

Elizabeth Price Foley is a Professor of Law at Florida International University (FIU) College of Law, a public law school located in Miami, Florida, where she teaches constitutional law.

Professor Foley is the author of three books on constitutional law, published by Yale, Harvard, and Cambridge University presses. She is a frequent op-ed writer, and her opinions have been published in a variety of venues, including the Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, New York Times, Washington Times, Washington Examiner, Politico, Weekly Standard, Daily Caller, New York Post and the National Law Journal.

Foley She presently serves on the Editorial Board of the Cato Supreme Court Review and on the Advisory Board to the James Madison Institute. She previously served as the Executive Director of the Florida Chapter of the Institute for Justice, as a member of the Committee on Embryonic Stem Cell Guidelines of the Institute of Medicine, National Academy of Sciences, and as a Fulbright Scholar at the College of Law of the National University of Ireland, Galway.

Professor Foley is one of the “founding faculty” of the FIU College of Law. Prior to joining FIU, she was a Professor of Law at Michigan State University College of Law and an Adjunct Professor at the MSU College of Human Medicine. She previously served as a law clerk to the Honorable Carolyn Dineen King of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and spent several years on Capitol Hill as a health policy advisor, serving as Senior Legislative Aide to U.S. Congressman (now U.S. Senator) Ron Wyden (D-OR), Legislative Aide for the D.C. office of the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York, and a Legislative Aide for U.S. Congressman Michael Andrews (D-TX).

Professor Foley graduated summa cum laude from the University of Tennessee College of Law, where she was an Articles Editor of the Tennessee Law Review, inducted into Order of the Coif, and valedictorian of her class. She has a B.A. in History from Emory University and an LL.M. from Harvard Law School. She is a member of the bar in both Texas and Florida, and is admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court.