

Jason Spore

Owner, Ippa Pizza Napoletana

Biography

Originally from Northeast Ohio, Jason H. Spore currently resides in Erie, PA in Millcreek township. He has a B.S. in nutrition sciences from Bowling Green State University. Upon graduation he did an internship at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, Michigan. Mr. Spore started his career in pharmaceutical sales with Merck & Co. Inc. where he spent 5 years in both the hospital and primary care settings. He then graduated to medical devices where he stood shoulder to shoulder with surgeons in operating rooms across Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania, first in a stint with Stryker, then for 12 years building out 2-multimillion-dollar territories with Boston Scientific. In each role he held greater responsibility. Today he works as an Area Vice President, East U.S., with the biotech company, BioTissue. Always passionate about food, the restaurant industry, and business in general, Mr. Spore always dreamed of building his own brand, where he would have the opportunity to take his skills in motivation and leadership and impact others on the way to building a larger national company. In 2022, this passion became more than a dream when he became the founder and owner of SporeDaddy's, Inc., DBA ippa Pizza Napoletana, a Pennsylvania S-Corp. What started as a shipping container turned authentic Neapolitan mobile pizzeria is now a fully operating counter service restaurant and bar located inside the Flagship City Food Hall's prime location in the middle of Erie, Pennsylvania's OZ. Jason has 3 kids, Carlina (16), Colby (6), and Camille (5). He enjoys spending time with his family and kids, letting them explore the beauty of nature and all the Erie coastline has to offer....and pickleball!
