Alba M. Alemán

Chief Executive Officer

Alba M. Alemán, CEO of Citizant, is an active advocate for the success of women leaders in the government contracting marketplace and a frequent mentor to emerging leaders of woman- and minority-owned businesses.

Alba has steered Citizant through 22 years of success and growth in the government contracting business, providing strategic direction on corporate growth strategies, company culture, differentiated capabilities, and quality initiatives.

Citizant provides IT transformation and business modernization solutions to U.S. government organizations including the Department of Homeland Security, Internal Revenue Service, Department of Transportation, U.S. Air Force, and U.S. Space Force. The company has 190 employees serving government customers in 27 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

During the winter of 2019, the partial government shutdown gave Alba an opportunity to advocate publicly for the concerns of all small government contractors, writing weekly advice columns and articles on social media, and receiving regular media coverage on CNN, Forbes, and the Federal News Network. She mentored other small business owners struggling to survive and was invited to testify before the U.S. House Committee on Oversight and Reform about the impact of the shutdown on the small business community. She and her team at Citizant lived out their core values by donating leave and postponing paychecks to ensure 100 percent of their employees were fully paid and engaged throughout the 35-day shutdown.

Alba has been delivering mission-critical software and data management solutions to government agencies for nearly 30 years. She has been recognized as the Fairfax County (Va.) Latina Business Owner of the Year by the Mid-Atlantic Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and was named among the 25 top female executives in the region by Washington SmartCEO Magazine.
