2) 58:3,5 relegated (1) 38:15 relevant (1) 194:9 reliable (1) 154:3 relief (1) 91:23 rely (1) 26:24 remains (1) 128:10 remark (1) 32:4 remarkably (1) 211:24 remarks (3) 23:10;223:23; 234:23 remedy (6) 83:5;111:8; 117:9;202:1,9;232:10 remember (9) 21:6,7; 69:18;93:17;100:23; 106:10;141:19;216:14; 225:20 remembers (1) 38:20 remind (1) 228:13 reminder (2) 44:8;122:15 reminding (1) 220:24 reminds (2) 209:13,16 remove (1) 31:14 Rendell (2) 16:9;24:11 renew (1) 172:19 rep (1) 100:14 repeat (2) 134:19;161:3 repeated (1) 112:10 repeatedly (1) 170:4 replace (2) 15:16;203:24 replacement (1) 126:5 report (11) 17:2;58:5; 69:10;99:7;119:7;157:24; 159:15;206:11,12;210:21; 212:1 reported (1) 85:8 reporter (1) 234:13 reporting (2) 86:2,16 reports (6) 8:2,8,17;86:1; 156:4;179:21 represent (1) 36:13 represented (4) 12:9; 24:12;69:4;110:16 republican (3) 170:9; 206:13;236:11 republicans (1) 182:23 request (3) 4:22;74:4; 77:17 requests (1) 125:13 require (3) 115:5;135:1; 178:1 required (17) 15:15;35:18; 41:14;77:8,18;91:12; 100:3,7;102:12,13,16; 115:19;124:18;125:15; 126:14;141:8;173:17 requirement (7) 6:6;55:12; 78:2;100:5;141:15;199:14, 14 requirements (10) 78:24; 91:4;115:23;125:20;127:4, 12,17;128:18;186:13,19 requires (2) 42:16;195:22 Research (1) 202:11	reserves (1) 219:7 residence (5) 47:10,12,18; 67:17;68:8 residences (2) 66:11,20 resolve (3) 112:8,19; 114:10 resources (6) 77:4;127:16; 148:2;149:24;214:8; 226:19 respect (5) 113:4;157:19; 216:21;220:22;232:6 respecting (1) 221:17 respond (1) 57:9 response (6) 80:7,9,14; 92:9;115:8;127:9 responsibility (3) 6:3;80:8; 93:23 responsible (3) 15:18; 86:12;141:11 responsive (1) 212:4 rest (2) 80:15;236:23 restore (1) 236:9 restored (1) 236:16 restrictions (1) 91:9 restrictive (5) 7:4;25:14; 67:10;128:18;210:6 result (7) 36:11;54:24; 55:15;75:18;93:22;100:9; 126:20 results (2) 102:5;210:23 resurfaced (1) 86:9 retention (2) 194:24;196:9 retrofit (1) 150:12 revealing (1) 41:15 revise (1) 113:3 Revising (1) 95:15 Rican (3) 54:20;56:9,16 rich (1) 233:7 Rico (3) 24:13;44:22;57:5 Rico's (1) 54:21 rid (1) 114:11 ridiculous (2) 57:17;233:2 right (56) 4:17;17:20; 20:14,21;22:9;25:3;28:3; 29:2;36:14;45:18;47:13; 48:11;67:14,18;68:21; 81:19;84:7;101:17;103:7; 108:23;117:13;124:10; 128:21;129:4;131:16,17; 140:20;145:2;154:11,19; 171:21;176:9;179:1; 182:14;185:21;187:12,21; 188:2;192:19;195:16; 196:17;198:3;202:10; 204:7;207:19;209:2,3,7; 211:15;216:8,10;218:11, 12;219:8;236:9,18 rightly (1) 229:13 Rights (74) 3:13,18;4:21; 5:1,8,14,19,20;12:8,16; 14:9,11,12,19,22;19:15; 23:17;24:21;26:3,11;30:9; 31:9;33:3,5,9;38:3;42:15; 56:4,19,24;61:2;63:5; 64:18;70:3;71:24;72:16; 73:11,12;76:11;88:16,23;	92:16;94:4,9;113:2; 121:21;122:6;124:6; 128:14;145:10;149:9; 153:5,8;156:3;167:22; 188:11,22;189:8;193:7; 201:2;214:22;219:9,21,22; 221:19;223:22;225:6; 226:12,18;229:4;233:11; 235:21;236:3,16 rise (3) 94:7;188:23; 189:11 risen (1) 204:14 river (1) 179:2 road (1) 78:10 Robert (4) 4:23;30:7; 37:19;38:1 robust (2) 10:20;190:11 role (2) 86:4;110:12 roll (1) 126:18 rolled (1) 173:4 roll-out (1) 77:15 rolls (1) 204:22 room (4) 27:6;49:17;57:14; 223:8 roots (1) 153:9 Roper (12) 71:21;72:8,10; 79:13,16,19;83:13;84:8; 111:23;112:3;114:13; 117:6 rose (1) 124:11 Rothschild (1) 13:5 roughly (1) 174:14 Round (1) 145:5 routinely (1) 90:18 rule (3) 65:5;141:7,8 rules (1) 141:11 run (7) 7:14;24:22;36:24; 139:10;147:7;199:22; 219:8 running (9) 25:12;67:2; 95:3;117:20;159:12; 199:23;200:1;205:16; 221:20 rural (2) 51:6;178:18 rushed (2) 150:21;176:22
S
sacrificed (1) 129:2 sad (3) 22:10;213:2,11 sadly (2) 158:22;170:17 safe (2) 40:6;181:2 safer (1) 147:13 safety (1) 177:22 sales (1) 208:21 salute (1) 24:19 Sam (1) 129:9 same (18) 22:6;39:6; 40:14;63:20;64:18,19; 80:21;99:2;100:5;112:11; 132:22;149:6;166:7;176:5; 187:17;202:17;232:23,24 same-day (2) 25:19;53:5 sample (1) 107:2 sanctions (1) 178:13 sat (1) 18:5

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

satisfaction (1) 203:14 satisfied (3) 177:3;188:8,14 saves (1) 205:9 saving (1) 202:24 savvy (1) 12:11 saw (7) 82:20;85:7;104:6; 189:9;215:23;222:11; 234:12 saying (15) 16:21;32:5; 59:10;67:16;100:6;107:17, 18;109:23;138:11;172:21; 176:18;184:7,8;185:20; 220:24 scalable (2) 59:13,19 scanners (1) 35:2 schedule (2) 67:2,3 scheduled (3) 27:23;70:24; 207:13 schedules (1) 26:14 Schmidt (2) 101:15,17 Schnader (1) 13:6 Schneider (11) 30:6,22,24; 31:22;52:9,18;56:2;57:8; 58:1;60:10,22 school (15) 68:13;94:2; 105:16;106:7;107:10; 141:21,22,23;175:1; 189:18;190:9,13,17; 217:17;232:12 schools (4) 105:24;106:22; 107:11,13 scientists (1) 54:9 seat (1) 193:11 second (13) 8:6;70:12; 71:5,17;119:10;131:10; 138:13;156:5;169:19; 170:6;175:21;192:14; 193:18 Secondly (2) 20:12;121:19 seconds (5) 115:15; 116:24;127:20,22;132:14 secret (1) 98:4 Secretaries (1) 18:4 Secretary (28) 9:20;15:4,5; 18:2;31:1,6,18;37:22; 38:18;40:22;54:2;56:10; 113:16,22,23,24;114:5,6, 19,21,22;115:5;157:19; 170:24;171:2,12;197:24; 232:5 Section (8) 37:9;56:3,19; 58:20;61:2;76:10;100:11; 122:9 secure (8) 54:1,1,5,12,12; 179:12;201:4;210:16 secured (1) 13:8 security (3) 179:23;180:8; 205:13 seeing (5) 175:10;214:20; 215:3;216:4;230:8 seek (1) 168:5 seeks (1) 212:3 seem (3) 89:8;107:6;164:6 seemed (1) 84:22 seemingly (1) 32:21 Segal (1) 13:7	segregated (2) 64:2,6 select (1) 81:12 selective (1) 77:20 selectively (1) 78:6 Senate (3) 182:19;210:9; 235:24 senior (7) 10:1;18:24;30:6; 31:7;71:21;79:16;222:23 sense (4) 50:2;174:20; 195:14;233:23 sensitivity (1) 192:17 sensory (1) 50:15 sent (3) 13:22;104:5; 142:15 separate (2) 175:9;195:17 separates (1) 213:17 SEPTA (1) 138:17 September (1) 58:16 series (2) 26:9;34:22 serious (4) 120:1,2;233:20; 235:3 serve (2) 204:10;207:6 served (3) 15:7;58:22; 232:17 serves (1) 33:18 service (2) 32:12;232:7 services (9) 51:4;102:9; 103:5;104:10;148:1,5; 149:18;156:19;192:15 serving (3) 15:4;19:16; 204:10 session (4) 143:1,8; 209:20;233:12 sessions (1) 16:22 set (1) 70:18 setting (2) 232:15,16 settled (1) 37:2 settlement (3) 39:8,11; 103:12 seven (2) 57:20;176:18 seven-and-a-half (1) 15:9 seventeen (1) 180:16 Seventy (10) 69:6,18,19; 80:7;155:1,19;159:11; 162:9,13;201:9 Seventy's (1) 156:10 seventy-something (1) 223:2 several (2) 7:2;124:2 share (2) 127:16;230:7 shared (2) 110:23;152:19 sharing (1) 153:18 sharply (1) 94:15 shed (1) 120:7 sheet (1) 75:11 sheets (1) 198:14 Shippensburg (2) 61:12,12 shopping (1) 212:23 short (1) 221:20 shortage (1) 120:18 shortcomings (1) 229:15 shot (1) 234:18 shovel (1) 4:6 show (15) 6:4;90:11,16; 102:12,13;122:21;124:20; 131:6;137:16,19;164:1;	171:19;173:17;178:1; 233:23 showed (2) 171:4;200:21 showing (2) 89:17;184:6 shown (1) 211:20 shows (1) 166:14 shuffled (2) 163:13;175:11 shut (3) 96:6;180:7;235:19 shuts (1) 4:8 sic (1) 143:18 side (11) 28:21;29:2,3; 174:11;181:1,6;194:3; 207:4;213:1;235:24;236:2 sidelines (1) 38:16 sign (10) 12:5;42:11; 103:24;104:6,16;132:19; 140:12;142:11,12;144:17 signage (1) 86:13 signals (1) 211:17 signed (2) 124:17;137:6 significance (1) 178:4 significant (7) 51:10;53:1; 62:14;74:20;127:3;191:4; 222:12 significantly (1) 74:13 signs (3) 12:4;80:24; 173:12 simple (3) 32:12;171:6; 232:11 simply (7) 60:18;82:6; 112:18;114:15;176:7; 196:20,24 sine (1) 173:13 SINGER (12) 101:5,10,18, 22;160:17;193:22;194:7, 11,19;198:4;213:15; 215:20 single (6) 21:12;177:2; 213:19,20;221:5;234:15 sister (2) 206:6,23 sit (1) 185:16 site (18) 75:1;76:5;78:21; 85:22;86:11,23;98:9,15; 103:21;104:1,9,15,19; 108:24;109:23;118:17; 119:9;151:14 sites (7) 75:12;77:23; 102:17;104:11;110:2; 117:20;173:7 sitting (1) 160:18 situation (11) 46:1,7;48:14; 49:2,5;68:5,6,10;105:18; 177:16;215:1 situations (1) 86:2 six (6) 27:10;98:24;121:6, 7;200:2;202:13 sixteen (1) 24:24 sixth (1) 5:11 size (1) 57:14 skilled (1) 134:14 skip (1) 209:22 Skype (1) 223:5 slipped (1) 9:1 small (11) 34:13,24;82:6; 85:6;107:1;144:11,12; 145:3;179:18;198:10;	199:4 smaller (2) 83:1;85:18 Smart (2) 208:1;216:3 sneakers (1) 139:24 snow (1) 4:6 so-called (1) 89:4 social (4) 12:11,12,14; 26:17 socially (1) 186:22 society (2) 127:8;144:3 soft (1) 77:15 Solicitor (7) 10:8;76:21; 78:9;100:22;103:14;104:3; 112:14 Solicitor's (2) 101:6,9 solution (1) 118:1 solutions (1) 117:3 solve (1) 131:12 solved (1) 184:19 somebody (3) 86:20;131:5; 178:1 somebody's (1) 188:21 somehow (6) 65:18;66:5; 105:6;216:11;233:1,6 someone (15) 28:20;76:6; 99:16;100:15;115:17; 130:22;131:7,14,16; 137:11;150:20;163:22; 184:8,8;225:18 someplace (1) 185:11 sometimes (11) 78:22; 98:18;111:9,16;112:15,16; 150:23;186:13;215:10; 222:22;228:16 somewhat (1) 214:23 somewhere (2) 67:19;98:4 soon (2) 45:2;47:4 sophisticated (1) 181:3 sorry (9) 39:14;45:7;51:12; 135:10;164:2;165:9; 169:14;176:6;199:5 sort (12) 21:14;22:3,13,14; 57:22;78:10;81:24;183:7; 188:22;212:19;216:24; 227:15 SORTE-RAMOS (2) 45:8, 12 sorts (2) 41:24;153:21 Sostre (1) 60:10 Sostre-Ramos (10) 30:14; 44:15,18;49:14;61:16; 66:8;68:2,18;69:16;70:7 sound (2) 115:14;116:23 South (4) 32:24;74:23,23, 24 sovereignty (1) 220:22 space (6) 13:8;26:16; 34:13;35:4;59:9,13 spaces (2) 60:19;62:23 Spahr (1) 13:5 Spanglish (1) 141:20 Spanish (7) 46:15;54:22; 57:4;97:6;100:1,2;141:22 Spanish-speaking (1) 156:17 spawned (1) 33:5
---	--	---	--

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

speak (26) 11:7,9,24; 28:18;31:5;46:3;54:8; 57:15;75:24;79:15;83:17; 84:20;102:8;103:4;122:13; 142:7;147:19;153:2; 156:13;162:19,20;166:4, 18;167:20;177:14;225:24 speaker (2) 147:6;152:21 speakers (7) 42:19;97:21; 122:15,18;143:2,14; 154:17 speaking (3) 11:5;153:6; 194:8 speaks (2) 56:22,23 special (2) 227:5;234:1 specific (2) 71:12;178:3 specified (1) 124:22 speech (1) 9:13 speed (2) 204:21;205:5 spend (2) 147:9;203:7 spending (1) 98:1 spent (2) 149:12;176:14 split (1) 180:23 spoke (5) 84:17;135:4; 140:4;151:3;227:22 sponsors (1) 13:2 spot (1) 112:20 spotless (1) 33:8 spread (2) 43:9;145:7 spring (3) 8:3;45:20;149:1 square (1) 163:11 staff (6) 30:11;71:21;72:4, 19;79:16;155:5 staffed (1) 83:2 stage (2) 29:3;155:15 stake (1) 27:11 stalling (1) 182:15 stance (1) 103:17 stand (1) 71:1 standard (2) 58:9;61:21 standpoint (1) 22:18 start (13) 30:15;72:17; 73:1;117:7,9;155:10; 182:12;187:3;194:1,2; 219:17;220:2,4 started (4) 3:4;10:24; 45:15;198:12 state (65) 9:21;10:13,21; 15:5,11;16:16;17:8;18:2,4; 23:23;24:23;40:16,21; 60:21;69:11;84:13;85:21; 110:24;112:6,7;113:15,16, 22,23,24;114:5,6,21;115:5; 141:2,8,9;152:12;158:5, 18;167:6;168:16;170:11; 171:1,4;172:1;182:16; 184:11;190:8;196:21; 201:16;202:22;203:1,4; 206:3,20;207:7;208:21; 210:12;212:8,10;213:11; 216:13,18,19;220:15,20; 224:3;226:14;229:12 stated (5) 64:15;84:9,18; 119:24;191:5 states (30) 6:1;17:23;18:7; 24:1;25:8,16;26:5;52:13;	73:18;177:18;178:5,24; 179:5,14;180:9,16;202:11, 19;204:1;206:6,23;219:8, 15,16,18;220:4;221:3; 222:10;229:8;233:19 State's (3) 15:8;114:20,22 states' (1) 219:9 statewide (6) 14:10;16:1,3; 84:6;201:17;220:16 stating (1) 175:22 station (3) 175:21,23;176:1 stations (1) 175:12 statistics (2) 60:23;62:2 status (6) 43:19;44:2; 54:20;55:9,20;161:23 statute (3) 67:14;168:11; 172:4 stay (2) 152:5;236:22 stayed (1) 170:18 staying (1) 145:16 Steelworkers (2) 72:1;84:2 step (1) 197:5 Stephanie (2) 193:22; 194:11 steps (1) 4:10 stick (2) 143:15;194:20 sticking (1) 96:4 still (21) 3:6;17:13;48:18; 49:1;96:4;132:24;143:1; 160:11;164:18;170:17; 173:13;178:9;179:22; 182:15;189:19;217:4; 220:5;224:13;225:6,16; 236:6 stimulate (1) 189:15 stock (1) 66:15 stop (8) 42:3;91:22;132:2, 3,3;143:4;162:7;182:8 stopped (4) 25:18;48:11; 90:5;91:24 stories (4) 36:14;128:12; 173:4;185:17 storm (1) 82:16 story (3) 83:11;151:24; 176:24 strange (1) 22:4 strategic (1) 3:16 strategies (1) 31:14 strategy (1) 134:16 street (2) 175:6;188:19 streets (1) 151:23 strengthening (2) 193:13; 223:13 strengths (1) 26:21 strict (1) 7:7 strictest (1) 177:21 stripes (1) 127:15 strong (4) 110:11;144:16; 149:5;206:9 strongly (1) 23:2 structured (1) 57:4 struggle (5) 5:2;33:1; 168:10;198:16;236:23 stuck (1) 73:5 student (6) 35:10;81:11; 155:4;186:18,24;189:17	students (9) 37:8;61:10,15; 106:24;164:21;167:2; 187:4;190:10,13 studied (1) 180:4 study (1) 54:10 stuff (3) 52:10;140:1,18 subject (3) 44:1;125:6,13 submit (2) 126:14;203:18 submitted (3) 96:20;128:2; 211:3 substantially (2) 125:2; 127:1 subtle (1) 32:20 successful (2) 151:11; 206:22 successfully (1) 181:13 successive (1) 74:13 sudden (2) 188:23;189:11 suddenly (1) 22:2 sued (2) 31:18;150:4 suffer (1) 77:10 suffers (1) 100:9 suggest (2) 141:4;222:19 suggested (1) 173:12 suggestion (3) 64:13; 142:5;184:21 suggestions (2) 193:8; 206:16 suit (6) 33:23;36:11;37:2; 150:9;151:5,6 summer (1) 5:15 supermarket (1) 68:12 supervision (1) 174:1 supervisor (1) 113:17 supplying (1) 109:12 support (5) 13:3;14:2; 93:13;137:24;156:4 supporter (1) 180:5 supporting (4) 4:3;20:13; 126:15;224:11 supports (1) 210:16 supposed (9) 48:6;116:20; 119:10;131:8;142:24; 163:24;173:9;186:1; 191:17 suppress (1) 27:19 suppression (1) 94:20 suppressive (1) 91:11 Supreme (3) 5:16;26:1; 236:5 sure (37) 7:21;11:12;12:1, 7,18;13:4;16:4;21:12;24:9; 45:8,18,21;48:4,7;49:2; 64:15;68:19;69:13;71:2; 73:4;133:19;157:15; 164:15,23;167:10;175:20; 180:17;186:19;192:16; 194:13;201:5;214:18; 215:15;220:17;226:17; 228:3;230:2 surely (1) 92:1 surprised (1) 138:22 survey (2) 102:6;119:16 Susan (6) 11:24;193:16; 207:14;219:3;220:13; 228:1	switching (1) 194:3 synchronization (1) 121:16 synonymous (1) 157:13 system (29) 38:6;41:3; 54:12;64:6;94:2;97:15; 105:16;120:10;140:3; 147:9;179:7,12;183:21; 184:2;202:3,6;205:6; 208:1,1,2,6,18,19;211:6, 18;217:12,20;220:17; 232:13 systems (4) 204:1;206:17; 207:6;223:10 <hr/> T <hr/> table (3) 109:10;154:23; 198:15 tackle (1) 55:24 tactics (1) 91:11 tactile (1) 136:13 talk (24) 32:1;33:13;46:6; 57:18;71:8;73:2;95:5; 123:9;139:8;140:14; 147:22;157:8;168:13; 180:24;181:17;182:13; 186:16;187:23;194:22; 222:8;226:6;227:18; 229:13;235:8 talked (4) 54:17;86:15; 160:16;215:20 talking (9) 14:21;113:23; 135:12;146:3;148:18; 153:22;194:21;234:6,7 talks (2) 95:2;226:1 tampered (1) 218:12 tape (1) 183:24 target (4) 145:3,4,5,8 targeting (1) 57:23 Tartaglione (1) 149:23 Task (9) 16:8,10;40:1; 62:13;63:4;64:11;162:8; 181:21;190:2 tasked (1) 20:1 tax (1) 91:12 taxpayers (1) 203:2 teach (2) 145:10;233:24 teachers (2) 106:22,23 teaching (1) 198:23 teams (1) 201:14 Technician (1) 71:24 technology (12) 15:18; 146:7;149:18;150:14,16; 180:21;181:2,4,11,15; 202:8;213:4 teeth (1) 39:7 telephone (1) 198:13 television (1) 97:22 telling (4) 68:7;90:10;96:6; 138:15 tells (1) 176:2 Temple (4) 155:4;162:15; 163:9;189:18 temporary (1) 118:19 ten (4) 50:20;53:2;176:11; 196:14
--	---	--	---

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

tend (8) 51:2;131:1,4; 132:18,20;133:1;134:13, 14 tenth (1) 219:11 tenure (1) 16:5 terms (11) 52:17;77:13; 80:6;85:4;86:10;103:5; 107:19,20;109:12;120:7; 191:5 terrific (2) 115:4;197:11 test (2) 55:1,10 testified (2) 172:10;237:3 testify (4) 27:24;44:16; 48:13;200:7 testimony (56) 6:17,19; 7:24;11:2,6,23;16:20; 22:24;29:9;30:19;34:12; 37:19;44:9;49:15;58:17; 65:5;69:24;84:3;87:6,23; 95:20;105:4;110:10;122:3, 11,23;128:13;129:7,9; 133:14;134:4;135:4;143:8, 12,22;145:22;147:17,20; 154:17;156:3;162:14; 163:2;167:18;172:6; 173:14;183:6;193:3,3; 200:10,17;207:10;212:13; 223:14,17;224:24;225:4 Thankfully (1) 128:5 thanks (6) 14:7;69:20; 193:1;224:6;228:18; 229:10 theirs (1) 219:23 then-Governor (2) 16:9; 24:12 thereby (3) 55:11;107:19; 113:21 therefore (2) 135:7;171:10 thinking (2) 219:17;220:3 third (4) 152:22;154:19; 169:24;193:21 thirteen (3) 64:11;174:14; 220:5 thirteen-hour (1) 161:21 thirteen-member (1) 16:10 thirty (12) 58:7,11;115:15; 116:23;127:20,21;132:13; 135:14,18;136:9;146:13; 204:7 thirty-day (1) 204:8 thirty-five (3) 164:21; 174:13;175:8 thirty-minute (3) 59:24; 134:5;135:3 though (10) 48:16,17;49:2; 51:12;90:4;153:6;170:11; 173:9;220:19;225:7 thought (5) 111:13;120:2; 192:12,20;236:8 thoughtful (1) 224:22 thought-provoking (1) 115:12 thoughts (7) 110:13;112:2; 123:2;182:6;191:2;221:24; 228:6 thousand (3) 35:3;59:14;	199:23 thousands (3) 112:24,24; 160:3 threatening (1) 82:1 three (18) 11:9;36:17;67:4; 71:2;76:2;122:16,22; 123:3;137:1;143:2,5,14, 15;163:15;169:11;193:15; 194:11;228:24 throat (1) 230:16 throughout (11) 23:14;24:3, 4;60:21;84:12;86:8;94:5; 224:20;225:3;229:11; 233:20 throw (3) 115:12;183:24; 217:22 thrusters (1) 63:13 thus (1) 231:20 tightening (1) 205:12 tightly (1) 25:10 timekeeper (5) 11:10;12:3; 95:24;132:10,13 timely (2) 111:21;154:3 times (11) 13:24;18:5; 36:17;46:24;59:1;76:3; 78:17;118:11;163:15; 171:3;204:24 timetable (1) 95:21 timing (1) 22:13 title (1) 3:21 titles (1) 28:15 today (35) 3:3,10;4:3;5:3,9; 6:16;7:16;8:1;9:18;10:22; 11:15;14:22;26:14,20; 27:3;28:10;31:3;33:6; 87:21;110:16;126:17; 138:6;139:22;145:17,18; 151:20;155:24;158:16; 166:4;167:20;168:14; 200:22;207:4;210:11; 237:3 Today's (11) 5:10;8:9;21:1, 1;22:18;26:15;156:21; 201:24;209:20;210:2; 227:15 together (14) 12:23;14:14; 53:8;80:2;127:15;216:5; 219:20;224:17;228:2,11, 15;230:6,7,18 Toland-Wilson (11) 155:3, 9;162:15,17;166:20;174:9, 17,22;175:4;180:19; 186:15 told (12) 11:3;96:13; 162:21;163:19;165:9,12; 169:20;170:14;171:8; 172:15;176:5;185:20 Tom (1) 27:17 tonight (2) 209:9;233:23 tonight's (1) 231:16 took (11) 57:13;110:17,20; 163:20;169:10,10;174:12; 189:17;217:2;219:13; 236:7 tool (1) 56:5 tools (2) 89:17;226:19	topic (4) 11:4;19:11;71:7; 73:1 topics (6) 6:21;138:18; 144:15,21;194:15;200:14 tops (1) 115:15 torch (2) 189:7;190:4 totally (2) 165:15;188:8 touch (1) 42:8 touched (2) 223:3;233:21 tough (1) 228:16 tougher (1) 98:22 towards (1) 57:24 town (2) 144:12;234:12 township (1) 217:17 track (2) 119:14;154:4 traditional (2) 63:9;203:24 traditionally (1) 94:19 traffic (3) 3:5;73:5;221:6 tragic (3) 167:9;234:17,21 train (3) 147:2;185:3;192:4 trained (5) 121:15;147:4,7, 11;185:14 trainers (1) 153:13 training (29) 76:18;85:1; 89:1,11,19;94:13;106:2; 108:8;153:13;161:10,19; 173:24;183:7,11,18,23; 184:20;186:4,7,11;191:20, 22;194:21,22;197:22,23; 199:10,13;229:20 trainings (3) 185:5;198:9; 226:1 transactions (1) 181:5 transcend (1) 212:1 transcribed (1) 11:21 transcript (1) 193:4 transcription (1) 13:10 transfer (2) 65:16;213:3 transferred (1) 43:1 translated (3) 46:18;98:21; 99:3 translating (1) 46:19 translation (1) 46:13 translations (1) 102:10 transmission (1) 54:13 transmitted (2) 43:1;53:23 transparency (2) 154:6,11 transparent (3) 153:20; 187:18;230:9 travel (3) 151:18;152:2; 203:17 traveling (1) 178:17 travels (1) 128:11 traversed (1) 72:22 travesty (1) 165:4 tremendously (2) 114:23; 192:21 trend (1) 119:17 trial (4) 31:23;172:5; 173:14;184:11 trials (1) 168:23 tricky (1) 207:18 tried (5) 48:10;78:7; 172:19;176:9;192:4 tries (1) 3:21 trigger (2) 218:2,3	trip (4) 169:8;170:1; 171:20;173:2 trips (1) 169:12 trooping (1) 224:6 trouble (2) 178:16;196:5 troubling (3) 6:1;32:23; 119:16 true (2) 159:8;230:6 truly (4) 92:2;165:20; 175:17;187:16 trust (2) 128:15;165:17 trusted (1) 173:19 truth (1) 186:5 try (9) 98:7,17;111:7; 118:14;119:3;143:24; 144:10;183:17;230:1 trying (17) 36:18;56:15; 78:12;95:21;105:3;112:17, 19;132:24;133:9;144:13, 15,21;154:4;164:7;171:21; 176:16;188:20 Tuesdays (1) 51:16 tuning (1) 227:6 turn (5) 14:4;114:24;161:1; 226:9;228:4 turned (6) 79:10;81:13,16; 169:16;172:11;206:5 turnout (6) 35:24;53:9; 59:17,18,20;160:21 turnouts (2) 188:16,19 turns (1) 149:13 TV (3) 133:5;139:21; 235:23 twelve (1) 50:19 twenty (2) 29:20;83:20 twenty-five (1) 23:23 twenty-three (1) 22:1 twice (2) 20:10;88:11 two (31) 8:2;20:6;21:4; 25:15;35:3;36:17;46:2; 49:20;53:3,4;58:5;59:14; 70:16;73:23;74:2;93:17, 18;121:9;137:1;156:4; 163:10,11,14;174:23; 175:9;183:12;186:17; 195:15;221:22;227:21; 236:2 two-part (1) 183:4 two-second (1) 134:17 type (2) 48:21;86:21 types (5) 86:12,14,22; 165:21;178:7
U
ultimately (1) 100:19 unable (4) 115:17;178:6, 15;187:16 unacceptable (1) 171:10 unanimously (5) 17:5; 64:12;182:18,21;210:11 unaware (1) 171:13 unbelievable (2) 102:19; 218:18 uncle (1) 223:2 unconstitutional (1) 126:9

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

uncooperative (1) 82:3 Under (20) 3:18;6:11;14:9; 25:4;33:22;56:3;57:2;61:5; 24;99:24;100:3;105:9; 121:5,7;152:11;171:8; 172:3;173:10;223:22; 226:12 undermined (1) 65:19 underrepresented (1) 20:15 underserved (1) 20:15 undertaken (1) 54:7 undertaking (1) 40:6 uneven (1) 74:3 unfamiliar (2) 92:20;126:21 Unfortunately (14) 17:5; 21:24;38:14;19;43:11; 45:23;51:24;76:20;83:4; 108:21;109:6;157:21; 182:1;188:24 Uniform (8) 16:4;85:23; 211:24;216:17;217:11,20; 218:1;220:16 uniformity (3) 221:12,14; 232:23 uniformly (1) 113:10 union (2) 100:14;216:13 unique (4) 54:19;55:9; 75:22;79:4 United (9) 24:1;71:24;84:1; 179:14;219:15,16,18; 220:3;221:2 universe (2) 98:5;139:22 universities (1) 81:15 University (17) 32:3;33:18; 34:9;35:9,24;59:10;60:13; 61:7,11,13;81:14;82:9; 155:4;162:16;163:9; 189:18;232:16 unless (2) 179:17;185:14 unseen (1) 215:1 unusual (1) 40:4 up (59) 6:4;11:2;17:23; 21:15,15;29:24;34:2;60:7; 64:1;71:1;78:24;80:16; 86:7;89:22;96:6;116:11; 117:16;118:8,13;120:21; 123:5,11;130:5;131:15; 132:2;135:6,22;136:5,22; 137:7;138:18;139:5;145:5; 155:15;162:7;164:9; 165:14;171:7,19,20;173:2; 175:10;176:12;178:1; 183:12,24;184:6;188:24; 189:11;197:5;199:24; 200:22;204:7;214:10; 218:20,24;220:8;233:23; 235:20 upcoming (2) 27:16;94:22 uphill (1) 220:18 upon (7) 5:24;88:21;89:6; 124:12;211:14;216:24; 232:19 up-to-date (1) 35:15 Urban (9) 10:2,9;19:1,8,10, 23;23:1;51:1;106:11 urge (5) 58:13;154:5;	157:7;161:6;206:20 urgent (1) 89:24 use (29) 12:14;25:11; 27:15,24;42:13;43:2; 48:18;61:22;75:15,17; 78:5;89:17;104:8,9; 115:18;123:13;132:19,20; 133:8;134:24;136:15; 142:3,10;148:24;149:4; 179:5;204:2;208:6;218:2 used (13) 33:9;37:9;56:20; 92:18;106:19,21;107:1,10; 164:5;165:12;171:7; 192:24;208:3 user (1) 150:13 using (5) 12:12,15;59:24; 133:24;152:3 usual (1) 42:10 usually (2) 100:16;119:6 utilize (1) 42:20 utilized (1) 56:5	volunteer (4) 11:2;25:21; 80:16;197:5 volunteers (9) 73:18;75:1, 13;77:19;99:6;119:4,8; 159:13;185:19 vote (136) 4:17;15:14,21; 17:20;19:24;20:14,21,21; 21:11,14;22:9;23:2;25:3; 27:19;28:4;32:15;34:1,2; 36:14,18;41:10;43:13,23, 24;44:23;45:1,2,4,14,16, 22;46:9,12,20;47:20,23; 48:8;49:1,11;50:10;51:15; 52:20;57:13;58:8;61:10, 15;63:1,15,16,18;64:17; 68:23;75:19;81:8;84:6; 88:17;89:3;90:12;91:15; 95:12,12;98:14,16;99:12; 100:20;110:6;112:20; 115:18;116:19,22;117:13; 118:4,18;119:13;120:22; 121:18;124:10;128:22; 129:4;130:1;131:17,20; 144:24;145:3,6,10;147:12; 150:15;151:1;157:3,5,16; 158:2;159:9;160:4,6; 161:9;162:2,3,5;164:12,17, 17,20;166:9,23;169:18; 170:2,16;171:7,22;172:5; 173:19;174:14,15;176:17, 20;177:2,5;178:8;180:6, 11;209:2;210:4;211:8,15, 22;215:2;216:8;217:5,8,8; 225:22;236:10,11,18 voted (6) 36:24;53:23; 64:12;120:22;165:2; 236:12 voter (129) 16:1;25:14,22; 27:12,17;31:11,24;35:12; 44:24;49:10;53:6;62:5; 71:13,19;74:4;76:12; 77:13,15;78:4;81:1,7; 87:13;88:3,19,24;89:10,13, 18,20;90:7,19,22;91:4; 93:2,10,20;94:12,15; 100:19,19;106:4,20; 107:21;108:10,23;110:12, 19;112:23;113:4;115:22; 116:3,3,15;117:11;121:5; 124:13,19;125:9,22;126:8, 18;127:5,12,13,17;128:5,8, 18;129:24;148:7,9,11; 153:10;158:4;160:7,11; 161:17,23;164:13;168:7, 12,14,22,24;170:6,22; 171:1,16;172:6,12,19; 174:2;177:16;182:19; 185:15;188:17;191:11; 201:5;202:3,5,12,20,23; 203:2,15,22;204:4,16,21; 205:7,13,17,19;206:4,8; 208:2;209:22,23;210:2,7, 17;214:21;219:21;222:8,9, 20;226:4,13,16 voter-education (1) 93:14 voters (133) 5:22;6:5;7:6;	16:13;17:12,19;24:3;26:4; 31:15;33:11,24;34:18; 35:3,5,17;36:5,13;58:18; 59:5,14,23;61:19;62:16; 63:1;64:16;69:7;71:9;74:5, 21;75:3,9,18;76:2,4;77:10; 78:1,7,19;79:8;81:22; 84:15;88:2,8,16;89:2,5,11, 17;90:10,14,16;91:2,7,18, 20;92:20;94:10,20;95:9,9, 10;100:12;102:6,15;104:8, 14,18;112:20;115:24; 116:10;118:15,24;121:19; 122:6;123:10;125:12,18; 126:12;127:16;129:23; 131:6;156:11,17;157:15; 159:18;160:19;161:2,22; 162:23;163:3,8;164:12,15; 165:5;167:1,2,7;168:16; 171:18;178:19,20;185:18, 19,23;190:15,16;191:14; 192:15,18;193:18;200:21; 202:7,16;203:16,19;205:2, 18;207:16;208:7,10,23; 209:3;210:24;211:7,20,20, 23;212:7;222:13,18,19; 226:8;235:6 voter's (4) 68:21;125:4; 159:15;169:22 Voters' (8) 26:2;88:22; 94:9;120:20;201:8;219:22; 221:19;229:4 voter-supported (1) 212:10 voter-supportive (1) 210:14 votes (4) 195:8,12;216:1; 232:23 Voting (177) 3:12;5:7,14, 19,22;6:3,4,14;7:4,18;8:5, 19;10:21;11:15;12:16; 14:11,12,19,22;15:17; 18:6;19:19;20:6,18,23; 23:16,16;24:21;25:18; 26:6,7,11;29:14;31:15; 32:18;33:5,9,10;34:24; 36:3;38:9;39:24;40:19; 42:15;46:20,22;47:11,17; 48:20;50:4;52:13,19,21,23, 23;53:1,7,13,18,22,22; 54:4,11;56:4,19,24;59:3; 61:2;62:20;63:20;66:6,10; 70:3;72:15,23;76:10,13, 17;78:20;82:3,5;88:13; 91:23;92:16,21;94:4; 95:16;98:10;99:16;100:18; 106:1,3;110:21;111:18; 113:1;116:4;121:17;124:6, 22;126:4;128:14;129:14; 130:3,13;134:2,7;137:2,17, 18;144:16;145:13;148:24; 149:3,13;151:4;152:8,8,13, 18;153:5,8;156:3,5; 157:14;158:7,8,13;159:7; 160:6,15;162:2;166:13; 168:20;169:7;171:11; 173:13;176:3,12;177:11, 12,23,24;178:5;179:1,4,7,
V
	valid (2) 126:1;205:21 value (1) 95:20 variety (3) 92:17;148:4; 197:22 various (1) 28:16 vary (1) 28:12 Vattamala (25) 30:10; 49:16,19;72:3,9,18;73:4,7; 79:12;97:3,4,4,6,7;98:6; 99:21;100:24;101:14,24; 103:3;108:2,15;118:6,7; 119:21 Verification (1) 54:8 versa (1) 79:7 verse (1) 159:23 version (1) 99:3 versus (3) 149:23;213:9; 236:13 very-much (1) 81:3 vice (8) 10:1;18:24;79:7; 101:18,20;153:3;154:23; 155:17 victimization (1) 89:10 victory (1) 98:11 video (1) 192:14 videos (2) 197:24;198:1 videotapes (1) 140:11 Vietnamese (1) 74:11 Vietnamese-American (1) 75:3 views (1) 71:3 vigorous (1) 126:14 violated (1) 150:5 violations (1) 88:22 visited (1) 171:2 visually (2) 149:15;150:8 vitality (1) 30:20 voice (7) 23:3;133:1;145:1; 150:13;165:22;175:20; 178:22 voices (1) 6:12 voluntarily (2) 74:9;103:15

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

8,10,13,16,18;180:1,13,14; 181:14,19;182:10;184:2; 187:5;190:15;193:7;201:1; 209:4,5;210:5;211:1,9,13, 16;216:15,17;223:10; 225:6;232:11;233:18; 235:21;236:3 voting-by-mail (1) 52:16	236:4 whatsoever (1) 186:22 wheelchairs (1) 152:3 Whereas (1) 214:22 wherever (1) 199:21 white (1) 107:12 whole (13) 44:20;64:24; 66:9;92:12,13;98:3; 112:21;141:11;160:15; 169:8;176:23;188:10; 213:4	198:22;199:12 workers (45) 75:14;76:9, 15;77:16,23;78:4,23;79:5; 84:22;86:1;100:10;109:7; 118:23;121:15;125:8; 126:20;161:11,13,14,20; 164:1;168:19;173:3,7,23; 184:21;185:2,3,6;190:17; 191:7;192:4;194:9;195:3, 23;196:10,10,20,24;198:7, 23,23;199:18;215:21; 229:22	204:13 18-year-old (1) 165:11 1945 (1) 236:1 1965 (1) 26:3 1969 (1) 167:24 1971 (1) 189:19 1973 (2) 19:17;23:11 1975 (1) 23:18 1981 (1) 44:22 1988 (1) 73:15 1997 (1) 24:8 1999 (1) 236:7
W
wait (11) 36:19;47:8;58:7; 119:10;129:19;134:6; 135:8;140:23,23,24,24 waited (2) 34:1;150:24 waiting (2) 169:9;176:15 walk (3) 98:8;118:17;152:4 walked (1) 174:21 walking (1) 36:9 wants (4) 7:22;8:10,14; 194:5 war (1) 219:13 ward (4) 24:7;65:23;66:5; 120:16 Washington (4) 3:19; 31:10;73:19;180:10 watch (1) 201:15 watchdog (1) 155:20 watched (1) 36:22 watchers (2) 35:8;147:3 watching (2) 146:5;168:9 water (1) 32:11 way (31) 7:14;22:13;41:3, 9;46:5,6;57:20;65:20; 72:21;89:20;113:6;115:22; 118:2;125:10;131:19; 153:20;157:18;158:15; 160:12;180:5,17;182:2; 190:13;195:21;198:18; 208:20;225:16,16,17; 232:24,24 ways (11) 62:14;75:22; 92:17;98:6;185:5;195:17; 198:20;221:16;231:6,11, 13 weaknesses (1) 26:22 weapons (1) 85:24 weather (6) 151:17,19; 152:2,5,10;224:4 webinars (1) 185:7 website (1) 163:23 weddings (1) 228:13 week (2) 138:7;224:2 weekend (1) 121:11 weekends (1) 53:4 weeks (4) 53:3;58:6;137:1; 180:24 weigh (1) 127:6 weight (1) 139:23 Welcome (4) 3:11;31:20; 155:8;167:17 Well-meaning (1) 88:19 weren't (2) 184:9;234:24 western (2) 52:12;85:20 what's (6) 97:24;99:20; 135:21;157:4;164:10;	Wholly (1) 74:17 who's (1) 7:21 whose (3) 57:3;94:8;160:7 Whyatt (1) 10:12 wide (3) 201:20;231:15,21 wife (1) 36:21 Wilkes-Barre (1) 81:13 willing (1) 109:20 win (2) 151:16;202:21 window (1) 217:1 wish (1) 51:24 within (4) 57:18;163:11; 175:23,24 without (7) 3:6;32:16; 46:13;61:21;68:23;173:19; 224:5 witnesses (10) 10:18; 11:14;13:12;14:16;28:16, 18;29:7;44:9;207:12; 224:24 woman (2) 170:23;173:14 Womelsdorf (1) 172:8 Women (8) 16:13;69:7; 193:17;207:15;208:23; 212:7;218:17;235:5 won (1) 150:9 wondered (2) 63:4;134:7 wonderful (1) 5:17 wonderfully (1) 142:12 wondering (4) 52:11;57:14; 102:24;177:9 word (5) 142:10;153:17; 165:24;229:9;235:13 words (4) 166:2;218:3,3; 230:4 work (57) 5:3;8:12;14:3; 15:15;17:11,13;20:5,20; 23:6;31:10,11;50:20,22; 72:15;78:7,13;80:3;92:7; 109:20;110:18;111:18; 118:8;124:7;138:12;140:8, 8;146:5;153:3,11;154:12; 161:21;169:5;170:4; 184:17;185:13;190:3,10, 17;192:11;199:21;200:4,5; 204:7;207:3;215:9,16; 216:6;226:12,23;227:24; 228:17;229:16,23;230:2, 18;234:3;237:4 worked (7) 22:14;55:18; 86:18;101:3,6;124:4;188:4 worker (16) 108:18;170:14, 21;173:16,18;185:20; 191:15;192:20;194:21,22, 23;196:23;197:10,21;	working (14) 31:16;57:24; 108:9;110:15;114:9; 137:14;168:2;179:13; 188:3;197:16;211:10,19; 215:14;228:2 works (3) 73:11;77:1;184:2 world (2) 62:24;151:16 wrinkle (1) 42:10 write (3) 11:24;35:5;234:16 write-in (2) 195:8,12 writing (3) 35:19;184:12; 193:4 written (1) 29:8 wrong (4) 6:9;163:20; 187:13;189:12	2 2 (2) 37:9;219:6 2000 (1) 149:11 2002 (2) 15:14;180:4 2003 (1) 15:6 2004 (1) 141:6 2005 (5) 16:7;17:2;62:12; 67:6;181:21 2006 (5) 31:17;67:6,6; 74:8;103:15 2008 (6) 24:6;34:3,19; 82:7,23;112:5 2010 (1) 15:6 2012 (23) 73:17;74:14; 80:10,20;82:10;83:2;84:5; 91:16;102:14;103:9; 112:10;120:15;124:14,18; 125:7;159:21;161:5;163:5, 15;166:7,16;170:13;187:9 2013 (3) 89:23;166:8; 170:19 2014 (1) 160:13 203 (3) 99:24;100:12; 109:1 208 (2) 76:10;109:3 21 (2) 189:2,3 21st (1) 211:7 21-year-old (1) 166:15 24 (1) 204:14 246 (1) 102:15 29 (2) 204:14;234:18
Y
year (16) 8:10;20:10,10; 26:2;59:23;61:7;80:22,22; 123:19;124:15;149:11; 160:22,23,24;195:7; 196:14 year-and-a-half (1) 168:1 years (29) 4:24;7:2;15:10; 20:11,17;21:6;22:1,11; 23:24;25:1,6,13;40:7; 91:10;93:16;97:12;103:22, 23;120:22;124:1;150:24; 159:11;165:7;177:18; 189:2,3;204:14;219:14; 229:3 York (5) 56:6,11;73:6; 98:23;217:5 young (11) 26:8;97:3; 167:2;186:21;187:4;190:1, 14;191:6;197:15;218:16; 222:13 younger (2) 191:14;222:17
1
1,200 (1) 40:2 1,680 (1) 39:23 10 (1) 234:18 100 (1) 45:1 101 (1) 148:11 11th (1) 120:16 15 (2) 15:11,11 1-5 (1) 15:11 150 (1) 25:6 18 (10) 90:6;124:17; 153:10;166:14;168:7; 171:8;177:17;184:3;189:2; 3 3 (1) 234:18 3,340 (1) 49:10 30th (1) 123:20 350,000 (1) 235:15 37 (1) 210:9 3899 (1) 236:2 4 43,000 (1) 156:23 47 (1) 156:21 4e (2) 56:3,19 5 5 (1) 61:2 53 (1) 204:15 57 (2) 141:2;142:6

Pennsylvania State Hearing - February 06, 2014
National Commission of Voting Rights

5th (1) 90:8
6
6 (1) 234:17 6,646 (1) 49:9
7
7:25 (1) 143:10 7:40 (1) 237:8 70,000 (1) 130:23
8
800-number (1) 69:11 83 (1) 203:11 866-OUR-VOTE (1) 80:4 9
9.9 (1) 45:2 90s (1) 149:17 9th (1) 24:7

Table of Contents

- 22. Pacific Northwest Regional Hearing Transcript
- 23. Rapid City, South Dakota Hearing Transcript
- 24. South Carolina Hearing Transcript
- 25. Texas Regional Hearing Transcript
- 26. Virginia Hearing Transcript

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS
PACIFIC NORTHWEST REGIONAL HEARING
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
Monday, April 28, 2014
4:06 p.m.

University of Washington, School of Law
William H. Gates Hall, Room 138
4293 Memorial Way
Seattle, Washington

Hosted by:

LAWYERS' COMMITTEE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS UNDER LAW

Reported by:

Monna J. Nickeson, CCR, CLR, RPR, CRR

JOB NO. 72984

1 GUEST COMMISSION

2

3 Rex Burkholder, Center for Intercultural Organizing

4

5 Dolores Huerta, Dolores Huerta Foundation

6

7 Dean Foster, Washington State Redistricting Commission

8

9 Hon. Charles Johnson (ret.) - NAACP

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

I N D E X

1
2
3	OPENING REMARKS:		PAGE NO.
4	BY MR. MARTINSON:		4
5
6	SPEAKERS:	ORGANIZATION	PAGE NO.
7	MARY FLOWERS	Seattle NAACP	13
8	MACK MURRAY	Urban League of Metropolitan Seattle	23
9	ART WANG	APACE	32
10	ESTHER HARLOW	Disability Rights of Oregon	39
11	DAVID LORD	Disability Rights Washington	46
12	SCOTT CRICHTON	ACLU of Montana	52
13	RHONDA WHITING	Western Native Voice	60
14	CINDY VAN WINKLE	Council of the Blind	69
15	DELORES GILMORE	Kittitas County	73
16	MARJORIE EASLEY	League of Women Voters of Oregon	75
17	MARY CARPENTER	National Federation of the Blind	77
18	ALLISON EISINGER	Seattle Coalition on Homelessness	80
19	MATT BARRETO	University of Washington	84
20	DAVID PEREZ	Perkins Coie, LLP	89
21	GRACE VILLANUEVA		100
22	ABBA KHANNA	Perkins Coie, LLP	106
23	KIM ABLE	League of Women Voters of Washington	114
24	TAMI DAVIS	Office of the Washington Secretary of State	123
25	EMILIO GARZA	Washington Bus	130
26	JULIE WISE	King County Department of Elections	137
27	JOSH GOLDBERG	Office of the Oregon Secretary of State	148
28	KAPPY EATON	League of Women Voters of Oregon	154
29	EMILY JAMESON	Oregon Voice	160
30	SHARON MAEDA	Seattle Immigrant Voting Rights Task Force	167

1 MR. MARTINSON: Good afternoon. Welcome to 2 the Seattle hearing of the National Commission on 3 Voting Rights. I am Alan Martinson, an attorney at the 4 Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under the Law in 5 Washington, DC. On behalf of the Lawyers' Committee, 6 we thank you for your participation and support this 7 afternoon.

8 And right at the outset I'd like to thank 9 the University of Washington School of Law for hosting 10 us for a discussion about one of the most fundamental 11 aspects of our society: The right to vote.

12 It's a particular pleasure for me to be here
13 today, as I am a Pacific Northwest native, having lived 14 my first 18 years just outside Portland. It's always a 15 joy to come back, even if it makes me question my 16 choice to live and work in the other Washington.

17 The Lawyers' Committee is a non-profit, 18 non-partisan civil rights organization founded at the 19 request of President John F. Kennedy 50 years ago to 20 engage the private bar in the fight for racial justice 21 and equality. We continue our work today in a range of 22 areas, including as one of the foremost national 23 organizations on voting rights.

24 Today's hearing in Seattle is the nineteenth 25 in a series of nationwide fact-finding hearings

1 convened by our National Commission on Voting Rights.
2 As many of you know, last summer, the US Supreme Court
3 struck down a key protection of the Voting Rights Act, 4 and legislation was recently introduced earlier this 5 year in Congress to strengthen voting protections to 6 help repair what was lost.

7 So one of our main purposes through these 8 national hearings is to identify the needs for strong 9 protections against discrimination in voting by looking 10 at the current record in states across the country.
11 In addition, today, we want also want to hear from you 12 about election administration and electoral reform.

13 Across the country over the past few years,
14 we have seen a wave of restrictive voting laws making 15 it harder for many eligible voters to cast their 16 ballot. We have continued to see similar election 17 administration challenges cycle after cycle related to 18 poll worker training, voter registration, use of 19 provisional ballots, voting machine problems. Your 20 input on these issues in the Pacific Northwest is 21 critical for our ongoing effort.

22 With the testimony we receive today and 23 after the hearing, the National Commission will prepare 24 two reports. One on voting discrimination, and another 25 on election administration and electoral reform. The 1 reports and the records from the hearings will be 2 available this year to anyone seeking to reform or 3 improve existing voting laws including policymakers, 4 advocates, and the voting public. We expect the 5 reports to inform Congress and educate public regarding 6 recent record of voting discrimination and what to look 7 out for moving forward.

8 Commissioners: Presiding over our event
9 today are four commissioners, each with a strong 10 commitment to protecting access to the ballot on equal 11 terms for all.

12 Dolores Huerta, president of the Dolores 13 Huerta Foundation, is a living legend, and I cannot 14 possibly do justice to her extraordinary background and 15 career in a short introduction. Ms. Huerta is 16 best-known for her role in co-founding the National 17 Farm Workers' Association with Cesar Chavez, which 18 later became the United Farm Workers. She has remained 19 an activist for social justice throughout her career, 20 and she has been recognized numerous times for her 21 service, including receiving the Presidential Medal of 22 Freedom, the highest civilian award in the United 23 States, in 2012.

24 We are delighted that she is a national 25 commissioner for the National Commission on Voting

1 Rights.

2 (Applause)

3 Rex Burkholder, who has come up from 4 Portland to be here today, has a distinguished career 5 as an activist and community leader, dedicated to 6 creating livable communities. He founded the Bicycle 7 Transportation Alliance and co-founded the Coalition
8 for a Livable Future, bringing together over 100
9 diverse organizations in the greater Portland region.
10 He served on the Portland area's Metro Council for 12
11 years, until 2012. It is a pleasure to have Rex here
12 today.

13 Dean Foster has been involved in election
14 issues since he was high school, I believe, when he 15 worked on redistricting issues for the Washington State
16 Senate. After serving as a Captain in the U.S. Air
17 Force, he has continued to be involved in election 18 issues, including as a senior staffer for former 19 Governor Booth Gardner. Dean has served on numerous 20 commissions, including most recently on the Washington 21 State Redistricting Commission. Welcome.

22 Last but not least, Judge Charles Johnson 23 has had an illustrious career. Judge Johnson moved to 24 Seattle in 1954 to attend law school here at U-Dub.
25 Upon graduation, he went to work for the NAACP, serving

1 as president of the Seattle chapter and later the 2 Northwest Area Conference, as well is the national 3 NAACP Board of Directors. He spent 22 years as a
4 Municipal Court judge, and 18 more years as a Superior
5 Court judge. It is a pleasure to have him here today.

6 And now for a few housekeeping items:

7 If you've been confirmed on a panel in advance, please 8 check in at the sign-in table.

9 We have one change in the schedule Theresa
10 Keavney from the Montana Conservation Voters was sick 11 and she wasn't able to travel here so we will not have 12 her testimony here today.

13 For individuals here today who would like to 14 share their voting experiences, and who have not signed 15 up for a panel, we'd like to hear from you, as well.
16 Please make sure you sign up on the witness list out in 17 front of the room and speak to our designated 18 volunteers for instructions. A commissioner will call 19 your name during our open mic sessions.

20 A few other items, our hearing is being 21 transcribed. So please, our witnesses and 22 commissioners and anyone giving public testimony, make 23 sure you speak up and speak clearly, especially your 24 name. Please be mindful of the timekeepers and their 25 signs.

1 And If you're a Tweeter, we've set up
2 hashtags for our hearings: #NCVR and #votingrights, 3 and my organization is @lawyerscomm. So I'd like 4 company from the Twitter birds.

5 Finally, thank you. I want to thank our 6 planning committee of Cara Bilodeau, Sean Dugar, Emily 7 Jameson, Jacob Matilsky, Michele Radosevich, and my 8 Lawyers' Committee colleague Miles Fernandez. We 9 couldn't have done this without all of them, so thank 10 you.

11 (Applause)

12 Finally, I'd like to thank our commissioners
13 and witnesses and the numerous Idaho, Montana, Oregon, 14 and Washington organizations that have helped with 15 planning and promoting this event, including the great 16 co-sponsoring organizations listed in your program and 17 our great volunteers, the League of Women Voters who 18 are out front.

19 You can get More info on hearings at 20 ncvr.lawyerscommittee.org. Thank you.

21 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much, Alan,
22 for all of this and thanks for the invitation. My name 23 is Rex Burkholder, as Alan introduced us. I agreed to 24 be the chair today, so when they hold up those signs 25 that says times up, I get to be the one that will

1 either hit a gravel or water bottle, but we have plenty 2 of time to hear stories, and I think it's a critical
3 thing.

4 Before we start I wanted to offer the 5 commissioners a chance, if they had something they 6 wanted to say to start with, I believe Ms. Huerta had a 7 statement she'd like to make in the record to begin 8 with.

9 MS. HUERTA: First of all, I just want to 10 thank everyone that came here to testify today to be 11 able to share with us your stories of how our voting 12 rights need to be protected and improved, if necessary.

13 We know that the basis of our democracy, I
14 don't have to tell people in the room this, but we know 15 the basis of our democracy here in the United States is 16 voting. And yet at the same time, we know that there's 17 many attempts not to -- to try to do diminish the right 18 of voters to be able to vote; and especially for young 19 people, students, people of color and in some cases 20 even women, as has been happening lately in the State 21 of Texas.

22 So just know that what we're doing here is 23 very, very crucial and so very important for us as 24 Americans. We're the model for the world, but we have 25 to make sure that our model actually does work and that

1 it does include every citizen in the United States who 2 will be able to have access to voting and they can make 3 their voices heard without any kind of impediments.

4 So again, I want to thank you very much.
5 This has been a great year. I've been working on the 6 issues -- my first activist moment was knocking on a 7 door to get someone to register to vote. That moment
8 really changed my entire life and that's when I decided 9 to become an organizer. And I actually quit being a 10 schoolteacher to become a community organizer and that 11 was my first activist role.

12 And I always like to say to people, when I'm 13 trying to encourage them to vote, that this is the 14 first experience to become a leader, a leadership -- 15 the best leadership experience is to go out there and 16 knock on someone's door and talk to them about the 17 importance of voting. So thank you again for being 18 here.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much.

20 Commissioners, any opening statements?

21 MR. JOHNSON: I'd like to thank each of you 22 who have appeared here today to participate in this 23 hearing. It's critical for all of us to be involved in 24 voting rights. I go back to the early '60's when I was 25 campaigning for the 1969 Voting Rights Act all the way

1 up until now, one way or the other I've been involved
2 in trying to see to it that voting rights are paramount 3 and it is something that we cannot afford to have 4 chipped away as has been happening in the last several 5 years.

6 So it's a pleasure to be here, participate 7 in this hearing, and I thank you and each of the 8 panelists for participating.

9 MR. FOSTER: I, too, would like to thank 10 you. We have been provided an outline of some of the 11 testimony and what I would like to say to the people in 12 the audience and those who are testifying not only is 13 it important to give us a history of what's happened, 14 but if you have solutions, I think it's very important 15 to get on the record even though we might know what the 16 solutions are, let's make sure that we get those kinds 17 of solutions on the record so that you know assume, so 18 you know what assume means, so let's get everything on 19 the record. Thank you very much.

20 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much,
21 Commissioners, for joining me up to here to hear this 22 testimony. And basically, the process is we have 23 received some testimony ahead of time if you have 24 additional testimony make sure that you get it in the 25 record, as well.

1 I have been directed that Alan will be
2 gathering any further information that you have if you
3 didn't send it in already. If you want to tweet it
4 into him, I bet he will take it that way too.

5 Let's just get started. I have Mary Flowers
6 with the Seattle NAACP as our first witness.

7 MS. FLOWERS: Thank you. Again, my name is 8 Mary Flowers. I have served on the Executive Committee 9 of the Seattle/King County the National Association for 10 the Advancement of Colored People, the NAACP, for the 11 past ten years in the capacity of Prison Committee 12 Chairperson. Our committee works in cooperation with 13 organizations that include the Black Prisoners Caucus, 14 which is a prisoner founded and led organization based 15 in two prisons in Washington State; also the People's 16 Institute and a network of community based 17 organizations operating with an analysis of racism and 18 institutional power.

19 My testimony speaks to the 20 disenfranchisement and opportunities as well for people 21 impacted by the criminal justice system, in particular 22 Black and Brown people and also people living in or 23 experiencing poverty.

24 The political system operates in tandem with 25 all other systems and institutions, all of which were

1 constructed and rooted in the oppression of people of 2 color and also impoverished white people. Black and 3 Brown people have experienced unrelenting institutional 4 explosion and maltreatment that has resulted in the 5 racial disparities that we see in virtually every 6 institution in this country.

7 Voting rights have been experienced very 8 differently depending upon race, income and gender 9 since the founding of this country. Political outcomes 10 have always reflected the systemic racial bias that is 11 woven into the political tapestry. The fact that 12 America is a world leader in the over-incarceration of 13 its people is a direct result of legislation and the 14 fact that 60% of incarcerated people are of color is a 15 reflection of a systemic racial bias and inequity.

16 According to the Sentencing Project, 1 in 17
17 white men are likely to go to prison. That statistic
18 alone is appalling and alarming. However the reality 19 that 1 in 6 Latino men and 1 and 3 Black men are likely 20 to go to prison or be involved in the criminal justice 21 system speaks to a catastrophic disparity. The 22 statistics are dismal for women of color as well.

23 In addition to the many incarceration
24 hardships that people and their families and 25 communities impacted by these statistics endure, felony

1 voting laws add to the political disenfranchisement of 2 Black, Brown and poor communities.

3 States across the country, including the 4 western states that we are focused on in this hearing, 5 have a range of felony voting laws. In 11 states 6 people with felony convictions may be facing permanent 7 loss of their right to vote for various reasons. The 8 bulk of states restore voting rights after serving time 9 in either parole or probation, but for the most part, 10 those states' reinstatement of voting rights include 11 the payment of fines, which also causes hardship to 12 those people in poverty.

13 But there are two states in this country, 14 Maine and Vermont, they allow people convicted of 15 felonies to vote while they are in prison. They do not 16 take away their vote, they are not disenfranchised from 17 voting rights. The precedence in this country is that 18 only two states allow this at this point.

19 If the goal of corrections is to indeed 20 correct or improve behavior, encouraging civic 21 responsibility through voting seems a more reasonable 22 and logical means to that end rather than withdrawing 23 people's voting rights.

24 How, when and why states have approached 25 this issue is very varied and is an interesting thing

1 to research and really speaks to power, control and 2 oppression that people experience. So the NAACP
3 advocates that people maintain their voting rights 4 before, during and after incarceration.

5 Now that's the problem. We also want to 6 say, through our work we are trying to address the 7 process of multigenerational disempowerment that so 8 many, in spite of being able to vote, there's been a 9 long history of our people being disenfranchised and 10 not allowed to vote. We were not allowed to vote at 11 the beginning of this country, Black people. And the 12 Native Americans were not even counted. And so there 13 was a long history that. And as I said early, that was 14 true in every single institution in terms of our 15 status.

16 The education system not only serves as a 17 pipeline to prison, which I'm sure many of you are 18 familiar with that term of people who are able to live 19 more productive lives, enter the education system in 20 the prison pipeline. The present pipeline in the 21 education system also adds to the political 22 disempowerment process by revoking people's right to 23 vote once they're incarcerated.

24 So in our organizing, we are striving to 25 demystify and expand the political vision in

1 communities of color who may not only be 2 disenfranchised because they cannot vote or 3 historically have had difficulty voting, but we are 4 trying to demystify the process in terms of developing 5 legislation that really speaks to the reality and begin 6 to give hope to communities of color.

7 Many people are not voting because they are 8 hopeless and I think beyond just the right to vote we 9 need to address the long-term disparity and equity that 10 people are experiencing. Some more has to be done to 11 educate our children, educate our families and to 12 engage in the political process. That's the 13 opportunity that I think we all have and to do it in 14 creative ways that really engage people, not just get 15 their feedback, but truly fully have them
16 participating.

17 Some of the younger organizers in the NAACP 18 and other organizations are bringing relevance and 19 vision that goes beyond just voting. They're working 20 to help our people understand both the power and the 21 process of developing legislation that's authored by 22 the people most impacted and therefore relevant to the 23 people most impacted.

24 There is great opportunity in this area as 25 our network in this region grows. As we help our

1 communities understand how we have been disenfranchised 2 we are developing leaders who have experienced the 3 oppression and are using their brilliance, creativity 4 and vitality to develop and implement strategies that 5 will usher in economic, political, physical and 6 emotional well-being to our communities.

7 The protection and restoration of voting
8 rights is essential, particularly as those rights 9 impact people so disproportionately impacted by the 10 criminal justice system.

11 Thank you.

12 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much for
13 your testimony.

14 Any questions from the commission?

15 MR. JOHNSON: I'd like to ask a question,
16 Ms. Flowers, is there any proposed legislation now 17 moving its way up to the state legislation beyond what 18 happened in 2009 when there was a partial restoration 19 of voting rights for those who had been incarcerated?

20 MS. FLOWERS: There is a restoration in 21 Washington state for people who have been incarcerated.
22 I think, again, even that process is confusing for 23 people because it is tied to the payment of fines. And 24 so if people have the support to understand that 25 process, then, you know, they don't have a problem

1 restoring their voting rights.

2 The problem is, as we talk to people, either
3 they don't know about that law or they're confused, 4 they think that if they vote without satisfying all the 5 regulations they could be again charged with another 6 crime. So people simply find it easier not to vote.
7 And that's what we want to avoid. So I think the real 8 process, as you said, is in organizing, organizing to 9 help people understand the law as it exists in this 10 state, but also nationally as laws that need to be 11 changed.

12 MR. JOHNSON: As it relates to strengthening 13 the voting rights of former prisoners, is there 14 anything now that is going on with your organization or 15 that you know of that's proceeding in the legislature 16 to enlarge the voting rights changes made in 2009?

17 MS. FLOWERS: Well, I'm not certain that 18 right now at this moment about the legislature but this 19 is an ongoing battle, ongoing struggle that we're 20 engaged in.

21 MR. JOHNSON: The last question, is there 22 anything -- is the NAACP having any problems with its 23 voting rights -- not voting rights -- registration, get 24 out the vote that occurs in the fall of each year?

25 MS. FLOWERS: I think here especially in

1 this region we have been accustomed for many years to 2 going into the poll to vote. For communities that have 3 been disenfranchised, it's been like a right of passage 4 to go to the polls that are involved. So I think the 5 ballot has impacted our ability to vote.

6 There again, we're doing some very creative 7 things such as ballot parties where we bring people 8 together, bring your ballot and get that vote out, 9 calling people, having conversation, having forums,
10 because it's a different process.

11 So I think with every change we have to take 12 the extra step to make sure our communities understand 13 the process and are supported in actually being able to 14 vote.

15 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much.

16 MR. FOSTER: I was intrigued about the 17 Vermont and Maine situation. I guess two questions, 18 first, incarcerated prisoners, are they registered to 19 vote where they're incarcerated or at their home or do 20 you know the answer to that question?

21 MS. FLOWERS: Are you talking about Maine
22 and Vermont?

23 MR. FOSTER: Yes.

24 MS. FLOWERS: Yes, they would be registered 25 in their state and they can vote by absentee ballot in

1 both of those states.

2 MR. FOSTER: For local issues, would they 3 vote in where the prison is or --

4 MS. FLOWERS: Not where the prison residence 5 is, but where their original residence was.

6 MR. FOSTER: And you have any information
7 about how well that works in those states? How do
8 people react to it? I think what I've heard all along 9 is that there is a big scare tactic that if 10 incarcerated people are voting, something bad is going 11 to happen. And is there research about the local 12 attitude?

13 MS. FLOWERS: So it's been that way for a 14 long time. And so in many of the other states, you 15 know, states have legislated our way out of people
16 being able to vote, so it's a matter of course. I 17 haven't heard of any big catastrophes because of the 18 voting in Maine and Vermont.

19 MS. HUERTA: In terms of the fines that 20 people are supposed to pay, what are the fines 21 connected to and how big -- what size are the fines?

22 MS. FLOWERS: So those are associated with 23 legal financial obligations, court fines. And many 24 cases for people who are incarcerated, they have to pay 25 the interest on those fines. And so there are people

1 who come out of prison owing thousands -- tens of 2 thousands of dollars is not unusual that people will 3 come out of incarceration facing that reality.

4 And then they're faced with the triple 5 reality of having a felony on their record, having 6 difficulty getting employment, difficulty getting 7 housing and of course difficulty paying those fines.
8 So they may be disenfranchised forever if they're 9 unable to pay those fines. And that exists in many 10 states.

11 MS. HUERTA: Does it mean they cannot vote
12 until they pay all the fines?

13 MS. FLOWERS: That's correct. In Washington
14 state, you have to demonstrate that you have made a 15 good faith effort to begin paying your fines. So 16 there's been a lot of work around that over the last 17 several years. But if you miss two or three payments 18 and you do not have cause, then your voting rights can 19 be revoked here in Washington state.

20 MS. HUERTA: Does this apply to people who 21 are on probation or people on parole like someone who 22 committed a felony?

23 MS. FLOWERS: Yes, it does. In many states, 24 once you're released, you still have to be on probation 25 or parole and have to have satisfied your court fines

1 or your -- the fees.

2 MS. HUERTA: In terms of the community,
3 let's say in the state of Washington, what is the 4 percentage of people that actually vote? Because I 5 know many areas you have your highest vote turnout in 6 the African American community.

7 MS. FLOWERS: I don't have that statistic.

8 MR. MURRAY: 80% turnout. Better than 80%.

9 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much for 10 your testimony. You can address that when you speak so 11 we can keep the thing going.

12 MR. WANG: I was going to suggest that the 13 timekeeper move over so we can see it.

14 MR. BURKHOLDER: Great. I'm watching it but 15 you're doing fine.

16 Mr. Mack Murray is the next on our list.

17 MR. MURRAY: I'm Mack Murray on the staff at 18 the Urban League of Metropolitan Seattle and I 19 supplemented the record, I wanted to give to each of 20 the commissioners a copy of the interest on fines that 21 Ms. Flowers spoke of so that you'd have a copy of that.
22 And then I also supplemented the record and I gave you
23 each a copy of the new voting statute under Chapter 29A
24 of our Revised Code in Washington.

25 Now, the point I want to open up with is

1 this, first things first, and that is this, there's a 2 couple new words in our vocabulary that I want you to 3 take back to the Congress to let the Congress know that 4 there's several things out here and that's called 5 felony voter. A felony voter, most people never think 6 about the felony voter. Most people omit the felony 7 voter.

8 Felony voting is a process that is not 9 regulated by the Congress. Congress has the 10 constitutional power to enforce all voting under the -- 11 in federal elections and Congress has not done any 12 regulation when it comes to felony voters. Felony 13 voters are left to these poll taxes that Ms. Flowers is 14 addressing here.

15 Mr. Flowers spoke about these poll taxes.
16 She spoke about these fines. And any, any fee paid in 17 connection with voting is a poll tax. It's a poll tax.
18 If we go back to the top, we go back to the top and we 19 recognize, and there a couple things, so we're saying 20 the constitution comes in to provide for the democracy 21 and the essence of a democracy is voting. And if 22 anything addresses the voting or limits the voting, 23 then it's a tax on voting.

24 And the taxes that we're facing here are 25 taxes that have a basis -- they originated -- they

1 originated back in the Jim Crow era. It was a tax to 2 limit the voting for the African Americans at that 3 time. And it has gone haywire. And it's gone haywire
4 because the Congress has failed to regulate it.
5 Congress is the proper body to regulate this in federal 6 elections.

7 So let me say this on the record too,
8 because I want it to be known, and that is the state of 9 Washington is in the forefront. The state of 10 Washington has come forward, they've passed some new 11 voting laws. They joined the neighbors. The state of 12 Washington passed a law in 2009. They joined Oregon, 13 they joined Idaho, they joined Montana and they provide 14 for what's called provisional voting.

15 That means that a person could be released 16 from prison, could be released from the Department of 17 Corrections and automatically allowed to vote without 18 paying any fines and that person then could be placed 19 in a position to have these voting rights taken away.

20 So let's talk about a couple things because 21 I'm going to -- I don't want to read this, but I showed 22 it to you, you've read it and you have seen it before, 23 but the Washington statute was a great statute. State 24 of Washington's come out and done some things. Former 25 Governor Gregoire's legislature had done some great

1 things in passing the statute, but this statute doesn't 2 go far enough and it doesn't go far enough because it 3 doesn't address the problem.

4 And the problem is simply this, in King
5 County we have basically -- we have, basically, a 6 million voters. And in King County, we have more than 7 300,000 disenfranchised people. We have over 300,000
8 disenfranchised people. King County election office
9 will report, and their totals change from day-to-day, 10 but they report over 300,000 disenfranchised people.

11 What does that mean for these people? It
12 means that the Washington laws -- the Washington laws
13 simply don't go far enough. Okay.

14 Now, the second thing about the Washington
15 laws is that the Washington laws create what's called a 16 Washington quagmire. The Washington quagmire is simply 17 a circle and that circle, as Ms. Flowers spoke of, is a 18 circle that says this person gets released, they have 19 to pay their fines.

20 But look at the statute I gave you. The 21 statute I gave you talks about -- there's a chapter 29A 22 and that statute says once this person registers to 23 vote, as soon as they register to vote, there are 24 duties imposed upon the -- duties imposed upon the 25 Secretary of State and the county elections office.

1 They have to file reports. They have to check year
2 after year and they check each year and they check
3 twice during the year to make sure that these people 4 have, in fact, paid their fines.

5 And if people haven't paid their fines, they 6 can be removed from the voting rolls. And we have 7 attempted to enroll a number of people -- register a 8 number of people, is a better expression, and these 9 persons said these things, listen, I don't want to 10 register to vote because I don't have a job yet. I 11 don't want to register to vote because I can't make a 12 payment plan. Okay.

13 So this is a barrier and this is one of the 14 barriers that the Congress needs to be informed of.
15 The Congress needs to know there is a barrier with 16 regard to this law.

17 Now, this law that Washington just passed
18 placed Washington in a group with 20 other states. Now 19 these other 20 states that Washington has just joined 20 have a similar law. They're all tied to fines. And 21 any tie, any connection to fines is a poll tax.

22 And the Constitution -- and with respect to 23 the Constitution, the 24th Amendment, to be more 24 specific, says that it shall be unabridged, it shall be 25 unabridged; and for some reason, for some reason, for

1 some reason, if you go back in history, and the reason
2 I've identified is the Jim Crow laws, but I'm sure 3 there's other reasons.

4 But if you go back and take a look, you'll 5 find that these laws allow for people to come in -- 6 allow for people to come in and to take a look. And he 7 cut me off. Go ahead.

8 MR. BURKHOLDER: Finish up.

9 MR. MURRAY: I was going to say, basically, 10 the law is part of -- the thing I would end with is 11 that these laws we do have in Washington are laws that 12 simply don't go far enough and needs to be regulated by 13 the Congress.

14 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. I'm 15 sorry that disrupted your thought, but I just want -- 16 our job, we're not a public agency. You're not going 17 to get in trouble if you go over time. We want to make 18 sure that things get in the record.

19 I want to leave time for the commissioners 20 to ask questions about this.

21 MR. FOSTER: The 300,000, you said 300,000
22 disenfranchised voters.

23 MR. MURRAY: Yes, over 300 disenfranchised
24 voters in King County.

25 MR. FOSTER: I'm interested in how you got

1 to that number. Is that the number of felons or former 2 felons who now reside in King County or is that --

3 MR. MURRAY: That's the number of 4 individuals, according to the King County election 5 office, that's the number of persons who lost their 6 right to vote by court order, by order of the Superior 7 Court have lost their right to vote.

8 MR. FOSTER: Thank you.

9 MR. JOHNSON: You indicated that Congress
10 needs to pass legislation. Are you suggesting that 11 Congress can pass legislation giving felonies the right 12 to vote in states where there are restrictions?

13 MR. MURRAY: Yes, I'm suggesting that the 14 Congress has done nothing to regulate voting in federal 15 elections in any of the states. The Congress has the 16 power to regulate voting in all 50 states.

17 MR. JOHNSON: So you're suggesting Congress 18 can pass legislation that says felons in the state of 19 Washington have the right to vote even though, in this 20 state, we have legislation that said they cannot?

21 MR. MURRAY: Yes. I'm asking that Congress
22 recognizes that finally somebody says, listen, let's 23 recognize here that we have a poll tax here. Let's 24 recognize that the Constitution prohibits this. Let's 25 recognize here that the 24th Amendment to the

1 Constitution allows for these people to come in and
2 vote.

3 Vermont and Maine are the two only states
4 that have followed that constitutional mandate. You 5 have a couple of other states that don't allow it at 6 all. And even worse, there's other states that take 7 away the right to vote permanently.

8 MR. JOHNSON: In the state of Washington in 9 2009, when they enlarged the Constitution saying under 10 certain circumstances giving them the right to vote, 11 you indicated it doesn't go far enough.

12 MR. MURRAY: Yes.

13 MR. JOHNSON: What my question is, is the 14 Urban League or any other organization that you know of 15 pushing legislation now to enlarge, to go further? You 16 said it doesn't go far enough.

17 Is there legislation before the state
18 legislature now that will enlarge the statute that give 19 felons partial rights to vote?

20 MR. MURRAY: Not the right to vote. There
21 was legislation that just failed -- I think it failed 22 in the committee in the legislature. The legislature, 23 just a few months ago, the Urban League and a lot of 24 other nonprofit partners that were part of that that 25 supported that, and it related to the idea that a

1 person could get a card, a clean slate card and start 2 over and that was a way around the fines, but we could 3 come back and address the fines directly.

4 Now, what the Urban League does do, it
5 provides voter services, notwithstanding the quagmire 6 presented by the statute, it distinctly provides the 7 voter services and goes out and does voter 8 registration. So we continually try to help all our 9 citizens, both the felons and non-felons as well.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: I'm getting a signal to 11 keep the thing on schedule here. But Ms. Huerta.

12 MS. HUERTA: My question will be really 13 short. So we have talked about the state legislature.
14 Have you approached any of the Congress people in this 15 area about maybe taking up this issue to the 16 congressional level?

17 MR. MURRAY: No, I haven't done that.

18 MS. HUERTA: I guess the other question is, 19 are we aware of any lawsuits that have been filed on 20 this issue with regard to the fines?

21 MR. MURRAY: No, I'm not aware of any.

22 MS. HUERTA: Thank you.

23 MR. BURKHOLDER: Well, thanks very much.
24 It's great to have that input there. Thank you.

25 MS. HUERTA: Thank you.

1 MR. BURKHOLDER: Mr. Art Wang with the 2 APACE.

3 MR. WANG: Thank you. I'll explain to you
4 in a second here. My name is Art Wang. It's W-A-N-G, 5 for the benefit of the court reporter. But APACE is 6 the Asian Pacific Islanders for Civic Empowerment.
7 We're a C4 organization. We also have a related C3 8 nonprofit foundation and a PAC doing work with 9 candidates and things.

10 But we're a C4 organization that works for 11 social and economic justice by transforming our 12 democracy through the political empowerment of a 13 broad-based API community and by holding ourselves and 14 our leaders ourselves to APACE's values.

15 Let me introduce myself a little bit. I'm 16 on the board of APACE. I'm also a retired judge and 17 also a former state legislature. I've been through 18 nine elections and have won seven of them, lost two.
19 So elections matter and voting rights matter a great 20 deal to me from personal experience.

21 I also represented the 27th district in 22 Tacoma. And it was significant because, for one 23 reason, was that the Chinese were driven out by city
24 leaders back in 1885. So historically, it was an irony 25 that that was an area that I represented in the

1 legislature.

2 Because the previous testimony has been 3 largely about incarcerated voters and felons with 4 felony convictions, I just wanted to note that Senator
5 Jeannie Darneille was the person from the 27th district
6 who was the major proponent and advocate of the 2009 7 law, which I think was remarkable in changing some of 8 those things in Washington state.

9 What I wanted to talk about today though 10 was, basically, voting by mail as an alternative to 11 some of the voter I.D. laws that we've had over the 12 country, some the voter registrations that's done here, 13 especially about written ballots in other languages.

14 So starting with the voting by mail,
15 Washington's experience there, I think, has had many 16 positives, including that the biggest one, in my mind, 17 is that no voter I.D. is required because you have 18 signature verification and you do it that way instead 19 of having to do -- show up at the ballot -- at the 20 polling place with the voting booth with your 21 identification and different things of that sort.

22 It also allows -- voting by mail also allows 23 for explanation and discussion at home, not necessarily 24 at the voting booth; and essentially for limited 25 English speakers, that's a useful function.

1 Voting by mail does have some negatives.
2 You've got a prolonged period of voting from a campaign 3 perspective, the voting -- the election process seems 4 to go on forever, weeks before the election day and 5 ballot chasing afterwards.

6 You've also got -- in many respects that 7 again may be beneficial for Asian Pacific voters 8 because just giving the time and ability to do that,
9 but there are some negatives involved with that. You 10 do have a loss of the social contact of voting at a 11 polling place, as you mentioned, but you can do some 12 things with ballot parties and other things.

13 Voter registration, I should note, is much,
14 much easier now than it was decades ago when I started 15 doing voter registration, and that's much to our 16 credit, I think. The Washington Secretary of State
17 website, My Vote online, you can register in English, 18 Spanish, Chinese and Vietnamese. Online registration 19 requires a driver's license or a state I.D. card. And 20 the state I.D. cards are relatively easy to get in this 21 state, so it's less of an impediment.

22 Registering by mail, you can do the forms in 23 English, Spanish, Chinese, Vietnamese, Cambodian,
24 Korean, Laos and Russian. And mail registration
25 requires a driver's license, a state I.D. card or a

1 Social Security number. So there's another alternative 2 there which makes it easier too and that's desirable.

3 Section 203 of the Voting Rights Act talks 4 about providing written ballots in other languages, but 5 the basic requirements are 5% or 10,000 voting age
6 citizens of a single language minority who have limited 7 English and literacy rates higher than the national 8 average.

9 The effect of that in Washington state, the 10 way it's been interpreted, the way it's been applied in 11 King County, Chinese and Vietnamese are required as an 12 option for written ballots. In Adams, Franklin and 13 Yakima counties, Spanish is. So it's pretty limited in 14 terms of the number of counties and the numbers of 15 languages involved when you think that King County, for 16 example, does not include Spanish, when only three 17 eastern Washington counties require Spanish.

18 In King County, there are -- there were 843
19 signed up for ballots in Vietnamese. That's only 2% of 20 the total Vietnamese population. That's not just the 21 voters but the total Vietnamese population. You have 22 to -- again, it's an option to sign up. There are 23 2,217 who signed up for Chinese, about 3% of the total 24 population.

25 In comparison, Orange County in California,

1 section 203 requires English, Spanish, Chinese, Korean 2 and Vietnamese. 17% of the Vietnamese and 4% of the 3 Chinese signed up. Also compared it to San Francisco
4 County where all ballots are trilingual without a 5 signup, without having to go through the exercise of 6 getting people to sign up for them.

7 The key to the broader registration in 8 Orange County in San Francisco appears -- one of the 9 key things appears to be to build a network of 10 community groups to ensure that materials get out to 11 the community so there's community education going on 12 to do so.

13 Here there's been an Immigrant Rights Task
14 Force that is a voting rights task force that's 15 concerned about the effectiveness of the outreach. And 16 King County put in a proviso for analysis of the voting 17 rights materials for groups not required under section 18 203 to see if it can be broadened and what can happen 19 there with this.

20 One of the things that APACE did in 2012 was 21 a series of outreach efforts. One was to try to 22 identify the voters who preferred to speak and get 23 their information in other languages, but not 24 necessarily correlate with the signup for the written 25 ballots, but to seek people who spoke other languages.

1 And another aspect was to hold ballot
2 parties in other languages to provide information about 3 the elections to people and again one of the -- our C3
4 did that. One of the things that's necessary to do 5 this is to work with messengers who have to have 6 contact with community groups and community groups that 7 have to be trusted to be able to hold ballot parties, 8 but those are the things that can be done. Thank you.

9 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Excuse me for 10 mispronouncing your name.

11 MR. WANG: That's okay. It's not the first
12 time.

13 MR. BURKHOLDER: Any questions from the
14 commissioners?

15 MR. FOSTER: With regard to adding ballots 16 in different languages, what's the process that is 17 used? Does the county auditor have the authority to 18 add ballots of different languages? Can it be 19 petitioned? I heard you give the numbers, but what's 20 the process beyond there?

21 MR. WANG: Two things, on section 203 of the 22 Federal Act, there are certain requirements that apply 23 and so for those things there is the process for 24 signing up. However, there's nothing to prevent county 25 auditors from going beyond that and you can have more

1 languages, you can have a trilingual ballot. So there 2 are various things you can do.

3 MR. FOSTER: The county auditor, to make a
4 decision to add different ballots with different 5 languages.

6 MR. WANG: Yes, there's nothing to prevent
7 that.

8 MR. FOSTER: Do they do it? It doesn't 9 appear to from what you said.

10 MR. WANG: Not that I'm aware of in 11 Washington state.

12 MS. HUERTA: What are the percentages of the 13 Spanish language people in King County?

14 MR. WANG: I don't have that information.

15 MS. HUERTA: It would be interesting to see, 16 to find out.

17 MR. WANG: Yes.

18 MR. BURKHOLDER: We do have somebody from 19 the Washington Secretary of State later. If you're out 20 there, you're warned. No other questions from this 21 panel. I want to thank you very much. Great 22 information both as to your charge with both the ideas 23 of what's wrong, but also what can be done to be 24 corrected. Thank you.

25 I'd like to call the next panel up: Esther

1 Harlow with Disability Rights Oregon, David Lord with 2 Disabilities Rights Washington, Scott Crichton with 3 ACLU of Montana and Rhonda Whiting, The Western Voice.

4 I think we're ready to go. Mrs. Harlow.

5 MS. HARLOW: Thank you, Commissioner.

6 My name is Esther Harlow. I am an advocate at 7 Disability Rights Oregon. We are a federally funded 8 Protection and Advocacy service for people with 9 disabilities in the state of Oregon. We work to ensure 10 independence, integration and access. We are 11 authorized by The Help America Vote Act, HAVA, to 12 ensure full participation in the electoral process for 13 people with disabilities. HAVA requires that people 14 with disabilities have the same opportunity to vote 15 privately and independently, as afforded by the voting 16 systems available to other voters.

17 Nationwide, Oregon has one of the lowest rates 18 of voters not returning a ballot due to an illness or 19 disability: 1 in 8 voters did not return a ballot
20 2012. Yet that represented a 20% increase from 2008.
21 27% of Oregonians have a disability. They face 22 disproportionate barriers in civic engagement and 23 community integration. Yet they are diverse and are 24 represented across every segment of society. Voting 25 procedures and outreach must reflect that diversity,

1 and must be proactive and responsive. Oregon has many 2 successes, which has been a model to other states, but 3 we still do have large barriers to voting for people
4 with disabilities.

5 Our successes are around to four key factors:
6 Minimally restrictive registration procedures; vote by 7 mail; innovative accommodations and technology; an 8 engaged and proactive Secretary of State and Elections
9 officials.

10 Voters can register using alternate forms of 11 ID. Online registration allows voters to use their own 12 assistive technology if they can't fill out a paper 13 form, for instance blind voters using a screen reader 14 on their own computer. Statutorily, registration in 15 Oregon has never been prohibited by guardianship, 16 conservatorship, mental health commitment, or previous 17 incarceration due to felony conviction, which can be 18 the case in other states. And These prohibitions can 19 disproportionately affect people with disabilities, and 20 limit rehabilitation and community integration.

21 Vote by mail, voters in Oregon have two and a 22 half weeks to complete their ballot in the time and 23 place that they choose. This minimizes some of the 24 challenges seen in other states that affect people with 25 disabilities, such as long wait lines, inaccessible

1 polling places, inclement weather and lack of 2 transportation to polling places. The extended period 3 to vote can also help people who have disabilities that 4 affect decision-making and memory.

5 For accommodations, Oregon has pioneered the 6 use of touchscreen tablets or the Secretary of State 7 website to fill out ballots electronically, which are 8 then printed. The portable touchscreen technology 9 allows many physical accommodations, including text 10 magnification, audio, and the use of alternate plug-in 11 controllers such as joy sticks for people who don't 12 have the ability to type on a screen. The website can 13 be used by people who have their own accessible 14 technology at home including a computer and printer.

15 Oregon is also unique in that if voters can't 16 leave their home or access to the Elections office in 17 their county due to a disability, the County will send 18 a Voter Assistance Team to their home to allow them to 19 vote.

20 Oregon's Secretary of State Elections staff
21 have shown a willingness to work towards innovative 22 solutions such as these. They partnered with 23 organizations like the League of Women Voters to 24 produce a nonpartisan Easy Voters Guide, which uses 25 visual icons in accessible language and formatting.

1 They're also continually working to improve access to 2 registration through legislative efforts.

3 Local Elections officials in Multnomah County,
4 which is our most populous county, do targeted outreach
5 and send Voter's Assistance Teams to assisted living 6 facilities prior to every election.

7 Despite these successes, challenges remain.
8 These include spotty National Voter Right Act
9 compliance; lack of awareness about available 10 accommodations; technology barriers; and lack of 11 support or outright hostility or partisanship from 12 family and providers of potential voters.

13 As Emily from Oregon Voice will speak to later, 14 National Voter Registration Act compliance can be 15 erratic in many health and public assistance agencies.
16 For many people with disabilities, frequent interaction 17 with state services can be a full-time job that 18 provides income, health care, medication, and 19 treatment. At a recent meeting, young adult advocates 20 told me that they had primarily been asked to register 21 in school, but not in the course of receiving two years 22 of state-funded mental health services.

23 As the technology has advanced, public 24 awareness of accommodations has not necessarily 25 followed. I recently met with the National Federation

1 of the Blind and only two out of nine members in that 2 meeting knew even about accommodations. One local 3 administrator told me only one person in the county
4 consistently came in the office to use the technology 5 that was available in the office.

6 This information should be integrated in all 7 election get out the vote work, including that of voter 8 engagement nonprofits and all counties should be 9 looking at outreach opportunities.

10 There are often bugs that can come up since the 11 technology is unique to Oregon and operating systems 12 and programs are frequently changing, such as an audio 13 issue identified on my last visit to a local elections 14 office due to the OS used, the changes, it was having 15 problems reading the audio, so we are working on that, 16 but election's officials must still diligently identify 17 and address any issues that can prevent accurate 18 private voting.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: I just want to make sure we 20 get -- the word you used OS.

21 MS. HARLOW: Operating system.

22 MR. FOSTER: The word after that, OS
23 something operating system or --

24 MS. HARLOW: I'm sorry.

25 MR. FOSTER: The new OS used.

1 MS. HARLOW: New operating systems must have 2 any problems with them identified. I'm sorry, I went 3 off script a little bit.

4 MR. BURKHOLDER: I want to make sure that 5 acronyms get transcribed properly.

6 MS. HARLOW: Thank you.

7 And as to the final and perhaps largest 8 barrier: Voting is a civil right. It is an activity 9 of daily living, just like other community activities 10 like going to church, shopping, caring for pets, or 11 raising children. It requires a choice. For voters 12 who live in facilities or institutions, or have family 13 members or caregivers that help them, their staff or 14 care providers can have an undue influence on their 15 choice. I have had guardians tell me they won't help 16 their family member to vote because they don't believe 17 the person can make an informed choice. Registration 18 and voting are not consistently included as goals in 19 state-funded adulthood transition planning or 20 rehabilitation services. Voting is an objective in 21 itself, but the act of voting is a means to 22 independence and community integration. It is an 23 achievable goal, a practice that helps develop decision 24 making and builds self-advocacy skills, a chance to 25 invest in the government that provides you direct

1 services, and an opportunity for empowerment.
2 Recognition of this will take a cultural conversation
3 and shift and will require buy-in from state funded 4 programs for delivery.

5 Thank you for your time.

6 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. Any
7 questions or comments?

8 MR. FOSTER: When you sent a voter 9 assistance team to an individual's house where they 10 live, how many people are on that team?

11 MS. HARLOW: At least two people from 12 different parties.

13 MR. JOHNSON: You mentioned challenges that 14 exist and you used technology barriers. Would you 15 further explain technology barriers?

16 MS. HARLOW: Well, like I said, they're 17 using -- Oregon uses unique technology. We're the 18 first state to use the tablet technology. It's been 19 successful, but as operating systems are updated bugs 20 can emerge that did not exist previously. So I believe 21 the elections official -- administration officials are 22 trying to stay on top of that.

23 MR. BURKHOLDER: Which is bad news if you're 24 from Oregon, unique to Oregon. It's a bad story.

25 MS. HUERTA: So what do you account for the 1 fact, as you mentioned at the beginning, that you still 2 don't have enough people that are voting? And it seems 3 like there's a lot of assistance to help people vote

4 and the technology to make it easier for them to vote.
5 So what do you think accounts for the fact that we 6 still don't have that many voting?

7 MS. HARLOW: I think there's a lack of 8 public awareness. I've spoken with a lot of different 9 advocates and people and disabilities. I tell them 10 about this technology and they don't know that they're 11 there. So they're relying on their family member or 12 friend to help them vote. So I think part of it is not 13 only on the elections administrators but on community 14 groups that are involved in efforts who do not 15 necessarily know about these types of accommodations
16 and they're developing quickly, some of this technology 17 is very new, so that's part of it.

18 MS. HUERTA: Thank you very much.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: Mr. Lord with Disability
20 Rights of Washington.

21 MR. LORD: This is I'm David Lord. I work
22 for Disability Rights Washington and we are an 23 organization that was created by the same federal law
24 that you just heard about from Esther with Oregon.
25 There is a law that authorizes our activities and

1 provides funding for our activities as part of the 2 disability rights network. We're a nonprofit and we're 3 the designated protection advocacy for Washington
4 state.

5 For the last ten years we have been working 6 to improve accessibility of voting in Washington state,
7 as has Esther, as part of -- in the wake of The Help 8 America Vote Act and what happened in Florida back in 9 2000, we've all been involved in doing what we could to 10 make elections more accessible for people with 11 disabilities.

12 As you may know, The Help America Vote Act
13 requires that every polling place have an accessible 14 voting unit and that's terrific for people where 15 there's no polling places. In Washington state, 16 there's typically one polling place per county. As a 17 result of that, if somebody wants to use that 18 accessible voting unit, they're going to have to travel 19 to the county seat or at least to a polling place where 20 there's one of the wandering -- I think in King County 21 we have generally three voting centers where people can 22 vote using the accessible voting technology.

23 So in some sense, Washington is more
24 accessible, as is Oregon, for people with disabilities 25 for voting because you don't have to ask for an

1 absenteeism ballot to vote. You automatically get this 2 ballot in the mail. That's terrific.

3 But if you're a person that can't read or 4 mark a printed ballot because of your disability, 5 you're at a disadvantage. You won't be able to use one 6 of those accessible voting units like you would in 7 other states as conveniently, won't be in the polling 8 place just down the street, in the school down the 9 street. Instead, it will be located in that one 10 location.

11 So that's a big difference and that's a 12 challenge in both of our states for the use of the 13 accessible voting units. And as result in Washington 14 state, we've had very low participation in those 15 accessible voting units. Most people don't use them, 16 as Esther said, because people don't know about them 17 despite -- we've done a fair amount of outreach. And 18 in counties, it varies how much outreach is done but 19 also because there's a transportation barrier that's 20 difficult to overcome. There are some means of 21 mitigating that. And you will hear testimony later on 22 online ballots, which is something they do in Kittitas 23 county, and I'll let them describe that for you, but 24 that is something we recommend more use of that as a 25 mechanism for allowing people to vote independently

1 using their own computer technology at their own home.
2 So with that, I submitted some written testimony and 3 I'm obviously not reading it because Esther has laid 4 out a great foundation for what we do.

5 But I want to make a few points about 6 Washington state that I think are some good things and 7 some things also that need to be addressed. The first 8 thing that I think that our Secretary of State, sounds
9 like this is true in Oregon as well, has recognized a 10 need for improving the accessibility of voting for 11 people with disabilities.

12 The Secretary of State both past one and the 13 current one have recognized the need to have voters 14 with disabilities involved in some of the 15 decision-making around how the elections are 16 administered. And there are several places where I 17 would recommend that this happen elsewhere. One of 18 them is that there is a state advisory committee on 19 disability access that the Secretary of State convened.
20 And then in addition to that, in 2005, with the help of 21 the disability -- well, with the variety of different 22 people with disability advocacy community supported, 23 legislation was passed which required every county to 24 have an advisory committee made up of people with 25 disabilities with expertise in election access to

1 assist in making their election more accessible and to 2 provide a plan for that.

3 Now, that has been -- the good news is that 4 in the counties where that's really been taken to heart 5 there has been some substantial increases in the 6 accessibility of their elections, things like when you
7 go into the Thurston county, you'll find that the place
8 is completely wheelchair accessible, there's all kinds 9 of welcoming messages that are sent to you on the way 10 about where -- there's a lot of good signage. So it's 11 a good environment for people who go to vote or to 12 register to vote. And it's a good accessible 13 environment.

14 In other counties it's not so good. So 15 we've had trouble with both just -- even with just 16 basic physical access. Disability Rights of Washington
17 has gone around and done surveys every two years. As a 18 result of that, we found many problems with voting 19 different places. And again, the good news is that the 20 Secretary of State's office has responded to our 21 surveys by providing some funding for counties to 22 improve their accessibility. And I think that's been a 23 really good thing.

24 On the other hand, we still have some 25 counties that are lacking in that regard. And I'm 1 talking now about the physical accessibility of the 2 place where the voting takes place. And then also the 3 announcement that it's an early voting period when you 4 can vote and other aspects of making the voting as 5 accessible as possible.

6 So we have -- I guess I want to point out 7 some of the recommendations that we would have based on 8 what we have seen as we've gone around in the minute 9 and a half that I have remaining.

10 Fortunately, I have written testimony which 11 I've submitted, so you'll be able to take a look at 12 that.

13 First of all, I guess importantly, I would 14 recommend that website accessibility be a priority both 15 for counties and for the Secretary of State. That is a 16 place where we all get information. Those websites 17 should be accessible to all people, including all 18 people with disabilities.

19 I'd also -- I think that we need to maintain 20 access to the accessible voting where there's been some 21 lagging of that as a result of the fact that there is 22 low usage, I think that there's still a lot of 23 people -- excuse me -- there's still some people that 24 use those accessible voting units and the law requires 25 that they be available and they should be available.

1 I think there's also, as I said, online
2 ballots, I think are a helpful thing and you'll hear 3 more about that later.

4 And then there are also, just quickly, I 5 wanted to -- one of the things that we noted in 6 going -- in Washington, we have done some work where we 7 actually look on-site to see what kinds of access -- 8 excuse me -- what kind of support is being provided for 9 people with disabilities in voting by in-home people.

10 And what we found is that there is a real 11 lack of information about voting and even a lack of 12 information about the right of a person with a 13 disability to vote, even a person with a guardianship 14 to vote; and that's very distressing and I'll also 15 provide you with more information about that. Thank 16 you.

17 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. Any 18 questions from the commission? No. Okay. Well, thank 19 you very much.

20 That's fascinating. This is not my issue
21 area. I'm learning so much today already. It's great.
22 So Mr. Crichton with ACLU of Montana.

23 MR. CRICHTON: Mr. Chairman, Members of the 24 commission, my name is Scott Crichton. Since 1988, 25 August, I've been privileged to serve as the executive

1 director of the American Civil Liberties Union in 2 Montana. We work on a variety of issues relating to 3 our mission of defending the constitution and bill of 4 rights. One of our top priorities is racial justice
5 and core to that is voting rights.

6 I have submitted to you electronically a 7 historical treatise written by Laughlin McDonald of the 8 National ACLU's voting rights project and I encourage 9 you to read it. People who don't have that, I hope 10 Alan will be able to put it on the web page or you can 11 find it on our web page at ALCUMontana.org, but it
12 really goes into the voting rights in Montana and I
13 it's fascinating history. And I'm fortunate to be a 14 participant for a good part of that of that.

15 Dating back to 1983, the first real 16 challenge in the state came about in Big Horn County in 17 Windy Boys versus Big Horn County. It was clear that 18 41% of the population was Native American and yet there 19 was no political power because of at-large voting 20 districts. And a challenge was brought on behalf of 21 members of the northern Cheyenne and Crow tribes or the 22 relatives that brought about, three years later, a 23 decision from the court that ruled in their favor and 24 created single member districts. And for the first 25 time Native Americans won at the polls. For the first

1 time locally, they had a reason to participate in the 2 political process outside of tribal politics. It was a
3 huge first step.

4 That was followed in 1989 in a case in 5 Blaine County, Fort Belknap, this case was actually 6 1999, it was brought by the Department of Justice. And 7 so the federal government engaged in a similar county
8 challenge, again, 45% of the population was Native 9 American and they created single member districts and 10 Delores Plumage was the first woman to be elected as a 11 county commissioner in Blaine County.

12 From that other challenges in Rosebud
13 County, which borders northern Cheyenne territory,
14 Roosevelt County where Fort Peck is up in the northeast 15 corner of the state where the Assiniboine and Sioux are 16 situated, those cases -- challenges got settled because 17 of the precedent of the other litigation.

18 There's more to say about that, but in the 19 time that we have, let me jump forward to the political 20 process because not everything gets resolved in courts, 21 as we know.

22 Montana has a history of racism that's clear 23 and demonstrative. And going back to the 1965, the 24 federal court actually had to come in and overturn a 25 redistricting plan that the legislature had come up

1 with.

2 In 1972, Montana created a new state
3 constitution. And in that constitution they had the 4 wisdom to create an independent redistricting
5 commission and that commission is made up of two 6 members appointed by the majority, minority leaders of 7 both the house and senate. Those four people are 8 supposed to pick a fifth person, if they can agree on 9 one, to be the chair of the commission. I've watched 10 them deliberate through three censuses now.

11 And in some instances, they've not been able 12 to arrive at a chairman, so in the 2000 census, they 13 appointed Janine Windy Boy as the chair. So our 14 plaintiff from the Crow case was now the chair of the 15 redistricting commission.

16 But I stepped past the 1980 census and the 17 '83 plan where it was clear that Native Americans were 18 a significant portion of the population, but the way
19 the districts were drawn, it diluted their voting power 20 so that there was virtually no reason for Indians to 21 participate in state politics.

22 That plan, the record is clear, the 23 commissioners were civil in public, they were 24 outrageous in private and gratefully the process has 25 now proceeded to the point where the last two

1 redistricting commissions, actually, it was clear that 2 they did not want to mess with the Voting Rights Act 3 and the proportional representation that had been 4 established through challenges to previous 5 redistricting commissions.

6 Let just say, it's not all legislative, it's 7 not all judicial. We -- we do have -- we just won a 8 voting rights challenge in Wolf Point, which is again
9 up in Fort Peck country, and that was on a school board
10 election. The disproportionate representation there 11 was outrageous, something like 143 people per white 12 representative on the school board and 849 per Indian 13 represented on the school board. We won the case just 14 recently. It's going to be finally settled in federal 15 court in the next couple of weeks.

16 We're hoping that we can build on that and 17 maybe in Q and A, I can talk about that a little bit 18 more. I'd also like to say that there is, in every 19 legislature in the last several sessions that I've 20 lobbied, we have seen efforts to limit voting 21 participation. And we have fought those at every turn 22 with coalitions in most parts. Sometimes we stand 23 alone. There's clearly intent to restrict who can 24 participate.

25 And it's not just a racially motivated.

1 It's also party motivated and the restrictions that 2 have been named on third-party candidates are a real 3 issue, and those are things that we're challenging.

4 And with that, I'll just say that it's an 5 honor to be here and I appreciate you all taking the 6 time and energy that you're taking to examine the 7 issues and bring forth great recommendations.

8 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. First 9 report from Montana tonight.

10 Any questions?

11 MR. FOSTER: With regard to your 12 redistricting commission, as I understand it, the last 13 two times the supreme court has appointed the chair?

14 MR. CRICHTON: Yes. That's the fallback, if 15 the four commissioners can't arrive at a decision on 16 their own.

17 MR. FOSTER: When that happened, when they 18 concluded, was the vote three to two or was it five to 19 nothing?

20 MR. CRICHTON: When Janine Pease was 21 appointed, it became immediately divisive and the 22 opponents to creating statewide fair representation 23 were hostile, I think, because she was a woman and 24 because she was an Indian. And they said, no, it's 25 because you're a democrat. So it was three/two across

1 the board on almost all of those votes. There was very 2 little consensus.

3 I will say that that commission -- I omitted
4 saying anything about the Old Person case which was a 5 challenge that we brought to statewide redistricting 6 from 1990 redistricting and that case was before the 7 commission that Janine was chairing and the case has 8 not yet been decided by the courts, but the attorney 9 general, who is now the chief justice, recommended that 10 they create the districts that needed to be created, 11 putting together two House districts so there would 12 actually be Senate representation for Native American 13 Indians.

14 And based on the strength of our case, the 15 Attorney General said I recommend that you adopt these 16 plans as proposed and are being litigated. And it was 17 the first thing that they did with that redistricting
18 commission. And the result from that was then there 19 were ten Native Americans out of 150 in the state 20 legislature, which is very close to what is 21 proportional to the population.

22 The most recent commission, they appointed a 23 former justice of the Supreme Court, Jim Renier
24 (phonetic) and I think his experience as a justice 25 allowed him to navigate the waters more judicially and

1 a lot of votes did not come down on partisan lines.

2 MR. BURKHOLDER: Any others questions.

3 MS. HUERTA: I think the redistricting issue
4 is still alive and well in many areas. We see that a 5 lot where we have Latino populations and in the rural 6 area in California, there are many areas taking on that 7 fight. So thank you very much for being there.

8 MR. CRICHTON: Thank you. If I might just 9 make one additional comment as it relates to the voting
10 rights and school districts. Just as there was no
11 incentive for Native Americans to participate in state 12 elections when they never thought they had a chance for 13 winning, the same holds true in school districts. And 14 we're hoping this victory in Wolf Point will be a 15 stepping stone for us in reaching out to other schools 16 that are recipients of Judge O'Malley money because 17 that money is supposed to follow Native Americans 18 students to the school districts and it's supposed to 19 include engaged parent committees that help advise 20 where that money is going to be spent and how.

21 And unfortunately, the plan doesn't meet the 22 reality. We're hoping we can do some organizing and 23 some outreach and try to help people understand what 24 their rights and responsibilities are and help them 25 becoming empowered in the process and hopefully that

1 will get them engaged in local elections and school
2 politics on a different level than they've had reason 3 to believe they should be empowered so far.

4 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much.

5 MS. HUERTA: So that's one of the main 6 issues that my organization is focusing on, is 7 engagement, parent engagement.

8 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Next is Rhonda
9 Whiting with the Western Native Voice.

10 MS. WHITING: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.
11 First of all, I appreciate Scott's information. We 12 talked about he was going to go through the cases and 13 I'm going to tell you why I'm here. I'm a member of 14 Confederated Salish and Kootenai tribes and I'm 15 chairman of the Western Native Voice which is a 16 nonprofit Native American voting engagement project.
17 It has five members. One of our original members was 18 Janine Wind Boy, Gale Small, myself, Jen Cole and I'm 19 trying to think the last one, Lisa Evers was the last 20 one. It was all women on the committee. We have all 21 been politically involved.

22 I'm going to walk you through being a Native
23 American or Indian, I'm going to call, most of us don't 24 really care whether we're called Indian or Native 25 American, but I'm going to walk you through what I've 1 seen and where we've come and hopefully what we can do.

2 In the 1960's, most tribes in Montana were 3 thrilled with the Kennedy's. If you went into a house, 4 you saw crucifix and usually a picture of John Kennedy
5 because Indians originally were -- different churches
6 were given different tribes so they could civilize 7 them. And so I always thought that all Indians were 8 probably Indian religion, but they also were Catholics, 9 it turn out that wasn't true. They divided the United 10 States out that way which is an interesting 11 perspective. Tribes did not become citizens of the 12 United States until 1924.

13 My family are kind of political passionate 14 about politics and about being involved in the 15 political process. So I was real lucky in some ways to 16 come from a family like that. In fact, to the point 17 where in the 1960's in Montana Arnold Olsen was running 18 for Congress. I had my little sister out, who was 19 eight, doing leafletting and things like that which was 20 a little nuts at times, but we're a family who was 21 always involved.

22 My uncle, Thomas McDonald, ran against Mike 23 Mansfield in 1972 and I should have brought one of 24 those posters, they're interesting. So we truly wanted 25 to participate.

1 My mom was good at -- I'm going to have to 2 go really fast -- my mom was good at protesting 3 different things that happened with the Bureau of 4 Indian Affairs, the health service and we were always 5 participating in that.

6 So the way I see that things came about for 7 me in particular, I was on the -- on the executive 8 board for the democratic party. And tribes were kind 9 of noticed but not a lot, and I remember Lloyd Benson
10 who was running for vice-president came to Great Falls 11 and I was telling people, well, is there going to be 12 Indian participation? He said, well, yeah, you can 13 have one person on the stage. And on the stage was 14 about 50 people and there was a flag and that was 15 wrapped up and we actually have seven reservations in 16 Montana. And then that was a start.

17 In 1988, during the Jackson campaign,
18 Montana's goal was to put red in the Rainbow, and that 19 was a real major step for tribes in Montana. People 20 there had not participated, you had to drag them bodily 21 a lot of times to the polls, to polling and give them a 22 reason to vote, they didn't see any reason to do that.
23 They really, truly could not connect the dots and see 24 how things would impact them.

25 When they went back to D.C. many times, it

1 was a big honor to be able to go in and see the 2 congressional people if you got by the desk. And so,
3 you know, a lot of people had not participated. This 4 was new to them.

5 With the Jackson campaign, I know there was 6 a lady at Flat Head who was in her 90's, it was her 7 first time she voted. A 9-year-old girl came up to me 8 and gave me 12 cents for the Jackson campaign. I was 9 stopped in the airport in Minneapolis with a young man, 10 not Indian, that came to an event that we had at Arlee 11 Powwow Grounds, and that was a place where there was 12 400 people. We ended up with 2,000 people there. And 13 at the Arlee school, the motto was dress, dressy for 14 Jessie. A college student who was at Notre Dame 15 stopped and he came down in a bus to attend that. So 16 that was a stepping stone, as far as I can see it.

17 From that point, a lot of tribes throughout 18 the United States decided it was time that we did get 19 involved. One of the real things that came up in 20 Montana was Pat Williams and Pat Williams was a true 21 friend to tribal people. Marlin Lay (phonetic) was 22 running against him and he was truly not -- he said 23 things that were outrageous, very racist.

24 So the tribes got together and put together
25 the first Montana voter education project and put money

1 into our tribal community colleges. Pat Williams was 2 the one that had those colleges funded. We have now 3 seven in Montana and have done a tremendous job and is 4 a tremendous tool to do voter registration and voter
5 process.

6 In that election in 1992 in some districts
7 there was a 98% turnout. Interestingly enough, it was 8 always a little odd some of the things that went on.
9 For instance, Janine Windy Boy tells the story about 10 tribal people that were in a sweat where they were 11 praying and it was getting time for the polls to close.
12 Her and her aunt, who ended up being a legislature, 13 bodily drug some of the guys out there and said you 14 guys go vote. And the car windows were all steamed up 15 but they did vote.

16 And Pat Williams went in and talked to the 17 president and he had mentioned to him he had been in 18 Billings in '92 and he saw a lot of signs that said
19 don't forget the Indian vote. And Pat explained to him 20 about the 98% turnout in some of those districts. And 21 the president didn't forget that. He went on to make 22 sure his goal was to get people in different positions 23 federally, which he did across the board.

24 And in 1996, I was lucky enough to be the 25 first Indian at the Democratic National Committee. We

1 ended up with 500 and some tribal leaders at the White
2 House for a briefing. And we also put together -- I'm 3 going to pass this around -- this is called the three 4 little girls in their traditional dress and its three 5 good reasons to vote. And it said the president's 6 judgment of history will be that the president of the 7 United States and leaders of sovereign Indian nations 8 met together and lifted our great nation to a new and 9 better place, President Bill Clinton. And these little 10 girls were able to go to the briefing and give those to 11 the first lady.

12 And I'm over. Okay. But what I'd like to 13 say is that with the Schweitzer administration moving 14 on, when Governor Schweitzer got into the governorship, 15 he appointed more Indians -- 240 Indians were appointed 16 to different boards and committees. That was huge to 17 where we had never participated. He appointed three 18 American Native Americans to be in his cabinet. He had 19 a group called GAIN which was the Governors American 20 Indian Nation, they came up with over 240 agreements 21 between the tribes.

22 And my take is that once the doors are open, 23 whether it's with a president or a governor, those 24 doors don't close. And so things like what Scott 25 talked about with the voter suppression things in hand,

1 we don't -- we know that there are more tribal people 2 involved and we're doing everything that we can to make 3 sure that that doesn't happen and I know we're doing it 4 with the Native Voice Project and that's why we had that 5 going for the first time, not just during the election 6 year, but also throughout and the mentoring of the 7 people to go into leadership positions. And I'm done.

8 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much for
9 your testimony.

10 Any questions from the commission.

11 MR. JOHNSON: Did I understand you to say
12 there are no restrictions as it relates to Native
13 Americans registering to vote or actually voting?

14 MS. WHITING: There's no restrictions, no.
15 It's -- well, one restriction, and what happened in 16 this last election was that we don't have satellite 17 voting. And that's what we wanted to get. And there's 18 a case in Montana where they're looking at that right 19 now. In Browning --

20 MR. BURKHOLDER: Can you define satellite
21 voting?

22 MS. WHITING: Where it's not in a county 23 seat, that they're actually on the reservation. And 24 there was a point in the last election where they 25 didn't have any ballots for four hours in Browning,

1 Montana. And the reality was why so many people wanted
2 to vote was that for the first time in a statewide
3 election, I think across the United States, Denise Juno
4 was Blackfeet and from North Dakota, three affiliated 5 tribes was running for the second time for the 6 superintendent of schools and so that race was really,
7 really tight. We think that because it was less than a 8 thousand votes, a little more, was because of those 9 votes were held up. And they wanted to do a recount.
10 It was very expensive and it took a long time for that 11 election to become official.

12 MR. BURKHOLDER: Would you like to do a 13 followup, Mr. Johnson?

14 MR. JOHNSON: That's fine.

15 MR. FOSTER: I'd like to ask about that 16 satellite voting that you just said. Are you saying 17 that in Montana you have to go to the county seat to 18 vote?

19 MS. WHITING: Yeah.

20 MR. CRICHTON: The case is called Wandering
21 Medicine versus McCullough, McCullough is the Secretary
22 of State. Federal Judge Donald Lloyd just recently
23 ruled that the case needs to go forward. The ACLU 24 filed an amicus brief that's being litigated by the 25 parties on behalf of Native people on three different

1 reservations, some of whom had to travel over 100 miles
2 to get to the county seat. And so there's a challenge 3 in federal court to say, why doesn't the Secretary of 4 State create satellite voting opportunities for people 5 on the reservations that don't have the burden of 6 having to travel that distance.

7 MR. JOHNSON: Are there any restrictions on 8 the Secretary of State that prevents the Secretary of 9 State from creating satellite voting?

10 MR. CRICHTON: The Secretary of State
11 believes there are and the federal judge says there is 12 not.

13 MS. WHITING: One of the problems is that 14 she says she can't control it, it costs money and she 15 can't control the budgets. But we were also part of 16 that case, and we believe that with a directive we're 17 going to encourage her to settle that case beforehand 18 because it is important.

19 When I worked in the Harlem school, I used
20 to teach, there was no voting place on the reservation
21 whatsoever and the school district had 90% Indian kids
22 and no Indian teachers, no Indians on the school board.
23 And I did the first Native American studies program for 24 that district. And it was a tough job.

25 MR. BURKHOLDER: A question.

1 MS. HUERTA: Yes. Do you have voting by 2 mail? Can they vote by mail?

3 MS. WHITING: Yes, we do. That's new.
4 Voting has been, you know, hard to -- and some of the 5 people even getting to their mailboxes and stuff, 6 they're not always registered. We don't -- it's very, 7 very rural areas.

8 MR. BURKHOLDER: Just in the interest of 9 time, there's a lot of interesting stories but we have 10 to move on.

11 What we have now is time for some public
12 testimony before we take a break and I have four people 13 signed up for public testimony. If you would just come 14 up and join us at the front table. Thank you very much 15 to the panel here.

16 And so Cindy Van Winkle with the Council of 17 the Blind, Delores Gilmore with Kittitas County, 18 Washington, Marjorie Easley with the League of Women
19 Voters of Oregon and Mary Carpenter -- Mary Carpenter 20 with the National Federation of the Blind, if you would 21 join us at the front table.

22 We'll start with Ms. Van Winkel being the 23 first.

24 MS. VAN WINKLE: Thank you very much.
25 Should I bring this closer? Hello, my name is Cindy

1 Van Winkel, two words, van, space, Winkle. And I am
2 president of the Washington Council of the Blind, a
3 statewide organization. We have approximately 450
4 members in the state of Washington serving 14 counties
5 and 15 affiliated chapters in the state. I am also 6 employed in Kittitas School District as a para 7 educator. I teach blind students, I teach braille and 8 other skills related to blindness.

9 I have the distinct pleasure of serving on 10 the Voting Access Advisory committee for Kittitas 11 county and have been on that committee since its 12 inception.

13 I wanted to share the perspective of a 14 disabled voter who is blind and cannot use the 15 traditional means of voting. In 1980, I was 18 years 16 old and very excited to be able to vote in my first 17 election and it was the presidential one. When I went 18 to the voting polls, the polling station, I was 19 accompanied by two polling staff people and taken back
20 to the booth where there was a punch card and I used a 21 little stylus and somebody had to read to me what I was 22 going to vote on. They had to -- I had to make sure 23 that where I was going to press the stylus through was 24 the right spot on my ballot.

25 And when I was done, I really couldn't be

1 sure, one, that I voted the way I wanted to and, two,
2 that my vote was actually given to the appropriate
3 place. Many times I did it that way and then in time I 4 was able to use vote by mail or absentee ballot with 5 the assistance of a family member in my home. Again, 6 although it was in the privacy of my home and typically 7 was with a family member assisting me by reading to me, 8 I still could not verify my voting, my ballot, make 9 corrections if I needed to, and so on. So none of 10 these were private or independently verifiable.

11 Then came The Help America Vote Act and it 12 required the assisted -- excuse me -- assistive voting 13 units, accessible voting units, excuse me. And with 14 the AVU in 2006, I was able to go down to our county 15 seat and vote independently for the first time. It was 16 a remarkable experience for me, to be able to listen to 17 all of the selections and make the choice that I wanted
18 to and know that nobody else knew what I was doing, 19 even though most of the time it really didn't matter, 20 but you don't realize how much it matters until you're 21 in that position. It was pretty incredible. I'm 22 sorry. It was pretty incredible.

23 I didn't realize how much time I had. Can I 24 finish another thought really quick?

25 MR. BURKHOLDER: Please finish up. This is

1 shorter time. I didn't know that. Okay.

2 MS. VAN WINKLE: The AVU has some barriers
3 in that they are technology that people aren't 4 necessarily familiar with. And so now in Kittitas 5 county, we have online ballots which also include an 6 online voter guide and it is fully accessible. And 7 last year we were able to have several blind people in 8 my home using technology off of the computer to be able 9 to vote independently and privately and verifying our 10 votes which was pretty incredible for us to be able to 11 do that.

12 And I know Delores is going to share more 13 about how it works. It has some flaws in it in that we 14 still have to print out our ballot and I can't see to 15 verify that the print has come out and we still have to 16 sign the envelope to send it back, but overall it's 17 been a great thing.

18 And listening to Oregon makes me excited to 19 know there's hope on the horizon where we might be able 20 to use their technology and our technology to make it 21 really work.

22 I think the key is that technology is in the 23 future and I think we can do whatever we can to have 24 the powers that be embrace it.

25 Thank you very much.

1 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much.

2 Any questions from the commission? Okay.

3 So Ms. Gilmore.

4 MS. GILMORE: My name is Delores Gilmore.

5 I've been Kittitas Elections manager for almost 20 6 years. Kittitas county became a vote by mail county in 7 2005. In 2009, we applied for a federal grant to 8 provide accessible online voter guide for the candidate 9 information for voters with disabilities. With the 10 Move Act in 2010 that required counties to provide 11 ballots to military and overseas voters, we combined 12 those two technologies into our current online ballot 13 guide which provides a specific ballot for any voter 14 that's registered to vote in our county and also 15 provides candidate information, their statement, photo 16 and a video if they wish to provide that.

17 This software modification has data uploaded
18 to it. So it's not that complicated for programming
19 purposes. It doesn't -- it's not like you're redoing 20 it from scratch so it doesn't take that much resources 21 from county staff. We currently have 1,100 voters that 22 vote regularly using the online ballot. And the 23 Kittitas voter's accessibility community and our 24 committee was very, very great at helping us pilot test
25 that.

1 We -- I think the end result is real good.
2 We know that it's, you know, nothing's perfect and so 3 we'll continue to improve that and look to see where we 4 can provide the ballot accessible to anyone, voters
5 military overseas or anyone that can't make it to a 6 polling location because we have the technology to do
7 that.

8 And I think working with our community
9 together, they -- it makes us able to provide the best 10 voting solutions and options for people.

11 MR. BURKHOLDER: Great. Any questions? No.
12 My one comment is that I'm really interested in how 13 that gets universalized in the sense that anyone can 14 use it for voting. So I think it really would be a 15 step forward in terms of getting greater participation 16 if you had the ability to go online and get your 17 information.

18 MS. GILMORE: Currently there's more than 19 one software. We have one through Democracy Live. And 20 there's other that they're doing it in other counties 21 and states right now. So it is available.

22 MR. BURKHOLDER: Especially in Oregon, we 23 get a voter packet that's this thick. So it would be 24 great to save the trees.

25 So Marge Easley.

1 MS. EASLEY: Yes, I'm Marge Easley. I'm
2 past president of the Women of League Voters of Oregon.
3 The League as you know believes that assistive right to 4 vote is a core tenant. I'm hear to talk about an issue 5 that has been previously talked about, and I wanted to 6 echo the testimony of Mary Flowers in Seattle and the 7 NAACP person that was here talking about the voting 8 rights issue that impacts nearly six million citizens 9 across the country.

10 And that I'm referring to ex-felons who live 11 in states that exclude them from voting, in some cases 12 for the rest of their lives. This denial of a basic 13 democratic right makes no sense if we accept the idea 14 that those who have paid their debt to society should 15 be encouraged to become fully engaged citizens.

16 I'd like to briefly explain my own connection
17 to this issue. This past year I helped to teach a 18 series of classes on civic engagement to a group of 19 women inmates at Coffee Creek Correctional Facility in 20 Wilsonville, Oregon. These women all had less than two 21 years to complete on their sentences and were working 22 to gain the skills necessary to enter the work force 23 and integrate into the community upon their release.
24 They learned that, thankfully, Oregon is one of 14 25 states that restores the right to vote immediately upon

1 release from prison. However, they were shocked to 2 find out that 24 states disenfranchise those on parole
3 and/or probation, while 11 others permanently
4 disenfranchise some or all ex-felons.

5 These women were my inspiration to do research
6 and to get involved in this issue. They were excited 7 to exercise their right to vote, they were excited to 8 be a part of the community, and thus I have organized a 9 caucus and submitted a resolution to present at the 10 League of Women Voters National Convention in Dallas in 11 June on this issue.

12 Now, while states hold the power to mandate 13 state voting laws, it follows that the federal 14 government should be empowered to determine who can be 15 vote in federal elections. This was brought up 16 previously. The Democracy Restoration Act, originally 17 introduced in the U.S. Senate in 2010, was again 18 introduced on April 10th of this year. This 19 legislation would not only restore voting rights in 20 federal elections to those released from prison and 21 living in the community, it would ensure the 22 dissemination of clear, accurate information about 23 these rights. It is my hope that if rights are granted 24 in federal elections that more state will begin to move 25 in the right direction.

1 So the League urges this Commission to provide 2 as much support as possible to restore voting rights to 3 ex-felons upon release from prison. And we believe 4 that through litigation, public pressure and 5 legislative leadership that maybe we can make progress 6 on this issue.

7 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you.

8 MR. JOHNSON: One question, when a person is 9 released from the institution in Oregon, is it an 10 automatic restoration of rights or does that person 11 have to go to court to obtain the voting rights.

12 MS. EASLEY: It is automatic and parole and 13 probation are not involved in that. This is automatic 14 upon release.

15 MR. FOSTER: How about fines?

16 MS. EASLEY: Fines are not part of that 17 either.

18 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much for 19 your work.

20 Marcie Carpenter.

21 MS. CARPENTER: Thank you and thank you to 22 those of you who are here today to listen to the panels
23 and to our testimony. My experiences as a blind 24 citizen mirror those of Ms. Van Winkle's, so I won't 25 repeat that issue.

1 I want to speak quickly to two specific 2 issues here in King County. And those are serious 3 barriers for blind people participating in elections.
4 We have, as you know, mail-in ballots which are a very 5 good thing in many ways. So everyone gets their ballot
6 about three weeks before the election. Sighted people 7 have that period of time to fill out and cast an 8 independent and secret ballot.

9 For a blind person, in King County to do 10 that, there is one accessible voting machine in the 11 entire county. That machine is at the county elections
12 headquarters in a suburb of Seattle in Renton. If you 13 live in this neighborhood and want to go out and vote 14 at that location, you would have to go during the 15 daytime, business hours, a problem if you work, and the 16 bus trip would take about an hour and a half each way.

17 We have a high level of awareness of our 18 voting options in our organization. And, in fact, last 19 week at the special election here we paid for some 20 blind people to go to Union Station, which was the only 21 place on election day you could cast a ballot after 22 working hours. And we had some people who work late.

23 So the other issue has to do with 24 information, and I was dismayed in the last couple of 25 weeks at the communications I had with our county

1 elections office. One of my members called me and 2 said, I called the elections office to ask about my 3 options for voting, they told me I could vote online, 4 but that I would have to have two witnesses, presumably 5 sighted people, testify to the accuracy of my vote and 6 I'll have to make sure that one of them showed me the 7 right place to sign because if my signature wasn't on 8 the exact right place on the line, it could be 9 disputed.

10 I have been called and spoke with the 11 director of elections for King County. She provided me 12 initially with misinformation. She told me that the 13 King Street station polling place would be available on 14 a Saturday. I said, really? I didn't have that 15 information. And then I got an e-mail later from one 16 of her staff people stating, of course, it wasn't open 17 on a Saturday.

18 I was then told -- I asked her about the 19 online voting and signing issue. She said, no, you 20 don't have to have two witnesses but they have to have 21 someone to make sure they can sign on the line. This 22 is a deplorable and unacceptable situation in King
23 County, and we believe that accessible voting machines, 24 at least one, needs to be provided in the library or 25 some public place that is open after business hours so

1 that blind people can cast ballots before election day 2 just like everyone else, and we are contemplating what 3 other actions to take.

4 I appreciate the time.

5 MR. BURKHOLDER: I very much appreciate your 6 testimony, as well. Thank you.

7 Any questions from the members of the 8 commission? Okay. Thank you, panel.

9 We actually have one more public person who 10 came in, Allison Eisinger who is with the Seattle 11 Coalition on Homelessness.

12 MS. EISINGER: Thank you very much. I am 13 very grateful for the opportunity to share some of the 14 details about barriers to registering in voting for 15 people who are homeless. They are in some cases very 16 much similar to or identical to the concerns that 17 people with disabilities experience in terms of getting 18 misinformation and access to accessible voting units.

19 I want to just start by giving you a little 20 bit of context. I'm the director of the Seattle/King 21 County Coalition on Homelessness. We conduct the one 22 night count in our community each January. This past 23 January in three hours from 2:00 to 5:00 a.m., we 24 counted 3,123 people outside overnight. We expect that 25 there will be between 9,500 and 10,000 in our total

1 count in shelters and transitional housing. For most 2 of those people, not only do they have the challenges 3 of frequently not having government valid issued I.D.
4 or having them stolen from them, they don't have 5 mailing addresses.

6 Even here in Seattle where we have one
7 organization, Income Housing Alliance, which provides 8 an extraordinary mailing service for 4,000 people a 9 month, there are limits to how people who are homeless 10 can use that address to vote -- to register and to 11 vote.

12 So, for example, we worked very, very hard, 13 we've conducted homeless voter registration drives for 14 each of the last seven years. And for the first two of 15 those years in 2007 and 2008, we frequently encountered 16 people who, because of their past felony convictions, 17 were not able to register and vote. We certainly, now 18 that the law has changed in Washington state in 2009, 19 are able to give people a better answer now, but most 20 people don't know that the law has changed.

21 But we worked very hard to register people
22 at that particular address at 77 South Washington
23 Street in Seattle. And what we found, among other 24 things, those people would not then get a precinct 25 specific voters guide mailed to them. We worked with

1 the King County Elections staff and they said, well, we 2 can get you the general information guide, but we are 3 just not able to get a precinct specific guide. We 4 asked if it would be possible to please go back to the 5 previous system in which people who were homeless could 6 use the King County courthouse as their de facto 7 address, and we were told that that was not possible.

8 I did learn, however, that the main King
9 County Elections address in Renton is what is called, 10 apparently, the dummy precinct address for people who 11 are providing military service overseas.

12 So we think that there are some ways to 13 creatively make sure that people who are homeless not 14 only get to register and it vote, but get precinct 15 specific information to do so.

16 I want to just touch on one last issue which 17 is use of the general delivery at the post office. We 18 routinely find that the post office is giving out 19 incorrect information. People who are homeless are 20 told that the general delivery address is only to be 21 used for 30 days at a time, that it cannot be used on 22 an ongoing basis. That is not true, but they are told 23 that.

24 And it is -- also there is an access problem 25 that only the main post office in any city provides

1 general delivery service, and that is usually in very 2 limited hours.

3 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. A whole other 4 area to look at.

5 Any questions from the commissioners?

6 MR. FOSTER: The precinct specific issue
7 that you were talking about, is that because the voter 8 pamphlet might have eight or ten legislative districts 9 at the same time? Is that what you're talking about?
10 What precinct specific information does a potential 11 voter need?

12 MS. EISINGER: We have a voter's guide that 13 does have information for several districts at a time, 14 but we were told that because this particular site is 15 the location for so many people to get their mail, it 16 clearly is not their actual residential address.

17 And so they -- I don't completely understand 18 it, honestly, to explain it to you, but people, 19 although they received their ballots at that address, 20 did not receive the voter guide that I receive at my 21 home address. I think it is because it is not a 22 residential address.

23 MR. FOSTER: Okay.

24 MS. EISINGER: And I brought a copy of our 25 voter -- homeless voter guide that highlights some of

1 the issue with you. And I thank you for the work that 2 you're doing very much.

3 MR. BURKHOLDER: If any of the public who 4 did testify, if you have written testimony, or any 5 other supporting evidence, please deliver it to the 6 staff of the Voting Rights Commission. Thank you very 7 much.

8 So we're going to take, I guess, 15 -- less 9 than 15 minute break. We'll start at five after.
10 We'll be a little late given the commission needs a 11 chance to walk around, get something to drink.

12 (A recess was taken.)

13 MR. BURKHOLDER: We have the next panel 14 which is on voting rights in Latino community. We have 15 Matt Barreto with David Perez, Graciela Villanueva and 16 then also Abha Khanna.

17 And also for the rest of you, it turns out 18 that there's to be a little extra food, they ordered 19 too much food, in 117. And after you give your 20 testimony, you can't leave yet, after you give your 21 testimony, there's sandwiches there, but no food is 22 allowed in this room. So if you want to get a bite to 23 eat, you can have some food over there.

24 Mr. Barreto.

25 MR. BARRETO: Thank you for inviting me to

1 participate in this session. Happy to be speaking on 2 issues affecting Latinos here in Washington state.
3 Latinos are the largest racial ethnic in Washington 4 state currently comprising 12% of the entire 5 population, and about 300,000 Latinos are eligible to 6 vote in Washington state.

7 The census estimates that as of the 2012
8 election, that 172,000 Latinos are, in fact, registered 9 to vote and that approximately 139,000 Latinos
10 participated in the 2012 election. I use this as a bit 11 of an overview because our governor election in 2012
12 was decided by less than 100,000 votes, about 95,000 13 votes, suggesting that the Latino voting bloc is 14 increasing and growing and is sizeable enough to be 15 taken seriously as an influential voting bloc in our 16 state.

17 Among these 300,000 Latinos who are eligible 18 to vote in Washington state, 42% are estimated to not 19 be registered to vote, approximately 128,000 Latinos 20 who are eligible to be on the voting polls are not.
21 This is a significant concern and issue that we should 22 pay close attention to. We need to increase the 23 outreach and education on voter registration to see 24 more Latinos registered.

25 But we also need a political system that is

1 responsive to the Latino community and Latino issues 2 and that these two factors are interrelated; that is,
3 it will be very difficult to encourage Latinos to 4 register and vote in elections if they do not feel that 5 their vote is effective and can have an effective 6 influence on elections.

7 During the 2012 election, the local National 8 Public Radio affiliates in the northwest did a study 9 looking at Oregon, Washington and Idaho. And they 10 counted more than 8,000 elected officials across these 11 three states, from members of Congress to county 12 commissions and school boards. And they found that 13 across these 8,000 elected officials, only 2% of all 14 people holding office were Latino, despite representing 15 about 12% of the combined population across the states.

16 But this disparity was not just statewide.
17 In fact, it was unevenly felt. Here in Washington 18 state, there are ten counties that we consider to be 19 heavily Latino, which are 17% or higher Latino. This 20 starts with Adams County in central Washington, which 21 is approximately 60% Hispanic or Latino.

22 As of 2012, there were only five Latino 23 officeholders representing only about 4% of all 24 officeholders in Adams County despite being 60% of the 25 county population, only representing 4% of the elected

1 officials. In nearby Franklin County, which is 51%
2 Latino, only 3% of officeholders are Latino, despite 3 being 51% Latino.

4 We know this continues in Yakima County,
5 Grant County, Douglas County, Chelan County and more, 6 all these counties between 25, 35 or 45 Hispanic and 7 being around 4, 3 or 2% of the elected officials.

8 What could possibly explain a system that 9 has so little representation for Latinos in the state?
10 The research that I've conducted, along with David 11 Perez who you'll hear from next, as well as others, has 12 identified the at-large electoral system as something 13 of a problem. We've known for many years in the field 14 of voting rights and representation that at-large 15 electoral systems inhibit and discourage minority
16 representation.

17 In fact, these have been the source of many 18 Section 2 federal lawsuits in the south as at-large 19 electoral systems were converted to and designed to 20 prevent African Americans from attaining district
21 representation.

22 We find that in these ten heavily Latino
23 populated across Washington that 98% employ an at-large 24 electoral system which makes it exceedingly difficult 25 for Latinos to get elected. In fact, across these ten

1 counties, there are 446 total city council positions in 2 at-large electoral systems and only 35 Hispanics are 3 elected out of those 446 at-large electoral systems.

4 What explains these low levels of 5 representations? The electoral system alone must 6 certainly not be to blame. There are certainly places
7 where at-large electoral systems have yielded minority
8 representation.

9 In a comprehensive analysis of counties and 10 states across eastern and central Washington, I have 11 documented extensive patterns of racial bloc voting, 12 not dissimilar from what I found in other work in 13 southern states in the United States where Hispanics 14 are voting very frequently in the 70 or 80% range for 15 Hispanic candidates running for office; and that 16 non-Hispanic populations in central and eastern 17 Washington are voting in the 10 or 15% range for those 18 candidates.

19 There's a very, very large disparity in the 20 vote preferences in these communities and coupled with 21 the city or county-wide/jurisdiction-wide at-large 22 system, it makes it almost impossible for minorities, 23 in this case Latinos, to gain election in these areas.

24 What we already have and continue to have,
25 the Section 2 protections of the federal Voting Rights

1 Act of 1965, but I would argue that a new Section 4B
2 formula should consider practice-based coverage which 3 is likely to then include parts of central and eastern 4 Washington for pre-clearance and closer monitoring by 5 the Department of Justice. There are a handful of 6 these ten counties, possibly four or five, in which the 7 voter registration and voter participation rates of 8 Hispanics are so low that they would have triggered, 9 under the old Section 4B coverage formula, had they 10 been considered in the 1960's.

11 We have one other final model that we can 12 consider and that is the California State Voting Rights 13 Act, which has added additional protections to the 14 State of California. And currently efforts are 15 underway in Washington state to consider increased 16 opportunities to prove the dilution against an at-large 17 system and offers an easy path toward settlement to 18 minority representation. Thank you.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Any comments by 20 the commission? Thank you very much.

21 Mr. Perez.

22 MR. PEREZ: My name is David Perez, I'm an 23 attorney at Perkins Coie, and the author of the 24 Washington Voting Rights Act.

25 I want to talk a bit more about the State

1 Supreme Court race between Steve González and Bruce 2 Danielson, that we saw play out in 2012 and why that 3 race shows that we have a problem here in Washington, 4 and what we should do to fix it.

5 On the face of it, that election didn't seem 6 like one González would have to worry about very much.
7 González was a decorated prosecutor, having 8 successfully prosecuted Ahmed Ressam, the Millennium
9 Bomber, as an Assistant U.S. Attorney. He was also a 10 well-known judge, having served ten years on the King 11 County Superior Court, earning a reputation as the 12 hardest working and most intellectual judge on the 13 bench.

14 Based on this stellar resume, Governor
15 Gregoire appointed González to fill a vacancy on the 16 State Supreme Court. Full disclosure: I helped 17 coordinate Justice González's appointment campaign and 18 worked on his election campaign.

19 With that said, as González was gearing up 20 to run for retainment, it did not seem like anyone 21 would challenge him. He was racking up endorsements.
22 He was racking up contributions. But then, at the very 23 last minute, literally, the final hour before the 24 filing deadline, Bruce Danielson threw his hat into the 25 ring. Danielson, a relatively unknown and

1 unaccomplished lawyer, would square off against a
2 sitting State Supreme Court Justice. Now we had a
3 race.

4 González raised a record amount of money for 5 a primary race, secured endorsements from both parties, 6 including Rob McKenna, Jay Inslee, Reagan Dunn, and Bob 7 Ferguson, and zipped across the state campaigning.

8 González had every possible advantage over Danielson, 9 who didn't campaign or even raise a dime. Well, he had 10 every advantage except one. His last name.

11 Which brings me to a larger issue that 12 Danielson's unfortunately strong showing in this 13 contest raises: Racially polarized voting in Central 14 Washington. Professor Barreto just touched upon this 15 and showed us the stark numbers.

16 But let's put a face to this problem because 17 here in Washington State, outdated electoral systems 18 have eroded our democratic principles by failing to 19 keep pace with our state's rapidly changing 20 demographics.

21 As a result, large segments of our state's 22 population, particularly African Americans, Asian 23 American and Pacific Islanders, Native Americans, and 24 Latinos have been virtually shut out of the political 25 process.

1 Sometimes numbers don't lie. This is one of 2 those times. For example, in nine counties across 3 Central Washington, Latinos constitute over 33% of the 4 total population, yet hold less than 4% of the local 5 elected offices. Combined, these ten counties elect 69 6 port commissioners, 66 county officers, 51 judges, and 7 30 county commissioners. Not a single one is Latino.
8 Rarely has our state been faced with a challenge not to 9 its fiscal health or its economic growth but to the 10 values that form the basis for our democracy.

11 So what's to blame? Election data collected 12 and analyzed by folks like Matt Barreto, and the 13 students at Whitman College, shows that the main 14 culprit is the combination of at-large elections and 15 racially polarized voting.

16 In an at-large election, there are no
17 neighborhood or local districts and therefore no
18 electoral contests in which only voters in a 19 neighborhood or local district may vote for a candidate 20 to represent that particular district. All the 21 candidates must run citywide or countywide.
22 At-large elections that exhibit racially polarized 23 voting allow voting blocs with slim majorities to 24 dominate local elections. In fact, in the nine 25 counties listed above, 99% of all local elections are 1 at-large.

2 The importance of these local races cannot 3 be overstated. It is in these local races for city 4 council, for school board, or for fire district that 5 new candidates first enter the leadership pipeline.
6 Once they've gained local experience, they might later
7 try for some higher office. But the pipeline's closed 8 off to racial minorities because nearly all of these 9 local elections are conducted at-large.

10 For those of us who have been aware of this 11 phenomenon, that is, racially polarized voting in 12 Central Washington, the González race wasn't a 13 surprise. If anything, it was a surprise that González 14 did as well as he did in Central Washington. That 15 González lost each of these counties by a large margin
16 is entirely consistent with the pattern of racially 17 polarized voting that's been occurring throughout 18 Central Washington for over thirty years.

19 And you can't blame it on partisanship 20 because even Inslee got more votes than González in 21 most of these counties. In fact, Gonzalez's lesser 22 known opponent outpolled Rob McKenna and even the GOP's 23 Senate candidate Mike Baumgartner. This was a 24 bipartisan racially polarized voting.

25 While the final result in a statewide race

1 is different because large Western Washington counties
2 went heavily for González, in Eastern and Central 3 Washington, Latino candidates running for local elected 4 office run into the exact same problem without the 5 benefit of having King, Snohomish and Pierce County to 6 bail them out.

7 Fortunately, there's a way out: It's called 8 the Washington Voting Rights Act. Lawmakers in Olympia
9 considered the bill the past three years, and the past 10 two years it's passed the House of Representatives.
11 But it's stalled in the State Senate.

12 This landmark bill would allow voters to 13 challenge those at-large voting systems that, combined 14 with racially polarized voting, function as an obstacle 15 to minority representation in local government. If 16 successful, the challenges would result in remedies, 17 often but not always district-based election systems.

18 This idea has worked in the past. After 19 encountering similar problems in their state,
20 California legislators adopted the California Voting
21 Rights Act of 2002. The Washington Voting Rights Act
22 is modeled after the California version.

23 The González race is a sobering reminder 24 that our country's first principle that all persons are 25 created equal may be self-evident, but it certainly

1 isn't self-enforcing.

2 The federal Voting Rights Act was written 3 almost fifty years ago in 1965. Since then, it's 4 gotten watered down and diluted by an increasingly 5 conservative U.S. Supreme Court. In part because of 6 those Supreme Court decisions we find ourselves here 7 today. I know that the purpose of this hearing is to 8 create a record to improve the federal Voting Rights
9 Act. And that's a noble goal.

10 But what I suggest to each of you is that 11 instead of looking to D.C. to solve Washington State's 12 democratic erosion, we can look to our own state 13 capital and state legislators. We can solve this 14 ourselves.

15 What we're witnessing throughout Washington
16 is not a Latino problem, nor is it a Black problem, an 17 Asian American problem, or a Native American problem.
18 It is a Washington State problem.

19 Fortunately, there is a way out and 20 unfortunately for you, I don't think it's going to 21 emanate from Washington D.C., I think it's going to 22 emanate from Washington state and it's called the 23 Washington Voting Rights Act. Lawmakers in Olympia 24 have considered a bill for the past three years. The 25 past two years the House of Representatives has passed

1 it, but it stalled in the Senate. Full disclosure, I
2 helped write the bill, so take what I say with a grain
3 of salt, but I think it's a landmark bill.

4 It would allow voters to challenge at-large 5 elections that when combined with racially polarized
6 voting produce these skewed results. It's an analog 7 that Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, without the 8 obstacles grafted by conservatives of the Supreme 9 Court.

10 And you know what, the idea has worked in 11 the past. In 2002, after experiencing similar 12 problems, California passed the California Voting Act 13 of 2002 and after that act passed we saw a lot more 14 minority candidates in local elected offices run in.
15 So what we're witnessing throughout Washington is not a 16 Latino problem or Black problem and it's not a 17 Washington D.C. problem. It's our state problem and we 18 can fix it with the our state voting rights. And I
19 think I just ran out of time.

20 MR. BURKHOLDER: You did. Very good
21 testimony.

22 Any questions from the panel?

23 MR. FOSTER: The way the law works now
24 setting up districts, is a school board -- would a 25 school board be into districts by the legislature

1 ordering that or by the county?

2 MR. PEREZ: Here in Washington now, that's a 3 really good question, what we found in races are 4 at-large because of state law that mandates they're 5 at-large; and so even if they wanted to, they couldn't 6 opt out of that at-large system.

7 However, what the Washington Voting Rights
8 Act does, quintessentially enough, is build in a 9 provision to allow them to opt out of at-large 10 elections if that jurisdiction concludes, whether it's 11 a school board or county commission or if it's not a 12 first class city, because certain cities, because of 13 their population threshold, must also be at-large, if 14 they conclude that they're at-large system excludes 15 certain communities, then they can switch to a district 16 based election or some other remedy but often it will 17 lead to district-based elections, but not always, in 18 order to provide an equal opportunity for candidates, 19 for communities to elect candidates of their choice.

20 MR. JOHNSON: You mentioned that in several 21 counties in eastern Washington that the level of voting
22 by Hispanics was very low. Are there any restrictions 23 that prevent the registration of the Hispanics from 24 registering to vote and are there any restrictions 25 there in those counties that prevent them from voting.

1 MR. PEREZ: We haven't found expletive
2 restrictions. We interviewed, and we should send you 3 some of testimonials, it turns out that when you go to 4 voting booth year after year and you never really see a 5 result, that is of your community being represented, 6 voting gets old after a while when you realize your 7 ballot doesn't really count because it is subsumed and 8 diluted within this at-large system. And so it's 9 almost the chicken and the egg. It's not just that 10 Latinos aren't voting and that's why they're not 11 getting elected. It's that they know, even if they 12 vote within the at-large system, their candidate still 13 won't win, so why take Tuesday off.

14 So it's a de facto discouragement. It's not 15 really de facto. It's explicit discouragement to even 16 go to the voting booth.

17 MS. HUERTA: You say that the laws right now
18 are stalled in the Senate, the Washington Voting Rights 19 Act, that it is stalled right now. Is it going to 20 pass?

21 MR. PEREZ: So in this past sessions -- the 22 session ended about a month and a half ago or so and it 23 stalled in the State Senate. It passed the House in 24 fact it passed the house pretty summarily. The House 25 was very supportive of the bill and it passed last year

1 in the House, as well. It didn't come up for a vote in 2 the Senate. It made it to the final rules committee 3 and it lost on a party line vote.

4 So should the Senate flip at some point, or 5 should certain officials change their mind, we were 6 about one vote short in the State Senate of passing.
7 The governor has said he will sign this bill.

8 MS. HUERTA: And so it's sounds like a dumb 9 question, so the representatives from eastern 10 Washington, are they supporting the bill or not 11 supporting it?

12 MR. PEREZ: The representatives of eastern 13 Washington have not supported the bill, even though 14 their constituents would benefit from it.

15 MS. HUERTA: Absolutely.

16 MR. PEREZ: And I think this is a short-term 17 mindset of theirs because the demographics, just to 18 give one statistic, which is mind boggling, the 19 demographics in Washington is changing drastically. In 20 2009, in these ten counties that we examined, the 21 median age of the Hispanic population, which was 33% of 22 the all ten counties, the median age was 17. You're 23 talking about an entirely new generation of voters 24 coming to the voting booth.

25 And if you don't bring them in now, you're

1 going to alienate them for two generations. And so
2 this is, you know, obstructing the Washington Voting
3 Rights Act is a short-term crutch to stay in office, 4 but it's going to lead to a long-term limp.

5 MS. HUERTA: I guess also which party was
6 it?

7 MR. PEREZ: This might surprise you. It's 8 been the republican party opposing the Washington
9 Voting Rights Act. And I say this surprises you 10 because the republican party was so critical in passing 11 and enacting the federal Voting Rights Act in 1965, but 12 now they've been somewhat obstructive in the State 13 Senate in refusing to pass a very sensible reform in 14 the State Senate.

15 But we are very optimistic that we can 16 change their mind because it's the right thing to do.

17 MS. HUERTA: Thank you.

18 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very.

19 Ms. Graciela Villanueva.

20 MS. VILLANUEVA: Good afternoon. It's an 21 honor to be here.

22 I'm here today to tell you about my recent 23 experience with the political process in Yakima. I 24 think you will find my experience demonstrates the 25 issues Mr. Barreto and Perez are talking about today.

1 Hi, my name is Graciela Villanueva. I was born and 2 raised in Yakima Valley in Central Washington. My 3 parents were migrant farm workers until they settled in 4 the Yakima Valley. I went through the public school 5 system beginning with Head Start and graduating from 6 Toppenish High School. I have a doctorate degree from 7 Heritage University in Toppenish, WA and master's 8 degree in business administration from Washington State
9 University. I currently work as an administrator for a 10 large community health center.

11 My parents taught us to work with our 12 communities to make things better. My father set an 13 example for us as a lifelong union organizer with 14 farmworkers. I've always tried to do my part to help 15 my community, working with local groups to make things 16 better.

17 I deeply care about the future of our Valley
18 and especially of our children, and so I was honored 19 when three years ago, I was appointed to the Board of 20 Directors of the Yakima School District. During my 21 time on the School Board, the other School Board 22 members and I worked hard together to make our 23 community strong and to build a better future for our 24 children. We built three new schools and implemented 25 innovative teaching practices that dramatically

1 increased test scores for all students and especially 2 for one of our schools in a neighborhood with the 3 highest poverty rates in Yakima. The school went from 4 only 30% of kids reading at grade level to over 60% of 5 kids reading at grade level in only three years. It 6 was a wonderful experience. I was proud to be part of 7 an organization where everyone had the same goal.
8 After serving for two years as an appointed member of 9 the Yakima School Board, this last November I faced a 10 contested election for my seat on the Yakima School
11 Board. I took the election very seriously, and ran a 12 full campaign. I raised money, knocked on doors, 13 distributed signs across the City of Yakima, and 14 received endorsements from each of my fellow school 15 board members, a local state legislator, and many other 16 individuals and organizations.

17 A few months before the election, my 18 opponent announced that she was dropping out of the 19 race. However, because my opponent's announcement 20 happened after the deadline for removing a name from 21 the ballot, her name remained on the ballot. Local 22 media reported on this several times. Although my 23 opponent publicly dropped out of the race and did not 24 campaign, she won the election by nearly 2/3 of the 25 votes, and defeated me with 61% of the vote.

1 There have been many attempts to answer how 2 she won. There may be multiple reasons but it's clear
3 that one of those reasons was my Spanish surname.
4 Voters admitted this in online comments to the local 5 newspaper's online edition. "My decision to vote for 6 my opponent was racially motivated."

7 Another commenter said he voted for my 8 opponent after looking into each candidate's resume 9 but my opponent had no information published.
10 Several commenters talked about playing the race 11 card. My opponent is not a known personality in 12 Yakima. She had no public profile, she had very 13 limited community involvement, if any. Nobody knew 14 who my opponent was.

15 It's disgusting, appalling, infuriating, that 16 a committed and passionate candidate would lose 17 because their last name isn't the right last name.

18 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Any comments or 19 questions?

20 MR. JOHNSON: Do you have any 21 recommendations as to how you resolve that problem?

22 MS. VILLANUEVA: I think one of the things
23 that I echo what Mr. Perez says, I think the Washington 24 state Voting Rights Act would make a huge difference.
25 An at-large district poses its problems for candidates

1 with Hispanic surnames and I think that would be one 2 solution.

3 MR. FOSTER: Is your experience parallel
4 experiences in the city of Yakima?

5 MS. VILLANUEVA: Yes.

6 MR. FOSTER: City government.

7 MS. VILLANUEVA: Yes, there are those -- a
8 couple examples of Latino candidates who have not won 9 because of that.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: I guess my question is, the 11 solution that you're suggesting is the type of 12 enforcement that would come in sort of after the fact,
13 if it appeared there was a discriminatory or some sort 14 of misuse of the electoral system so it's kind of after 15 the fact versus trying to change the structure from the 16 at-large to district elections which is not a voting
17 issue -- well, I guess it is a voting issue, but it's a 18 structural issue.

19 And I don't understand -- I don't understand 20 even Oregon law well even to understand where the 21 charters come from in terms of how you set up 22 governments because each government is slightly 23 different and some have at-home rules, some other have 24 districts and other have at-large.

25 I guess the question is, is the strategic

1 choice of making -- creating a legal framework to come
2 and address an issue like this seems more difficult 3 than, saying, let's just go to district elections in 4 every community. But I don't know. Politics -- I'm 5 just trying to understand how this -- what you're 6 thinking is in terms of the political strategy to 7 approach it in a certain way. But --

8 MS. HUERTA: Well, I would ask the question 9 about that because we've had the same issue across the 10 United States of America and in some instances and I 11 think previous testimony said that the reason they have 12 at-large elections in Washington state is because it's 13 a state law.

14 Now, in California, there have been lawsuits
15 that have been filed to make sure that we have district
16 elections. And if we did not have district elections, 17 I'm sure that a lot of the Latino representatives that 18 we have, the different level school boards, councils, 19 et cetera, including we wouldn't have that kind of 20 representation and so I guess my question is, is there 21 some way that's going to be fixed with laws or just 22 have to wait until the law is changed that allows for 23 district elections?

24 I mean, we've had many successful
25 opportunities in California where we filed lawsuits and

1 made different municipalities and school districts, et 2 cetera, change the law.

3 MR. BURKHOLDER: What I'm going to do is say 4 that's a good rhetorical question that talks about 5 strategy around the issue, but again, it's good to get 6 a report from you all about what the challenges are and 7 how that systematic challenge or barriers are there 8 because of the structural issues in how we set up our 9 governments and how they do appear causing 10 disenfranchisement of minority voters and discouraging 11 people from participating. Otherwise it's a political 12 strategy session.

13 And what we're trying to do is trying to 14 gather testimony from you about what the issues are so 15 we can pass this onto the national effort. And thank 16 you very much for that.

17 We have one more person on the panel. Abha
18 Khanna.

19 MS. KHANNA: My name is Abha Khanna. I'm an 20 attorney at Perkins Coie. Along with ACLU of 21 Washington, we are representing plaintiffs in a Section 22 2 lawsuit against the city of Yakima that's currently 23 scheduled for trial in September of this year. Let me
24 start talking about what the city of Yakima government 25 structure is like. The city of Yakima is governed by

1 seven member city council and every single position, 2 each position on that city council is elected at-large,
3 four of them are nominated -- four of those candidates 4 are nominated in top two primaries in residential 5 districts, but ultimately elected at-large in general 6 election and the three other are purely on an at-large 7 basis. So for each civil position, the entire city 8 votes at-large for that position.

9 In 2012, Perkins Coie, as cooperating
10 counsel with the ACLU of Washington, filed suit on 11 behalf of two Latino voters against their city alleging 12 that the city council at-large election system violates 13 Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act because it 14 impermissibly dilutes the Latino vote.

15 Essentially, our claim is that the city's 16 election system does not allow Latino residents to 17 participate equally in the political process. Any 18 Section 2 lawsuit has two primary components. The 19 first component is an analysis of what's called the 20 Gingles factor. I'll go through those in a second.
21 But that's basically the expert component, the expert 22 component about what our -- how does race play out in 23 elections in the city.

24 And the second component is totality of the 25 circumstances, which is more of a fact-based inquiry

1 into the history and the reality of race relations in 2 the jurisdiction.

3 Now, in the Gingles factor, as I'm sure
4 you're aware, there are three Gingles preconditions
5 that we have satisfy to establish our claim. The first 6 conditions asks: Are Latino's geographically compact 7 and sufficiently numerous in order to comprise a 8 majority of eligible voters in a single member 9 district? Our expert evidence demonstrates that the 10 answer is unequivocally yes, over 41% of Yakima's total
11 population is Latino and over 22% of the citizen voting 12 age population in Yakima is Latino. Over 70% of the 13 Latinos live on the east side of the Yakima in an area 14 east of 16th Avenue, which is the dividing line that 15 encompasses less than ten square miles.

16 And our expert -- demographic expert has 17 drawn several demonstrations districts that include not 18 only a majority of Latino citizen voting age population
19 ranging from just over 50% to over 57% Latino citizens 20 voting age population, but also included a majority of 21 Latino registered voters.

22 The second and third Gingles preconditions 23 look at, essentially, racially polarized voting in the 24 jurisdiction. They ask are Latinos politically 25 cohesive and does the white majority vote sufficiently

1 vote in a bloc to usually defeat the Latino candidate 2 of choice? And our expert testimony shows yes. Our 3 expert examined several election contests between 4 Latino and Anglos over the course of the last few years
5 and in almost all of them Latinos vote for the Latino 6 candidate.

7 When it comes to the general election in 8 which there is a single Latino candidate is pitted
9 against a single white candidate, over 90% of Latinos
10 were voting for the Latino candidate. At the same 11 time, majority of white voters in every single election 12 analyzed voted against the Latino candidate with 13 crossover voting averaging in the 30% across multiple 14 elections.

15 Mr. Perez mentioned the González election.
16 And as an example, we analyzed -- our experts analyzed 17 almost identical elections, both endogenous and 18 exogenous in the city of Yakima and one was Justice
19 González's election. Over 63% of Latinos in Yakima 20 voted for Justice González in the primary election.
21 Just 36% of whites voted for him. While Justice 22 González did win statewide, had the election been held 23 in Yakima in the city itself, he would have lost having 24 received only 39% of the vote.

25 As a result of this racially polarized

1 voting, no Latino candidate has ever won a seat on the 2 city council. Not a single Latino in any of the 3 elections that we analyzed won their election. The 4 sole Latino appointed to serve on the city council
5 whose name is Sonia Rodriguez lost her seat in the next 6 at-large election, even with the advantage of 7 incumbency.

8 The second component is the totality of the 9 circumstances involved a whole number of questions, a 10 number of factors called the Senate factors that look 11 at things like racial appeals, local campaigns to the 12 extent which the minority group bears the effect of 13 discrimination in other areas like education, health 14 care, that might affect political participation, the 15 extent of any public discrimination in the area of 16 voting and our discovery in the case is ongoing, and I
17 can provide you just a few high level points.

18 In 2004, Yakima County, which administers
19 elections in the city of Yakima, signed a consent
20 decree alleging violation of Section 203 of the Voting 21 Rights Act for failure to provide election-related 22 materials in Spanish.

23 The poverty rate for Latinos in the city of 24 Yakima is three times higher than it is for whites in 25 Yakima. The median income for whites is three times

1 higher -- I'm sorry -- the mean income is three times
2 higher for Whites than it is for Latinos in Yakima.
3 While I think 13% of Whites in Yakima do not have 4 health insurance, that number is 5% for Latinos in the 5 city of Yakima. And as I mentioned before, not a 6 single Latino has ever been elected to city council.

7 There's a host of data and host of witnesses
8 who we plan on putting forward at trial to talk about 9 their experiences with private discrimination, public 10 discriminations and discrimination in various elections
11 and Ms. Villanueva has agreed to participate as a 12 witness in our case, and you have heard her testimony 13 and we certainly believe she will be a valuable 14 addition to our case, as well.

15 Discovery in our case is ongoing and set to 16 close later in June. And I mentioned the trial is set 17 for September in the eastern district of Washington.
18 It's going to take place in Yakima itself.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: Any questions from the 20 commission?

21 MR. FOSTER: Didn't Seattle just go to a 22 district system?

23 MS. KHANNA: It did.

24 MR. FOSTER: Was that done by initiative or 25 did the city council authorize it?

1 MS. KHANNA: That was a voter initiative
2 that was voted on.

3 MR. FOSTER: Is that available in Yakima?

4 MS. KHANNA: Actually, the 2011 proposition
5 was made on the ballot, there was a voter initiative to 6 do just what we are asking for: To change from an 7 at-large system to a districting system. And that, in 8 fact, was one of the elections that our experts 9 analyzed and have found dramatic racial polarization, 10 the vast majority of the Latino population voting in 11 favor of the proposition and the vast majority of 12 whites voting against it and the proposition was 13 defeated.

14 MR. BURKHOLDER: Which shouldn't be 15 surprising, I guess. The question I have, because of 16 this -- we're trying to gather information for looking 17 at voting rights and challenges to that, is the relief 18 offered through a Section 2 -- I'm talking outside my 19 expertise for sure -- Section 2 lawsuit, is that 20 sufficient -- is the law written in such a way that you 21 can actually be successful by doing this challenge and 22 making the kind of changes that you would like to see 23 happen in the city of Yakima or throughout the country, 24 actually, so that these kind of things do not continue?

25 MS. KHANNA: Well, certainly we believe that

1 that if we win our Section 2 lawsuit that the 2 appropriate remedy would be to impose a district-based 3 system and we think that Section 2 authorizes us to get 4 that remedy and that we, you know, if successful we 5 should get the result that we want within the city of 6 Yakima.

7 Whether -- if your question is this 8 sufficient with respect to the state Voting Rights Act 9 or anything else, I'm not sure I can speak to that.
10 Certainly within our case, we think our suit should win 11 and get the remedy that we're asking for.

12 MR. BURKHOLDER: I don't know how strong the 13 law is.

14 MR. BARRETO: The thing I would add, as Mrs.
15 Khanna can attest, there's a lot of resources and 16 effort that need to be brought together for a 17 successful Section 2 lawsuit today, it's very 18 difficult. Many of these cities that Dave and I are 19 talking about are very small and they're not a lot of 20 large advocacy groups there or folks with resources to 21 bring those forward.

22 And so there are a number, I think, of ways 23 to improve Section 2 litigation through amendment to 24 the Voting Rights Act, as well as what I noted earlier, 25 you know, expanding the scope of Section 4B would

1 certainly bring a lot of relief, if there was federal 2 monitoring in some of these counties: Central, eastern 3 Washington, the issues there are no different than some 4 of the counties in the south in the 1960s.

5 But none of the counties in Washington state 6 were ever covered under Section 4B and so it never had 7 the protection of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.
8 So in addition to the state level changes, I think 9 there's plenty of opportunities.

10 I believe Ms. Khanna can correct me, this is 11 the first Section 2 lawsuit ever in Washington state 12 despite these challenges being present for decades.

13 MR. BURKHOLDER: Great. That's the kind of 14 feedback I'm trying to get to the commission here to 15 make sure that that kind of very specific suggestions 16 get heard and passed along. So thank you very much.

17 So the next panel, walk on down, Kim Able 18 with the League of Women Voters of Washington, Tami
19 Davis with the office of Washington Secretary of State, 20 Emillio Garza with the Washington Bus Project, and 21 Julie Wise with the King County Board of Elections, if 22 you would join us up front.

23 Ms. Able, if you're here and ready to start, 24 that would be great.

25 MS. ABLE: I appreciate that. Good

1 afternoon. I want to thank you. I'm Kim Able, the 2 president of the state of Washington League of Women
3 Voters.

4 I just want to -- a couple questions that 5 you've asked today, things like, has there been 6 legislation on that, what -- are you working with any 7 groups, I want you to know that by having the hearing
8 here, there will be those kinds of things happening
9 more because, obviously, issues are being raised, so I 10 thank you very deeply for having this hearing because 11 it will connect us and allow us to do that I typed of 12 thing. It's all Alan's fault. Thank you, Alan.

13 So I want to start, the League as our friend
14 in Oregon said, recognize access to the ballot 15 fundamental right, we believe voting procedures should 16 serve the voter with maximum of convenience, simplicity 17 and efficiency while insuring that the requirements of 18 secrecy, accuracy and impartiality are maintained.

19 And we get to that position by long study
20 and long consensus in our organization. And we're 21 proud that we have been working as a League since 1920
22 when woman got the right to vote, and even more proud 23 in Washington state that we have ten extra years of 24 women having the right to vote. So because of that 25 we've been leaders in implementation of full

1 implementation of voting rights. In Washington state, 2 we have an excellent bipartisan history and culture 3 voter access, not voter suppression, except for the 4 issue you just heard about which we've been happy to be 5 part of that coalition working on that issue in our 6 state legislature which my remarks won't speak to since 7 we have already heard that issue.

8 And I do want to talk about our 9 modernization efforts and you've heard a little bit
10 about that with earlier speakers. They're recognized 11 as a model by the rest of the country.

12 And that leads me into those successes.
13 Online registration is one of the key examples we have 14 here in Washington. It's convenient for voters. It 15 saves government expense of reentering data. It avoids 16 errors in handwritten data. And this convenience 17 extends to change of address, especially important to 18 younger voters and transient voters and some of the 19 most underrepresented voters that are out in our 20 communities.

21 Another success story is our vote by mail,
22 although there are challenges, as you heard earlier, 23 but it does allow accessibility for folks because 24 everybody gets a ballot that is registered. It 25 allows -- you don't have to find a way to get to the 1 polling place because your ballot comes to you, which 2 means you don't need to find a bus line or the parking 3 or child care or scheduling around work.

4 In essence, it acts as early voting where 5 you have seen that being challenged in other states
6 across the nation. We get those ballots three weeks 7 before to election day and we get them right up to 8 election day, which I hope never changes because it 9 make a big difference to folks because ads go right up 10 to election day and your vote may be changed if, as you 11 listen to those things and talk to your neighbors, 12 right up to election day.

13 So it also allows us to be better informed,
14 using our state-wide voter guide, which we also happen 15 to be very proud of in the general election. In most 16 cases, everyone gets one in their door if they're a 17 registered voter. And also the League is very proud in 18 Washington state to be part of a state national -- 19 nationwide League effort called Vote 411.

20 So anyone in Washington state that has a 21 candidate that we have tune the role of making sure 22 they're all offered the opportunity to ask extra 23 questions through Vote 411, answering an earlier 24 question you had.

25 So the other piece that's kind of 1 interesting and came to us today while sitting in the 2 audience is that one of the other things that having 3 ballots come to your house does it that doesn't it mean 4 that someone's going to save up their best ammunition 5 to try to get the voters who are going to go to the 6 polls to the very last day. So we get, you know, all 7 those that mudslinging the whole time the campaign is 8 going on rather than just saving up to the last minute, 9 we all get a chance to respond to it.

10 In many cases, you see about a third, a 11 third, a third of the voters over those three weeks 12 ballots come in. Different counties are different, but 13 in my county it tends to be that way.

14 But with that, there are still challenges
15 that leagues recognize. And I take it these challenges 16 run in two areas. One is getting everyone eligible to 17 vote, registered to vote, that's like the first thing, 18 because if you're not registered you don't get the 19 ballot in your mailbox.

20 And the other one is once you are 21 registered, how can you easily cast your ballot. And 22 we have heard a few things about that. In terms of 23 folks to get registered, easily registered, I'd say 24 that the registration deadline is the biggest hurdle
25 there.

1 In Washington, we're getting better but we 2 still have a ways to go because there's lots of other 3 ways to do it across the nation. There are 4 registration by election day where you can register
5 right up to election day. There are also permanent 6 portable registration, is another innovation; and eight 7 other states in the nation have that and we do not yet 8 have that in Washington state. This allows folks to 9 make sure if they're already registered in a state, 10 they can update their address by election day and vote.
11 They don't have to try to remember if they're 12 registered a few -- up to two weeks -- I think it's 29
13 days at this point where you have to remember if you 14 just happen to change your address within less than 15 that timeframe.

16 The other one is pre-registration for 16 and 17 17-year-olds. There's a few states that have tried 18 this, not just 16 -- more in 17-year-olds, but in 19 Washington we think that we've been working on that 20 bill. One thing, if you start voting earlier, you 21 become a lifelong voter. And in Washington state, we 22 have worked hard to get a civics requirement adopted in 23 the state. And so you marry those things together 24 while our kids in high school, they get their civics 25 education, they get preregistered so the day they reach

1 18, you start getting that lifelong need to vote.

2 And the other thing that we are focusing on 3 in our state with the Affordable Care Act, there is 4 still work to do to bring folks into compliance with 5 Section 7 of the National Voting Rights Act. Tools are 6 available to get folks to register online, but for 7 those folks who are not registering for the Affordable 8 Care Act that way, either they're doing it in person or 9 through an agency or on the phone, there are still 10 needs to fix that in Washington state and we're working 11 hard to try to make that happen.

12 And finally -- I see the stop sign, but I 13 would like to just to end with, in supporting 14 registration for all eligible voters and getting their 15 ballots returned, we recognize that trust in government 16 is the key that makes the difference to bringing all 17 voices into the process. And the flood of money in 18 politics, combined with the lack of disclosure, 19 presents not only a direct threat to democracy, but 20 also a threat to citizens confident in their own power 21 and relevance.

22 And you heard a little bit about that in the 23 last panel. And we think that it's not just a flood of 24 money, people have to believe they make a difference 25 when they vote. And if they're -- in our state, we

1 played a major role in our public disclosure commission
2 and we feel it's important that that is strengthened 3 and that campaign finance -- the flood of money somehow 4 is combatted because that is the only way people will 5 feel they make a difference. So thank you.

6 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you.

7 MS. ABLE: That eight minutes go quick.

8 MR. FOSTER: Is there voter registration in 9 high schools?

10 MS. ABLE: For kids that turn 18 or going to 11 be 18 by the next election, they may register prior to 12 that, but it's not required. Each school district does 13 it differently. In my county, we have five school 14 districts and we try to get in each one and each one 15 has different rules, whether they can do that and 16 whether they say we do it when they reach their 18th 17 birthday, it needs work on that.

18 MS. HUERTA: I have a question on your 19 civics lessons. Would that be part of the high school 20 level?

21 MS. ABLE: It's required as a graduation
22 credit now, a portion of your credits -- your 24
23 credits for graduation is required to be civics
24 education.

25 MS. HUERTA: Throughout the state of 1 Washington?

2 MS. ABLE: It will be adopted by the 3 graduating class of 2016, is the first class that has 4 to meet that standard.

5 MS. HUERTA: I'm shocked when you think 6 about it.

7 MS. ABLE: I'm sure some schools they've cut 8 it out, but this is now required for those that have 9 cut it out for some reason.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: I want to thank you for 11 bringing up the youth issue. Have you ever considered 12 lowering the voting age?

13 MS. ABLE: I've seen that recently. I
14 should do research. I've seen that. It's something 15 that other states are looking at and I think some 16 cities across the nation have taken that step.

17 MR. BURKHOLDER: The civics is fantastic
18 because I know having children engaged -- youth engaged 19 more closely.

20 MS. ABLE: The one thing I didn't say, in 21 Washington state, our motor voter law has been very 22 successful, about 40% of all voters are registered 23 through the DMV as they get their license or change 24 their address. So you think about all those 16 and 25 17-year-olds who go and are offered that opportunity,

1 and they don't go back to get their driver's license
2 until they're 21 because in our state we do this cute 3 flippy thing that you get your license vertically until 4 you're 21 and at 21 they turn it horizontally. It's to 5 help places make sure you're not faking your I.D. They 6 don't have to come back until they're 21. There's no 7 reason at 18 or something to come -- it's a really 8 important thing for the League to think -- we're 9 thinking strongly about that.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Tami Davis with 11 the Washington Secretary of State.

12 MS. DAVIS: My name is Tami Davis. I work
13 in the Elections Division of the Washington Secretary 14 of State and I want to thank you first and foremost for 15 including us in this. This has been a great learning 16 opportunity for sure, for all of us I think.

17 And just as an aside, our office has a 18 pretty extensive outreach program, including a free 19 curriculum K through 12 and we do reach out to 20 16-year-olds or people who turn 18 that did get a 21 driver's license. So anyone interested in learning 22 more about that can contact me. I do have business 23 cards.

24 Mr. Wang, in an earlier testimony, had given 25 some of the information that I am going to provide, so

1 I'll try not to rehash a lot of that. He mentioned
2 section 203 of the federal Voting Rights Act that 3 requires right now four of our counties to provide 4 information in the covered languages. Anything that we 5 would provide in English to voters would need to be 6 translated into the languages, for example, in King
7 County, they would have to translate that information 8 into Vietnamese, Chinese, as he mentioned, and then in 9 the three county, Adams, Franklin and Yakima, they're 10 required to translate into Spanish. And that, again, 11 is calculated by a formula by the census Bureau and we 12 are notified by the Department of Justice.

13 Some of those -- in that notification, some 14 of the -- some of what is asked of us is pretty vague.
15 And so before the last census information was released, 16 we did decide in our office to hire a minority language 17 coordinator, someone who could ahead of time work to 18 try to provide what we expected to be new counties 19 coming on board, with lessons learned from what those 20 counties had experienced previously, as well as 21 coordinate our outreach and translations to those 22 communities.

23 As I mentioned, those counties are required 24 by -- the state is also required to do that in those 25 counties. So we work very closely with those counties.

1 We let them take the lead in how they want that 2 implemented, for example -- the example in King County, 3 it's by subscription. And in Adams, Franklin and 4 Yakima, they provide bilingual in Spanish and English
5 together.

6 To insure accuracy of translation, we have a 7 community review process and then we also work with 8 those counties to insure a glossary so there's 9 consistent information in those communities, that 10 information is portrayed consistently.

11 And in the state, obviously, our largest 12 piece of voter information that goes out to every 13 single household in the state is our state voters 14 pamphlet for the general election. Now, with the 15 Chinese and Vietnamese, as I mentioned, those are 16 supplied directly to King County subscription lists.
17 And we also do some outreach in addition to King 18 County's outreach to try to buffer those lists. And in 19 the bilingual editions are mailed, as I mentioned, to 20 Adams, Franklin and Yakima voters.

21 In addition to that, because so many 22 counties are on the cusp of -- we're very, very close 23 to having the Spanish language requirement, we also 24 produce a printed statewide Spanish edition. And any 25 county, any person is able to call our office and have

1 us mail that directly to whoever is requesting that.

2 And actually, we've got quite a subscription
3 list going for that. And as I mentioned, the counties, 4 we've made aware of the availability of that.

5 Mr. Wang also mentioned our website. Our 6 voter page is -- everything on our voter page is 7 translated. There's a Chinese edition to that page, 8 Vietnamese edition and also a Spanish version of that 9 page, as well. And the same goes for our online voter 10 registration and personalized voter information page, 11 My Vote, that's also translated into those three 12 languages, in addition to English.

13 And of course, as he also mentioned, our 14 voter registration forms are translated into more 15 languages to accommodate the agencies that have been 16 identified as voter registration agencies above and 17 beyond our licensing department, they were identified 18 by the governor to be voter registration agencies.

19 And so what good are these translations 20 without outreach, without people actually knowing that 21 it's available. So at the state level, we do try to 22 focus our efforts on state organizations. We provide 23 voter registration drive training to state and local 24 organizations hoping that when they go out and do voter 25 registration drives, they're more educated about what

1 it is, what the laws are, and what it is the state 2 offers.

3 We participate in a citizenship celebration
4 in collaboration with Pierce County. We attend 5 naturalization ceremonies. And we do -- I'm going to 6 focus on our Hispanic relations, we do an ongoing radio 7 outreach with the commissioner of Hispanic Affairs. We 8 present at Latino Legislative Day. We provide 9 presentations on Univision, the Spanish TV station.

10 And of course, we're always looking for ways 11 to improve what we do. We're open to input from any 12 community. And we've done focused groups in 13 collaboration with the Latino Community Fund to 14 identify why some registered Latino vote while others 15 don't and we hope to use that as a pilot project to 16 move forward and maybe do the same with our other 17 covered language communities.

18 And recently we did an outreach mailing to 19 potentially eligible but unregistered voters. This 20 wasn't specific to minority language voters, but we did 21 get some lessons learned in there. And even though on 22 the voter registration form, we're a very populous 23 state, we don't ask questions about what is -- what, 24 you know, are you Hispanic, are you Black, Caucasian, 25 whatever, we can run the Spanish surname to try to 1 identify some information.

2 And what we did glean from that mailing was 3 that as a result of the bilingual postcard version of 4 this mailing to those three counties, Hispanic
5 people -- people with Hispanic surnames were five times 6 more likely to even register to vote. So that is 7 definitely information that we'll move forward and try 8 to glean even more information as we move forward on 9 our minority language programs.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much.

11 Any questions or comments?

12 MR. FOSTER: I have two questions. You said 13 that many of the counties are on the cusp. And we take 14 the census every ten years. Do you get up-to-date or 15 do you have to use the census that we had in 2010 or is 16 there an up-to-date population because things are 17 changing fast?

18 MS. DAVIS: Well, we had, up until recently 19 had a minority language coordinator who did find 20 additional resources to try to find more up-to-date 21 information. Our office of financial management has 22 some good information on their website. We also go to 23 the Office of Superintendent of Public Instructions' 24 website to get up-to-date information from them about 25 the nationality of school children within certain

1 jurisdictions, that's useful.

2 But moving forward, we aren't going to have 3 to wait every ten years. The American Community Survey 4 is going to be released more frequently than that, so 5 we expect that our minority language requirements will 6 actually be updated a lot more frequently as a result.

7 MR. FOSTER: Second question, I don't know
8 if you were here earlier, but on the first panel I 9 think we talked quite a bit about people who had been 10 incarcerated and lost their voting rights.

11 Is there an effort with the Secretary of 12 State's office or county auditors to get that recent 13 legislation that passed, get that information out to 14 people who might be in that situation?

15 MS. DAVIS: You know, I'm not aware of an 16 effort on behalf of the auditors to do that. I do know 17 that we've definitely updated information on our 18 website. We get information out to the correctional 19 facilities. We get information out to the 20 administrative office of the courts. So there are 21 avenues that we try to educate, you know, the 22 overarching institutions on information to be able to 23 provide to people that are being released from jail.

24 And hopefully, eventually, that will trickle
25 down, but we do get a lot of calls to our hot lines

1 from people who we give them the proper answers. But 2 in this state, the fact remains, if you're released and 3 you're not on community custody, you do have to 4 actually reregister to vote. So, you know, we try to 5 walk them through the process very clearly and outline 6 it for them.

7 MS. HUERTA: On the same issue, would there 8 be a possibility of teaming up with the Department of 9 Corrections so when people are released they can be 10 given that information when they leave jail?

11 MS. DAVIS: Already done.

12 MS. HUERTA: That happens?

13 MS. DAVIS: Yes.

14 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you for your 15 testimony. Emillio Garza with the Washington Bus 16 Project, I assume.

17 MR. GARZA: The Washington Bus Federation.

18 So to the Members of the National Commission 19 on Voting Rights, my name is Emilio and I am the 20 Engagement Coordinator with the Washington Bus. I am
21 appearing before you on behalf of the Pacific Northwest 22 affiliates of the Bus Federation: Forward Montana, the 23 Oregon Bus Project, and the Washington Bus. We are a 24 family of organizations run of, by, and for young 25 people. Our primary purpose is to engage young people

1 in democracy, as activists, as leaders, and as voters.
2 It is because of our work shepherding young people's 3 early experiences as voters that we appear before you
4 today. America has a tremendous gift in the Millennial 5 Generation, with is not only the largest and most 6 diverse in American history, but a recent Pew study
7 also found us the most optimistic American generation, 8 while a recent Universum survey showed young Americans 9 to be unusually predisposed to public service. We are 10 95 million strong, and eager to make our mark on the 11 world's greatest democracy.

12 However, when we eagerly dash to the ballot
13 box, we find a national voting system that seems more 14 designed for white landowning male farmers of the 18th 15 century than for our diverse, vibrant, wired generation 16 that's rapidly approaching one third of the eligible 17 voting populace.

18 Like many other traditionally 19 under-represented communities, we encounter barriers to 20 participation at every stage of the process, from 21 getting registered, to staying registered, to casting 22 our ballots in a timely, convenient, and secure manner.
23 As voter registration is generally the largest barrier 24 to youth participation, that is where we will focus our 25 testimony. It is no secret that young voters

1 consistently turn out at lower rates than their older
2 counterparts. However, a deeper dive into the evidence 3 suggests that this is far more a registration than a 4 turnout problem. Based on census data, in 2012, 5 eligible American voters age 18-to-24 turned out at an 6 approximately 20% lower rate than eligible citizens age
7 25-and-up. Registered young voters, however, only 8 lagged in turnout by 10 percentage points.

9 In the northwest, the difference in 10 registered voter turnout between young voters and older 11 voters is even narrower. 86% of registered Oregon
12 voters age 18-to-24 voted in 2012, versus 92% of voters 13 25-and-older. This difference is slight enough to 14 largely erase the myth that young people simply do not 15 vote.

16 Now, this begs the question as to why young 17 voters are so under-registered as a demographic.
18 Though we're not social scientists, despite the 19 appearances that might be suggested by our confident 20 and nerdy presentation, we would hazard several 21 explanations.

22 First, young people are a highly mobile
23 population. The census consistently finds young 24 Americans to be the most likely populations to change 25 homes, with Americans age 18-to-24 being the mostly

1 likely to move, and their age 25-to-29 neighbors the 2 second most likely by several percentage points. Even 3 with 2012-to-2013 being the lowest youth mobility year
4 in half a century, nearly one-fourth of young people 5 move every year. Spread that movement out over the 6 years between Congressional or Presidential elections,
7 and you'll find a tremendous proportion, and likely a 8 majority, of young voters no longer live at their 9 registered addresses. Because most states consider 10 voter registrations lapsed after a change of address, 11 this puts us at a significant disadvantage.

12 Second, civic education has largely been 13 gutted at our public schools. Many young citizens are 14 never taught how, where, or when to register to vote.
15 Some of us are privileged enough to be raised in 16 households that teach us those skills, but many of us 17 are not. Since these processes are generally not 18 intuitive, countless Millennials are left not knowing 19 how to register, or even that they have to. We have 20 heard some place the blame on us for this fact, but 21 that strikes us as tantamount to think you should have 22 known my name before you met me this is simply not 23 universal information, and to think otherwise is silly.
24 Third, we would like to posit a reason that catches 25 some people by surprise: Motor-Voter registration at

1 the DMV does not reach a gigantic share of young 2 voters. Due to the success of the Motor Voter
3 provisions of the National Voter Registration Act, 40%
4 of Americans register to vote at the DMV. However, the 5 18-to-24-year-old demographic is largely missing the 6 boat. 54% of young people get their drivers licenses
7 before they turn 18. Drivers licenses generally do not 8 need to be renewed for five to eight years, which means 9 huge proportions of young people are not visiting the 10 DMV as eligible voters until they turn 24. We do not 11 think that gap and the low registration rates of 12 18-to-24-year-olds are mere coincidence.

13 Through large-scale, youth-focused voter 14 registration drives, our organizations do our best to 15 counteract these structural impediments. However, we 16 are largely in the interest of putting ourselves out of 17 the voter registration business. Sound public policy 18 is a dramatically better solution than even the best 19 voter registration drive.

20 A few humble suggestions to create a voter 21 registration system that will address some of the above 22 impediments:

23 Voter pre-registration at 16-years-old.
24 Many states use this policy well, and it fully 25 leverages the power of Motor Voter.

1 Strictly enforce the Section 7 public
2 assistance agency requirements of the National Voter 3 Registration Act, to reach and register the many 4 low-and-middle income youth who use state services.

5 Expand the National Voter Registration Act
6 to apply to state universities, community colleges, and 7 Departments of Revenue. This expansion would reach a 8 massive number of young voters for first-time 9 registration and perhaps more importantly, because we 10 file taxes once a year, and register for classes 11 multiple times a year, it will keep our voter 12 registration addresses far more up-to-date.

13 Strong online voter registration systems,
14 particularly those that integrate with the online tools 15 of non-governmental organizations, have proven 16 extraordinarily effective in reaching young voters as 17 it meets us on a platform that's extremely familiar to 18 us.

19 Make voter registration fully portable, and 20 no-longer require re-registration upon changing
21 addresses. This is largely accomplishable through a 22 combination of better enforcement of the NVRA and 23 purchasing National Change of Address data from the 24 Postal Service.

25 Eliminate, or at least reduce voter

1 registration deadlines. Much of the voter information
2 problem facing young voters reduces as Election Day
3 approaches particularly in the last days of elections.
4 Eliminating these deadlines effectively removes the 5 need to pre-register, and even contracting the 6 deadlines offers young voters the time and opportunity 7 to learn how to register and to do so.

8 Ideally, we should fully eliminate the 9 barrier of voter registration. American citizens
10 already regularly provide state governments with all 11 the information needed to register to vote their name, 12 their age, their address, and their citizenship 13 information many state agencies from Departments of 14 Revenue, to higher education, to public assistance
15 agencies, to the DMV already require this information.
16 Simply using this information to register all eligible 17 citizens to vote while providing them with an 18 opportunity to opt out would remove the negative 19 externalities of our antiquated voter registration 20 system, and streamline state government to boot.

21 These are simple, inexpensive, and 22 common-sense reforms that would counteract what is in 23 many ways a backward system.

24 MR. BURKHOLDER: I think we're done here, 25 aren't we? That's a joke. This is very nice,

1 comprehensive testimony.

2 Any questions or comments from the 3 committee? Great.

4 MS. HUERTA: I think it is a great 5 foundation. We just have to make it happen. I want to 6 go back a little because we're talking about the 7 outreach of the curriculum that they do to young
8 voters.

9 Could the commission be provided a copy of 10 curriculum for the state?

11 MS. DAVIS: Yes, I'll send that to Alan.

12 MR. BURKHOLDER: Great. Okay. Great. So
13 now Julie Wise with King County Board of Elections.

14 MS. WISE: My name is Julie Wise. I'm the 15 voter services manager for King County. Thank you for 16 allowing me this opportunity to share our successes and 17 challenges as an election administrator.

18 As the largest vote by mail jurisdiction in 19 the country, King County has both unique opportunities 20 and challenges in election administration. We have 21 nearly 1.2 million registered voters and administer 22 elections for over 140 jurisdictions, including cities, 23 school districts, fire districts and more. With a vote 24 by mail system, we rely on the United States Postal 25 Service to deliver ballots to our voters and return

1 voted ballots back to us in a timely manner.

2 However, as we get closer to election day
3 mailing a replacement ballot to a voter who did not 4 receive his or her ballot who has for various reasons
5 requested a replacement ballot can present a timing 6 challenge. Ballots mailed out to a voter the Friday or 7 Monday before election day may not make it to their 8 mailbox in time to allow them to vote and return their 9 ballot before the deadline.

10 In the past, voters who needed last minute 11 replacement ballot, they had one option and that's to 12 vote at one of our three voting centers in King County.
13 This sometimes led to long lines at our accessible 14 voting centers which are primarily intended to allow 15 voters with disabilities to vote privately and 16 independently.

17 When these vote centers are overwhelmed by 18 voters in need of a replacement ballot, they are less 19 able to serve the population that they were intended 20 for. We have taken two steps to mitigate this. First, 21 we have made our online ballot marking program
22 available to all King County voters. This program 23 allows our voters the opportunity to access and mark 24 their ballot electronically, and provides voters with 25 instructions on how to print and prepare their ballot

1 packet and return to it King County Elections for 2 counting.

3 While military and overseas voters have had 4 this option for several years, in preparation for 5 increased voter turnout for the presidential 2012
6 election cycle King County Elections made the decision 7 to let any voter register in the county, including 8 inactive voters, access to the system.

9 Now instead of having to wait by the mailbox
10 or show up at one of our accessible voting centers, 11 voters would access to the Internet and a printer had 12 immediate access to a website where they can download a 13 replacement ballot. This has greatly reduced the 14 number of people visiting accessible voting centers for 15 a replacement ballot.

16 Voter response to this option has been 17 overwhelmingly positive. And many of the voters want 18 to be able to not only access and print their ballot 19 this way, they want to be able to vote online. This 20 program has extended access for all voters including 21 voters with disabilities.

22 The second step that we have taken to insure 23 that last minute voters are not waiting in long lines 24 at our accessible voting centers was the development
25 and use of a line management program. We created

1 interactive PDF flow charts for staff to use to 2 determine how to best assist a voter. Election staff 3 were able to walk the line using this flow chart on 4 their iPad, sort voters into categories based on their 5 needs. Voters coming in to drop off ballots were taken 6 out of line and directed to a ballot drop box. Other 7 voters were pre-sorted, given color coded cards based 8 on their status and what type of ballot that they 9 needed: Active, inactive, provisionals; and then were 10 directed to staff members that were especially trained 11 to assist them. These procedures insured that we had 12 minimal lines on election day and that no voter waited 13 longer than ten minutes.

14 There was also a reduction in provisional 15 ballots, from 32,000 in the 2008 presidential election 16 to nearly 500 in the 2012 presidential election. As 17 technology evolves, and information becoming instantly 18 available, one of the greatest challenges facing an 19 election official is meeting voter demand for new, 20 better technology and of course candidates' and 21 campaigns' and the media's demand for even faster
22 results reporting. This is a particularly challenging 23 task for election administrators in vote by mail
24 states. Returned ballot envelopes must be processed, 25 signatures verified, and ballots scanned and tabulated

1 before results are ever even posted. These processes
2 take time and many voters wait until just before 3 election day to return their ballot, which has an 4 impact on processing times.

5 King County Elections has conducted three 6 lean events designed to increase productivity, reduce 7 processing times and eliminate waste. Staff members
8 from many different departments of Elections came 9 together to evaluate signature verification, ballot 10 opening, processes and identify improvements that could 11 be made in each of those areas.

12 Through these events we were able to reduce 13 the time it takes to verify a signature by 36% and 14 implement a redesign of a security envelope that 15 reduced ballot processing time by 30%.

16 In our five-year strategic plan, we have an 17 ambitious goal to reduce ballot time to an average of 18 one day, which will make results available to voters 19 that much sooner.

20 As mentioned earlier, we're dealing with a 21 very mobile voter population and registrations that 22 don't move with them presents a challenge. So we 23 update our voter records constantly. Every single 24 election we're getting data from the United States 25 Postal Service, if a voter has submitted a change of 1 address. Also through a project called ERIC that I

2 believe another eight states are involved with as well, 3 which is communicating where voters are registered on 4 more of a national level. And then of course, from the 5 Department of Licensing where King County alone gets 6 approximately 80% of registrations and notifications
7 from the Department of Licensing.

8 Elections office also connected to another
9 lean event to evaluate and improve the voter 10 registration paper form process because we still do 11 have approximately 11% of our voters that submit 12 information in a paper form. Over the course of a 13 week, we're able to reduce the turnaround time of 14 processing those paper registrations by 43% and the 15 processing time by nearly 45%.

16 To further inform the public and engage them
17 in the election process, we also designed an ad
18 campaign, The Informed Voter campaign; and we focused 19 on key messages. We partnered with local northwest 20 celebrities, including Olympic Gold Medalist Nathan 21 Adrian, Chef Tom Douglas, Novelist JA Jance. We have 22 been able to make 15 million contacts in 2013 alone 23 with that ad campaign and signature problems and late 24 ballots are on the decline.

25 As you can see, there are challenges facing

1 officials, but if we choose to deal with them through 2 innovation and technology, we'll be better off. I 3 stress the technology piece.

4 Thank you very much.

5 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you.

6 Any questions or comments from the panel?

7 MR. FOSTER: I have a question about 8 military voters. Are military voters had problems with 9 getting ballots to Afghanistan, places like that, are 10 they dealt with differently than the voter who asks for 11 a new ballot?

12 MS. WISE: Yes.

13 MR. FOSTER: Why, why are they dealt with 14 differently.

15 MS. WISE: The federal law says that we have 16 to. So they are provided their ballot by paper 45 days 17 prior to an election. And if they have signed up to 18 receive their ballot electronically, they're also 19 e-mailed notification that their ballot is now online
20 and ready for them to access. And that e-mail 21 notification, and there are several e-mail
22 notifications that we send out, that starts 45 days 23 before an election.

24 And then they also have the time after the 25 election, which we call our certification period. It

1 differs between elections. For a general election, it 2 is 21 days in which they have to actually return that 3 ballot packet material back to our office.

4 MR. FOSTER: Should that system be used for 5 all voters?

6 MS. WISE: I think that something similar to 7 that could and should be. But remember that the point 8 is still they have to print out all their materials 9 even if they're in Afghanistan. They still have to 10 print out all materials and mail it back to the 11 elections office. That's how the law is currently. So 12 they can't submit anything online. They're not voting 13 online. They're accessing their ballot online.

14 MR. BURKHOLDER: I have one question for 15 you. It sounds like you guys have taken on the, you 16 know, King County, taken on the task personally or as 17 an organization to implement efficiency measures, to be 18 looking at how you make your process work better.

19 How would you recommend that that become the 20 norm? There are problems in voting. Sometimes it's 21 because there's not interest in becoming more efficient 22 and more customer oriented.

23 And so the question for you is that that 24 seems like the way your agency is going, I'd say the 25 Secretary of State of Washington, as well, how -- what

1 are your recommendations that might come to this 2 commission to say, this is how you get this to become 3 the norm with all of your election offices throughout 4 the country?

5 MS. WISE: I see a lot more in government 6 offices about these kinds of buzzwords lean, agile and 7 these are real, true processes and ideas to evaluate 8 how you're doing your process: You lean it out and 9 make it streamline. I would encourage -- King County
10 Elections, I don't know for how many years, have used 11 the Six Sigma footprint and I would say government and 12 probably many arenas in government, we need to apply 13 that same. So I would suggest, we have an actual lean 14 invitation office for King County alone. So I think 15 that that's something that other government entities 16 should have.

17 And just to add on to that, I brought a 18 folder with some different things that King County 19 election has done and currently doing and there's a 20 page -- two sided page that is dedicated just to talk 21 about lean and lean events. So I've left some of those 22 in the back of the room and I have a packet. But I 23 think we should make it part of offices in the 24 government.

25 MS. DAVIS: Can I spin-off of that a little

1 bit? In Washington, we have legally mandated 2 Certification and Training Program. And King County
3 through that program and the training that's offered 4 through our office has really become an inspiration
5 with the lean process to other counties and including 6 the state. We're looking forward to doing a lean event 7 ourselves for the upcoming initiative check process.

8 And so fortunately, with our Certification
9 and Training Program we do -- we are able to 10 disseminate information and share information and 11 counties are able to share best practices with each 12 other and that's really -- it's really a benefit to 13 everyone.

14 MR. JOHNSON: Is information shared with 15 other states?

16 MS. DAVIS: Sure. I mean, there's the 17 National Association of Secretaries of State and then 18 the State Elections Directors Conferences; and, yeah, 19 that information is often shared.

20 MS. WISE: I just got back from Denver from 21 the Election Center and discussed it there with some of 22 my peers from Florida and Alabama and across the 23 nation, so it's picking up steam.

24 MR. BURKHOLDER: Great.

25 MS. HUERTA: In terms of the sign up for the

1 Affordable Care Act, in the state of Washington were 2 you able to combine that with voter registration? When 3 people signed up for the Affordable Act, were you able 4 to --

5 MS. ABLE: Part of the online system in the 6 Affordable Care Act does give people a connection to 7 register online, but they haven't been able to solve 8 that problem with in person or on phone registrations 9 in all cases. And so that's an area that -- and to 10 follow up with.

11 MS. HUERTA: But online process you were 12 able to do that?

13 MS. ABLE: Yes. It's a link within the -- 14 on the website for signing up.

15 MS. DAVIS: They're directed to My Vote
16 page.

17 MS. ABLE: To the Secretary of State My Vote
18 page.

19 MR. BURKHOLDER: I neglected to say if you 20 have any materials that you did not submit to Alan or 21 if you have additional materials that you want to 22 submit, make sure that the Voting Rights Project gets 23 it, make sure you give them to Alan. Great.

24 So we have one more panel and that is Josh
25 Goldberg with the office of Oregon Secretary of State,

1 Kappy Eaton with the League of Women Voters of Oregon,
2 and with the Oregon Voice, Emily Jameson.

3 Also we have opportunity at the very end of 4 the night to give public testimony for anyone who 5 didn't sign up to give public testimony.

6 I have you first.

7 MR. GOLDBERG: My name is Josh Goldberg.
8 I'm policy adviser for Secretary of State Kate Brown.
9 I'm really excited that you can hold a hearing in the 10 Pacific northwest. We often joke with Washington that 11 Oregon and Washington constantly compete and have a 12 friendly rivalry to see who is going to implement the 13 next innovation in the next election.

14 They were the first to adopt vote by mail.
15 We were the first in the United States, if not the 16 world, to adopt vote by tablet, some of tools of 17 technology that Esther was talking about earlier.

18 I hope to keep my remarks fairly short. I
19 would like to talk about three Oregon innovations, 20 three things that originated with Oregon that we think 21 could be modeled to other states and jurisdictions
22 looking to provide more secure, more accessible voting 23 and hopefully recommendations to consider.

24 We first did vote by mail. Oregon held its 25 last polling place election in 1996. It's worked

1 really well. We've talked about the convenience and 2 accessibility for voters at-large and voters with 3 disability.

4 I just want to make one point a finer point;
5 and that is talking about a 2006 case in Tillamook 6 County. In Tillamook, days before the presidential 7 election, days before the general election, there was a 8 massive flood that wiped out most of the city. Still, 9 despite the sort of unfortunate tragedy that happened 10 in that city, we saw a turnout at 72%. We believe that 11 the resiliency of vote by mail correlated with the 12 positive turnout in Tillamook County can be a model for 13 other jurisdictions undergoing emergency management.
14 So that was my one finer point of vote by mail, is that 15 it is extremely resilient.

16 The second point I want to make is about the 17 National Registration Act. Oregon has been working to 18 improve its relationship with public assistance 19 agencies to provide more Oregonians the opportunity to 20 register to vote when they apply for public assistance, 21 but I want to put a different spin on this.

22 We have been partnering with Oregon Voice 23 that Emily's associated with, as well as a number of 24 organizations, including the League, to unofficially
25 designate our United States Citizen and Immigration

1 Services Office in Portland as an NVRA agency.

2 Basically, at the tail-end of every single 3 naturalization ceremony, we have volunteers who speak 4 many different languages taking the opportunity, it's 5 built into the ceremony, to not only educate these new 6 citizens on how we vote in Oregon and Washington by 7 mail, but also register them to vote. And we've seen a 8 testimony success. We've seen nearly 90% of new 9 Americans registered to vote. We think this system is 10 truly remarkable, given both the geographic diversity 11 of the citizens going through the Citizen and 12 Immigration Office.

13 But we also think it puts together a really 14 important point between citizenship and voting, but now 15 that they're Americans, they have the right and they 16 are empowered and will receive a ballot.

17 And I think the fact that Secretary Brown 18 will be calling on the White House administration to 19 see if there's ways the federal agencies can, 20 nationwide, step up and take the responsibility as 21 state agencies, have to comply with the National Voter 22 Registration Act and register new Americans as they 23 gain their citizenship.

24 Thirdly, I want to talk about a widespread 25 problem in Oregon, that's voter registration. Oregon

1 has a provision in its constitution that requires
2 voters to register 20 days in advance of elections. So 3 in the 2012 election, we had 16,000 Oregonians who were 4 eligible to vote, who registered to vote, but were 5 unable to receive a ballot because they registered 6 during that 20-day window when most voters are getting 7 more educated and more excited and have more 8 opportunities to vote in the upcoming election over the 9 last three election cycles, we've seen 40,000
10 Oregonians disenfranchised in being unable to vote 11 because they registered to vote in this 20-day window.

12 Secretary Brown saw this was a problem and 13 offered a solution. While it would be difficult to 14 revise Oregon's constitution, she proposed legislation 15 that would, simply put, modernize the voter 16 registration process.

17 As other commenters have mentioned, DMV 18 captures three important pieces of information that 19 determine a voter's eligibility: Citizenship,
20 residency and date of birth. And we also have a 21 mailing address that's important to register the 22 ballot. The legislation said wherever the DMV collects 23 this information, they forward it to our office to 24 register those individuals to vote. We send them a 25 mailing card where they'll have the opportunity to

1 choose a political party or opt out of the system
2 altogether. We were successful in winning bipartisan 3 support out of the House and lost by one vote in the 4 Senate. We will be reintroducing this legislation in 5 2015 and encourage more states to think creatively they 6 can use data to reduce barriers and insure every 7 eligible voter has a meaningful opportunity to cast a
8 ballot.

9 Using both the DMV data where citizens are 10 required to update every 30 days upon a new address and 11 USPS data, as well as data from national databases like 12 ERIC, which has been mentioned in the last panel, we 13 believe we have the strongest and most vibrant voter 14 registration system in the country.

15 And so by taking the lead, Oregon has 16 provided three opportunities for states to model its 17 successes.

18 Vote by mail, while some people are 19 nostalgic for waiting in line, we would strongly 20 recommend federal legislation that says no state can 21 require an excuse to vote absentee, to make no excuse 22 absentee the law of the land everywhere.

23 Secondly, sort of calling on sort of key 24 federal agencies, including the U.S. citizenship and 25 immigration service to provide integrated voter

1 registration and education into their core service and 2 core mission.

3 And thirdly to think creatively about how 4 you can use technology, new sources of data to make 5 sure that every voter has the opportunity to cast their 6 ballot on election day. Thank you.

7 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. Any
8 questions?

9 MR. FOSTER: I want to make sure I got that 10 third point right. In that -- well, maybe it's any 11 time. You're taking the position that if you have the 12 information, you'll send out to the person a validation 13 that they're registered to vote?

14 MR. GOLDBERG: Yes.

15 MR. FOSTER: It's opposite; the person 16 doesn't have to take the initiative; you do it and they 17 then go from there.

18 MR. NATHANSON: Yes.

19 MS. HUERTA: That's automatic registration.

20 MR. GOLDBERG: Yes.

21 MS. HUERTA: Wow.

22 MR. BURKHOLDER: It hasn't passed yet.

23 MS. HUERTA: I understand that. I
24 understand that. But it's wonderful. That would be a 25 model.

1 MR. BURKHOLDER: Sounds like the Bus Project
2 or the Washington Bus's dream: Automatic registration
3 in Washington.

4 Next speaker, Ms. Kappa Eaton.

5 MS. EATON: I'm Kappy Eaton. I'm the 6 coordinator for the League of Women Voters of Oregon.
7 I'd like to look at the history a little bit in Oregon.
8 300,000 people came over the Oregon Trail and one of 9 the first things that they did, with that many people 10 in 1846, was that they got a territorial government and 11 required people to vote. They had to vote for their 12 territorial government and governor and so we started 13 right there. We've been continuing ever since.

14 Particularly in the last two decades since 15 1991, we have made some significant progress in our 16 elections. We created the first voter -- motor voter 17 law in 1991 before the federal law was enacted. We 18 knew it was coming and we decided to get on board 19 before it came. And as Josh pointed out, it's been 20 very successful.

21 We also, with the advent of HAVA, we use the 22 funds to create a centralized voter registration system 23 which we didn't have before. Voters were registered in 24 the counties, but there wasn't a centralized system 25 which now makes it a lot more easier for access and for

1 counties to talk to each other and to make sure that no 2 person is registered more than once, which people have 3 complained about.

4 We also established what we know as the OR 5 star system. And that's an online idea and system 6 where you can go in and find out where the money is 7 coming from in campaign finance, who is sponsoring who, 8 how their contributions were made and who is making the 9 expenses. And that's been a very critical point in 10 getting people involved with campaigns and knowing 11 what's going on and who is doing what and how they 12 could themselves participate.

13 We also would have created a system of 14 easy-to-read Spanish votes -- voting information and 15 the League of Women Voters has been involved with the 16 Secretary of State's office and the election division 17 in printing those easy-to-read voter cards which we try 18 to do at about the fourth grade level so it makes it 19 easier for a number of people who really couldn't 20 access information about elections to have that in a 21 more readable form.

22 And during a legislative session in 2013, 23 there was a proposal that the Secretary of State, in 24 fact, be required to publish all education voter 25 education materials in the language in every county

1 across the state where at a certain population levels, 2 if it reached that population level, whether it was 3 Chinese or Spanish or whatever, the information for the 4 ballot would all have to be printed in those languages.
5 That was a cost factor which the legislature was not 6 willing to take, but they, in fact, did enact a study 7 commission which the Secretary of State has to look at 8 the issue of providing voter education materials for 9 people with other languages, other than Spanish, that's 10 where we made the biggest -- the biggest hit.

11 In Multnomah county, they published their 12 voter registration at about 10 or 12 different 13 languages, but they're the only county that does that.
14 And Josh has outlined for you the modernization bill
15 that was introduced in 2013 and we expect, as a League, 16 to have support of that modernization through the 17 legislature.

18 I also want to talk a little bit about the 19 military vote that you asked a question about. We 20 initiated, after 2009, a program by which we can 21 electronically send the ballot to members of the 22 military along with residents of Oregon who live 23 overseas over a long period of time. They can do their 24 ballot. They have to fax it back because we need the 25 signature. And along with that, they have to agree

1 that their vote is not private because the election
2 district has to see that signature. And so they also 3 affirm that they're willing to have that take place.
4 But that's been very successful and it's a good way to 5 insure that those in military service overseas do have 6 an opportunity to participate in our votes.

7 We had some interesting things come up every 8 legislative session from a cadre of people who don't 9 like vote by mail. And so they continue to say that we 10 have a lot of fraud in our election system because of 11 vote by mail and, therefore, they want to require more 12 and more and more local boards and groups of people who 13 will be in the elections offices during elections.

14 The latest one was to have a defective 15 ballot board. Now we have lots of processes and 16 procedures in the law as to how to handle ballots that 17 are spoiled or in some way not usable, but they want 18 one more. There was a hearing on that bill, but it did 19 not pass. We expect them to come back in 2015, but 20 there's a more important issue that is in line with 21 what's going on across the country; and that is the 22 challenges to people actually voting.

23 So there was a bill brought up in our short 24 session in 2014 that would, in trying to give more -- 25 how shall I say it. It would require more information

1 about residency because they wanted to challenge more 2 people as to whether they really were living where they 3 said they were living. But the major piece of that 4 that was disturbing was it required a Secretary of 5 State to do research in a study on every voter who was 6 registered in Oregon as to the reliability and the 7 validity of their registration.

8 Obviously, that did not pass. However, we 9 expect that it will be brought up again in 2015 and 10 that poses a tremendous problem and it also brings 11 forth the idea of things being so suspect that you 12 can't believe what we now require as a residency proof 13 as being somehow not correct or invalid. Those are the 14 kinds of challenges we're having to our system because 15 people don't believe that vote by mail is very good.
16 They want to go to the polls.

17 And one thing that we found rather amusing
18 in the League, when people complained, they liked to go 19 to their polling place, they like to meet their friends
20 in their polling place. And our answer to them is, you 21 mean you only want to go see your friends and neighbors 22 every two years at an election? Come on. So we find 23 that in Oregon, we want fair elections, we want easy, 24 accessible registration procedures, which we believe we 25 have.

1 And so we will continue to work with the 2 Secretary of State to prevent those people who are 3 trying to manipulate the system and will try to make it
4 better.

5 MR. BURKHOLDER: As an Oregonian, I'll thank 6 you for that now.

7 Any questions or comments?

8 MR. JOHNSON: Have you had any fraud in 9 Oregon that's been sustained, voter fraud?

10 MS. EATON: Excuse me?

11 MR. JOHNSON: Have you had any cases of 12 voter fraud in Oregon?

13 MS. EATON: We have found no voter fraud, 14 there have been two complaints, what, in the 15 years,
15 no. There isn't any voter fraud and that's -- if you 16 look across the country, that's the evidence they're 17 trying to find to put in all of the new restrictions on 18 voting that are going on right now, is they challenge 19 voters, voter fraud. We don't have that.

20 MR. FOSTER: That's a good answer. In the 21 military or overseas, I didn't know if it was both, you 22 have to fax the ballot back and then you said you had 23 to agree that it wouldn't be private?

24 MS. EATON: They have to agree because their 25 signature appears on the ballot.

1 MR. FOSTER: How public is it? Is it public
2 record?

3 MS. EATON: No. There's a secure fax
4 machine that sends that back. So no, it's not a public
5 record.

6 MR. FOSTER: So a couple people on staff
7 verify it's the signature.

8 MS. EATON: The election office to which 9 they send that, they have to say that that's a okay.

10 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very much. And 11 Emily Jamison.

12 MS. JAMESON: Thank you. I work at Oregon
13 Voice and Oregon Voice is an affiliate of the national 14 State Voices network. We are committed to bolstering 15 democratic participation in the state by registering 16 eligible Oregonians to vote, and by encouraging those 17 registered to follow through with the act of voting.
18 We focus on engaging the Rising American Electorate, a 19 segment of the population who historically turn out to 20 vote at lower numbers than the general population.
21 This group includes young people under 30, unmarried 22 women, and people of color. We also work to engage 23 other under-represented groups including low-income 24 people, individuals with disabilities, and rural 25 Oregonians.

1 So I'm going to talk a little bit more about 2 the NVRA, which you've heard from many of my colleagues 3 on the other panels already.

4 So it is widely known as the Motor-Voter Law
5 for integrating voter registration and driver's license 6 applications, NVRA set out to fix weaknesses in the 7 democracy by addressing the fact that certain eligible 8 citizens were not voting due to difficulties they 9 encountered in becoming registered to vote. In passing 10 the bill, the House intended Congress to assist in 11 reducing barriers, particularly government-imposed 12 barriers, to applying for registration wherever 13 possible. The NVRA's intent was that people would 14 receive the opportunity to register to vote at any 15 designated public-assistance agency in a state that 16 receives federal funding. And that is under Section 7.
17 So the public assistance agencies are like Medicaid 18 SNAP, WIC, you could go to the DHS where you would try 19 to get those services.

20 Public assistance agencies play a unique
21 role in our democracy. Those they serve often include 22 low-income citizens and people with disabilities.
23 These individuals also happen to be less likely to go
24 to the DMV for a driver's license or to register a car.
25 Recent census data shows that lower income voters

1 trailed higher-income voters by more than 20 points.
2 Young people voted at half the rate of older voters, 3 with similar patterns emerging among Latino voters and 4 recent immigrant voters, but when well-trained, front 5 line service providers, such as intake workers, 6 community navigators, and enrollment specialists, can 7 be some of the most trusted folks, can be some of most 8 trusted culturally competent messengers given their 9 unique position and the way that they have access to 10 these clients to be able to invite them to be 11 participate in the democracy by registering to vote.

12 In 2012, Oregon Voice began to work with 13 health care and housing service providers throughout 14 the state as part of a national research project to 15 register their clients to vote. While many of the 16 organizations engaged agreed that registering their 17 clients to vote was a good idea, when it came to 18 implementing best voter registration practices the 19 amount of resistance we experienced was striking. More 20 often there was either complete ignorance or just plain 21 confusion about the law. What our Civic Engagement 22 Coordinator found was that many viewed this law as a 23 very low priority.

24 At the same time, over the past four years, 25 our Secretary of State's office - a true champion of 1 voting rights -- has been working hard to coach and 2 support public assistance agencies throughout the state

3 to implement voter-registration at the time eligibility
4 of services is determined. The changes they have set 5 forth are significant strides forward for Oregon.

6 A few of their efforts are especially worth 7 noting: They have developed new tools for agencies to 8 manage the NVRA process, including identifying 9 low-performing DHS offices. They have created an 10 online training module that all new employees must 11 take. A new documentation process was set in place 12 making it easier to report completed voter registration 13 forms. One standout is the new NVRA training manual 14 that our Secretary of State's office has created to 15 reflect the most recent understanding of the law.
16 Last, and perhaps most important to actual 17 implementation, they have been working to ensure that 18 DHS and OHA, Oregon Health Authority, have enough staff 19 to coordinate and manage NVRA activities and that their 20 staff have some direction on how to manage the process.
21 We are optimistic that with our SOS's leadership, NVRA
22 compliance in Oregon will continue to improve over
23 time.

24 One group of underrepresented voters who 25 rarely receive much attention but would benefit

1 tremendously from better NVRA compliance are rural 2 Oregonians who as the data suggests, are an 3 increasingly racially diverse group. One out of every 4 four voting age Oregonians, 711,087 people, are 5 considered rural.

6 Rural Americans, and specifically
7 Oregonians, are provided with fewer opportunities to 8 register to vote than those who reside in larger 9 metropolitan areas where voter registration canvasses
10 are likely to happen. Again, government agencies 11 that serve the public could be the first-responders 12 here since they are uniquely positioned to engage 13 eligible rural voters. Consistent compliance with 14 NVRA in rural areas would mean another very important 15 step in the right direction.

16 As a non-partisan, civic engagement
17 organization dedicated to strengthening our democracy 18 through full voter enfranchisement, we believe the 19 National Voter Registration Act can truly champion 20 democratic participation among those of us least 21 likely to be invited to participate in our democracy.
22 We see an important role for federal, state and local 23 government, along with designated service providers
24 to play in making the NVRA work. Yet, we would argue 25 that government and local service agencies do not

1 have to do this work alone. Rather, when it comes to 2 promoting full democratic participation for all 3 eligible voters -- in words and in action -- there is 4 an entire community of nonpartisan, civic engagements
5 organizations, like Oregon Voice and many others 6 represented in this room today, who stand at the 7 ready to assist and to see that the NVRA does fulfill 8 its promise.

9 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you. Any questions?

10 MR. FOSTER: You use an interesting
11 demographic of women unmarried, women under 30.

12 MS. JAMESON: Those are separate and it's 13 like a Zin diagram, some unmarried women are under 30, 14 unmarried women as a group tend to vote at lower rates 15 than married women, so we look at some of these 16 segments of the population and recognize that there's a 17 lot of potential there to engage those voters and help 18 them to also be representing their communities and 19 their interests.

20 MR. FOSTER: Have you come to a conclusion
21 why?

22 MS. JAMESON: You know, we haven't really,
23 but that's one of the areas that Oregon Voice along 24 with some of our partner groups in Oregon wants to 25 start doing some testing and see kind of -- what these

1 people respond to from a married women group and then 2 unmarried women.

3 And our initial just looking into that 4 initially we were surprised to see that many of the 5 issues we thought just would be appealing to single 6 women were actually just across the board. There were 7 more women's issues rather than one group or another.

8 MS. EATON: I have one other thing I'd like 9 to add. We did pass a bill in the short session that 10 would requires the universities and colleges to 11 cooperate more vigorously with student associations in 12 their voter registration activities. And we think 13 that's a very good idea because lots of times 14 administration has not really wanted to cooperate with 15 those and includes even using class time to talk about 16 the importance of voting.

17 And we tried to get the 16-year-old 18 registration law passed but we didn't. We do have 19 registrations for 17-year-olds who will be 18 by the 20 time they vote -- but the 16 didn't play.

21 MR. BURKHOLDER: Okay. So we have one 22 member of the public who has come in and would like to 23 speak to the commission and that was Sharon Maeda with 24 the Seattle Voting Rights Task Force. As they say last 25 but not least.

1 MS. HUERTA: Thank you. That was very 2 encouraging.

3 MS. MAEDA: I'll be very short. I know you
4 need to have dinner.

5 I'm here on behalf of the Seattle Immigrant 6 Voting Rights Task Force that was created last year by 7 former mayor Mike McGinn and is being continued by 8 current mayor Ed Murray. On behalf of Luis Fraga, who 9 happens to be the vice provost of this university in 10 political science with an expertise on elections, I'm 11 happy to just let you know that we are in the process 12 of developing our recommendations. We have to give 13 them to the mayor first. So we will be sending you a 14 copy of those as soon as they are available.

15 We have been looking at programs throughout 16 the country, and although we've have been studying for 17 quite some months, I learned many new things today and 18 have taken notes for my colleague.

19 We have looked at everything from 20 pre-registration for 16 and 17-year-olds with -- when 21 they get their driver's license, the language issue 22 that several other people have testified to, is one 23 that we know is a serious problem. In Martin Luther 24 King County that we are in, we have this distinction of 25 having the most diverse zip code in the entire country,

1 which means many, many languages. And so there are 2 communities where there are single digits in terms of 3 the overall population but who clearly need voter 4 information in their languages.

5 For example, we have just exceeded the state 6 of Minnesota in terms of the Somali population, we have 7 the largest Somali population in the country now and 8 they are at low single digit numbers but they are avid 9 voters and it's very difficult for them, you know how 10 the voter pamphlets are, if English is your first 11 language, you still have problems sometimes 12 understanding it.

13 So those are some of the issues that we're 14 looking at. All the way to minute issues such as where 15 the drop boxes are located for voters to drop off their 16 ballots.

17 But we thank you very much for being here in 18 Seattle and the information learned today will 19 certainly inform the final version of our 20 recommendations and we will pass them on to you as soon 21 as we have them available. Thank you very much.

22 MR. BURKHOLDER: Thank you very. Does any 23 member of the commission have any statements they'd 24 like to make at the end of the night after hearing all 25 we've heard?

1 MR. FOSTER: What I heard tonight was 2 litigate, legislate and lobby; and all of us are going
3 to walk out of here with a lot of new information and I
4 think it's incumbent upon us to take that information
5 out to a broader group. We had probably 150 people 6 here in and out tonight. But I hope that a group that 7 hears this as it goes on to the commission will know 8 that every one of these people will be passing on a lot 9 of this information. Thanks for letting us
10 participate.

11 MR. BURKHOLDER: Mr. Johnson? Mrs. Huerta?

12 MS. HUERTA: I want to thank the folks at 13 Oregon and Washington state. And we'll be happy to 14 share a lot of the work that you're doing to make voter 15 registration and voter effectiveness a lot better and 16 also the fact that everything that you said here today 17 is going to be in the national record which will then 18 also be available to people of other states throughout 19 the United States of America.

20 So anyway, congratulations for being ahead
21 of the game and making democracy work. Thank you.

22 MR. BURKHOLDER: I want to say thank you for 23 the opportunity to participate. I learned a lot of new 24 things. I think the key thing here is that governments 25 that see their citizens voting as a key to legitimacy

1 is the difference. And obviously some people see 2 getting people voting as a way they can lose power
3 instead of empower people. I think on the whole,
4 though, I heard much more positive ideas tonight than I 5 thought. I thought I would hear a lot of problems with 6 the system, but I still heard a lot of positive 7 approaches to try to use new technology, new ways of 8 understanding new ways of educating to try to get 9 people to vote.

10 I have one pet peeve, because I certainly am 11 in a non-partisan position, and Judge, I think you, 12 too, is no one addressed the issue of how the 13 parties -- there's two -- well, the only parties we 14 ever talk about control access to the ballots so much.
15 Now I know in Washington state you have the top two 16 vote getters get to go forward regardless of party.
17 That's pretty unusual. Even in progressive Oregon, if 18 you're not registered in one party or another, you 19 don't get to vote. You don't get to choose who gets to 20 go on the ballot in the long run. So to me that's an 21 issue that I think we need to be addressing when we 22 talk about voting reform that we have certain ideas 23 that don't even get on the table because of the system 24 that we have.

25 But that's the only thing I that I would

1 have raised up that was different, but I'm not an 2 expert like you guys are. Thank you very much. Thank 3 you for the work.

4 Do you have a final comment that you need to 5 make?

6 MS. HUERTA: That's true. In California we 7 do have a ballot system, but regardless of party, they 8 can be democrats or republican, but I think it's a big 9 issue. It's almost impossible in states in America for 10 third-parties to be able to reform because the numbers 11 of voters they have to acquire to be on the ballot. In 12 California, we have the Wing party and that's the 13 freedom on the ballot in California.

14 MR. FOSTER: I would say while we do have 15 that here, it was done over the top of political 16 parties, not in conjunction with them.

17 MR. MARTINSON: Before we evolve into a 18 partisan discussion of any sort, just briefly before we 19 conclude, I want to thank the law school, our 20 commissioners, our panelists and the members of the 21 public who provided testimony here today.

22 We covered a lot of issues today and I think 23 we probably could have been here for a couple more 24 hours hearing about other issues and flushing out some 25 of the testimony. But this is just the beginning of a

1 process and beginning of a discussion that I hope that 2 many of you here continue to have with each other and 3 with others in this region and with those working 4 nationally.

5 And I expect, you know, that what's 6 discussed here will be the basis of further discussions
7 as we work on a non-partisan basis to improve voting
8 rights and election administration here in the Pacific 9 Northwest and throughout the country.

10 If you didn't get a chance to present
11 testimony or you want to submit something written, you
12 can send it to me, AMartison@lawyerscommittee.org or go 13 online to Seattlehearings.lawyerscommittee.org.

14 So that's a wrap. Good night everyone and
15 thank you.

16 (Thereupon, the hearing concluded at 8:13
17 p.m.)

C E R T I F I C A T E

STATE OF WASHINGTON)
) ss.
 COUNTY OF BENTON)

This is to certify that I, Monna J. Nickeson, Certified Court Reporter in and for the State of Washington, residing at Richland, reported the within and foregoing proceedings; said proceedings being taken before me on the date herein set forth; that said proceedings was taken by me in shorthand and thereafter under my supervision transcribed, and that same is a full, true and correct record of the testimony of said witnesses.

I further certify that I am not a relative or employee or attorney or counsel of any of the parties, nor am I financially interested in the outcome of the cause.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have set my hand this 8th day of May, 2014

Monna J. Nickeson
 CCR NO. 3322

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10 11 12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

NATIONAL COMMISSION ON VOTING RIGHTS

REGIONAL HEARING

May 1, 2014
3:16 p.m. - 7:48 p.m.

The Journey Museum
222 New York Street
Rapid City, SD 57701

BEFORE COMMISSIONERS:

Patty Ferguson-Bohnee
Michaelynn Hawk
Richard Braunstein
A. Gay Kingman

MODERATOR:

Eileen O'Connor

Reported By: Jacqueline K. Perli
Registered Professional Reporter
Black Hills Reporting
1601 Mt. Rushmore Rd., Ste. 3280
Rapid City, SD 57701
605.721.2600

1	I N D E X
2		PAGE
3	PANEL 1
4	Pat Duffy	7
5	Steve Emery	14
6	Gary Collins	20
7	William "Snuffly" Main	24
8	Bill White Head	31
9	Audience Member - Mark Lone Hill	74
10	PANEL 2
11	Mark Wandering Medicine	79
12	Julie Garreau	96
13	O.J. Semans, Sr.	102
14	Bret Healy	111
15	PANEL 3
16	Mel Siyo	138
17	Libby Skarin	146
18	Garth Massey	158
19	Jean Schroedel	166
20	CLOSING REMARKS - Ms. Bohnie	193
21
22
23
24
25

1 MS. O'CONNOR: Good afternoon and welcome.
2 Thank you all for coming. This is the 22nd, I 3 believe, hearing on the -- hosted by the 4 National Commission on Voting Rights, which was 5 convened by the Lawyers Committee last year
6 after the decision in Shelby County.

7 For those of you who don't know about the 8 Lawyers Committee, it's a national nonprofit, 9 nonpartisan civil rights organization founded in 10 1963 at the request of President John F.
11 Kennedy. We work in a variety of areas, 12 including fair housing and community
13 development, education, employment, public
14 policy and, of course, the reason we're here 15 today, voting.

16 So today's hearing, as I said, is one in a 17 series of hearings that are being held across 18 the country. We'll hear from several panels of 19 witnesses, and there will be opportunity for 20 public testimony as well. For anyone who's 21 interested in testifying who hasn't yet signed 22 up, see me over here, please.

23 And presiding over our hearing today are 24 five guest Commissioners who I'll introduce in a 25 moment. But the guest Commissioners will

1 receive the testimony from the witnesses and 2 then ask follow-up questions to further develop
3 the record.

4 The hearing is being transcribed. So for 5 everyone who's speaking, please speak into the 6 microphone and clearly. The record from this 7 hearing and from the other hearings that are 8 happening across the country will be used as the 9 basis for two reports that the National 10 Commission on Voting Rights will release later 11 this year: One report on voting discrimination, 12 and one report on election administration.

13 I don't think I mentioned before, but those 14 are the two areas, very broad areas, obviously, 15 that are covered in these hearings.

16 Some of the hearings are based just in one
17 state, some of them are regional. This is a 18 regional hearing. So this hearing will cover 19 North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and 20 Wyoming.

21 Now, I will -- well, first, I'd like to 22 thank all of the organizations that worked very,
23 very hard to help put this together. As I
24 mentioned, I'm with the Lawyers Committee, but I
25 reached out and got a great response from lots

1 of organizations and individuals in this area to 2 help put this together.

3 So, I don't forget anyone, I want to thank 4 the ACLU of Montana, the ACLU of North Dakota, 5 the ACLU of South Dakota, and the ACLU of 6 Wyoming, Four Directions, Montana Voice, North
7 Dakota Protection and Advocacy Project, North 8 Dakota Women's Network, and Western Native
9 Voice.

10 So those -- that group of organizations and 11 some individuals really helped, were 12 instrumental in putting this together. So a 13 great big thank you to you, and also to our 14 witnesses and our Commissioners.

15 I'll now just briefly introduce our 16 Commissioners. Gay Kingman, Richard Braunstein, 17 Patty Ferguson-Bohnee, and Michaelynn Hawk are 18 here, and President Bryan Brewer will be here a 19 little bit later.

20 So now I'd like to turn it over to Steve 21 Emery for a prayer.

22 MR. EMERY: I want to pray in my Lakota 23 language, but I ask you to pray with me. Mainly 24 we're going to pray for good health, long lives, 25 happiness, and for the right for people to vote

1 fairly.

2 (Prayer was given in Lakota language.)

3 Grandfather, Great Spirit, the Four 4 Directions, and Grandmother Earth, again today a 5 humble man stands before you. I send my voice
6 forth, I send it to you. I'm no one and I'm 7 nothing, but my relatives call me Chief
8 Whirlwind. I ask that you recognize me and hear 9 me.

10 Grandfather, today our relatives have come 11 together so that we all may have the right to 12 vote as nonIndians do. And Grandfather, we ask 13 your help in this. Grandfather, today here in 14 the Rapid City, all over Indian Country, across 15 the world, Grandfather, we remember those who 16 are in mourning, those who have been struck by 17 tragedy. We remember the orphans, the elderly, 18 the children, those who are incarcerated, and 19 those who are hospitalized or shut in.

20 And Grandfather, over the seas, we remember 21 our soldiers and all our military personnel, and 22 we ask that they -- we pray that they return 23 home safely. All these things we pray only to 24 you, all my relations. So be it.

25 Thank you.

1 MS. O'CONNOR: Thank you. I'll turn it over
2 to our guest Commissioners to get the testimony 3 started.

4 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much, Mr. Emery, 5 for that -- for offering that prayer so we can 6 start in a good way. Really appreciate that.

7 Thank you very much, panelists, for being 8 here. We look forward to receiving your 9 testimony. Each of you will have five minutes, 10 and Professor Braunstein is going to be keeping 11 time. And at the end of your testimony, we'll 12 ask questions. So we'll start with Mr. Duffy.

13 MR. DUFFY: I don't know what I'm going to 14 say. My name is Patrick Duffy. I did that 15 voting rights work for about ten years in 16 South Dakota. I tried -- I tried the Bone Shirt 17 and the Cottier case, both of which were the 18 longest voting rights cases tried in U.S.
19 history, separated by about six weeks.

20 The comments that I'll leave you about 21 voting rights in South Dakota should probably 22 begin with the call that I got from Lachlan 23 McDonald about representing Indian voters in 24 South Dakota.

25 I just had left my law firm that I had been

1 a partner at for over a decade, and I had done a
2 lot of interesting legal work in South Dakota, 3 did a lot of environmental work, did a lot of 4 work involving paleontology.

5 I was in my office and Lachlan called. And 6 those of you who know Lachlan know he's a
7 courtly gentleman from South Carolina who speaks
8 a little bit like this. And he said, Mr. Duffy, 9 he said, We desperately need your help. He 10 said, We can't get another lawyer in 11 South Dakota to help us with these cases.

12 And I said, Look, I've done so damn much 13 good work in this state, I need an armored car 14 to get around a lot of small towns. I don't 15 think I'm that interested in more.

16 He remonstrated with me a bit, and I said,
17 Look, I don't know anything about voting rights 18 other than it's driven by demographers,
19 statisticians, anthropologists, and historians.
20 And so call me back in a couple of weeks and 21 tell me something objective.

22 And he called me back in a couple weeks and 23 he said -- now, Lachlan went down in 1964 right
24 away to the Deep South. By this point the ACLU 25 had been deconstructing South Dakota to some

1 degree. By deconstructing I mean looking at 2 city councils, county commissions, school
3 boards, the legislature itself.

4 And he said, Mr. Duffy, he said, At an 5 objective level, what we see in South Dakota is 6 far worse than anything I saw in the Deep South 7 in the middle '60s.

8 Well, I said, I guess wouldn't be much of a 9 lawyer if I said no.

10 So I did it for about 10, 11 years. Cost me
11 about half a million bucks, literally. Had a 12 good banker. At one point I had to write a 13 check back to the State of South Dakota for 14 about 95,000 bucks.

15 What was voting rights work like in 16 South Dakota? It was really brutal, in my 17 opinion. The Cottier case, for example, I
18 thought was a slam dunk. It involved the City
19 of Martin. They hadn't redistricted in 55
20 years.

21 I just thought -- I mean, we picked off a 22 lot of the low-hanging fruit, school boards and 23 things like that. I thought this was going to 24 be one of those, but it wasn't. Went up to the 25 Eighth Circuit three times, ended up costing

1 every -- damn near broke poor Bryan Sells, the 2 ACLU lawyer that was with me. Cost the ACLU 3 about $900,000 in lost fees to survive that.

4 There was just never -- I guess what I would 5 say about voting rights in South Dakota, there's 6 just never any quarter given. Unless the -- 7 unless it was just so bad that you couldn't keep 8 a straight face looking at it, you were going to 9 get a fight.

10 And I think I can say that the fight you
11 were going to get, when compared to fights all 12 across the United States of America, going back 13 to the middle '60s, was as fierce a fight as you 14 were going to find anywhere.

15 Now, we had one case -- but I can't remember 16 the name of the plaintiff -- it involved Bill
17 Janklow's refusal to submit South Dakota laws 18 for preclearance. And he quoted -- with some 19 pride, he quoted George Wallace. He didn't see 20 why we should have to be dictated to by the 21 federal government. Crazy talk. And so we had 22 about 680 laws that he had refused to preclear 23 that we went through.

24 Now, that's not -- there is nothing like 25 that in the history of the United States

1 anyplace else. Decades of just basically a 2 go-to-hell attitude when it came to something as 3 simple and as mandatory as preclearance.

4 Two little vignettes, because I know I don't 5 have a lot of time, first of all, you know -- 6 and you're going to get to hear from him. Two 7 guys here, Bret Healy and O.J. Semans, some of 8 the greatest organizers of Get Out The Vote
9 anywhere in Indian Country. And that's a little 10 bit off my track, but I want to come to it here 11 in a minute.

12 When I first started working, of course, you 13 know, you hear about everything. So I got some 14 calls from some -- am I down to 17 seconds? All 15 right. I'm dang near done. That's about all I 16 got. Thanks.

17 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Share your one last story, 18 would you?

19 MR. DUFFY: Which --

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Sorry to interrupt you.

21 MR. DUFFY: Which one?

22 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: The one you were just on.

23 MR. DUFFY: The one I was just on was a 24 shadowy kind of guy, about 60 years old, 61, was 25 haunting polling places. And I got this call

1 from white women. This -- he -- how obtrusive
2 he was. Oh, man, it was shrewd.

3 Turned out he was a former staffer for Hatch 4 from Utah. He had a law degree. But he was 5 shadowy. So I go with him and found out what 6 had he done. Oh, it was so smart, you'd just 7 wriggle as you see how oppressive and 8 intelligent the right to keep the right to vote 9 down can be.

10 He'd wait until an old Indian woman had 11 finished voting, and he would say, Hey. He 12 would say, Hey, hey, hey, come here for a 13 second. She'd stop for a second, and he'd say, 14 You know, the Democrats are paying you 20 bucks
15 to vote and Daschle is paying you 10.

16 Really?

17 Yeah, it's for traveling money.

18 No kidding? Where do we go to get that?

19 Well, he'd point over to the Republican 20 office in Pine Ridge, and go over there and 21 there was a very naive and nice woman waiting 22 there for her. And she said, Where's the money 23 the Democrats are paying? She said, What?

24 Well, there's the next link to the story.
25 So she calls a journalist up here and reports

1 that she's getting inquiries like that. Next 2 thing we know that's the story up here in the 3 newspaper.

4 I guess what I would say about voting rights 5 work in South Dakota, I find it to be very 6 oppressive. I understand the game. It's all 7 across the nation. Let's be honest about it.
8 Doesn't matter where you are, in Michigan with 9 Affirmative Action or anything else, the 10 squelching of the right to vote is part of the 11 machine that makes the other side work.

12 And I guess the only thing I would say is A, 13 they are very good at it; way better than we 14 think they are. And B, at least in terms of my 15 experience in South Dakota, they will spend 16 untold amounts of money to win.

17 The law firm that was on the other side of 18 me in Cottier and Bone Shirt ended up walking 19 away -- she made -- the woman who represented 20 those opposed to us put to shame all of the 21 insurance defense lawyers in that firm. She was 22 paid over $2.4 million by the time she was done.

23 So it's a tough -- it's really tough, it's 24 really real, and it's really quite oppressive, 25 more so than perhaps even the commissioners

1 might think. Thank you.

2 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much. Next
3 we'll hear from Mr. Steve Emery.

4 MR. EMERY: Going to start with a
5 traditional song, assuming I can stand up.

6 (Song was given in Lakota language.)

7 My uncle Oliver Red Cloud died last July the 8 4th, but if he was here, he would want me to do 9 this.

10 (Statement given in Lakota language.)

11 My relatives and friends, I'm happy to see 12 all of you and I shake your hands. I'm going to 13 say something, and if I make a mistake, please 14 tell me about it. Back in '91 when South Dakota 15 redistricted according to the constitution, my 16 younger brother, Mark Van Norman, who was the 17 first member of our tribe to graduate from 18 Harvard Law School -- I just happened to be the 19 second -- ran for office with my cousin Rocky 20 LeCompte.

21 And you know my brother actually, he got 22 whipped in the primary, and that's okay. He had 23 the chance to run, I guess. And that's in 24 District 28A and 28B. And then in 1996, the 25 South Dakota legislature said, you know, we

1 don't like this two district or split district 2 stuff so we're going to reunite them. And they 3 reunified them.

4 And in the process, I just happened to 5 notify -- notice that they were violating not 6 only their state constitution but I thought they 7 were violating our rights under the '65 voting
8 rights act.

9 So I did two things. I wrote a letter to 10 the Justice Department asking them to do some 11 enforcement, and I started writing to the ACLU.
12 Don't be surprised by, hey, the ACLU responded 13 long before justice did. And my good friends
14 Lachlan McDonald and Bryan Sells and Patrick
15 Duffy, they came and they helped us.

16 And the very interesting thing happened
17 while they were in the federal district court.
18 The South Dakota Attorneys General's Office
19 said, Hey, wait a minute, this is an issue of 20 state law, Judge, Federal Judge. We want this 21 certified to the South Dakota Supreme Court.

22 And so we all talked about it. Okay. It's 23 a state law issue, let them certify it. And we 24 all were absolutely convinced that there was no
25 possibility that the Supreme Court would get it

1 right.

2 We were wrong. The South Dakota Supreme 3 Court got it right. They said no redistricting 4 except in the year following the decennial 5 census, and that year was not 1996. Since the 6 decennial censuses are done in the years with 7 the aught, that is 1990, 2000, 2010, so on, you 8 couldn't redistrict in '96.

9 Well, that was all well and good and 10 everything. And just before -- after the ACLU
11 had filed, but just before the 6 years and 90 12 days had run out on the United States, because 13 under 28 USC Section 2415, once the United 14 States has notice of a claim, they have 6 years
15 and 90 days to file on it.

16 The United States came in. And it's 17 interesting because, in point of fact, it was 18 the ACLU that won everything. The argument that 19 the United States wanted to make about Section 20 5, and other folks will get there, the Court 21 never reached because the South Dakota Supreme 22 Court said very clearly -- with one dissent, 23 Justice Saber. And I guess his dissent is its 24 own reward, so you folks should read it 25 sometime.

1 At any rate, we got a split district back,
2 28A and 28B. Accordingly, my youngest brother, 3 Thomas Van Norman, became the very first Indian 4 ever elected from Cheyenne River to the state 5 house.

6 And I want to say, there were some wonderful
7 people that helped along the way. My cousin 8 Rocky LeCompte was one of my co-plaintiffs, and 9 he's now gone. But I want to say, when my 10 brother ran for the state house, my cousin Rocky 11 ran for the senate. And of course Cousin Rocky 12 didn't stand a chance and we knew it.

13 But we got up there to Isabel before every 14 -- on Saturday morning at 9:00 in Isabel the 15 Democratic party was supposed to meet. Well, 16 the word was they didn't really -- yeah, you
17 gave him time to finish so I'm going to go ahead
18 on and finish because I think it's fair. Do 19 you? Okay.

20 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Sure.

21 MR. EMERY: Do you think it's fair or should 22 I shut up?

23 MS. BOHNEE: Please continue.

24 MR. EMERY: Okay. Well, it went like this.
25 We beat them, and we opened up because we had a

1 quorum. And my brother and Rocky were nominated
2 by acclamation. Ultimately, with my brother Tom 3 in the legislature, we got a bill through. It's 4 called the Dangling Objects Bill.

5 I got tired of getting stopped for DWI. You 6 know, Driving While Indian. I like to have an 7 eagle feather in my car. It happened this 8 particular time I was on the bottom down in 9 Reeder on the Yankton reservation following some 10 nuns to a wake.

11 The nuns had a rosary hanging from their 12 mirror, St. Christopher and Jesus on the 13 dashboard, so they were well accompanied. Now 14 it's true that the rosary was the only dangling 15 object. But apparently the trooper couldn't see 16 that one, but he really saw my eagle feather.

17 And so I want to say that one really nice
18 thing that happened out of this is, Indians now 19 get to have eagle feathers on their mirrors
20 because my brother Tom introduced this 21 legislation to help fix the situation I 22 described.

23 I want to thank you for listening. I hope 24 we get justice.

25 Oh, one last final comment. Dewey and

1 Ziebach Counties, from 1975 until the last 2 election, never had any bilingual voting
3 materials. Starting when I returned in 1989
4 from Harvard Law School, I offered regularly to 5 translate free of charge for either county any 6 voting materials that they wanted and was never 7 taken up on the offer.

8 In closing, after my brother won his 9 election, a fellow by the name of Ted Klautt 10 came over to the state house and said, Hey, by 11 the way, I'm jumping on this legislation that 12 Eric Bogue just sponsored -- and that's the 13 fellow that beat my brother, by the way -- and 14 we're going to take your district away.

15 So that's sort of how things go. And Eric 16 is a friend of mine now, and we worked 17 everything out, and it's nice. But to have 18 fundamental fairness continue, we need the 19 Voting Rights Act reauthorized. Thank you very 20 kindly.

21 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. Just a
22 clarification, Mr. Emery, you mentioned that 23 until the last election, Dewey and one other 24 county?

25 MR. EMERY: Ziebach. Z-I-E-B-A-C-H.

1 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. Okay. Next we have 2 Mr. Gary Collins.

3 MR. COLLINS: Thank you. It's a pleasure to 4 be here to represent all of Indian nations with 5 regards to voting and voting rights concerns.
6 And being from Wyoming where there's only one 7 tribe -- one reservation with two tribes, we 8 seem to be suppressed in many other ways than 9 South Dakota, Montana, or New Mexico.

10 A little bit of history, I ran for county
11 commissioner several years ago and I didn't know
12 that I wouldn't -- I didn't think I'd have a 13 chance, and I didn't. But as time went on, 14 there was seven or eight other individuals that 15 ran for county commission and we started 16 analyzing what's going on here.

17 It turned out that the county was that 18 large. All five commissioners could be living 19 on the same one-half mile. And so we raised 20 that concern with Lachlan in about 2009 and 21 2010. We filed a lawsuit about that issue of 22 at-large voting districts. We wanted to have 23 districts that were applicable to the population 24 base.

25 So what we did is, we filed this lawsuit

1 there were five plaintiffs, tribal members, 2 against the county commission and some of their 3 staff. And when we did that, we very clearly 4 identified the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and 5 1973.

6 After a bench trial which generated 112
7 pages from Alan Johnson, the judge at that time,
8 it was very clear that, based on that testimony, 9 his decision was that the county was directed to 10 go ahead and move forward in a districting plan 11 that he could approve.

12 Well, that didn't happen. They -- they 13 appealed that decision and it went to back to 14 the judge. And he reviewed their rebuttal, and 15 again, it was denied. And so then the county
16 then went to the Tenth Circuit Court in Denver.
17 And it was reviewed and they upheld Judge
18 Johnson's position.

19 And this all happened from the year 2009 and 20 finally culminated on March the 15th, 2012. But 21 during that process, the Wyoming state 22 legislature was meeting in the early part of 23 2012, and a bill was submitted to the 24 legislature regarding that they were opposed as 25 a state to districting of counties for voting

1 concerns.

2 The issue is, we weren't being represented
3 and our population is 20 percent of the county.
4 We do now have a Native American on the county
5 commission. I'm proud to say that we have three 6 people -- actually, two people running for state 7 legislature -- they just made those 8 announcements this week -- because we've gained 9 some momentum in this voting rights concern.

10 And when we got out the vote for our last 11 election with Patrick Goggles as our state 12 representative, who has now resigned and let 13 others step forward, we started the voting 14 rights effort as a grassroots concern within our 15 community.

16 And it wasn't just for that candidate. It's 17 the beginning from now on. We're going to 18 expand that and develop that as we move forward 19 so that there's more participation. And the 20 issue is, our population is growing. There's 21 25,000 people in the county, 15,000 of those are 22 Native American.

23 So I think the Wasichu and the others there, 24 the nonIndians, they see the intimidation of 25 them being a minority in the county, and they

1 are fearful of that. They are fearful of those 2 things.

3 We have racial profiling all the time. One
4 lady got stopped and she asked why. She said,
5 Well, the ball on your bumper is covering a 6 number on your license plate on your pickup
7 truck. That's just absurd, the kind of things 8 that goes on.

9 But anyway, the historical premise of the 10 reservation and the Native American people, the 11 Arapahoe and Shoshone, we've been suppressed for 12 so long, but we still established our social and 13 historical conditions.

14 But we never -- my parents didn't really 15 know how to address all these things in a bigger 16 manner. So they protected themselves as Indian 17 people and then they protected myself and my 18 family, my brothers, for us.

19 So we didn't learn a lot of the culture. We 20 didn't learn a lot of the language. So we were 21 always suppressed in that environment in the 22 '40s and '50s, if not before that, even before 23 that when we were not even citizens yet.

24 So it's been a long journey, and I've been 25 able to step up and make a difference for the

1 voting opportunities and the established
2 recognition of our tribal people.

3 There's so much more that I could go
4 through. I've got all the documents here that I
5 can leave for other information, or I can 6 electronically send these to you. Because I
7 think the first opinion by Judge Johnson of 100 8 pages is pretty profound.

9 There's very testing documents, and 10 testimony in the documents that makes it very 11 clear of the racism. Makes it very clear of the 12 kinds of things that we address every day. So 13 thank you. I'm open for questions.

14 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. And if you do have 15 documents, we can accept that for the record. I 16 think that would be very helpful.

17 MR. COLLINS: Okay. I will do that.

18 MS. BOHNEE: Okay. Our next speaker is 19 Mr. William Snuffy Main.

20 MR. MAIN: Good afternoon. Thank you for 21 having me. I wrote -- I just got here late
22 because I was typing. I have a hard time 23 condensing stuff into five minutes. I made some 24 notes here. And my opening remarks may not seem 25 relevant at first, but they will be relevant at

1 the end of my talk.

2 We have two tribes living on Fort Belknap
3 now, the Gros Ventre, which I'm a member of, and 4 the Assiniboine. Prior to being confined to the 5 reservation, they lived free nomadic lives in 6 vast territories. Before they were invaded by 7 white settlers, these tribes had a democratic 8 system of determining who was best suited to be 9 their leaders and were in control of their own 10 destiny.

11 With the encroachment of white settlers and 12 the quest for more of what we had, there became 13 what is now called government appointed chiefs.
14 These so-called chiefs were not recognized as 15 leaders by their own people, but were simply 16 individuals that were willing to say or agree to 17 whatever government officials asked of them.

18 Our original territory outlined in 1855
19 encompassed over half of what is now the state 20 of Montana. Millions of acres. With the 21 discovery of gold in Montana, many settlers 22 quickly moved in to our traditional lands. The 23 newly established white residents of Montana
24 wanted to destroy tribes, including the Gros 25 Ventre.

1 In an attempt to exterminate us, we were 2 intentionally infected with small pox several 3 times, and by 1978 -- excuse me, 1871, this once 4 powerful nation was reduced to less than 300 5 souls.

6 After the extermination failed, a series of 7 questionable treaties and agreements up to the 8 1888 pushed by settlers through the United 9 States government, reduced our millions of acres 10 to a small reservation now known as Fort 11 Belknap, which is primarily located in Blaine 12 County, with a small portion in Phillips County, 13 Montana.

14 The original Fort Belknap Agency, which is 15 now off the reservation, was established in 16 1874. And to the nonIndian residents, it is 17 called Paradise Valley. My dad said that the 18 Gros Ventres had a broken hearted dance when 19 they had to leave that area.

20 The current boundary of the Fort Belknap
21 Indian reservation was established around 1888, 22 the same time the state of Montana was 23 organizing. After the state of Montana was 24 established, the anti-Indian mentality of the 25 settlers controlled the legislature. The 1 mentality trickled down to county government as 2 they organized.

3 Counties with large concentrations of 4 Indians historically have discriminated against 5 Indians, particularly in Blaine County. This 6 mentality has evolved over the years and today 7 is not as open as it once was, and it now tries 8 to hide in secrecy, similar to the Masons.

9 However, it is alive and well in Blaine
10 County. Despite having a large Indian voting 11 population in Blaine County, no Indian had ever 12 been elected to the county commission under the 13 at-large voting system.

14 Although having three district seats, the 15 commissioners were elected at-large by all 16 Blaine County voters. The United States 17 identified this situation as a violation of 18 Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act.

19 Attorneys for the U.S. Department of Justice 20 Civil Rights Division filed suit in federal 21 court stating that the at-large voting system 22 was a violation of Section 2. Basically because 23 the creation of the system itself may not have 24 intentionally violated the Voting Rights Act, 25 Indians were unable to elect candidates of their

1 choice given the totality of circumstances.

2 The system was examined by a number of 3 experts with several different ideas in mind.
4 One was official discrimination against American 5 Indians, racially polarized voting, voting 6 procedures that enhanced the opportunities for 7 discrimination against American Indians,
8 depressed socioeconomic conditions for American 9 Indians, a tenuous justification for at-large 10 voting system.

11 While Blaine County argued that none of this 12 existed in their voting system, the record was 13 clear to the contrary. The most important test 14 to prove discrimination in my opinion was 15 official discrimination against the Indians,
16 which started shortly after Montana became a 17 state in 1889.

18 In 1897 reservation residents could not vote
19 unless they were government employees and owned 20 a home elsewhere in the state. In 1899, 21 Montana -- the Montana legislature called for 22 federal legislation prohibiting Indians from 23 leaving the reservation. In 1912, an individual 24 who takes part in tribal affairs and receives 25 tribal funds may not vote in general or school

1 elections. In 1919, the state legislature
2 prohibited the creation of an election office
3 within the boundaries of Indian reservations.
4 1903 to 1953 Indians were prohibited from 5 carrying guns or ammunition outside the 6 reservation. Indians became Blaine County
7 citizens in 1921 and the majority of Blaine
8 County residents opposed that action.

9 This list goes on and on and on, all the way 10 up to today. The federal district court in the 11 U.S. versus Blaine County case I talked about 12 ruled that discrimination did exist and ordered 13 a new voting system.

14 Blaine County appealed to the Ninth Circuit
15 who upheld the district court's decision. One 16 Indian was elected to the Blaine County 17 Commission at the first election under the new 18 system and still occupies that seat today.

19 However, we're still being fooled, I guess, 20 because there's one seat that is primarily 21 nonIndian, they elect a nonIndian. There's a 22 seat that's primarily Indian, we elect an 23 Indian.

24 The one that's split, the person we support 25 oftentimes changes their position on a number of 1 issues after they get elected and is the 2 deciding factor in many important issues.

3 Just like today, you'll hear about the 4 Wandering Medicine case. Blaine County is also 5 involved in that. And the deciding vote whether 6 or not to fight satellite offices on 7 reservations was decided by this one nonIndian 8 who is married to an Indian. He changed his 9 vote after he got elected.

10 There was a special election going on at the 11 time he was -- the Wandering Medicine case 12 started. He promised to allow the vote to allow 13 satellite offices on the reservation. After he 14 got elected, carrying a huge number of Indian 15 votes, he changed his vote.

16 In closing, I guess, the mentality of the 17 early settlers has become institutionalized in 18 Blaine County. I recently attended a water 19 rights meeting in Chinook, Montana, the 20 county -- Blaine County seat. And the 21 discussion centered around Fort Belknap
22 reservation having first priority to water
23 rights.

24 And an old man stood up, I could tell he was 25 pretty close to being an old homesteader

1 himself, but he stood up and said, Why don't we 2 just take the water like we took everything
3 else. That's the mentality that's still out
4 there in Indian Country, in Blaine County,
5 probably other Indian places.

6 But my grandfather was heavily involved in 7 voting rights in the early days. He -- he only 8 had a 6th grade education but he recognized the 9 importance of the Indian vote. And he wrote a 10 proclamation in 1951 for the Montana -- excuse
11 me, the Montana Intertribal Policy Board.

12 And in his proclamation he said that if 13 Indians would all vote as a block, they could 14 control the power in the state of Montana. I 15 think that's what these people are afraid of is 16 Indians gaining any type of control of our 17 destiny again. Thank you.

18 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. And finally on the 19 panel we have Mr. Bill White Head.

20 MR. WHITE HEAD: I guess, yeah, Bill White
21 Head. I'm from the Fort Peck reservation,
22 Assiniboine, Sioux, Northeastern Montana. I'm 23 very grateful to have been invited to -- with 24 this forum with such distinguished gentlemen and 25 people who are really in the trenches, who make

1 the changes that are necessary. Sometimes when 2 you're out there, you really feel alone, but 3 it's encouraging being with these gentlemen
4 here.

5 I have been on tribal council a couple
6 times. I've been a former state legislator. I 7 guess from growing up, just playing ball, as an 8 underdog, we've always felt, you know, cheated
9 in many ways. And as time has evolved, you 10 know, in terms of decision making, we 11 understand, you know.

12 I guess today I want to let you know about 13 the case which we just won a couple weeks ago, 14 which was the Jackson versus the Wolf Point 15 School Board. It's ironic that my -- Ron 16 Jackson has taken a lead. He's my nephew, and I
17 guess I tried -- I guess I influenced him.

18 Later on he asked me to join them when there 19 was a little rough road ahead, so I -- because 20 I've been a plaintiff against the state that 21 enabled us to get every reservation a
22 representative in the state legislature, whereby 23 now every reservation is represented by a person 24 from that particular area.

25 I've also been a plaintiff against the

1 county to deal with at-large voting. And we,
2 just before they moved to Blaine County, the 3 civil rights, I guess the wisdom of the county
4 commissioner saw that they were going to lose, 5 so they yielded to us so they wouldn't have to 6 spend the money. So they did agree to have 7 district representation. We have since had an 8 Indian elected. We have also had a county
9 sheriff, county attorney elected, all of Native
10 American heritage.

11 My winning of the legislature sure in 1996, I 12 served in 1997, '98, it was a -- it was a good 13 time in our history in the state of Montana.
14 For the first time we -- that I can recall, and 15 maybe somebody can correct me if I'm wrong. But 16 in 1996, Bill Clinton ran, and we were trying to 17 get an Indian to run for the congress when 18 Congressman Pat Williams was a friend of Indians 19 all over the nation, decided not to run.

20 And we had -- they were trying to recruit 21 Bill Yellowtail to run. And in the state they 22 had a meeting and they had signs up in the 23 audience saying, Run, Bill, Run.

24 So in my campaign, my tribal chairman, Caleb
25 Shields, some of you may know, was my campaign

1 manager. The president of the community college
2 was Jim Shanley, which gave -- he was my 3 campaign treasurer. And we organized around the 4 theme of Run, Bill, Run. Clinton for president, 5 Yellowtail for Congress, and White Head for 6 legislature. And we beat the son of the former 7 governor, Governor Ted Schwinden, and who was 8 being groomed for the next congressman and 9 senator.

10 So we have made some progress, although at 11 different times it doesn't seem so because, as 12 you know, you know, we have this -- also this 13 problem within our own communities. The degree 14 to which our individual leadership assimilates, 15 forget who they are. Elected officials who are 16 representing Native American people have more 17 than just representing someone like running for 18 representing some corporation.

19 The elected officials in our communities run 20 and, even in the tribal council, they have a 21 responsibility to look out for their respective 22 nations, their land base, their language, their 23 culture, our whole identity.

24 We have a tough job to hold. At the same we 25 are seized by the capital system that tells us

1 to look out for Number One. We have a tough
2 road to go. I'm glad Montana People's Action 3 is here, because over half the population we 4 always knew live in an urban area. But in the 5 state of Montana now, over half live in the 6 urban areas in the state of Montana. You can 7 sure tell by the number of inmates in Deer 8 Lodge, our state prison, the degree of 9 discrimination there.

10 But I also have to hope that our 11 representatives from People's Action have to get 12 across to those people who would want to run for 13 office from urban areas who are Indian to not 14 forget where they come from, because they have a 15 responsibility to maintain our sovereignty and 16 jurisdiction. As they represent those people in 17 urban areas, they must always become aware of 18 that.

19 One other thing you have to understand in 20 terms of the tactics that are happening to us 21 all the time is this move towards -- towards 22 at-large voting, even after or -- no, not the 23 at-large but my point here is nonpartisan
24 elections like we have in Roosevelt County.

25 See, generally you'll have some progressive

1 wasichus who will vote with us, and -- but when 2 you have nonpartisanship, it's straight Indians
3 against whites. So we must, if they are trying 4 to do that in your community, we have to get to 5 those county meetings and participate in your 6 respective meetings on a local level, to not 7 allow that to happen.

8 Because that's what happened to us now in 9 Fort Peck on the county level, even though we -- 10 they probably did it because we elected a county 11 commissioner and a county attorney.

12 But we got a long way to go and I'm glad 13 that you're all here as supporters. Or even if 14 you're from the other side, you know, we need to 15 know who your enemies are as well, because 16 that's happened. We've had people stopping in 17 telling us what we're doing. But that's okay, 18 because we're coming on and I'm glad to be here 19 with all my partners. Thank you.

20 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

21 MR. WHITE HEAD: I have a handout. It's 22 from our mutual friend, Lachlan McDonald, that 23 gives a history of all the Indian situations in 24 the state of Montana. Historical from the Witty 25 Boy versus Bighorn County.

1 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Did Bill Yellowtail win his 2 congressional bid?

3 MR. WHITE HEAD: No, he lost, but --

4 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: But the other two Bills
5 won, right?

6 MR. WHITE HEAD: Yeah.

7 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: To quote Meat Loaf, "Two 8 out of three ain't bad."

9 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much for your 10 testimony. I'd like to commend all of you for 11 the work that you've done on behalf of Indian 12 people to assist in getting Indians on the 13 ballot, getting people elected, and insuring 14 that Indian people have equal access to the 15 poles.

16 At this time I want to open it up to the 17 guest Commissioners to ask questions.

18 MS. HAWK: From the ones from Montana, Bill 19 and Snuffy, and including Gary with a lot of the 20 voting rights issues going on throughout all the 21 states, I guess it would be an inclusion of 22 Steve even, too, and Pat, but you know, this 23 continuous voters suppression, you know, we see 24 it within the states and also the border towns 25 of the counties.

1 And you know, do you feel that there's 2 extreme -- is it subtle, has it gotten better as 3 far as the border town racism and the local 4 counties where Natives do have a say-so within 5 the voting system?

6 MR. COLLINS: I might take a first
7 opportunity. Even after our case, had Judge
8 Johnson expressed his opinion to have the county 9 go back and figure out how they wanted to 10 segment the county for districts, they came back 11 and said, Well, we'll set the Indian people in 12 communities over here in this voting area, but 13 we'll still have the rest of the county, the 14 other four candidates for county commission, at 15 large. Flew right in defiance of the judge's 16 opinion. They still tried to get it back to 17 where it was at-large voting.

18 And there is today currently some very 19 strong animosities. I'll just touch base here, 20 because it affects all of us. The Northern 21 Arapahoe Nation and Shoshone tribes applied to 22 EPA five years ago to get recognition as tribes 23 as states in air quality monitoring.

24 And in December that decision was made in 25 favor of the tribes to have air quality mon --

1 air quality monitoring status, the same as 2 states do. The State of Wyoming filed suit
3 against us. The Wyoming Farm Bureau filed suit
4 against us. The county commissioners filed suit
5 against us. And the City of Riverton, Wyoming 6 filed suit against that decision.

7 And all we're saying is, we wanted to 8 monitor the air, safe. Safe air for everybody.
9 But they just -- no matter how pervasive that 10 our opinion is to protect the environment, 11 protect Mother Earth, our heritage and our 12 culture, we were being refused to recognize that 13 at the city, county, and state levels.

14 Today, we're in lawsuit today because of 15 that. What that has created is a significant 16 amount of animosity that's always there. And we 17 as tribal members have established what's called 18 our young people, a Wind River Equality
19 Commission.

20 And we've had several public meetings to 21 include the nonIndians, to come to the table and 22 talk to us about these issues that are dear to 23 both of our camps. But historically it's always 24 been against, Indian versus white. And they 25 just can't seem to get over that.

1 And at some point, we'll have 90 percent of 2 the population in the county, and they might 3 best get over that. Because right now, the 4 Arapahoe tribe is the largest employer in the 5 county. We have over 700 employees.

6 So it's like, You Indians do something but 7 don't do it that good. And when we do that,
8 then it's the mindset that's been there for 100
9 years.

10 In fact, in this air quality lawsuit -- and 11 it's gotten national media attention, and it's 12 erroneous from the media. But it says, well, 13 100 years of history and tradition, you just 14 can't throw that out the window. Well if it was 15 wrong in the beginning, if it was illegal from 16 day one, why is it anymore legal today? And 17 that's our position.

18 But the tribes have gotten more educated
19 with our colleagues from Montana, South Dakota, 20 North Dakota. We've got more assertive in our 21 positions to step up and say what we need to do 22 as all of us have here today. And there are 23 others, too, including the commission.

24 So the answer to your question is a long one 25 but the short answer is, yeah, it's still there.

1 Racism is there. Bias is there. Last week the 2 Shoshone/Arapahoe tribes received $150 million 3 in a settlement that was predicated on the 4 miscalculation or no calculation of tribal 5 mineral resources over the last 50 years.

6 My parents and grandparents could have used 7 those dollars back then to seek a window of 8 opportunity that might have had their lives 9 longer. Might have had a better life when they 10 were raising families.

11 So there's parts there that we'll never 12 recover, that loss in dollars and cents. But 13 our lives aren't dollars and cents. It's from 14 our heart. So that $150 million -- of course, 15 the towns all opened up. One dealer sold 70
16 cars in one day.

17 So many of our people decided to go
18 somewhere else with their money and save it 19 because of the animosity in the community. And 20 the difficulty is, we as Indian people don't 21 have a place to spend our money, so we don't 22 turn it over in the community. We don't have 23 quote, unquote an Indian Walmart. Our Walmart 24 was the buffalo, and that was taken away.

25 So there's -- giving up is not an option in

1 our camp. We just continue to keep striving 2 forward and doing within the system, the Voting
3 Rights Act itself, the law that's established 4 for everybody to follow even though we find out 5 that it's biased when they make the 6 interpretation.

7 But the fact is very clear that we have to 8 have a challenge with whatever we do. Takes us 9 twice as long and twice the effort of anybody
10 else. But I think all of us here are for, and I 11 think all of you are, too, are for the people
12 who aren't even born yet. Our young ones.
13 Thank you.

14 MS. BOHNEE: Go ahead.

15 MR. MAIN: To answer your question briefly, 16 yes, I believe racism is alive and well. My 17 experience is at Fort Belknap, I think it's 18 gotten a number of ways to pound us down. I'll 19 give you a couple examples.

20 There was a huge heap leach gold mine in one 21 of our towns above our communities that was 22 poisoning the water and land. They allowed that 23 to stay, allowed that to continue. At the same 24 time they were citing our communities for having 25 open pit dumps for their garbage. They cited us

1 and fined us for that, but yet they let that 2 mining go on.

3 Our buffalo, we have buffalo pasture. We 4 tried to increase our herd with the Yellowstone
5 buffalo. There was a big scare of Brucellosis
6 which, you know, we have never had a confirmed
7 case of Brucellosis in our buffalo.

8 The surrounding ranchers to our buffalo
9 pasture which borders the reservation, feed
10 their cows right outside of the buffalo pasture
11 in the wintertime. When the buffalo get out, 12 they shoot them with no consequences. If we 13 shot one of their cows for trespassing, we'd be 14 charged.

15 When our Indian teens playing basketball, 16 highway patrol is out in full force pulling 17 Indians over, citing them. When Indian 18 candidates sometimes file for public office, 19 they are bird-dogged and pulled over, harassed, 20 taken in.

21 But yes, it's alive and well. Myself, I
22 grew up in my younger years in Butte, Montana
23 and I didn't see -- I saw very little 24 discrimination because we were all of the same 25 economic standing, most of us. We were all

1 families of minors. We all learned from a young 2 age the importance of voting because of the 3 unions. And getting back to the reservation in 4 1972, it was a total cultural shock for me to 5 see how Indians were treated. It was bad and it 6 hasn't changed much.

7 MS. BOHNEE: If I follow up on one thing
8 that you mentioned with regards to Native
9 candidates being pulled over.

10 MR. MAIN: Yes.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Is that something recent, do
12 you? You know, is there something more that you 13 can share with us for the record?

14 MR. MAIN: We haven't had any recent Indian 15 candidates off -- for seats off the reservation.
16 But prior to that, yes. Probably -- I would say 17 probably the last election where that happened 18 was 2010, I believe it was.

19 MS. BOHNEE: Okay.

20 MR. MAIN: Then I'd like to clarify one 21 thing also. I think I kind of missed part of my 22 talk here, was that the district court ruled in 23 favor that there was voting discrimination in 24 Blaine County.

25 Blaine County appealed that to the Ninth

1 Circuit and lost on almost every point except 2 some minor technicalities in the expert 3 witnesses' testimony.

4 MS. BOHNEE: And what year was that?

5 MR. MAIN: That was in '04.

6 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: Did you want to say
7 something?

8 MR. WHITE HEAD: And for some of you who 9 know who the Red Neck Allies are, is Mountain 10 States Foundation is alive and well. They were 11 the ones helping in that appeal and they are 12 back again trying to help again over there in 13 recent situations.

14 And even as we resolve the case against the 15 school, in last week's paper, the consent decree 16 is what I handed out, as well as a history of 17 the Montana case, the Witty Boy. But even last 18 week's paper -- we have a school board election
19 coming up on Tuesday.

20 What the school board is saying is that they 21 are going to have to cut back Head Start because 22 of this lawsuit. If they wouldn't have 23 appealed -- they admit they knew they were 24 wrong. If they wouldn't have used that money to 25 appeal, we wouldn't have to be cutting back. So

1 it was their -- they are trying to blame us now
2 for them breaking the law, you know.

3 And then I happen to be chairman of the 4 Assiniboine Water Project using our treaty
5 rights. Let's not forget that using our treaty 6 rights and our water compact to give the -- to 7 enable the approximately 30,000 people in four 8 counties, our reservation -- Fort Peck
9 reservation, Roosevelt County, Valley County, 10 Daniels County, and Sheridan County.

11 Have 3,200 miles of pipe. And the cities, 12 like the border towns somebody mentioned 13 earlier, Glasgow and even within the town of 14 Wolf Point, who we just dealt with, don't want 15 us to get the water system.

16 So we are prepared to go around them and 17 until the city people and their citizens riled 18 up against their leadership there, and now they 19 are going to -- they just signed a letter of 20 intent to deal with our water project.

21 So racism is still alive and well, and some 22 of the people -- there's a particular senator up 23 there in Scobey, which is well-known for racism, 24 he's been against the buffalo, he's introduced
25 legislation.

1 I said, Gee, when we get our water project
2 going around, it's going in his area, we're 3 going to go around his house. The heck with 4 him. Thanks.

5 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. Mr. Emery?

6 MR. EMERY: I guess I'd like to give a more
7 concrete example in the legislature itself. A 8 friend of mine, when we're not in court against 9 each other, Mark Barnett was the attorney 10 general when my brother Tom and some other good 11 folks sponsored a bill.

12 Every year when there's election, the 13 South Dakota Secretary of State's Office calls
14 the Cheyenne River Sioux Tribe and says, We need 15 building space to have our elections in.

16 And yet, for our tribal members who have 17 tribal election the same day, they have to go to 18 two different places to vote, which I thought 19 was ridiculous. And so I knew that the state 20 would raise the jurisdictional issue, and my 21 brother, Tom Van Norman, who was our house
22 representative from 28A agreed.

23 So we introduced legislation which would 24 have put the State Superintendent of Election in 25 charge of the building where the state election

1 was. But on the other side of the building,
2 we'd run our tribal election. If there was any 3 disputes, we would empower the State
4 Superintendent of Election, whoever that person
5 was, to go ahead and have our tribal members 6 arrested if they misbehaved under tribal law.

7 When they had the hearing scheduled, it was 8 scheduled at 7:00 in the morning Central 9 Standard Time. Of course in Eagle Butte, we're 10 on Mountain Standard Time; therefore, it's 6:00 11 our time.

12 So we got up about 3:00 in the morning and 13 went down for the hearing. Testified on the 14 hearing that we'd been doing this as long as 15 they had been having elections that allowed 16 Indians to vote.

17 And by the way, I didn't hear it mentioned, 18 but South Dakota has a history of, up until the 19 1960s, Indians were not allowed to sit on state 20 juries. I don't know if you folks know that, 21 but I think that's a relevant aspect of this 22 discussion that was not addressed.

23 At any rate, my good friend Mark Barnett
24 came in and testified that, Oh, no, there's no
25 jurisdictional problem. The state, you know,

1 they can -- we don't need any tribal authority.
2 If we have a state problem, we'll take care of 3 it under state law.

4 There's only one minor problem. On a
5 federal Indian reservation, the state has no 6 jurisdiction over American Indians and the 7 attorney general knew it. But of course the 8 State Affairs Committee takes their legal advice 9 from the South Dakota Attorney General, and he's 10 a constitutional officer of the state and can 11 sue any other constitutional officer or the 12 legislature itself, for that matter, if he 13 doesn't like what's been done.

14 And I say "he" because there's never been a 15 female attorney general in South Dakota. We 16 hope there will be some day.

17 At any rate, imagine that we're providing 18 the buildings, the electricity, and every other 19 thing, but we can't on the other side of the 20 building run a concurrent tribal election.

21 I think that shows exactly where we are and 22 that South Dakota in many ways is like 23 Birmingham, Alabama about 1930. Thank you.

24 MS. BOHNEE: I just have one follow-up
25 question on that point, too. But with regards

1 to the time frame, when was this meeting or the 2 hearing?

3 MR. EMERY: Oh, shucks. We started this,
4 let's see, my brother was sworn in in 2001. So
5 we did this in 2001, 2002, and I think they did
6 it a couple times since then. I at that time
7 had left Cheyenne River and become a vice 8 president at the Sinte Gleska University on the 9 Rosebud, and general counsel to the University.

10 So I was a lobbyist at that point for the 11 Rosebud Sioux Tribe and not the Cheyenne River
12 Sioux Tribe and was no longer intimately 13 involved in trying to get election places. And 14 in Rosebud, to be quite honest, folks weren't 15 all that interested in having a state election 16 in the same place as the tribal election. But, 17 nevertheless, it's a really good idea.

18 And assuming, for the sake of argument, that 19 the United States Supreme Court is correct, that 20 we really are citizens of the state, it's 21 difficult to imagine a set of circumstances in 22 which a local election could not be carried on 23 in the same building as a state election when 24 the very government that offers the state the 25 facility to hold the state election in wishes to 1 hold a local election at the same time.

2 And you understand that this isn't something
3 new. This is something old. And yet there's a 4 very clear disclaimer to jurisdiction on Indian 5 lands in the South Dakota Constitution.

6 Moreover, in the gerrymandering that took 7 place in 1996, there's language in the bill that 8 says excluding Indians not taxed, which of 9 course is the language from the United States 10 Constitution. And it's also repeated again in 11 the 14th Amendment.

12 And if those things mean what they say and 13 the tribes are sovereign, then under the joint 14 powers agreement or under the joint power 15 section of the South Dakota Codified Laws, we 16 ought to have been able to work out a joint 17 powers agreement because, for example, we have 18 adopted elements of the South Dakota Uniform
19 Commercial Code so if you want to perfect a 20 security interest on the Cheyenne River
21 reservation, you can go to the tribal 22 secretary's office, pay your fee, they enter it 23 in a computer, and you perfect it and never have 24 to leave the reservation.

25 If we could work stuff like that out, if we

1 could get the gravel so that the county roads
2 are safe for their kids and our kids to travel,
3 it's difficult to imagine why we can't work it 4 out so that everyone can vote.

5 And the at-large voting thing, yeah, that's 6 our problem with the Moreau Grand Electric Coop 7 at home. And our chairman, Kevin Keckler, has 8 been working diligently on that, because his 9 father who is a nonIndian has been on that 10 Moreau Grand Electric Cooperative board for many 11 years.

12 And yet, it's very, very difficult to change
13 the elements of that board. And I frankly 14 believe that if there were an investigation, 15 that they could not hold their position under 16 the existing law. Thank you.

17 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

18 MS. KINGMAN: I guess I'm first. I'd like 19 to applaud all of you for staying with the 20 battle, for all that you've been through. And I
21 know how hard it is with the air quality lawsuit
22 that you're in over there. We were watching 23 that closely here, and I've sent out the 24 information all over because we really are 25 appreciative of what the tribe took -- the stand

1 that you took on that.

2 We have the responsibility of putting 3 together two reports out of this. And while we 4 have you here with your expertise, I'm going to 5 ask you if you could give me how you would fix 6 this.

7 Because we know that the voting rights 8 problem we have is stemming directly from 9 discrimination and trying to oppress the Indian 10 vote. And I would like to start with Mr. Duffy.
11 And if we're going to either work on legislation
12 or -- I mean, get some -- try to get something, 13 some fix in the legislation or whatever, what 14 solution or what fix could we recommend to fix
15 this?

16 I know it's really hard to -- you can't fix
17 discrimination. But what can we do? Mr. Duffy?

18 MR. DUFFY: I don't know. I'm about 19 two-thirds, maybe three-quarters of the way
20 through the United States Supreme Court decision
21 on affirmative action in Michigan. Boy, if you 22 read very many affirmative action cases and you 23 read voting rights cases, the handwriting is on 24 the wall.

25 Some of the statements made, particularly by

1 Thomas and Scalia, I mean, they don't really 2 understand the Voting Rights Act. It just seems 3 to me like, one, you're -- you know, it's -- 4 you're swimming uphill. We're all swimming 5 uphill.

6 Two, in the Eighth Circuit you have only 7 to -- let's be honest about these cases, what 8 kind of cases they are. They fall under the 9 same rubric as would voting rights, abortion 10 rights, affirmative action cases, are all 11 red-hot political cases.

12 And the judges of the Eighth Circuit, like 13 the judges anyplace else, they are going to put 14 a hitch in the step of a federal district court 15 judge who tries to advance that ball very much.

16 All right, that's the first thing I'd say.
17 The state of the law doesn't look very good to 18 me. The second thing I guess I would say is an 19 old saw -- and Healy will be able -- Healy and 20 Semans will be able to talk about this way more 21 than I will.

22 What's the key? Same key that we found with 23 Four Directions. Organize, organize, organize.
24 What difference did it make? I'll tell you what 25 difference it makes. When Tim Johnson beat John

1 Thune, where did the last 500 votes, 527 votes
2 come from that sounded that victory? Right out
3 of Oglala Country.

4 MS. KINGMAN: Shannon County.

5 MR. DUFFY: So who put him in? They know
6 who put him in. I am a little disappointed, I
7 will say, in this sense. Over and over and over 8 again, as it went from county to county, I kept 9 thinking what I'm doing -- and it cost me a lot 10 of money. I mean, real money. Money out of my 11 own pocket at times.

12 I kept thinking, I'm going to see a ground
13 swell of organization come out of Indian 14 Country. I was down at Crazy Horse School, I 15 said -- they said, Well -- I said to all the 16 students there, What am I waiting for? I'm 17 waiting for Crazy Horse and Sitting Bull to show 18 up in Rapid City with law degrees. We got work 19 to do.

20 What's the key? We know what the key is.
21 On one hand, voting rights and affirmative 22 action have probably seen their better days. At 23 least with this court.

24 And the second thing we know for sure is,
25 that the oppression of minority voters has

1 become a business. What we didn't used to talk 2 about, is now openly boasted about. Whether 3 you're listening to Scott Walker or Ryan, any of 4 these guys, they know at the margin that if they 5 can oppress minority people, they will not vote.

6 Now what did we do, Bret? Probably tripled,
7 maybe quadrupled the people registered to vote
8 down there? Got everybody -- got everybody
9 moving. What's the answer? The answer is going 10 to be the same as it's always been:
11 Organization, organization, organization.

12 I don't think -- I don't think that if you 13 were a betting man or woman you'd look down the 14 road, and between the present state of K Street
15 and the present state of the law of both voting 16 rights and affirmative action that you want to 17 make big bets on this area of the law.

18 So what's that leave us with? It leaves us
19 with what we all know what we've got to do.
20 We've got to get to the poles. Indians have got 21 to start voting. When we get Indians organized 22 in this state and they vote, they make a huge 23 difference.

24 And yet, that doesn't seem to be enough to 25 sustain it. Look I'm no -- I'm -- I've got

1 three cousins who are tribal members over at 2 Crow Creek, and I've got a daughter-in-law who's 3 a tribal member down at Oglala Country, and I've 4 got five grandkids who, at least by blood
5 quantum, are Oglala.

6 I don't know how oppressive it is. I know
7 from listening to my cousins how oppressive it
8 is. Followed around a store, make sure you 9 don't steal something, that kind of stuff all 10 your life. But nonetheless, what's the key?
11 What's the answer? Let's get organized. That's 12 always going to be the answer.

13 And I think really, if you read Supreme 14 Court cases, like I think you probably all do, 15 that's what the answer is.

16 MR. EMERY: Want to apologize because I've 17 got older relatives here, and I apologize for 18 talking in front of them. But I want to correct 19 the record on one point, or I just want to 20 elucidate it.

21 My relative here was talking about the 22 future. You know, in our Lakol Woecun Kin we 23 talk about the coming generations in terms of 24 seven generations, and starting with my 25 children, that's my great-great-grandchildren's

1 great-grandchildren.

2 I knew my great-grandmother very well. She 3 thought I was my uncle. But that was perfectly 4 fine with me, because she knew exactly who I was 5 in terms of, you know, me helping her, and 6 getting her what she wanted, because she spoke 7 Lakota to me. And I can't say I knew her 8 great-grandmother but she did.

9 And you know, we're descended from the 10 people that were at the Custer fight. My 11 grandfather's grandmother was both at the Custer
12 fight and at the massacre at Wounded Knee
13 December 29, 1890, as was my grandmother's 14 grandfather, Martin Charger.

15 And I just want to say that in terms of 16 things that can be done, I'm tired of going to 17 an election and handing them my tribal election
18 [sic] and they say, Oh, no we want your driver's 19 license. I'm tired of that.

20 I saw a federal judge the other day struck 21 down the -- in the east, struck down the 22 requirement, the state requirements of you had 23 to have this, that, or the other ID.

24 In our tribe, in order to get a tribal ID,
25 you have to have your Social Security card. Not

1 sure long ago it was easy everybody could get a 2 Social Security card, you could get probably as 3 many as you wanted, but this is no longer so.

4 Today if you don't have a valid Social 5 Security card, which is a front and a back, you
6 can't get a tribal ID.

7 And so given that restriction, it seems 8 nonsensical to me that it's not accepted as a 9 form of identification for the election. It not 10 only seems nonsensical, it seems discriminatory.
11 In fact, I'll be honest, it doesn't seem 12 discriminatory, it just flat out is.

13 And it's interesting to me because, of 14 course, most of the folks I see that run 15 elections in and around Eagle Butte are from 16 good old pioneer families, and I don't have any 17 problem with anybody being from a pioneer 18 family.

19 My favorite South Dakota senator right now 20 is Tim Johnson. His wife was one of my 21 professors at the University of South Dakota, 22 and he used to serve in the legislature with my 23 Uncle Jim. And I think -- and by the way, Jim 24 wasn't elected from a reservation. He was 25 elected out of Custer. Just want to make that

1 clear.

2 At any rate, I think that the ID thing needs
3 to be addressed. And I think also tribal 4 governments themselves, and Cheyenne River
5 usually does this, but when I was a candidate
6 from Corson County for the senate, if I had won, 7 two things would have happened.

8 I would have lost my job for the Standing 9 Rock Sioux Tribe because they don't allow anyone 10 to work for the tribe that is a sitting member 11 of a state government in any capacity.

12 The other thing that would have happened is,
13 I would have been the first Indian ever elected 14 from Corson County, but of course that didn't 15 happen. And that's okay.

16 At that time, in whatever infinite wisdom
17 there was, they decided not to give the tribal 18 employees an hour off to go vote in the state 19 election. Generally, at Cheyenne River we give 20 the tribal employees an hour off to go vote in 21 the tribal election. As long as they bring back 22 that little sticker that says, I voted, it's all 23 good.

24 We need to do that. We need to, as tribal 25 governments -- we shouldn't care at all how our

1 people vote. What we should care about is that 2 they vote.

3 And I've heard that said, and I guess one of 4 the things that sort of bothers me is that it's 5 a tradition among our people that, when there's 6 any event, we feed. Feeding after people vote?
7 After they vote? I don't understand how that's 8 a problem.

9 And yet South Dakota wants to make it like 10 that's some sort of crime. Oh, well, they went 11 and voted because they wanted a bowl of soup.
12 Really? We feed every day in Eagle Butte. If 13 you're hungry, there's the food pantry and 14 there's a soup kitchen, you know.

15 Because we like -- you know, the first two 16 Lakota traditions are song and prayer, and after 17 that, it's sharing food and drink. And so we do 18 these things, and I cannot imagine a set of 19 circumstances under which after someone has 20 already voted, that it would be a wrong thing.
21 Because we don't say, Did you vote Democrat, did 22 you vote Republican? It's just, there's a feed 23 and anybody -- if they didn't vote, anybody
24 could come eat. Why is that wrong?

25 During the campaigns, the candidates surely

1 have barbeques, and they have meet-and-greets, 2 and coffee klatches, and whatever it is that 3 they have. But there's food.

4 So when the Indians bring the food out,
5 where is it a problem? Because I don't 6 understand. I'm missed that day in law school
7 apparently. Thank you.

8 MS. BOHNEE: I have one additional question,
9 and I just wanted to see if we had any people 10 who have signed up for public -- okay. So we're 11 okay.

12 I just made an observation that a few of 13 you, or almost all of you, have mentioned cases 14 that involve Section 2 litigation which, based 15 on the comments from Mr. Duffy, is very 16 expensive, and based on some of the other 17 comments, it takes a lot of time. One of you 18 mentioned that one case lasted three years.

19 And in response to Section 5 concerns, the 20 Supreme Court said that Section 2 in an 21 alternative to have minorities, or Native 22 Americans in this case, elect candidates of 23 their choice.

24 And I just -- you know, you don't have to go 25 on a long time about it, but do you agree that

1 Section 2 is a viable alternative? Mr. Duffy
2 mentioned that he's had to spend a lot of money
3 out of his own pocket, and I'm sure other people 4 have spent a lot of emotional time and money
5 fighting these lawsuits.

6 MR. EMERY: Excuse me. You're talking about 7 bilingual materials?

8 MS. BOHNEE: I'm talking about Section 2, 9 the at-large district.

10 MR. EMERY: Oh. Oh, I'm sorry. Okay.

11 MS. BOHNEE: Versus single member districts.
12 And there's other Section 2 cases. I think 13 Blaine County was a Section 2 case.

14 MR. DUFFY: You know what the answer to the 15 question is already.

16 MS. BOHNEE: But I need you to answer the 17 question for the record.

18 MR. DUFFY: The answer is -- the answer is, 19 sure. It's a hell of a deal as long as you've 20 got -- excuse me. As long as you've got three 21 or four lawyers who are willing to just throw in 22 like they are witless when they are talking to 23 either their wives or their bankers.

24 Yep, you get somebody -- sure, you get 25 somebody like me, throw in, I'll, $200,000,

1 $300,000, $400,000, let's roll the bones. How 2 often is that -- seriously?

3 MS. BOHNEE: Right.

4 MR. DUFFY: How often is that going to 5 happen? Even for the ACLU, much less a guy like 6 me. It's so expensive. The litigation
7 necessary to get to the end, I thought -- I did 8 a lot of securities work at one time, did a lot 9 of antitrust work. I thought that was the 10 pinnacle of complexity. It's not. It's voting 11 rights work.

12 Voting rights work is the most complex work
13 I've ever done. There's no -- no easy shortcuts 14 to a victory in a Section 2 case. The amount of 15 money it costs is just absolutely stupifying 16 once you go through it a few times.

17 MR. COLLINS: I have a question or 18 statement. You know, it is expensive. It is 19 expensive, and what we did at Wind River was, we 20 knew we were up against a very difficult 21 obstacle with the county commission being in the 22 racist view that they've had for 100 years, ever 23 since they've been a county.

24 So we knew the difficulty was there. So as 25 we moved forward in this court case, they were

1 lamenting to the general public that they didn't 2 have enough money to keep the libraries open 3 past 5:00. They were lamenting that they 4 couldn't fix the bridges and the roads in the 5 county because they didn't have enough money.
6 But they were still willing to spend a million 7 dollars in this lawsuit.

8 And they thought they were somewhat immune
9 to the expense because there's a municipal pool
10 in the state of Wyoming that allows different 11 municipalities and government to participate in 12 that pool of funding for litigation efforts.

13 Well, it turned out that pool was no longer
14 available. So I think they stopped appealing 15 after the Tenth Circuit because they just 16 couldn't afford it.

17 But it was very clear that we were in 18 Section 2 of the Voting Rights Act, it was very 19 paramount in our favor to have people able to be 20 voting.

21 So there was a little different twist than 22 what was just outlined, but we knew the county 23 commission didn't think they had the deep 24 pockets that they thought they had.

25 MR. DUFFY: Gary, we would have won -- we

1 would have won a lot of these -- we would have 2 won Cottier. In South Dakota what we ended up 3 with was exactly the opposite of what you talked 4 about. The pools were able to support them, and 5 yeah, Martin, Bennett County, they would have 6 had to succumb at some point well before a 7 couple million bucks. No, the whole state 8 pitched in and paid for that.

9 MR. COLLINS: Well, when they -- when they 10 lost the case and then Lachlan submitted his 11 expenses, they thought that was way too 12 expensive. But I think his cost withstood the 13 test and they got paid.

14 The other part of it is, and I mentioned
15 this earlier and I think we've all had a couple 16 stabs at this, you know. The organization for 17 voting is, we've just begun in the last few 18 years to just be continually getting people to 19 the polls.

20 When we had a rally at the last election for 21 our state representative, we had vans available, 22 we had food available. When you got done
23 voting, you got a T-shirt that said, I Voted.

24 I mean, there were some really things good 25 things that we had to do, but I knew we were

1 against the wall. So I helped orchestrate that 2 organization and get it done. And we need to do 3 it every time we can.

4 But that's the only -- the numbers are the 5 ones that's going to make the difference.
6 Because in Montana they have seven people in the 7 legislature, and they have seven tribes, and 8 those people in the legislature are of Native
9 American descent. So they -- Montana has made a 10 difference in many, many things in their 11 legislation.

12 But like I said, in Wyoming we have one 13 reservation and two tribes. So we're not as 14 significant but we're getting there. We're 15 making a difference.

16 And you know, some of the other bias I was 17 going to mention. I mentioned last week we had 18 a $150 million, well those checks showed up in 19 an envelope that looks just like your IRS 20 refund. So the mentality of the community was, 21 I wished I was an Indian, I'd get me some free
22 money.

23 They don't understand it's dividend. They 24 don't understand it's part of the earth that we 25 revere that's where that comes from. We'd

1 rather take fish and good clean water and good
2 clean air than dollars and cents. But it's a 3 different economy.

4 So we're planning on doing more voter
5 organization. We've already started. We're 6 going to continue to do that. But I would say, 7 even though the Supreme Court makes the laws at 8 the upper level, it's actually when it gets down 9 to the county level, the local level of that 10 interpretation that needs to be stressed the 11 hardest.

12 Because when you go to D.C., you go other 13 places away from your reservation, you think 14 everything is good, based on what you hear and 15 read. But when it gets down to interpretation 16 at the grassroots level, it doesn't happen.

17 And I'll say, they wiggle it out to where 18 it's maybe, sort of, kind of, maybe. You know, 19 that's just -- and of course our resilience in 20 some cases, when you're talking to an issue with 21 a 70-year-old man and woman, they don't have the 22 resources to come back to town and do it over 23 and over. If you miss that car in the morning, 24 you're done for the day, because we don't have 25 multiple transportation. It's just day-to-day

1 life experience.

2 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

3 MR. MAIN: I'd just like to say that the two 4 Section 2 cases that Fort Belknap or tribal 5 council or individuals are -- were involved in 6 and currently involved in, isn't costing Fort 7 Belknap a whole lot of money because the 8 Department of Justice is providing the 9 attorneys, the experts. We also have a couple 10 of grassroots organization, voting rights 11 organizations that are chipping in.

12 MS. BOHNEE: But these are recent cases?

13 MR. MAIN: Yes, they are recent. One is 14 happening now, in fact. And both of the -- both 15 of these cases involve the one person that I 16 talked about.

17 The United States versus Blaine County case, 18 there was a college professor that taught school
19 at a community college, and so he was very well 20 liked by a lot of the students. And he was fine 21 until he got elected county commissioner. Then 22 he switched to the other side and kept -- he'd 23 come -- I was on council at the time and he'd 24 come and tell us, Well, we have to build a 25 bridge. And I told him, I agree, Victor, but

1 that bridge has to be built both ways in order
2 to be effective, you know. Can't be built from 3 our side to yours.

4 And the other case is, again, the one guy
5 that Indians helped get elected, turns his views 6 right after the election and decided to fight 7 against us.

8 As far as what can be done, I -- aside from 9 changing, you know, a lot of these people's 10 mentality, you know, I think that we as Indians 11 can do a lot more ourselves by educating our 12 people on the importance of voting.

13 A lot of the county during elections, they 14 boast about the large percentage of voter 15 turnout on the reservation and they have 16 hand-picked Indians that are working with 17 nonIndians to make it look like a glamorous 18 situation, when it's actually not.

19 These people put out statistics saying that 20 anywhere from 72 to 80 percent, there was 72 21 to -- 72 to 80 percent voter turnout on the 22 reservation. Everybody thinks, Holy man, that's 23 a lot. You know, why even vote, you know? My 24 vote ain't going to matter, because it's a huge 25 turnout.

1 What they are not telling people is that's 2 of the registered voters only. They are only 3 registering about one-third of the eligible 4 voters on the reservation. So if they are 5 getting 70 percent of a third, you know, they 6 are not even -- 70 percent people not voting.
7 So they just don't want us to make a difference, 8 I guess, basically. It's hard to change their 9 mind.

10 MR. WHITE HEAD: The other guy he was 11 talking about, Jeff Miller, he was a college 12 professor, and then he became the mayor of -- 13 and an elected county commissioner. He had a 14 band, he was a nonIndian. He played in his 15 band. They played up and down the highway, you 16 know, when I was running for office. He was 17 always on that, Get out the vote for Bill White 18 Head for state legislature. But he turned 19 around.

20 Now, in terms of a couple things that has to 21 be done. You know, appreciate, you know, people 22 and maybe it was just because Barack Obama was a 23 community organizer that you see, that 24 profession that makes things happen is community 25 organizing.

1 And yet within -- I used to be on the 2 community board for the community college.
3 Doesn't have a curriculum for community
4 involvement, community organizing. This was a 5 couple years back when I served there.

6 But we need to influence these community
7 colleges to develop a curriculum around 8 community organizing, because that's where the 9 key is and, in some instances, constitutional 10 reform.

11 I think the biggest thing for tribes and all 12 our nonIndian friends is to do the necessary 13 research that I think the NCAI used to do. They 14 had sort of a judicial watch on when these 15 vacancies in terms of judges were vacant.

16 In 2008, when Barack Obama was campaigning, 17 you know, he had an outfit right in our 18 community. So when his representatives came in 19 2008 in October, we recommended not only local 20 judges, but that whoever got in, it was up to 21 them, you know, to nominate an Indian for the 22 Supreme Court.

23 If they are better able to understand all 24 the things we've talked about in terms of 25 jurisdictions, sovereignty, and all these cases,

1 history. Know our history and the white
2 relation. Read that handout I gave to you. It 3 gives a history. You'll hit on a lot of that.

4 I think we need to do that. All of us get 5 together. And Barack has got a couple years 6 left. We need to encourage someone to get an 7 Indian on the Supreme Court, and it's time to do 8 that right now. So we need to band together and 9 our supporters.

10 We passed that in 2008. We sent a letter to 11 Barack when he was a senator then, and address 12 this office. And when I get back to the 13 reservation at Fort Peck, I'm going to have our 14 tribe reaffirm that motion, and take an action 15 again and move that forward.

16 I hope those of you who are involved this 17 tribal council will do the same thing all over 18 this nation. I think that's one of the ways we 19 can deal with the situation.

20 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much. At this 21 time I want to thank the panel for your words, 22 and we're going to take the materials that you 23 have offered into evidence, as well as your 24 testimony.

25 And before we break we have one person who's 1 going to offer public testimony. I'd like to 2 invite him forward. Mr. Mark Lone Hill.

3 MR. LONE HILL: I just want to say something 4 about voter intimidation in this town.

5 MS. KINGMAN: Can you go to the mic? We 6 have a mic for you.

7 MR. LONE HILL: I vote up here at Bethel
8 Assembly up here in North Rapid. Here in the 9 last presidential election between Barack Obama
10 and Mitt Romney, I voted, you know, and filled 11 out my ballot, you know, everything. Was all -- 12 made sure everything was checked out.

13 And I'm taking it up to the ballot, and I'm 14 putting it in the box, getting ready to put it 15 in there. This lady comes up says, Oh, hold on.
16 I want to make sure you're putting it in right.

17 And I know I had it in right. But she pulls 18 it out, and pulls out my ballot, looks at my 19 ballot, up and down. And then turns it over, 20 looks it up and down to see who I'm voting for.

21 You know, and then she goes, Oh, okay.

22 Then she puts it in for me.

23 I just wanted to put it in for you.

24 I go, I had it right. I know what I was 25 doing, you know. And anyway, I went out in the 1 parking lot, called the county office and made a 2 complaint down there. And they said they were 3 going to take care of it.

4 So, that night my father wanted to go vote.
5 So I -- you know, I told him what happened and I 6 said, I'm going to go with you, make sure that 7 doesn't happen to you.

8 And I know that what she did was wrong
9 because I used to be a voting judge in Alaska.
10 I lived in Bethel, Alaska for ten years. And I
11 was a voting judge up there when I lived up 12 there. So I know what she did was wrong.

13 So my dad, he voted, and I made sure, you 14 know, he -- everything was right for him. And 15 here comes that lady. She was coming up and I 16 said, He's putting it in right. So she wouldn't 17 look at his ballot. And anyway, he put it in.

18 And anyway, he was sitting there waiting for 19 his, like, little sticker that they give you, 20 the I Voted sticker. Because she's, like,
21 passing them out, running out to everyone,
22 passing them out to everyone.

23 And he's waiting there right in front of 24 her. She looks at him, turns away and walks
25 away. And he's just like, Well, I guess you

1 don't give those out to Indians, do you? And he 2 just walks off.

3 And anyway -- so anyway, we're going out in 4 the parking lot, here comes one of the 5 councilmen from town here. And it's Councilman 6 Roberts. And he says, I heard what you said in 7 there. And he goes, I want to apologize. He 8 goes, That's not the way it is here. And he 9 goes -- he gave us both an I Voted sticker. And 10 we thanked him and we said, we told him that 11 wasn't necessary. My dad said, Well, that 12 happens all the time here.

13 And it does happen all the time here in 14 Rapid, you know. There's some kind of an 15 intimidation thing going on here. You know, 16 it's just part of the racial mentality in this 17 town, you know. It's in the media, it's 18 everywhere, in the stores.

19 In the media, you know, they ignore Native
20 American athletes. Like, they had this article 21 about the greatest Central athletes, you know.
22 And they mentioned a lot of them. They 23 mentioned a couple Indians but, you know, they 24 mentioned a boxer. And I used to box quite a 25 bit, and I used to box with the guy they

1 mentioned. His name is Pat Jefferson.

2 And Pat was a good fighter, but there were 3 better fighters than him. Chuck Richards, Pat 4 went to national once. I mean, he made the 5 finals, he made it to the finals once at 6 nationals.

7 And in this newspaper, they ignored the 8 Indian athletes, because Chuck Richards made it 9 twice to nationals, to the finals in nationals, 10 and Bradley Martinez won nationals twice.

11 And they just refused to put those guys in 12 the paper, and I thought that was wrong. That's 13 part of the stuff we have that goes on here, you 14 know, being ignored in this town. So that's 15 about all I've got to say.

16 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you. Do any of the 17 Commissioners have questions for Mr. Lone Hill?

18 (None were presented.)

19 MR. EMERY: I'd like to note for the record 20 that his father is a full blood member of the 21 Oglala Sioux Tribe as is Mr. Lone Hill here.

22 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you.

23 MR. LONE HILL: Thank you.

24 MS. BOHNEE: Thank you very much. At this 25 time we're going to take a five-minute break.

1 So, we'll try to get back on schedule but I do
2 appreciate the time that you all spent with us,
3 and I thought it was important to ask questions
4 and allow you all to answer them, so thank you.

5 (Brief recess was taken.)

6 MS. BOHNEE: Okay. We're going to go ahead
7 and get started with our second panel. I would 8 just like to remind the public that if you want 9 to offer a public comment, that you can go see 10 Ms. Eileen O'Connor and fill out a -- give her 11 your name and we'll make sure you have an 12 opportunity to make a statement.

13 And at the break we were able to clarify, 14 Mr. Duffy was discussing one of the cases he was 15 working on, Bone Shirt versus Hazeltine. And 16 for the record, we wanted to clarify the time 17 period, it was 2001 to 2005.

18 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: The last case was 2005.

19 MR. HEALY: Actually it became Bone Shirt
20 versus Nelson, so it would have been after Chris 21 Nelson was Secretary of State. It bled over.

22 MS. BOHNEE: So I'd like to thank our panel 23 for being here and making themselves available.
24 I'd just like to remind you that we have the 25 five minute time frame.

1 MR. HEALY: Wait a second, I saw how that
2 worked.

3 MR. BRAUNSTEIN: We're getting better all
4 the time.

5 MS. BOHNEE: And we will have time for 6 questions as well. So we'd like to start with 7 Mr. Mark Wandering Medicine.

8 MR. WANDERING MEDICINE: I want to thank 9 everybody for giving me this opportunity to be 10 here. I'm the lead plaintiff for Northern 11 Cheyenne, I guess, Rosebud County. And as I was 12 reading this here, and I want to touch on the 13 intimidation faced by plaintiffs in voting
14 rights cases.

15 The intimidation that I faced as that lead 16 plaintiff, I wouldn't want to wish it on 17 anybody. Because not too long ago, my youngest 18 daughter -- who's never been involved in -- with 19 the law at all, a young mother, has got four 20 kids.

21 She was just visiting her friend. She had 22 just completed her AA degree and they were -- 23 they went out and kind of celebrated in a way 24 where they just wanted to socialize. And both 25 of these young ladies got arrested by Rosebud

1 County sheriff -- a sheriff -- a deputy that's 2 been intimidating Northern Cheyennes in the town
3 of Ashland, which is located off the 4 reservation.

5 And when they both got arrested, they were 6 taken to Forsyth. And my daughter got really 7 beat up by the deputy sheriff at the jail for no
8 reason at all. Just about three weeks before 9 that, we almost lost her, she had Influenza 1 10 and 2 and pneumonia. Both of her lungs
11 collapsed.

12 And when she got beat up by this county 13 deputy, he even Maced her just a few inches from 14 her face, where she inhaled a lot of that Mace.
15 And it took a little while for her to try to 16 come out of what had happened. She was really 17 traumatized by the whole thing because she's 18 never been treated that way.

19 And he told -- she told the jailers that she 20 had just gotten out of the hospital, being Maced 21 was making her breathing difficult, and she 22 wanted to go to the clinic or the hospital in 23 Forsyth.

24 So she went over there, they took her over 25 there. And for some reason the doctor gave her

1 six different pills, and one of them is a pill
