

About Sharif Ambrose

Mr. Ambrose is responsible for leading Grant Thornton's Healthcare Strategic Business Unit (SBU) and he has a proven track record of organizational leadership and client service delivery for large management and technology consulting firms. Mr. Ambrose has dedicated the last 20 years of his 28 year career advising clients on improving their operations through the development and implementation of business strategy and information technology. His client service work includes healthcare strategy and operations, performance improvement, information technology and federal financial management.

Before joining Grant Thornton, Mr. Ambrose was a managing director with BearingPoint, Inc. providing business and technology consulting services to clients in public sector and commercial healthcare. While at BearingPoint and his previous firm, PriceWaterhouseCoopers LLP, he performed a wide variety of client consulting engagements to improve business processes and technologies related to hospital operations, coding and documentation and claims processing.

He provides executive oversight to projects at the Defense Health Agency and the Department of Veterans Affairs involving program and performance management for his client's missions at the Defense Center of Excellence, Veterans Health Administration, VA Office of Management, and National Cemetery Administration.

Mr. Ambrose graduated from the University of Florida with a Bachelor of Science in Finance and received a Master of Business Administration from the George Washington University. Mr. Ambrose is a native of South Florida and now lives in Great Falls, VA with his wife and two children.
